

War May Continue For Years Is View Of Most Experts

German Strategy Is To Keep Allies Inactive On Front

By EDWARD E. HOMAR (AP) STAFF WRITER
The gloomy prospect that the European conflict may continue for years without a decision appears to gather support almost daily.

From an Italian general comes the suggestion that it may even develop into a 20 years war like the aimless series of conflicts that exhausted Europe in the seventeenth century.

Some extremely well qualified military men see no sign anywhere of a break in the stalemate, regardless of whether the close of winter unleashes forces of destruction which thus far have been curbed.

Leslie Hore-Belisha, the former British war minister, reflected this view in pleading—for well-planned, adequate decisive action in Finland, in the hope of forcing a decision.

Germany's strategy, he declared, was to force the Allies to keep a great force inactive on the Western Front, in a position where there could be no fighting unless neutral territory were violated.

Meanwhile, he warned, the Nazis, in conjunction with Russia, by intimidation if not by domination, obtain from their neighbors sufficient supplies to see the effects of our blockade.

Well recognized as they are, the factors contributing to the expectation of a long war tend to be so obscured by day-to-day events that they should bear re-consideration.

In population and military might the foes are reasonably balanced. Modern warfare so favors defense that a successful offensive calls for a three-to-two or two-to-one military superiority—probably three to one to pierce a Maginot line or West Wall. Neither side can hope for any such margin.

Barred from overseas supplies by the naval blockade, Germany turns to contiguous Russia and the Balkans, as Hore-Belisha urged, Germany that much closer would have the Red army's aid and has invulnerable lines of communication in contrast with the Allies' enforced use of the open North.

In Scandinavia, as Hore-Belisha urged, Germany that much closer would have the Red army's aid and has invulnerable lines of communication in contrast with the Allies' enforced use of the open North.

In the middle east, where a strong British-French empire force is massed now behind the Turks, or in the Balkans, as long as Italy remains a mere "non belligerent," reaffirming its adherence to the Rome-Berlin axis, the odds are heavy that force will remain a defensive unit, intended to discourage any Nazi-Soviet adventures and bolster Turkey. From a military standpoint, it is far "out on a limb," its lines of supply vulnerable.

Mussolini's imperial ambitions could hardly be satisfied if the Allies win but might be if Hitler were victorious in his aim of breaking up their empires, even though Italy remained on the sidelines.

As for a Germany victory, the odds are checked on land in much the same manner as their foes. Their air superiority is probably being overcome, though slowly. At sea the war of attrition could go on for years at the present rate of destruction without breaking the blockade.

Altogether the signs seem to point to a continued war of nerves and diplomacy. A major diplomatic stroke appears an inevitable requirement of a military decision.

Paris Designers Avoid Semblance Of War Fashions

Spring Notes Seen Emphasize Ultra Feminine Styles

By ALICE MAXWELL (AP) STAFF WRITER
PARIS, Mar. 7.—Paris dressmakers attaining a new solidarity, have joined in launching new collections utterly devoid of war influences and characterized by fresh feminine appeal in all the charming aspects of Spring and summer dress.

Superb fabrics, brilliant colors and a wealth of rich, even extravagant, detail figure in the new fashions now being shown. Privileges include gold-headed canes, wrist-ruffled gloves, back pockets and flowered and feathered toques.

New wide-skirted, even dresses in tulle and lace are shown with long sleeved spangled boleros. Taffeta gowns are splashed from hip to hem. Figure-moulding dinner suits are seen in crepes and satins, some with sequin-trimmed reversible jackets.

Ankle-length waltz dresses are revived—made with full-tiered skirts or designed with hem ruffles that extend up to the waist in the back. Garden party frocks appear in printed organdies of rose-embroidered muslins topped with large hats in organdy or fancy straw.

Spring and summer silhouettes have been loosened up from old rigid lines and corseting. Bloused backs are emphasized in the bodies of chemise dresses, in belted coats and in new crepe evening blouses. Day skirts, with few exceptions, show pronounced swing and swirl, either through shirring or pleatings of all kinds.

Day skirts are extremely short—the shortest to mid-knee. Opposing waistlines are noted in low dropped girdles for coats and dresses and in raised waistlines, seen in some day and evening coats. Molyneux emphasizes new back treatments in inset fullness, sashes and ties, while Paquin features marked front flare throughout the day clothes collection.

The interest in jackets of contrasting colors is tremendous. Light colored wool jackets go with checked shirts, while plaid silk jackets cover plaid silk blouses and top black or navy blue skirts. Evening suits show colored jackets and blouses with dark skirts. The majority of the jackets are fitted tailleur types, although there is a smattering of loose boxed designs.

Coats flare from neat, fitted waists or from the shoulder. Strictly summer styles hang straight without fastening. Many high-necked printed dresses are shown with plain coats, while plain frocks are worn with coats of checked surah or other silks.

Finish peasant influences provide much color in rich embroideries, colored stockings worn with "little girl" strapped slippers and bright colored bonnets of straw or stiped fabrics. Elaborate embroideries for afternoon and evening employ metal and colored nailheads, crystal and jet beading and lavish amounts of flashing spangles in gold and color.

Lots of stripes are seen. They appear in taffeta and surah day suits, satin evening suits and tailored wool day clothes. A big plaid season is indicated for wools and taffetas. Checks are enormously important for day and evening wear. Other materials which make the new spring clothes include tweeds, flannels, wool and silk jerseys, shantung, the silks, printed crepes and satins.

The Pairs color card for spring and summer contains a great many blues, Schiaparelli's "sleeping blue" (an intense turquoise shade), navy, royal and air force are among the leaders for day wear. Black, pirate red, lagoon yellow, gray, garnet, emerald green and nautique shades are other daytime hues. Favorite evening colors in the Paris point-box are white, chartreuse, peony pink, royal and sleeping blues, purples, gray, yellow, flame, navy and black.

Writer Portrays Alex Woolcott As Nervous Person

By GEORGE TUCKER (AP) STAFF WRITER
NEW YORK, Mar. 7.—(AP)—Here's a fat man in a fret. The man is Alex Woolcott. He isn't in a fret yet, but he will be soon. Right now he is quite cheerful. He has just left his friend Henry Bernstein, who is the greatest of living French playwrights, Bernstein once had his portrait painted by the great Monet. It was painted when he was seven. The fat man has always wanted to see that portrait.

So he goes to a phone booth, drops a Buffalo in the slot, and dials Ruth Gordon.

"Ruth," he exclaims, "I've just left Bernstein. That Monet of his is up on 57th street. Let's go see it."

"I'd love to," says Miss Gordon, who probably owns more critical valentines from Woolcott than any other actress in the theater. So the fat man gets a hack and calls for Miss Gordon, and they drive to the place where the painting is said to be.

They go in, and a nun-footed attendant comes noiselessly up. The fat man is feeling fine.

"We'd like to look at that Monet of Henry Bernstein," he announces.

The attendant spreads his hands. "There is no such portrait here."

"But I just left Mr. Bernstein and he asked me especially to call here."

"I'm sorry but you must be mistaken," Mr. Woolcott and Miss Gordon exchanged glances. "See here," says the fat man. "I'm Alexander Woolcott and . . ."

"I know you're Alexander Woolcott," interrupts the young man, "but the painting isn't here. Mr. Woolcott bites his lip. Some of the exuberance goes out of his manner.

"Will you be good enough to let me see the manager?" he says icily.

The man shakes his head. "He isn't here."

Frustration is beginning to choke him. He drops into a chair and shows a cigarette into his mouth. "You can't smoke here," says the attendant.

Mr. Woolcott spits the cigarette out of his mouth and shouts, "I'm not smoking," and shows the cigarette back in his mouth. He begins to pat his foot.

Miss Gordon pin's her hand on Mr. Woolcott's shoulder and says, "Alex, since we are wasting this gentleman's time, we had better go."

"Yes," says Woolcott rising. "Well," he says to the clerk, "I must say you are an entertaining creature." And with that they depart.

But once outside Miss Gordon says, "Alex, the way you said that you were positively insulting." Woolcott's face brightens. "Wa-

Group Favors Continuation Of Trade Pact

Committee Of Senate Votes 12-8 To Okey House Approved Bill To Extend Program

Way Cleared For Senate Debate

Upper Chamber Stands Fast On Fight To Abolish Hatch Act

WASHINGTON, Mar. 8.—(AP)—The Senate Finance Committee voted 12-8 to approve without amendment the House-approved legislation to continue the Administration's trade agreements program three years.

The committee's approval cleared the way for Senate consideration next week of the controversial measure to renew the State Department's expiring authority to make trade pacts in which tariff concessions may be extended not only to the nation signing agreements but to other countries not discriminating against American exports.

The Senate stood fast yesterday against a determined last-ditch effort to abolish the Hatch act as a non-political activity by government workers.

It rejected the proposal by a vote of 42 to 35—as compared with a ballot of 44 to 41 on a similar provision yesterday. The trend of the voting encouraged Senator Hatch, Democrat, New Mexico, and his supporters to predict passage of the pending bill extending the long restrictions on Hatch employees paid from Federal funds. A vote on this measure was expected today.

The extension legislation would have a retroactive effect on the civil service commission, empowering it to eliminate any Federal state job holder for playing politics, or to divert that the Federal funds be withheld from the state or locality.

Two limitations upon these provisions were written into the bill during the day. The first would limit the amount of funds to be withheld to the amount of the salary of the offending employee.

The second would limit the amount of funds to be withheld to the amount of the salary of the offending employee.

The bill also provides that the Federal funds be withheld from the state or locality.

NEWLYWEDS RETURN TO NEW YORK

A picture of happiness, Mary Cohan and husband George Ranken are back in New York after their elopement and marriage by a justice of the peace. Mary has been estranged from her famous father, George M. Cohan, ever since she eloped with a banjo player 12 years ago. Hubby Ranken is an accordion player in the New York night club where Mary sings.

Lake Mary is experiencing one of its best tourist seasons in years, according to Frank Evans, a Lake Mary booster, who claims that the number of winter visitors has increased by about 100,000.

The Lake Mary Community House is well attended.

The Lake Mary winter residents also regularly attend these sessions.

There are now 13 families in Lake Mary who are engaged in the production of poultry commercially, raising from 40 to 20,000 laying hens each.

Judy Garland Kidnap Plot Nipped In Bud

19-Year-Old Transient Gets Panicky, Phones Police Of His Snatch Plan

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 8.—(AP)—A curiously-bungled plot to kidnap Judy Garland, 17, film singing star, left a 19-year-old transient from Buffalo, N. Y., in jail today.

Officers said Robert Wilson planned, with an accomplice, a midnight abduction, then grow panicky and telephoned police that "Judy Garland will be kidnaped tonight"—a warning which led to his own arrest.

He was booked tentatively on a charge of suspicion of kidnaping and the search for his companion got underway.

Police traced the call, and a hotel employe gave such an accurate description of Wilson he was arrested a block away.

Meanwhile reporters, photographers and 16 policemen descended upon the Garland home where Judy, her sister, Virginia, in the absence of her mother, and her stepfather, were entertaining young friends.

Judy told them calmly to "make yourselves at home" and dished out ice cream to the visitors.

Pennsylvania Relief Funds Are Depleted

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 8.—(AP)—Pennsylvania's Republican administration faces exhaustion of its unemployment relief funds and a consequent special session of the legislature between the Spring primaries and the party's national convention at Philadelphia June 24.

LIVER QUEEN ELIZABETH SAFE AT NEW YORK

The 85,000-ton British liner Queen Elizabeth, newest and largest merchant ship afloat, is shown "making knots" as she neared New York harbor and safely at daybreak. No news of her daring maiden voyage to the haven of a neutral port leaked out until the ocean queen, pride of Britain's merchant fleet, neared the United States. This airview was made by NEA Staff Photographer Joe Boyle.

The annual membership campaign of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce will be launched at a dinner meeting of the entire membership at the Valdes Hotel next Tuesday night at which Harold Colee, of Jacksonville, vice president and general manager of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, will be the guest speaker.

The dinner meeting will be the first of the regular monthly supper meetings which are being planned for the entire membership of the trade body and President Campbell extended an invitation to every member of the Chamber of Commerce to be present.

Mr. Campbell pointed out that the guest speaker is known throughout the state for his civic activities and added that his message should be one of interest to the civic-minded residents of Seminole County.

Those who desire to attend the dinner were requested by Secretary Ralph Bagwell to make reservations at the Chamber building not later than noon on Tuesday.

Officials of the Chamber of Commerce drafted a corps of volunteers to conduct the membership drive throughout the county, and it was pointed out that those called upon have shown a "fine spirit of co-operation" toward lending their efforts to the annual campaign to raise funds with which to carry on the activities of the organization for another year.

From all indications, a fine response in memberships can be expected, in view of the fact that 68 advance memberships of $5 each have been sent in even before the campaign opens," Mr. Campbell declared.

These advance memberships are as follows:

- Names and No. of Memberships: Southern Bell Telephone Co., 17; Yowell-Drew Co., 5; Sanford Gas Co., 5; Florida Public Service Co., 4; Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., 8; Harry P. Lee, Inc., 2; Florida Motor Lines, 1; P. Overstreet, 1; Winn & Lovett Grocery Co., 5; Orange State Oil Co., 5; John L. Galloway, 1; A. P. Comstock, 1; Dickson-Ives Company, 6; Orlando, 65.

Action On Medfly Damage Awards Is Expected Shortly

ORLANDO, Mar. 8.—The Senate subcommittee, investigating the Florida Medfly $9,000,000 claim and, at yesterday, A. E. Pickard, Orlando, yesterday declared upon his return from Washington where he had appeared before the committee along with eleven other Florida representatives.

"We had a four-hour conference with Senator Schwartz, El-lender and Willey," Pickard stated, "and I don't hesitate to say that the committee's attitude was sympathetic, open-minded and showed intense interest in our claims. It's the best delegation I far that has ever gone from Florida to appear before a Congressional committee," he declared.

Pickard stated that Senator Charles O. Andrews in his opening statement to the subcommittee had presented excellent testimony and had received the entire support of his colleagues.

"We should get action within two to three weeks," Pickard stated, believing that the subcommittee would soon give a favorable report of the hearing attending by the Florida delegation.

"If the subcommittee reports favorably on the bill and it is passed," Pickard stated, "the feeling in Washington is that the President will sign it. It will then become mandatory for the appropriations committee to include the recommended payment in their omnibus bill."

Pickard explained that the original claims amounted to $12,000,000 which have since been reduced to a recommended $9,000,000 by the Florida Medfly Board. He stated that the excellency of the delegation had been due in large part to Florida citrus growers' efforts to send a representative delegation to Washington.

British Say U. S. Might Be Invited To Use Influence In Making Peace

Finns Indicate War To Continue

Russian Demands Reported To Include Karelian Isthmus

Peace talk developed in the conflict between Finland and Russia today.

Sweden was in the vortex of discussions, with Finland's Field Marshal Mannerheim, and Russia's Marshal Blücher reported in Stockholm.

The British said "possibly" the United States might be invited to further peacemaking efforts.

Finland, staggered by the weight of the Russian forces hammering steadily at her defenses, fought on while her spokesman indicated rejection could be the only answer for any excessive Russian demands.

The high command said the Russians failed again in attempts to tighten the hold around Viipuri.

Attacks over the breadth of the Karelian Isthmus likewise were repulsed, it was said, while on the Eastern Front the Russians left about 2,000 dead.

Roosevelt, commenting on reports that the United States might be invited to mediate, said he requested had been received.

Moscow failed to disclose any evidence of Russian readiness to make peace. But former Finnish president, E. Rytky, flew to Berlin for a conference with von Ribbentrop, and British observers interpreted the mission as a final effort to get Hitler out of getting "reasonable" terms from Moscow.

Unofficially it was reported that Russia now demands the surrender of the Karelian Isthmus, Viipuri, Lake Ladoga, Hango, and part of the Petcheng region. Such terms exceed the demands made before the war, and the Finns' indication rejection was certain.

In the other war, London announced scouting flights during night extended across Germany to Poland.

Germany claimed air raiders sank 11 merchantmen in the last two nights. The French reported the German ship Uruguay had been scuttled to prevent capture.

Seminole Schools To Be Closed On Mar. 29

Seminole County's schools will be closed on Friday, Mar. 29 in order to permit teachers to attend the annual convention of the Florida Education Association to be held in Orlando, Mar. 28-30.

It was decided at the regular meeting of the Board of Public Instruction on Wednesday, School Superintendent T. W. Lawton said today.

The Board also made arrangements for borrowing $4,000 for teachers' salaries during the month in view of the fact that the State's allotments are still delinquent.

It was also announced that additional officers for the assistance of the taxpayers will be opened on the ground floor of the Court House in Orlando next week and all persons were requested to avail themselves of the opportunity of securing this service in filing income tax returns which must be in an Mar. 15 in order to avoid penalties.

CHALKING 'EM UP

Wah CHARLIE CHALKER Hudson's Big Chance Sid Hudson will get his first big chance Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock when he steps on the mound to face the New York Giants at Tinker Field in Orlando. Sid will get his first chance to show why he should stick with the Senators as a regular this year. There should be at least 1,500 Sanford fans there to see Hudson's favorite attempt to set the Giants down. The lanky hurler who won 24 games while losing four for Sanford last year in the Florida State League stacks up as about the best prospect Bucky Harris has seen in many years. The best in fact, since Schoolboy Rowe burned up the American League several years ago in his freshman year. This is the acid test for Sid. Can he make the grade or not? It's a long hop from Class D to the majors, but if it can be made in one year, well bet on Sid. There is little chance that Bucky Harris will let Sid lose more than four innings at the most but in that time, Sid will have shown what he can do in fast company. Yesterday he pitched against the Washington Yankigans and permitted but one hit in three innings, striking out four and walking none. We believe he will do as well Sunday against the Giants.

Nazi Girls Cross Hitler And Birth Rate Is Declining

New Babies Are 11 Percent Below Number Expected

By NEA Service
There is no crisis for babies

Announcement in Berlin that the Reich expects every German woman to bear a child—latest development of a plan started six years ago to increase the German birth rate—now is met by revelation that the Nazi baby market is down, not up.

Despite the Fuhrer's orders the German birth rate is falling and now is 11 percent below the level needed to maintain a positive population balance. The figures are revealed in a new book, "Hail Hunger," published by Alliance Book Corp., New York.

The book, written by Dr. Martin Gumpert, now a practicing New York physician and former head of a Berlin clinic, is based on scientific information which slipped through German censorship.

"The fecundity of the German woman under the Third Reich," he asserts, "falls far below the record of the wretched year of economy crisis, 1933, when for every thousand women capable of bearing children (that is, between the ages of 15 and 45) there were 22.3 births.

"In 1937, under Hitler, that fecundity sank to its lowest level, 17.1 per thousand. And according to the latest compilation of the Statistics Department of the Reich, the number of mothers with four or more children declined between the middle of 1932 and the beginning of 1939 by 150,000."

Full in the German birth-rate follows the decline of the marriage rate. From the high level of 1934 (18.3 per thousand) marriages receded to 8.9 per thousand in 1937, according to Dr. Gumpert.

Heinrich Himmler, head of all Nazi police, recently urged women to have children, either in or out of wedlock. Special sponsors would be appointed for all children "of good blood born in or out of wedlock whose fathers fall in war," promised Himmler.

While the birth-rate is falling notwithstanding such pleas, says Dr. Gumpert, the mortality rate is rising. At least 80,000 more persons now die annually in Germany than before the Nazi regime. In 1937 the death-rate for infants under one year was 6.4 percent. In New York

Dewey Advocates National Plan For Farm Prosperity

LINCOLN, Neb., Mar. 2 —(AP)—Thomas E. Dewey, New York district attorney who leads the Republican presidential nomination, said last night agricultural prosperity can come only through a national plan to "improve health, vitality and balance in our entire economy."

Delivering over the radio the main address of the Nebraska Republican leadership day celebration, Dewey declared "government must first seek the advice of the farmers" rather than "the advice of statisticians and theorists. That it must act on that advice."

Dewey, describing himself as a man whose only savings are invested in a farm, told his audience of city folk and farmers, he knew of "no single source that will solve the farm problem overnight" but did outline an eight-point plan he deemed to be "part of any proper agricultural program, but only part."

1. Establish a fair parity between agricultural prices and industrial prices.
2. Provide government crop insurance at reasonable levels.
3. Adopt a broad program of soil conservation.
4. Convert sub-marginal land to

New Yorkers See Television Photos Of City From Air

NEW YORK, Mar. 2 —(AP)—Televised from the sky in the first public test of the kind ever made, New York city unfolded itself on receivers all over the metropolitan area and in Schenectady yesterday afternoon just as it looks to aviators winging over head. Results were regarded as pretty good.

Viewers sitting before eight by 16-inch receiving screens easily picked out big buildings, new automobiles speeding along the parkways, and boats in the Hudson and East rivers, looked down on the world's fair grounds and followed the skyline in the more near economical use.

5. Encourage the farm cooperative movement.
6. Continue and extend the program for marketing agreements.
7. Preserve the American market for American agriculture.
8. Broaden research in the use of agricultural products.

Lincoln was first manufactured in England by Fleming weavers in 1252.

From a view of the television from the sky came near the end of the 30-minute aerial program when views of a 31-passenger plane accompanying the camera machine were shown on the screen. A board wire newspaperman looking on a specially installed receiver. That they could see their own plane in action.

The test broadcast, designed to indicate some of the possibilities from the entertainment standpoint as well as hunting at what might be done some day in military maneuvers, was put on by the Radio Corporation of America and the National Broadcasting company in cooperation with United Airlines.

The camera plane, carried a newly developed 700-pound portable television transmitter operating on a 104-centimeter wavelength. One camera was pointed out a window, while a second was located in the baggage compartment with the door open. While intended primarily for use on the ground, the transmitter was adapted for airplane purposes.

Guffey Flays Extension Of Hatch Statute

Solon Declares Proposed Law Would Be Destructive To Two-Party System

Thomas Favors Broadened Curb

Florida Farmers Are Given Assistance, Administration Says

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9.—(AP)—Senator Guffey told the Senate today that the measure to extend the Hatch law to State employees paid partially from federal funds "would be the most destructive piece of legislation for the two party system ever written out to the books."

He said it would make possible "bi-partisan control" by the moneyed interests. After Guffey spoke, Senator Thomas urged the legislation be broadened to impose curbs on the political activities of those occupying public office and employment as well as those holding public jobs.

He said the bill would prevent political machines from perpetuating themselves. The bill's opponents hoped the vote on the act could be put off until after the regular session in order to rally the opposition.

Marionville The Administration announced yesterday Florida farmers would receive $200,000 from the farm credit program since Mar. 1, 1939.

The farm credit program, continued to the end of 1939, included loans to the Federal land banks, loan guarantee, emergency crop section, and drought-relief program. There were $5,542 such loans in Florida.

The statement said the farm security administration had loaned $5,534,188 and made grants totaling $577,800 in Florida. It showed 14,661 families had received loans in Florida, while 11,064 received them in other States.

It said 55 Floridians had received loans totaling $236,232 under the tenant purchase program. For the rural electrification program, the tables showed Floridians had received loans totaling $1,467,000. It said this would provide for 1,678 miles of power line to serve 15,711 farm homes.
