President Meets Labor Leader For Wage Control Discussion

By NEIL GILBRIDE
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon was greeted by a handshake from AFL-CIO President George Meany today as he arrived at a hotel to discuss wage controls, rising prices and foreign trade with the nation's most powerful group of labor leaders.

Nixon traveled the few miles from his Key Biscayne home to the AFL-CIO's headquarters on Miami Beach by helicopter.

Some 50 people, including Meany, were waiting when Nixon arrived at the hotel ramp. With the President, was his newly appointed Secretary of Labor Peter J. Brennan, a former New York trades union president.

"Obviously, they will be talking about trade and the recent international monetary steps the President has taken," said White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler after Nixon entered a closed meeting with Meany and Brennan.

Nixon, Brennan and Meany spent a few moments alone in the conference room before the full meeting with the 35 AFL-CIO executive council members began.

The labor council is a politically mixed group that divided in the recent presidential election into three groups: Nixon supporters, neutrals and backers of Democratic nominee George McGovern.

But on economic matters—expected to be the central theme of the meeting—most of the union leaders are united in opposition to, or at least serious concern over, Nixon's Phase 3 wage-price controls and federal policies to deal with the declining U.S. position in world trade.

Labor leaders have contend Nixon's Phase 3 economic controls will continue to hold down wages while doing little about soaring prices of food and other goods.

Some of the labor groups expect Nixon to request support for his still unannounced foreign trade legislation, and most indicated initial skepticism that they could support it. Many of the AFL-CIO's 119 unions, with a total of nearly 14 million members, say federal policies have caused a loss of American jobs to foreign competition and think U.S. firms' turning to cheaper labor abroad has eliminated jobs in the United States.

"He had better tell us what he is going to propose" before he can expect any labor support, said United Steel Workers President I. W. Abel, chairman of the AFL-CIO's economic committee.

Abel, a supporter of the Democratic Burke-Hartke bill in Congress that would limit U.S. business investment abroad, said a compromise with the White House is possible but "so far Nixon seems to be just advocating even freer trade."

Nixon's devaluation of the dollar last week for the second time in 14 months also has caused labor concern. Nathaniel Goldfinger, the labor federation's chief staff economist, says the recent 10 per cent reduction in the value of the dollar indicated serious trouble in America's competitive position in world trade.

Soviet Jet In Crash; 70 Dead

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — A Soviet airliner, trailing smoke and flames, crashed on landing at Prague airport today and unofficial reports placed the death toll at "about 70."

Airport sources said the Aeroflot TU154, a three-jet craft on a regularly scheduled flight from Moscow, carried 84 persons and 15-30 of them survived.

The entire crew, except for one stewardess, was among the survivors, sources said.

Without giving details, the official Czechoslovak news agency CTK confirmed the plane crashed "during a landing maneuver" and "some of the crew and passengers survived." The crash was the second air disaster to strike Soviet aviation in the last four months. Last Oct. 13, 176 persons died when a Soviet airliner crashed near Moscow in the worst recorded civil air disaster to date.

An Austrian Airlines employe at Prague's Ruzyne Airport said persons who had witnessed today's crash told her the plane caught fire as it was approaching touchdown at about 10:15 a.m. No explosion was heard.

"The plane hit the ground with one wing and then crashed, disintegrating," she said.

There was a low overcast, but no rain.

Immediately after the crash, the airport was closed.

First unofficial reports said as many as 300 persons might have been killed in the crash.

Fisherman Helps In Gulf Rescue

By JANE CASSELBERRY

An Altamonte Springs fisherman was involved in the Sunday afternoon rescue of four men and two children from the cold and rough waters of the Gulf of Mexico after their 25-30 ft. cruiser capsized and was two-thirds submerged. Two other members of the hapless party, an Ocala man and an elderly woman, from Connecticut, were drowned.

Albert Musgrove of 400 Center Street of Altamonte Sptrings, his father and son and a friend, Irvin Fleischman of Winter Park were fishing near the Crystal River Power Plant in their 17 ft. boat when they came upon the wreckage and the survivors who were clinging to a wooden buoy and four life preservers. The man was floating face down and the woman was missing, possibly trapped in the boat, Musgrove surmised.

Musgrove and Fleischman pulled the half dozen hysterical survivors aboard, almost capsizing their own craft, and headed for shore. "Suffering from shock and exposure the way they were I doubt if they could have lasted much longer in the water," Musgrove said.

The surviving members of the Ocala family were taken by ambulance to a hospital in that city.

When they returned to the scene of the tragedy the drowning victim had disappeared and a Coast Guard helicopter arrived on the scene to take up the search.

Although the survivors were in no cindition to be questioned, he speculated that the sunken craft had probably run into rocks or a reef.

AROUND THE CLOCK

By John A. Spolski

Perhaps it was as a result of the tremendously large crowd which was on hand for the legislative hearings at the Seminole County Courthouse last week. . . .

In any event, we hope that it continues with so many people wanting to take an active part in their government it would require larger meeting halls.

That's exactly the situation tonight for the Winter Springs Council meeting. Not enough room at the regular meeting place, so. . .it's been moved to the Hacienda Village Clubhouse. It starts at 7:30.

Get there early for a seat. . .

No, it wasn't Hollywood in town today. . .but rather, a crew from FTU which was doing some "on street" filming on Sanford Avenue and 4th Street. Campus project, I'm told.

Gee, some of those items being donated to the PESO Promotion are outstanding. . .

— Jimmy The Greek — donated 7 days and 6 nights for two at the Tropicana Hotel and Country Club in Las Vegas.

—Three residential lots in the Sanlando Springs area, valued at $9,000.

And that's but a few . . .

Red Faces Department. . .The Orlando Police Dept. had a gent incarcerated for drunkeness and he was bonded out.

They picked him up a short time later at a bank in Orlando (where he had a safety deposit box) and arrested him for New Hampshire authorities.

Evidentally he was there checking on the $50,000 which was robbed from that northern bank.

Probably the funniest part of the entire episode was the description of Eli Dexter, according to the police "he looks like a smiling Archie Bunker."

Bunker. . .smiling? When did that happen?

Bram Towers Rental Increase Explained

By DONNA ESTES

Explanation for the proposed 20 per cent increase in the rental rate at Bram Towers is quite simple, according to Rev. Leroy Soper, rector of Holy Cross Episcopal Church, first president of Co-operating Parishes that owns and operates the facility and presently a member of the apartment complex's board of directors.

"The building is a non-profit operation, but it is not suppose to lose money," Father Soper said. "It has been discovered that the estimate given us for use of electricity by Florida Power and Light Company was a little low." According to the original budget for operation of the complex, it was estimated to cost $24,000 annually for power, but actual costs have instead been $3,500 monthly or $42,000 annually.

Pointing out the apartments in the facility under fair market value could rent for $200 monthy, Father Soper said the lower rentals are provided under the federal 236 program which subsidizes a portion of the interest on the loan which allowed construction of the complex.

"The building is an enormous ministry to the people. The apartments were provided for people on limited incomes, but not broke or eligible for housing such as Redding Gardens. Bram Towers was designed for persons making too much money to live in federal housing, the Episcopalian priest said.

As far as criticism that perhaps power is being wasted at Bram Towers, Father Soper pointed out an independent consultant in the electrical field had been hired to see if there was any way to cut down on the

Teacher's Strike Is Settled

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The city's public schools are scheduled to reopen Tuesday following settlement of a 28-day teachers' strike.

The system's 103,000 students are observing a normal holiday today for George Washington's birthday.

More than three-fourths of the members of the St. Louis Teachers Association and the St. Louis Teachers Union voted in separate meetings Sunday to accept the board's latest offer to end the first teachers' strike in the city's history.

The tentative agreement calls for an immediate $200 pay raise and another $600-across-the-board increase beginning in September, raising the base salary for starting teachers to $8,000.

The agreement also states that there will be no strikes during the next 18 months and stipulates what action will be taken if a wildcat strike occurs. Details of the proposed action called for in the event of a wildcat were not disclosed.

Sanford Asked To Annex 360 Acres

By BOB LLOYD

A group of developers was scheduled to approach Sanford City Commission at a 4 p.m. work session today with annexation proposals for 360 acres stretching from Seminole Junior College to near the Longwood city limits south of Five Points on U.S. 17-92.

Lester Mandell, of Greater Construction Company, Casselberry, said he has the 55 acre platted Forrest Green subdivision, on the west side of U.S. 17-92 south of SR 427 in the proposal.

Other developers include Bob Overstreet with 110 acres north of SR 427, BJM Construction Company with 40 acres adjoining the junior college and Condev Corporation with 120 acres straddling S-15 south of Lake Mary and north of SR 427.

Trace Wood of Condev said his firm plans to build 300 homes on its tract and the objective in seeking annexation to Sanford is "to get the city services, especially water and sewer service."

Mandell said he is "toying with the idea of either single family homes in the $25,000 price range or duplexes" on the Forrest Green tract.

Wood said Condev acquired additional acreage and "squared off" its holdings after commissioners rejected in January a Condev-BJM request for annexation. Commissioners at that time termed the request "premature."

The new proposed annexation area would be contigious to the present Sanford city limits at Seminole Junior College by the BJM parcel. Condev property abutts the BJM tract. The Overstreet and Forrest Green tracts complete the chain of properties.

Earlier Condev officials said they want to immediately develop their tract. Sanford is making engineering studies now on a second sewerage treatment plant to serve the city's south side. Both city water and sewer mains serve the junior college and run south along U.S. 17-92.

After 2 Years

Sanford Paving Suit Is Settled

By BOB LLOYD

Special Sanford City Attorney William Hutchison said today an out of court settlement has been reached in a lawsuit brought against the City of Sanford in August 1970.

A group of Georgetown residents filed the federal court suit to enjoin the city from carrying out a special assessment street paving project in the predominantly black area.

The suit evolved into a full-blown attack on alleged discrimination by the city.

The litigation was scheduled for a pre-trial conference in Orlando tomorrow but Hutchison said today, "I think it's all wrapped up (the suit) and now its just a question of language and drafting the settlement stipulation."

He said he is expecting a letter today from the plaintiff's attorneys confirming the oral settlement "along the lines agreed to by the city commission."

Last week city commissioners, in a 3-2 vote, approved pledging federal revenue-sharing funds over the next five years to pave as much of Sanford's 28 miles of unpaved streets as possible using an "economy plan" paving without curbs and gutters and using swale and open type drainage ditches.

Under the agreement about eight miles of the streets are expected to not be feasible to pave now because of large drainage problems.

Georgetown will get first priority in the citywide paving program which will be two years in planning and engineering.

Sanford projects will receive $1.4 million in revenue sharing funds over the five year period. Exempted under the lawsuit settlement is $10,0000 to pay for the recent repaving of Airport Boulevard between Sanford Avenue and U.S. 17-92 and approximately $250,000 needed to "solve the fire station problem."

Plans call for building and equipping another fire station in the south sector of the city.

Hutchison told city commissioners under the settlement the streets remaining to be paved by assessing abutting property owners if they are agreeable, under the settlement. The same would be true if 100 per cent of property owners in a given area wish to pay for adding curbs and gutters to the "economy plan" streets.

Action-Packed Seven Days

War Prisoners Begin Streaming Home

WHAT DO YOU GET if you cross peanut and soybean plants? More soybean oil, say the Chinese, and this girl is cross-pollinating in Heilungkiang Province.

Copley News Service

America's war prisoners began streaming home to freedom this week, an action-packed seven days which brought joy to the families and friends of the liberated POWs, a devalued American dollar and a U.S. agreement to finance the rebuilding of bomb-damaged North Vietnam.

More than 120 freed prisoners from North and South Vietnam either set foot on the U.S. mainland at Travis Air Force Base, Calif., or were scheduled to reach home by the end of the week. There was rejoicing across the land as the ex-POWs were reunited with their loved ones. Most of them appeared to be in good physical condition and one returning POW brought with him a short-eared puppy, the gift of a Communist prison guard.

The stepped-up flow of liberated prisoners indicated all the more that 500 POWs held in Vietnam, some for as long as eight years will be home well before the March 28 liberation deadline.

In Washington and Hanoi, the United States and North Vietnam announced creation of a joint economic commission to channel American dollars into rebuilding the war-torn Communist nation.

The Indochina war enemies also agreed to establish new procedures for locating some of the more than 1,200 Americans missing in action throughout Southeast Asia.

The historic agreement came after President Nixon's peace envoy, Henry A. Kissinger, conferred for several days with North Vietnamese leaders. Kissinger then traveled on to Tokyo and thence to Peking for five days of talks with Premier Chou En-lai and other Red Chinese officials.

The United States devalued the dollar by 10 per cent in a move to solve the international monetary crisis.

The deflated dollar sent economic shock waves around the world and sent the price of gold soaring to a new all-time high.

U. S. Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said, however, that he believed the devalued dollar would stabilize European financial markets before long and thus ease the shaky world monetary situation.

President Nixon said he will ask Congress for sweeping new authority to boost tariffs in an effort to slow the balance-of-trade deficit that influenced the dollar devaluation.

He said American trade negotiators must be armed with the threat of restrictions on imports to help them bargain for improved access to foreign markets for U.S. exports.

"That is the only way to get a fair deal and a fair shake for American products abroad," the President said. "Devaluation of the dollar is at best only a temporary solution of a problem. That is why trade legislation must follow."

In Washington, Secreary of State William P. Rogers signed an agreement with Cuba aimed at curbing hijacking of airplanes and ships by eliminaging Cuba as a haven for air or sea pirates.

Also signed in Havana, the agreement provides for the prosecution or extradition "of any person who hereafter seizes, removes, appropriates or diverts from its normal route or activities an aircraft or vessel registered under the laws of one of the parties and brings it to the territory of the other party."

President Nixon urged Congress to act swiftly on 19 backlogged, bills to improve the environment and expand the nation's natural resources. He said the cost of fighting pollution should be reflected in consumer prices and "not in the federal budget."

In a special message to Congress the President also submitted eight new proposals to fight the battle for a better environment and said a victory is within reach.

A day earlier he took his fight for cleaner air and water to the American people in a nation-wide radio address.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported wholesale prices rose sharply in January for the second straight month, largely because of increased farm product prices. The 1.3 per cent jump presaged later boosts in consumer prices.

Earlier the Department of Agriculture had predicted food prices would climb 6 per cent this year — the sharpest jump since 1951.

In Atlanta, Ga., a man ordered 43 dozen long-stemmed red roses for Valentine's Day and sent them to 43 different women at a total cost of $1,075. Marie Turra, Atlanta florist who prepared and delivered the roses, said the names of the man and his lady friends were "confidential."

Zoning Fees Listed On County Agenda

By MARION BETHEA

County Zoning Director J. B. Williams and County Planner Rodger Neiswander will appear before tomorrow's work session of the County Commission, which commences at 10 a.m., to recommend at least a 35 per cent increase in fees the county charges developers and applicants for rezoning. Also encompassing building in the county is a discussion relative to a reorganization of the building department and fees.

Also listed on the agenda for the workshop session is consideration of the proposed budget for Public Defender Gerald Rutberg. Rutberg, who has served the county in this capacity for some time maintaining offices in Orlando, has opened an office in Sanford today.

Other agenda items for the work session include discussion of an arbor ordinance; contingency fund balance; assignment of parking space in the new courthouse parking lot; Article XII; environmental impact study-impact investigation; amendments to the zoning regulations; and illegal dumping on the Steiner property.

The regular session of the commission, which commences at 2 p.m. will include a discussion regarding the St. Johns River Valley charter. At last week's meeting of the commission, George Touhy told the commissioners it behooved this county to ratify the charter. Otherwise, he said, the county would miss an opportunity to get into an ecological effort to protect resources as well as to rebuild what has been destrobyed. It was stated that 50 municipalities are included in the area encompassing the council boundaries.

Other items to be discussed by the commission include expansion of the county jail and reorganization of the building department.

Seven public hearings are scheduled for the 7 p.m. session. These include:

— A continued request for rezoning from A-1 agriculture to OC office district on property located south of Highland Street, east of Douglas Road, north of Center Street, facing I-4. The petitioner is Information Processing, Inc.

— Rezoning request by Standard Oil Company from C-1 retail commercial to CX restricted commercial on property located on the southeast corner of Lake Mary Boulevard and Country Club Drive.

— Rezone from A-1 agriculture to M-1 industrial, property on the north side of old Sanford-Oviedo Road requested by Sanford All Youth Shelter.

— A continued appeal against the Board of Adjustment denying a request to park a trailer in an A-1 agriculture zone on property located on old Mims-Titusville Road.

— A continued petition to vacate and abandon a portion of Seminole Avenue and reduce the width from 70 feet to 50 feet and vacate Oviedo Lane and Monroe Street, Orlando Industrial Park, Unit 2. Petitioner is John Lovett.

— Petition to vacate and abandon a side lot easement in Woodcrest, Unit 5, requested by G and H Development Company.

— A petition to vacate and abandon seven feet of either side of a common boundary of lots 15 and 16, fifth section, Spring Lake Hills, requested by C. H. Johnson Construction Company.

All meetings will be held in the County Commissioners' meeting room 203 in the courthouse.

Council Hearing On 507 Acres Tonight

By MARION BETHEA

WINTER SPRINGS — A public hearing will be on the agenda tonight at 7:30 preceding the meeting of City Council. The hearing involves a request by developer William Goodman for modifications in planned development for Winter Springs, Unit 5. The project includes 507 acres west of Tuskawilla Road, in which Goodman plans to erect condominiums on a portion of the tract, and single family residences on 75 by 115 foot lots on the balance of the area.

During the meeting of council a resolution by the district School Board will be considered and acted on in which the School Board requests the present millage be retained in the March 13 referendum.

Council has received one bid on the city's general liability insurance, which includes all of the city's vehicles as well as workmen's compensation, etc. The city is presently insured with Cass-Knoblock, and renewal date for the insurance in March.

Pastor Ron Bentsinger of the Seventh Day Adventist Church will again appear before council relative to erection of a tent on a tract of church owned land. Pastor Bentsinger told council previously plans are to build a new church on the property, and requested use of the tent on a temporary basis in which to hold services.

Pastor Bentsinger elucidated the church officials are civic minded and the tent would not be detrimental. Council, however, questioned if it would be in the best interests of the city and will presumably relate their decision in the matter tonight.

Also listed on the agenda is an appearance by a resident, Ira Landress relative to a complaint he wishes to register against a drainage ditch on Lombardy Road.

Several proposals involving the municipal police department will also be considered by council

Dangerous Mushrooms Recalled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration says a recall order has prevented distribution of most of 30,000 cans of mushrooms feared contaminated with botulism toxin.

In statements on Saturday and Sunday, the agency said two lots of canned mushrooms processed in late January by the United Canning Co. of East Palestine, Ohio, had been recalled.

The cans of mushrooms, weighing six pounds, nine ounces each, were distributed in Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York and Illinois, the FDA said. The cans normally would have been sold through wholesale distributors or restaurants and not for home use.

Some 200 investigators were dispatched to the four states over the weekend to see if pizza parlors, wholesalers and other subdistributors had any of the cans in stock. But a spokesman Sunday said most of the cans have been accounted for.

Editorial Comment

Reaction To Nixon's Budget Puzzling

Mayor Henry Maier of Milwaukee says he sees a "long shadow of disaster" falling across American cities because of thr freeze, cutback or cancellation of social programs in President Nixon's new budget. He is mistaken about that shadow. It does not portend a disaster for our cities but for a bureaucratic structure reaching into them from Washington.

Mr. Nixon has simply recognized that many programs designed to "save the cities" are functioning mainly to save mayors and other local officials from being accountable to local taxpayers for the spending of large amounts of money in their communities. Further, those programs are becoming so hard to justify on a nationwide scale that it is becoming indefensible to keep them in the federal budget at the level of funding originally envisioned for them.

Howls of anguish from city halls and state capitols over the prospect of a diminished flow of federal dollars for support of these programs ignores reality. Federal revenue sharing, grants and other aid programs have combined with an increase in local tax revenues to lift most states and cities out of the financial crisis that confronted them a few years ago.

The Commerce Department is now estimating that state and local governments will accumulate a $12 billion surplus this year. If the present mix of local and federal funds in their budgets should continue, the annual surplus would be running at about $20 billion by 1975.

This alone is reason enough to question a host of programs making our cities clients of the federal government. The Emergency Employment Act, for instance, is providing federal funds to put unemployed people on city payrolls. It makes no sense for a city with a surplus in its own budget to be paying these employes with federal funds.

Some mayors and governors have expressed the fear that cutbacks in federal funding of specific programs will exceed the new funds they are receiving under revenue sharing. This might well be the case, but there is no reason why such a development should be considered "disastrous."

All it would mean is that responsibility for determing whether one program or another would continue would lie within the community itself. That is where the responsibility should have been all along.

Surely the majority of Americans go along with President Nixon's goal of reversing the flow of power and turning it from Washington back to the states and cities. The way some local officials are reacting to his first concrete steps to do so, we wonder if they really want it back.

Accounting Demanded

A pattern of violence has clearly been established as a mechanism of protest and dissent in this nation. Born in the events of Watts in 1965, it was elaborated at Columbia University in 1968 when students who were neither minorities nor disadvantaged stole official documents in addition to wrecking offices.

Since then Selective Service records have been mutilated and stolen, secret documents abstracted from government files and given to the press and, most recently, the files of the Bureau of Indian Affairs rifled and its offices wrecked.

Up to this time a patient restrained attitude has characterized official reaction to these events, the theory being that a soft response will save the community from worse outbreaks of disorder.

It has not worked. Neither the Department of Justice, the police of major metropolitan centers, the courts nor the executive branch of government have succeeded, using this method, in halting the passage of vandals who claim rights higher than the law.

The time has certainly come to consider more resolute means. However, it will merit nothing unless, in the face of today's permissiveness, the people of the United States of America make up their minds to support their government and law enforcement agencies in calling all lawbreakers — whoever they are — to account.

Boyle Speaks On His Birthday

BY HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — To all the people in the world who will be 62 years old this month, greetings!

Congratulations, fellow survivors. How are you doing?

To all the people in the world who will be born this month, greetings, too! Welcome to the universe, kiddies. Let's see what you can do to it.

At 62, another birthday doesn't have the ring of doom that it does at 40 to a man and at 30 to a woman. One has become accustomed to the passage of time, accepts it, and in a way is even a bit proud of reaching another niche in it.

After all, the whole human race considered, there are still probably more people who don't reach 62 than do. That makes you more durable than a majority of the people who have ever drawn breath and known the agony and loveliness of earth.

What does it feel like to be 62? Well, there is still plenty to do at 62 but, in this man's case at least, there is also something of an inclination to let the other fellow start doing more of it.

At 62, do you feel dramatically different? Does something especially bad happen to you? Do you hate life because you cannot escape the realization that there is a smaller store of it left than you have already used up? Does zest vanish?

No, indeedy!

Well, then, at 6?. does something remarkably good happen to you? Do you suddenly see all the errors of your ways, and reform and become saint?

No, indeedy, indeedy!

The truth is that on your 62nd birthday you wake up pretty much the same fellow you put to bed just a few hours before. If you're the grateful kind, however, you may say a small prayer of thanksgiving in your heart and that you have reached another milestone of living. Then you scatch yourself, paw the clabber out of your eyes, and get up and face the world as usual.

I've noticed one thing: people who get mad at life and the world in their early 60s often don't live long enough for Uncle Sam to hand them their pension meal ticket.

I've noticed another thing: people who develop a philosophical attitude toward life are more likely to last a long, long time. They drain the last drop of goodness that lies in the cup, and overlook the slight taste of dregs it has. The tremendous pageantry of the seasons remains to them a mighty catharsis of the soul.

So, for those of us reaching 62 this month — or any month — let bells ring, trees bud, birds sing, flowers bloom, and people smile because we've reached this mile!

(Editor's note: Boyle won't be 62 until Wednesday, so don't expect a column from him that day. By then he'll probably be deep in mourning.)

Social Plans Axing No Damage at All

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

(Last of two related articles.)

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is probably accurate to say that there is not a man in Washington, or anywhere else, who truly can gauge the wisdom of President Nixon's well-advertised axwielding on a flock of programs mostly characterized as new, experimental, and directed toward helping the poor, the minorities, the crumbling cities.

As I noted earlier, the President's new budget would spend more than $125 billion on "human resources," including record amounts for Social Security, Medicare and the elderly categories on the welfare rolls.

Much of this expenditure, and its regular enlargement from year to year, is of course mandated by law. Estimates of this "uncontrollable" part of the budget range from two-thirds to three-quarters of the total.

But, in light of this immense outlay, it is the sheerest absurdity to assert that Mr. Nixon, by cutting out or reducing many programs, has "wrecked the Great Society" or, worse, cast the country's social development programs back to the Hoover era.

Most controversy seems to surround the proposed wipeout of OEO, the antipoverty agency, and severe slashing of the Model Cities program, not to mention suspension of new commitments under housing subsidy programs for the poor.

Some scholars of government, who specialize either in analyzing the budget with some detachment or the interrelationships of the White House and the departments (or the White House and Congress), say flatly that almost nothing is really known about the value of these new, controversial programs.

They do not by that assertion place themselves in support of Mr. Nixon's broad-stroke cuts. Some insist that experimentation of the kind represented by OEO and Model Cities is a necessary White House initiative. Others guess that some of the slashed programs might deserve a longer chance to prove themselves. But they insist that nearly everybody arguing these matters is dealing largely from ignorance.

In an interview by telephone to California with scholar Thomas Cronin, who is completing a huge study of White House-executive branch operations and their effect on policy-making and administration, I was told he had studied in detail two prime areas—crime prevention and education, in the latter case with stress on aiding the poor.

His exhaustive inquiries with White House aides and agency officials involved in these relatively new programs brought a staggering verdict. No one involved could demonstrate conclusively that he had any idea whether or not these programs had accomplished anything.

Cronin said, in fact, that he found some people associated with the programs making claims for their continuance on "grounds other than hard knowledge."

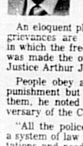
Worse still, he said, he discovered as he swept his lens across other such programs that both their top officers and their "patrons in Congress" often changed "as the seasons change" in offering justification for the programs.

He described the phenomenon as "multi-missionitis," symbolized by this sort of argument: "You can't abolish us now. You see, we've just got this new mission." To Cronin, this smacks of faddism.

He agreed with Brookings Institution budget experts who contend that the big trouble with these new programs, reaching into realms never before entered by the federal government, is that there are no real ways to measure achievement.

What is success in a manpower training program? The mere spending of the dollars? The turning out of trained people for whom there may or may not be jobs? Nobody knows for sure.

One Man's Opinion



Good People Have Some Rights, Too

By DON OAKLEY

An eloquent plea for a just society in which legitimate grievances are redressed by a caring government and in which the freedom of dissent and protest is respected was made the other day by former U.S. Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg.

People obey and respect law not just out of fear of punishment but also because of what the law does for them, he noted in ceremonies marking the 100th anniversary of the Cleveland, Ohio, Bar Association.

"All the police power in creation cannot long uphold a system of law that does not meet the reasonable expectations and needs of people and correct their legitimate grievances," he said.

"Suppression and repression," he cautioned, "is the surest road to widespread civil disobedience."

This is all very noble and all very fine, but it doesn't have very much to do with reality in America today.

The problem in America today is not civil disobedience or the suppression thereof, nor was it even at the height of the Vietnam war or the racial upheavals of the '60s. The problem is not political freedom.

But since the former justice brought up the matter of reasonable expectations, it would seem that one of them should have to do with the right of Americans to be free from the fear of the theft of their property in their homes or attack on their persons in the streets of their cities.

As for legitimate grievances, the old woman who is beaten and robbed and left in a dark alley, the inner-city store owner who dares not turn his back on a customer, the ghetto-dweller who lives behind barricades or the suburbanite who is afraid even to drive down certain streets would seem to have complaints at least equal to those of the punks who are turning much of America into a jungle.

Trend Against U.S. Oil Firms

BY PENNY LERNOUX
Copley News Service

BOGOTA, Colombia — The Colombian government, all but reversing the trend in Latin America, is trying to attract foreign oil companies.

Although Colombia is a veritable El Dorado, with almost every known mineral from gold and platinum to nickel, iron and coal, it had been singularly unfortunate in the petroleum field.

Unless new oil reserves are found, Colombia will have to start importing 5,000 barrels a day in 1975 and, the projections indicate, 150,000 by 1980.

Imports that sizeable would be a severe blow to the nation's pocketbook.

Colombia's eastern neighbor, Venezuela, is blessed with vast oil deposits at Lake Maracaibo near the Colombian frontier.

Ecuador, to the south, possesses petroleum riches nearly as impressive as Maracaibo's black gold. Even Peru, which shares Colombia's southern border with Ecuador, is enjoying an unprecedented oil boom.

All four countries are believed to share an exceptionally oil-rich geological structure which extends eastward from the foothills of the Andes Mountains. Colombia, however, remains the missing link as no petroleum has been found on the country's eastern plains.

The oil may be there, of course, but till now there has been little incentive to look for it.

Since the palmy days of 1963 when Texaco-Gulf believed it had located a miniature Maracaibo on the Putumayo River, along the Colombian-Ecuadorian frontier, official oil policy has been based on the assumption that the country is awash in oil.

Concession and contract terms were tough even by Venezuelan standards, giving the state oil enterprise Ecopetrol 80 per cent of the profits though Ecopetrol invested no capital in exploration or exploitation.

Diplomatic Dilemma

East Berlin Short On Career Men

BY BARBARA NASH
Copley News Service

EAST BERLIN — At latest count nearly 70 nations have now recognized East Germany as a full and sovereign state — and more are to follow shortly.

The great recognition wave began to roll after East and West Germany concluded a so-called Basic Treaty last November to regulate relations between the two parts of Germany.

Until the conclusion of that treaty, East Germany maintained diplomatic relations only with the East bloc countries and a few African nations.

The United States, France and Britain are expected to exchange ambassadors with East Germany following ratification of the Basic Treaty between the two Germanies sometime this spring.

"Don't pass by the Foreign Ministry, or Erich (Honnecker, East German Communist Party chief) will grab you and make you an ambassador," is the latest warning making the rounds in East Berlin. It is not meant seriously, of course, but reflects one of the problems arising from the sudden onslaught of diplomatic recognitions.

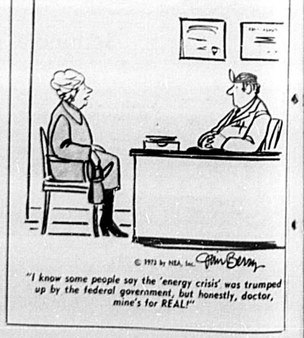
The East German leaders are hard up for suitable diplomats to staff the new posts, especially those in the Western European capitals.

The East Germans, supported by the Soviet Union, for years have been hoping and working for the diplomatic opening to the West—to free them from their inferiority complex as "non-nation."

They have trained and drilled a number of young, politically reliable men to take up future posts in "capitalist" countries. However, the recognitions are coming much too fast and all at once.

Almost any nation would have problems providing so many trained diplomats at such short notice.

Until they can train a supply to meet the new demand, the East Germans plan to staff only key posts, which will look after the business of minor missions.



"I know some people say the 'energy crisis' was trumped up by the federal government, but honestly, doctor, mine's for REAL!"

POW Expresses Feeling In Well Written Poem

By F. T. MACFEELY
Associated Press Writer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)— Turning to poetry to record his feelings, returned prisoner of war Porter A. Halyburton has described himself as a "reborn child of joy."

"I stepped from my cell into your arms, your lives, your love," the Navy lieutenant commander wrote as a military aircraft winged him from seven years imprisonment in North Vietnam to a world he said would soon be his again.

Halyburton was one of six POWs who arrived at Jacksonville Naval Hospital between Thursday and Saturday for physical examinations and debriefings by military intelligence specialists.

The former POW did not meet with newsmen but released his poem through Lt. Cmdr. Harold Torrance, public affairs officer at the naval station.

"Many died in Vietnam—gave their lives," Halyburton wrote. "Love them . . . Honor them . . . Please honor them"

For the suffering of himself and others who were imprisoned, he appealed "feel no pity — Please no pity. We stand tall for you, with you."

Halyburton quoted a letter from a sixth grader named Gary, who said he prayed every night for the prisoners to come home "and it finally came true.

"I would have given my life to get you guys out of there, but I don't think my parents would like it," the boy wrote. "I think you'll like being home with your family."

Halyburton called freedom "too sweet for paltry words" but added he was just trying to "say thank you."

He left Saturday with his wife Martha and daughter to an undisclosed location to get reacquainted over the holiday weekend. Halyburton was born in Miami but now lists Davidson, N.C., as his permanent home. His wife and daughter lived at Tucker, Ga., in his absence.

Another freed POW, Marine Lt. Col. John Howard Dunn of Neptune Beach, Fla., went off with his wife Jean and children Clifford, 16, and Kathy, 15, after only one hour in the hospital.

Navy Cmdr. Gerald L. Coffee of Sanford, Fla., was also away from the hospital with his wife and children.

Those three POWs are expected back Tuesday.

The other three — Navy Lt. Cmdrs. John Heilig and Ralph E. Gaither Jr. of Miami and Bradley Edsel Smith of Miramar, Fla. — continued medical tests and debriefing over the weekend. They took some time out for visits with their parents and other relatives.

Heilig's wife and daughter live in Hong Kong. Gaither and Smith are single.

The text of Halyburton's poem:

Freedom ... thanks to you people of America

A newborn, reborn child of joy,
I step from my cell into your arms,
Your lives, your love,
Your soon to be mine world,
Our country...
Freedom ... too sweet for paltry words ...
But now I try ... to you we must express.
Can I, for all, say thank you...
Again my paltry words will fail.
One, two, three, two hundred ... million ...
One to infinity for each ... thank you.
Our suffering ... Feel no pity ...
Please no pity ... We stand tall
For you ... with you
My hand quivers, joydrops wet my face,
The lump is always there ...
The apple of joy and love ...
For you ... and freedom.
Just now I read ... to me ... to us,

"Dear sir,
I sure am glad
You're all done
I said a prayer every night
And it finally came true
Welcome home sir.
I would have
Gave my life
To get you guys out of there
But I don't think my parents
Would like it.
I think you'll like being home
with your family
I'm a six grader,
Gary

Many died in Vietnam . . . gave their lives . . . .
Love them . . . honor them . . .
Please honor them . . .
They won't be coming home.
We are here because of you . .
My paltry words have failed . . .
But . . . I must try
To say
Thank you.

Money Game Liked By Young Millionaire

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I would rather play the game of money than do anything else.

I've tasted blood and I want more, but I am not a man living a life of quiet desperation," says 34-year-old millionaire Peter Traynor.

In four years he has put together a $20 million business that invests money for physicians. The company, Leverage Funding Systems, showed a $200,000 profit the first year and a $2 million profit last year.

The company's stock has shot from $1 to $20 a share.

Traynor says, "I amass money because it measures the success of what I am doing, the way time measures a runner's speed. I am compelled to know how good I am."

Traynor is good—the ultimate salesman, say some of his associates.

In high school in Boston he turned an afternoon lawn mowing job into an $18,000-a-year part-time landscape business by his junior year.

He came to California 10 years ago and started selling insurance. His first year total was $3 million, second year $8.5 million and third year $12 million.

"I came to California to be successful," he recalled in an interview. "I observed successful men and emulated their style, their techniques, their disciplines. Everything I do is geared to success, every step I take is calculated to take me closer to where I want to go."

Traynor quit his insurance job, built his investment business and is now branching out into the movie business. Hoping to attract the thrill show fans, he has filmed "Steel Arena," about a daredevil stunt driver.

Traynor, who is married and has four children, rises each working day at 6:30 a.m., slips into a sweat suit, drives his $20,000 Mercedes from Beverly Hills to UCLA and jogs seven miles.

Where does the money game end?

"By the time you reach the goal you set out to reach, there's another one ahead of you," Traynor says. "So the game goes on."

'Sunshine' Bill Gains Sponsors

MIAMI (AP) — Sen. Lawton Chiles says he has gained 45 cosponsors for his federal government-in-the-sunshine bill, and is encouraged about chances of passage.

"It'll be a tough fight, as it was in the Florida Legislature, but I think we'll ultimately get it," the Florida Democrat said in an interview.

He said Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, Senate government operations subcommittee chairman, has promised hearings on the bill during the 93rd Congress.

Chiles, elected in 1970, said he was disturbed by a public opinion survey showing that, of some 17 categories of occupation, only used car salesmen placed lower than elected officials in having the public trust.

"This isn't too funny to politicians or used car salesmen," he said.

"I introduced the federal government-in-the-sunshine bill in 1972 to open to the public and press the closed doors of Congress and federal agencies behind which public business is conducted."

He said passage of such a bill won't "erase every trace of public suspicion," but will open decision-making to the people.

Chiles said he will also be "sponsoring and pushing legislation" to require elected and administrative officials in the Congress and executive branch to disclose their financial assets.

"Some of us are doing this voluntarily now, but it is essential for all officials to do so to enable the public to judge whether we are making decisions and setting policy on the basis of public interest or self interest," he said.

Officers Installed By Club

By FANNETTE EDWARDS

DELTONA— The regular monthly meeting and Installation of Officers for 1973 took place Feb. 4 in the Community Center at 2 p.m. Officers installed by Joseph O'Connor were: Joseph Sinatra, president for a second term; Larry Coyner, vice-president;; Mrs. Alfred Orlando, secretary and Jack McKenna, treasurer. Absent was Ray Siegerland, social director, who was ill and will be installed at the March meeting.

The Club, founded for fun and travel, was organized just one year ago this month by Joseph Sinatra, who is able to secure trips and cruises for nominal amounts and keeps the members happy with numerous social events throughout the year. Close to his side, aiding in all his ventures is his charming wife, Connie, who is the busiest gal in the club, aiding in making and serving refreshments, helping plan and completing trips and everything you can think of to make this club succeed as a fun and fellowship club.

Second to her is little, energetic Rose Orlando, newly elected secretary who seems to abound in energy. Several trips have been planned that are filled to date, such as the trip to St. Augustine on Feb. 14 and to Busch Gardens on Mar. 14.

A few more openings are available for the three day cruise to the Carribean on Feb. 20 to 22. If interested call Mr. Sinatra at 668-8578 now. Plans are in the making for nine day "Spanish Fiesta" trip to gay Costa Del Sol, Spanish Riviera departing from Miami on May 14 and returning on May 22. Call Mr. Sinatra for details.

The next meeting will be Sunday, Mar. 4, at 2 p.m.

Acupuncture Success In U of F Study

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Acupuncture, the ancient needle therapy of China, has stopped chronic pain in most of about 60 patients treated in a University of Florida study, researchers say.

But the researchers warned that those suffering from chronic pain should not rush off to Gainesville in hopes of getting relief.

"We only take patients who are referred to us by other doctors and for whom traditional Western methods have not been effective," said Dr. Peter K. Lee, who learned the acupuncture technique during a 20-year practice in his native China.

Lee said he uses from two to six hypodermic needles, instead of the long needles of the traditional Chinese treatment, to relieve pain.

"Our aims are first, to find out whether it really does relieve pain and next, to compare the effect against use of nerve block (local anesthetics)," Lee said.

He added that the treatment has been "very encouraging, more than 90 per cent say it has stopped pain."

Supervising the research is Dr. Jerome Modell, chairman of the UF anesthesiology department. Modell said the goal is to cut through sensationalized claims about acupuncture to get to make a scientific assessment.

"Our aims are purely investigative," he said. "The main question concerning us is, 'Does it really relieve pain?'"

"We will admit that some patients have reported temporary pain relief after acupuncture treatments," Modell added.

The National Institute of health has encouraged such studies but so far, said another researcher, no scientific paper has been published on the subject.

"No one knows yet why or how it works," said Lee.

SJC Forms Two Classes In Spanish

Adult and Continuing Education of Seminole Junior College announces the formation of two conversational Spanish classes, starting February 20. There will be two courses offered each Tuesday and Thursday. The morning class will run from 9:30 to 11:30 and the afternoon class will run from 12:30 to 2:30. The courses will run for five weeks and will be taught in room No. 1 of the Distributive Education Building which is located just behind the Student Center on Seminole Junior College's main campus. Dr. Ann Bachmann will instruct these two classes in Spanish. Besides having formal training in language and a rich teaching background at schools such as the University of Alabama and San Diego State University, Dr. Bachmann has vast practical experience gained from her extensive over sea travels. These classes are not designed to make the individual a language expert but they are designed to give the student a conversational facility with the language that will make foreign travel both more pleasurable as well as rewarding.

Consumer Safeguard Struggle Continues

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The struggle over consumer safeguards is starting the second four years under President Nixon with a gallery of fresh faces in the administration and a hopperful of battered bills in Congress.

Nixon's consumer adviser remains, but now is responsible to one of the President's super-Cabinet officials. Her staff's budget money has been rerouted.

A former White House staff assistant is the new chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, which has innovatively and persistently attacked misleading advertising and concentrated industries. Two more appointments to the five-member commission are due this year.

Nixon is to appoint a new product Safety Commission. The Commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration is due to move up and make room for a new boss.

What does all of this mean for consumer protection?

"There's nothing left," said Ralph Nader in an interview. "There was lip service, but now there's only a grimace."

Nader pointed to the fate of Virginia Knauer, the President's consumer adviser, as evidence.

Mrs. Knauer, however, contends she can be even more effective now, probably adding to her staff after it transfers to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Mrs. Knauer will report to HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger, who will coordinate consumer affairs as part of his function as counselor for domestic affairs.

Weinberger came to Washington as Nixon's choice to whip the FTC into shape after a critical report from the American Bar Association.

Weinberger was succeeded by Miles W. Kirkpatrick, who continued his predecessor's programs and launched new ones. The advertising industry, in particular, howled and gained public support from some White House staffers who felt the agency had gone too far.

Kirkpatrick has been replaced by Lewis A. Engman, a speechwriter and legislative aide to Mrs. Knauer before going to the White House.

The administration's consumer legislation, which should clarify in which direction the White House is moving on consumer affairs, has yet to be compiled, according to Mrs. Knauer.

Nader, however, said, the major consumer issues will be unavoidable. Energy rates will be the major one to be wrestled with administratively.

Zoo Vet Substitutes As Animal's Parents

MIAMI (AP) — Dr. Ronald Sampsell always take his work home with him. So the veterinarian at Crandon Park Zoo shares his house with jaguars, baboons, leopards, lions, hyenas, aardvarks and a variety of other animals.

"They're such a joy to have around. You get attached to them," Dr. Sampsell said Sunday.

His role as a vet includes becoming a substitute parent for newborn animals whose mothers have died or those rejected on by other animals, he said.

When this happens Sampsell grabs the young creatures and takes them to his house a short distance from the zoo.

His wife and three children have learned to cope with the various idiosyncracies of the animals. Aardvarks scratch the corners; growing lions tend to chew the furniture; and hyenas are real packrats, he said.

"You have to watch them every minute," Sampsell said of the hyenas. "They'll steal trousers off chairs and we even found one had taken throw rugs and hidden them with things under the bed."

The veterinarian said most of the animals are fed and cared for in a few weeks and then returned to the zoo.

"You have to be careful not to keep them too long for their own sake," he said. "They become too dependent on you, too people-oriented and won't be able to relate to other animals."

"You not only have to wean them from the bottle, but you have to wean them from the mother image, no matter what that image might be," he added. "For as soon as you take them you're stamped with the mother image, as far as they are concerned. They are completely dependent on you."

There is nothing unusual for a visitor to see a jaguar pacing about the Sampsells' living room; or bearcubs swinging from almost anything by their tails or stealing bananas off the kitchen counter; or a baby kangaroo swinging from a clothespin bag on a doorknob. Sampsell and his children, Gina, 12, Cheryl, 8, and Terri, 7, gave more attention to the animals than a lot of adults would.

"When one of the animals is sick, they take their pillow right down on the floor and watch over him. They give them more affection, more time, more mothering," he said.

Sampsell said among his boarders so far were a hyena, a tiger, five jaguars, a baboon, two kangaroos, a goat, five aardvarks, a couple of spotted leopards, an African hydrax, assorted Asian bearcats, a monkey-faced owl and a peccary—a wild hog-like animal.

And he said Mrs. Sampsell long ago learned not to begin an evening's conversation with "How did things go at the office today?" But rather with "What are we feeding tonight, dear?"

Five Florida Firms Cited For Pollution

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Department of Pollution Control today announced that five Florida firms have been cited for pollution control violations.

Universal Construction Industries Inc., Oviedo, and Florida Land Company, Winter Park, were cited for open burning violations at land clearing operations in Orlando on October 3, October 25 and November 1, 1972. The companies allegedly conducted the burning without a DPC permit, burned after allowable hours for open burning and burned materials which were not allowed under the Department's open burning regulations.

The companies which are subject to a civil penalty of $5,000 for each of the air pollution violations, were ordered to immediately comply with DPC open burning regulations.

Swift Agricultural Chemical Corporation was cited for air pollution violations resulting from emissions of ammonia fumes and objectionable odors from its fertilizer manufacturing and chemical plant located near the intersection of State Roads 540 and 555 in Polk County. The firm was ordered to take immediate action to prevent such emissions and to detail that action in a report to the Department within 10 days.

Townley Industrial Plastics Inc., of Chandler in Marion County, was cited for open burning of industrial and commercial wastes without a necessary DPC permit. The company was ordered to halt all such burning operations in its manufacturing process.

North Marco Utility Company, Inc., was cited for water pollution system on the North end of Marco Island. The company allegedly discharged raw sewage from the sewage system onto an area near Highway 951. The company was ordered to immediately cease dumping of raw sewage and to completely clean the area where the dumping occurred to eliminate any threat to ground water or to public health, and remove any objectionable odors.

DPC orders for corrective pollution control action were issued to Shuler and Son Pole Cpmpany, Hosford, which was earlier cited for air pollution violations resulting from a bark burning operation.

Ear-piercer refuses if children are unwilling

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am one of those "ear-piercers" at a department store, so naturally I was interested in the letter from the shopper who was appalled by the screams of a terrified child whose mother held her down while her ears were being pierced. I, too, am firmly opposed to piercing the ears of a frightened, unwilling child.

My only screamer was a two-year-old whose father told me that if I didn't pierce his daughter's ears, HE would do it himself with a pair of pliers! Visualizing the possibility of infection and a ragged, uneven job, I foolishly pierced the child's ears, and her screams could be heard all over the store.

Since then, I always tell the child it will "pinch" a little, and unless the child herself submits willingly, I refuse to do it.

I also tell the mother that if there is any fuss after the first ear is pierced, the child will go home with one earring in her ear, and the other one in Mommy's hand. This is usually enough to discourage the most enthusiastic mothers. MRS. E. W. B.

DEAR MRS. B.: I received many letters protesting the practice of piercing little girls' ears, but a Maryland physician wrote: "What's all this fuss about piercing a little girl's ear lobe? It's nothing compared to the barbaric practice of routinely circumcising little boys. The claim that it is necessary for hygenic reasons is absurd. I was a victim of this ancient, savage rite and I resent it to this day. If my parents were alive, I would sue them!"

Well, doctor, they're lucky they're no longer here. It might KILL them.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a cigar smoker from way back, and for years I have been trying to find a source for a quality cigar, but so far I've been unsuccessful. I am looking for one that would sell for 50 cents to $2. The cigar George Burns smokes on TV appears to be the kind for which I am looking. You are my last hope. How can I find out what brand it is, and where to get it? D. W. H.

DEAR D. W. H.: Let's let George do it. Confidential to George: Please write to me [care of L. A. Times] and tell me what George Burns burns. And who's your pusher?

DEAR ABBY: I met a fellow who wants to marry me, but one thing turns me off: He has neglected his teeth something awful. How can I get him to a dentist without hurting his feelings? TURNED OFF

DEAR TURNED: Don't pussyfoot. Say: "Darling, I love you, but before we see a preacher, you MUST see a dentist!" And keep after him until he does. [P. S. Don't worry about his feelings. His health is more important.]

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those attractive young people whom others may want to spoil. Teach to stand on own two feet, particularly since the quality of cooperation is strong in this nature. A profession that requires precision and neatness will be fine as a main outlet for life. Make sure the training is of academic stature for best results. Sports are a must here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

BETTY CANARY
Mother's Work Is Never Done Stuff

By BETTY CANARY

It's one of those mornings when I feel like an old bread pudding. I pore over the newspaper, pour over my coffee and wonder if there isn't some way to produce instant vitamin deficiency in children.

Children are always at their peak of energy on such mornings. They jump cheerfully about the house, crash into furniture, smash their elbows against walls and altogether create an ear-shattering din. Which rhymes with sin, come to think of it.

Children are also at their most helpful on such mornings. It is as if they recognize good old mother's brain is a bit soggy and they are ready to do things for her.

"Turn on the TV?" they shriek.

"Zmmmm" I answer.

"Thought you'd like to see it in color for a change. You know how you make everything pink and green!"

"I like it that way," I lie briskly.

"Wow! Look at the headlines . . . all murders today."

"I'd rather take my disasters one at a time," I say, jerking my paper away.

Now, an intelligent woman would know by this time that she should go back to bed. An intelligent woman would hand each child $1.29 and suggest they eat lunch somewhere besides at home. Maybe have spaghetti. At a nice little restaurant. Somewhere near Naples, preferably.

I never seem to make this sort of intelligent decision. For some reason I keep believing that if I can only stay upright and drink enough coffee, everything will get better.

It never gets better.

Today is the day the cat will find the crawl space behind the upstairs bathroom. Probably the bushings will wear out on the washing machine.

No reason to hope for mercy or justice.

It's the kind of day when the casserole runs over into the oven—cleaned just yesterday. The most I can hope for is that I won't catch my hair on fire. I know I'll break my glasses.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "North's three-diamond call is not a sign of insanity. It is a 'splinter' bid."

Jim: "The splinter bid is a modern invention. Specifically it provides that when you bid one more than necessary to force in a new suit you are forcing to game in partner's last bid suit and showing a singleton in the one you are bidding. Two diamonds would have been a one-round force, so three diamonds is a splinter and forces the bidding to continue to game or higher in hearts."

Oswald: "This splinter bid makes it easy for South to give a picture of his hand. He jumps to four hearts to show a good heart suit, but not much in high cards and certainly no first round control in any other suit. In other words, he is very happy with game, but has little slam interest."

Jim: "North has just two aces so he knows there is no slam and passes."

Oswald: "Without the splinter bid North and South might still stop at just four hearts, but they might also get to five. Five won't make because the defense will probably find the club ruff. That is bad luck, but bad luck follows players who get beyond game."

POLLY'S POINTERS
Baby Food Jar Ideas Come in an Avalanche

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Sissy that all during the year I save empty baby food jars and, as I make various jams and jellies, I fill some of them. When a friend is ill or for any gifts, several of these jars can be done up in a festive wrap. I cut circles out of white paper, print the contents on one and paste it on the top of a cover, or I cut flowers from catalogues to paste on the cover and then put the label on the side.—R. H. D.

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Sissy about a candlestick that was given to me and which had been made with two saucers and three baby food jars. Fasten lid tightly on each jar. Use antique paint (walnut, maple, etc.) to paint each piece. Turn one saucer upside down, and with that all-purpose milky white glue, fasten a jar (lid up) to the saucer. Add two more jars on top of the first and then the other saucer (right side up) to the top. The finished product looks like wood that has been turned on a lathe.—R. R.

DEAR POLLY—Baby food jars can be used for so many things. A few of my ideas are as follows: decorated or painted to use as a desk organizer, as a dresser organizer, as a nursery set to hold all sorts of supplies, a closet freshener with holes punched in the tops and filled with mothballs, potpourri, etc. They make great spice jars, nut and bolt holders for a workbench, a sewing aid to hold buttons and notions, portable ashtrays for purse or car when filled with sand, to hold gifts of homemade food such as tea blends, dried herbs, jellies and candies. They are great for assembling your own travel coffee kit, to hold kitchen matches when camping or boating and as clay jars for the children. Also, they can be used as refrigerator snack jars, to hold pickles, puddings and so on that go in lunch boxes. Save a few to go in the kitchen drawer to hold rubber bands, bottle caps, etc.—CHERYL

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I always dread baking a cake in a tube pan (the kind used for angel food cake) because of the mess that is involved in trying to flour such a pan. Any suggestions for making this task a little easier and neater will be greatly appreciated.—BELLA

DEAR POLLY—We feed our cats outside and time and time again the dry or canned food was drowned and made uneatable and soupy by a sudden downpour that came up while we were out. Now I put the cat food in a cake pan with a removable bottom. Although it does get wet sometimes, the pan drains automatically and our pets eat every scrap.—DORIS

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with food coloring. Why is it not put in dropper bottles. It is so hard to get the right amount out of the bottles now used.—MARIE

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with the facial tissue manufacturers. With so many people having allergies why do they perfume tissues we use to blow our noses? If I receive a Polly Dollar it will be spent on UNSCENTED tissues. Thanks for letting us gripe.—SHERI

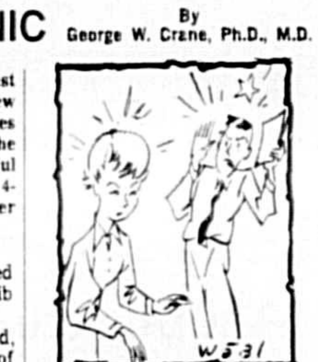
WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Laura thought women were just as erotic as men. But after a few weeks of marriage, she makes the following diagnosis of the typical husband. A successful wife must function in lieu of a 4-wife harem! Remember Biblical Jacob?



CASE W-531: Laura B., aged 24, disagrees with Women's Lib regarding sex.

"Dr. Crane," she protested, "the rabid advocates of Women's Lib are making very unscientific statements.

"For example, some of the unmarried members of our University Women's Club go so far as to declare that women are just as erotic as men.

"But I've been married for 3 years and I certainly know that is false.

"So do other wives, too!

"It must be the unmarried women or the frustrated wives who are guilty of this false notion.

"When I was single, I thought I was as affectionate as my fiance, for I was as interested in kissing as he was.

"But I soon found, after the wedding, that his desire for complete physical relations was far greater than mine!

"And most of the wives whom I've met, say the very same thing regarding their husbands.

"I'll agree that girls seem more interested in the frilly things which you describe as the 'appetizers' for romance, but they don't equal the man's basic sexual hunger."

SEX DIFFERENCES

Women's Libbers doubtless recognize that the average woman is only about 65 percent as strong, muscularly, as the average man.

Prof. Hrdlicka also tested the strength of Indian women in contrast to Indian men.

Although the Indian wives engaged in much heavy physical work, they were only 62 percent as strong as an Indian man of the same weight!

You readers also know that the average wife doesn't have the gastric hunger typical of the normal male.

For your husband may require 3,500 calories of food per day whereas you can get along comfortably on 2,000 to 2,500.

Likewise, the Almighty created the human male to have a much greater sex appetite than his wife

If we use ancient Biblical Jacob as an example, he had 4 wives and that 4:1 ratio is about typical of the modern American male who doesn't use cigarettes

Smokers, however, seem to anesthetize their erotic urge, which is why many modern males are relatively sissy or effeminate.

"Yes, Dr. Crane," you Women's Libbers may argue, "but isn't a wife's diffidence in the boudoir due largely to her fear of pregnancy?"

To some degree, that may be quite true.

But even after the menopause, when a wife no longer dreads an unexpected pregnancy, are women as erotic as men?

Is it the women past 45 who frequent the strip-tease shows and stag movies?

Do the older women patronize the beaches to ogle the male swimmers?

Even among cattle and horses, is it the cow and mare that get excited at the appearance of the bull and stallion, or vice versa?

Any experienced adult knows that it is the male that is endowed with far more sexual desire than the female.

Passionate females (nymphomaniacs) are either motivated by money or are trying to compensate for inferiority complexes, based on amputated breasts, wombs or to sterility.

Or they are titillated but unsatisfied wives, due to husbands who fail to use the proper medical technique outlined in the booklet below.

So send for the booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

The February meeting of the Rose Circle of the Sanford Garden Club was a garden run to State Headquarters of the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs in Mead Gardens, Winter Park.

The meeting was held in the Garden for the Blind in the beautiful grounds of headquarters.

The next stop was in the Harry P. Leu Gardens—a 50 acre gift to the city of Orlando from Mr. Leu.

The great masses of huge camellia and azalea bushes are beyond description not to mention the rose garden.

A delightful luncheon at Imperial House ended the trip.

Dependency Requirement Explained

JACKSONVILLE — The Internal Revenue Service today reminded Florida taxpayers that in order to claim the recently increased $750 personal exemption for a dependent, they must meet all the dependency tests.

The basic requirement to claim a child as a dependent is that the parent must provide more than half the child's support for the entire year, A. J. O'Donnell, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue said. If a child is born during the year, the parent has to meet this support test only after the time of birth, he noted.

The requirement that a person cannot have income of $750 or more a year and still be claimed as a dependent does not apply to a child who is under 19 at the end of the year or a full-time student for some part of five months of the year, Mr. O'Donnell said.

If the child is required to file a return, his parents may still be entitled to claim an exemption for him on their return, even though he claims an exemption for himself on his return, Mr. O'Donnell said.

IRS Publication 501, "Your Exemptions and Exemptions for Dependents," furnishes detailed information on the dependency tests. A copy may be obtained free by dropping a post card to the Jacksonville IRS office.

Keep Deputies Busy

Tire Slashing Vandals

By GARY TAYLOR

Sheriff's deputies are investigating a rash of tire slashing incidents in the Forestbrook-Indian Hills-Maitland area which occurred over the weekend.

Tires were slashed on at least eight cars in seven separate incidents. In each case, two tires were slashed on the car.

Harry Clemens, 2646 Derbyshire, Maitland, James Younge, 2626 Derbyshire, Wayne Busch, 2600 Derbyshire, Fred C. Phillips, 872 Woodside Road, Woodlands, Nathan D. Kohler, 900 Woodside Road, and James T. Wilson, 852 Woodside Road, all reported cars with two tires slashed.

Max Long, 2502 Big Ben Trail, Indian Hills, reported two tires slashed on each of two cars at that residence.

Darlo Farnese found a 1968 Ford Mustang vandalized in a orange grove on the west side of Lake Brantley. He reported the incident to Deputy Ralph Salerno, who is continuing an investigation.

Dick Mills, Rt. 1 Box 411, Oviedo, told Deputy P.J. Riggins that tools and equipment valued at $513 were taken from there truck while parked at Orange Liquors, SR 434 and Interstate 4.

James Lamar, 106 Spring Street, reported the theft of $32 cash from his residence.

Wendell Edsel Odom, Altamonte Springs, reported the theft of beer, cigarettes and a radio worth $250 from Ed & Ed's, SR 434, Longwood, after a padlock was broken off a door, according to Deputy G. L. Trombly's report.

Mrs. Carol L. Green, Rt. 1 Box 276, Maitland, reported the theft of a stereo, cloths and records worth about $1,500 to Deputy Clarence Smith, who turned the investigation over to Det. Sgt. George Abbgy.

The office at Casselberry Elementary School was entered, the vault and filing cabinets pried open, but apparently only a few stamps were taken, Deputy Smith said.

An $800 golf cart was reported missing from Rolling Hills Country Club, SR 434, Longwood, and about $800 to $1,000 vandalism to five other, according to Deputy D. R. Beavers' report. Four of the carts were privately owned.

Brenda Bennett Cowan, Rt. 2 Box 64A, Sanford, told Deputy Lee Sparkman that a .22 caliber pistol and a .22 caliber rifle were taken from her residence.

Foley R. Barnes, 108 Waverly Drive, Fern Park, told authorities that a skill saw and drill worth $850 were taken from the greenhouse at Velma and Ray's Nursery, SR 419 and SR 434.

Sparkman also investigated the theft of a tape player, speakers and tapes worth $290 from Clifton L. Shadron, Rt. 1 Box 249, Oviedo. Mrs. Vivian Getman, 3414 Orlando Drive, reported a wallet containing $118-125 missing.

Delay In Prisoner Hearings

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)— Another delay has been ordered in the effect of a federal court order requiring Florida prison officials to conduct disciplinary hearings more like a trial.

The U.S. 5th circuit appeals court agreed to hear an appeal and meanwhile prevented the ruling by U.S. District Judge Charles R. Scott on Jan. 5 from being enforced.

The appeal hearing will be speeded, the panel said, but set no date.

This is the third stay of Scott's order. He granted the first one of two weeks to give prison officials time to set up procedures for giving inmates the right to counsel and the right to cross-examine witnesses when accused of a breach of discipline.

A second stay was granted by the appeals court while it studied the possible effects of the order being in effect while the appeal was pending.

Discussion Period Planned

By MARION BETHEA

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Instituting his former policy of allowing dissertations by residents on subjects being considered by City Council only if their names appear on the agenda, Mayor Lawrence Swofford has set aside a period of time at 8 p.m. tomorrow for such discussions.

The reason for the procedure is a considerable amount of controversy caused by an annexation request of the Stone family for property located at Lake Ruby across from the La Floresta development. The petitioners are requesting annexation under R-3 multiple family zoning, which will later be changed to RMF-1 under the city's new zoning classification.

The petitioners plan to erect townhouse condominiums in the $33,000-$70,000 price range. Council had previously requested the city's planners to establish a low density classification for this type of development, which is not to exceed eight units per acre.

Although, according to City Clerk Jane Richards, there has only been favorable comment expressed concerning the project, it has been rumored there is dissention among the area development residents, and it is to dispell such rumors and afford public expression of opinion that Mayor Swofford has designated the time on the agenda.

Also on the agenda for the meeting of City Council to begin at 4:30 p.m., is a report by the City Zoning Commission which meets tonight to establish a public hearing for the city's new comprehensive zoning ordinance and master land use map. Several rezoning requests are being held in limbo awaiting the passage of the ordinance and adoption of the map. The public hearing must be held by the Zoning Commission initially, and then the issue will be referred to City Council, who must then also hold a public hearing. It is hoped the Zoning Commission will report a hearing date has been set in order that council may then also set a date for its public hearing.

Two public hearings are scheduled for tomorrow, which have been continued for several weeks. According to Mrs. Richards they will probably be held in abeyance again due to the fact the zoning ordinance and map have not been adopted.

The hearings are those of Thomas and Waller who are requesting a zoning change from R-1A to multiple family on property located off Maitland Avenue and James Davis who is requesting rezoning from R-1A to C-2 retail commercial district on property located off Ballard Street along the railroad.

The Thomas and Waller request has been continued since October.

City Engineer William Palm will report to council on the cost of a study for street load limits. Councilman Daniel Dorfman has requested a study of the city's streets as regards load limits for vehicles.

Detectives Return 2 Prisoners

By GARY TAYLOR

Detectives Tom Hennigan and Jerry Capshaw returned two men from Panama City Beach Saturday, where they were arrested by police there after an all points bulletin was issued by the Seminole County Sheriff's Department, Sheriff John Polk said.

John Edward Booth, 21, of Covington, Ga., and Earl William Herzig, 26, of Orlando, were both jailed under $8,000 bond, charged with breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony, to wit: grand larceny, in connection with the alleged theft of $200 cash and $30,000 in certificates of deposit from the office at St. Johns Village. The certificates of deposit were recovered.

The arrests came after Hennigan, assisted by Capshaw, received information from the Orlando Police Department. Herzig is also wanted by Orlando authorities.

John Milton Wade, 37, of 1018 Clemson Drive, Altamonte Springs was charged with felon in possession of a concealed firearm and felon in possession of a concealed weapon, after he was arrested by Deputy Dave Lohr inside the Olympiad Book Store, SR 436, Altamonte Springs. He was jailed under $15,000 bond. Lohr said he entered the store, armed with a shotgun, after receiving a call that there was an armed man in the store.

Casselberry Patrolman David Guildford arrested Edward Raymond Lasco, 18, on charges of breaking and entering after he was caught inside a vacant 427 Brittany Circle, Casselberry, by Casselberry Police and Det. Sgt. George Abbgy of the Sheriff's Department.

Sanford Patrolman Herb Shea arrested Thomas Lee Perry, 114 Maple Avenue, on charges of possession of stolen property, after a tabenacle and other property valued at $250 and taken from the Holy Cross Church, Fouth Steet and Park Avenue, were recovered.

Sanford Police Patrolman Walter Jones captured an escapee from the state mental hospital and turned him over to Florida Hospital before he will be returned to the institution.

electrical bill and none could be found.

To the suggestion that air conditioning be turned off at night and screens installed to allow windows to be open during the nighttime hours, the minister said that would bring moisture into the building. Further, he pointed out experts say the most practical system is to keep the heat or airconditioning going to maintain moisture, humidity and air circulating at a proper level.

He added that most of the tenants at Bram's moved into the 13-story complex because they could no longer keep up a home, a lawn etc. and some of the tenants believe they have luxury apartments.

And the tenants are not taking advantage of the restaurant or the launderette to the extent the corporation had first believed they would.

To the criticism that there are some living in the building who are less than 62 years old, Father Soper said to his knowledge there had been a handicapped person living at Bram's who could live there under the federal guidelines because to the handicap, but this person now may be 62.

Could persons with a higher income than the maximum be living at Bram Towers? "Everyone who rents -there states under oath his income," Father Soper replied.

Help Refused In Fire; Residents Up In Arms

By DONNA ESTES

LONGWOOD — Residents of the Woodlands subdivision located north of 434, just beyond this city's corporate boundaries, are up in arms today about the refusal of the city's fire department to assist with putting out the blaze that occurred in the development Saturday in which some $40,000 in estimated damage was done to the Andrew Olsen home at 102 Hickory Tree Road.

The Forest City-Bear Lake Fire Control District department did respond to the fire said to have begun in a hall closet of the home next to the bedroom. The speedy action of a neighbor, Noval McKechnie, who broke out a window and alerted the family, is given credit for saving the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Olsen, their daughter and son, Patty, 13, and Donny 8, and Mrs. Olsen's niece, Lisa Tillis, 8, all sleeping in the house when the fire broke out.

Forest City-Bear Lake Assistant Chief John P. Fergusan estimated the loss and Sheriff's Deputy Ralph Salerno determined origin of the fire.

Longwood Fire Chief Carl Lommler received a call concerning the fire at 8:56 a.m., but acting under orders of the mayor and City Council issued in July, 1972, did not order his men to fight the blaze. According to log of events kept by the police dispatcher in the city, Lommler immediately determined there was no question of life being involved in the fire.

Longwood, again according to the log, called the Florida Forestry Service at 9 and Forest City responded sometime after 9:20 a.m. with Lake Mary Fire Department en route by 9:28 a.m.

City officials held three separate meetings with residents of Woodlands last year to determine if they were willing to be annexed or to pay for fire protection. When affirmative action in neith instance was given by the area, fire protection was cut off.

A Woodlands resident told The Herald today the people in the development believe they are willing to pay for fire protection, they will not be forced into the city.

New Directory Listings Include Courthouse

The new Sanford telephone directory, now being delivered in the Sanford, DeBary-Deltona, Geneva and Oviedo areas, became effective February 18. Along with the new directory is a newly-designed cover page and a change in a substantial number of local telephone numbers. Between two and three hundred Deltona numbers are new and the new Seminole County Courthouse numbers are also included in the new book.

Bob Shedden, Group Manager for Southern Bell, said that approximately 35,000 copies will be delivered initially and the delivery should have been completed by February 16th. Should your directory not reach you by this date, Shedden urged all customers to call the delivery office (225-0581) or the Sanford business office of the telephone company. After the effective date of the new directory, the old directory should be discarded, Shedden advised.

"Why are new power plants necessary?"
Additional power plants are absolutely essential when you consider the ever-increasing need for electricity. Electric power to serve homes and businesses, for communications and hospitals, and countless other necessities of day to day life. Today, you're requiring more electricity than ever before. In fact, the average homeowner served by Florida Power & Light uses over twice as much electricity as he used just ten short years ago. And, since Florida is the nation's fastest growing major state, FPL is continually adding more new electric customers than any other utility in the nation. New power plants are necessary to enable FPL to supply you with the adequate, reliable electric service you have every right to expect.
FPL encourages you to ask questions. About electric service. Rates. Environmental protection. Or anything else. We believe you deserve honest, straightforward answers. And we try to answer your most frequently-asked questions publicly. (All others will receive personal replies.) Address your questions to your local FPL Manager.

SANFORD TREATMENT PLANT

Lee Construction Company crews are showing steady progress in "bringing out of the ground" the $1.5 million expansion of Sanford's lakefront sewer treatment plant. Above, workmen are pouring concrete sloping bottom to gigantic grit removal chamber that will, when finished, protrude above ground level and allow trucking away grit trapped from sewer mains feeding into the plant. Left, foreman watches from center of one of two circular secondary clarifier tanks being built which, with other improvements, will boost efficiency of treatment plant in purifying wastes before they are discharged into Lake Monroe. Below, photo shows both new clarifier tanks and in background site preparation of two new storm water overflow lagoons which will be used in peak flows to hold storm waters for later treatment. The sewer treatment plant expansion is scheduled for completion in June, will boost capacity from four to six million gallons a day and add secondary treatment as now required by pollution laws. Gaullist Rule Threatened

By ELIAS ANTAR
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — A political alliance of Communists and Socialists has the Gaullists worried—their 15-year rule may end in next month's elections.

That is the central issue to be decided in voting March 4 and 11.

The disciples of Charles de Gaulle have been losing steam, beset by financial scandals and a reputation for indifference. They also suffer from what the French call "the wear and tear of power"—simply being in charge too long.

The opposition leftists have formed a united front for the first time in nearly 40 years and believe they are on a rising tide.

They call for the disbandment of NATO and the Warsaw Pact and the abolition of the Gaullists' cherished nuclear strike force. They would "liberate" the Common Market from "the domination of big capital" and uphold "the demands of the workers."

Because of this country's geographic position in the heart of Western Europe, a partly Communist government that aroused its neighbors' suspicions would seriously weaken the Western Alliance and cause problems with the United States.

The election is largely about internal issues. The leftist social program strikes a responsive note in many people who are otherwise wary of the Communists. By comparison, a loosely formulated government program looks very much like more of the same.

According to polls, people favor the leftists over the government, 47 to 36.

Gaullists profess to be unruffled. Party leader Alain Peyrefitte says it will all come out all right when the voters "examine their conscience in the privacy of the election booth" and realize the dangers of communism.

That remains to be seen. Most political observers expect the Gaullists to nudge ahead of the left without renewing the absolute majority they now enjoy in the 487-man National Assembly.

The key to the situation would then lie with the center group, known as the Reformists. The Gaullists would have to swallow their pride and endorse at least part of the Reform program to get the center on the team.

To win in the election's first round a candidate must gain an absolute majority. Otherwise there is a runoff in the second stage with only a simple majority needed for election.

Cease-Fire Units Act To Facilitate Releases

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Two cease-fire peacekeeping commissions took new actions today to reduce the fighting in Vietnam and facilitate the release of prisoners.

As the Saigon command reported another 194 Communist cease-fire violations in the past 24 hours, the four-party Joint Military Commission decided to send a team of investigators to the northern coast to check on reports of heavy fighting. This is the first field investigation ordered by the joint commission, which is made up of the United States, the Viet Cong and North and South Vietnam.

The investigation will center on the fishing village of Sa Huynh, about 90 miles below Da Nang. The Saigon command claims that the North Vietnamese attacked the village three hours after the cease-fire began Jan. 28, and there have been reports of steady fighting ever since. Saigon claims about 400 militiamen are missing.

U. S. sources reported that American maintenance teams were flown today to the Communist headquarters at Loc Ninh, 75 miles north of Saigon, to repair the airstrip and "facilitate the release of prisoners." U. S. planes ferrying Vietnamese prisoners to and from the exchange point have been having tire trouble because of shrapnel imbedded in the runway from fighting earlier.

The four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision met today with an agenda of critical problems facing it. They included:

—A request by the U.S. delegation for an investigation into the shooting down of an American helicopter on a peacekeeping mission last Friday near An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon. The U.S. delegation said its investigation indicated that the Viet Cong shot the craft down. The five U.S. crewmen were wounded.

—Deployment of supervisory commission teams to 26 field sites across South Vietnam at the subregional level and to points of entry into the country which the Saigon Government and the Viet Cong choose for replacements of war material permitted by the cease-fire agreement. The agreement specifies that these teams shall be operating by at least 30 days after the cease-fire.

A spokesmen for the supervisory commission said that 23 of the 26 subregional sites have been scouted, and the commission hopes to begin putting teams in operation at the sites soon. A U.S. source said the presence of the supervisory commission units and teams from the military commission would tend to discourage a major flare-up in fighting.

Senate Opens Hearing

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sam J. Ervin, the Senate's second oldest man, tells down-home stories with a flourish of his eyebrows, attracts controversy like a lightning rod and holds the Constitution in almost biblical reverence.

Passing out pocket-size copies of the 184-year-old document, the Democratic senator and former North Carolina Supreme Court judge, now 76, command's nearly every strategic point in this year's battles between Capitol Hill and President Nixon's White House.

Starting Tuesday, Ervin opens a new set of hearings on proposals to protect the 1st Amendment, rights of newsmen and shield them from court orders to disclose confidential sources.

Just concluded are several heated sessions of Ervin's separation-of-powers subcommittee on an Ervin bill to limit the president's ability to impound funds authorized by Congress.

He has been in the center of moves to restrict the doctrine of executive privilege as a device to prevent Congress from questioning key presidential aides.

The Senate has approved, 64 to 13, an Ervin bill requiring Senate confirmation of Roy L. Ash and all his successors as director of the Office of Budget and Management, a post Ervin calls the second-most-important job in the federal government.

As he has since he took office in June of 1954, Ervin is approaching his assignments with the Constitution as both rule-book and guidebook.

"The Constitution is the finest thing to come out of the mind of man and the experience of man," he said during a civil-rights filibuster in the 1960s. "I am going to do the best I can to see that this Constitution is handed down to my grandchildren in as good a shape as it was when I came into this world."

In the 1970s he is using much the same words in telling officials of the Nixon administration the Constitution won't allow them to take some of the actions they are taking.

"I challenge the President to show me a syllable in the Constitution that gives him the power to impound funds," Ervin told Ash at a hearing earlier this month.

Then, in virtually the next breath, he said he agrees with Nixon that some current programs should be stopped or cut back and said he would even vote against overriding a presidential veto on some of them.

But the issue, he said, is "whether the current trend toward executive usurpation of legislative power is to continue unabated until we have arrived at a presidential form of government."

In the hearing that followed, Deputy Atty. Gen. Joseph T. Sneed contended the president has an inherent, implied right in the Constitution to impound funds if that is needed to stem inflation and to "faithfully execute" conflicting laws.

Bahamian Kidnappers Are Held By Police

LUCAYA, Grand Bahamas Island (AP) — Two men are in custody in connection with last week's abduction and attempted ransom of Andrea Spencer, 4-year-old daughter of Canadian banker Robert Spencer, sources say.

Tight lipped island police would not discuss the two men in custody Sunday. But sources said both are Bahamians, one was picked up late Saturday and the other sometime Sunday.

Andrea was kidnaped last Thursday night by two men who invaded the Spencer home. They left her in an abandoned church in an isolated part of the island and then telephoned Spencer, demanding $250,000 in cash.

Family friends said the young girl freed herself Saturday morning and was found shortly afterward by three airline employes who were looking for wild roses.

As instructed by the abductors, Spencer in the meantime had taken the ransom money to a specified spot and dropped it. The money had not been picked up by the time Andrea was returned and was later reclaimed by Spencer and police.

Meanwhile, Spencer took his wife, Joan, their four-month-old son, Robert Jr., and Andrea away from the island, vowing never to return to their home of the past seven years.

It was the second kidnaping experienced by the Spencers in little more than a year. Last January, Mrs. Spencer had been grabbed by a gunman who demanded $300,000 from Spencer's bank, but she managed to escape unharmed.

Spencer, speaking through family friends from an undisclosed South Florida location late Sunday, said his family, especially Andrea, stood up well under the ordeal.

"Andrea is probably in the best condition of all of us," he said. "I'm all right. I keep my nerves in pretty good shape."

"Joan is as well as can be expected," he added. "She has been through two very harassing ordeals. Of course, this one was harder on her because Andrea was involved."

Soviets Begin New Party Purge

By ROGER LEDDINGTON
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Millions of comrades are being investigated to determine their fitness to carry the little red card that labels them among the elite—members of the Soviet Communist party.

It's the first party purge in 19 years.

Every one of the nation's 14,455,321 card holders is subject to the purge. It will take two years to complete, and no one knows how many will be expelled from the party.

A tame version of Mao Tse-tung's Cultural Revolution, the "card exchange" was devised by party chieftain Leonid Brezhnev two years ago to "cleanse" the party of "passive and indifferent" comrades.

Special investigative committees have been set up at every level of society—from the small state farm to government ministries—to study members' "everyday behavior, and ideological, political and professional standards."

Behind the ideological rhetoric is a determined Kremlin effort to boost the stagnant economy, revitalize party ranks, crush growing corruption and strengthen the party's influence in Soviet society.

Members have had to turn in their cards for renewal. Only those whose records meet the required standards will get them back with the stamp of approval as the "finest, worthiest representatives of the Soviet people."

Party members control virtually every aspect of political, military and economic life in this country.

Numbering only 8 per cent of the population, they wield at least 95 per cent of the power.

The main targets of the purge are those who have contributed to the failure of many of the party's national economic plans.

A few party officials are immune. They include Brezhnev, his 14 colleagues on the Politburo, the military leadership and scientific elite.

The purge, which began last fall, is the sixth in Soviet history. The worst was one of Stalin's in the 1930s, when nearly a million party members were shot. But Brezhnev has assured the people that "under current conditions, the party can keep its ranks pure without resorting to such measures."

Death Takes Mcfadden's Daughter

Mrs. Helen Macfadden Wiegers of Larchmont, N.Y., wife of the chairman of the board of Bernarr Macfadden Foundation, which operates Sanford Naval Academy, died Friday in New York. Funeral services and burial were conducted today in Larchmont.

Mrs. Wiegers was the daughter of the late Bernarr Macfadden.

She is survived by her husband, Joseph P. Wiegers; son, Daniel of Alexandria, Va. and two daughters, Joan and Wendy.

Kingpin Gangster Dead At 82

NEW YORK (AP) — For millions of Americans, Frank Costello was the shadowy underworld kingpin with the raspy voice and fidgeting hands who testified in 1951 that he was a reformed bootlegger and gambler.

Costello's hands betrayed his nervousness, but his televised testimony before Sen. Estes Kefauver's crime-investigating committee contributed little to the knowledge about the "prime minister of the underworld."

The racketeer who survived a gangland assassination attempt and won a 14-year battle against deportation died Sunday in Doctors Hospital at 82. He had suffered a heart attack 11 days earlier.

He was reported to have amassed a fortune in prohibition bootlegging, slot machines and real estate.

Born Francesco Castiglia, he came to the United States from Naples at the age of four and grew up in East Harlem and Greenwich Village. From card games and punchboards, he parlayed his operations into slot machines, gambling joints and legitimate investments.

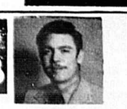
A Thought to Remember



FRED GAINES

From the land of Ambrym we hear of a beautiful word; the native word of love. Literally translated it means: "The heart keeps calling, calling for me."

This is very likely the best of all translations of the word "love."

Think of young lovers — their hearts are calling out to each other, that's why we say they're in love. A child has the same call going out for a parent, and a parent's heart calls to a child.

Friendships based on love are moulded through the staying in touch by way of the heart.

If the hearts of mankind kept calling, calling for one another, what a different world it would be. There would be no room for envy, hate and prejudices.

Wars would be eliminated if all people practiced the natives of Ambrym's description of love.

OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: "To be loved — one must first love."

Lyman Heroics Late, Seminole Keeps Win

By J. RICHARDS
Herald Sports Writer

Two last minute buckets by Lyman scoring ace Randy Wright pulled the Greyhounds to within one point of intra-county rival Seminole High, but the Sanford cagers, who had come from a first period deficit, outlasted the Hounds for a 54-53 win Saturday night.

The Tribe junior varsity completed the sweep, downing the Baby Hounds by a 53-49 count.

Coach Joe Mills ordered his Seminole cagers to hold the ball the final 15 ticks on the clock after Wright's frantic two-bucket catch up bid. The Fighting Seminoles, who took control of the game in the third period, did just that, ans slipped away with the win.

Four Seminole cagers reached the double figure plateau, led by center Jim Clemmens, with 13 markers. Clifford Manley, who combined rebounding efforts with Clemmins and hot-shooting wing John Zeuli added 10 each for the SHS effort.

Wright, who canned five goals and five of eight free throws led the Lyman hoopsters and all other cagers with 18 markers, while Ken Hoeck added 11 points to the Lyman cause.

Lyman opened up with a four point first period gap, 12-8, but the Tribe began its comeback soon after.

The Seminoles cut the Hound lead by one in the second frame on a 15-14 bucket-for-bucket trade-off.

Both teams hit 23 field goals in the game, but it was one extra charity toss for the Seminole cagers, who canned eight of 16 attempts, that made the difference. Lyman converted seven of 15 tries at the line. Seminole was charged with 14 fouls, while the Greyhounds were called on 13.

In the third frame, the Sanford cagers opened up with

Dyson Dumps In 25 Points, But Saints Fall To Hustlers

Junior Doug Dyson dumped in seven field goals and 11 of 12 charity tosses for 25 markers for Coach Furtis Keen's Trinity Prep cage team, but the Saints fell to a well rounded Melbourne Central Catholic scoring attack, 72-65 Saturday night.

Dyson, who has been a leading Trinity point-getter all season led the Saints in one of their finest games in a 24 point final period attack that almost caught the Melbourne Hustlers, who were limited to just 14 markers in the final frame. However, it was a 26-12 Melbourne initial period that spelled doom for the 3-18 Saints.

Reserve pointman Steve Saxon contributed 11 markers, while John Lapp added nine for the Prepsters who were outgunned by three Hustler double figure men.

Kevin Christ pumped in 11 buckets for a 22 point Hustler scoring lead followed by a dozen each from Mike Smith and Paul Gabbard. The Hustlers out-shot the Saints from the floor, 33-21, but a fine 23 of 37 free throw attempts kept the Prepsters in the ball game.

The Hustlers enjoyed a 44-31 halftime edge and increased their margin to 58-41 on a third frame four point edge. However, the Saints out-hustled the Hustlers in the frantic fourth period action, pulling to within seven markers by the final buzzer.

The Saints' junior varsity also went down to defeat, 65-56.

World Track Records Fall In European Meets

By GORDON D.S. PETERSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Five world records were shattered over the weekend in the world of track and field—three by the same man.

Emil Puttemans of Belgium set world indoor records in the two-mile, 2,000-meter and 3,000-meter runs at an international track meet Sunday in Berlin.

Puttemans won the two-mile in 8:13.2, bettering his own time of 8:17.8 established in Edinburgh, Scotland, Aug. 21, 1971.

The Belgian reached the 2,000-meter point in 5:04.4, lowering the indoor mark of Michel Jazy of France, and ran 3,000 meters in 7:39.2, surpassing the record of 7:45.2 he set last week.

AL IS NOT SO WEAK

BOSTON (AP) — The American League isn't as weak as some National League baseball men would have you believe.

When the Oakland A's beat the favored Cincinnati Reds in the 1972 World Series it marked the fourth AL series victory in the last seven years.

Svetlas Zlateva of Bulgaria set a world indoor record in the women's 800-meter run at 2:03.02 at the International University Sports games Sunday at Vittel, France.

Dimunitive Francie Larrieu of San Jose, Calif., upset Russia's premier woman distance runner, Lyudmila Bragina, in world indoor record time in the mile at the San Diego Indoor Games Saturday night.

The 5-foot-four, 105-pound miler finished in 4:35.6 and was named the meet's top athlete.

"This was my first real competition," Miss Larrieu said. "But it was not as much competition as I had thought."

In other track action around the globe, France's Sylvie Telliez tied the world indoor record for the women's 60-meter dash with a time of 7.3 at the French Indoor Track Championships Sunday; Jordanka Blagoyeva of Bulgaria tied the women's world indoor high jump mark, clearing 6-3¼ at Sofia; and Guy Drut equalled the European record for the 60-meter hurdles in 7.5, a tenth of a second off the world mark, at Vittel.

Raiders Rip Vikings, 106-78

By J RICHARDS
Herald Sports Writer

Bennie Shaw and Jerry Wright led an abreviated Seminole Junior College cage crew with 61 combined points to a Division II win over St. Johns Junior College, 106-78, Saturday night in Palatka.

With only seven men making the game, Coach Joe Sterling's Raiders put on an impressive showing for their 17th win of the season. Five of the seven cagers hit for double figures.

Leading the SJC point parade was Orlando Boone product, Freshman Shaw, with 36 points on 13 field goals and a perfect 10 of 10 night from the foul line. Wright, the Raiders' Freshman floor leader, canned nine buckets and seven charity tosses for 25 markers, while Scott Randall added 17 markers in his best night of the season, followed by Bob Hurst and Chip Crawford, who each added a dozen points to the Seminole tally.

Raider scoring ace Willie Paulk and starting forward Gerald Owens were among those SJC cagers who did not make the game, but the efforts of Randall and Crawford more than made up for their absence.

Reserves Pat Rutherford and Ted Smoot, who were the only Raiders Coach Sterling had available on the bench played throughout the game in relief roles for the short-sided

Granatelli 'Paces' Petty To 500 Victory

By GARY TAYLOR
Herald Motorsports Writer

DAYTONA BEACH — It was only fitting that a car sponsored by Andy Granatelli of the STP Corporation won the 15th Annual Daytona 500 Sunday at the Daytona International Speedway. Granatelli was at the wheel of the official pace car when they took to the track at 12:30 p.m.

It also made Granatelli a good host. His guest was King Hussein of Jordon, one of the world's most important heads of state. King Hussein, his wife, Her Majesty Alia, with several other members of the King's family and official staff, shared the celebrity list at the race with Mrs. Cornelia Wallace, wife of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

Hussein, perhaps the world's most celebrated supporter of automobile racing, toured the 2.5 mile trieval in his limosine, accompanied by a 10-car official party.

When it comes to kissing, Granatelli was signing autographs in the press box following the race, when he opened up an envelope and found several pictures of himself, Bill France Sr. and King Hussein of Jordon.

The pictures were intended for any newspaper that wanted one to run in Monday's edition. Granatelli had different ideas. He autographed and distributed them to people standing nearby.

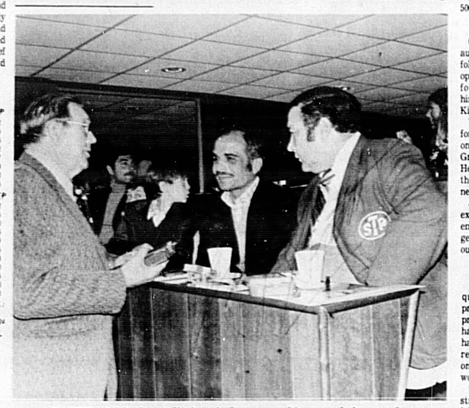
Just imagine the surprised expression on the speedway employes' face when he went to get the pictures to pass them out.

What was the most asked question when Petty was presented to members of the press? "Do you think you could have beat Baker if his engine hadn't blown?" To that Petty replied, "Well boys, that's just one question I won't have to worry about."

"Cale really had the strongest car," Petty said following his wild celebration in victory lane. Granatelli was right in the middle of the action, taking a bottle of champagne from a Union 76 Race Stopper and pouring it over his head. He ripped the buttons off his shirt when he couldn't get the top button opened.

"Granatelli is an amateur." He addmitted that after giving Richard Petty a kiss in victory lane. He had told Petty he would if the four-time NASCAR Grand National Champion notched his fourth Dunlop 500 win.

"Fantastic," said Granatelli, exclaiming no man should win Daytona and Indianapolis in one lifetime. "It's impossible." Granatelli was referring to his sponsorship of Mario Andretti when he won the Indianapolis 500.



A HAPPY ANDY Granatelli thought he was making people happy when he started autographing copies of this picture and handing them out in the Daytona International Speedway pressbox following the race. The pictures had been intended for distribution to papers showing William France Sr., of Daytona International Speedway (left to right), King Hussein of Jordon and Granatelli, chatting before the race, which was won by Richard Petty in the Granatelli-sponsored STP Dodge. Frosh Fresh Hurlers Throw Shut-Out

Raider Nine Slams Brevard JC, 8-0

By J RICHARDS
Herald Sports Writer

A Freshman dominated Seminole Junior College diamond nine, including both pitchers in the game for the Raiders shut-out highly rated Brevard Junior College Saturday, 8-0.

The Raiders collected eight runs on eight hits, while winning pitcher Sam Swanger gave up three hits, all singles, struck out five and walked two, during his five-inning appearance. Relief hurler Rob Mahoney gave up only one hit and struck out two batters in his four-inning appearance.

The Raiders began their scoring barrage in the second inning pusing four runs across the plate on three hits.

First baseman Joe Joiner led off with a single, followed by Paul Faulk, who also singled. Kevin Stephenson brought Joiner in on a sacrifice fly, and Terry Jones walked, putting men on first and third.

Kenny Kerr loaded the bases on a fielder's choice, as catcher Mel Gattis walked in Faulk. Shortstop Jack Pydynkowski slammed a two-out single driving in two runs for the Raiders to end the scoring in the second frame.

Left fielder Faulk, who collected two hits and scored three runs was the big stick for the Raiders with his two safeties, while seven others on the team each added a hit.

In the third frame, Coach Jay Bergman's diamond nine added three more to the scoreboard on two hits. Faulk singled and went to third base on Stephenson's hit-and-run. Faulk scored on an infield error, while Steffenson came across the plate on a Kerr safety. Kerr then came in on a Gattis bunt.

In the Seventh, Faulk again reached base, this time on a walk, and he stole second. A fielder's choice moved him to third, where he scored on a wild pitch.

Swanger picked up his first win in his first start in junior college baseball, while he toss was charged to Brevard's Welch.

The win was especially pleasing to Coach Bergman, who played seven freshmen and used two freshmen hurlers against the highly respected Brevard nine.

"With 26 of last year's 34 wins represented in our Sophomore pitchers, and the performance of those two freshman pitchers out there Saturday, I'm pretty encouraged," he said.

Stephenson, the regular right fielder played third base in the game due to an injury to the regular "hot-box" fielder, Paul Russo, last year's number two hitter. Kerr was called upon to fill in the right field slot, giving Bergman still another reason to be impressed.

Tuesday the Raiders meet Brevard again, with a battle of number one pitchers lined up. "They will throw their best

The Crimson Tide's victory over Auburn was "a very, very big win for us," said Alabama Coach C. M. Newton. Alabama's Wendell Hudson tallied 18 points and Leon Douglas 15 to lead the victory over Auburn.

Vanderbilt's Terry Compton scored 31 points in the Saturday victory over LSU. It was Vanderbilt's 17th win in its last 22 games. Eddie Palubinskas had 21 for LSU.

Kevin Grevey's 26 points and Jim Andrews' 24 led Kentucky to its second win over Florida in the Gators' gym since 1966 Saturday. Chip Williams had 25 for Florida.

Ole Miss led from the start in disposing of arch-rival Mississippi State behind the 22-point scoring effort of Dave Downing. Sophomore Jerry Jenkins had 18 for Mississippi State.

RICHARD Petty takes off during one of his three pit stops under yellow caution lights that helped move him into the lead and eventual win in the Daytona 500, with the largest crowd ever to watch the winningest driver ever to take the checkered flag.

By GARY TAYLOR
Herald Motorsports Writer

DAYTONA—The largest crowd to ever view a stock car racing event watched America's favorite and winningest driver, Richard Petty, streak to an unprecedented fourth Daytona 500 win Sunday after all the competition had fallen by the wayside.

Petty made time when he needed it in the pits, after a yellow flag put him back into contention in the race, where he was one lap behind the leaders on at least two occasions.

The race was run under threatening weather, and the first 13 laps were run under the yellow caution flag to dry off the track. On lap 10, Buddy Baker, the pole sitter, was requested to take a practice ride around the track, while the rest of the field stayed behind the pace car. Baker was clocked at 186 miles per hour in the first turn, and sent a radio message back to his pit and NASCAR officials to "let 'em go."

A radar device aimed at the first turn , was used throughout the day to clock the cars. On at least two occasions, Cale Yarborough was clocked coming out of the trioval at 190 miles per hour.

There were three other caution flags in addition to the one that opened the race. One was caused by a spectacular three-car tangle in front of the triovals as the cars left turn four. It came on lap 68 when Nashville country-western singer Marty Robbins in a 1972 Dodged bumped Vic Parsons in a 1971 Mercury. Robbins spun out of control along with Darrell Waltrip, 1971 Mercury, and Red Farmer, popular Hueytown, Alabama driver in a 1972 Ford, was also caught in the collision. All three ended up in the infield grass that separates the track from pit road.

The race opened with pole sitter Baker in front in the 1972 K and K Insurance Dodge, followed by Pete Hamilton in a 1972 Plymouth, Cale Yarborough in a 1973 Chevrolet, Coo Coo Marlin in a 1972 Chevrolet, Gordon Johncock in a 1972 Chevrolet, Hershel McGriff in a 1973 Plymouth and Petty in the 1973 STP Dodge.

When the green flag fell on the 14th lap, Baker charged into the lead, while Yarborough fell in behind in second place. They stayed that way until lap 34, although there were a rashes of changes for third place and down. Petty slipped into third on lap 17 and at the end of lap 33, it was Baker, Yarborough, Petty, David Pearson, and Johncock across the line in that order.

Then Baker went in for a 19 second pit stop, taking on gas and right side rubber. Yarborough took over the lead with Petty in second. Then on lap 37, Yarborough went to pits, and his crew had him out in 20.5 seconds, while Petty took over the lead with defending champion A. J. Foyt in a 1973 Chevrolet moving up to second on the next lap.

Hamilton, who started on the outside wall, had cone smoking into the pits on lap 35, and was pushed behind the wall with mechanical problems. Petty and third place Bobby Isaac both went to the pits on the 40th lap, and Baker charged back into the lead, a position he held 157 of the 200 laps in the 500-miler.

On lap 53, Baker lapped Isaac, leaving only four cars in the lead lap. Bobby Allison, 1972 Driver of the Year, had problems throughout the race and was also one lap off the pace at the time. He finished only 141 laps.

On lap 57, Tiny Lund of Cross, South Carolina dropped a drive shaft in 1972 Chevrolet, bringing out a caution flag that allowed both Allison and Isaac to move around ahead of the pace car and close up behind the leaders in the same lap.

Allison, Isaac, Baker and Foyt went to the pits on lap 58, and Yarborough jumped in front three laps, before also going to the pits. Petty, who took on gas and four tires on lap 59, led for a lap, but Yarborough came back out and took over the lead for 11 laps.

All the leaders tookadvantage of the yellow flag brought out by Robbins' accident , and when they got back on the track, it was Baker in the lead once again. He stayed in front 30 laps, with Yarborough second.

Petty had to make an unscheduled pit stop on lap 88 when he ran over something on the track and shredded a tire. That put him one lap off the pace, and also meant that his pit stops came in-between those of the leaders.

Baker took a 31 second pit stop for right side rubber and as on lap 103, and Yarborough took the lead, He also came in on the next lap, but a 17.5 second pit stop kept him in the lead. Petty, meanwhile, pulled back into the same lap with the leaders since he didn't need to pit.

Yarborough led seven laps before giving way to Baker, and for 13 consecutive trips around the 2.5 mile Daytona International Speedway trioval, it was Baker, Yarborough, Petty, and Isaac, in that order.

But Petty made a routine pit stop and was once again a lap back. Baker stretched his consecutive lap lead to 24 before Yarborough passed him on the east end of the speedway to lead for one lap.

Baker regained that lead in turn one, and led for one lap before making a scheduled pit stop that lasted 22 seconds while he took on left side tires and gas. Yarborough was in front three laps, made a 22 second pit stop, retaining his lead, and led for three more laps before Baker charged by him again. During that time, Petty had again made up the lap and was racing with the leaders.

For 14 laps Baker, Yarborough and Petty streaked across the start-finish line in that order. Petty's crew gave him the sign to come to the pits in three laps. That would mean that he would once again lose a lap on the leaders.

But then the yellow came out as John Utsman in a 1972 Dodge blew an engine and came flaming through the tioval. Seconds later Chevrolet fans saw hopes go up in flames, literally., Yarborough's car belw an engine in the first turn, fames flew from under the car, and he coasted around the track, out of the competition.

Dickson Dry Spell Ends With San Diego-Andy Williams Win

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

SAN DIEGO (AP) — For several years Bob Dickson had been an object of pity, of concern, of puzzled looks and occasional head-shaking.

The bright promise of certain stardom had not been fulfilled.

One-third of the time last season he couldn't even get into a tournament.

He'd even thought of quitting the pro golf tour.

It all ended Sunday when Dickson reached in the cup on the 72nd hole to pluck out the ball that made him a winner for the first time since 1968.

"It was, well, it was a kind of animal joy," said the soft-spoken 29-year-old from Tulsa, Okla., a three-stroke winner in the Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

"It's just the way it was meant to be," said Australian veteran Bruce Crampton, who opened the gates for Dickson with a fantastic collapse on the final five holes.

Dickson won it with a par 72 for the final round on the sunny Torrey Pines Golf Course, a 7,107-yard layout stretching along rugged cliffs facing the Pacific Ocean. He finished with a 278 total—10 under par.

Crampton, a 37-year-old who won both Arizona tournaments this year and was threatening to make the tour his personal toy, lost one stroke on each of four consecutive holes down the stretch and could do no better than a fat 76.

That dropped Crampton back into a four-way tie for second at 281. Also at that figure were Phil Rodgers, veteran Billy Casper and Grier Jones. Casper had a 71, Rodgers closed with a 66 and Jones a 75.

Tied at 282 were Tommy Jacobs, Miller Barber, Dave Eichelberger and Hale Irwin. Jacobs had the day's best round, a 65. Barber took a 66, Eichelberger 73 and Irwin 72.

British Open champ Lee Trevino really never was in it. He had a final 74 for 291. Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer did not compete.

The victory was particularly sweet for the usually articulate Dickson, who could only murmur: "I'm still semi-numb."

He came on the tour with some of the most impressive amateur credentials ever put together. He swept the amateur championships of America and Britain in 1967 and was the first man to take them both in the same year since the immortal Bobby Jones. He won the Haig Open as a rookie pro and was tagged with a "can't miss" label.

Then it all went wrong.

He slumped in 1969. By 1970 he was back among the rabbit ranks as a Monday morning qualifier. His game was shot, his length off the tee was gone. He had troubles with his grip, with his swing.

His fellow pros spoke in locker room whispers of his problems.

Dickson never complained. Never once. But he did, at one time, think of giving up the tour. Last year he entered 36 tournaments. In 12 of them he didn't qualify.

This time it all turned around.

"For the first time in 4½ years I finally played four rounds of good to better than good golf," he said.

The victory was worth $34,000 to Dickson, more than he has won in any of the three previous seasons.

FTU Five Ends Campaign Tonight At Highland Gym

BY HERKY CUSH
Herald Sports Editor

Another successful season comes to an end tonight for the Florida Tech cage Knights as they host North Carolina at Asheville in a game slated for the Lake Highland Prep gym. Tip off is set for 8 p.m.

Tonight's game marks the end of an "era" in Florida Tech basketball annals. For this evening brings to a close the fantastic career of Mike Clark, 6-0 senior son of FTU coach Gene "Torchy" Clark.

There are very few records that the young Clark does not already own. Perhaps the only one that comes to mind is the rebounding records. Nearly everything else "belongs" to Clark.

During his four years at Tech Clark has scored over 2,000 points. He has never missed a game, starting in 93 straight (tonight will be 94). He holds the records for most points as a freshman, most points as a sophomore, most points as a junior and most points as a senior. In addition he holds career marks for two, three and four years.

The FTU single game mark is 43 points and that also belongs to Clark. He had topped the 40 point mark on three occasions, another school milestone. He holds the marks for the highest average for a freshman, sophomore, junior and senior.

Perhaps the mark that Mike is most proudest of is the won-loss records of the FTU team during his four years. As a freshman he led the Knights to a 13-3 mark. It improved to 19-7 the next season and 20-6 last year. So far this season the Knights are 18-7.

It's not been a one man show for the Knights this season. In fact Clark is not the leading scorer this season. That position has been filled by junior Arnett Hall who has a 19.5 average on the year compared to a 15 point average for Clark.

Other regulars for the Knights are 6-7 sophomore center Pete Haas, 6-5 junior John Smith and 6-4 senior Zettie McCrimon.

Also expected to get into action for the Knights are 6-6 freshman Willy Belotte and 6-4 junior Bob Jones.

North Carolina at Asheville brings a tall and talented quintet to Lake Highland but one that has had trouble winning on the road. The Bulldogs have not won a game away from home since Jan. 6.

They are led by 6-11, 220 pound senior center Doug Murray. The Bulldogs like to fastbreak with Murray getting the ballout to their super guards, Mike Grace and Jim Pheasant.

Among the other big boys, coach Bob Hartman can call upon include 6-7 Gary St. Clair, 6-6 Frank Rhyne, 6-4 Gary Gautier and 6-5 Dave Dilling.

FTU Slate Big Names

Florida Tech is continuing to seek "big time" competitors for its athletic teams and the recently released baseball schedule for 1973 reflects some of their results.

Under the direction of Doug Holmquist the 1973 FTU "Goldsox" will play the likes of Air Force Academy, University of Miami, Columbia, Harvard, Bowdoin College, South Florida and Rollins.

All told the Knights will play a 40 game schedule with the opening game set for Saturday, February 24. The "Goldsox" will meet Embry Riddle University in a doubleheader on that date. The games to be played at McCracken Field.

March 30th finds the "Goldsox" meeting the Air Force Academy in a twin-bill at McCracken Field. Columbia comes to Orlando March 11 for a single game at McCracken.

Three games are slated against Miami. The first will be played April 7th in Orlando. The other two come on May 11 and 12 in Miami. A home and home set with Rollins is slated for April 18 in Winter Park and May 5 at McCracken.

The game with Harvard will be played in St. Petersburg.

PERMATEX 300 winner Bill Dennis (90) battles with Darrell Waltrip (48) as they come through the Datyona International Speedway trioval doorpost to doorpost. Dennis posted his second consecutive win in the event, which was marred by 39 laps of caution.

Dennis Survives For Permatex Win

By GARY TAYLOR
Herald Motorsports Writer

DAYTONA BEACH — In what looked more like a demolition derby than a super speedway event, Bill Dennis of Glen Allen, Va. out-battled three other drivers to make his second consecutive appearance in victory lane for the Permatex 300.

Some 64,200 fans thrilled as the race was a battle down to the checkered flag with seven yellow flags keeping the field tight and the action exciting. In all, 38 laps were run under caution, after a number of crashes and spinouts, mostly in the second turn.

Dennis started ninth on the grid and had climbed into the lead by the 11th lap. In all, there were 27 lead changes among nine drivers, with only 17 cars of the 40 that started, still running at the end of the race.

Popular Tiny Lund of Cross, S. C., droving a 1968 Chevrolet, started on the outside pole and took the lead on the green flag. He was in front for the first 10 laps before giving way to Dennis. Jackie Rogers, who started on the inside pole after qualifying fastest, had early trouble and made several stops in the pits from lap six. He had clutch problems and was forced to run in high gear.

The first caution came out with Darrell Waltrip in the lead in a 1966 Chevrolet on lap 20. The yellow flag came out when Paddlefoot Wale's 1968 Ford stalled between the third and fourth turns. All the leaders went to the pits on lap 21, including Lund, whose car was smoking at the time. The hood went up on Lund's car, and a report from the pits was that he was having ignition problems.

Lund spent much of the remainder of the race in the pits, and finished fifth after completing only 31 laps in the 120-lap race. Waltrip maintained his lead as the green came out, but he hadn't made a pit stop under the yellow flag.

Dennis regained the lead for two laps on lap 24, gave it back to Waltrip for two more laps, and then took over again on lap 28. Dennis was at the head of the pack for eight laps until Sam Ard charged by him in his 1968 Chevrolet and grabbed the lead for two trips around the 2.5 mile Daytona International Speedway trioval.

The Second caution of the day was out on lap 27, as Neil Bonnett spun out in turn two, and Max Berrier, Tom Williams and Sam Sommers also tangled in the collision. Berrier and Williams both got back on the track following the incident.

Dennis regained his lead on lap 38 and that time stayed in front 10 laps. Waltrip, who had been in contention most of the race, went behind the wall on lap 42, explaining that he probably dropped a valve.

On lap 48, Red Farmer, 1971 Permatex 300 winner from Hueytown, Ala., grabbed the lead as Glen McDuffie of Sanford, N. C., driving a 1969 Ford, lost control in the second turn, went down low and then went high to crash head-on into the wall. He came rolling off the track, momentarily engulfed in flames. McDuffie was take to Halifax Hospital, where he was reported in good condition.

Farmer was in front for a lap, and then Bobby Jones took over for one before giving way to Farmer again, this time for five laps. Then followed a series of wild lead changes. Jack Ingram went in front for one, Dennis was back in the lead for two, then Ard for six, before giving way to Ingram for one, and back to Dennis for two more laps. Ingram grabbed the front spot for two laps, but Dennis took over again and stayed there for four trips around the track.

On lap 73 Ard went back in front as the field went under the yellow flag again. Jerry Cook blew an engine in his 1967 Chevelle as he came around turn four. He limped into the pits, but Williams and Wayne Carden spun out in the oil on the track. A lap later, with the yellow out, Richie Paunch of Daytona Beach tsngled with Ray Putnam of Birmingham, Ala. in the oil on turn one, with Putnam's 1969 Chevelle crashing into the pit wall and almost hitting an ambulance.

Dennis Giroux in a 1968 Chevelle started 32nd on the grid and was in front on lap 74, as most of the leaders headed for pit road for fuel and tires. With 10 cars in the lead lap and 23 cars still on the track, Alton Jones put his 1969 Dodge into the lead and stayed there for five trips around the track.

By then the race had settled down to a dogfight between Dennis, Ard, Farmer, Giroux and Ingram. Ingram pulled ahead for one lap, then gave way to Dennis for three, before taking over the lead again for a single lap.

Dennis took the lead on lap 85 and stayed there 21 laps. On lap 106, just when it was looking like the race might be won or lost in the pits if the leaders had to take on gas under the green flag.

Then Paunch, Sommers and Jacksonville's Rod Eulenfeld tangled in turn one to bring out still another caution flag. That was the chance the leaders needed as they all went to the pits. Dennis and Farmer took on gas and tires, while Ard and Grioux just went in for fuel.

Ard was the fastest back on the track and took the lead, holding it for five laps. Ingram's car was pushed behind the pit wall on lap 110 with overheating problems.

Dennis regained the lead on lap 112 and stayed there until the end. When they took the checkered flag, the four cars were still battling and all came across the line bunched together.

Even after Dennis had taken the checkered flag, there was action on the speedway. Gary Dupuis of DeLand spun out on the back stretch in his 1961 Ford, but wasn't injured.

Dennis claimed $8,475 for his first place finish. Farmer was second, Giroux third and Ard fourth. Running a lap back were Jones in fifth, and Fred DeSarro in sixth.

Washington Invitation Extended To Egypt

By C.C. MINICLIER
Associated Press Writer

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt's rapid acceptance of Washington's invitation to send a high-ranking official is seen in Cairo as the first major breakthrough in Egyptian-American relations in nearly two years.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who visited Cairo 21 months ago, extended the invitation last Thursday at a Washington news conference.

Cairo announced Sunday that President Anwar Sadat's adviser on national security affairs, Hafez Ismail, would go to Washington after top-level meetings in London this week. He arrived in London Sunday.

King Hussein of Jordan has just visited Washington. Israeli Premier Golda Meir is due there early in March. And the Nixon administration is in the midst of a high-level review of its position in the Middle East, with the realization that the United States and Europe face increasing reliance on Arab oil.

Stressing the peaceful intent of its current efforts, the Egyptian Foreign Ministry has told its embassies in Europe to spread the word that Egypt is interested in implementing the U.N. resolution of Nov. 22, 1967, and several since calling on Israel to withdraw from lands occupied in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

Before leaving, Ismail told the official Middle East News Agency: "I am carrying with me Egypt's firm 'no' to any aggression, violations or occupation of any Arab land and to whatever touches Egyptian sovereignty."

In the past, Egypt repeatedly has rejected peace talks with Israel while she occupies Egyptian territory, saying this was tantamount to surrender.

Egypt also has opposed Washington's proposals for an interim settlement based on the reopening of the Suez Canal, fearing this would leave Israeli troops only a few miles from the canal.

Rogers, in his statement Thursday, stressed that such a move would be only "an interim step leading to a final settlement."

Sadat originally proposed the canal reopening two years ago as part of a phased withdrawal of Israeli occupation forces.

A GENTLE INTERLUDE in the Middle East's refugee-thronged Gaza Strip finds a father and son enjoying each other's company. This is Rafah, with 40,000 Arab refugees. It is one of eight camps with some 210,000.

Judge Kerner Jury Deliberates Again

CHICAGO (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury begins its third session of deliberation today in the bribery trial of federal Judge Otto Kerner.

The seven women and five men jurors, who have been sequestered since the trial began, deliberated seven hours Sunday and five hours Saturday. Federal marshals assigned to jury security said the jury had not indicated any deadlock. They pointed out that the jury has hundreds of documents to study.

Kerner, 64, and his longtime associate, Theodore J. Isaacs, are charged with bribery, conspiracy, fraud and income tax evasion. Kerner also is charged with perjury.

Kerner, governor of Illinois from 1961 to 1967, is the first judge of a U.S. Court of Appeals to be tried while serving on the bench.

The government maintained in the seven-week trial, which began Jan. 3, that Kerner and Isaacs were offered racing stock at bargain prices in 1962 in exchange for giving certain groups favorable racing meeting dates.

The government said that Kerner and Isaacs each invested $15,000 and eventually netted $144,000 each from sale of the racing stock.

The two also are charged with failing to pay taxes on the full amount of what the government said was a bribe.

Kerner, a Democrat, testified 3½ days on his own behalf during the trial. He denied all charges.

Violent Death Found In Altamonte Springs

By GARY TAYLOR

The partially-clothed body of an unidentified white male, apparently beaten to death, was found near a privately-owned landfill in Altamonte Springs, according to Sheriff John Polk.

Altamonte Springs Police called county authorities into the investigation after the body was found. Polk said the body was about 50 feet off Spring Oak Road, just north of SR 436.

At press time, county medical examiner Dr. G. V. Garay was performing an autopsy on the body, but Polk said it was apparent that he was beaten to death. Garay was also called to the scene last night.

The body was described as that of a white male, approximately six feet, 180-185 pounds. The deceased had brown eyes and dark reddish brown collar-length hair, Polk said.

There are also two tatoos on the body, both on the right arm. The upper part of the arm has an arrow tatoo which says "Mom and Dad." Between the elbow and wrist is a red heart with an arrow and ribbons through it. Polk said the name "Rick" is on that tatoo, but that a first name had been taken off.

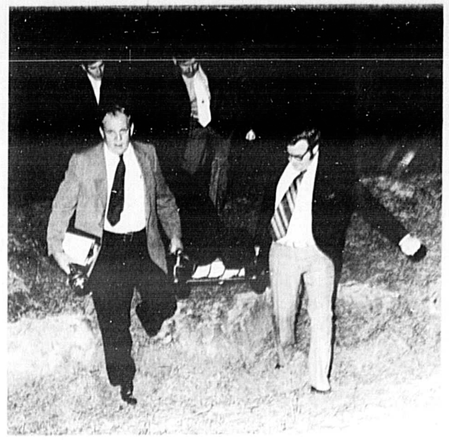
Polk said that his department is currently working to identify the body. Anyone knowing of a person fitting this description and missing, should contact the sheriff's department.

Identification officers Lt. Chuck Wehner and Herb Hartley were at the scene this morning, along with Polk. They processed the area where the body was found, including taking plaster tire casts.

Hartley was also at the scene last night to photograph the body and evidence.

Polk says at this time his department has no leads. Investigation has been turned over to Capt. L. J. Kriz and Det. William Hogan.

The crime scene has been roped off and posted against trespassers. Identification officers used large sheets of plastic to cover the spot where the body was found and other tracks from the time they left the scene late last night, until they renewed their efforts early today.



Sheriff's Capt. L. J. Kriz (left front) and Det. William Hogan (right rear) assist in carrying the body of an unidentified white male found near a landfill in Altamonte Springs last night. A autopsy was being performed at press time, but Sheriff John Polk said the man was apparently beaten to death. The body was found about 50 feet off Spring Oak Road, on the west side of the roadway, and just north of SR 436. Polk says his department has no clues in the slaying, and are still attempting to identify the body.

Legislative Meeting Has 5 Item Agenda

By DONNA ESTES

Redefinition of the corporate limits of Altamonte Springs leads the five item agenda of proposed legislation to be considered by the Seminole Legislative Delegation at its public hearing at 7 p. m. Thursday in Casselberry City Hall.

Other items include a "hot pursuit law" for Casselberry to allow that city's police the right of pursuit outside municipal limits into Orange County; and annexation bill sponsored by the Seminole County Commission regarding creation of two hospital districts within Seminole and the proposed incorporation of Forest City.

Although the Altamonte Springs City Council voted to present amendments to its municipal charter to extend terms of office of the mayor and members of the Council and to change date of its municipal elections, neither item appears on the agenda.

The proposed changes would have the Altamonte municipal election in November at the same time as county, state and national elections. The plan outlined to increase terms of office would have the mayor and two members of Council elected to three year terms this year and to four year terms thereafter.

City Attorney S. Joseph Davis Jr. told the board last week he doubted there was sufficient time to get the necessary legislation prepared in time for Thursday night's hearings.

Altamonte's redefinition of corporate limits would firm up all the annexations made by the city over the past six years since its charter was adopted. The only other local legislation would have to be of an emergency nature, according to Rep. Mooney's office.

City Commission Hears Sewer Service Plans

By BOB LLOYD

Consulting engineers from Clark Dietz and Associates told Sanford city commission Monday that preliminary studies show the most economical way to serve the growing south Sanford area with sewer service is to pump effluent through major transmission lines to the city's lakefront treatment plant.

The report came after commissioners expressed interest in annexing 360 acres southwest of Seminole Junior College, including parcels straddling S-15 south of Lake Mary, both north and south of SR427 and on the west side of U.S. 17-92 south of Five Points to within a quarter mile or so of the Longwood city limits.

City attorney Vernon Mize said a study of attorney general's opinions on annexation showed the 360 acre annexation, hinging on being contiguous by a corner adjacent to Seminole Junior College property, could be challenged. "We would have to marry only, he said, "if there are unwilling owners."

All the acreage proposed for annexation for development is owned by the developers asking annexation for city services.

Engineer Cal Conklin told commission if everything south of the present city limits proposed for annexation is added to the sewage treatment plant lead the proposed "Big Inch" interceptor sewer main scheduled to be completed in June should be increased in size at about 50 percent additional cost over the present $260,000 cost.

If the city continues to expand the treatment plant on Lake Monroe instead of adding a new treatment plant to the south and also expands to the east and west Conklin predicted future need of at least two more "Big Inch" mains.

He also said the present plant, now in a $1.5 million expansion to secondary treatment and from four to six million gallons a day capacity, can be overloaded within three to five years. However, he said, the plant can again be expanded.

Mayor Lee Moore commented the first "Big Inch" interceptor about to get under construction won't be large enough at 24 inches diameter. "It's already bigger than we originally planned and more than we can pay for," he said.

City Manager Warren Knowles said the city can draw on its utility renewal and replacement fund or slowly building development (tap) fee funds to fund the "Big Inch" expansion.

Conklin said preliminary studies by the engineers, in accordance with guidelines from federal regulatory agencies, look in a study area from Big Tree Road north.

FDA Is Recalling Toxic Mushroom

By MIKE WATERS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recalls were underway today for some frozen foods which could contain botulism toxin.

The Food and Drug Administration Monday said Stouffers Food Co. was recalling four products which could contain mushrooms contaminated by the bacteria.

FDA also announced Monday a recall in Michigan for frozen pizzas made by a firm which received the canned mushrooms.

"Stouffers expects to complete their recall by the end of Tuesday," FDA said in a statement.

"FDA has no evidence that any of these Stouffers' products are contaminated, but on the basis of present knowledge all must be considered suspect.

The spokesman said Stouffers and the pizza manufacturer, Fabbrini Family Foods of Ossineke, Mich., had received canned mushrooms from United Canning Corp. of East Palestine, Ohio.

The FDA over the weekend ordered the recall of 20 lots of 3,000 cans of mushrooms each after botulism toxin was found in some lots by the company and reported to the FDA. FDA tests confirmed presence of the toxin in four lots, and a spokesman said the other 16 lots also could be contaminated.

The spokesman said Stouffers, of Solon, Ohio, was recalling "products that could contain mushrooms from United. These products are frozen green beans and mushrooms, frozen escalloped chicken and noodles, frozen tuna noodle casserole and frozen cream of mushroom soup."

He urged persons who purchased those items since Feb. 7 to return them to the stores where they were purchased.

AROUND THE CLOCK

By John A. Spolski

It's going to be a hot issue . . . so, you may as well have your say on it.

Talking 'bout the special election on the school millage.

Supervisor of Election Camilla Bruce called to tell us to tell you that absentee ballots are available at her office in the court house.

We've been laying it on him the last couple of columns . . . so, today's should be refreshing for County Commission Chairman Sid Vihlen.

Appreciate his efforts in trying to get two spaces reserved for the press. He had some support from Commissioner Dick Williams—who was willing to go the "one space" route.

But. . .the three others voted No Dice!

And I'll betcha they'll be the loudest to complain once we don't get to cover a meeting. . .cause we couldn't get close enough to have a reporter cover the meeting. . .hop into their car and return to the paper in order that we can give quick coverage.

Ooops. . . change that (for a reason which I can't fathom at this time. . .) but, Commissioner Greg Drummond does have a private parking space across from the court house which he has volunteered for our use.

Thank you. . .

More and more cards and letters coming in for Cmdr. Coffee and his family. It's greatly appreciated, too.

Especially the latest batch including about 30 or 40 letters from Mr. Steel's Language Arts Class at Lake Mary Elementary School.

Still time for you to write, neighbors. . .

Adams' Farm Trouble Continues To Grow

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Tom Adams, already under fire for charges that he used a state employe to operate his Gadsden County farm, has not paid for two animal trailers costing $5,825.60, it was reported today.

The Fort Lauderdale News and television station WTVT of Tampa said a spokesman for White Ford Cox of Chiefland complained of not receiving any payment for bills sent to Roger Getford, the state employe who reportedly managed Adams' 1,000-acre farm.

"I keep sending the bills ... and am not getting paid for them," said auto dealer Arthur Langston. Langston added that he was particularly upset about the debt because his firm made no money on the sale — inferring the trailers were sold to Adams at dealer cost.

The News and WTVT reported that Getford signed title documents for the two trailers as manager of the Adams farm and actually accepted delivery of the vehicles in Chiefland while on state time.

Chiefland is about 125 miles southeast of Tallahassee.

Adams has denied that Getford was his farm manager while drawing a $7,389 state salary as an unemployment compensation examiner. But the lieutenant governor last week docked Getford 80 hours in vacation time for time spent in connection with Adams' personal business.

Since Adams' farming venture was disclosed last week, Gov. Reubin Askew, both houses of the Legislature and the U. S. attorney for North Florida have launched investigations into the matter.

OVER-TURNED CAR BLOCKS SOUTH STREET

Rachel Barie Hopper, 22, was treated and released at Florida Hospital North while her two-month-old son, Paul, was apparently uninjured, following an accident on South Street, just west of U.S 17-92 in Fern Park, Monday afternoon. Trooper Terry McIntyre, assisted by Trooper John McGowan, said the woman turned her attention to the baby, lost control, struck a pole and overturned. She was charged with careless driving. The 1965 Chevrolet was a total loss. The Altamonte Springs Fire Department responded to the scene since there was a gas spill.
