TAMPA WILL ADOPT THE COMMISSION GOVERNMENT NAME CHARTER COM.

Sentiment of Citizens Largely For Change

PREPARING LIST OF CANDIDATES FOR THE CHARTER BOARD AT MEETING

If expressions from numerous of Tampa's most prominent and representative business men have any significance whatever, Tampa will doubtless have a commission form of government ere another year rolls by. More than a hundred such men gathered in the council chamber at eight o'clock Friday night where a meeting of the Commission Charter League was held. The meeting was thrown open for general discussion following the perfecting of a permanent organization and the election of officers to serve the league. Noticeable throughout the entire meeting was the undoubted and overwhelming sentiment and public opinion in favor of a change from a councilmanic form to a commission form of government.

The meeting was opened by Dr. S. L. Lowry, as temporary president of the organization, who in a few well chosen words told of the purpose of the league and of the meeting last night. He explained that the public generally had been called upon to appear at the council chamber last night to express an opinion on the proposed change and to perfect a permanent organization to further the interests of a commission form. John R. Sharpe read the minutes of the precious and first meeting of the league, which were approved.

Dr. Lowry entertained a motion made by Councilman J. R. Fielding to the effect that the organization be made a permanent one. The motion was carried unanimously. The name of Albert Thornton was then placed in nomination for permanent president of the league and was named without opposition. He immediately took the chair and called for nominations for a permanent secretary. John G. Sharpe, the incumbent, was named Charles H. Brown was made permanent treasurer for the league.

President Thornton declared that the league's undertaking was an important one for Tampa and requests that he be authorized to appoint a committee of ten men to serve as an advisory board in conjunction with the president. His suggestion was placed in the form of a motion and carried. President Thornton stated he would name the committee at a later date.

It was explained that the preliminary steps of the newly perfected organization would be to see that the city of Tampa was given a commission form of government in order to accomplish this it was stated that it becomes necessary for the selection of fifteen representative citizens to form a charter board. The duties of the charter board will resolve themselves into the drafting and formation of an adequate charter under which the city can be opened. Candidates for membership to the charter board will be submitted to the coming White Municipal Party primary for a vote of the people thereby assuring fitness and fair representation.

STATE REPORT FOR D. A. R. CONVENTION

MADE BY MRS. STARLING, AT RECENT ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Salle Harrison Chapter D. A. R. State Report.

As Americanization, Patriotic Education and Conservation are so closely allied and are the key notes of our D. A. R. work, I will begin by telling you what we have done along these lines. We have a Chairman and Committee appointed in our Chapter whose special duties are the advancement of this work. We have placed the American Constitution in all the Public Schools (white and colored) in all public places in the Post Office in our City. We also sent copies of the Constitution to Upsala, a Swedish settlement near Sanford, which is the only foreign settlement anywhere near us. So you can see that our chance for work among the foreign born is very poor—the Flag Code as advocated by our National D. A. R. has been placed in all the schools of Sanford and prizes have been offered by our Chapter for the white and colored grammar schools for the best paper written by a student on "American Citizenship."

We have given magazines to the County Home, and books and reading material to the City Jail. Our D. A. R. Magazine has been given to the public library. By the request (Continued on back page)

"Flying Parson" Aiding In Recruiting HAS ORIGINAL SHIP

THAT WON HIM FAME IN THE TRANS-CONTINENTAL TRIPS RECENTLY MADE

Sanford was honored yesterday by a visit from Lieut. Belvin Maynard popularly known as the "Flying Parson" who stopped off for the day to visit his uncle, N. H. Garner of this city. Lieut. Maynard and his mechanic Sergeant Saxe alighted on the aviation field of the Dixie Aero Service south of the city and his plane was viewed by many people yesterday. It is the same plane in which he won fame by making the coast to coast flight several months ago and on the front of the machine is visible the slogan "Hello Frisco" and the tail bears the written names of people in many states where the "Flying Parson" has stopped.

Lieut. Maynard first leaped into fame by winning the great international race, New York to Toronto and return. That was last fall prior to the great trans-continental endurance and speed test which landed him on the very top of the greatest flyers of the world.

In the New York-Toronto race flyers of three countries competed, and planes from at least six nations were used in the flights. Englishmen, Canadians and United States flyers were entered in this race, and made in the United States, England, France Italy, Germany and Canada.

In the great race which started at Mineola, Long Island, October 8, last in which Lieut. Maynard flew to San Francisco and return in ten days covering a distance of 5,120 miles, better than 500 miles per day, he competed against a great number of the best aviators in the American army.

Lieut. Maynard comes to Florida in the interest of army recruiting. He is co-operating with the local army recruiting office, and will make a number of stops in the state at substations, dropping literature while flying over the various cities he visits.

Lieut. Maynard is a resident of North Carolina where he was preaching when the war was declared and he promptly volunteered for the air service and became one of the best in the business.

He expects to leave this afternoon and will go north via Ocala and Gainesville and Madison and thence into Georgia.

Theda Bara Here in Play of Ambition at The Princess Tonight.

"Lure of Ambition" a super-production in which William Fox presents Theda Bara, is coming to the Princess tonight. This is not only Miss Bara's latest photoplay, but it said to be one of the most intensely interesting of the many successes in which she has been seen.

The driving power of relentless ambition is the motive of the story. Miss Bara is seen as Olga Dulan, the heroine, who graduates from the slums to the desk of a hotel stenographer, and from that position finally becomes the Duchess of Rutledge after many dramatic vicissitudes. The central role is so strong that the

Fabulous Growth Of Miami Really Shown

Miami, March 5.—Sale of the Mills San Carlos hotel by Mills corporation to Frederick H. Rand, Jr. for $529,000 was reported today. Possession is to be given the first of May the Mills corporation conducting the big tourist hostelry until the close of the present season.

Mr. Rand, the purchaser, has made announcement as to his plans for the building, but it is possible that it may be greatly enlarged next summer. The foundation, Mr. Mills said, is of sufficient strength to carry ten stories.

The transfer of the Mills-San Carlos hotel is the largest deal in Miami ever recorded and it also records a tremendous increase in property values.

The original site of the hotel—150 feet on Avenue B and 50 feet on Eleventh street was bought by G. A. Mills from the Fort Dallas Land company, a subsidiary of the Florida East Coast Railway company, in 1899 for only $810. Four years later another lot with a frontage of 50 feet on Eleventh street immediately in the rear, was bought of the company for $810. The next year the front 100 feet of the next lot east was bought by Mr. Mills from Dr. J. M. Jackson for $1,000 and three years ago the 50 feet at the rear of that lot was bought from Dr. Jackson for $2,000. The total cost of the realty, 150 feet square, on which the hotel stands was $4,560. The hotel site was first designed

RAIDS AND FIGHTS IN WAR ON MOONSHINE

Dry Leader in West Virginia
Mountain Districts Has His Hands Full.

The manufacture and sale of moonshine whisky in the mountains of southern West Virginia is claiming the close attention of W. S. Hallahan, prohibition commissioner, who, with a large force of deputies, continues to raid and make arrests almost weekly. There have been times in the last few weeks when the officers have met determined resistance, and already two men, Preston Mullens, an alleged moonshiner, and John D. Kennedy, a deputy sheriff, have lost their lives in the campaign.

This fight, the most serious in recent years, occurred in the Panther creek section of McDowell county, on the Virginia border. Panther creek, the prohibition authorities say, is one of the most active moonshining districts in the state. There, according to Mr. Hallahan, have been gathered some of the most famous manufacturers of moonshine from Buchanan county, Virginia. They know all that is to be known about the industry, and some of them are famed for the qualities of their "corn liquor." Usually their stills are extremely difficult to locate, but gradually the prohibition officers are hunting them out and destroying them. There is another kind of moonshiner in that section who is giving the officers much trouble. He makes his moonshine as quickly as possible, markets it with the least delay and then moves his still to some other place. The country is mountainous and rough, with many fertile valleys. These valleys, the commissioner has discovered, were this year used to a large extent for the growing of sugar cane, the high price of sugar having driven some of the oldtime moonshiners to producing what they needed for domestic and moonshine purposes.

CRIPPLE 28 YEARS, IS CURED BY FAITH

After being a helpless cripple for twenty-eight years, Miss Ida Belle Smythe, a Brooklyn woman, whose photo is above shown, is today able to walk about as she pleases, having discarded her braces, without which little hope had been held that she would be ever able to move about. Miss Smythe's happy smile is due to her "faith cure" which she attributes to the "work of the Lord." Injured when a little girl, her left foot was rendered useless, while her spine also later became affected and she was subject to fainting spasms. On Oct. 22, during a prayer meeting at her home attended by members of the church, the 5th chapter 13-14th verse of St. James was read from the Bible. Miss Smythe again went into a coma, and her friends, thinking the end had come, went to the church to pray for her. Imagine their astonishment and joyful surprise when Miss Smythe came walking in fifteen minutes later, her braces discarded and her foot sound and well. Miss Smythe, who attributes her cure to the Lord, will devote the remainder of her life to the spreading of the gospel of faith, and missionary work.

Upraised Arm and Open Palm Meant Soldier Had No Dagger

The military salute so familiar to every soldier and scout dates back to very early days, notes Boys' Life. At first it was not intended in the least to show respect to superiors. The upraised arm with the open palm extended was meant merely to show that the soldier did not carry a dagger in his hand and could not attack if he wanted to. An even more remarkable change has come in the meaning of the custom of retiring backward in the presence of royalty. In very early times men backed away from a king to protect themselves from being kicked.

If Christ, on the day He was born, had started on a tour to preach in every village in India, He would still have 30,000 more to visit. We now believe we have found a way by which the leaders of the Protestant churches can sit around a common table and have the Christian program of the entire world laid before them. By means of the Interchurch World Movement we can see where the Methodists are, and where the Baptists are. We can see the general outline of their forces, their present status in this great world struggle, and may also have some idea of the unoccupied places, and what may be done by all of us to enter these unoccupied parts of the world field which Christ sent us to occupy.

First soak the egg in vinegar until the shell becomes soft and pliable. It will then be easy to force the egg into the bottle. Pour cold water into the bottle and allow it to remain until the shell becomes hard again. The bottle can then be shown to friends, who are certain to be greatly mystified by the sight of an egg in such a place.

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ST. PETERSBURG AFTER SIX YEARS IS SATISFIED.

In 1913 St. Petersburg adopted the commission form of government and is not sorry of it; in fact the mah who would go there and advocate going back to the old, political form of government would, perhaps, be in danger of getting mobbed. It will end its fiscal year on June 30 and expects to end it with money in the treasury. St. Petersburg is living well within its income, something which Arcadia would do well to emulate.

At the close of business at the end of the fiscal year in 1913 St. Petersburg had no money in the treasury and owned, in current bills, $14,553. This condition had existed at the end of the fiscal year for many years and under the councilmanic plan the expenses were always more than the income (as it is in Arcadia.)

In the last year the pay of the policemen and firemen have been increased and taxes have not been raised. There has been a surplus at the end of every fiscal year since the commission form of government has gone into effect and there was a deficit every year under the old form. Isn't that enough? Is it any wonder that the people of St. Petersburg do not want to go back to the old political form of government?

St. Petersburg expects to end the fiscal year, June 30, with money in the bank. This city has practised thrift and has not yielded to the mania for spending. It is living well within its income, being one of the very few cities in this country in which the income exceeds the expenditures.

St. Petersburg has the commission form of government. It has a plain and simple provision in its charter that requires a budget system. Under this system, made mandatory by the charter, it is hardly possible for the city to spend more than it takes in, for there is made, each year, by each department of the city government, an estimate of the amount needed to run that department for a year, and the amount appropriated for that department by the whole city commission must not exceed, under penalty of removal from office of the department head.

St. Petersburg tried out the old councilmanic form of government. It grew weary of this and in 1913 voted for a new city charter and a new form of government. There is little likelihood of the city ever going back to the old plan. How much money has been saved to the city by the commission plan no one can say accurately, but those familiar with the way the city has been conducted know that a big saving has been effected.

At the close of business, at the end of the fiscal year 1913, the city had no money in the treasury and owed in current bills, $14,553. That condition had existed at the end of each fiscal year for many years. There was always a deficit. Under the councilmanic plan the expenses always were more than the income.

At the close of the fiscal year 1919 there was in the city treasury, in cash in the bank, $29,795.28; and every outstanding bill had been paid. There was no floating debt. There has not been any floating debt at the end of the fiscal year since the commission plan of government has been used. The budget system prevents it.

In 1913, the last year that the old councilmanic plan was in effect, the city's revenue amounted to $53,462.93. The town had then just started on its upgrade movement. The revenue, for a town of its size, was good. The tax rate was 19 mills. But the expenses were greater than the income, for in that year, 1913, the city paid out a total of $61,127.96, leaving a deficit of $7,655.03 while from the previous year there remained also unpaid bills amounting to $6,898.66 so that the actual deficit was $14,553.69.

In 1919 the city started out with $14,513.22 cash left over from the previous year, after all floating debt had been paid. Taxes and other revenue brought in $152,799.70. This made a total available for current expenses of $167,303.92. It was a big sum for a city the size of St. Petersburg, but the expenses were only $137,598.64, so there was a balance left after paying all bills of $29,795.28.

Comparing St. Petersburg under the the commission plan with it under the old councilmanic form, it is very difficult, for the city has been growing so fast it is hard to get a basis. For instance, the assessment in 1913 was $3,700,000, while in 1919 it was $20,000,000, because the commissioners a few years ago doubled the assessment arbitrarily so as to have a fair cash value for the property. The assessment in 1914 was $4,200,000, and in 1915 it was $5,000,000. The assessment was doubled and the increase in two years. The tax rate was 19 mills in 1913 and climbed as high as 22 mills, which would be the same as 11 mills on the present valuation, before the present commissioners assumed office.

St. Petersburg has grown tremendously in the last seven years, and the property values have increased in the same ratio, and the revenue has increased.

Under the commission form of government accounts have been accurately kept and the citizens are easily able to tell how the money has been spent and also how much has been used from current taxes for permanent improvements. The water works plant uses its earnings to pay interest and sinking fund charges on the waterworks bonds instead of this money being put as before, in the general expense fund. It was the custom in the days of city councils, for the revenue from waterworks to go for paying the current expenses of other departments. Now the revenue from the waterworks is used to pay interest and sinking fund charges. In the fiscal year 1919 all the interest and sinking fund charges of the waterworks bonds were paid by the net revenue from the water sales. The same is true of the gas plant. Its earnings are most than sufficient to pay all the charges on the gas bonds.

Under the commission plan, St. Petersburg has in 1919 owned its gas plant, which is a very large source of revenue; it has reduced the operating cost of the waterworks and has collected all the bills due; it has paid off out of current revenue, $25,000 that was due on old revenue bonds that were used to meet deficits under the councilmanic form. Take the year of the present commission form of government, the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919: At the close of business for that year the city had in its treasury $29,795.28. For years before there had been a deficit of $29,000. But this does not represent the whole difference. In 1918 the city paid $26,000 on interest and sinking fund charges—just $26,000 more than was paid three years before. The city paid $10,000 on an old debt contracted by the previous administration. The same year out of the current revenue the city paid the old Babbaro debt of $27,000, and paid off other old debts amounting to $4,800. All of which shows that there was $43,000 profit to the city that went to the payment of old debts. Instead of a deficit, in spite of these unusual expenditures, there was a surplus of $28,795.28.

In the year 1919 the tax rate has not been raised, and the assessment has been increased where improvement have been made, yet the salaries of policemen and firemen have been raised and all the city officials and employees are getting more money for their work. Still there is going to be a surplus at the end of this fiscal year, as there has been every year under the commission form of government.—Arcadia News

Moro Chieftain Lived to Be Eighty-Three Years Old; Remarkable Age for Tropics

The tombs of some of the Moro chiefs of the Philippines are a curious combination of native ingenuity and civilized finery. An ancient and distinguished Moro chieftain is said to have lived to be 83 years old—a remarkable age for the tropics where men and women mature early and die young, according to American standards. This chieftain, Benguito, was not only a distinguished warrior of a powerful tribe, but also a wise diplomat. He held his tribe under firm control during many turbulent periods. He was usually at peace with the Spaniards when they had control of the islands, but when he occasionally struck, perhaps on the advent of a new Spanish governor-general, he struck hard, and with such savage ferocity and good generalship, followed by a masterly disappearance of the entire tribe into the jungle fastnesses, that the Spaniards, after some show of pursuit, were glad to make a peace treaty and leave Benguito to the management and administration of his own tribal affairs. When the Americans took possession of the Philippines, Benguito with unusual discrimination for a native refused to be led into the Aguinaldo revolution, maintaining a dignified but armed and watchful neutrality, and when he saw clearly, long ahead of the other native chiefs, the rising star of the Americans, he gracefully suggested a coalition or treaty with the United States which nearly took the breath away from the American authorities, some of whom had not concluded that the only way to make peace with the Moro was with a Krag rifle.

Benguito's body lay in state for 35 days within his tomb, constructed of bamboo framework, but decorated with white cloth after the Moslem fashion, for he and his tribe were devout Mohammedans. The body of the old chief was placed in a sitting posture.

U. S. INCOME TAX EXEMPTS NOBODY

Every Person Who Had Income in 1919 Must Determine Own Liability

MARCH 15 LAST-FILING DATE.

Surest Way Is to Follow Form 1040A. Free Advice in Doubtful Cases. Severe Penalties in Law.

Nobody is exempt from Income Tax. An obligation is laid directly on the shoulders of each citizen and resident to consider his own case and to get his return in on time if one is due.

With each return showing a tax due a payment must accompany the return in the full amount of the tax or at least one-quarter of the tax.

All returns for 1919 must be filed on or before March 15.

Must Show True Figures.

In figuring up his earnings for income tax purposes a person must take into consideration all items of taxable income, and each item itself must be accurate in amount. Guesses and estimates must be avoided, for the return is made under oath.

Everybody who had an income during 1919 must now determine whether his or her net income was sufficient in amount to require an Income Tax return. The best way to find out is to get a Form 1040A and follow the instructions printed on it.

One of the important points to keep in mind is that a person's net income is found by a computation prescribed in the law, and that each item of income from every source must be considered, unless specifically exempted.

Another thing to remember is that the personal exemption allowed taxpayers by law has no relation whatever to the requirement to file a return. This exemption is not to be considered until a person has figured out his net income and determined whether it was sufficient to require him to file a return. Then, if a return must be filed, he should read carefully the instructions for obtaining exemption, and complete his return.

If in doubt on any point as to income or deductions, a person may secure free advice and aid from the nearest Internal Revenue office. Many banks and trust companies are also furnishing similar service during banking hours.

Heavy Penalties in Law.

For failing to make a return on time the penalty is a fine of not more than $1,000 and an addition of 25 per cent to the tax, if any. For making a false or fraudulent return the penalty is a fine of not more than $10,000 or imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both; and, in addition, 50 per cent of the tax. There are other penalties for failing to pay tax when due, and for understatement of the tax through negligence.

Many Sources of Income.

Aside from what one may earn by his services, there are many other sources of income. If he sold any property during 1919 he must figure out the gain realized. If he rented buildings, land, apartments or rooms such rents must be considered taxable, and he may claim deductions for necessary expenses incidental to rents.

Bank interest is a common source of income and is taxable whether withdrawn or not. Any amount of interest credited to a depositor is income to the depositor.

Interest on mortgages and notes is taxable; also bond interest received from corporations.

A taxpayer who cashed his insurance during 1919 must report as income any excess received over the total of premiums paid.

Members of partnerships or personal service corporations or beneficiaries of an estate or trust must report their shares of income distributable to them whether or not actually withdrawn.

Dividends of domestic corporations must be reported. Many other forms of income are taxable, unless specifically exempted.

INCOME TAX IS DUE MARCH 15

Penalties for Delay and Failure to Make Returns—Early Compliance Urged.

All income tax returns covering the year 1919 must be filed by Monday, March 15. Each taxable return must be accompanied by check or money order for the full amount or at least one-quarter of the amount of tax due.

Cash payments are accepted only at the collector's main office; if sent by mail, they are at the sender's risk.

Residents of Florida should file their returns with, and make payments of Income Tax to, James M. Cathcart, Collector of Internal Revenue, Jacksonville.

Those who must file returns but have not done so are warned that the revenue law imposes heavy penalties for failure to get returns in on time or to make payments on time.

Early filing and early payments are urged in order to relieve the Internal Revenue offices as much as possible of an overload on the final day, March 15.

What Is A Bank?

A bank is much more than merely a safe place for keeping funds, for handling checks, for collecting drafts, etc.

A bank should be regarded as the intimate helper, advisor, and friend of the customer, ever ready to co-operate in every proper way, to extend necessary accommodation as required, and to protect his interest in every way that lies within its power.

This is the kind of service that we endeavor to render; and we invite you to make your connection with us with such service in view.

The Six Reel Universal Special "Blind Husbands" At The Princess Today

The bestial nature of a libertine officer, formerly of the Austrian army, is relentlessly exposed in "Blind Husbands" the Universal photodrama of the Tyrolean Alps, which comes to the Princess Today. The principle role is played by Eric Stroheim, former lieutenant of the Austrian army, and in "Blind Husbands" Eric Stroheim portrays the arrogance and supreme coquetry that made the Teuton unfit for the communion of humans.

As a lieutenant of the Austrian army the starring villain goes to a fashionable resort in the Alps to prey on womankind. There he meets Maragret Armstrong, wife of the famous Dr. Armstrong, who loved but badly neglected wife.

Dr. Armstrong makes a discovery suspects something worse, and his soul is seared and tortured when the lieutenant lies to him. The fate of a love hazzard in the form of a man, is the theme of the story.

Stroheim is remembered, even hated, by thousands of persons, for his portrayal of a Hun officer in the big Universal war-picture, "The Heart of Humanity."

Supporting him in "Blind Husbands" as Maragret Armstrong the wife, is Francelia Billington and the following cast of popular Universal players: Sam DeGrasse, H. Gibson-Gowland, Valerie Germonprez, and Jack Perrin.

"Blind Husbands" is pronounced as a daring photodrama, based on the days immediately following the war, which cannot but open the eyes of the typical American husband to the danger of indifference toward the woman he selected as his lifemate. It is declared to be amazing in its inoffensive handling of so vital a theme.

One more reel.

"Paradise Regained" on Cabbage. It is said that John Milton often used to have nothing but a few olives for dinner, and we do not wonder so much since learning this that he so seldom wrote anything cheerful. We do not think we could write anything cheerful ourselves after dining on a few olives, though we have done it not infrequently on boiled cabbage and prune whip.—Ohio State Journal.

ETHEL CLAYTON IN DRAMATIC PICTURE OF MARRIED LIFE

"The Thirteenth Commandment"
Indicts Pampered Wife Who Demands All

Stories about young married life are always interesting. Rupert Hughes' "Thirteenth Commandment" created quite a stir when it ran serially in a popular magazine and later as a novel. Now it has been adapted to the screen and will be shown with Ethel Clayton in the leading role at the Princess tomorrow.

The heroine is the pampered daughter of a middle western merchant. She has always had all she wanted and, when she becomes engaged to a young New Yorker, supposes him to be rich because she spends lots of money on her. But a trip to the metropolis shows her that he is really poor and is making tremendous sacrifices in order to satisfy her whims. Other dramatic developments convince her of the injustice of the attitude of the pretty woman who demands a heavy financial tribute from her husband for simply being idle and extravagant.

She pursues an independent career and, when her fiance is ready to wed her, goes to him on a "flirty-flirty" basis. Miss Clayton is supported by a fine cast, which includes Anna Q. Nilsson, Monza Blue, Charles Meredith, and Irving Cummings. It is a Paramount-Artcraft picture directed by Robert G. Vignola.

One more reel.

EXECUTIONER BOOSTS FEE

Sing Sing Electric Chair Operator
Demands $250 for Each Murderer.

New York.—Owing to the high cost of living, John Hulbert, the state executioner, who manipulates the switch connected with the Sing Sing electric chair, has boosted the cost of killing. It was learned, he has increased the amount of the fee he demands from $150 to $250. He charged the prison department $250 for the execution of Vincenzo Esposito of Schenectady, on the night of Jan. 8 last. The bill has not yet been paid.

The state hired him in 1914 for $50 per murderer. It having dispensed with Executioner Edward Davis, who was receiving $250, and got a cheaper man. Warden Moyer later increased Hulbert's pay to $150. Hulbert has had only one execution in nine months. However, since taking the job he has officiated at forty-eight killings.

Paris.—Whispers are heard in circles of fashion that small waists are to "come in" again next season.

Strictest secrecy is being maintained in professional quarters in accordance with a decision by great dressmaking establishments here not to make premature revelations, but it is said gowns designed after the new mode have been seen and admired.

Authorities in the dressmaking trade however, deny tight lacing is to return, one of them saying: "The wasp waist is as obsolete as the stage coach or the sedan chair."

Smithy, Immortalized by Longfellow, Still Stands,

Shop of the Village Blacksmith, at Cambridge, Mass., Looks Today Almost as It Did When the Poet Wrote of It.

In his diary of October 5, 1839, Longfellow made this note: "Wrote a new psalm of life—it is 'The Village Blacksmith.'"

And the house of the village blacksmith, built in 1811, still stands in Cambridge, covered with vines and sought after by tourists and lovers of the old, although the "spreading chestnut tree" has been cut down to make room for the widening of Brattle street.

It was the home of Dexter Pratt, the village blacksmith, and the friend of Longfellow, who immortalized him and his smithy in verse. The Bachelder family, who bought the place from the heirs of Mary Walker in 1912, have restored the place to its former simple beauty. It still bears the "Sign of the Cockhorse."

Inside, the rooms are restored with all the quaintness of their original form. As one goes in the door they open from both sides of the small hall and each room has a large open fireplace. The mantels are wide and plain, as was the fashion in the early days.

Upstairs, at the Brattle street end of the house, one goes down three steps into the end room. You pass through a narrow back passage and find two small bedrooms and back stairs which are sharp and steep.

Dexter Pratt, Longfellow's blacksmith friend, succeeded Torrey Hancock in the ownership of the property, who in turn bought it from the heirs of Thomas Brattle, who built the house. Pratt had lived there a long time when Longfellow came to Cambridge in 1838.

After the death of Dexter Pratt in 1847, the property passed through various hands until, in 1870, friends bought it for Mary Walker, an escaped quadroon slave, a woman of refinement and beauty, who had been a servant in several Cambridge families, and afterward taught school in the South.

After her return to the North two of her three children were found and returned to her through the efforts of General O. O. Howard. They were then a grown man and woman, although when she last saw them they were children.

While she occupied the house many Harvard students lived there. Now, purchased from the heirs of the escaped slave, it has become one of the show places of Cambridge.

Longfellow, in the Knickerbocker Magazine, in 1840, first immortalized the place. He made a word picture of the village smithy and the blacksmith, and also made a pen and ink sketch of the chestnut tree and the smithy. The tree up to 1870 spread its branches in front of the house.

high as it was in 1900, but in spite of this people are not dying as they did then.

A missionary gives two reasons for the lower death rate:

In the last 20 years the people have learned to work. Formerly one or two members of a family supported the rest. Now, all who are able to work earn something, and so during the years of plenty something has been saved up—not much but enough to help a little.

Another reason why India is in a better condition now than in 1900 is that the caste system is breaking down. Now you will find men and women of many castes doing work which formerly was done by one caste alone. High-caste Hindus are coming to see that manual labor is not a disgrace.—World Outlook.

Plywood Given Severe Test.

The plywood tested at the Wisconsin forest products laboratory is built up in thin layers laid crosswise to one another, and glued with water-resisting glue. Various protective finishes are applied to the wood. All materials are subjected to every variety of climatic temperature and moisture, and in glue tests, plies must not separate after boiling in water eight hours, or soaking at room temperature ten days. The products developed find many important uses besides that of making airplane propellers. The woven plywood, designed as a substitute for linen in wing covering, is basket woven from strips of spruce veneer about one and one-fourth to one and seven-eighths inches wide and .01 inch thick, the finished sheet being about one-fifth inch thick.

Difficult to Learn.

The Chinese pocket dictionary contains no less than 10,000 characters, which one must learn in order to claim any real familiarity with the language. However, an acquaintance with 3,000 or 4,000 symbols is all that the average native has, and it is said to be possible to get along with a vocabulary of 1,000.

Newlyweds Lost in Denae-Maine Woods

Lenox, Mass.—A story of how Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert I. Newton were lost in the northern waste of the Maine woods and wandered about for four days without shelter or food was revealed in a letter received here from Mr. Newton.

The Newtons were married in Exeter, N. H. Both loving the wilds, they went into the Maine woods for their honeymoon. From a camp they started for a walk and lost their way. They were without a compass and followed a moose trail which led them away from all human habitation.

Unable to locate their camp or a cabin they passed three nights out of doors, subsisting on dried berries. Finally they came out on a stream and followed it to a hunting lodge.

CEMETERY OF THE FUTURE

Cemeteries are not cheerful places. Burial lots are cared for during two or three generations and then, too commonly are neglected. Weeds cover the graves and fallen tombstones are allowed to lie. The long-dead are forgotten.

Dr. David Fairchild, a distinguished government scientist, urges a new departure. He thinks that cemeteries should be made attractive and that the principal feature of a great city burying ground ought to be a beautiful building somewhat resembling a library, with alcoves and quiet nooks.

RUSSIAN SPURNS RAW MEAT

Prince Troubetzky, Strong Man, Bends Coin With His Teeth on Vegetable Diet.

New York.—Prince Paul Troubetzky, Russian sculptor, whose studio is at Hollywood, Cal., and who came here fairly radiating strength, declared that eating vegetables instead of meat had transformed him from a sickly youth to "one of America's strongest men."

To prove his strength, the prince bent a quarter two ways with his teeth, smashed some walnuts with a blow of his fist, and raised above his head some weights which an ordinary man could not budge.
