OPEN FLAMES HELP HEAT NURSERY ON OSTEEN ROAD

Seminole Shivers, But Crops Flourish

By KRIS NASH
Herald Staff Writer

The gray skies, drizzling rains and chilly temperatures which have blanketed the state during the past several days have caused no ill effects so far in the Central Florida citrus and cattle industries, authorities said today.

And in some cases, they added, the weather has been beneficial.

"Weather like this is what colors the fruit, you know," said Donald Farmer, assistant general manager of the Florida Citrus Mutual. "When we have mild days and cool nights, and by that I mean in the 34-55-degree temperature range — and 65-75 degrees during the day — that's what puts the good color in the fruit. So we need the cool weather."

Farmer said Citrus Mutual, a growers' agency which handles crop weather news for the state, has received no reports of fruit damage during the recent bleak spell.

"Generally, it hasn't had any effect as far as any damaging effect," said Farmer, "because it just hasn't been cold enough. Generally, the rain's been good. The cool weather has helped us."

The citrus official stressed that he was speaking solely in terms of the weather's statewide effect.

"I'm not saying there may not have been a few isolated cases of damage, now," Farmer said. "I've gotten into hot water on this before. 'Where we get in trouble,' he added, "is when we get temperatures down around 27-28 degrees for any length of time. That's where we start getting ice on fruit and timber growth."

Farmer's sentiments were roughly echoed by Cecil Tucker, a member of the Seminole County Cattlemen's Association.

"There's been no serious damage at this point," Tucker said. "The rain, wind and cold are hard on the cattle and so is frost on the pasture grass. When it's a real problem is when we've got rain and blowing wind and cold all at the same time, and we've had some of this — but it really hasn't been a serious problem."

Pastureland grass begins to decline around the end of September, Tucker explained, and livestock producers compensate for this by introducing supplements into their animals' diets.

"When you hit your first heavy frost — from then on, the grass starts going back," Tucker said. "If it was later in the winter, like January or February, when the cattle are thinner, why, then it would be a more serious situation."

Edward Turner, superintendent of the Sanford-Central Florida Airport, said the airport control tower had received reports Tuesday that pilots were encountering snow at 2,000 feet.

"Yes, and also out there this morning they were icing up around 2,000-2,500 (feet)," Turner said. But he added that such conditions did not necessarily carry the threat of similar weather at ground level.

"It all depends on the temperature down here as to whether it breaks up or not," Turner explained. "What is was doing yesterday (Tuesday) was breaking up and coming down as rain. No, I don't think we've got anything to worry about."

Farmer, who has access to an agricultural office of the U.S. Weather Service, backed the airport superintendent's forecast.

"It's not going to snow, based on what the weather bureau tells me," Farmer said. "The reason is that the cold weather layer extends from ground level to 3,000 feet. And the air above that is warmer. So they say it can't snow."

Instruments at the Port of Sanford showed a 52-degree temperature at 10 a.m. today, and Farmer said U.S. Weather Service forecasts called for 38-44-degree readings in the Central Florida area tonight, with a warming trend predicted for Thursday night and Friday morning.

And it says the wind will be northeasterly; that's good, too," Farmer concluded. "Usually you don't get the really bad weather with northeasterly winds because it comes in over the water. The nasty stuff comes when the winds are from the northwest."

Water, Sewer Rates Raised For 2,000 In South Seminole

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

Overruling protests from area citizens, county commissioners Tuesday night approved water and sewer rate hikes for about 2,000 customers — hitting some homes with up to 127 per cent increases.

All customers affected live in South Seminole County and are tied to two utilities — Indian Hills and Consumers — purchased last year by the county. The purchase price was $2.4-million.

The new prices which were protested vocally by about 10 citizens are scheduled to go into effect Dec. 10. The average monthly bill, according to county officials, will increase from $8.30 to $13.20.

But Gloria Ward informed county commissioners her monthly bill will soar from about $12.75 to more than $30 — an increase of about 127 per cent. She called the rate hikes "exorbitant" and decided the fact that citizens have no one to appeal to other than the county commission.

Citizens questioned the advisability of the initial purchase and said customers shouldn't be made to foot the bill for a system that "was in deplorable shape and was losing money" when it was purchased last November.

Also, irate citizens pointed out it took only five employees to run the system when it was privately owned. Now, 11 county employees man the utilities.

Utility Consultant Hugh Harling said state regulations mandated the additional employees. Harling said the rate hikes were needed to offset a $138,000-a-year deficit in utility operations.

He said an increase in the cost of chemicals and the cost of electricity plus a sagging economy made the rate hikes necessary. By now, county officials had expected more than 2,000 connections.

"It is a large increase, an unfortunate thing," Commission Chairman Dick Williams told citizens during the two-hour hearing.

Williams said "points were well made," but he pointed to the $138,000 deficit, which he said must be paid for by users — or out of the county's general revenue fund.

To subsidize utilities out of general revenue would require a decision Williams said would be "difficult for me to make."

Citizens also pointed out the county is paying $200,000 yearly to pay off the debts incurred when the system was purchased.

In response, Commissioner John Kimbrough asked if residents wanted the county to sell the utilities.

One resident said anything would be better than the increased costs to consumers.

Citizens had no appeal other than to commissioners because the county owns the utilities. Utilities owned by private firms must appeal to the state's Public Service Commission (PSC) before rate increases are granted.

But the county only is required to hold public hearings before upping rates. The only recourse for the citizen is to file a lawsuit against county officials.

The decision to raise rates was unanimous.

Blue-Ribbon Lawyers Panel Will Weigh Jail Fire Suits

A five-member Blue Ribbon Panel of attorneys whose job it is to recommend the best method of fighting $6-million in lawsuits was approved Tuesday night by the Seminole County Commission.

The lawsuit resulted from last year's jail fire, and officials estimate the county will be in litigation on the issue within six months.

Each commissioner is responsible for appointing one attorney as his representative on the "committee." The recommendation for the Blue Ribbon lawyer, Page 2-A.

Seminole will pay fees of $400 per hour for the panel.

The commission instructed Commission Chairman Dick Williams to negotiate with local attorneys to supply the county's legal needs on Dec. 10 — when Tom Freeman's law firm will cease to represent Seminole County.

The county received only one application when it advertised for an attorney with five years' experience. Still pending is a decision on whether to hire one or two lawyers to staff the new department.

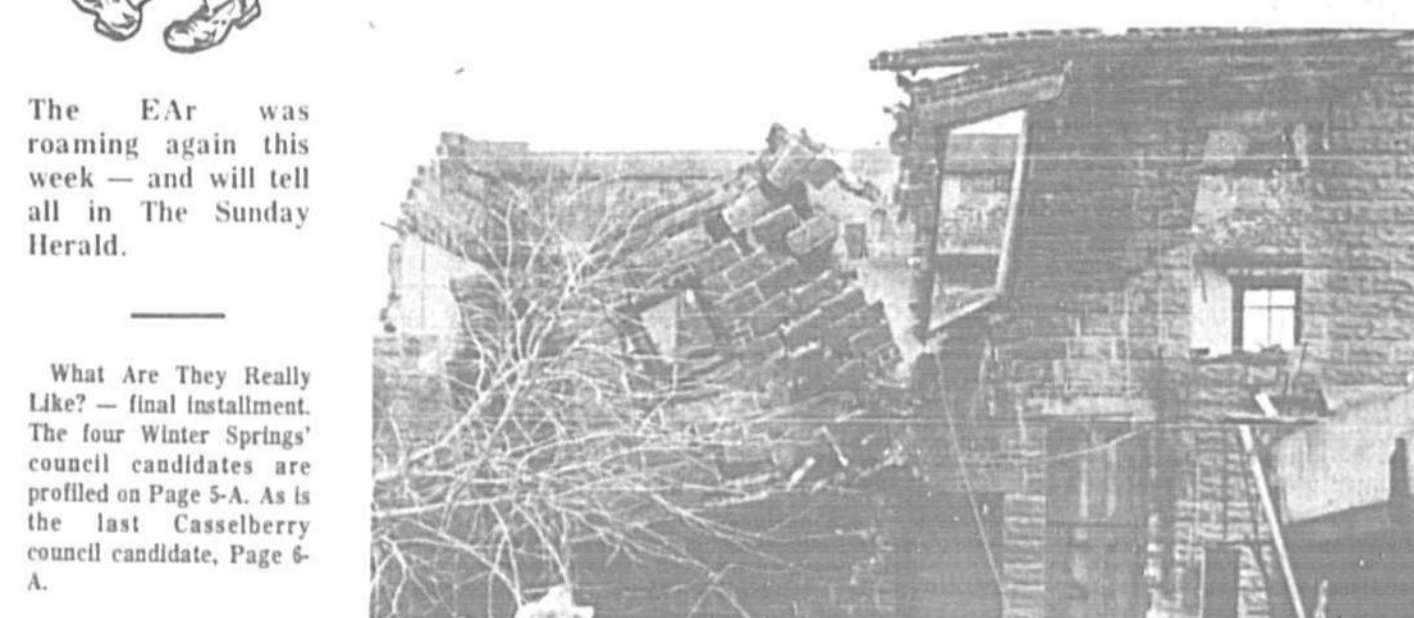

Republican commissioners say one can do the job.

Freeman, the former county attorney, said he would not apply for the new position after the commission opted for an in-house department to handle legal matters for the county. Williams is seeking an attorney to handle legal problems on a month-to-month basis until the new department is officially set up.

Freeman announced Tuesday he wants out on that date because Asst. County Atty. Robert Pierce is resigning from the Freeman law firm. Pierce said he resigned to retain his sanity. He said political squabbles within the county Commission made his present position untenable.

3 Injured As Fire Destroys Officer's Club In Germany

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — An explosion and fire destroyed the Officers Club at Rhein-Main U.S. Air Force Base during the crowded luncheon today. Three persons were injured, a spokesman said.

"We're investigating the possibility of a bombing," the spokesman said, "but there was no bomb threat beforehand."

The explosion occurred about 1 p.m. in a lounge of the main restaurant where at least 100 military personnel and dependents were eating lunch.

Chinese Congress Meeting

TOKYO (AP) — The ruling body of China's parliament is meeting to ratify the government shakeup that has followed Mao Tse-tung's death and the purge of Mao's widow and other radicals.

The session of the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress, which opened Tuesday, was expected to make public the new government lineup that the Communist party Politburo has worked out. The only change announced so far has been the elevation of Premier Hua Kuofeng to succeed Mao as party chairman, and that was a change in the party leadership, not in the government.

Panel Called 'Huckster'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Common Cause charged that the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy was a "huckster for the nuclear power industry" and should be abolished. David Cohen, president of the self-described citizens' lobby, said today the committee provides a platform to nuclear power supporters while it rarely hears the critics and never listens to them. "It ignores safety issues and cost overruns while it projects federal investments in its members' states and districts."

U.S. Wooing Panama?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration has informally made new proposals to Panama to end the dispute over the future of the Panama Canal, sources say. Panama's foreign minister will visit Washington this weekend to check prospects on a future canal negotiations. But some of the U.S. proposals were said to be unacceptable to Panamanian officials, who are hoping for better terms after Jimmy Carter becomes president.

FBI Guards S. Korean

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI agents reportedly are guarding a South Korean diplomat who has defied orders to return home and is cooperating with a federal probe of alleged South Korean influence-buying in Congress.

Sources identified him Tuesday night as Kim Sang Keun, a counselor at the embassy who reportedly was the top Korean Central Intelligence Agency officer here. FBI agents reportedly are guarding Kim, his wife and family at an undisclosed location near here.

Vanishing Sanford Defendant Still Missing

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Area law enforcement officers today were still searching for Nathaniel Lee Williams, 25, of Sanford, who disappeared from the courthouse Tuesday just before the start of his trial on firebombing and witness tampering charges.

The firebombing charges stem from a 1974 attack on the home of a Seminole sheriff's deputy. Williams didn't show up for trial in 1974 and was arrested last September in Niagara Falls, N.Y., and returned here for trial. The witness-tampering charge was made in October after prosecutors said a witness' life was threatened.

Observers said Williams, free on $15,000 bond, appeared shaken Tuesday morning when he spotted two New York detectives at the courthouse who were listed as state witnesses in his trial. A short time later, officials said, Williams disappeared.

Circuit Judge A.J. Hosenmann Jr. has ordered the missing defendant held without bond when he is arrested this time.

Report: Shoppers Broke Even Last Month

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Grocery shoppers managed to break even last month. An Associated Press marketbasket survey shows prices remained stable during November, with increases and decreases generally balancing each other out on a nationwide basis.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1978, and rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

The latest survey showed that the marketbasket total at the checklist store in 11 cities and increased in only two. The new findings were encouraging, however, as a sign that inflation at the supermarket is easing. The government has predicted that food prices alone will rise about 3 or 4 percent this year, less than half the rate of increase last year. The leveling off is due, in part, to a drop in the prices paid to farmers for their products. The Department of Agriculture said Tuesday that prices farmers get declined 3 percent from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15. It was the fourth straight monthly decline and left farm prices at a level 6 percent below a year earlier.

Abundant supplies of livestock and grain have helped keep down retail prices at the meat counter. The AP survey found that the price of a pound of chopped chuck was unchanged in most cities. Pork chops and frankfurters each declined at the checklist store in seven cities.

In its survey, the AP compared prices at the start of December with those a year earlier. The marketbasket total increased at the checklist store in eight cities — up an average of 2.1 percent — and decreased in five — down an average of 2.7 percent. Overall, the marketbasket at the checklist store was up about a third of one percent during the 12-month period.

The November results were not uniformly good. Eggs increased in price at the checklist store in 12 cities; coffee — which has been soaring out of Sheriff's deputies have jailed an Orlando man on a circuit-court warrant charging possession of controlled substance and drug paraphernalia.

Bond was set at $5,000 for Alfonso Leon Faniel, 26, according to county jail records.

Seminole sheriff's deputies today were looking for a road curvett pipe and $1,322 in tools reported stolen in separate incidents.

Officials at the county Parks and Recreation Division reported a 20-foot-long section of 16-inch spiral steel culvert valued at $106 was taken from the side of Mullet Lake Park Road west of Geneva. County crews had installed two similar sections of culvert and left the missing section at the site for installation today.

Deputy R.A. Alexander said two wheelbarrows, an air compressor, spray guns and air hose, three electric saws, an electric drill, bolt cutters and nine 50-foot electric cords, total value $1,322, were reported missing from a Creative Inc., tool shed at 2701 W. Fifth St., Sanford.

Alexander said there was no sign of forced entry to the storage shed.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Two Avon Park Inmates Still Free After Escape

AVON PARK (AP) — Two inmates, one who killed a prison guard in a previous escape attempt and the other a two-time killer, were still at large today after driving away from a minimum security prison, officials said.

A statewide alert was issued for David Edward Dawson, 30, of Tampa, and Robert Earl Williams, 32, of Fort Lauderdale, after they fled the Avon Park Correctional Institute in a state-owned van Monday.

The truck was later found abandoned. Both men were working outside the prison compound when they escaped, said Supt. Sidney Fortner. Dawson was assigned to an electrical shop and Williams to the print shop.

Justice Roberts Steps Down

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — After 27 years on the Florida Supreme Court, Justice B.K. Roberts began a new life today.

Roberts, 69, spent his last day on the court Tuesday and was honored with a brief ceremony commemorating his career.

While no longer a justice, Roberts said he would continue sitting as a visiting judge to decide cases he has heard and would also aid the court after January to clear up its heavy backlog of cases.

Justice Roberts Steps Down

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Gov. Reubin Askew has raised the possibility of joining the Jimmy Carter Administration — but not until his second and last term as governor expires in two years.

"I indicated that when I left office I might want to talk to him, but I have not made many decisions about what I might want to do," Askew said at a Tuesday news conference.

He said Carter called him on Sunday and asked whether he would be interested in a federal appointment.

Solon: Policies Ignored

MIAMI (AP) — Policies that emerged from years of legislation and leadership are being routinely ignored by various state agencies, charges Sen. Robert Graham, D-Miami Lakes.

"The major weakness in Florida government," Graham said Tuesday, "is that the governors have never seen it as their duty to identify policy and see that all departments fall in line with it."

"Policy tends to emerge out of bits and pieces of sometimes disparate acts," Graham said. "It's like a mosaic. After a few pieces are in place you can begin to recognize the picture."

Clemency Proposals Under Fire

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin wants to make sure there is no replay in Florida of Utah murderer Gary Gilmore's appearance before a pardon board to plead for execution.

Shevin proposed on Tuesday that clemency rules suggested by Gov. Reubin Askew should be amended so that condemned persons who want to die don't have to go through pardon proceedings. The rules would provide automatic clemency proceedings for all condemned prisoners, once their death sentences were upheld by the courts.

"An inmate should be able to terminate his or her executive clemency process," Shevin said in a letter to Askew. Gilmore's death wish was granted on Tuesday when the Utah Board of Pardoners voted 2-1 in favor of his execution. He admitted and was convicted of killing Bennie Bushnell, 24, in a Provo, Utah, motel robbery.

No date has been set by Utah authorities for Gilmore's execution, which could be the first in the nation since the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the death penalty.

Askew said at a news conference that he supports the death penalty and feels society should focus its attention on murder victims like Bushnell, rather than their killers.

Under Askew's proposal, the Cabinet would hear final arguments by lawyers, following the commission's hearing, and then decide whether to implement a death sentence.

Askew said at his news conference that the state's death law is fair. He said his proposed rules, which go before the Cabinet next Wednesday, provide an orderly procedure for clemency proceedings.

Program For Young Defendant?

MIAMI (AP) — Social workers have two weeks to find a suitable program to rehabilitate 12-year-old Wally Mosley, charged in the stabbing death of a younger playmate.

Juvenile Court Judge Ralph B. Ferguson on Tuesday postponed the disposition of Wally's case until Dec. 14. Ferguson, however, allowed testimony by two experts after assistant public defender Michael Von Zamit entered an admission of delinquency plea on the youth's behalf.

The blond-haired, blue-eyed youngster sat impassively in court next to the grandparents of the victim, 9-year-old Greg Billiter, during testimony by Dr. Frank Loeffler, a psychologist, and Dr. Michael Hughes, a child psychiatrist.

Loeffler said a psychological profile of Mosley showed his educational level was no higher than third or fourth grade. Loeffler described Wally as "capable of extreme hostility if he is threatened."

However, he said under normal circumstances the boy is pleasant. He said Wally is sane, but needs long-term rehabilitation.

He recommended that Wally not be returned to his mother, Phyllis Mosley, or her boyfriend, Charles "Blacks" Whitcomb, an ex-convict.

Hughes said Wally's home life played a part in his problems. He said the boy's natural father and mother had been treated for mental problems, and distorted in his social, moral and emotional development.

But he is still a child and has his life ahead of him. Hughes recommended long-term treatment with individual psychotherapy.

But a social worker for the public defender's office said there appears to be few facilities in Florida that have the programs recommended by experts.

Von Zamit said authorities are considering the Menninger Clinic in Topeka, Kan., at $90,000 a year and Miami's Grant Center at $21,600 a year. He said the state health department would pick up the tab.

Commission Chairman Dick Williams, however, said he felt the county should provide some services to delegation members.

Kimbrough agreed, but the Republican commissioner felt those services should be limited to provision of legal services at delegation meetings.

U.S. Atty. Richard Arcara said Monday that an investigation of J. Paul Brennan, 37, and his Rochester business district was "still under review."

The Brennans said in September they were delivering on foot 500 to 600 letters a day, charging 10 cents a letter. They said most of their customers were lawyers and businessmen.

Mrs. Brennan said she conceived the service in March after it took 13 days for a letter to reach her from a friend in Idaho.

"We've never lost a customer and never had a complaint and that's something the postal service can't say," she said.

The private express statute of the postal law bans private parties from delivering first class mail, postal officials said.

Carter's Accepting Realism As It Is

Around

The Clock
By AUDIE MURPHY

President-elect Carter has emphasized that he has no responsibility for federal policy between now and his inauguration Jan. 20. Technically, that's true, and it's also politically wise for Mr. Carter, and fair to President Ford, that he should remain on the periphery of the government during the transition period.

Nevertheless, everything Mr. Carter says and does in the next two months is going to have its impact—not so much on the government as on the private sector of the economy.
Hence the interest at Mr. Carter's news conference Nov. 15 in learning details of his plans for stimulating the economy and dealing with the risk of renewed inflation. The favorable response on Wall Street to his statement discounting the likelihood of wage and price controls indicates that the mood of many investors is hanging on clues to Mr. Carter's thinking.

Even the economists who had defended the current "pause" in economic recovery as a necessary and beneficial phenomenon are now conceding that it has lasted longer than it should have. Alan Greenspan, President Ford's chief economic adviser, believes renewed growth has been undermined by a wavering in confidence in the long-term economic future, and particularly by new fears of inflation.

Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns also remains convinced that inflation is the No. 1 enemy, and says there will be no change in the "moderate" policy toward growth in credit and the money supply for the sake of economic stimulus. To try to create jobs by relaxing those policies would aggravate unemployment in the long run, says Mr. Burns, because it would put the country through another inflation scare with a dampening effect on business activity.

Mr. Carter is surely aware that his election has contributed to uncertainty about the economic policies that will be embraced by his administration. His campaign ended on an ambiguous note as to how much his pledge to attack unemployment would be tempered by caution toward the inflationary effect of having the government go on a spending spree. At his news conference, he acknowledged that it might take his full four-year term to bring unemployment down to less than 5 per cent, or to the "full employment" goal in the Democratic platform.

That kind of realism can help dispel fears that the progress we have made against inflation would be scrapped in the Carter administration for the sake of artificial economic stimulus. Since the election, the Office of Management and Budget has estimated that federal spending in 1977-78 will hit $450 billion 10 per cent higher than the current year—without a single new program. If the performance of the economy is anything like the OMB is projecting, the deficit in such a budget would top $50 billion.

It is such facts of life that are confronting Mr. Carter and his transition team. The room to maneuver in proposing tax cuts or major tax reform, or launching dramatic new programs with big price tags, is limited. Mr. Carter's problem is to adjust his agenda to economic and budgetary realities without disappointing those of his supporters who are expecting quick delivery on some of his campaign promises.

The new perspective Mr. Carter gave to his goal of cutting unemployment, and the softening of his criticism of the stewardship of Mr. Burns at the Federal Reserve, are indications that he is willing to forego a leap into economic policies that would be irresponsible from the standpoint of controlling inflation. The more this impression can be buttressed, the more likely that the current "pause" will yield to a return to growth based on expectations of reasonable economic stability in the future.

What ever happened to Gerald Ford? Rumor has it that the President is alive and well in the White House, but nobody knows for sure. According to a friend of mine who works at the Washington bureau of a major newspaper, the subject of the lame-duck president surfaced recently during a cocktail party, and speculation has been rife ever since.

It seems that at the party, the topic of discussion was, of course, the current transition period under way in Washington.

"I just love Jimmy's accent," one prominent patron gushed, "and he is so much cuter than ... than ..."

"The present occupant of the White House," a lawyer finished helpfully.

"Yes," the matron muttered, "but I'm not sure about that. 'Twas so terrible about remembering names." "It has something to do with cars," a psychiatrist said, drawing upon his training in word association.

"Whenever it is, he falls down a lot," the matron's husband commented.

"I've got it! It's President Chevy Chase!" exclaimed the matron's daughter.

The group fell silent, pondering that deduction. After a few minutes, the lawyer said, "No, it can't be Chevy Chase. He's too tall."

"His name must be S.J. Toyota," mumbled a dentist who was working on his seventh martini. "I know there was a Japanese guy who got elected to something."

"Well, whatever his name is, I wish he would show himself more often," the matron said. "It's improper for a president to go into hiding."

"Maybe we should write a letter demanding that the President show himself," the matron's husband said. "After all, he may have fallen victim to foul play or something."

"Yes, look what happened to Nixon," the matron said.

"Foul ball!" the drunk dentist said. "Who is going to write the letter?" queried the psychiatrist. "I can't—my tennis elbow is acting up."

"I'll write it," the lawyer said, "but it'll cost you a hundred bucks."

"Don't be so mercenary. What we have in mind is just a friendly little note, asking that the President make a public appearance," the matron said.

"I'll write it," the matron's daughter said. "No, dear, you just graduated from high school and your spelling is atrocious," her mother replied.

"Well, somebody will have to write it. We can't have a President who hides in the Oval Office," the matron's husband said.

"Let's draw straws!" the lawyer said. "Short one writes the letter."

Several straws were found when the drawing was finished, the tipsy dentist held up the short one.

The following afternoon, the President's secretary opened a small envelope to find a scrawled note.

"Dear Ediel ..." the note began.

The Herald's resident E.A.R. has been getting a swarm of inquiries asking the identity of the Sanford City Commission candidate who, it was overheard by the E.A.R. and reported Nov. 21, talked of the trouble "the colorists" are causing police.

The remarks were made outside the Seminole Community Action banquet at the Civic Center. For purposes of clarification and fairness, the E.A.R. tells us it was Eddie Keith, running for Seat 2.

TOM TIEDE Anderson Makes Grab For Power

WASHINGTON — No sooner had the Democrats seized the White House with promises of restoring confidence in the political system than one of their own was blackening that system again.

Wendell Anderson, governor of Minnesota, is the culprit. Hisses and fies on him. Faced with the duty of naming a Senate replacement for Walter Mondale, who is stepping up to lower things, Anderson decided there was only one man in the state with enough competence and enough stature to replace Mondale: Wendell Anderson.

Ergo the governor has conceived an unhappy plan to further his own interests. He will resign his present office, allowing Lt. Gov. Rudy Perpich to take over. Perpich will then select Anderson—who, after all, will be out of work and essentially a wasted resource—to be the new junior senator from the land of 10,000 lakes.

Anderson is aware there will be criticism of his action. Already a poll has been conducted indicating that 55 per cent of the Minnesotans questioned do not want the governor to resign himself to the Senate. But since the polls have no authority, and since politics is often the art of preventing people from engaging in what is their own business, Anderson insists all skepticism will be disregarded.

"I'm sure some will react negatively," the governor says and justifies my election to a full term in displaying no shame at all, Anderson is already campaigning for a Senate career, and what with the incumbent's advantage he is bestowing on himself he'll likely get it.

That the Minnesotan has yearned for a national pulpit has been apparent for years. A one-time Olympic hockey player and attorney, he has been in political office for 18 of his 43 years, and has been touted as a contender since early this decade. Curly haired, blue eyed, moderate in all things including philosophy, he is a prodigy of Hubert Humphrey and a ripening favorite of his mighty party.

He is a bit too Democratic, perhaps. At the past party convention, as chairman of the platform committee, Anderson fought hard for a role—a loyalty oath, really—which would force all candidates to promise allegiance to the eventual nominee. Thus he wanted Jimmy Carter and company to swear fidelity even if George Wallace was the pick.

But extremism in defense of Democratic unity isn't a vice, not to those who can add registration figures. And it is this sort of devotion which has led Democrats to believe Anderson's goal for a mere gubernatorial chair. With his good looks and fortuitous attitude, they say, he could be president someday.

And so, by golly, it is not just for the good of Minnesota that Wendell Anderson is using his office for personal gain, it is in effect for the good future of America. This no doubt is the same rationale used by George Wallace in 1966, when, forced out of office by Alabama's elected black cancer-stricken wife into the political arena so that he could continue to selfishly rule the people.

Truculent Trucco To Keep On Truckin'?

WASHINGTON — Shortly before the November elections, Chilean Ambassador Manuel Trucco wrote a nasty letter to Jimmy Carter. The truculent Trucco isn't expected to last long in Washington, therefore, after Carter is inaugurated on January 20.

Trucco scolded Carter for his statements about Chile and implied that his advisers had been brainwashed by Marxists. It isn't considered good form, of course, for an ambassador to insult the leaders of his host government. Ambassadors are supposed to be gracious and charming and careful what they say.

For diplomacy is as fragile as a crystal champagne glass. An accomplished ambassador can make his points with a whispered word, a raised eyebrow, a diplomatic frown.

But Trucco, writing with a heavy hand, informed Carter that his campaign statements about Chile were "without substantiating evidence but in open defiance of historic facts." Carter had charged that the Republican administration had helped to overthrow an elected government in Chile and to establish a military dictatorship in its place. He also attacked Chilean prices.

Wrote Trucco: "The government of the United States did not participate, nor intervene, dear Governor Carter, in the (end of the 'legitimately elected' government."

Firm Seeks To Aid Blind

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Jim Bliss wants to help blind people pay more taxes.

That could make Bliss sound like an oddball philanthropist or an overzealous Internal Revenue agent.

But instead, Bliss is an entrepreneur who heads a five-year-old company that is an unusual mix of capitalism and humanitarianism.

The company is Telesensory Systems, Inc., which makes products to aid the blind and which puts much of its profits back into research on new products for the visually handicapped.

"The driving force of this company is to use technology to get blind people more integrated into society and, in particular, into more normal employment," Bliss said in an interview at the company's offices here.

If you look at a blind person's own welfare, he may be receiving $3,000 to $4,000 from the government," he said. "If you turn that around so he's making $10,000 a year, not only is that $10,000 helping to stimulate the economy, but his income tax would be $2,000 or $3,000 a year.

"That's a $6,000 investment, and I think it's worth the overtime investment of a few thousand dollars to change that $3,000 obligation into $3,000 in income for the government," he said.

Bliss, of course, isn't interested in the blind solely from the standpoint of generating more tax revenue. His company employs six blind persons on its staff of 10 and he points out that holding down a normal job helps blind people develop a better self-image and generally enjoy a fuller life.

TSI's first product was a reading device called an "Optacon." It allows a blind person to read ordinary printed material.

The Optacon consists of a scanner which is passed over the words and a console in which the user places his or her left hand. The scanner converts letters into electrical impulses which then vibrates tiny pins set inside the console.

The user feels each letter as it is reproduced on the array of pins and is thus able to "read" the words.

"You can't imagine the difference having an Optacon makes to a blind person," says TSI calculator products manager Chris Berg, whose wife is blind.

"Before this, they were limited to materials translated into Braille. Now they can read newspapers, cookbooks—whatever they want. They can read their personal mail, instead of having to get someone to read it to them."

TSI also offers a nine-day training course for buyers of its Optacons. Users normally start off at about 12 words per minute and reach 40 to 60 words per minute after using the device for a while. Some users have attained speeds of 100 words per minute, Berg says.

TSI also sells a talking calculator that announces each step of a mathematical problem as the user pushes buttons. The calculator, which can be programmed to operate in any language, performs six different functions.

DON OAKLEY Distorted Rights A Wrong

One of the most important decisions the U.S. Supreme Court will hand down in its 1977 session involves a challenge to its controversial 1966 Miranda ruling concerning the admissibility of evidence against criminal suspects.

A better case for overturning or severely curtailing Miranda could not have been presented to the high court than an appeal by the state of Iowa of a lower court's reversal of a conviction of the 1968 sex murder of a 16-year-old girl.

It seems that the suspect, one Robert A. Williams, had turned himself into Daventryport police and was advised by two lawyers not to make any statements until he was returned to Des Moines. Police agreed not to question him. On the way to Des Moines, however, an officer persuaded Williams to lead him to the girl's body before it was hidden by snow. Her parents, he said, "should be entitled to a Christian burial for the little girl who was snatched away from them on Christmas Eve and murdered."

This, the Eighth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals found, constituted "trickery" and the violation of the suspect's right to remain silent. It reversed his subsequent conviction.

In opening-day arguments before the Supreme Court, Williams' attorney, University of Iowa law professor Robert Bartles, charged that the officer's remark "was designed to play on the defendant's known religious background" to obtain information police were forbidden to seek, either by their agreement with Williams' lawyers or under the Miranda rule.

He did not pretend to claim that his client did not kill a little girl, but rather that to uphold the police action "would make it impossible for counsel to represent their clients in a sensible and effective manner in criminal cases."

What a distortion of the concept of a defendant's rights under the law. What an insult to the police and their left hand. The scanner converts letters into electrical impulses which then vibrates tiny pins set inside the console.

The user feels each letter as it is reproduced on the array of pins and is thus able to "read" the words.

"You can't imagine the difference having an Optacon makes to a blind person," says TSI calculator products manager Chris Berg, whose wife is blind.

"Before this, they were limited to materials translated into Braille. Now they can read newspapers, cookbooks—whatever they want. They can read their personal mail, instead of having to get someone to read it to them."

TSI also offers a nine-day training course for buyers of its Optacons. Users normally start off at about 12 words per minute and reach 40 to 60 words per minute after using the device for a while. Some users have attained speeds of 100 words per minute, Berg says.

TSI also sells a talking calculator that announces each step of a mathematical problem as the user pushes buttons. The calculator, which can be programmed to operate in any language, performs six different functions.

It may be true that Miranda came about because of past abuses by the police. Now we return to third-degree methods of interrogation.

But Miranda has gone too far. Or more accurately, judges and lawyers have permitted it to go too far.

What Are They Really Like? THE RACE

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Months ago when it was announced that the North Orlando Water and Sewer Co. was seeking approval from the Florida Public Service Commission (PSC) for a rate hike—over 100 per cent for residents and much more than that for commercial enterprises—Margaret McKibbin took the fight against the increase.

The battle appeared an impossible one to win, but she and a few friends began circulating petitions. With more than 700 signatures on a petition she and her group protested the rate increase, but managed only to get a short delay.

Mrs. McKibbin and her friends hit the streets a second time collecting more than 700 signatures protesting further and then the people of Winter Springs demonstrated to send her to Tallahassee to the PSC as their advocate.

Although the PSC approved the 100 per cent increase, it was made known that another hefty increase is in the offing next year and she hasn't given up yet.

"I had never been involved in politics before and I learned a lot from this fight," Mrs. McKibbin said.

Born and raised in Connecticut, Mrs. McKibbin graduated from private school in Bridgeport, Conn., and attended the University of Bridgeport.

She met her husband, Roger, currently a cost accountant at Scott Electronics division of the National Cash Register Co. in Lake Mary, while working as a PBX operator for a citrus company in Florida.

They have four daughters: Lisa, 14, and Meta, 11, both at South Seminole Middle School; Stephanie, 8, at Winter Springs Elementary; and baby, Kimberley, 2. The family has resided in Winter Springs for 3 1/2 years.

Mrs. McKibbin spends her full time in the home. "We are very busy with the children's lives," she said, "and have an open-door policy with the children and their friends."

"Even though food prices are up and our family has increased by one, my food budget is the same as it was two years ago. Yet, my family is fed good and nutritious meals."

The three older girls enjoy crocheting. Mrs. McKibbin and her husband work in the yard together and he does minor repairs on the family cars.

Mrs. McKibbin does not consider herself a "woman's libber." "I am rather Victorian in attitude," she said. "I am very strong on feelings about the children. I brought them into the world and owe them something," she said.

"Something must be done about continually increasing utility rates—Florida Power and Florida Gas will soon be seeking higher rates—before those services are priced out of the market where people won't be able to pay their bills," Mrs. McKibbin said. "People on fixed incomes are up against the wall," she added.

She believes she can do more in the utility rate fight as an elected official and is thus seeking a seat on the Winter Springs City Council.

Seven candidates are seeking seven city council seats in Winter Springs' Dec. 7 city election and 1,753 residents of the community are eligible to cast ballots in the election.

The candidates are: John W. Daniels (Incumbent), 52, 1027 Antelope Trail, Tusculuma, being challenged by Mrs. Margaret McKibbin, 23, 212 Buttonwood Ave., the Terrace, and Irene E. Van Eepoel, 40, 231 Trade Winds Road for the seat five.

Running for Seat one on the council are Rev. Robert E. Clark, Stephen S. Lind and Donald W. Sines (Incumbent). (Profiles on these candidates were published last week).

Daniels was appointed originally to the city council, filled that unexpired term and was elected to see full term. Mrs. Van Eepoel served two terms on the city council previously and was elected mayor in the 1960's by her colleagues for one term.

Neither Mrs. McKibbin nor Sabatini has run for public office before.

The city will have two polling places for the election, at the fire station on Moss Road for those 12 and 21 and at the fire house in Tusculuma for those residing in precinct 50.

Full workers will be Helen Green, clerk, Norma Lang, Ruth Layo and Louise Owens at the Moss Road fire station and Mrs. Patricia Lombardy, clerk, Mrs. Marge Williams, Mrs. Mary Williams and Mrs. Reti Elliott at the Tusculuma fire house.

"Winter Springs" city election next year will be held on the first Tuesday following the third Monday in November, in accordance with a charter amendment approved by the people at the recent general election.

Van Eepoel: Tennis And A Doll House

When Irene Van Eepoel's children began "passing me by" educationally, she decided it was time to pursue her own higher education as well. She enrolled in Seminole Community College part-time nearly a year ago. At the end of the semester last month, she expects to have 28 or 28 credits and be on her way toward the sociology degree she wants to be able to counsel young people.

Born in Orlando, she graduated from Edgewater High School and took courses in commercial art before her marriage.

Her husband, John, is Central Florida representative for a pharmaceutical house, an official with the Florida Tennis Association, on the board of directors of the Central Florida Tennis Conference and founder and executive director of the Central Florida Junior Tennis League.

Their oldest daughter, Debra, 20, is a junior at Florida Atlantic University on a tennis scholarship and hopes to obtain a masters degree in sociology while Linda Ka, 18, is attending Shorter College in Rome, Ga., on a tennis scholarship and plans to be a physician.

John Jr., 16, is a senior at Oviedo High School and number one on the tennis team.

Mrs. Van Eepoel's hobbies include sewing — she makes nearly all her own clothes and those of her children — and reupholstering furniture. She has been known "to handle a wrench in an emergency" and she likes hiking (she travels as much as 26 miles a day by bicycle).

Some years ago when her daughters were small, Mrs. Van Eepoel built a doll house and all the furnishings by hand. "The girls now argue which one will get the doll house when they marry," she said.

The Van Eepoels have lived on a two-acre tract in the Ranchlands for the past 15 years. During her prior years on the city council, she created the city's first zoning board, pioneered the city's first zoning ordinance, and obtained a deed by donation for the property now known as Sunshine Park.

Mrs. Van Eepoel said many residents in the city cannot afford the recently increased water and sewer rates.

"I don't see the City of Winter Springs as a cold, hard business, rather I see it as a non-profit corporation that is to provide services to the people and to insure a good environment to bring up families," she says.

Daniels: A Matter Of Degree(s)

John Daniels went into the U.S. Army as an enlisted man in 1943 — "It was the patriotic thing to do during World War II" — and retired 28 years later as a colonel in the U.S. Air Force.

During those 28 years with service not only in the second World War, but also in the Korean War and the Vietnam Conflict, he picked up his education — including two masters degrees.

His military career began with the Army Infantry unit he transferred to a transportation unit of the Air Corps, later a separate military branch, the Air Force.

Currently Daniels is teaching government and economics to ninth graders at Union Park Junior High School. "At that age they are young adults, eager to learn and the most impressionable age of youngsters."

Born in Covington, Tenn., Daniels, when ready for high school, moved to Transville, Ala., and lived with an older sister when his parents died. He and his wife, the former Mary Thornton, met in 1942. Both were working for a furniture dealer and both were just out of high school. Five months after they met they were married.

The Daniels have two children, Steven 25, Orlando, and Suzanne, 22, both are married. Suzanne has a son, Michael, a year old, and lives in Tallahassee.

Daniels received his bachelor's degree in business administration at the University of Nebraska at Omaha, a masters degree in government at George Washington University, Washington, D.C., concurrent with graduation from the Air War College, a masters degree at Troy State University, Troy, Ala., in education and a special in education degree at Auburn University, Auburn, Ala., in education administration.

"I knew I needed the education degree if I were going to get into the school business after retirement from the military," he said.

The Daniels selected Florida as the place they wanted to live after retirement, particularly the Greater Orlando area, choosing Winter Springs out of the busy tourist area.

Daniels considers golf — "I'm just a duffer" — and the city government as his hobbies.

Daniels, who has served as finance commissioner and assistant finance commissioner during his time in office, said, "We have established a very good financial system in our government. Our government operates responsibly and very austere from a financial standpoint. The city owes no money except for long term purchases and always meets its bills," he said.

Pay Raise Tops Topics

Candidates for Winter Springs council Tuesday night focused on the recent pay raise granted Public Works Director Ray Bradshaw.

The forum: candidates' night at the Hacienda Village recreation center.

Councilman John Daniels and Rev. Robert Clark defended the raise, from $11,500 to $12,425. Daniels said Bradshaw deserves the raise, because he heads two departments—public works and recreation. He also noted that all department heads deserve the same rate of pay.

Councilman Donald Sines called Bradshaw unqualified, suggesting a separation of the two departments.

Speakers also decried the recent utility hike that more than doubled rates for residents. Mayor Troy Flاند reported another scheduled PSC hearing on the matter in Tallahassee on Dec. 13. Flاند is not running for reelection.

Area Cities Plan Parades To Herald Holiday Season

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Four area Christmas parades, the first one in Sanford Saturday will herald the approach of the holiday season. The Altamonte-Casselberry parade is scheduled Sunday followed by the Winter Springs parade on Dec. 12 and DeBarry's on Dec. 19.

"Christmas Enchantment" will be the theme for the Sanford parade, stepping off at 9 a.m. The parade will form at the former Sanford Naval Academy building and proceed west on First Street to Laurel Avenue, south to Second Street, East on Second to Park Avenue, and south to the city park at Fourth Street to disband.

Last-minute entries are still being accepted, and anyone interested may contact the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce. Trophies will be awarded to winning entries in each of six categories. More than 60 entries include floats, bands, marching units, cars and horses.

Grand marshal for the parade will be Miss Florida, Nancy Stafford of Ft. Lauderdale.

The Greater Sanford Parade Committee will hold a fund-raising drawing for an Amara microwave oven in conjunction with the parade. Tickets will be available for a $1 donation at the Chamber of Commerce, Sanford Specialty, Flamingo Bank of Sanford, and Celery City Printing.

The Altamonte-Casselberry Chamber of Commerce parade will begin at 2 p.m. Sunday at Altamonte Mall and will proceed east on the westbound lane of SR 438 to the Seminole Plaza in Casselberry where it will disband behind Leeds Store. Parade marshal will be Charles Glascock. Ken Brown, WESH-TV's news director, will be grand marshal.

Miss Florida, Kirby (Sky King) Grant, and Santa also will be featured celebrities in the event. Co-chairmen of the parade are Sal Orlando and Bob Stines.

Participating will be bands from Orlando Naval Training Center, Lyman, Lake Brantley, Lake Howell, Jones and Bishop

Moore high schools; Milwee and South Seminole Middle Schools, St. Mary Magdalen and St. Andrew's Schools, Longwood Elementary Five and Drum Corps, Orlando Five and Drum Corps, and the Shriners Bahia Temple band.

According to Glascock, there will be 80-100 units in the parade, divided into 13 sections so that 17-22 traffic can be moved between sections. Two-way traffic will be moving on the eastbound lane of 438 during the parade. The Casselberry and Altamonte parade in DeBarry, sponsored by the DeBarry Volunteer Fire Department will be Sunday, Dec. 19, at 1 p.m. Ellie Ogden and Maurice Eve are co-chairmen. Assembly point will be at the DeBarry park with the route moving on Shell Road to DeBarry Manor, then south on 17-92 to the fire station.

St. Joseph's Fire Department will be handing traffic. Floats, Shriners and Elks motorcycle drill teams, marching units, vehicles from area fire departments, youth groups, and clowns will be also included.

Winter Springs Fire Chief Charles Holzman will be marshal for the Winter Springs Christmas parade to begin at 2 p.m., Dec. 12, on SR 434 at Hayes Road ending on Edgemoor Road. With 33 units participating, it is expected to be the largest parade in the city's history. Santa will ride atop an antique firetruck and the Seminole Youth Ranch clowns will serve as Santa's helpers handing out goodies along the route. There will be six marching bands, the Longwood Junior Police, Orlando Naval Training Center's 50-flag unit, Winter Springs Elementary marching band, and a drum corps. ### Haskell: Rigs To Relaxing

Gerald Haskell was born and raised in Solway, N.Y., a suburb of Syracuse. He spent much of his adult life in the north, where he made a career of driving an "eighteen-wheeler," a huge semi-tractor-trailer rig.

"But by the time I came to Florida, the money just didn't seem as good to me down here," he says.

Haskell retired from the big rigs — and went to work again. He is a warehouse salesman in Orlando now. Much of his non-circle originally came from New York State.

Laughing, he recalls, "We bought this house immediately when we saw it. I walked in, sat down, looked around, then said, 'This is it!'"

Haskell's father was a constable back home in Solway, but other than that this is his first venture into politics.

"However, he says, "I've been concerned for a long time. 'I'm concerned with the economic squeeze which is causing suffering for many of the elderly. I'm not happy with some of the people presently serving on the Casselberry City Council, and frankly this tax they keep talking about also worries me.'"

Working time is spent in conversation and relaxation with his wife, Ida.

He also devotes a significant amount of time and effort to area civic activities.

"I'm a member of Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW), and I'm also a member of St. Augustine's church," Haskell says. "I like the water and sewer bill cut. But they're talking about raising it again. I'd like to quit a few people and they all have the same idea — that the utilities costs simply must be cut."

He and Ida are members of St. Augustine's church, Haskell says. "Our side streets are all sand. I'm told they don't have the money to do anything about it, but they'll have to convince me."

And with regard to the proposed Casselberry charter, Haskell says succinctly, "This city management form of government? I don't believe we need it. It costs too much money anyway."

Susie Norton—water color paintings express her feelings

Happy Children Frolic In Susie Norton's Paintings WOMEN

By ELDA NICHOLS
Herald Correspondent

Susie Norton, Altamonte, is a budding artist. "I'm working in water colors right now," she said. "It expresses my feelings better than any medium I've tried. It seems I can blend the colors with better results. I haven't reached out to oils as yet, because I really like water colors."

Susie is a young, attractive woman who displays her charming paintings in the First Federal of Seminole, Jacksonville, where she works. Happy young children are featured in many of Susie's works. "I got my ideas from greeting cards originally. After studying some of the cards, I decided they were something I'd like to paint," she said.

After finishing a painting, Susie studies it intently. "I learn from each painting and I believe it helps me for the next one. Right now I'm working with acrylics, for the first time. It's pretty difficult, but I feel I should experiment."

So far, Susie hasn't sold any pictures. She smiled and said, "I'd like to start selling, though. But you see, whenever I paint, it hurts me to think of selling it."

If someone really ordered one for me to paint, then it would be easier to part with it, and not such a heartless struggle."

Susie keeps a strict schedule for herself by trying to work every night on her paintings. She also enjoys macramé.

"I've been trying some portraits for my friends. There's so many different areas in which to work. You can just keep on learning all the time," she said.

Abortion Clinic Charges Dismissed

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A federal judge has dismissed a suit which had charged five doctors with conspiring to close a feminist abortion clinic.

U.S. District Judge William Stafford granted summary judgment for the five physicians late Tuesday. That means he ruled in their favor without allowing the case to go to trial.

Women associated with the Feminist Women's Health Center, which sued the doctors two years ago, called a protest rally in front of the federal courthouse in response to Stafford's ruling.

"All we can say about this is we're outraged," said Stacie Phillips. "We did not expect this to happen. We had no idea."

Stafford previously denied defense motions to dismiss the charges against the five physicians.

But attorneys for the doctors argued at a lengthy hearing Tuesday that health center directors failed to substantiate their charges of a conspiracy to close the abortion clinic.

The attorneys said the center failed to meet the exacting standards of a federal antitrust suit.

The case was regarded as a landmark legal battle involving the rights of the medical profession to regulate itself.

The defendants are Drs. Mahmood Mohammed, C.H. Curry, Edwin Crane, J. Howard Griner and H. Hutson Messer, all obstetricians or gynecologists associated with Tallahassee Memorial Hospital.

Operators of the nonprofit health center have charged that the doctors conspired in the summer of 1974 to close the abortion clinic because it was offering abortions for $150 while the physicians charged $400.

They have accused the physicians of pressuring other doctors not to work at the abortion clinic.

The medical community, which had rallied to the aid of the five defendants, contended that the rights of doctors to regulate their profession would be jeopardized if the physicians lost the civil suit.

Cook Of The Week

Fresh Is Best On Zacco Table

By ELDA NICHOLS
Herald Correspondent

Bobby Zacco, Casselberry, loves fresh vegetables. "They taste so much better," she said. But Bobby can afford to be choosy with her vegetables, when all she has to do is walk out her back door and pick just about any kind she wants.

"My husband and son do all the planting and caring for the garden," she said. "I cook it, and it does a lot of freezing."

Vegetables available at the moment include cabbage, collard greens, zucchini, radishes, eggplant, carrots and cucumbers. Berry bushes also flourish in the back yard. "I understand now why berries are so expensive," laughed Bobby. "Just try picking the berries once in those sticky bushes! I make jam out of ours, when they are ripe."

The Zaccos even have Jimmy Carter peanuts growing in the garden. "We stopped in Plains, Ga., and bought some peanuts from a Carter warehouse last summer. The peanut recipe included here was made from some of the peanuts," she said.

Bobby is a court reporter and with her busy schedule, doesn't have too much time for cooking. "I do most of my cooking on weekends and holidays," she said. "My microwave oven has really been a great help to me. Whoever invented it, really did something for working people."

Continuing, she said, "Don't be afraid to change a recipe. It's fun, and you can get a different taste." She admits breakfast is the most difficult meal to prepare, because of having to get everything ready at the same time. Bobby had 17 people for Thanksgiving dinner, but she enjoys cooking for people who enjoy eating.

Bobby likes to read and play the organ. She loves sports and was a former Florida State Woman's table tennis champion. Sewing is another of her hobbies, and she has even made a suit for her husband.

FAMILY CHICKEN RECIPE
Two cut up frying chickens
1 bottle ketchup (ketchup lovers size)
1 large onion-sliced
5 large carrots-cut in pieces
6 stalks celery, cut on bias
salt, pepper, garlic, oil
Add meat just to heat. Add salt, pepper and garlic to taste. Brown in oil, remove from pan.

In same pan, brown vegetables after salting. Add chicken to vegetables in pan and brown a little more together, about 5 minutes. Add ketchup and 1/2 bottle water. Simmer uncovered about 1 hour until gravy is thick. If needed, add more water as it is cooking. When chicken is done and vegetables tender, serve over rice. Serves 4-6.

FRIED RICE
If possible, make rice a day before so that it will be dry. In pressure cooker, put 3 cups of raw rice which has been washed 4 times. In a separate pot, boil six cups of water, unsalted. When water has boiled, pour it into pressure cooker over rice. Cover pressure cooker and place pressure nozzle on top. Bring back to boiling and allow nozzle to rock for 20 seconds. Remove from range and let stand for one minute. Bring pressure down quickly with cold tap water, pour in collander and rinse.

Cooked rice
6 or 7 stalks celery, cut on bias
8-10 mushrooms, fresh, if possible
one large onion, sliced
any left-over meat
2 scrambled eggs
one jar pimento
Soy sauce to taste
Salt, pepper, garlic oil

Stir-fry onion, mushrooms and celery in oil (vegetables must be crunchy). Add meat just to heat. Add salt, pepper and garlic to taste. Add approx. 3-4 tablespoons soy sauce. Add pimento and scrambled egg. When all above is heated through, add rice, a little at a time, and soy sauce to taste, being careful as soy sauce is salty. When warm, serve with salad. The meat may be eliminated, and can be used as a side dish.

Friend In Love With Closet Queen

DEAR ABBY: One of the girls I work with has fallen head over heels for a guy she couldn't know very well. Either that, or she's led a very sheltered life. "I've known this guy for years. He's a closet queen who uses girls as a cover-up."

I hate to see this girl get hurt because she is really crazy about him. If he should go so far as to marry her, it can't last very long because he's the type who never stays with one lover very long, but needs a nice straight woman to be seen in public with.

Should I tell her what she's doing herself mixed up with? Or let her keep going with him until he breaks her heart?

NAMELESS, PLEASE
DEAR NAMELESS: The guy could be bisexual, and it's also possible that he has decided to go the straight route. Since it's not possible for you to know what's in his head, I suggest you mind your own business. P.S. Maybe she knows all about him, but loves him anyway.

DEAR ABBY: We are a group of professional mid-level class couples who often get together in each other's homes

Help Zoo: Take An Animal To Lunch

A Zoo-lose-a-thon is being sponsored during December by the Diet Workshop and its members to help raise money for the Central Florida Zoo.

The Diet Workshop, which has centers in Seminole and Orange Counties, will contribute five cents for every pound lost by its members during this month. "We will encourage our members to get their friends and families to sponsor their weight losses. The more they lose, the more money we'll make to feed the zoo animals," said Harvey Korfin, Diet Workshop director in Altamonte Springs.

"For the month of December," Korfin recommends, "take an animal to lunch!"

The Greater Seminole Toastmistress Club will install its charter members Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Imperial House, Winter Park. Officers are: Helen Keyser, president; Doris Sall, vice president; Betty French, secretary and Gretchen Reese, treasurer.

Anyone interested is invited to join the club which meets at the Altamonte Springs Civic Center at 7:30 p.m. on the second and fourth Thursday of each month. The next meeting will be Dec. 9.

Chicken Cooking Contest Slated

The entry period has opened for the 1977 National Chicken Cooking Contest with more than $25,000 in prizes awaiting winners in state and national cookoffs.

Judging at all levels will be based on four equally-valued points: simplicity; interest; appearance and flavor.

To enter, send recipes to: Chicken Contest, Box 2528, Central Station, Washington, DC 20008. Write name, address and telephone number on each recipe. March 1 is the deadline for entries.

Recipes must use a broiler fryer chicken whole or any part or parts. They must contain at least one teaspoon Ac'cent flavor enhancer and at least 4 cup Mazola corn oil and should be written for approximately four servings.

Dear Abby

We have hinted that as long as she washes the plastic tableware for her next party she might as well use silverware, but she doesn't seem to understand.

Abby, if you've ever tried to eat borscht with a plastic spoon, or macaroni salad with a plastic fork, you'll know what we mean.

After the last party, our husbands told us not to accept another invitation to this couple's home. Our hints have done no good, and we like her too much to drop her. Any suggestions?

PLEASE, NO PLASTIC
DEAR PLEASE: quit borscht. Come right out and ask her to please save the plastic for parties and to use silverware. And if that doesn't help, but you like her too much to drop her, bring your own silverware.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and unmarried. Just recently I gave my baby up for adoption. I loved that baby more than anything in the world, and that is why I didn't keep him.

I loved him enough to know that he would have a better home and a better father, someone who is older and better able to care for him than I am. So when people ask, "How could you give your baby away?" my answer is, "Because I loved him."

Veto By Layer Could Imperil Salary Raises

By KRIS NASH
Herald Staff Writer

Following the line established at last month's contract discussions, Seminole County School Supt. William P. (Bud) Layer Wednesday rejected all but one of the recommendations submitted by a state mediator assigned to settle the impasse between the school board and Seminole's 1,500 teachers.

If upheld by the board, the move would cancel $773,000 in increased salaries, wage supplements and insurance benefits recommended by Special Master Douglas Stowell of Tallahassee.

Layer's action came two weeks after the school board bargaining team turned down five of six items in the special master's report during a final negotiating discussion session. Prior to that, members of the Seminole Education Association (SEA) had voted overwhelmingly to accept Stowell's findings in their entirety. The special master was brought to Sanford in October to help resolve disputes which have kept Seminole teachers working without a contract since Aug. 20.

In his recommendations Wednesday, Layer called for a $200 raise in the teachers' annual base pay, $100 less than the $8,400 starting figure recommended by Stowell. And the superintendent suggested that last year's index of salary supplements—for instructors who supervise extracurricular student activities, including athletics—remain unchanged.

"The superintendent recommends," Layer wrote, "that an ad-hoc committee be established to propose any changes in index values and any additional supplemental positions. It is recommended that these proposals be submitted to the negotiating teams of both the employer and the employees."

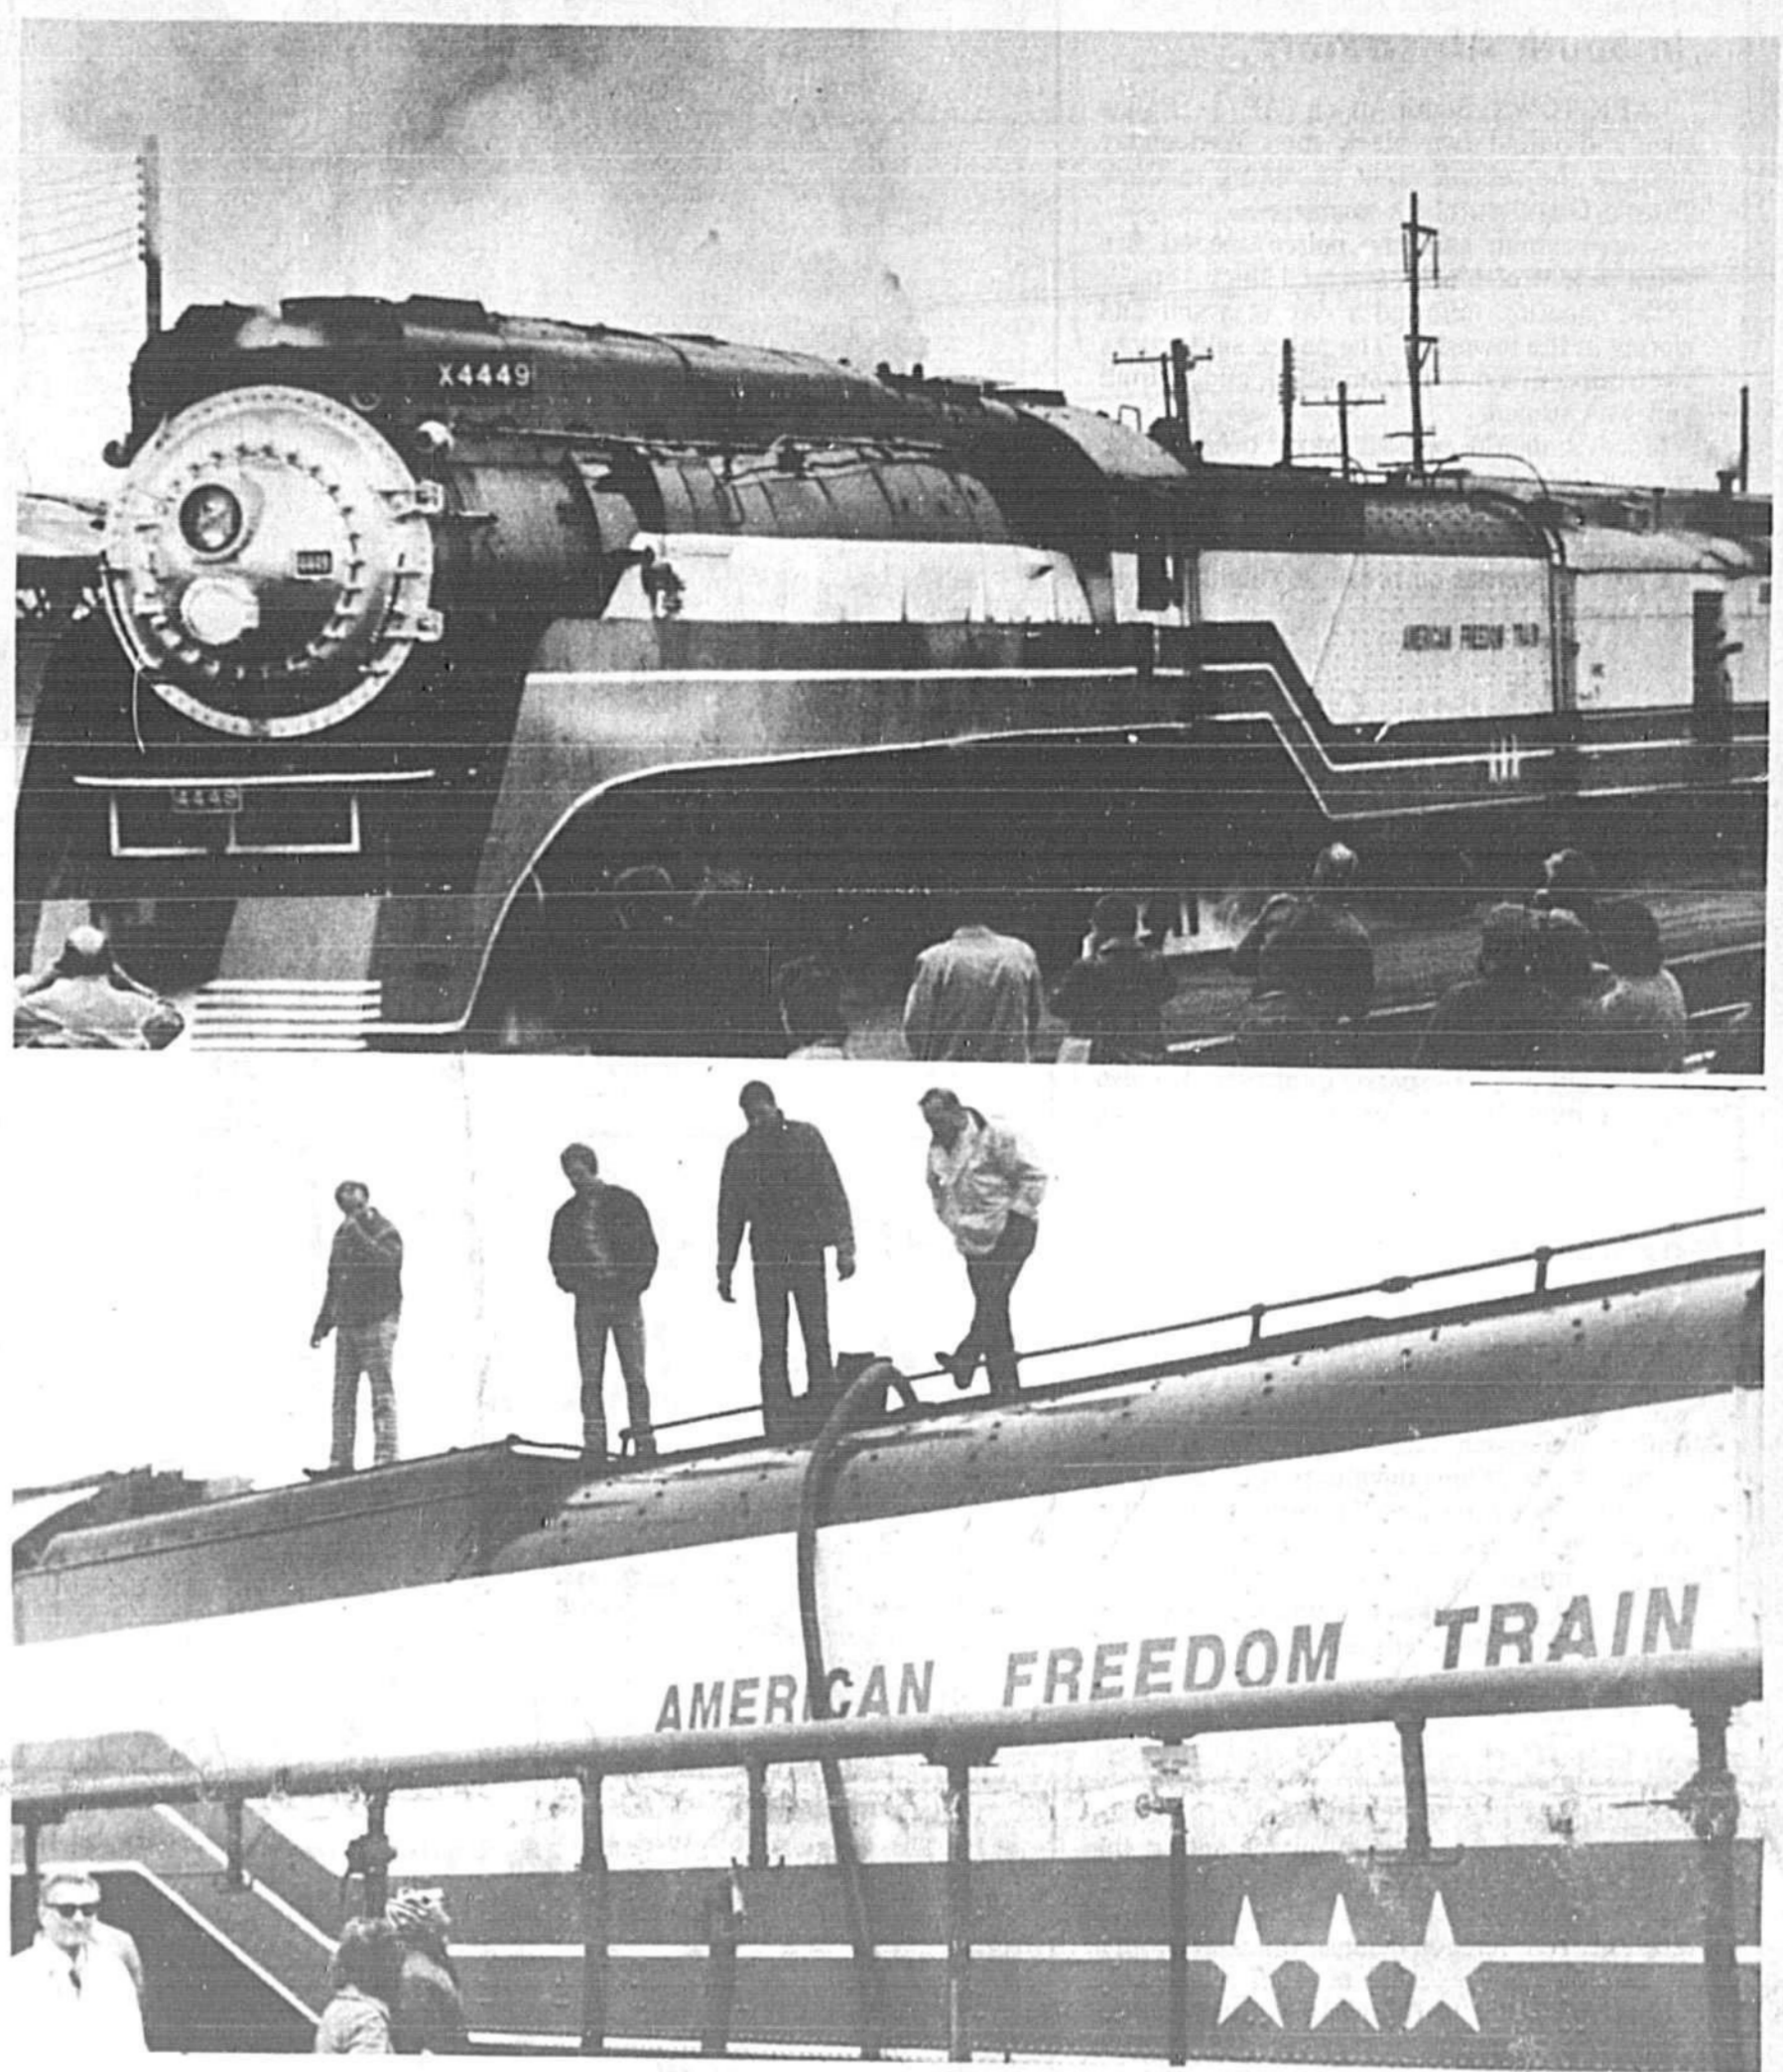

On the subject of medical and health insurance contributions paid by the school board, Layer recommended an increase from $150 to $160 toward the $220 annual premium. The state mediator had called for an increase to $200, and SEA leaders said they were hoping the school board eventually would assume the entire payment, as done in Orange County.

Layer matched the special master's suggestion for a two-year term of agreement, but totally ignored Stowell's recommendation that the contract include a provision to keep prior pacts in effect "so long as good faith negotiations are in progress, or—in an impasse has been reached—until 15 days after" the special master's report is received, or he added, until the mediator's findings are accepted or rejected, whichever comes first.

The superintendent recommended that the new agreement run from July 1, 1976-July 31, 1978.

The lone item on which Layer's recommendation coincided with that of the state mediator was the one dealing with class size. Stowell's report on that section called for acceptance of "the class sizes outlined in the school board's proposal and in the contract in effect for fiscal year 1975-76."

SEA President William Moore presented the board with his recommendations, which conform to the special master's report. Moore repeated that the teacher's association was not satisfied with all of Stowell's findings but has chosen to accept the proposed package as Enroute to Orlando for public display 8 a.m. Friday through 10 p.m. Monday, the 26-car red-white-and-blue steam-engine-led thirty Freedom Train stopped in Sanford this morning for a cooling refill.

'I Like Moving Around...'

Tiny Tim Tiptoes Into Sanford

By AUDIE MURPHY
Herald Staff Writer

When Herbert Bushingham Khaury walked onto the stage at Sanford Plaza's Rocking Chair theater Wednesday night you could tell right away that it wasn't just another pretty face trying to make it in show biz.

Tiny Tim—in person!

That tangled mat of black hair which resembles one of Howard Cosell's toupees after a megadose of Gamma Rays; that massive nose jutting like a rock formation from between those beetling eyebrows; that waveling falsetto voice which can crack the enamel in your teeth and make you giggle at the same time—it was Tiny Tim, all right.

He launched into a medley of silly tunes (Animal Crackers In My Soup, etc.) and the audience roared.

After the silly interlude, however, he put aside the toy-like instrument and launched into the main part of his show, a marathon medley of old favorites which he delivers in a booming, baritone voice while gesturing like a male Ethel Merman gone berserk.

The roof-shaking renditions of "It's A Lonu Way To Tipperary," "Won't You Come Home, Bill Bailey," and literally dozens of others went over well with the audience. But it seemed impossible that all that sound could be coming from the soft-spoken man who had been chatting quietly in the theater manager's office just a few moments before.

With the dialog of the theater's feature movie "Running Wild," starring Lloyd Bridges in the background, Tiny Tim had paused to reflect on his colorful career, which culminated with his meteoric rise to fame after the release of "Tiptoe Through The Tulips."

Millions of Americans subsequently watched Tiny Tim marry his beloved Miss Vicki on Johnny Carson's Tonight Show.

They were separated in 1974, but Tiny Tim still wears a wedding band.

"I won't give her a divorce," he says adamantly. "As far as I'm concerned, we're married until death do us part."

During the conversation, his ukelele, wrapped in a plastic bag to protect it from the rain, rested beside his chair.

He said he learned to play the ukelele in the early '50s by studying a book written by Arthur Godfrey and Don Ball called "You, Too, Can Learn To Play The Ukelele."

Why hasn't he been on the Carson show lately? "They haven't called," he shrugged. "I don't especially like doing those shows anyway. I like moving around, meeting people."

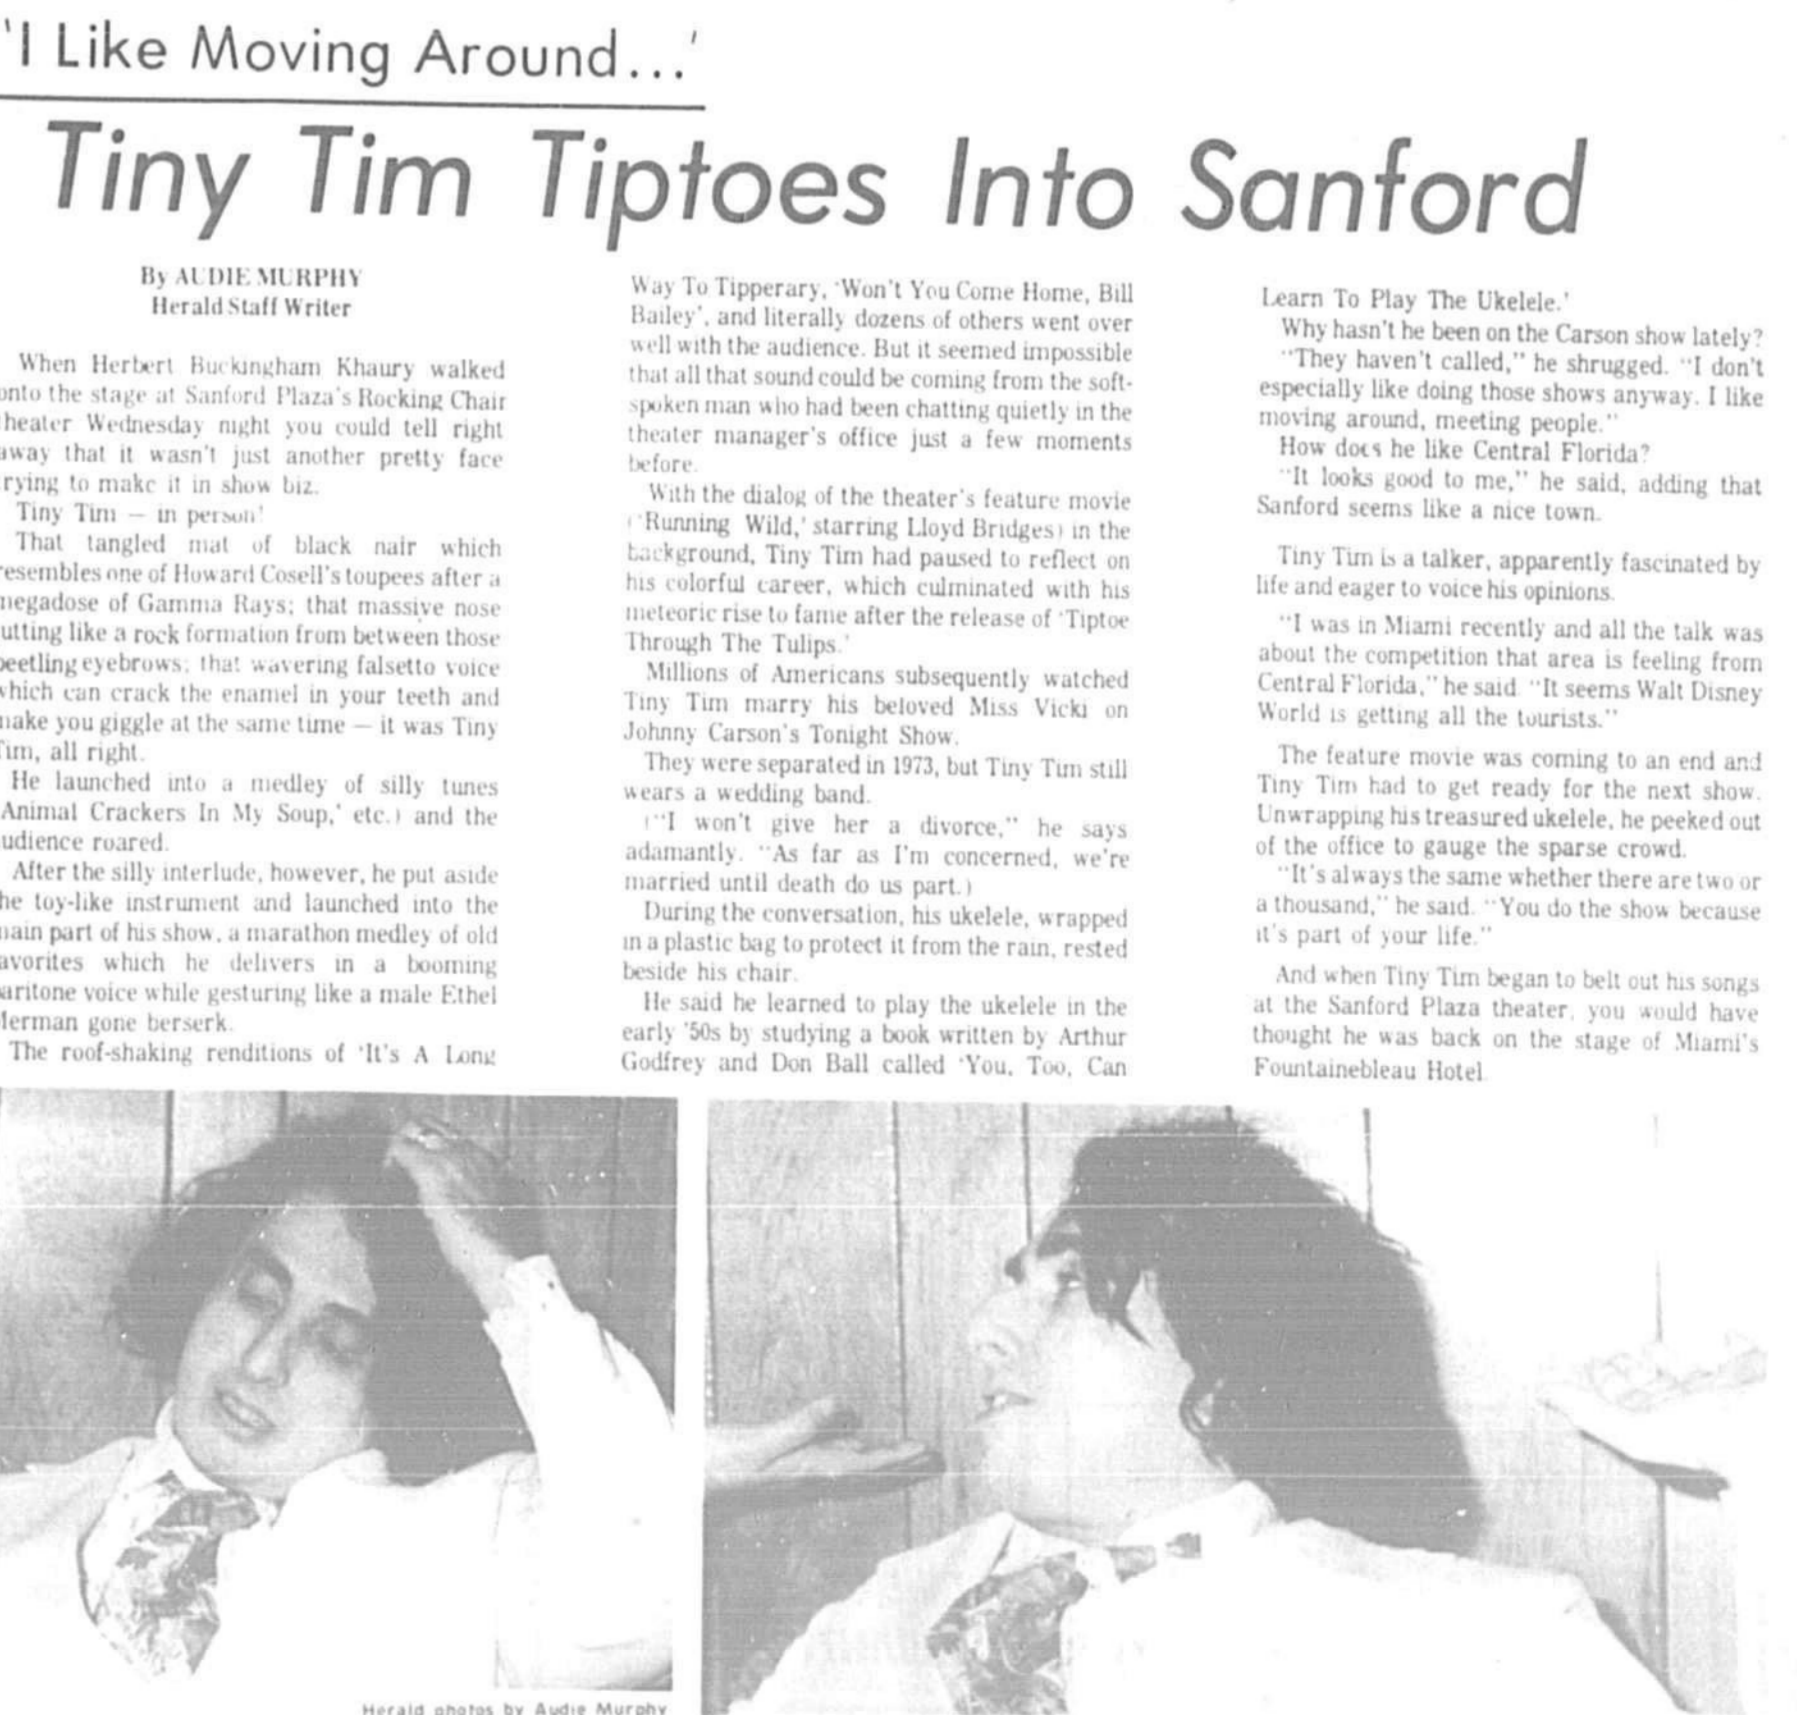

How does he like Central Florida? "It looks good to me," he said, adding that Sanford seems like a nice town.

Tiny Tim is a talker, apparently fascinated by life and eager to voice his opinions.

"I was in Miami recently and all the talk was about the competition that area is feeling from Central Florida," he said. "It seems Walt Disney World is getting all the tourists."

The feature movie was coming to an end and Tiny Tim had to get ready for the next show. Unwrapping his treasured ukelele, he peeked out of the office to gauge the sparse crowd.

And when Tiny Tim began to belt out his songs at the Sanford Plaza theater, you would have thought he was back on the stage of Miami's Fontainebleau Hotel.
