

THEORY FOUNDED BY TECHNOCRATS HANDED SETBACK

'Continental Congress' Falls To Form New Body Due To 'Split'

CHICAGO—Hopes of technocracy to rebuild society as a gigantic machine, where being well fed would count for more than liberty or religion, received a chill setback here recently.

The "Continental Congress" of the Technocrats floundered. It failed to produce the new national association for which it was called. It produced instead a split between engineers and radicals. Finally it came to an unexpected halt when the closing banquet was called off.

Not enough seats had been sold to warrant holding the banquet, the startled technocrats were informed. The curtain fell as the few enthusiasts for a new era who had bought tickets hurried to get their money back.

What brought the split was the issue of tolerance in revolutionary methods, according to a spokesman for the All-America Technological Society.

He charged Howard Scott, of New York, the leader of technocracy in its comelike brilliance and ecstacy, with advocating force. Mr. Scott's own description of the process by which a new industrial society would come in appeared to observers to fit in closely with revolutionary techniques, as described almost simultaneously recently at the University of Chicago.

A new radical movement in developing out of technocracy, as it is viewed by some of the participants in the "congress" here. His plans for achieving power were regarded as quite similar to those that have been standard ever since the Bolsheviks used them with success in Russia in 1917.

Tells How She Lost 15 Lbs. of Fat

Rheumatism Gone Too

Here is a woman who was rapidly putting on weight and who was troubled with rheumatism too. Read her letter:

"I started taking Kruschen Salts because of the good it had done for a friend of mine who had been crippled with rheumatism. At the end of the second bottle I was weighed and found I am now only 148 pounds (original weight 163 lbs.), at which I am pleased. But I have also felt my rheumatism much less, which has been so troublesome in my knees. I must say I think Kruschen a splendid weight reducer." (Miss) E. L. P.

Overweight and rheumatic poisoning often go together. The six salts in Kruschen assist the internal organs to perform their functions properly—little by little that ugly fat goes; slowly, yes—but surely. You feel wonderfully healthy, youthful and energetic—more so than ever before in your life!

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at Touchton's Sanford Drug Co.—a far lasts four weeks and costs not more than 85c.—Adv.

SILVER AS MONEY IN CUBA CREATES BAD SITUATION

New Metal Of Lesser Value Is Supplanting Gold As Medium

By GEORGE E. ANDERSON
HAVANA, July 12.—The introduction of $6,000,000 in new silver coinage into the currency system of Cuba has brought about a situation in Cuban business affairs of rather more than passing significance in view of present efforts to increase the use of silver for monetary purposes among nations with currencies based more or less completely upon gold. The general effect of the new coinage has been to establish a double system of currency in the country under which, as might have been anticipated, the currency of lesser value has supplanted the superior medium so far as its volume has permitted.

The result is that the retail business of the republic is now based upon this silver currency instead of the American currency, which heretofore has constituted the bulk of the money circulating two walks and an error. In the second inning H. B. Odham pulled a spectacular double play. Waita singled. Piercy then hit a high fly over left short. Odham, going back, made a spectacular catch of the ball and then threw to first to catch Waita. Another double play, as described, but not quite as thrilling, was made in the seventh from Evans to J. Young.

Tonight a game is scheduled to be played with the Ocean All Stars.

The score:

DeMolay	9	12	12	21
Firestone	5	9	9	13
Piercy	1	1	1	3
J. Young	1	1	1	3
Odham	1	1	1	3
Waita	1	1	1	3
Evans	1	1	1	3

World's Fair Beauty Spot

One of the most beautiful spots in the country. Cuban banks are now compelled to carry separate accounts, in silver and in American currency, there is constant fluctuation between the two media, which makes every large business transaction more or less of a speculation; import and export prices are directly affected and the Cuban monetary system, which in theory is based on federal reserve notes, is now through the Federal Reserve Bank at Atlanta, is rapidly degenerating into a chaotic situation.

There is considerable uncertainty as to just how much money there is in circulation in Cuba. Accumulative records seem to indicate a total of about $120,000,000, but the official treasury statements indicate a total of about $93,000,000 on Mar. 31 last, basing this estimate on the amount of money in the Treasury, the banks and an estimated per capita in the hands of the public. Considerable sums may be hoarded. Since the end of March American currency has been leaving the country at an average rate of about $1,500,000 a month, so that on the basis of the official estimate and with the $6,000,000 increase there should be about $85,000,000 as the new total. Up to last year the circulation included silver estimated at $3,400,000, although a total of $12,000,000 had been authorized. Last year and a pressure from inflationists and many for the purpose of realizing a profit on a seigniorage, silver was coined up to the $12,000,000 limit. With the increase of $6,000,000 this year the silver in circulation amounts, or soon will amount, to $18,000,000 or around 21 percent of the entire circulation.

U. S. Delegate Gives Clear Exposition Of Difficulties In Face Of Americans

(Continued from Page One) called on controversial subjects to open a way for peaceful expiration of the world congress within two or three weeks.

European circles asserted this killed the gold clauses of the Pittman resolution already accepted and brought the conference near its final grasp.

The senator's resolution among other things called for an eventual return to the gold standard, reduction of the gold cover to 25 percent and optional use of silver for one-fifth of this cover.

American headquarters were busy discussing plans for an early return home. Among the delegates, Senator James Coussens, of Michigan, had a reservation to sail July 20 and a substantial part of the secretariat was expected to leave at same time.

The gold bloc, after having been defeated in an effort to advance the conference last week, seemed quite happy with the turn of events, for they have been anxious to avoid the stigma of ending the parleys through insubmitting continuance was useless.

Georges Bonnet, French finance minister who has headed gold bloc, and Charles L. Platt, French financial expert, left Paris last night, leaving behind only a small French representation. Several of the Swiss Belgian and Dutch delegates already have gone.

The American delegation itself was thrown into confusion by the latest instructions from Washington, although Pittman insisted this did not kill the gold clauses of his resolution and that silver discussions would continue.

The Americans had regarded the Central bank resolution as highly academic and most confidently expected that it would be accepted, although James P. Warburg, financial expert, from the first had insisted on the reservation that Federal Reserve Board approval was necessary. American circles asserted that when the remnants of the agenda were agreed upon Tuesday to keep the conference alive, the American reservation to the Central banking resolution was distinctly recalled.

Official reaction in American headquarters to this latest veto from Washington was that it was unimportant. Cordell Hull, chief of the American group, said, "The heavens will not fall."

Il Duce's Edict

Mussolini's order to members of the Fascist hierarchy instructing them not to put on airs or silk hats, to shun de luxe cars, to travel afoot or by motorcycle, and to avoid swanky restaurants is not bad advice for most everyone to follow. In fact, if more people had pursued this policy during the boom time preceding the collapse there would not have been all the distress of the last few years.

Of course, Il Duce's concern is not so much over each individual's economic status, as it is over increasing the popularity of the Fascist order. He realizes that popularity and ostentation in these days of restricted pocket-books do not mix well. He understands the resentment which inevitably exists in the hearts of poverty-stricken people when a display of wealth is observed. He knows that if he is to keep his party in control its members must keep the "common touch", so to speak.

It cannot be argued too strongly the need for personal frugality, but in the matter of objecting to the apparent extravagance of those who have wealth there is another story. Nothing could hardly benefit this country more, and we presume the same is true of Italy, if everyone, who could afford it, would spend their money freely.

The purchase of high hats, of expensive automobiles, yachts, attendance at de luxe restaurants would put money into circulation which would have a very beneficial effect upon the poor man. The only caution which is necessary is that one must be sure that he can afford what he buys.

One may look at a palatial home and see in it a selfish investment of money which might have been used for a "useful purpose". But what more useful purpose can one find than that the money should have gone into the hands of the architect, the builder, the masons, the carpenters, the interior decorators, the plumbers, and the men who supplied the material, and a host of others connected with the construction?

We should never resent it when people spend money which they really own. If they didn't spend it, then we should be angry, for we would have no chance of getting any of it.

Women As Buyers

Because they are the best buyers women can always be depended upon to read the advertisements in the newspapers. They know that the articles which are proclaimed in public print must be good because they invite public scrutiny. Merchants should realize the important role which women play as buyers, a fact which the Tampa Tribune calls to its readers' attention in the following manner:

"A man selects a blue tie for the same reason that he orders a chocolate soda. It is the first thing that comes into his mind. He usually walks away with the second hat the salesman shows him, and he can easily be argued into a pair of shoes that don't fit, and that he doesn't really want.

"But does a woman ever act like that? Well, just ask the girl at the soda fountain, or the young man in the gent's furnishings store about their women customers.

"Women pick out things for their men folk with taste and discrimination; that is, everything except cigars. No woman has any license to buy cigars for any man, unless he has hitherto specified the brand. But in the clothing line they know what they are doing.

"It would surprise you to know how many women in Tampa make the purchases for their husbands and grown sons. It bespeaks a pride that all concerned justly may be thankful for, and there is nothing in it to make the man ashamed. He will be better dressed for it.

"True, once in a while one meets some old orecodile who has always been slouchy, and when he first appears in a neat and natty outfit that his wife has picked out we are surprised, and we laugh. But would his own selection have been better?

"Remember the derby hat! What an outrage upon intelligence it was. Women have more sense than men. They won't allow a general return of the 'iron hat'."

Sprague Returns Declaring Parley Should Adjourn

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—Dr. Oliver M. W. Sprague, returning from London yesterday with Raymond Moley, assistant secretary of state, said he believed the world economic conference should adjourn for at least three months while internal conditions in various countries improved.

"I think that the practical thing is a recess of the conference with a certain amount of work going forward by some of the sub-committees and experts, exploring particular questions," said Dr. Sprague, economic adviser to the American delegation.

Professor Moley, who went to London after a dramatic meeting of Cape Cod with President Roosevelt issued a statement saying he would report to the President and the state department.

Dr. Sprague expressed the belief that "something might emerge" after a recess of the conference.

The entire internal program, as the President has said, takes precedence over arrangements with other countries," he added. "Within three months it will be possible to tell better than it is now how the internal program is developing."

Asked why an American delegation was sent to London if the

REPEAL VOTE IN NEW YORK MAY BE GIVEN TEST

Legality Of Enactment Being Studied From Three Angles

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 14.—(AP)—Moves that may result in court action to dispute the legality of the New York state vote for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment are taking shape here.

From three angles at least the question of the official enactment's vulnerability is being studied. News of the possible court fight came from Law Preservation Party sources.

The party has not initiated any definite move, and it is understood its position at present is largely to serve as a clearing house for legal points that are being raised. Mrs. E. S. Harris, party state chairman, was out of the city, so no official statement of how far the party will go in pressing any of the disputed issue could be obtained.

Cannon W. Sheafe Chase, of Brooklyn, however, conferred with Law Preservation Party leaders here recently and informed them he would attack the legality of the convention held if the Secretary of State had not certified the result to Washington. Henry A. J. Castor, of Albany, party secretary, was instructed to get in touch with Cannon Chase.

The latter said he would submit his case to the supreme court with the idea of eventually carrying it to the United States Supreme Court, if need be. The grounds on which he would act are that the recent ratification convocation was not a convention as prescribed in the state constitution, and further, that it was not a convention, since a convention provides for representation of each assembly district and 15 delegates at large.

Party leaders also will study the point raised by Prof. Victor Levine of the College of Law, Syracuse University, that the grammatical construction of the repeal adopted was faulty.

Still another point of attack that the party has had pressed on it is that the election May 23 itself was in violation of the law. The issue here is whether the fact that the Democratic and Republican Parties, with their wet commitments, had a right to conduct the elections, since this meant that only one side of the issue was in control of the election machinery. All inspectors were named by the wet major parties. Drys are arguing that since the balloting was between wet and dry only, that election government held that view, Dr. Sprague said.

"Consider all that has happened since Mar. 4. It is more than you would humanly expect that all the complicated measures that have been passed and the policies that have been adopted could have been foreseen."

It is the better part of valor, he said, to go forward in the present situation "as if we were in a sailboat in a fog."

"Assuming that in three months there is some fairly clear evidence that the present internal improvement will hold, we will then be in a position to look a little further than we are now."

First Distribution Of Public Building Funds Announced

(Continued From Page One) ber of additional projects are yet pending before the public works board, Ickes said, adding only the non-controversial had been acted upon.

The size of the flood control and river and harbor program approved yesterday was withheld pending the endorsement of President Roosevelt, but allotments already made for other kinds of federal and local projects amounted to about $750,000,000.

Secretary Ickes, chairman of the board and public works administration, declined to give any idea of the amount involved, saying he did not want to announce any figures and then have to back track on them if the President should change the list. Projects totaling about a half billion dollars were recommended by the war department but were understood to have been cut drastically.

They are probably due for another reduction by the President, Ickes said yesterday. He had trimmed the federal allocation of $65,000,000 to be made public today.

Ickes said approval of the regional division cleared the way to appointment by President Roosevelt early next week of the regional administrators and state advisory boards which will do most of the disbursing of about a billion dollars through the various units.

A part of the program has been held up and the administration has been working out details with the various divisions.

Ickes predicted yesterday that machinery which barred drys was illegal on constitutional grounds.

the navy would not get the $74,000,000 it had asked for. "I don't think the naval secretary will get it," said Ickes referring to Secretary Swanson's request for additional sums. "I am in favor of going forward vigorously," said Ickes, "but this does not mean I believe that every man who comes forward with a request for a half billion dollars should get it."

Miss Helen Wilson won high score prize, two bridge dolls, at the bridge party given Wednesday afternoon by Miss Jean Martin Laney at her home on South Sanford Avenue in honor of the members of the "77" Bridge Club. At the conclusion of the bridge games refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Camilla Deas.

Those present were: the Misses Frances Reitz, Betty Hiltmister, Lucille Bolt, Lillian Branan and guest, Mrs. Lee McClelland, of Macon, Ga.; Helen Wilson, Camilla Deas, and Jean Martin Laney.

Mrs. Ava Wright Davis left this morning for Griffin, Ga. to spend a short time.

Friends of Miss Betty Antosh will regret to learn that she is ill at the nurses' cottage next door to the hospital.

Fishing Schooner Damaged By Slap Of Enraged Whale

POPE'S HARBOR, N. S., July 11.—Captain Howard Daye and the crew of the fishing schooner Evelyn M. Young were safe in port today after a thrilling encounter with an enraged whale off the Nova Scotia coast recently.

The little vessel was holed to eleven miles off Pope's Harbor when a fifty-foot whale broke the surface close by and stopped a few hundred feet from the ship. The crew continued fishing, while the whale lay motionless on the surface.

Late at night they heard the huge mammal moving. The sound was followed closely by a violent jerking of the anchor cable as the whale fouled it. The schooner's bow dipped alarmingly and then rose again with a rush as the cable parted.

As it snarled, the whale's tail slapped against the bow with a crash and the vessel slid under the blow. Dishes slid from the tables and stove as the vessel careened.

The flow had sprung the schooner's seams and water began to enter the hold. Captain Daye turned for Pope's Harbor and made port before morning. The vessel was in a sinking condition and had to be grounded.

Odds Are Against Hurricane Winds Striking Florida

CORAL GABLES, Fla., July 11.—Odds against winds of hurricane force upsetting the even tenor of life in this district in any given year are roughly 20 to 1.

It has been established by Richard W. Gray, meteorologist in charge of the U. S. weather bureau at Miami, who cites numerous other authorities in support of this estimate.

Chances of other cities in the Florida hurricane belt experiencing storm wind velocities of more than 75 miles an hour, Mr. Gray approximates, as follows: Key West and Lompoca, 1 in 10; Fort Myers and West Palm Beach, 1 in 20; Tampa, 1 in 30; and Jacksonville, 1 in 50.

The frequency of dangerous tropical disturbances in Florida by months is determined by government weather records for a 45-year period ending with 1930. This table tells the story:

Month	Of Known Frequency	Doubtful as to Frequency
June	2	0
July	4	0
Aug.	7	0
Sept.	13	0

Soviet Plane Will Be Permitted To Land Jim Mattern

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(AP)—With a New York brewery serving as an intermediary between Washington and Moscow, American officials yesterday granted permission for the landing of a Soviet airplane at Nome, Alaska to bring James Mattern, unsuccessful world flier, back from the Siberian wilderness.

The brewery had acted as the sponsor of a rescue expedition whose aviators had reached Nome when Mattern's whereabouts in Siberia were learned. Through Boris E. Skvirsky, director of the Soviet information bureau here it communicated with authorities in Moscow to obtain consent for the plane to carry Mattern to Alaska.

The state department turned the question over to the department of the interior, the jurisdiction of which includes Alaska, and the latter sought the permission of the governor of the territory.

The state department was emphatic in asserting that no communication had taken place directly between the Washington government and Moscow. Hospital attendants found that

Dr. Engberg had been given a yperdermic. He was suffering from effects of ether also.

Thomas Dahill, chief of police, said he believed the assailants, aiming in their plans, shot Dr. Engberg in an attempt to kill him. The chief believes the men sought to link Dr. Engberg with the attack by placing Dr. Engberg's purse in Dr. Engberg's pocket. The chief theorized that Dr. Engberg and the gun were placed in Dr. Engberg's car and the machine placed near the railroad tracks to indicate an attempted suicide.

Investigators studied Dr. Engberg's list of patients in an effort to discover a clue.

Dr. Engberg told police he knew of no enemies and could not explain the attack.

CRUCIAL VOTES WILL BE HELD ON DRY LAW REPEAL

Alabama, Tennessee, Arkansas, Oregon To Decide This Month

NEW YORK.—In the short space of four days—July 18 to 21—four of the most crucial votes on prohibition repeal will be held in Alabama, Arkansas, Tennessee and Oregon. Publicly each side appears confident, although confidentially each admits that the contests may be close and may indicate whether repeal will come this year.

Repealists have won 16 states and need 20 more for the necessary three-fourths of the states required to amend the Constitution. Anti-prohibition forces hope that at least 27 more states will vote this year, which would give 43 an opportunity to pass on the question in 1933.

Repeal victories in Alabama and Arkansas, both voting on July 18, would stimulate other states which have not set voting dates to do so, repealists say, because these states have been traditionally in favor of prohibition. Either way, the vote will help indicate the trend in the South.

Tennessee votes on July 20 and Oregon on July 21, and the fight is bitter in both states.

"Asking no quarter and giving none," Alabama prohibitionists are proclaimed this state shall be the first on record against repeal. Repealists, pressing their cause with equal vigor, have made the doctrine of states' rights an issue. Alabama declined to legalize beer.

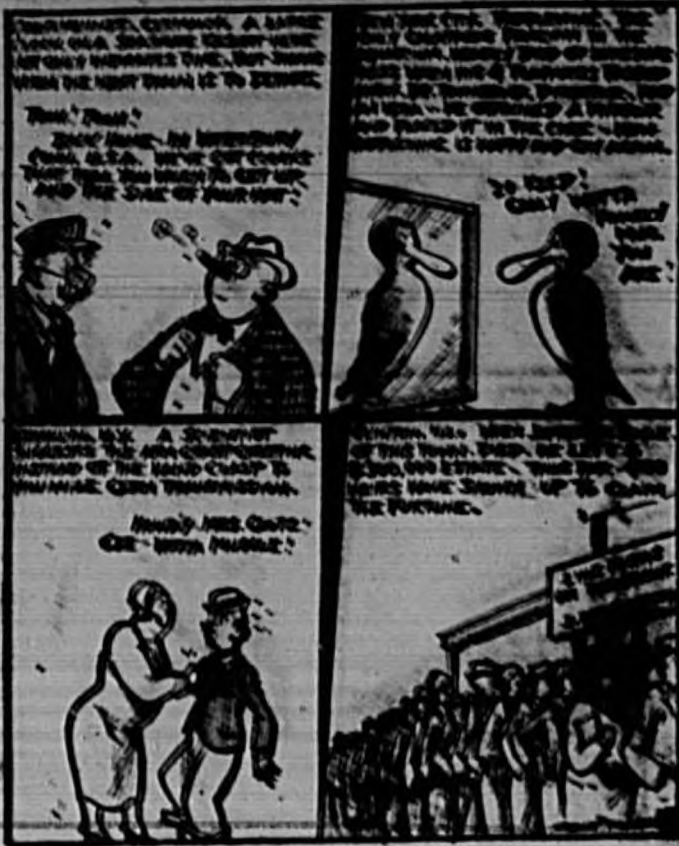

Dr. L. E. Baston, chairman of the executive committee of the Association Against Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, says: "We can win Alabama in a knock-down and drag-out fight. It will be no kid-glove affair. We ask no quarter and will give none."

Colonel Alfred Tustall, chief of the repealists, says: "By voting for repeal Alabama will set to all states that there will be no interference in the future with their own decisions regarding internal problems. A vote against repeal is a vote against President Roosevelt and the Democratic national platform."

In Arkansas the campaign has been waged quietly, but insistent speaking tours are planned. Prohibition leaders have hinted they may attempt to test the legality of the machinery set up for voting on the question. Repealists are working under the leadership of the Roosevelt National Repeal Club. The state failed to legalize beer.

There is little to indicate how Tennessee will vote, except that it legalized 32 beer, Dr. James E.

Edsel Ford Plays Announcement Of Lead In Reopening Cotton Bank Arrangement

DETROIT, July 14.—(AP)—With Edsel Ford in the foreground as arbitrator, and a concession from the federal government a matter of public record 800,000 depositors in Detroit's two closed national banks today saw hopes of re-organization, and eventually return of their nearly $300,000,000 in tied-up deposits.

Ford yesterday obtained a sudden adjournment of the one-man grand jury that for nearly five weeks has been investigating causes of the closing of the two banks most of the banker-witnesses placing the blame in the lap of the federal government. Simultaneously there came word from Washington that plans are under way for organizing the new national bank here with a capital of $5,000,000, most of that amount already subscribed.

Negotiations are in progress in Washington and we do not desire that anything be done locally which would endanger them," said Ford, president of the Ford-Motors Co., an son of Henry Ford in explaining his request for the jury adjournment. "We thought it would be better to hold things as they are for the time being."

There were strong unofficial reports in banking circles that two plans are under way. One would involve the taking over of the liquidation of the Guardian National Bank of Commerce, in

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace expects to make a formal announcement today that the cotton acreage reduction plan will be put into effect and had made plans for putting a tax on cotton manufacturers into effect about Aug. 1 to finance the reduction program.

He said returns from the 16 states in which a campaign has been carried on during the past 20 days to obtain agreements from growers to plow up portions of their growing crops would be on hand today to make the final decision possible after that time.

Farm administrators will confer with representatives of the cotton industry to work out the floor stocks held by manufacturers and wholesalers. Floor stocks are the cotton goods on their floors at the time the tax is applied.

It is necessary that the tax be verted into rates which will apply to finished goods and those in some stages of processing. Retailers will not be required to pay a tax on stocks they have on hand until 30 days after the tax goes into effect. If they have not disposed of the stock in that time, the tax will be assessed.

George N. Peek, chief farm administrator, said he was confident the final returns from states on the acreage campaign would show it to have been a success.

The clause of the transportation law which allows the government to recapture these earnings was repealed at the extra session of Congress. It originally had been enacted on the theory that the money collected from the prosperous roads should be used as loans to aid the weaker rail lines.
