Heather's legacy

After tragic death, Sanford girl's gift gives life to others

By VICKI DoSORM Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Bill Meyer stands quietly and says little when asked about the gift he and his wife Mariene gave to five families across the country. Marlene still prefers to express herself through the written word or an occasional soft reply.

On a hot, humid mid-July day last month, their daughter Dorothy Albright Board took her own life and those of her three children.

Board, clinically depressed, shot Heather, Matthew and Ashley and then herself. She, Matthew and Ashley died almost immediately.

Heather Rose, 9, lived for nearly a the generosity of her grandparents.

Bill and Mariene decided, as the bright-eyed little girl slipped from them, to donate her organs to those

Cat-scratch disease blamed

FORT LAUDERDALE - Cat-scratch disease was the probable cause of an encephalitis outbreak in Broward County which landed three children in the hospital, federal health officials said.

Only about 22,000 cases of the rare disease, often carried by stray cats, are reported each year nationwide. And officials said few of those turn into encephalitis, a potentially fatal swelling of the brain.

"We know somewhere between 1 and 2 percent of the people who get cat-scratch disease later get encephalitis," said Dr. James Olson, an expert on cat-scratch disease at the national Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in Atlanta.

It is highly unusual for three children who played in the same neighborhood to come down with encephalitis as a complication of cat-scratch disease, he said.

The CDC plans to test animals in the area north of Pompano Beach where two of the children lived and another stayed with a baby-sitter. All had been exposed to stray kittens, said Dr. Jim Cresanta, medical epidemiologist with the Broward County Public Health Unit.

Cat-scratch disease usually is caused by a scratch, bite or lick from a kitten or cat. People cannot transmit the disease.

Abby Agyemang, 5, Jeremy Cyran, 11, and Christopher Beck, 6, remained at Broward General Medical Center today in good condition. All are expected to leave the hospital this weekend, said hospital spokesman Chuck Malkus.

They came down with encephalitis within 26 hours of each other on Aug. 12 and 13, collapsing into convulsions.

State's first female boot camp

BARTOW, Fla. - Part of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.'s penalty for misrepresenting policies will be used to help to build the state's first boot camp for female juvenile offenders.

Sheriff Lawrence Crow's goal of adding 40 beds for females at the 40-bed male camp now under construction in Bartow became a reality Thursday when state Attorney General Bob Butterworth announced the $300,000 was available.

The money comes from a $2.5 million contribution to state anti-crime programs pledged by Met Life earlier this year to settle allegations the company misrepresented life insurance policies as retirement savings plans.

The boys' portion of the camp will be complete by Sept. 15 and open Oct. 1. Construction of the additional two 20-bed wings to house girls should begin by the end of September, but the girls' program must be developed and will not open until next summer. Crow said.

The camp will serve girls and boys ages 14 to 17, primarily first-time offenders who have committed felonies such as burglary or car theft.

"I assure you when this is finished, we'll have the best program in the United States," Crow told county commissioners and local legislators Thursday.

Currently, there are five male juvenile boot camps in Florida. Two camps, including the one in Polk, are under construction. State funding has been approved for five more male camps.

Former sailor indicted for child abuse

MIAMI - A former sailor, whose conviction in the death of his baby daughter was overturned, will be retried on an involuntary manelaughter charge, He also faces child abuse

Robert S. Deckell, 30, and his wife-Diane M. Oaskell, 29, were indicted on three counts of child abuse for incidents that occurred on the Mayal Air Station in Key West in 1649 and 1990, the U.S. Attorney's Office announced Friday.

Robert Gaskell also is charged with involuntary manulaughter in the 1990 shaking death of 7-month-old Kristin.

The couple is accused of abusing Kristin and Adam Lake Mary: Don't fence it in?

By NICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - Whether or not to allow chain link fences in Lake Mary is one question. If they are allowed, the next question is, where?

The chain link fence issue has been the subject of many discussions since early this year. Differences have emerged between the city staff and the Planning and Zoning

An ordinance revising the city's fencing regulations, primarily in old subdivision areas, was to have come before the City Commission at it's meeting on Aug. 18th. The item however, was last on the agenda, and the meeting extended late so any discussion was tabled.

According to documents pertaining to the question, on March 22, the Planning and Zoning Board tabled an ordinance which would have allowed chain link fences in front yards, in the old areas of the city,

City Planner Matt West subsequently researched old ordinances pertaining to such fencing, bus said he, "derived nothing helpful from that research which would assist in drafting a new ordinance."

West says he believes the existing definition of decorative fencing is deficient.

West then drafted a new ordinance on the fences, and took it to the P&Z meeting on July 28. At that time, West asked for a better definition of what constitutes the old sections of the city, in comparison with the newer subdivisions.

P&Z turned down the suggested ordinance unanimously. West said, "The Planning and Zoning Board wished to make it perfectly clear to the City Commission that it opposes allowing chain link fences in the front yard.

anywhere in the city."

He said the board made it quite clear that it felt-such requests should be handled through the variance process, if at all.

The board urged that its disappointment concerning the drafted ordinance be emphasized in the staff memorandum. Nonetheless, West and the city staff took it to the commission meeting on August 18th, and recommended approval of the ordi-

The most recently approved fence ordinance, added to the zoning codes in 1991, discusses fences and their locations. The codes specify electrically charged wire, ribbon and barbed wire fences, but did not mention chain link fences. Other required changes in the old codes such as recommended height limitations and locations have not produced any problems. The section explaining decorative fences however has had the chain link construction included. It says, "Chain link and wire fences shall not be considered decorative for purposes of this definition.'

West says he believes the matter may be brought up next during a joint meeting between the City Commission and Planning and Zoning Board, scheduled for October 6.

The issue of where the funding itself is coming from has been an issue in itself to some. Local citizens spoke of their opinions on the passage of the new crime bill.

Kenneth Southward II heard the sheriff in one county speak about it. "I think the county and city need more police protection. You can't stop weapons and you can't stop drugs. Sanford police arrested two men at the police station Thursday. In doing so, several outstanding cases are believed to have been solved. Police said they were following a lead regarding the burglary of a home in the 100 block of Anderson, in Sanford, on Tuesday, and found two Sanford men in a vehicle reportedly described as having been used at the time.

The driver of the vehicle was identified as Bobby Cotton, 20, of 418 San Marcos Ave. The passenger was identified as Matthew Oliver, 20, of 2470 Sipes Avenue.

Following an investigation and interrogation at the police

Following an investigation and interrogation at the police station Thursday, each man was placed under arrest. Both were charged with burglary and grand theft in connection with the Anderson Avenue burglary, in which $975 worth of items was said to have been taken. A number of the items were located and returned to the owners.

Police said Cotton was also found to have been reportedly responsible for attempting to cash a check listed as stolen, in another case. He was charged with forgery, and uttering a forgery. In addition, it was found Cotton was wanted on three outstanding Seminole County warrants for failing to appear to pay fines.

SIU crackdowns

Members of the Sanford police Special Investigative Unit, (SIU) made several arrests Thursday night. Resonding to complaints about possible drug activity, they went to an area in the 1200 block of Lincoln Court. When police arrived, they reported one man attempted to escape. He was apprehended a short time later. Rodney Lewis Woods, 37, of 113 Castle Brewer Court, was arrested on charges of resisting an officer without violence, possession of crack cocaine, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

At Fith Street and Palmetto Avenue, SIU agents arrested Claudia Mac Beveritt, 32, of Sanford. She was charged with possession of drug paraphernalis, and possession of crack cocaine. She was also found to be wanted for violation of probation on a previous conviction of purchasing cocaine.

Double arrest

Sanford police were called to investigate a possible escapee, reportedly seen in the 1200 block of Park Avenue Thursday. When they arrived, they found Christina Michele Freed, 21, of 411 W. Ninth Street. Police said she told them a man had indicated he was wanted. With a K-9 unit, police said they found the man hiding under a house. He refused to identify himself, and was arrested as John Doe, on a charge of resisting an officer without violence. The woman, Freed, reportedly hindered the police investigation of the incident. She was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting an officer without violence.

Recycling efforts decline slightly

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald Senior Staff Writer

BANFORD — Seminole County recycling efforts started their seasonal decline in July, dropping to 7.2 million lbs., more than a 12 percent drop from

If the last two years are any measure, the decline will continue through November after a spike this month, then build throughout the spring. The county tracks recycling efforts monthly. The state requires counties to divert 30 percent of their garbage from dumps to recycling by the end of this year.

The county and cities have completed almost four years under the state's 1968 recycling mandates. Between November 1990 and September 1991, the startup of the program, 17.4 million lbs. were collection. From October 1991 to September 1992, 73.7 million lbs. were collected. During the last fiscal year, 66.8 million lbs. were offered for recycling.

Since October 1993, 70.5 million lbs. were collected, slightly less than the 71.2 million lbs. collected during the same 10 months a year ago. County recycling spokesman Sherry Newkirk said the drop may be more reflective of a reduction in garbage generation than a decline in recycling efforts.

County officials hope their new Small Materials Recycling Facility, which officially opened last Friday, will boost those figures. During July, 475,176 ibs. of recyclable materials were processed at the facility. Newkirk said most of that recyclable material processed at the SMRF last month was collected from homes in Oveido and Winter Springs.

The SMRF can process about 50 tons of recyclable materials each day. It is currently handling about 50 tons a week, Newkirk said.

In the unincerporated areas, recycling collections remained fairly steady at 2.4 million lbs., including 1 million lbs. of yard waste. In June, the county collected a little more than 2.5 million lbs. of recyclables, including just under I million lbs.

in Sanford, total recycling collections dipped a bit from 711,700 lbs. to 656,120 lbs.

Municipal yard waste collections were 485.360 lbs. in July, down a bit from the 492,080 lbs. collected the month before.

In Lake Mary, total recyclable materials collections dropped from 185,820 lbs. to 161,500 lbs. Yard waste collections dropped from 119,840 lbs. to 108,720 lbs.

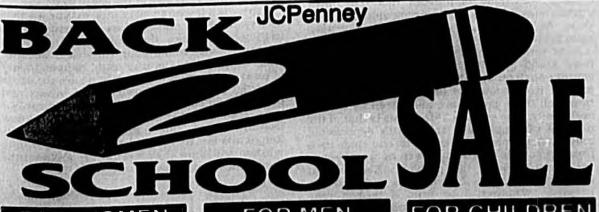

Total Lengwood recycling collections dropped from 547,160 lbs. to 488,000 lbs. Yard waste collections dropped from 393,920 lbs. to 352,800.

Take a course on boat safety

Even a wise and all-knowing man can expand his knowledge. No great prophet said that, but we believe it makes sense.

The U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary is ready to launch into seven week Basic Boating Skills and Seamanship, and Sailing and Semanship classes. They will start on Sept. 12, and be held each Monday and Wednesday evenings at Maitland Middle School.

The classes cost $30, which covers text books, workbooks, and the school fees. When serious problems occur, such as boat crashes, drownings, or other water related mishaps, reporters seldom ask if the boat operator has graduated from, or even attend a Coast Guard Auxiliary course. We believe almost all of them would say they did not.

Just an outing on Lake Monroe and the St.

Johns River will prove that many people don't have this training, and are badly in need of it.

need of it.

Boaters are constantly going on the wrong side of buoys, speeding in manatee areas, passing on the wrong side of an oncoming craft, and otherwise exercising poor judgement in boat operation. One can constantly see boats leaving port loaded with children who are not wearing life vests.

Yet many of these people are seasoned boaters. They go out almost every weekend or at least several times a month. One would think that the regulars would not only exercise the rules of the river, but do so to the point where they stand out as an example to the novice boat operators.

These courses even go beyond waterway operations. They also deal with healing a boat on a traffer, weather and communications information.

The U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary has held many similar courses in the past. We salute all those who realised they need this type of

Now, it's an opportunity for more boaters to gain this knowledge. A seasoned boat opera-tor taking this course should not be consid-ered a wimp. He or she is just smart enough to learn about safety, to prevent problems with those who are wimps.

The hour of decision is approaching

The hour of decision is fast approaching. Including today, there are only 11 days left before the first primary election in Seminole County. Thursday, Sept. 8, is the appointed day. Candidates who aspire for elective office and are opposed for the seat they seek, will be making a final appeal to their party affiliates.

Sandy Goard, supervisor of elections, advised that there are 137,044 registered voters in Seminole County. Based upon prior indicators also is predicting about a 32 percent turnout for the first primary. This would be approximately 44,000 citizens.

County offices that voters will be considering

County offices that voters will be considering in the first primary are county commissioners and judicial offices.

There are two methods of addressing the There are two methods of addressing the qualifying fees for the county commissioners office. They are paying the stipulated fee or securing sufficient signatures of persons in their party to waive payment of the qualifying fee. The cost of running for a county commission office is $3,450.98. This fee is 7.5 percent of the annual salary a person would receive if elected.

If a candidate qualified by the petition method of 1,575 signatures from registered Democrats and 2,2561 signatures from registered Republicans, the number of signatures required are election. The difference in the number of voters quired for Democrats and Republicans reflects the larger number of registered Republicans. Democratic candidate Larry Furlong is the only one in the commission race who qualified by petition. His name does not appear on the primary ballot for county commissioner District IV because he was unchallenged by any one in his party.

The following are county commission candidates: Democrats, District 2 — Cariton D. Henley, Adrienne Perry and Robert Webster; District 4 — Republicans, Win Adams and Andrea Dennison.

All judicial elections are non-partisan. therefore judicial candidates are listed on both the Republican and Democratic primary ballots The state legislature created a new county court judiciary position. Previously Seminole County only had four county judges. The qualifying fee is 5.5 percent of the annual salary or $4,552.08. The two contenders for this position are Ralph Eriksson and John Galluzzo.

The 18th Judicial Circuit which encompasses Seminole and Brevard Counties have many candidates. Group 12 candidates are: Ken Beane, Carmine Bravo, Robert E. Miller, Dean Mosley and Gene Stephenson. Group 20 candidates are: Valerie Frederica Brown, Warren W.C. Burk, Bruce Jacobus and Maryellen McDonald.

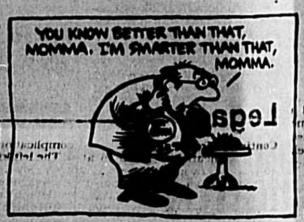

Commission candidates will be delcared winners in the primary election if they receive 50 percent plus one of the votes of their party percent plus one of the votes of their party members. Where three or more candidates are in contention the two receiving the highest number in the first primary will be alated for a runoff in the second primary. Tuesday, Oct. 4.

Where there are multiple judicial candidates and no one receives a decisive vote, the two highest vote getters will be placed on the ballot for the general election Tuesday, Nov. 8.

Sample ballots for the first primary election are available and may be obtained from the supervisor of elections office. For additional information please call 321-1130 ext. 7709.

Striving to be politically correct

I'm not sure how many of you out there caught this on the "Nightly News" the other night, but they did a little end of show night piece on the subject of little end of show night piece on the subject of little really. The concept of referring to those large metal circles in the middle of streets as "person hole covers" and calling managers. "Work Porce Motivators." well. managers "Work Porce Motivators," well, there's a certain reasonableness to the general argument, it stems I suppose from the whole liberated sexual equal Woodstock era logic with which the movers and shakers of today's world grew up. And that being the case, I guess I would concede them the argument that they do have a certain right to adjust our language to a less biased and more argument that they do have a certain right to adjust our language to a less biased and more egalitarian form of usage.

If language is a constantly changing vehicle for the expression of thought based on the ever-increasing needs of a society in flux, something in which almost daily new words are being created for in order to more perfectly express an idea or concept, then the reformation of old and outdated words or terms within that language would seem merely part and parcel of that ongoing and necessary process. Whether the change is needed for sexual or stereotypic or former culturally biased reasons, the net result of such changes will certainly be an improve-ment of the communications process between all "persons," and hopefully a leveling of the playing field to the benefit of the still denigrated and indubitably downtrodden among us.

No longer will there be expressions like "s No longer will there be expressions like "a Mexican standoff" or she's a real "be "eH." Instead, when our language is more properly reflective of our heightened sociological standards, one will be able to rephrase such inappropriate cuphemisms to a "no winner accuration somewhat reminiscent but not limited solely to or of the great traditional struggles of the Hispanic culture," and she possesses the unfortunate temperament of a feminine member of the genus canine with inappropriately heightened estrogen levels." As any socially conscious individual can see, not only do these slight alterations in wording remove all trace of any cultural or sexual bias, but they further allow for a more bias, but they further allow for a more exacting and pointed description of the issues at hand to be made. It just will require some getting use to. Now, in a spirit of friendly cooperation and in an effort to assist my fellow traveler along this new and untried path to political correctness. I will now offer some words which we should all endeavor to avoid in the future, their more correct form,and an appropriate definition of their meaning.

Thoughts on tragedy

I never knew Dorothy Board, but I've thought of her often since the tragedy. I've heard a lot of second guessing about what happened, why nothing was done to prevent this. The most disheartening fact is that nothing could've been done. At most the inevitable could only have done. At most the inevitable could only have been delayed.

After years of working with the mentally ill, I have found that if a person is determined to commit such an act, the opportunity will always present itself scorer or later. It doesn't matter how well these people are monitored by friends and family. The positive side of this is that of the millions of people who suffer with depression, only a small fraction ever try to end their lives through suicide. Even so, this in no way leasans the seriousness of the problem. Everyone at some point in 'their lives has suffered depression. Whether it he from a broken relationship or marriage, or the passing of a leved one. It is natural to have these feelings at this time. But the important factor here is that we get over it, and go on with our lives. These was not the type of depression that Dorothy suffered with. Dorothy more than likely suffered from a form of depression that is caused by a physiological defect, generally a chemical imbalance in the brain that can only be trusted with medication. Medication however desan't offer a panacea for the problem. Seeing a psychiatrist, getting blood work and proper dosages is both time consuming and expensive. Even once the blood levels are stabilized, there is only short term relief. Usually after six months to a year; patients tend to find that the medication no longer gives them the besents that it did in the beginning. The whole process begins over again with new drugs, more tests, and more expense.

One can only apeculate as to what was going and more expense.

One can only speculate as to what was going through Dorothy's mind on that fataful Friday afternoon. But let me assure you that in her mind she was doing what she believed to be the right thing. With this form of depression your perception of the world around you is distorted. It heightens your suspicions, foars, and fatings of despair. The type of depression that Dorothy suffered with was the most insidious kind. Even in her sleep it would invade her dreams. There was never any escape from it, and as she get older it would only get worse.

I do hope that her mother and father do not put themselves through a guilt trip, thinking that they could've saved her, or done semething more. They have to come to an understanding within themselves that they did all they could.

Friends and tamity really take a beating when a loved one suffers from this illness. I've seen them come to the hospital to visit looking completely burned out. It's hard to live with a depressed person, trying to cope with their problems and your own at the same time.

If there is a lesson in all of this, maybe it's that society needs to make it less expensive to get treatment, to take the stigms out of being treated so those who need it will seek it. Because what happened to Dorothy could happen to any of us at any time. Withing all of us are the seeds to make us become murderers of others and ourselves, for suicide is murder turned inwards.

As I said in the beginning, I never knew Dorothy Board, but I know the demon she fought ans lost to. I pray that God in His infinite wisdom will show Dorothy and her children the mercy they so deserve.

Wake up call and the city commissioners to wake up and move into the '90s? The 1900s that is I believe the answer to that is to elect a new breed of city officials. A team that isn't threatened by educated, progressive thinking leaders who are effective managers of people.

The elected city officials are just as guilty of promoting favoritism and the good old boys system as Police Chief Ralph Russell is. After all, leak at how he got the job of chief of police. One can only guess that when the city commissioners with a lower the education requirements for the position of police chief, they did it so they could keep their thumb on and control. Let's face it. Ralph Russell is their "do boy."

If the city commissioners and Mayor Smith had hired someone who was truly qualified for the job, someone with the education and management skills, someone who could think for himself or herself and he willing to support the sten and women of the department, the city commission would have had a more difficult task of controlling the police chief. However, that's not the case with Ralph Russell, He is willing to sacrifice the ruspect and trust of his effects to feel his enormous ego and gain favor with the city commission. Anyone can cave into the pressures that a accompany being an administrator. But it takes someone with integrity, mercula, convictions and companion to stand up to the pressures and support and lead his or her people. Undertained by, it's too late for Ralph Russell to selvage anything that resembles trust and respect from he officers. The damage has been done and we are just trying to survive in terms of morals.

Russell's typical response to that would be "If you don't like it find another job." There's just one catch, if all the officers who are unhappy with the current administration quit, then Russell, Joe Dillard and Dennis Whitmire would have to hit the streets and answer calle themselves as there wouldn't be too many officers left. A few non-union members maybe.

Beacon of light

The Missing Children Center Inc. of Winter Springs. Florids is a beacon of light in a world of uncertainty. Children who are abducted, missing or runsways are continually in a dangerous world. If not recovered quickly they become prey to predators and become involved with drugs, prestitution or criminal activity. The Missing Children Center and their team of volunteers are like wetchlowers in the night trying to protect these children. By offering a free 54-bear help line, plus volunteers working round the clock, children are returned home or to a nade servicement quickly. In 10 years the center has worked 1,800 cases with 90 percent of these children successfully recovered. As a conserved parted of a runsway child, I support the center; to lenders and volunteers in their effort. Stare the center exists on donations and volunteers, swerpens interested in the welfare of our children should become involved. Our children are seir future and we must do cverything to see that they are sefe and we have a future!

Dwindling crude oil inventories and a strike by oil produc-tion workers in Nigeria are responsible for some of the price increases, AAA said, adding that some retailers are raising prices in anticipation of higher wholesale costs.

"While there are some legitimate reasons for the high prices. we continue to receive complaints from our members and the general public — especially in South Florida," said AAA spokesman Tom Schroder.

"Motorists in some parts of the state are paying more for their gasoline than in most other parts of the nation. Some of that may

Climbing 'back' from scoliosis Sanford resident lives daily with its pain

By RESSEE KEITH Herald Columnist

SANFORD — According to the American Board of Orthopedic Surgery, the definition of scoliosis is a lateral curvature of the central part of the spine and appears mostly in children from birth and young adults up to the age of 15. If scollosis appears in early adulthood, the prognosis is better than if the disease starts in infancy. Growth of curvature ends when the individual's skeletal development ceases.

This information is known all too well by Audra Wakefield as it is a condition that she has had to live with since childhood even though she was not diagnosed until the age of 34. "I looked back at my childhood days and I realized that I had had scoliosis since the age of 7. The doctor that I first saw was for other health problems," said Wakefield. However, this doctor, Dr. Nicholas Pastis, agreed with the childhood symptoms Wakefield described and concluded that the scoliosis did begin in her early childhood. Currently, she is under the care of Dr. Michael J. Smiglelski, Tri-County Orthopedics in San-

Since Wakefield's condition was diagnosed at age 34, it had really become too late in her life to attempt any type of surgery as the scoliosis had just simply advanced to an inoperable stage. Also, according to Wakefield, "I have heart problems that prevent me from having corrective surgery for the scollosis." So, I have to listen to my body on a day-to-day basis and do less on the days that my pain is more apparent. Or on the days that the pain is so severe, I just have to take to my bed and take my medication."

At this time Dr. Smiglelski has Wakefield going for therapy treatments three times a week in Sanford. "I get heat treatments and exercises that are conducive to helping the pain in my back from the scoliosis. Sometimes I wear my back brace but, I don't get a whole lot of relief from it," Wakefield said. Wakefield has her good days and she has her bad days. What is so discourag-ing for Wakefield is the fact that this condition can never be corrected for her. According to Wakefield, Dr. Smiglelski said that he doubted that there is any surgeon that would undertake the operation needed to correct her spine as it has become so twisted they would have to go in from the front as well as the back of her body. It is just simply too dangerous given her many other health problems.

Wakefield concluded by saying. "I know that there are many

Histoplasmosis is 'for the birds'

Nurse conquers unusual disease

Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Histoplasmosis has not become a household word in conversations about town. According to Dr. Jorge Deju. director of the Seminole County Public Health Department, is is not even a common disease that strikes many in Florida. His reports show that only nine cases have been reported and confirmed in Florida so far this year. Dr. Deju said, "Histoplasmosis is most common in Indiana, Missouri and some eastern states, such as Virginia. It is a disease that is caused by a mold. It's systemic. The main primary lesion is usually in the lungs. It is sometimes found in the eyes, it most frequently comes from droppings of blackbirds, chickens or pigeons and in some cases you can get it from a domestic bird. In most cases, people who get histoplasmosis have no symptoms at all, You develop antibodies that fight it off. It can't be transmitted from one person to Information recived from the Public Health Department flies revealed that preventive measures include minimizing exposure to dust in a contaminated environment such as chicken coops and their surrounding soil. Files also noted that symptoms appear within five to 18 days after exposure, commonly, in 10 days.

Dr. Deju pointed out the different forms of the disease. "One form has no symptoms. The second form may present acute benign respiratory flora accompanied by a cough and calcifications on the lungs. The third is and calcifications on the lungs. The third is more disseminated, with fever, enlargement of the spicen and liver. You see that in young children and people with AIDS. This one is usually fatal. A fourth is chronic, disseminated, with an unexplained fever, meningitis or hepatitis. The fifth is the chronic pulmonary type and from an X-ray point of view, resembles tuberculosis. This form is most common in males over 40 years of age. Diagnosis is made through a fungal amear of sputum or blood, and a skin test is helpful."

Cheryl Francisco, a Sanfordite since 1977. and married for 11 years to her husband. Harvey, was diagnosed with histoplasmosis in 1980. She has led an active life as a mother of five children: Ty, Angela, Danny, Eric-and, Dawn, She works as a licensed practical nurse, and is a member of Sanford. Christian Church.

Her diagnosis came as a bit of a surprise after a trip to the driver's license bureau and a failed eye test. "I went to take my driver's license test and they said I didn't pass the eye exam," she said. "I was working at the old hospital, Seminole Memorial Hospital, so asked Dr. Day to look at me. Dr. Jon Day is an opthalmologist and he thought I may have had a detached retina or a tumor on my optic nerve, so he referred me to Dr. Durham Barnes, a retina specialist in Orlando. Dr. Barnes diagnosed me with histoplasmosis and sent me to Dr. J. Carlos Ruiz and Dr. Jaime Carrizosa. "That doctor's office gave me Nizoral to take. That drug was to attack the histoplasmosis. I'm not on medicine now. It's just taken at the initial diagnosis of the disease. They ran blood studies and then sent me to Shands Hospital's Miller Clinic. They dilated my eyes and confirmed the diagnosis."

Francisco spoke of her frequent exposure to pigeons while growing up in Indiana and further spoke of the disease. "I was told that five percent of the general population has histoplasmosis. It affected my right eye. I do a grid test monthly to check my eyes for any difference in vision perception and I follow up with Dr. Peter C. Gruenberg, an ophthalmologist in Altamonte, on a yearly

Signals of flexibility in health reform

WASHINGTON - The Clinton administration is sending signals of flexibility as congressional leaders make clear that comprehensive health reform is not in the cards this year.

The latest casualty of timing and politics was Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell's broad reform bill. The Maine Democrat agreed Friday to negotiate with leaders of a bipartisan "mainstream" group, using their relatively modest proposal as a starting point.

"He's going to work from the language of our bill," said Sen.
Dave Durenberger, R-Minn., a participant in a negotiating session Friday with Mitchell. "We don't start with anything of President Clinton chided the authors of the bipartisan bill earlier in the week for abandoning his goals of employer-paid insurance and universal coverage. But he sounded more receptive Friday.

Jackson may run for president

WASHINGTON - Angry at what he calls President Clinton's retreat on issues critical to black and urban America, Jesse Jackson says he may run for president in 1998 - perhaps as an independent.

"In 1992, we worked real hard and voted for an urban policy and urban development and economic stimulus." Jackson said in an interview Friday in which he harshly criticized Clinton. "For converting an excessive military budget into domestic reinvestment, for jobs and job training, and racial equality and social justice. That's what we voted for.

"Instead we are fast-tracking off jobs to Mexico, the Bush program; leaving Haitlans locked in an inferno, again the Bush

"Instead we have a Draconian crime bill which is a combination of Kool-Aid and cyanide, more jails, more sentences and 60 more ways to electrocute." The death penalty and other tougher sentencing provisions would be disproportionately applied to blacks, he said.

Ozone level increases

WASHINGTON - The amount of protective ozone over North America increased last winter, rebounding from an extraordinarily low level the year before.

But scientists say strong sunlight is still a health hazard and the recovery doesn't mean it's all right to start basking without protection.

High-altitude "ozone over the U.S. during the winter of 1993-1994 recovered from the record low values of the previous winter," scientists reported in the publication Geophysical Research Letters.

Ozone, which blocks the dangerous ultraviolet radiation from the sun, fell 10 percent to 15 percent below normal during the winter of 1992-1993, they said. Too much ultraviolet radiation can lead to skin cancer, premature aging of the skin and eye

Cubans vow to leave

HAVANA — Undeterred by bad weather and U.S. warnings that they can't enter the United States, would-be Cuban refugees vowed to leave this economically depressed island nation the first chance they get.

"We're going," said Carlos Fonseca, a 27-year-old artisan who said he and two friends were just waiting for the weather

"My house is empty, I sold the TV, the refrigerator, the stove and a mattress," he said, to buy the raft he intends to paddle to Florida.

Fonseca and hundreds of others planned to leave even though the Clinton administration says it will no longer grant automatic asylum to Cubans who reach U.S. shores.

To relieve pressure on his own government, Castro stopped trying to prohibit illegal immigration. Those refugees picked up at sea were being taken to the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo. at the southeast end of Cuba. New U.S. restrictions on travel and gifts to Cuba took effect

Friday. U.S. residents no longer can send money to relatives in Cuba, charter flights were canceled with few exceptions and contents of humanitarian and gift parcels were restricted. The Clinton administration hopes its carrot-and-stick approach will slow the human tide and pressure Castro into democratic reforms. But many here weren't getting the message. Some 378 rafters were picked up at sea Friday. The number was down from 1,670 picked up by the U.S. Coast Quard on Thursday, partly due to bad weather. In Havana, people hauled their rafts up on beaches while dark storm clouds loomed overhead and waves battered the shore. Cuban state radio said waves in the Florida Straits were four to five feet high. It urged those planning to make the journey "on homemade crafts" not to do so — at least until the weather

Children going hungry

BUKAVU, Zaire — During Rwanda's three-month civil war hundreds of children attached themselves to the Hutu army. When the army was defeated, they followed the soldiers into exile in a grim refugee camp.

Now they are guilty by association, and because no major aid group wants to feed the soldiers, children are going hungry.

"Only two organizations have understood clearly the ethical considerations involved in providing aid to the refugees," said Peter Romanovsky of the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees. "Everyone else is playing with word games and prejudice."

Aid workers privately admit they are unwilling to help the 10,000 Hutu soldiers and militiamen extled in Panzi camp on the edge of Bukavu. The fighters are accused of massacres that left up to 500,000 people dead, mostly minority Tutals.

Many aid workers believe their 6,000 family members and the orphans who helped them are also unworthy of help or sympathy,

The two exceptions are the Catholic aid agency, CARITAS, which has provided emergency medical kits and some food. and the Asia Volunteer Network, which has sent a doctor and a coordinator from Japan.

They are being pro-duced by the Lake Mary Historical Commission which has a library/museum at 158 N. Country Club Road in the Frank Evans Center. This first display in a tribute to the volunteer fire department. The following story tells its history.

- Margaret Green Wealey

By REV. JAMES THOMPSON Special to the Herald

This story of the Lake Mary Volunteer Fire Department from its organization in 1956 through July 1967 is a condensed version of a history written by the Rev. James M. Thompson, at the request of Randall Chase.

Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Walters were the first citizens to stimulate interest in a fire department for Lake Mary. Meetings of citizens were held in the Presbyterian Church and in the Lake Mary school which led to organization of Lake Mary Volunteer Fire Department under a constitution on March 11, 1956. The following officers were elected on March 21, 1956:

Administrative Officers: A.L. Walters, president; James A. Yates, vice-president; Mrs. A.L. (Anna) Walters, secretary; R.M. Ball, treasurer; Rev. Lucian Scott, chaplain.

Board of Directors: Edward L. Zimmerman, S.H. Dunlap, Earl Toney, Frank Evans, Watson Reel, Mrs. S.T. Fowler, and Rev.

Department Officers: Charles Krueger, fire chief; D. Elmore, B. White, and F.E. Donaldson, assistant chiefs; Harvey Pugh, engineer.

These officials comprised the roll of charter members.

Ed Zimmerman became president in 1957. He and Mrs. Zimmerman donated a truck on which Harvey Pugh and volunteers mounted a water tank, converting this equipment into a fire fighting machine. The Alta-monte Springs Fire Department gave a 500-gailon tank with four sections of fire hose. The city of Sanford donated a 50-foot extension ladder.

Zimmerman took the lead in raising money by fish fries and barbecue chicken dinners to purchase more equipment. In April 1957, the department purchased a high capacity pump, 200 feet of pressure hose capable of delivering water in excess of 60 feet and a fiveposition (steam to fog) water nozzle capable of delivering a spray within a 30-foot diameter.

Zimmerman circulated a petition requesting Seminole County commissioners to make Seminole County Voting Precinct No. 10 a fire district. Lake Mary Fire Department covered a radius of 2.5 miles.

William E. Gray became president in 1958. Mrs. R.H Ivers. secretary, started a scrapbook which was continued by Mrs. Zimmerman.

Charles Krueger, fire chief, gave the department a building site and a drive with Mrs. Gray as chairman was initiated to raise funds for a fire hall. The drive produced $1,800 which was added to the $300 on hand and a loan fund provided by several interested persons. making it possible to plan a fire hall, including a large room, a modest kitchen, and two Chase and Company donated steel and roofing material for the hall. Odham and Tudor finished labor for the roof. Otis Bridges' men laid the floor. Terwiller Company and Phillips Industries contributed cement and Gregory Lumber Company contributed tires for the fire truck. The tile for the restrooms and kitchen was donated by Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Hopkins and W.C. Thomson of Bar K Ranch and was laid by Ralph and Lewis Schweickert who with Ed Zimmerman also painted the building. W.O. Ferguson built the cabinets.

Seminole PONY meeting today

FIVE POINTS — The Seminole PONY Baseball League will conduct its annual meeting at 2 p.m. today, Aug. 28, at the league's Five Points complex on State Road 419.

The meeting is open to the public.

Modified pitch players wanted

The Sanford Recreation Department is looking for players to fill out teams for a modified fast-pitch softball league that is planned for Monday nights at Chase Park.

Those interested in learning more about the league, which is a cross between slowpitch and fastpitch, are invited to come out to Pinehurst Park tomorrow (Monday, August 29) or Chase Park Wednesday, August 31, at 6:30 p.m. If enough players come out to the "tryouts", you do not have to be on a team to attend, there will be attempts to form teams in hopes of starting the league in September.

For more information, call (407) 330-5697 between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Chamber calls for nominations

SANFORD — Who will be in this year's class? The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce has made it's annual solicitation for nominations to be considered for induction into the Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame.

Nominees must have made an outstanding contribution to their sports field as a player, coach, administrator, or fan.

To be considered, nominees must be at least 21 years old on the date of nomination. Also, the individual must have lived in Seminole County for at least three years or must have worked in Seminole County for at least five years.

Nominations, including a resume' of the candidate's contributions, should be made to the Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame selection committee, Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, 400 East First Street, Sanford, 32771. The deadline is Thursday, Sept. 15.

Golfer dies on course

PARK CITY, Utah — It seemed only fitting to Tom Weiskopf that his friend Bert Yancey died playing the game he loved.

And Weiskopf found it no surprise that Yancey maisted ar playing Friday even though he felt iii.

"That's him. That's him," Weiskopf said.
"The game was not as important to me as it was to him. He loved it more than I do."

Yancey, 56, collapsed Friday morning minutes before he was to tee off in the $500,000 Senior PGA Franklin Quest Championship at the Park Meadows Golf Course. He twice walked off the practice range with a contraction of the practice range with the practice ra etice range with chest pains before apparently suffering a massive heart attack. He was pronounced dead at a local clinic.

irvan's condition upgraded

BRISTOL, Tenn. - Ernie Irvan, critically injured a week ago in a crash during practice at Michigan International Speedway, was reported upgraded Saturday to serious but stable condi-tion at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

The statement, issued by Robert Yates Racing spokesman Brian Vandercook, said Dr. Walter Whitehouse, a vascular and trauma surgeon who is part of the medical team assigned to Irvan, characterized the change in Irvan's condition as "a big step up."

He added that Irvan, who regained partial consciousness and began responding to questions Tuesday, is now "conscious but drowsy."

Irvan is on a ventilator to aid his breathing and that while no new problems have been diagnosed, and signs of neurologic improvement continue, the 35-year-old's recovery will follow a "slow, progressive course."

Busch race to younger Wallace

BRISTOL, Tenn. - Kenny Wallace waitzed to victory in Friday night's Busch Grand National Food City 250 at Bristol International Raceway. Wallace, who led the final 86 laps of the 250-lap NASCAR race on the .533-mile oval, won $26,730 and averaged 87.616 mph.

Wallace became the 16th different winner in 22 Busch Grand National races this season as he beat Ken Schrader to the finish line by 6.92 seconds - about a quarter of a lap.

David Green stretched his season point lead with a third-place finish, nearly catching Schrader at the end, while Ricky Craven finished fourth and Dick Trickle fifth.

Celtics ink Montross

BOSTON - Former North Carolina center Eric Montross, selected ninth in the NBA draft by the Boston Celtics, signed a long-term deal reportedly worth up to $20 million over 11 years.

SANFORD - As community college administrators across the state scramble to find a way to achieve the legislatively-mandated objective of gender equity, the staff at Seminole Community College is doing . . nothing.

Well, almost nothing. There had to be some minor rearranging of locker rooms and storage facilities, but other than that, SCC heads into the 1994-95 school year as a prime example of what you can do if you plan ahead.

"We knew this was coming eventually," said Larry Castle, SCC's Athletic Coordinator. "We've been working toward this for the last seven, eight years. That timeline coincides roughly with the enactment of the Florida Educational Equity Act of 1984. which required full compliance with the Title XI of the Education Amendments of 1972.

Since then, SCC's administration has been working on meeting those guidelines, which gained additional emphasis with the passing of 1993 Florida House Bill 899.

"Our formal equaluation, which was done in May, showed that the men's and women's programs are just about equal," said Castle. "We at SCC have been working on gender equity for about eight years. Our administration realized then what was down the road.

Gender equity: Fair play or Pandora's Box?

A year ago, the Florida Legislature amended the Florida Educational Equity Act of 1964 in an effort to bring about gender equity in athletics at Florida schools. It began with a switch from slowpitch to fastpitch softball for high schools and community colleges. Where does it go from there?

"Since then, slowly but surely, we've been taking steps to make sure everything is even. As a result. we've had a much smaller job (to achieve gender equity) than many schools across the state.

Castle pointed out that last year, 51.5 percent of SCC's enrollment consisted of men and 48.5 percent were women. Given that SCC fields four teams - basketball and baseball for men, basketball and sottball for women - there wasn't much to be done to balance the program.

It really wasn't until the school received the survey, which includes 13 components to give a quantitave value to the quality of equity, that the SCC administraton learned what, if any, adjustments needed to be made. Both the men's and women's Bee Equity, Page 3B

After 9 years, duck populations on the rise in for some good news. Waterfowl biologists in the Dakotas, Montana, and southern Canada report that duck populations have begun rebounding after nine years of struggle.

Dave Brakhage, waterfowl biologist for the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, said that it could result in easing of restrictions for duck hunters.

He said the Atlantic Flyway Council, which makes recommendations to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service concerning waterfowl management in this part of the country, has included in its recommendations that daily bag limits be increased to four ducks this hunting season.

in addition, he said, the council has recommended allowing duck hunters to include one canvasback duck in their daily bag. Due to previous declines in canvasback populations, hunters have not taken canvasbacks in Florida since 1985-86.

"The changes still have to be approved by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service." Brakhage said.

SHUPE

Prolonged drought conditions in duck breeding areas caused the decline in duck populations beginning in the early 1980s. As prairie ponds dried up, farmers plowed and planted crops closer to the ponds where ducks had normally nested.

With less space available for the ducks to nest, populations dropped," Brakhage said. "Duck hunting was curtailed to compensate.

However, in 1993, the drought broke and the ponds began to refill. Fifty-nine million ducks migrated south in the fall that year. This year, biologists predict that the fall migration will involve 71 million ducks.

"And there are signs that this is going to be a sustained recovery - not just a fluke," Brakhage said. "Seven of the 10 duck species we use as indicators of the duck population's status are above the long-term average population."

Even the number of ponds is up frm a low of 2 million to 6 million this year. With average precipitation, the number of ponds still should be about 5 million next year - setting the stage for another good production year.

The commission plans to set final regulations for the regular duck and coot season during its Resort near Destin.

SHUPE'S SCOOP

An invaluable item to my hunting is a simple "fanny pack." I am usually up a tree in the woods for many hours, and I simply clip the pack to my climbing stand. In it, I have flashlights, raingear, marking tape, cover scents, extra ammunition, knives, and other items that would come in handy during a day's hunt.

Dolphins hope to be 'home' in January

By STEVEN WINE AP Sports Writer

MIAMI — This season's Super Bowl will be played at Joe Robbie Stadium, and coach Don Shula hopes that will motivate his Miami Dolphins.

"We have a great opportunity to get enthusiastic about being the home team," Shula

Last year, the Dolphins had the NFL's best record at 9-2 before their season was sideswiped by a series of injuries and five consecutive defeats. Miami missed the playoffs, but is healthy again and poised to make another run at a title.

"We had a lot of injuries toward the end of last year and became an average team," says tackle Ron Heller, an 11-year veteran. "But I have no regrets because we were in the Super Bowl hunt.

"This year we hope to go further. This is the most talent I've ever seen depth-wise at any training camp."

The Dolphins are bolstered by the return of quarterback, Dan Marino, who missed the final 11 games last season with a ruptured Achilles' tendon. He is still not fully recovered from the injury, but the team was encouraged by his play during the exhibition scason.

"Dan Marino could take two years off and step out there and throw a perfect pass," tight end Keith Jackson said. Jackson will be one of Marino's primary targets. along with wide receivers Irving Fryar and Mark Ingram. Mike Williams and last year's top draft pick, O.J. McDuffle, provide plenty of depth.

"Offensively we're fine, especially at the receiver position," Marino said. "Mike Williams has done a great job. and O.J. looks like he'll be an outstanding player for years to

The Dolphins should be solid in the backfield. Second-year running back Terry Kirby doubles as a passing-catching threat, and fullback Keith Byars was chosen the team's most valuable player last season, ending Marino's 10year reign.

"MVP of the team again would be great," Byars said. "But I just want to make sure I'm playing here in Miami the last Sunday in January."

The offensive line is anchored by two Pro Bowl selections, Richmond Webb and Keith Sims.

"I feel good about our chances," Marino said.

The defense includes four new starters - free agent acquisitions Gene Atkins and Michael Stewart at safety. Chris Singleton at linebacker and top draft pick Tim Bowens at tackle. Middle linebacker John Offerdahl, plagued by injuries the past three years, re-signed late in the exhibition scason.

The Dolphins allowed 125 points in their final three games last year.

"What we learned is that when you win, you have everybody with you - media. fans, everybody else." linebacker Bryan Cox said. "When you lose, everybody is treating you like you're the worst thing ever to walk on the face of this earth. We need to realize that as a team, it's us against the world."

Helping Miami with that matchup will be place-kicker Pete Stoyanovich, who passed up a lucrative offer from New England to remain with the Dolphins. The new punter is Jim Arnold, who led the NFC last season when he was with Detroit.

> The main reason for the recent imbalance between baseball and softball while the two basketball programs were on equal footing was that BCC, like the rest of the state's community colleges, was playing slowpitch softball, a sport that required fewer players for less games than baseball.

the baseball team (which carries between 20 and 30 players compared to the 15 to 18 women that play softball), we'll add another women's sport. We don't know just exactly what sport that will be just yet."

Part of the reason, Castle explained, is that while the decision of what sport to offer is SCC's to make, it will be influenced by what sport other schools in the Mid-Florida Con-

"Many of the schools just hid their heads in the sand. I guess they felt that they weren't going to be cited. But we've been told for years that something like this was coming. Now, you can lose federal funding if you're found to be in violation."

By comparison, Castle said that the SCC administration took the potential threat very seriously and tried to be prepared when the hammer fell.

'We tried to look for things so that we wouldn't have any problems." said Castle. "There were no surprises for us. We found that we were in compliance as we did our study.

Wyche, Buccaneers set to silence critics

AP Sports Writer

made the Bucs the butt of jokes throughout the NFL, but coach Sam Wyche is confident that is about to change.

Wyche begins his third season in Tampa Bay brimming with optimism. He says he doesn't remember making a bold prediction that the Bucs will be a playoff team - he did - yet says he really likes the club's chances of improving on last year's 5-11 finish.

Part of the reason is the way the defense played late last season, holding five of the Buca' last seven opponents to less than 300 yards total offense.

The turnaround was sparked by the decision to junk the team's 4-3 defensive scheme for a 4-2-5 formation that has served Tampa Bay better against passing teams.

"There's nothing new in football," defensive coordinator Floyd Peters said. "This defense has been around for a long time. There's nothing genius about it, except it fits our personnel. The first rule that you should follow is try and get your best players on the field. So I got them on the

The Bucs yielded 17 touchdown passes in the first nine games last season, but allowed only five after switching to the 4-2-5 featuring a fifth defensive back who is a cross between a strong safety and right outside linebacker.

Wyche didn't rest on the unit's improvement, though. He brought in help for the defense in the off-season, aigning free agent linebacker Lonnie Marts and upgrading the secondary with the acquinition of free safety Thomas verett and cornerback Mike McGruder, both starters.

End Jeff Hunter was added to the defensive line, which should be bolstered by the return of last year's first-round draft pick. Eric Curry, who missed the last six games of 1993 with an ankle sprain.

we've got a chance to be really good," said Wyche, who also expects continued solid play from 1993 free agenta Hardy Nickerson and Martin chance." chance,"

The offense hasn't been nearly as encouraging. Although quarterback Craig Erickson has been sharp during the pressaon, the Buce are still struggling to correpoints and haven't been able to put together a consistent running same.

running game.
The team's top two draft picks, quarterback Trent Differ and running back Errict Rhett, missed the start of training camp because of contract holdouts and are trying to catch up.

Realistically, Rhett probably will contribute before Dilfer. who was the sixth selection overall. The Bucs were 27th in the NFL in rushing a year ago and lost their best runner, Reggie Cobb, to free agency.

'As a group we're further ahead than we were last year, but nowhere near where we have to go," Erickson said. 'We've got a lot of young guys at the skill positions on offense, including myself, that need to take it to the next level and become star players."

The biggest change on offense is at tight end, where Wyche added free agent Jackie Harris, who had 97 receptions for the Green Bay Packers over the past two seasons.

It won't help, though, that the team probably will open the regular season without starting wide receivers Courtney Hawkins and Lawrence Dawsey. Hawkins broke a hand returning a punt in the first preseason game, while Dawsey has been sidelined since the fourth game of last season by a knee injury.

Still, Wyche is optimistic. With only nine players on the roster from the pre-Wyche era. this is his team. And it bothers him when the current Bucs are linked with the franchise's bumbling past.

When a national publication ran an article this month focusing on the club's history of losing. Wyche lashed back. "They left out virtually every good thing that's happened in the last couple or three years," the coach said.

"They kind of drew the line just about three years ago and said: 'Look, what a lousy team. It must be lousy again this year.' ... Our only grace to as bad as (the writer) said we were, he couldn't make our

"We're going to have to work on a few things defensively. With the players they have, Lake Howell has the potential to break one at any time. But on the whole, it was a good effort." For Lake Howell, Kelvin Chisolm gained 51 yards on six carries, including runs of 20, 16, scored on its first three possessions while Lake Mary reached the end sone on its last two in the highest-scoring exhibition of the night. Both the Lions and Rams showcased new additions to their offenses. King, who played as a freshman but has been academically ineleigible the last two seasons, slashed through the Ram defense for 98 yards on 10 carries while Lake Mary junior Recolon Jumpp carried the ball 12 times for 94 yards.

The only other players to do anything offensively were the Lion tailback Mike Giummo and Ram receiver Terrell Jackson. A transfer from Lyman, Giummo gained 18 yards on seven carries and scored the touchdown not accounted for by King and Jumpp while Jackson caught two Tyson Hinshaw passes for 30 yards. Marcus Mickens had a 55-yard punt return for Oviedo to set up King's first touchdown.

King looked real good tonight." said Oviedo coach Jack Blanton. "He's had to redshirt the last two years, but he's a great athlete. He can do just about everything."

The tone of the Seminole-Lake Brantley exhibition was set by a thunderous tackle on the opening kickoff. The Seminoles and Patriots spent the next two periods getting after each other, banging heads and scrambling for yards like their were playing for the conference champion-

"There was some serious hitting go on out here tonight," said Seminole coach Ernie McPherson. "It always seems to be that way when we play Lake Brantley. No matter when we play or what it's for, the guys get after each other." Like the Oviedo-Lake Mary display, the Lake Brantley. SANFORD - It's bread, bread, bread, throughout Central Florida and all over the nation. And it's baked right here in Sanford.

The House of Bread, 401 S. Sanford Avenue, is not only supplying bread products in ever-increasing numbers, the actual store is in an expansion program.

John Charles "Chuck" Noles and Fred Boxberger are the co-owners of the establishment. The store has been a bakery for possibly 25 years. The men purchased the business approximately a year and a half ago, bringing some of their clients from a former business near Universial Studios in Orlando.

"About three weeks ago," Noles said, "we started working

Members of the Sunday School classes at Grace Christian Church watched in awe as Music Minister Chris Wehlwend and Youth Minister Mike Arnett scooped out gallons of ice cream into a 10-foot long sundae dish. The dish was actually a section of brand new rain gutter. The ice cream was topped with jars of chocolate and caramel sauce, mniature marshmallows, sprinkles, whipped cream and cherries.

When the largest sundae ever made in Lake Mary, possibly in all of Seminole County, was complete. adults accoped out servings for the younger children. The older children just pulled up to the gutter, sundae dish, that is, and dug in.

After the sundae had been demolished, the children participated in a small carnival. There was a bean bag toes, a ring toes, and other carnival favorites.

Grants invite one and all to their anniversary

Herald Correspondents

On Sunday, Sept. 4, between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. at the First Pentecostal Church of Longwood, Fellowship Hall, 561 Orange Ave., Mr. and Mrs. Russell Grant and their children would like "to request that all friends and family are cordially invited to attend their 60-year celebration of lifelong commitment to each other." Mrs. Grant also requests. "no gifts, please; we have everything we could possibly want."

Besides the obvious anniversary celebration, the Grants have lived a long, they moved here in 1945, and happy life in Longwood. They raised five children, all of whom graduated from Lyman High School. All of the children are expected to be coming home for the party, along with eleven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. According to Mrs. Grant, Mr. Grant created Grant Street. He cleared the north-south corridor, which crosses State Road 434, to reach the cemetery. Mr. Grant served as mayor of Longwood in 1984 and has served on the city commission and various other boards.

Ruth Grant was the minister of the First Pentecostal Church of Longwood for 27 years and says, "God and I built the First Pentecostal Church of Longwood." It was dedicated on Oct. 14, 1958 and Mrs. Grant retired just 11 years ago. For their 60th wedding anniversa-ry, Pastor James Coombs has requested that Mrs. Grant speak at the service and minister to her children and their children one more time, and Mrs. Grant replied, "Who could refuse such a kind re-

After Mrs. Grant had been married for five years, she developed an Illness which was making her so weak that eventually she could not walk or even get out of bed. Later her illness was diagnosed as an infection around the heart. Of course, there were no antibiotics in those days and Ruth was sent to her parents' house with their daughter so Mr. Grant could work during the week and visit on weekends. The doctor had informed everyone that Ruth may be able to sit up if she could make it through the winter. After seven months of being totally bedridden, Mr. Grant came to Ruth's bed so excited and thrilled about the news he had just learned. It seemed that a young boy of 15 years of age had been run over by a logging truck and his pelvic area had been crushed; people every-where had talked about the Gnann boy, but this had happened in another town and thoughts were that he had died. Russell informed Ruth that he had just talked to the boy and had asked him what happened; the boy was not only walking, but he had been playing baseball. The boy explained to him that his daddy had taken him to a faith healer that he had heard about in the town of Oakland. Several weeks past, before Mr. Grant could take his wife to Oakland, there was the fear that Mr. Grant would not survive the trip as she was not permitted out of bed by the doctor who was treating her. The colorful and deep emotions accompanying the telling of this true life account can only be shared by Mrs. Grant, herself. She was healed by a little old black woman in a tent in a field who had been expecting her and gave her a transfusion of life.

The Grants are very interested in their heritage. In the early '80s the Clan Grant organized the Grants from the United States and Canada to tour Scotland and meet the rest of the Clan Grant, a historical and nostalgic tour rich in traditions and the culture of years past. Mr. and Mr. Russell Orant attended and enjoyed and shared and brought back pictures and memories and experiences for their children and their children's children. It is the Clan Grant that sponsors the Highland games at the fairgrounds each year. The Highland Games and the Highland Fling are known ☐See Grants, Page 6B

Hobby: Collection of black dolls includes unique, valuable

By SUSAN WENNER Herald Correspondent

SANFORD - Antique buffs have long known that black memorabilia, from Aunt Jemima cookie jara to 1920a advertising posters, is charming and has continued to grow

Lucille Clark is one of those collectors who has limited her collection to black dolls. "I've always liked dolls," she said. "I just seem to like black ones better than white ones. My sister actually got me into the hobby. She sells antiques, ironically in Blackville, S.C."

Clark and her husband, Bill, have been married for 45 years. They came from North Carolina to Florida in 1966, as Clark said, "I married a sailor." They have three daughters - Denise, Cathy and Teresa, and five grandchildren. The family has been members of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer in Ranford for three years. Clark organization TOPS (Take Of Pounds Sensibly). She has been involved in her collection for about three years.

Some of her doll collection leo includes a few white dollar like her Turner doll. "I bought my Turner doll at a yard sale for 50 centa," she said. "They were made in 1984. A friend told me it was actually worth about $150 to $300. I have another white doll whose head turned and music of "It's a Small World ... " plays. I bought my daughter Teresa a Giggles doll. It was still in the box for a long time because she didn't like dolls, only

Black dolls cover many shelves in the Clark family room. Posters and trinkets add to her collection of over 70 dolls. They are made in various materials such as cloth, plastic and wood. Some of the wood dolls my husband cut for me and decorated them," she said. "I put lace, black yarn for hair, ribbone and a straw hat on her." Many of her dolls have also been gifts from family or friends. "My daughter gave me one doll," she said. "I didn't like her clothes so I sewed her new ones. My sister gave me the Prissy doll from 'Gone with the Wind.' A friend got me a little doll at a garage sale that crawis." Clark cited her favorite doll and what she felt was her ugliest doll. "I have one to because she's so cuddly to ugliest one I have was made in

Personality was the word that Clark used for what she really looked for in her dolls. "I like the ones that have personality," she said. "it's not what they cost as long as they have personality." Most of her dolls look almost real. Some have fluttering cyclashes and beautiful flowing hair. Clark regularly inspects her dolls' clothing and may sew a new outfit if the old one now seems inappropriate. Her dolls traveled a bit in their time. "I have a doll from Branson, Mo.," she said. "The name on her dress is Contrary Mary. I have a doll from Maggie Valley, N.C. Her dress has Ninkie sewn on it. One doll is from California and says Aunt Bee on it." One of the more unique dolls in her collection actually has four faces. The head is somewhat square and if the bonnet is worn so it covers the other three faces. A face is in the front, one on each side and one in the back. "This is my doll with four faces," she said. 'One face has tears, one is happy, one is upeet, and one is sad." A black Barbie doll also sat comfortably on her shelf close to a small black water baby doll. Yes, it is filled with water.

Clerk does recommend doll magazines such as Dolle, Doll and Collector, Doll Crafter, and Doll Maker. She admitted, "The crafts I do and the doll collection keeps me busy and I do it for the relevation.

stitue is much of a historical encyclopedia himself having story after story of several of the most exciting periods of time in the history of Longwood. During the late 1800s, from 1880 to 1885, Longwood was one of the largest cities around with a population of close to 1,000 people and there were hotels and a sawmill, the citrus industry and, of course, the railroads During the boom of the '20s, Biotline remembers his father telling him that everyone believed he would be a millionaire and John remembers that people were always giving him pennies. After the crash, there were no more pennies and all the land ended up in the same hands as the original owners. On the other side of the railroad tracks, called "Old Town." the land was staked out for little subdivisions as far as one could see, and no one came and the weeds grew and there were no subdivisions for a long time. He talks of the early freezes after the city had just recuperated from the crash, and of what the freeze didn't kill in 1963, the next freeze killed in 1984. In between the two extremes is the history of the county, the cities, the characters and Bistline's family scattered throughout.

See the museums and the historical houses and maybe you'll be lucky enough to meet Bistline who has the key to the city of Longwood.

Talented student

A special academic program sponsored by Duke University, the Talent Identification Program (TIP) for academically tal-ented students in grades 7 through 11 selected Wendy Messenger of Longwood to participate for the past two years. The students are identified as seventh graders through academic testing using the SAT or the ACT achieving scores compara-ble to those who are seniors in high school and college bound. Once the students have been identified, they are invited to Duke for a three-week summer program of study. They are given a list of classes to choose from and asked to give their first five choices. During the summer of '93 prior to Wendy's sophomore year at Lake Brantley, she aubmitted her paper work selecting "international Relations" as her first choice. The chance of ever getting your first choice is extremely slim, especially "International Relations" which is the class most often selected by the students, but Wendy managed to do it two years in a row. The international Relations class is a study of froeign policy from post World War II until the present. The class is intense - meeting for six hours per day, plus a mandatory one-hour study hall each day for five days, and a four-hour class on Saturdays. This particular class included a two-day trip to Washington, D.C. for the purpose of touring embassics and the State Department. Re-search papers and debates filled the unscheduled time.

This past summer Wendy chose a class called "Words That Matter" as her first choice, a speech class. According to Wendy, this was a great class because there were 16 students and they became such a close knit group studying historical speeches in the morning and giving types of speeches in the afternoons; for Wendy, there were great debates and she enjoys public speaking and made wonderful friends.

Wendy is a National Honor Society member, a member of Beta Club, a three-year member of Latin Club in which she was the president last year, Drama, Club, swim team and water polo participant. Wendy is also a representative of student government on Student Council and ernment on Student Council and a member of the United Nations which is a competitive academic team that meets and discusses. foreign relations and writes resolutions. Jail and Bail is a big success thanks to efforts of volunteer

By SUSAM WINNER Herald Correspondent

SANFORD - A call to the American Cancer Society about special volunteers in their pro-gram received a resounding "Don Moore is great!"

Moore and his wife, Barbara, have lived in Sanford for 14 years. They both are on the advisory director's board with the American Cancer Society and as Moore put it, "although I lived in Sanford I didn't see much of it because of my job. I would get up before light and return after dark. That was always a frustration to me. This work was and of a way to give work was sort of a way to give back to the community and since my wife was already in-volved it seemed like a natural thing to do. I sort of fell into it."

"I was in the Navy for 30 years or so. We left to be stationed elsewhere but Sanford was the only place that felt like home. We had our children here," Moore said. The Moores have three children: Leslie, Donna and William and three grandthree children; Leelie, Donna and William and three grand-children. Now that Sanford has their allegiance Barbara is active in the Sanford Woman's Club and the Republican Women's Club as well as the Cancer Society as a volunteer and driver. Don participates in the Cancer Society and SARNOA (Sanford Area Retired Navy Officers Association). Don has been retired since last May from Walt retired since last May from Walt Disney World.

His job as a volunteer with the Cancer Society is titled Income Development Chairman. One of his recent endeavors to generate more cash flow for the organiza-tion was their "Jail and Bail."

The Jail and Bail is an annual function. It usually takes place in May. In our organization we are called a unit in which Sanford, Lake Mary and Lake Monroe are a part. It covers 45,000 to 50,000 people that we provide services for. The Jail and Ball is a fund raiser for commentation and community. and Bail is a fund raiser for competition and community involvement. We contact people ahead of time that agree to be a jailbird. Each jailbird sets goals. They get people to contribute money for the cause. It is done in cooperation with the Lake Mary Police, Sanford Police and Seminole County Sheriff's Department. We write a fake warrant with charges. We try to have fun with it. For example, if the jailbird is a banker, we charge with it. For example, if the jailbird is a banker, we charge him with insufficient funds and overdrafts. We get volunteers to be a judge, clerks, bailiffs and we leave phone books in the cell for them to make calls to collect the money for pledges. We encourage them to bring their personal roladex and address book for the contacts, too. They begin calling and we give them about an hour. We feed them bread and water and give them a tin can. We even dress them in black and white stripes. When they're done they get a parole. Some people aren't picked up by the police, they just walk is and heip. After the event is over we mail piedge cards to those who signed up and send a return envelope with it so they can mail envelope with it so they can mail the money. Some prisoners br-ing the pledge money with them."

Moore gave some statistics from a recent Jail and Bail. "The last time we did this we had 80 jailbirds and 700 people pledged. It raised $15,000 and best of all it was lots of fun. This was a particularly good year. In the process we actually touched 800 people. It was a good way to get the word out about the Cancer Society."

Moore also spoke about an upcoming walk-a-thon event for the Cancer Society, "Our next activity is called, 'Making Strides.' It will take place on Saturday, Oct. 15. It will be a five-mile walk and we want teams of 10 to get pioigns. We look for a 10-member team to raise about $450. We will start the walk at the Civic Center in Sanford."

The American Canoer Society office is located at the SunBank building in Sanford. Moore encourages anyone interested in becoming involved to contact him at $21.0964 or the office. As Moore concluded, he said, "It's a way of helping people who need help. It's a sort of payback to the community." community."

Elks worship and praise

The Historic St. James AME Church was the site for the worship and praise service on behalf of the 70th anniversary celebration. The grand officers, national, state and local lodges led the line of march to the church service. The 11 a.m. service saw more than 100 members of various lodges and temples join in this Christian fellowship service of prayer, praise and thanksgiving to the Master for having reached 70 years of Christian fellowship.

Brother Ruben Larkin, district deputy of District Two served as worship leader. The morning's music was rendered by the St. James Mass Choir with Sister Sylvia Stalworth at the console. The call to worship was given by Brother James Baskerville. State Assistant Grand Chaplain Benjamin Holiday offered the prayer, scripture by Brother George Myles. Pastor Pitts led the congregation in the Decalogue. The Mass Choir again blessed our souls with the rendition of "O Lord, How Excellent." The spirit was indeed carried higher as Daughter Retha Baker rendered the touching solo, "If-I Can Help Some Body, My Living Will Not Have Been in Vain."

Exalted Ruler Bernard D. Mitchell presented Grand Exalted Ruler Wilson for the message of the morning after the anniversary hymn, "Amazing Grace." Our hearts were blessed as he reminded the members of Elkdom what the Order of Elks is all about and let those who have the wrong idea know that the Elks are a group of Christians who are about helping others. They are grounded in love, peace, joy, togetherness, charity, justice. "We help those in need, we see that we educate the youth of our community and help to make our communities a better place in which to live." said Ruler Wilson. He encouraged both lodge and temple to not forget to love one another. He reminded us that God has been good to us; he has kept Celery City Lodge #542 together for 70 years. The message of the hour will go down in history for the truth shall make you free. After remarks from all state officers and closing remarks by the grand exalted ruler, Anniversary Co-Chairman Roosevelt Cummings gave words of thanks for the cooperation and love shown throughout the three-day celebration.

A special thanks to all committees to Daughter Ruler Carletha Merkerson and all daughters who helped in every way to make this 70th anniversary a great success. A very special thanks to Pastor Nolan T. Pitts and the Historic St. James AME Church. The Elks again assembled at the Elks home for dinner and the fellowship of good-byes until they meet again.

Tajiri going to Big Apple

Tajiri Arts International has planned a trip to take their young performers to witness a live New York Broadway production. This trip has been planned for Oct. 13-16. The young people of Tajiri Arts and Sanford Boys Glee Club will go via airplane to New York.

The group is in need of financial support from the community of concerned persons who would like to make the difference in the lies of some of our most talented young people. Won't you contribute? The cost of each youth is $400 per person. They will view the Broadway play, "Carousel" and visit other historical sites.

For more information and to have your donation picked up, call Carolyn Raines at 323-2548. Patricia Merritt Whatley is director.

Reunion planned

The "Start 74" Reunion Committee proudly presents The First Reunion Extravaganza. The reunion will be held Labor Day weekend Sept. 2-4. An exciting time has been planned for your enjoyment. The agenda is as follows:

 Sept. 2, "Chit-Chat & Chew," old-fashioned fish fry at 7:30 p.m. at the Midway Community Center on Hurston Avenue in Midway.

 Sept. 3, The Kids Picnic, Groveview Park, off Lake Mary Blvd. from 8 a.m.-noon.

 Sept. 3, "Gala Banquet," the banquet will be held at the Sanford Cultural Arts Center, 119 East 5th St. at 8 p.m.

Sept. 4, church service, New Bethel Missionary Baptist, 612
E. 10th St. (Georgetown) at 11

Dinner will be served immediately after church at the Elks Lodge at the corner of Cypress Avenue and Seventh Street.

The cost for the entire weekend is $50 per couple ($25 per person).

For reservations and further information, contact Mary De-Bose at 322-0156.

Surgeon can cut but can't pierce

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law had to have a gallbladder operation, so she told her doctor that while she was on the operation table and under the anesthetic, she'd like for him to pierce her ears. He said he'd be glad to do

Well, here's the problem: He's a very good surgeon for gallbladder operations, but he isn't too good at piercing ears and he realy loused up her ears. (The "holes" weren't in the same place on both ears, and they also became infected.) He said he was sorry, but he hadn't pierced any ears in 30 years; but after they healed, he would be

I told her she would have to be crasy to let that surgeon pierce her ears again, and she should go to a doctor who does a lot of that kind of work and have it

She said she paid $600 for the gallbladder operation, and she wasn't about to pay another doctor to pierce her ears; besides, she didn't want to hurt her doctor's feeings. I'd like your contains.

DEAR SIS: Having spoken your mind, say no more. It's hard to believe that a surgeon who is "very good" at gallbladder surgery would "louse up" something so elementary as ear-piercing. The placement of the holes was the doctor's fault, but the infection could have been due to her carelessness.

DEAR ABBY: My husband just turned 60. We have been married for 18 years. A year ago he took up with a widow he used to go with 40 years ago. She broke up with him when the doctor told him he would have to have his foot amputated. She said she couldn't bear the thought of marrying a man who couldn't dance. She married someone else and moved out of

Horse world mysteries

An heiress, a decades-old triple murder - and now some answers

By SHARON CONEN Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO - It is portrayed as a conspiracy of the rich and infamous - a network of riders, trainers, owners and veterinarians who concocted a vicious plot to kill horses to collect insurance.

The same people who pampered horses, picking up silver cups and blue ribbons along the exclusive riding circuit here and abroad, now stand accused of playing a role in the cruelest erimes: electrocuting, starving, even allowing animals to be burned alive.

But federal investigators say there was something even worse under the genteel veneer of crisp, velvet riding hats and sleek steeds galloping over

There was murder.

Prosecutors say they exposed the seamy underside in this most unlikely of worlds on their way to something else: cracking the 17-year-old murder mystery of one very wealthy animal

They've arrested and charged one man with arranging the 1977 murder of Helen Vorhees Brach, the lonely widow of the Brach candy fortune who vanished after an appointment at the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota.

Their investigation into Mrs. Brach's disappearance also has led to the arrest of a 61-year-old horseman in another of Chicago's most baffling mysteries: the 1955 murders of two young brothers and their buddy.

Two whodunits 22 years apart. One unlikely connection:

Even more tantalizing is the hint that more crimes still may be solved. "Not only is this unusual, but it's not over yet," says Jerry Singer, a spokesman for the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms office in Chicago.

"The break in the Brach case Was made public in July when federal authorities indicted 23 people proscritors call a "virtual who's who of the nation's etrian industry."

The second arrest in the soon after.

'It's not unusual to investigate one crime and uncover evidence of another," Binger said. "It's interesting the way it all comes

'It's very fortunate because these cases are rather old," he added. "But we never give up and we never forget."

Police in north suburban Glenview never forgot about the mystery of the missing candy

Over the years, there were lurid Hitchcock-like hints about Mrs. Brach's disappearance: her houseman's purchase of a meat grinder, a convict's drawing of sape and his claim that he uried the widow's body in Minnesota under cover of night. an exhumation of a mutilated coruse from a pauper's grave in

One man who came under suspicion early was Richard Bailey, a perpetually tan horse trader from Kentucky with an eighth-grade education and a knack for sweet-talking women. He had wined, dined and become an eager escort of Mrs.

Brach, who had her own modest origina: She met candy company founder Frank Brach when she was a coat-check girl at a Florida country club.

In 1979, two years after her disappearance, a spray-painted message was scrawled on the road near Mrs. Brach's sevenacre estate reading, "Richard Bailey Knows Where Brach's Body is," according to Glenview Police Commander John O'Connell.

O'Connell said that when Bailey was questioned, he said the same words had been allegedly had a regular income painted on a sign at his stables in nearby suburban Morton Grove. O'Connell declined to elaborate on what else Bailey

John Menk, a court-appointed attorney for Mrs. Brach's estate. worth about $30 million when she disappeared, also tried to question Bailey about his relationship with the candy helress. "He took the Fifth Amendment. except for his name and address," the lawyer said.

Last month, after a five-year investigation of the equestrian industry. Bailey was charged with fleecing Mrs. Brach and 12 other women of large sums of Prosecutors claim that since 1989. Bailey placed at least 26 lonely hearts ads - "family oriented, loves dancing. exercising, long walks" — in the affluent North Shore area, conshoddy horse investments.

Bailey, 65, is accused of wooing an alcoholic divorcee, getting her drunk and persuading her to shell out about $90,000 on horses - her virtual life savings - in a 10-day period.

The indictment charges that after Mrs. Brach threatened to report Bailey for talking her into spending hundreds of thousands of dollars on virtually worthless horses, he and a second unidenothers to arrange her murder.

Bailey has pleaded innocent. His attorney, Patrick Tuite, suggests his client is a "very charming man" who was merely involved in relationships that

As for Mrs. Brach, Tuite said his client "emphatically denies" any involvement.

But others say the charges confirmed their worst suspicions about a woman who loved animals but was painfully naive.

"It was so blatant the way he flaunted Heien." Donna Ewing. founder and president of the National Hooved Animal Humane Society, said of Balley. "Anybody in the know who saw a neophyte get involved with someone of that caliber said. 'Oh, my God. There's one born every minute. Here's one who's going to be taken advantage of."

'She was very lonely, a shy, quiet person," Ewing added.
"She probably thought this would fill her loneliness and her hours. ... Little did she know the undercurrent of it was nothing but greed. The Brach probe, in turn, led authorities to a ring of riders. trainers and others in the equestrian industry who now are charged in an insurance fraud scheme.

Of 23 people charged, 19 were accused of crimes relating to the killing of horses to collect insurance; the remaining four, including Bailey, are charged with enticing people into bogus or inflated horse deals.

Ten of those charged have pleaded guilty, including one former trainer who recounted in court last week how he killed two horses with a sledgehammer and crowbar, electrocuted a third and killed three more by tossing a lit cigarette in a trailer, igniting hay that had been soaked with accelerant. A second trainer has admitted he paid a man $5,000 to electrocute his horse so he could collect $75,000 in insurance.

Another of the accused, nicknamed "The Sandman," as a horse hitman - authorities say they witnessed him breaking a show horse's leg with a crowbar.

Six people have pleaded innocent, including George Lindemann Jr., a one-time member of the U.S. Equestrian Team and son of the cellular phone tycoon George Lindemann, whose wealth Forbes magazine estimated at $575 million. He was accused of paying $25,000 to electrocute his horse when it didn't perform up to expectations.

None of these charges surprises Bill Graham, a folksy, Columbo-like insurance investigator from South Carolina who probes suspicious horse deaths nationwide.

"Just because they've got money doesn't mean they're gentlemen or gentlewomen," Graham said. 'It's an incestuous, ning widows or divorcees into money-grubbing industry. ...

They don't look at horses as far as their intrinsic value. There's no altruism. If they don't perform, they're going to the glue factory. That's it."

And at the periphery of this world was the vulnerable widow. Helen Brach.

Though an arrest has been made in her case, the puzzle isn't entirely solved.

By the time an arrest was made in the Brach case, a brutal tifled person conspired with millionaire horseman named others to arrange her murder. Silas Jayne had been dead for in the 1930s, he teamed up with his brothers — they were known as the 'Jayne gang' — to ship horses from the West to the northern Illinois area, where some were sold, others were slaughtered.

Blies Jayne's world wi with violence, beginning with a rape conviction as a teen. His most notorious crime was his 1973 conviction for plotting to murder a horse-breeding rival his brother, George.

Federal authorities say Richard Bailey, the man accused in the Brach case, was a Jayne associate: published reports also claim that a Jayne nephew introduced Bailey to Mrs. Brach and other women.

Silas Jayne's name also has been connected to another sordid crime.

The year was 1955. It was in the fall of that year that the naked bodies of Robert Peterson, 14, John Schuessler, 13, and his 11-year-old brother Anton were found in a forest preserve ditch. They had been strangled. The investigation was exhaustive: Police said 43,740 people were questioned, and 3,270 suspects interrogated. A $100,000 award was offered.

One of those questioned was Silas Jayne, who had stables nearby. Another was Kenneth Hansen, then a 22-year-old horseman who worked for him and later became a stable owner. Nearly 40 years passed.

ly, Hansen, a balding, grandfa-ther who reportedly had long been a suspect, was charged this month with the three murders.

Once again, accusations of another awful crime in the horse world.

But in this case, there were no squabble over money, no claims of deception, no country club atmosphere: this, authorities say, was just a tragic example of three boys in the wrong place at the wrong time.

Authorities claim Hansen picked up the boys while they were hitchhiking and took them to Silas Jayne's stables, where he sexually abused at least one of them, then strangled all three after one threatened to report

Hansen denies the charges. His son, Mark, born after the murders occurred, recently told reporters: "Whoever would have done a crime like this would have to have been a monster, and that's not my father." Seven months after the murders, Silas Jayne's stables were destroyed in a fire that investigators suspect may have been set to destroy remaining clues. When the boys' bodies were exhumed shortly after, police reportedly found evidence of hay in their lungs. Singer, the ATF spokesman. said the information leading to Hansen's arrest was developed in 1991 during the Brach probe. At a recent news conference, Cook County State's Attorney Jack O'Malley would say only: 'After 40 years, you don't solve a case by physical evidence." Prosecutors claim Hansen admitted to the killings as recently as 1980, and had a habit of picking up young hitchhikers and inviting them to the stables to see horses. Two other people also were involved, though that doesn't necessarily mean they participated in the murders.

authorities say.

O'Malley said there are no allegations now that Silas Jayne was involved in the deaths. But Hansen had another link to the notorious horseman. In 1971, Hansen was charged with conspiracy to commit murder in the death of George Jayne, but the case was dismissed, according to Arthur O'Donnell, Hansen's attorney. Hansen also was accused this month of arson in a 1970 fire that killed 36 horses at a competitor's stable. Hansen was an atrocious horseman, claims Ewing, the animal activist who dispatched investigators from her agency to check out his stables after receiving complaints. "His animals were ridden to death and dumped in the forest," she said, contending horses would be returned to him in weakened condition after a veterinarian took plaama from them so it could be sold.

"They would stumble, fall and die. ... They would be ridden with huge open sores," she said. "He didn't care at all."

Ewing is hopeful that the investigation will result in some housecleaning in the horse in-

"The handful of sleazes is too many," she said. "Why should the good people stand for it? Too often, the good people don't want to become involved. They don't want to make waves. When that happens, the evil can flourish. That's exactly what happened here."
