Cops seek murder suspect

SANFORD — Though dusk was approaching in the eastern part of the city, the light was sufficient for all to see who shot Antonio Williams.

Just before 8 on Wednesday evening Williams, who just celebrated his 23rd birthday last week, was riding his bicycle in the 1200 block of Mulberry Avenue, near where the Lincoln Court public housing units had once stood. Jacques Faith "D.C." Singleton approached in a small foreign car.

Witnesses told police that Singleton, 22, called Williams to the car and the two talked briefly before they saw Williams pull out a large roll of money.

A flash of light and a loud bang, followed by the squeal of tires followed so rapidly that some who saw it didn't realize what had happened.

While they saw Singleton's car speeding away, witnesses said, Williams staggered, clutching at the hole ripped in the right side of his chest, about 100 yards to an open field.

Behind him, Cmdr. Dennis Whitmire of the Sanford Police Department said, Williams left a trail of blood and blood-stained nickel baggies of marijuana.

Whitmire said police and rescue personnel responded quickly to the scene. Williams was treated and transported to Columbia Medical Center-Sanford, but he was pro-

Cut from the wreck, man survives

Octavio Nieves, 72, had to be extricated from his vehicle Wednesday, after it crashed into a brick wall near the entrance to the Seminole County Services Building on E. First Street. Sanford police said the accident, in the driveway area, was caused when Nieves veered his vehicle to avoid striking another car, and apparently hit the throttle, losing control. Nieves sustained injuries from the crash, but managed to survive.

Talented teen to Hoop It Up

SANFORD — Anthony Cofield wants to be an NBA player one day, but he knows the first thing he has to do is to stay in school. And he needs to stay off drugs and keep playing basketball at the Midway Boys and Girls Club.

Cofield has been playing basketball at the club since he was six years-old.

This weekend he will be shooting hoops, representing the Central Florida region, at the NBA Hoop It Up Slam Dunk competition in California.

"I can't wait," he said. "We leave at about 7 o'clock on Friday morning and we'll be there until Sunday afternoon."

The diminutive young man (he stands less than five feet tall) is a giant on the basketball court. Lakeview Middle School coach Willie Steele said, Principal Jim Shupe said he is equally formidable in the classroom.

"He works hard," Steele said. "He's a good student and a good player."

Shupe added, "Anthony is the kind of kid who you wouldn't expect is a good athlete, but he really is. And, in the classroom, he's a super, super student."

The 14-year-old Cofield is not one to brag about his talents. He said he

His mother has had to work hard to keep the family afloat financially, he said, but more importantly, she supports the children in all they do and keeps them on the right path, he said.

City earns rebate for efficient energy system

By MICK DEERPAUP
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The City of Sanford has recouped $30,890 of the amount paid for the installation of a thermal storage system when the heating, ventilation and air conditioning (HVAC) system at Sanford City Hall was replaced. The total amount paid by the city for the HVAC system was listed as $691,500.

The rebate was for the thermal storage unit which allows cooling energy to be used at night when cost of energy is low. The total cost of the thermal storage unit was listed as $100,000.

Public Works Director Jerry Herman said the installation of the storage unit is expected to save the city approximately $20,000 per year in utility bills.

"Additionally," he said, "we received an additional $6,000 from FPL for changing the light bulbs in City Hall to more energy efficient bulbs."

POLICE NEWS

Handgun

Sanford police arrested Johnny Willie Daniels Jr., 37, with no local address on Tuesday. Police said when they responded to a call regarding possible drug activities in the area of 15th Street and Pine Avenue, they found Daniels. They said as they approached, Daniels was seen to hide an object behind a rock. When police checked they found the object was a loaded .380 handgun. Daniels was subsequently charged with possession of a firearm.

Warrants

James Wesley Luce, 30, of 400 Locust Avenue, Sanford, was served several warrants at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility Tuesday. He was wanted on warrants for dealing in stolen property and grand theft, and for violation of probation on a previous conviction of battery domestic violence. Sheriff's deputies also served a writ of bodily attachment against him for contempt of court for failure to pay child support. Luce is one of the 56 Sanford residents listed on the recently statewide published list of "Deadbeat Parents" said to live in Sanford, and 88 in Seminole County.

Drug arrest

John Betts Aris Jr., 18, of 230 W. High Street, Oviedo, was arrested by Sanford police Tuesday at a parking lot in the 4300 block of S. Orlando Drive. The arrest came as the result of a call regarding Aris possibly being in possession of drugs. He was subsequently arrested on possession of over 20 grams of marijuana.

Retail theft

Robin W. Kratzer, 38, listed as homeless, was arrested by Sanford police Tuesday at a retail store in the 1800 block of S. French Avenue. Officers said he attempted to take a $2.99 cooked ham from the store without paying. He was charged with retail theft.

Traffic stop

Ronald O. Deviney Jr., 36, of 1561 O'Hara Street, Sanford, was stopped by deputies at 26th Street and Airport Blvd. Tuesday. He was charged with possession/use of drug paraphernalia, and operating a motor vehicle with a cancelled/suspended/revoked drivers license.

Foiled again

Sanford police are investigating what may have been a robbery attempt Tuesday at a retail store in the 300 block of French Avenue. According to the incident report, the owner of the store said he saw a person wearing a black mask, looking inside the store from the front window. When the man entered the store, police said he was seen with his hand in his pocket indicating he was in possession of a firearm. The store owner however, yelled at the man, and apparently frightened by the unexpected shouts, the possible would-be robber fled from the store without any further incident.

Sanford police reports

• An estimated $60 in rolled coins were said to have been stolen Tuesday from a retail store in the 1400 block of S. French Avenue.

• A stove and range with a total value of $357 were reported stolen Tuesday from an apartment at Geneva Gardens, in the 1500 block of W. 15th Street.

• An estimated $3,000 in various items as well as a $350 wedding ring were reported stolen Tuesday from a residence in the 300 block of McVay Drive in Sanford.

• A set of golf clubs valued at $480 were reported stolen Tuesday from a garage in the 100 block of Meadow Blvd. in Sanford.

• A man told police he was unlocking his car Tuesday in front of his residence in the 100 block of Morrison Avenue, when a man approached him from behind. He said the man struck him in the back of the head knocking him unconscious. An estimated $17 was taken from the man.

Clarification

A story regarding a Sanford police QUAD-Squad arrest on Oct. 17, in the 1500 block of W. 13th Street, listed in the Oct. 20 edition of Sanford Herald, contained the wrong local street address of Keith Palmer, the person said to have been arrested on a warrant in the State of Georgia.

The resident of the home identified in the police arrest report as Palmer's residence has reportedly informed police that he never lived at that address and she does not know him.

Astronomers find new planet outside the solar system

By PAUL ROSEN
AP Science Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. — Astronomers are baffled by a new planet that is locked into a strange egg-shaped orbit around a twin star some 70 light years from Earth.

Astronomer William D. Cochran said Wednesday that the new planet has a roller-coaster like orbit that swoops down close to its central star and then swings far out into frigid fringes, a path through the heavens that is unlike any other known planet.

"We don't understand how it could have formed in such an orbit," said Cochran, who heads University of Texas team that discovered the planet at the same time that a group from San Francisco State found it independently.

The researchers presented their discovery at a national meeting of the American Astronomical Society's planetary division. The new planet is the latest in a series of bodies found in orbit of stars outside the solar system that is part of a quickening effort by astronomers to find distant worlds.

Cochran said the planet orbits the smaller of twin stars in the constellation Cygnus, a prominent stellar grouping known as the Northern Cross. The planet's star is called 16 Cygni B, and the larger companion star is 16 Cygni A.

"Of all the stars you might see in the sky, Cygni B is the most similar to our sun," Cochran said. It has the same mass and temperature as the sun, but the nearby twin star of Cygni B creates an entirely different type of environment.

Every 350,000 years, Cygni A and B pass within 65 million miles of each other, a grazing passage by stellar standards. Cochran said the stars are so close, that the gravitational tug of Cygni A may have pulled the new planet into its wildly eccentric orbit.

It is unlikely that life exists on the new planet, said Cochran, because it probably is more like the gaseous planets, such as Jupiter or Saturn, than the rocky planets such as Earth or Mars.

Also, he said the wide-swinging orbit of the planet would cause extreme fluctuations in temperature.

During one part of its 804-day-long year, the planet would pass within 67 million miles of its sun. This would be the planet's summer, said Cochran. Then the planet would swing far out, reaching a point 158 million miles from the star. This would be its winter and it would last more than 800 days, the researcher said.

Most planets in our solar system have an almost circular orbit, like the Earth, and most theories about how planets form about stars are based on them settling into a circular orbit. The eccentric orbit of the new planet, said Cochran, adds a new dimension that astronomers will have to consider in theories about planetary formation.

The University of Texas and San Francisco astronomers found the new planet by studying the movement of Cygni B.

They discovered that the star tended to change its speed of motion in a way that could only be explained by the presence of an orbiting companion. Cygni A has no such motion, said Cochran, suggesting it has no planet.

By some counts, the new planet is the sixth to be found outside the solar system, although some astronomers say there have been up to 11 found. Cochran said the exact number is controversial because not all of the discoveries have been generally accepted as actual planets.

And there were skeptics even of the Cochran discovery. "It is a really nice piece of work" said David Black of the Lunar and Planetary Institute in Houston. "But I really question whether this is a planet or a brown dwarf."

A brown dwarf is a failed star, an object that never collected enough mass to start stellar burning. Black said it is possible that most of the extra solar system planets recently discovered are really brown dwarfs.

Lawyers promise a journey through O.J.'s tortured soul

By MICHAEL FLEISSAN
Associated Press Writer

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — Playing the character card to the hilt and describing new evidence for jurors, lawyers called O.J. Simpson a "cold-blooded killer" lurking behind an amiable face adored by millions.

As Simpson rolled his eyes, shook his head and repeatedly mouthed the words "that's not true," opposition lawyers Wednesday promised a journey through his tortured soul and troubled marriage, to go along with a rebuke of the criminal trial.

It was a carefully crafted groundwork for motive, which many believed was lost in the criminal trial because prosecutors relied so heavily on scientific evidence.

"The evidence and testimony will take you beneath the polished veneer to the sometimes dark, violent and frightening world of uncontrollable rage," plaintiff lawyer John G. Kelly said.

He was to resume his opening statement today in the wrongful-death trial, followed by remarks from lead defense lawyer Robert Bahar.

Simpson was acquitted last October in the 1994 slayings of ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman. Ms. Simpson's estate and Goldman's family are suing Simpson for unspecified damage, claiming he is responsible for the deaths.

According to Kelly, the emotional breaking point for Simpson came when Ms. Simpson dared to reject him by refusing for a second time to renew their relationship.

"Mr. Simpson's larger-than-life ego... was pierced to its core, not once, but twice, by Nicole Brown Simpson," said Kelly, representing Ms. Simpson's estate.

Kelly's remarks were the rhetorical high point in opening statements by three plaintiff lawyers. Michael Erwin gave a calm but emotional address, while Daniel Petrocelli reviewed the evidence in a thorough, businesslike manner.

Ms. Simpson's and Goldman's relatives cried. As the day wore on, Simpson appeared increasingly agitated, particularly during Kelly's statement, which focused on Simpson's often stormy relationship with his slain ex-wife.

Although the trial marks the second legal go-round in the case, plaintiffs' lawyers said they will introduce new evidence and explore issues that never went before the criminal jury, including the infamous Bronco chase and Simpson's "suicide note."

Much of the new evidence will be about Simpson's emotional state and the dynamics of his relationship with his ex-wife.

Also expected at the trial are a photo purporting to show Simpson wearing the same type of shoes worn by the killer, details from Simpson's taped police interview, and testimony that Simpson had keys to his ex-wife's back gate and knew her maid wasn't working the night of the killings.

Unveiling the plaintiff's case, Petrocelli, representing Goldman's father, Fred, said Ronald Goldman "died with his eyes open" and the last person he saw was his killer — Simpson.

Cabinet thinks price for trail land is still too high

By BILL BRUNDTSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet agreed to pay $60,000 an acre for an abandoned rail corridor to be used for a hiking trail, over the objections of top state legal and financial officials.

One no voter, Comptroller Bob Milligan, noted that the group had bought oceanfront land for $90,000 an acre in another purchase Tuesday.

"Yet we're paying $60,000 an acre for old abandoned railroad. I just have trouble with it. We got ripped off," Milligan said.

The group had tabled a proposal last month to pay $7.5 million for the 118-acre owned by CSX Transportation Inc., urging the Department of Environmental Protection to negotiate a better deal.

The vote Tuesday was 4-2 to pay $5.9 million for the 13-mile-long, 80- to 100-foot-wide strip through Seminole County.

The purchase will connect Cady Way Trail in Orange County to Spring Hammock Preserve at Lake Jesup as part of the state's Rails-to-Trails program.

Attorney General Job Butterworth, who also voted no, said no one but the state was trying to buy the land from CSX.

The state should have offered $4.5 million to $5 million, Butterworth said. "I think they probably would have taken that."

Chiles also questioned the purchase price, but applauded the trail project and voted yes.

So did Secretary of State Sandra Morham, who pointed out the $800,000 savings from the previous price.

"I feel that this is a piece of property that we are going to be able to use for recreation and we are going to be able to create jobs and economic development," Morham said.

The group tabled the earlier deal after a debate over how the land was appraised.

CSX said the DEP's own appraisers set the value using the "across-the-fence" method.

That involved finding the value of land next to the railbed and giving each segment of railbed the same per-acre price, whether the adjoining land was used for a shopping center, residential area or golf course.

Cabinet members argued that such a narrow piece of land would have little commercial value on its own.

And they said an existing golf course, shopping center or housing development probably would have little use for an adjoining strip less than 100 feet wide.

Report finds 13 percent of 15 to 17-year-olds held back in school

By BOB RICHMANN
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON — Thirteen percent of 15- to 17-year-old students in the nation in 1984 had been held back in school at least a year — about the same percentage as in 1980, the Census Bureau said today.

The report said 31 percent of these students were enrolled at lower than the normal grades for their ages, but 18 percent of them were older than their peers when they started school.

Therefore, the remaining 13 percent were retained at some time between the first and 12th grades, according to the report on the social and economic characteristics of students.

The 13 percent was not statistically different than the 11 percent of 15- to 17-year-olds the Census Bureau reported as being held back in 1980.

The report said most of the retentions occurred early in elementary school, and more than 28 percent of the students were enrolled below their normal grade by the time they had reached the sixth grade.

Recent efforts to raise academic standards have led educators to discuss grade retention and giving students tests before promoting them to the next grade. At a national education summit in New York earlier this year, President Clinton said: "No more social promotions. No more free passes."

Yet researchers say holding students back does not necessarily promote learning, and in some cases lowers their self-esteem and increases their chances of dropping out.

Teachers say the question should not be whether to hold a student back, but how to help those who aren't making the grade.

Richard Kouri, an official with the National Education Association in Texas, says he's flunked and passed students with 69 percent averages, and students don't develop equally in nine-month school years.

"This shouldn't be about punishment — 'You didn't make it so we're going to make you do it again,'" Kouri said. "This should be 'you need help and we're going to find out how to give it to you.'"

Albert Shanker, president of the American Federation of Teachers, says it's expensive to offer remedial courses and personal tutors, but costs to society are greater if students are sent into the adult world without basic skills.

The Census Bureau report also found:

—Boys tend to start school a little later than girls. Twenty-one percent of boys were below their normal grade between the ages of 6 and 8, compared with 16.5 percent of girls.

—Boys are retained at a higher rate even after discounting students who started school later than their peers. Nearly 16 percent of the 15- to 17-year-old boys were below their normal grades in 1984, compared with 9 percent of the girls. These percentages were not statistically different from 1980, the report said.

The recent check for the storage unit was presented to the city by Florida Power and Light Company as part of the company's energy rebate incentive program.

The system, now completed, was designed by Bock, Gibson and Associates, Inc., and installed by Schmitt Builders of Orlando and Air Comfort Technology, Inc., and coordinated with the city's Public Works Department.

The city also received funds earlier to study and design the replacement of the system. Herman said it was $2,500 for the study and $2,500 for the design.

The Trane Company provided the cooling equipment and automated control system. Its project manager Kimball Black installed and programmed the system in such a way as to allow the city to receive the highest rebate possible.

how to play basketball on the courts at Crooms, he said. When he was younger he just watched, but he began playing and realized he had a real talent for the game.

"I love to play basketball and I want to play in the NBA," he said. "But I know I gotta stay in school and off drugs if I want to do that."

Steele said Cofield, who plays on the intramural team at Lakeview, has great talent and hopes he'll keep working at the skills.

"He'll be great in high school (he will attend Winter Springs High School next year), I think," Steele said.

Shupe is more excited about the academic aspect of Cofield's high school career, however.

"I hope he'll keep on being on the honor roll every time," the principal said. "He's a great student."

Cofield promises to do both and said he's very excited about the opportunity to take part in the Hoop It Up contest this weekend.

"This is gonna be fun," he said.

nounced dead on arrival at the hospital.

The money witnesses had seen Williams holding earlier, however, was nowhere to be found. They assume Singleton took it. Now, Whitmire said, there remains the task of finding him.

Witnesses have offered various leads and suggestions about Singleton's possible whereabouts. Whitmire said, but so far he has not been found. He was not at his grandfather's house in Sanford nor at the homes of other relatives and friends in the area.

He had no known local address.

According to Whitmire, Singleton is known to have a crack cocaine habit. It is not known if he was attempting to purchase drugs from Williams or if he was only looking to get money from the victim.

The blue car which Singleton was driving has tinted windows, though both windows on the passenger side have been broken out. The license plate number is not known.

Singleton is described as a black male, 5'8" tall, 155 pounds, 22 years-old. He has brown eyes and closely cropped black hair. Witnesses said there were two white men in the car with him at the time of the shooting.

Discrimination in high blood pressure

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A new study says racial discrimination in treatment may partially explain the high incidence of high blood pressure among black Americans.

Blacks who typically accepted unfair treatment had higher blood pressure than those who challenged it, according to a study published today in the American Journal of Public Health.

"Individuals belonging to groups subjected to discrimination may be at a lower risk of elevated blood pressure if they are able to articulate, rather than internalize, their experiences," according to researchers at the Harvard School of Public Health and the Kaiser Foundation Research Institute.

High blood pressure, a major cause of heart disease, strokes and kidney failure, afflicts about 62 million Americans. It is a huge health risk for everyone, but black Americans get hypertension one-third more often than whites, get it earlier in life and suffer more severe health consequences.

The study, which questioned 4,000 people between the ages of 18 and 30, also found differences between black men and women and between working-class and professional classes.

Working-class blacks were more likely to have high blood pressure than professionals.

Hold Up.

Most people don't think about politics when they think about a little girl's future. But Congress has been attacking everything from the student loans that would get her a college education to the Medicare that she'll need in her senior years.

If women don't take ACT UP! this November, these shortsighted actions will continue. What's worse, when women fail to VOTE, legislators claim a mandate for their policies from the remaining electorate.

Don't let Congress count you out. Vote this November. For her and for you.

Clinton campaigns in Deep South

ATLANTA — Surprise No. 1: Less than two weeks before Election Day, Bill Clinton is campaigning in the Deep South. Surprise No. 2: Instead of ducking for cover, many Democratic candidates in the region are lining up to appear with him.

"That's a reversal from '94," summarized Merle Black, a Southern politics expert at Emory University.

Just two years ago, Clinton was a handicap for many Southern Democrats as the region propelled the Republican takeover of Congress.

Popular GOP tactics included "morphing" commercials, in which Democratic candidates were depicted transforming into Clinton, and other ads highlighted any joint appearances. One frequently run commercial for Georgia Democratic Gov. Zell Miller's opponent in 1994 showed Miller and Clinton relaxing together at the White House.

Immigration probe

WASHINGTON — Federal immigration officials have failed to prosecute, deport or even flag the computer files of aliens who buy false IDs or bribe government officials for the documents, an internal Justice Department investigation found.

And the Immigration and Naturalization Service fails to stop offenders from using these documents to obtain federal benefits such as welfare, permanent residency, permission to work, citizenship and to right bring in relatives as legal, permanent residents.

The report by the Justice Department's inspector general, completed in September, was released Wednesday by a congressional committee.

Investigators examined 36 case files and more than 2,400 aliens who benefited from fraudulent document schemes. It focused on nearly 800 aliens in New York.

"We found no evidence that INS had attempted to pursue any of the aliens who benefited from the document fraud," the report said.

Malibu, Calif. — The volatile winds that drove destructive wildfires across Southern California threatened to kick up again today, raising fears of flare-ups and new blazes.

"If a fire does start with weather like that, it's going to be a severe fire," firefighter Jeff Ziegler said. "There's a real concern, what we call a red flag alert."

A cold, dry front was sweeping into the region with Santa Ana winds expected to reach 40 mph by this afternoon. Gusts of up to 60 mph were forecast for the weekend.

Los Angeles County was to assign crews to dry, brushy areas in Malibu and the Antelope Valley north of Los Angeles on Friday to protect land where new fires might strike.

Earlier in the week, Santa Ana winds up to 71 mph created blizzard conditions that fueled wildfires that destroyed more than 100 homes and burned across 37,000 acres. The fires continued to burn today but were being gradually contained by firebreaks.

WASHINGTON — A private study challenges the conventional wisdom that women face a "glass ceiling" in the corporate world, unable to climb to the top positions.

The report, released Wednesday by the conservative Issue One Women's Forum, argues that women have not reached the top of the ladder because there is a dearth of educated and experienced women available.

"It is reasonable to expect that a woman with only seven consecutive years of work experience — a woman who might have, for example, taken time away from work to raise a family — would surpass another woman or man who has been working for 14 consecutive years?" the report asks. "In the executive suite, as in the general job market, experience pays."

Meanwhile, the number of female executive vice presidents has more than doubled in the past decade while the number of female senior vice presidents has increased by 75 percent, the report concluded.

The report, by researchers at the American Enterprise Institute and Emory University, takes aim at a 1995 report by the federal Glass Ceiling Commission.

Study says there's no glass ceiling

Substance abuse study

WASHINGTON — Welfare recipients are no more likely to abuse drugs and alcohol than the general population, according to a new study.

The findings published today in the American Journal of Public Health contradict a Columbia University study that concluded 20 percent of mothers on welfare are alcoholics or use illegal drugs.

National Institutes of Health researchers analyzed a 1992 federal survey that questioned members of 42,862 households about drug or alcohol use and welfare status.

The proportion of welfare recipients who were heavy drinkers ranged from 6.4 percent to 13.8 percent, reported Bridget Grant of the NIH's National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism. That compared to 14.8 percent of those not on welfare who admitted to being heavy drinkers, she reported.

Between 3.8 percent and 9.8 percent of welfare recipients used drugs, statistically comparable to the 5.1 percent of people not on welfare, the study found. And 1.3 percent to 5.8 percent of welfare recipients were dependent on drugs, compared with 1.5 percent of people not on welfare.

The biggest rates of substance abuse were found in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children, food stamp and Women, Infants and Children welfare programs, not Medicaid or other aid programs.

Wall Street Irked

NEW YORK — It worked for IBM and Times Mirror.

So why did Wall Street blanch when the nation's largest long-distance phone company announced it had reached for outside the telecommunications business for a leader to fix its troubles?

AT&T's stock dropped nearly 5 percent Wednesday on the news that John R. Walter — head of a company that prints the Yellow Pages — would replace chairman and chief executive Robert Allen in 1998, leading AT&T into the 21st century.

Behind the stock drop was skepticism about the company's choice of a relatively unknown outsider from commercial printer R.R. Donnelley & Sons.

Some doubted that AT&T could duplicate the success of other companies such as IBM and Times Mirror Co., which chose leaders who were dispassionate enough to make wrenching changes.

Those leaders had battled equally fierce problems in their previous businesses. But analysts were skeptical about Walter.

"I am not persuaded that John Walter's experience at Donnelley has provided him with the kind of crucible that maybe he needs to effectively guide AT&T, but I'm willing to give him the benefit of the doubt," said Scott Wright, a telecommunications analyst at Argen Research.

AT&T praised Walter, stressing that he had transformed Donnelley in much the way the phone giant needs to be overhauled.

Rabin remembered

TEL AVIV, Israel — Youths carried torches today as the Jewish state began its remembrance of Yitshak Rabin, the soldier-statesman assassinated a year ago by a nationalist Jew opposed to his efforts to make peace with the Arabs.

TV and radio programs were dominated by programs remembering Rabin and to introspection about the year of violence and discord since his slaying.

The youths in Tel Aviv marched amid heavy security from the site of Rabin's shooting at the steps of city hall to the hospital where he died some 90 minutes later. Many of the marchers carried signs decrying "Peace will avenge his blood" some held photos of the slain prime minister.

"We want to show the world that we haven't forgotten Rabin," said Mayan Kain, 17. "We want to show that we remember about peace despite everything that has happened. Look at what is happening now in the country."

The assassination occurred on Nov. 4. But according to the Hebrew calendar, the anniversary falls this year on Oct. 24, or today.

Dole seeks Perot endorsement but aide says Texan 'in race to stay'

By JOHN KANE
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON — Hoping to shake up the presidential campaign in its closing days, Bob Dole tried to persuade Ross Perot to quit the race and endorse the GOP ticket. But a Perot aide says the Reform Party candidate "is in the race to stay."

With Dole's blessing, campaign manager Scott Reed traveled to Dallas on Wednesday to make the entreaty, according to several Republican GOP sources in Washington, two senior Dole-Kemp campaign officials among them. The sources spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity.

Dole reportedly declined to answer questions on the matter.

at one point telling reporters traveling with him in Florida, "You know I have a hearing problem."

Within Dole's own campaign, there were deep divisions on the wisdom of the strategy. Some advisers suggested Dole had little choice but to seek a dramatic turn of events, while others said it was a fool's errand that would only encourage Perot to ridicule the Republican candidate.

Word of the entreaty stunned GOP operatives, including party chairman Haley Barbour.

Perot spokeswoman Sharon Holman refused to confirm the meeting took place. But she said emphatically, "Mr. Perot has no intention of quitting the race, no intention whatsoever."

Perot himself was to address the matter today at a rare campaign appearance at a National Press Club luncheon in Washington.

The appeal to Perot was evidence of the frustration within the Dole camp as the campaign entered the final 15 days with Clinton comfortably ahead in national polls and enjoying a similarly lopsided advantage in state-by-state electoral vote counts. A new NBC-Wall Street Journal poll, for example, had Clinton at 62 percent, Dole at 35 percent and Perot at 6 percent.

Dole has focused on conservative themes of late in an effort to rally GOP base voters. In Georgia on Wednesday, he promoted his support for balancing the budget and banning flag burning and late-term abortions.

But the GOP nominee has profound problems with moderate women and others in the middle of the electorate, including independents alienated from both parties who might be inclined to support Perot, even if in protest.

In the view of some Dole advisers, a Perot endorsement could swing several states in Dole's favor, especially in the Mountain West. Texas and Florida are also two traditionally Republican states where Clinton and Dole are running neck-and-neck with Perot garnering roughly 8 percent in the polls.

"Any time you can pick up a few points here or there it's worth the effort," said Florida GOP Sen. Connie Mack.

More significantly, the GOP sources said that Dole's last hope was a dramatic development would throw what for months has been a remarkably stable race into sudden turmoil.

White House aides cast Reed's mission as proof of Dole's desperation, although their eagerness in asking how Perot responded underscored their desire to keep the closing days free of surprises.

Clinton campaign spokesman Joe Lockhart said Dole's poll deficit left him little choice but to "search out votes wherever he can find them." But he said, "We believe that on the issues that are most important to Mr. Perot — the deficit, campaign finance reform — we have a stronger record."

Ironically, it was Perot's decision to quit the 1992 race just before the Democratic convention that helped boost Clinton from third place to first. Perot later rejoined the race — after inviting officials from the Bush and Clinton campaigns to travel to Dallas to seek his endorsement.

Dole decided to go forward with the call on Perot despite the Texan's unpredictability and recent bad blood between the Dole and Perot camps. It was Dole's campaign that insisted Perot be excluded from the presidential debates, drawing sharp criticism from Perot and Reform Party running mate Pat Choate.

Just what the Dole camp had to offer Perot was unclear; one Dole adviser noted the GOP candidate recently proposed a commission to draft a sweeping rewrite of campaign finance laws, and said perhaps Perot could be offered a leading role.

Several Republicans suggested Reed would not have traveled to Dallas unless he had reason to believe Perot was open to his proposal. One said Perot might be open to the idea because he is facing the embarrassing prospect of getting less than 10 percent of the vote four years after he was a major campaign force, earning 19 percent of the vote in 1992.

But Holman said flatly: "Ross Perot is in the race to stay."

Perot has mounted an unconventional campaign, making only rare public appearances and relying mostly on 30-minute television programs to promote his candidacy and his new party. The latest of those aired Wednesday night on CBS. In addition to Perot's speech in Washington today, campaign rallies are planned in Florida and Ohio in the coming days.

Judge calls Richard Jewell former suspect

By TARA MEYER
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA — Richard Jewell was described as a "former suspect" by a judge who ordered the FBI to make public its reasons for targeting the former security guard as a suspect in the Olympic bombing.

"The court concludes that the Jewell chapter of the Centennial Olympic Park bombing investigation has been closed," U.S. District Judge J. Owen Forrester ruled Wednesday. "Most of its details have now become merely a historical footnote to the ongoing investigation."

Defense lawyers for Jewell said the ruling demonstrates his innocence, although he has not been exonerated by federal investigators.

"We'll be glad to move from a headline to a footnote," Jewell lawyer Jack Martin said. "Judge Forrester is an experienced, well-respected voice at the courthouse and a former prosecutor. His instincts are worth paying attention to."

Forrester's ruling was a response to requests from news organizations to view the secret court affidavits the FBI used to gain permission to search Jewell's apartment. The judge gave the FBI five days to make the documents public.

A lawyer for the Atlanta Journal-Constitution and WSB-TV said he hoped the information would be available even sooner and that federal prosecutors would not appeal Forrester's ruling.

The FBI did not return a telephone call seeking comment.

Jewell was working as a private security guard in Centennial Olympic Park when a pipe bomb exploded before dawn on July 27, killing one person and injuring more than 100. A Turkish television cameraman died from a heart attack rushing to the scene.

Although he was the only suspect named publicly, Jewell was never charged.

In his ruling, Forrester said, "The court concludes that the government's interest in protecting an ongoing investigation would not be compromised by the release of historical information pertaining only to a known former suspect."

Martin said Jewell will probably sue some media organizations if the FBI exonerates him.

"We think the FBI and others are moving on, finally, to try to find the person who really did this," Martin said.

Fall tournament time

VolleyFest '96 opens Prep tournament schedule

By SEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Editor

LAKE MARY — With the Fall high school sports seasons winding down, most teams are getting ready for the post-season tournaments.

The first of those tournaments get underway tonight when Lake Mary High School hosts VolleyFest '96, the championship tournament to choose the best high school boys volleyball team in Central Florida.

Host Lake Mary, under first-year coach Jeanie Fisher, comes into VolleyFest as the overwhelming favorite to repeat as champions. But seven other teams are waiting in the wings if the Rams should falter.

Joining Lake Mary, the Seminole Athletic Conference champions, from the SAC will be Oviedo and Lake Howell.

Being invited from the Metro Conference were Dr. Phillips, University and Boone, while the At Large bids went to Daytona Beach-Seabreeze and Orlando-Bishop Moore.

The schedule for the tournament will be split between tonight and Saturday, taking off Friday for the football games, including Lake Mary's Homecoming game.

The tournament opens with a pair of 5 p.m. games featuring Oviedo against University and Lake Howell opposing Boone. Two more opening round games will be played at 6 p.m. with Lake Mary hosting Seabreeze and Bishop Moore taking on Dr. Phillips.

There will also be two loser's bracket games played at 7 p.m. and two winner's bracket games contested at 8 p.m.

The six surviving teams will return Saturday morning for possibly seven games starting at 8 a.m. The championship game is set for 2:15 p.m., but if the two remaining teams have one loss each, the if necessary game would be at 3:30 p.m.

Seminole High School seniors Sean Whitman (middle, jumping) and Greg Pegrum (No. 15) ended their high school volleyball careers on a winning note

Wednesday night as the Fighting Seminoles beat visiting Flagler-Palm Coast 15-7, 15-9 at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium to finish the season 13-8.

Tribe boys wind up winning season

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — The Seminole High School boys' volleyball team concluded its 1996 season in winning fashion Wednesday night at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium, but the victory was bitter sweet for the Fighting Seminoles.

The Tribe showed their promise for next year when an all-undrafted lineup went out and dumped Flagler-Palm Coast High School from Bunnell, 15-7, then the seniors finished off Seminole's 10th win in its last 13 matches with a 15-9 match clinching victory in the second game.

"The biggest disappointment this season was not getting invited to VolleyFest," said first year Seminole head coach Bill Whalen, who led the Tribe to a 13-8 record. "With wins in 10 of 13 matches, including a loss to Bishop Moore last week with two starters gone for vacation, we thought we proved we were one of the top eight teams in Central Florida, especially with David Bradley (a 6-foot-4 hitter) becoming eligible."

"I'm more disappointed for the kids than myself. I've been in my share of VolleyFests and won several as head coach, but the kids who have come on strong and improved so much, you could see the disappointment in their eyes when they knew they didn't get invited, especially when they knew they deserved it. Still it was a good season, it takes time to put in a system and to start 3-5 and finish 13-8 showed the progress we made as a team."

Yankees even up Series

By SEAN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

ATLANTA — Let the great debate begin.

Should the Atlanta Braves have pitched to Bernie Williams, or was it better to intentionally walk him with third base open and load the bases for Wade Boggs?

Braves manager Bobby Cox took one of the biggest gambles in baseball history Wednesday night, and it cost him Game 4 of the World Series.

Boggs drew a base-loaded walk with two outs in the 10th inning, forcing home the go-ahead run that gave the New York Yankees an 8-6 win and evened the Series at two games each.

Series

In the longest game in Series play - 4 hours, 17 minutes - New York overcame a 6-0 deficit to win, ensuring the teams will return to Yankee Stadium this weekend.

The Braves had not blown a six-run lead this season, and the loss set up a pivotal matchup tonight in the last game ever to be played at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium.

The score was 6-0 in the 10th and New York did not seem to have much going when Jim Leyritz grounded out and reliever Graeme Lloyd, allowed to bat for the first time because manager Joe Torre was running out of players, also bounced out against Steve Avery.

Injury disrupts sleep patterns

DEAR DR. GOTT: In August I was in a serious motor vehicle accident, and I suffered a head injury. Since then, I have almost recovered, but my sleep pattern has been disrupted...

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I suppose it is possible that a serious head injury could, in theory, disrupt the normal sleep pattern, but this consequence is unlikely, in my experience...

You may have read that sleep habits change as we age: Older people sleep less — and more fitfully — than do the young. This is probably what's happening to you...

Stay awake during the evening (until about 10 p.m.), then retire to a quiet and dark room where you feel relaxed and comfortable. Don't nap during the day...

If these simple alterations are ineffective, ask your doctor for more specific advice — or, as a last resort, maintain your present schedule and get a newspaper route.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What is exercise-induced asthma, and how does it differ from other types of asthma? Would oxygen be the appropriate treatment?

DEAR READER: Asthma is basically a constriction of the airways due to muscular contractions within the walls of the bronchial tubes.

The cause of many asthma attacks is unclear. However, doctors frequently can identify what factor led to bronchial constriction.

Exercise-induced asthma is a fascinating disorder that is surprisingly prevalent among athletes. Evidently, the act of hyperventilating during strenuous activity somehow activates the bronchial muscles to contract. Obviously, such a situation is incompatible with peak performance.

Inhaling oxygen usually doesn't help, because bronchial spasm prevents it from entering the lungs; also, oxygen does not reduce muscle spasm. A more appropriate therapy is oral bronchodilators (Proventil, Alvent and others), which dispense a measured amount of mist containing medicine that relaxes bronchial spasm.

Recently, a product was introduced specifically to prevent exercise-induced asthma. Called Servent, this bronchodilator inhaler is used BEFORE activity. Because its effects last several hours, it will usually enable athletes to function much more normally.

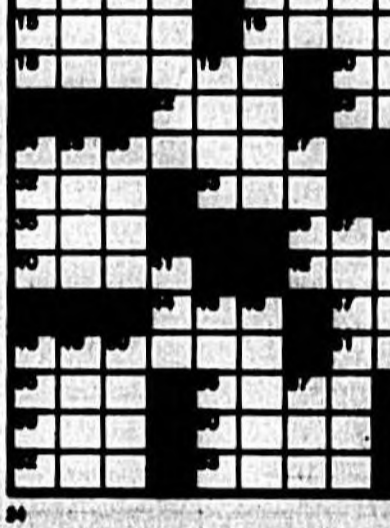

Servent must NOT be used to treat an asthma attack in progress; it is only a preventive. Those people who are interested in this prescription product should ask their family physicians about it.

The odd couple reprise

After the Summer Nationals last August, I went to London for a week. I was pleasantly surprised to see that Tony Randall and Jack Klugman were appearing in "The Odd Couple." At one point, Klugman sent playing-cards flying. The heart jack landed in the lap of a woman in the front row.

South didn't pass over four clubs doubled, because it would have spoiled a good story. East won the first trick with the diamond jack, cashed the diamond ace, and continued with the diamond five.

Bridge score table with columns for North, South, West, East and rows for various cards and scores.
