City Candidates Gather For Forum

Candidates for city commission seats and the mayor's spot in Sanford assembled this morning before a sparse audience at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce in one of a series of expected meet-the-candidates forums. Two of the candidates did not attend, one because he was hospitalized, the other because he's away on business.

Thomas Speer, candidate for Sanford mayor, is in Central Florida Regional Hospital today undergoing tests for possible appendicitis or problems with his intestinal tract, according to hospital spokesperson Kay Bartholomew.

Ms. Bartholomew said Speer had been experiencing stomach pains the past few days and on the advice of his physician was admitted to the hospital Tuesday afternoon for tests. She said gall bladder problems have so far been ruled out, and could not speculate how long Speer would be hospitalized.

A. A. McClanahan, seeking a commission seat in District 1, was reported unavailable because he was at a meeting seeking funding for low-income residents in connection with his role as executive director of Seminole Self Reliant Housing Inc., a non-profit corporation designed to assist low-income families with building their own homes.

The absence of both candidates was announced by Shirley Schilke, chairman of the chamber's legislative committee which hosted today's meeting.

Candidates who attended were: Ned Yancey and Bettye Smith, mayoral candidates; Larry Blair, C. B. Franklin and Robert Thomas Jr., all seeking the District 2 commission seat; and John Mercer, pitted against McClanahan.

Merit Pay Plan Called A Lottery

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County School Board denounced the state's new merit pay plan Tuesday, saying it is too complicated and expensive. And because not enough money has been allocated for all who may qualify, one board member called it a "lottery."

The plan, in place for the school year, awards $3,000 a year for three years to qualified "master teachers."

Not everyone who qualifies will get the money, however. The state will only "endorse" 6,383 teachers for the merit pay no matter how many more fulfill the requirements.

Seminole County, one of the smallest of Florida's 87 school districts, so far has 804 candidates for the program, according to Ann Nelawender, director of personnel services for the district. She expected about 50 more to sign up by today.

Because there may be too many qualified teachers and not enough pay, board member Joe Williams said the plan was more like a "lottery" than a merit pay plan.

Eligibility requirements are numerous. In addition to filling out all the forms, a teacher must have at least four years of experience, two of which must be in Florida schools. They must also have a contract with their district and score in the top 25 percent on a performance evaluation conducted by a principal and another person of the principal's choosing.

In addition to the evaluation, teachers must have a "superior" score on a subject area test and

Nancy Warren...Newly installed school Board chairman

'I don't see any major changes.'

the test must be approved by the State Board of Education.

If there is no approved test for a particular subject, like vocational education or art, a certificate or master's degree may be substituted, according to the 20-page plan.

Teachers may appeal if they think they were not given a fair chance to qualify for the money.

Board member Pat Telson also voiced opposition to the package, saying it was too "ahaky."

"I am opposed to this merit pay plan, or whatever this thing is," she said.

Superintendent Bob Hughes trying to distance himself from the plan and said, "We didn't write the program... we're just trying to survive this business."

Hughes and Carey Ferrell, assistant superintendent of the board, said implementing the plan in the county has been very expensive in terms of printing and labor costs. Nelawender said the plan is so complicated it took her two hours to explain it to a group of school principals.

Ferrell said merit pay plans in the past have been "sunk" See MERIT, page 2A

Casselberry Man Guilty In Sex Case

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Deliberating 35 minutes after a two-day trial, a six member jury found a Casselberry man guilty of sexual battery on a 9-year-old girl plus lewd and lascivious assault.

Jeffrey Scott Caulder, 28, of 508 Elm Drive, faces a mandatory 25 years in prison before the possibility of parole, according to Assistant State Attorney Angela Blakeley. The jury returned a not-guilty verdict on a charge of attempted sexual battery.

Caulder was charged with assaulting the girl, then 8, on Dec. 27, 1983 and Jan. 21, and forcing her to perform various sex acts. Ms. Blakeley and Assistant State Attorney Kurt Erlenbach prosecuted the case.

"An 8-year-old child does not make up these things," Ms. Blakeley told the jury during closing arguments late Tuesday. She said the girl's very descriptive accounting of intimate male sexual response indicated that it was clear Caulder had committed the alleged acts.

She also said Caulder's actions after his arrest pointed to his guilt.

"His concern was getting rid of (the mother and child) so there would be no witnesses against him," she said.

Earlier during the trial, the jury heard a secretly taped conversation between Caulder — in jail at the time — and the victim's mother during which Caulder urged her and the child leave the state so he would not be prosecuted.

"I want you away from Seminole County, away from Orlando," the jury heard Caulder say offering the woman money to move. They also heard Caulder tell the mother that he was going to seek help for what he had done after he got out of jail saying he and the mother could make-up if the girl did not mind having him around again.

Ms. Blakeley told the jury that the child could not have identified specific pornographic pictures from a $25 sex magazine unless, as the girl testified, she and Caulder tried to do what the photographs pictured.

"They don't have a defense," Ms. Blakeley said, contending that was why the defense was trying to impugn the reputation of the girl's mother. That was why the defense implied the mother urged the girl report the then alleged assaults because her mother and Caulder were ending a relationship, she said.

"Would she put her own daughter through it just because she was misled," Ms. Blakeley asked the jury that earlier heard the mother tearfully say her See GUILTY, page 2A

Consumer Prices Up Slightly; Annual Inflation Rate 4.2%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer prices rose 0.4 percent in October, the same as September, bringing inflation for the first 10 months of the year to a moderate, seasonally adjusted annual rate of 4.2 percent, the Labor Department said today.

Food and beverage prices were up 0.4 percent, following a decline in September. Transportation costs rose 0.7 percent, a bit faster than September, largely due to rising gasoline prices. The cost of medical care, registering 0.5 percent, also was rising slightly faster than September.

Housing rose more slowly, only 0.1 percent compared to 0.4 the previous month. Other major groups, including apparel and upkeep, entertainment and other goods and services continued to rise at about their same moderate rates as September.

The Consumer Price Index stood at 315.3, meaning that goods costing $100 in 1967 now cost $315.30.

For the past three months as a whole, the Labor Department said, inflation has run at a compound annual rate of 4.7 percent, still moderate compared to rates like 12.8 percent in 1979 and 11.8 in 1980.

The inflation rate was 3.8 percent in 1983.

Prices of gas and electricity for the home, both of which had risen sharply in the third quarter, were down in October — falling by 1.3 percent and 1.7 percent respectively. But home fuel oil prices rose 0.8 percent.

Grocery store food prices, which had declined 0.3 percent in September, rose 0.4 percent in October, largely due to a turnaround in meats, poultry, fish, eggs, fruits and vegetables. For most of these items, the rises were less than is usual for October. Beef was up 1 percent, while pork was down 0.8 percent.

Gasoline prices rose 1.1 percent in September and 1.8 percent in October after registering declines in each of the three preceding months. But gasoline prices still are 2.3 percent lower than at the end of 1983 and 13 percent below their peak level of March 1981.

Larger increases in automobile insurance, 1.7 percent, and auto finance charges, 1.2 percent, also contributed to the rise in transportation costs.

The government reported earlier that wholesale prices declined 0.2 percent in October, the third such decrease in a row.

In its report on the gross national product for the third quarter of this year, the Commerce Department said Tuesday inflation throughout all levels of the economy was relatively low — between 3.7 percent and 4 percent.

But adjusted for inflation, the GNP — the nation's total production of goods and services — rose only 1.9 percent in the third quarter, down sharply from 10.1 percent in the first quarter and 7.1 percent in the second quarter.

Housing starts in October were at their lowest since December 1982, a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.5 million.

The federal budget deficit, which the administration now is debating how to cut, has much to do with all these figures.

The deficit has helped keep interest rates relatively high, although they have fallen some recently.

Fixed rate, 30-year mortgages are down: from 14.5 percent last summer to the 13.5 percent range. But that, notes Mark Riedy, executive vice president of the Mortgage Bankers Association, is "still close to the level that chokes off demand."

SEA Official To Target Union 'Leeches'

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

As a professional thorn in the side of school management, Ron Boeth, executive director of the Seminole Education Association, jokes about the irony of his new managerial post with the teacher's organization.

He will leave his Sanford post to become special projects manager for the Florida Teaching Profession-National Education Association's Tallahassee office. But he has spent the last 3 1/2 years haggling with Seminole County School Board management for better pay and working conditions for the union's 1,400 members.

"Now, I'm moving into a management position," Boeth says with a laugh.

In Tallahassee, Boeth will supervise 13 full-time and 20 part-time workers and create projects to attract more of the state's 80,000 non-union education employees. To do this, he said he will set up more sophisticated procedures for identifying non-union employees and start an aggressive information program to persuade them to join.

"Every non-member hurts us," Boeth said. "While they take from us, they never give anything."

Boeth said the union will never be as effective as it can be as long as the county's non-members remain uninvolved in its activities. He described school employees who refuse to join as "leeches" who take benefits derived from hard bargaining but never put anything back in.

"They are blood-sucking leeches who are sucking the ability out of this organization to be successful," Boeth said.

But another rival union, the American Federation of Teachers, is also targeting those non-committed teachers and school employees. Boeth said the FTP-NEA has 35,000 members in

NATION IN BRIEF

Black Families In White Neighborhoods Attacked

CHICAGO (UPI) — Civil rights leaders want a speedy federal investigation of two separate attacks in the last two weeks on black families who have moved into predominantly white neighborhoods.

A spokesman for the Chicago Covenant, a group of religious and community leaders, said the group has petitioned Attorney General William French Smith to quickly begin a federal investigation of both incidents.

Warren Sanders Sr., 55, whose family moved into the single-family home on the Southwest Side three weeks ago said he was sitting in the kitchen shortly after midnight when a Molotov cocktail crashed through a window. No one was seriously hurt.

The Covenant has also offered a $2,000 reward for information on the Nov. 7 attack of Spencer Goffer and his family on the city's West Side.

In that incident, Goffer and his family fled their apartment in the West Side neighborhood known as "The Island" after a nearly six-hour brick and rock throwing siege.

'...And Thank You For Librium'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A drug company's Thanksgiving message to American doctors — telling them there is "much to be grateful for," including the tranquilizer Librium — prompted a complaint to the government from a consumer group today.

The Public Citizen Health Research Group, founded by Ralph Nader, said the "tasteless advertising barrage" also is misleading because it does not warn strongly enough that the drug is addictive.

The group's director, Dr. Sidney Wolfe, urged the FDA to require an addiction warning on Librium and the 10 similar drugs, called benzodiazepines, sold in this country, including Valium. But he said Librium's labeling already violates prohibitions against misleading statements.

The object of Wolfe's complaint is a letter and advertising brochure sent the nation's doctors by Librium's manufacturer, Roche Laboratories. It is enclosed in an envelope bearing a picture of black-clad Pilgrims trekking across a New England landscape.

Woman Held As Sex Slave

RED BLUFF, Calif. (UPI) — Police say a mill worker kidnapped a young woman hitchhiker seven years ago and held her captive as his sex slave, forcing her to spend nights confined in a box just big enough for her to lie down in.

The suspect, Cameron Hooker, 31, pleaded innocent Tuesday to a variety of charges including kidnapping, rape and sodomy. He was ordered held in the county jail on $500,000 bail.

The identity, condition and whereabouts of the 27-year-old woman were not disclosed.

Police Chief John Faulstich said the woman reported that Hooker kidnapped her at knife-point in 1977 when she was hitchhiking and held her prisoner until she fled several months ago.

Haitians Not Included In New Residency Act

MIAMI (UPI) — Haitian refugees accused the U.S. government of "flagrant discrimination" in excluding them from a program that is expected to grant permanent residency status to 100,000 Cuban refugees.

The new program, announced Monday, applies to about 125,000 Cubans who fled to the United States in the spring and summer of 1980 when Cuban leader Fidel Castro opened the Mariel Harbor to those seeking to leave.

Under the Cuban Adjustment Act, INS is asking Cubans who came to the United States during the 1980 Mariel Boatlift to register for permanent resident status, the first step toward gaining U.S. citizenship.

The program is authorized under a law passed Nov. 2, 1966 specifically for Cuban refugees. Because no other ethnic groups has similar legislation, the program can not be extended to include the 80,000 Haitians who have migrated to the United States in the last five years, an Immigration and Naturalization Service official said Tuesday.

Oil Co. Probes 'Puzzling' Blast

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Grieving survivors of a natural gas explosion that leveled a working-class slum filed somberly up a dusty hillside to bury in a mass grave the first of at least 544 victims of Mexico's worst industrial disaster.

Only 23 of the 298 bodies lowered into the rocky ground as dusk fell Tuesday were identified. The rest were charred beyond recognition.

Pemex, the government-owned oil company that operated the natural gas plant that exploded before dawn Monday, released a statement late Tuesday saying it was "puzzled" by the deadly string of thundering blasts and raging fires that killed at least 544 people in the suburb of San Juan Ixhuatepec.

More than 1,500 people were injured and 10,000 were left homeless in the worst industrial disaster in Mexican history.

The company report said "all gas tanks and safety valves were inspected daily" at the complex in the northern Mexico City suburb and officials were trying to determine the cause of the explosion. The company said some 80,000 barrels of butane and propane gas had been stored on the premises.

Some 5,000 relatives and friends gathered at El Caracol cemetery in Ecatepec Tuesday night to bury the first victims. Miguel Valencia, a priest from the Our Lady of Fatima parish, said mass as men carried a stream of white caskets up the dusty hill.

"Blessed are the poor, for they shall inherit the kingdom of heaven," Valencia said, blessing the caskets with holy water. "Few family members are here, but this is the tragedy of the whole Mexican nation as one family."

Only 23 of the caskets placed in the 150-by-15-foot trenches carried names. The remaining caskets placed 10 feet into the rocky ground were identified only by numbers in green paint.

Firemen from the Ecatepec fire station continued working through the night searching the still smoldering ashes of the demolished neighborhood.

Cranes and bulldozers earlier moved the twisted rubble of the brick and adobe homes and buildings razed by the explosion, to remove the mangled bodies.

The Interior Ministry reported 324 victims perished in the blaze, but said "lamentably that number can only increase as we receive more reports of unidentified bodies or of missing loved ones."

A definite number of dead will be difficult to determine, the ministry said, because "200 homes completely disappeared" in the pre-dawn blast.

Bill Bernosky of the Sanford Police Department receives a gold badge from Chief Ben Butler after being promoted from sergeant to lieutenant. Lt. Bernosky, a 15-year veteran of the force, becomes one of six lieutenants at the department and assumes duties as a shift commander.

Kirkpatrick Leaving U.N. To Return To Teaching

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Jeane Kirkpatrick, who has held the post of U.N. ambassador longer than anyone other than Adlai Stevenson, says she plans to resign in December and return to private life.

Kirkpatrick, 58, said Tuesday she has not yet submitted her resignation to the White House, but intended to talk soon with President Reagan to "work something out." The White House had no immediate reaction.

It was reported during the election campaign, though never confirmed by Kirkpatrick, that she wanted the posts of either secretary of state or national security adviser in the next Reagan administration.

"I have the intention to return to private life," she told a news conference at the U.S. mission to the United Nations. "I have a desire and that is my desire."

Kirkpatrick said she planned to resign after the end of the 39th General Assembly session in December.

Though a life-long Democrat, she gave up a position as professor of comparative politics at Georgetown University when she was selected by Reagan in 1981 to be the permanent U.S. representative to the United Nations.

Kirkpatrick said she has told Reagan many times of her desire to leave the United Nations and return to teaching.

The combative envoy, who has held the U.N. job longer than anyone other than Adlai Stevenson, who served from January 1981 until July 1985, made many friends and not a few enemies with her no-nonsense speeches.

Jeane Kirkpatrick

Kirkpatrick said regard for the United States in the General Assembly had improved during her term.

"The U.S. situation is very substantially improved. There is simply no question about that," she said.

"In our view, and I suspect in the view of many other countries, the tone of the General Assembly has substantially improved. There are fewer tirades of hatred and splenetic outpourings. One of the striking features is how much less venomous, harsh and abusive rhetoric is used."

"We are better able to protect ourselves against unfair abuse and better able to protect our interests ... than we were," she said.

...Boeth

the state and estimated AFT's membership at around 25,000.

That situation has to change, Boeth said, because the state's union membership already represents only a third of the 154,000 education employees. And with membership split between two unions, they lose bargaining leverage with the legislature.

Boeth said clarifying the differences between the two unions will be one of his major tasks. His goal is to make the FTP-NEA the dominant union so there will be "a more stronger voice for teachers and education in the state of Florida."

Boeth is leaving his $26,500 a year post with the sweet taste of success still on his lips.

Under his leadership, he said the SEA has become stronger and a more effective bargaining organization. He said membership has jumped from 1,000 to 1,400 and teachers' salaries have increased 27 percent.

More grievances were filed and acted on than ever before, he said, and the union's political action was rewarded this year with the appointment and election of SEA candidate Joe Williams to the school board.

The union has also professionalized its image in the county, Boeth said, by renovating and computerizing its 25th Street office.

But SEA still has to make improvements in order to broaden its base of support, he said.

For one thing, it must become more bipartisan, reaching out to those county leaders of differing political stripes. He said the union's staunch Democratic image has to be reshaped in order to attract more Republicans who basically agree with the union's agenda.

"Republicans are not against education. I don't know a citizen of this country who is against quality education."

And that, he said, represents quite a shift for a man who describes himself as "probably the most flaming liberal Democrat in Seminole County."

On another issue, Boeth said the SCA needs to vigilantly hold "a pocket of administrators" accountable who still treat teachers with "indignity." He said Superintendent Bob Hughes is "one of the best in the state" but he needs to discipline or fire a few administrators who continue to tolerate harassment and intimidation of teachers.

A successor for Boeth has yet to be named.

...Merit

because of similar lack of preparation for thorny details.

As part of another program targeting merit schools, the board had to return $488,000 in merit pay money in August because it could not reach agreement with the county's four unions as to how the money should be distributed.

The school board drafted a statement expressing its dissatisfaction with the program but added it will live with it. Ferrell will deliver the statement, along with a list of other concerns to the legislature next month.

In other action, the board voted unanimously to install Nancy Warren as its chairman. Mrs. Warren, a former teacher who has taught in four other states, said she will not do anything different as chairman than her predecessor Bill Kroil.

"I think we have a pretty good working system now and I don't see any major changes."

Mrs. Warren, along with Williams and Hughes were sworn in during the meeting.

Williams, who defeated Joanne Braheny in the Nov. 6 elections, said he planned to start swinging a stick, said Williams, who is also a community college instructor and a credit union vice president.

Hughes ran unopposed for his second term as superintendent. He said will continue to work for the students and staff of the Seminole County school system.

father abused her as a child.

"Where is there a law that says... it is all right to rape the child whose (mother) used... drugs or may have danced topless," Ms. Blackley said.

Defense attorney Gerald Rutberg said his client admitted to the lewd and lascivious assault but that the facts did not support a conviction of sexual battery.

"The state is trying to overkill Mr. Caulder. When you separate facts from overkill, the facts mitigate in favor of Mr. Caulder," said Rutberg who called his client courageous for taking the witness stand and admitting to lewd acts with the girl.

"Be the shield and both the sword of the community," Rutberg said asking the jury to find his client guilty of the lesser charge of lewd assault but not guilty of sexual battery.

The trial was before Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi who set Jan. 25 for sentencing.

Sanford Man Arrested For Tampering With Odometers

A Sanford man arrested Tuesday on an Orange County warrant and charged in connection with tampering with the odometers of at least 28 vehicles has been released from the Seminole County Jail on $15,000 bond.

Hunter Delphin Glenn, 29, of 420 Oak Ave., who was arrested at his home at 6 a.m., is accused of buying vehicles in South Florida and selling them through an Orange County auctioneer, according to Orange County consumer fraud investigator Bill Lipham.

Lipham, who investigated the case for two months before Glenn's arrest, said the cars in question were sold through Florida Auto Auction in Ocoee between March and June of 1983.

The Florida Attorney General filed a civil suit Wednesday against Glenn and Lease Car of Florida, Inc., of Winter Park. The suit, which was filed in Orange County Circuit Court, alleges that Glenn and Florida Lease, where he formerly worked as an agent, knowingly conducted an operation to acquire cars, alter the odometers and sell them with intent to defraud.

The Attorney General is asking the court to order the defendants not to tamper with odometers in the future. He is also asking for a fine of $5,000 for each violation of Florida's Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act, in addition to requiring a payment of triple damages or $1,500, which ever is greater, to each consumer found to have been injured by the defendants' actions. The suit also asks that Lease Car of Florida, Inc. be dissolved.

Glenn has been charged with 28 counts of supplying false odometer statements and one count of scheming to defraud. Each charge is a felony and calls for up to five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Buyers of cars that they suspect may have had their odometers altered can write to the Florida Division of Motor Vehicles for a complete title history on the vehicle to help document the change.

That information is available through the Consumer Complaint Section, Division of Motor Vehicles, Kirkman Building, Room A-124, Tallahassee, Fla. 32301. The request for a history of the vehicle should include the vehicle's identification number and a description of the car.

HEADACHE

A thief who tried to snatch the purse of an Orlando woman in the Jai Alai parking lot on U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park, fled empty-handed and with a headache. The woman slammed a car door on his head.

Modena L. Pope, 45, told sheriff's deputy Jim Engebretsen that she had just thrown her purse into her car at about 9:15 p.m. Tuesday when the man came up behind her and hit her in the back with an unidentified object.

The attacker said, "Give me all your money," as he reached into Ms. Pope's car and grabbed her purse. She slammed the driver's door on the man's head and he fled on foot as she screamed for help, a sheriff's report said.

EMPTY-HANDED

For the second time in two weeks a burglar hit the home of Sophie Brown, 78, of Leonard Street, Altamonte Springs. In the first break-in, which Ms. Brown didn't initially report, the thief got $1,400, but in the second burglary nothing was stolen.

Ms. Brown gave deputies the name of a suspect in the break-ins, the latest of which occurred Tuesday or Wednesday when the lock was pried off her front door, a sheriff's report said.

ROOM ROBBERY

Moses L. Davis, 48, a boarder at 501 Peachtree Lane, Altamonte Springs, reported to sheriff's deputies Tuesday that over the past two months $800 has been stolen from his room.

The cash was kept in a wallet in the pocket of a pair of pants in his room. Davis told deputies and the latest theft occurred around 8:45 a.m. Tuesday. He also named a suspect in the theft.

TRAFFIC STOP POT

A Sanford man who was stopped by police after his pickup truck ran a stop sign has been charged with possession of marijuana and is being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Avenue around 6 p.m. Monday. They said the suspect agreed to a search of his vehicle in which they found four bags of pot, each weighing about five grams. William Frank Leaky, 18, of 2429 Chase Ave., was charged in the case.

CAR THEFT ARREST

A 19-year-old Lake Mary man has been charged with grand theft of allegedly stealing a 1984 Dodge in Altamonte Springs on Nov. 15.

The man was caught after he reportedly parked the car in a United Parcel Service parking lot in Altamonte Springs and witnesses who saw him walk away became suspicious and reported the incident to police, a police report said.

The suspect was picked up by police, questioned and reportedly identified by UPS employees.

Derrick L. Ames, of 113 Wildwood Drive, was arrested at 275 Crane's Roost, #1417, Altamonte Springs, at 1:52 p.m. Monday. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Fire Safety In Airliners

Since 1965, about 80 percent of the 914 fatalities in U.S. airline accidents involving fires were caused, not by the flames themselves, but by smoke or toxic gases and the inability of passengers to see their way to exits. In recognition of those problems, the Federal Aviation Administration now has adopted sensible new rules that ought to enhance passenger safety.

The airlines are required by 1987 to install seat covers that provide more resistance against fire reaching polyurethane foam padding, which when ignited emits dense smoke and toxic fumes. The rule would apply only to planes having a seating capacity of 30 or more passengers.

Because smoke rising from an interior fire tends to concentrate in the higher parts of the cabin, passengers often aren't able to see exit markings higher on the walls. The new regulations, therefore, require exit routings to be marked lower on the walls and on the floor.

A third new requirement is the installation of smoke detectors in aircraft lavatories and galleys, the sources of many fires. Early detection will give passengers and crew added time to deal with an emergency and successfully evacuate the airplane if necessary.

It's good to see that the FAA has followed through this way on the results of various studies of airline accidents involving fires. Those studies long have stressed that smoke and toxic fumes are far more lethal than the flames. Further, the new requirements should lead to the use of more fire-resistant materials in new airliners at the time of manufacture.

Life With John

If you've made all the usual contributions to charity and your compassion is yet unspent, consider the plight of John DeLorean and forward a hefty check to defray his legal expenses.

You remember John. He's the high-living automaker who was recently acquitted of conspiring in a $24 million cocaine deal. A full-page advertisement in the Los Angeles Herald Examiner the other day urged readers to donate up to $100 to the DeLorean Defense Fund.

The fund is supposed to be the incorporated inspiration of DeLorean sympathizers but there are reports that John himself organized the group and forked over the $5,000 for the ad.

So what, it's a free country. Even jet-setters have a right to pass the collection plate once in a while. And you've got to admit that poor-mouthing at $5,000 a throw is begging in style.

Besides, DeLorean's troubles would wring tears from Ghengis Kahn. DeLorean charges government harassment has ruined his life and his marriage and put him into bankruptcy. His trial was a "horror story" that could happen to any innocent American, the ad states. Well, hardly.

The fact is, though, John will have to shell out a lot to the legal fraternity. There's the bill for the trial, the divorce, the bankruptcy fees and, oh yes, the pending grand jury investigation of the $17 million allegedly missing from the DeLorean Motor Corp.

On top of it all, there's the matter of living expenses, and John likes to live it up. You can't operate on peanuts in the caviar set. Have a heart. Slip the guy a fin.

Overexposure Fouls Rating Game

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Overexposure is given as the prime (time) reason why the National Football League's ratings have been shrinking this season. I agree with that analysis in part.

The problem, however, is not a matter of televising too many games. Rather, the fans are being overexposed to auto, beer and computer commercials. That is what is turning them off and causing them to turn off the TV set.

Just about every game I've tuned in this year has been brought to me by automobiles, computers and other types of sports-minded enterprise, usually a brewery or an insurance company.

Using myself as a microcosm, if I turn on my television set and find the game is sponsored by automobiles and computers, I turn it off again and go outside and rake leaves or something.

This type of protest is somewhat complicated by night games, which may account for some of the strange stuff (empty beer cans, cats, etc.) I've raked up this year.

Even so, I have seen the car, beer and computer commercials currently being exhibited for NFL fans at least four times. When things reach the point, as they customarily do before halftime, when there is more excitement behind the wheel than there is behind the center, the league is in a heap of trouble.

Why, some of the cars that sponsor football games also have computers. Thus the television fans get a double dose of messages whenever the ball changes hands, which is frequently, or there is another type of commercial timeout, which also is frequently.

So far, I have seen no computer sponsors that feature cars in their commercials. But they're coming, luv. Believe me, they're coming.

Computers on wheels. Computers with data-injection systems. Computers that hug the road on curves. Etc.

If ever they figure out a way to computerize beer-drinking, they will have it made.

In the NFL, the standard timeout is long enough for both automobile and computer commercials. Plus assorted messages from breweries and previews of coming sitcoms and other attractions.

Is sitting through all these messages really worth it to see replays of some overpaid soccer-style kicker from Albania or Argentina "splitting the uprights" from three different angles?

The worst part about overexposure to auto, beer and computer commercials during football games is being overly susceptible to such messages.

The 1984 season had barely begun before I already had a garageful of new cars, a roomful of personal computers and a refrigerator full of beer. Yet the sponsors keep piling on.

The next step, I fear, will be computerized quarterbacks who move with all the grace and beauty of a pickup truck, yet have hidden power and durability that gives them fast starts on cold mornings.

Computerized quarterbacks will have electronic, hi-tech helmets for receiving signals from the coach and other segments of the bench braintrust. Yet are so simple even a preschool child can operate them. And don't forget the rapid acceleration of plugged-in running backs.

Media's Double Standard

How the major media treat disorders in different countries makes for an interesting and important study. Consider the approaches utilized with respect to the internal problems of India and the Republic of South Africa.

Both countries have experienced disorders this fall. The rioting in South Africa, however, has been limited to a few localities. India has experienced the assassination of President Indira Ghandi, and an orgy of religious and communal violence which resulted in hundreds of deaths and thousands of injured Sikhs. Both countries have called on their armies to deal with the disorders. The rioters in South Africa demanded political rights. The Sikhs demanded self-rule.

Both of these situations are enormously complex. South Africa adopted a new constitution this year to widen the franchise, but opening the door to change has provoked fresh opposition at home and abroad. India refuses to allow the Sikh minority a measure of autonomy. The late Mrs. Ghandi insisted on a unitary Indian state and used massive military force to crush her opponents.

The major media in the United States consistently condemn the South African government and reject the Reagan administration's policy of "constructive engagement." No credit is given the South Africans for constitutional change or for attempts to deal with a near-impossible internal situation. India continues to get most-favored nation treatment by the major U.S. media. It is continually referred to as "the world's largest democracy," though Mrs. Ghandi placed her political opponents in preventive detention and rewrote the Indian constitution to get her way. Everyone voted in Hitler's Germany; they all voted "Ja." India is ruled by the Nehru dynasty, the very opposite of democracy.

Americans should understand these contradictions and realize that liberal commentators have a double standard for judging countries. They also should realize that American-style democracy isn't feasible everywhere in the world, that the racial, religious and communal problems of countries from Cyprus to South Africa, and from Lebanon to India dictate very different forms of political order and distinctive timetables for change and adjustment.

Soviets Ready To Guard Nicaragua

WASHINGTON — If U.S. forces invade Nicaragua, they might find themselves fighting Soviet combat troops.

This disturbing possibility is raised in a recent "code word" CIA report — classified higher than top secret. The report, which was reviewed by my associate Dale Van Atta, reveals that a Soviet combat brigade has been practicing near San Pedro in Cuba for an airborne assault of Nicaragua.

This is the same Soviet 3,000-man brigade that made headlines in 1979 when U.S. intelligence discovered it.

When asked about the report, an administration official said intelligence analysts believe that one explanation for the training exercise in recent weeks is that the Soviets plan to use the brigade against American invaders or U.S.-backed contras. The Soviet brigade could be flown to Nicaragua in less than two hours.

The CIA is convinced that President Reagan's invasion of Grenada radically changed the KGB's assessment of U.S. intentions. The Soviets learned from Grenada that Reagan wasn't kidding when he threatened to stop the spread of Marxism in Central America and the Caribbean.

But far from backing down as they did in the 1962 missile crisis, the Soviets have been responding to every escalation in the Reagan administration's rhetoric and action with escalations of their own. They clearly don't intend to leave Nicaragua's defense to a handful of paramilitary construction workers as they did in Grenada.

In the wake of the Grenada invasion, the Soviets advised Fidel Castro to withdraw from Nicaragua any Cuban "advisers" who were not combat-trained. Some 2,000 Cuban civilians, including teachers, left Nicaragua at the start of the Christmas school vacation. Only 1,000 returned — but they were younger, tougher and better trained militarily.

U.S. intelligence reports estimate that there are now 5,000 Cuban advisers in Nicaragua, 2,000 of them military or security personnel. The Nicaraguan army, which the Sandinistas say numbers only 30,000, actually has "a solid 100,000 troops" who can be called up within 12 hours, according to a recent top-secret CIA report. This is by far the largest military force in Central America.

The reason the administration was so concerned over intelligence reports that Soviet MIG-21s were being delivered to Nicaragua is that these sophisticated planes would make the Nicaraguan air force overnight the most powerful in the region. The MIG-21s could dominate the air over Honduras and El Salvador, and pose a serious threat to the Panama Canal. That's why the administration has been warning the Soviet Union and Nicaragua since 1981 not to introduce MIG-21s into Central America — warnings the Soviets have respected so far.

Nicaragua already has pilots qualified to fly MIG-21s. Eighty received training in Bulgaria four years ago, and 30 stopped off in Cuba on their way home to maintain their proficiency in Castro's Soviet-made planes.

According to a former Nicaraguan counterintelligence officer, several

Post Election Sniping

Since the final tallies of vote totals didn't come in until too late for the day-after-the-election editions, the post-election sniping at President Reagan didn't begin until Thursday. That day, The New York Times suggested in a banner headline that "Reagan Faces Difficult Task in Leading Divided Congress," and "GOP Falls to Make Big Gains in Congress."

Public figures got into the act. Sen. Richard Lugar, who would like to be considered for the post of Senate Majority Leader, allowed on national television as how President Reagan had "misspoke" himself when he promised he wouldn't raise taxes. Throngs of liberals, looking for the silver lining, claimed that Mr. Reagan won on the basis of personality, not programs.

Long before the election, the Left and so-called "moderates" effectively teamed up to flog the administration on the presumption that Mr. Reagan's tax cuts, domestic spending reductions, and military buildup have doomed the nation to colossal deficits and certain collapse. In the face of this hysteria, the economy continues to prosper. On the day after the election, major banks lowered their prime lending rate from 12 percent to 11 1/4, a modest enough reduction, but the fourth since late September. The cut represents sharply lower borrowing costs for banks, and a slight easing of credit availability by the Federal Reserve in the face of continued lower inflation.

Unemployment is dramatically improved. All twelve durable goods industries monitored by the Labor Department reported hiring increases in October.

The federal deficit, of course, is the dark cloud overshadowing our prosperity. If it is not sharply reduced over the next long term, our children and grandchildren will pay our bills.

But as Election Day proved, the fear of deficits doesn't translate into public willingness to trade economic policies that work — President Reagan's policies — for the dreary hardships engendered by higher taxes. Mr. Reagan was reelected because he recognized that the voters know the right track when they are on it. The Times, Sen. Lugar, and the obsolescent liberals have their way inside the Washington beltway — but 60 percent of the electorate don't buy it anymore.

JEFFREY HART

Not So Modest

Much is being said about the modest Republican gains in the House and the loss of those two seats in the Senate, supposed to indicate a "moderate" trend among the voters despite President Reagan's staggering 49 state victory.

But that judgment needs to be qualified. In the two most important Senate races, in North Carolina and Texas — races of national importance — liberalism did not work its way. Enormous amounts of outside money poured into these races. North Carolina was the most expensive Senate contest in U.S. history. Yet Jesse Helms won in North Carolina, and Phil Gramm won in Texas. The importance of this is not arithmetical.

Consider, however, the two Senate seats the Republicans lost.

In Illinois, Charles Percy gave no one any reason to be enthusiastic about his candidacy. He comes from the devastated liberal wing of the Republican Party, and every six years, when he runs for re-election, he tries to sound like a conservative. In 1978, he actually apologized for his own record and told the voters that he had learned his lesson. Once back in Washington, he proved that this was not true. The "loss" of Chuck Percy's seat was not a loss.

In the other Republican loss, Tennessee, everyone knew that Howard Baker's seat could not be held. The Gore family has the kind of dynastic appeal that the Kennedys have in Massachusetts. Albert Gore Jr. is a Tennessee centrist. This seat was no liberal ideological gain.

Hollywood stars and liberal millionaires lined up for Jim Hunt, but Helms went back to the Senate by a solid margin.

Helms has courage and clout. The situation as regards the chairmanship of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is murky. Helms has the primary claim to the post, if he chooses to exercise it. Next in line is Senator Richard Lugar, who is acceptable to Helms. But Lugar wants to be majority leader. If Lugar succeeds there, the next in line for foreign relations is Sen. Mathias of Maryland, who is not acceptable to Helms or anyone outside Maryland. In that case, Helms would give up his Agriculture Committee post and take over foreign relations.

The one painful Republican loss was not Percy in Illinois or Ashe in Tennessee but the defeat of Ray Shamie in Massachusetts by Lt. Governor John Kerry, who is so self-consciously Kennedyesque — he even initials his memos "JFK" — that the entire spectacle is degrading. Kerry, who was head of Vietnam Veterans Against the War, is an isolationist and no friend of the cause of freedom around the world. But Shamie's candidacy may mark the revival of the Republican Party in the People's Republic of Massachusetts.

Where the equation of power in the Senate is concerned, and in view of the victories of Gramm and Helms, the Republicans probably gained more than they lost.

'Outrageous' Lady Raiders Stomp Edison

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer
Seminole Community College second-year coach Heana Gallagher unveiled her new-look Lady Raiders Tuesday night and they did a number on visiting Edison Community College.

Last year, the Lady Raiders were tall but slow and this year they're the exact opposite, small but quick, and SCC used its quickness along with a tenacious defense to overcome Edison, 67-55, at the SCC Health Center.

"The ice is broken," Gallagher said after the victory. "We got all of the butterflies and nervousness out and now we're ready to go."

SCC returns to action Tuesday, Nov. 27, as it hosts Indian River Community College. The Lady Raiders then host their own tournament Nov. 30 through Dec. 1.

SCC received outstanding all-around play from its starting five Tuesday including a game-high 20-point performance by freshman point guard Tammy Johnson. Johnson, a Lake Howell High graduate, picked up right where she left off in high school hitting 10 of 14 field goals and she also added five rebounds, five assists and four steals to her impressive debut for the Lady Raiders.

Another Seminole County prep product, Kim Lemon, a Lyman High graduate, tossed in 18 points and pulled down seven boards in her SCC debut. Freshman center Vikki McMurrer, also from Lyman High, added six points, nine rebounds, and four assists.

While its three freshman starters excelled Tuesday, SCC's two returning starters also had outstanding opening games. Juana Coletti ripped down a game-high 15 rebounds, added 12 points and handed out five assists while Pam Lee connected for 11 points, dished out seven assists and grabbed five rebounds. "I'm very pleased with the young ladies," Gallagher said. "Each player did their part exactly the way they were supposed to. And we played outrageously defense."

SCC's defense forced 10 Edison turnovers in the early going as the Raiders jumped out to a 8-2 lead. Edison came back to tie it at 10-10 but SCC reeled off six points, four by Johnson, to make it 16-10.

SCC went on to take a 12-point lead, 28-16, with 4:17 left in the first half on a jumper by Johnson. Coletti and Lemon each converted one of two free throws to give SCC a 30-16 lead, but Edison came back with six straight points, including a jumper at the buzzer by Barb Drachenberg, to pull within eight, 30-22, at halftime.

Johnson pumped in 12 of her 20 points in the first half while Lemon added eight.

The Lady Raiders kept their lead at 10 in the first five minutes of the second half, but Edison came back to within three, 45-42, with 10:22 remaining on a pair of free throws by Kim Ross.

Edison then had a chance to cut the lead to one with 10:07 left, but Ross missed the front end of a one-and-one and McMurrer was fouled on the rebound.

McMurrer made the first free throw and missed the second, but Lee snuck in for the rebound, made the follow up and was fouled in the process. Lee made the free throw and, just two seconds after Ross' missed free throw, the Lady Raiders had a seven-point lead, 49-42, with 10:05 left to play.

SCC then reeled off 13 more points to take a commanding

Act Of God? Supernatural Tip Tops SCC

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor
After losing to Seminole Community College 23 consecutive times over the past 18 years, Lake Sumter's Lakers were beginning to believe they needed an "Act of God" to beat the Raiders.

Tuesday night, the heavens opened above their basket and they received one.

With just six seconds remaining and SCC in front by one point, three players went up for a loose ball just inside the free throw line. The ball bounced off the court and hit one or two or three hands.

It took off toward the basket, it bounced once on the rim, once on the backboard and once more on the opposite side of the rim. Then, it took about a six-inch roll around the rim before dropping in the basket.

The supernatural tip, which was credited to Lake Sumter's Gerald Bedford, was just enough to edge the Lakers past SCC, 65-64. In junior college basketball action Tuesday night at the SCC Health Center before 200 stunned fans.

"That was an act of God," said Lake Sumter coach George Bianchi, whose team is 2-3. "We played hard enough to get us in that situation, but I've never seen a game won like that."

He had a lot of company on that one. "I don't know what happened," said SCC's Artis Johnson who was one of the three hands on the ball. "I just went up in the air to try and get it. There were two or three hands on the ball."

"I still don't know how that ball went in," added SCC forward Rob Brantley, who brought the Raiders back from a 10-point deficit with some spirited boardwork and scoring.

So was the fact that Lake Sumter was even in the game. "After getting blown out by Florida Junior Saturday, I was writing this one off, too," said Bianchi about Tuesday's matchup. "But they (SCC) took us lightly, which is human nature, since we're the league doormat. They're not going to get upset like this too often."

But the Raiders did Tuesday. It was, as previously stated, the first time an SCC squad has ever lost to the Leesburg junior college. That fact, plus the setback being the Raiders' first of the year after four straight wins, had coach Bill Payne talking to himself after the game.

"There was overconfidence on our part," noted Payne. "We were flat. There was no intensity. Only one or two guys played ball."

"But, give them credit. They were very well prepared and wanted it more. They got the job done and we didn't."

Especially on the miracle tip. Brantley, a 6-3 freshman from the Bronx, N.Y., bulled inside for a rebound and tossed in the follow-up for a 64-63 lead with just 1:53 left in the game.

Lake Sumter, which used a spread offense most of the night, then ran off 20 seconds and called a time-out. With SCC applying half-hearted pressure, the Lakers killed another 61 seconds before calling a time out with 32 ticks left.

Next, they almost threw away the game. A errant inbound pass was picked off by SCC's Lenny Grace with 28 seconds to go. The Raiders moved the ball until Grace was fouled by Thor Shaffer with 21 seconds left.

J.C. Basketball

Usually adept under pressure, Grace stepped to the line to salt away the victory. But, the 77 percent free throw shooter missed his first attempt of the one-plus-one to keep the Lakers alive.

Bianchi called a time out six seconds later to set up the final shot with 15 ticks to play. "We were trying to hit (Wildred) Louigene in the lane, but it didn't work out," he said. "Thank God, Shaffer did the right thing. He put the ball on the glass."

Which he did with 11 seconds to play. The ball banked roughly off the rim and descended toward Brantley and Greg "Skywalker" Bates. "Greg and I were fighting for the rebound," said Brantley. "I had it over my head, but then Greg pulled it loose."

The bounced toward the foul line where Johnson tried to control it. Then, Johnson, Bedford and Louigene went up for the ball. One of the three, two of the three, or all of three, tipped the ball. Somehow, it made its way toward the goal and fell in.

The first half was no act of God. SCC and LCCS combined for 30 turnovers as the Raiders pulled out a 31-30 halftime edge. Brent Baird, Slim Johnson and Artis Johnson each had six points for SCC.

The Raiders fell behind immediately in the second 20 minutes as Bedford scored five quick points and Trey Crawford tossed in a short jumper for a 40-35 advantage.

SCC closed within one on Slim Johnson's two FTs with 15:26 to play but another Laker spurt to 57-47 with 10:10 to play in the game. Then, Brantley got the Raiders rolling. He hustled a steal after a Kenny Edwards' three-point play and fed Artis Johnson for a bucket to slice the lead to five.

With 3:41 to play, two free throws by Artis Johnson cut the deficit to one. Forty-two seconds later, point guard Mike Tolbert had a chance to give SCC the lead but he missed both free throws.

Grace did put SCC ahead on a nice baseline move with 2:10 to play but Tolbert fouled Jeff Lamb and his two free throws gave the Lakers a 63-62 lead to set up the hectic final two minutes.

The Raiders hit just 42 of 61 shots for a miserable 39.3 percent. Lake Sumter shot just 40 times but connected on 26 for 65 percent.

SCC, 4-1, plays the Rollins junior varsity at Winter Park today at 5.

Color Lady Patriots Brown In '84-85

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

With almost all of its top shooters, ballhandlers and defensive players returning, the only thing Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots were missing going into the 1984-85 season was a center.

Since he became coach of the Lady Patriots, Renny Betris never had that one big center to go with the talent he had. But now Betris' wish has come true.

Joining the Patriots for the 1984-85 campaign is 6-1 Kiran Dellinger, a senior transfer from Pennsylvania. Lake Brantley now has that center to go along with the fine all-around skills of Michelle Brown and the outstanding outside shooting of Sherry "Ice" Asplen and Kim Lubenow.

"I've never had a six-footer before," Betris said. "She'll definitely help us on the boards and she'll open up the scoring. She's a real smart player, a good rebounder and a good free throw shooter. She just came out two weeks ago (after volleyball season ended) and has really come on strong."

Lake Brantley opens the season Wednesday in the Hoop-De-Do Tournament, sponsored by the Winter Park Rotary Club, at the University of Central Florida. The

Prep Basketball

Patriots take on Seminole High in the Patriots' first game Wednesday at 4 p.m.

The Patriots have all but one starter, point guard Linda Nunez (13.9 points per game), returning.

Dellinger's presence will take the rebounding burden off Brown, one of the best players in Central Florida last season. Brown, a 5-9 senior forward, led the Lady Patriots in every category last season. She averaged 14.8 points per game, 9.6 rebounds, 5.2 assists, 5.8 steals and shot 64 percent from the free throw line.

Asplen, a 5-7 junior, will take over at point guard and run the Patriots offense. Asplen saw extensive action for Lake Brantley as both a freshman and sophomore. Along with being one of the finest outside shooters around, Asplen has also become a dependable ballhandler.

"Sherry (Asplen) will have a lot to carry on her shoulders this season," Betris said. "She'll run our offense and be counted on to score and play good defense."

Lubenow, a 5-6 senior guard, is also an excellent outside shooter. Lubenow just joined the basketball team after a successful cross country season. "When Kim (Lubenow) and Sherry (Asplen) are both hitting from the outside at the same time, we'll be hard to beat," Betris said.

Opposite Brown at the other forward spot will be 5-9 senior Cammie Twaddell. With Brown, Asplen and Lubenow all providing the scoring punch from the outside, Twaddell will be counted on for strong play inside on both the offensive and defensive boards.

Also returning from last year's team to provide bench strength for the Patriots are Angie May, a 5-9 junior, and Andrea Gordon, a 5-8 sophomore.

Up from last year's junior varsity team and adding depth for Brantley this year are juniors Debbie Lovelace (5-4 guard) and Cindy Staggs (5-7 guard-forward) and sophomores Ashley Thomas (5-5 guard) and Michelle Hagen (5-8 forward).

"We're not quite where we expected to be at this point," Betris said. "We played terrible in the jamboree (at Rollins College) but that was a combination of the new kids trying to mix together with the returning players. We still have a lot of fine tuning to do and a lot of things to go over to prepare for Seminole."

Davis Bests Teammate For Rookie Of The Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Seattle Mariners entered the 1984 season needing a cornerstone player, a player around whom you can build a team.

They didn't get one. They got two.

Alvin Davis, who became the most productive slugger in team history after failing to make the club in spring training, and pitcher Mark Langston finished 1-2 in voting for the American League's Rookie of the Year.

A 24-year-old first baseman, Davis received 25 first-place votes and 134 points from the 28 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America who participated in the voting. The results were announced Tuesday.

Langston, a 17-game winner and the AL's strikeout king, got three first-place votes and 82 points. Davis is the first Seattle player ever to win a major post-season award and he and Langston are the first team mates to finish 1-2 in AL Rookie of the Year voting since Boston's Fred Lynn and Jim Rice in 1975.

A.L. Baseball

"Langston had a fantastic season," said Davis. "I've got to call him and congratulate him. We'll take maybe a couple hours, think about it for awhile and then start getting ready for next year."

Outfielder Kirby Puckett of Minnesota was third with 23 points followed, in order, by second baseman Tim Lincecum of Minnesota (5), outfielder Mike Young of Baltimore (3) and pitcher Roger Clemens of Boston (2). Pitcher Mark Gubicza of Kansas City, pitcher Al Nipper of Boston and pitcher Ron Romanick of California each received one point.

Davis and Langston were the only players named on all 28 ballots. Davis also received three second place votes while Langston got 21.

Copeland, Rollins Haven't Lost Championship Touch

It was delightful to have Norm Copeland in the Golden Age Tennis Tournament. Norm played in the 55-59 age group and finished runner-up in doubles with partner Hank Gooch.

Norm is an excellent player and has all the classic strokes. It's no wonder that he is considered one of the top tennis teachers in Florida. His strokes are excellent and show great form.

Of course, Norm Copeland is the men's tennis coach at Rollins College and has been for over 20 years. He owns one of the best coaching records in the history of college tennis. Rollins has a national Division II championship and has always finished very near the top in the NCAA Division II standings. The winning percentage for the Rollins men's team over the years is over 80 percent — that is remarkable in any sport at any time.

Norm can't help bubbling about this year's Rollins team. It looks like one of the strongest in recent years. In the first national poll, Rollins was ranked fifth in the nation among Division II schools.

Insiders believe, though, that the Tars are even better than that, possibly even a contender to win it all. Hampton Institute, Chapman College, California San Luis Obispo and Ferris State of Pennsylvania are ranked ahead of Rollins.

Four of Rollins players are ranked in

Larry Castle
Herald Tennis Writer

the top 50 in the U.S. in NCAA Division rankings.

Brian Talgo is rated fourth, Rob Bates is 16th, Jonas Mortenson is 31st and former Lyman standout Brian Morrissey is ranked 46th. It looks like a great for Rollins. Here's hoping the Tars go all the way...

Two former SCC stars are also making big news in Division II tennis. Dan Merritt and Martin Bromfield play for ninth-9th ranked University of Tennessee at Martin. Merritt is ranked 21st in singles in the U.S. and Bromfield is ranked 33rd.

As a doubles team they are ranked second in the nation among NCAA Division II doubles teams. It's great to see them doing so well. They are both quality young men and extremely hard workers...

In NCAA Division I tennis, the big news is still Mike Pernfors. Pernfors, of course, is the former SCC All-American and last year's NCAA champion. He is in his senior year at the University of Georgia. Mike has won 30 straight matches and just recently won the prestigious Nike All-American Tournament in California. Mike is ranked No. 1 in college tennis and is the favorite to win the NCAA title again this year...

Jim Edmonds is still the club champion at Bayhead. Edmonds won the finals this year with a tough three-set match against Scott Reagen.

Also playing real well in the club championships were all three of the Holt boys, David, John, and Ricky. Edmonds came out on top, however, and seems to get better all the time. It will take a giant effort for anyone to knock him off in years to come...

In the championship game, Lakeview used a 65-yard pass interception to down Milwee, 6-0.

MIDGETS: LAKEVIEW NIPS MILWEE

IN BRIEF

Libya Warns Mubarak Of Possible Assassination

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Libya is warning Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak that he may be assassinated for harboring political exiles like former Libyan Prime Minister Abdel Hamid El-Bakouh, himself the target of a foiled assassination plot.

The state-run Middle East News Agency Tuesday said the leader of a death squad sent to Egypt to gun down El-Bakouh confessed to the scheme.

The publication of the alleged confession coincided with warnings printed in a Libyan government-controlled newspaper addressed to Mubarak saying that by following "the same treacherous steps" as slain Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, Mubarak also would face assassination.

The Libyan newspaper Al Zahr Al-Akhdar said Mubarak "humiliated the Arab nation" by protecting Libyan exiles such as El-Bakouh.

Sadat was assassinated by four Moslem extremists during a military parade in Cairo Oct. 6, 1981. Mubarak, vice president at the time, sat next to him at the podium.

Israel Assails Parliament-in-Exile

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel is refusing to allow residents of the occupied West Bank, a bedrock of support for PLO chief Yasser Arafat, to attend the 17th session of the Palestinian parliament-in-exile in Jordan.

"Arafat is a terrorist," said a senior Israeli official, who predicted the Palestine Liberation Organization chairman might not even be able to gain enough support to convene the session Thursday in the Jordanian capital of Amman.

Arafat, who spent nine months trying to set up the 17th session of the Palestine National Council, was in Algiers Tuesday as part of a tour of Arab capitals to muster support.

The council is the highest policy-making body of the dispersed Palestinian people who fled their homeland during the 1948 Arab-Israeli war that preceded the creation of Israel.

A two-thirds quorum of the 384-member council is needed to convene the first gathering since a session in Algiers 20 months ago.

Guerrillas Kill 40 Policemen

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (UPI) — Police patrolled major cities in Sri Lanka today to maintain calm after separatist guerrillas stormed a police complex, razing the station and killing at least 40 officers, military sources said.

Authorities said today they had recovered 26 bodies of officers killed in Tuesday's attack and the search would continue for at least 34 more. An unidentified number of guerrillas were also believed killed.

A nationwide security forces alert was ordered after the attack, the most spectacular ever staged by guerrillas fighting for a separate Tamil state in northern Sri Lanka.

The attack came barely 24 hours after guerrillas set a land mine that killed the chief of the Sri Lanka army's northern command.

Most inhabitants in Sri Lanka, an Indian Ocean island nation formerly known as Ceylon, are Buddhist Sinhalese. About 18 percent of the population of 15 million are Tamils, most of them Hindus of south Indian origin.

For Repeated Assaults On Young Girls

Child Molester Facing 105 Years

A Sanford man faces a possible 105-year prison sentence for sexually assaulting two young girls over a two-year period.

James Neilson, 46, of 2007 Adams St., pleaded guilty Monday to one count of sexual battery and five counts of lewd and lascivious assault. Seminole Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor set Jan. 31 for sentencing. While Neilson could get 30 years for the sexual battery and 15 years for each lewd assault charge, state sentencing guidelines recommend incarceration of 17 to 22 years.

In exchange for the guilty pleas, the state agreed not to prosecute two additional counts of sexual battery and three more counts of lewd and lascivious assault.

Neilson, arrested in September after a social worker informed authorities of the molestations, said he assaulted the girls, sisters who are now 11 and 12, during a period from August 1982 to Sept. 18. The girls are the daughters of a friend of his.

In other court action, a Longwood man who was arrested after a police officer saw a bag of marijuana in the car he was in has pleaded guilty to possession of a controlled substance.

Kurt Allen Lovvorn, 19, of 190 Tollgate Trail, entered the plea Tuesday before Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. who set Jan. 18 for sentencing. Lovvorn faces up to a year in the county jail.

Two co-defendants arrested at the same time, Daniel Adam Chaffee, 19, of 259 N. Country Club Road, Lake Mary, and David Paul Lassonde, 22, of Orlando, await disposition of their cases.

According to court records, the officer reported seeing the bag of marijuana on the front seat of their car while they were in the parking lot of the Hot Line Bottle Club, state Road 436, Altamonte Springs, on Aug. 21. The bag contained almost 26 ounces of marijuana, records said.

The trio were also charged with possession of cocaine after a small amount of the substance was reportedly found in the glove compartment of the car.

Longwood To Seek Extension Of $18,000 State Park Grant

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Longwood City Commissioners are scheduled to meet at 3 p.m. today in a special session called to approve an application for an extension of an $18,000 state grant that was about to slip through the city's fingers.

The grant, awarded to Longwood two years ago to develop recreational facilities at the city's Reller Park but only implemented by the state a year ago, expired in October and the city has only partially completed the project.

The extension application arrived in Longwood Tuesday after Monday night's regular meeting at which the commission learned State Rep. Carl Selph, R-Casselberry, had gotten the city an 180-day extension on the grant after being requested to do so by Commissioner Bill Mitchell.

Selph had notified the city Monday that the application was on the way from the office of Dr. Elton J. Gisenandanner, executive director of the Department of Natural Resources in Tallahassee, to be signed and returned in order for the city to get the extension.

A softball field has been built at Reller Park and drainage pipe laid. Plans also call for construction of a soccer field and tennis and handball courts. However, the lights (obtained through the grant) at the ball park have been turned off and are scheduled to be removed due to complaints from neighboring Longwood Grove residents who complained about night games.

The commission voted at the Nov. 12 meeting to scrap the existing plan for the park and let the city's newly-appointed Parks Advisory Committee come up with its own plan.

In other business Monday night, the commission voted 4-1 to give Florida Residential Communities the go-ahead to seek county permits for engineering plans to alleviate drainage problems at Lake Tiberon (a retention pond) in FRC's Tiberon housing development. The pond overflowed during last summer's heavy rains.

FRC has promised to supply the engineering plans and permits and pay $5,000 for material if the city will give its approval and supply the labor needed to complete the work. City Administrator David Chace said the increased cost of 12-inch PVC pipe will up the materials cost to $6,500 and he wants FRC to pay the additional cost.

The commission reversed its earlier ruling and approved a request by the Seminole County Association for Children with Learning Disabilities to use the commission chambers for monthly meetings. The commission turned down the request last week.

Commissioner June Lorman said she had voted to deny the request previously because she was under the mistaken impression that there would be 36 children using the chambers and meetings would be held more often. Smerilson, who said he learned following last week's meeting that it was a meeting for adults only held once a month, made the motion to grant the request. Mrs. Lorman seconded the motion.

During the public input period of the meeting, there was also a reaction to a motion made by Smerilson at the Nov. 12 commission meeting for a vote of no confidence in Chacey (Smerilson's motion died for the lack of a second). Former mayor and city commissioner John Hepp of 1402 Robin Court said he wished to speak of the "shame the commissioner's action brought to the commission and the city" when the "32-year veteran of three wars as an officer and a gentleman in the U.S. Air Force who has worked extremely hard as administrator of the city" was belittled as the commissioners sat by. "He wasn't even given common courtesy."

Hepp suggested if the commission wished to censure Chacey it should be done as required in the charter.

Cook Of The Week

Recipes Will Please Pickiest Pumpkin-Eater

By Brenda Lowe
Herald Correspondent

The beautiful and versatile pumpkin isn't just for jack-o'-lanterns and "pumpkin" pies. This week's cook, Carol Harris, shares recipes with enough variety to please the pickiest pumpkin-eater.

Carol is a Sanford native, but has lived in several places in Florida. When she was in high school in Punta Gorda, Carol says that she was active in the 4-H Club and FFA. Her love of animals, and horses in particular, made her a natural for these activities. She is especially fond of Western pleasure horses, such as the quarter horse. Carol says that she has worked at various stables, training horses, but her ambition is to have a stable of her own someday.

Carol comes by her love of horses naturally. She says that her fraternal grandfather had a ranch in Wyoming. When she was 16, her family took a car trip to visit her grandparents there. She says the horses in Wyoming are like "woolly mammoths" compared to Florida horses. She spent a great deal of time riding one of them in the mountains behind her grandfather's house.

While living in Key West, Carol says that she really enjoyed snorkeling and collecting shells, especially conchs and left-handed Welchs. Her house was two blocks from Ernest Hemingway's residence, but she adds, "It's such a little town that almost everybody's house is near Hemingway's!" In addition to the beautiful beaches and water, Carol says that the "night life" in Key West is certainly colorful. The whole area lends itself to artists, musicians, writers, and "street performers," from puppeteers to singers and dancers.

In Oldtown, which is in North Florida, Carol learned about a different Florida than most people think of. The place where she lived, she says, had large, shady oaks which let very little sunlight filter through, so it was always cool in the summer and insulated in the winter. Far from all the "attractions," there was a much slower pace of life and the pastoral scenery was a soothing change for her. There she had room for lots of animals, including cats, cats, and more cats! One of the most interesting pets she has had was an iguana, named appropriately enough, "Iggy." At one time she had baby raccoons, but they had to be freed when they reached maturity. Carol says that they aren't very sweet and cuddly after they mature. It's easy to understand why, with such a "way" with animals, that Carol once wanted to be a veterinarian.

Recently, Carol vacationed in Cancun, Mexico at the Club International. She visited the Mayan Indian ruins and other historical spots, but she says that she was especially impressed by the white, sandy beaches and the romantic ambience of Cancun. She says the people there were friendly and cooperative but that there was a lot of good-natured squabbling over prices in the marketplace. She adds that one shopkeeper in particular seemed to make a game of it when she purchased a dress from him. She says that she must have been pretty good at bargaining with him because she didn't pay full price for the dress.

In addition to horseback riding, Carol says that she likes all water sports and enjoys going to the beach as often as she can. Handicrafts are a recent interest of hers. She has completed a quilt, a hook-latch clown, a Russian punch project, and is in the process of learning to crochet. If variety is Carol Harris wouldn't dream of discarding any portion of the beautiful and versatile pumpkin. She even prepares the seeds for a tasty, nutritious munchable.

Indeed the spice of life, then Carol's life has, so far, been a reflection of that adage.

ROASTED PUMPKIN SEEDS

What your kids may discard as garbage when they're through carving the jack-o'-lantern can be put to good use. Here's how:

Rinse seeds well and, for each two cups of seeds, place in a saucepan with one quart of water and about two tablespoons of salt. (Most of the salt will be discarded later.)

Simmer for 10 minutes; drain well and pat dry on towel. Preheat oven to 350°. Toss pumpkin seeds with one tablespoon of melted, unsalted butter in a medium bowl until seeds are evenly coated. Spread out in a large roasting pan; bake for 30 minutes, stirring and tossing occasionally, until crisp and golden. Cool and store in an airtight container.

PUMPKIN BREAD

3 cups flour (all-purpose)
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
3 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
4 large eggs
2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups corn oil
2 cups pumpkin puree

Sift together dry ingredients. Then add eggs, sugar, oil and pumpkin. Blend well, until all dry ingredients are moistened. Bake at 350° for one hour in two loaf pans. Cool 10 minutes and remove from pans. Then enjoy!

GREAT PUMPKIN COOKIE

This is a big, delicious, wholesome cookie made with plenty of pure, natural pumpkin and oatmeal.

2 cups flour
1 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon

1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup butter or margarine, softened
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup granulated sugar
1 egg, slightly beaten

1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup solid pack pumpkin
1 cup semi-sweet real chocolate morsels assorted icing or peanut butter
assorted candies, raisins or nuts

Preheat oven to 350°. Combine flour, oats, baking soda, cinnamon and salt. Cream butter; gradually add sugars, beating until light and fluffy. Add egg and vanilla; mix well. Alternate additions of dry ingredients and pumpkin, mixing well after each addition. Stir in morsels. For each cookie, drop 1/4 cup dough onto lightly greased cookie sheet; spread into pumpkin shape, using a thin metal spatula. Add a bit more dough to form stem. Bake 20-25 minutes, until cookies are firm and lightly browned. Remove from cookie sheets; cool on racks. Decorate, using icing or peanut butter to affix assorted candies, raisins or nuts. Yields: 19-20 cookies. Variation: substitute one cup raisins for chocolate morsels.

PUMPKIN BUTTER

A creamy, spicy "butter" that tastes wonderful spread on nearly anything, but especially warm biscuits. Try it on warm pumpkin bread, too.

1 can (16 ounce) pumpkin puree
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/4 cup honey
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground cloves or allspice

Combine pumpkin, brown sugar, honey, lemon juice, and spices in a medium saucepan. Bring to a boil over medium-high heat, stirring frequently. Reduce heat; simmer 20 minutes, or until thickened, stirring occasionally. Cool mixture slightly and pack into small, airtight containers. Refrigerate for several weeks or freeze for several months. Yield: 2 cups.

In And Around Longwood

Pageant 'Thrill' For Finalist

The regional Mrs. Florida Pageant was held Saturday, Nov. 10 at the Hilton Inn featuring a bathing suit, evening gown and interview with the contestants. Forty-two contestants were interviewed on Saturday afternoon, and bathing suit and evening gown competition were held that evening.

Forty finalists from Florida will go to the finals at Cypress Gardens Jan. 10, 11 and 12, 1985. The winner of the finals will go to Reno, Nev., sometime next year to compete in the Mrs. America contest.

Mrs. Susan Holman of Longwood is a finalist to go to the Florida State Finals at Cypress Gardens in January, 1985. Mrs. Holman said she read about the pageant in the newspaper and her husband and parents urged her to send for an application and enter the competition. "It was great fun and I enjoyed the participation. Placing as a finalist was an added thrill." Susan is the office manager of her husband's dental office.

A dental hygienist by profession, Susan is the mother of five and also teaches an adult Sunday school class at Wekiva Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Holman said she was impressed that officials in the pageant were not looking for the most beautiful Mrs. Florida, but for an all-around contemporary married woman. Mrs. Holman is active in Orange County Dental Hygienic Association. She was sponsored by her husband, Diet Center of Seminole, C and S Images Unlimited, and Melp Street Station.

Bridges Trades In Fins For 'Dolls'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lloyd Bridges nibbled on a piece of Danish and talked about cheating on his wife.

Dorothy Bridges slipped her Sanka and smiled.

That's because the actor wasn't talking about real life, he was talking about the character he plays in the ABC series "Paper Dolls."

"I'm very anxious to know what the heck happens," Bridges said in an interview at the hotel where he was staying while the series shot background locations in New York City. "Working in a series like this, you don't know much ahead of time what the script calls for. It's very much like life itself — very surprising."

Bridges, who has done several series, is best remembered on television for "Sea Hunt," where he donned swim trunks and flippers and went underwater for 39 episodes a year for four years.

"When Leonard (Leonard Goldberg, executive producer of "Paper Dolls") called me he sort of made me an offer I couldn't refuse.

"And I wouldn't have to work very hard in my old age and I would be surrounded by beautiful women."

"I have a very understanding wife."

Be Thankful For Blessings

DEAR READERS: By popular demand, here is my traditional Thanksgiving column:

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving Day, so take a few minutes to think about what you have to be thankful for.

How's your health? Not so good? Well, thank God you've lived this long. A lot of people haven't. You're hurting? Thousands — maybe millions — are hurting more. (Have you ever visited a veterans' hospital? Or a rehabilitation clinic for crippled children?)

If you awakened this morning and were able to hear the birds sing, use your vocal cords to utter human sounds, walk to the breakfast table on two good legs and read the newspaper with two good eyes, praise the Lord! A lot of people couldn't.

Dear Abby

How's your pocketbook? Thin? Well, most of the world is a lot poorer. No pensions. No welfare. No food stamps. No Social Security. In fact, one-third of the people in the world will go to bed hungry tonight.

Are you lonely? The way to have a friend is to be one. If nobody calls you, call someone. Go out of your way to do something nice for somebody. It's a sure cure for the blues.

Are you concerned about your country's future? Hooray! Our system has been saved by such concern. Concern for fair play under the law. Your country may not be a rose garden, but it also is not a patch of weeds.

Freedom rings! Look and listen. You can still worship at the church of your choice, cast a secret ballot and even criticize your government without fearing a knock on the head or a knock on the door at midnight. And if you want to live under a different system, you are free to go. There are no walls or fences — nothing to keep you here.

As a final thought, I'll repeat my Thanksgiving Prayer; perhaps you will want to use it at your table tomorrow:

O, heavenly Father: We thank thee for food and remember the hungry.

We thank thee for health and remember the sick.

We thank thee for friends and remember the friendless.

We thank thee for freedom and remember the enslaved.

May these remembrances stir us to service.

That the gifts to us may be used for others. Amen.

Have a wonderful Thanksgiving and may God bless you and yours.

Love, ABBY

P.S. Want an instant high? The surest cure for the post-holiday blues is to do something nice for someone. Why not call someone who lives alone and invite him (or her) over for dinner or leftovers?

Foods, Especially Citrus, Good Potassium Source

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a problem with low potassium. I have been on medication for it for several years. At present I take controlled-release tablets. I used to take a liquid, but, since I travel a lot, it is more convenient for me to take these.

But the tablets seem to pass right through me, with the medication still inside the outer coating.

My last potassium count was 3.5. I'm taking one HydroDiuril and one Dyrenium daily.

DEAR READER — It is probably not a good idea to take medicines that your system doesn't absorb completely, since you never know how much of what you really got. Your medicines must be based on your blood tests. HydroDiuril will cause your kidneys to eliminate both sodium and potassium, but Dyrenium causes the kidneys to retain potassium and acts as a diuretic. It may even raise a person's potassium level. This is a good example of the differences in actions of various diuretics that people take. They do not all have the same actions. This is also why I can't just tell all people who take diuretics that they should take potassium. Those taking potassium-retaining diuretics would get into trouble if they did that.

In your case, if your doctor wants you to have potassium, you simply should eat potassium-containing foods. They'll do more for you than those pills that don't dissolve. An 8-ounce glass of orange juice contains more potassium than the standard potassium pill, and three glasses a day will give you a great deal of potassium. Other citrus fruits are good sources of potassium, as are bananas.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a male, almost 67. My wife, who is several years younger, has gone through menopause and is reluctant to have sexual relations once or twice a week, as I would like to.

Since I'm trying to be a considerate husband, could you please advise me if there is any medication that would slow me down and decrease my sexual desire?

DEAR READER — It is perfectly normal for a man your age to want to have sexual relations once or twice a week. Some men want it more frequently, and others less. There is a lot of individual difference, and I would not recommend your taking anything to change your normal reactions.

However, your wife does need to know why she is not interested in having sexual relations that often. Women also have a lot of variation, but I'm concerned that she may have some problems related to estrogen deficiency.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Throwing a losing card in one suit on a winning card in another suit is a routine play. Dumping such a loser on another losing card is less usual but should certainly be part of your arsenal of bridgells. Here is an interesting variation of a "loser-on-loser" play.

Declarer won the ace of spades. He next played king of clubs and ace of clubs, and ruffed the third round with dummy's diamond king. A low diamond was played to the 10 in the hand. Now came another club, but declarer knew better than to make a futile attempt to ruff. Instead he discarded dummy's last spade. Declarer was now able to trump his losing spade in dummy and make 11 tricks.

Note that declarer had to exercise a little care in his trump management. After trumping the third club in dummy and playing a diamond to his hand, he could not afford to play a second round of trumps. Had he fallen into that trap, West would have a way to set the contract when he was allowed to hold the club queen. West could play a low heart to East, who could return his last trump, depriving declarer of the ability to trump his losing spade. Drawing only one round of trumps allowed the loser-on-loser play to be effective even against the actual 3-1 diamond distribution.
