

Stronger Criminal Laws

Always in the lead of disarmament conferences and, until recently, setting the pace in actual disarmament, the United States government has seen its Army and Navy stripped of its fighting implements until its own criminal element is better armed.

No wonder the government has found itself at a disadvantage in dealing with the Capones, Dillingers, Touhys, and hordes of other gangsters. Were this country to go to war with Cuba, we would expect to win, because we have a larger Army and Navy than the island republic, but if we had to fight with an enemy which outnumbered us ten to one, and was better equipped, the outcome might be in serious doubt.

Whether the government can win the war with the gangster, cannot be said to be in doubt because the people of the United States are backing the government and will take whatever steps may be necessary in order to win. If the Army and Navy has to be increased to ten times their present size in order to win a battle with the Dillinger gang, it will be so increased. If it is only necessary to pass laws giving federal agents the power to pursue criminals from state line to another, that, too, will be done.

"I am convinced," said the attorney general, "that we need expansion of the federal penal statutes to include control over the unlawful activities of those who deliberately take advantage of the protection presently afforded them by state lines in perpetuating their crimes." Herebefore gangs have perpetrated their crimes in one state and then fled to another where the first state was powerless to act, and where the federal government was without jurisdiction, since no federal statute had been violated.

One wondered why it was necessary to send Al Capone to prison for violating some income tax law when he had been accused of the most heinous offenses known to the underworld. The income tax law was the only federal statute which Capone could be found to have violated. His other offenses such as a murder were violations of state laws for which he could buy or in other ways escape prosecution by state officials and for which he could not be reached by federal agents.

Attorney General Cummings' plan would make it a federal offense to commit a crime in one state and seek refuge in another. It would make it a federal offense to transport virtually anything stolen of value from one state to another. At least four or five other measures now in the process of enactment will increase the hazards of criminal life and subject the gangster to federal prosecution.

The day of the criminal in this country is on the wane.

Income Tax Revenues

Income tax payments are picking up. That is the information which comes from the Treasury Department since the annual fifteenth of March income tax collection period began for 1934. Out of approximately 125,000,000 persons in the United States, only about 4,000,000, however, are required to pay any income taxes at all. Single persons having net incomes of less than $1,000 a year, and married persons with net incomes of less than $2,500 pay no income tax. But the four million who have to pay have paid 250 million dollars in the past few weeks.

"Pleased with preliminary reports coming in from the collections, the Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., declares," according to the United States News, "that the income tax yield is picking up over that of the previous year for the first time since the beginning of the depression."

"Secretary Morgenthau expects 250 million dollars from the income tax during the month, a gain of 76 million dollars over the 174 million dollars collected during the same month a year ago. Early returns show that collections are actually running a shade above estimates."

"This year's increase in the income tax the Treasury ascribes largely to two causes: Healthier conditions in the security markets during 1933, and improved corporate earnings during the past year. With stock and bond markets tending upward instead of downward, taxpayers have been able to establish fewer loss reductions and have more speculative profit on which to pay taxes. With corporate earnings up more taxable dividends and salaries will have been paid out."

"Directly the Government's recovery drives have had little to do with the mounting income tax. Recovery money and increased pay rolls have gone largely to persons who escape the income tax because their incomes are too small."

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

On Tuesday afternoon Miss Rebecca Stevens, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Stevens, entertained delightfully a large number of children at a St. Patrick's Day party given in honor of her cousins, Millicent and Ann Ringdorf who have spent two months here and are about to leave for their Northern home.

A spelling match resulted in victory for Miss Anna Mason, who won first prize. Those who assisted Mrs. Stevens in entertaining and serving her young guests were Mrs. Neal, Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Lyle, and Mrs. Ringdorf.

A bevy of beauty will grace the banquet at the Music Fest to be held next Tuesday evening. The event, maidens, radiant with charm and bloom, will be the Misses May Thraher, Bertha Lake, Norma Harwood, Dorothy Davis, Margaret Stevens, Virginia Brady, Edna Chittenden, Ruth Waldron, Ellen Caldwell, and Fern Ward.

The new auto truck line from Sanford to Orlando is now in operation and making trips every day. A great amount of freight is hauled from the railway and through the line to Orlando. The new line has to Orlando from Sanford and the Orlando from Sanford are said to be well patronized.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Moore of Sanford, Fla., were the guests of honor at a dinner given at the Sanford hotel on Sunday evening last.

ARE YOU A CITIZEN OR RESIDENT? NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

Annually as the depressing deadline rolls around, annually as the taxpayer sharpens his pencils, merrily his checkbook, annually the last breath of his exasperation, the question arises: "Are you a citizen or resident of the United States?" It is, undoubtedly, the worst question ever devised by bureaucracy for the despotic embellishment of an over-zealous politician. The question is seldom propitiously. The taxpayer sits surrounded by check stubs and statements—dead leaves forever fallen from an all too sturdy tree of income. He is oppressed by the recollection of his past extravagance, the "tax" (tax 17; Contributions) of his charitable impulses. He is not in the best frame of mind; he is acutely conscious of a weakness in arithmetic, and yet at the very beginning of his travail he is confronted by this inane question: "Are you a citizen or resident?"

(Continued From Page One) condition should be remedied. "We have afforded such aid in the recovery of agriculture, commerce, our larger industries and our financial institutions and our improved condition nationally furnishes full justification for these efforts. We must continue in behalf of the medium-size man in industry and commerce."

"With this purpose in mind, I have discussed with the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board, and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation a comprehensive study of the situation in the smaller industries and the presentation of a plan which would show their condition and furnish relief for it."

"A nationwide survey has been made by them. Information has been obtained from 4968 banks and 1066 chambers of commerce covering three points: First, the probable amount of working capital required now by smaller industries; second, the number of employees who would be retained by these industries if working capital is afforded of new employees that can be taken on by them through such supply of working capital."

"Estimates based on this survey indicate that approximately $700,000,000 of such working capital may continue in employment some 349,000 employees and may furnish new employment to some 378,000 men and women in their nature can not be definite and must be considered as estimates only, they indicate the urgent need of these small industries for working capital."

"The Administration will be glad to furnish you such information and assistance as you may desire in order to set up the machinery to supply this need."

"The details will be presented to you, but I desire to call attention to two prominent features: First, the matter of caring for the small or medium-size industrialist; second, the control of the proposed banks by direct representatives of the industrialists."

"I will appreciate early consideration by your committee and by the Congress as I feel that solutions that can be relieved through the medium of working capital should have our earnest support."

MILK

is always a good investment. Even when very little money can be spent for food. A quart of milk of average richness supplies from 100 to 1500 B.T.U. of the total energy needed by you for your daily life. About one-half of the energy for a child of five and about one-fourth needed by a moderately active man.

Aradia Badly Scarred After Big Hailstorm

ARCADIA, Mar. 20.—Arcadia, a city of beautiful yards and streets lined with handsome trees, was so beaten and slashed by the hard 15-minute hail storm that struck it Saturday afternoon, that Sunday found it looking bare and tattered. The thousand or more avocado trees growing in yards which had a record bloom the last week are denuded of bloom, young fruit and leaves.

Flower gardens, fruit trees in blossom and shade trees were bruised and leaves torn off until all the streets, sidewalks and yards are a littered mass of torn leaves. The storm was local, covering only a part of the city.

NEW YORK, Mar. 20.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was announced yesterday as the unanimous choice of 100 journalism students at New York University in a poll held to select the outstanding public figure from the standpoint of news values.

Others in the first 10 are Premier Mussolini, 78; Mayor La Guardia, 67; Hugh S. Johnson, 65; Babe Ruth, 55; Chancellor Dollfus of Austria, 54; Greta Garbo, 54, and Alfred E. Smith, 53.

Spring Will Return Early Next Wednesday

CHICAGO, Mar. 20.—(AP)—Madame Spring, the great magician, comes back Wednesday for a three-month engagement. The most popular trouper is due back at 1:28 A. M. C. S. T. according to the announcement yesterday of her booking agents, the government meteorologists.

Spring's repertoire includes feasts of enchantment, making snow, cold and gloom disappear; tricks of transformation, turning grass green and causing buds to become full-blown flowers, and a bit of hypnotism, influencing young people and the Brooklyn baseball team to act strangely.

Although for all technical purposes, spring arrives at the time stipulated so precisely by the scientists, the lady has come to regard other and more obvious signs as the signal of the advent of the spring season.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Substance" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Mar. 18.
Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "The sun shall be no more thy light by day; neither thy brightness shall give thee light; the Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and the Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and the days of thy mourning shall be ended" (Isa. 60:19 and 20).
The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The universe reflects and expresses the divine substance or Mind; therefore God is seen only in the spiritual universe and spiritual man, as the sun is seen in the ray of light which goes out from him. As God is substance and man is the divine image and likeness, man should wish for and in reality has, only the substance of good, the substance of Spirit, and neither. The belief that man has any other substance, or mind, is not spiritual and breaks the First Commandment. Thou shalt have one God, one Mind. Mental substance in himself to be material substance, while man is spirit" (idea) (p. 300 and 301).

Compliance Board Session Is Typical

WASHINGTON, Mar. 20.—Here was a typical session of the National Compliance Board of N.R.A. every action taken being unanimous. The first alleged violation of the motor vehicle retarding code in charges against the Lafayette Motor Car Co., of New York City, for selling a 1934 model for $875, instead of $1,007, it was referred to the department of Justice, as was a case of Richmond Hooper Mills, Rosville, Ga., for alleged violation of the hoistery code by piling up no less than 10-175 machine days from Oct. 17 to Dec. 21; and the case of the Mann Overall Co., El Paso, Tex., charged with violating the cotton garment code by paying less than half the current hourly minimum wage for that area.

In transmitting these two cases to the Attorney General for action, it was revealed that neither had ever displayed the Blue Eagle. The case of Truckers Ice and Cold Storage Co., Ltd., Kenner, La., was certified to the Federal Trade Commission and the Blue Eagle ordered down immediately. Deprivation of the Blue Eagle and certification to the Department of Justice was ordered against four dry cleaners in Illinois, two in Louisiana, and one each in Texas, Washington, Indiana, Florida, Massachusetts, Oklahoma, California, Michigan, South Carolina, Alabama, and Connecticut, all on complaint of the code authority of the cleaning and dyeing trade.

Price Fixing Is Seen As Danger To Recovery Program

NEW YORK, Mar. 20.—(AP)—Warning that the movement toward industrial price-fixing and the "monopolistic tendencies in industrial codes" which would result in a consumers' buying arm, "carrying the entire program of the NRA to disaster," was voiced recently by Dr. Paul H. Nystrom, professor of marketing at Columbia University and president of the Limited Price Variety Stores Association. He spoke before the consumer marketing conference, which concluded a four-day session of the American Management Association at the Astor. Dr. Robert S. Lynd, also of Columbia University, and Kenneth Collins, assistant to the president of Gimbel Brothers, were on the same program.
"No one," Dr. Nystrom continued, "is opposed to a gradual rise in prices. It is not difficult to explain increases in prices to consumers in wages. It is even possible that price increases, due to changes in the value of the dollar, may not harm the upward current of business, but there is within the backbone of most consumers, as well as business men, something that will resist to the utmost the imposition of increases in prices by means of market or monopolistic control. Moreover, there has been no increase in employment nor in wages commensurate with

Price Increases. Thus the Rapid Spread of Price Fixing and Market Control May Well Retard All Business.

Dr. Nystrom foresaw a "severe resistance" by consumers when they find out this spring that they will have to pay $35 for the kind and quality of suit for which they formerly paid $25; when they have to pay $1.50 or $2 for a shirt that formerly sold for $1, and when they have to pay 40 to 100 percent more for home furnishings and other necessities, which increases they know only too well are not going to labor."
Mr. Collins said that business men, given new courage and faith by the NRA, "got out the real weapon of the business world—advertising—and went after more

"business." In advertising, he emphasized, the business world had the "most constructive force" it could ever have. "There are others," he said, "higher wages and better services and more honest workmanship, but none is of equal importance."
