Lake Mary OKs Record Budget; Tax Bills To Be Lower

Lake Mary property owners will find their tax bills a bit lower next year as the result of a tax rate decrease included in a record $1 million-plus budget which has been adopted by the Lake Mary City Commission.

Commissioner Ray Fox Thursday made one last unsuccessful effort to remove the proposed purchase of a $100,000 fire pumper truck from the allocations. Commissioner Kenneth King joined with Fox in trying to delete the first annual payment of about $12,000 from the budget for the 1,250-gallon-per-minute pumper truck.

Voting in favor of the purchase were Commissioners Burt Perinichief, Charles Lytle and Russ Megonegal.

Prior to the 3-2 vote in favor of the budget, King noted that former Fire Chief Ralph Abel, now employed by the fire department at the Kennedy Space Center, opposes the purchase this year on the grounds that buying the equipment later when other fire department trucks are older could result in a reduced rate to city residents for fire insurance.

Fox has contended that the city should wait a year to purchase the truck to hold down the city's indebtedness.

Fox also pointed out that the city over the past eight years has been paying the water department $7,500 annually from city general funds "for fire hydrant rental" when the city's general operating accounts bought the hydrants in the first place.

He said he wasn't asking that the budget be changed to remove that payment from the utility department accounts this year. He said he only wanted the commission to keep the item in mind and to find a way of returning to the general fund the money transferred to the utility department over the years.

He called the item "innovative bookkeeping" which in effect subsidizes the water department from property tax and other tax revenues when the water system doesn't serve the entire city.

"There is no sense in the total populace subsidizing something used by only a portion of the populace," Fox said. Some residents have their own water well.

Mayor Walter Sorenson and City Treasurer Madeline Minns explained that when the city got a loan from the U.S. Farmers Home Administration in 1978 to finance expansion of the water system, franchise fees totaling $7,500 had to be pledged to repay the loan.

The pledge was necessitated by the federal agency's refusal to consider that the water system's potential growth would be sufficient to repay the loan without additional pledges, they said.

Sorenson said the system has actually grown far beyond the 400 customers it had at the time of the loan. The city is currently serving nearly 1,000 homes and has pledged to serve another 500 within the next few months.

Somehow, the $7,500 pledge was translated into hydrant rental over the years and paid to the water department from the general fund.

The $4.10 per $1,000 assessed property valuation tax rate included in the budget is a 5-cent reduction over the current fiscal year. The budget is the largest in the city's 10-year history and the first time an annual budget has topped the $1 million mark.

The budget as adopted totals $1,025,953 with $777,828 for the general operation of the city and $248,115 for the water and sewer utility system.—Donna Estes.

Volunteer Fire Chief Gets His Own Day

Jim Orloles

Monday, Oct. 10 has been officially proclaimed "Jim Orloles Day" in Lake Mary, honoring the city's volunteer fire chief.

The Lake Mary City Commission officially proclaimed the special day to begin fire prevention week in the city.

Firefighter Dennis Smathers recommended the special recognition to the man who has served as a volunteer firefighter for the past nine years, joining the department within months of moving into the city.

'Jim will be completely surprised.'

He worked his way up in the organization to chief, a post to which he was elected by the volunteers in June, 1979, after serving for six months as assistant chief.

Orloles is also the city's public works superintendent. He was first employed by Lake Mary in July, 1980 as a part time grader operator and became a full time employee in October of the same year. He was promoted to superintendent shortly afterwards.

Orloles was not present as he usually is at commission meetings to hear the board vote unanimously to extend the honor.

Smathers said Orloles is out of town visiting an ill parent.

"Jim will be completely surprised," Smathers said.

Orloles, 34, and his wife Sheila are the parents of five children.—Donna Estes

Accused

Lake Mary Mayor Under Fire For 'Breach of Trust'

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Nine-year veteran Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson has been charged with a "breach of the public trust," by lame-duck City Commissioner Ray Fox.

Fox leveled nine charges against the mayor at his last official city commission meeting Thursday night.

Fox didn't run for re-election earlier this month and is officially slated to leave office Monday afternoon.

He charged Sorenson with impropriety in his use of a city vehicle, city hall telephones for long distance calls and city office space for personal business.

A two-member committee was appointed by the city commission to investigate the charges.

Sorenson sat silently as City Attorney Robert Petree, given the list of charges by Fox earlier in the week, gave a lengthy disquisition on actions the commission could take.

After hearing Petree say that Sorenson has the right to answer the charges or not as he sees fit, Sorenson was asked by Commissioner Charles Lytle if he had any comment. Sorenson replied he had nothing to say "at this time." He added that it would not be appropriate to say what he thought should be done with the charges.

Ray Fox ...this 'is tearing my guts out.'

After the meeting, Fox said that he didn't want to hurt Lake Mary, Sorenson or his family and this "is tearing my guts out."

He said he had brought many of the items to the attention of the city commission during past meetings and individually.

"But no one would do anything," he said, Fox said he gave Sorenson a copy of the charges prior to the meeting after hand delivering the document to each of his colleagues. "I gave him one last chance to resign," Fox said.

In his memorandum to the city commission, dated Wednesday, Fox said that over the last year he has passed on various pieces of information to the commission regarding the mayor's acts.

"These actions were taken without the knowledge or consent of the commission. This memorandum will serve to consolidate the information," the memo said.

The charges are: "...use of the city-owned vehicle for personal purposes; purchase of items of furniture, specifically prohibited in the 1982-83 budget; re-finishing of the above-mentioned furniture at city expense; failure to inform past city councils and the present commission about known discrepancies in a city employee's job application; granting of time off and subsequent salary advance of $451.25 to a city employee who had been in this employ less than 90 days; hosting of a breakfast for real estate developers at city expense of $50; use of city phones for personal long-distance calls; use of city office space to conduct personal business; failure to inform the commission when city funded facilities are being used improperly.

"Fox's memo said the acts

Walter Sorenson ...nothing to say 'at this time.'

constitute "a breach of the public trust." In his opinion, should the commission not take appropriate action, it could be construed as sanctioning the mayor's conduct.

Commissioner Kenneth King called on Petree for his advice. Going over the list, Petree dismissed the items concerning the See MAYOR, page 3A

Old County Nursing Home Eyed

Mental Health Center Seeks To Escape Crushing Rent

By Micheal Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Mental Health Center, Inc., officials are interested in acquiring an old nursing home adjacent to the Seminole County Services Building, formerly Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Executive Director Jim Berko said today he has had discussions with Seminole County officials about the availability of the building as headquarters for the agency's operations.

Berko said the private, non-profit agency is in the second year of a three-year lease at its present offices in Crane's Roost, Altamonte Springs. The agency pays $60,000 a year for the space.

"When I found out that we were renting space at Crane's Roost for $60,000 a year I thought we could save money on leases and spend it on programs," said Berko, who took over as head of the mental health center about two months ago.

The old nursing home has about 9,000 square feet of usable space and "would be a nice collection of offices" according to County Administrator T. Duncan Rose.

Berko said he is eager to consolidate the agency's headquarters with one of its other facilities. The mental health center operates the Aegis Workshop on First Street in Sanford for the mentally and emotionally handicapped, a day care and crisis center on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Casselberry, and The Crossroads, a substance abuse center in Lake Mary.

Berko said the agency will not make any quick decisions which could jeopardize its long-term position. "It's all very much in the exploratory stages. We don't have any agreements, we haven't even talked with our landlord about moving out of Crane's Roost," said Berko.

The old nursing home has about 9,000 square feet of usable space and "would be a nice collection of offices" according to County Administrator T. Duncan Rose.

Berko said he is eager to consolidate the agency's headquarters with one of its other facilities. The mental health center operates the Aegis Workshop on First Street in Sanford for the mentally and emotionally handicapped, a day care and crisis center on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Casselberry, and The Crossroads, a substance abuse center in Lake Mary.

"We're looking to see where most of the needs and referrals are from," he said. A large number of the agency's referrals are from Sanford, he said.

Berko said the nursing home could be an ideal location for the agency. It would provide sufficient space for offices, an outpatient clinic and a crisis center. He said the building has room to more than double the size of its six-bed crisis center in Casselberry.

"We'll be talking with the county and private property owners about any other buildings they have that would meet our needs," he said.

The mental health agency is not the only group with an interest in acquiring the nursing home.

Officials of the St. Johns River

Water Management District have also expressed an interest in the building, according to Rose. The group's board of directors has talked in the past few months about relocating its offices from Palatka.

New Tribes Mission had been interested in both the nursing home and the old Seminole Memorial Hospital but has withdrawn its offer for the property, a representative of the mission said today.

County commissioners said earlier this week they're not interested in selling the building, on the west side of the old hospital, until their move into the County Services Building is completed early next year. Rose said the commissioners want to see if they need the space for themselves before putting the property on the market. Rose said the county has other property it may be willing to sell.

Negotiations are underway with Florida Hospital-Altamonte to sell an old mental health clinic adjacent to that hospital.

Rose said a recent appraisal of the facility set its value at $550,000.

The county health department's Sanford clinic at 900 S. French Avenue, will be placed on the market in the next few months, Rose said.

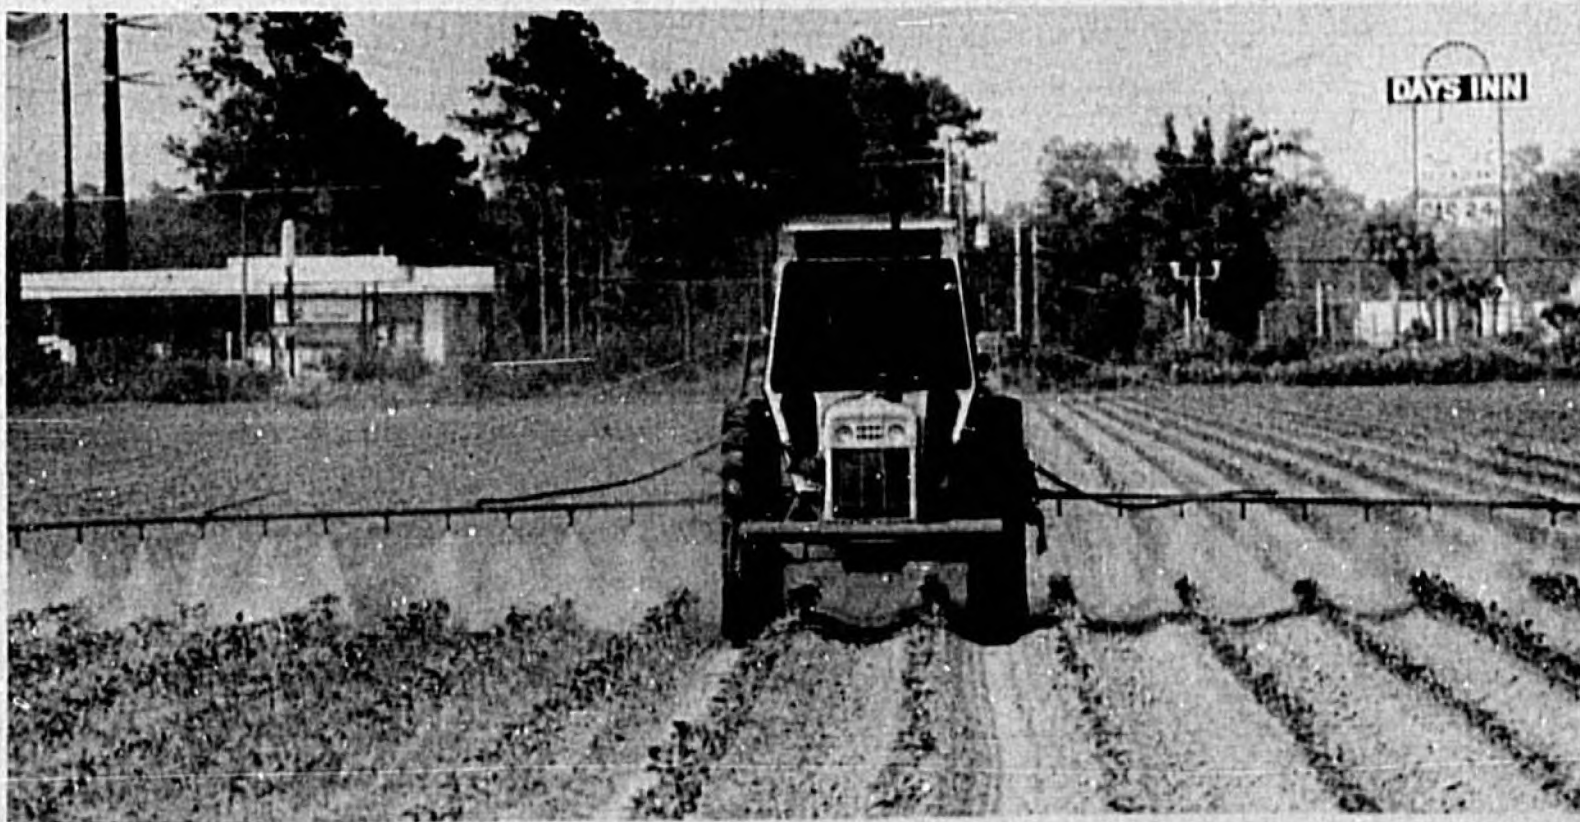

The clinic, which has about 12,000 square feet of space, is being replaced by a new clinic. Construction began this week on the new 30,000-square-foot facility which is expected to open in August, 1984.

•Time is running out in the search for the flight recorder of the Korean jetliner shot down by a Soviet warplane Sept. 1. The batteries in the 'black box', which emits a ping sound to help searchers locate it, generally last for only about 30 days. See story, page 2A.

•You're down on your luck and can't pay the rent. Your unsympathetic landlord is threatening to throw you and everything you own out in the street. It's a frightening prospect not uncommon in Seminole County. What are the procedures for eviction? What is the role of law enforcement? And what rights does a tenant have in fighting eviction? Staff Writer Charles Cobb explores the issue in Sunday's Herald.

Coming At Ya'

A farmer's battle against the many pests which would destroy his crops never ends as Donny Burk, spraying fungicide on his young bell pepper and cabbage plants to protect them against plant disease, can tell you. This part of Don and Ruth Burk Farms, Lake Monroe, is located on West State Road 46 at Interstate 4 near Sanford.

Rabies Found

Rabies has been found by the state health laboratory in a raccoon that attacked a small dog in the Sunland area of Sanford. Seminole County Health and Human Services Director Dr. Jorge Deju said today.

A second raccoon has been captured and sent to the laboratory for testing.

Deju said the residents of Sunland, especially within the neighborhood of Sunland Drive and Flamingo Drive, should be aware that other animals in the area could be infected.

"Area residents should have their animals immunized against rabies and confined to their property," Deju said. Questions or calls for assistance should be directed to the Seminole County Animal Control Division.

The area in question is being closely monitored by both the Seminole County Health Department and the Animal Control Division, Deju said.

IN BRIEF

Mondale Is Overwhelming Choice Of Teachers' Union

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Walter Mondale's presidential bid received a boost today from America's second largest union — the 1.7 million-member National Education Association.

The NEA's board of directors today adopted the recommendation of the union's political action committee that it back the former vice president in state primary elections and caucuses.

Leaders of the AFL-CIO are also expected to overwhelmingly back Mondale when they meet in Florida Saturday. Formal AFL-CIO endorsement is set for Wednesday during the federation's 15th biennial convention at Hollywood.

Mondale, considered a major ally of education, has long been expected to receive the backing of the NEA, which endorsed him and Jimmy Carter in the 1976 and 1980 presidential elections.

The NEA, with just 100,000 members less than the Teamsters, America's largest union, is a potent political force. In 1980 it had the largest block of delegates at the Democratic convention — 311, about 10 percent of the total.

Pilots Call For Strike

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Air Line Pilots Association, upset by Continental's bankruptcy declaration and problems of other airlines, called for a nationwide strike of its 34,000 members to point out the "disastrous times" brought on by deregulation.

No time was set for the work stoppage, which was approved Thursday by the ALPA board, and union President Henry Duffy said he hoped it would not be necessary.

The board's vote authorizes Duffy to set a strike date. Members then would vote on whether they wanted to strike.

The ALPA's 18-member board also called a strike for 3 a.m. Saturday against Continental to protest the pay cuts and longer hours of those working for Continental's scaled-down operation.

Duffy called for restoration of some airline regulation to assure some profitability in the industry, which he said lost $1 billion last year.

Correction

When Allen Nelson of Sanford displayed for a Herald photographer the 6-foot rattle snake he found and killed in his backyard Thursday, his two grandchildren joined in the picture. Nelson said he liked the photo as it appeared in the paper but said his 3-year-old grandson Brent was identified as a granddaughter. The Herald regrets the error.

NATIONAL REPORT: Tropical Storm Dean died down to "strong nor'easter" status in the Atlantic today, but kept the Coast Guard busy rescuing ships endangered by its approach. Nebraska rivers flooded by nearly 7 inches of rain soaked fields and closed roads. Southern California picked up the pieces from hundreds of traffic accidents triggered by unexpected thunderstorms that turned highways to vast oil slicks. Dean roared to near hurricane force Thursday, lashing the North Carolina-Virginia Coast, churning up beaches, and threatening cottages in the barrier island town of Kill Devil Hills, N.C. Coastal residents of the two states jammed supermarkets to stock up on staples. But late Thursday night the erratic storm slowed and weakened abruptly, to become no more dangerous than "a very strong nor'easter. It will gradually weaken as it comes on shore," said forecaster Bob Case of the National Hurricane Center in Miami. Police kept larger vans and trucks off the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel as winds gusted up to 45 mph Thursday night. The Coast Guard had to abandon the sinking tugboat Mars Thursday to race to the rescue of a 103-foot schooner in danger of sinking off Nantucket Island with eight people aboard. The cutter Bibb had to cut loose from the Mars when another Coast Guard cutter, the Tamaroa, began taking on water as it went to the aid of the schooner Fair Sarac.

Compromise

Congress, President Avoid Clash Over War Powers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan says congressional permission to keep U.S. marines in Lebanon for 18 more months makes it clear to the world that the United States will fulfill its "responsibilities as a trustee of freedom."

Congress, reluctantly setting aside concerns that the extended presence of the Marines in Lebanon could lead to a conflict like Vietnam, gave final approval to the compromise resolution Thursday. The action averts a constitutional clash between Congress and the president over war powers.

The Senate passed the resolution 54-46 after defeating Democratic amendments that would have limited deployment of the 1,200 Marines to two or six months. The House, which passed the resolution Wednesday, then agreed to minor Senate changes by a vote of 253-156 and sent it to Reagan, despite a last-ditch effort by some Democrats to scuttle it.

Reagan praised passage of the resolution as evidence that "America stands united" behind the Marines' mission in Beirut, but even supporters of the bill were wary of allowing Reagan to keep the troops there for another 1½ years.

"I still have grave doubts about the wisdom of American troops in the Middle East, but they are there," Senate Republican leader Howard Baker told colleagues just before the final vote. "It would be a mistake of tragic proportions if the Congress were to withdraw them."

"What we're doing, truly, by this resolution is to give the president a blank check," Rep. Ted Weiss, D-N.Y., said just before the House gave final approval to the bill.

But Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said Reagan had agreed to abide by even tighter restrictions than those in the resolution, reporting to congressional leaders every two weeks and to Congress as a whole every 60 days instead of the 90 days required in the bill.

Reagan called the vote "a great victory" for a bipartisan foreign policy.

"Today's vote in the Senate ... sends a strong signal to the world: America stands united; we speak with one voice, and we fulfill our responsibilities as a trustee of freedom, peace and self-determination," the president said in a statement.

Democrats voted solidly against the resolution in the Senate, but Republicans, relying on last-minute lobbying, held their own to pass it.

Republican leaders worked on Sens. Dan Quayle, R-Ind., Robert Packwood, R-Ore., and Mark Andrews, R-N.D., who appeared reluctant to vote with the administration. The leaders feared other "soft" votes might be lost if the three bolted.

Baker and Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, cajoled the reluctant senators even as the roll was called. Vice President George Bush presided during the voting in the event he was needed to break a tie.

The only Democrats to vote with the Republicans were Sens. George Mitchell of Maine and Edward Zorinsky of Nebraska.

Congressional leaders said the War Powers Resolution, enacted in 1973 in response to the Vietnam War, required Reagan to obtain congressional approval to keep troops in Lebanon for more than 60 days.

The administration contends the resolution, passed over Richard Nixon's veto, is an unconstitutional infringement on the president's authority to conduct foreign affairs.

The compromise said "the Congress determines" and "the Congress intends" that the resolution applies, but Reagan is expected to reject that assertion when signing the face-saving measure.

Opponents of the compromise argued the American people want the Marines out of Lebanon, where four have been killed and more than 30 wounded during the last month. A Washington Post-ABC News poll published Thursday found 58 percent of Americans thought the Marines should be brought home in six months or less.

Trade Deficit Hits New High

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's trade deficit in August reached a one-month record of $7.2 billion, on the way to making 1983 the United States' worst year ever in world trade competition, the Commerce Department says.

In a report on imports and exports, the department blamed the renewed demand for oil created by the economic recovery and the disadvantage of a strong dollar, which in August reached its peak of value in relation to other currencies.

Total export sales earned $16.6 billion in August, 0.1 percent more than July, while import purchases cost Americans $23.8 billion, 3.6 percent more than in July.

The trade shortfall was $280.3 million worse than the previous monthly high, $6.9 billion in May, and topped July's $6.4 billion deficit.

Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said he expects the nation's trade performance to get worse before it gets better. "Exports remain depressed, down 14.6 percent from the record 1981 pace," he said. "A rapid near-term recovery is unlikely. Turning the tide of this sea of red ink will require a lower dollar."

The growth in the merchandise trade deficit suggests that by the time September's figures are in, the deficit will have topped last year's 12-month record of $42.9 billion. From January through August, the trade deficit grew to $40.7 billion.

By the end of the year, department analysts expect the deficit to grow to as much as $70 billion.

Trade in factory goods alone produced a deficit of $3.6 billion in August, $338.3 million worse than in July.

The nation's deteriorating trade position spreads beyond merchandise and the stiff competition of Japan and West Germany. Earlier this month, the department reported the nation's traditionally strong surplus in the overseas sale of services, from engineering to insurance, stood still for three consecutive quarters through June.

U.S. imports have been growing because Americans, in the midst of an economic recovery, have more to spend and because strong American dollars can make imports a bargain.

As recovering industries used more energy, August oil

Profits from agricultural exchanges, which go a long way toward covering chronic deficits in the annual foreign trade balance, registered a decline last year. Total export value was down by almost $5 billion. And new figures indicate another decline this year.

Imports grew 10.6 percent in volume, to an average of 6.1 million barrels a day.

The oil, at $29.73 a barrel, cost $5.6 billion, 11.9 percent more than in July.

Non-oil imports were $17.9 billion and have been increasing at a slower rate. They were averaging a $16 billion monthly level in the first quarter and a $17 billion in the second quarter.

Trade with Japan contributed $1.8 billion to the deficit, compared to July's $2 billion.

The nation's traditional surplus from the sale of farm products narrowed by $78.4 million to $1.5 billion.

Trade with Mexico, America's third-largest trading partner, improved again in August with the deficit shrinking to about June's level, $510 million.

In July and August, exports to Mexico grew to 21 percent above the April-June quarterly average, reflecting Mexico's gradual recovery from its severe financial crisis.

Searchers Say Jet's Black Box May Never Be Found

TOKYO (UPI) — American teams searching the Sea of Japan have indicated the flight recorder of the jetliner downed by a Soviet warplane may not be found, Japanese officials said today.

Japanese reports had said the jet's crucial black box had been located in waters near Moneron, a tiny islet west of Soviet-held Sakhalin Island. U.S. officials denied the reports but voiced confidence the devices would be found.

However, two Japanese officials returning from a three-day observation stint aboard one of the U.S. search vessels said the Americans were no longer optimistic they could recover the recorders from Korean Air Lines Flight 007.

"They said the search will continue."

said Japan's Maritime Safety Agency official Kazumi Mino. "When asked about prospects of finding the KAL flight data, an American officer replied, 'We just don't know.'"

The gloomy assessment came as time technically began to run out for the radio "pingers" that emit locator signals from the black boxes. Their batteries generally last 30 days — and the airliner, with 269 people aboard, was shot down Sept. 1.

Ten days ago, one of the U.S. ships detected the pings for about 90 minutes, but lost the signal before searchers could pinpoint their location.

A fleet of six U.S. and 24 Soviet ships sighted in the area are in an intense race to find the flight data and cockpit voice recordings, which could shed light on why the Korean jet strayed into Soviet airspace.

Japan's Defense Agency said Thursday the Soviets have doubled their MIG-23 fighter strength in the area. It said there are now more than 20 MIG-23's on Etorofu Island, only 75 miles from the northern Japanese island of Hokkaido.

Mino, Transport Ministry aircraft inspector Yasuhisa Tani and other members of an international observation team were air-lifted back from the destroyer USS Callaghan to Wakkanaï in northern Hokkaido Thursday.

Quoting a naval officer aboard the destroyer USS Callaghan, Mino said the Americans were searching a 4-mile radius of water about 12 nautical miles northwest of Moneron.

"They use deep-sea sonar to probe a very uneven undersea terrain which runs from 150 meters to 800 meters deep," said Mino.

Tani said he was told the searchers plan to lower one-man, deep-sea submarines equipped with "magic hands" to pick up the black box if its location is pinpointed.

Hiroshi Kijima, an official with the Japanese rescue mission at Wakkanaï's Maritime Safety Agency, said 13 Soviet ships were steaming "at a distance of 2 to 3 miles from the American vessels. They often cross each other's wake."

Eleven other Soviet vessels were seen further north, he said.

Thieves Make Jewelry Haul In S. Seminole Break-In

Thieves looted a south Seminole County apartment of jewelry and cash worth $7,720, including a gold chain with a diamond valued at $4,000, between 9:30 p.m. Thursday and 3:53 a.m. today.

Entry was gained through a kitchen window into the apartment that is shared by Laura L. Segal, 23, and Kimber L. Studley, 23, at 95 Sorrento Apartments near Winter Park.

Miss Segal told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that her loss totaled $6,470, including $630 cash, a $4,000 gold chain with diamond, an $800 diamond bracelet and other pieces of jewelry.

Miss Studley said her loss included $250 in cash and $1,000 worth of assorted jewelry.

Post: CIA Chief Received Carter Briefing Papers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Republican congressional aide has told the FBI that a political consultant claimed he got President Carter's briefing papers for the 1980 presidential debate and gave them to William Casey, Ronald Reagan's campaign manager. It was reported today.

The Washington Post reported that Tim Wyngaard, executive director of the House Republican Policy Committee, has told FBI investigators that Paul Corbin made that claim to him in a telephone conversation last April — about six weeks before the debate papers controversy became public.

The Post said Casey this week emphatically denied he had received any Carter debate briefing material from Corbin or anyone else. "I never knew this material was in the campaign," Casey, who is director of the CIA, told the newspaper. "It's totally false."

Casey said confusion about Corbin may have arisen because Corbin did provide him with a six-page memo from a New York lawyer outlining possible statements Reagan might make in the October 1980 debate with Carter, the newspaper said.

Officials involved in the FBI investigation of how Carter campaign papers made their way into the Reagan campaign view Wyngaard's comments as potentially significant because it is the first evidence that someone talked about the Carter debate papers before the episode was first mentioned in the media, the Post said.

Corbin declined to comment on the report. But associates of his told the newspaper that he denies ever obtaining the Carter briefing papers or making such a claim to Wyngaard.

The Post said Corbin's alleged claim to the congressional aide has been known about in the White House since last June, and has figured in the dispute between Casey and White House chief of staff James Baker over which top Reagan campaign official first received the Carter briefing papers. Baker has said he got the Carter papers from Casey. Casey says he never saw them.

HUNGRY THIEVES

Thieves broke into a Sanford man's home Thursday, took $200 in old coins, ate half a jar of peanut butter and some cereal, drank a quantity of whiskey and wine and took a shower.

Robert E. Young, 35, of 503 Willy Ave., said the burglars also stole four pairs of trousers worth $50, two shirts worth $10, eight packs of cigarettes worth $6.75 and a $4 box of bullets.

Entry was gained by cutting and breaking out a living room window screen between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

MOTOR TAKEN

A 4-hp Briggs and Stratton gasoline motor, valued at $300, was removed from a sweeper at the William Clark Court apartment complex in Sanford between 10 a.m. Sept. 19 and 7:30 a.m. Tuesday.

The sweeper was stored in a maintenance shop and the thief broke open the back door of the shop to gain entry, police said.

Borman Won't Quit, Expects Wage Cut OK

MIAMI (UPI) — Eastern Airlines president Frank Borman has vowed not to resign and says he is confident union members will ignore their leaders and approve his proposed wage cuts.

Angry union officials are urging their rank-and-file to reject the 15 percent cut, which Borman says is the company's only chance of avoiding bankruptcy. Charles Bryan, leader of the machinists' union, has labelled the threat "maniacal" and called for Borman's resignation.

Contract negotiations are still going on at Cocoa, Fla. with the airline's 5,800 flight attendants, who have declared a strike deadline of 12:01 a.m. Oct. 13 unless they reach an agreement by then.

The firm's 15,500 non-union employees began voting on the cuts Thursday.

Former Labor Secretary William J. Usery, hired by Eastern to work out an agreement with Eastern's three unions, said Thursday he would set up an independent audit of the carrier so he can form his own opinion.

School Buses Unsafe

MIAMI (UPI) — Dade County may have as many as 1,300 to 2,000 unsafe school buses, highway officials said after 39 elementary school children and their driver were injured when a bus blew a tire and overturned.

The Florida Highway Patrol said the privately-owned bus had no inspection sticker and four of its six tires were bald. As many as 1,300 to 2,000 buses in Dade County have not received required inspections, and also could be unsafe, the highway patrol reported.

The accident occurred Wednesday as the bus transported students home from the public Flagami Elementary School.

The highway patrol said Sara Taylor, the owner-operator of the bus, lost control of the vehicle when a tire blew out on Miami's southwest 8th street underneath the Palmetto Expressway overpass. Ms. Taylor turned the wheel sharply to avoid a light pole and the bus rolled over on its left side.

Pilot Has Close Shave

ORLANDO (UPI) — A pilot displayed "a great amount of technique" in setting his troubled single-engine airplane down on a fog-covered runway at the Orlando Executive Airport, officials said.

The pilot, Bob Fildes of Orlando, discovered shortly after takeoff Thursday that his plane's landing gear was jammed. He circled the airport for 2½ hours, burning off excess fuel to reduce the chances of a fire on landing and giving emergency crews time to spread foam across the runway.

Fildes made an "excellent" landing, said airport manager Tim Shea.

Fildes escaped injury in the incident.

Soviet Official Given Week To Leave Britain

LONDON (UPI) — A Soviet trade official who became the sixth Russian to be expelled by Britain this year for alleged spying was given only seven days to leave the country, apparently in a new tough line by the government.

The Foreign Office said Thursday that Vasily Ionov, on the staff of the Soviet trade mission at Highbury, north London, had "engaged in activities incompatible with his position" — a diplomatic euphemism for spying.

Ionov was given just a week to depart. Expelled officials are normally given two weeks to leave.

The Times newspaper speculated today that this latest expulsion could be linked to the removal earlier this month of three Russian officials from Ireland. At the time, Dublin was said to be a center for Soviet espionage operations in Western Europe.

Walesa Cheered On 40th

GDANSK, Poland (UPI) — Lech Walesa's cheering supporters mobbed, hugged and kissed the Solidarity founder in their answer to the Communist government's latest attempt to discredit him.

About 6,500 backers and friends from around Poland turned out at Walesa's St. Brigida church in Gdansk Thursday to give him 40th birthday greetings.

They cheered and sang "May He Live 100 Years" before holding a special birthday service in the church, where the altar was festooned with a ribbon wishing Walesa well.

A television broadcast Tuesday alleged that Walesa planned, with Pope John Paul II's help, to stash in the Vatican bank some $1 million given him by Westerners. A tape recording on the program also depicted him as foul-mouthed.

All Souls Students Selling Cheese In Fund-Raising Drive

Students from All Souls School are selling Wisconsin cheese products to raise funds for school equipment.

The fund drive, which began this week, will continue through Tuesday, according to Cathy Evans, drive chairman. Notices have been sent to about 90 companies in the Sanford area asking for support and students will be selling the products to individuals, as well.

Money raised in the project will be used to purchase new school books, sports and science equipment and a computer for the school library, said Mrs. Evans.

Anyone interested in placing an order for cheese may call Mrs. Evans at 323-3067.

SCC Wants Students In Class, Not On The Job

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole Community College officials are instituting new controls to guarantee that students with part-time jobs at the college are not on the job when they are supposed to be in class.

Jim Sawyer, dean of students at SCC, said the college is sending copies of student schedules to their work supervisors to be sure the students are studying when they're supposed to be and not working.

The college was cited in an audit of its books for the 1981-82 fiscal year by state Auditor General Ernest Ellison for not keeping tabs on students in its work-study program.

The audit report said several instances were reported of students working up to 15 minutes of a period that they were scheduled to be in class. The audit report also questioned whether teachers were meeting the state requirement of 15 hours of classroom contact each week.

"If it is found that classes were dismissed prior to their scheduled conclusion, the board of directors should require immediate corrective action by the faculty members involved," the report said. "If the students were absent from class without authorization, the board should take appropriate action against the students and their work supervisors."

Sawyer said an SCC investigation revealed that many of the cases of students reporting to work during regularly scheduled class periods were due to schedule changes. Some of the classes were canceled or rearranged because of field trips, he said.

In the other instances, Sawyer said, "students are students. Some students skip classes. We don't encourage that."

The investigation showed no evidence that teachers weren't meeting the requirement for class contact, he said.

SCC has begun efforts to discourage students from skipping class. Beginning this semester, work-study students must sign a document saying that they understand they will not be paid for work they do during scheduled class time.

Sawyer said the violations cited in the audit were minor and he believes the steps taken will eliminate the problem.

SCC has about 110 students in the work-study program.

Overall, school president Dr. Earl Weidon said he was pleased with the audit, noting that there were no major violations and that the items cited in the report have been corrected.

Hawkins To Appeal Conspiracy, Obstruction Conviction

TAMPA (UPI) — Orlando bank president Charles Hawkins, maintaining his innocence, said he will appeal his conviction on conspiracy and obstruction of justice charges.

A 12-member jury found Hawkins guilty of the charges Thursday after deliberating for 12 hours. The trial was moved to Tampa because of extensive publicity in Orlando.

A third charge — filing false bank statements — was dismissed by U.S. District Judge Elizabeth Kovachevich after jurors said they were deadlocked.

Hawkins, 55, faces 10 years in prison and $15,000 in fines. Sentencing was set for Nov. 4.

Hawkins also is scheduled to stand trial on embezzlement and tax evasion charges later this year.

But he said after Thursday's verdict he had been wrongly accused.

"I am not guilty," said Hawkins. "I have the utmost faith we'll win on appeal."

The suspended president of the Washington Shores Federal Savings and Loan has insisted since he was indicted in April that he was persecuted because he was black.

"I feel I was singled out by the government because of my high public profile," said Hawkins. "If you were black, you would understand."

Hawkins has served on the Orlando Utilities Commission and the Orlando-Orange County Expressway Authority. He also was the treasurer of the defunct Washington Shores Association for Recreation, a non-profit day-care center that closed in 1980.

Hawkins has been indicted on charges of embezzling $200,000 from the center.

The conspiracy and obstruction charges stemmed from a three-year federal investigation of the savings and loan. Prosecutors said Hawkins tried to derail the investigation.

Prosecutors said Hawkins deposited money in fictitious accounts at the savings and loan to hide his theft of $269,000 from another account controlled by his wife's family.

Hawkins' estranged wife, Kaydette, testified during the trial he had taken the money.

Paul Perkins Sr., 64, an Orlando lawyer and business associate of Hawkins, was convicted of similar conspiracy and obstruction of justice charges last month. He received three years probation and a $5,000 fine.

...Mayor Accused Of Impropriety

purchase of used desks for city hall office staff and their refinishing, failure to apprise the commission of discrepancies on a past employee's job application, the granting of time off and salary advance and the hosting of breakfast for real estate developers as matters that had been discussed by the commission previously. He also said some of the matters were judgment calls and not in violation of any law that he knows of.

The other items including use of the city vehicle, city hall telephones and office space for personal business as well as the failure to inform the commission when city funded facilities are being used improperly may be a violation of some ethical standard, he said, citing various state laws.

The attorney listed alternatives to the commission for action ranging from turning over the complaint to the state ethics committee, or the state attorney's office to appointing an outside party or a commission committee as fact-finders.

The commission voted unanimously to appoint King and Commissioner Burt Perinchief as the special committee. The committee is to conclude its work in no less than 30 days.

Petree said depending on the findings of the committee, the city commission could determine there is no basis for the charges, could as a matter of public policy and conscience condemn the mayor, could disassociate itself from the conduct, could censure the mayor or could decide that Sorenson devotes a considerable amount of time to the city far and above what is rewarded and that the charges are of no great consequence.

Petree cautioned the commission that Sorenson is entitled to a presumption of innocence the same as anyone in a courtroom. He said that Sorenson is not obliged to make any statements, that all efforts should be made to offer due process and that ample time should be given to Sorenson to present a defense if he wishes.

He said any investigation or commission action should be done in an "atmosphere of dignity, courtesy and fairness."

Perinchief said the commission had to act expeditiously and not allow anyone to appear guilty by innuendo. Referring to a biblical quotation, Perinchief likened Sorenson's position at this point to sitting in a "seat of scorn." By choosing the alternative of naming a special investigating committee, he said further scrutiny of the charges would be permitted, adding the committee would be the best mechanism to look into the matter.

Commissioner Russ Megonegal asked Petree if he would help the committee to formulate its report and to develop procedures for the investigation.

Petree said it would be wholly inappropriate for him to give an opinion on the truth or falsity of the allegations. "The whole situation is a painful one," he said. The attorney also said it should be kept in mind that he is an appointee of the mayor and serves at his pleasure.

"I have great respect for the mayor's integrity," Petree said, "as I do Mr. Fox's."

Petree said he would solicit the mayor's permission to assist the committee and "if he objects, I would decline."

Sorenson could not be reached for comment today.

The IRS Wants Its Share Of State's Narcotics Trade

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service is cracking down on taxpayers who "launder" cash for illicit drug deals.

The IRS district office for Florida said since 1980 it has assessed more than $350 million in federal taxes on profits of 630 Florida taxpayers involved in the narcotics trade.

"These assessments resulted from our agency's becoming aware of individuals engaged in drug trafficking who accumulated large amounts of cash or other assets without accounting for them on their income tax returns," said Merlin W. Heye, IRS district director.

Besides the assessments, the IRS said more than 100 high-level drug traffickers, financiers and others involved in laundering cash for drug deals were indicted in Florida for tax law violations in 1981 and 1982.

Of those, 54 have been convicted and sentenced to prison terms averaging 6½ years. The fines imposed have averaged nearly $40,000, the IRS said.

One high-level central Florida drug trafficker was sentenced to 45 years in prison and fined $200,000, and a Colombian money launderer operating out of Miami was given 10 years and fined $200,000.

The IRS also is able to tax at the 50 percent rate a cash amount of more than $10,000 whose true owner cannot be identified. Thus, the IRS can make immediate "jeopardy assessments" when a courier in an illicit transaction is found with large amounts of cash and denies owning it.

"In recent months we have assessed and collected more than $750,000 under this procedure," Heye said.

The IRS official said the majority of the criminal tax cases stem from IRS' participation in the Florida Cash Flow Project, also known as Operator Greenback. Originally a South Florida project, it has been extended statewide.

"This joint effort with the Drug Enforcement Administration and the U.S. Customs Service has enabled us to trace and investigate the flow of illegal drug money in and out of Florida," Heye said.

Heye said more than half of the IRS special agents in Florida are now assigned to criminal tax investigations involving drug trafficking or money laundering.

United Nations On Wheels...

Crudely but effectively, Ambassador Charles Lichenstein has revived the U.N. debate. The U.N. debate is over such basics as, "Should it exist?" and, if so, "Should the United States pump in better than a third of its budget?" and, "Does the United Nations have to be based in New York City?"

Many Americans lean toward a "no" on all three counts. Never mind, we felt a warm spot for Lichenstein as he grappled with the latest U.N. flare-up. His fellow U.N. diplomats began making noises about the desirability of the United States as a base for the U.N.'s activities. Lichenstein responded that he and his friends at the U.S. mission would be "down at the dockside waving you a farewell as you sail into the sunset."

The casus belli for the uproar was the decision of New York Gov. Mario Cuomo and New Jersey Gov. Tom Kean not to allow Andrei Gromyko to enter their airports on a Soviet Aeroflot jet. This, according to the Soviet Union and its team of dancing cubs at the United Nations, constitutes a flagrant violation of a treaty guaranteeing U.N. personnel reasonable access to and from its deliberations.

Actually, Gromyko was welcome to take any of several alternative routes. U.S. officials made it quite clear he could enter via one of several military bases near New York — Gromyko's usual route. In fact, because of the relative ease of providing security. This might not have been his preferred route, but as U.S. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick pointed out recently on Nightline, nothing in the aforementioned treaty guarantees Soviet diplomats the right to land any time any place on any airline they choose. Nobody was going to shoot Gromyko out of the sky, and, Kirkpatrick added, he must admit that travel arrangements and everything else are a lot freer for a Soviet diplomat here than they are in his home country. Besides, isn't it Gromyko and his government that have been loudly proclaiming the right of all nations to regulate activity over their "sacred territory?"

Whatever your reading of the Soviet assertion that Cuomo and Kean violated an international treaty — and Soviet comment on treaty-breaking is the rough equivalent of testimony on wiretapping from Gordon Liddy — the follow-up has been some serious debate on the very serious question of what to do about the United Nations.

The customary defense of the United Nations that "we need someplace for dialogue and communication" begs the question of whether the United Nations, at least in its present form and circumstance, is or is not the correct place. Burton Pines, heading up an extensive study of the United Nations for the Heritage Foundation, argues that from the evidence available, the United Nations has raised more tensions than it has eased, caused more wars than it has stopped, and served mainly as a staging ground (conveniently located in the media capital of the world) for anti-American and anti-Israeli passions.

Given the spirited leadership Kirkpatrick has shown, we join her in reservations about writing the organization off completely. Perhaps the United Nations can do some good, experience notwithstanding. But we wouldn't mind seeing the U.S. contribution trimmed a little bit. Or the size of the Soviet mission, which serves mainly as a handy base for snatching technology and setting up interviews of Soviet propagandists with the world press.

Perhaps the best suggestion for reform came from Ambassador Kirkpatrick herself: Have the United Nations spend six months of the year in New York, the other six months in Moscow. That would give many of the Third Worlders who so admire Stalinism in the abstract a chance to see it up close. Working out the airline schedules might be a little difficult, but we'd suggest the diplomats travel by train or boat anyway. You get to see more of the countryside, and as we all now know, it's a lot safer than flying.

BERRY'S WORLD

"It's one of those new talking clock radios! Don't you LOVE it?"

An invitation has gone out to the dean of the Florida Senate, Sen. Dempsey Barron, D-Panama City, to participate in a roast of state Rep. Bobby Brantley of Longwood next month.

Brantley's first fund-raiser for the 1984 campaign year is scheduled for next month at Shakespeare's, a medieval English restaurant in Orlando. A congressman, two state senators, two fellow representatives, a former gubernatorial candidate and Seminole Sheriff John Polk are already on the program to toast the Longwood Republican representative, but he also wants the man considered the boss of the state's upper house of the Legislature there too.

"Dempsey is supposed to be at a roast for Curtis Peterson, president of the Senate, on Oct. 7 and we are trying to see if he can be here on the 8th," Brantley said.

Those who have accepted invitations are L.A. "Skip" Bafalis, the GOP's gubernatorial candidate in 1982 and a former congressman, as well as U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Altamonte Springs who will be master of ceremonies; U.S. Sen. Paula Hawkins; state Sens. Toni Jennings of Orlando and Dick Langley of Clermont; state Reps. Carl Selph of Casselberry and Art Grindle of Altamonte Springs; Seminole Sheriff John Polk and John Evans of Channel 2.

Unable to find any place large enough for a sit down dinner in Seminole County, Brantley's campaign team said Shakespeare's on Church Street with a capacity of 420 for a sit down dinner was selected, and it looks like at least that many will be attending, Brantley said.

In addition, Brantley said Orange-Seminole Cablevision is tentatively scheduled to film the entire program, editing it to a 30-minute show for later broadcasting.

The bar will open for the event at 7 p.m. and guests will go into the dining room at 7:55 p.m. "Something will be going on all night," he said, noting a magician will be going from table to table balancing a sword on the tip of a knife blade with a tray of wine glasses.

And an actor brought over from England will be performing as the English bard. The grand finale will be a sword fight between two Knights using authentic medieval swords.

A six-course meal will be served and entertainment will continue all night, Brantley said.

Tickets can be obtained from Jim Weinberg of the Wall Street Co. by calling 869-8200 or by calling Jim Stelling at 628-5454 or 830-1871.

Philippines Big Choice For Reagan

By E. Michael Myers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's decision to visit the Philippines in November will be based on the outcome of violent political struggles being waged in the streets of Manila.

The demonstrations against the regime of President Ferdinand Marcos have cost more than 10 lives. The crackdown by his security forces shows no sign of easing, and Reagan's security dominates all other considerations in allowing the one-day visit.

Reagan's possible reluctance to leave town if Congress is still in session notwithstanding, chaos in the streets, of Manila or a poor security environment will be the basis of the judgment on going ahead with the visit or canceling it.

It's understood the visit could not go forward if the Marcos regime is definitely implicated in the assassination of opposition leader Benigno Aquino, or if it blocks an objective investigation of his murder.

The administration wants to avoid any action that would further weaken Marcos if a verdict is still out on his regime's possible role in Aquino's death. And a premature, poorly reasoned cancellation, without a definitive answer on Marcos' complicity, could still amount to a judgment of culpability.

Another consideration is the vital U.S. security interests in the Philippines. Clark Air Base and the Subic Bay naval facility. These bases are strategic American assets along the sea and air lanes of Asia. No longer does the United States have such assets in Vietnam — they are ports to the Soviet navy now.

A Reagan visit to the Philippines can be judged by Marcos' opposition as American support to the embattled leader. If an anti-American regime ultimately comes to power in the Philippines, Clark Air Base and Subic Bay may go with Marcos.

The United States has seen this before. President Carter's administration supported the dictatorial shah so long that support doomed any chance of possible accommodation with the radical Islamic revolution that seized control of Iran.

Years of support for the Somoza regime in Nicaragua, despite Carter's condemnation of his human rights record, helped poison relations between Washington and Managua and opened the way for a Cuban and Soviet presence on the mainland.

Washington has expressed its confidence that the Marcos government will properly investigate the death of Aquino, shot to death by a reputed criminal on his arrival at Manila Aug. 21 after three years of exile in the United States.

But that's not the decisive factor in Reagan's visit.

If the Marcos government could not protect a popular opposition leader who placed himself in its security, some people ask how can it guarantee the safety of the president of the United States.

PLO Is Fighting Again In Lebanon

WASHINGTON — Intercepted radio messages extinguish any doubts that may still linger about the participation of the Palestine Liberation Organization in the recent assault upon the Lebanese government.

The defeated PLO forces that President Reagan rescued from the Israeli onslaught a year ago — the same troops that Marines escorted safely out of Lebanon from under Israeli guns — are now back. No one doubts they'll soon be firing at their Marine benefactors if the ceasefire breaks down as expected.

Out of the guerrilla-infested mountains overlooking the Marine positions have come terse radio calls from PLO units. The messages have been monitored, and my associate Lucette Lagnado has seen the transcripts. Here are a few typical excerpts:

— "Our forces are grouping ... We are on the International Road to Damascus, and we are chasing the Lebanese forces towards Souk el Gharb City."

— "Our forces are participating in the fight that is taking place in the mountain side by side with the PSP (Druze militia)."

— "We need more personnel... It is

WILLIAM RUSHER

A Look At Lebanon

NEW YORK (NEA) — Every few years, as events in the Middle East take some new and arresting turn, I devote a column to reminding my readers of certain enduring truths about that tormented region. The time has come, it seems pretty clear, to do it again.

Let me begin, then, by restating the most fundamental and most unpalatable truth of them all: There can be no peace in the Middle East until and unless one of the world's two superpowers — the United States or the Soviet Union — prevails over the other in their contest for world hegemony. Pending that development, there can only be a prolonged stalemate, punctuated by outbreaks of bloodshed. All else — the Camp David Agreement, etc. — is a chimera.

The underlying problem is that the Middle East is a classic instance of the situation, envisaged by Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr., in which "two groups of people want to make inconsistent kinds of worlds." The Israelis believe that they are entitled, by the gift of God Himself, to possession of historical Palestine. The Palestinian Arabs, now largely ousted and dispersed among neighboring Arab states, dispute this and insist upon returning to their ancestral lands — which, by virtue of their numbers and fertility, they would inevitably soon dominate. In such a situation, Holmes concluded, "I see no remedy but force."

The force of the state of Israel, deployed by its own able and determined citizenry, is supplied in the last analysis by the government of the United States, which has two major interests at stake in the region: a frank sympathy for the Zionist cause, fueled, of course, by the intense preoccupation of many Jewish voters with the issue but also by the stout support of such Christian fundamentalists as Jerry Falwell, and the grim knowledge that loss of access to the Middle East's oil fields would bring the economies of our European and Far Eastern allies to their knees overnight.

The force of Israeli's enemies, deployed by the PLO and various Arab states sympathetic to its cause, is derived at various moves from the Soviet Union, which enjoys being on the popular side of this issue in the eyes of world opinion (attested by any vote in the UN General Assembly). In addition, the demographics of the region heavily favor the Arabs over the long run, Israel being far smaller in population and, relatively speaking, shrinking.

The obscure and complex battle now raging in Lebanon is at bottom just another skirmish in the ongoing Arab-Israeli conflict, though no doubt the various Lebanese factions currently doing most of the dying think they are serving local causes of their own. The basic question at issue is which side shall control central Lebanon. Syria, backed by the Soviet Union, claims it, because Syria never really accepted the independence of Lebanon and considers the area its own. Israel, supported by the United States, much prefers to leave it in the hands of some Christian (and therefore anti-Syrian) local government willing to live at peace with Israel. The danger is that, if the Lebanese government we are presently backing collapses, Israel and Syria will be drawn into direct conflict. In that case, the two superpowers would have to impose some sort of settlement, lest they get dragged into conflict themselves with incalculable consequences.

Taking A Lesser Job Destructive

By Lidia Wasowicz
UPI Science Writer

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — People forced by the nation's sagging economy into jobs for which they are over-qualified may suffer even greater despair than those with no jobs at all, psychologists say.

"The unemployment rate is the tip of the iceberg," said H.G. Kaufman, director of the Research Program in Science, Technology and Human Resources at the Polytechnic Institute in New York.

"Over the next decades, underemployment is going to be a problem that could threaten the very fabric of our society. About one-fifth of all workers who have completed college are in subprofessional positions — sales, clerical or even blue collar."

Figures from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics show 708,000 people with four or more years of college were out of work in March. While in 1971, the bureau predicted some 650,000 engineering jobs would be available by 1980, only some 534,000 actually were.

That left as many as one in five engineering graduates who had based their career choice on the optimistic predictions looking for jobs that weren't there, the psychologists said.

"There was a prevalent feeling among the people in the study that their skills aren't being tapped," researcher Charlene Depper said.

Professionals appear most likely to experience severe stress when they lose their job, said Kaufman, who has written a book on the subject.

Career setbacks appear to have the most devastating effect on males and female heads of household, 30 to 40 years old, highly educated, non-religious and from disadvantaged backgrounds.

The underemployed are most likely to become political activists, demanding radical social changes — both liberal and conservative, Kaufman said.

"For professional workers, becoming underemployed may serve not only to further psychological deterioration but also to create a new source of stress. This stress may lead to non-work coping behaviors involving political or union activism to satisfy needs for esteem and fulfillment."

Typically, the out-of-work professional passes through four phases in six months: shock and resentment; intense job hunting; high stress and emotional instability; and loss of motivation and resignation.

"If deterioration is to be kept at a minimum, professionals should become re-employed before the end of stage two," Kaufman said.

Blacks, whose unemployment rate is usually twice that of whites, face different psychological problems, said Phillip Bowman of the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research.

Discouraged by the poor job market, many blacks have low self-esteem, "general life dissatisfaction" and a sense of helplessness, he said.

For a historic moment, the president had it within his power to command events. He could have allowed the Israelis to complete their mop-up, crush the PLO, chase the Syrians out of Lebanon and establish a solid, pro-Western government in Beirut.

But Secretary of State George Shultz, who had come to the State Department from doing business with the Arab world, was determined to keep Lebanon out of Israel's clutches. He persuaded the president to send Philip Habib to the Middle East to negotiate a settlement.

Shultz and Habib were magnificently confident, serene in their special insight into the Arab mind. All they had to do, they thought, was to pressure the Israelis to withdraw. Then Syria's President Hafez Assad would cheerfully agree to end his long occupation of eastern Lebanon.

Meanwhile, they would set up in Beirut a government that would be pro-American but acceptable to the Arab world, because it would be free of Israeli taint.

Who would keep order in Lebanon until the new regime was strong enough to govern? Shultz arranged to send in the Marines as part of an international peace-keeping force. Their stay would be short, he promised.

But underlings tried to warn that Assad would not pull his troops out, that a durable Lebanese government could not be patched together with diplomatic glue and that this turbulent piece of earth would wind up as a U.S. protectorate.

The underlings — all of them experts at the international chess game — made another point: There was only one military force in the Middle East powerful enough, they said, to block Soviet-Syrian designs. That was the Israeli army.

The alternative was to leave the U.S. Marines in Lebanon indefinitely and risk being dragged into a Vietnam-style war. The president listened to Shultz, and the Marines are being pulled into a bloody bog.

Footnote: Now the administration has reversed its position, begging Israel to stay, not to leave, while telling Congress that the Lebanese army is not so strong after all, and needs more American support.

America's Rich Get Richer; Forbes Lists Top Fortunes

NEW YORK (UPI) — America has at least 15 millionaires, two more than in 1982, standing at the apex of a pyramid of 400 big rich with fortunes of more than $125 million.

That's the conclusion of Forbes magazine's second annual listing, the 1983 Forbes Four Hundred, which took a year and an expenditure of $250,000 to compile.

Last year's list included super-rich with only $100 million, but a bolsterous bull market has multiplied so many of the nation's top fortunes that it now takes $125 million to make the list. Some 116 on the list enjoyed at least a 50 percent increase in their fortunes in the past 12 months.

Take Sam M. Walton of Bentonville, Ark., for instance. He was 19th on the Forbes list in 1982 and has risen to be the second richest man in the country, his $690 billion worth of stock in the Wal-Mart discount store chain having more than tripled in value within the year. "It's almost unbelievable," says Walton, who still drives a beat-up Chevrolet or a pickup truck from his modest home to the bank although he is the possessor of an estimated $2.15 billion. Walton started in business in 1945 and like most of the other super-rich, his fortune is essentially new money.

Almost half of America's big rich come from New York, California, or Texas (Midland, Tex., pop. 70,000 including scores of millionaires, is the richest per capita city in the U.S.).

Chief sources of their wealth are real estate, oil and media properties, although fugitive financier Robert Vesco made the list by stealing $224 million.

According to Forbes' calculations, the richest man in America is Gordon Peter Getty, 49, an amateur composer and pianist with $2.2 billion to support his hobbies. The fourth son of the late oil tycoon John Paul Getty replaced shipping nabob Daniel K. Ludwig, who headed the list with somewhat over $2 billion in 1982.

Ludwig, 86, still has $2 billion and is the third richest American but his fortune took too serious a beating in a failed Amazon jungle paper pulp venture to grow with the bull market. Financial setbacks accounted for many of the 74 dropouts from the 1982 list, including Las Vegas casino owner Moe Dalitz and filmmaker George Lucas (Return of the Jedi) who surrendered part of his business in a divorce settlement.

Old wealth almost got lost in the reshuffling of the nation's assets. David Rockefeller's grandfather, John D. Rockefeller Sr., was listed by Forbes in a 1918 survey as the richest man in the country with $1.2 billion. David is 12th on the list of billionaires with a net worth estimated at over $1 billion. His only surviving brother, Laurance, is 22nd on the list with $650 million.

There are several spectacular success stories behind the names on the list but none more impressive than that of Kyupin Philip Hwang. Hwang, 46, who emigrated from North Korea with $50, swabbed dishes in a California casino to finance college, and founded TeleVideo Systems Inc. In 1975 in his garage, Hwang went public last March, his shares in TeleVideo soared to a worth of $575 million, and he became a newcomer on the Forbes list.

Almost as dramatic is the success of Leslie H. Wexner, a 46-year-old Ohio clothing retailer who has been in business less than 20 years. He owns a 900-store chain, The Limited, Inc., valued at $541 million, but he isn't completely satisfied.

"I liked it better when I was just another guy from Columbus, Ohio," he said.

Forbes listed its owner, Malcolm S. Forbes, 64, as No. 400 on the list because Forbes claims he doesn't know an accurate figure or what Forbes magazine is worth, although "I will say I'm happy with how I'm fixed." The Wall Street Journal has estimated Forbes' fortune at $200 million.

•Birth Control Pills Kill 500 Americans Every Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Complications from birth control pills kill 500 American women each year and hospitalize thousands more, but the contraceptive method is still less risky than pregnancy, a new report says.

Making Choices, a study of the hazards and benefits of contraception, said childbearing is more dangerous than any currently available birth control method. The only exception is the use of the pill by women over 40 and by women over 35 who smoke.

The report estimated 30 women die annually from complications of tubal sterilization, 30 from use of intrauterine devices, and 15 from trouble linked to abortions.

Deaths from pill use could be cut to about 70 if no pill users smoked and if none took the pill after her 35th birthday, said Dr. Howard W. Ory, epidemiologist at the Centers for Disease Control and an author of the report, paid for by the Commonwealth Fund, the Rockefeller Foundation and Needmor Fund and published by The Alan Guttmacher Institute — a research affiliate of Planned Parenthood Federation of America.

Overall, Ory and associates estimated 54,000 of 14.6 million women who use the pill or IUD or who obtain abortions or tubal sterilizations have major complications associated with those methods.

By comparison, the report said, each year about 60,000 of the 3 million sexually active women who do not want to get pregnant but use no birth control method have Caesarean sections or ectopic pregnancies, two major complications of pregnancy and birth. More than half of all American couples want no more than two children and most women, as a result, spend an average of 25 to 30 years of their lives trying to avoid pregnancy, the report said.

If health were the only consideration, a woman's safest course would be to start with the pill and continue with that method for four years (to get maximum protection against ovarian cancer), have the number of children she desires by her mid-20s, and then persuade her husband to have a vasectomy, the authors said.

The report also said: —Pill-related deaths are offset by the drug's prevention of an estimated 850 ovarian cancer deaths each year.

—An estimated 9,600 IUD users are hospitalized annually due to complications from IUDs, the most common being pelvic inflammatory disease.

—Complications from sterilization, surgical and permanent birth control causes additional hospitalization for 32,000 women annually.

—Some 5,000 of the 1.6 million who obtain legal abortions each year suffer major complications.

The report said about 0.1 percent of all pill users have major complications each year, as do 0.4 percent of IUD users, 4.5 percent of those obtaining tubal sterilizations, and 0.3 percent of those having abortions.

Ory and the other authors, Dr. Jacqueline D. Forrest and Richard Lincoln of the Guttmacher Institute, said information in Making Choices will enable women to make informed choices about birth control at different stages of their reproductive lives.

The $6 report is available by mail from the Alan Guttmacher Institute, 360 Park Ave. South, New York, N.Y. 10010.

•Pregnant Moms Who Smoke May Damage Children

BOSTON (UPI) — Women who smoke marijuana while pregnant — as many as 15 percent — may risk causing birth defects in their babies, including abnormal facial features and stunted nervous system development.

"We believe that the marijuana may have a toxic effect on the fetus," said Dr. Doris Millman of Downstate Medical Center of the State University of New York in Brooklyn. "It seems an awful lot to risk to smoke marijuana."

She reported in the New England Journal of Medicine that children whose mothers smoked pot during pregnancy may suffer slow development of their nervous systems, abnormal facial features and other minor defects at birth — some of which could be permanent.

"Our advice to pregnant women is not to take anything — a drug or alcohol — that might compromise the health of your baby and that includes marijuana," she said.

She said a recent survey of pregnancy clinics in three cities found that about 15 percent of women used marijuana while pregnant.

The race for the Five Star Conference football title is wide open as county teams begin the fourth week of action. Seminole's stunning upset of Lake Howell last week created a fervor in the conference. Lake Howell had been the favorite of the coaches in a preseason poll. Seminole, 2-1, goes for its third straight win Friday when it travels to Daytona Beach Mainland. Lake Howell, 2-1, will try to get back on the winning trail at home against the injury-riddled DeLand Bulldogs. But the biggest game county-wise will be a Lake Mary where the Rams will dedicate their new stadium against Lyman. Lake Mary, 1-1, looked impressive against DeLand in its opener, then got blown away by Lake Brantley last week. The Patriots, 2-1, are idle Friday. Lyman, 1-2, lost two tough games to Metro Conference foes Boone and Colonial. The Greyhounds handled Lake Brantley between the two losses. Oviedo, meanwhile, will try to even its record at 2-2 at home against Leesburg. The Lions whipped St. Cloud last Friday. Evening Herald Sports Editor Sam Cook will have all the action on the Lake Mary-Lyman clash while Sports Writer Chris Fister will cover the action between Seminole and Mainland at Daytona Beach. Tribe Goes After No. 3 At Mainland

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

DAYTONA BEACH — On the surface, tonight's 8 o'clock game here between Sanford's Fighting Seminoles and the Mainland Bucs appears to be a mismatch. Seminole is 2-1 and surging, winners of two straight. Mainland is 0-3 and floundering.

But with a record for the past 14 games of 2-12, the Tribe isn't taking any team lightly. And Mainland, with an 0-3 ledger, is just dying to win a game, which is the problem facing Buc coach Bob Wallace.

"We're still hanging in there," said Wallace Thursday. "A lot of inexperience plus a number of injuries have put us in a hole. But for being 0-3, the kids have an excellent attitude."

Injuries robbed the Bucs of two starting tailbacks. David Jones has been hampered by the flu while Quent Dixon suffered a broken arm. Wallace has tagged defensive backfield whiz Gary Stansbury (no. 27) as their replacement, but he doesn't have the speed of either. Defensively, tackle Buck Dobbins (no. 77, 6-0, 200), linebackers George Clark (no. 51, 5-9, 180) and Leroy Gainous (no. 56, 5-10, 180) have been the best Buc defender.

The Bucs live and die on the arm and legs of senior quarterback Eric Childs. "Eric is the best athlete on the team," said Wallace about the 6-0, 170-pounder. "We've been relying on him to pull us through. If he gets time to throw, he can throw it well."

But he hasn't had the time during the first three games, and the way the Seminoles' defense has been pressuring the QB, he might not have it tonight either.

"Eric has had to scramble a lot because the protection just hasn't been there," said Wallace. "I'm hoping we'll be able to throw the ball effectively Friday. If the protection holds up, we'll be all right."

Although Wallace is impressed with his QB's arm, Seminole coach Jerry Posey is more impressed with the legs.

"I'm not so much scared of his passing as his running," said Posey. "When he starts scrambling around back there, it scares the daylight of me."

Daylight, nevertheless, is something defensive coordinator Dave Mosure hopes his band of 11 Indians won't give Childs. Mosure will lay much of the responsibility for the elusive Buccaneer on his outside linebackers, William Wynn and Vince Williams.

"He's (Childs) quick with very good speed," said Mosure. "We'll change the play of our outside linebackers so that they have more containment and read his movements."

Seminole will have to contain Childs without the help of cornerback Deron Thompson. The hard-hitting junior was suspended for school for two days (Thursday and Friday) for a classroom-related discipline incident. Thompson, who is fifth in the county with 18 tackles and four assists, will be replaced by junior Charlie Smith.

"It's hard to tell how much it (Thompson's absence) will effect us," said Mosure. "Smith covers the corner pretty well and can contain, but he's not the pass defender Thompson is."

Outside of Thompson, the rest of the defense is intact and Tim Lawrence is the only offensive player hurting. The 5-10 senior is still hobbled by an ankle injury and Daryl Edgemon will again start at fullback. Lawrence, though, will see a lot of action.

The defense is led by middle linebacker Ed Rinkavage and defensive tackle Bryan Debose. Rinkavage played up to potential in last week's upset of Lake Howell, making an incredible 15 solo tackles and helping out on three others. For his efforts, the 205-pound senior was named Burger King Defensive Player of the Week and Sanford Optimist Player of the Week.

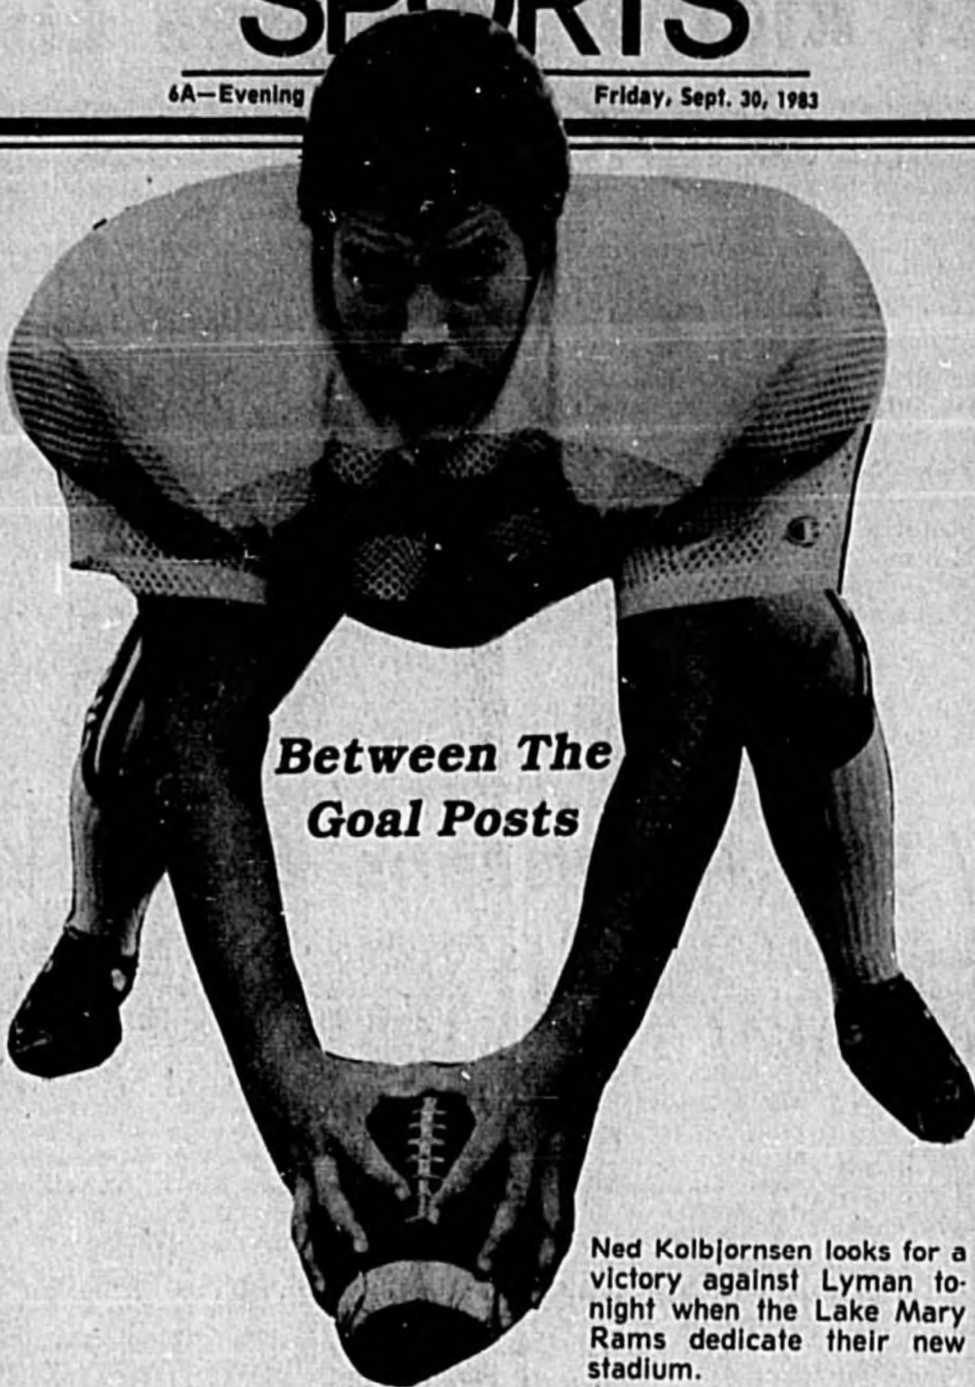

Debose, a 5-8, 166-pounder, has been 1983's pleasant surprise. "We always knew Bryan was quick," said Posey. "But he's surprised us with his strength. He actually whips big kids. On more than one occasion, Debose has grabbed players much bigger than him and just thrown them down."

Which may be one reason the junior mltile mite is leading the county in sacks with six and is third with 19 tackles and six assists. "We figured him as being the type of player who would shoot the gaps for us," continued Posey. "But he has been surprising in meeting them head up too. He just shucks them aside."

And the Seminoles would be very happy to shuck Mainland aside tonight. Last Friday's upset over Lake Howell was a big confidence builder. In fact, Posey said the hardest part of this week's practice has been settling down his excitable boys. "Our biggest problem has been getting them to calm down and get back to work," he said. "They're not realizing they didn't win a championship or anything last week, although it was a big win."

Posey said he sees a lot of the '82 Seminoles in Mainland. "They're in about the same boat we were last year," he said.

Ned Kolbjornsen looks for a victory against Lyman tonight when the Lake Mary Rams dedicate their new stadium.

Ned Kolbjornsen: The Leading Ram

By Chris Flister Herald Sports Writer

The consensus about Lake Mary's offensive lineman Ned Kolbjornsen is you couldn't run into a nicer guy. Unless, of course, you play defense for the opposing team.

"He's isn't blessed with tremendous ability, but he's a real workhorse," Lake Mary coach Harry Nelson said of the 6-1, 230-pound senior center who Nelson moved to center from tackle upon taking over the Rams. "He's a topnotch student, and a good school leader who is well like by the students and well respected by the teachers."

While Kolbjornsen (no. 55) has made quite an impression on Nelson, the first-year coach has made a good impression on Kolbjornsen. "He's turned the whole team around," Kolbjornsen said of Nelson. "We got down on ourselves a lot last year, but coach Nelson has made us believe in

Rams Christen New Stadium Against Lyman

By Chris Flister Herald Sports Writer

The Lake Mary Rams will christen their new stadium tonight in a tough inter-county matchup with Lyman's Greyhounds. The new stadium at Lake Mary High will hold 3,000 spectators on the home side and about 1,500 on the visitors side. Lake Mary coach Harry Nelson is hoping the fans will help the Rams forget all about a 32-6 setback at the hands of Lake Brantley last week. Festivities begin at 7:30 p.m. with the kickoff at 8 p.m.

Lake Mary, which started the season one week later than most teams, now stands at 1-1 for the season and in the Five Star Conference. On the other hand, Lyman is 1-2 and 1-0 in the conference. Both of its losses have come to Metro Conference teams (Boone and Colonial).

"Lyman has excellent running backs and very good overall speed on both the offensive and defensive lines," Nelson said. "They're stronger than we are and we might have the same problem we had against Lake Brantley."

The Rams were manhandled a week ago by the rugged offensive and defensive lines of the Patriots. Lake Mary gained under 100 yards rushing while the Patriots racked up over 300. Nelson hopes the experience of playing a stronger opponent last week will help the Rams against Lyman.

"We've had very good practices this week," Nelson said. "We're in pretty good shape injury-wise, and I'm hoping we'll be up for it emotionally. Being at home will help a lot, too. The stadium looks real good."

Offensively, running backs

Football

Scott Underwood, Neal Wellon and Charlie Lucarelli have all looked good at times. Underwood leads the Rams with 119 yards rushing on 28 carries in two games. Wellon, who started the season in place of injured Pat Murray, has carried 17 times for 78 yards while Lucarelli has picked up 53 yards on 21 carries. The "Italian Stallion" provided Lake Mary's only score against the Patriots with a long kickoff return.

Sophomore quarterback Ray Hartsfield has a good completion ratio as he has completed 12 of 17 passes for 116 yards and has been intercepted once. Junior wideout Donald Grayson has nabbed six of Hartsfield's 12 completions for 85 yards. Hartsfield ranks third among Seminole County quarterbacks and Grayson is the third-leading receiver in the county.

Defensively, Tim Curtin has performed well for the Rams as he leads in tackles with 14 solo and four assists. Curtin also has two interceptions and has recovered a fumble (all against DeLand). Junior linebacker Bill Caughell has 10 solo tackles and five assists while defensive end Don Meyer has two quarterback sacks.

Although Lyman's Greyhounds are 1-2, they could very easily be 3-0. Both losses were by narrow margins, 12-6 to Boone and 20-16 to Colonial. Lyman was convincing in its lone victory, 17-6 over Lake Brantley.

Offensively, Tony Johnson and James Pilot share the

Tonight's Games

The Five Star Conference football race heats up tonight with the Lake Mary-Lyman matchup highlighting the prep card.

The Rams, 1-1, will dedicate their new stadium tonight and would like nothing better than to christen the 3,000 seat structure with a victory over coach Bill Scott's Lyman Greyhounds. Lyman is 1-2, but 1-0 in conference.

Elsewhere, coach Jerry Posey's Fighting Seminoles travel to Daytona Beach for a key Five Star encounter with 0-3 Mainland. The Bucs lost a close one to New Smyrna Beach in their opener, but have since been blown away by seventh-ranked Apopka and Spruce Creek. Seminole, 2-1 and 1-0 in the Five Star, will be looking for its third straight win. The Tribe upset Lake Howell last week.

The Silver Hawks, 2-1 and 1-1, will have injury-stricken DeLand at home. Oviedo, 1-2, looks to even its record at home against Leesburg. The Lions outlasted St. Cloud, 27-20, last week as Burger King Offensive Player of the Week Barry Williams scored three TDs.

In Thursday's lone Five Star game, Apopka topped Spruce Creek. Coach Dave Tullis' Lake Brantley Patriots are idle tonight after squashing Lake Mary, 32-6, last week.

'Noles Upends Lake Mary; Pats, 'Hounds Roll

Daryl Taylor threw a pair of touchdown passes and Larry Byrd may a key interception late in the game as the Seminole junior varsity upended Lake Mary's JV, 14-6, Thursday night at Lake Mary High.

"It was a tough game both ways," Seminole coach Mike Ferrell said. "It's a big rivalry and the guys are really excited about beating Lake Mary."

The Tribe JV now stands at 2-0 on the season and will go up against Lyman next Thursday at Lyman High.

The Tribe opened up the scoring in the first quarter as Taylor hooked up with David Rape for a 20-yard TD pass. The two-point conversion failed and Seminole had a 6-0 lead.

The defense took over after that and neither team's offense could mount another scoring threat in the first half as the Tribe clung to its 6-0 lead at halftime.

Seminole opened up a 12-0 lead in the third quarter as Taylor hit Melvin Brinson, who made a couple good moves, and darted into the end zone for a 45-yard scoring strike. Mike Hickman then ran in the two point conversion to give the 'Noles a 14-0 lead.

The JV Rams then got its offense going in the fourth quarter behind quarterback Mike Schmitt. Schmitt drove Lake Mary inside the Seminole 10, but the Tribe defense toughened up and forced the Rams to gamble on a fourth and goal at the five-yard line. Schmitt kept his cool and tossed a five-yard TD pass to Brett Molle to cut Seminole's lead to 14-6 with less than seven minutes remaining in the game. The two-point conversion failed.

Seminole took the ensuing kickoff and picked up a couple of first downs before having to punt the ball away with two minutes left. Lake Mary mounted a last chance scoring drive to try and tie the game. Schmitt drove the Rams to the Seminole 25 as Lake Mary was withing striking range with 45 seconds remaining.

However, with 30 seconds left to play, Byrd stepped in and picked off a Schmitt pass to preserve the victory for the Seminoles.

In other JV action Thursday, Lake Brantley's JV Patriots improved to 4-0 for the season with a 33-21 victory over Lake Howell at Lake Brantley High.

Mike Beams led the offensive attack as he picked up 161 yards on 20 carries to raise his season total to 510 yards in four games.

Lake Howell cut an early 7-0 lead, but Brantley cut it to 7-6 as Beams scored from six yards out. The Patriots took a 12-7 lead when Mike Pinckes threw a 65-yard TD pass to Aaron Kindel. Beams later broke loose for a 76-yard scoring run to put the Patriots in control, 20-7.

Lake Howell came back to cut it to 20-13, but Freeman scored from eight yards out to put the Patriots up, 26-13. Lake Howell cut it to 26-20 before the Patriots iced the victory as quarterback John Gowan, who completed 7 of 10 passes for 123 yards, hooked up with Kindel on an eight-yard scoring strike. Kindel caught three passes for 121 yards for the night.

Defensively for Brantley, Matt Wilson and John Polak each had six solo tackles and one assist while Jimmy Cochelos had five solos and an assist and Pinckes added an interception.

Lake Brantley will go for its fifth straight win next Thursday at DeLand.

At Lyman Thursday night, Joe Rintharamy and Randy Mathis scored two touchdowns each to lead Lyman's Greyhounds to a 35-0 rout of Bishop Moore. The JV Greyhounds now stand at 1-0 on the season. —CHRIS FLISTER

Silver Hawks Need To Win A Bunch; Lions Look For New Streak To Grow

Oviedo and Lake Howell experienced different sensations after their football games last Friday night.

One of jubilation and the other of shock. One winner, one loser. One holding on to win and the other blowing a big lead.

"Even today (Tuesday), after watching the film, I still have trouble believing we lost," said Lake Howell coach Mike Bisceglia. "I just can't believe all of those mistakes we made."

Sanford's Fighting Seminoles can believe them, though. Because they forced them and they capitalized on them. The Silver Hawks fumbled five times and lost three of them. The Tribe turned each into a touchdown to overcome an 18-point deficit for a 29-27 victory.

The setback severely jeopardizes Lake Howell's dream of the a Five Star Conference title. The Hawks were the preseason choice of the coaches. And, indeed, they do have an imposing attack. But that attack spluttered in the second half last week. The Hawks are 2-1 overall and 1-1 in the Five Star district.

"We're going to have to win the rest of them," conceded Bisceglia whose team tries to regroup tonight at home against DeLand. "Our attitude is still good. We had some good practices this week. We'll be ready to go."

Which may not be said for DeLand. The Bulldogs lost their second best running back Otis Robinson with a broken leg last Thursday in a loss to West Orange. They also lost quarterback Ferrell Gordon with a seaprated shoulder. That leaves the offensive burden to running back Terry Nettles, and although he is a good one, it might be a little too much to ask.

The Hawks didn't get any help Thursday night either when Spruce Creek practically handed a game to Apopka, 42-21. Bisceglia took in the game and was impressed with the Blue Darters despite the gift-wrapped package. "Apopka is awesome offensively," said Bisceglia. "But Spruce Creek had two blocked punts, a touchdown called back, they fumbled on their kickoff and also fumbled deep in their territory."

Despite outgaining Apopka, 319-201, Spruce Creek was blown away.

Lake Howell doesn't play Apopka until the second to the last game of the season. It's conceivable that the game could be for the district and conference championship. It's still a long road for the Hawks, but with fullback Jay Robey, tackle Jim Royal, quarterback Darin Slack, free safety Bill Lang and strong safety Troy Quackenbush — the road came be navigated a lot more smoothly.

Speaking of smooth roads, it was about a year ago when Blanton's Oviedo Lions began an incredible streak which gave the 3A power seven victories to cap an 8-3 season.

Oviedo, which had to replace its entire offensive line, stumbled out of the blocks this year, too, losing its first two games before outlasting St. Cloud, 27-20, last week.

Tonight at 8 in the Lions' Den, Oviedo shoots to even its season mark at 2-2 against an improved Leesburg squad. The Yellow Jackets used to be the laughing stock of Lake County, once compiling a losing streak which almost hit 20 in a row.

That's all changed now, however, at least offensively. "That have a real good offense," said Blanton. "They start out with Joe Viola at quarterback and then bring in Dwayne Cornelius. He's the thrower."

The Yellow Jackets have a nice set of running backs from their wishbone to accommodate Cornelius. Fullback Erick Berry and halfbacks Sam Banks and Andrew Graham can all tote the ball.

Defense, nevertheless, is another matter. "They're not real big defensively," said Blanton. "Our offensive line is coming around and (coach) Paul Greer has got our defense playing pretty well. We should be able to score some points."

Doing the scoring will be the county's best backfield tandem of Barry Williams and J.W. Yarborough. Both are powerful sprinters. Williams is more of the slasher type while Yarborough likes to run people over. Williams ran for 149 yards and three TDs last week. Kevin Thompson continues to do a commendable job at QB for the Lions while wide receiver Howard Lingard (11 for 227) is averaging 20 yards per catch.

Defensively, a shift of senior Kevin Yentz to linebacker has solidified the defense. Junior Larry Grayson turned in the big play last week by intercepting a pass in the final 30 seconds to cut short a St. Cloud drive inside the 10 yard-line of the Lions. Defensive back Ed Norton heads up a strong secondary, which also features sophomore Andrew Smith.

QUESTIONS — Can you imagine anyone picking Notre Dame over Miami last week? And, I'm not even Irish. Anyway, I'll take

Politowicz Wins, Seminoles Run 2nd

Trinity Prep's Adrienne Politowicz ran away from Lake Mary's Sue Kingsbury with a half mile to go Thursday to win the Freshman-Sophomore two-mile at Lyman High School. Politowicz's time of 11:55.7 broke her old record of 12:15 which was set last year. Lake Howell's girls easily won the team title with 26 points.

In the boys race, Seminole finished second to Bishop Moore, 31-42. Seminole sophomore Billy Penick was second to the Hornets' Richard McKenna individually. See Sunday's Evening Herald for a complete rundown of the meet.

Lady Seminoleles Splash Past Hawks For No. 2

Dana Ray and Stacy Juinto had a pair of first places each to lead the Seminole High girls swim team to a 98-62 dual meet victory Thursday over Spruce Creek's Hawks at the Sanford Bath & Tennis Club.

The Lady Tribe is now 2-0 for the season going into Saturday's Shardin Invitational. "It was another solid effort for the girls team," Seminole coach Donalyn Knight said. "The boys team looked good, but we have a few injuries holding us back."

The boys team dropped a 96-45 decision to Spruce Creek Thursday with Chuck Burgess' 1:00.0 in the 100 freestyle the only first place. The boys team is 0-2 for the season.

Thursday's meet marked the second straight time that Juinto and Ray, both juniors, have recorded two first places. Last week, in a dual meet victory over Orlando Evans, Juinto won both the 200 freestyle and 500 freestyle while Ray won the 50 freestyle and 100 backstroke.

Juinto won the same two events against Spruce Creek as she clocked in at 2:28.5 in the 200 freestyle (almost three seconds better than her time last week) and she recorded a 6:37.4 in the 500 freestyle (two seconds better than last week's time).

Ray also won the same two events as she cruised to a 28.6 in the 50 freestyle (1.3 seconds better than last week) and

Ray shaved nearly 14 seconds off her time last week in the 100 backstroke as she clocked in at 1:16.6.

Other first places for the Lady Tribe included, senior Patty Ellmore who won the diving competition with 95.8 points; sophomore Shawna Cole came in first in the 100 fly with a time of 1:22.0 and she was second in the 200 intermediate at 2:53.0. Senior Allison McCall finished first in the 100 breaststroke at 1:31.1. Second place finishes included Suzy Porter's 2:41.2 in the 200 freestyle and Kristy Keeling's 1:09.0 in the 100 freestyle.

Seminole also won a pair of relays as the team of Ray, McCall, Cole and Porter combined for a time of 2:22.3 in the 200 medley relay and the team of Juinto, Lisa Cooper, Tracy Reed and Chris Sparrow won the 400 freestyle relay with a time of 5:09.4.

In the boys meet, Burgess added a second place finish in the 100 backstroke with a time of 1:11.0. Tim Dycus had a couple of second place finishes, one in the 50 freestyle at 30.4 and another in the 100 breaststroke at 1:19.8. Brian Sparrow recorded a second place in the diving competition with 116.4 points.

...himself. He's affecting every sport in the school."

Kolbjornsen is in the first graduating class at Lake Mary High and he doesn't regret it that he could have gone a different school if he had been a year older. Athletes at the more established schools often get a better chance at a scholarship than athletes at a school that hasn't been around very long.

"I thought about transferring to Lyman in my freshman year," Kolbjornsen said. "But I'm glad I stayed at Lake Mary."

The articulate senior has been the Lake Mary football anchor for three years now. Called by former coach Roger Beathard, "our first major-league prospect," two years ago, Kolbjornsen may not reach that exalted plateau, but he has been a pioneer for the Rams, trailblazing a path a lot of athletes would like to follow.

He suffered through the lean years in the past, but now, like the Rams' budding sports' program — he is ready to bloom. Last year's football record, 1-9, was a bummer, but Kolbjornsen has seen vast improvement in just a half of a year under the volatile Nelson.

Kolbjornsen said one of his goals is to help the Rams to the Five Star Conference title in the school's first year in the conference. Lake Mary has a key conference game tonight at 8 when it hosts Seminole County rival Lyman and dedicates its new football stadium.

Football is not the only sport Kolbjornsen excels in. He is also a fine wrestler and hopes to get a scholarship to the Naval Academy.

"The coach from Navy is coming down here to talk to me on Saturday," Kolbjornsen said. "It would be a big step to go to the Naval Academy, they were fifth in the nation in wrestling last year."

As for wrestling, Kolbjornsen is one of coach Frank Schwartz' studs. He was a tough performer at 189 pounds and should be even better this year with his added strength acquired in the off-season. Lake Mary put its grappling program on the map in just three short years when teammate Jack Likens captured a state title and monstrous Robert Rawls made it to the semifinals.

Before he gets into the academy, though, Kolbjornsen must get an appointment to a Navy prep school where he must attain a C status to get into the Naval Academy. Other requirements include a high grade point average in high school, along with being a school leader.

Kolbjornsen's goal for this season is to make the state wrestling competition. He would also like to see Lake Mary High win the all-sports trophy, a title that Lyman won last year.

Right now, Kolbjornsen is working hard to lead the Rams to a respectable season. Although quarterback and running back are the glamor positions, guys like Kolbjornsen make the QBs and RBs jobs a lot easier, and safer.

Dodgers Stagger On; Warren No-Hits Sox

United Press International

The play of the Los Angeles Dodgers is simply staggering. "We can't panic," rookie Greg Brock said Thursday night after the Dodgers dropped a double-header to remain stalled on the verge of the National League West title. "We can't start pressing now. We got a three-game lead with three to go. You play every game like you've got to win that game."

Andy Hawkins tossed a seven-hitter and struck out 10 over 8 2-3 innings and the San Diego Padres scored three runs in the sixth inning on one hit, en route to a 4-1 victory over Los Angeles and a double-header sweep. In the opener, Tony Gwynn singled in Tim Flannery with the go-ahead run to trigger a six-run eighth that gave the Padres a 7-1 victory.

"We have to go out tomorrow and forget about today, yesterday and the day before," said Dodgers' manager Tommy Lasorda. "We just weren't able to win. We scored just six runs in three ballgames."

Earlier, the Braves did their part to keep the majors' last pennant race alive when Randy Johnson's two-out, ninth-inning single helped visiting Atlanta to a 5-4 victory over the Houston Astros.

The Dodgers' magic number remained at one. Los Angeles returns home for a weekend series against arch-nemesis San Francisco while the Braves travel to play three games against the Padres. Any Dodgers' victory or Braves' loss will hand the Dodgers the division crown.

"We just gotta win one or they gotta lose one," said Lasorda. "I'd still rather be in our position rather than theirs."

"If we can't win one of the final three, I don't think we belong in major-league baseball," added the Dodgers' Derral Thomas. "We're the team to beat. We don't stay in a losing streak very long."

The Dodgers have lost 11 of 15 games to the Giants this season. At Houston, Chris Chambliss singled off Vern Ruhle, 8-5, and moved to second on a groundout before Johnson's hit. Gene Garber, 4-5, picked up the victory with ninth-inning relief help from Terry Forster, who notched his 13th save.

Giants 11, Reds 7
At Cincinnati, Chris Smith's two-run homer led the Giants despite a two-run pinch hit single by the Reds' Johnny Bench in the final home appearance of his career. Reliever Randy Lerch, 2-3, was the winner and reliever Ben Hayes, 4-6, the loser.

Pirates 4, Mets 2
At Pittsburgh, Rick Rhoden scattered four hits over eight innings and helped his cause with two hits to lead the Pirates. Rhoden, 13-13, struck out five and walked none before giving way to Cecillo Guante, who finished for his ninth save.

A's 3, White Sox 3
A year ago Mike Warren was riding the buses in the bushes. Now he's riding on Cloud Nine. Warren, who pitched for Modesto in the Class A, became the first rookie in 10 years — and the second pitcher in four days — to hurl a no-hitter Thursday night in leading the Oakland A's to a 3-0 victory over the American League West champion Chicago White Sox. "It was a dream come true," he said. "Just being in the major leagues was a big thrill and now this. I won't believe it 'til I read about it in the paper."

A.L./N.L. Roundup

Boston Red Sox on July 4. Warren, 22, struck out five and walked three in winning his fifth game in eight decisions. The last no-hitter produced by the Oakland pitching staff was on Sept. 28, 1975, when Vida Blue, Glenn Abbott, Paul Lindblad and Rollie Fingers combined for a 5-0 victory over the California Angels.

The last complete game no-hitter by an A's pitcher was turned in by Blue against Minnesota in 1970 and the last no-hitter pitched by a rookie was hurled by Jim Bibby, then of Texas, who beat Oakland, 8-0, on July 30, 1973. On April 27 of that same year, Kansas City's Steve Busby shut down Detroit, 3-0.

There were no outstanding plays behind Warren and pinch hitter Mike Squires' drive to the warning track in right field was the hardest ball hit off the right-hander.

Yankees 4, Red Sox 3
At New York, Don Mattingly delivered a single with the bases loaded in the ninth inning, capping a two-run uprising that rallied the Yankees to victory. Willie Randolph led off the ninth drawing a walk off loser John Tudor, 13-12, and scored on a double by Ken Griffey. Mattingly then singled, making a winner of Guidry, 21-9.

Twins 2, Rangers 0
At Minnesota, rookie Tim Teufel hit a solo homer and Ken Schrom pitched a seven-hitter for his first major league shutout. Schrom, 15-8, walked four and struck out three in posting his first shutout in six complete games. It was the second straight shutout suffered by the Rangers. Teufel's third home run since being called up from Toledo Sept. 1, came off loser Dave Stewart, 5-2.

Tigers 9, Orioles 4
At Baltimore, Enos Cabell's three-run homer capped a five-run first inning that carried the Tigers to a three-game sweep of the Orioles. Milt Wilcox, 11-10, scattered 10 hits in picking up the victory over the American League East division champions. The Orioles have lost three straight since clinching the pennant Sunday. Mike Flanagan, 12-4, took the loss.

Indians 4, Brewers 2
At Milwaukee, Gorman Thomas had three hits, including a two-run homer, and Rick Sutcliffe scattered 14 hits to lead the Indians. Sutcliffe, 17-11, struck out six and walked one in completing his 10th game of the season. Milwaukee starter Tom Candiotti, 4-4, allowed nine hits and three runs in 6 1-3 innings.

Mariners 5, Royals 4
At Seattle, Ken Phelps went 3-for-4, including a homer that sparked a four-run seventh inning, to lead the Mariners. Phelps' sixth homer of the year and second in two nights was a leadoff shot off loser Bud Black, 10-7. Reliever Mike Stanton, 2-3, picked up the victory and Bill Caudill earned his 26th save.

Scott Leads Howell Sweep Of Lake Mary

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Behind the outstanding front line play of Christy Scott and consistent serving, Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks rallied for a 15-5, 15-12 victory over the Lady Rams of Lake Mary Thursday in prep volleyball action at Lake Howell High.

Scott came through in the clutch with some devastating spikes and the Lady Hawks defense did a good job of containing Lake Mary's Laura and Peggy Glass as the Hawks improved to 5-1 for the season (all Five Star Conference games). The Lady Rams, who looked impressive at times, fell to 4-5 overall and 3-4 in the conference.

"Christy Scott was instrumental in enabling us to take control early," Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano said. "She had a lot of key spikes and the setters did a nice job getting the ball to the hitters."

Lake Howell served to open the match, but a booming spike by Laura Glass gave the Rams the serve. Another spike by Laura Glass gave Lake Mary a 1-0 lead, but Scott came back with a spike to give the serve to the Hawks.

Lake Howell tied the game at 1-1 on another Scott spike, but a missed serve gave it back to Lake Mary. Scott planted another spike into the Rams defense to give the serve back to the Hawks and they eventually took a 4-1 lead.

Lake Mary later came back to close to within two points, 7-5, but Scott came up with her fourth successful spike of the game to give Lake Howell the serve.

With Caryn Krumweide serving, the Lady Hawks ran up a 11-5 lead, the 11th point coming on yet another spike by Scott. A nice block by Robyn Pinnock broke Krumweide's serving string, but the Rams couldn't capitalize as Scott drilled another spike into the floor, her sixth of the game, to give the serve back Lake Howell.

The Hawks eventually won the first game, 15-5 as Lake Mary couldn't score a point on its last five service chances of the game.

The second game was much closer, with the Rams erasing an early deficit before bowing out in the end. Lake Howell built a 12-3 lead with consistent serving from Beth and Cathy Saunders and Krumweide with Scott chipping in with two more spikes.

Lake Howell was up, 13-6, before the Rams started clawing their way back. With Laura Glass serving, Lake Mary pulled to within 13-8 before losing the serve. Laura Glass gave it right back to the Rams with a nice spike and Lake Mary closed to within 14-11 on the serve of Peggy Glass.

Again, Lake Howell could do nothing once it regained the serve, and Michelle Swartz served a point to cut the Lady Hawks lead to two points, 14-12. But, the Hawks cashed in on their next opportunity and Kathy Barma served the last point as Lake Howell claimed the match, 15-5, 15-12.

"I thought we played well, but we weren't able to put a string of points together," Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry said. "We had moments of excellence, but we still haven't gotten over our timidity. We need to be aggressive for the entire match."

The Lady Hawks and Lady Rams will have a rematch Tuesday at Lake Mary High. The game will not count in the conference but it promises to be an exciting matchup as Thursday night's battle was.

In junior varsity action, the Lady Rams played an outstanding tie-breaking game en route to a 16-14, 8-15, 15-5 victory over the JV Hawks.

The first game was back and forth all the way through, but Lake Mary pulled out the victory as Alex Michelle served the last two points to break a 14-14 tie.

Lake Howell capitalized on numerous Lake Mary mistakes in the second game and took an easy 15-6 win to even the match. Lake Mary needed the serve only two times to put the Hawks away in the third and final game.

Shannon Kavanaugh's blistering serve enabled the Rams to take an early 5-1 lead with the fifth point coming on a nice spike by Kelly Skeens. Lake Howell trimmed the lead to 5-3 before giving up the serve, and the Lady Hawks didn't get the serve back.

Betsy Perry opened up a string of 10 straight service points with an ace and the Rams cruised to a 15-3 third-game victory and the match.

Elsewhere, the Seminole junior varsity improved to 3-2 overall and 2-0 in the conference with a 8-15, 15-3, 16-14 victory over Lyman's JV.

Wendy Lawrence served six of the Lady Tribe's eight points in the first game, but Lyman managed to come away with the victory.

Seminole took control in the second game as Aneka Mitchell served eight straight points to lead Seminole to a 15-3 win. Mitchell came back to serve five straight at the beginning of the deciding game, but Lyman played step for step with the Lady Seminoleles.

Christy Gonzales came on to serve seven straight points and even up the game at 14-14. "Spuffy" Pakovic served the 15th point for the Tribe and Melissa Moak served the 16th and winning point.

...Tribe Goes After No. 3

"They're having a tough time, but their skill people are pretty good."

Wallace, likewise, is impressed with Seminole's skills. "That (Cliff) Campbell has good foot speed," he said. "I'm very impressed with the team speed and aggressiveness. They really come after you on defense. That (Tracy) Holloman and (Fred) Brinson are both good (defensive) ends."

"But we know what they're going to hit us with, Jerry (Posey) has been very consistent with his offense the past few years," he added.

Which means the 'Noles will try to run the ball down Mainland's throat using Juniors Campbell and Jo Jo McCloud on the pitch plays and slants along with Edgemon, Lawrence and Dexter Jones up the middle. Linemen Keith Brown, Jeff Bender and David Linton will once again pave the way. Charles Thomas, 6-1 and 262, will start at tackle to free Rinkavage for his defensive responsibilities. Senior Todd Hildebran will also return at center, replacing Strickland Smith after missing the Lake Howell game with an injury. Junior Robbie Brumley will split time with Wynn at tight end.

McCloud broke a kickoff return for 80 yards against Lake Howell and is coming into his own as a return man, something which has been lacking at Seminole for the past three years. The 'Noles haven't had a punt or kickoff returned for a TD since Fred Howard did so against Apopka two years ago.

Although it's a bit earlier to start taking the Five Star Conference race seriously, a victory this week would give the Seminoleles some good momentum going into next Friday's big one at Apopka. The Blue Darters are 3-0 and ranked seventh in the 4A poll.

Depression Causing Sleepless Nights?

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm thoroughly disgusted with my doctor trying to pacify me and not doing anything about my problem. I'm a female, 63 years old and can't sleep at night. If I get one hour of sleep I'm lucky. I've been this way for a month or more. I have high blood pressure and I take one Dyazide a day. I also have arthritis and had two cortisone shots a month ago.

not addicting and do not cause the same problems many sleep medications may.

I have taken Nytol, Somnax, hot milk, quit drinking coffee or tea after 5 p.m. and still no results. I don't get sleepy during the day. I'm completely exhausted and I just don't know how much longer I can go on.

Meanwhile I am sending you The Health Letter 10-6, Sleep and Insomnia, which includes suggestions on your lifestyle and sleep habits that may help you.

I lost my husband 18 months ago from a heart attack but I have adjusted to his loss pretty well and I'm not under any pressure. My doctor will not give me any nerve or sleeping pills and I would like to know what you suggest.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 16-year-old girl, 5 foot 10, and about 85 pounds overweight. I am on a diet, and exercise and have already lost 18 pounds.

DEAR READER — Don't be angry with your physician. He is trying to help you without harming you with medications. You won't appreciate the thought but perhaps he is concerned that you may have a depression. That is sometimes the cause for insomnia. And you could have a depression about the loss of your husband long after the event, rather than immediately after it.

I started jogging but am concerned that jogging will develop muscles which will add to my weight instead of allowing me to lose weight. I also do little exercises such as sit-ups and side bends which I think will help tone better than jogging.

DEAR READER — Muscles get just big enough and strong enough to contract against the resistance they work against, such as lifting a weight. When you walk or jog your leg muscles must be strong enough to lift your body with each step. Just look at marathon runners and other runners and you will not see a successful runner who has large muscles. Even the leg muscles are not huge. If you gain some muscles while you are losing fat that is good. The muscles will help you use calories even at rest and fat will not. Walking — and jogging and running for those in shape to do it — is good exercise to help lose weight. Long walks use a lot of calories. But I do like to see a well-balanced exercise program, including sit-ups and other exercises, to use all your body muscles.

DEAR READER — You should discuss what you plan to do with your doctor but, with his concurrence, I would make some suggestions. First, stop coffee, tea and all sources of caffeine entirely, not just after 5 p.m. Second, you might do well with an antihistamine such as you would find in Chlor-Trimeton allergy syrup or allergy tablets that you could buy without a prescription, or the anti-motion medication Dramamine. Remember that these could make you drowsy in the day if you use them in the daytime, but they are spades after clearly showing my distribution and West opened the ace of hearts. I dropped dummy's king and West shifted to a diamond. I was in dummy and considered the significance of that unusual ace lead. Finally I came to my hand with the club 10, led my jack of spades and let it ride successfully. Now it was a simple matter to take a second spade finesse, cash dummy's ace, ruff a club back to my hand, pick up West's queen of trumps and claim my slam.

"Beautiful play!" we commended. "You followed your instinct against the percentage, which was to finesse against East for the trump queen. Why so morose?"

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

The unlucky expert had a more mournful look than usual. He looked so sad that we broke down and actually asked him what had gone wrong. He replied, "Here is a hand from last night's duplicate. I arrived in six

"Look at the complete bidding. My partner could surely have bid six no-trump, which spreads without any finesse or other problems. We got one match point for my play. The only other spade declarer went down one, but 11 other declarers bid and made the no-trump slam."

It's Strawberry Planting Time In Central Florida

For the past several weeks I have covered various subjects in dooryard ornamentals and lawns. Now, with the fall gardening season well under way, it is time to take a look at some vegetable gardening tips for those who are interested in growing food for their tables.

A good place to start is with strawberries since we are rapidly approaching the proper time to plant this popular Florida crop. In addition to their taste appeal and attractive appearance, strawberries are well suited to Florida conditions and are relatively easy to grow.

The strawberry plant is perennial by nature, but is grown as an annual in Florida. The plant goes through a cycle of vegetative growth, flower formation, fruit production and then runner development. For those familiar with growing strawberries in the north, it is important to note that our production season is totally reversed.

County Extension Director

Strawberry plants should be set out during October and no later than mid-November. The cool nights and short days of winter stimulate the plant to produce flowers which develop into fruits ready for harvest in about a month. Plants set out in mid-October should produce ripe fruit by Christmas. Berry production and harvesting continue throughout the rest of the winter and through spring. As the weather gets warmer and the days grow longer, the plants will stop producing berries and form runners.

These runners will take root and become new plants, however, for most home gardeners it is more practical to destroy the plants at the end of the crop season and purchase new plants in the fall.

Although strawberries can be grown in just about any type of Florida soil they prefer a well drained soil which can be kept moist but not wet. A sandy soil with considerable organic matter is the best. Because strawberries have a rather shallow root system, some form of irrigation will be required.

Since strawberries are very sensitive to such climatic condition as day length and temperature, it is important to select varieties adapted to Florida conditions. Varieties such as Dover and Florida Belle yield large fruit and are resistant to a common plant disease called anthracnose. Other varieties recommended are Florida 90, Tioga and Sequoia. "Everbearing" varieties are not recommended for Florida.

Strawberries should be planted on raised beds which are approximately six inches high. For a 100 sq. ft. area, broadcast about 2 1/2 lbs. of 8-8-8 fertilizer and work it into the soil before making the beds and the same amount in bands six inches deep and to the side of the plant rows.

After the beds have been formed, fertilized and well moistened, cover each with a sheet of 1/2 mil plastic. Place soil on the edges of the plastic to hold it in place. Then cut slits in the plastic where the plants are to be inserted. Space the plants 12 inches in the row.

Always start with certified, disease-free plants which should be available at your favorite garden store this month. Keep them moist before planting. It is extremely important to set them at the correct depth so that the crowns are not covered and roots not exposed.

With proper maintenance and a bit of luck, you should enjoy fresh strawberries for several months. Additional information on growing strawberries in the garden is available from our office. Vegetable Crops Fact Sheet VC 9-77.

All Extension Programs are open to anyone regardless of race, color, sex, or national origin.

Marie Michelini, WESH-TV Channel 2 meteorologist, will join other participants in a fun cake decorating contest Saturday.

TV Personalities Join Cake Show

The Cake Arts Society of Sanford will hold its Fifth Annual Cake Show Saturday, Oct. 1, from 1-4 p.m., at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

The afternoon events include the judging of cakes previously submitted, drawings for door prizes including a $50 gift certificate from Publix, a snack bar and a craft table featuring kitchen items for sale.

In addition, a live cake decorating contest will be held with local public officials demonstrating their decorating skills. Orlando television personalities joining the decorators will be Marie Michelini, WESH-TV Channel 2, and Tom Hale, WCPX-TV, Channel 6. Both are meteorologists and Michelini says, "I am looking forward to seeing everyone."

Proceeds from the event, open to the public, will benefit the Meals on Wheels Program, a continuing project of the Cake Arts Society.

Speech Conflict 'Makes' A Mountain Of Molehill

DEAR ABBY: A friend and I are having a difference of opinion. Does a person "make a bed" or "dress a bed?" Please settle it.

Dear Abby

FOR ACCURACY IN SPEECH

DEAR ACCURACY: Speech is a method of communicating a thought or idea. Speech at its best is communicating simply and clearly.

When someone says, "I'll make the bed," I understand what the person means. "I'll dress the bed" sounds pretentious. (One dresses himself, a doll or a chicken.)

The word "make" is used in any number of ways: to make believe, make do, make good, make book, make fun, make eyes, make sport, make hay, make love, make waves, and to make a mountain out of a molehill, of which this is a dandy example.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem I've never seen in your column. "Bobby" and I have lived together (happily) for three years. He's a beautiful, caring man, and I know he loves me, but he won't marry me for a reason you're not going to believe. He's afraid of the blood test.

Ever since he was a young boy he's been terrified of needles — so much that he hasn't been to a doctor for 10 years.

I'm pregnant now, and Bobby is delighted. Our child will have his name, but I won't. I hate the thought of being an unwed mother, but we can't get married unless Bobby takes a blood test, and he has flat-out refused.

What should I do? Don't suggest that Bobby see a shrink. He's been seeing one for five months about another problem, but he refuses to tell his shrink about his fear of needles.

NO MRS. IN MANHATTAN

DEAR NO MRS.: An ultimatum is in order. Tell Bobby that if he doesn't tell his "shrink" about his needle phobia and how it is affecting his life and yours, you will. Has that "beautiful, caring man" ever considered hypnosis for a painless blood test? Suggest it.

DEAR ABBY: Help! I, too, need to "get out of the closet." My secret? My sin? I hate dogs! I must confess, I despise dogs! All kinds. When I see a dog lick the hands or face of a child, I get ill just thinking about where that dog's nose has been. And when I see a grown person walking a dog, then stop and stand there while the dog deposits a filthy mess — always on someone else's property — I wonder how that person can look in a mirror.

I could never hurt an animal, but I would gladly sterilize every dog in this world. Just imagine, a world free of dog filth, free of barking, yelping, growling — free of the stench of dog urine! Our children could play on the grass without stepping into a foul mess.

And please don't tell me that a dog is man's best friend, Abby. Is that the best man can do?

DOG-TIRED

DEAR DOG-TIRED: There's not enough space on this page to report how much pleasure, companionship, comfort, safety and service dogs have given man over the years.

If a dog is a nuisance for any reason — blame the owner, not the dog!

DEAR ABBY: My husband has not worked for over a year, and we are just barely making ends meet. Is there a tactful way to stop exchanging Christmas presents? We can't afford to send any, and we don't want any gifts, so how can this be handled?

IN DEBT IN DULUTH

DEAR IN: As I've suggested before, around Thanksgiving, send cards to those on your Christmas gift list saying, "We are thankful for folks with whom we can be frank. We are not in a position to send Christmas gifts this year, and we don't expect gifts, but please accept our love and sincere good wishes for a healthy, happy, blessed holiday."

Pets And People

Best Friends And Good Medicine, To Boot

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

"Love me, love my dog," expresses the close bond between most pet owners and their canine companions.

The relationship with man and his "best friend" goes back many thousands of years. In fact, one theory has it that the first animals to be domesticated — the ancestors of Canis familiaris, the dog of today — were initially tamed by children as pets, not for use in hunting or warfare as one might suspect.

This close primal relationship is supported by an archeological discovery dating back to 12,000 B.C. The fossil skeleton of a man with his hand resting on a young dog was unearthed in Israel in 1978, some say, a sign of the bond between them.

Man's second-best friend, the cat, was consorting with the Egyptian royalty nearly 3,500 years ago.

This ancient relationship is still flourishing in the United States today with more than half all households including at least one dog or cat. The human population of 230 million is supplemented by more than 40 million dogs, more than 23 million cats, between 8 and 9 million horses and numerous other creatures from fish to birds.

Supermarket shelves are packed with dozens of kinds of expensive dog and cat food as well as grooming products, toys and accessories.

What is the passion for pets? According to Desmond Morris, author and animal-behavior expert, it is a perversion of human relationships — a misdirection of human sympathy towards animals rather than people.

Are we guilty of squandering our compassion and wealth on useless animals?

Not according to Judith White, education officer at the National Zoological Park in Washington, D.C., who says "all forms of life have value, a mouse no less than an elephant — or a human being."

In addition to their value in guiding the blind, hunting, protection, sniffing out drugs, tracking criminals, herding sheep, and pulling sleds, dogs are now being recognized for the psychological support and comfort they give their human friends.

Science is beginning to demonstrate that the bond between man and beast is good for us, mentally and physically. Pets, scientists say, may even help their owners live longer.

Research at Ohio State University in the mid-70s on the effects of dogs in the treatment of the mentally ill and on the well-being of the elderly in nursing homes revealed that animals had direct, positive effects on patient behavior and sense of contentment. Pets also served as a "social lubricant," increasing interactions between patients and others.

Other research has shown that petting and talking to animals (or watching fish) can lower pulse rate and blood pressure.

That's the reason the Humane Society of Seminole County takes pets from its shelter to visit area nursing homes and a senior day care center.

Ursula West, who coordinates the program, says that so many nursing homes recognize the benefits of such patient-animal contact that she has

Is Burt's Mother Italian? Does He Wear Lifts?

DEAR DICK: I've read that Burt Reynolds' mother is Italian. If so, what was her maiden name? Also, how tall is Burt? I read that he wears lifts. — D.F., Naples, Fla.

I put the question to one of his buddies who said, yes, his mother is Italian. But when he checked, he found her maiden name was Fern Miller. So, if she's Italian, she is probably Italian on her mother's side. Burt is 5-foot-11 or 6-foot. If he wears lifts, it's only to reach very high shelves.

DEAR DICK: In a recent showing of Masada, it was noted that the Roman soldiers spoke with a British accent. Was this great picture made by a British company? — W.J.A., Hollywood, Fla.

Masada was a co-production between our Universal Pictures and an English company. Most of the speaking parts were played by English actors. In big international productions, when they get actors from all over, accents are a problem. Sometimes, they dub in a lot of speaking parts to give the words a uniformity. But in this case, it was simply that they used English actors.

DEAR DICK: About four or five years ago, David Niven introduced a woman on a talk show as his "new wife." He said they had made a picture together. She had an odd name and was very attractive. But his obituary named two wives and neither of them was the name he had given on that show. Were they divorced or just living together or what? — F.M.D., Saginaw, Mich.

You must have misunderstood at some point. Niven's widow is a lovely Swedish woman whose name is Hjordis. They had been married for many years. (Her name is pronounced "Yordis," so it is possible it's the same woman; the name looks different in print.)

DEAR DICK: I recently watched a 1957 movie called Les Girls with Gene Kelly and Mitzl Gaynor. The other two members of the dancing act looked very familiar. Could you tell me their names? — L.M., Jupiter, Fla.

They were the lovely English comedienne, the late Kay Kendall, and the Finnish ballerina-actress Talna Elg. Kay played Lady Wren and Talna was Angel in that fine old film.

DEAR DICK: My dad and I have a $100 bet on this. He thinks the lady in Urban Cowboy, Sissy, is the same lady who played in Allen. Is he correct? — T.H., Williamsport, Pa.

Tell dear old dad it's time to have his glasses tuned. Debra Winger was in Urban Cowboy, and Sigourney Weaver was in Allen. Sigourney is about eight or nine inches taller than Debra.

DEAR DICK: Years ago, I remember a movie called I'd Climb the Highest Mountain. It starred Susan Hayward. Didn't William Lundigan star with her? Haven't seen or heard of him in years. Is he still living? — B.R.G., Chelalis, Wash.

Your memory is sharp; Bill Lundigen was Susan Hayward's co-star in that film. But he's gone; he died in '75.

'Emerald Point' Mimics Real Life

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — In the global scheme of things, what happens on the CBS series Emerald Point N.A.S. hardly matters, but it does to Michael Carven. Because the horrifying tragedy of the Korean airliner, shot down by Soviet fighter planes, could conceivably cost Carven his job.

On the show, he plays a Russian fighter pilot used by our Navy as an expert, after an American plane is downed by Cuban fighter planes. The coincidence is startling and since the real-life tragedy, Carven (a Romanian-born actor) has not worked. There are high-level talks on whether or not his character will continue on the show.

BARRY LIVINGSTON is another name and face for the "Whatever happened to" file. In case you don't know or remember, for seven happy, formative years Barry played Ernie on My Three Sons.

He's a big boy now, and has been for some time, and has turned into a fine young man. He's still acting in the theater in and around LA and in a couple of weeks Barry and his brother, Stanley, will be seen in the NBC movie High School U.S.A.

Like most ex-child stars, he had a dry period. When that happened, he went to New York. There he got lucky and was part of the historic production of The Skin of Our Teeth, presented both on Broadway and at the Kennedy Center in Washington, as part of the bicentennial theatrical celebration.

"I think I lost something by being a child star," Livingston says. "I can't quite define what it was but, for lack of a better word, I'd say it was 'choice.' I continued acting because it was there. I've often wondered what I might have done had I had more of a choice. College, maybe? Then who knows?"

TERRY KINGSLEY-SMITH grew up around Hollywood, because his mother, Dorothy Kingsley, was a noted screenwriter. She wrote most of the Esther Williams films and the original Seven Brides For Seven Brothers.

Young Terry watched it all. His best friend, as a kid, was Margaret O'Brien, and he watched all of what happened to her, too. His big brother, Dennis, was Elizabeth Taylor's first date — their mothers arranged it when they were both 14 — and he took Debbie Reynolds to her first prom. Terry watched all that, too.

Terry became an actor and a writer. Now he's written a book, The Murder of an Old-Time Movie Star, that draws nicely on all those events he watched as a kid.

The book features the private eye Pete McCoy. And Terry hopes this is the first of a series of books about McCoy. He also hopes they become movies. Terry's mother thinks Sylvester Stallone would be great as McCoy. Jaclyn Smith asked for a copy and wants to play the leading lady.

So we may all be watching Terry Kingsley-Smith writing a new chapter in Hollywood history.

PAT COLLINS is the bright and pretty woman who does the arts and entertainment things for the CBS Morning News. She is a nice person, so it is only fair that her first book is called How To Be a Really Nice Person.

"Thank You For 9 Great Years"

'Gambler II' Eyes Wild West Scene

By Dick Kleiner

SEDONA, Ariz. (NEA) — This is a picture-postcard part of Arizona, with unreal red spires sticking up atop unreal red mountains surrounding this quaint town. It is therefore a great place to shoot a Western, because wherever you point the camera there is bound to be an incredible scenic backdrop.

In this case, there is an incredible scenic front drop on the premises, too — a lady known as Linda Evans. Linda — alias Krystle Carrington of Dynasty — is certainly one of our more incredible blonde natural resources.

She is sandwiching in this role — opposite Kenny Rogers in the CBS movie, The Gambler, Part II — between her trip to China as one of The Love Boat guest cruisers and her return to Dynasty. She says she didn't want to work, in the few weeks she had between the China trip and her regular job.

"But," she says, "my friend, Christine Belford, who played Kenny's wife in the first Gambler movie, told me this was a nice company and everybody was pleasant and it would be fun and easy.

"So I said I would do it," she says. "I got here just one day after I returned from China — and the first 'fun and easy' thing they had me doing was hanging. There I was, hanging out there in the sun — and the temperature was 113 degrees. I'm going to kill Christine the next time I see her."

Miss Evans plays a fast gun in this, and her practicing gave a few deliverymen in Los Angeles a start. She says they gave her a gun to work with and she wore it strapped around her waist for several weeks, trying out her fast draw every few minutes.

"I really startled a bunch of delivery men," she says. Another of the group supporting Kenny Rogers in this TV movie is Bruce Boxleitner.

"I'm a lot more optimistic about this series," Boxleitner says, "than I was this time last year about the series I was doing then Bring 'Em Back Alive. I think this series appeals to a much broader segment of the audience."

It also has humor in it — as does The Gambler, Part II — and Boxleitner considers himself primarily a comic actor. He says his earliest acting experiences were all in comedy.

"I believe," he says, "that there is some comedy in every character. I wouldn't want to do only comedy, but I also wouldn't want to do something that had no humor in it at all."

Boxleitner was part of the first Gambler film and it was a huge ratings hit. There was talk, he says, of spinning that film off into a series, revolving around the character he plays, Billy Montana. CBS realized that Rogers would never do a series, because his heart is primarily in singing and entertaining.

"But," Boxleitner says, "the idea of doing a Young Gambler series was dropped when Jim Garner's Maverick series was a failure. They figured our show was designed for that same audience, so no point in doing it at all."

Boxleitner says his wife, Kathryn Holcomb, whom he met when they were both in The Macahans series, has retired from acting.

"I never asked Kitty to quit," he says, "and if she wants to come back later, she certainly can. But for the time being she's happy being a mother to our son, Sam, who is 3."

Boxleitner has done a lot of Westerns, and loves them. He hopes they make a comeback. He says the reason so few are being made today isn't the fault of the Western itself. "The truth is they simply made some bad ones," he says, "all that psychotic and anti-hero crap. Westerns have always been popular because they are simple, and that's the kind they should make."

Miss Evans, like everybody else who made that China trip with and for The Love Boat, found it a fascinating experience.

"People ask me if I had fun," she says. "But it wasn't fun so much as it was just very exciting. I learned — contrary to what I'd been told — that the Chinese are very warm people. I'd go out in the street and they would instantly surround me. They weren't threatening, they were just curious, and they would smile and stare at me."

They probably do that in Sedona, Ariz., too — if you look like Linda Evans.

Kathleen Revives Turner Tradition

By Dick Kleiner
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — For years, Lana Turner was the queen of sexy sizzle in movies. Now we have another Turner, Kathleen (no relation). In "Body Heat" and "The Man With Two Brains," she has showed that she is quite adept at the sexy sizzle, too.

It seems to be Hollywood's illustration of the old saying that one good Turner deserves another.

Kathleen Turner, as a result of playing the title body in "Body Heat" and following that with some great comedy moments in "The Man With Two Brains," is one of the hottest properties around town these days.

She just finished her third movie — "A Breed Apart," with Rutger Hauer and Powers Boothe — and is currently off to Mexico for her fourth, "Romancing the Stone," with Michael Douglas.

She thinks she has gotten better in each film. Anyone who was awed by her beauty in "Body Heat" might be surprised to learn she thinks she looked even more beautiful in "The Man With Two Brains."

"It's a combination of better makeup and better lighting," she says. "Plus I'm getting better as I get older."

She is also getting braver.

She says she is now brave enough to say no to offers more often, and believes that saying no frequently is a key to acting success. She said no a lot after "Body Heat" zoomed her to the top. Naturally, a lot of producers flocked around with offers to play parts similar to Mattie Walker and she didn't want to do that.

"I turned them all down," she says. "Instead, I went back to the stage for a while."

She considers herself primarily a stage actress. That's what she started out to be, and that's what she still wants to be.

She grew up here and there. Her father was in the foreign service and there were four Turner children. Two of them grew up hating that peripatetic life — living in Venezuela, England, Canada and Cuba — and wanted only to settle down somewhere forever. But Kathleen and her younger brother thrived on the moving around and all the new experiences.

At 14, she decided she was going to act. She says her mother insists she always was an actress.

"Mother says I always performed," she says. "She says I first sang a solo when I was four, in a department store."

She went to high school in London, and they let her

Kathleen Turner's career hasn't cooled down since her red-hot debut in Body Heat. She followed it up with The Man With Two Brains and is currently working on her fourth movie.

audit classes at the various London dramatic schools. That was a big help. But then her father died, and the family moved back to its basic home of Springfield, Mo., so she studied acting at Southwest Missouri State.

She considers New York her home now, because she went there right after college and still lives there.

In "A Breed Apart," she plays a rural woman. So she asked her Missouri grandmother for some Ozarkian sayings to sprinkle into her dialogue. Several of them have found their way into the script.

One she particularly likes is: "That man's so full of himself that he thinks he could put out Hell with a bucket of water."

After her red-hot debut in "Body Heat," it took somebody like Carl Reiner to realize that Miss Turner could be funny as well as sexy.

"I loved working with Carl (in 'The Man With Two Brains')," she says. "When we started, I asked him how far he'd allow me to go."

"How far can you go?" he asked me. "So I said, 'Just watch me.'"

Chances are we'll all be watching Kathleen Turner for a long time to come.

Banks Bank On Movie Studios, Not Stars

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Bank of America, largest banking institution in the country, holds there is no such thing as a bankable movie star.

B of A is an authority on such matters. Its entertainment section has a $2 billion credit line out to studios and major producers this year alone, topping by far all other movie bankrollers.

Should such box-office winners as Clint Eastwood, director Steven Spielberg and writer William Goldman come seeking a loan, they'd be turned away.

The sophisticated business of financing movies has changed dramatically in the past decade with loans and lines of credit — up from $250 million in 1968 to $2 billion today — going only to corporations or their studio subsidiaries with little if any consideration given star names.

It's understandable considering a cheapie like Porky's without a single star, earned $100 million, and an expensive film like All Night Long, starring Barbra Streisand and Gene Hackman, went down the drain.

James A. Parsons, Bank of America vice president of entertainment-media-health services, and Peter W. Geiger, vice president of the bank's North American Division, look primarily at studio balance sheets and other assets when loaning money.

Curiously, movies are only high-risk investments for the companies which make them — Paramount, Disney, Universal, MGM, Columbia and Warner Bros.

B of A never loses money on movie loans. Unlike other industries, no studio since Fox in the 1920s has ever gone bankrupt.

The cyclical nature of studio profits protects banks. One year a studio may lose a king's ransom while another hits the jackpot. A year or two later their positions may be reversed.

MGM teetered on the brink of bankruptcy two years ago but made a dramatic comeback.

Certainly, many movies — perhaps most — lose money. But breakaway hits more than make up for losers. Hits such as E.T. and Return of the Jedi haul in a quarter billion dollars.

Geiger and Parsons are closely tuned to studio production slates, cognizant of scripts, stars, directors and producers scheduled to make which movies.

But their principal concerns are studio management teams, track records and talent at putting together salable slates of films.

"We're interested in corporate leadership," Parsons said. "We don't get involved in creative aspects of movies. In venture capital you look for three things — management, management, management."

Parsons grinned when asked whether he thought the Cannon Group (an independent) was going overboard in offering Sylvester Stallone a record-breaking $12 million to star in a new picture.

"We hate to see salaries go up to $12 million because of the profit factor," Geiger said. "But we are not engaged in basing loans on casting."

"We're not financing Cannon," Parsons added. "The key element to financing movies doesn't involve star, script or director. They may be bankable to producers, theater groups or studios but not to banks."

Geiger said, "There are bankable producers and we like some better than others, men like Francis Coppola and George Lucas. Even so, we don't make them loans. Credit is extended to corporations they work through, major studios and independent producers."

"We don't interfere with production costs. We allow the film company to spend its line of credit as it sees fit," Parsons said.

"We don't finance pictures on their stand-alone basis. We finance entire slates. Therefore, we never lose sleep over whether any one picture makes or loses money."

Financial umbrellas protect banks against losses. Not the least of these are studio film libraries, studio real estate and corporate ownership by such giants as Coca Cola (Columbia), MCA (Universal), Warner Communications (Warner Bros.) and Gulf and Western (Paramount).

Currently, according to Parsons, Disney and MCA don't need bank money because their cash flow is so great. They use the bank on a stand-by basis.

The financial health of Hollywood studios is illustrated by the fact that the Bank of America has a $2 billion commitment for financing films but only $500 million in outstanding loans.

"Movies," Parsons concluded happily, "are a very good investment for our bank."

Deaf Picket Over Captioning

By United Press International

Deaf protesters carrying picket signs and speaking in sign language demonstrated outside CBS television stations nationwide this week to show disapproval with the network's lack of closed-captioned programming.

Various groups for the deaf staged peaceful protests outside stations in California, North Carolina, South Carolina, West Virginia, Indiana, Iowa, South Dakota and Florida. They asked for a daylong boycott of CBS programs.

"We want CBS policymakers to know how we feel down here. We can't get up there (to New York) to protest," said Pauline Hicks, 65, in Jacksonville.

CBS said it adopted a captioning system early this year, but decoders to translate the signal probably won't be available from manufacturers until 1984. ABC, NBC and PBS provide captions for hearing-impaired viewers.

CBS does not participate in the "Line 21" system that brings captions to deaf viewers of other networks.

difficulty in fulfilling all their requests for visits because of a shortage of volunteers.

On a recent visit to an adult day care center in Casselberry, Mrs. West said a puppy was jumping around making everyone laugh. "One elderly gentleman wanted to hold the dog, something that was warm and alive next to him," she said. "The people were just thrilled. It seems to remind them of happier days when they were in their own homes and their children were growing up and they start telling us about pets they used to have and held fond memories for."

Male patients usually prefer dogs and the women enjoy petting the cuddly kittens, she said. "We have a hard time getting them to let go when it was time to leave. They talked about how friendly the pets were and how soft they felt. It was a very worthwhile experience for everyone concerned."

One nursing home is even considering having a

"pet-in-residence" that residents could have a part in caring for and feeding. "Something to which they can give of themselves," Mrs. West said.

"It's wonderful, they (the patients) react to it very well," said Kaye Marie Stroup, social services and activities director at Longwood Health Care Center, where the Humane Society volunteers have visited with their animals.

"It is good therapy for the patients. Everybody loves a puppy. It makes them happy and gives them a good feeling inside."

It is not just the elderly who benefit from this contact with pets. Mrs. West said emotionally disturbed children are also helped by having them around.

Parents often get their children pets with the goal of teaching responsibility, but animals can suffer in the care of children if not carefully guided by adults.

With proper supervision, however, both kids and their pets can benefit from a close association. What else but a pet can offer unconditional affection, loyalty and pure fun?

Researchers are beginning to investigate what pets mean to the development of children. University of Pennsylvania psychiatrist Aaron Katcher suggests that a pet may be the only creature capable of giving affection to and receiving it from boys at a certain stage of development — that point when they are too old to kiss mom and too young to kiss girls.

Just 23, Timothy Hutton A Special Case

By Vernon Scott

UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Once a millenium, providence confers a special brilliance on an actor — as can be attested by anyone who has seen the near genius of Timothy Hutton.

Hutton, just turned 23, became the second youngest actor to win an Oscar — three years ago for his performance as the suicidal teenager in Ordinary People. (Tatum O'Neal was the youngest).

He followed his stunning debut with a triumphant performance as the obsessed military school cadet commander in Taps last year.

This year he has flowered as an adult in the title role of the controversial Daniel, based on the story of Ethel and Julius Rosenberg, executed as spies for passing atomic secrets to the Russians.

Tim's effortless, convincing portraits of young Americans in torment rank him among today's great film actors, without the petulant rebellion that conferred sainthood on James Dean and other method actors of the 1950s.

Tim has never taken acting lessons. He is an original.

Off-screen there is a curious aura about him, combining self-possession with the shy nervousness of a man of enormous gifts caught up in a maelstrom even he does not fully comprehend. He seems predestined for greatness.

Tall, slender, pale-skinned and with quick, intelligent blue eyes, he is the image of his actor father, the late Jim Hutton, but without the latter's sardonic wit and cynicism.

Tim may be the world's best paid

Timothy Hutton

23-year-old. He participates in the profits of his films, but lives modestly at the beach, wears scruffy clothes and avoids Hollywood's glitter.

What goes through Tim's mind when the cameras start up and he begins to communicate with the audience with an absolute minimum of facial expression and body language?

"In every scene I feel as if we're really doing it," he said somewhat uneasily, reluctant to examine his talent too closely.

"I see a brilliant light and I head for that light to make it bigger and bigger so everyone can see it.

"I float like a hummingbird or a waterbug skittering around, skirting as much as possible to hit every level of feeling and emotion.

"It was easy to play the high emotional range of Daniel. I tried to make the characters I play more interesting by holding back and letting their unspoken feelings provide the strength."

Tim's approach to acting, while both emotional and intellectual, is essentially instinctive. All the same, his career choices have been brilliantly pragmatic. He has made no wrong choices.

It was no accident that after playing two juveniles he has moved up to adult parts. Nor is it coincidence that his first three parts have been widely dissimilar — frightened son, militant fanatic, soul-searching survivor.

Tim further demonstrates his versatility in two new films. The Iceman, a science-fiction thriller in which he plays an archaeologist, and the real-life role of convicted U.S. spy Christopher Boyce in The Falcon and

The Snowman.

"It was time to stop playing teenagers," Tim said. "I wanted to play a college man with a wife, family and baby. Playing 18-year-olds wasn't much of a stretch for me anymore. In Daniel I'm 25. In The Iceman I'm 27."

What has Tim to look forward to, having won an Oscar in his first movie? What goals are left?

"I try not to remember the Oscar or to rely on the success of Ordinary People as a motivating force in my life. I don't want to sound ungrateful, but I have higher goals.

"Winning an award doesn't mean forgetting other goals, playing different kinds of roles, continuing to grow and learn. Doing work that touches other other people means more to me than any award."

There is an attractive humility about young Hutton that poses the question of when or whether his huge success, the praise and money will inflate his ego and alter his values.

He grinned and said, "Before my father died I learned a lot of important things about his values and attitudes. Also from my mother.

"I've been living on my own for quite a while now. When I feel I'm getting out of line, I remember Mom's and Dad's words and settle down."

Another 'Star Wars' Film?

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Dale Pollock, who wrote "Skywalking," the biography of "Star Wars" creator George Lucas, believes the recent breakup of Lucas' marriage may turn out to be good news for his movie fans.

Until the split, Pollock felt that Lucas was not interested in making too many more movies. He thought there was little chance of any more "Star Wars" films. Pollock says Lucas has six more "Star Wars" films outlined, "but he is afraid of the cost factor."

"The first 'Star Wars' cost somewhere around $11 million," Pollock says. "The most recent, 'Return of the Jedi,' cost $40 million or so. Lucas is afraid the next couple could come in at around $80 million each, and he doesn't believe he could assure himself of a profit if it cost that much."

So Pollock thinks Lucas wasn't thinking of more movies. But now, the writer says, "the breakup of his marriage could push him into more active film making." Lucas had been saying he wanted to spend more time with his family, but now that can't be, so he may go back to his other love, making movies.

Incidentally, Pollock has an interesting theory about the Ewoks, the fuzzy little creatures in "Jedi." He thinks they are simply "cut-down versions of the Wookles, such as Chewbacca — note that their names contain the same letters."

SUSAN ANTON says she now knows what an animal in a zoo must feel like.

She was talking about her trip to China as one of the guest cruisers on "The Love Boat." The Chinese couldn't take their eyes off her.

Besides, she was there with her sister, also tall and blonde, and, to Oriental eyes, the sight of those two skyscraping blondes was totally incredible.

"Whenever we stopped on the street or anywhere," Susan says, "a crowd of 50 or 60 people would gather and just stare. They wouldn't try to touch or speak, just stare. If you smiled, they smiled, but they never smiled first."

Susan is pleased with her career progress. For a while, it was dragging. Her movie, "Golden Girl," turned to lead and she had two unsuccessful TV series.

"I was a bit discouraged then," she says. "But now things are happening, so I'm optimistic again." She's off to Arizona for a role in Burt Reynolds' "Cannonball Run 2" and there are other things brewing. And she says she and Dudley Moore are still doing a lot of nice things together.

COLLEEN CAMP, who has done many good things (including "Apocalypse Now" and "The Cloud Dancer") is back acting after taking a year off to write. She and her friends, Martha Coolidge (who directed "Valley Girl") and Sandra Will, wrote a script called "Twelve's a Crowd" and they are all optimistic it will be made.

Colleen has been raising the money to get it made. And, if and when it is made, she'll be the associate producer as well as co-writer. But she is not abandoning her acting career.

I BUMPED into Ray Bolger — the straw man in "Wizard Of Oz" among many other graceful roles — and he was hobbling badly. He told me he was facing an operation to replace a hip.

"I seriously doubt," Bolger says, "that I will ever dance again."

Garp's Gang

Robin Williams (top and bottom right) stars in the title role of The World According To Garp, the comedy-drama which debuts Sunday at 8 p.m. on HBO.
