DESSERT DAYS

I see again that desert shack
And hear the wind now sigh
now rage.
There I am standing in the door,
While you are coming through the sage.

Oh, those were days of golden light.
When hopes were always bright and streets
Life beckoned with a juring hand.
Hearts quickened to the music
song.

My eyes were on a mountain cloud
And thus I wandered far from you.
You lingered there among the hills.
I own that my regrets were few.

Then I would turn to that year's page.
To stand again beside the door
And watch you coming through the sage!

"There was no gigantic plan of robbery," says Dr. Townsend in speaking of his pension plan.

"Tax money goes round and round," says the Jacksonville
Herald, explaining that the State
Beverage Department pays out $800 per month in regular retirement to three attorneys who do nothing but play politics.

The Jacksonville Journal threatens to bolt the Democratic party
if the cross state canal is not continued. And we suppose Senator Vandenberg should be the Republican nominee, the Journal
would support him.

Judge Feltway, one of the candidates for governor and, by the records, says that the State of Florida should take the lead in an advertising campaign to attract thousands of new residents to Florida. Thousands of new residents would help this state more than anything else and they could be had for the asking.

Senator Minton of Indiana, in referring to an editorial in a Herald newspaper, says, "We (central) are a better breed of swine than Hearst and the qualitative gon-pusher, the writer of this editorial." Politics can truly be said to be curdling when the relative merits of swine are compared in the Senate.

Although we do not know any of the details of the accident or how it happened, we read the report which probably everyone else saw that no less than ten persons were killed when a Georgia train, the Southland, struck into a bus near Byron, Georgia. The bus driver, evidently, did not stop when he saw the train or else he did not see the train. And it is his business to do both.

The subversive campaign seems to be degenerating into a series of anti-Soviet bills. In spite of all the Governor can do to prevent it, and why the United States should have any business to do with the Soviet Union is beyond us. And yet it seems that practically every member of the new Congress is bent on passing anti-Soviet legislation. The Chamber of Commerce is leading Mr.
and Mrs. R. A. Torburn.

THE REPUBLICAN DILEMMA

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, in a statement issued in New York the other day following his return from a vacation spent in thirteen different states, hit upon the principal problem, in fact, the dilemma, now confronting the Republican party. If the Republicans expect to have any chance at all in the November election, Dr. Butler, himself a Republican, said, they will have to produce a candidate "of much higher intellectual and statesmanlike attainments than any mentioned to date."

Throughout his tour of the West and Middle West, Dr. Butler heard little of Republican candidates except Senator Borah and Governor Landis of Kansas. Of both of these, he said he heard much criticism. The most favorable characteristics of Governor Landis is that he is little known, but, unfortunately for him, it is known that his main supporter is William Randolph Hearst and that is generally considered more of a liability than an asset. Senator Borah is similarly handicapped by Dr. Townsend's blessing.

There are other Republican leaders who hope that the lightning will strike them. Some of them, like Col. Knox, may be good men, but the rank and file of the Republican party, as well as the rest of the country, do not know it. The people are hardly going to elect a man to the presidency whom they never heard of until a few months before the election. There is some talk, Dr. Butler says, of drafting former Gov. Lowden of Illinois, who is said to be particularly popular in the farm belt. But he is already much too old for the presidency.

Of course, the logical man for the Republicans to nominate is former President Hoover, as he more nearly personifies the opposition to President Roosevelt's policies than any other man. Hoover is said to be particularly popular among the people of the country, realize only too well that Mr. Hoover would not have any chance of being elected. The memories of the depression are too fresh in the minds of everyone and the popular superstition that Mr. Hoover is responsible for it is too prevalent to afford him any chance of election whatever.

But unless the Republicans can find a man to afford not only an intimate grasp of our national and international problems, but who also has an appealing personality which will attract a large following, there will scarcely be any use of holding a convention. It will take a good man, and a constructive platform, as well as adverse criticism of the New Deal, to defeat the Democrats in the coming election.

Future Veterans

There is a growing tendency on the part of student organizations to take the sting out of the prospects of war by putting a lot of kidding into it. This may be a wholesome sign. People do not fight when they are in a good humor. So the "Veterans of Future Wars," as well as the "Gold Star Mothers of the Future Wars," may be serving a very worthy purpose in making some of this business of shooting each other up appear ridiculous.

This excellent organization, the Veterans of Future Wars, the inspiration of Princeton students, is rapidly catching throughout the academic world. It is reported that the New York Herald Tribune, "Already chapters are being formed in nineteen different colleges and universities. No doubt soon it will become the greatest of all campus fraternities and spread from town to town for its initial object is the payment now a $1,000 bonus to the men who will engage in the next war.

The arguments for such a bonus seem to us unanswerable. In the first place, it would not be that much money in circulation, thus at least equaling the stimulus to trade claimed for the prepayment of the bonus to World War veterans. Secondly, it would educate our young men in the spending of money against the day when, as pensioners under the Townsend Plan, they must get rid of it on a regular basis. Thirdly, it would permit them the enjoyment of the government's cash while they were still young, before, for example, they were killed in action or badly wounded, or in the vast majority of cases, suffered the tedium of a training camp.

"The program, we are glad to see, makes provision also for the women folk of these prospective heroes. A subsidiary organization is the Gold Star Mothers of Veterans of Future Wars, which is demanding for each of its members a trip to Europe to view the site of her future son's grave. Chapters are being formed in girls' colleges and universities. Very likely as they grow in number and influence it will occur to them to insist upon pensions in anticipation of widowhood, with allowances for unborn orphans. No reason why they shouldn't. In the words of Dr. Henry Ford, the first member of the Princeton faculty to join the movement, "It is high time America thought in terms of the future as well as the past."

NOT ACCORDING TO HOYLE

Before quoting the new Florida and the new laws which the President is signing, there ought to be a show-down on a few important matters connected with the money that has already been spent. I am not referring to the well-known dodging, which at the best is only a somewhat trivial way of spending money most of which would have to be spent anyway. There is a very much more serious point to be cleared up in reference to the commitments made out to private projects but to great ones, like the Florida ship canal.

"Godly power development in Maine, several other hydro electric and reclamation schemes. Pop it is a not reasonable guess that the President has committed the government to spend many hundreds of millions of dollars more than Congress authorized. It has been as if a man gave a check to a contractor and the contractor had been given a blank check for $200,000. The man would be disgraced, and when he caught his breath he would ask the contractor what had been done with the first $50,000. He would be even more disgraced if he learned that the contractor had spent all the money on building that would cost the other $200,000 to complete. Yet that is what has happened in several projects of which the most conspicuous is the Florida ship canal.

There is a thoroughly bad business and a flagrant example of how through some sort of irresponsibility of mind, the New Deal has separated reforms which it undertook from the very thing which it was intended to do. At Senator Vandenberg's office nothing was known about the very, out it was explained that the

Senate Ship Canal Backers Involved in Celery Scandal

The total operator who photographed the senators' support of the project was developed by Jacksonville. The program reads: "Please assist and vote for Florida canal appropriation. Senator Fletcher, grand old gentleman, knows facts and would not mislead any one. Canal under actual construction. Calamity if appropriation fails to go through. Means livelihood to thousands. Without doubt worthwhile project. Extend cordial invitation to my guest at any time you are in Florida."

South Will Soon Produce Most Of Newsprint Paper

ATLANTA, Apr. 1.—Predicting that in a comparatively large part of the newspaper paper the United States now imports from other countries will be produced in the South, Prof. Gordon P. Markworth, director of the School of Forestry of the University of Georgia, has painted a hopeful picture for the future of professional foresters in the South in a radio broadcast from station WGBT, Atlanta.

Though forestry is an old profession in Europe, it is comparatively new in the United States. The number of students enrolled in undergraduate forestry courses has increased in thirty years from about fifty men to nearly four thousand.

H. O. Stabler, associate regional forester for the Southern Forest Service, who participated in the radio program with Professor Markworth, declared that he believed the outstanding need of the forestry profession in the South at present was adequate financing, equipping, and manning of a strong school of forestry, comparable with sectional forestry schools in other parts of the country, to attract and train foresters for work in the South.

Emphasizing timber as a renewable natural resource in contrast with minerals or oil, Markworth and Stabler agreed that the future of foresters in the South hinges in a large measure on the practice of sustained-yield management by owners of lands that produce timber.

"A man who owns 100,000 acres of productive timber land," Markworth said, "may elect to establish a sawmill and cut all the timber within a period of 15 to 20 years. Instead of a short-term operation, this man may build a plant that will handle the annual pre-determined cut on an all-time basis, with a permanent community growing up about his development that need never fear the fate of becoming a ghost town, such as one finds scattered throughout the cut-over pine lands of the South.

"Lumbermen and foresters concede the South to be the best timber producing section in the world. If sustained-yield management is practiced on a large scale, the South will offer interesting opportunities for well-trained, capable foresters."

EXPERT ASKS BRUNO'S REPRIEVE

Believing evidence concerning "fall 19" of the Lindbergh kidnap holder was "framed" Arch W. Levey, head expert for the United States Department of the Interior requested a 30-day reprieve for Bruno Hauptmann. Levey, who accompanied Gov. Hoffman on an inspection of the home of the convicted kidnaper at the Lindbergh hotel in St. Petersburg, Fla., said he believed the evidence was "framed" to show the man's guilt. (AP Photo)

Fish Swim Across New York Skyline

Broadway blinks in the splendor of the world's largest tapestry in electric, as the new "Fish" is put into operation with ceremony for the first time Saturday night (March 28). The huge tropical fish in the scene swims slowly, its startling contrast to the usual eye-fishing signs of this type. A full block long and stretching ten stories high, the new display represents a million-dollar investment.

Seminole County Produces More Fruits and Vegetables Than Any Similar Area in America

Local Growers Vote Against Market Pact

Five Yes, Seven No; But More Fruit Is Produced By Those Opposing Control

Code Approved By State Vote

Overwhelming Vote For Pact Cast in Opposing Control

Seminole County producers of citrus fruits voted seven to five against the proposed marketing control agreement, but opponents of the pact registered a larger production of grapefruit, oranges and tangerines. Results of the vote cast in this County were made known today by County Agent C. R. Dawson.

Only 15 votes were cast by the growers or operators of 32,000 boxes of citrus fruit in Seminole County. The five who voted for the proposed pact produced 32,000 boxes of citrus fruit in 1935, while those who voted against the pact produced 47,000 boxes the same year, a difference of 15,000 boxes.

Mr. Dawson said he would favor the acceptance of the federal government's 50-cents-on-the-dollar offer as it would be "better to get half of a loaf rather than none." It is understood that this offer was made after the state refused to make a government appropriation to reimburse growers whose fields and groves were destroyed.

TOWNSENDITES BEING QUIZZED

Robert E. Clements (left), resigned secretary of the national organization of Townsend Clubs, and Edward J. Margot (right), California manager, have testified before the congressional inquiry into the movement and its finances. It was Clements who revealed from the Townsend a letter in which the latter stated "there might be millions" in his movement. Margot received commissions of between $1,000 and $2,000 a month. It was also disclosed that he had been in default for accepting the earnings of a common prostitute.

Townsend Saw 'Millions' In His Old Age Pension Plan; Leaders Owned All Profits

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2.—(AP)—Robert E. Clements testified that the Townsend plan was incorporated under a unique California law by which the incorporators could dissolve at any time and divide the assets. He denied, however, that this question had been considered on the incorporation of the plan. Clements also denied that Dr. Townsend's brother, a porter in the Hollywood hotel at the time of the incorporation in January, 1934, was merely a "dummy" in the corporation. He set up this brother, Walter E. Townsend, Clements and Dr. Townsend incorporated the Townsend plan.
