

Advice For Losing Weight Is Given By Noted Columnist

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—Do you want to lose weight?
There is only one sure way to do it. Brag it off.
You don't have to go on a prolonged starvation diet. You don't have to gulp appetite-reducing pills or consult a psychiatrist. You don't have to take sweat baths, lift barbells, or go on 20-mile hikes. All you have to do is brag. Brag, brag, brag. The pounds will roll off you magically.
I consider this a million-dollar idea in the field of malnutrition. It is my own idea. And I give it free to a calorie-conscious world as a good will gesture to corpulent mankind.
There are two kinds of people among perhaps 25,000,000 dieting Americans:
(1) The strong, silent type who keep their weight-reducing project to themselves. There are a lot of these but you never hear about them.
(2) The talkative type that insists on discussing diets with anybody and everything, including birds on the bough.
The first type gets a scientific diet from his doctor, chews his celery in melancholy solitude, drops a few pounds in lonely silence, and then gets sick of the whole business because "Who cares?" Soon he is getting whipped cream on his pork chops again and getting fatter. . . fatter. . . fatter.
The second type starts out the same way. But he doesn't lose interest. After losing a few pounds, he starts in to brag.
"I used to be as plump as a railroad roundhouse," he says. "And now already I am beginning to look like the Eiffel Tower."
The more he brags the more he wants to lose; the more he loses the more he wants to brag.
As I say, I feel I discovered this myself. I hit the scales at 204 pounds before I decided to do anything about it. I got a diet from my doctor, read all the books on the subject, and hung a picture of the late Mohandas Gandhi in my bedroom. He was my ideal plump boy.
In the beginning I guess I was the strong, silent type. I would lose a few pounds, become sick of the whole business, and eat the lost pounds back in two days. I hated to talk about my diet for fear of boring people.
One day an acquaintance bored me for two hours talking about his diet. In revenge I talked to him for a full hour about my diet. To my surprise, when I weighed myself going home, I found I had mysteriously lost a pound.
The next day I bragged to another acquaintance for another hour. The result: another pound gone.
Every day since then I have

Steel Strike

persuade the industry and union to hold new peace talks. John A. Stephens, U. S. Steel Co. vice president and a leading industry negotiator, announced Monday night that the steel firms, now back in the hands of their private owners, would "sit down with the union without delay to try to reach a fair settlement of the steel strike."
Murray, too, had suggested renewed talks but insisted that the union was still standing on Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) recommendations for a 26-cent-an-hour "package" increase in an 18-month contract. These terms have been unacceptable to the industry.
Stephens pointed out that the industry has offered 12 1/2-cent hourly pay plus about five cents an hour in "fringe" benefits, or 17 1/2 cents in all. It was understood this offer was contingent, however, on government approval of higher steel prices and was presently made out at $1.35 an hour, including overtime.
Effects of the steel strike began being felt almost immediately. The government embargoed all shipments of steel from retail warehouses to consumer goods producers. However, officials said most manufacturers have at least a month's supply on hand.
Automobile manufacturers are likely to run into trouble if the strike lasts any time. Officials said they are down to a 2-week supply. Some coal, iron ore and other mining facilities began to close because of the steel stoppage. Coal is generally in plentiful supply above ground.

Eisenhower

questions but with only partial success.
He replied at the outset to a question based on Taft's statement in a speech last Sunday that a steady deterioration of U. S. air strength began while Eisenhower was Army chief of staff.
Taft also hit out in last Sunday's radio speech at what he called "the fallacies of our land generals." One of these, the senator said, is a belief that "a war against Russia can only be won on the continent of Europe with bayonets."
Eisenhower took direct issue with Taft by stating again his view that adoption of a universal military training program by this country would lessen the chance of war. Taft, campaigning for today's South Dakota primary election, said he was very strongly opposed to UMT at this time.
Eisenhower said, however, that he doesn't see how UMT and Selective Service could be operated at the same time.
The general expressed doubt that the Russians will start a deliberate provocation war—and he said this country certainly won't start one. But he warned that "powder keg" wars may develop among satellite countries, and he declared: "We should be highly alert and mobilized."
On the air power question, Eisenhower said he wasn't in on Pentagon studies that led to the current "stretchout" of air mobilization over a period of several years.
He went on to say that the responsibility of preparing the nation's defenses "doesn't belong merely, or even most importantly, to the people in uniform—it belongs to every citizen."
Referring to his days as chief of staff, the general said "the calculations of the Pentagon brass" were not accepted by the civil authority, adding: "We would have been very properly criticized had we not accepted the decision of our superiors in government."
Mr. Truman in 1949 impounded 615 million dollars voted by Congress to build the Air Force up to 58 groups.
Again in 1950, when the question of expanding the Air Force to 70 groups was before Congress, Mr. Truman said the nation could afford only a 48-group force.
Eisenhower led up to his statement on the importance of air power with a remark about the late Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, World War I air commander, who later was "broken" for urging a separate Air Force over the objections of his military superiors.
The elder Silvernail testified Monday he lost $1,000 in a poker game in 1949 and said Lindsey was the banker. Silvernail, a well known trapshooter, said the game was played at the Bureks Shooting and Hunting Club near Ocala.
The defense argued that the case was not tried.

Steel Strike Comes At Critical Time In Civilian, Defense Economy

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK—The steel strike comes at a critical time—both in the civilian economy and the defense program.
The civilian economy is fairly balanced between the forces of inflation and deflation, with businessmen and economists alike divided as to which way it's likely to tilt. A long steel strike could be a big factor in deciding.
The defense program has been reported—both by industrialists and by the military—as lagging behind schedule (and behind Russian military production).
The American armament program is now on the threshold of what has been billed as its big step forward—tooling nearly done and volume production in the offing. But only if steel is available. That is why the government immediately froze steel stocks to end sales for civilian use.
Steelmen feel that the civilian industries have steel inventories high enough to get by for two or three weeks. After that, if the strike continues, plant shutdowns and worker layoffs might become fairly widespread. Flight at the start layoffs in the coal mines and on the railroads are in the cards.
The steel supply situation is much better, however, than it was at the start of the year. Production in the first four months of this year was at an annual rate of 105 1/2 million tons, a record.
At the same time demand for steel was easing noticeably. Auto production was below the previous year, and was held down more by a shortage of copper than any scarcity of steel. Home appliance production was greatly curtailed, due to slow sales, not steel shortages. Industrial plant expansion, now at its peak, is expected to taper off from now on.
Steelmen have been predicting that by fall demand and supply would be in full balance, and by the end of the year supply would exceed demand. That timetable will not depend, of course, on the length of the strike.
Talk was heard that steel con-

Meeting Is Held By Christian Scientists

BOSTON, Mass. (Special)—Spiritual understanding alone can pierce today's corruption in government and world confusion and lead mankind to lasting safety and security, the Christian Science Board of Directors said today.
About 7,500 Christian Scientists from throughout the world heard the Directors' special message at the annual meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.
The Directors said that human ingenuity alone will never solve mankind's deepest problems. But they added that the means for right adjustment are spiritual and are immediately available.
"Not numbers nor human might but Truth—spiritual understanding—is the power that will mold the world's destiny," they declared.
Named President of The Mother Church for the coming year was Lt. Col. Robert Ellis Key of London, England, associate editor of the Christian Science religious periodicals. He has been active in the religion for more than 40 years, including service as practitioner, lecturer and authorized teacher.
"The keynote of this century is not chaos but Christ," Col. Key told the huge crowd. "War and destruction have been associated with the first half of the twentieth century, but progress and spiritualization will mark the succeeding years."
"The old materialism must be replaced by a spiritual concept of creation," he added.

the tax claim.
Udell recently was indicted in Delaware in connection with the income tax case, Williams said, adding:
"It was not until after the tax case of Mr. Udell had been exposed in the Senate on Feb. 28, 1951, that the Justice Department took any action toward securing an indictment."
On Feb. 28, Williams told the Senate the government was moving against Udell in the income tax case in 1948 but that Numan entered the case on Aug. 8 of that year and since then the case "has been allowed to gather dust."
Nunan has denied any wrongdoing. When called before a House committee probing the tax bureau, he declined to answer a number of questions on the ground of possible self-incrimination.
At one point during the committee quizzing of Numan May 5, the former Internal Revenue Bureau chief was asked whether he thought there were "any possible crimes for which you could be indicted."
"Yes, sir," he replied. "I think there are." He did not elaborate on the statement.

By SAM DAWSON NEW YORK (U)—The real boss of many a business is to be honored come Wednesday. For that is Secretaries Day.

The mental equipment of secretaries also has been looked into jointly by Harvard's department of social relations and the Mount-Ricker Corp. They report: The ideal one is a happy, efficient young woman who has a well-rounded education and a good personality.

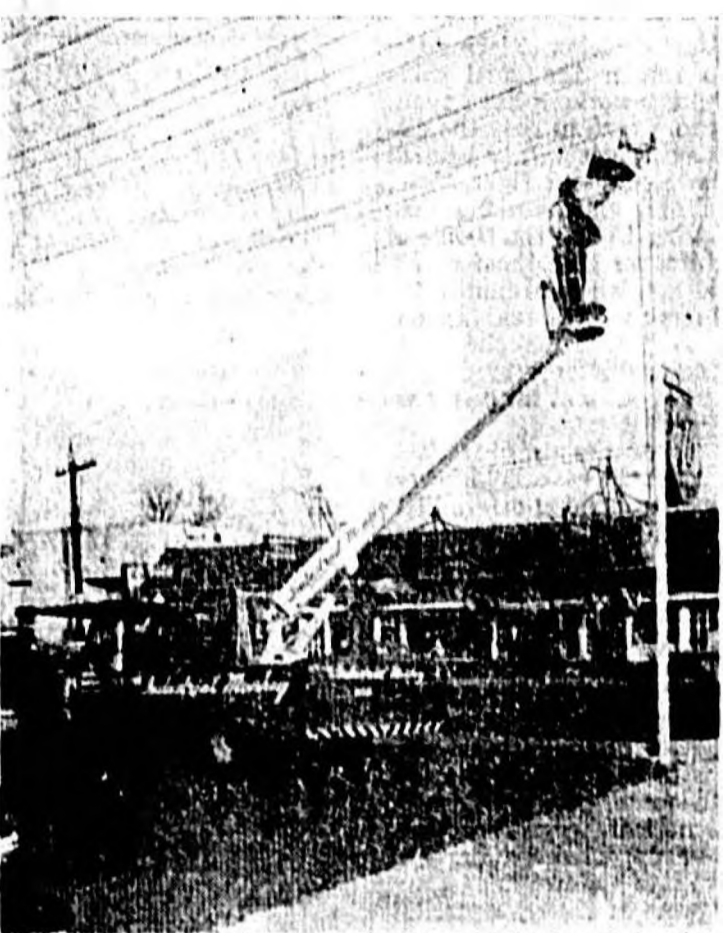

odious comparison between the mental stature of women and men and reports that women can do more mental work than men in a given time and do it more accurately.

To which the chairman of the National Secretaries Week Council, C. King Woodbridge, president of Dictaphone Corp., adds: "Secretaries of today are considered more intelligent than those of 1902."

West Coast secretaries have the widest hips—two inches wider than the national average. New York secretaries have the narrowest—but the most generous bust measurements. Texas secretaries, on average, are the longest waited—about an inch and a half longer than the nation as a whole.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

Out of these captive slaves a great people emerged. Their numbers sunk lower and lower every generation and are now ragged desert rats. Then I came to them of the captivity of Tel-Abib, that dwelt by the river of Chebar.—
Ezekiel 3:16.

When the Sons of Confederate Veterans met in Jackson, Miss. the other day, only one real Confederate veteran was among them.
William Townsend of Ocala, La., 106 year old veteran, wounded in the siege of Vicksburg, answered to roll call, and then sat alone with his memories of the struggle between the North and South of 90
years ago.

General Eisenhower has returned from the wars in Europe to the political battlefields in this country and we are afraid before it is over he will wish he was back in the comparative safety of the Normandy beachhead. But the hazards he encounters are not the risk to life and limb which come from exploding shells or machine gun bullets but the loss of reputation which results from the mud of political bombshells. Heretofore, everyone has admitted that General Eisenhower was a man of character, honesty and decency; now
he will be charged with being a thief,
a liar and a rogue, and many will believe.

The priceless paintings, books,
antiques and other heirlooms belonging to the estate of the late General Henry S. Sanford, founder of this city and former ambassador to Belgium, are being offered to the people of Sanford and Seminole County by his daughter Mrs.
Carola Sanford Dow if a suitable building in which to house them can be provided. A conservative estimate of the value of this collection is $100,000, but actually no price can be put on some of the items. Who can say what an original painting by Louis Gallait
may be worth? But it seems to us that any time we can get a $100,- 000 gift in return for a $20,000 building, it is a good business to accept it.

If the minority opinion in the steel case had prevailed, the decision would have set President Truman up on a pedestal above the laws of the land. You and I would have had no right to exceed the speed limit, or to violate the income tax laws, or to seize another's property without due process of law, but President Truman would. And if he could do that, he could send his strong arm men to your home, arrest you in the dead of night without a warrant, and keep you in jail indefinitely without formal charges being made against you or giving you a fair trial by a jury of your peers. The President, in effect, could have done anything he might want to do, and nobody, no Congress, and no law could stop him. This time he happened to be on the side of labor. The next time he might be against labor.

There is a certain type of human trait, usually found to be most prevalent among those persons having little or no skill in physical processes, which compels them to burlesque remarks and catcalls from passing cars at persons engaged in pursuing the grand old game of golf. This sort of thing is innocent enough for the golf player is probably too concentrated on his game
to hear the raspberries directed his way, and we only mention it in order to point out how commonly off the beam anyone is who thinks golf is lacking in "be-man-staff" and is played primarily by professionals. Top flight golf is played by amateurs and persons

The Steel Decision

As a result of the Supreme Court decision ordering the President of the United States to return the steel mills to their rightful owners, the CIO steel workers have gone out on strike, and it now appears certain that the dispute which originally revolved around wages will be carried out to the bitter end in a knock-down drag-out fight.

The strike comes at an exceedingly embarrassing time for this country. Just as we are trying to sell the people of the world the American Way of Life, we give them an example of how it works which could not fail to prejudice the most kindly disposed foreigners against us. Just as our civilian economy is beginning to recover from the early shock of the Korean conflict, and as our defense production goes into high gear, the most essential element in the manufacture of either automobiles or tanks is frozen.

But whatever the consequences of the decision, it is hard to see how the Supreme Court could have held otherwise than it did. Certainly the minority opinion offers little hope that the free enterprise system could be preserved under a President who is restricted in no way either by the Constitution or the laws of the land. To suppose that man's self-discipline alone is sufficient to prevent self-aggrandizement is to fly in the face of all the lessons of history.

Nor need it be assumed that because the President does not have the power to seize the steel industry, the country has no defense against the destructiveness of strikes whether due to the selfishness of labor or the intransigence of management. Proper recourse is to be found in the law, and if present laws are found inadequate, new laws can be passed. That is the traditional American way. Those who say that the President himself, unsupported by any law, has the power to take such matters into his own hands, are, whether they realize it or not, followers of Hitler, Mussolini, and Stalin.

Worth remembering are the words of Justice Douglas himself, who in concurring with the majority wrote, "Today a kindly President uses the seizure power to effect a wage increase and keep the steel furnaces in production. Yet tomorrow another President might use the same power to prevent a wage increase, to curb trade unionists, to regiment labor as oppressively as industry thinks it has been regimented by this seizure".

Eisenhower's Return

The arrival of General Dwight D. Eisenhower in the United States will intensify interest in the campaign for the Republican nomination for President. Some observers believe that the general's return will help his cause; others are of the opinion that he might have been better off remaining in Europe until the Republican convention meets.

Those who believe that Eisenhower aided his cause by returning home point out that voters will now have a chance to hear him speak and to see him on the several television and personal appearances scheduled before the convention. His return put his name before the public in a fashion likely to impress voters.

Those who believe that Eisenhower's homecoming may prove damaging to his presidential aspirations point out that he is now free of military responsibilities and should also be free to speak out on the issues of the day. Eisenhower's opponents reason that any stand he takes on labor policies, foreign and domestic affairs is likely to cost him convention support.

The battle for the leadership of the Republican party is now clear cut. The two main contestants, Senator Robert A. Taft and General Dwight D. Eisenhower are both in the United States, both available for questioning by the press. The old military campaigner faces a veteran political campaigner and all the voters will watch the battle with keen interest.

Long Hold Of Communism

President Truman told a group of Americans of Romanian descent that the time may come in their lifetime when Romania will again be a free nation if his policies of making the United States and the free world strong are carried out. The group had come to Washington to inform the President of the relocation and deportation of Romanian old people and children in a Communist reign of terror.

It was natural that the President should wish to give those concerned with the fate of Romania a bit of hope. It is always a temptation to offer an optimistic approach to those who are distressed. But there are situations where unfounded optimism offered by the United States renders a disservice to unfortunate people under Communist rule.

Short of armed intervention by the United States there seems little chance that the Soviet satellites in Europe will regain their independence in one generation. Internal revolts by people within these countries might lead only to needless and futile bloodshed.

The time may come when the Communist system of enslaving other peoples will crumble because of its own internal corruption. But predictions of when that time will come may only serve to increase the misery of those who must live under Communist domination.

Steel Crisis

dustry to prevent a strike on April 8, but last Monday the Supreme Court ruled the seizure unconstitutional.

The union promptly went out on strike.
Maybank told the Senate his Banking Committee, which recommended extending wage-price controls until March 1, had not yet seen his amendment.

The controls expire June 30 unless extended by Congress.
Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) demanded that Maybank send the amendment to the Banking Committee
for quick hearings.

"It may have very meritorious features, and then again it may not," Capehart said.
Maybank resisted that suggestion and told the Senate "I know management is not going to like

it and I know labor is not going to like it. But I like it in my own conscience."

Taft said he saw no material advantage in the Maybank plan except that it possibly would provide more time for fact-finding than the Taft-Hartley Act. He said that in many places the amendment seemed to follow the Taft-Hartley Act's principles.

Sen. Holland (D-Fla.) praised Maybank for offering the proposal and said the amendment "has the earmarks of a just approach."

Taft demanded to know "what possible change in the legal situation" would result from enacting the Maybank proposal and super-seding the Taft provisions.

There are many similarities, Maybank conceded, but he insisted his suggestion would fill a necessary gap. "This board," he said,
"has a right to make findings
which the Taft-Hartley Act doesn't provide."

SANFORD, FLORIDA

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL KAY

Lucky Leesburg does not have to depend on watermelons for her fame and progress for she also is the hub of the citrus concentrate industry.

Three and a half years ago
Florida's struggling, newborn citrus concentrate industry entered Lake County and operated a successful trial. Things looked mighty bright until Minute Maid came into the picture and changed the situation.

Last week the First National Bank of Leesburg played host to Minute Maid officials in tribute to the miracle they had performed in bringing order out of chaos and turning a $67,114 dollar loss into a successful operation and a profit of a million and a half dollars.

All Florida benefited by this amazing achievement for it made Wall Street sit up and take notice and put Florida on the map
as a fertile field for industrial investment.

The remarkable story is told in the annual report of Minute Maid Corporation to the citrus growers of Florida, and the facts and figures reach down into the financial consciousness and local pride of Florida's vast citrus empire.

Before the timely entry of Minute Maid into Florida's citrus picture the future of citrus looked dark indeed. With a steadily expanding production growers were sweating it out to find a profitable market.

The story of Minute Maid Corporation in establishing the Cincinnella industry of frozen citrus concentrates is too well known to need repetition, but the report of H. R. Cloud, corporation vice-present, throws additional light on the magnitude of the future that is highly significant in Central Florida's economy. At the same time his interesting tabulations of Minute Maid's participation in the financial welfare of hundreds of individuals, wage earners and growers, is even more impressive.

"In spite of the natural increase in sales," writes Cloud, "Minute Maid feels it highly important to continue aggressively its sales promotion and advertising which in the past have brought marked results in the sales of frozen orange concentrate."

"With a crop of 94 million boxes of oranges available for 1952-53 season, it is apparent that we will need a much broader market for all orange products in order to move the crop of future years."

These words envision a huge task of salesmanship, but apparently Minute Maid has girded itself for the job when Cloud says,
"In predicting the future, we possess no knowledge of coming events that is not available to everyone. We do know that we have skilled technicians, loyal and capable production employees (89% of this year's seasonal employees have worked for Minute Maid previously); an aggressive sales staff; a forward looking management plus a well planned advertising and merchandising

program.
How Minute Maid went about
the task of doing almost $30,000, 000 worth of business the past year is indicated by their activities in Central Florida. At three plants—Plymouth, Leesburg and Davenport—the corporation employed a total of 956 people who collected wages totaling $2,262, 783.39—(there were base wages,
cost-of-living-bonus and production bonus).

Florida citrus growers sold more than $11,000,000 worth of their oranges to Minute Maid at an average price of nearly $2.00 per box.

In other words Minute Maid
pumped something over $18,000, 000 into the economy of Florida.
In addition to approximately $15, 000,000 paid to its suppliers of cans, cartons, fertilizers, grove equipment, etc.

These are figures of one century only, figures which are duplicated in a similar manner percentage-wise by many other great citrus-producing centers and organizations throughout the state.
They constitute a salutory object lesson, and an encouraging
one, to every resident of citrus Florida as related to what we may expect in the future.

While growers may feel that citrus production is not all sweetness and light and content that their share of the profits is mighty low, a recent survey of what happens to the citrus concentrate dollar is enlightening
since it shows that the grower receives 19 percent, the concentrator 26.7 percent, transportation 5.5 percent and the wholesaler and retailer 48.8 percent.

But we should consider the fact that if concentrates had not entered the picture growers would have been thrown for a tremendous loss for they would have found it difficult to find a market
for their fruit otherwise.

CITRUS MUTUAL
VERO BEACH (AP)—Indian River
citrus growers Tuesday said they backed Florida Citrus Mutual's
new general manager, Hob Tut-ledgen, and especially his pound selling program.

The Fifth District growers re-elected A. H. Michael, Wabasso, to Mutual's board of directors.
Others elected were W. G. Strickland, Vero Beach, to succeed W.
M. Ansel Jr., Fort Pierce; and
H. C. Brady and J. J. Parrish,
Jr., both of Titusville.

About 99 percent of U. S. children between the ages of 6 and 11 were enrolled in schools during the 1950-51 term, says the Encyclopædia Americana.

Britain Joins U.S. In Protest Over Korean Politics

Syngman Rhee Asked To Lift Martial Law In Pusan Area

PUSAN, Korea (AP) — Britain today joined the United States in protesting to President Syngman Rhee over recent political developments in this temporary South Korean capital.

Alec Adams, charge d'affaires, orally outlined the British position to Rhee, then handed the acting leader a written note. Earlier he told correspondents the statement backed up the policies of the U.S. State Department given there in a note Tuesday.

The American embassy also handed Rhee a note from President Truman which called recent political developments in Pusan shocking.

Informed sources said the British and U.S. notes expressed the views on the South Korean political crisis as the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea. The commission recently asked Rhee to lift martial law in Pusan and release 12 opposition assemblymen under arrest.

The U. N. representatives voiced the opinion Rhee was attempting to control the presidential election in the Assembly late this month by jailing his opponents.

Rhee softened his policy today, apparently as a result of the double barreled protests from the U.S. and Britain.

A government Public Information Office announcement said Rhee would not dissolve the National Assembly now. Earlier he was reported on the verge of dissolving it.

Also at Rhee's order, military authorities released a newspaper editor who had been arrested after criticizing the government.

Martial law authorities were ordered not to arrest any more assemblymen not directly involved in what Rhee has called a "Communist plot" against his administration.

The Assembly went out of business Tuesday when 32 pro-Rhee members announced they no longer would work with lawmakers they labeled "corrupt."

Rhee and a majority of the assemblymen have long been at odds.

MUNSAN, Korea (AP) — United Nations and Communist truce negotiators today exchanged strongly worded notes on prisoners of war.

The Reds backed their wish for a renewed threat that Red armies in Korea might march.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il laid out the Panmunjom conference table a written protest against what the Reds termed "barbarous and cowardly" treatment of captured Reds on Koje Island.

He reminded the Allies of earlier warnings that Red armies would not lift while Communist soldiers are "manacled."

Major Gen. William K. Harrison Jr. demanded that the Reds "with out further delay" account for nearly 1,000 United Nations soldiers believed captured by them.

The senior U. N. Command delegate's note listed 91 names, mostly Americans, to add to 895 names compiled by the U. N. since December.

The notes will not be made public. Allied officers said, to avoid raising false hopes among relatives.

The 34 minute session produced no progress toward settlement of the truce-blocking issue of what to do about 100,000 captured Reds which Allied screening showed refused to be repatriated in the event of an armistice. Only 70,000 Allied-held POWs have said they would return to Red soil without a fight.

The Communists demand that all their captured soldiers be returned. The Allies say no one will be forced to return.

At Communist insistence, another session is scheduled Thursday.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nichols, U. N. spokesman, said the Allies since December have been compiling names of Allied soldiers captured by the Reds but never accounted for by them. He said the names were obtained from Red broadcasts, letters, Communist publications and confidential sources.

SEOUL (AP) — Allied fighter-bombers attacked North Korean targets in force today. Bains Tuesday had cut down air assaults to only a few sorties.

Seven B-26s bombed Communist front-line positions in early morning darkness after heavy clouds obscured targets farther north.

Gen. B-26s reported 22 supply vehicles destroyed in the night.

The rains muddled the 123-mile ground front.

Allied tanks southwest of the Munjan truce camp caught about 73 Chinese in the open Tuesday afternoon and reported killing or wounding about 80. The tanks spotted the Reds near the junction of the Imjin and Han Rivers and fired from the opposite bank.

Gen. Mark Clark, United Nations commander, and Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army chief, said the battle front this morning after finishing a tour started Tuesday.

It was Clark's first visit to the front.

The radio remained on the air despite the bloodless blockade and continually denounced the British for "an illegal provocation" which would "receive its deserved rebuff."

The British have not indicated how long they intend to maintain their blockade but unconfirmed reports said the Communists have enough supplies for a long holiday.

"This area is a critical zone in this respect," he declared this morning, "and records are needed to know what to do in the next 20 years to conserve the fresh water supply." He added that for $1,500 a year, the County is getting the service worth $6,000.

The Commission donated $200 for the Negro Boy Scout Camp near Paola, ordered a new water cooler for drinking purposes at the County Jail, and designated the Sanford Atlantic National Bank, Florida State Bank and Citizens Bank, Ovidio, as depositories.

runners for the GOP nomination, before the July 7 National Convention. The winner would get not only 14 votes but a springboard into the crucial convention floor battles.

Not counting Tuesday's results, the Associated Press tabulation of GOP delegate strength—based on known and conceded alignments—gives Taft a 420 to 387 lead over Eisenhower.

Among Democrats, Sen. Estes Kefauver bowled over rival uncommitted states by 2 to 1 margin in South Dakota and California Tuesday. The lanky Tennesseean thus picked up eight votes in South Dakota and 68 in California.

These—his 150 he already had and 18 previously pledged Maryland delegates named Tuesday at a convention—ran Kefauver's total to 244 in the Associated Press tally of Democratic delegates. Nearest him is Georgia's Sen. Richard Russell with 86½, followed by Mutual Security Administrator W. Averell Harriman with 83½.

IGNORANCE IS BLISS
ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — A man who said he didn't know Virginia residents had a great federal income tax has been convicted of failing to file on $28,540 income for the years 1948-50.

Dr. Victor L. Meyers, 55, Alexandria chiropractor, told Federal District Court Tuesday he had not filed federal returns since moving to Virginia in 1921.

He said he had been told by a friend that if he moved to Virginia he wouldn't have to pay federal taxes.

COST OF OPERATION
WASHINGTON (AP) — All it cost you to operate the steel mills while they were under government seizure was the price of a series of telegrams and phone calls.

Officials said today no cost estimates have been made yet for the eight weeks of government operation, but they said the only added cash outlays will be for two rounds of steel to the steel companies—one supplying them of the seizure and the other calling it off.

The Commerce Department was in technical charge of the steel industry but operations actually were carried on by steel industry management and workers throughout as if nothing had happened.

Senate Rejects Plan Over WSB Powers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today rejected a proposal to retain the present 3-way membership of the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) and the board's dispute-settling powers. The rollcall vote was 58 to 25.

The vote was on an amendment to a bill to extend the economic controls law and was offered by Sen. Douglas (D. Ill.).

Under the plan set forth by Douglas, the board would continue to have members representing labor, industry and the public.

It would also retain the board's power to recommend terms for settling strikes.

The Senate action leaves still pending a rival proposal to bounce labor and industry members off the board and to strip it of its power to recommend settlements.

President Truman has urged rejection of that plan.

BUS STRIKE

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — Bus drivers today voted a 20-day truce in their strike which has halted the Jacksonville bus transportation system for more than a month.

Flood Waters

Truman Plans To Visit Demo- cratic Convention

But President Won't Go Until After Nom- ination Is Made; No War This Summer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman said today he will attend the Democratic National Convention after it has chosen its presidential nominee and he will not go until after the nomination is made.

The President added that he'd like to attend the whole Chicago convention but won't do so because his presence might create a disturbance.

Mr. Truman was told at his news conference some Republicans have said he is engaged in a "diabolical" plot to get the nomination for himself.

This he denied and said such charges usually originate in warped minds.

On Wednesday's statement by Dwight D. Eisenhower that the Democrats have been in power too long, Mr. Truman replied it is up to the people to decide that.

He declined further comment on Eisenhower's opening campaign speech saying he is not at all interested in the Republican pre-convention race.

Likewise, Mr. Truman declined to get into the controversy between Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft over Eisenhower's air power views. He said with a grin that the GOP's quarrels please him very much but he's not going to get into them.

On other matters today, Mr. Truman said:

—He does not plan to send any legislation dealing with the steel strike, and he won't comment on the possibility of invoking the Taft-Hartley Act.

—He has no comment, and never will have a comment, on the Supreme Court's ruling that his signature of the atomic energy law is illegal. A reporter recalled his previous statement that nobody can take away his powers of signature in an emergency, and asked if he would initiate Mr. Taft's bill, which would be passed at a later date.

—He doesn't expect war to break out in Europe this summer. He said the President said, he would let his own people and a friend go through with his proposed European tour.

—The Democratic Party surmounted difficulties in 1948 and he expects it to do so again. This he said in reply to a newsmen who asked if he thought the victory of Republican Sen. Knowland in California's Republican and Democratic primaries meant the end of California's fight against the administration's foreign policy.

Mr. Truman's acceptance of an invitation to visit McGrath caused a buzz of speculation in the capital.

So did his agreement to talk over the party outlook this afternoon with Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, a leading contender for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The President told newsmen there is no political implication whatever in his forthcoming week-end visit to California, which will be a top-level row over the corruption in government investment.

Mr. Truman said his visit to McGrath would be purely a social occasion.

As for Kefauver, for whose candidacy he has shown no enthusiasm, the President said he didn't know what the senator would talk to him about this afternoon.

KIDS OF AMERICA

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman has agreed to honorary citizenship of the Kids of America Blood Bank, but he has refused to sign an invitation to give a plot of his own blood for the bank in Korea.

"I think you will find that the blood of a 21-year-old man is not fit for the boys," Mr. Truman told 12-year-old Jimmy Carrick, Pittsburg, Pa., who extended the invitation Wednesday. The President said that this is the view of doctors.

Young Carrick visited the White House as "Kid of the Year," having been chosen in a competition sponsored by the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce and the "Kids and company" television program.

CHARGES DISMISSED

HOLTON, Kan. (AP) — Bank robbery charges have been dismissed against Albert Johnson, 23, who stood in the pulpit of a Topeka, Kan. church May 4 and confessed participation in the robbery.

The 1953 holdup of the bank at Topeka occurred two years ago. District Judge Robert H. Kaul dismissed the charges against Johnson under a Kansas law requiring prosecution for a crime to be instituted within two years of its commission.

At the time of his public confession, Johnson said he had been directed by God to give himself up to the police. He said he had a desire to become a

Success Of Army's Negro Integration Plan Is Described

Major Walter Turner, Sanford, outstanding Korean war veteran, told the Junior Chamber of Commerce today the Army's experiment in integrating Negro combat troops with white fighting units has proved successful.

"Being a Southerner, I was viewed with skepticism the proposed plan to integrate the colored troops with the white units," he commented.

The Army's previous experience with all-Negro units had proved them poor fighters during night defense, though in daylight attacks they were fine, he added.

Turner described the successful results of mixing the colored troops with the white units by stating, "Through carefully planned assignments the Army found that the Negro soldier proved efficient and was accepted by white soldiers once he had displayed his willingness to fight. As long as I was at the front, we never had a single case of friction between the two groups of soldiers."

Major Turner admitted that the Reds in Korea are stronger now and better equipped than they were at the beginning of the Korean conflict but he said we are thoroughly entrenched along the entire 150-mile frontier and there is no longer that "fluid" front existing between the two forces.
