day at the First Christian Church, Pastor Perry L. Stone said, "Three things are essential to a successful enterprise: the faith to justify it; an instrument to operate it; and the power to sustain it when the business has worn off. Now the world-girding program of Christ is the greatest enterprise on earth. It is justified by our faith that Jesus is able to save unto the uttermost all who call upon him. The church is his instrument to carry out his program and operate this great surprise.

The question is: Have we the power to sustain it? We have made known his program to his followers. His purpose is salvation; its scope is universal. The technique for carrying out his program is that of witnessing; and the power to do it is the over of the Holy Spirit. The Master did not assign a difficult task and then fail to furnish adequate power to perform it. The power of the Spirit is available, not to a few rare individuals such as the apostles, but to all Christians who will meet the conditions." Rev. David S. Carnelfix, of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, spoke on "Christian Missions" yesterday.

"Christian Missions is the greatest business on earth," he said. "It requires tremendous capital and manpower to carry on its vast enterprises. Leaders and executives of great ability are needed to see that this business functions efficiently and profitably. The profits of this business are greater than any other business in the world. They are never entered on bookkeepers' ledgers, nor listed in business reports, but they are counted in terms of eternal returns in the form of pagan lives transformed and redeemed by our Lord Jesus Christ.

"Christian Missions is not an endeavor which the Church may sponsor, support and promote at its fancy convenience. It is not something that we can do as a last resort. It is not an effort to which we are to give attention and interest when we have little else to do. Jesus Christ left us with no doubt but that he expected the Church to carry on an aggressive program of spreading the gospel to the ends of the world. Among the last words spoken to the disciples before He ascended into heaven was the Great Commission. 'Go ye into all the world and proclaim the Gospel to every creature,' Rev. Carnelfix concluded.

SAYS U.S., NOT RUSSIA, WON TITLE

PUTTING ALL HIS MIGHT INTO THE EFFORT, Paul Anderson (top), 22, of Toccoa, Ga., is shown in action as he completed in the 27-nation weight-lifting championships in Munich, Germany. Anderson holds the world's weight-lifting title, raising 1,130 pounds, to better by 60 pounds, the official record. Although Anderson was the individual winner, the Russians took the team championship. Coach Bob Hoffman claimed that the United States, not Russia, won the world championship. He said that the selection of Tom Kono (bottom) of Sacramento, Calif., winner of the 181-pound title, as champion also in the physique competition should have credited the U.S., with five additional points. Since Russia went unplaced in the physique contest, Hoffman claimed a 30-to-25 victory instead of the previously reported 29-to-25 Soviet triumph. (International Radiophotos) mechanic was charged with having "no headlights". Constable George Kelsey, of Oviedo, charged Robert Brown of Maitland, a 29-year-old laborer, with reckless driving and driving while intoxicated. Bond for the two charges was $400. The arrest was made at Goldenrod.

A charge of "assault" was placed against James Dunlap, a Sanford negro, when Eula Mae Martin preferred charges against him. Deputy Sheriff W. L. Long made the arrest.

Public drunkenness was placed against a number of violators including Ronald Irving Wilkerson, James H. Gray, Leon Henry Basha, Namon Wain, and Mattie Lou Garrett.

James Sherman Holloway of Sanford was charged with "driving while intoxicated" when Florida Highway Patrolman Carl Williams made the arrest. Bond was set at $200.

Game Warden Harry Hervish charged T. W. Carter, Lester P. Veizel, Gene A. Luchessi and Harry Hance with "hunting birds in a bird sanctuary reserve."

Constable J. W. "Slim" Gallo-way made charges of "public drunk" against Elijah Jones; "using car without owners consent" against Pat Preston of Lake Monroe; "assault and battery" against Joe Butler, 35-year-old negro who is charged with hitting a 16-year-old boy; and "excessive speed" against John Henry Thomas, of DeLand.

ATTENTION SPORTSMEN!

This Fall, sportsmen and others who enjoy the outdoors could cause thousands of forest and range fires unless they are extremely careful with smokes, matches, warming fires, and campfires. Carelessly caused fire destroy trees, and game cover. They destroy the food and water that produce wildlife and the wildlife itself. So, this Fall...

Tennessee Leads SEC High Scoring List With Victory

By MERCER BAILEY
 The Associated Press

Four overmatched visitors to Southeastern Conference football fields must have hobbled home-ward from their weekend sojourns, firmly convinced that the battle cry of the Dixie Dozen is "Lay on, MacDuff."

Tennessee led the high-scoring parade with a 53-7 romp over Dayton but Auburn's victory margin was the biggest of the day as a result of the Plainsmen's 52-0 waltz past Furman. Vanderbilt walloped Middle Tennessee 46-0 and Georgia Tech trimmed Florida State 24-0.

Tennessee's 37 points were 13 more than the Vols had scored in four previous games combined. Vandy's 46 matched its previous four-game total and Auburn's 52 points were just four shy of its total for four earlier games.

But in neither case was it a matter of an SEC team seeing just how badly it could clobber a "breather" opponent. All four of the high-scoring teams sent in everybody but the water boy after gaining a safe lead.

Alabama also scored more points Saturday than it had all season, but with the Crimson Tide it was quite a different story. Mississippi State climbed to second place in the SEC standings with a 26-7 victory over 'Bama. In four previous games the Tide had scored only points-against Vandy.

Saturday's top game in the South pits a pair of once-beaten powers—Duke George Sech. Tech lost to Auburn a week ago and Duke was whipped by Pittsburg Saturday.

Mississippi is third in the standings with a 3-1 SEC record and Tech is fourth with a 2-1 mark. Kentucky 2-2-1 and Tennessee 1-1 are tied for fifth. Florida is seventh with a 2-3 mark and Vandy, George, Tulane and LSU are tied for eighth with 1-2 records. Alabama 0-3 is in the cellar.

CADILLAC for 1956

Presenting the Most Inspiring Motor Cars the World Has Ever Seen!

You are looking at three of the most magnificent and inspiring creations ever to issue from the drawing boards of Cadillac's designers and engineers.

These spectacular new Cadillacs—in company with the other Cadillac models for 1956—introduce a standard of automotive excellence that will find no counterpart on the highways of the world.

Where, for instance, could you find anything to match them for beauty and elegance? Their long, low, sweeping lines... their jewel-like grille and rear-fender designs... their brilliant new color combinations... their sparkling light-reflecting chrome and gold... all combining to create a beauty that is truly unique.

And where could you find anything to rival them in performance? There's a completely redesigned Cadillac engine developing 285 and 305 horsepower... a new, controlled-coupling Hydra-Matic Drive... and advanced Cadillac Power Steering and Power Braking.

This extraordinary new Cadillac beauty... and the brilliant new Cadillac luxury... and this dynamic new Cadillac performance... have been incorporated in five separate series and in nine individual body styles.

We sincerely urge you to stop in for a personal inspection and demonstration of our new 1956 Cadillac. We have only one aim: to show you the joy of the new inspiring motor cars the world has ever seen!

Dr., Mrs. L. Doss To Attend Confab In Clearwater

Dr. and Mrs. L. T. Doss leave for Clearwater tomorrow to attend the annual meeting of the Florida Chiropactic Association.

Dr. Doss said that the convention will be held in the Fort Harrison Hotel, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Three nationally known figures will speak to the assembled group. Doss said. The speakers will include Dr. Roland F. Kisinger of the National College of Chiropactic in Chicago. The subject of his address, he said, would be "Osteous System in X-ray Interpretation."

Other speakers will be Robert D. Johns, counsel for the National Chiropactic Association who will address the Florida Association on "Chiropactic Jurisprudence," and Dr. W. H. Quigley of the Palmer College of Chiropactic in Davenport, Iowa who will speak on "Chiropactic Psycho-Therapy."

Dr. Doss is a past president of the Florida Chiropactic Association having served in that capacity for three terms. He will install the officers elected during the convention at a banquet which will be held Friday night.

Williams, Wallace Leading In ColC Membership Race

Today is the wind-up day for the Membership Campaign of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

Every team is putting in extra effort today to bring the total membership of the local Chamber of Commerce to the expected goal in order that the forward-looking program might be put into effect.

So far, the teams leading in the contest for tickets to the Orange and Gator Bowl games, plus expense money, have racked up a total of thousands of points. Al Wallace and John Williams are leading in the race with a total of 17,900 points; O. Lewis Dinkins and Miss Dot Powell have 15,700 points; John Fitzpatrick, working alone, has a total of 11,000 points; other teams in the race are J. M. Blythe and C. D. Brown have a total of 10,850 points while Dallas Loop and Andrew Caraway have a total of 10,710 points.

Membership Drive Chairman Clifford McKibbin said this morning that the top winners could be any team in the running since final reports and extra effort are all being made today in the big sprint to lead in the race.

Team explains viewing for Tangerine Bowl tickets and steak dinners at Eddie's Steak House are Dallas Loop with a total of 21,500 points; Don Bales with 22,500; and O. Lewis Dinkins with 20,700.

Final report on the drive will be made tomorrow.

MONROE, La., Oct. 25 (AP)—

CLYDE HUMPHREY, FIELD FOREMAN for Harold H. Kastner Co., looks over a field of beans with George Hiers, grower. "As good as I've ever seen," he said. (Staff Photo)

G. Hiers Has Spent Many Years Farming In Florida

One of the most successful farmers in this area looked over his ten-acre plot of tender green beans yesterday and said, "they're the finest I've seen in a long time."

Walking through the field of beans, George Hiers looked about him and reaffirmed his statement with, "as good as I've ever had."

The west side farmer, 62-year-old, looked even elated at the mention of his crop, and when asked how the season would be this year, he looked about again and said, "I'm in good hopes."

"I've been growing crops for Harold Kastner since 1934," Hiers reminded, "and he's about the finest man I ever knew." Hiers said that he had been farming the same spot for 25 years but had spent 31 years altogether, farming in Florida.

"I'm proud of my farm," George Hiers commented, "because that's where my living comes from." Counting up his acreage, when asked about the size of his farm, he added up blocks of five acres until he reached 30, and then he said "that's all except the five acres over there where I keep my hogs. They're duros, and some of the finest you've ever seen. I've got ten of them over there."

Clyde Humphrey, field foreman for Harold Kastner Co., said that the field of tender green beans grown by George Hiers could be harvested Wednesday morning.

"The quality of these beans is extra fine," he said. "And the yield will be about 150 hampers to the acre," he added.

When asked about the produce from the George Hiers' farm, Humphrey said, "Mr. Hiers has always given quality produce, the finest that can be raised."

Humphrey said that, "we're looking forward to one of the best seasons we've ever had here."

Hiers looking out over his field of beans said, "you know, I owe a lot of credit to my good crops to the fact that I haven't missed Sunday School in 30 years and it's pretty near 31 years now."

A preliminary hearing was held yesterday afternoon, before Justice of the Peace Hugh Duncan, for Clarence Smith and his wife Mary, who were being held under charges of both selling and possession of illegal moonshine whiskey.

They were originally taken into custody Sunday night, Oct. 16, and charges preferred against them during a search of their home.

Clarence Smith was bound over to Seminole County Court on a charge of "possession of a pint of illegal moonshine whiskey" while his wife, Mary, was bound over to Circuit Court on a charge of "possession of three gallons of illegal moonshine whiskey."

The arrests were made by Deputy Sheriffs Morgan McClelland and W. L. Long. Bond for each was set at $500.

Illegal Shooting Arrests Are Made
Two more arrests were recorded in the Seminole County Sheriff's Office for "shooting doves in bird sanctuary reserve" by Game Warden Harry Morris.

According to the Sheriff's office, a total of eight arrests were made for the illegal shooting. These posting bonds on the charge were: John W. Mahan of the Orlando Air Force Base and Noah M. Dixon of the U. S. Air Force Hospital.

Extensive Plans Made For Concert Membership Drive

Extensive plans are being made said Frances Roumillat, president of the newly formed Seminole Mutual Concert Association, to bring our membership drive to a successful conclusion.

At the first meeting of the association preliminary plans were outlined and artists were chosen for the three concert series. Those to appear in Sanford under the auspices of the Seminole Mutual Concert Association will be: Corneille Otis Skinner, Dee I. Nelson and Neal Australian American duo piano team late in January, and the Don Cassack Chorus and Dancers under the direction of the diminutive Serge Jaroff. Late in February.

Roumillat said today that Dr. Wade Tucker has been selected as treasurer of the local music organization and that Mrs. Philip Mars will serve as chairman of the Headquarters Committee.

Miss Ollie Reese Whittle will be in charge of the student memberships for the concert series.

Considerable interest has been shown by the Navy personnel at the local base, said Roumillat, and representatives from the three ladies organizations will serve on the immediate staff of the Seminole Mutual Concert Association. Representatives who will take part in the membership campaign will be from the Enlisted Men's Vets Club, the

Housing Authority Explains Needs

H. James Gut, a former Sanford Mayor and Commissioner, as well as a leader in civic and government affairs, was presented last night with a resolution by the Board of Sanford City Commissioners honoring him for his long years of devoted service to the city.

Along with the resolution Mayor Denver Cordell presented Mr. Gut with a silver platter.

Gordon Bradley, local representative of the housing authority, explained to the Board of Commissioners the need for additional housing units in the city. The Public Housing Authority approved 50 additional units for Sanford in 1952, Bradley said, but the actual building of the housing facilities here was not pursued. The past Congress has authorized 45,000 units and has taken all strings off of the possibilities of obtaining the project.

Bradley explained the necessity of a resolution to prevent the spread of slums, with a local determination of need. We have only 40 units at Edwin Higgins Terrace now, Bradley said, and at the time they were made available we had application for more than double what we could provide. It believes that there is a need for the additional units for Sanford," Bradley said.

The Board of Commissioners approved the resolution asking for the additional units for this area.

Possibilities of obtaining a city shuffleboard tournament was discussed last night if the city can make available additional courts necessary to conduct the gigantic affair here in the early winter.

Gordon Bradley, chairman of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce Recreation Committee said that a meeting will be held with representatives from the 26 cities affected in the tournament.

Bids were open yesterday, during the day, for the purchase of Radio equipment for both the Fire Department and the Police Department. Water meters for the city, and uniforms for the police department.

Awards for bids were made for two Motorola Radios for the Fire Department at a cost of $990.78, while one RCA radio unit was purchased for the Police Department at a cost of $581.45. 300 Neptune water meters were purchased for use by the city at a cost of $24.29 each. Purchase of uniforms for the Police Department was made from Yowell's but restricted to $1,500.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce requested that the city hold a referendum on annexation concurrent with the city election on November 8. A. B. Peterson Jr., president of the local Jaycees, appeared at the meeting. He said that there was no specific date designated in the bill which would allow the election.

Commissioner Jack Ratigan explained that "we want to make certain what services we can provide the area affected by annexation."

Letters Are Sent To Local Residents For USO Funds

Harold Kastner and Don Bales, co-chairman for the USO Fund Drive, now in progress, unable to speak personally with hundreds of Sanford citizens, have sent a letter to several thousand local residents.

The appeal for funds is to furnish in part a "home away from home" for the local Navy personnel.

The co-chairman explain in their letter the vastness of the program here in Sanford. A volunteer staff of hostesses and chaperons give of their time and energies to maintain a schedule of dances, bayrides, beach parties and other special events to keep the service personnel stationed here entertained.

In addition to the thousands and thousands of hours of volunteer work, there is still a necessity for money to operate such an organization. Recording machines must be purchased, records must be bought, TV sets purchased, stationery and other necessities must be kept on hand.

The National USO has sent $200 monthly to Sanford to keep the necessities for the many programs flowing. And only once, since the local USO has been re-opened, has there been a local campaign for funds for the heavy expenditures.

The goal set for the local campaign is just about half of what it actually takes to operate the USO here. Harold Kastner and Don Bales ask Sanford citizens to drop a check to the USO, 400 East First Street, Sanford, and then drop by and see for yourself what a difference you have made.

Water Main Broken At Intersection

A ten inch water main was broken this morning at the intersection of 13th St. and French Ave.

Heavy equipment, operated by Cragg Construction Company, tore the top of a valve from the pipe, sending water spurting high into the air.

The break in the large main furnishing water to Sanford residents necessitated the shutting off of water all over the city until the repairs could be made.

City Manager Warren E. Knowles said earlier today that he hoped that the water would be off only about 45 minutes. A fitting had to be made for the broken pipe.

Association To Hold Meeting In Honor Of Captain Tillis

A meeting of the Policemen's Benevolent Association will be held at Jim Smeester's Monday evening, October 31, 7 p. m.

Police Chief Roy Williams, last night, extended an invitation to the Board of Sanford City Commissioners to attend the meeting which will be held in honor of Captain Roy Tillis, whose retirement from the Sanford Police Department is effective November 1.

Other honorees for long service will also be paid to Police Chief Williams and Fire Chief Mark N. Cleveland, Sr.

SYNOPSIS
Death of Roger Brindle, an ex-convict, opens new chapters in the life of those who have known him. He leaves a young widow, Carol, and an estranged young woman who had been his friend. Carol fears that Roger left her no more than five thousand dollars. When he leaves from his wife, Carol, she comes to know the real Roger Brindle. She is startled by the General Albert Williams, one of those who had known Roger, refused to see her. Roger's ex-wife, Shandy, who had been his friend, refused to see her. Roger's ex-wife, Shandy, who had been his friend, refused to see her.

CHAPTER FOUR
"I wonder," Joe Hattery said, "what happens to us now Mr. Brindle is dead. I don't suppose his wife will care. We could starve for all—"

"You might," Shandy Stone suggested, "try working for a change." The black suit he had worn to the funeral was replaced by navy blue slacks and a maroon pullover. He hung the suit in the closet, walking to a faint light. What was not quite a step. In a mirror set in the closet door he looked automatically at the scars on his face and saw the reflection of Joe Hattery lurking behind him.

The ex-convict was slight and scrawny, with a mouth that dipped steeply downward at the corners from chronic discontent and eyes that met one with an insistent candor which would not have deceived a child. The world was against him. He had always been against him. He never had any luck. If he didn't keep a sharp lookout to protect his rights, and Joe was an earnest tender of his rights, he would be taken advantage of. His mother, who had been victimized as Joe had been, made all these things clear to him before he was ten years old and he had seen no reason to change his mind in the next thirty years.

"Work," he wished now. "It takes a guy who never did a stroke of work in his life to say that. As right for one who's been with a liver open in his mouth to talk about other people working."

"Scram," Shandy Stone said. "And next time knock before you come in this cottage."

"My, aren't we laughing!" There was a sudden change in Joe's voice. "You got no call to talk to me like that."

"Oh, get out," Shandy said wearily.

"Not yet, Mr. Stone," Joe's stances, like his voice, had altered. He was not laughing now. "I got my own way of working. See?"

"Then go do it."

"Like replacing that windowpane in Mr. Brindle's cottage?"

Shandy's eyes, which had gone compulsively to the scars on his face, narrowed with attention.

Joe grinned, revealing neglected teeth. "Interested in windowpanes? I've got one for sale."

"What are you getting at?"

"I was just thinking, Mr. Brindle sure sounds like a fellow who'd work for no visitors even. I mean one of them go to his cottage that night myself." Joe took courage from Shandy's stillness. "Yes, you could almost say the poor guy died of sleeping."

He broke off as there was a tap on the outside door and a woman called, "Shandy! Are you there?"

Carol Brindle, her lacy hair aglow in the sunshine, wearing a somber black dress, came swiftly across the living room of the cottage, her high heels clicking on the waxed floor. There was not a trace of her usual languor. Joe's eyes went from the woman to the man. He permitted himself a smirk as he went out.

"What is it, Carol?"

When she was alone, Shandy let himself down slowly into a chair facing her. He was surprised to discover that he was shaking.

Mutally she held out a piece of paper. "I just found this."

Shandy read it aloud. "Dear to his sleep—but how? Where did you get this?"

"On the desk in the library, in the middle of a pile of letters and telegrams of sympathy."

"Where's the envelope?"

"There wasn't any." Her eyes were wide with shock. "What right I to do Shandy? This could be—"

"There was irony in his expression and something else which she failed to identify. "It could be, but probably it's just the work of a scoundrel. Try to put it out of your mind."

"You don't understand," her eyes, which were so nearly yellow, gleamed. Her hair caught red and gold lights. She leaned forward, moving with the lovely suppleness of a cat. "You don't understand. Clyde looked everything before we left for—"

"The scoundrel. No outsider could possibly have got in. And no one came to the house this morning but Doc Thomas and his wife. So it had to be—"

Shandy's voice was quiet. "One of us."

"And I don't know what to do. Roger always told me what to do. "Not always," he reminded her. "You had a few ideas of your own."

She swayed toward him, her voice husky. "When I think what I have done in you! You've never really forgiven me, have you, Shandy?"

"On the contrary, I never blamed you."

"Roger," she said obliquely, as though answering some unspoken question, "was the best man I've ever known."

"At least," Shandy said, "he has a chance to get a long rest from it now. Being the finest—it must have been a strain at times, even for Roger."

Carol frowned, and with the smooth forehead puckered she looked almost ugly for a moment. "Do you think it is wise to say things like that?"

"Yes," he agreed. "But only Roger could be wise all the time." He reached out and took the anonymous letter that she was twisting between her fingers. "Better let me have that. Who put the mail on Roger's desk?"

"Clyde Kibbee."

"Clyde," he said through his teeth. "I'll ask him about it." Seeing the look of alarm on her face he added, "Tactfully, of course."

"But how could Clyde possibly have known?" Carol demanded, and then said with feverish haste, "I mean, we don't know much about him, after all. He's been away at school since he was a small boy and even vacations he spent at camp because Albert was always unwell. We don't really know what kind of person he might be. Somehow, he's not at all the sort of son you'd expect Albert to have. Just because he is Albert Kibbee's son doesn't mean he's—harmless, like Albert."

TEXAS INVITATION
CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—A local Cadillac owner reported he was flagged down by a woman motorist, asked him to come to dinner with her in a pleading voice, learned he'd helped her win a big bet when he did. Turned out, she'd bet friends he could get a Texan in a Cadillac to come home and eat dinner with her.

Armstrong also commented on his staff that will assist him in making the Mayfair Inn Country Club and Golf Course a complete success. "I will have quite a staff," he said. "First to arrive, he said, would be his shop assistant who will be Rudy Gottlieb. In addition I will have a teaching and playing pro to assist me here."

Speaking on the subject of golfing, Lee Armstrong said, "I've met some real golfers in the few days I've spent in Sanford." Mel Fiescher, Clarence Phillips, E. R. Smith, Harry Tooke, and CPO L. Folke are just a few of the real players I've met."

Maureen Stewart, the Canadian Women's Amateur Champion, who is a student at Rollins College plays often here," Armstrong said.

Revealing some of his plans for the future, Armstrong has outlined a healthy program for the Mayfair Inn Country Club. "We're going to have lots of tournaments, and along with them have an active men's association, as well as doing a lot of work with the young upcoming golfer of high school age," he said.

Included in the plans will be a Bing Bogy Tournament every weekend, the new pro said.

Lee Armstrong was emphatic in his plans for greater cooperation with the folks at the local Naval Air Station. "There are some wonderful golfers among those Navy people and we enjoy having them," he also added that there are wonderful possibilities

Pee Wee To Help Fight Fire In Mine

WALTONVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Officials at Orient mine No. 3 have brought in Pee Wee, a veteran pit mule, to help fight a two-week-old fire in the big southern Illinois coal mine.

All electric power underground has been cut off since the fire started at the mine owned by the Freeman Corp. of West Frankfort, Ill.

Pee Wee, pressed into service Saturday, is helping the handful of men, working without gas masks, to move material and supplies for state mine rescue crews advancing into the area in which the fire is confined.

Pit mules gave way to electric motors at most big mines over 30 years ago.

The 13-year-old Pee Wee was recruited from a little mine.

"She's a pretty smart old coal miner," one miner said. "You can't fool her and she knows what to do."

Illites in the staging of a triangular match in the near future.

"We're looking forward to expanding and enlarging the three local tournaments," Armstrong said. "The Spencer Memorial, the Ladies' Championship and the Men's Championship."

"I'm looking forward with increasing enthusiasm," Lee Armstrong said, to the "Mayfair Inn" which will be staged here in the very near future. Some of the greatest names in golf will play on the Mayfair Inn course and we're proud to be able to invite such a glittering list of names to play with us in the tournament."

tion and how much those services will cost. It will be necessary for a lot of explanation and exposition."

The Jaycees president said, "The Jaycees are in favor of annexation and will do everything possible to promote it."

Mayor Denver Cordell told Peterson, and other Jaycees attending the meeting that, "we met with the group in the proposed area to be annexed and we didn't have the answers and we want to get the answers for them." And he said, "I wish we could give you an answer. We started a survey and we want to complete it before saying anything definite."

Andrew Caraway, former Commissioner and Mayor of Sanford appeared before the Board of Commissioners last night with an old question, and he asked the board, "Is there any possibility that the Commission would explore further the location of a Municipal Dock and Terminal here?"

Caraway said, "Times have changed. Central Florida has grown and it might be that the project is possible now. A good many people in Sanford and Central Florida will agree that it's our most urgent project."

"It would be a shot in the arm for industrial growth," he said, "even if it didn't pay for itself it would be most important for our city." A docks and terminal project should be publicly owned, because we want a public dock, a public warehouse, something that everyone can use."

Relative to the question of purchasing for protection outside of the city, Commissioner Ratigan said, "I don't think we have the right to send our equipment outside of the city. I don't know whether or not we have a right to charge for the service if it is sent outside (the city), and I don't know whether or not we can pick certain areas to whom we may furnish the service." City Attorney William C. Hutchison Jr. told the commissioners that the City Charter does not allow it, neither does it prohibit it.

A friendly argument based on a requirement of the City Charter which requires a city employe to live within the city limits brought comment from every commissioner present. Mayor Cordell said, "we shouldn't dictate to people where they should live." Commissioner Krider commented, "I contend that we keep the requirement in force or forget it." Commissioner Higginbotham said, "If we have a law that's not enforceable, then take it off the books."

The argument started over the possible employment of an engineer, Russell Dallas, to head the new Utility Department of the City. Commissioner Jack Ratigan said, "I think the situation is critical enough to employ this man in an emergency."

However, Commissioner Ratigan, in further comment on the question said, "The waiver of residence should always be the prerogative of the commission. However, I believe that all employes of the city should live within the city limits. Employes that are now residents of the city should remain in side

A headquarters office will be set up in the Strickland-Morrison Building on East First St. as soon as the membership drive gets underway.

Mrs. Ralph Austin Smith, membership drive chairman, has set up a 60-member committee for the drive. A kick-off meeting will be held Thursday night 8 p.m. at the Seminole County Educational Building on Commercial Ave.

Room 1141 reveals today that many phone calls are being received, even prior to the campaign for membership, asking that season memberships be reserved from the limited number to be sold. There are only 340 season memberships, said Frances Rounillat, and many are asking that their reservations be made now to insure seats at the three concerts.

The membership drive actually gets underway Friday morning, said Rounillat, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ralph Austin Smith.

Jane Withers Weds Singer Sunday

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Former child actress Jane Withers and singer Kenneth Errall were married Sunday aboard a yacht.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Sam Allison, pastor of the Beverly Hills Presbyterian Church. Mrs. David Rose was matron of honor, Elmo Glorio of Detroit was best man.

This is the second marriage for the 28-year-old actress. She was married to William P. Moss Jr., Texas cattleman, in 1934. They were divorced in 1934. They have three children.

Errall, who has been married previously, is a member of the singing group called the "Four Fishmen."

Try ABC's Of Public Relations At Home-Trade In Your Community

A-B-C the fundamentals taught when a beginner attends school for the first time. A good rule of the thumb to practice among the grown folks is the abc's of public relations at home.

If you are a merchant in Sanford or Seminole County, trade with your fellow merchants. If you are a citizen of Sanford or Seminole County then trade with your fellow citizens.

We have faith in our local merchants. We've learned to know that their merchandise is the best that can be found far or wide. We've learned to know that the local merchant prices his merchandise with reason and with his fellow merchant and citizen in mind.

The automobile mechanic will tell you that it costs ten cents per mile to operate your car. And there's certainly no reason to spend $3.80 to buy a piece of merchandise available at home for the same price, a little less, or even at greater savings.

Try the abc's of good public relations at home...

Allow yourself the privilege of trading with your fellow merchant. Become a regular customer of the home-town store. Collect the dividends from greater savings and higher quality.

Church Bells Signal Peace

Peace — was the message tolled every Sunday morning in years gone by as the soft peals from the church bell announced the glad tidings that another sabbath morning had arrived.

We miss those joyful notes in these modern days. Maybe there are a few church bells but the noise of backfiring motorists, tractor trailers, automobiles pulling trailers loaded with motor boats, air-planes or jet plane zooms through the air, literally blacks out any evidence of beautiful bells.

Some of the oldtimers say that the reason they sleep late these days is because there's nothing but the alarm clock and sullen noises to wake them up.

Maybe some church will hark back to the olden days and let us hear church bells once more as a signal that there really is a peace.

There's a lot of optimism among the folks who sell produce for the farmers of our area. They believe that we're going to have the best season in modern history. We go along with their way of thinking for when the grower is successful so are the business people.

We're looking forward to the opening of the Seminole Memorial Hospital. There's a modern structure, with modern equipment, and a fine staff of doctors to serve it. Our hospital will be known, we're sure, far and wide.

There's no better way to serve your community than to become a member, and an active one at that, of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce. When you join with the other business people of the community, everyone pulls together. That's real strength.

The USO deserves your attention these days as they conduct a financial campaign to raise funds to keep the local USO organization serving the men of our armed forces. Do your part to make the service man a home away from home.

Republican Party is 'Up A Tree'

WASHINGTON—The Republican party and its would-be presidents are up a tree until Jan. 1 unless before then President Eisenhower says he won't run again.

Over the weekend Dr. Paul Dudley White, the Boston Heart specialist directing Eisenhower's convalescence, said it can't be determined whether his patient has fully recovered.

But a full recovery doesn't mean Eisenhower will try for re-election in 1960. It would seem unlikely, having had one serious heart attack, that he would seek another four years in the White House.

It's generally assumed Eisenhower won't run. Yet, until he says something one way or the other, the Republican hopefuls who would like to fill his shoes someday can hardly publicly proclaim their candidacy.

That means time lost in building their forces and lining up delegates to next summer's Republican convention.

At the same time the Republican National Committee, which has to plan for the convention, will have to switch some of its plans and much of its thinking if Eisenhower doesn't run.

Until Eisenhower's heart attack in September, the Republicans were building their hopes around Eisenhower's running. He was their main hope of winning.

Apparently he still is, if not in person at least by proxy. Judging from their current statements, Republicans seem to think in terms of running on Eisenhower's record if he himself can't run.

Goodwin Knight, California's Republican governor and himself a possible candidate for president, acknowledged last night in the Meet the Press TV program there's been a lot of confusion in Republican ranks.

So until Eisenhower finally says yes or no about running again, the candidates must mark time and gnaw their fingernails. They're all in a state of suspension now.

Eisenhower knows this. And he has probably made up his mind not to run. But saying so is a matter of timing. His energies have been so restricted by his doctors he has had little time, if any, for political discussions.

We'll need time to talk things over with his advisers and the party's top politicians because of the effect of his announcement—Eisenhower's not to run—on his party and its candidates.

Know Vitamin ABCs For Newborn Babies

By HENRY H. HENNING, M.D.

WHETHER your infant is breast-fed or bottle-fed, he probably does not get enough vitamins from his milk alone.

If your baby is under the weightful care of a pediatrician or general practitioner, he probably is receiving extra vitamins. But if you are raising your baby without this expert advice, you should know the ABCs of the vitamin story.

Daily Allowance

Vitamin A—A daily allowance of 1,500 units for infants is recommended by the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council.

A liter of cow's milk or mother's milk supplies this amount. Formula mixtures, however, reduce the vitamin A content by a factor of two to three. During the first few months, or until your baby is fed his first solid food, additional vitamin A usually is advisable for bottle babies.

Vitamin B₁ or Thiamine—Daily requirements vary from 1 to 3 mg. between two months and a year.

In the early months, your baby usually gets enough from his milk. After weaning, however, 1.5 mg. per liter of mother's milk should be added. As he grows older, additional food usually supplies any vitamin he needs.

Vitamin B₂—Until three to four months of age, the requirements of your baby are probably met enough through the small amount that various milk contain—unless they're ill.

Vitamin C—Recommended daily allowance is 30 mg.

Cow's milk contains about 10 mg. per liter. Pasteurization reduces this even further. Mother's milk contains about 60 mg. per liter, but only if the mother has maintained a nutritious diet. A breast-fed baby might not consume a liter per day.

I think it is a good idea to recommend vitamin C supplements for all infants.

Vitamin Supplements

Thiamine—Daily requirements are about 3 mg. for infants two, three and four months old, 4 mg. for the next six months and 5 mg. for the next two months.

Processing of cow's milk cuts the thiamine content to about 10 mg. per liter. Breast milk contains an average of about 16 mg. While food will increase your baby's thiamine intake, you probably don't get enough on adequate amounts. Thiamine supplements are in the form of a liquid or a tablet.

Vitamin B₂—One of my best friends and I have been advised after a short period of time. Could someone provide this condition?

Answer: It is unlikely that you can get enough of your own body's supply of B₂ to do it. A local distributor of the vitamin or a distributor of the vitamin is necessary.

DARING OLD MAN ON THE FLYING TRAFFE

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL KAY

Who is your favorite movie star? What picture would you select as the best of the year? If you had been a voice in the selection of Academy Award winners, would you have picked the same actors and pictures that were selected?

Chances are you would have disagreed in a number of instances.

This year you will be given a chance to cast your vote for the stars and pictures of your choice. Instead of leaving the question to newspaper critics or the motion picture industry, producers have decided to conduct a nationwide poll giving the fans themselves a chance to make their own selection.

After all, who is better qualified to judge than the folks who attend motion picture theatres for entertainment and pleasure and who must be satisfied if box office receipts are good.

The nationwide poll to be known as the Audience Awards Election will be held in the theatres throughout the nation Nov. 17-27. The votes will be cast in ballot boxes stationed in the lobbies of the theatres. Over 10,000 theatres are expected to participate in the poll which should provide a very good cross-section of public opinion. It is estimated that no less than sixty million votes will be cast. In this election movie goers will be asked to vote for the best picture released during the year, from Oct. 1, 1954 to Sept. 30, 1955. The best performance by a male star, the best performance by a female star, the most promising new male player and the most promising female player.

In many communities local newspapers will cooperate with their local theatres in publishing results of the local poll as well as state and national totals.

This is the first time a serious effort has been made on a national scale to find out just what Mr. and Mrs. Movie-goer think about stars and pictures. It will be interesting to see how their selections compare with the choice of the so-called critics and the industry itself. For my guess there will be a lot of upsets and when the smoke clears away there will be some new stars in the movie firmament.

If you would like to have a voice in this nationwide selection, put on your thinking cap and contact your local theatre for an official nomination blank. Note your selections and then deposit them in the ballot box in the lobby of your favorite theatre.

One of the principal purposes of the election is to aid and hasten the development to stardom of new players. Other objectives, according to industry leaders, is to create a new interest in motion pictures, give the industry its first authentic information of public preferences on a national basis, determine regional preferences and provide exhibitors with names of pictures having a wide popular appeal so that they may book or replay those pictures during the pre-holiday season when

HAL BOYLE Children Ask Amazing Questions

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. — "Why do you have two holes in your nose?" "Can you please take the wallpaper off my apple?" "What is the longest thing in the world? Are roads the longest things in the world?" These aren't queries asked on a $64,000 quiz show. No adult could think up questions as intelligent as these not even for people trying to win a big motor car for a consolation prize.

They are just ordinary questions that popped into the blonde-red head of Lella Jim Palmer, who is in the "question-asking stage" — just about 4 years old.

Lella Jim is the youngest of three daughters of Helen and George Palmer, a young newspaper couple My wife, Frances, and I feel very lucky to be godparents of all three of "those Palmer sisters," who are growing as fast as morning glories. Nina is 8, Zona is 6.

Any home that has young children in it is a daily quiz show, a program interrupted only by meals or bedtime.

But the questions children ask are much more searching than those asked on television programs. The answer to even a $100,000 question on television is, after all, a simple matter of information that can be found by looking in a reference book.

It has to be that way. If the question didn't have a simple clear-cut answer, everybody would get confused and contestants would start suing the sponsors to collect the $100,000.

The questions asked by children would ruin any TV quiz show, stump any panel of experts — because they often can't be answered simply and easily. A child's small mind with all the wonder that lies about it.

Any child can ask a question that would take a 70-year old philosopher weeks to explain — or even leave him dumbfounded.

As children get older and slyer, they cease to ask these life-probing questions. They pull down the curtain on their doubts and thoughts, and we miss looking through the little open windows by which we felt we knew them.

Helen and George are wise parents. As each of their children passed through the question-asking stage, they jotted down the child's questions.

Later in life, at the right time, each of the questions will be given a record of what she wanted to know then.

Here are some typical questions asked in recent weeks by Lella Jim:

"How can a puddle go away?" "Did the weeping willows weep that pond under them?" "How can Santa hear what you want for Christmas?" "Do you love me even when I'm bad?" "Could you walk on water?" "What is under wallpaper?" "Do you get to be what you want to be when you grow up?" "Do your clothes still fit you when you get bigger?" "Which do you like best—(and you can't say both)—cars or houses?" "When daddy was a little boy did he want to be a daddy?" "Why do you have to take things out of your nose?" "Will my name still be Lella when I grow up?" "How do you get braids?" "Could you put the whole world inside this house?" "What can I say if I can't say damn?"

My New York

Saratoga Springs, N. Y. — These, alas, no longer are the days of giants, but scattered here and there across the land are a few Cro-Magnon throwbacks. If you search long, you still can find a man who wears seven-league boots and in whose wake fire streams. Today I didn't even have to search. I was standing on the clubhouse porch, meditating the odd: board when Ted Warner cased up and asked me what I liked in the fifth. Standing knee-deep in pygmies, I welcomed the sight of him.

Some of you may remember the cigar-smoking, king-sized Warner as the manager of Shirley May France, the buxom New England child who tried vainly to swim the English Channel. Or as the man who just recently promoted the 221 mile swim down the Mississippi of Antonio Agertondo, the Argentinian. By trade, Warner is a press agent. By breeding, he is 'out of the same Yonkers, N. Y., high school class that I am, but that was 23 years ago and as long ago as that I was reconciled to the farther horizon than ever I would. The New Yorker details his activities carefully each six months.

It developed that Ted was in Saratoga representing that Kentucky Derby Day Contest, where in a pipe-tobacco company buys a horse and then gives it away to the person who gives it the best name. This is the third year of the contest, which last year attracted "more than a half-million entries." "We don't dare tell how many really entered the contest," Ted said, lowering his voice confidentially, "or, the magnitude of there is usually a scarcity of new film offerings.

Suitable recognition and trophies will be given winners at a gala ceremony to be staged a Hollywood, Dec. 5-7, which will be broadcast on a national network. This is your chance to give your favorite players a boost and help some deserving youngsters on the way up and at the same time will aid producers in giving you better pictures in the future. Ask your local theatre manager for information about this interesting poll.

Well, I gave Warner the sure thing for the fifth and then idly asked him what memories he had of the Shirley May France adventure. A faraway look came into his eyes. "Some day," he said thoughtfully, "that whole story will be told. For example, we had a whole retinue of people on the ship going to England—winner, coach, banker, trainer, etc.—and did you know that on the whole voyage, I was the only one who went into the ship's swimming pool? I went in practically daily. He fired me with glittering eye. "And I can't even swim!"

TARA

Mary Lou Copeland Helps To Design Silver With Essay

Miss Mary Lou Copeland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Copeland, Sanford, and a student at Stetson University, provided inspiration for Reed and Barton's newest sterling silver flatware design, Tara, through her participation in the company's Annual Scholarship Program.

Her essay on silver design helped convince company officials that there is today a strong trend among the Nation's young women back to sentimental or romantic design. The new sterling design, Tara, is a traditional pattern of great simplicity whose time-honored motifs—the Georgian scrolls and delicate roses—have been endowed with a contemporary freshness. The delicate jewel-like ornament of Tara is carried the entire length of the handles leaving the smartly modelled surfaces sparkling in contrast.

Many Booths Are Being Planned For Carnival

General chairman for the Southside and Pinecrest P-T-A Carnival, which is planned for Saturday night, Oct. 29 at Southside, announced today that a variety of booths will be seen and enjoyed at the event.

The post office booth, sponsored by Mrs. Westfall's room with Mrs. K. Housholder as chairman, is "readily and rapidly filling up" with gifts from all over the county. Each is postmarked so that the buyer will know that it came from out of town.

Another booth is the peanut, popcorn and snowcone one sponsored by Mrs. Morgan's room with Mrs. R. L. Metzger as chairman.

Mrs. Brock's room will sponsor a dance program tentatively scheduled for 8 p. m. in which all Southside and Pinecrest students who take dancing will perform. Mrs. Duggar is chairman.

Especially emphasized is the supper which will be served from 8:30 p. m. through the night.

Forty-Four Players Participate Friday In Bridge Tourney

Forty-four players participated in the opening session of the Third Annual City Bridge Tournament at the Yacht Club Friday night. This tournament will run for six weeks and contestants will play with different partners each week. The person having the highest average score at the end of the six week period will receive the Sanford Jewelry and Luggage Company trophy to be held until next year. Any player receiving this trophy twice will retain it permanently.

Mrs. Hal Raymond of Orlando was the 1933 winner and Mrs. William Clifford of Sorrento received the cup last year.

The average score for Friday's game was 130 points. The leading pairs after the first session's play and their scores are as follows: Mrs. Price Hard - Mrs. William Clifton, 159; Mr. and Mrs. Irving Feinberg, 119; Mrs. Hal Raymond Mrs. Alice Eckardt, 148; Stephen Rockwell - A. Bricklin, 147; Mrs. Robert Jennings - Mrs. E. B. Smith, 145; Mrs. Harry Greene - L. Dodson, 142; Fred Stein - Clyde Ramsey 141.

Tournament play will continue Friday night. The game is open to all players and this week's game will be a Master Point event.

Gala Hallowe'en Dance Is Enjoyed By Junior High Students

The Junior High School held a gala Hallowe'en dance last Friday night in the Celery Canteen above the City Hall. Costumes and games dominated the evening and "fun was had by all".

Dancing was enjoyed by the juke and the spot dances were won by Suzanne Jones and Emmet McCall along with Sherlene Shepard and Eddie Kirchhoff.

Best costumes were worn by Diane Baly as Peter Pan and Charles Six as a hula dancer.

Attendance prizes were given to Annette Martin and Johnny Krock with Johnny English winning the marked candy prize.

John Kader was master of ceremonies and amused the crowd with witty sayings and several jokes. Mrs. Ashby Jones and Mrs. Owen Ferguson furthered the Hallowe'en theme as fortune tellers.

Bright Hallowe'en decorations were used through the large dance hall and created an air of "cheerfulness". Refreshments were served and enjoyed by all.

Committees consisted of Mrs. O. R. Smith as general chairman, Mrs. Ray Herron, prize chairman; Mrs. John White, Mrs. Herbert Hehrens and Mrs. F. L. Doudley refreshments; Mrs. Rutliff and Mrs. Kader at the door; Mrs. Jim Taylor.

Riser called the Paul Jones; and Mrs. Lil Gray and Mrs. Nibiac were in charge of decorations.

Almost 50 parents and teachers attended also.

Childress Leading SEC All-America Candidate

THE SANFORD HERALD

Hatters Stronger At Quarterback

DELAND (AP)—Stetson's football meeting with Davidson here Saturday should find the Hatters stronger at quarterback.

Coach Herb McQuillan took advantage of last week's open date to try all player at new positions. One find was Jack Wuenschel, a 170-pound sophomore who had been a halfback.

"Wuenschel displayed an uncanny ability at running the team in scrimmage," McQuillan said. "Also he can kick, he can pass and he can run with the ball."

Dick Saltrick, the regular signal caller, will start the Davidson game with Wuenschel spelling him.

U of F Team Wins

ATLANTA (AP)—The University of Florida cross country team defeated Georgia Tech 18-38 yesterday. Don Gagnon of Florida placed first running the 4.4 mile course in 22 minutes 34 seconds.

ATLANTA (AP)—Joe Childress, a football player nobody wanted when he finished high school, is the leading All-America candidate in the Southeastern Conference.

The Auburn fullback, a 6-foot, 190-pound package of drive and speed, was tabbed the best bet for All-America honors today by a seven-man All-America selection board for the SEC area.

Other leading All-America contenders include halfback Al Davis of Mississippi State, guard Buddy Allison of Mississippi, halfback Jackie Simpson of Florida and end Howard Schnellenberger of Kentucky. The All A board will assist in the naming of the Associated Press honor team after the season ends.

Childress, a member of last year's All SEC team, was not deluged with offers of football scholarships. Auburn coaches couldn't even remember who he was, what he looked like or what position he played when he reported his freshman year. They soon found out.

A halfback at Robertsdale (Ala.) High, Childress was needed at fullback at Auburn and he turned to his new job with gusto. He first won national attention a year ago when he staged a one-man show as Auburn upset previously unbeaten Miami. He gained 164 yards—77 in the last quarter—that afternoon. Childress wasn't stopped the rest of the year, led the SEC in rushing with 834 yards and in scoring with 45 points.

Childress has been a marked man in every game this fall but still has gained 290 yards for a 4.1 average in five games. Davis, voted the most valuable player in the conference last year and a member of the All-SEC team, averaged 4.6 yards per carry in piling up 282 yards before being hurt in State's upset of Kentucky Oct. 15. A fine defensive player, Davis is largely responsible for State's surprising 5-1 record thus far.

Ludwig Lightburn is prospect

NEW YORK (AP)—Off his brilliant showing against Algeria's experienced Hocine Khalifi, young Ludwig Lightburn today looked like the best lightweight prospect to come along in several years.

It's about time too that the 135-pound class, once the best in boxing, developed a new, bright face. Lightburn, a rangy, 20-year-old Negro from British Honduras, out-classed the 27-year-old Algerian all the way to win a one-sided 10-round decision in a television bout at St. Nicholas Arena last night.

The kid in winning his fourth straight, displayed a stabbing left jab, fast combinations, and a willingness to trade. He was credited with a knockdown in the fifth round although Khalifi didn't hit the floor. A right smack on the jaw sent the Algerian downward but his descent was checked by the lowest rope and he bounced erect.

Referee Mark Conn saw Khalifi was hurt and gave him an eight count. Conn and Judge Leo Birnbaum each scored for Lightburn by 8-2 counts. Judge Bill Recht had it 9-1. The AP card had Lightburn in front 8-2. The victory so impressed matchmaker Tex Sullivan that he said he would try and match Ludwig against either Johnny Gonsalves or Cisco Andrade, both ranking lightweight, for Nov. 28. Lightburn had the weight edge, 138½ to 136½.

Maryland, Oklahoma Jump To Top In Associated Poll

NCAA Is Complying With Athletic Code

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. appears to have acquired new confidence through "strictly voluntary" means of getting member schools to certify they are complying with its athletic code.

Long subjected to criticism of its television policies and the athletic code, the NCAA now feels it is moving in position to deal effectively with members who have violated the athletic code.

The compliance program was started in May 1954 under then-President A. B. Moore of the University of Alabama.

The gist of the compliance form—which is signed by an institution's president—is found in this paragraph:

"I certify that the policies, procedures and practices of this institution, its staff, members and representatives fully comply with governing legislation of the NCAA in so far as I can determine, and it is our intention to maintain such compliance."

Present NCAA President Clarence P. (Pop) Houston, vice president of Tufts University, yesterday had nothing but praise for the program which 331 of the 339 active voting members have already signed.

Eight have not as yet signed, including one which has disagreed with issuance of the compliance forms. None of the eight was identified.

"We're on the way towards maturity," said Houston. "None of the schools that have signed will now be able to tell us they were unaware of certain rules and regulations" if they are found violating the athletic code.

"Those who refuse to sign the

By T ASSOCIATED PRESS

In a move that practically guarantees top billing for the Orange Bowl game New Year's Day, Maryland and Oklahoma today jumped to the top among the nation's college football powers in the Associated Press poll.

The two unbeaten giants, safe bets to represent their respective Atlantic Coast and Big Seven conferences in the Miami Fla. stadium next January, stand almost shoulder to shoulder after stepping past Michigan in this week's rankings.

Newcombe Tops In Batting Average

NEW YORK (AP)—Big Don Newcombe of the Brooklyn Dodgers who led the major leagues in winning pitching percentage in 1955, also topped the hurlers in batting with a sizzling .339 average.

Newcombe, a left-handed batter, collected 42 hits in 117 times at bat. Seven of his safeties were home runs, breaking the National League record held by Hal Schumacher of the New York Giants and Jim Tobin of Boston.

A 20-game winner on the mound Newcombe drove in 22 runs, also smacking nine doubles and one triple. He batted 21 times as a pinch-hitter, netting eight hits for a .381 mark.

Figures compiled by the Associated Press also showed today that Ruben Gomez of the Giants was the only other regular pitcher to bat .300. He hit it on the nose with 18 safeties in 60 trips.

Mickey McDermott of the Washington Senators was the American League's leading batter among pitchers with a .263 average. He had 23 hits, including four doubles and one homer.

Willard Nixon of the Boston Red Sox was runnerup to McDermott with 261 on 18-for-69.

form will only invite investigation and they had better be snow white," Houston added.

Maryland (6-0) has the top spot. The Terrapins collected 62 first-place votes, nine more than Oklahoma (5-0), and tallied only 30 more points than the Sooners in the balloting.

On the basis of 10 points for first, 9 for second etc., Maryland wound up with 1,559. Oklahoma had 1,553. Michigan, rated No. 1 for two weeks, managed to lure only 39 first-place votes from the 186 sports writers and sportscaster who cast ballots. The Wolverine (5-0) piled up 1,433 points for third place.

The experts apparently felt Michigan's come-from-behind 14-13 decision over previously unimpressive Minnesota last Saturday was an unbecoming performance for the No. 1 team in the nation. They found Maryland's 34-13 pasting of Syracuse and Oklahoma's 56-21 thumping of previously unbeaten Colorado; more in the style of a national champion.

Navy (5-0) stayed at No. 4 while Michigan State, UCLA, West Virginia and Auburn moved up as Duke tumbled from 5th to 11th after being dumped by twice-beaten Pittsburgh. Notre Dame, 11th last week, regained the top 10 at the No. 9 berth. Southern California stayed at No. 10.

The leaders, with first place votes in parentheses:

1. Maryland (62) 1,559
2. Oklahoma (53) 1,553
3. Michigan (39) 1,433
4. Navy (4) 1,177
5. Michigan State (4) 937
6. UCLA (2) 909
7. West Va. (13) 537
8. Auburn (8) 516
9. Notre Dame 462
10. Southern Cal 335

The Second 10:

11. Texas A&M 313
12. Georgia Tech 111
13. Holy Cross (1) 59
14. Texas Christian 41
15. Ohio State 41
16. Pittsburgh 38
17. Duke 35
18. Miami (Ohio) 20
19. Washington 14
20. Mississippi 11

Stockholders Pick Successor Today To Branch Rickey

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Stockholders of the Pittsburgh Pirates today pick a successor to Branch Rickey Sr., general manager and executive vice president for the past five years.

The speculation is that Joe E. Brown, 37 handsome son of movie comedian Joe E. Brown, will succeed Rickey. The aging Rickey is expected to remain in an advisory capacity.

Under Rickey, the Pirates finished in the cellar the past four years and tied with the Chicago Cubs for seventh in 1951—Rickey's first season with the club.

The Pirates may also announce the selection of a new team manager to replace Rickey. Rickey was dropped one day before the 1955 season ended.

Most frequently mentioned for the post are Bobby Bragan, pilot of Hollywood in the Pacific Coast League; Dixie Walker, who managed Rochester in the International League last year; and Andy Cohen who managed New Orleans in the Southern Assn. last year.

Branch Rickey Jr., who also has been mentioned for the general manager post, most likely will stay on to head the Pirates' farm system.

Coup De Grace At Coeur D'Alene

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (AP)—Ralph Reinhold of New York kept cool when a fish made off with his line. Reinhold took after the fish in his boat on Lake Coeur d'Alene, reached into the water, grabbed the broken end of his fishing line, tied it up and reeled in a 10-pound Kamloops trout.

THE FIRST MEETING of the Seminole County Teachers' Association was held recently at Hopper Elementary School. The meeting opened with devotion. Solo "Bless This House" was beautifully rendered by Mrs. J. Lawson, Instructor, Crooms' Academy. S. T. Muller, principal of Oviedo Elementary School installed officers. Officers as seen are, left to right Mrs. Louise B. Foster, secretary; Mrs. E. Eubanks, assistant secretary; Mr. E. L. Blackshear, president; J. A. Lawson, treasurer; C. J. Hurston, Chaplain; Mrs. Lillie Hall, pianist; H. L. Douglas, business manager; H. L. Refos Jr., vice-president; and Mrs. A. J. Hurston, supervisor. A most interesting skit, entitled "At St. Peter's Gate" was presented to the group. Those participating in this skit were Willie Ashley, Mrs. J. G. Gilmore, Mrs. Lillie Hall, Mrs. J. Merritt, Miss Mildred Patterson, and Mrs. B. Young.

PAUL ANDERSON, champion weightlifter from Georgia, switches from barbells to just plain balls in Madison Square Garden, New York, as he gives a lift to sisters Dian (left) and Erna Berberich of the rhythmic ball drill. The occasion was an Olympic sports carnival to raise funds to send American teams to the 1956 games. The winter Olympics will be held in Italy; the summer games in Australia.

Questions Answered By Local Candidates

The Sanford Herald recently submitted six questions to the two candidates for the Board of Sanford City Commissioners in the Nov. 8 election.

The questions were:

1. What do you believe the City of Sanford should do in regards to a Florida Power and Light Company franchise in view of the referendum held several years ago on the subject?
2. What kind of street program do you believe should be planned by the city?
3. Do you believe the mayor should be elected by the people or appointed by the Board of City Commissioners?
4. How would you go about balancing the salary schedule of city employees?
5. Do you believe in increasing the city's tax millage to take care of the city's needs which are demanded by the people or are you an advocate of pursuance charges earmarked for specific projects?
6. How do you think the Board of Sanford City Commissioners can better serve the people of this city?

Warner

I think it is important to get out the referendum as held several years ago. I believe the people voted their minds in regard to a new baseball stadium and a new power franchise, with a rebate to the City which was to be used to finance the new stadium cost. In my opinion, one of the same question, True, of the total vote cast, the majority voted in favor of both the new stadium and a new franchise.

David Gatchel

As you well know, this is my first venture in politics, and I should like to state in the beginning that my only interest is the desire to have an active participation in the future efficient and economical progress of our city; and, therefore, if the people should elect me as one of their City Commissioners, I pledge myself to do, to the utmost of my ability, only that which is in the best interest of Sanford.
