

Ex-Convict Seized In Connection With Lindy Kidnap Case

Arrest Follows Suicide Of Maid Who Said She Was With Him On Fatal Night

ALPINE, N. J., June 11.—(A.P.)— Ernest Brinkert, ex-convict arrested in the Lindbergh case, told his story to police today and immediately thereafter officers drove away at breakneck speed for an unannounced destination.

Arrested in New Rochelle, New York after the suicide of Violet Sharp, waitress in the home of Mrs. Dwight Morrow, grandmother of the murdered Lindbergh baby, Brinkert came here voluntarily waiving extradition.

In flatly denied the anti-murder statement by Miss Sharp that she spent the evening of March 1, the night the baby was stolen, with him. He insisted he and his wife spent both that night and the following night at a "very nice home" owned by a negro in Bridgeport, Conn. Other details of what he told police were not made public.

Dispatches from Stourbridge, England, stated Edna Sharpe, whose sister committed suicide in the Morrow home, denied she knew anything about the kidnapping and quoted her as saying "I'm quite sure my sister Violet knew nothing about it either."

It was learned that Brinkert was sentenced at White Plains, New York in 1926 to a year on a plea of guilty to attempt second degree assault on Robert Zuckerman, White Plains, in an attempt to rob him of $2000.

It was also learned on the day the baby was kidnapped Brinkert left the employ of Claude Mooday at Mamaroneck where he served as a butler five months, and on April 1, the day before Dr. John Condon paid the $50,000 futile ransom for the return of the baby, he obtained a job as a butler in the home of Mrs. H. D. McKay in Larchmont, New York. He left that job May 6.

Some Citizens May Not Be Permitted In Second Primary

Possibility that numerous residents of Sanford, Seminole County, and Florida may not be able to vote in the second primary learned today when it was officially declared that no one will be allowed to cast an absentee ballot until the first primary vote had been checked and certified.

Many persons who would ordinarily have gone out of the state this early in the year, remained in their home counties in order to vote in the first primary. If these same persons expect to leave this week or early next week they will be deprived of a chance to cast a ballot in the second primary, for it has been estimated that it will be at least Friday of next week before the record vote throughout Florida will have been checked and certified according to law.

County Judge James G. Sharon this morning released a copy of telegram he had received from Attorney General Cary D. Ladd in which official declared that "absentee votes cannot be cast until after the ballots for the second primary are printed, and it cannot be printed until after the official canvass has been declared."

According to law, absentee ballots may be cast in any election any time within 15 days before the third day preceding the election itself. Under that law, voters might have cast ballots starting next Monday morning, but they are now denied this privilege, and must either wait until the end of next week or not vote at all, provided they leave the state.

WET AND DRY ISSUE HOLDS G.O.P. FOCUS

Prohibition Argument Overshadows Issue Of National Committee Chairman

CHICAGO, June 11.—(A.P.)— The prohibition rumpus continued to obscure virtually all else in the convention city today. Republican wets and drys and their arguments overshadowed who will be the next chairman of the national committee and whether there will be a definite move to replace Vice-President Curtis as the running mate for President Hoover.

In arriving delegations, the primary interest seemed to be the degree of wetness in the Republican plank. Organized wets and drys carried their dispute to a series of demonstrations to begin tomorrow and the latter beginning a series of meetings described as a "call to arms."

Senator Dickinson of Iowa, convention keynoter, said if a resubmission plank were adopted, it would be wise to "renominate Vice-President Curtis because of his strong dry following."

The gossip yesterday over the vice presidential nomination emphasized that the government elect which two of the four counts upon which the former department of justice agent was indicted will be presented to the jury. The counts against Means are larceny of $100,000, embezzlement of $100,000, larceny of $4000, and embezzlement of $4000.

The second motion overruled was for a directed verdict on the first three counts. The motion taken under advisement by the Justice was for a directed verdict on the fourth count, that of embezzlement of $4000.

The prosecution rested its case shortly after noon. Among witnesses yesterday were Col. Robert M. Guggenheim, who said he had been contacted to take delivery of the kidnapped son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh; Capt. Emory S. Land, a relative of Lindbergh's and Robert E. Fleming, real estate man from Edgemere, N.J., who said he arranged the appointment between Colonel Guggenheim and Means.

Both Guggenheim and Fleming said they had conferred with Means in the library of the Fleming home four days after the Lindbergh child was kidnapped. They added the meeting was arranged at Means' request, and that he told them the kidnap plot had been carried out by persons in league with a convict friend of his whom he had met in the Atlanta penitentiary.

Fleming quoted Means, in answer to a question as to what his interest in the case was, as saying that by engineering the return of the baby, he would rehabilitate himself in the eyes of the public and get enough business for his private detective work to last him 10 years."

Final Rites Are Paid To George F. Lowe, 60

Funeral services for George F. Lowe, 60-year-old fisherman who died at the Fernand-Lauthon Memorial Hospital Thursday afternoon after a long illness, were held from the graveside in Lakeview Cemetery yesterday afternoon at 5:00 o'clock. Rev. J. F. Curry, of the Church of God officiated. The Erickson Funeral Home had charge of the funeral.

Mr. Lowe was born in Okachobee City, Dec. 10, 1872, and had lived in this section as a fisherman for about three years. He is survived by four sons and two daughters, all living in Sanford.

COUNTY BOARD IS ASKED FOR FUNDS BY DELEGATIONS

Commissioners Hold Regular Session At County Court House

The Seminole County Board of Commissioners met at the Court House Wednesday morning in regular session, with all members present, and usual routine business.

Testimony in the trial of Gaston B. Means on charges of larceny and embezzlement of $104,000 from Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean in a weird plan to ransom the Lindbergh baby ended abruptly yesterday without the defense presenting a single witness.

Today prosecution and defense counsel will discuss with the court instructions to the jury and Monday final arguments will be made.

The defense's resting of the case came after two setbacks had been experienced by the counsel, T. Morris Wampler, in motions to Justice James M. Proctor and a third motion had been taken under advisement.

Justice Proctor overruled a motion by defense that the government elect which two of the four counts upon which the former department of justice agent was indicted will be presented to the jury. The counts against Means are larceny of $100,000, embezzlement of $100,000, larceny of $4000, and embezzlement of $4000.

Plan Is Suggested For 1-Day Session Of State Law Body

MIAMI, June 11.—(A.P.)— Two candidates for election—a Republican and a Democrat—today joined in seeking a one-day special session of the legislature to pass laws enabling state banks and building and loan associations to participate in the benefits of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

They were Glenn Skipper, Republican national committeeman and candidate for Congress, from the state at large, and S. P. Robins, renominated Tuesday for the state legislature.

Skipper said approximately $90,000,000 are tied up in closed Florida banks and $17,000,000 in closed building and loan associations that may be partially released if necessary laws are passed by the legislature.

Robins expressed the belief that members of the 1931 body would be glad to return to Tallahassee at no expense to the state for a one-day session and with such a proposition as the object.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(A.P.)—An overwhelming bipartisan majority swept the $300,000 Democratic relief bill through the Senate yesterday in less than six hours as Congress drove for an early adjournment.

The unemployment aid measure was approved by a vote of 72 to 8 in the same Senate which last February blocked aside all legislation for the use of federal funds.

The bill, which now goes to the House, provides for advances to the States on the basis of population through the reconstruction corporation. Florida is allotted $7,500,000.

Getting President Hoover's approval, the relief measure found ready going in the Senate despite a prophecy by Senator Reed, Rep. of Pennsylvania, that it was a "tire stone" in the disintegration of the American republic.

Three delegations of Sanford persons appeared before the Commissioners to ask that county funds be appropriated for use by the agencies they represent. All requests were passed to the regular meeting of the Commission.

H. M. Papworth was the first to appear, representing the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce. He requested that a one mill assessment be placed in the budget for publicity purposes, the money to be used by the trade body. H. F. Haines, Linton E. Allen, and W. L. Cooper, also appeared in behalf of this request.

Alex R. Johnson read the annual report of work done by the Agricultural Department, which receives an appropriation of one half mill annually from the administration for the creation of a system of home loan discounts banks.

As the Senate worked on relief the House tackled the countermeasure sponsored by the administration for the creation of a system of home loan discounts banks.

MISS MCKINNON WINS D.A.R. PRIZE FOR BEST ESSAY

World Court Is Subject Of Paper That Won Bronze Medal

(Editor's Note) This essay, written by Miss Betty McKinnon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McKinnon, Sanford, was a bronze medal offered by the San Joaquin Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, pupil writing the best essay on any one of five subjects suggested by the D. A. Miss McKinnon, now a Junior at Seminole High School.

THE WORLD COURT By MISS BETTY MCKINNON

The Permanent Court of International Justice, more commonly known as the World Court, is one of the most important political issues of the day.

The idea resulted in the Hague Court of Arbitration may be traced as far back as Plato's time. It was he who first introduced the idea of world peace. The next important step was taken in 1899, when on the proposal of Czar Nicholas II, a conference was held at The Hague for the purpose of instigating some adequate means for assuring world peace and cooperation. However, the Court was really created by an international agreement concluded at Geneva, December 8, 1920.

The foundation of the Permanent Court of International Justice is to be found in Article 14 of the Covenant of the League of Nations (of which the Court is merely a branch) which states that "the Council shall formulate and submit to the members of the League for adoption plans for the establishment of a Permanent Court of International Justice. The Court shall be competent to hear and determine any dispute or question referred to it by the Council or the Assembly."

The Court consists of a body of eleven judges and four deputy judges who are elected because of their high moral qualities, regardless of their nationality. They maintain office nine years and are re-eligible for election. These judges are elected by the votes of the Council and Assembly of the League of Nations, a majority vote of the members of each of those bodies being necessary for an election.

The functions of the Permanent Court of International Justice are of two kinds, advisory and judicial. The opinions of the Court are not binding; their force is merely advisory. However, the jurisdiction of the Court becomes compulsory when the parties wishing to do so agree to a treaty that their disputes shall be submitted to it.

Although the World Court has equally as many disadvantages as it has advantages, it is, as yet, one of the foremost steps taken to stimulate world cooperation and to strengthen the confidence of the nations toward each other.

In the age in which we live, with the nearness of the world with all the rest of the world, the spirit of understanding and cooperation among the nations is the only adequate defense for world peace. Many nations, fearing their own welfare, have withheld their memberships from the Court. The United States, for example, has very recently declined an offer to become a member of the World Court, which tends to further international goodwill. It was thought that the United States would accept the Root Formula, a covenant drawn up especially to remedy our objections to the Court, but again she declined.

Although American popular feeling urges American adherence to the Court, the measure has never passed the Senate. Recently a petition, bearing the names of one hundred prominent Americans, was presented to President Hoover. The petitioners, such men as John J. Pershing, urge favorable action on the proposal to become a member of the Court, in the belief that to adhere to the Court will be of good influence in building up goodwill and confidence among all nations. Numerous church organizations also urge that America enter her membership. The attitude which the United States has as yet revealed is nothing but conservative, as other nations look to us for advice. Under the Peace Pact we would be meeting the nations in the sole interest of peace, not with commitments of war, but with commitments of peace and goodwill.

"In spite of the fact that the Permanent Court of International Justice is not by any means perfect, it possesses fewer defects by far than the League of Nations of which it is a part. Many people argue that it has failed to function properly during the recent Chinese and Japanese conflicts.

The Court has no jurisdiction in matters of this kind, and it is merely the League which has failed to function. It is necessary to recognize, that there will always exist conflicts of interest between nations. An enlightened foreign policy will put the nations' interests in the hands of diplomats who will honestly and fairly advocate and try to adjust these interests. We should cultivate the habit of submitting these conflicts to judicial settlement. All nations should be put on a basis of perfect equality in international law. There is a tendency in the Court to diminish its ground of action judicially and to enlarge its political power. There can be no real peace until the small nations have absolute equality with the Great Powers in all judicial questions.

Critics opposing our entry to the World Court put forth the following reasons: that the strength and composition of the Court are too technical; the complex diplomatic background too confusing. A further suggestion maintained that the Court should have no power to enforce its decisions, but merely to ascertain the facts and make reports and decisions in aid of public opinion. It should have more judicial powers and less powers of enforcement. Enforcement spells law. In order that the Court may better understand both sides, the membership of the Court should include a judge from each of the disputant nations.

However, it is a well known fact that total and universal disarmament is the only infallible solution of the problem of organizing peace, averting war, and assuring security to the nations of the world.

The Permanent Court of International Justice will not only enable the nations to avoid misunderstandings in the future and to solve their own problems on a more intelligent and effective basis, but will also do more than anything else that can be done for the avoidance of disputes which might lead to wars in the future, and for the establishment of relations that will enable them to have confidence in each other and make the world a better place in which to live. The world is looking forward hopefully for the time when some method of securing world peace is created."
