Appliances Help Bride Become A Better Homemaker

From the moment she announces her engagement, the bride-to-be enters a new domain. No signs indicate it's for "brides only" but the world of showers, fittings, innumerable shopping trips, flowers and nerves is as much a part of marriage American-style as the double ring ceremony. Researchers at The West Bend Company, leading cookware and small appliance manufacturer, know that today's young moderns are gregarious, party-giving people. If a prospective bride heads your gift list, choose a gift that will be both practical and versatile, one that can accommodate a crowd as well as just the two of them.

Consider a multi-purpose Country Kettle that provides "dial-a-meal" entertaining for all occasions, indoors and out. The perfect companion to a party or tete-a-tete, the electric food cooker will win the heart of every woman at the shower.

from bride to great-aunt. The cooker has a Fired-On No-Strike interior, and an exterior finished in durable porcelain enamel. It comes in either avocado, harvest or paprika.

Another electric cooking appliance that will "turn the trick" is a Country Skillet. Available in generous 12-inch size, the skillet doubles as a party server. It offers attractive buffet styling, automatic, controlled temperatures, and matches the Country Kettle.

What's a party — any party — without hot coffee? Even if the party moves outdoors to the patio, downstairs to the rec room or from one room to another, the hostess can tote along piping hot coffee the easy way in an Insulated Party Perk. Available in a variety of colors plus new "Crazy Daisies" design, the West Bend perk keeps beverages at serving temperature for hours without electricity.

Plug it in, brew 12 to 30 cups of everyone's favorite beverage, then take this attractive coffeemaker wherever the fun is. An added bonus: The Insulated Party Perk keeps lead beverages at their proper temperature. Is your ingenious turn-of-housewife just a kid when it comes to popcorn? Most everybody is. A new "See 'n Serve" corn popper now lets you watch kernels pop through a clear plastic dome. When corn is popped, flip the popper over and serve from the dome cover which has now become a handy 4-quart server. Unit shuts off automatically, and the new popper's generous size allows preparation of party-sized quantities quickly and conveniently.

Help Is Plentiful Furnishing Home

A gift for the home will have a look of luxury to delight any bride if you make it of Glenoid pile fabric. Furthermore, you'll have the jump on professional designers of furniture and home accessories, for they have many new items with Glenoid fabric in work for next year's homemaker collections. And, best of all, there's a wealth of color in the fabrics at your local fabric store.

The young trend for large pillows to pile up on one side of the living room until guests come and then distribute for extra seats is very marked. These are great for young couples budgeting their furniture purchases.

Decorative work in colors — if you don't know the recipient's preferences, find out somehow before you purchase the fabric. A couple with tastes that run to the muted will adore you for a taupe bedspread and recliner from a neon one — and those who like accents of bright and bold hues would much prefer orange to beige or grey.

If you do a crib cover for a child, try to pick a neutral pastel — any but the blue or pink — so more than one child can benefit from your handiwork.

Does anyone on your bridal gift list hanker for a luxurious, real home accent? Why, then, a wall hanging will hit the spot and be cherished for many a year. Do it in style, though — pick a color from the family favorites — white, or purple or ruby red. Cut it into a shield shape and mark off a pattern with braid that has a hand made look.

Veratile gift One of the most versatile of gifts for any family, a lap-robe-size throw, serves a multitude of purposes and is a snap to make. Just cut to size and bind off or trim with braid and there it is! Use it in the car, or at home for a chair throw.

Make that throw bed-cover size, and you have a great gift that doubles as a blanket. Add a couple of pillow shams of matching size and you have really made a luxurious gift.

If a prospective recipient of your styling efforts happens to be a rocker buff — and their number is legion — do a cushion for the seat and one for the back with tie cords and you have made a fine present. If you've noticed the piano stool comes out for company in a home and you have another top, make that throw bed-cover size, and you have a great gift that doubles as a blanket.

Nostalgic, modern treasures unified by wall of accessories. Many newly married couples, today, wish to bring into their new homes treasured possessions symbolic of the past. It isn't only widows or divorcees who are reluctant to dispose of things they love but the well-established bachelor and widow, as well. Starting a new home all over again means putting it all together, and that can be a job. Even if she opts for traditional and his bent is modern, the two styles can be harmoniously mated. For instance, one young woman prized her French sofa and wouldn't dream of parting with her carved Tyndale candlestick lamp, while he spent years loving his perfect chrome framed glass-top coffee table. Furnishing from scratch would have been far too dear in both senses. The solution was ideal, they combined their tastes.

Now, her traditional designs show off well with his modern table placed proudly in front. And to unify it, new modestly priced Syroco wall accessories were chosen in both contemporary and traditional designs.

AROUND THE CLOCK By John A. Spolaki

It's funny... I received two calls-in-a-row this morning, where the caller brought to my attention some of their problems (and mine too, I guess), and after getting my blood pressure up to rise, they concluded the call with, "Have a pleasant day, John...". Yeah, and you too, sister!

TWO ESCAPE SERIOUS INJURY LINDA K. COWDER, 22, Lake Monroe, and her three-month-old son, Raymond, suffered superficial injuries Thursday afternoon when her sports car struck a power pole and overturned on 25th Street, near Hardy Avenue. Sanford firemen extinguished a blaze which ignited when the fuel tank over-spilled. (Additional accident photos on page 3A.)

Folks at Casselberry say, "It just ain't so!" When Jai Alai Fronton management says they gave $50,000 to all of the area fire companies, whenever any of them had a fund drive. Casselberry never solicited for donations. According to these folks, the only time they approached Jai Alai was to see if they wanted to enter a float into that city's Christmas Parade; and if not, did they want to contribute to a holiday party for all of the children of that area. Understand it was declined on both counts. Something gigantic happened on May 9th, and you're probably not even aware of it, now are you? According to calculations of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, that was when "Mr. Taxpayer" earned enough this year to pay his federal, state and local taxes over the 12-month period. Then he will spend the next few months to pay for his 1972 groceries. That's he can begin paying for his shelter. That's about the time most of us run out of months and start working on the tax bill again.

Straw Ballot Leaves No Doubt The Sanford Herald's "straw ballot" on two highly controversial local issues — the 45-15 all year school plan, and the question of whether the people of Sanford should be given the opportunity to vote in a choice of City Commission residency districts leaves little doubt in the minds of our readers. More replies are expected in later mail deliveries to The Herald. However, with those received as of this morning, there were only four who were in favor of the proposed 45-15 school plan; 23 opposed to same and three others who expressed the view that they needed more information on the subject. On the question of "Should the people of Sanford be given the opportunity to vote in December on whether residency districts should be set up for members of the Sanford City Commission", a margin of almost four to one exists in favor of the vote. There were 29 who said "Yes" to the question and eight who voted "No."

Questions And Answers On City Districting Plan

Sanford City Commissioner Julian Stenstrom, one of the three commissioners who voted to keep the question of city districting off the December city election ballot, today issued the following statement outlining why he voted against placing the issue on the ballot: "When I voted Monday night not to place the districting issue on the ballot I did so because I have yet to see a specific plan for an amendment to the Charter. To say, 'Let's divide the City into districts,' is one thing. How you do it is something else entirely.

For example, how many districts? Should districts be created by population, precincts or registered voters? Will the entire electorate vote on each candidate or will each district elect its own commissioner? Would a citizen register a complaint only to his own commissioner or would he have access to commissioners in other districts? Which district would get paving and drainage before other districts? Would commissioners resort to vote swapping to get various projects in their respective districts? These questions could go on and on but they would lead to one final question: Would districting be regressive? I believe it would, and districting would eventually lead to ward politics. Editor's note: George Crossley, in a letter to Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce stationery, submitted the following proposal to the Sanford City Commission on April 4: ("The legislative and national affairs committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce respectfully request the board of Sanford City Commission to consider submitting the following proposition to the electorate of Sanford in the December election: ("District the City of Sanford into four Commission districts with reasonably close population count. ("Eligible candidates for the City Commission seats must reside in their respective districts and will run city-wide elected by qualified voters of the City of Sanford. ("The Mayor of Sanford to be elected at-large with no district requirements." "If anyone can devise an amendment to the proposed charter which will answer the major questions districting raises, I'll be the first to vote to put such an amendment on the ballot. Longwood Halts Free Fire Ride

By DONNA ESTES LONGWOOD — City Council voted unanimously to stop the "free ride" enjoyed for some years by neighboring areas by setting policy stopping city firefighters and equipment from leaving the municipality except for mutual aid. And it was agreed to bill the Orlando-Seminole Jai Alai Fronton $1,000 for services rendered by the city fire department in a blaze there earlier this week. This action was taken immediately following the appointment of Fire Chief Carl Lemmler, effective July 1, as the city's full-time paid firefighter at a salary of $10,000 annually on a narrow three-to-two vote. Councilman E. E. Williamson and Agnes Weber voted against the appointment recommended by Fire Commissioner William Klosky. Klosky said Lemmler is the man most versed in fire protection in the four-city South Seminole area. To a question from Williamson concerning whether Lemmler could do two jobs — the firefighter post as well as continue his business as a plastering contractor — Klosky answered that the chief during the month of June will complete setting policy whereby his foreman will operate his business for him. Williamson continued, however, that in his judgment the city cannot afford the large salary which Klosky said is comparable to salaries in the area. Mayor Brown, in laying "ground rules" following Lemmler's appointment, urged the new policy concerning fighting fires in areas which are not being taxed for fire protection. Cited particularly by the mayor was the Woodlands, Sleepy Hollow and a few others. Although the fire department in recent weeks has put out three or four fires in the Woodlands, the residents there at civic association meetings attended by the mayor and members of Council indicated they have no interest in annexing to the city or contracting to pay for the protection. Brown said Longwood's rules should conform with those of Casselberry and Altamonte Springs. Altamonte Council voted Tuesday night to bill the sports arena $726 for services.

Gambler Takes Stand For State In Jax Trial

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A man who pleaded guilty to taking part in a central Florida lottery and sports betting business was expected to continue testifying today against some of his co-defendants. William Anderson Fox of Orange County, identified by police as a high lieutenant in the operation, took the witness stand in federal court Thursday and said defendant Eddie McGee's voice was on some of the recordings of wiretapped telephone conversations played for the jury. McGee of Sanford is on trial along with Carrie Wise of Oakland, John Newton Fountain Jr. of Rockledge and Louis B. Pacheco of Deltona. All are charged with taking part in an illegal gambling business and conspiracy to do so. Fox pleaded guilty to both counts earlier, as did Harlan Blackburn of Maitland, identified in the indictment as "the chief" of the operation. In all, 49 of the original 60 defendants, pleaded guilty to one or both charges. Five others will get separate trials, one died and charges were dropped against one. Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) agents testified they traced Mrs. Wise and Pacheco license plate numbers seen during surveillance of gambling operations. Witnesses also identified voices on the taped telephone conversations as those of Pacheco and Mrs. Wise. Earlier in the week, testimony was offered to support the government's contention that Fountain, a Cocoa dock track owner, helped bankroll the gambling ring. Phillip Harker of Washington, D.C., testifying as an FBI gambling expert, explained operation of bookmaking and lotteries for the jurors.

Martin Keller, OSA, assistant pastor of St. Augustine Catholic Church, Casselberry, will give opening remarks and prayer to begin the observance at the Longwood Cemetery, following a parade through the city with police and fire department vehicles and the File and Drum Corps of Longwood Elementary School. Mayor Kenneth Brown and VFW Commander Donald Schreiner will give a short patriotic remarks followed by a presentation of wreaths on the graves of the dead of American wars including the war between the States, by Commander Schreiner and Mrs. Evelyn Hart, president of the Auxiliary Unit. Closing prayer and message will be given by Rev. Jack Lindsay, pastor of First Baptist Church of Longwood. On Monday, World War I Veterans, Barracks 481, Dabblers American Veterans, Chapter 30, the Fleet Reserve, Branch 147, and Campbell-Losing Post 53 of the American Legion are jointly sponsoring a program to begin at 5 p.m. The national anthem will be played by the Sanford Naval Academy Band, and Robert E. Daehn, of Post 53, will welcome guests. Joel S. Field, commander of the post, will give memorial comments and serve as master ceremonies. Invocation will be by Rev. Patrick J. Kett.

Longwood Will Vote On 45-15

LONGWOOD — City residents will have the opportunity to vote "yes" or "no" on the proposed "45-15" school year plan to be placed into effect in July, 1972. Mayor Kenneth Brown, last night, recommended and Council indicated approval of a plan to place the question on the ballot for a straw vote along with the new city charter probably in late July. At the same time, the chief executive gave his report to the board on his appearance Wednesday before the School Board requesting an obligatory referendum on the issue. The School Board on a three-to-two vote denied the request. "I urge every citizen to attend the School Board meetings," Brown said sarcastically. "It is a real funny show — a real funny bit, better than 'All in the Family.'"

People's Right To Vote Threatened

At a time when the city of Sanford is experiencing growth and expansion, bringing new responsibilities and opportunities, it is almost unbelievable that three of the city commissioners would attempt to deny the right of the registered voters to express their opinions by ballot, of the proposal to district the municipality.

And yet, that is just what has taken place. The plan to draw up voting districts with commissioners elected from each district and thus responsible to and answerable to a definable electorate has been defeated in public forums and quite private huddles to an extent that makes for confusion rather than clarity.

We believe that it is time that there be a clearing of the fog. There is a basic mistake in the action of Commissioners Gordon Meyer, Julian Stenstrom and A.A. McClannahan whose votes defeated those of Mayor Lee P. Moore and Commissioner John Morris when the issue came to a show-down.

For the issue was and is not whether or not districting should be adopted. It was and is whether or not the registered voters should be given an opportunity to express their opinion pro or con on the December municipal ballot.

We have expressed our approval of a districting plan. We believe that this is the wisest way in which Sanford can deal with a changing economy as agricultural domination is lessening with industrialization and housing on the boom.

Yet, if we had opposed the plan, our conviction would stand that the right of the public to express their desires through the existing and lawful measures of a ballot should not be denied.

There are other routes which those who believe that districting is the only way in which their minority group can be properly represented can pursue.

These are by the right of petition to put the question on the ballot. A procedure which already has been started and will continue as the next move.

There is also a much more grave reaction to the city commission's action. This comes from the possibility that a citizen's civil rights suit could be filed against the city of Sanford. This is an eventuality which should never be allowed to happen.

In all of this, the issue with the greatest of threat to the future of Sanford lies in the alignment of those for and against on racial lines.

One of the leaders in the black community is Rev. Amos Jones, Seminole Community Action director. In his eyes this is not a "black-versus-white problem. Any fair-minded individual would want to give the people the right to express themselves."

Then there is Mayor Moore, who opposes the districting plan, and yet who voted to put the question on the ballot. His is the kind of leadership which builds.

Commissioner Morris, a freshman commissioner as is McClannahan, also injected some common sense into the matter when he said that

Offbeat Ruminations

Time To Enjoy: Cool Middle Age

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Middle age is the least appreciated and least understood time of life. People often act as if they thought if they paid no attention to it, it would go away like a bad dream.

Well, it won't. On the other hand middle age is no 24-hour-a-day, around the clock nightmare. After they get used to it, many of its victims find middle age more enjoyable, in some ways, than youth.

You don't have to be daffy to recognize that the middle years of existence have their compensating rewards as well as their demerits.

Here are a few reasons why you shouldn't dissolve in tears on arriving at your 40th birthday:

You don't have to call up an electronic dating bureau to find out which girl would be best for you to take out some evening. Your wife will nominate herself.

It isn't necessary to start searching for a bigger apartment or a larger house if you see a star's wing on the horizon. The stork no longer keeps your address in its address book.

You probably have become familiar with the symptoms of some kind of chronic disease with which you'll keep company in your old age. And it doesn't seem as terrible as you thought it might be.

You have just much of the insecurity that secretly plagued your youth. Therefore you don't make a nuisance of yourself by trying to top every wily remark you hear at a cocktail party.

Unless you have become an alcoholic, you have learned to take only two hat men for the road instead of five.

Your children are either out of their teens, or near the end of them, and now and then do something thoughtful that leads you to suspect they may turn into human beings, after all. Some months you are even able to pay their phone bills without crying out to high heaven in financial agony.

There is no inclination to jump on the bandwagon for even less intolerance or provocation reform that parades by your door. You may even be willing to drop some old outworn prejudice that kept you smug before.

The fact that you will probably be doing the day after tomorrow pretty much the same thing you did the day before yesterday becomes more of an assurance than a punishment.

It occurs to you that the rest of mankind is not engaged in a mass conspiracy to fool you, but that each man is more probably simply trying to take care of himself, just as you are.

You do miss some of the high excitements and keen despair of your younger years, when your moods rode a roller coaster every day.

But you find instead a quiet ecstasy in spending more time admiring God's tremendous architecture than in carping at His misdeeds and oversights.

All in all, there is as much as there is to be forgiven. There is that needs to be forgiven.

Soviets Are Fair Weather Friends

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — What President Nixon knew before he visited Moscow is that when the crunch comes, the men in the Kremlin do not hesitate to sacrifice their Red allies in order to make deals with capitalist countries in Russia's national interests.

For years during the Chinese civil war of the 1920s and 1930s, Moscow gave its backing to Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government and largely ignored Mao Tse-tung's Communists that changed only when it became clear in Moscow that the Communist armies would win and that Moscow's interests therefore lay with Mao. But all along Russia had been quite willing to sacrifice its ideological brothers if Chiang had appeared the likely winner.

During the mounting China-India tension of the 1960s, which finally culminated in open warfare, the Soviet Union stepped solidly to the aid of non-Communist India and the Kremlin planners had decided was vital to the expansion of Soviet influence in Southern Asia and the Indian Ocean.

When Mao objected, and would not submit to Soviet demands on this question, Moscow cut off aid to China, causing a most disastrous economic crisis. China was, in a sense, sacrificed to Mao. The sore festered more strongly as the years progressed.

Here again, it was in the Russian national interest to favor the Communist India over Communist China. So far as can be determined, the Soviet leaders, did not hesitate.

In Vietnam in 1954, the French were psychologically beaten. Ho Chi Minh and his Communist forces realistically believed they could have all Vietnam—South and North—for the asking.

But the Russians ordered Ho to go easy on the French, and insist only on North Vietnam. For the Russian national interest demanded that Moscow sacrifice France's vote against a defensive alliance aimed at blocking the Soviet Union in Western Europe.

Ho was unbelievably bitter and his followers are bitter to this day. This is probably one reason Moscow has so little influence with Hanoi now. But it also is further evidence the Russians may be willing to sacrifice North Vietnam or any other Communist state if a deal with the West is considered to be in the Russian national interest.

This Russian attitude gives Mr. Nixon an opening on Vietnam, on Cuba, on the Middle East—in any area in which he can prove to Moscow's leaders that what the United States proposes is more in the Russian national interest than what Moscow can achieve by bowing to Castro in Cuba, to the Hanoi leadership or to the government of Syria.

This in no way suggests Mr. Nixon will succeed in any such political arrangements. In any particular case, the Russians may not be convinced their interests will be served. But history does indicate the leaders of Communist Russia will not stick by their ideological friends for sentimental reasons.

Now It's Attila The U.S. Tourist

By DON OAKLEY

The strange species known as Tourist Americanism "may be less dangerous to the civilized world than Attila, but not much."

The charge is made by author John Keats, writing in Travel & Leisure magazine. In an article called "The Great American Vandal," he ticks off a list of tourist crimes committed by Americans. The samples include: Partial destruction of the new John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts shortly after its opening in the nation's capital, where tourists dismantled the chandelier, pried the faucets of bathroom basins, and the silverware from the restaurants, paintings from the walls and cut swatches out of carpet and draperies for souvenirs and in all did some $1.5 million worth of damage.

The irrefutable loss of several geysers and the Morning Glory Pool in Yellowstone Park because tourists could not resist the temptation to clog the vents with coins, stones and logs.

Graffiti at the Grand Canyon, where one rauger caught a family spraying their names on the rocks and was told, "We thought this was what everybody did. The rocks are for everybody, aren't they?"

In addition to our national parks, our historic sites and museums are particular targets of our touring barbarians, which accounts, says Keats, "for the fact that so much of our heritage is behind velvet ropes and in iron bars or in glass cases and is only seen through a screen of uniformed guards."

It is bad enough that American tourists "foul their own nest," he says. "But worse, thanks to the creation of cheap jet travel, that our affluent barbarians now commit their nuisances on a worldwide scale."

He admits that American tourists are not the only ones who can be indicted for vandalism. "The German yields to no one when it comes to offensiveness, nor is the Belgian far behind."

The British Lord Elgin, it will be remembered, sent home whole shiploads of marbles which once adorned the Acropolis in Athens.

But Americans are the worst of all, claims Keats, if only because there are so many of them.

Donna's Deliberations

By DONNA ESTES

Districting, new city charters and fire in unprotected areas occupied the attentions of many, in Seminole County during the past week, who are interested in municipal government.

Whether candidates to the Sanford city commission should be required to reside in given areas continues to be a hot issue in the county seat.

Meanwhile, in North Orlando, Mayor Granville Brown and City Attorney Thomas Freeman were girding themselves with information on the proposed new charter for the village to be considered by the electorate in a special referendum on June 13.

Brown and Freeman will be on the "hot spot" at a public meeting with interested voters on June 6 at the Hacienda Village recreation building with explanations of all descriptions concerning the document approved by the state Legislature subject to ratification by the people.

Village officials are very much in favor of the initiative and referendum section of the proposed charter which in effect gives the people the right to have a full say in the operation of the city.

The provision allows voters to pass ordinances, to amend the city charter and to repeal ordinances not to their liking, all with or without approval of the City Council.

In Or Out Of Sunshine

Even though the city currently elects members to the City government body on the basis of seats, the people, if they choose, under the referendum provision can require that the city be divided into residency districts as nearly equal in population as possible.

Mayor Granville Brown said this week that he personally favors a districting plan since the city would be represented, now, as the mayor sees it, with an approximate population of 1,500 persons, districting would not be feasible.

Incidentally, Mayor Brown points out that the "oversight" section included in the charter which would allow the Council to meet "out of the sunshine" is "null and void as far as I am concerned."

In any event, since the section is in conflict with state law it would be void anyway.

Back to districting for a moment, the charter advisory board in Longwood thought so highly of districting, this past week it changed the wording in the proposed charter from may to shall to make mandatory that the Council adopt a new districting plan following the charter's ratification by the people probably toward the end of July.

Exercise In Futility

The districting ordinance adopted by the Longwood City Council last December, as this columnist said at the time, was an exercise in futility since a new one will have to be passed anyway.

The proposed new charter calls for the mayor to reside at large while the remaining four councilmen reside in given districts.

Mayor Curtis B. Blow of Casselberry and Mayor Lawrence Swafford of Altamonte Springs got black eyes in articles in another area newspaper this week concerning their cities' positions on fighting fires outside their jurisdictional limits.

Both men and their respective city councils have taken the position that city taxpayers' money appropriated to support the fire departments should not be spent to give businesses or residents, who do not pay, a free ride.

Their positions are almost identical to that taken by the City of Sanford.

Can't understand all the commotion when no lives were involved and surely the Jal Alai Fronton can afford to pay for fire protection.

Anyway, if the Jal Alai had annexed to the real estate tax-free town of Casselberry, it would only have been required to pay a utility tax of 10 per cent per month per taxpayer with a maximum of $275 monthly per utility. Conceivably the maximum might be charged for the three months each year it is in full operation for a total of $1,820 plus an additional amount of much less during the other nine months.

Green Belts, Open Spaces

Votee interest in the Casselberry special election scheduled for June 6 is high, number of absentee ballots issued would indicate almost 20 have been issued.

The ballot seeks the voters' feeling concerning the levy of four mills tax for acquisition of the Land O'Lakes golf course and property.

As this column predicted some weeks ago, the question in the referendum is expected to fail by a substantial margin.

Acquisition of the land has been the special project of Councilman John Zacco who grew up in the wilds of the big city and thus appreciates, more than many, green belts and open spaces.

However much the taxpayers might want open spaces, in many instances they prefer to keep the green stuff in their walls.

Here's another reminder for all those Seminole County residents who found themselves unable to vote last election day because they were not registered. Now is a good time to take care of that right.

The offices of Supervisor of Elections Camilla Bruce are open Monday through Friday and at this time of the year are not overly crowded.

With a special election on the new charter expected to be called in Longwood toward the end of July, those residents especially should make the trip to the branch office in Seminole Plaza or the one in the Masonic Temple across from the courthouse if their names are not inscribed in Mrs. Bruce's big black book.

Dates of Interest in the political vein are: June—Tuesday, the 6th—Casselberry special referendum concerning levy of an ad valorem tax to purchase the golf course and property; Tuesday, the 13th—North Orlando charter referendum.

July 11, noon—first day for candidates to qualify to seek county and state office this year; 25—last day to qualify; 22 and 29—special Saturday voter registration days; August 5—last day of registration for Oviedo municipal elections; 12—last day for registration for the primaries; September 1—first day for non-residents to register; 12—first primary election; 16, 23, 30—Saturday registration days for general elections; October 3—second primary; 7—last day of registration for general election; November—3—books close for Altamonte, Casselberry, Longwood and Sanford municipal elections; 7—general election day; December 5—municipal elections in Altamonte, Casselberry, Sanford and Longwood.

Auto Insurance Blame Is Jockeyed

By TOM RAUM Associated Press Writer TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—If auto insurance costs are going up, the blame can be placed on insurance Commissioner Tom O'Malley for his administration of Florida's so far, it says House Speaker Richard Pettigrew.

Pettigrew Thursday accused O'Malley of not giving motorists a promised 15 per cent reduction in auto insurance rates, and directed his Insurance Committee to begin an investigation.

Throughout the week the two officials have verbally duelled over a 1972 bill sponsored by Pettigrew that will increase mandatory insurance coverage Floridians must purchase after July 1973.

Earlier in the week O'Malley accused Pettigrew of "ramrodding" the bill through the Legislature. Pettigrew struck back by accusing the insurance official of "gross distortions" and pinning the higher costs badge back on him.

"I am requesting our House committee to investigate the entire administration of the no fault law with particular attention to the questions as to why the 15 per cent reduction mandated by the bill actually has not been implemented by Mr. O'Malley," said Pettigrew in a statement released in Tallahassee.

O'Malley's office immediately rebutted the accusation, claiming rate reductions had gone into effect on schedule.

Florida's no fault law called for a 15 per cent roll back of rates beginning Jan. 1.

However, O'Malley's office said it had never claimed that motorists would get a net 15 per cent reduction because the no fault law applied the rate break only to what the driver had been paying previously for basic liability protection.

Any additional insurance purchased, such as collision insurance, ate away at the reduction, they said.

"Commissioner O'Malley has administered no fault to the letter of the law," said his press secretary, Jerry Davies.

Pettigrew's bill increases the mandatory liability coverage all Florida motorists must carry as a supplement to no fault personal injury protection from $10,000 per person, $20,000 per accident and $5,000 property damage to $25,000 per person, $25,000 per accident and $5,000 property damage.

O'Malley has claimed the increase could mean cost hikes to some motorists of 20 per cent or more.

"There were tremendous extenuating circumstances in her case," Edwards said following the sentencing. "Her boyfriend had earlier beaten her almost to death and had threatened her with a weapon. He probably would have if a friend had not interfered."

Edwards ordered a presentence investigation of Miss Griffith.

"She had no prior record, so after consulting with her minister, speaking with her and considering the case at length, I decided on giving her the option."

Judge Edwards stipulated the woman had to obtain a high school diploma within the next four years—she has completed the 11th grade. He also ordered her to pay the $2,000 in court costs at the rate of $20 a month.

Admitting his outlook is "a bit unorthodox," Edwards said several lawyers have questioned it as being unconstitutional. But his sentencing policy has never been challenged in the courts.

"I get a very rewarding feeling when I get the opportunity to believe in someone who I don't think needs to go to jail," Edwards said.

Gun Control Old Subject Revived By Shooting

By EDWARD NEILAN COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

WASHINGTON — The loudest echoes from the shots that felled Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace are expected to take the form of renewed calls for more stringent laws against the availability of handguns.

Ironically, one of the national political figures most opposed to gun control is Wallace. He has frequently defended the right of an individual to own a gun.

Many of the voters who passionately resisted control legislation in the past were in Wallace's national constituency.

President Nixon, perhaps fearful of those voters, has consistently resisted pressures for gun registration and limitation.

Paradoxically, Wallace was shot in a state that only two years ago defeated the reelection bid of Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, a Democrat who had aroused the ire of the influential groups opposing gun control.

Less than 20 feet from where Wallace was shot, a reporter for The Sanford Herald was a cat with a bumper sticker that said, "Register Communists, Not Guns."

The Lyndon Johnson administration tried to write tough gun controls after the assassinations of Martin Luther King Jr. and Robert Kennedy in 1968, but the final version left huge loopholes that allowed increased imports of foreign gun parts that could be easily assembled in the United States.

Mr. Nixon has backed tougher penalties for criminals carrying firearms, but he has also been sympathetic to the contention that law-abiding citizens be allowed to purchase guns and ammunition without restriction or inconvenience.

Under several gun control proposals now pending in Congress, Arthur Bremer, the accused gunman, would have been sentenced to a 30-year term in prison with a 38-caliber pistol.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., was first off the mark after the Wallace shooting with an announcement that his Senate subcommittee on Juvenile Delinquency will meet to act on legislation to outlaw handguns.

Bayh's bill is pending before the subcommittee and would prohibit handguns not used for sporting purposes.

Bayh said reports of the weapon used in Wallace's attempted assassination "indicated that it would have been banned" under the terms of his bill.

"These are vicious weapons which have no legitimate use—weapons which cost the life of Sen. Robert Kennedy and shot down Gov. Wallace," Bayh said.

Gun control supporters have cited lower gun crime rates in states with gun control laws and compared them to such unregulated states as Wallace's Alabama, where the murder rate is one of the highest in the country.

Wallace and his backers have always alighted the theory that controlling guns will eliminate crime. They say that when gun laws are enacted, criminals will get guns but law abiding citizens won't be able to get them to defend themselves.

Market Comments Economic Pressure And The War

COPELEY NEWS SERVICE

"There is a new, growing and powerful force at work that is likely to help bring the Vietnam war to an end," Eastman Dillon, Union Securities & Co. declares. "What we have in mind goes beyond the moral or political opposition to the war. The additional force is the economic one. The point here, to be blunt about it, is that the businessman, the investor and the public at large run the risk of high economic losses should the current escalation turn out to be protracted. In a sense, cause and effect are being reversed. Just as the war has influenced the economy, we now expect the economy to influence the war — toward U.S. disengagement."

Retarded Boys Home Is Sought

Serman Sertoma is searching for an appropriate building, preferably in Sanford proper, close to the downtown section, to be used to house 20 mentally retarded boys who can be trained in occupations and become useful members of society.

James O. Creamer, Sanford businessman and member of the service club, said the "half-way" type house will permit the "exceptional" teenage boys from Sunland Hospital to enjoy a home-like environment while they are being trained to become useful, self-supporting citizens.

When the building is acquired and readied for occupancy, the State of Florida will allow a certain amount of money for each young person for operation and maintenance of the home.

"It is a proved fact that Russia is doing far more toward the rehabilitation of their retarded than the United States," Creamer said. "Of the retarded in Russia, 85 per cent are returned to society as useful citizens while in the United States only five per cent are returned to society."

"These are pretty shocking figures," Creamer declared,

In conclusion, Creamer said, "The primary entrance requirement is that the retarded client be evaluated to be potentially capable of achieving an independent living status. The program will be geared to the needs of the individual. There will be vocational training and job evaluation."

Nixon Reported Hopeful Summit Talks Moving

By FRANK CORMIER Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Negotiations for the arms curb pact that President Nixon hopes will crown his summit talks in Moscow "are moving ahead constructively," White House spokesman Ronald L. Ziegler said today. But he told newsmen he didn't expect the landmark agreement to be ready for signing tonight.

Ziegler also said he did not expect any substantive agreements on trade today.

U.S. summit negotiators had made no secret of their hopes for the signing this evening of a treaty and companion executive agreement to limit the deployment of offensive and defensive nuclear missiles on land and at sea.

Wallace recovers from minor surgery

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace was recovering today after minor surgery to drain pus from an infected area near one of his wounds.

Doctors said the operation Thursday will speed his recovery. They said the infection was predictable.

The infection near a bullet wound in the left side of the abdomen required an incision to drain pus, doctors said.

"After these areas were drained, the governor showed immediate improvement and a marked reduction in abdominal pain," the doctors said in a medical bulletin.

Otherwise, the doctors reported, Wallace's condition remained stable.

For the first time since his injuries May 15, Wallace fed himself Thursday, a breakfast of cream of wheat, toast, applesauce and milk. A trapeze bar was installed above his bed to help him exercise and raise himself while bed lines are changed.

The Democratic presidential aspirant was shot while shaking hands with a crowd at a Laurel, Md., shopping center.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Arthur H. Bremer, the man accused of shooting Alabama Gov. George Wallace and three others at a campaign rally in Laurel, Md., is scheduled to go on trial in state court July 12.

Bremer faces trial later on federal charges of assaulting Wallace, a presidential candidate, and assault of Nicholas Zarvas, a Secret Service agent with Wallace's security force. A federal grand jury also handed down indictments Tuesday which charged Bremer with violating federal gun control laws.

U.S. Attorney Arthur A. Marshall Jr. of Prince Georges County said Thursday that July 12 has been set as the tentative date for the 21-year-old Milwaukee man to begin trial on a 24-count indictment by the county grand jury.

Dear Abby

Youth disagrees with Abby on drug use

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have to take issue with your advice to parents who wanted to know if they had the right to snoop into their children's belongings to discover if they were using drugs. You said this was a case in which invasion of privacy was justified, and parents had the right to use "whatever means possible" to find out what their children were doing. Now I'm convinced that you are not qualified to give advice on drugs; in fact, your column is beginning to show the characteristics of Gestapo police.

I am a college student who uses drugs, and as a citizen of this country, I have a much greater respect for the rights of this person. It is my life and my body, and I will do what I like with them.

Wise up, Abby. Talk to some users. Find out where it's really at, and stop encouraging kids to look on each other. Sincerely, the soft drugs will be legal and then a lot of us will breathe easier, just as people did after prohibition.

SICK OF HASSLES

DEAR SICK: So it's "soft drugs" you want to legalize? Who's to decide which drugs are "soft" and which are "hard"? You'll still assert your "right of privacy" to use illegal drugs?

The legalization of some drugs as "controlled substances" may be on the way, and should be. But until it's actually done, you should follow it up with much more stands, along with reasonable surveillance of the young in their use.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I [married for 12 years] have two children, and we finally managed to take a vacation alone [no kids] for the first time since our marriage. We arranged to have a nice young married couple move into our home in our absence to look after our children. When my parents saw us off at the airport, my mother asked, "Did you make a will in case something happens to you?" I really was shocked up, Abby. Of course we didn't make a will.

I realize it is a possibility, but the point I am trying to get across is that nothing happened to us, but that remark of my mother's was on my mind the whole time, and it spoiled my vacation.

I ask you, wasn't that a lousy thing for her to have done? STILL BURNING

DEAR STILL: Her timing was "lousy." But her suggestion was a good one.

DEAR ABBY: My son works long hours daily and when gift-giving time comes along, he asks me if I will please shop for a gift to give his wife.

I do not mind shopping, although it is not easy for me, but no matter what I select, my son's wife always takes it back and exchanges it for something else. I know her size, but it seems I can never choose a color or style she likes well enough to keep.

Since I have yet to select a gift that she has kept, I feel I am wasting my time to buy gifts for her.

I once told my son that perhaps he ought to just give her the money and let her buy what she wants, but he said she did not like to receive money as a gift because it was so crass, and lacking in warmth and sentiment.

Have you any suggestions? TIRED OF SHOPPING

DEAR SHOPPING: If it's "warmth" and sentiment the lady likes, tell your son to send her a gift, sentimental card. And if money is too crass, how about a gift certificate?

DEAR ABBY: For pity's sake, please tell "Hard of Hearing" to stop copying her car with her hand and asking me to please speak up. Tell her to study lipreading instead!

I learned lipreading out of a book recommended by the Volta Bureau of Washington, D. C., after suffering a complete loss of hearing. I haven't heard a thing for 13 years, yet people who have known me a long time find it difficult to believe.

Last year I flew to Alaska and back unaccompanied. Of course, I always inform the airlines personnel of my handicap and they graciously look after me.

Problem? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 6796, L.A., CALIF. 90068 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send it to Abby, Box 6796, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

It's the Elimination Play

playing low and sticking East in. Unfortunately for this plan, if West just plays the eight-spot, East will be able to play the four and won't be in trouble.

It is up to declarer to see a better way to force East to lead a diamond.

The play goes just the same until the last trick is led. At this point, instead of ruffing, South discards a diamond and plays the king of diamonds or plays the ace of diamonds.

If West showed up with the diamond king? Yes he would, but East really needed that king for his opening bid.

Marilyn's Merrily-Go-Round

By MARILYN GORDON

The big news we have all been awaiting is LESLIE SHANNON CASSELBERRY HAS ARRIVED. SHE WEIGHED IN AT EIGHT POUNDS AND ONE OUNCE. She has already been approached by officials for the Miss America contest in Atlantic City.

Miss Casselberry, though by far the most beautiful, has declined. It would interfere with her schedule. Her pretty mom, Brenda, will negotiate all her public appearances for a while. Grandmother and Grandfather Leonard Casselberry and her Auntie Cathy have gone to Kentucky to see both Melenda and Danny graduate.

Phyllis and Tom Grier gave a party last month to celebrate the occasion of Phyllis's mom and dad's 50th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan W. Layman of Casselberry. There were a number of out-of-town guests from New Jersey and Maryland. The affair I hear was beautiful and the Laymans are a beautiful couple.

Speaking of parents, I spoke via long distance to mine this week and as always invited them to rush right down and visit us. They answered that they would wait for a call. October is not far off. Start boning up fellows for a banner year.

Bob Moe was elected as ZONE 5 LT. GOVERNOR for the coming year. This active group also announces two new members, JACK GRIFFITHS our dear Ann Riley's first cousin and HARVEY ALPER, President Bob's father-in-law, Don Kocher will be gone for the summer spending it in Madison, Wis.

Mr. Ralph Newcomer of Fern Park recently returned home after visiting with her two sisters in the State of Wisconsin. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stair of New York are spending some time in their Maitland home while selling their motel in Apopka. The Stairs have been winter residents for many years of Casselberry.

See you now, around and about Seminole County.

Overweight Versus Fashions

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Although the state of being overweight is by no means a new phenomenon, it has reached epidemic status (h n a's) to our affluent

There are almost 40 million overweight women in this world and dieting, exercise and health spas have become big business as a result.

The almost universal complaint has to do with ill-fitting clothes. According to a well-known diet group, a gain of 10 pounds instills a size change. Imagine being on a diet to lose 40 pounds and having to undergo four complete wardrobe changes.

In the reverse, if you're on your way up, the change from a size 30 to a 40 takes you out of the regular size category to extra sizes and puts you on the way to the upper 40 where you're about to reach dilemma proportions when it comes to wardrobe selections.

with the times and is aware of the doldrums through which a woman goes when her size changes. The company is also aware that overweight is something that happens to a 16-year-old girl as readily as to a 40-year-old woman. Aggressive steps have been taken to dress their "faithfuls" and "joiners," no matter what their age or size—right on up to 46.

Not only do they have the size to fit any frame, any age, but fashion looks at realistic prices. For summer, there are inexpensive cotton knits that will keep their shape and as they are about $8.00 the price is right for a changing wardrobe. The styles are just too, for a heavier figure, the proportions proper for the size.

There are long, belted shirts that can be worn long enough to hide slow-to-diminish hips or quickly expanding derrieres. Necklines on these are designed to make the neck look longer for a more sleek look. The fabrics used for larger sizes are exactly the same ones used for regular sizes. From an always second rate, older looking fabric, but not so these. All the popular summer fabrics and the newest prints can be found and most important for at-all-times neatness, every fabric has an easy-care one that will keep its clean crisp look with a minimum of upkeep.

On This Memorial Day Flowers . . . Costly Beyond Price

Newspaper editorials, like the newspapers they appear in, are meant for instant consumption and ready disposal.

But if yesterday's newspapers provide the factual meat for today's history books, yesterday's editorials serve as a sort of subjective history. They are a retrospective mirror of the popular mood at a particular time, reflecting our awareness—or lack of awareness—of events and trends which combined to produce the world and national situations we find ourselves in today.

Exactly 10 years ago, on Memorial Day, 1962, one editorial writer noted that "in this year of peace," newly dead American soldiers claimed our tears.

That March, a plane carrying 93 servicemen to South Vietnam had vanished somewhere in the Pacific. And only a few weeks prior to that Memorial Day, two other soldiers had been killed in the jungle by guerrillas with the strange name of "Viet Cong."

"Relatively few men are involved in South Vietnam," said the writer. "There are not enough to arouse the concern of the American people. They are officially there to 'advise,' not to fight. But some are dying."

The United States is not at war, he went on. Yet President Kennedy had just authorized the awarding of the Purple Heart to men wounded in the Vietnamese fighting.

The editorialist offered up a prayer on that Memorial Day in 1962 that there would be an early end to the conflict in Vietnam, but that if it must continue, some lasting good would come of it.

Today we are still praying for an end to that conflict. Ten years ago, no one remotely conceived that it would surpass the Korean War in numbers of casualties and national treasury expended, that it would become the longest war in our history, that it would force the retirement of one president and be an albatross around the neck of his successor, that it would lead to civil disorder and riots in this country and the deaths of four young students, who were little children in 1962, on a beautiful campus 10,000 miles from Vietnam.

It has been a long and terrible ordeal for this nation. Yet it must end someday, and we can only repeat the prayer that some good will come of it and have faith that the nation will emerge better and stronger for having been through this trial.

The writer concluded his 1962 editorial with words which, regrettably, have only grown truer over the years:

"The flowers of Memorial Day are beautiful and sweet. They are costly beyond price, and sad beyond knowing."

Lottery Operation Broken Combined Raid Nets $35

By BILL SCOTT

Seminole County sheriff's agents and Sanford police combined task forces during the weekend and arrested 39 persons in a series of lightning raids on homes and businesses within Sanford and in the county.

Prize catch in the joint operation that started Friday night and continued through Sunday afternoon was the arrest of a Lake Monroe bar operator and his wife on number of lottery charges. Also the confiscation of Cuban lottery tickets and approximately $3,243 in cash found in a chest at a Dunbar Street address.

Robert Branch, 41, and Ernestine, his 43-year-old wife, were arrested on warrants issued by Justice of Peace Robert E. Carroll, after agents, serving search warrants charging resale without a license and sale of alcohol on Sunday, discovered what was called a large scale lottery operation.

Sheriff John Polk reported the lawmen seized lottery paraphernalia, including tally sheets, notebooks, approximately $250 in Cuban tickets, an adding machine, four cases of liquor and $3,243 in currency.

L. Charles Fagan, Sanford

police, said Branch, who operates the Lucky Star Tavern in Lake Monroe, had just arrived home with a lottery pickup, when the raid commenced on his house.

Both Branch and his wife were charged with sale of alcoholic beverages without a license; promoting a lottery; possession of lottery records and possession of lottery tickets. They are incarcerated in the county jail in lieu of total $9,000 bonds each.

The weekend raids were a result of information given to Sanford police that numerous whisky-selling operations were being conducted in the Sanford area without proper licenses.

Branch watched while Sheriff John Polk and agents counted the contents of the cedar chest, which contained over $3,000 at the jail Sunday and told The Herald "the money belonged to the church."

He failed to name the church, which he said had ownership of the funds, "he was just keeping for them."

There may be one heck-of-a-lot of cars on the highways this holiday weekend, but there is one . . . conspicuous by its absence.

Does anybody know how to start a $240,000 gas turbine car? The vehicle, said to be the only one of its kind, has broken down eight times since its arrival in New York City, on loan from the federal government for testing as a low-pollution alternative to the internal combustion engine.

Right now, it's out of commission. (Well, at least it isn't stinking-up the air, eh?)

Or, as some of my horseback riding friends would be apt to say, "Heat air pollution—ride a horse." (Which brings us to another pollution problem . . .)

I didn't hear it, but sports editor Gary Taylor tells me of the radio announcement which opines, "The Pentagon announces that there haven't been any deaths reported today in Vietnam . . . but, three people did die of old age, while working around the Paris Peace Talks table."

From The Mailbag: Please be closed just for you to use on your next carwash to see if it will deter lovebugs on your vehicle the same as I found it did on mine last season. Lants through a couple of washings too—the wax, not the bugs.

Another idea I noticed today was using an old window screen lashed across the front of the radiator. Not too pretty but heck are the bugs? Helene Edmondson

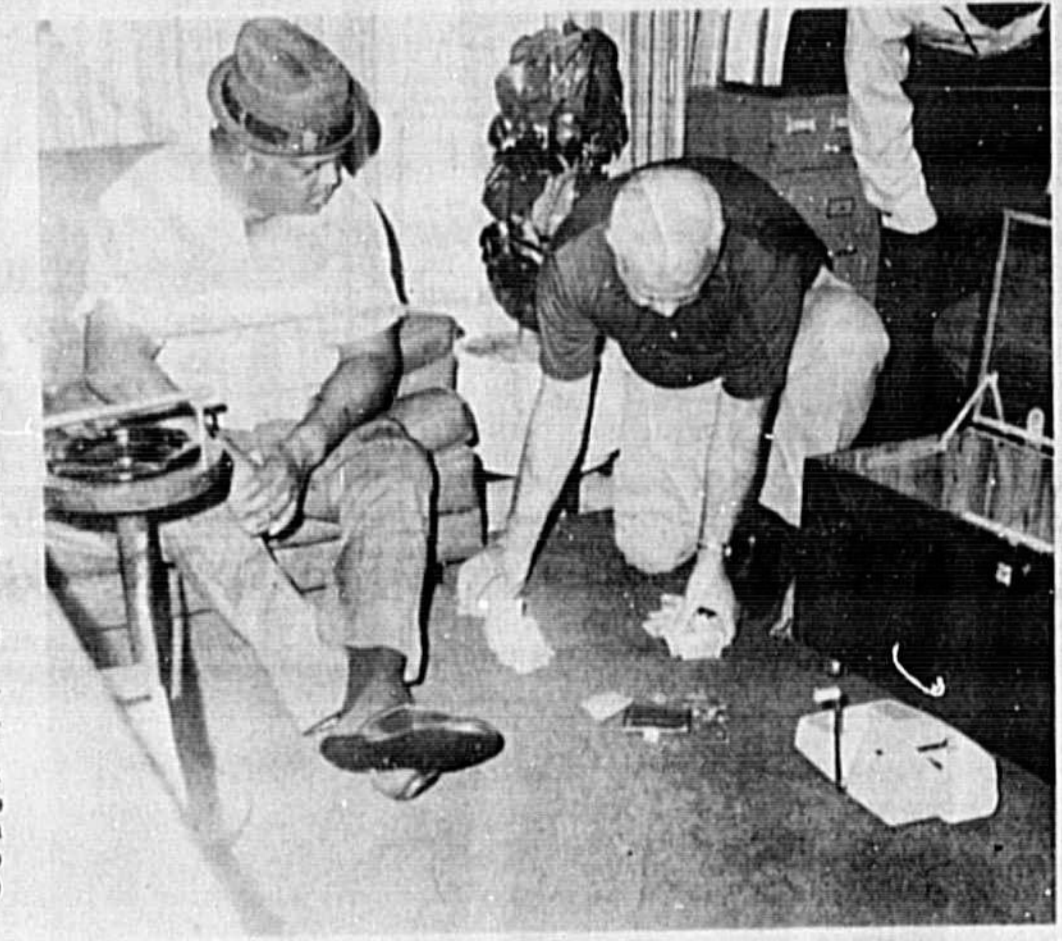

We were swamped with responses to our "We'd Like To Know" questionnaire . . . on the 45-15 school plan, and on the districting issue for Sanford being placed before the electorate.

Including those which we offered to you in last Friday's edition, this now includes the cumulative totals, as of this morning's mail delivery:

On 45-15 we've recorded 11 in favor, 96 opposed and nine who need more information.

Should the people of Sanford be given the opportunity to vote on whether residency districts should be set up for members of the Sanford City Commission, we have 85 in favor and 14 voting No.

In Pay Dispute Special Meeting Asked

By DONNA ESTES

Longwood — "Belly-achin" notwithstanding, members of this police force will have minimum salaries increased by $25 monthly to permit participation in the state administered, federally financed, revenue sharing plan for subsidizing law enforcement salaries.

At least, Mayor Kenneth Brown will do all in his power to get the increase for six officers on his city's force.

The mayor told The Herald today he has requested Council Chairman Eugene Jacques call a special meeting of the city's governing body at 7 p.m. Tuesday to approve the pay hikes to make the officers eligible to receive up to an additional $130 monthly from the state.

Brown said he asked for a delay in implementing a recommendation for the pay hike's Thursday night to gain time to investigate all aspects of the program and the costs to the city. The mayor informed in his inquiries he found that the minimum salary for police officers in his city is lowest in the county with the lone exception of the Village of North Orlando and all governmental units in Seminole have either applied or are applying for the subsidies.

The mayor pointed out while the City of Sanford has a minimum salary for its officers at $6,678; the sheriff's department, $6,336; Altamonte Springs, $6,240; Casselberry $6,180 and Oviedo $6,000, the minimum in Longwood is $5,700.

North Orlando's one full time policeman, except the chief of police, is paid $4,800, the village is nevertheless attempting to gain the subsidy.

Brown continued that salaries of six of the city's officers will be raised the $25 for a cost during the remainder of this fiscal year of $750 and finance chairman, Councilman Dick Crenshaw, has assured sufficient unexpended revenues from the municipal court are on hand to pick up the cost.

In addition, the mayor said, the state law provides that those officers meeting minimum state standards of 200 hours training (and all Longwood's policemen do) will receive $25 monthly from the state while other with 200 hours will receive a total of $80 monthly subsidy. Those who have completed and received Associate of Arts or Associate of Science degrees will be eligible for another $25 and those with a bachelor's degree can receive $50 more up to a maximum from the state in a subsidy of $10 monthly per man.

"Our officers should have the opportunity of getting those funds," Brown declared. He added he expects no one to leave the department and praised the "men in brown" for doing a tremendous job. His remark last Thursday night about a "belly-achin" officer concerned a man who left the city's employ some months ago, Brown said.

Americans Celebrate Holiday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Memorial Day, winding up a three-day bumper-to-bumper weekend with the nation's public tribute to the men who have fallen in battle from Ball Run to Khe Sanh.

Among the traditional ceremonies scheduled, was the laying of a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery. Rep. William Scott, R-Va., will represent President Nixon, who is winding up his Moscow summit meeting.

In San Francisco, the Coast Guard cutter Resolute will cast a wreath on the sea outside the Golden Gate.

A new memorial to the war dead will be dedicated in Coweta, Okla., the American city which claims to have lost the most men per capita in the Vietnam war.

The northeastern Oklahoma town of about 2,200 has recorded eight young men killed in the conflict.

In Frankfort, Ky., the Marine Corps League plans services at the gravesite of Lt. Presley N. O'Bannon, said to be the first Marine to raise the American flag on foreign soil.

A feature of the observance in Dallas is the lining of drives in two local cemeteries with hundreds of flags, each flown in memory of a serviceman or woman and given by their families.

Nine-Month School Is Habit, Not Need

By BILL SCOTT (Part One of Five)

Historically, the nine-month school year may be considered revolutionary. It was a by-product of the economic needs of the United States before it evolved from a rural to an urban society.

Now that this evolution is complete, the pattern of a nine-month school year with an extended summer vacation has become a habit and not one of need in today's predominantly urban society, educators say.

In the 19th Century, farm chores of necessity took precedence over school attendance. Those who were fortunate enough to be spared and who could afford it attended school for a few months between harvest and spring plowing.

At the beginning of the 20th Century, free public schools offered 120 days of instruction as a "standard" year but, after World War I, this was lengthened to 180 days.

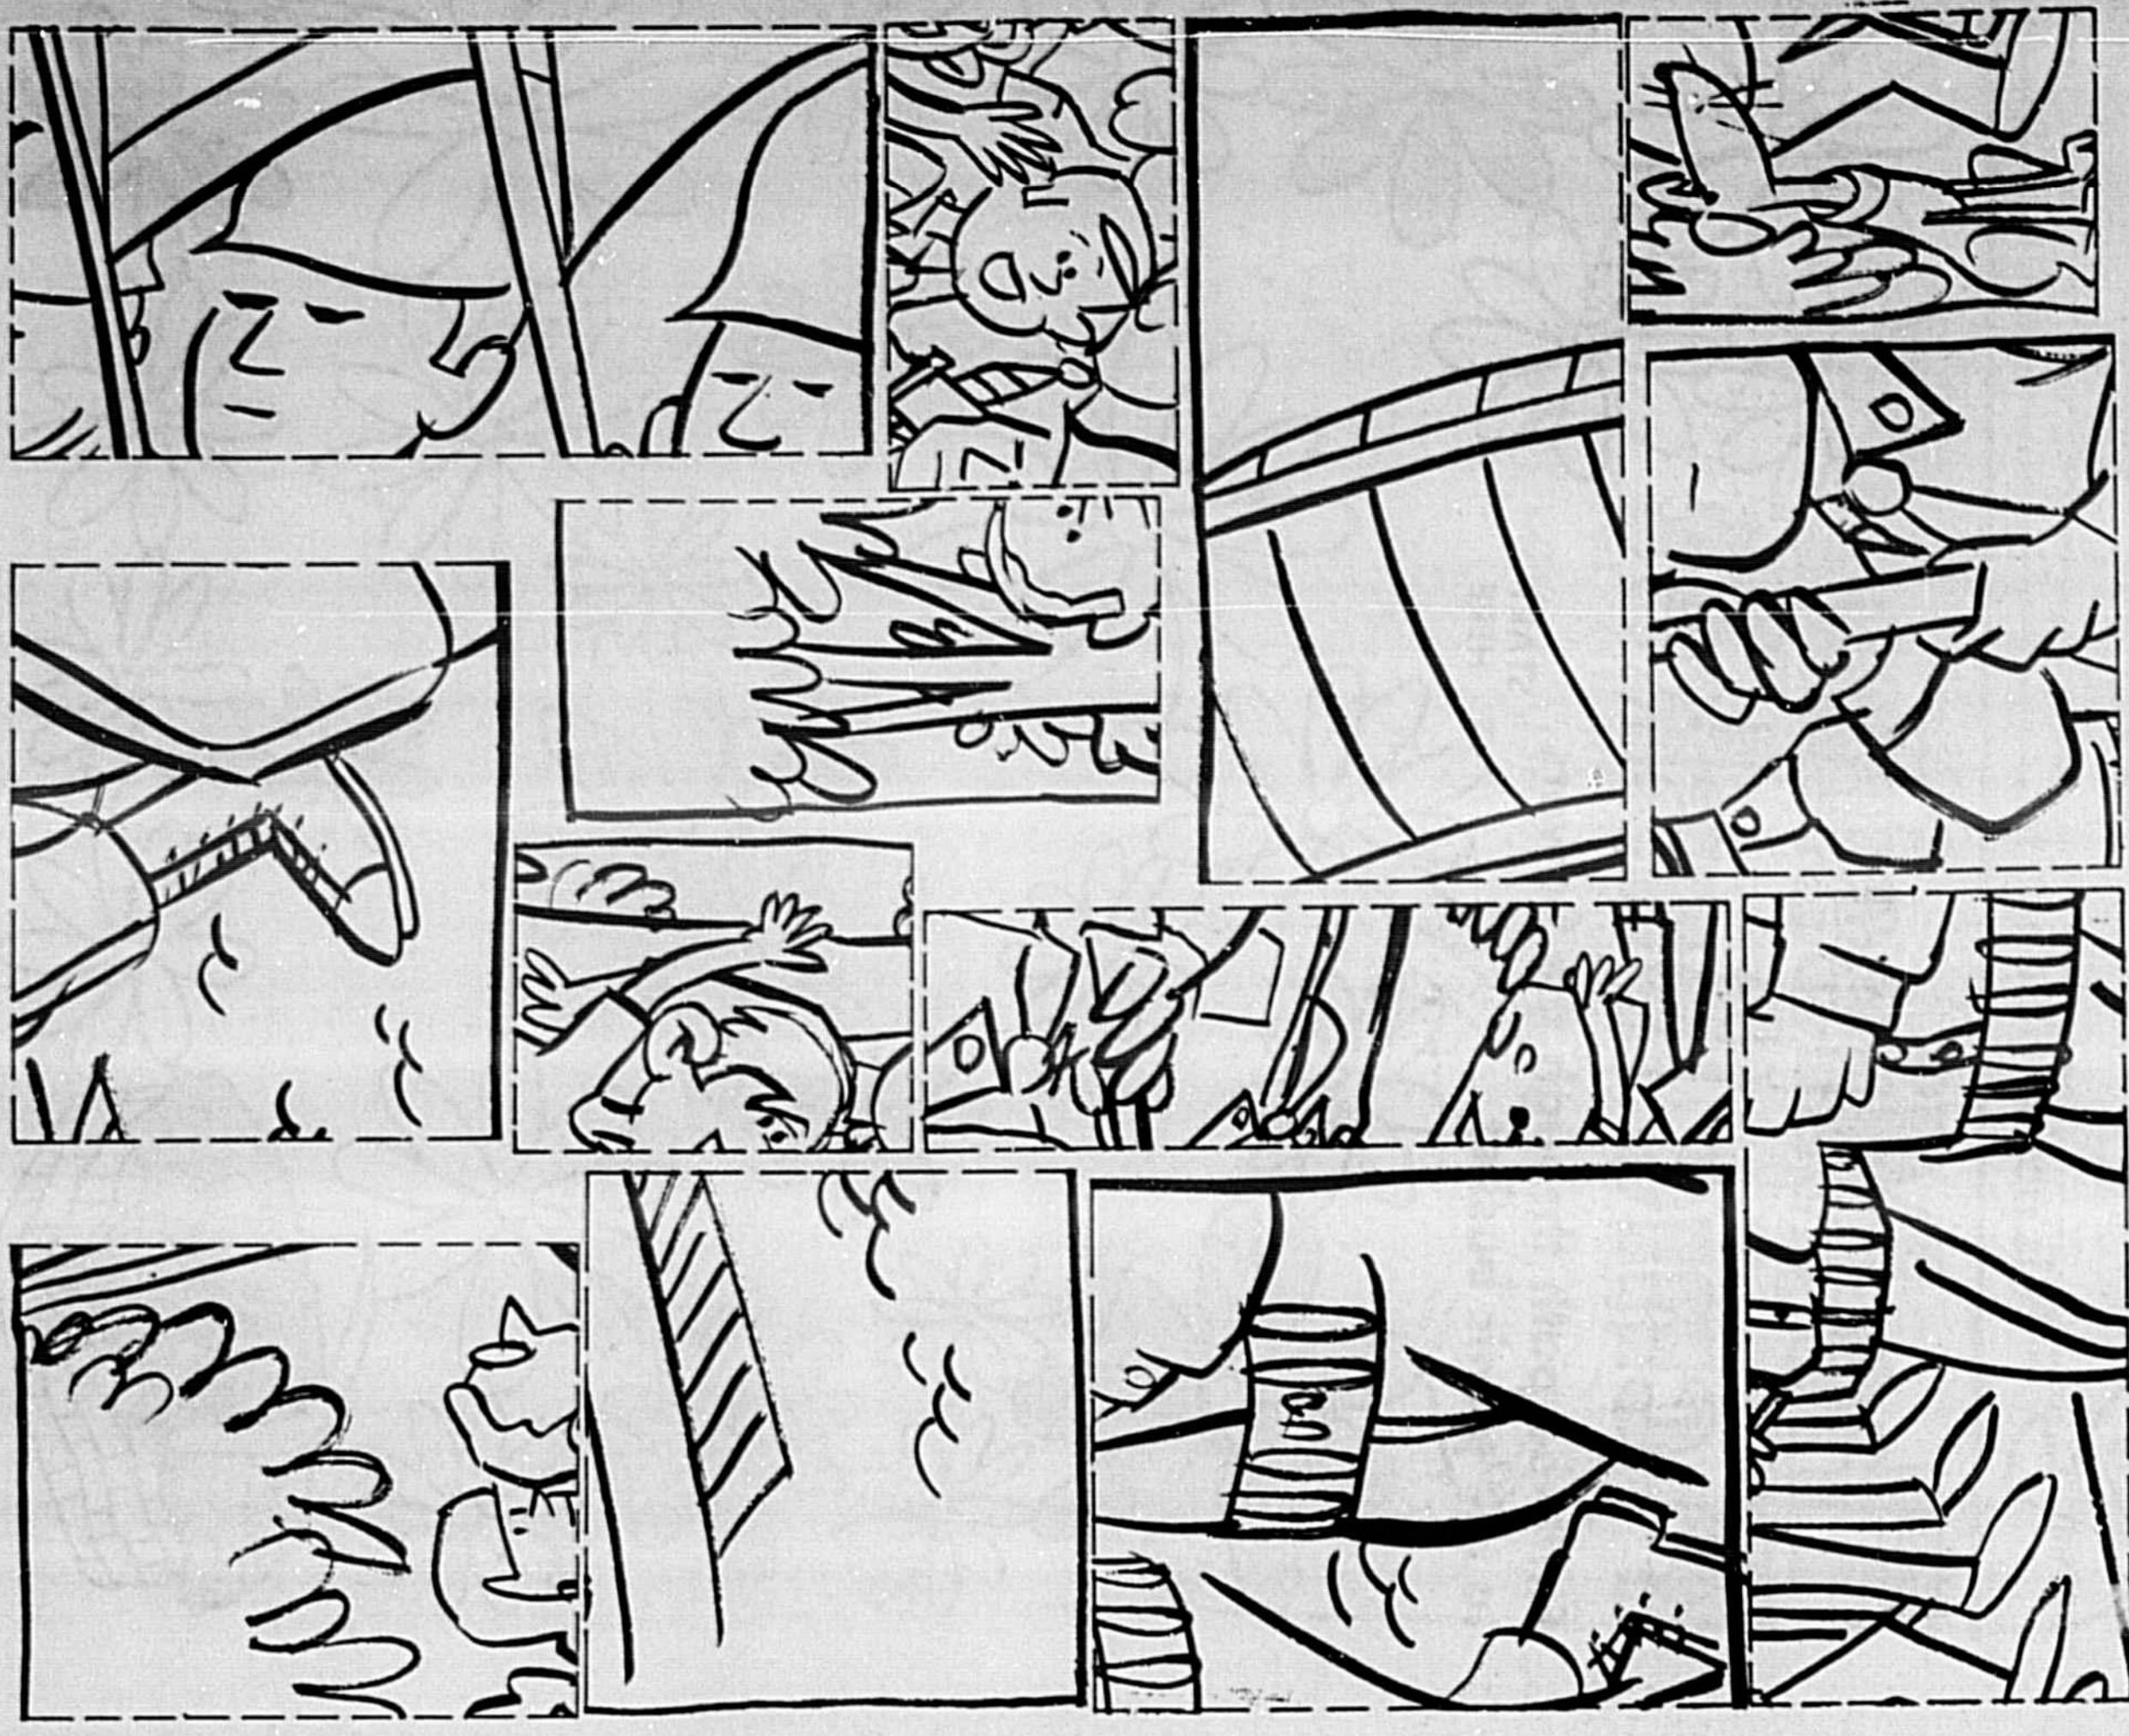

After World War II, the school year was further extended to 180 days. In addition, many
