Both Parties Take Comfort In Elections

G. O. P. Victories In New York And New Jersey; Democrats Win In Kentucky

No Comment Is Made By F. D. R.

President Gratified Over Vote Given Social Security

Republican and Democratic party leaders continued today to place emphasis on interpretations on Tuesday's off-year election.

Republicans, contending results were a "rebuff" to the New Deal, stressed victories in the New York and New Jersey Assembly elections and in the Philadelphia mayoralty contest. Hoping these claims, Democrats pointed in turn to Kentucky where A. B. Chandler, Democratic candidate for governor, was elected in almost a landslide.

James A. Farley, chairman of the National Democratic Committee, predicted President Roosevelt would carry Kentucky next year by a landslide of thousands of votes if Democratic gains in Philadelphia are representative of the state-wide picture. Chairman Henry F. Fletcher, of the Republican National Committee, said the "boom doggers" are on their way out.

President has no comment HYDE PARK, Nov. 7. (AP)—Retired by a week's stay at home, President Roosevelt turned back to the White House today with an expression over the large vote in Kentucky for the State Federation of Labor for the new Federal Social Security program about to go into operation.

The Kentucky Democrats victory brought the same message from Mr. Roosevelt that has been his quiet observation of state and national elections this week. He has kept this rule for years.

Need Of Sanatorium Found By Committee Of Commercial Body

Loan Will Be Made To Keep Schools Open

Board Is To Borrow $30,000 At Bank; May Shorten Term By Month Or Two

Sufficient funds are on hand to operate the public schools of the county through the month of November, but it will be necessary to borrow money for the schools next month, members of the County School Board concluded at yesterday's meeting. Arrangements will be made to borrow needed funds at the Sanford Atlantic National Bank, Superintendent T. W. Lawton reported.

Mr. Lawton said that it may be necessary to borrow as much as $30,000 for the school in December, but the board will borrow only $15,000 until it is determined the amount necessary to carry through to the Christmas holidays. There will be two pay days in December, as usual, and none in January. When February rolls around the automobile license tax money will be coming in and it is therefore figured there should be sufficient funds for the school this month.

The board concluded it would have to make a loan when all voted yesterday of the unexpected low allocation of state funds.

Both County Superintendent of Schools Lawton and Chairman Fred T. Williams of the County School Board expressed the fear that it may be necessary to shorten the contemplated nine-month school term by a month or two, but they also voiced the hope that both the high school and the elementary schools throughout the county can be kept open the entire nine months.

The school term in both high and elementary grades is to be the same length this year.

Business Will Halt Here On Armistice Day

Mercantile, Other Establishments And Public Offices To Close For Holiday

Armistice Day next Monday is to be a holiday in Sanford, even though there will be no celebration in this City, as the schools, County and City officers and nearly all business establishments will be closed for the entire day. While celebrations have been planned in a number of nearby towns, it is expected that most of the Seminole County celebrators will go to Orlando as General Hugh Johnson, former NRA administrator, is to speak there.

Johnson's address is scheduled for 11:30 A. M., following a parade at 10 A. M. in which the ancient locomotive of the Sanford Post of the American Legion will be entered. There is to be a football game between Rollins College and the Alabama Teachers College at 2:30 P. M., a drum corps competing in Exposition Park at 7 P. M., a dance in the evening, and other events on the holiday.

According to L. F. Boyle, commander of the local Post of the American Legion, all mercantile establishments in Sanford will close all day on Armistice Day with the exception of the drug stores. Six of the seven drug stores signed to close, but as the seventh declined to suspend business for the day, Mr. Boyle said he would not ask the other six to close.

An American Legion committee, composed of L. F. Boyle, George W. Wooten, Frank G. Gathell and H. H. Pope circulated a petition among business men of the City and obtained signatures of the proprietors or managers of 22 establishments to close all day on Armistice Day.

The program ultimately will mean the expenditure of $1,000,000 in federal and state funds to improve facilities at state institutions.

Italian Generals Sav They'll Take Makale Friday

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY IN ETHIOPIA, Nov. 7. (AP)—

Based on the rim of mountains overlooking their objective, Makale, two Italian columns halted at noon today to allow a supply train to come up. The columns, commanded by General Buggero and General Alessandri, were reported to march into and beyond Makale at dawn tomorrow. The Italians immediately threw out heavy advance detachments of scouting parties to protect the train and flank.

Two engagements are within easy view of Makale. Runners brought messages that Makale had been returned to the streets of Makale from which they were reported absent yesterday.

Sikston scouts reported to headquarters yesterday that an Italian flag is "already flying" in Makale, but added that the city has not formally surrendered. The scouts said they were received "with enthusiasm" and declared the native troops were received coldly by the populace of Makale.

The program ultimately will mean the expenditure of $1,000,000 in federal and state funds to improve facilities at state institutions.

H. M. Papworth Tells Why Seminole County Didn't Send Delegate To Canal Meeting

Listening To Ocala Lawyers Talk Would Have Been "Waste Of Time," Declares President Of Chamber Of Commerce

No delegate was sent from Seminole County to the canal meeting in Orlando for the reason that the Chamber of Commerce in Orlando informed the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce that lawyers from Ocala, and not engineers on the canal project, would be the speakers. President H. M. Papworth of the local commercial organization explained today. He said that, on the presumption that the lawyers would have no technical knowledge and therefore would not be able to answer questions, he did not consider it necessary to waste our members' time on a trip to Orlando.

Mr. Papworth writes a letter on the subject, as follows:

"Will you kindly inform the members of Seminole County Chamber of Commerce that the canal meeting in Orlando for the purpose of discussing the canal project was held on Tuesday, November 5, 1935, at 5:30 P. M. and 11:15 A. M. on Wednesday, November 6, 1935, at 12:00 P. M.

The speakers on Tuesday were J. A. Smith and W. S. Ferry, and on Wednesday, J. A. Smith, J. W. Worthy, 61, and J. H. Harty, 30.

Dr. Watson, school P. T. A. is organizing a "penny carnival" to be held at the school at 4 o'clock on Friday evening of this week. There will be games, prizes and other features.

Mr. J. H. Harty, a clergyman, is planning to visit in the County this afternoon at 4 o'clock. He will be accompanied by some of the members of the big state and county organizations.

Mr. J. H. Harty, secretary manager of the Florida State Farmers' Market, is in Tampa today for the formal opening of the Florida State Farmers' Market in that city. He drove to the Gulf Coast this morning and expects to return tonight.

Mr. W. W. Brown, supervisor of the county, and C. E. Brown, county agent, will be in Jacksonville tomorrow to meet with representatives of the State Department of Agriculture in an attempt to clarify recent orders. It is expected that H. S. Hull of Jacksonville, district supervisor, will attend the meeting.

From the St. Johns River would proceed southwest through the Kissimmee River, the Alafia River, and Tampa Bay, passing into Tampa Bay.

He said the Lakeland branch canal has been desired for many years. The section from Lakeland to the St. Johns River at Sanford would serve as a feeder to the Gulf Atlantic ship canal.

Fernon said the engineers' report on the project would be filed by October, 1936. He had no idea how much it would cost.

The federal government has announced its present transient program will be ended on Dec. 1, but by that time federal officials have said they expected the WPA program and other employment projects to take up the slack.

Fund To Pay For Transporting Cannon Being Raised By Popular Subscription

The November Auto Show

The holding of the New York automobile show, at which new models for the coming year are displayed, two months earlier than usual, represents a distinct contribution on the part of the motor industry toward the stabilization of employment, toward the ironing out of the hills and valleys of automobile production so that workmen may have something to do all the time, as recommended by President Roosevelt more than a year ago.

The custom of bringing out the new models and the holding of the New York automobile show in January was a hangover of more than thirty years existence from the earliest days of the automobile industry when the motor car was a fair-weather means of transportation only and when practically all vehicles of this type were open cars. The idea was to have the show early in the winter so that prospective customers would have plenty of time to look the various models over and make their selections in time for spring driving.

At present, however, 99 percent of all the automobiles sold are closed cars and are well equipped for use in all kinds of weather. Engine improvements as well as heating devices make the automobile even more of a comfort and convenience during winter months than in warmer weather. Consequently, there is no longer any reason why a person in the North should wait until spring to buy his new car.

As a result of the old practice, automobile production was at an exceedingly low ebb during the fall and winter months, to be stepped up rapidly during the late winter and early spring. Industrial workers connected with this industry for years have complained of the fact that for a considerable portion of the year they were without work to do, while for a few months in the spring they had to work over time. Not only was the automobile industry affected in this manner, but also were many allied industries dependent more or less upon it.

The automobile producers are therefore doing their part when they bring out their new models two months earlier. If a substantial part of the public will co-operate by buying next year's new car now, it is hoped that the customary spring bulge may be ironed out. There will probably be fewer cars sold in March and April, but it is hoped there will be a great many more sold in January and February. And consequently working conditions in the automobile industry may become more nearly stabilized.

Youth's Opportunities

Ambitious youth seeking to find their places early in life in a maladjusted world will find encouragement if they will take a look into the pages of history. E. B. DeGroot, California Boy Scout executive, in the Rotarian Magazine tells of a few of the young men and women who have "done big things."

"William Pitt," Mr. DeGroot cites as his first example, "filled the responsible post of Chancellor of the Exchequer at 23 and served as Prime Minister of Great Britain at 24. George Washington was only 23 when he led the Virginia troops against the Indians and French. Abraham Lincoln campaigned for public office at 24. Robert Louis Stevenson wrote 'Treasure Island' at 23. Gajals at 19 proved that equations higher than the fifth order could not be solved algebraically, and thereby advanced the theory of groups for the solution of higher equations.

"Westinghouse," he continues, "invented the airplane at 23. Alexander the Great conquered and ruled the world before he was 30. Sir Isaac Newton at 24 formulated the law of gravitation. Whitney was not more than 29 when he invented the cotton gin. Charles Dickens wrote 'Oliver Twist' at 25. Napoleon at 27 was in command of the Italian army. Patrick Henry was but 27 when he made his conquering and historic speech against the Stamp Act. Thomas Edison was not far above the Youth Service age level designated by Rotary (24 years), when he astounded and benefited mankind with many of his inventions.

"Paul Siple, an Eagle Scout, was only 20 when he qualified for an important post on the first expedition of Admiral Byrd to the Antarctic regions, and he was chief biologist on the second Byrd Expedition. The average age of the members of America's Continental Congress was 35. Two of its members, at least, were under 30—Edward Rutledge, 25, and John Jay, 29.

"Lindbergh immortalized himself at 25; moreover the best out of 500 poems on the Lindbergh flight across the Atlantic in 1927 was written by Nathalia Crane, a 14-year-old girl of Brooklyn, New York. And so on, almost without end could we record the achievements and services of youth in the fields of statesmanship, literature, science, education, invention, and courage."

THE COMPASS

United States—Union or Nation? By Arthur Dunn

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 7.—This city symbolizes a great phase in the evolution of our form of government. Montgomery was the first capital of the seceding states. Here, in February, 1862, Jefferson Davis was inaugurated. The White House of the Confederacy, in which he resided but a few months, still stands as a museum to his memory.

Alabama's capital, a building of classic beauty, served as the meeting place of the Confederate Congress until Richmond became the seat of the new government. To me there is something very impressive in being on the spot where men lived history.

It was all made very real by our elderly capitol guide who, when a boy of seven, knew Jefferson Davis and witnessed his inauguration. With true southern hospitality, he courteously but firmly refused payment for showing us about a gentleman of the Old South.

The struggle in '61 was about commerce—the traffic in slaves. Commerce was the cause of the Revolutionary War—British taxation of the trade of the Colonies. It was commerce which gave occasion for the creation of our Constitution.

And the same conflict goes on today. The difference of opinion about the Supreme Court and the Constitution arises, in the last analysis, out of commerce.

We have passed through several stages in our struggle to become a nation. Thirteen Colonies each politically independent of the others, together fought the Revolution. Their nearest approach to a central organization was the Continental Congress, made up of delegates from the different Colonies, with authority but no power. It merely represented an association of allies in a common cause until 1781, when it was succeeded by the Congress provided for in Articles of Confederation.

This was another important organization—authority without power. In recognizing the independence of the colonies, the King of England acknowledged the United States (naming the thirteen) to be free, sovereign and independent states. In 1781 the Articles of Confederation made as a sort of league of independent states, each state having one vote in a Congress which could levy taxes, but was unable to collect them; could make treaties, but not enforce them. The states raised serious obstacles to trade with each other—violence and insurrection because the order of the day, Washington felt the war had been fought in vain.

Commerce became so disorganized that in 1786 the Virginia Assembly invited the states to send commissioners to try to formulate uniform laws of navigation and commerce just as we strive to have the states adopt uniform divorce laws, child labor laws, etc. Representatives of but five states attended and adjourned the conference to Philadelphia where in 1787 the Constitution was drafted. Two years later we became, not a nation, but a union of sovereign states. The first words of the preamble to the Constitution are: "We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union..." There was no intention of giving up a central government any more of each state's sovereignty than was necessary to enable the new union to conduct war, control money, and regulate commerce between the states and with foreign nations. This was emphasized by the ninth and tenth amendments.

We continued as a combination of states held together by a weak central government until differences over commerce between the states (the slave traffic) threatened the continuation of the union, and the brilliant, cultured Jefferson Davis became the leader of a lost cause.

The conflict today, which may rock our country to its foundations, still relates to commerce. In this day of power-driven machinery, there is no distinction in fact between interstate and intrastate commerce. From many states come the raw materials out of which the goods in any state are made; likewise the machinery used to manufacture and transport them. So to call trading in the finished product interstate commerce, if the product is consumed in the state where it is made, is legal fiction.

First just an association of states, next a league of independent sovereign states, they are gradually surrendering any part of their sovereignty. If the union were really a union, it would control all commerce within its borders. The Supreme Court says that a state is a purely local business, and its production cannot be regulated by the federal government. If the A.A.A. is declared unconstitutional, the struggle will continue between those wanting a strong central government and those determined to perpetuate state rights.

1935 RED CROSS POSTER

THE compelling appeal of the 1935 Red Cross poster has been adopted by the distinguished artist Lawrence Whiter in the 1935 Red Cross roll call poster.

"The Greatest Mother in the World" was the title given to the original creation of Alonzo Earl Ferguson, eminent mural artist and illustrator of New York. The poster gave the keynote of the Second war fund drive of the Red Cross, and millions of copies were distributed throughout the nation.

In submitting a design for the 1935 poster, Whiter, who has painted a number of posters for the Red Cross, placed the shadowy, heroic figure of mercy in the background, with the practical Red Cross nurse succoring a sick and wounded child in the foreground. "Bill the Greatest Mother" is his title.

The posters are distributed through 8,700 Red Cross chapters and 9,000 branches in an appeal to every man and woman to join as a member during the annual roll call.

Odd And Other News Items As Recorded In State Press

The manager of the telephone company in Gainesville tells the Gainesville Sun that pending telephone cables with March asphalt and then sprinkling sand on the cables before the sand dries will keep squirrels from eating through the lead covering. The Sun reports that squirrels in Gainesville gnaw small holes in the sheath of the cable which permits water to enter and interrupt telephone service. The reason the squirrel attacks the cable cannot be determined, but it is believed that this is a method they use to shorten their incisive teeth. It may accomplish this for the squirrel but squirrels have with telephone service.

The Clearwater Sun reports that instead of chasing fawning youngsters away from his door on Halloran's a resident of that Gulf Coast City invited all who came that way onto his front porch and gave each one a toothsome bar of candy. In appreciation, they did not soop one window, throw a single cabbage stem onto the lawn, ring the doorbell or perform any of the pranks that caused many other householders to lose much sleep.

When Detective Sergeant E. C. McGriff walked into the West Palm Beach police station carrying a human skull a few days ago other officers in the station thought at first he was collecting decorations for a belated Halloween party, the Palm Beach Post states. But that proved not to be the case. On being informed that a skull was lying in the rear of the house at 719 Rosemary Street, Sergeant McGriff went out to investigate. He found the skull but nothing else of a suspicious nature and decided that it had been thrown away by a man who recently moved out of the house. The skull now decorates the desk in the detective office at the police headquarters.

Sanford Backs Are In Shape For Plenty Of Hard Work In Game At Orlando Friday

By HENRY SLAUGHTER
Seminole High backs are all in good physical condition and they seem to be ready to match anything that Efans or Almona may attempt.

At the quarterback position the Celery Feds have two fast and intelligent men, Roy Wright and Lester Phillips. They have been at the helm of the team all season, one playing a quarter and the other the rest. Either can run the team in good style and there is not much difference in their ability as field generals. Both are fair passers and ball carriers. Wright is a senior and Phillips is a junior.

Leon Lawson, a fleety halfback, is one of the best grown gainers for the Celery Feds. He is one of the fastest backs Sanford has had in years. Those fans who have seen Lawson perform agree he is one of the best broken field runners they have seen on the local team in the past few seasons. Lawson will be used to advantage in the pass attack that McLucas may be forced to use against Orlando. Most of the Seminole High passes work to the ends and halfbacks. Lawson being fast will be used on the long passes that should bring victory over Seminole's oldest rival.

Roland Merchant, another halfback, will be in the game matching the feats of Lawson and the Orlando backs. Merchant has been out of several games this season due to injuries but will be on hand Friday night to show that these injuries have not hurt his ability to make long gains. He is a good blocker and kicker. Seldom does he fail to catch a pass that is intended for him that is close to where it should be. Merchant will make a bid for All-Conference half his senior year, he is a junior this season.

Billy Zachary has shown that it takes a good steady player to win tennis games, and now he is trying to show that the same person can pass a football. Coach McLucas is using Billy to have the janes that he expects the ends and halfbacks to bring out of the air for long gains against Orlando. Zachary can hit the line as well as pass, and therefore will be used more than the other backs in the Orlando contest. All that Billy asks of the linemen is to open the hole and he will pick it out, and usually he makes a gain on these line plays. He is a junior and will be out again next season to show that it takes a good cool player to get off a good pass with half the other team charging down upon him.

Seminole High has a pair of fullbacks who are so evenly matched that it is hard to predict which will see the most service Friday night. Glenn Gavocek will probably be used because of his weight advantage. Leland McClelland, brother of George McClelland, is the other fullback and packs as much power as his big brother. Both of these fullbacks are shifty and good ball carriers. Gavocek has the weight advantage over McClelland and has had a year's experience on the gridiron. He played end during the 1933 season and the fans who saw Seminole tie London that season can never forget how Glenn scored two touchdowns in the last few minutes of the game to tie the score. It is hoped that Glenn will do something of this calibre next Friday night in Orlando.

McClelland and Gavocek both can back up the line on the defense in good fashion, and it is seldom that the opposing team gains much ground with these two boys assisted by Squires backing up the line.

Celery Feds Meet Orlando's Tigers This Week Friday

With The Jinx Gone Local Team Hopes For Victory Again

Having jarrd loose the jinx which dogged the Celery Feds the first half of the season, Seminole High School's football squad is practicing hard for its next battle, hoping for another victory.

This next contest is to be on Friday night with the Orlando Tigers, one of the strongest teams in the conference, but with the victory last Friday night over Ocala fresh in their memory the Celery Feds promise to give the Orange county boys a real battle. Coach McLucas declares that the Tigers "will not beat us," though they may tie the score with Sanford. It promises to be a close game, the coach said.

The Orlando Tigers have lost only one game this season, and that was last week when they went down to defeat before Andrew Jackson High of Jacksonville. Before that defeat Orlando was one of the contenders for the Big Ten Conference championship.

Coach McLucas' squad is pepped to win Friday night, and if the team is accompanied by Orlando by a large number of cheering fans it stands a good chance to gain the victory, loyal supporters declare.

Bruce Recommends Practices To Curb Screw Worm Losses

GAINESVILLE, Nov. 7. — By careful and properly-timed animal husbandry practices, Florida farmers can do much this winter to prevent serious outbreaks of screw worm infestations next spring and summer, says W. G. Bruce, U. S. Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine worker in charge of the federal-state campaign against the pest in this state.

Cooler weather, the least active period for screw worm flies, is approaching and livestock owners should be planning to do all their dehorning, castrating, marking, and branding during the winter, Mr. Bruce explains. If these things are done during cool weather, the resultant wounds on the livestock will not be as subject to infestation as in warm weather.

All infested animals should be treated promptly to avoid loss of stock and spread of the pest.

Bulls in beef cattle herds should be separated from the cows and the breeding should be regulated so that calves will not be dropped during the hot summer months, as 80 percent of the infestations last spring and summer were in young calves, Mr. Bruce says.

The entomologist recommends the use of bloodless amputators for castration of stock, as no open wound is left when these are used.

The Gulf Coast tick, which was responsible for many infestations during the past summer, will not do much damage insofar as screw worms are concerned during the winter.

"Listening in over the radio to the speeches made by the lawyers from Ocala, we were very much interested to know that the cross-state canal was for the benefit of our tourists. 'Now, ain't that nice.' The prospect is so enticing we stand to be ruined if our water supply is curtailed or contaminated, but the beautiful canal will entice tourists to Florida. One thing the Ocala lawyers forgot to state was that the tourists will have to be informed that they must bring their drinking water with them when they come to Florida, in the event of the canal being constructed.

"Will Orlando ever wake up to a realization that she had better sacrifice the prospects of a Florida on Parade than sacrifice the interests of her citrus growers and truck farmers?"

Respectfully submitted,

Unemployment Is Seen As Big Issue In 1936 Campaign

Economic Situation Expected To Have Election Effect

By BYRON PRICE WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 7.—The political aspects of the unemployment problem are so numerous and so crucial that it is no wonder party leaders find even the most complicated statistics on that subject thoroughly fascinating.

One of the most widely-accepted assumptions about 1936 is that the economic situation of the country—the degree of recovery—will have a most important effect in the election. Just now the one really difficult factor in that situation is unemployment.

Industrial activity manifestly is picking up. Credit is expanding. Agriculture is finding less to complain about. Land values are better. All along the line, the economic indices—all except one—point toward improvement.

No completely reliable figures are available, but all sources of economic information agree that re-employment has failed to keep pace with the general trend of recovery.

Without such an expansion real and recognizable, political arguments that the depression is over run into immediate difficulty.

That, however, is only a part of the story. Another prime topic of political discussion is the spending program of the Roosevelt Administration.

So long as a disproportionate percentage of workers remain jobless, relief demands on the treasury will be heavy. Even if the Administration does not ask for large appropriations, it is certain that the states and municipalities, working through their representatives in Congress, will initiate and vigorously press such appropriations.

It is plain that Mr. Roosevelt does not desire to enter the 1936 campaign as the advocate of another top-heavy annual deficit, but many of his supporters see only one way out. That is why the works administration is trying so feverishly to save its program from failure.

What these new methods will be is not yet certain. The effort to induce business to move ahead confidently continues, but the results hardly are all that Washington desires.

It is the lesson of all past depressions that after substantial recovery has been attained a residue of excess labor is left behind.

That is due to several causes. Hard times teach employers how to economize, how to combine the functions of employees and make short-cuts in production.

After previous American depressions a sufficient quantity of this left-over labor always has been absorbed by the development of new industries.

No such large-scale development now appears on the horizon, and in its absence administration thought appears to be turning more and more toward the shorter work week as a means of absorbing the surplus.

Whether the legislative or administrative outcome, no one doubts that this controversy will be carried over into the front rank of the political issues of 1936.

Roosevelt Plans Visit In June To Texas Centennial

Will Dedicate Monument To Honor Geo. Rogers Clark

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Plans for a trip next June by President Roosevelt to the Texas Centennial at Dallas, home state of Vice President Garner, were made known last night coincident with announcement of a visit to the annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation next month in Chicago.

The Texas trip on the eve of the national convention led to speculation of Mr. Roosevelt's favor toward renomination of "Cactus Jack" Garner as vice president but there was no authoritative discussion of this here at all.

It was stated that the Texas visit will be in response to a promise made to Vice President Garner by the President. Early also stated that the President agreed to attend the dedication of the George Rogers Clark Memorial at Vincennes, Ind., on his Texas trip.

The attendance at the Chicago agriculture meeting is in acceptance of an invitation extended by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. The date for this meeting is Dec. 9.

MacLean Resigns; Held Big Secrets In Gold Program

By HERBERT PLUMMER WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The resignation of Angus D. MacLean as assistant attorney general was dismissed by the press with little more comment than that the Department of Justice had lost its fifth "key man" since early spring.

Few outside close administration circles were aware of the fact that the Scotman actually was a one-man supreme court for President Roosevelt.

Seldom mentioned on the front pages, MacLean was the President's advisor in the series of executive orders and the gold test cases which rode through the Supreme Court. He knew the President's plans before they reached the news columns, for it was his duty to check executive orders to see if they conformed to the law.

When questioned about intimate details of the history-making executive orders on silver and gold, MacLean would smile faintly and say nothing more than "I imagine if some folks had known about them for a day or two, or even an hour or two, they could have made a lot of money. Or a great deal of trouble for others."

The national labor relations board, aware of whisperings that some large manufacturing corporations are ready to attack the constitutionality of the Wagner labor act, is making preparations to defend its legality.

Such possible attacks against the law, designed to prevent unfair labor practices, necessarily must await the formal filing of the first complaint for the examination of the board. While several hundred informations have been filed since the law became effective on July 5, these still are in the "slimmering" stage and have given no indication as to when they may reach the point when the board is asked to issue a complaint and summons for a hearing.

Of the 400 or more informations filed in the offices of the 21 regional boards, many have been adjusted with little difficulty. This no mediation is possible under the law, there have been many cases reported to the national board in which employers were notified of violations and took measures to correct them.

Officials believe if a move is made to test the law, the method will be to seek an injunction. This would halt action under the board's ruling until decisions had been had in a district, circuit and supreme courts consecutively.

Tampan Appointed To Be An Assistant To Attorney General

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—James W. Morris of Tampa, Fla., who has been a special assistant in the Department of Justice since Aug. 7, 1933, was yesterday appointed by President Roosevelt to be assistant attorney general, succeeding Angus MacLean of North Carolina who resigned. Born in Smithfield, N. C., 44 years ago, he is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, where he also attended law school. He has lived at Tampa, Fla., since 1904, practicing law there until his appointment to the Justice Department, save for a period he served in the Army during the World War as captain in the 325th Infantry.

WHEN JIMMY CAME MARCHING HOME FROM EXILE

Home from three years' voluntary exile in England, former Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York, and wife No. 2, the former Betty Compton of the stage, were in happy mood when they reached Gotham. They are shown waving to the crowd on the pier as their ship docked. A host of Jimmy's admirers could not wait for the liner to reach its pier. And so they chartered tug and yacht and hurried down the bay to meet the ship at quarantine. The small craft are shown clustering around the liner Manhattan as she plowed her way up the bay. "It's marvelous," exclaimed Walker on the bridge of the Manhattan as he observed the harbor boats bedecked with banners reading "Welcome home, Jimmy." "Hello, Jimmy," and the like. He resigned as mayor during an investigation of his administration and sailed for Europe in 1932. He and Miss Compton were married in Cannes, France, soon afterwards. (Associated Press Photos)
