Canal Need Old Story

By Julian Stenstrom
Associate Editor

Discussing the construction of the proposed St. Johns-Indian River Canal, one Sanford man said:

Mrs. Penrose Love, principal of the Seminole County Business School, has been granted her B.S.E. from the University of Florida according to word from the school. Also receiving their degrees are Richard Bountree, B.S.A. and Aubrey Lee Moran, B.S.P.

By a strange coincidence two Jaycees and their wives hold identical offices in their respective clubs. Phil Skates is treasurer of the Jaycees and his wife is also treasurer of the Jaycees. Larry Skates is secretary of the Jaycees, and guess who is now secretary of the Wives Club?

Lovely girls from Seminole dominated the contestants for the Miss TV Cover Girl show held in Orlando Sunday with several of them winding up in the 10 finalists. Candl Conder, former Miss Seminole County, was first runner up, with Miss Maria Jones second. Oddly enough, Candl didn't mention Sanford, but gave her hometown as somewhere in South Carolina. Tech!

The Herald's wire editor, Reuben Killebrew, handles a lot of news items during the course of any given day. The other day he had one on the new Royal Castle restaurant and also on Chelsea Title Company. "It reminded me," says Reuben, "that I once knew a boy by the name of Chelsea Castle."

Members of the Campbell-Lossing American Legion Post are reminded to get their dinner ducks as quickly as possible so the chiefs will know how many meals to prepare for the testimonial dinner honoring the Legion baseball team. The event is planned for Aug. 17. Other special guests are also expected at the Legion Home on Highway 17-92. A Clock Watcher attended the last dinner meeting and is ready to go back.

Maureen Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Scott of our city, is getting quite a name for herself. She captured one first and two second place positions in the recently concluded AAUW Long Course State Meet in Winter Park. Observers liked her swimming style so much they've asked her to work out in Winter Park this week and the 11-year-old will travel to Clearwater next weekend to seek additional swimming meet honors.

These television programs could staff a small hospital. Think of it: you've got Doc Adams of Gunsmoke, the pediatrician would be Donna Reed's husband; surgeon would be Dr. Ben Casey; internist, Dr. Kildare; psychiatrist, Dr. Twombly of the Beverly Hills; and the psychiatrist on the Breaking Point; and making sure things run smoothly would be Dr. Raymond Massey. Why, according to a medic in the Greater Kansas City Medical Bulletin, they can diagnose and cure almost any disease in an hour and still have time enough left for about four commercials.

terior of the state. These owners are men of means, most of them successful business men with vision. They will see opportunities for development not seen by the average man and some will invest and develop their ideas. Yacht owners have a large part in the development of Florida.

While certainly true today, these words were not spoken this week. They were part of a speech by the late Fred T. Williams, a Sanford civil engineer and resident for many, many years. He addressed them to the Sanford Rotary Club on July 18, 1938.

Williams was speaking on the history of the St. Johns-Indian River canal proposal under consideration then by the St. Johns River Improvement Association, a group of representatives from each of the counties adjoining the river and organized for the purpose of obtaining a navigable channel from Sanford to Titusville.

"Yacht owners," said Williams, "have had a large part in the development of Florida." He pointed out that "Flagler came to Florida in a yacht and what he saw along the east coast of the state gave him a vision for his gigantic development."

"What Carl Fisher saw at Miami Beach resulted in a wonderful development. 'Plant, Ringling, Hoebling, DuPont and others came to Florida in yachts and added their abilities and finances to the development of the state.' Williams also declared that 'Along the St. Johns River and the adjacent territory there is something of interest for yacht owners to see and giving them a chance to see will get results.'"

William went on to say that "The construction of this waterway will put the St. Johns River Valley on the map as a tourist section. Every high spot along the river will be developed, and it will be teeming with all manner of water craft. Boat building and allied industries will flourish due to the desirability of keeping water craft in fresh water as much as possible."

ST. PETERSBURG (UPI)—St. Petersburg gubernatorial candidate Charles Holley left today for Hershey, Pa., to attend a GOP 'summit meeting' called by Sen. Barry Goldwater.

2 Casselberry Town Officials Resign

Two resignations highlighted Monday night's meeting of the Casselberry Town Council. Bill Otto Jr., submitted his resignation as a member of the Zoning Board on the grounds that he was constantly receiving "anonymous telephone calls, threats to his person and threats of letters being directed to his commanding officer at McCoy Air Force Base."

Otto recently seconded a motion before the zoning board which would permit a large parcel of land within the town limits to be zoned agricultural.

Mrs. Cowan Not Involved

A News Item in The Herald yesterday identified the driver of a car which hit an eight-year-old bicyclist Sunday afternoon as Mrs. Ralph Cowan of 405 Plum-rose Ave. This is in error. Mrs. Cowan arrived on the scene shortly after the youth was struck and reported the mishap to police. The actual car driver involved in the accident was not identified.

Parole Officer Cites Parents' Responsibility

Probation and Parole Officer Jim Lee, pointing out to Rotarians Monday that persons under 18 years old are responsible for more than half of all crime in the U. S., called for a greater sense of responsibility on the part of parents.

"Parents must start with babyhood and make youngsters realize that they are responsible for their own acts," Lee said.

He urged parents to incorporate religious and moral training, teach respect and obedience to authority, and give vent to active disapproval of scenes of violence in movies and television.

"Too many material things, too little spiritual and moral values, too much of what the child 'wants' rather than what he 'needs,' too much irresponsibility on the part of parents are some of the things that are causing the vast increase in youthful crime in this nation," Lee pointed out.

School dropouts were also cited as troublemakers.

New Students Asked To Sign

Students who have moved into the Southside Elementary School area since the close of school last June are asked to register at the school between the hours of 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. any day this week or next.

School officials stress this registration is only for new students at the school. Hold-over pupils need not register at this time, they say, since their records were retained from the last semester.

Marina Endorsed By Zoning Board

Members of the City of Sanford's Zoning and Planning Board have gone on record as unanimously endorsing development of the city's waterfront, tossing in an Olympic pool with other construction.

The board met Aug. 6 and drew up a memorandum which was presented to City Commissioners at their meeting Monday.

Pupils' Birth Papers Urged

The State Board of Health today urged parents who have children starting school this fall to obtain certified copies of the birth certificates immediately.

At the same time, Everett H. Williams Jr., director of the board's Bureau of Vital Statistics, cautioned that hospital birth certificates are not accepted by schools. Official birth certificates are issued by the Bureau of Vital Statistics and some county health departments. Williams also advised against waiting too long to obtain a birth certificate. He said "Although we are processing about 500 birth certificates a day right now, we can give fast service. Later, during any last minute rush by parents, service will be slower. A child can miss an entire year of school unless a birth certificate is obtained in time."

Held In Slaying

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N. J. (UPI) — Eugene Moroz, 39, of West Palm Beach, was ordered held in $5,000 bail Monday night on a manslaughter charge in the death of Charles E. Goldsmith, 49, of Paterson, N. J.

At the public hearing on condemnation of buildings at 701 and 703 West 9th St. owned by Agrenia Constantine, commissioners instructed Knowles to give her a 90 day notice to "repair or demolish."

Three recommendations from the Zoning and Planning Commission were heard. One was a unanimous endorsement of the waterfront development plan and urged the commissioners to proceed with construction as soon as the engineering data reveals that such a program is feasible and practical.

Commissioners set a public hearing for Sept. 14 on an amendment to the zoning ordinance deleting the dry cleaning operation in the C-1 zone and combining dry cleaning and laundry operations in the C-2 zone.

The Zoning and Planning Board recommended that 24th St. from Melonville west to the railroad be opened for public use, but commissioners ran into opposition with this, when one of the property owners appeared to protest.

The commission instructed Knowles to have city survey crews make surveys on 24th St. and also on Orange and Willow Avenues to see whether an opening could be made there, if property owners agree to give the city an easement.

The former agree to the area, Glenway Drive, was blocked off by an irate property owner a few months ago, and in view of the fact that the widening of 25th St. will soon hamper travel on that road, the Zoning and Planning Board recommended that 24th St. be opened to provide access. Among other things, property owners object to the removal of several very large old live oak trees that are standing on the right of way.

The commissioners instructed Finance Director Henry Tamm to take over the duties of the city manager while Knowles attends a City Manager's Association meeting Saturday and Sunday and takes a weeks vacation from August 17th to 23rd.

No Increase In Millage

Seminole County's Board of Commissioners this morning climaxed a month-long study and adopted the 1964-65 fiscal budget. The county leaders held the millage rate at six mills.

Despite several minor last minute changes suggested by the Commissioners themselves, the board was able to hold the line.

The budget was adopted on the basis of a tax base amounting to $207,033,327; an increase of nearly $11 million over the tax base for the current fiscal year which ends Sept. 30.

A plea by Mrs. Camilla D. Bruce for reconsideration of the budget pertaining to the operation of the office of the supervisor of registration fell on deaf ears of the Commissioners.

Mrs. Bruce, now a full time supervisor, said that she made "a grave error" when she thought she could operate her office efficiently without additional full-time assistance. She had asked the Commission for two full time employees at $3,000 each. The Board, however, allocated $600 for two part time assistants.

General J. C. Hutchison moved that Mrs. Bruce be given one full time assistant but his effort died for lack of a second. Finally, the board consented to allocate $1,200 instead of the original $600 for part time help.

Avery Cites Gains With No Tax Raise

Action of the County Commissioners this morning in holding the line at six mills for the operation of the county government and its departments, brought this declaration from Chairman James P. Avery:

"This will be the last time for me to be working on a county budget," he said.

"I'm proud of the fact that during my four years on this Commission we have been able to hold the millage rate and not one time during this period has anybody's taxes been raised one cent!"

Avery pointed out that "During these four years we have built one of the finest county jails in Florida, bought thousands of acres of property for various county purposes, purchased thousands of dollars worth of new and efficient road department equipment, increased salaries more than commensurate with pri-

Anti-Poverty Bill Sent To LBJ

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate, handing President Johnson a juicy election year victory, today passed and sent to the White House his sweeping $47.5 million "war on poverty" program.

The Senate passed the House-approved bill by voice vote. The legislation, an essential element in the President's election plans, will embark the government on a broad program of financial assistance to areas where pockets of poverty persist amidst general prosperity.

A key provision will establish youth camps to train young men and women in new skills and give them outdoor conservation experience. The bill also will provide aid to small businessmen and farmers to underwrite local anti-poverty projects.

It is certain to be an issue in the presidential election campaign.

Sen. Harry Goldwater, the Republican nominee for President, opposed the bill when it first passed the Senate July 23, as a hodge-podge of discredited programs resurrected from the New Deal 1930's. Goldwater signed a blistering Senate GOP condemnation of the bill as being designed "to

Cyprus Truce In Thant's Hands

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI) — The Security Council today appeared ready to hand the problem of making the Cyprus truce stick over to Secretary General Thant and his representatives on the island.

A spokesman for council President Sivert A. Nielsen of Norway said it was possible the council would not meet again on the Cyprus problem other than for a brief exchange of views. There appeared agreement among many members, he said, that the secretary general should be given a chance to try to make the truce work.

Thant, in a statement issued Monday night, appealed to Greece, Turkey and Cyprus to respect the cease-fire accepted Monday following an appeal from Nielsen. He said he was sending former Ecuadorian President Galo Plaza back to the island to try to turn the cease-fire into a more permanent arrangement.

Turkey and the Greek Cypriots agreed to a cease-fire Monday in cables to Nielsen. But Turkish Premier Ismet Inonu warned his government would resume "police action" if attacks on Turkish Cypriots are resumed.

Thant hailed the cease-fire agreement Monday as "gratifying" and said he hoped it would form the basis of a more lasting agreement. He said he was instructing Indian Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, chief of the UN Cyprus force, to cooperate with all sides in making the cease-fire work.

'Hard Line' Set By Pope Paul In Encyclical

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI. in his first encyclical, outlined plans for a "hard line" pontificate that leaves little leadway for compromise, Vatican observers said today.

The 15,000-word document covered a variety of subjects, ranging from communism to Roman Catholic relations with Jews and Moslems. Above all, it made clear that the reign of the late Pope John XIII has ended and Pope Paul will set his own path for the Catholic church to follow.

The most definite break was on communism. Pope John was willing to meet the Reds on a human level, as shown by his talk with Alexei Adzhubel, Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's son-in-law. His encyclical on peace, "Peace in Terris," left the way open for "all men of good will" to discuss ways of living together.

Pope Paul's encyclical strongly condemned communism, branding it a "sham" and a "blind dorma which degrades and sordens." Unlike his predecessor, he singled out "atheistic communism" by name instead of speaking in general terms of ideologies which oppose the church.

"Dialogue in such conditions is very difficult, not to say impossible," he added. "... The church of silence (behind the Iron Curtain), for example, speaks only by its sufferings. "How can we offer dialogue, when we cannot be anything more than a voice crying in the wilderness?"

His statements on Roman Catholic relations with non-Christians and non-Catholics also were regarded as outspoken by some observers.

Speaking of Jews, Moslems and "the followers of the great Afro-Asiatic religions," Pope Paul said "obviously we cannot share in these various forms of religion." "Honesty compels us to declare openly our conviction that there is but one true religion, the religion of Christianity," he added. "It is our hope that all who seek God and adore Him may come to acknowledge its truth." (See Cassel's story on Page 10)

WILLIAM V. Hubbard, AMH1, serving aboard Reconnaissance Attack Squadron Three (RVAH-3), was recently administered the oath of re-enlistment for a period of four years in ceremonies performed by Cdr. U. S., Britain To Ask Cyprus Peace Parley

LONDON (UPI) — Britain and the United States plan to press for a Cyprus peace conference with Greece and Turkey at the foreign ministers level, diplomatic sources said today.

This initiative was expected to begin as soon as the uneasy Cyprus truce has been firmed up.

In the meantime peace soundings were to be stepped up immediately in Geneva between United Nations political mediator Sekari Tuomioja of Finland and Greek and Turkish representatives.

Anglo-American strategy on the Cyprus crisis was synchronized Monday in transatlantic consultations between President Johnson and Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home. It was aimed at securing a lasting truce and speeding a final settlement to avert the possibility of war between Greece and Turkey.

Diplomatic sources believe the eventual solution will be union of Cyprus with Greece, with fool-proof safeguards for the Turkish Cypriots or their transfer to a Greek island which would be ceded to Turkey.

Body Of Papy Is Sent Home

KEY WEST (UPI)—Former Rep. Bernie C. Papy, a Key Wester who rose from shoeshine boy to business success and political "King of the Keys," died Monday after a battle with lung cancer.

Papy's body was returned here Monday night from Baptist Hospital south of Miami, where the 62-year-old Papy died Monday afternoon, a sleep and alone, hospital authorities said.

Since 1958 the University of Florida's Alumni Loyalty Fund has made available more than $1,700,000 in loans to deserving students.

Union Demands Beales Pay Up

TAMPA (UPI) — The Beales had better cough up with some union dues, or they may be out in the cold in this country.

That's the word from a representative of the American Guild of Variety Artists (AGVA) who warned Monday that "we'll close down the show at Jacksonville if they don't get right with AGVA."

The Beales are scheduled to appear at Jacksonville Sept. 11. Al East, Tampa representative of the performers union, said each of the four Beales will have to pay a $150 union initiation fee, plus $300 for the first year's dues or the show will be picketed.

Autopsy Results Still Closely Guarded Secret

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The results of an official state autopsy on the bodies of three slain civil rights workers remained a closely guarded secret today, one week after the badly decomposed remains were found buried under a 20-foot earthen dam.

Neshoba County Attorney W. Rayford Jones said a summary of the autopsy report "probably" would be made public eventually but declined to set a tentative date.

The FBI continued its painstaking investigation into the deaths of the three young men whose bodies were found last Tuesday on a farm four miles from Philadelphia, Miss.

The FBI steadfastly has refused to comment on the progress of the investigation or on a weekend statement by President Johnson that an early break in the case was expected. There were reports that failure to find a murder weapon was holding up arrests.

Coroner Cecil Jackson said at Philadelphia he had not received the autopsy report but would reconvene the coroner's jury and "try to reach a verdict" as soon as the report comes in. He said he didn't know the reason for the delay.

St. Pete Woman Held In Slaying

ST. PETERSBURG (UPI) — A 28-year-old St. Petersburg woman was in jail today on a first degree murder charge in the death of a man. Beulah Davis Stovall was charged Monday in the Sunday night slaying of Bailey Joseph, 29. Police said Joseph was shot once in the head and once in the chest.

An American Bankers Association survey reveals that 4,691 commercial banks plan to spend an estimated $204,000,000 for advertising in 1964.

Pavilion Said To Be In Black

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. Farris Bryant said at "Florida Day" ceremonies at the World's Fair Monday the up-and-down Florida pavilion is "now operating well in the black."

Bryant said there had been some financial difficulties but attributed these to early maturity dates on notes covering $750,000 in construction costs.

Festivities for Florida Day included a special poppote show, a concert by the Hialeah High School band and the presentation of "Miss Florida," 18-year-old Priscilla Schnarr of Hollywood, Fla.

Six Dade Tax Pleas Denied

MIAMI (UPI) — Petitions by six Dade County municipalities against doubling the property tax valuations in the county were thrown out by a North Florida Circuit Court judge Monday.

Judge Samuel Smith of Lake City upheld the original tax ruling he made in the case because Dade County judges had bowed out of the case because of the local controversy. Smith ruled that doubling the tax roll does amount to compliance with the state law and that the municipalities which petitioned the court "have no standing in this court."

Some Red China Jets In North Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Red China has moved a small number of Soviet-built jet fighters into North Viet Nam, it was reported authoritatively today.

Sources here said 12 to 15 of the MIG airplanes were flown into North Viet Nam after the U. S. Navy conducted its air strike last week in retaliation for Red torpedo boat attacks on U. S. destroyers.

The MIGs may have been drawn from a force estimated at about 100 on Red China's Hainan Island, or from lightly reinforced units in South China.

So far they have made no menacing moves, nor are they presently regarded as a threat to the far superior American aircraft aboard carriers in the South China Sea and at bases in South Viet Nam.

While intelligence here verifies South Vietnamese claims that Red China aircraft have arrived in Communist North Viet Nam, there apparently is no supporting evidence that Chinese ground forces have moved in.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said last Thursday he thought it "probable that the Communist Chinese will introduce some combat aircraft into North Viet Nam."

He said he assumed Hanoi, having no combat planes, "would make such a request and that it would be answered."

No official guesses have been made as to who would pilot the MIG fighters if they were thrown into combat. Deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus R. Vance said Saturday he would not know about that, but added that North Vietnamese pilots had been receiving training to fly the aircraft.

Movement of the jets into North Viet Nam was seen here as a ready means for the Communist Chinese to make a quick show of support for Hanoi.

Some Red China Jets In North Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Red China has moved a small number of Soviet-built jet fighters into North Viet Nam, it was reported authoritatively today.

Sources here said 12 to 15 of the MIG airplanes were flown into North Viet Nam after the U. S. Navy conducted its air strike last week in retaliation for Red torpedo boat attacks on U. S. destroyers.

The MIGs may have been drawn from a force estimated at about 100 on Red China's Hainan Island, or from lightly reinforced units in South China.

So far they have made no menacing moves, nor are they presently regarded as a threat to the far superior American aircraft aboard carriers in the South China Sea and at bases in South Viet Nam.

While intelligence here verifies South Vietnamese claims that Red China aircraft have arrived in Communist North Viet Nam, there apparently is no supporting evidence that Chinese ground forces have moved in.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said last Thursday he thought it "probable that the Communist Chinese will introduce some combat aircraft into North Viet Nam."

He said he assumed Hanoi, having no combat planes, "would make such a request and that it would be answered."

No official guesses have been made as to who would pilot the MIG fighters if they were thrown into combat. Deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus R. Vance said Saturday he would not know about that, but added that North Vietnamese pilots had been receiving training to fly the aircraft.

Movement of the jets into North Viet Nam was seen here as a ready means for the Communist Chinese to make a quick show of support for Hanoi.

Mme. Nhu Sister Employed By Kennedy Center

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (UPI) — The Army confirmed Monday that the sister of Madame Nhu is employed by the John F. Kennedy Center for Special Warfare.

An Army spokesman said Madame Tran Le Chi, 38, has been working since June 18 as a Vietnamese language instructor at an annual salary of $1,200.

The presence "has not been publicized because of political implications," the spokesman said.

Madame Tran dropped from public view last fall following a Washington news conference at which she said Madame Nhu should abandon politics and return home "before she does more harm to our country."

Miss Florida Begins Tour

NEW YORK (UPI)—Priscilla Joan Schnarr of Hollywood, Miss Florida of 1964, began a two-week tour of the North Monday with a special appearance at the World's Fair.

Miss Schnarr, 18, was introduced at special "Florida Day" ceremonies at the Florida pavilion by Gov. Farris Bryant.

Mrs. Morris GOP State Leader

TAMPA (UPI) — National GOP committee woman Mrs. Helene M. Morris of Sarasota was named Monday as women's director of the Goldwater for President campaign in Florida.

State Republican Chairman Tom Brown made the announcement here.

Holland Praises Quick Request For Resolution

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Senator Spessard Holland, commenting today upon the joint resolution before Congress relative to future United States action in Viet Nam, stated:

"I was among the majority of the Senate supporting this joint resolution empowering the President, as Commander-in-Chief, to 'take all necessary measures to repel any armed attack against the forces of the United States and to prevent further aggression' in Viet Nam.

"Passage of this measure was essential to our national security, and I am particularly gratified that it was submitted to Congress so quickly after the initial attack upon our Navy vessels in the Gulf of Tonkin. Perhaps we have learned a valuable lesson in timing from our dangerous and frustrating experience with Cuba, and are 'calling the fire department when we see the first wisp of smoke.'

"Passage of the resolution authorizes the President to take any action, including the use of armed force, that he deems necessary to insure our safety, and clearly notifies all enemies that this nation will not tolerate aggressive action against it or interference with the Freedom of the Seas doctrine. At the same time, it gives assurance to all concerned that we have no territorial, military or political ambitions in Southeast Asia or elsewhere.

"For those American citizens who have reservations against granting any President unlimited war-time powers, there is a safeguard in that the final paragraph of the joint resolution passed today provides that the authority granted in this instance shall expire upon the President's determination that the peace and security of the area (Southeast Asia) is reasonably assured by international conditions created by action of the United Nations or otherwise, or by concurrent resolution of the Congress."

Corruption Rife In Cuba, Report New Refuges

MIAMI (UPI) — Newly-arrived refugees from Cuba reported today that there is widespread corruption among officials of the Fidel Castro regime who are selling hard-to-get food and other items on the black market to the highest bidder.

Thirty-two refugees reached Florida over the weekend in three small boats.

"There is a marathon of robbery and corruption in high places in the government," said one refugee who declined to permit use of his name.

He charged that government functionaries sell foodstuffs and replacement parts for machinery and cars "openly and shamelessly" to black market buyers.

Another refugee said there is "vast disorganization" in government agencies. He said the government "tourist agency" known as "Init" was recently revamped after authorities had to throw out a "large quantity" of steaks which had spoiled because of improper refrigeration.

Most of the refugees were men. Ten Cubans fled in a 15-foot boat, 11 in a 23-foot boat and 11 others in a 20-foot boat.

"It's great to be out of Cuba," said one.

The overhead signals will set speed control at 15 miles per hour during times when children are going to or leaving the campus. At other times the signs will permit traffic to flow at a normal pace.

Woman Killed While Hunting Dropped Wallet

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Three young whites have been charged with murder in the slaying of a Negro woman during racial trouble here March 23.

J. W. Rich, 21, Wayne M. Chessman, 21, and Elmer Kato, 19, were lodged in the Duval County jail without bond. Authorities said the grand jury would have to determine the degree of murder they would be charged with.

Detective Sgts. Donald Coleman and Leo Cody said Rich admitted firing a shot from an automobile the night of March 23.

The .22 caliber bullet was believed to be the one that killed Mrs. Johnnie Mae Chappell, 35.

Mrs. Chappell was shot while searching along new King's Road for a wallet she had dropped on the way home from shopping.

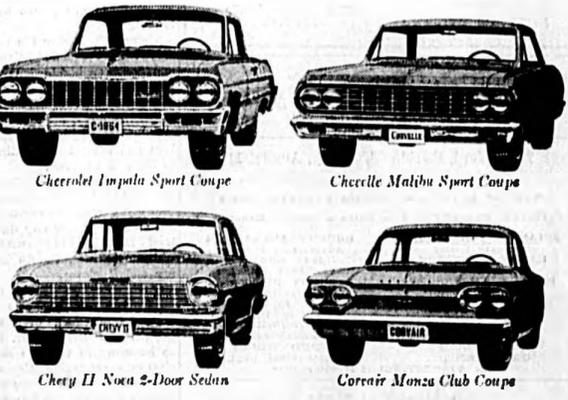

Cody said Chessman admitted being in the car with Rich the night of the slaying.

Cody said authorities have recovered a .22 caliber pistol believed to be the death weapon.

The detectives said the break in the case came while they were investigating another unrelated case. The arrests were made late Monday night.

A Nation Of Laws

The familiar statement that "this is a nation of laws, not men" is almost a literal as well as a figurative truth.

It is estimated that there are about two million laws on the books in this country, ranging from village ordinances to amendments to the U.S. Constitution.

No small contributors to this vast wilderness of regulations are the legislatures of the several states which, according to the American Bar Association, are grinding out no less than 35,000 new laws each year. As someone has said, America is one nation with 50 different states of mind.

Usually, a particular state's laws are its own business. But with modern means of communication and transportation and the ever-growing social and economic interdependence of the states, there are many situations where different and differing laws not only are a deterrent to the free flow of goods, business and people but often are an obstacle to justice.

This was recognized as long ago as 1892, when a group of men met to form the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform Laws.

In the succeeding 72 years the body, composed of commissioners appointed by the various state governments, has drafted over 200 uniform laws. Areas in which uniform laws have been voluntarily enacted by the states include: extradition, narcotics, trust funds, enforcement of family support by deserting husbands, legal evidence, general commercial transactions.

The 73rd annual meeting of the conference—in New York with more than 200 lawyers and officials from all the states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia attending—considered proposed uniform laws on such matters as deceptive trade practices, estate taxes, defense of indigent persons, rights of convicted persons, adoption of children.

Most people have never heard of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws. It is one of those quiet groups of dedicated men (none receives any salary or compensation; many pay their own expenses to the annual conference) whose efforts contribute so much to the successful functioning of this nation of laws.

Answer To Automation

One of the crying needs of this country is a 10-year-old child without tools.

This kid—we don't know whether it's a boy or a girl—seems to be an indispensable part of every handy household appliance you buy these days.

Practically every handy household appliance (there is no other kind than handy, of course) comes to the customer knocked down in pieces which, the enclosed folder blandly assures you, can easily be assembled by a 10-year-old child without tools. The trouble is, many a household doesn't have a 10-year-old child without tools. The child may be 9 years old, or 11 or 12, instead of 10. Or he may have a tool set, which disqualifies him for this job. Or the darn kid is never home when you need him.

The solution, of course, is for the manufacturer either to make the handy household appliance in one piece, completely assembled, or send along a 10-year-old child without tools with every purchase.

This might be the answer to automation.

Political Notebook

CHICAGO (NEA)—Important elements of the white backlash seem not to be well understood. Inquiries in this great urban melting pot bring them into sharper focus. It is nearly impossible to exaggerate the significance that immigrant ethnic groups, among whom the backlash is strong, attach to owning a home free and clear in a solid, stable neighborhood. Home ownership is not sought as a status symbol in the shallow social sense we employ today. To the immigrant Poles, Italian, German or other European, it is a mark of economic independence equated with the achievement of personal freedom. It is the dream unfulfilled in Europe but realized in America. Months before these current researches were undertaken, this reporter was cloistered with a well-known governor. Though we were entirely alone, at one point he leaned forward and almost whispered: "My wife's father is an immigrant European. Coming to have his home in this country was the great step for him, the proof of his freedom. Because he sees the Negro as a threat to this, he is strongly against the trend of events."

In the big industrial cities, the Polish or Italian's family home is truly its castle. Misleading plain exteriors often conceal costly interior improvements. Sons marry, and the newlyweds live with parents until they can find a home within a few doors or blocks of the family place. Nothing is more stunning to these people than to look up and see "outsiders" moving into the neighborhood.

Nor are their frowns reserved for Negroes alone. Ethnic groups in U. S. cities are notoriously clannish. Charles Percy, GOP nominee for governor of Illinois, was astonished to learn that Chicago has 78 separate German language organizations. Says a University of Chicago political scientist: "These people don't understand what integration is all about. To many, if not most, segregation is a way of life. They like to live unto themselves, apart not only from Negroes but from all others."

In fact, while each national minority puts Negroes at the low end of the scale as most lacking in education and good habits, the so-called Appalachian whites are placed next lowest.

These folk, fleeing the poverty of the Middle Atlantic and Southern highlands, pour into Chicago steadily. The minorities take alarm when they hear horror stories about poor whites ripping out moldings and other house fittings to burn as firewood.

It is fear of these things that leads these nationality groups to resist the encroachment of the poorer city dwellers, including hill country whites, Negroes, Puerto Ricans and Mexicans.

The minorities loudly oppose urban renewal, not as a people worried over the growth of federal power, but as homeowners who see slum clearance scattering Negroes and others in a wide arc and leading them to push into better and more stable areas.

Sociologists used to hail close-knit ethnic groups as contributing heavily to stability and order in our cities. Today these societies loom as fortresses trying to grid against a rising tide of Negro and other "outsiders."

Obviously these fortresses were erected originally with good purpose. The question now is how to cope with them in an age which sees a fairly shapeless mass of urban Negroes making a tremendous push toward higher levels.

Why Bobby Didn't Reach

WASHINGTON, D. C. —No people know better than the son of Joseph and Rose Kennedy that when you want something, you reach out and put your hand around it. Why, then, did Attorney General Robert Kennedy play it wall-and-see until his seeming chance of a lifetime—the vice presidential nomination at 38—slipped away? There are answers that will not please those who keep a do-it-now, power-maniac, crown-seeking demon picture of Bob Kennedy. But for those who have an interest in contemporary biography, and the effect of it upon political history, there are some deep-going, non-melodramatic factors of the case.

Foremost in Kennedy's mind, I have reason to believe, was the idea that he did want the vice presidency—but only on favorable terms. He wanted it as a steppingstone, not as a tombstone. Between last November and last March, the attorney general learned what it meant to be ostracized from the magic circle of White House power.

He who had been a master mover and intimate consultant on every phase of domestic and foreign policy, an insider on backstage history-making, the keeper of the doorway to the Oval Study, the center of the social whirl, the brother of majesty, abruptly became the waiter beside a silent telephone, the royal exile, the grieving and excluded princeling whose place was taken by others who used to seek his favors.

Kennedy easily translated what it meant to be an unweaned, unconsulted, embittered, suspected Cabinet officer into that same kind of vice president. He knew that if President Johnson were pressured into choosing him as a running-mate, Johnson could also put him on the shelf as a vice president.

Johnson knew where the "shelf" was because, until a number of weeks after the Bay of Pigs disaster, he had reposed there himself—scubbed by the palace guard of intellectuals, elbowed into an oblivion under the crystal chandeliers of his capitol office suits, called upon, like a show boy but not very chic piece of tabernacle, for ceremonial occasions, but not a fixture, much less a function, of the reigning household.

Johnson emerged from the imposed obscurity at a time when the Kennedy Administration was in direct need of a colorful, exuberant man-in-motion. The President sent him to Berlin in August '61 when the Wall was going up and Western spirits were going down. Johnson had no authority to make more than a spectacle of defiance, but he did that better than anybody else in the Administration could have done. For nearly two years thereafter, the vice president rode high in White House favor — but with the Bobby Baker scandals in '63, there developed the "Dump Lyndon" movement. The fatal trip to Texas, with trouble in the air at the next-stop-after Dallas, which was Austin, could have meant embarrassment and maybe exit—if things had gone from bad to worse.

Polish-Italian vote caught in the backlash," with the Kennedy Organization becoming a "stay home" threat, where does the President find the confidence of beating Barry Goldwater?

Who is going to pull back the Jewish vote of the North where Jewish merchants are indignant at the Negro devastation of their stores in Rochester and Brooklyn? Who will appeal to the World War II generation which looked upon John Kennedy as one of their own? The attorney general can feel, without vanity, that no other Democrat on the ticket can bring it the strength he could bring, assuming that the South is headed Republican. To Kennedy, the President's decision looks like go-it-alone. It looks like a move to beat the Kennedys first, Goldwater later.

Disappointed, yes, but Bob Kennedy would be less human than he is if he didn't see that a Johnson defeat in '64—and perhaps no other event—would prove that the Sixties are a Kennedy decade.

If go-it-alone is the wrong strategy for Johnson in '64, the sons of Joseph and Rose will know that another time has come for reaching and grasping.

Dr. Crane's

Worry Clinic

"Worry warts" about their health often are hungry for affection. If they can't win love, they may try to work on your sympathy. And many married folks who are hypochondriacs, are afflicted with a secret sexual complex, as is true of Harry today.

CASE T-44: Harry G., aged 42, is the worry wart mentioned yesterday.

"Dr. Crane," his attractive wife began, "Harry runs around from one doctor to another, apparently hoping one of them will pronounce him an invalid."

"Yet I really believe there isn't a thing wrong with him." Harry's wife is mistaken.

Harry has something wrong but it is not cancer or diabetes or high blood pressure or similar organic ailments. Harry's problem is sexual. He has become progressively more platonic.

That problem is largely due to psychological fretting, but it drives its victims almost berserk.

"My wife won't love me any more," was Harry's secret dread, as he later confessed during a lengthy interview.

So Harry subconsciously decided (as many husbands do) that he would try to appeal to her maternal nature even if he wasn't able to hold her interest via romancing.

So Harry became a pill addict.

This is often an indirect attempt to win sympathy. Many bachelors do the same thing, so do spinsters.

They crave romantic love but are willing to compromise for sympathy if they can't get true romance.

So Harry is a classical case of a malingering male who subconsciously feigns illness to hold his wife's devotion and excuse his impotence.

Sometimes such worry warts have a deep guilt complex so they believe God SHOULD strike them down as a penalty for their secret sin.

For example, tomorrow I'll give you the case of a married woman who was a worse worry wart than Harry.

And elderly folks, who have cut off their contacts with external reality, often grow too self-centered.

Their only claim for attention then becomes their arthritis or anemia, constipation of some other ailment.

So please make it a rule NEVER to greet your elderly relatives with:

"Hello, Grandfather. How are you?"

For that health question immediately makes him turn his attention inward. It converts him into an introvert.

So he makes a quick inventory of his "innards" and may fill the next hour telling of his aches and pains.

Instead, divert his attention by asking a question that will force him to forget his "innards."

"Grandpa" you might begin, "who will win the presidential election this fall?"

Beware, for most of us fall into the bad habit of asking every old person about his or her health.

Don't do it any more! Leave that query to the family physician.

Instead, purposely steer the elderly person's attention upon outside objects or persons.

And all worry warts should send for my booklet "How to Prevent Sexual Impotence," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c.

Letters

To The Editor

Editor, Herald: There is another reason that I, a Democrat, shall vote for Senator Goldwater.

It's because the Democrat leadership, far more than a generation, has slowly but firmly squeezed the real Democrat spirit out of the party.

It holds my party in an iron grip, forged by years of socialist nostrums, and tempered by the oil of benevolent bohemianism.

Adding the use of clever phrases, carefully contrived, endlessly repeated, and with synchronous co-ordination, the phony Democrat leadership is steering us into a socialist "utopia."

The party is fast becoming a means to its own end.

As a real Democrat, I have gotten wise to these modern Pied Pipers. I want new leadership. I believe that if we real Democrats elect Republican Barry Goldwater to the Presidency, his genuine American philosophy and integrity will do more, than any other force, to inject democratic and responsible leadership back into the Democrat Party.

Just as Goldwater's nomination has jarred loose the iron grip of the liberal-socialists on his party, so it will break the squeeze on mine.

Perhaps then we can find from some among us, real Democrat leadership that — sadly—is now dormant.

October Weekend Will Afford Fans Great Grid Bill

Sports

Between Us Fans

By Tom Cheatham
United Press International
PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—
A former University of Oregon distance runner has temporarily given up a school teaching job to try for his third Olympic team berth at the age of 30.

This time he hopes to be a winner.
Eleven months ago Bill Dellinger decided to come out of retirement and begin training for the 5,000 meters.

Had he left his spikes on the hook after retiring three years ago, Dellinger's career could have no doubt been called a success.

The University of Oregon graduate had already run twice in the Olympics, had participated in two Russian-American dual meets, had won the NCAA mile championship and has held two world distance records and an American mark.

In 1959, Dellinger held both the indoor two-and three-mile world records. He set an American 1,500 meter record in 1958 with a clocking of 3:41.5.

Why, then, try to come back for the Tokyo Olympics?

Dellinger's wife, Myrna, has the answer:

"Bill was disappointed at his two appearances in the Olympics. Together, we decided to forfeit some of the luxuries of life so he could make this year's Olympic team."

Dellinger's Olympic record is the only black mark in an impressive career. In the 1958 Melbourne games, he failed to place in the 5,000 meters.

In 1960 at Rome, he failed to get to the finals in the same event.

"We decided that if I ever got another chance to train and work out for the Olympics, I'd do it," Dellinger says.

That chance came last September, and the family made its decision. "We knew we couldn't live a normal life if Bill was going to train again," says his wife. "We've given up a lot of things so he could try again."

Dellinger believes he is at the prime age for distance running.

"I think a distance runner reaches a peak between the ages of 27 and 32, depending on the individual," he says. "I know I'm running better than I ever was."

Navy-Tech And Gator-Rebel Games Slated

By David M. Moffitt
UPI Sports Writer
ATLANTA (UPI)—Fans in northeast Florida will get more than their share of football during the second weekend of October.

On Friday night, Oct. 9, All-America Roger Staubach and his Navy Middles will be "host" to the newly independent Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets at Jacksonville.

The next afternoon, 60 miles southwest at Gainesville, the Florida Gators take on the Mississippi Rebels in what could well be the decisive battle of the upcoming Southeastern Conference campaign.

Staubach and Navy was involved in a similar weekend almost a year earlier to the date.

Southern Methodist edged the Middles in a wild Friday night fracas and then, on Saturday, Texas used Oklahoma for a springboard to the national championship.

Northeast Florida fans also may get a preview of a national champion. Navy was No. 2 last year; Mississippi No. 7. Both are considered contenders for '64 and pre-season surveys indicate Georgia Tech and Florida could both wind up among the top 10.

What now shapes up as one of the top weekend attractions in the nation started out to be a problem.

Originally, both games were scheduled for Saturday afternoon and the fans would have been forced to choose between them.

Over in Alabama, where a long-standing feud with Georgia Tech has been in progress, a sportswriter charged that Tech Coach Bobby Dodd had set up the Tech-Navy game in conflict with Florida-Mississippi as a spite gesture against Florida Coach Ray Graves.

That writer contended this was done because Dodd was angered that Graves, a former Dodd assistant, had allegedly misused Bobby Dodd Jr., while the son of the Tech coach was a quarterback at Florida.

Both coaches emphatically denied that this was true or that there was anything but good will between them. Dodd pointed out that Navy was home team for the game and had chosen the site.

The naval academy squashed that report by agreeing to switch to Friday night.

The result was a bonus for the fans.
Staubach is regarded a prime candidate to win the Heisman trophy two years in a row. Georgia Tech's great quarterback Billy Lothridge has departed but the Yellow Jackets expect to have one of their finer teams.

Mississippi, never lower than seventh nationally in the past five seasons, has won the Southeastern Conference in three of the past four years and is favored to repeat this year with 24 of its top 33 players returning.

Florida has fullback Larry Dupree, one of the nation's finest runners, back for his senior season along with its fine quarterback Tom Shannon and a big, experienced line.

Thus, both games look like stellar attractions and the fans with stamina and cash enough to take in both will be witness to one of the finest packages that college football has to offer for 1964.

How Sweet

MIAMI (NEA)—Television comedian and part-time golfer Jackie Gleason, who will do all his shows from Miami the coming season, will be presented with a golf cart designed with a portable bar, a television set and a walkie-talkie for contact with Gleason's office.

THE "DIXIE TWISTER" will appear at the Osceola Drag Strip Oct. 29-30 for exhibition runs which will be sponsored by the Seminole Timing Association. The "Twister" is owned and driven by Houston Platt of Atlanta. It has an all-fiberglass body and a 427 cubic inch engine.

Thinking Out Loud ...

Cooper Field Still Known As Casselberry Recreation Park

By Julian Stenstrom
Herald Sports Editor

Casselberry Recreation Park, Casselberry Recreation Center, Cooper Field! Take your choice of two but be sure you include Cooper Field as one of them. We thought perhaps The Herald had cleared this matter up once or twice before but it cropped up again yesterday.

A caller from Bear Lake reminded us that we had used Casselberry Recreation Park in a recent story. True, we did. But we also tagged on Cooper Field in an effort to satisfy both the Seminole Little League Association and the Town Council of Casselberry.

Then at last night's meeting of the Town Council a Casselberry resident's letter was read objecting to the calling of the park "Cooper Field."

Let's set the matter in order—we hope once and for all.

Casselberry Recreation Park is owned by Hibbard Casselberry. This gentleman leased the area to the Town of Casselberry. The Town of Casselberry in turn leased the park to the Seminole Little League Association.

The Little League group in turn named the baseball park Cooper Field in honor of one of the men who did so much to make the association a reality and also to light the field for night play.

Now, if we're all clear on this, here's why both names are used.

The lease agreement between owner Hibbard Casselberry and the Little League Association.

On the other hand, there was a report that Casselberry children, using the park in the daytime hours, recently were chased away by a Little League official.

Some people in Casselberry have wondered why "outsiders" were using the recreation facility instead of young people and children in Casselberry.

As we see it, the Little League group uses the field primarily at night—a time when nobody at all would be using it had it not been for the Little League Association installing the lighting system.

On the other hand, there was a report that Casselberry children, using the park in the daytime hours, recently were chased away by a Little League official.

What's needed? Cooperation and tolerance by both groups. We believe there is a good relationship between the Casselberry Town Council and Little League officials. The problem lies in the fact that some people still do not understand the lease and sub-lease provisions.

We hope they understand it now!

We understand that a provision in the sub-lease provides that children in the Casselberry area can use the facility when not being used or being repaired or maintained by the Little League group.

We know for a fact that the Little League group went from pillar to post trying to get a five-year lease on a field to light for night play. Casselberry's Town Council came through when the chips were down—with Hibbard Casselberry's assistance.

Here's the point: Little League officials should not deny Casselberry children the right to utilize the facility when it is not being used by the Association, or being maintained or repaired.

In the first place, even if it isn't in the lease agreement, it's bad public relations for the Association. In the second place Little League people must agree that Casselberry went out on a limb to help the association finance the lights in addition to providing the park.

What's needed? Cooperation and tolerance by both groups. We believe there is a good relationship between the Casselberry Town Council and Little League officials. The problem lies in the fact that some people still do not understand the lease and sub-lease provisions.

Yogi's Way Of Figuring Race Termed Unique

NEW YORK (UPI)—Happy but cautious Hank Bauer says save all those cheers until it's mathematically over.

Like any first-place manager at this state of the race, Bauer was a model of restraint Sunday even after his Baltimore Orioles took a showdown series from the New York Yankees, three out of four, to return home two games up.

Outspoken as he is, the Baltimore boss didn't so much as breathe the word pennant although his feelings were obvious.

"I figured if we took two from the Yankees we'd be okay," he finally confessed. "Winning the third one was like gravy."

President Lee MacPhail of the Orioles felt the same way as Bauer.

"I'll settle for three out of four," he laughed after the Orioles split Sunday's doubleheader with the Yankees.

"When we first came here last Friday, if someone had twisted my arm, I would've even settled for two out of four."

Lefty Al Downing stopped Baltimore cold with a fourth-inning home run in the opener and then with the prospect of dropping into second place, he also lost the nightcap, the Orioles bounced back to win it 4-2, with the aid of Boog Powell's 29th homer.

Yogi Berra wasn't overly dismayed by the split or by the fact the Yankees have lost five of their last seven games.

"As far as I'm concerned we've even," he said. "I always go by the loss column."

Yogi meant that even though the Orioles are two games in front because they have won four more games than the Yanks, the two clubs have lost the same number of games—48.

"The way I look at it," Berra said, "we still have to play those four games and we haven't lost them yet."

Yogi has his own unique way of figuring.

NEW YORK (UPI)—There has been a lot of talking about it, but Atlanta still does not have a professional football team.

The latest pwn wow, Atlanta Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. and Atlanta Stadium Authority Chairman Arthur Montgomery met with National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Rozelle said their talk was just "general conversation."

He said the pair told him about the new Atlanta stadium and the city's strong desire to obtain a pro football franchise.

The St. Louis Cardinals ownership decided Sunday not to move their NFL club to Atlanta.

A bid also is being made for a new American Football League franchise.
Rozelle said there was no talk Wednesday about transferring an existing franchise to Atlanta. But he said there was talk about future league expansion.

"I promised that I would keep in touch with them and would advise them if at some time in the future our thoughts on expansion become more active," Rozelle said after the 45-minute meeting.

He called Atlanta "a very attractive city for professional sports."

Hollywood Eyed As Replacement For Lakeland

MIAMI (UPI)—Hollywood probably will replace Lakeland in the Florida State League next year, FSL president George MacDonald indicated Monday night.

The move had been scheduled for this season, MacDonald said, but arrangements couldn't be made in time.

He said Lakeland president Joe Ryan's request for a transfer to Hollywood will be taken up at a director's meeting in Orlando Saturday night.

"There shouldn't be any problem now," MacDonald said.

Fifth-place Lakeland has been having attendance problems for several seasons. This year it has dropped below 200 a night.

Northern Shift

NEW YORK (NEA)—The tide is swinging north to Canada in the field of thoroughbred breeding.

There had been a time when breeders said Canada was too cold and too far away. They also said Canada lacked the proper facilities and the whole idea was too revolutionary.

The latest boom in competitor sports has been in water skiing.

By late July, the American Water Ski Association had sanctioned 80 water ski tournaments throughout the country and predicted that by the end of the season the figure would reach 100.

Officials also said that over 100 other water ski tournaments have been held without the formality of an AWSA sanction.

In 1957, 46,548 students were enrolled in all institutions of higher learning, public and private, in Florida. Last fall there were 101,993. It is expected to double again by 1970, reaching 218,000.

"Candid Chatter"

By Doris Williams

TWO MORE of Sanford's brides-elect will be all around this week. Janet Johnson and Michael Korgan will be married tonight, Aug. 11, at Christ Methodist Church.

Janet is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson and Mike is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Korgan. Janet is a lively, vivacious brunette with a talent for music. She plays the church organ and piano, and prefers semi-classical music and long playing records. She graduated this past year from Seminole High School and will be employed as a medical receptionist.

JANET JOHNSON

Janet and Mike have been busy this summer. They both like water sports and the great outdoors. The bride-to-be confided she liked to cook as Mike liked to eat, and she also enjoys sewing. The Korgans would like to settle down in a ranch style house and they prefer modern furnishings. They consider their children an ideal family.

Both sets of parents are happy for the young couple, and have been most cooperative in the pre-nuptial plans. The wedding date was set to coincide with Jan's parents, who will have been married 24 years on Aug. 11.

Janet and Michael will make their home in Orlando, where Mike is employed with Sears Roebuck and Company. We wish the young Korgans our very best.

WEDDING BELLS will ring out on Saturday, Aug. 15, for Judy Ludwig and Glenn Hodges at the First Presbyterian Church. Judy is the daughter of W. A. Ludwig and the late Mrs. Ludwig and Glenn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Hodges.

Judy is a petite, sophisticated brunette with a delightful personality. She has been real busy with a round of pre-nuptial parties and has enjoyed it all. She attended Wesleyan College and will graduate from Florida State in December, where she is an English major with a minor in Spanish and education. Judy related she can cook "a little" and enjoys reading and playing the piano. She laughed that she was not the athletic type, but a homebody. Glenn will graduate from Florida State next April and is majoring in Government and Latin America Affairs. His ambition is to become affiliated with the State Department in D. C. upon his graduation.

Both Glenn and Judy were students in Mexico last summer, and each lived with a Mexican family. When queried as to the language barrier, Judy stated that her family spoke no English, so she had to speak Spanish for survival. The experience was constructive and educational as well as interesting and loads of fun.

JUDY LUDWIG

Judy's choice in architecture is colonial with early American furnishings, and she thinks two children are enough. The young couple are intellectual-minded and both want a master's degree.

Following their wedding trip, they will return to Sanford for a few days before leaving for Alumni Village in Tallahassee, where they will live as married students. Reids McCall is another busy gal about town, having recently returned from a Christmas shopping jaunt.

Christmas in July? Actually Reids and hubby, Glenn, were shopping for Touchton's Drug Store, which they co-own with the Ernie Mills, so we can be sure St. Nick will be in town as scheduled.

Reids is a lovely personality with a desire to assist others. She is present advisor to the Phi Gamma Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, which is composed of a group of young women between the ages of 18 and 22. She is also a member of the Exemplar Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. The McCalls are members of Grace Methodist Church and served on the Church Board for four years. Reids has been active in all of the National Health Agencies.

Spare time doesn't exist for Reids. She helps in the drug store, and sews for the entire family. She loves to cook, but related Glenn did a super job with the outside grill, and thoroughly loves it.

REIDA MCCALL

The McCalls live in a spacious home in Longwood on beautiful Lake Wildmere. Their children, Waring Brent and Cara Shannon, enjoy boating, swimming and fishing in their front yard.

Reids has a busy schedule for the fall season, and we can be sure she will avail her services wherever needed and will capably execute any missions entrusted her.

Personals

Houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. N. V. Farmer are their daughter, Lois, and a friend, Eva Richards, from Miami.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Knight have departed via plane for a week's vacation in Nassau and the Bahamas.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Trud and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dudley are currently enjoying a delightful vacation in the mountains of North Carolina.

TIPSY STEW

Tipsy beef stew is easy to make. The night before, soak 1 cup of dried chick peas (garbanzos) or red kidney beans in water to cover. The next day, brown 2 pounds of beef, cut in 1-inch cubes, on all sides in 3 tablespoons of olive oil in deep pan. Add 1 cup of very dry Spanish sherry or madeira, 1 cup of sliced mushrooms, 1/2 teaspoon each of salt and Jamaica allspice, 1 clove of crushed garlic, cracked pepper to taste, 1/2 teaspoon each of Jamaica ground ginger and cumin, 1 bay leaf, 2 tablespoons of chopped fresh parsley and 4 tablespoons of chopped onion. Bring to simmer. Add drained peas or beans. Cover and simmer gently about 1 1/2 hours, adding a little water if necessary. Add 1/2 cup more sherry or madeira before serving with hot, cooked white rice. Serves 4. If you substitute canned, drained peas or beans, add them for the last 45 minutes of cooking only.

Impressive Marriage Rites Unite Miss Niki Ashby And Alex McKibbin

Miss Martha Nickelson Ashby, daughter of Mrs. Bishop Ashby, Sanford, and Henry Nicholson Ashby, of Tampa, became the bride of Alexander Hall McKibbin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Worden McKibbin Jr., in an impressive ceremony Aug. 8, at 8 p.m. in the Chapel of Peace of Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Sanford.

The bride is the granddaughter of George D. Bishop, of Sanford. Rev. Leroy D. Soper officiated at the double ring, candlelight ceremony.

Chapel decorations included traditional arrangements of white gladiolus, carnations, tuberoses and ivy on the altar and two seven branched wrought iron candelabra. Family pews were marked with white satin bows, ivy and white carnations. Several potted palms were also placed at vantage points.

Miss Beatrice Buck, organist, presented a program of nuptial music including "O Perfect Love," Handel's "March in B Flat" as the professional and Purcell's "Trumpet Tune" as the recessional.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, George B. Bishop, the bride was radiant in a formal gown of silk organza and Alencon lace with fitted bodice featuring a scalloped neckline and short sleeves. The bell shaped skirt highlighted by Alencon lace appliques and back bow fell into a sweeping chapel train. Her imported silk illusion veil was held by an open pillbox of silk organza and matching lace. She wore an heirloom bracelet of gold filigree that belonged to her great grandmother and short white gloves. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade arrangement of Phalaenopsis orchids, white tuberoses and ivy.

Mrs. Robin Oakes Brown of Winter Park and Miss Donna Ruth Ashby, sisters of the bride, were matron and maid of honor.

Clifford Worden McKibbin, 3rd, brother of the groom, was best man and ushers were William Bruce McKibbin, another brother, and Henry Nicholson Ashby Jr., brother of the bride. Miss Carol Ann Bishop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Bishop and cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

The attendants wore identical outfits of empire sheaths of pale green silk shantung, short white kid gloves, matching shoes and headpieces and carried cascade bouquets of yellow daisies and English ivy. The flower girl wore a dress of similar design and carried a basket of daisy petals.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Ashby wore a champagne beige lace sheath, featuring scalloped neckline, tiered skirt with matching accessories and a corsage of brown Alba orchids.

The groom's mother chose a sheath of perouquet moss lace and peau de soie, with matching accessories and a corsage of white Cattleya orchids.

Mrs. Summer L. Hall, maternal grandmother of the silver punch bowl and tiered wedding cake. In the center was a large five branched silver candelabra with an epergne filled with yellow shasta daisies, tuberoses and ivy in a cascade effect. Silver candelabras held the nuts and mints and on the patio against a background of tropical foliage another silver punch bowl contained punch cooled by flower filled ice molds.

Assisting with the serving were Misses W. A. Adams, George D. Bishop Jr., Gordon L. Bradley, Robert S. Brown, Andrew Carraway, Hawkins Connelly, J. H. Crapps, Frank Donahoe, Hagan Jennings, John L. Kader, W. A. Leffler, Ira E. Southward, Ernest Southward, Douglas Stenstrom, Hugh Welchel, Henry Wight, Al Wallace, M. L. Nichols, B. L. Perkins Jr., Wallace Phillips, Dale Scott, John Shepard and Raymond Ball.

Floating hostesses were the Misses Anne Crapps, Judy Ludwig, Merritt Phillips, Rosemary Southward, Pat Wight and Penelope S. McKibbin, of Cedar, Mich.

For traveling Mrs. McKibbin wore a pink and white striped linen suit with matching white shell blouse, full length coat and a white orchid corsage. After a wedding trip to Nassau the couple will be at home in Gainesville, Fla.

Out of town guests included Fred V. Bell, Chevy Chase, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Boyd, Leesburg; Bernard P. Beagle, Beverly Glen, Calif.; Robin Oakes Brown, Winter Park; Mrs. Summer L. Hall, Stockbridge, Mich.; Miss Linda Hagan, Orlando; Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Owen, Tallahassee, James Inglis, Miami; Dr. and Mrs. J. M. McKibbin and Miss Elsie McKibbin, of Birmingham, Ala.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband was raised in a family where MODESTY was the eleventh commandment. About a year ago, he developed a hernia which kept getting worse. After begging him to see a doctor, he finally went. The doctor said he needed an operation right away.

When my husband found out there would be a surgical nurse there, he said he would rather die than have the operation. He went to four other doctors and they all told him the same thing and none of them could promise him that a nurse wouldn't have any part in caring for him. My husband said nurses are okay for women and children, but not for a man with a hernia.

This was the first time he had been to a doctor since he took his physical for World War II. He is worrying me sick. Can you help me?

MODESTY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Modesty is one thing—idioty is another. Ask one of those four doctors to assure your husband that nurses couldn't care less about a patient's body. And he should cut out the foolishness and head for the hospital.

DEAR ABBY: I would like some information on how long a person should wait after the death of her husband (whom she loved dearly) before calling a gentleman friend who asked her to ring up as soon as she felt like it.

PROPER IN PENSACOLA

DEAR PROPER: Just long enough so that she won't feel guilty when she dials.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do when another couple you know quite well call you up and say they "might" be over? Sometimes they show up and

Jacoby On Bridge By Oswald Jacoby

Dummy's ten of diamonds held the first trick. Trick two went to South's Jack of clubs, whereupon South led his six of hearts. East was in with the queen and shifted to the queen of spades. South ducked, whereupon West overtook with the king and led back the suit. East's 10 was allowed to hold the third spade trick and East continued with the eight. This allowed South to make a trick with his nine spot and two spades, one heart, two diamonds and three clubs added up to eight tricks for declarer.

How many defensive errors can you spot and what was the key error?

How about the opening spades shift? Unfortunate, but not really an error. East was n't looking at all the cards.

What about the eight of spades lead? A decided error, but at that point South could make the hand against any return. Suppose a diamond return. South simply cashes the ace of diamonds, ace of hearts and ace-king of clubs. Then he throws East in with the last club and East is compelled to lead a spade to South.

Should the hand have been beaten at all? Yes! West should have played the three of spades, not the king on the first spade lead. Then, if East either continued with a low spade or shifted to a diamond, South would have had no play for his contract.

We The Women: By Ruth Millett

The house guest that hostesses invite again and again is the one who—

- Arrives with the proper clothes for any occasion, but not with so much luggage that the hostess wonders where she is going to put it all.
- Joins enthusiastically in any plan made by her hosts.
- Brings along a supply of reading matter, for use when the host and hostess are busy or need a little rest.

—Makes as little extra work as possible—and makes no clutter at all.

—Stays out from underfoot when the hostess is preparing a meal or cleaning a room.

—Doesn't keep the host and hostess up late entertaining him because he knows he can sleep as late as he wants to, even though his host and hostess can't.

—Isn't so finicky about food that planning meals is a worrisome chore.

—Puts himself out to be pleasant and charming to friends of the host and hostess.

—Takes an opportunity that arises to be unobtrusively helpful.

—Lets his host and hostess know before he arrives just how long he plans to stay—and leaves on schedule.

—Writes the kind of broad-and-bitter letter that convinces his host and hostess that he had a wonderful time.

Highlights TV Time Previews

7:00-8:00 P.M. NBC. Mr. Novak. "Moment Without Armor." (rerun) This episode is more a mystery story than the customary education vignettes. Miss Pagano (Jeanne Bal) is assaulted and then, as a stand-in for the principal (Dean Jagger) has to discipline a boy who looks perilously like the one who attacked her. Is he the one and how can she handle the situation? Luckily, Mr. Novak (James Franciscus) is on hand. Miss Bal is excellent and the late Robert Walker's son Mike is effective as the boy.

7:30-8:30 P.M. ABC. Combat. "The Glory Among Men." (rerun) A familiar story but as usual well done. A member of the platoon is trapped in no-man's land and the question is how or whether a rescue attempt will be made and at what cost. A good battle situation and it's handled believably by regulars Rick Jason, Vic Morrow (who also directed) and the rest.

8:30-9 P.M. NBC. Moment of Fear. "Long Distance" (rerun) For a while during the early days of television, we were treated to a rash of telephone dramas, all of which seemed to have been aired by "Burry, wrong Number." This drama is from a later period, but it has the same generic quality. It is notable principally for the acting of Jessica Tandy attempting to use the telephone to get a stay of execution for the husband she can now clear of murder.

8:30-9 P.M. ABC. McCall's Navy. "Evil Eye Parker." (rerun) Once again it's Ensign Parker (Tim Conway) vs. Captain Binghamton (Jon Flynn) and once again gets some big laughs. If you think hypnosis is a dangerous game, Binghamton couldn't agree with you more. He becomes Parker's victim. If you like farce, the naval variety show at the end is a wild bit of business.

9-9:30 P.M. CBS. Petticoat Junction. (rerun) Chalk up another good score here for Edgar Buchanan in his role of Uncle Joe. Kate (Ira Bennett) wants to discourage Billie Jo (Jeanne Riley) from a Hollywood acting career and turn her toward medicine. Uncle Joe plays sick so Kate can call a handsome doctor (Adam West) to give Billie Jo a new inspiration. Only trouble is Billie Jo inadvertently proves she isn't fit for a medical career.

9-10 P.M. ABC. Greatest Show on Earth. "A Place To Belong." (rerun) The ladies will be delighted to learn that for one glorious hour they'll be able to watch Louis Jordan playing the role of a former circus head now joshing his weights around Johnny

Paul's First Encyclical Sounds More Like Pius 12th Than John

By LOUIS CASSELL
United Press International
Pope Paul's first encyclical is evidently intended to reassure conservatives in the Roman Catholic Church.

It is likely to be a severe disappointment to Catholic progressives who had hoped that Paul VI would follow in the footsteps of the late Pope John XXIII.

One highly-placed Catholic progressive told this reporter:

after reading key passages from the encyclical: "It doesn't sound like John XXIII at all. It sounds like Pope Pius XII."

He said the Pope's strictures against communism were obviously prompted by concern about the domestic political situation in Italy, and were intended to slam shut the "opening to the left" attributed to John XXIII.

With Italian President Carlos Sagni near death, Pope Paul apparently felt that the Vatican should throw its full weight behind embattled right wing parties in Italy. Hence he condemned communism—by name—in the strongest terms used by the Vatican since Pius XII.

Aside from whatever impact it may have on Italian politics, the main effect of the encyclical may be to place a damper on hopes for rapid progress toward Christian unity.

Pope Paul chose to lay heavy stress on a papal primary—which, as he himself pointed out, is a principal "stumbling block" to Catholic-Orthodox reunion. His emphasis on it can hardly have any effect other than to chill the warmer atmosphere in relations which was established at his meetings with Orthodox Patriarch Athanasios I in Jerusalem last January.

His insistence that papal supremacy is essential to the unity of the church also will greatly moderate any optimism that Protestants may have felt about the doctrine of "collegiality" which has been advanced at the Vatican council. The doctrine holds that all bishops share with the Pope in the supreme government of the church.

Beyond any specific thing the Pope said, Catholic conservatives will be heartened and progressives dismayed by the general tone of the encyclical. It conspicuously lacks the openness and warmth, and the concern for non-Catholic opinion, which radiated from John XXIII's "mater et magister" and "paxem in terris." Instead, Pope Paul VI seems to be speaking to his own Catholic flock, in the voice of a benign but somewhat austere father.

When Paul VI ascended the papal throne last year, there were widespread predictions that he would prove to be even more progressive, and even more concerned with Christian unity, than his great predecessor. In the light of his encyclical, such predictions seem to have been premature.

PARTNERS — The cowboys grow small in Montgomery, N. Y., and the horses grow big, but what of it? They get along famously. The candid shot was taken at the local fire department's horse show.

The University of Florida's College of Engineering has conferred 5,319 bachelors degrees, 598 masters degrees, and 68 doctor of philosophy degrees since its founding in 1908.

Gubernatorial Campaign Costs Now $2,671,268

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — With two expensive months still to come before election time, Florida gubernatorial candidates report campaign expenditures of $2,671,268.

The original field of nine candidates has been narrowed to two by the primaries, Republican Charles Holley of St. Petersburg and Democrat Haydon Burns of Jacksonville.

The biggest spender of the lot is Burns, who reported expenses of $750,332 of the $801,347 he has received so far in contributions. Former Democratic Sen. Fred O. Dickinson of West Palm Beach spent $451,896 of his contributions totalling $680,811.

Sen. Scott Kelly of Lakeland reported expenses of $498,734. He said he spent every cent of his contributions.

Holley garnered the GOP nomination with expenses of only $33,350 out of contributions to date of $40,286. On the Republican side of the ledger, Holley is the biggest spender.

In second place for the GOP was H. B. Foster, who spent $7,323, followed by Ken Folks who spent $2,357.

On the Democratic side, Sen. John Matthews of Jacksonville spent $341,701, Mayor Robert King High of Miami spent $202,875 and Rep. Frederick Karl spent $222,637 to run in a field of six.

King Urges Non-Violent Protests

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Rev. Martin Luther King, condemning recent riots in Harlem and Rochester, N. Y., said last night that violence is "not only immoral but impractical" in the civil rights movement.

He said, however, that the causes of rioting and violence will be present "as long as there is segregation and discrimination and as long as Negroes feel they are exiles in their own land."

King told 3,000 Negro college women at the 41st meeting of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority that "violence and war are obsolete in the nuclear age—it is a question of non-violence or nonexistence."

"Nonviolent resistance is our most potent weapon," he said. "If Negroes succumb to the temptation of using violence, their children will suffer for it."

PICNICS are part of summer fun and young Jimmy Jay Shook, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Shook of Lake Hodge, is shown enjoying the family picnic given for members of the Sunshine Circle of Casselberry Community Methodist Church and their guests last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Howard, Lake Drive, Casselberry. COOL WATER—This pretty miss caused some distraction in Rome—where it can get pretty hot—when she decided to cool her feet in one of the city's many fountains.

Air Attack's Success Foregone Conclusion

ABOARD THE AIRCRAFT CARRIER USS TICONDEROGA (UPI) — Rear Adm. Robert B. Moore said Monday the U.S. attack on North Vietnam last Wednesday would have been successful even "if we had sent a letter three days in advance."

Moore is the commander of the American strike task force, now cruising off Viet Nam.

The admiral said that in his opinion President Johnson did not give the North Vietnamese any useful warning when he announced the air strike publicly in Washington. Johnson has been criticized in some quarters for disclosing the action in advance.

Moore said his slower, propeller-driven planes took off about 10:30 a. m. local time and hit their targets about 1 p. m. Johnson announced that an attack was in progress at 11:36 p. m. in the United States, which was 11:36 the following morning in Viet Nam.

The administration has said the announcement was timed to let the Communists know the attack was limited, and that the news was released after the planes entered the field of Communist radar. The administration contends there was not enough time for the North Vietnamese torpedo boats to flee.

But Moore said Task Force 77 was an superior in power that "I don't think it would have mattered if we had sent a letter three days in advance."

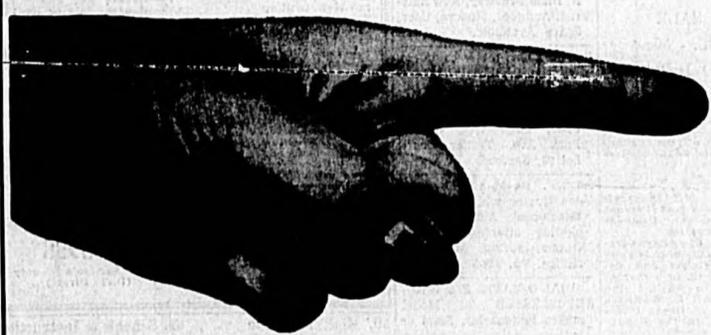

However, the admiral did not think the Reds knew of the raid before the President's announcement. Moore said he considered North Vietnamese radar inferior, and that he did not believe they had picked up the American planes when the announcement in Washington was made.

Big Dividends Seen With Marina, Canal

"A marina in Sanford and completion of a linking canal from the St. Johns River to the Atlantic will pay the greatest dividends of any investment expended by our city, county or state."
This summarizes the views of Leo Butner, manager of the Sanford State Farmers' Market, as he commented on the merits of the proposed lakefront marina and the canal, the Sanford-Titusville canal.

Storm Center Over Great Lakes Blamed

United Press International
A mid-August cool snap brought freezing temperatures to the Northern Plains today and set temperature records as far south as Oklahoma.

It was 30 degrees at Parshall, N. D., and 32 at Wishek, N. D. Some small grain and corn crops were damaged by frost in the Dakotas.

The mercury skidded to 33 at Glad Valley, S. D., and at Blismark, N. D., the coldest reading for Aug. 12 at Blismark, in Nebraska, a 42 at Grand Island and a 38 at North Platte were 10 degrees cooler than the previous low for the date.

Other records included Norfolk, Neb., 43; Omaha, Neb., and Sioux Falls, S. D., 44; Concordia, Kan., 45; Goodland, Kan., 47; Des Moines, Iowa, and Springfield, Mo., 48; Topeka, Kan. 50; Wichita, Kan. 52; Kansas City 53; and St. Louis, Mo., and Tulsa, Okla., 55.

The Weather Bureau blamed the cold on a "westerlike" storm center swirling across the Great Lakes. It pushed swiftly southward to Texas and eastward to the Appalachians.

Snow fell at the 12,000 level in the La Plata mountains of southwestern Colorado Tuesday.

But to the east and south of the advancing cold air temperatures remained hot and humidity high. It was 109 degrees at Mineral Wells, Tex., Tuesday.

Orientation Program For New Teachers Monday

Between 60 and 70 new teachers—that is, new to Seminole County—will go on the payroll next Monday morning when they convene at 8 a. m. for a special orientation session at English Estates Elementary School.

The following day the county's 600-plus teachers all will report to their respective schools for the pre-school planning period to prepare for the official school opening day—Aug. 31.

Despite the fact that the date has been announced over and over, the school board office and The Herald are still answering individual requests as to the date schools will open.

The Aug. 31 date was established because Labor Day comes during the second week in September. Usually schools open the day following Labor Day. In fact, this will be the second time within the past 17 years that schools will be opened on an August date.

As soon as the county's new instructors gather at English Estates school they will board school buses for a tour of Seminole. They will return to the air-conditioned (or climate controlled) school—newest in the county system—just before noon when they will be the guests at a luncheon sponsored by the Seminole County Education Association.

They will be introduced to officials of this group, officials of the Classroom Teachers Association and to county school authorities, including Superintendent R. T. Milwee who will officially welcome them to Seminole.

Following the luncheon the new teachers will convene for elementary and secondary teacher conferences directed by Mrs. Margaret Gok, supervisor of elementary education, and W. H. DeShazo, supervisor of secondary education.

Pre-school planning sessions will begin at the respective schools the following morning. Sessions will be held from 8 a. m. until 2:30 p. m. daily.

Who Gets Water? Is Question

By Dotie Austin
City Editor
The laying of water lines outside the city limits, in connection with the City of Sanford's $200,000 water improvement program has set the telephone at City Hall a-jangling.

Persons living outside the city limits, seeing city crews and workmen busy stringing water pipes out along West 25th St., the Paola Rd. and Grapeville Ave. have besieged City Manager W. E. Knowles' office with inquiries as to whether this water will be available to them.

The answer, in general, is "No." However — under certain conditions out-of-the-city-limits residents could have city water.

City Manager Knowles explained it this way: "Because our two new well fields, one in the vicinity of the Mayfair Golf Course, and one south of the city limits, off Hwy. 17-92 South, are both well outside the present city limits, you will find city crews laying pipe from the ends of present lines to the new well fields."

"New water pipes are being laid along Onora Rd. from Hwy. 17-92 east to Sanford Ave.; along Grapeville Ave. south from First St. to 25th St.; west on the 25th St. extension to the Paola Rd. and west on the Paola Rd. to the Mayfair Golf Course. These new lines will connect the ends of our present lines to the new wells."

"The established policy of the City Commission is that no utility taps will be made if the property owner is outside the corporate limits of the city, unless it is within an approved annexation area."

"However — any person desiring city utilities may sign an annexation petition asking that their property be brought into the city."

"If feasible, the Commission will then set the area for annexation. This could take several months, unless the property is contiguous with adjoining the present city limits. In the meantime, however, the property owner who has signed an annexation petition will be allowed to tap into the line, and a meter will be installed. The catch is, there is a 50 percent additional charge on the utility bill until such time as the property is officially annexed."

Knowles explained that this policy has been necessary due to the shortage of water for the past several years, with the city's first obligation due to the city residents.

In approximately seven months, when the new water supply is added to the system, the City Commission may be receptive to a new policy to broaden the water use to many additional customers.
