Small Fingerprint On Weapon Is Being Checked By Police

CHICAGO, Apr. 27.—(AP)—A left-handed scissors-slayer hacked Mrs. Hazel Grinde, 60-year-old widow, to death last night in the bathroom of her apartment.

The body was found on the floor of the blood-splashed room by Mrs. Grinde's daughter, Alice, 27, on returning from visiting a neighbor.

The police lieutenant said that Joseph Carey, 34, a city engineer who lives in the apartment beneath that of the Grindes, heard Mrs. Grinde scream. Carey went to the upstairs apartment, found Mrs. Grinde's body, and summoned an undertaker who removed it, Corcoran said.

THREE-YEAR-OLD Peter Blavins sits pensively at his home in North Beltsmore, L. I., New York, holding his hand against his face. While the youngster's father, Harold, 23, an ex-marine, was loading milk cans for market at a nearby dairy farm, Peter wandered over to an automatic water pump. His hand was caught in the machine, crushing two of his fingers. Since the accident, the owner of the farm has freed his dad. (International)

Police Lt. James Corcoran who said the death was "positively a murder," declared Mrs. Grinde was attacked with a pair of scissors found lying on the top of a bathroom clothes hamper.

Dr. Thomas Carter, coroner's physician, said there were nine lacerations in the back of the victim's neck and three wounds on her face. Dr. Carter expressed the opinion that the attacker wielded the scissors in his left hand.

A small, readable fingerprint found on the scissors is being checked, Corcoran said.

China War

China promised full support to the government of Chiang Kai-shek, but pledged to "share the sufferings of my fellow countrymen." This he may have chosen the means of coming from retirement to lead China in his battle against Communism.

He called on his people to fight a final battle against Communism as they did against the Japanese in eight years of war. At the same time he admitted some of the shortcomings of his own 22-year rule of the vast country.

The generalissimo said the Reds had crossed the Yangtze, had entered the Yangtze valley, and were threatening the Japanese in their conquest of China.

The river crossing, he said, represents the "peak of Communist military development." It will bring the Reds "face to face with the tangible mass of military, political and economic problems which will eventually result in their downfall."

"I am certain," he said, "that so long as we carry on the struggle the Communists can neither enslave nor destroy our country. Within three years the final victory will be ours."

He recalled that only four years ago Nanking was liberated from the Japanese.

"We are confronted," said Chiang, "by a dark, brutal force which seeks to rob our people of their liberty, destroy the independence of our nation and threaten the peace of the entire world."

"In this struggle, the life and liberty of every one of our people is tied with the life of the nation," he continued. "Although I feel from the past of my country, I feel I can not lightly disregard my responsibility as a citizen at a time our country is faced with danger, our people on the brink of disaster. I wish to pledge at this time of crisis that I shall share in the suffering of my fellow countrymen."

Chiang said his government realized that Communism was a problem of international implications that China alone could not settle. If that problem in China could be settled through peaceful means, Chiang went on, he felt that it would help establish a basis for world peace.

The government, he said, was "constantly faced with the dreadful possibility that if we should fail, the entire structure of the United States would be threatened by a Third World War in which every nation of the world would be tragically involved."

Chiang placed some of the blame for the military and political shortcomings of his regime on the "general misapprehension of Communist intentions among certain sections of the Chinese and the foreign public as well as the inroads made by Communist fifth column activities in China and abroad."

Chiang charged the Reds have no intention for peace. Recent actions "prove that the ultimate aim of the Chinese Communists is the conquest and final subjugation of China so that this country could be conveniently used as a base for the Third World War and the Chinese people its cannon fodder for aggressive world Communism."

"No nation which desires to be free can complacently shun the responsibility which China is now bearing as a result of her tragic struggle," Chiang said.

He called Communist Mao Tse-tung a "far more dangerous traitor to China than the Japanese puppet Wang Ching-Wei (president of the Japanese controlled China during the war) who, during the war, tried to make an individual peace with the Japanese."

Cross Burns In Yard Of Editor

GASTONIA, N. C., Apr. 27.—(AP)—A cross burned last night on the lawn of an editor whose newspaper has been assailing the reorganized Ku Klux Klan here.

An unidentified band fled after setting fire to the wooden cross at the home of Gastonia Gazette editor J. W. Atkins.

Atkins, reading in his home, had disregarded sound of voices in the front yard. He attributed the noise to fans in a nearby baseball park.

A neighbor dashed across to tell him of the cross-burning. Fireman quickly put it out.

Citrus Hearing

The hearing will be held at 2 P. M. in the Senate chamber of the old Senate building.

Rep. Phillips of Hernandez proposed that the Committee itself sit down and work out the bill, that every member of the committee should know all sides of the argument.

The committee approved amendments to the Governor Warren bill to leave the present Citrus Commission intact and add one man. This means present members will stay on the commission until their terms expire.

The committee also adopted another amendment which would have the effect of knocking off a limitation of $5,000 fees for the commission attorney.

Rep. Andrews of Orange explained that in case of an emergency the commission would not be able to get legal aid if the $5,000 already had been spent.

Meanwhile, the arguments between factions in the industry were mutually kept up.

This fight holds down now to a fight between backers of the standard setting up a "taste test" and those advocating "sweet orange bill."

Both would raise present industry standards. The "sweet orange" bill would be some lower in sugar content than the Warren bill, but would have a higher ratio between sugar and acids.

Dodge Taylor, chairman of the Governor's Citrus Advisory Committee, said he would not go along with the "sweet orange" bill proposals.

Pilot Meet

Mrs. W. E. Hollyhead reported a total of $50.24 spent during the past month for 22 1/2 quarts of fresh milk and one case of canned milk for needy families.

She appealed for more funds and was instructed to write some of the other civic clubs in an effort to interest them in contributing to the Milk Bank. A request, she reported, funds are being furnished by the Kiwanis Club, the Eastern Star, Presbyterian Gleason's Class and the Pilot Club, but the need is growing constantly and the funds are not adequate to meet the demands, she said.

Mrs. Gordon Sweeney, Mrs. E. H. Laney, Mrs. Z. H. Rutledge and Mrs. Joel S. Field were chosen to represent the club at the Seminole County Federation of Women's Clubs meeting to be held in Orlando May 5.

The secretary was instructed to write letters to The Sanford Herald for publicity given the club, to C. P. West for the address granted in the Pilot room in Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital in which he was confined during a recent illness; to the speaker who appeared before the club during the past year; to those contributing to the Milk Bank; and to all others who contributed in some measure to the club's activities.

Mrs. J. L. Clark, membership chairman, reported an increase of three members during the past year, making a total membership of 31. Mrs. E. C. Chanman reported on the Cancer Program for Seminole County.

Mrs. Mitchell thanked the members for their cooperation during her term of office and presented Mrs. Ruth Scott, newly elected president, who outlined her plans for the year.

Acheson Speech

principles of the (United Nations) Charter cynically violated by the conduct of the Soviet Union with the countries of eastern Europe. Their right to self-determination has been extinguished by force or threats of force. The human freedom as the rest of the world understands them have been extinguished throughout that whole area.

"Economic problems have not been solved by international cooperation but dealt with by dictation. These same methods have been attempted in other areas—penetration by propaganda and the Communist Party, attempts to block cooperative international efforts in the economic field, wars of nerves, and in some cases thinly veiled use of force."

Acheson gave out the cost figures on the arm program for the first time so far as the Administration is concerned although they previously had come from members of the Senate committee. Those figures are $1,100,000,000 for the Atlantic pact countries and $320,000,000 for other countries such as Greece and Turkey.

Acheson reviewed the development of American foreign policy to meet the situation created by Russia. He described the Atlantic Treaty and the military assistance program, as well as the European Recovery Program and help for Greece and Turkey, as "all designed to this end."

"You may ask," he told the senators, "why it is not enough to have the Atlantic pact alone since it accepts the principle that an attack on one is an attack on all. Why does the executive believe that it will be necessary to have a military assistance program in addition to the commitments contained in the pact?"

Acheson went on:

"The answer is found in the insecurity and the fears of Western Europe and of many of the other freedom loving nations of the world. Basic to the purposes of the military assistance program is the necessity of promoting economic recovery and political stability by providing a basis for confidence, a sense of security and a reasonable assurance of peace among European peoples."

Meanwhile the House went into its second day of debate on a new labor law today with attention centered on a possible civil rights amendment.

Technically the bill now under debate is one introduced by Rep. Lehman (D-Mich.), supported by President Truman and labor. It would repeal the Taft-Hartley Act and replace it with one easier on unions.

But another, the Wood Labor Bill offered as a substitute by Rep. Wood (D-Ga.), is scheduled to be voted on first, possibly tomorrow. It also would repeal the Taft-Hartley Act, but pass another almost exactly like it. In effect it would merely get rid of the Taft-Hartley name, anathema to labor.

Rep. Cavallante (D-Pa.) said today he will try to amend the Wood bill to make it illegal for either employers or unions to discriminate against workers because of race, creed or color.

Such a civil rights amendment would be a virtual kiss of death because of Southern opposition. If

Dixie lawmakers failed to block

In the House, their colleagues in the Senate might succeed with a filibuster.

The Wood bill vote is expected to be close. If it is defeated, as many predict, the House will then take up amendments to the Lehman bill, which is identical to one approved by the Senate Labor Committee. Senate debate is still weeks away, however.

And the Senate Finance Committee approved the House-passed oleomargarine tax repeal bill by a 6-4 vote. Virtually all were in the Senate.

Chairman George (D-Ga.) announced the bill was okayed by a voice vote. He said he had no idea when the Senate itself might vote on it in view of the press of other legislation.

Before the committee acted, it rejected 7-6 a rider amendment by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Miss.) to cut excise taxes—such as those on telephone bills, theater tickets and transportation—back to 1942 levels. Virtually all were raised during the war.

The Senate was also busy with a $2,800,000,000 money bill to finance the Labor Department and Federal Security Agencies for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Republican Leader E. A. Tamm said Senators would make their initial stab at cutting regular government spending by whittling down this bill. Part of the annual appropriations to reach about $150,000,000 from the total recommended by Congress, some lawmakers want to slice the total even more—maybe as much as $2,000,000,000.

Training For Work

According to Dr. William J. Wallin, chancellor of the Board of Regents of the State of New York, sixty per cent of the young people today should have technical and vocational training after leaving high school, rather than a course in a liberal arts college.

eigners in the Red held capital. There did not appear to be any Chinese troop evacuations down the Whangpoo today. Yesterday an estimated 10,000 went out on five ships.

Two small Chinese naval craft went down the river this morning. They passed the damaged British Sloop Black Swan which came back up on the Whangpoo and tied up on battleship row. She is now the only foreign warship along that historic anchorage.

Relief Of Allergies

Thus far no one has been able to do much for the comfort of chronic sufferers from hay fever, asthma and other allergies, but now a doctor suggests that such suffering in future generations may be prevented by care in childhood.

Dr. Ratner's idea is that the chronic allergies in adults, incurable as far as present medical knowledge goes, often begin in infancy. He said allergy can begin in a baby, even before birth, because of a fault in the expectant mother's diet.

The chronic sufferers from allergy are legion, and most of them think no price would be too high for freedom from the affliction. If a way should be found to prevent allergies, the members of a future generation would have no idea at all of the suffering they will have spared.

Truman Conference

And he added that he considers votes on Taft-Hartley repeal one of those tests.

Asked what this meant to the Southern Democrats who supported the "states rights" ticket last fall, the President suggested that reporters wait and see how this came out.

Mr. Truman also reiterated his support of his civil rights program. He said he does not contemplate another message to Congress about it since the situation has not changed since he first advocated such a program.

Meanwhile Northern and Southern Democrats got into a hot fight on the House floor over President Truman's warning that party members who refuse to vote for Taft-Hartley Act repeal will fall out of White House grace.

The chamber was in the midst of debate on the union-hated labor law.

The fireworks began popping right after Rep. Wood (D-Ga) formally asked the House to take his bill, which would keep most of the Taft-Hartley Act, as a substitute for the Administration repeal measure.

Rep. Hebert (D-La.) took the floor "to advise my Democratic colleagues" that President Truman "has placed a patronage purchase tag" on votes for the Administration's labor bill.

Hebert, who supported the Southern States Rights ticket in last fall's election campaign, said Mr. Truman had been asked whether votes in the House on the labor bills would have any effect on the distribution of patronage.

"His answer was in the affirmative," Hebert said to loud applause and cheers from the Republican side.

Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts jumped up to say that Hebert and others on the Democratic side who supported the States Rights ticket are "sitting by tolerance" on the Democratic side.

If Hebert had had his way, McCormack went on, "we would not have a Democratic majority in this House and we would not have a Democratic President. He actually and openly supported a splinter party."

Rep. Rankin (D-Miss) shouted that "this attempt to browbeat members of Congress into voting for vicious legislation is the most contemptible conduct I have ever known."

He declared: "I am not to be bluffled."

Before the debate turned to Mr. Truman's ideas on party loyalty, Administration men sought to win possible supporters of the Wood bill by holding out the prospect of amending the Administration bill in some major respects.

The bill bears the name of Rep. Leavell (D-Mich.), chairman of the House Labor Committee.

And Republican senators opened a drive to pare down federal spending in hopes of avoiding a tax increase.

"We have to cut expenses or we're going to have a new tax bill," Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) said in offering an amendment to trim 5 per cent off administrative expenses of the Labor Department and Federal Security Agency.

Senator Bridges (R-NH) joined him.

The Senate Armed Services Committee today decided against making any inquiry now into the halting of work on the Navy's super aircraft carrier and the proposed resignation of Navy Secretary Sullivan.

And Senator Murray (D-Mont) said that final congressional action on President Truman's health program may be delayed until next year.

Murray, longtime sponsor of government health insurance proposals, told a reporter he is pushing for Senate passage at this session but this may not be possible.

Because they regarded the custom as heathenish, the Puritans at one time tried to abolish the use of the ring at wedding ceremonies.

Giants Face Red Hats At Municipal Ball Park Tonite

Locals Drop Hard-Fought 2-1 Tilt To St. Augustine; Deal Goes Route

ST. AUGUSTINE, Apr. 28—(AP)—The St. Augustine Saints defeated the Sanford Giants by a 2 to 1 count here last night in a hotly contested pitchers' duel between Stan Karpinski of the Saints and "Lefty" Jack Deal of the Giants.

Tonight the Giants play hosts to the Deland Red Hats in the first game of the home and home series played thus far this year in the Florida State League. Manager Hal Gruber of the Giants indicated last night that he would start right-hander Jack Boback against the Red Hats at the Municipal Park this evening.

Sanford led the Saints last night by a one run margin until the bottom of the eighth frame, when the home town boys jammed a pair of markers across the plate to walk off with the victory.

The Giants tallied their lone run in the second canto on a single by First baseman Fred Weber, who advanced to third on the play when Center Fielder Will Ehrhardt allowed the ball to roll to the fence, and a single by Catcher Dick Barga, driving Weber home.

In the eighth, Lyle Judy singled to left and was sacrificed to second by Carl Butler. Manager Frank Piet doubled Judy home, then Karpinski won his own contest by rapping a two ply poke to the right field fence, scoring Piet.

Tomorrow evening the Giants move to Deland to meet the Red Hats in a return engagement and Saturday night the Giants meet the Orlando Senators at the local park. Sanford invades Tinker Field in Orlando on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Quezon Killed

In Baguio President Quirino ordered the constabulary and army to rush reinforcements to troubled escape as a piece of the broken journal tore through a shanty in which he was standing at the side of the track.

Nueva Ecija province to undertake a general campaign against bandits. The President said he could not believe the attack had been led by Communist directed armed peasants called Hukbalahaps. He said that Mrs. Quezon was loved too much by these people to be harmed by them.

There were reports that the bodies had been looted of jewelry and valuables. Quirino said this was a further indication that the attackers were bandits and not Huk.

Only last week the President had announced that the Huk had been broken into small, ineffective bands and reduced to marauding for food.

News of Mrs. Quezon's death spread like wildfire through Manila and over radio networks throughout the islands. There was evidence of shock and anger from Filipinos. President Quirino said he received the news of her death "as if it were my own mother."
