Man Prepares to Cross Atlantic In A Hang Glider

MONTMAGNY, Quebec (UPI) — The Canadian hang glider pilot attempting a transatlantic flight rested in a small town on the St. Lawrence River today on the second day of his bid to make the 5,000 mile crossing in his trail craft.

Cloudier said weather in the area today was "nice, but a bit windy."

Sarmont, 28, of Santa Cruz, Calif., plans to stop in Scotland and France after his Atlantic crossing in the glider that is powered by a noncombustible engine.

On Sunday, weather Montreal met Boston air traffic control centers could find a trace of the small craft that left Vermont earlier in the day.

"If he had landed anywhere in our territory we would know and we cover a 200-square-mile area," Quebec Police Force officer Pierre Goupil said late Sunday.

"We have not had any reports of any strange plane landings."

The police said heavy rain and high winds buffeted the Riviere-du-Lois area on the St. Lawrence, about 200 miles northeast of Montreal.

To make matters worse during the Canadian leg of the voyage, Sarmont will be without the help of air traffic control.

There were reports Sarmont, who landed short of his original destination of Riviere du Loys, further down the river, planned to make his next stop at Sept Iles, 400 miles north of Quebec and on the north shore of the St. Lawrence.

Deltona Plan Threatens Sanford's New Hospital

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

After a full-service hospital for Deltona became "a very good possibility" following action in Jacksonville, Hospital Corporation of America (HCA) today reiterated its position it will not build a hospital in Sanford if allocated less than 200 beds.

The Project Review Committee of the Health Systems Agency of North East Florida (HSA-NEF) Tuesday recommended approval of West Volusia Memorial Hospital's proposal to build a satellite hospital in Deltona by reassigning some of West Volusia's beds.

Earlier, John Beaton, executive director of the Health Systems Agency of East Central Florida (HSA-ECF), the agency with jurisdiction over Seminole County, said it would have to take into consideration the hospital situation in Deltona in considering HCA's proposal for a 226-bed hospital to be located in Sanford. The HSA-ECF could recommend more or less beds for the facility in considering regional needs.

Currently about one-third of the patients who seek medical care in Sanford come from Deltona.

The proposal for the new hospital, to replace Seminole Memorial Hospital, is not expected to come up for public hearings before August.

The Deltona satellite hospital would be a full-service facility with at least 50 beds, said HSA-NEF Director Fred Huertkamp.

The HSA-NEF committee chose the West Volusia proposal over proposals for a 100-bed hospital from Gateway Medical Management Corp., of Clearwater, and a 122-bed hospital from Southern Health Services, Inc., of Atlanta, Huertkamp said.

There has been agitation for a hospital in Deltona for some time, he said, but Volusia County, including Deland, is over-bedded, he said.

In order to build the satellite hospital, he explained, West Volusia Memorial would be required to de-license an equal number of beds at its facility in Deland.

But the possibility of a hospital in Deltona concerns HCA officials because of the many Deltona patients who come to Sanford for their medical care.

HCA, which took over county-owned 196-bed Seminole Memorial Hospital in March, plans to build its replacement facility along Lake Monroe at U.S. Highway 17-92 and Mangosine Ave. In the planning of the new hospital it was considered that many patients would come from Deltona.

Doug Lewis, HCA's Director of Domestic Development, said a full-service hospital for Deltona is not economically feasible at this time.

But the satellite facility, according to Huertkamp, would be made economically feasible by sharing administrative services, computer facilities, maintenance support and some of the more expensive diagnostic and therapeutic facilities with the parent hospital, he said.

Dr. Thomas Largent, Sanford surgeon who also maintains offices in Deltona, said the satellite would be nothing more than an infirmary and would not satisfy Deltona's needs. Largent said he favored the proposal of Southern Health Services.

But Huertkamp said a satellite hospital can be a full-service facility.

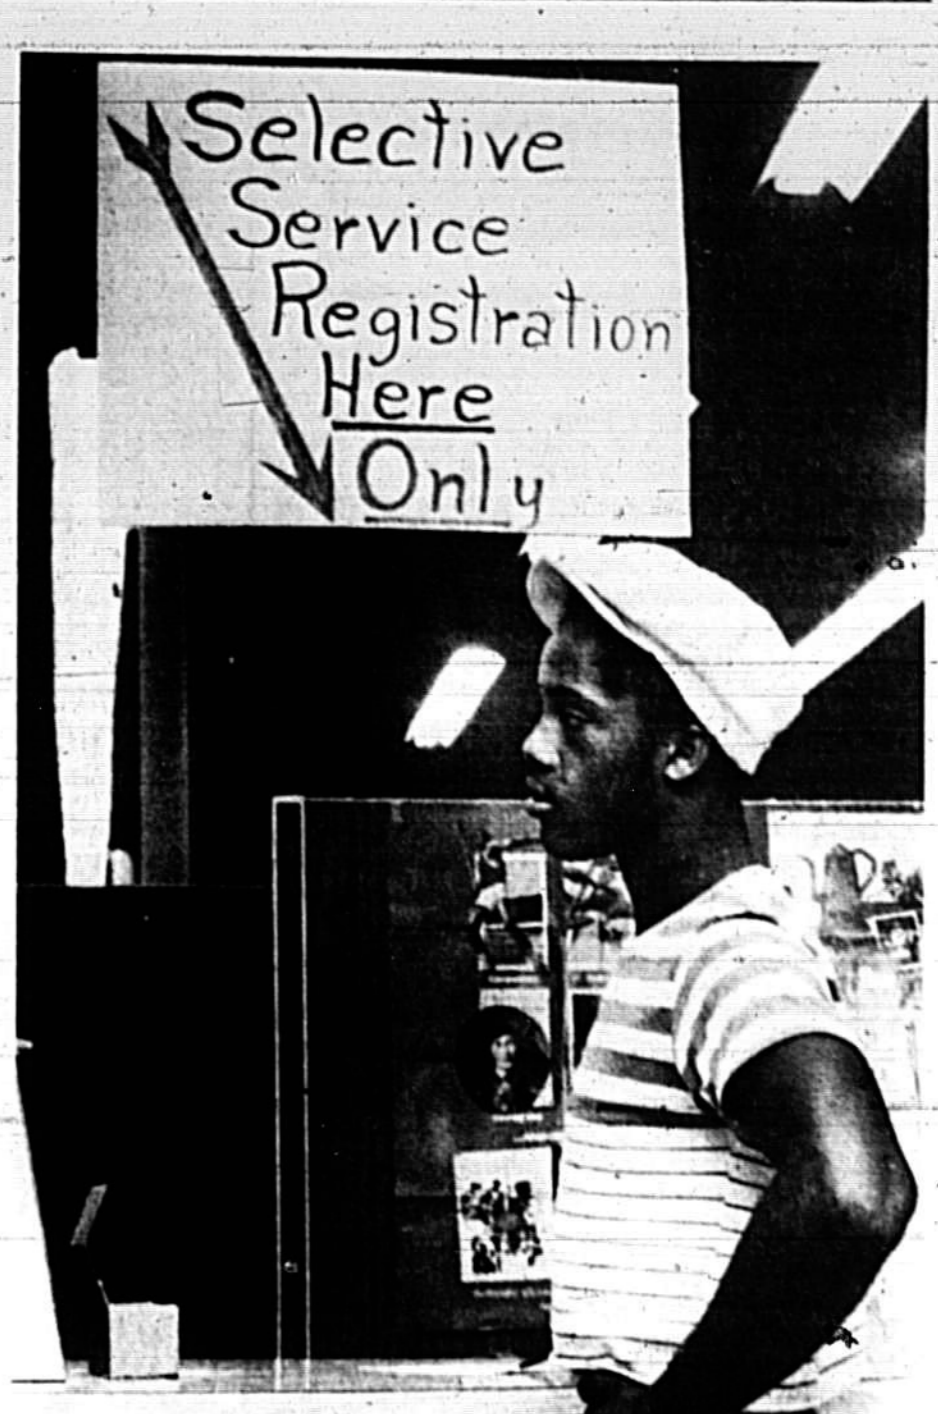

David Williamson, HCA executive vice president for Domestic Development, said he does not think the proposal for Deltona from West Volusia will gain final approval.

He said if West Volusia loses 50 beds in Deland it will not be able to accommodate its current patient load. Huertkamp said some of that load may be shifted to Fish Memorial Hospital, also in Deland, which is underoccupied. He added that the Deltona satellite hospital has a very good chance of gaining final approval since it was approved by both the Project Review and Executive Committees. It will be voted on by the HSA-NEF board of directors Thursday.

Usually, once a project is recommended by both the committees that's also the way the board votes, Huertkamp said.

If the proposal gets the full board's approval it will go to the state Bureau of Community Medical Facilities in Tallahassee for final approval, he said.

Huertkamp predicted that as long as the proposal is for a redistribution of beds and no new beds are added to the already over-bedded area, the state will approve the project.

Dad Accuses U.S. Of 'Kidnapping' Boy, 12, Fights Return To USSR

CHICAGO (UPI) — The father of a 12-year-old boy seeking political asylum to avoid returning to the Soviet Union says he doesn't understand how the United States can take his son away.

In an exclusive interview with the Chicago Tribune, published in today's early editions, Michael Polovchak, father of Walter Polovchak, said the United States has no right to take his son away from him.

"Am I drunkard? I am not. Do I abuse my children? I do not. Have I broken any laws? I have not. So who is the government to take away my child?" Polovchak said. "It is against the law and against the Constitution."

Walter ran away from home last Monday and is fighting his family's efforts to return to the Ukraine. He has been placed in the state's custody until officials decide "on his request for political asylum, an action his father has branded as 'illegal.'"

"I would never again see my parents rather than leave Chicago," Walter, who arrived in the United States with his family last January and has been living on the North Side, said during a custody hearing Saturday.

Juvenile Court Judge Joseph C. Mooney ordered the boy remanded into the care of the state until July 30, when another court hearing was scheduled. He was placed with a Ukrainian-American family by the Department of Children and Family Services.

Polovchak, 42, remained silent during the hearing but blurted in Ukrainian when his son was led from the courtroom. "They're kidnapping my boy."

Polovchak and his wife, Anna, 38, have two other children, Michael, 6, and Natalie, 17. Natalie has her own visa and has decided to remain in the United States.

"I am so scared for my brother," said Natalie, a high school sophomore. "If he is forced to go back with my parents, he will be punished there."

$30 Billion Deficit Predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration said today the recession will produce a $11 billion federal budget deficit this year and turn next year's projected $16 billion surplus into a $20 billion deficit.

In the annual mid-session budget and economic review, budget officials also estimated unemployment will rise to 8.5 percent at the end of this year and remain at that level throughout 1981 unless there are policy changes.

The latest inflation estimate is that consumer prices will rise 12 percent during 1980 and just under 10 percent during 1981. This is slightly more optimistic for 1980 than officials had estimated and slightly more pessimistic for 1981.

As it had indicated, the administration opposed enactment of a tax cut during the remaining months of this year but said one probably will be needed next year.

The projected deficit for fiscal 1980 — the current year — has grown in the updated figures by $24 billion, from $26.5 billion estimated in March to a new estimate of $50.5 billion.

The deficit projected for fiscal year 1981, which begins Oct. 1, has swung from a $16.5 billion surplus projected in March to a deficit of $29.8 billion.

Federal spending has increased by $10 billion in 1980 and $22 billion in 1981 in the new estimates. The administration said this came from three reasons:

- Higher outlays for unemployment benefits and other programs which rise during recession.
- Higher spending for defense reflecting more rapid spending rates and higher costs for pay, fuel and other purchases.
- Unanticipated events such as the eruption of Mount St. Helens and the recent influx of Cuban and Haitian immigrants.

Cash government receipts have dropped by $15 billion in 1980 and $24 billion in 1981 in the revised estimates.

The administration's new estimate of $55 billion unemployment replaces a March projection that unemployment would rise only to 7.3 percent. Already the jobless level is at 7.7 percent. Each full percentage point represents about 1 million unemployed persons.

Nineteen-year-old Sanford resident Johnnie Hale, 60 Castle Brewer Court, was among the first to register for the draft this morning at the Sanford Post Office.

Thousands File For Future Draft

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thousands of young American men went to post offices around the nation today to register for the draft and protesters blocked the entrance to Selective Service headquarters to read the names of Vietnam War dead.

Another began reading a long list of names of Vietnam War dead. The list was then placed in a mock coffin.

The statement said registration is not "an isolated event," but is a "major step toward the draft."

In California, about 150 people each turned out Sunday for demonstrations against registration in Los Angeles and Sacramento. No arrests were reported.

Since Carter's call, the registration has been bitterly fought in the House and the Senate. It was taken, finally, on the form of a 3-year-old Vietnam-era suit, all the way to the Supreme Court.

Supreme Court Justice William Brennan Saturday ordered the registration to begin despite a challenge that it discriminates against women. It is the culmination of a bitter six-month political fight that began when Carter, an ex-State of the Union address, called for registration — but not the draft — as a sign of military preparedness following the Soviet Union's invasion of Afghanistan.

In some places, registrants were to be met by picket lines, leaflets and demonstrations by draft opponents. In some cities, anti-draft demonstrators vowed to disrupt and shut down the post offices where their registration is being conducted.

About two dozen protesters demonstrated in front of the Selective Service System headquarters in Washington, with a dozen of them sitting down and blocking doorways the building where the seventh floor office is located.

Police gently dragged the demonstrators from doorways, but each was quickly replaced by another.

"Because of our moral, religious, and political beliefs, we feel it is necessary to demonstrate our concern and opposition to draft registration at the Selective Service today," said a statement read by one demonstrator.

'Rose Parades' Honor Matriarch Of Kennedys

BOSTON (UPI) — It looked like the celebration of a national holiday but it was just a birthday party. The birthday girl was Rose Kennedy, matriarch of one of America's most famous families, who turns 90 Tuesday.

Sunday's celebration in the oppressive Boston-area heat included "Rose Parades" in six cities, marching bands and a float, 3,000-gallon Monday calls with Mrs. Kennedy's portrait in icing.

But even on her day, the woman who raised a president was on the campaign trail. She was raising money for the scaled "Special Olympics" for the mentally retarded. Her firstborn daughter, Rosemary, is mentally retarded.

The thousands of grandmothers, grandfathers and youngsters who joined in the festivities contributed at least $50,000 to the Olympics cause.

Perhaps the most touching moment came during a brief pre-parade ceremony at the Dunfee Hyannis Hotel where the marchers had gathered. Mrs. Kennedy — dressed in white, clutching a bouquet of red roses and wearing an old fashioned hat and sunglasses to fight the glare of the sweltering sun — listened to the tribute of proud son, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

"All the members of the Kennedy family take a very special pride in what she has done for the family," the senator said. He led the crowd in singing "Happy Birthday to You."

MONTMAGNY, Quebec (UPI) — The Canadian hang glider pilot attempting a transatlantic flight rested in a small town on the St. Lawrence River today on the second day of his bid to make the 5,000 mile crossing in his trail craft.

Florida Glider Dies

INDIAN TOWN, Fla. (UPI) — A North Palm Beach man died Sunday when he lost control of his motorized hang glider and it dived to the ground, the Martin County Sheriff's Office said.

James Whittemore, 40, was killed instantly, a spokesman said. He was trying to take off in the glider when he lost control at about 20 feet and the glider fell nose-first.

The Statue of Liberty on the way. On Saturday, he flew his lightweight craft from upstate New York along Lake Champlain to the Ferrisburg resort.

"We're having a ball, sweetheart," he said shortly before takeoff. "It's been hard, but I'm having a wonderful time."

During the early stages of his journey, Sarmont flew at altitudes of more than 1,000 feet. But the trip was slowed by constant landings to check equipment.

"It's like having a new car. At first there are a lot of little things that go wrong," he said, but added, "We are getting the bugs worked out."

Looking further, she found her son dead in an almost-filled bathtub, deputies say. She told deputies she was alone in her home at the time, but called her husband, at work, when she discovered the body.

Seminole Det. John Thorpe said this morning that he can only say the case is under investigation, pending results of an autopsy scheduled for today.

Brazil Draws New Attention

Until Pope John Paul II made his journey to Brazil earlier this month, that most important of South American countries had not been much in the news.

Such negligence is an unfortunate distortion of reality because this emerging giant with a population of 120 millions is surely destined to exert considerable influence for good or bad on the Western Hemisphere and the world at large.

Fortunately, our belated focus on Brazil finds much that is promising beyond the enormous social problems which the Pope centered on. The big thing in Brazil these days is "abertura," which is Portuguese for "opening."

General Joao Batista Figueiredo, the gentlemanly and popular military president now in his second year in office, is an avowed apostle of abertura and is laboring to keep the transition on its feet.

Such reforms are not without opposition from important elements of the military, which has held sway since 1964, when it toppled the chaotic, Marxist regime of the late Gen. Goulart.

Nevertheless, the annual inflation rate is at a rampant 80 percent. This continues to crush the middle class and magnifies extremes in wealth and poverty.

Withal, Brazil is a stirring colossus with some startling statistical credits. Its booming automobile industry is one of the world's largest. In addition to its legendary coffee exports, it supplies more than 80 percent of the world's orange juice.

FM Ninety Plus, Central Florida's first full-power public radio station went on the air on July 15, bringing the region a new variety of programming.

The station also features an hour of old radio drama and comedy every night starting at 7 p.m. Ninety Plus, WMFE-FM broadcasting in stereo at 90.7 megahertz, the lower tier of the FM dial, certainly has not worked all the bugs out of its broadcasts yet.

SCIENCE WORLD

Early Warning System

By ROBERT LIPSOMB

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When a volcano erupts and spews ash and gas into the air, chances are the scientists who need to know will find out from a special alert service.

Called the Scientific Events News Service, or SEAN, it is sponsored by the Smithsonian Institution and has a network of 850 correspondents worldwide who inform it of unusual events of scientific interest.

SEAN has been operating since 1975, and on something of a shoestring: $19,000 a year pays for all its communications and other expenses, except salaries, says David Squires, its chief operating officer.

An example of the network in operation was the eruption last year of Mt. Soudriere, a volcano in the Caribbees. Within hours of the first reports of the mountain's activity, Squires had alerted scientists around the world.

By the time the news reached the general public, geologists interested in a close-up look at an erupting volcano were already preparing to head for the mountain.

His staff includes a biologist and a volcanologist. If they don't know all the leaders in their fields, they have contacts who can spread the word when an interesting event occurs.

GOP's Superficial Empathy

DETROIT (UPI) — "More symbolism than substance," that's the somewhat exaggerated description by William E. Brock III, chairman of the Republican National Committee, for the GOP's recent bid to endorse President Carter's recent visit here.

But Brock's phrase is equally applicable to his party's superficial concern for the people who are suffering from the effects of inflation. He said the party's concern for the people who are suffering from the effects of inflation is superficial.

He is receiving a well-timed visit from the president of the United States. Give up? All are excellent answers to the same question: What makes Japan so different from Yugoslavia?

The reason for raising it to be found in Washington's significantly different developments of political significance.

It is important for protocol purposes, and Carter's attendance under the circumstances, in his gesture that could be expected to please the Japanese — and has, judging from press response.

The decision not to go to Belgrade was widely regarded as a tactical blunder. Carter was criticized for handling the Soviets an opportunity to make points with the post-Tito Yugoslavia at the crossroads.

Japan is entering a new era of its remarkable post-war development. It has become the world's third greatest economic power, and is adjusting to the responsibilities as such.

Claims British Open Crown

Watson Wins At Muirfield

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (UPI) — "A nice oasis after a three-year dry spell," was how Tom Watson described his triumph Sunday in the 100th British Open Golf Championship.

Most professional golfers would like to have such "a dry spell."

Granted, the triumph was his first major tournament victory since he won the British Open for the second time at Turnberry in 1977. But, in the intervening period, he was PGA Player of the Year, with record-shattering earnings in 1977, 1978 and 1979. Still, winning the British Open gave the Kansas City star a special thrill.

"It's a great feeling to win an Open Championship in Scotland," said Watson, who knew that feeling well, having triumphed at Carnoustie in 1975 and Turnberry in 1977.

But winning at Muirfield, home of the Honorable Company of Edinburgh Golfers, founded in 1744, was something extra special to the self-confessed romantic.

Watson came into the Muirfield tournament leading the PGA money list, ahead of Lee Trevino, who also turned out to be his closest rival for the $60,000 first prize over the weekend.

When Watson finished his 72nd hole with a total of 13-under-par 271, Trevino was four shots away in second, with Ben Crenshaw another two shots back.

But after two rounds, it had looked as if the leading roles would be reversed. Trevino fired a second-round 67 to take a three-stroke lead over Watson after they started the day tied.

But Watson put in a superb 7-under 64 in Saturday's third round while Trevino lost his touch and managed only an even-par 71.

And the 30-year-old Watson never relinquished that four-shot advantage, coasting home after killing off the challengers with three straight birdies, beginning on the seventh hole.

He made the difficult 6,296 yard course look straightforward simply because he played steady, controlled golf.

Nicklaus, Trevino and Johnny Miller shared the course record of 68 before the tournament but on the second day of the tournament when Thursday wind and rain had die away unknown Argentinian Horacio Carbonetti shot an astonishing 7-under 64. Then the next day, U.S. Open runner-up Isao Aoki clipped another shot off the record.

But the course struck back upon those two as Carbonetti's 78-64-78 left him the wrong side of the cut for the last day and Aoki's 74-74-63-73 left him on a tie for twelfth place.

Crenshaw, who followed up two successive second places with Sunday's third place finish, never got into the fight because he had problems with his irons. He shot 70s the first two days, then followed with a 68 and a 69.

Nicklaus was steady, but his putting let him down on the third day when he posted a 71.

Greater Baltimore Classic

Bradley Shades Lopez Melton

LUTHERVILLE, Md. (UPI) — Pat Bradley is quick to sing the praises of patience as a virtue, but she also knows that a little luck never hurts.

Bradley, in her seventh year on the LPGA tour, birdied the final hole Sunday to overcome Lopez Melton and win the $100,000 Greater Baltimore Golf Classic.

"I got a break on the last hole," said Bradley, describing the climax of her duel with Lopez for the lead. Bradley pulled even by sinking a 20-rod birdie putt on the seventh hole and the two battled from there.

Bradley, who started Sunday's final round four strokes behind Lopez, posted a course record 54-hole total of 206, 13-under-par on the 6,308 yard Pine Ridge course. She carded a 6-under 67 Sunday to better by one stroke Mickey Wright's 13-year-old three-day total mark.

Lopez came in with 1-under-72, taking second with a three-day total of 207. Sally Little and Beth Solomon followed, four strokes off the pace at 210. Beth Daniel and first round co-leader Julie Stanger and Kathy Morse tied for fifth at 212.

"I tried to cut my drive as close to the trees on the left as I could," Bradley said of the final hole. "Apparently it hit a limb, but the ball, God bless it, fell into a nice open spot and I had a good shot at the green."

Bradley pointed on the putting surface. She hit a wood to the front of the breaking surface, chipped within eight feet and made the birdie putt.

Lopez hit into a trap and settled for par on the last hole.

"I knew — we both knew — whoever could birdie the 18th, a par-5, would win," said Lopez. "I said Saturday that it was par-5s were the key to this course and they are. I also said I'd have to shoot better than 1-under-par to win the tournament. I shot 72 and I lost."

For Bradley, the triumph marked the end of a two-year dry spell. Her last tour win was Labor Day weekend, 1978, but she logged nearly $200,000 in earnings during the winless string. Her 1980 winnings to $105,500.

Sanford's Rising Star Tim Raines

How You Gonna Keep 'Em Down On The Farm?

It was all in a days work for Sanford's fast rising baseball star Tim Raines Sunday night.

The 20-year-old Seminole High grad continued to prove he's the key man in the Triple-AAA Denver Bears attack by knocking in the go-ahead run for the second straight night, just part of a spectacular Sunday for Raines.

After knocking in the go-ahead and decisive run against the Springfield Redbirds on Saturday, Raines followed up by knocking in the go-ahead run in Denver's 10-4 win over those same Redbirds. Raines just about single handedly did it in Springfield by blasting in no less than seven RBI in the contest.

In addition to his hefty batting and solid defense all day, Raines also accounted for a pair of stolen bases Sunday, hiking his American Association leading mark to 60 stolen bases, leaving him just 15 shy of the league record held by German Baranca of Omaha.

There's little doubt that Raines will be brought up to the parent Montreal Expos the first week of September when the major league clubs expand their respective rosters for the pennant drive. —JOE DeSANTIS

Iron Curtain Countries Romp

Russians Lead Early Olympic Chase For Gold

MOSCOW (UPI) — Call it Olympic spirit or well-scripted grace, but some turned diplomats in efforts to woo absent Americans and take a sideswipe at President Carter's boycott.

Soviet and record-breaking East Germans outpaced rivals in the pool then climbed the medal rostrum to distance themselves from the politics which has bedeviled the long-awaited clash of the giants of the swimming world.

"After this competition, I wanted to leave the sport but now I will have to go on (in order to swim against the strong training teams)," said Sergei Posenko, who won the 200-meter butterfly final Sunday to collect the Soviet Union's first-ever men's swimming gold medal.

"That Mr. Carter asked all this to leave was very wrong. I hope I have a chance to meet my American colleagues again."

The Russian men won 13 out of 14 swimming titles at the 1976 Montreal Olympics. In their absence at Moscow, hopesman talent has the chance to ferry the balance of power across the Iron Curtain.

The Russians picked up four of the five gold medals at stake the first day, winning the 100 kilometer time trial in cycling and the featherweight weightlifting as well as Moscow's title. Barbara Krause, a 21-year-old East German polio survivor, locked up the world 100m freestyle record in her opening heat, clocking 54.98 to trim almost a second from the mark she set two years ago.

Minutes later, sparked by a world record-equaling 100m backstroke leg of 1:31.51 from Rika Heinrichs, the East German 4 x 100m medley relay equal lowered its own four-year-old world mark to 4:06.67 and grabbed the gold medal.

Caren Metelchuk, 18, anchored the relay record, despite barely having time to recover from the sprint heats where she clocked 55.4, a time only bettered by Krause.

Metelchuk will attempt to unseat Krause in today's 100m freestyle final where the East Germans are favored to finish 1-3-3. Ines Diers was third fastest qualifier in the sprint class Sunday.

Viktor Kuznetsov, disqualified at the 1978 World Championships for taking anabolic steroids, should bounce back with respectability with a gold medal in the 100m backstroke Sunday at Five Points Sports Complex.

The two other swimming finals are the women's 200m butterfly and the men's 200m freestyle, while gold will also be at stake in heavyweight weightlifting, women's springboard diving, and the smaller rifle prone position.

Altomonte Cops Share Of Crown

Share Of Crown

Altomonte's Triple-AAA all-stars earned a berth in the championship bracket of the District 14 Tournament with a 5-1 victory over Dunlap. The win handed Altomonte the Division I title without a loss in the double elimination event.

The local squad will await the outcome of the Division II battle between Ocoee and West Oakridge. West Oak Ridge handed Ocoee a 9-3 setback Sunday for its first loss of the tournament. Those two teams square off again tonight at Ocoee. Providing there are no rain delays, Altomonte takes on the winner of the Ocoee-West Oakridge game in double elimination play that sends the winner to the state tournament in Jacksonville.

Tom Johnson picked up the mound victory over Dunlap by scattering seven hits, walking six and striking out six. A Mark Chavez paced Altomonte hitters with a 2-3 performance at the plate while Scott Underwood, Steve Rutledge, Tom Johnson and Scott Schmitt all contributed to the

Wetbike Regatta Draws Large Crowd At Lake Monroe

Wetbike Regatta Draws Large Crowd At Lake Monroe

A large crowd was on hand at Lake Monroe over the weekend for the Southeast Regional Wetbike Regatta competition.

Approximately 45 riders took part in the combined Saturday and Sunday event that featured competition in both men's and women's singles and doubles divisions. Riders participated in a variety of events including a "Poker Hand" competition in singles and doubles.

Under a stop watch, participants were required to race to five different boats, picking up a playing card at each stop and racing back to the finish line with the best time combined with the best poker hand.

Other events that drew competitors as young as 10-year olds included the men's and women's singles and doubles slalom and the men's and women's singles and doubles distance race about two miles under a stop watch.

This year's competition marked the first time the Sanford area has hosted the Wetbike Regatta, and it marks the beginning of future competition at Lake Monroe. The Wetbike competition will now become an annual event both in Sanford and in Clearwater, Florida.

Riders representing seven different states took part in the event.

Joe Mano, manager of the Lake Monroe Marina and the regatta coordinator said he expects the meet to continue to grow, attracting larger numbers of participants as well as spectators as interest grows in the sport.

"The regatta went extremely well, even with the little weather problem we had," Mano said. "Next year I look for a lot more riders to be involved and a lot more people to come out and watch."

Parker Under Fan Fire

Bucs, Dodgers Split Twin Bill

By United Press International
They came to honor Willie Stargell and wound up throwing debris at Dave Parker.

"I can't risk getting hit," Parker said Sunday after leaving the field during Pittsburgh's double-header split with the Los Angeles Dodgers. "This is my livelihood."

Los Angeles won the first game 4-0 on a RBI by Dusty Baker and a solo homer by Steve Yeager while Parker, the perennial All-Star, became a target in the eighth inning with a thrown battery narrowly missing his head. He left the field, saying he would not wear a helmet.

"Why should I?" he asked. "I'm playing baseball. There's no war on." It was the latest in a succession of incidents involving Parker and thrown objects.

The attacks may be motivated by resentment over Parker's $900,000 per season contract, but whatever the reason, Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner is concerned.

Parker did not start the second game, which Pittsburgh won 7-0 on Ed Ott's RBI single in the ninth, but Tanner said he would not have played anyone.

The incident provided a distinctly un-PAM-AL-LEE touch on a day that began as a tribute to Stargell, the team's patriarch.

Cardinals 2, Giants 1
Keith Hernandez singled through a drawn-in infield to drive in Garry Templeton in the eighth, Bob Forsch, 7-4, pitched a four-hitter for his fourth complete game. Bob Knepper, 8-11, took the loss.

Cubs 6, Padres 8
Lynn McGlothen, 7-7, pitched a six-hitter en route to his first shutout with Chicago and Cliff Johnson slammed a three-run homer to cap a four-run first.

Randy Jones fell to 4-9.
Reds 4, Mets 3
Ken Griffey, who drove in three runs, hit a homer with two out in the ninth to snap a 3-3 tie. Jeff Heaton fell to 4-3. Tom Hume, 4-7, earned his first victory since May 7. Lee Mazzilli hit his 11th home run in the last 19 games.

Braves 3, Phillies 2
Larry McWilliams, 7-4, scattered seven hits to lead Atlanta to its third straight victory. He went the distance for the fourth time and posted his first career triumph over Philadelphia. Bob Walk suffered his first loss after six victories.

Astros 4, Expos 3
Jose Cruz crossed from first on Warren Cromar's throwing error with none out in the ninth. Joe Samblino, who gave up a game-tying homer to Ellis Valentine in the top of the ninth, raised his record to 5-1. Fred Norman, 0-1, took the loss.

Four Generations Gather For Wells Family Reunion

The George E. Wells family had their first Family Reunion this month with four generations represented.

Held at the Lake Harney home of their grandson, George and Wanda Currie, the 45 members of the family enjoyed their day, from 10 a.m. until dark, playing games, boating, relaxing in the shade and eating.

Everyone brought picnic luncheon foods and there was a gracious plenty to eat all day and evening.

It was impossible to get all the people in one picture, so Rev. Bill Stempert Jr. of New York, organized the picture taking into the individual family groups so there will be a record of each family at this reunion.

Families who were at the reunion were Mr. and Mrs. Bill (Mildred) Stempert Sr., their daughter, Marty, her husband, Dr. Richard Springstead, and their two children from Brookville; and Rev. Bill Stempert Jr. from New York.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas (Florence) Stenstrom and their daughter, Tricia, her husband, Tom Pospelman, and baby son from Charlotte, N.C. Regrettably, Doug Jr. and wife, Barbara, of Lakeland, Ga. were unable to attend. Mrs. Wells said everyone talked and thought about them all day, so they were there in spirit even though they were not there in person.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Ben (Viola) Currie, Port Orange, and their four children, Ben and Barbara Currie Jr. and their young son and daughter from Daytona Beach; Ben's twin brother, Johnny Currie and his two daughters from Port Orange; Connie and Sam Hanna with their three sons from Daytona; and the host and hostess, George and Wanda Currie.

Also Mr. and Mrs. David (Gladys) Dyal Sr., Del Ray Beach, with their three children, John and Susan Love and their two children, Veronica; David Dyal Jr. with his wife, Cindy, and their two children; Howard Dyal and George Wells' sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest (Mildred) Hewitt from Sanford, Maine, moved to Klismos in May and attended this Wells family reunion.

Mrs. Wells said her heart just ached with joy to see her longtime dream come true — almost all of her family gathered together at one time, in good health, and enjoying the company of each other.

"Reunion — 80" will get underway Friday night, July 26, with a "FAC" night (fun after graduation) celebration at the Mayfair Country Club starting at 8 p.m.

Once again, members of Seminole High Class of 1970 will dance to the music of the "Shy Guys," a group whose music was part of the high school life in the late '60s and '70s. Wayne Ceynowa, Tim Donohue and Randy Bowen still make beautiful music and are now known as "Miami."

Saturday, July 27, this class reunion will convene at the Contemporary Hotel at Walt Disney World with registration from 8 to 7 p.m., a boat cruise on the Kingdom Queen in Bay Lake from 7 to 8, dinner from 8 to 9; and entertainment by the Mardi Gras Sound Company, a Walt Disney Band, from 9 p.m. till 1 a.m.

July 28, will mark the end of this glorious "Reunion — 80" with a "Bring Your Bunch To Lunch" picnic on Lake Golden at the Airport, with festivities beginning at 10 a.m. and ending at 2 p.m.

The hardworking committee members who planned all these activities are: Diane Wilson Haselbaker, Phyllis Mitchell, Elm Botta, Mike Crumpton, Rhonda Smith Lucas, Patty Leary Thomas, Marie Lee Klinger, and Jim Talmage.

Protesters Disrupting 'The Draft'

Thousands of anti-draft activists were arrested on the first day of renewed draft registration—a day in which hundreds of demonstrators in Boston, 1,000 protesters jammed part of New York City's Broadway, and four women chained themselves to a U.S. Post Office desk in Kansas City, Mo.

The anti-draft movement, hoping to discourage young men from obeying orders to report to the nation's post offices to register, took the offensive in other parts of the country.

In what was the most dramatic disruption of the nation's post offices, 100 protesters in Boston, 1,000 protesters jammed part of New York City's Broadway, and four women chained themselves to a U.S. Post Office desk in Kansas City, Mo.

The protesters were attempting to block the entrances of the federal post office building despite threats from the construction workers.

Police intervened to avoid a violent confrontation between the two groups and arrested 20 of the anti-draft activists, dragging some to waiting police wagons by their hair, while the protesters chanted, "Hell no, we won't go."

At the other Seminole County post office, the following hundreds of men filled out the eight-item selective service registration card, according to the respective postmasters—Longwood, 55; Lake Mary, 8; Lake Monroe, 5; Oviedo, 22; Casselberry, 20; Fern Park, 15 and Geneva, 7.

Commissioner Loses Again In Longwood Zoning Vote

Without a city plan study, how can the commission have an idea of the impact of zoning changes?

Approximately 100 persons crowded the Longwood City Commission meeting Monday night to vote on a zoning ordinance which would allow a "split lot" zoning.

The zoning ordinance would allow a "split lot" zoning, which would allow a property owner to use a portion of a lot for a different purpose than the rest of the lot.
