NAVY BUILDING PROGRAM WILL BE CARRIED ON

Fifteen New Cruisers Voted Upon By Congress Will Be Built In Next Three Years

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(INS)—The 15 new naval cruisers which Congress decreed should be laid down during the next three years, and on which President Hoover ordered work suspended are to be built after all. Try as they have, Ambassador Dawes and Premier Ramsay MacDonald have been unable to hit upon any scheme that will provide even a semblance of equality between England and the United States without the construction of these new American naval units. The British say they cannot scrap down to the American level, and that leave the administration no alternative but to go ahead with the building program that Congress insisted upon.

This much, it was learned today, has been determined fairly definitely in the Dawes-MacDonald negotiations. Although President Hoover was strongly desirous of avoiding any further naval construction, for reasons of economy as well as a world peace, Britain's unwillingness to scrap any appreciable scrap of cruisers may yet prove a blessing in disguise for the administration. However, the thing, it will be recalled, is not to fight with Congress that was inevitable for the executive suspension of the three-year program. Congress is rather touchy concerning constitutional prerogatives, and the best constitutional authority in both houses has questioned the President's legality to suspend the program.

However, the anti-faction in Congress over the thing, and the legislators were kindly and toward some of the questions which will be made to British Admiralty in other negotiations. There are increasing indications that the American government is prepared to make some concessions to the British in a field of small cruisers.

At Geneva, the American delegation, backed by its naval experts, took the adamant position that a cruiser was a cruiser. Now it appears that the American government is willing to meet part way at least, the British position that a cruiser of 6,000 tons and mounting only six-inch guns of which Britain has plenty, after all, more of a defensive than an offensive vessel. Or a British battle ship, a "poling vessel."

At Geneva, Hugh S. Gibson, the chief of the American delegation on the advice of the American naval present, took quite a positive position in this question. "We cannot but feel that every warship possesses essential characteristics and that as such it is built for the sole purpose of doing itself against attack. We want allow the reasoning which attributes to a cruiser a role which is defensive role."

Women Derby Fliers Get Off On Next Lap

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Aug. 21.—(INS)—Considerably delayed by poor visibility and a slight drizzle of rain, the fourth lap of the national air derby for women fliers finally got underway here today when the 15 entrants hopped off for Midland, Texas, the next control station. The fliers got away at two minute intervals. There was a strong tail wind and the sky was heavily clouded. Mrs. Keith Miller of New Zealand was the first to take off, followed by May Hallop of Tulsa, Okla., Mrs. Louise Thaden of Pittsburgh, Pa., who was first in the starting order as she has been on the past two years. May Van Mach, Detroit, tenth in the starting line returned for a later start after getting away in order.

PAGE ADDRESSES KIWANIAN UPON STATE'S FUTURE

Confidence And Courage Needed To Push Florida, He Asserts

Confidence and courage, supplemented by determination, perseverance and concentration, are the things which Florida citizens must have to push the State forward to its rightful place in the sun.

Those were the sentiments expressed by O. R. Pace, superintendent of transportation for the Atlantic Coast Line, in an address before the Sanford Kiwanis Club, Mr. Pace was speaking of what the future has in store for Florida, basing his predictions upon statistics in connection with the operation of railroads.

That Florida is not at all still, that the State has passed its greatest period of industrial activity, that from now on the trend will be upward, that many projects, looking toward the development of the State are already under way, and that reports, gathered from all parts of the North and East, indicate the largest tourist migration in history this winter, were among the things Mr. Pace told the Kiwanians.

The general business situation, he speaks of, is good, and a few figures on railroads and other factors of its national wealth are cited to show that the industry, with the railroads last year, was interpreted as the Jacksonville district of the Coast Line a greater part of which represents the local shipping area.

Mr. Pace described the beginning of a sugar industry in the Everglades as an undertaking of great importance and significance. It is a profitable venture, he stated, and added that the industry, from utilizing the hydro-power of sugar cane would, exceed that received from marketing sugar. Such an industry, Mr. Pace viewed with helpful effort upon the state.

Following his faith in the "sunshine" industry, he said, the opportunity now is to take full advantage of its natural wealth. He said that the Jacksonville district of which Sanford represents a big part of the state, is a rich one, and that the State has a great opportunity to develop its natural resources. He said that the State has a great opportunity to develop its natural resources. He said that the State has a great opportunity to develop its natural resources.

PEKING, Aug. 21.—(INS)—Soviet reports of what is reported to be a major battle of 24 hours' duration, in which Chinese troops on the Manchurian border are reported to have repulsed a Russian attack, were reported here today in both foreign and Chinese circles.

One regiment of Russian troops, comprising 21 airplanes, a number of tanks, machine-guns, and other artillery, was reported to have attempted to cross the Hsing River at Hsiao-tung, in the Manchurian border, attacking the Chinese defenses on the eastern side of the river.

Ninety Chinese soldiers were killed in the attack, but the Russians were repulsed, the report said. The battle raged all day Saturday. Chinese forces are reported to have repulsed a Russian attack on the Manchurian border, attacking the Chinese defenses on the eastern side of the river.

Senate Committee To Keep Old Plan For Tariff Rates

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(INS)—Although eastern industrialists long have advocated a "United States valuation" plan for the collection of American tariff duties, the Republican membership of the Senate Finance Committee today seemed likely to reject it in favor of the time-honored existing system, by which rates are levied primarily on the foreign valuation of imports.

Fifty passengers about the cars escaped with minor injuries, the engineer and crew being helped to safety by the engine struck the slide.

Servant Troubles Cause Big Stir In Social Circles Of Diplomatic Washington

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(INS)—"A ridiculous situation—there has nothing more to say."

This was the only comment today of Mrs. Vandewater, wife of the former American ambassador to Peru concerning the resignation of Senor Alfredo Gonzalez Prada, the Peruvian charge d'affaires in Washington, who quit his post rather than comply with a direct order from his government to return to Mrs. Vandewater's employ as a servant, one Cornelius.

Mrs. Vandewater had brought Cornelius and his wife to the United States from Peru some months ago. Cornelius became dissatisfied and left her employ, entering the service of Senor Gonzalez Prada. Mrs. Vandewater protested to the president of Peru, and thus created an international incident which provoked an explanation in the Peruvian diplomatic service.

HOPE ALMOST GIVEN UP FOR SWISS FLIERS

Boy Aviators Are Long Overdue On Attempt To Span Atlantic In One Motored Plane

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(INS)—Hope was virtually abandoned today for Oscar Kneser and Kurt Luescher, Swiss "boy fliers" who are long overdue on their attempted flight across the ocean from Lisbon, Portugal.

While an unbroken watch was kept throughout the night at all points along the Atlantic seaboard, no trace was revealed of the youthful aviators, who started in high spirits from a beach near the Portuguese capital on Monday.

Kneser and Luescher were last sighted over the Azores Monday afternoon. Then they headed off over the Atlantic, confident of reaching Halifax, Nova Scotia, and continuing on to New York if their fuel supply proved sufficient.

Although 12 steamers were in the route the fliers intended to follow, nothing was seen of them, and it is now feared that they have followed the usual route of the Atlantic in vain attempts to span the ocean from Europe to America.

Mickey Walker Awarded 10-Round Decision Fight Over Lomski Last Night

By Ed Mercer
International News Service
Special Correspondent
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 20.—Perhaps one of the reasons why Tommy Loughran is reluctant to relinquish his light heavyweight title is the chess of the field from which his successor must be drawn.

Loughran sat atop up to the ring last night at the stadium while Mickey Walker pounded out a 10 round decision over Leo Lomski and his reactions were not those of a champion about to hand over his crown to that rightful heir.

The middleweight champion and the Aberdeen assassin fought one of those spotty battles in which they alternated in taking the play away from each other but Walker had Lomski on the spot more frequently than he was put there himself when Leo elected to open up and throw punches that forced the boy bulldog to tin can around the ring.

The Aberdeen man had Mickey reeking in the fifth round even when he hit him on the arms and shoulders, but for the most part he played into Mickey's hands by going in close before he unlimbered his guns. Walker blocked well and threw many short jabs to the body and head, countered well, and wasted few punches. Lomski played badly with inflexible arms and a head as he bobbed in close.

The round that clinched it for the Rumson charger was the ninth in which he poked Lomski in the eye and then he took the verge of hitting the deck. Mickey had captured three rounds up to that time against two for Lomski and two even. Walker had taken the eighth by hooking his left vigorously to the ribs and jaw as Lomski played a waiting game and attempted to box.

Beginning the ninth the Aberdeen man went in close, shifted and drove a left to the chin that made Mickey blink. Walker retained with a left to the head and then drove the same hand to the body, slamming Lomski up against the ropes. Again Walker drove his left to the chin and Leo fell against the ropes, a right clipped him on the ear and he grabbed and held.

They broke and Lomski staggered out toward the center looking toward the corner. Walker looked a great opportunity here. He was slow to follow up when Lomski was plainly riddled, but finally charged in with a right that made Lomski blink. Lomski attempted to fight back but threw his punches aimlessly while Mickey ducked in and out to plaster him for the remaining seconds of the round.

Jack Kearney and Milton Gaston were the winning flingers. Oh, yes! the great Shires, Chicago's portable talking machine, astounded his public by remaining strangely quiet as the Yanks trimmed his beloved Sox.

Errors gave the Senators a 5 to 3 win over Cleveland, only one of Washington's runs being earned. Sam Jones was the winning pitcher.

Boston and Detroit split a double-header with the Tiger capturing the second game 6 to 2 after dropping the first, 5 to 2. Vic Sorrell and Milton Gaston were the winning flingers.

Oh, yes! the great Shires, Chicago's portable talking machine, astounded his public by remaining strangely quiet as the Yanks trimmed his beloved Sox.

Walker came through with four good rounds to his credit and shaded Lomski in two others. Lomski took three and one was even. The Aberdeen man outweighed the boy bulldog, 179 1/4 pounds to 166 but did not employ his advantage well except in one round. It seemed as if he was under wraps in several rounds, judging from the effectiveness of his spitted attacks in the fifth and tenth when he slammed Walker all over the ring with swinging attacks.

CUBS RAINED OUT BUT GAIN GROUND AS PIRATES LOSE

Philies Down Buc Twice; Macks Win And So Do Yankees

NHW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 20.—(INS)—Chicago's Cubs had much rather play baseball than discuss it.

Not that the McCarthy outfit is above healthy post mortems of each play while lingering under the showers but given their choice between a day of bridge in their hotel and a game of ball they would undoubtedly choose the latter.

Reports have it that the boys all but playfully smashed the furniture in their hotel yesterday as rain kept them from taking a few chews at the Giants. The same reports have the Giants, Robins and Cards immensely pleased with the rainy day that gave them an opportunity to try for a few grand slams.

Incidentally, the Cubs are leading the National League race by some nine games.

Yesterday's national proceedings were enlivened by the Philies' elph out of the cellar, these tremendous hitting boys stepping over Boston by clubbing Pittsburgh twice, 7 to 6 and 8 to 5. Burleigh Grimes, who for the past few weeks has been nursing an injured hand, got back into action for the Pirates as a relief pitcher in the second game. All other National League games were rained out.

American affairs were featured by collegian Roy Sherd's winning of his first major league game when the Yanks turned back the White Sox, 3 to 2. Sherd was aided no little by cripple Rube's two timely singles and a three-base miff of Combs' fly by Watwood.

The Athletics kept step with the Yanks as Bill Shores had little trouble in curbing the Browns while his team-mates rained out an 8 to 2 win. Shores held St. Louis scoreless until the final inning. Bishop and Haas got home runs.

Errors gave the Senators a 5 to 3 win over Cleveland, only one of Washington's runs being earned. Sam Jones was the winning pitcher.

Boston and Detroit split a double-header with the Tiger capturing the second game 6 to 2 after dropping the first, 5 to 2. Vic Sorrell and Milton Gaston were the winning flingers.

SUMMER TOURS ON SHIPS

TIME was when ships would be at sea for months, only to stagger into port with a crew desperately ill from what we now know as "deficiency disease"—diseases such as scurvy and beriberi which come from not eating food which contains the vital vitamins.

For one thing, the mariners of those times didn't know what caused the diseases, and if they had known, they would have been little better off, for they had no way then of preserving fruits and vegetables for long periods.

Modern Preserving Today, all that is changed. We know that certain elements contained in fruits and vegetables will prevent the deficiency diseases. Most ships have mammoth refrigerators to preserve some of their food supply. But even more important in the diversification of diet at sea is the use of canned foods. For food preserved in cans is sterilized in such a way that it loses practically none of its vitamin content. And its use, coupled with the foods which are held in cold storage, provides a diet so delicious and so healthful that physicians nowadays don't hesitate to prescribe sea trips for the most delicate patients.

The food which goes onto a ship is never left to chance. Men with vast experience of the dietetic needs of passengers and also of their likes and dislikes compile the orders, and when the foods arrive they are inspected with as much care as custom officers bestow on a suspected smuggler. The inspector has to work hard, too. On one of the big liners recently he had thirty-five different kinds of canned fruits to inspect, and fifty-three different kinds of canned vegetables. The fresh vegetables carried on this ship in season number seventy-seven items, and the fresh fruits number thirty-eight. In all there are approximately 1200 items on its Steward's Account of Stores.

More Variety Than a Farm It is not surprising nowadays, therefore, to hear the passengers say at the end of a summer tour: "We had more variety in our menus, more different foods, than you can get on a farm." For what farm ever boasted 1200 different foods?

The main canned fruits on this boat were peaches, pineapple, pears, apricots and Royal Anne cherries, but there were many other fruits in lesser amounts. Pie is as popular on shipboard as on land, so big No. 10 cans of apples, California peeled pie peaches, crushed pineapple, Maine blueberries, sour pitted cherries, and some half dozen other kinds are taken on board to meet this demand. Many of these are put up, to preserve their color, in sanitary enamel lined cans.

Canned peas, tomatoes and corn, of course, are stocked in large quantities, but there are also enough of the staple vegetables—fancy succotash made with tiny green lima beans, asparagus tips and fancy California mammoth white asparagus, dark red whole beets, pimiento—to stock a good sized grocery store. This ship carries canned milk, flour, sugar, syrup, fifty-four different cereals, dried fruits, nuts, pickles, olives, oil, coffee, tea, spices, extracts, seasonings, crackers, sauces and enough sundries to bewilder even the most experienced housewife. Its larder offers, among other delicacies, nearly thirty different varieties of jellies and jams.

Fresh Foods Too In the ship's big refrigerators there are also many kinds of fresh meat and fish. The latter includes twenty-two different kinds of shellfish, and the former consists of fresh beef, mutton, lamb, veal, pork—even sixteen different kinds of kosher meats. There are butter, eggs, cheese, and ice cream in endless varieties, and several dozen kinds of poultry and game.

But canning and preserving play their parts, too, among the meats and fish. This particular ship carries sixty-three kinds of fish, salted, smoked, canned, and in the form of paste; more than a dozen different smoked meats; and miscellaneous meats, fresh, frozen and pickled, to the number of twenty-three.

This story tells of the stores on one particular ship, but it was chosen only to serve as an example. There are endless varieties of foods now on all the big liners, and you can call for pretty much anything that you please. Try it out. The next time you embark for a tour, or even just to cross the ocean, call for creamed baby carrots or huckleberry pie, for deviled crabs or pineapple fritters—and the odds are that they'll appear on your table. But the important fact remains, not that you can tickle your palate, but that you can have the right foods for a balanced menu and keep well.

What is a hiccough? Most of us have had it but few of us know what it is. We know that it is sometimes caused by too much laughing, or too much drinking. We know that it has something to do with indigestion and frequently comes after over-eating. We have found that it usually comes shortly after dinner from those who are near it but who do not have it, and we know that it becomes very tiresome after the first hour or two.

There is a small band of Florida

There is a small band of Florida editors, we conclude after reading the exchanges, that each week send out ideas from "Time" magazine. The best way to be sure of the ideas is to read the magazine. Editor Lambright of the Tampa Tribune and Editor Dean of the Sanford Herald, among others, are of the editor-leaders.

The Tariff In The South

The question of tariff is again seen at the fore as Republican leaders came to the protection of industrial giants of the east. This time however they are counting upon support from Democratic chieftains who are being influenced by the growth of manufactures in the South and by the increased need for agricultural restrictions against Cuba and Mexico. But the Tampa Times does not believe that Southern congressmen can be depended upon by tariff advocates to any great extent.

"The archaic subject of the tariff that has kept Senator Smoot from having a much needed vacation this summer now goes to the senate to be the cause for oratory all during the merry autumn. The usual insurgent republican revolt with gleeful democrats in the background darkens all loyal republican dreams. But it takes the Philadelphia newspapers to find a silver lining to every cloud. The south, they are sure, will furnish all the votes needed to pass the biggest highway robbery in history.

"There are undoubtedly more manufacturers in the south than there used to be. But the trouble is that we have never been able to grasp that advanced Pennsylvania viewpoint. Up in the Quaker State, the producer of manufactured products is the only man who counts. Everybody else enjoys life through the simple expedient of gazing upon and admiring the producer. When senate finance committees interview Philadelphians, there is no such animal as a consumer. He is a relic of the dark ages that passed when dinosaurs became extinct.

"But down in the south the consumer still raises his impudent voice. He declares in a nerby way that he is not fond of paying a section of the national debt every time he goes to buy food and clothing. He still wonders how some tremendous industries in the United States can still be classified as infant industries deserving of tariff walls. This disagreeable person is going to continue to be heard in the south and his voice carries so well that congressmen are apt to hear it as they sit in the chambers of their inner offices. Most southern congressmen, for this reason if no other, are likely to give Philadelphia editors a ride back."

NOT SO HARD BOILED

Is this the hard boiled age we pretend it to be or is it as shallowly sentimental as many another? Do things that used to make us cry now send us into rales of laughter and do we scoff where we were not so long ago wont to pray? Off hand the guess would be that the public has grown pretty sophisticated and that he who no longer goes to the theater to see the matter can be submitted to proof that isn't the verdict at all. The answer is that human nature seems to be just about what it used to be and always has been; that sob stuff still has its consumers and that in the same places as our forefathers in long skirts and whippers.

BUSINESS OFFICE BOOSTER

There was a contractor who, when business was going, thought it was time to stop advertising. He figured the people would come to his store. Which they did for a while. But they didn't stay more.

There is a small band of Florida

There is a small band of Florida editors, we conclude after reading the exchanges, that each week send out ideas from "Time" magazine. The best way to be sure of the ideas is to read the magazine. Editor Lambright of the Tampa Tribune and Editor Dean of the Sanford Herald, among others, are of the editor-leaders.

HUGE POWER PROJECT

Five new hydro-electric plants will harness the Tennessee river and its tributaries in Western North Carolina to develop more electric energy than produced at Niagara Falls, according to information contained in North Carolina papers received here. The center of activity is at Bryson City, former home of Joel L. Gibson, late United States senator. Two huge dams already have been completed, and another is under construction. The five others are in addition. Back of the immense project, which will represent an outlay of $125,000,000, is the Aluminum Company of America, in which Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, is a large holder.

GROWERS WILL BENEFIT

Florida strawberries will move to market more rapidly in the future than in the past which means a better price for the delectable fruit which represents one of the principal money crops. Under the new order of things the New Orleans area will have an advantage that the former of that section have enjoyed for a number of years and which made berry cutting there more profitable than elsewhere.

Fashionable Suits At Bathing Places Are Good Looking

ALICE LANGELIER
Fashionable suits at bathing places are good looking. They are warm and cozy and cut to give the greatest freedom for real exercise which, notwithstanding one may find it, dainty French women seem to be after these days. "Don't go near the water" warnings go unheeded. They are all out to swim. And for such strenuous exercise the one-piece suit is second to none.

It is brightened up this year by modern geometric motifs in all colors. One in wool jersey recently seen at Le Touquet has a lovely deep sea rhythm in green, yellow and white, with a white jersey belt. It has the sunburst decolletage in black and modest V in front. Summer jersey a very bright shade makes some very chic suits. One in white and one dressmaker's blue are in vogue. Another is black and white jersey. A broad awathes to make a striking bath ensemble and another in black and white jersey which is very cozy on cool mornings. It has a flaring skirt and bright yellow yoke around the deep-cut collar. Caps come in rubber or wood jersey to match the coat and there are also big handkerchiefs of rubberized crepe de Chine to tie in nautic manner. Very original bathing shoes are knitted of rubber socks and attached to rubber slippers. Flowered and checked rubber makes other slippers which can be worn in sand of the water. The newest sandals have cork soles and rubber straps to keep them close to the feet.

MAN'S TENNIS TORNEY ENTERS ROUND TODAY

Upsets Expected In West Hills Championship Court Games
WEST HILLS, L. I. Aug. 21.—(NS)—Slightly more difficult opposition faces most of the second stars in the women's national tennis championship which opens into the second round on the West Hills courts today.

Box in none of them is there likely to be an upset unless it comes of the match between 16-year-old Suzanne Palfrey of Brookline, Mass., and Mrs. D. C. Shepherd of Barron of the English-Speaking Cup team. Helen Williams, reigning queen of the courts, what should be an easy match with Mrs. Charlotte Housner of New York.

One of the real surprises of the opening round was the indifference of Helen Jacobs in her match with Penelope Anderson of New York. She was decidedly off her stride, looked and acted as if she wanted to do anything in the best play tennis.

Miss Williams consumed only 18 minutes in defeating Miss Kath. Lamarche of Saratoga. It was with a minimum of scored against her. Only 15 were made by Miss Williams in the course of two minutes in the meantime.

Greta Garbo Shows New Charm In Her Picture At Milane

Greta Garbo earned that four-week vacation she spent back home in Stockholm before returning to our movie screens in "The Single Standard." In this glamorous new characterization, Greta has made all of our senses worthwhile. She has brought back to us a new kind of movie charm, a creature more of human understanding and an artist of even greater power of magnetism and dramatic strength.

This new Mrs. Holmstrom, May, which opened today at the Milane Theatre, with musical and sound synchronization, is the answer to the Garbo fan's prayer in that it has returned to them their wandering Swedish star. But it is cinematically, vastly more than a mere welcome-home reception for the exotic Greta and achieves a greatness in entertainment value almost unbelievable now in this age of all-talents.

PLANT CITY—Gulf Coast Co-operative being organized for purpose of marketing of eggs.

Fashions for the Smart Woman

A street frock of straight and simple lines may be lifted out of the ordinary by the use of distinctive trimming touches. Such a frock is the model shown today. Simple indeed is the unadorned diagonal neckline, the light fitting sleeves, the finely pleated skirt with the smooth dip at the side. But the clever use of the band-and-trimming at the left side and on the sleeve gives it unusual chic. This frock is most effective in solid colorings, while such fabrics as crepe marocain, tulle crepe and canvas may be chosen. A smart frock for street wear.

What Society Is Wearing

THE MISSES MILLICENT AND MARY HAMMOND

BY HELEN WORDEN
It is interesting to note that the sister ensembles are quite the smart feature for big as well as little girls. Witness the accompanying photograph of Millicent and Mary Hammond, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ogden H. Hammond. Rough basket weave tweed fashions the two coats that are identical in style and distinctive points include Lincoln sleeves trimmed with self-stitching. The collars of millie are cushion shaped and bear resemblance to Peter's skin. A novel treatment of the cuffs is revealed in the fact that the raised is set over the mitts, producing the effect of a fur under-sleeve. The accessories include soft felt hats boasting cleverly draped brims, large under-arm bags, chamois gloves, light stockings and red oxfords.

The Misses Hammond, whose father is United States Ambassador to Spain, are pictured with their Spanish police dog Victor. They returned yesterday, with their parents, on the Levantine to spend the holidays in this county.

Page Addresses Kiwanians Upon State's Future

The largest previous movement. Diversification of crops, the speaker said, would lead to one of the most important needs of Sanford at the present time. Presiding his address, Mr. Tracy said Florida, in particular, are too much inclined to be pessimistic. "We need to take a different view; we need to make our thoughts more constructive," he declared. Generally praising the speaker and the United States is in "fine condition." His authority for this statement, he added, was based on railroad facts and figures, which he pointed to as being an efficient gauge of business condition.

The physical properties of American railroads were never in better shape, the month of their organization is excellent, and their freight and passenger business is unprecedented, he said. Kiwanians for the first year U. S. railroads moved 2,000,000 loaded cars, or 26,000 more than for any other year, he said, and added that the first six months of this year show a large increase over the same period last year.

From these figures, Mr. Tracy stated that business is good in other sections of the country and that sooner or later Florida will be benefited.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. McMullen will be glad to learn that they have returned to their home, 200 Myrtle Avenue, in Waycross, Ga. where they have been for the past three months. Mr. McMullen is improving nicely after a serious illness of several months at the A. C. I. Hospital.

The EVERGLADES

More Fertile than

The NILE

FOR CENTURIES the expression: "fertile as the Nile Valley", has been used to denote the ultimate in productiveness of soil, yet Florida's "backyard," the Everglades, is said by modern agriculturalists to have a fecundity and fruitfulness found nowhere else in all the world.

Both the Nile Valley and the Everglades are in the same isothermal zone; both are highly adaptive to the growth of sugar cane and other semi-tropical plants. After two thousand years of civilization the Nile has progressed but little in its laborious methods of irrigation. Since 1903, when drainage operations began in the Everglades, vast tracts of waste land have been reclaimed and many prosperous farms established.

Not only the Everglades, but the entire state of Florida, looks forward to agricultural development as the greatest source of future wealth. Of Florida's 55,000,000 acres, less than 6,000,000 acres represent cultivated farm lands. Fully 22,000,000 acres of the remainder are susceptible of cultivation—a great agricultural empire worth many millions of dollars in annual income to the people of this state.

Among the crops now being grown on drained Everglades lands are tomatoes, potatoes, peppers, beans, egg-plant, onions, cucumbers, strawberries, peanuts, sugar cane and many others. In the older sections oranges, grapefruit, limes and avocados are being grown successfully.

In the Nile, the outlook is backward over the centuries, but in the Everglades of Florida, and throughout the state, are rising new hopes and new dreams—founded on FACTS and ACCOMPLISHMENTS, made possible by the energy and perseverance of its people.

AGRICULTURAL ASSETS of FLORIDA

Florida leads the nation in the production of winter-grown crops of egg-plant, snap beans, tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers, and Irish potatoes.

Florida ships ten per cent of all fresh fruit and vegetables of the United States from less than 300,000 acres. This equals more than ten per cent of the value of carload shipments.

Florida leads in the production of grapefruit, celery, Fuller's Earth and phosphate.

Florida produced more than seven million dollars worth of corn last year, and the crops of cotton, hay, white and sweet potatoes, tobacco, sugar cane syrup and peanuts totaled more than a million dollars each.

LET THE CHILD COOK

EVERYBODY must eat to live, and the majority of people live on bread. Bread is a staple food, and it is a food that is easy to cook. So what are you doing? Mrs. Hausman, to teach her children this ancient and honorable craft? Here's hoping that you aren't the kind who thoughtlessly say, "When her little girl wants to bake 'Bread' away. You're too slow. Put it in a hurry!"

Of course it's generally quite true. But if you have a little girl who is interested in bread, why not let her try to make it? It doesn't seem now. Good cooks are the best cooks. Good cooks are the best cooks. Good cooks are the best cooks.

Spread It and Do It

Even if the child is small, there are many things she can do to help in the kitchen. She can wash the vegetables, she can peel the fruit, she can mix the batter, she can stir the dough, she can knead the bread, she can bake the bread, she can slice the bread, she can butter the bread, she can eat the bread.

Embryo Boy Scouts

But this doesn't mean that only the little girl should learn to cook. The boys are just as interested in it.
