NEWELL SEEKS TO PUT LIGHT ON FLY ISSUE

Issues Statement To Correct Any False Impression Created By Recent Reports

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Apr. 2.—(AP)—To correct any false impression created by dispatches from Tallahassee regarding the terms "quarantine" and "quarantined" Dr. Wilton Newell, state plant commissioner, has issued a statement intended to clear up action taken by the commission of state institutions regarding the Mediterranean fruit fly at a recent session there.

Intermediate quarantine agencies the products of a state in which dangerous insect pests exist at put into effect either by the federal government or by the authority of other states. Federal quarantine laws supersede state laws in such cases.

The quarantine of the Mediterranean fruit fly, the federal quarantine is not in force.

"Quarantine" means the restriction of the fly from the fruit fly, however, the more stringent of the regulations have been confined to a part of the state, commonly known as the quarantine area, as essential in the continuation of quarantine in non-quarantined areas on the borders of the area.

"Depletion of funds forced the federal authorities to request payment of the Florida national guardmen for this purpose. It was to be expected that withdrawal of the guards would be followed by enlargement of the quarantined area to cover the state."

Guardsmen Thwart Disorderly Crowd Threatening Negro

TROY, Ala., Apr. 2.—(AP)—Checkmated by a company of Alabama National Guard, in disorderly crowd that threatened to storm the city jail and early today in the city jail, Sheriff John G. Galloway and deputy sheriffs took Richard Gibson, charged with attacking a 14-year-old white girl to kill her at Montgomery.

The crowd began converging near the jail and courthouse late yesterday after the negro had been arrested for the alleged attack. Sheriff Galloway and other police officers had moved out, but made no concerted effort to remove the jail. National guardmen joined the police in the area and kept the crowd back.

Apparently tired of watching the jail the crowd began to disperse shortly after midnight on the night of Monday.

GAS COMPANY PAYS ITS DEBT IN CITY BONDS

Contract Forces Sanford To Accept Depreciated Paper At Par On Plant Sale

The City of Sanford yesterday received $134,781.25 in City of Sanford bonds from the Sanford Gas Company as a payment on the Sanford gas plant which was purchased by the Charles B. Hawley Engineering Corporation of Washington, D. C. in 1928 for $300,000.

The City was forced to accept the bonds at par value from the gas company as there was a large included in the terms of the contract, dated Mar. 31, 1928, in which it was declared that the City would accept from the Sanford Gas Company City of Sanford bonds, excepting special bonds, street paving or sidewalk bonds, in payment for the gas plant.

The contract, by which the sale of the formerly municipally owned plant was consummated, was approved by Commissioner Frank L. Miller and E. F. Housholder, who were serving on the City Commission at that time. Commissioner S. O. Chase was absent when the contract was signed, but according to the City Commission minutes he had previously expressed himself as being in favor of the proposed contract.

In Jacksonville which has a reputation for being rather straight-laced, citizens voted for repeal of the eighteenth amendment 1041 to 894. In Miami where it is well known how the people feel about prohibition, only 364 voted for repeal to 217 against, indicating that the bootleggers, who more than any other class are against repeal because naturally that would ruin their business, are active in Miami.

Kaye Don idled along the beach at Daytona Monday with his speedometer registering scarcely better than 180 miles an hour. That is three times as fast as the average stock car will go, but Kaye Don could probably drive with one arm around his girl at that speed. When he gets up around 230 or 240, he very likely jettison both hands, on the wheel, but we expect to see him making 250 before the Spring training season is over.

Faith In Phantoms

Do you believe in spooks or "haints"? Well, maybe not. Perhaps you call it "spiritualism", which is somewhat the same thing. That is, it is communication between the living and the dead, whether by voice, or the sound of tapping under the table. We have seen people who believed so soundly in these admonitions from departed souls that they would make business investments upon such advice.

Just how much faith should be put in "spiritualism"? Most of us have sat around a table in a darkened room, concentrated our thoughts upon some given subject, asked questions and waited for answers. Peculiarly enough, the questions are answered, after a fashion. The table, or the spirits in it, will tell us how old we are, how long before we will marry, or obtain our divorce, as the case may be, spell our names for us, and answer all manner of questions. It is most uncanny in its accuracy.

Perhaps it is not impossible for two finely attuned minds to communicate after the body of one has ceased to exist. Thought reading between the living is common enough. We know for a certainty that it is often possible for a banker to tell exactly what a customer of his is thinking about. And when the tired business man is preparing to leave his wife for an evening's session at the office, she can tell for at least an hour before he makes the announcement just what is turning over in his mind.

Nevertheless most of the mind reading and soul roving of the spiritualists has been exploded as empty myths. "Tricks", Houdini used to call them. And he frequently promised that any of the miracles performed through the mystery of spiritualism, he could perform without mysticism, purely by trickery, and as long as he lived he succeeded.

Just before he died he made a promise to his wife that if there was anything in this spiritualism stuff he would tell her know. At his earliest opportunity, after death, he would communicate with her in such a manner that the communication would unmistakably be coming from him. They arranged an elaborate code so that no spiritualist could fake a communication, so that she would know positively whether the message might be coming from her dead husband or from some trickster.

Three and one-half years has she waited. Frequently spiritualists have come to her saying that they had established the desired contact, but never has she been convinced that the messages were from her husband, never were they in their secret code. Last week Mrs. Houdini announced that she had given up hope. The man who had extricated himself from the most inextricable places on earth could not get out of the spirit world.

Spiritualists explain that Houdini's soul is stubborn, that the line is busy.

Protecting Credit

An embarrassing tax situation is not one which is confined entirely to Sanford. Most Florida cities, some even without the burden of huge bonded debts, are experiencing difficulties in collecting sufficient funds to meet their obligations. What is to be done about this really serious situation? The Orlando Reporter-Star urges people to pay their taxes, as follows:

"Many individuals and many institutions of Florida are making a superhuman effort to protect their credit and meet their obligations with all the promptness possible. But there are others, and all too numerous, who assume an indifferent attitude toward their obligations and have adopted the policy of letting their creditors do the worrying.

"In matters of tax obligations there seems to be a breaking down of morale. People are too much inclined to put off payment of taxes until every available delay has been taken advantage of and every penny has been added. This is a short-sighted policy and has gotten many municipalities and counties into financial straits. Of course burdensome taxes have contributed to this state of mind, but it is a state of mind that must be corrected for the good of individuals and communities.

"Orlando is a fair example. With a credit that is tip top, there is danger of impairment because people who petitioned for street improvements for their own convenience and gain, do not now pay even the interest on the indebtedness thereby incurred by the city. Many are letting their taxes go delinquent, even though the city reduced the millage in an effort to reduce the tax burden and encourage payment.

"Of course there are some who are not in a position to pay. But the number of these is comparatively small. Every person interested in the welfare of his city will make sacrifices to meet his financial obligations to the city, because only by this way will the city be able to meet its bonded indebtedness as it comes due. People must wake up to their responsibility in this matter."

Telling The World BY NEAL O'HARA

THE REAL FACTS. Interpreting the Literary Digest straw vote.

MR. LUSH—Well, Mr. Crabbe, what do you think of the Literary Digest straw ballot?

MR. CRABBE—It doesn't mean a thing. The drys aren't voting.

LUSH—How come the drys carried Wichita, Kan., then?

CRABBE—Oh, the drys are voting in Kansas out of consideration for Carrie Nation. But they are ignoring the poll everywhere else.

LUSH—The wets carried Peoria in the Digest vote more than 3 to 1. How do you account for that?

CRABBE—The sober people of Peoria read the Saturday Evening Post.

LUSH—The wets certainly gave you a trimming in St. Louis, too.

CRABBE—In St. Louis the drys thought they were voting for Mes America and cast 41,000 ballots for Clara Bow. If those votes had been counted we would have won.

LUSH—How do you explain the wet majority in Dayton, O.?

CRABBE—Why, a big printing plant in Dayton quit forging gun labels and turned out fraudulent ballots for the wets. Those were the ones sent in.

LUSH—Did you see the returns from Little Rock, Ark.?

CRABBE—The drys of Little Rock voted by telephone. They will not be recorded till later on.

LUSH—That may be, but how about our overwhelming victory in Atlanta, Ga.?

CRABBE—In Atlanta the drys suspected the ballots were a trick to renew subscriptions and refused to vote.

LUSH—Yeah, but look at Cleveland, O. Nothing but sentiment for modification there in the Literary Digest figures.

CRABBE—My dear sir, the Literary Digest figures once indicated Horan Johnson would be the next President of the United States.

LUSH—I'm still chucking at the way you folks were snowed under in Chicago, Wis.

CRABBE—The Chicago folks are waiting for the eleventh hour before they vote. Returns from there don't mean a thing yet.

LUSH—That don't explain how Syracuse, N. Y., went so strong for repeal.

CRABBE—The Literary Digest only goes to barber shops in Syracuse. The wets didn't vote at all.

LUSH—Well, as Anti-Prohibitionists sure made a grand showing in Duluth.

CRABBE—The drys will win in a recent town. We are petitioning for a new one.

LUSH—We certainly captured Denver by a wide margin, too.

CRABBE—In Denver the drys thought the Digest ballot were cigar coupons and put them away.

LUSH—Los Angeles is such a temperance town, how come you didn't make a better showing there?

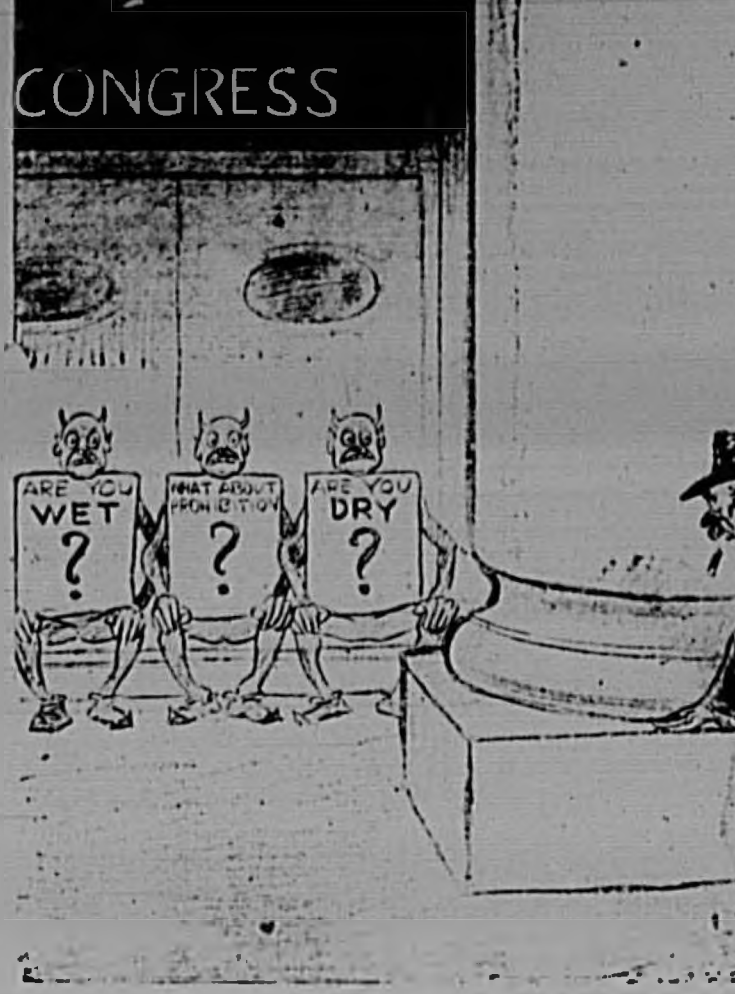

CRABBE—At least 70,000 dry ballots from Los Angeles were lost in a mail plant wreck. The wets all fire to it, I'm told.

LUSH—What about Pittsburgh? You had a sad minority there.

CRABBE—The drys in Pittsburgh are rather thrifty and stenciled the Forest stamps of

The Farmer's Advice

By Atlanta Smith

In these days of agitation about wages it might be well to look upon Adam and see what he did when it came to work.

I fancy the first thing he did when he left the Garden of Eden was to make a spade for himself and then began the use of implements, and then later came machinery.

The idea of all this was to SAVE LABOR.

By machinery we get freedom of thought, just as Adam made his tool easier by the spade route.

The idea of a flying machine going around the world is to save time and labor.

Think this problem of machinery over when you have time.

At the meeting was also a high school teacher arrived in costume and enjoyed supper which was served from lunch boxes.

After the social hour the meeting was called to order by Miss Ethel Riser, president, and the discussion of the book, "The Classroom Teacher" by Strayer and Englehardt, was continued. The following reports were given: "Types of Teaching" Mrs. Gladys Smith; "Training in Citizenship," Miss Emille Lingle; "Teaching Children to Study," Mrs. Hazel Gillon; "The Classification and Progress of Children," Miss Mildred Mitchell; and "Measuring the Achievement of Children," Miss Riser.

Those present were: Mrs. Pearl Babbit, Mrs. Effie Darden, Mrs. S. B. Routh, Mrs. Erma Flynn, Mrs. Gladys Smith, Mrs. Hazel Gillon and the Misses Ethel Riser, Georgia Mobley, Emille Lingle and Mildred Mitchell.

Complicated Loves, Mysterious Murder Feature Milane Film
A story of strangely complicated loves in an English household culminating in the mysterious murder of one of its occupants, is told in the Warner Brothers Vitaphone production, "The Sacred Flame," which is now being shown at the Milane Theatre, with Pauline Frederick in the starring role supported by Conrad Nagel.

In the story Miss Frederick is the mother of Conrad Nagel, who on the day of his marriage is so severely injured that he is doomed to spend the rest of his life in a wheel chair. Life is not wholly unhappy for him, however, on account of the devotion of his young wife.

Three years after the accident the invalid's brother comes to England on a visit from his home in South America, and the shadow of "the eternal triangle" falls over the household. And three months later, on the eve of the brother's return to South America, the invalid is mysteriously murdered.

In addition to Conrad Nagel, the supporting cast includes Lila Lee, William Courtenay, Walter Byron, B. Francis and Dale Fuller, and L. Mayo directed.

BELL TESTIFIES
WASHINGTON, Apr. 2—(AP)—W. B. Bell, president of the American Cyanamid Company, testified before the Senate lobby committee today that his company had spent $100,000 in efforts to locate Muscle Shoals from the government.

$10,000 MIRROR

Nancy Carroll displays a bronze mirror, valued at $10,000 and now on display at the Los Angeles Public Library. Evacuated from the ancient city of Iliacopolis, which was covered by molten lava in the eruption of Mount Vesuvius in 79 A. D.

Church Circle Holds Meeting On Monday

The Belle Bennett Circle of the First Methodist Church had charge of the monthly program meeting of the Women's Missionary Society held Monday afternoon at the church. Mrs. S. E. Jones was in charge and directed the program which had as its subject, "The Home Which is the School of Christian Citizenship." The program was dedicated in memory of Miss Athena Jones, the council superintendent of the children's department of the Missionary Society, whose tragic death occurred last June at Corinth, Miss.

The society has decided to dedicate its whole year of programs to the memory of Miss Jones and Monday's service was especially in her honor whose life was said to have been so valuable to the work of the children's department not only in Southern Methodist but also in foreign countries where the society has workers.

Mrs. C. H. Smith told the members present of Miss Jones' personality and of the impressive appeal which she made to the women of the Florida conference in Clearwater, held last year. At that time Miss Jones appealed to the members to claim the children for Jesus Christ.

Mrs. Harry Allen, wife of the evangelist, then gave the devotional in which she made clear God's ideal for the home from the Old Testament and which was also taught by Christ in the New Testament.

Mrs. C. O. Bare then talked on the day's topic from the young people's views and Mr. R. F. Greenshaw read an article showing the responsibility of the parents. Mrs. S. E. Jones further developed the subject by emphasizing the home as a school for good citizens.

Mrs. E. H. Latay concluded the program with the report of the social service work of the society. Members were then invited to the church annex where refreshments were served.

This meeting closed the work of the society for the first quarter of 1936. It was stated that steady advancement is being shown in every department and the children's department, under the leadership of Mrs. H. K. McIntyre, deserve special mention. It was further added at this time that the two mothers' meetings held recently in the Epworth Junior Society and the Primary Division proved to be most helpful and showed good training of the children.

"Parents Night" Is Observed By Club

The annual "Parents Night" observed by the Girls' H. Y. on Monday evening at the Seminole High School auditorium with Miss Minnie Bess Echols in charge of the program and entertainment.

She was assisted by Mrs. R. C. Maxwell, sponsor of the Girls' H. Y. After the usual opening exercises a short business meeting was held and was followed by a short program which included two one-act plays and a number of songs, guests and at a late hour refreshments were then enjoyed by the members who were served to the 50 people present.

Sunday School Work To Feature Revival

By the Rev. W. P. Bahaman
The service tonight at the Methodist church in connection with the revival will be devoted to the interests of the Sunday school work. Every effort and teacher with each scholar is urged to be on hand and set in classes. A beautiful Bible will be presented to the teacher and class with the largest percent of the membership present.

Thursday night will be family night and one of the most unusual services ever held in the city will take place. Special seats will be presented a Bible. Special music will be presented to the occasion and a special service will be held.

A capacity crowd is expected on Thursday night. Evangelist Hassay S. Allen will have to leave the city after the services Thursday night in order to preach Sunday morning in Houston, Texas where he goes to conduct a revival.

The revival here will continue, however, a service being held on Friday night especially for the large number of young people who said they desired to unite with the church. Those, with any others who wish to join the church, with the Sunday School teachers of a class to be admitted and their parents, all are requested to be present Friday night at seven forty five.

There will be no service Saturday, but the closing service of the revival will be held Sunday night with the pastor doing the preaching.

ACCEPTS INVITATION
WASHINGTON, Apr. 2—(AP)—President Hoover today accepted the invitation of the Gridiron Club to attend its annual spring dinner on Apr. 26. The invitation was extended on behalf of the Washington newspaper correspondents who comprise the club by its President, Charles S. Groves, correspondent of the Boston Globe.

Special Session To Be Held By Church

The Session of the Presbyterian Church has called a meeting of the congregation next Sunday morning at the close of the morning service. The purpose of the meeting will be to consider the election of additional deacons, and to consider any other matters which might be brought before it.

According to the pastor, Dr. Bowler, there are now eight deacons in the local Presbyterian church, and the board feels the need of help in the work assigned to it. The church is incorporated and the deacons are the directors of the corporation. To them is also assigned the work of educating and inspiring the people in the practice of stewardship, and the handling of the financial affairs of the church.

Officers in the Presbyterian church are elected for life. This is the first congregational meeting in the local church in several years.

Dr. Bowler announced that the church would have another Prayer Retreat to be held from 7:30 to 8:15 similar to the one last Wednesday night. This is not a formal service, but a period for private, silent prayer and meditation, during which the worshiper comes into the church at any time during this period and leaves at will, he said. Last Wednesday night about twice the number who have been in the habit of coming to church Wednesday night came during the period, Dr. Bowler added.

Kiwians Play Host To Beauty Contingent Here

Latin American good-will ambassadors, who played the real purpose which brought the troupe to this country, and Mrs. R. E. Dean who told of some of her experiences while in theatrical work.

Mr. Anderson introduced the respective representatives of the Latin American countries and told the real purpose for which the beauties are touring this country. He said that since the World War the countries of Latin America have been advancing with "leaps and bounds" and that it is the intention of the ambassador to bring the United States and the countries south of here into a closer understanding of each other.

He further declared that his country was exceedingly pleased with the good will which was made by Col. Charles Longmarch and President Herbert Hoover. He said that when the girls left their respective countries they were told to "go out and make a go of it, and try to bring closer relations between your country and the North American Republic."

Other speakers of the luncheon included Dr. L. E. McNair, DD pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Orlando; Maxwell Stuart, representative of the Lion's club; Leon L. LeRoy, representative of the Rotary Club; and H. M. Papworth, who came as a delegate from the Sanford Chapter of Commerce. Each expressed himself as being pleased with the luncheon and as being highly in favor of the reception to be given the South American beauties during their stay here.

Following the luncheon a meeting of the Kiwanis board of directors, together with representatives of the various local civic organizations met and decided to furnish entertainment and accommodations for the visitors during the night.

Senior Class To Publish Edition Of Herald Soon

The telegraph wires, assist in carrying the leads and desks for the various stories, prepare the sport page, and assist the society editor. In brief, every member of the senior class will have one specific duty to perform toward making the edition a success.

The editorial, news stories, society columns, front page breaks, jokes, and numbers of articles of various subjects will be written by members of the high school old class class. There will also be a series of interviews with important men of the community made by reporters of the Apr. 12 newspaper staff.

Besides the general newspaper experience that will be a blessing from this project the students will also receive 25 percent of the amount for the sale of advertising space in the edition, and also get a portion of the total received from the sale of the papers. The help of every business house in the city is solicited by the "senior publishers" to put over their paper. Sponsors of the class offer assistance that there is an urgent need for the funds which can be obtained from this publication.

Each year the graduating class of the high school follows the custom of leaving something to the school, but before being able to do this, that class must first raise the necessary funds. The senior classmen also take pride in publishing their school annual, and it has been stated that the money obtained from The Herald issue will also come in handy toward making the Saltonstall a larger and better yearbook.

Clifford Wesley has been named editor of the senior edition, and

Beauties To Appear On Milane Stage At 9 O'clock Tonight

Mrs. Java Torrance will serve in the capacity of assistant editor. Jim Higgins is telegraph editor and Miss Beverly Bender is expected to fill the society with the latest news for the ladies. Frank Russell and Miss Alma Entaminger are to take over the responsibilities of preparing the sport page, while Winston Hayes and Miss Katherine Schirrad will assume the duties of representative of 23 newspapers is the director.

The beauties are: Miss Sarah Clifton, of Ecuador; Miss Violet Gomez, of Chile; Miss Pizarro, Bolivia; Mrs. Emma McHilde, Peru; Miss Ayler Motzels; Nicaragua; Miss Raquel Calvo, of Guatemala; Miss Melinda Boyd, Panama; Miss Clyde Ellis, Atlanta; and Miss Beatrice Lee, Salt Lake City, Utah. "Puffer's Melody Kings," the accompanying orchestra will also entertain local audiences at the Milane tonight.

The fact that the troupe is stopping in Sanford today and tonight offers unusual advertising advantages for this section, as stories of the progress of the tour will be printed in 23 Latin American Newspapers, having a daily circulation of over one and one-half million, and will also be carried in the newspapers throughout this country, it was pointed out.
