U.S. Unemployment Up; Seminole Figures Not In Yet

While the nation's unemployment rate jumped to 7.5 percent in September, its highest rate in five months, it will be another month before labor department officials know if the rate in Seminole County followed suit.

Statistics by counties won't be made available until Oct. 29, said Sue German, statistician for the Florida Department of Labor and Employment Security.

Meanwhile, a comparison of state and national unemployment figures showed Florida with slightly less employment than nationwide - 7.3 percent compared to 7.5 percent, using the same seasonally adjusted figures.

Seasonally adjusted figures, German said, compensate for employment fluctuations due to the time of year. Employment usually is less in the summer in Florida, when agricultural work falls off and other groups such as teachers are not working. But in the fall, she said, agriculture picks up and employment rises in other areas in anticipation of the Christmas season.

In comparing seasonally unadjusted rates, Seminole County registered a 7.3 percent unemployment rate in August, compared to the state's 6.7 percent.

The state's rate jumped to eight percent in September, but the Seminole County figure isn't in yet. German said she could not predict if Seminole will register a sunilar jump.

Both the state and Seminole County averaged a 6.3 percent seasonally unadjusted unemployment rate between September 1980 and August 1981.

Nationally, U.S. Labor Department figures for September showed unemployment among blacks hitting a record high of 16.3 percent, but German said the Florida Department of Labor keeps no separate tally of blacks or other groups.

The 16.3 percent national level for blacks was up slightly from the 16.2 percent figure for August, the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reported.

For black teen-agers 16 to 19, the September figure returned to near the July level, dropping from August's record of 50.7 percent to 40.2 percent.

Nationally, the overall unemployment rate of 7.5 percent in September was .3 percent above August's 7.2 percent. In Florida, the state's 7.3 percent rate for September was up 1.3 percent from August's 6.4 percent.

"That's quite a jump," German said. "It's not the usual jump.'

In the same months last year, she said, the unemployment increase was only .3 percent in the state.

She said this year's much higher jump between August and September was large but it is too early to call it a trend,

"Things like this have happened before," she said, "Unemployment has been known to jump one month and go down the next.

"We have to wait at least two months before we can say unemployment is on the rise."

Meanwhile, German said there are several possible reasons for the large unemployment jump in Florida.

"Some of the surveys may be starting to pick up some of the refugees," she said. "There is also a lot of airline unemployment in Florida due to the layoffs that followed the air trattic controller's strike. CETA layoffs are another possibility."

Unemployment counts, German explained, are based on random statewide household surveys conducted by the federal Bureau of the Census.

'We have to accept what they tell us," she said. "But for a long time we've been fighting with the feds because we don't think enough of the 90,000 Cubans and Haltians are being counted.

Unemployment counts also miss those who have quit seeking work, she said

"Unemployment is the percentage of the civilian labor force out of work," she said. "The civilian labor force is the total of all those employed and unemployed. But to be considered unemployed one has to be actively seeking work.

"Those who have given up and are staying home are not counted as unemployed."

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, however, does try to keep See JOBLESS, Page 2A

New Bank Sought In Longwood

The city of Longwood has accepted an application from a group of persons planning to organize a national bank at 502 N. Highway 17-92.

Upon acceptance of the application by the city, the group will decide on naming the bank either Liberty National Bank or Allied National Bank. The former name is the preferred one.

The bank, as proposed by the five persons interested in establishing it in Longwood, will be a 9,000-square-foot building with five teller lanes, according to William B. Gossett, representative for the project.

"The Longwood area was chosen for the bank because it has a good central location in the county and the area looks like it is the leading edge of the county," said Gossett.

At some point, if the location is accepted by the city, the bank will have 24hour service, but initially the service will not be offered to customers, said Gossett.

"The bank will have 24-hour service sometime in the future, but first it has to build up a clientele that will use it," he added.

Probe Grand Jury May Get Lake Mary Police Case

By DIANE PETRYK and

TOM GIORDANO

A Seminole County grand jury may be asked Wednesday to unravel the mystery surrounding the resignation of a Lake Mary police lieutenant and subsequent allegations that he stole several weapons form an evidence locker and sold them. The grand jury also may be asked to examine another allegation - that the lieutenant deliberately shot himself just prior to leaving the department,

The officer, Lt. David Higginbotham, 34, remains in Florida Hospital-Altamonte recovering from his wound. And, as far as he's concerned, he says he can't understand why anyone wants to prosecute him in the stolen-guns incident, asserting the matter was resolved weeks ago. He also flatly denies he shot himself.

There are several other questions the grand jury and the Seminole-Brevard state attorney's office will be looking at:

- Why, after the Lake Mary Police Department learned Higginbotham was

Lake Mary mayor and police commissioner, according to Higginbotham, promised he would not be prosecuted as long as he left the department after making restitution?

State Attorney Douglas Cheshire confirmed today that his office has been investigating both allegations. He also said there's a "99.9 percent chance" of the shooting incident's going to the grand jury as a matter of course, but declined to comment on whether the stolen-guns allegation also would go to the grand - tury

He said he is prohibited by law from divulging such information. Seminole County Sheriff John Polk, however, said today it is his understanding the stolengun case will go to the grand jury Wednesday.

The story began several weeks ago when, according to the Sanford Police Department, they got a tip Higginbotham had sold some guns at a Sanford auction house. That department notified Polk's office, since he is the county's chief lawenforcement officer.

Polk said he met with Higgl

Over 40 persons have applied for the city cierk's position for Altamonte Springs, according to city officials. The position formerly was held by Phyllis Jordahl, who left the city's employ on Sept. 11 to accept a position in private. industry.

The city commission is slated to discuss the selection process for the position at Tuesday's commission meeting at 7 p.m. in City Hall, 225 Newburyport Ave.

The city clerk, with an annual salary ranging from $15,700 to $22,300, is primarily responsible for recording and maintaining official records of the city and the City Commission. According to Personnel Director Sam Frazee, the person hired to fill the position will most likely begin at the lower salary, unless qualifications and experience warrant additional pay.

The qualifications include knowledge of city ordinances, policies and procedures, and legal requirements; ability to accurately prepare and report the actions of the commission and various boards; ability to work effectively with city officials, city employees and the public; ability to be bonded for $50,000; and have speedwriting or shorthand skills.

Why did the Lake Mary Police Department accept the return of one of the stolen guns and agree to take $300 from Higginbotham's last paycheck to pay for the rest of the weapons?

- Why was Higginbotham allowed to carry a gun and remain on duty almost two weeks after he turned in his resignation, citing job-related stress and emotional strain and his admission that he could no longer function as a police officer?

- Was there an inventory list of evidence contained in the evidence locker which is now alleged to be missing, or did such a list never exist, as Higginbotham asserts?

Sanford Store Robbed Twice In 3 Days

The Eagle Family Discount Store, 2670 Orlando Drive, Sanford, was robbed for the second time in three days Sunday as an armed man pointed a gun at a cashier's head and made off with $91.

He also took some merchandise and left the store in an unknown direction, according to police.

Cashier Elizabeth Chorpening, 52, of 407 Editha Circle, Sanford, was the clerk. She had also been on duty when the store was robbed by an unidentified gunman at 7:43 p.m. Friday.

The most recent incident occurred Sunday at 11:11 a.m.

In conjunction with Friday's incident, police are looking for a black male, approximately six feet tall, 140 to 200 pounds, who was wearing a flowered shirt, tan pants, sunglasses and yellow jungle hat and who had a mustache. He was described by witnesses as having been calm. The amount of money taken in the robbery was not released.

The suspect in Sunday's holdup was described as a black male approximately five, 6 inches tall, 135 to 140 pounds, who was wearing a black "muscle shirt," according to police.

CIRCUIT COURT SENTENCINGS

A 44-year-old Sanford man, committed to a state mental hospital over two years ago for sexually assaulting a sevenyear-old girl, was returned to Seminole County last week and sentenced to 10 years in prison.

William Coots will be given credit for the time he has served under Florida's program for mentally disordered sexual offenders.

On Jan. 8, 1979, Coots pleaded no contest to the November 1978 assault. He was committed to the state hospital at Chattahoochee in April 1979 and released in December 1980.

MIAMI (UPI) - In the wake of a warning from a federal agency that America does not have enough doctors versed in war-medicine, more than 240 physicians have begun a course at a Miami hospital to learn how to operate on a battlefield.

A majority of the doctors are Cubans and are being instructed by Cuban Vietnam veterans at American Hospital.

Many of the doctors believe war is imminent in the Caribbean or Central America, and some openly advocate It.

The General Accounting Office recently warned Congress that If a war broke out tomorrow, the Pentagon could not find enough doctors trained in war medicine.

Unfortunately for Ludacer, his would-be recruits won't. Last month, Ludacer asked Congress to grant him letters of marque and reprisal, which would make him a licensed privateer who could help the federal government capture drug smugglers in the Caribbean and Gulf of Mexico.

The Haltians went on strike Friday in protest of the. Importation of Jamaican cane cutters.

Company officials said Sunday they would know today if the strike is still on. If so, they said they would hire Jamaicans to replace the Haitians.

The strike was called at noon Friday by the Farmworkers Rights Organization, led by Jesus Romo, an organizer of protests in Arizona. Romo, who moved to Immokalee, in the heart of southwest Florida's vegetable growing belt, to sign up Haitian field workers, charged U.S. Sugar with a "systematic, purposeful intent to discourage local workers so that they can hire offshore workers. There is a lot of harasement."

'Escape Artist' Out Again

MIAMI (UPI) - Andrew Williams, who escaped from the federal North Dade Detention Center by holding a rasor to a guard's throat, remained at large today, a jail spokesman said.

Williams, 33, once labeled a "teenage escape artist," fled the minimum security prison late Sunday holding a razor to a guard's neck. The guard was not injured. Williams had been held at the center on federal robbery charges. He also is on probation for a robbery conviction.

Bret Finney, field service engineer with Ladder Towers, Inc., of Ephrata, Pa., was showing Sanford firemen how their new $300,000 ladder fire truck works Friday afternoon when the vehicle was called away to a minor fire on Rosalia Drive. The firefighters, apparently quick learners, put out the blaze quickly and returned to the task of learning how to operate the truck's fancy equipment. Sanford Fire Chief William Gailey was so impressed with the vehicle's performance that he said the truck is" the finest piece of equipment we've ever had."

track of what it calls "discouraged workers." Its quarterly report showed 1.1 million people in that category. Virtually all of September's employment decline, about 675,000 jobs, was attributed to white workers.

Employment in construction, which had shown some growth in the latter part of 1980 and the early months of this year, fell by another 20,000 jobs in September and has dropped 165,000 Jobs since April. The bureau said employment in mining rose as a result of continued strength in oil and gas extraction.

The bureau reported the increase in unemployment was concentrated among people 25 years and older, both men and women.

Among major categories, only Hispanic workers showed a decline in joblessness, dropping from 9.7 percent in August to 9.3 percent in September.

In a news conference Thursday, President Reagan indicated his new program, much of which went into effect that day at the start of the new fiscal year, will turn things around.

"In the next several years we can create 13 million jobs and reduce inflation," he said, but he cautioned, "Our programs won't be instantaneous.

"Fluctuations in the various economic indicators such as employment and inflation will probably continue for the next several months," he said. "But we will not be swayed from our plan by every changing current, every passing trend or every short-term fluctuation." - DIANE PETRYK

Pets Can Do Wonders For Heart Patients

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) -- Pets, even a tankful of flah. can increase a heart disease patient's chance of survival and help lower a person's high blood pressure, researchers uald.

Results of research on the influence pets have on people were announced at the first International Conference on Human-Companion Animal Bond.

The conference attracted more than 450 physicians, psychologists, anthropologists and other scholars to the University of Pennsylvania Veterinary School's Center for the Interaction of Animals, the only such center in North America.

"Psychologists began to realize that people who were unwilling to make contact with other people were willing to make contact with animals," said Dr. Aaron Katcher, chairman of the conference.

Katcher's preliminary research has found that a pet can increase the chances of survival for a heart patient and lower high blood pressure in some cases.

"It was an accidental finding, but we found that even watching a tankful of fish seems to help," he said.

Other research findings to be presented at the conference include a study that discovered 70 percent of a child's dreams are about animals and another that determined many more women than men are interested in horses as pets.

... Grand Jury May Get Lake Mary Probe

"We got the gun back and he was leaving police work," he added. ".It's at this point that the story gets controversial in terms of who knew what and who said what to whom.

Higginbotham says Benson was fully aware of his emotional problems and that he was undergoing psychological counseling, and that there was more than one weapon involved. Higginbotham further says Benson assured him that if he agreed to continue getting counseling and to leave the department, saying that's what Polk wanted, he was sure no one would want to prosecute him.

Higginbotham said he returned the one weapon and also agreed to let the city take $300 out of his paycheck to pay for the other weapons, which he described as "old and worth only $30 to $40 each."

A memo from Benson to Lake Mary City Treasurer Madeleine Papa confirms $300 was deducted from Higginbotham's last check to "assure all department property is turned in."

"They promised there would be no prosecution. They knew I was under severe emotional strain. Why are they breaking their promise? They even gave me a plaque and a party, and the plaque says it's in honor of my 'dedicated service to the department." This is after they knew everything," Higginbotham said. He said he didn't wish to comment further on the incident since he is consulting a lawyer. "I've already had seven operations, I've lost about 40 pounds, I'm on heavy medication. I feel like my life is ending." he said.

It was only a short time after he announced his resignation when on Aug. 28 Higginbotham was on routine patrol of the Southward Orange Grove on County Road 46-A when he radioed that he was checking out a suspicious-looking black van parked in front of a farm-equipment shed on the property.

Higginbotham reported he saw a man at the shed and then radioed for assistance. He said he ordered the man to "freeze" and when it looked like he was going to run, drew his weapon.

At that point, Higginbotham said, another man came out of the shed and attacked him from behind. In the struggle, he said, his .38 caliber 357 magnum discharged, hitting him in the

The two men reportedly jumped into the black van and sped off.

The day before the incident, Benson had written a letter to the Police Standards and Training Commission in stress? Tallahasee requesting that "at no time Higginbotham be reinstated on another (police) department until they contact me for clarification of his personal problems."

In the letter, Benson quoted from Higginbotham's resignation citing his own emotional and mental problems and the statement that he has no desire to go back into police work.

Shortly after the shooting incident the matter was turned over to another department, the Winter Springs Police Department, because of "rumors" Higginbotham may have shot himself deliberately.

The Winter Springs detective who conducted the investigation said he would not disclose his findings but did admit, "I lean both ways -- that he did not shoot himself deliberately and that he did shoot himself deliberately."

His findings were turned over to the state attorney's office.

While Higginbotham flatly denies shooting himself, asserting, "There was no profit to be made," he has been collecting 66 percent of his salary from Workmen's Compensation, which also will pay his medical expenses.

Why was Higginbotham permitted to carry a gun and remain on duty almost two weeks after he resigned and while his superiors knew of his psychological else." Benson said.

Benson also said that during that missing. To reconstruct the list, Benson explained, he was having to go through tell what evidence was conflecated.

"Baloney," Higginbotham said. "There never was an evidence list to be lost. The department didn't keep one. I was simply putting one together after the fact,"

The already had seven operations, I've lost about 40 pounds, I'm on heavy medication. I feel like my life is ending."

Benson also said that since Higginbotham was Lake Mary's only detective, and his second in command, he was needed to bring his replacement, a sergeant being promoted, up to date on ongoing cases. Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson said there may be another reason was a hazard to himself or anybody Higginbotham wasn't replaced immediately.

"The whole Police Department a year period Higginbotham was attempting to ago was gutted, with experienced men reconstruct the Police Department's going to other areas (for more pay)," evidence list, which had turned up the mayor said. The 17-man department was reduced to a nine-man force. He added that the city lost CETA funding for three file cabinets of reports. The reports nolice officers and voters turned down a tax increase for that purpose.

"I'm sure Higginbotham isn't the first police officer who had ever had marital and other difficulties and was still able to function on their job," Surenson added.

The state attorney's office became involved in the shooting, according to Cheshire, because it's routine for his office to look into such incidents, and where there may be any doubt as to what actually happened and why, it generally goes to the grand jury.

Higginbotham maintains, however, that the case of the stolen guns has gotten as far as it has "because of the many enemies I've made as a policeman."

At one point Higginbotham was asked to take a lie-detector test, which he did. He said his successfully passing that test is further evidence that everybody knew exactly what had been taken, since the purpose of the test was to discover whether he had taken any other property in addition to the weapons.

Benson would not comment on the liedetector test.

Benson praised Higginbotham's work as a police officer since he joined the Lake Mary force as a patrolman in July 1977.

He said Higginbotham put in a tremendous number of hours as a detective, as chief of patrol, and as his second in command

"He was on call seven days a week and always responded well," Benson said. Higginbotham was nominated for the George Pfeil Annual Memorial Award in March by Benson, who called him a "highly dedicated professional and an exceptional patrol officer."

Why was one gun returned and Higginbotham allowed by Benson to pay restitution for the others prior to any charge or court action? Benson said he would not comment because the case is going to court. But he added:

"Obviously I must have had a reason. and a good reason."

Polk would not say Higginbotham committed theft but called his action "a wrong-doing."

"He should have known better." Polk said.

Polk admitted if Higginbotham had been working for the Sheriff's department he would have been fired as soon as the gun-selling incident was revealed.

"It happened in my department a while back," Polk said. "I fired the man and filed charges."

Buried In Texas Grave

FORT WORTH, Texas (UPI) - After two years of legal battles, pathologists needed only a few hours to decide the body in Lee Harvey Oswald's grave was that of the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy and not a Russian imposter.

"Beyond any doubt - and I mean absolutely any doubt-the person buried under the name Lee Harvey Oswald is, in fact, Lee Harvey Oswald." said Dr. Linda Norton, head of the team of eight experts who examined the body for four hours Sunday at Baylor University Medical Center,

She said the most critical pieces of evidence were dental records dating to Oswald's Marine Corps career In the mid-1960s and a "bone depression" behind the left ear consistent with a "mastoid operation" such as Oswald had in 1945 at age 6.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) - Britain's secretary for Northern Ireland pledged prison reforms to avoid a resumption of the IRA hunger strike but faced demands for concessions that could free more than 100 republican inmates.

James Prior's visit to Northern Ireland on Sunday came within 34 hours of the collague of the seven-month IRA campaign of death fasts at Mane Prison demanding political prisoner status. Ten inmates died from the fasts.

Mase chaplain the Rev. Denis Faul, who permuaded family members to pressure the remaining six fasters to end their protest Saturday, unged Britain to restore time-off for good behavior lost by inmates. That remission of sentences was a key demand of the hunger strikers.

Deregulation Long Overdue

For 32 years, the broadcasting of campaigns and issues has been subject to the twin doctrines of equal time and fairness.

Recently the Federal Communications Commission recommended that Congress do away with both rules-a bit of deregulation that is long over-due.

Both equal time and fairness were parts of the Communications Act of 1934, legislation that is as outmoded as the technology of that age.

Satellites, transponders and transistors have replaced the crystal sets and oversize radio cabinets of almost 50 years ago. And the corresponding maturity and diversity of today's broadcasting industry makes the old rules equally obsolete.

The so-called Fairness, Doctrine required broadcasters to serve the "public interest, convenience and necessity" by airing controversial and diverse viewpoints.

In practice, the doctrine has proved to be difficult to define, impossible to enforce and often unfair.

Usually dissenting viewpoints are permitted only in answer to on-the-air editorials. News, documentary and public affairs programs-like their counterparts in print journalism-almost always are unchallenged on the air.

Sometimes the fairness doctrine works in strange ways. Advertisers have had to submit to dissenters. That's one reason why manufacturers of cigarettes may have been happy to quit advertising their products on television and radio.

Equal time has had equally strange consequences.

Enacted to ensure that candidates had equal access to the public airwaves, no matter how farout or unpopular their views were, the doctrine was intended to enlarge the political arena.

Instead, it has had the opposite effect. Weary of devoting hours of air time to minor parties and their candidates, broadcasters have cut down on the amount of political public service.

Political discussion now is handled for the most part in regularly scheduled news programs, which traditionally have been free from equal time and fairness rules.

Hunting season opened Saturday for doves with the daily limit set at 12.

Two Sides To Strong Dollar

DON GRAFF

Every silver lining has its cloud, and one appears to be fast developing for the recently strong U.S. dollar on international markets.

For a number of reasons, including most prominently continuing high interest rates that have been pulling billions of loose change from abroad into American banks, the dollar has been gaining value steadily in relation to most other major currencies. Currently it has been hitting levels against the yen, mark and franc some 20 percent above its low point of three years ago.

That is, of course, good news for American tourists whose money goes further abroad and for consumers back home who theoretically are buying foreign goods for less.

But there is another side to the coin now turning up and it is not such good news. The strong dollar also means that U.S. goods cost more abroad and our trading partners are thus inclined to buy fewer of them.

This is already being reflected in the trade balance that last year showed a deficit of more than $20 billion. The 1981 deficit is expected to be significantly more, possibly setting an all-time record of $30 billion or more.

In the past, shortfalls in merchandise exchanges have usually been more than balanced by income from intangibles, the return on investments and a wide range of American services that earn money abroad. But that balance is also shifting and is expected to fall many billions short of making up for this year's trade deficit.

So the price Americans are paying now and

JEFFREY HART Giamatti For President?

Yale University president A. Bartlett Giamatti has his eye on a U.S. Senate seat, Democratic, in Connecticut. It has not escaped him, either, that the Democratic nomination for president in 1964 is wide open. He is bored at Yale, according to talk round the Yale campus, and wants out and up.

These ambitions, and they alone, make sense of Giamatti's wild attack on the Moral Majority, delivered in a message to the freshman class. Bart Giamatti is a wit and a sophisticate as argument concerns public policy - what to do about It. And where public policy is concerned, Falwell has as much right to an opinion as anyone else. Giamatti, so far, has refused a challenge to vegetable life. It's not animal life. The whole debate a representative of the Moral Majority.

Falderal aside, the interesting question here remains one of why this normally urbane and intelligent man should have expressed himself so wildly and so loosely. It is widely

ROBERT WAGMAN Federal Workers In Middle

WASHINGTON (NEA) - The Reagan administration seems unsure of its policy toward so-called "whistle-blowers," the government employees who reveal waste and wrongdoing in their agencies. At times the administration is saying that they will be not only protected but rewarded, while at other times it is making whistleblowing more difficult and possibly even dangerous.

President Reagan said during his campaign that government employees "must be assured that when they blow the whistle that they will be protected and their information properly investigated."

The Office of Personnel Management has encouraged bureaucrats to report on abuses observed in the line of work. The personnel agency has gone so far as to distribute to government offices posters explaining the rights and protections afforded employees who come forward.

The Office of Management and Budget recently announced the establishment of "whistleblower hotlines" to enable government employees to phone in reports on wrongdoing in their agencies. Edwin Harper, the deputy director of the office, said that the program had the full backing of the president - who, Harper said, "is attempting to change attitudes throughout government."

However, whistleblowing is being discouraged - not encouraged - by other segments of the Reagan administration.

Attorney General William French Smith recently announced the lifting of Carteradministration restrictions on the prosecution of federal employees for leaking information.

The willingness of the majority of the FCC to abandon rules it has tried to enforce for 32 years can be attributed to three factors:

First is the attitude of a new Reagan commission that is more oriented to a free market approach to broadcasting-something the industry itself has urged for years.

Second is the compelling argument by broadcasters that they are entitled to the same First Amendment guarantees and editorial judgements as their print colleagues.

Third and perhaps most important is the revolution within the industry itself. When the fairness and equal time doctrines were adopted. there were relatively few radio and no television stations.

At that time, there may have been a need to require these users of the public airwaves to present a variety of views.

Today, there are 9,600 radio and television stations in the United States and every week new outlets are being added by broadcasters and cable operators, who are not subject to FCC regulation.

The paucity of outlets has been replaced by a multiplicity. The medium is presenting a staggering variety of viewpoints-public broadcasting, religious networks, foreign language stations, sports networks, even-alasstations specializing in pornographic programming.

Even the term broadcasting is being replaced by a new and more relevant wordnarrowcasting.

There is a need for Congress and the FCC to remain alert to the changing nature of electronic communications. Certainly the old Communications Act needs rewriting and updating.

And the first things that should be scrapped, like the vacuum tubes and rabbit ears of a bygone era, are the outmoded and misnamed doctrines of fairness and equal time.

possibly for some years to come for their stronger dollar is a mounting debt to the rest of the world.

It is in the short term a no-way-out situation that may make dealing with the budget deficit look almost easy.

A major contributor to American trade deficits is oll.

Last year the nation paid nearly $80 billion to foreign producers to meet its needs. Those needs are dropping as conservation efforts and increased fuel efficiency have their combined effect, but not fast enough to balance the outflow of dollars.

Many of those dollars, however, are flowing back into the country in the form of investments in the American economy. The treasury puts the OPEC investment in U.S. government and industrial securities and stocks at some $70 billion as of mid-1981.

That estimate falls far short of the real mark, according to non-government sources who estimate total Saudi Arabian holdings in securities and real estate at $100 million, with Kuwait and some of the other better-heeled OPEC members not too far behind.

Whatever, officially the treasury is saying it is no cause for alarm and that the government continues to welcome foreign investment as a contribution to the growth of the economy. Nevertheless, the administration is beginning a study of investment policy and is reviewing the powers. of a Committee on Foreign Investment set up in 1975 to keep tabs on the foreign stake in the economy.

The situation bears some similarity to that of a few decades back when American business was buying heavily into the European economies to the concern of several governments.

well as a Renaissance scholar of national standing. He has never been given to public exhibitions of political feverishness. Yet in his message to the freshmen, he pretended to believe that the Rev. Jerry Falwell and his Moral Majority are a real threat to the rest of us and to the nation itself.

"A self-proclaimed 'Moral Majority' and its satellite or client groups... threaten the values (of the United States) ... The voices of coercion speak not for liberty but for license, the license to divide in the name of patriolism, the license to deny in the name of Christianity. And they have licensed a new meanness of spirit in our land, a resurgent bigotry that manifests itself in racist and discriminatory positions in threats of political retaliation, in injunctions of censorship, in acts of violence."

These wild accusations about racism and bigotry probably surprised the Rev. Falwell during one of his regular phone conversations with Menachem Begin. The Moral Majority has not advocated bigotry, violence, or censorship.

Giamatti's phrase "political retaliation" seems to mean that Falwell votes against politicians he objects to. A very subversive practice.

But Yale's president had a lot more to communicate to the freshmen: "From the maw of this morality come those who presume to know what justice for all is; come those who presume to know which books are fit to read, which textbooks will serve for all the young; come spilling those who presume to know what God alone knows, which is when human life begins."

Bart Giamatti failed to explain how he discerns what God in fact knows.

Moreover, general agreement exists about when human life starts: at conception. It's not #### believed that Giamatti was constituency building. Here's the going hypothesis.

Chris Dodd holds one Connecticut Senate seat: Lowell Weicker the other. Weicker. unpopular, faces primary opposition next year. Weicker or some other Republican looks to be beatable in the general election. All Giamatti has to do to have a real shot at a Senate seat is beat Rep. Tony Moffett in the Democratic primary.

Giamatti's Moral Majority tirade gained him instant visibility, page one of the New York Times, as a matter of fact. It also won him friendly attention from the suburban liberals who make up a substantial bloc in Connecticut, the "Merritt Parkway liberals," They also like his Yale identification. Giamatti neatly turned himself into the 'Eastern" and "liberal" spokesman against the Sunbelt Giamatti's Italian name adds an interesting twist to all this. Connecticut has a large Italian-American population. Its last elected governor was Ella Grasso. Nationwide, the Italian-American minority has had disproportionately little political and cultural clout -- yet it is about as numerous as the noisier black minority. The Italian-Americans might go for Giamatti in Connecticut, and, who knows, in the nation.

For there is a big vacuum at the top of the Democratic Party, Kennedy is a windbag and a has-been, full of dated ideas. He's the William Jennings Bryan of the 1960s. Walter Mondale is a snore. John Glenn is colorless. Jerry Brown is a flake, and he's sinking in his Senate bid anyway.

But a Bart Giamatti-Gary Hart ticket, say, might have a lot of pizzazz. That's what Bart Giamatti was really telling his freshmen. Too bad it was a written message. They couldn't see him winking.

Those regulations essentially limited. prosecution to those who leaked classified information or whose disclosures either jeopardized lives or "substantially damaged the United States."

A spokesman for Smith said that the Carter guidelines were being rescinded because they were "vague" and "opened loopholes." But critics - including the American Civil Liberties Union and several unions representing government employees --contend that Smith has made possible the prosecution of whistleblowers; they say that employees now may be far more reluctant to come forward with damaging information.

It was Smith's Justice Department that earlier this year held up already-announced merit awards to three department lawyers who had gone public with complaints about the conduct of their superiors.

Two of the lawyers were working on the criminal prosecution of McDonnell-Douglas executives who had been accused of bribing foreign officials. The pair complained when a top department official discussed the case without their knowledge with lawyers for the corporation. The third lawyer wrote a memoquestioning the legal arguments used by Smith in a speech denouncing busing to achieve racial balance.

Meanwhile, the administration came out against the suggestion by Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., that whistleblowers be rewarded for exposing government waste with cash payments of up to 1 percent of the resulting savings. "Enough incentives already exist for whistleblowers," said a spokesman for the Office of Management and Budget. "This type of compensation is not necessary."

Pentagon Covered Up For Army

WASHINGTON - This might best be called "The Anatomy of a Pentagon Lie." Six months ago, I reported that U.S. Army troops in Europe were in a pitiable state of readinees - ill-educated, ill-trained and even illiterate. Nine out of 10 soldiers assigned to operate and maintain nuclear weapons had flunked tests of their basic military skills, I reported. The figures for inadequate personnel were almost as shocking in other areas, including SE percent of artillery crewmen, 77 percent of computer programmers, 89 percent of tracked-vehicle mechanics and $2 percent of Hawk surface-to-air missile crews.

It was an appalling report, and the Army responded with howls of protest - and some outright lies, which I can now document. Here's what my April 8 report said, what the Army replied, and what the Army knew the truth to be - as stated in a secret briefing report for the Army chief of staff obtained by my associate Ron McRae:

- My report: "While the shocking details have been hidden from the American public, our Gis' inadequacy is no secret to our allies." Army response: a flat denial, coupled with the boast that U.S. troops were now the pride of NATO forces.

The facts: Continuing poor test results of military proficiency are a direct result of recruiting poorly educated personnel, the secret briefing document states. "Although (Secretary Alexander) declared that we have no manpower problems, the vast majority of officers believe otherwise," the report says. More than 80 percent of the Army's officers complained about the low quality of their troops. Incidentally, black collisied men as a group outscored whites; they tend to be better educated and better motivated than white

Saints Stomp Heritage Prep For First Victory, 20-0

By BILLY STRIPP Herald Sports Writer

It was a day for long gains when 1A schools Trinity Prep and Heritage Prep got together Saturday afternoon at the Saints field with each team looking for its first victory.

The Saints made better use of the long gains and earned their first win with a 200 fans at Trinity Prep.

Coach Ron Vierling's Saints are 1-2 for the year, while the Praetorians dropped to 0-3. "It was a great victory. Marvelous," exclaimed Vierling after the Joseph was hit from behind and the ball game with sweat dripping from his forehead on the steamy afternoon. Neither team could get the ball in the ball.

40 yard line as Saints punter Brian Butler had trouble getting the ball away. Quarterback Randy Eisenhart hit wideout Ulysses Bennett on a nice 52 handy 20-0 decision over Heritage before yard gain. Bennett contributed to the team on three catches for 116 yards. The catch brought Heritage threatening down to the Prep 8-yard line.

However, the drive stalled as Rodney souirted out from his hands. Saints Linebacker Chris Lucas jumped on the endzone during the first period, but

Prep started from its own 10, and moved the ball 90 yards in six plays to give the Saints a 7-0 advantage. The touchdown was set up on a second down and 10 pass. Quarterback Steve Philips hit the graceful Senior, Stanley Fenner on a fly pattern, the result a 71-yard gain down to the Heritage 19.

Randy Scott pushed the ball down to the 15. Then Junior Richard Milliman went to work. The 5-foot-10, 170-pound Halfback, burst around the corner breaking several tackles racing for a 15yard touchdown. Stanley Fenner booted the ball through to make the score 7-0 Trinity Prep with 5:57 remaining in the half.

The Practorians took a long 12-play

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) - The Tampa Bay Buccaneers disagree with the pass coverage the Detroit Lions used on them Sunday but they loved the result.

Doug Williams threw two scoring passes to Kevin House, another of 37 yards to James Wilder and still another of six to Jim Obradovich in a 28-10 victory over the Lions.

"The coverage Detroit used dictated who I threw to," said Williams. "They were using signal coverage on House all day."

House was delighted by that development, too. "I felt I was open all day, but when they are in single coverage, you are supposed to get open," House said.

Detroit had jumped to a 10-0 lead in the first quarter on a 50-yard field goal by Eddie Murray and a 5-yard scoring pass from Jeff Komlo to Freddle Scott. But then the Williams-House combination began to heat up.

Williams looped a scoring toss from 17 yards out early in the second quarter, then did it all over again in a disputed play late in the period. The Lions contended that House didn't get both feel down in the end zone before going out of bounds and House wasn't sure.

the second-year receiver from Southern Illinois. Asked what he would have thought if officials called him out of bounds, he said, "I would have taken it for granted that I was out."

That touchdown made it 14-10 at the half and it wasn't until the first two minutes of the fourth quarter that the Bucs finally clinched the win.

That came after defensive end Bill Kollar recovered the tenth fumble of his career on the 50-yard line. The Bucs moved the ball to the 37 in two plays and on the next down, Wilder, a rookle fullback, lined up at flanker.

Williams spotted him alone behind safety Elvin Hall down the right sidelines, where Wilder caught Williams' throw and rolled into the end zone.

"It was a new play," Wilder said. "I think I caught the guy off guard." He got no argument from Hall, or from Lion Coach Monte Clark.

"I blew it," Hall said. "I was supposed to play deep in a zone. It was only one play, but those are the ones that count." Clark admitted there was a foul-up on

"Yeh, the guy came up under and should have been back and their people rotated off. Nobody picked him up. We lost and just didn't play anywhere near the way we can," Clark said.

"I wouldn't blame the loss on the quarterbacks," he said. "There were a lot of people who weren't playing well." The Lions were playing without injured starter Gary Danielson. Kolmo started the game and was relieved in the second half by Eric Hipple, a second-year man from Utah State, who is expected to open next week at Denver. The Bucs go on the road next week also

(at Green Bay) and Williams figures it is time to start winning away from home. "The last two wins were big confidence builders." Williams said of the Detroit game and a home victory over St. Louis a week ago. "But we know in order to win the division, we are going to have to win on the road. That now becomes our objective."

Tampa Bay improved at 3-2 and remains in a tie for the lead of the NFC Central Division with Minnesota. Detroit dropped to 2-3 and into second place.

To remain atop the division, Tampa Coach John McKay has no plans to change Williams' style. The big quarterback, who was still a little woory after the game from a forearm blow to the law. completed only 13 of 29 passes for 168 yards. But the part McKay liked was the touchdowns.

"He didn't throw particularly well?" he replied to a question. "I think he threw four touchdown passes. I'll take that. This 80 percent and no touchdowns is a bunch of manure. That's for people who like statistics."

Detroit running back Billy Sims, who was held to 75 yards in 24 carries, said he wasn't going to get down on himself or his teammates because of dropping below

"In a way, it is a step back, yes, but in the NFL you are up one day and down the next. It's a long season and we'll win some and lose some."

Mets' Torre Knew It Was Coming

NEW YORK (UPI) - When you've been around baseball as long as Joe Torre has been, you get a certain feel about things, a premonition you might call it, and the Mets' manager had one before leaving his home for the balloark Sunday morning.

"I imagine they'll do it today," he said to his wife, Dani.

She didn't need any explanation. She knew what he meant. He was telling her he felt that this was the day he was going to be fired and he was right. Torre, the seventh big league manager to be let go this season, officially received word of his dismissal from Frank Cashen, the Meta' General Manager and Chief Operating Officer, shortly before 11 a.m. Torre got the news in Cashen's office.

"These things are never easy," began Cashen, who has been in baseball 16 years, most of that time in an administrative front office capacity with the Baltimore Orioles, and had never had any occasion to tell a manager he was fired before.

Torre didn't really have to hear any more than Cashen's first five words. He knew he was through and as soon as he heard Cashen go on to say the club felt a change was in order, he cut in and said "fine." Torre was completely aware that the way the Mets had started out this season, with only 17 victories and 34 defeats, he probably would've been fired sometime in July had it not been for the strike.

The Mets had improved to some degree in the second half, with 23 wins and 38 losses before Sunday's season finale with the first place Montreal Expos at Shea Stadium, but that still came out to a .392 percentage overall, certainly nothing to cheer about.

PSC Ready To Hear Phone Rate Hike Plea

Service Commissioners will hear two discordant tunes this week - Southern Bell will ask for phone rate increases while a consumer advocate suggests a rate reduction.

Southern Bell Telephone Co. will ask the PSC Wednesday to increase revenues by $328 million, its first rate hike since 1977. Company officials say inflation and federal accounting changes necessitate the increase.

But Public Counsel Jack Shreve, Florida's official consumer advocate, plans to tell commissioners that Southern Bell's rates should be reduced by $59 million a year.

Southern Bell's request for a rate hike, pending since January, has brought an avalanche of opposition at public hearings around the state.

The telephone company, which serves 2.6 million customers from Jacksonville to Key West and a portion of the Panhandle, took in almost $1.5 billion this year from Florida customers.

Southern Bell Officials claim the company keeps less than 13 cents of every TALLAHASSEE, Fia. (UPI) - Public dollar in profit and will ask the PSC to raise their profit rate of 13 percent to 17 percent, said company spokesman Walter H. Alford. That accounts for the largest chunk of the rate increase - $109.8 million.

Shreve wants Southern Bell to decrease its current rates by $59 million, but is not sure exactly where it would come. "Obviously, rates would be a little less than they are now," said a spokesman for Shreve.

The company also wants $31 million for salary increases, $26.3 million to cover depreciation of equipment, and $2.25 million for long distance calls that involve independent Florida telephone companies.

Southern Bell's rate request would raise average charges for residential customers by $3.60 a month, Cost of an average business line would jump from $29.75 to $36,05 a month.

Residential connection charges would Jump from $52 to $86.45 and business connection charges from $63 to $105.50. Charges for optional residential and business services such as Touch-Tone and Trimline would also increase.

The weapons charges stemmed from the

Somoza Assassin Still Sought

Heavily armed police squads periodically upset the morning calm with door-to-door search operations, indiscriminately looking for clues or culprits in the homes of Paraguayan citizens. Everybody is a suspect.

In a similar operation shortly after the Sept. 17, 1980, ambush in which Somoza's Mercedes Benz was blown up by a bazooka shot, killing Somoza, his chauffeur and a financial adviser, security forces killed a suspect.

But since then the results have been lean.

Pastor Coronel, chief of police investigations, said in a recent interview with an Asuncion newspaper that the search operations "are something that help to calm the people.

"We also try to make sure that our security people stay in training," Coronel told ABC newspaper. But Alejandro Ladalardo, a lawyer for a churchbased human rights group, told United Press International the search operations are aimed at "terrorizing" the people, instead of calming them. The search squads typically at the break of dawn surround several residential areas in this peaceful capital of 513,000 people, cutting off all traffic, and from three to four hours go from house to house. On July 30 police made a find. At the home of Luis Yore police discovered a series of books of "Marxist, Marxist-Leninist and Maoist ideologies," a police bulletin said.

Stroessner, who has been in power for 27 years in this central South American republic, has made anti-Communism the hallmark of his authoritarian government, much as had the Somoza family in their four-decade reign in Nicaragua.

A national security law prohibits citizens from having "deposits of Marxist literature."

Police asked Yore where he had obtained the books. He told them that the books were the property of his sister, Nadymy Yore, a psychology student at the national university, Ladalardo said.

As a result of police investigations in the case of the "Marxist books," security forces within hours detained Yore, his wife, their 10-month-old son, their maid, Nadymy Yore and another sister, Miriam Yore, Nadymy Yore's boyfriend, and a sister-in-law of Yore.

After questioning police over a week's span released most of the people who had been detained. But Nadymy Yore is still in custody, facing a one-to five-year prison sentence if she is found guilty.

Ladalardo said police have attempted to fabricate a case against Miss Yore.

Police slipped into her belongings a book on the Sandinista revolution in Nicaragua and the overthrow of Somoza, who later fled to Paraguay to live in exile, he said. Police also claim that an address book, which has an obscure notation allegedly about a trip to Moscow, belongs to Miss Yore, he said.

"Their motive is not clear," Ladalardo said, referring to the police actions.

Judge: Stop Harassing Salvage Firm

MIAMI (UPI) - The state of Florida has been told to stop harassing a firm working the wreck of a Spanish vessel that sank off the coast of Fort Pierce In 1715.

The case involves a ship called Corrigan's Wreck, a Spanish vessel that sank during a hurricane on based Cobb Coin from continuing its salvaging work.

"This court finds the actions of the agents and employees of the state of Florida to be not only unproductive but in the nature of undue harassment and an impediment of this court's exercise of its admiralty jurisdiction." King wrote.

"The plaintiff (Cobb Coln) is permitted to conlinue operations without the interference heretofore caused by the state's officers, agents and em-

Cobb Coin filed suit Aug. 17, 1979 against the shipwreck to settle title claims, Horan said. The salvage firm and the state have both claimed title to David Paul Horan, attorney for Cobb Coin, said federal courts have insisted that the state establish its right to title in an admiralty court, but have failed to do that.

"State law purports to give title of the ship to the state," Horan said. "That is not valid. They must establish their title in a federal court of admirality. They have failed. In effect, the ship belongs to Cobb Coin.'

King did not establish title in his opinion, but said Florida law cannot supercede federal laws allowing Cobb Coin to salvage.

Now for some tips that could save your life: Be sure your eigarette is out. Matches, too. Never leave matches and lighters within the reach of children.

Don't run cords under rugs or over radiators where they may get damaged. Replace a cord if it is frayed.

Never leave small children or invalids alone in the house - not even for a few minutes.

Store elly rags and paints in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.

Never use flammable liquids for drycleaning indoors. Never smoke in hed.

Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of lire. Designate a specific meeting place outside so you will all know who's outside of the house.

Remember: Fire extinguishers put out 97 percent of all fires on which they were used, and most large fires start as small fires. So, invest in a compact, casy-to-use fire extinguisher. Keep it handy in your kitchen, or be prodent and buy one for your cottage, car, beat and the back bedroom.

Buy and install a smoke detector and then properly maintain it. It must be cleaned often with the vacuum cleaner hose so that it is dust-free. It is estimated that 6,000 lives could pened.

Now, in case of fire;

If you suspect fire, alert the rest of the household. But first feel the top of the door. If it's hot, don't open it. Escape through the window.

If you can't open the window, break it with a chair. Cover the rough edges with a blanket, sit on the window ledge with one leg hanging outside and one inside, and wait for help.

The phone number of your fire department should be taped on every telephone. If it isn't, don't fumble around trying to find it. Get out of October 12, 1901: and call from a neighbor's house.

If you live in an apartment building, use the Adults and Teens - 10 years stairway. Don't take a chance on the elevator. If it fails, you're trapped!

Once out, stay out. No treasure is worth risking your life.

It took less than three minutes to read this column. Was It worth it? I hope so.

ABBY P.S. If you are in a hotel and suspect there is a fire, call the fire department yourself. Then alert the hotel telephone operator. Believe it or not, most hotels will not call the fire department until their staff verifies whether or not there really is a fire and have tried to put it out themselves. Should a guest to 18 per class. There is a call to report a fire, the hotel will almost $10.00 material fee. Gallstone Surgery

DEAR DR. LAMB-I have been told that I have gallstones. These showed up incidentally in another X-ray. To date I have had no particular symptoms, except an occasional nagging pain for a short time in my right side. I'm 61, not fussy about going through an operation, and considered in fairly good health. I did have a hysterectomy and a couple of minor operations. Is it possible for me to get along the rest of my life with the galistones or am I apt to have trouble? DEAR READER-The answer depends a lot on what type of stones you have, how big they are and whether your gallbladder functions properly or not. The occasional pain in your right side may not even be related to your gallstones but may be from colon spagns or gas, which are so common. In general, if a person is in good health the risk of galibladder surgery is slight.

For that reason having such an operation before age 50 is usually not a great risk. After age 60, it is usually all right unless there are other ilinesses, such as heart disease and then the risk goes up sharply.

Yes, many people who have silent gallatones go through life with a minimal amount of difficulty without surgery. But others develop complications of gallbladder disease that require surgery, sometimes almost on an emergency basis. To give you a better understanding of the problem I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-9, Galistones and Galibladder Disease.

Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1561, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Galistones are mainly of two types, those composed of bile pigments and those of stage. As promising as this development is, it is used only in small stones in people who have no associated galibladder disease. Not everyone can use these pills because some stones are too large, others are of bile pigments, not cholesterol. Still other patients have gallbladder disease that prevents concentrating the medicine in the gallbladder to dissolve the stones.

Dr.

Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB-I'm a 17-year-old girl, under 5 feet tall. Do I still have a chance to get taller? What do I need to eat to grow?

DEAR READER-Chronological age and physiological age are not necessarily the same. Some people mature fast and others slow. Doctors separate the difference by bone-age studies using X-rays. Your growth in height is largely dependent upon the continued growth of your long bones, such as the thigh bone. Near the ends of the shaft is a zone of cartilage, which continues to grow, unlike solid bone. New bone continues to form at the edges of the cartilage.

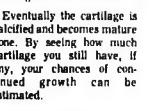

Eventually the cartilage is calcified and becomes mature bone. By seeing how much cartilage you still have, if any, your chances of continued growth can be

If you are healthy there is little you can do to increase your growth, other than eat an adequate well-balenced diet. That includes enough protein, but excess protein will not help. Your own biological clock and hormones deter-

WIN AT BRIDGE Oswald: "Here's one from a recent rubber bridge game at New York's Cavendish Club. I waa North and Paul Trent South. Both sides were vulnerable and we had a part score of 40."

Alan: "I see you have written down the bidding. It looks as if that 40 part score actually helped you hid the slam."

Oswald: "It certainly did. After Paul's diamond opening and the spade overcall I was worried about two los-ing spades, but Paul is a really fine player and I had just the bid to leave the slam decision up to him. I jumped to five diamonds '

Alan: "The bid had to have clear meaning in that it told your partner that your only worries were about spades and really demanded that he bid six if he could handle the second round of spades."

Oswald: "There was a litthe more to it. If he didn't hold the king of clubs, the club finesse was more than likely to be a winner. West had overcalled."

Alan: "You were a trifle lucky. Give Paul one more space and one less heart and the slam might have been set. Still, fortune seems to favor the brave in war and almost everything else!" (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASIN.)
