Sanford Police Hint Robbery Try Motive For Slaying

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford police detectives today said they believe an Orlando man found murdered Friday night at a downtown bus station may have been killed when he resisted a robbery attempt.

Capt. C. B. Fagan said interviews with friends and family of the murder victim, George W. Helmadollar Jr., 45, indicate he was the "type of man who would resist a robber."

Fagan said several hundred dollars were found in the dead man's pocket and revealed that officers found "a large sum of money" in the trunk of the victim's 1974 Cadillac parked a few feet away.

Fagan said investigators have been able to confirm that Helmadollar, who worked at Dynatronics at Longwood, had completed a local telephone call from a public telephone booth a few feet from where his bullet-riddled body was found.

Officers also found a hunting knife and a homemade billy club in the unlocked auto.

Fagan today again asked citizens with any information that may be helpful in solving the slaying to come forward. He said any information received by himself, Lt. William Lykens or the Evening Herald in response to the appeal will be held in strict confidence.

Fagan said police are seeking information on a man that a witness saw run from the Greyhound Bus Station area at Second St. and Park Ave. about 10:30 p.m. Friday with a small handgun in his right rear pocket.

Fagan described the man as a white male, 18 to 22 years old, approximately five-foot-eight-inches tall with light brown, to blondish shoulder length wavy hair.

He said the suspect was dressed in blue jeans or dark pants and a dark-colored shirt with the tail outside his pants.

Police said a search of alleyways in the vicinity of the spot where the body was found failed to turn up the murder weapon.

Fagan said police are especially interested in hearing from persons who attended a musical concert at the Sanford Civic Center nearby about the time of the murder. He said detectives believe the murder suspect may have gone to the show and mingled with the crowd and someone may have seen the gun in his pocket or that he even may have shown it to someone there.

Fagan said the dead man's family told officers that the last person apparently to see Helmadollar alive was a neighbor who saw him mowing the lawn at his 5410 Lee Ann Drive, Orlando, house about 9 p.m. Friday.

Officers said Helmadollar, father of three sons, ages 17 to 23, was reportedly separated from his wife, Eula, and that divorce proceedings had been started.

The Helmadollar house was sealed and guarded by Orange County sheriff's deputies after the slaying until Sanford officers, working around-the-clock, could process the house for possible evidence.

Fagan said Helmadollar is described as having been a "quiet, hard-working man" and that investigators have been told the amount of cash found locked in the auto trunk came from a part-time job in which Helmadollar was engaged in erecting steel buildings in the Orlando area.

Redevelopment Plan Gets Needed 'Shot In The Arm'

By GLENN McCASLAND
Herald Staff Writer

Action to move forward on the redevelopment of Sanford's business district got a "shot in the arm" today.

John Morris, chairman of the Downtown Redevelopment Steering Committee, announced two steps which are designed to get the project off, what he termed, dead center.

Morris announced that:

- A business office would be opened for a proposed Downtown Development Authority.
- And a city-wide survey will begin this week to obtain "all the input possible" regarding the needs of the downtown area.

"We feel this will get us off dead center and pave the way toward some firm actions," Morris said.

Sarah Jacobson, one of the steering committee members, will man the office — scheduled to be opened this week — and will also direct the city-wide survey, Morris said.

"She will be going door-to-door, all over to generate both interest and get the reading of the community's pulse regarding downtown Sanford," Morris explained.

The decision to open the office and begin the survey comes on the heels of a meeting last Thursday in Tampa between the four-member steering committee and the Florida Downtown Development Associations organization.

"We (the committee) flew to Tampa to discuss the Sanford problem with these 14 downtown associations and pick their brains," Morris said. "It was a helpful session. We came away with fresh ideas."

Morris said he felt "confident and optimistic" about the direction the steering committee is going on the redevelopment project.

"There is some sincere interest among both the merchants and downtown property owners regarding the redevelopment idea, although I feel many are afraid of the cost factor of a project such as this," he said.

Morris said the redevelopment project is "a slow, tedious, involved proposition."

Morris revealed that the steering committee had begun consideration of a plan to include the Lake Monroe waterfront at one end and Bram Towers at the other in a development district.

"We may go from the First Federal of Seminole area to the Towers and then further south, to perhaps, Fourth or Fifth Streets, in the district," he said.

At the same time, Morris said he had received a letter from Jenó F. Paulucci, president of Jenó's Inc., and leading mover in the redevelopment project, urging another meeting of merchants and property owners for the last week in July.

Included in the letter was a sketch drawn by Gutmann

Dragash Associates showing what Paulucci referred to as "one idea" for possible consideration as a development plan.

The drawing shows a mall-type affair from Oak Avenue to Sanford Avenue and from Second Street to Commercial.

"We hope to be able to call a meeting of the property owners and merchants — maybe by the end of July — but we want to have something to share with Jenó when we ask him to fly down from Duluth, Minn., with his Duluth developing team," Morris said. To do otherwise, would not be right for anyone."

Paulucci spearheaded the latest surge of interest in redeveloping the downtown area in a meeting last month at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce between businessmen and property owners.

He returned to his offices in Duluth, saying he would return June 20 to meet again with the group. However, the meeting was postponed at the steering committee's request for further developments.

Dismissals To Be Appealed

Herring, Judges Feud Over Rules Of Court

A major court battle may be shaping up between Seminole-Brevard State Atty. Abbott Herring and circuit judges in the 18th Judicial Circuit over local court rules.

Yesterday, Circuit Court Judge A.J. Hosemann Jr., threw out charges of attempted escape and possession of contraband in a county detention facility against three Seminole County Jail inmates.

Rocky Ray Darnell, 20, of Sanford; Floyd Josylin, 22, of DeLand, and Roy Brown Clanton Jr., 28, of Apopka, had been charged in connection with a March 2 escape attempt in which hacksaws and tools were smuggled into the jail at Sanford by the wife of an inmate who later testified she climbed the wall "like a human fly."

Judge Hosemann granted defense attorney Roger Berry's motion to dismiss the charges on grounds that Herring's office had violated local court rules.

"The state didn't follow the court's administration order," Hosemann said.

Darnell, Josylin and Clanton still face prison sentences in connection with other cases.

The local circuit administrative order, handed down by Seminole-Brevard judges as rules of local court procedure in July 1973, say that the prosecutor may only drop charges against defendants in indication of "a good faith decision to discontinue prosecution without intent to refile charges on the same facts and when used to override the authority of the court or circumvent immediate trial adversities (when denied a continuance, to avoid discovery obligations, to avoid motion and hearing to amend, or to deny the accused a speedy trial)" that the dropping of charges (nolle prosequere) "may bar another prosecution."

Berry said Herring's office filed charges against Darnell, Josylin and Clanton March 11 but on May 12, without a court hearing on refile, dropped the original charges and refiled new charges against the trio.

Berry claimed there were no "newly discovered facts" to warrant the refile of charges.

Herring said today that he will appeal Judge Hosemann's dismissal of the cases to the Fourth District Court of Appeals at West Palm Beach.

Herring also confirmed today that there had been "an exchange of letters" between himself and Chief Criminal Circuit Judge Joe A. Cowart Jr., last month over the practice of Herring's office in dropping charges and refileing.

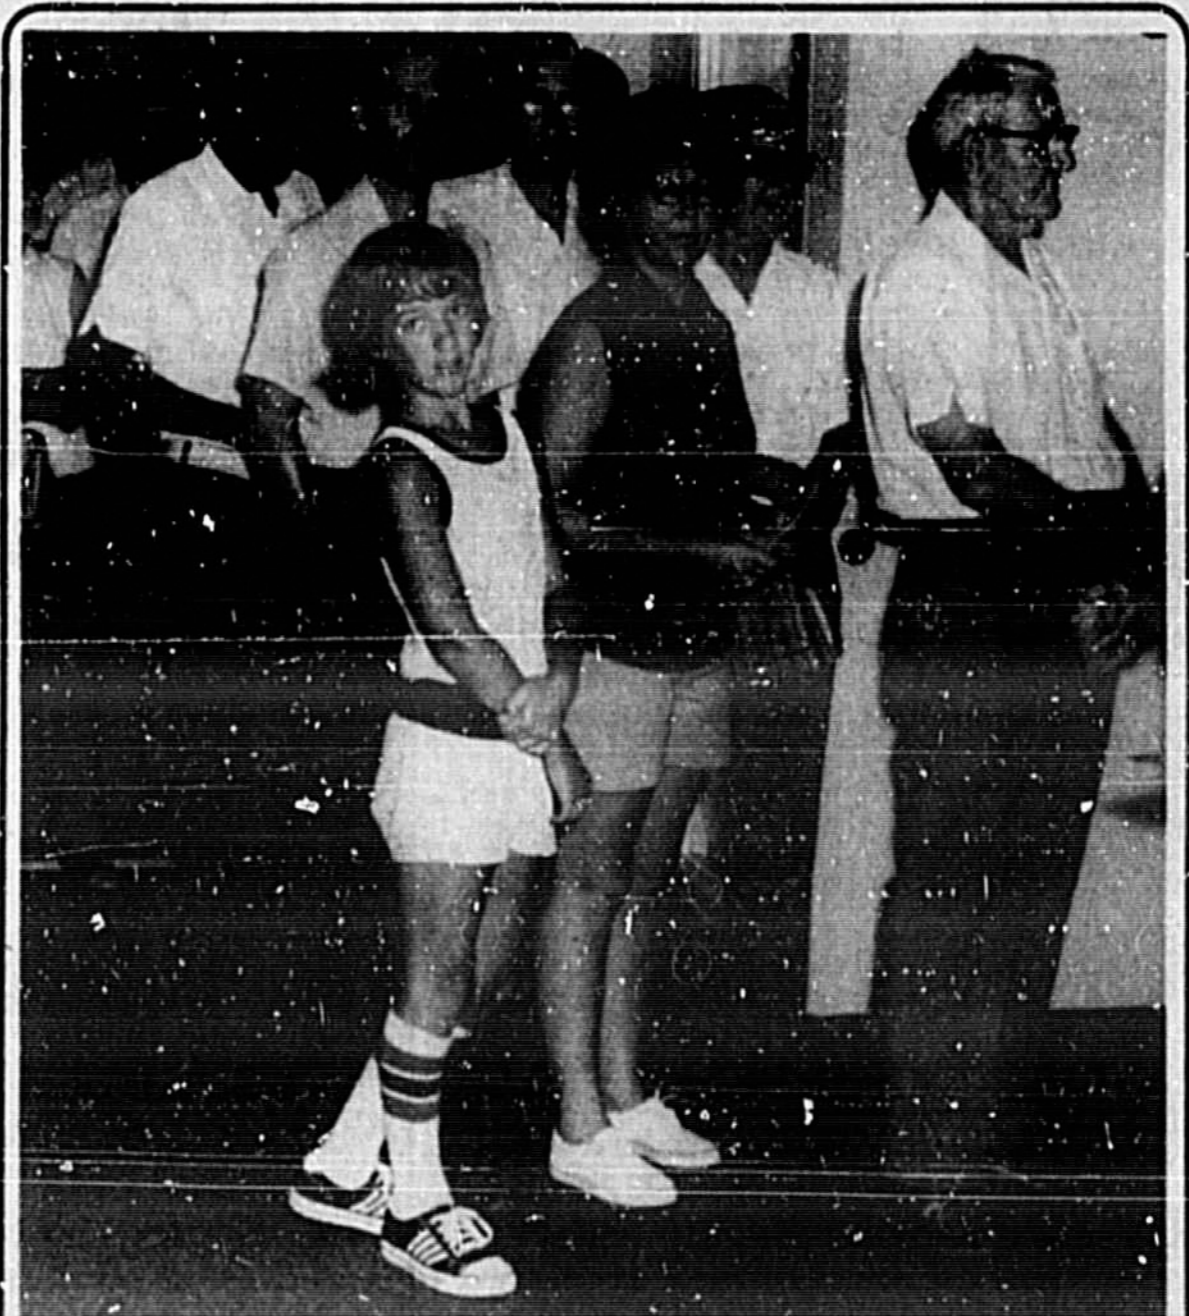

Herring also confirmed that after the exchange of letters with the court that he filed a civil lawsuit against the Circuit Judges in Brevard County that challenges the authority of the circuit court to make local rules.

While the challenge is litigated, Herring said he's issued an office memo to his prosecutors telling them to now use a method that apparently is against Florida case law — the amending of direct information against defendants — "even though they (assistant state attorneys) feel the change in charges deal with substantive changes."

The Herald has learned that during the current upheaval within the local criminal justice system over the local court rules that the circuit judges reportedly have discussed in closed meetings the appointment of a special prosecutor to possibly pursue actions to cite Herring and his attorneys for indirect criminal contempt of court in the local rules controversy.

Herring's challenge of the judges' authority to make local rules specifically seeks to remove the rule on the dropping (nolle prosequere) and refileing of criminal charges.

DECAL SALE

Automobile license plate decals went on sale at the County Courthouse this morning and, as usual, there was a long line of people waiting to be among the first to get the 1975-76 stickers, which are to be placed in the upper right hand corner of the current plates. Pictured above are some of those in line early this morning while at the right Ben Johnson is issued a decal from Clerk Luella Stultz in the Tax Collector's office, where the decals may be purchased. Hattaway Raps 'Unresponsiveness'

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

WINTER SPRINGS — "Why is the Seminole legislative delegation against the cities and for the county?"

City Council members last night asked the familiar question asked often by many of Seminole city officials as State Rep. Robert Hattaway (D-Altamonte Springs) appeared to report on his experiences and activities during the recent 59-day session of the Florida Legislature.

Specifically excluding Hattaway from his remarks, Councilman Irwin Hunter said both state Senate members of the delegation — Sens. Lori Wilson (I-Merritt Island) and John Vogt (D-Cocoa Beach) treated him in an insulting manner when he attempted to discuss city problems with them.

Hunter pointed to the 1974 planning act, sponsored by the county commission, and affecting only Seminole County while the remainder of the state is governed by a new law passed in the most recent session.

Insisting if Seminole County stays under the local act it will be excluded from state funding, Hunter noted that every city in Seminole County objected vigorously to the legislation. Even resolutions and appeals to the governor were unsuccessful, Hunter said.

Hattaway said his own record for the cities is a good one and that Seminole County will continue to suffer from unresponsiveness until reapportionment in 1980.

"The problems started when Seminole County was gerrymandered," Hattaway said, pointing to the fact Seminole used to be represented by resident legislators in both the Senate and the House. Now he alone represents solely Seminole County.

"The squeaky wheel gets the grease," the legislator said, echoing the old cliché.

Hattaway boasted that the old unwritten law that opposition from any delegation member could kill legislation was broken in the recent session via the passage of a local bill to permit the voters to decide on whether the clerk of the circuit court's office will be split.

"I sponsored it to let the people vote on the matter," he said.

Hattaway noted he received

Ann Landers' Marriage To End In Divorce

CHICAGO (AP) — Syndicated columnist Ann Landers, the personal problem-solver for millions of American newspaper readers, says she and her husband of 36 years are getting a divorce.

"The lady with all the answers does not know the answer to this one," the 57-year-old Miss Landers said in today's column in her home newspaper, the Chicago Sun-Times.

The column, whose actual name is Esther Lederer, wrote: "The sad, incredible fact is that after 36 years of marriage Jules and I are being divorced. As I write these words, it is as if I am referring to a letter from a reader. It seems unreal that I am writing about my own marriage."

Mrs. Lederer, who writes for Field Newspaper Syndicate of Chicago, was married to her husband, Jules W. Lederer, on July 2, 1939. Until recently, Lederer was chairman of the board of Budget Rent-A-Car Corp. in Chicago.

Miss Landers did not divulge the reason for the divorce, and she asked readers not to write or call for details.

Neither she nor her husband were available for comment.

Grain Export Link Shown

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department was warned Monday that a group of officials of one of the nation's six largest grain exporting firms was linked to alleged irregularities in grain exports, a department memorandum says.

The official, Melvin L. Hibbits, was manager of Bay-side Elevator Co. in Reserve, La. He is now vice president of the Bay-side Elevator Division, a subsidiary of Cook Industries, Inc. in Memphis, Tenn.

The department memorandum lists three alleged violations of the U.S. Grain Standards Act and recommends that "all of the apparent irregularities by Hibbits and CII (Cook Industries) be investigated by the Office of the Inspector General."

A spokesman for the Office of Investigations, which has replaced the Office of the Inspector General, said the material in the memo was still under investigation and that no final action has been taken.

Gold Bids Swamp Treasury

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department has a avalanche of bids on its hands after bidders offered to buy many times the 500,000 ounces of gold placed on sale by the government.

The department planned to announce today the price it will accept for the gold and who the successful bidders are. The treasury could decide to sell less than 500,000 ounces but is expected to unload the full amount at a price near $185 an ounce.

At a similar auction last January, the government offered two million ounces, received bids for 954,000 ounces and sold 754,000 ounces. Officials attributed the more intense interest in the latest auction to a stabilization of the gold market since the Jan. 6 auction.

In the January auction, bidders paid from $153 to $185.

Amy Drifts Eastward

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical storm Amy, slightly below hurricane strength, began drifting slowly eastward in the open Atlantic this morning after having remained nearly stationary since late Monday, forecasters said.

The National Hurricane Center said Amy, 380 miles east of the Virginia-North Carolina border at 8 a.m. (EDT), would likely continue moving slowly eastward through the day without intensifying its 70-mile-per-hour winds.

Sustained winds of 74 m.p.h. would be needed before Amy could be classified as a hurricane.

Amy's gate winds extended from 125 to 225 miles from the storm center, located at latitude 36.1 north, longitude 69 west at 8 a.m.

Chiles: Retaliate On Prices

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — If oil-rich nations raise their petroleum prices again, the U.S. should retaliate by charging higher prices on exports to those countries, says Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla.

Chiles told a council of service clubs Monday he has introduced two bills on such retaliation.

One would raise the price of U.S. exports by the same amount any oil-producing nation raises its exports to this country, he said.

The other would allow the President to restrict export credits, insurance or guarantees to any country that limits its exports or increases prices.

Author Doubts Detente

WASHINGTON (AP) — Exiled Russian author Alexander Solzhenitsyn cautions that Americans are deceiving themselves unless they realize that detente means hard-leaded dealing with the Soviet Union, instead of merely "smiles and verbal concessions."

Calling on the United States to strengthen its role of world leadership, Solzhenitsyn declared Monday night that the Soviets are exploiting detente and using Western capital to help build a regime committed to "ideological warfare."

The Nobel Prize-winning author, in his first formal address in this country, also urged that Americans renew their support for Soviet dissidents.

little support in his effort to require that five of the 13 circuit judges serving Seminole and Broward Counties reside in Seminole. He added Seminole will be getting its third resident circuit judge today with the swearing in of Kenneth Leffer.

Of the planning act problem, Hattaway predicted Seminole will remain under the 1974 local planning act, and in fact will have to live with and comply with both the local act and statewide law as well.

He defended the allocation of $10,000 from the state Department of Community Affairs for a goals and objectives study for planning through to the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council, rather than the individual cities. Hattaway added the state used Seminole County as a "guinea pig" on planning by requiring it to comply with a planning law that had no other county in the state had any.

He also pledged to do all in his power to have the local planning law repealed. But, he said, pointing to the $10,000 allocation, "I am not going to let the state Department of Community Affairs spend that money on a study for a goal and objectives study for planning through to the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council, rather than the individual cities. Hattaway added the state used Seminole County as a 'guinea pig' on planning by requiring it to comply with a planning law that had no other county in the state had any.

Gurney Testifies In Rebuttal Try

TAMPA (AP) — Former Sen. Edward Gurney took the stand today in his own defense to rebut 14 weeks of prosecution testimony linking him to an alleged infidelity-peddling scheme.

The former Republican senator was the first witness called at the trial of Gurney and three co-defendants, resumed following a three-day weekend recess.

A weekend recess was extended for an extra day in the 18-week trial so that Gurney could visit his widowed mother who underwent surgery in Maine.

Gurney, his ex-wife, Joseph Bastien, and former housing officers K. Wayne Swiger and Ralph Koons are charged with conspiracy to create an illegal slush fund from builder payments by peddling Gurney's influence with the Federal Housing Administration.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Gas Price May Rise Before July 4 Holiday

ORLANDO (AP) — There should be plenty of gasoline on hand for the July 4 holiday but prices might rise three to five cents a gallon before it begins, says the Florida Allied Gasoline Retailers Association.

Bill Tucker, executive director, predicted Monday that some gasoline dealers would run out by the end of July because oil companies "have cut production."

"Gasoline prices have not been good from a profits standpoint," Tucker said.

Gas prices could rise to 75 cents a gallon before the end of the year if members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries impose an expected $2 a barrel increase on crude oil, Tucker said.

In Chicago, the senior editor of the Platt's Oilgram, an independent daily oil newsletter, said the price of gasoline may never be as cheap as it is today.

Editor Herbert Hugo said the cost spiral predicted this week should continue for 25 years.

Energy Panel Abolished

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Even as workers took away their desks, chairs and filing cabinets, the Florida Energy Committee's staff was still distributing solar energy information.

The committee went out of existence Monday as Gov. Reubin Askew signed a bill abolishing the panel.

"I think the record of the Florida Energy Committee was one of considerable contribution to the state of Florida," said Sen. George Firestone, D-Miami and co-chairman of the panel.

"I hope the new energy office will carry on the tradition of the Florida Energy Committee by surrounding themselves with people who have a high degree of expertise."

Staffers packed committee materials into boxes while moving men hauled their equipment to the Department of Administration.

New Strip Mining Laws Needed Now

For the second time in less than six months, President Ford has voted a strip-mining bill. His second veto was upheld in the House of Representatives. The vote was 278 to 143 to override, three votes short of the necessary two-thirds majority.

This was another victory for the President over the Democratic leadership but it cannot be viewed with much satisfaction — because it is purely a negative action, blocking legislation in an area where the President concedes action is needed.

The Ford administration should now demonstrate its concern by working hard to get an acceptable strip-mining bill through Congress as soon as possible.

The administration strip-mining proposal has been buried deep with the President's comprehensive energy package, which has been stalled for months in the Congress. The strip-mining proposal should now be singled out to advance on its own, independent of the massive and highly controversial energy package.

There have been abusive strip-mining operations that have left huge scars on our land. The land needs the protection and restoration that the federal government can provide through legislation on surface mining.

And coal producers need to have the clear guidelines that federal standards can provide. Otherwise uncertainty will delay the development of new coal resources in the Rocky Mountain states that must be developed to meet our need for energy.

The President is concerned over utility costs and the effect on employment and profits in the established strip-mining industry in the Appalachians.

But there are indications that the fears about these adverse effects may have been exaggerated. The urgent needs of both environment and energy demand that the President and the Congress waste no more time. They should meet each other halfway to enact effective strip-mining legislation.

Peace Pressures

Reality restrains the temptation to optimism over the outlook for a negotiated peace in the Middle East.

The flexibility pledged by Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin in talks with President Ford in Washington is encouraging to hopes of accord between Egypt and Israel, but is conditioned upon continued support of Israel's war-making capabilities.

And troop activity along Israel's borders with Syria and Jordan, now muted in opposition to Israel, remains a threat to the shaky cease-fire on the Golan Heights and along the Jordan River. The insistence by Syria and Jordan on Israeli withdrawal from Arab territory and upon Israel's recognition of Palestinian territorial claims further complicates the peace objective.

The "assurances" exchanged in Washington and Israel's conciliatory military withdrawal along the Suez Canal on the eve of the waterway's reopening further the goal of a truce between Egypt and Israel.

But recollections of the breakdown of bargaining in March temper diplomatic enthusiasm. The Middle East tinderbox still smolders in the heat of ancient passions that defies diplomatic reason.

Around

The Clock

The Greater Sanford Christmas Parade Committee is giving serious consideration to changing its annual event from Thursday night to either Saturday or Sunday afternoon and is soliciting opinions of the citizenry as to the change.

Committee members met last week and discussed the possibility of transforming the festive parade to the afternoon and came to the conclusion that lighting in downtown Sanford was insufficient and inadequate for safety purposes, therefore the change should be made.

Too, the committee feels that by staging the parade in the afternoon it will be more accessible to children and our senior citizens.

Many of the previous features will be carried over to future parades, including the Queen and King contests. The contestants will be sponsored by various clubs and organizations throughout the area and must be in the 14-18 age bracket.

All school children will be able to participate in this year's parade as the theme contest will cover children in grades one through eight, according to the committee.

Persons wishing to voice an opinion as to the change from a night parade are urged to contact either Joan King, at P.O. Box 2098, or Pat Register, P.O. Box 1921, Sanford.

Suggestions for improving the Christmas Parade will also be welcomed by the committee.

No, there wasn't a trial of major consequence going on at the Seminole County Courthouse this morning.

All those people lined up were there in hopes of being among the first to purchase the 1975-76 automobile license plate decals, which went on sale today.

Too, there were quite a few people there to purchase fishing licenses and to renew boat registrations.

All fishing and hunting licenses and boat registrations expired at midnight last night and state officials have indicated a strict check will be made immediately to see that persons have the current documents in their possession while fishing or boating.

The new auto plate decals will be on sale through Aug. 20 and are to be affixed to the upper right hand corner of the current license plates. In order to avoid standing in long lines while purchasing the decals, Tax Collector G. Troy Ray urges that persons renewing their registrations do so by using the pre-typed forms that were mailed out recently.

About 67,000 of the pre-typed forms went out in the mails in an effort to make it easier for one and all.

Too, Ray said there is no increase in the registration fees, per se, but the service charge has been raised from 50 cents to $1.

Future tags will be issued during the owner's birth month, so it is necessary for all persons to indicate their birth date on the current forms.

And, although insisting it has nothing to do with discrimination between the sexes, the state is now requiring the owner to indicate his or her sex on the forms, apparently in a move to streamline the filing of vehicle registrations.

Registrations and licenses may be obtained at the courthouse here, at Seminole Plaza and at the Interstate Mall tag bureaus.

No Course Through Sea Of Inflation

President Ford has discovered no sure course out of the recession. Only hope. And no way to prevent the inflation expected to follow — except stringency.

He has no program for increasing productivity or low productivity pushed prices skyward and triggered the recession.

Trends indicate that major inefficiencies — and outright obsolescence in wide areas of U.S. industry — will once again in 1976 and '77 drive costs to new and intolerable heights. Mr. Ford has done little more than toy with this problem. But it could spur another recession.

Mr. Ford likewise has given little thought to easing shortages — except the energy shortage which he proposes to solve by classical economics. That is, he aims at creating such mammoth artificial oil and gasoline scarcities, and such high prices, that all of us individually will be forced in desperation to find our own solutions.

Even so, Mr. Ford is so mesmerized by this one shortage that he ignores a host of others which most certainly will be more immediate in their effects.

By late 1975 perhaps — and most certainly 1976 and 1977 — the lack of sufficient processing plants for a dozen basic metals, alloys and other semiprocessed raw materials will be apparent.

The next inflation, if it comes, will be the result of shortages. Shortages will cause industrial and commercial users to bid prices up — these higher costs being passed on, of course, to the consumer.

Though industry today is plagued by bad management — and weak management — the problem is broader. By his inaction, Mr. Ford has indirectly given support to the thesis that profits are somehow bad, a philosophy which discourages investment in more efficient plants and the expansion necessary to meet future demand and to significantly reduce unemployment.

Instead, in such an atmosphere companies hire more lobbyists to build closer contacts with the administration and Congress, hoping to share in whatever government-sponsored business there is. They hope to hold on to what private business they have, retrenching rather than expanding.

It is true that Mr. Ford has pushed through some income tax breaks. Welcome, to be sure, but the type of quick relief which disappears overnight when the money is gone, we're back at the same stand. Those who have no money can't spend it. Those who have it are so worried about tomorrow they don't want to spend.

It is also true that Mr. Ford has given some private advice to Arthur Burns, chief of the Federal Reserve System. Mr. Ford, quite rightly, wants Burns to expand the money supply at a faster rate. But the advice has been so weak that Burns has given his untroubled way, and money for expansion or modernization at reasonable rates remains difficult to get.

No one is certain anymore what tinkering with the money supply does in the end. Burns himself is skeptical of its effectiveness when it is depended on as virtually the only program for curing a recession one day and inflation the next — or both at once.

Soviet Newsmen Effective As KGB Spies

In the Soviet Union, American newsmen are war-hunters rather than go-go correspondents. They take along an official censor on filming trips. Given no office help in U.S. news bureaus they are required to report to KGB.

In this country, Soviet newsmen are free to travel virtually where they wish. They have the same access as other newsmen to government premises. They can interview anyone who will talk to them. Their films are shipped, un-censored, to Moscow.

Yet secret files identify at least three Soviet newsmen as veteran KGB agents. The newspaper Izvestia's Washington correspondent, Stanislav Kondrashov and Yuri Barukov, actually run an espionage operation, according to the files.

The files also claim that Vissarion Slanev, correspondent for the Soviet labor newspaper Trud, is an outright KGB agent. Official sources deny this. They also claim that Slanev is a KGB spy.

Canada Has Its Birthday Party Today

The weather was made to order for a holiday from Halifax to Sarnia on the celebration of our first Dominion Day in 1867. As the proclamation joining Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario came into force at midnight, June 30, church bells went crazy, fireworks swished skyward and saluting guns boomed out from hundreds of official ceremonies.

If the weather is half-way decent this year, we can look forward to much the same thing — certainly in Ottawa. The crowd begins to gather during the morning on July 1, for tours of the Parliament buildings, applause at the changing of the guard ceremony, and picnics on the lawn below the Peace Tower. It's guaranteed that several hundred young Canadians will have their pictures taken from the statue of Sir John A. Macdonald or perched on the lap of Queen Victoria's image.

The crowd that descends on Parliament Hill obviously knows what July 1 is all about, even if many of them aren't absolutely sure what it should be called. You'll hear Canada Day, Confederation Day, Dominion Day and even simply, the July First Holiday, used to denote our national day.

In fact, though there have been several attempts to legally change the name to something less cluttered with the British Empire, officially July 1 is still Dominion Day.

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau has often skirted the issue by talking about "our national day" but the law calls it Dominion Day and custom, over the past eight years, has made July 1 national party time on Parliament Hill.

The Secretary of State's Department each year prepares an extravaganza state show which takes place on a specially built platform over the main stairs leading to the Parliament Building.

The wide laws are passed with little hours of delay in the show commences. And each year we can count on a huge fass in Parliament over the content of our birthday party performance.

The Secretary of State's Office always tries to mix French and English languages and Canadian lore with a bit of sampling of the efforts of the other ethnic groups which make up the Canadian mosaic. The mixture always leaves one or two groups miffed and creates a foolish squabble in the House of Commons. The effort, though, is obviously worth while in the view of the crowd which appears hour in advance to get good seats — and at least the annual Parliamentary squabbles are diminishing.

The idea of a Parliament Hill birthday party came into its own in modern times in our centennial year, 1967, and it has been made into a regular institution. Once the performance concludes, there comes the best pyrotechnical display of the year in Canada, with rockets, fiery figures and mortar shells exploding all over Parliament Hill.

Parking lots behind Parliament and the upper lawns of the Hill are off limits to the public for a day or so before July 1 while technicians install the hardware for that half-hour explosion of light. You can smell burned explosives around Parliament all during the next day.

STRANGE BEDFELLOWS: One of the world's strangest friendships has developed between Libyan strongman Muammar el-Qaddafi and Ugandan President Idi Amin. They are, in the judgment of diplomats, a couple of mad hatters.

Colonel Qaddafi passes out weapons to terrorists while he seeks nuclear bombs for his own arsenal. Presumably, he would bomb Israel if he could get his hands on the nuclear wherewithal. But this is by no means certain. He also has made dire threats against his own Arab brothers, including Egypt's President Sadat and Jordan's King Hussein.

The irrepressible Amin is gaining notoriety as one of history's most infamous buffoons and thugs. Over the years, he has murdered 90,000 political opponents. The latest to land on his

Arabs Seek Western Loans

LONDON (AP) — Three Arab oil-producing countries that are short of money have bypassed richer Arab governments and turned to the United States and Western Europe for loans, diplomats report.

The three countries are Iraq, whose 1973 production of nearly 600 million barrels was the fifth largest in the Middle East and North Africa; Algeria, which ranked seventh in 1973 with 357 million barrels, and Oman, in last place with nearly 100 million barrels.

Street Fights Continue

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Savage fighting raged unabated through the night and into the eighth day today as Premier Rashid Karami put together a "reconciliation cabinet" of six men.

President Suleiman Franjeh approved the lineup, in which each of Lebanon's major religious sects is represented, and the allocation of three cabinet posts to each minister. A presidential decree was issued after a night of squabbling over distribution of the ministries.

The board listened to Margolin, who presented case studies of Broward County, but gave no indication whether to further study the Civil Service Commission's offer of technical assistance.

OVIEDO — The Jaycees are planning a gala Independence Day celebration for July 4 that starts with a barbecue and ends as most Independence Day observances — with fireworks.

The Jaycees will be barbecuing ribs and chicken during the afternoon, with early birds on hand at 1 p.m. The dinner will cost $3 for adults and $2 for children.

Hills, 61 and a resident of Uganda for 11 years, was scheduled to be executed on Friday for calling Amin a village tyrant in an unpublished manuscript. Amin, who is on a 45-hour visit to the Zairean capital, made his decision known at a news conference at the end of talks with President Mobutu Sese Seko of Zaire.

Board Ponders Civil Service

A personnel management specialist with the U.S. Civil Service Commission has outlined services which could be provided by the civil service and, according to the specialist, refine Seminole County's personnel policies.

The presentation in yesterday's work session by Al Margolin of Orlando, comes on the heels of the Board of County Commissioners' (BOC) efforts to update all personnel policies and benefits in attempts to discourage any employees from favorably considering unemployment.

Commission Chairman Sid Vihlen Jr., says the county is in need of a consultant to evaluate and modernize the personnel policy because the county is without the ability of "in-house service" to do the evaluating. The technical service would detail policy procedures for employment, dismissal, job description, update the pay plan, application procedures, examination and promotions.

Refuse Pickups Outlined

It may be a holiday for most on Friday but the City of Sanford's public works department employees won't get any break.

City officials said today that the crews would be on the streets Friday as usual picking up garbage and refuse just like any other day.

The reverse is true in Altamonte Springs, where Don Bundy, director of public works, announced garbage pickups scheduled for Thursday will be made tomorrow and Friday rounds will be scheduled Thursday.

The change will give employees the day off to celebrate the Fourth of July. Regular pickups will resume on Monday, Bundy said.

Border Patrol Told To Restrict Search

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's efforts to stem the tide of illegal immigrants from Mexico suffered a defeat when the Supreme Court restricted the authority of roving Border Patrol officers.

In an unanimous ruling Monday, the court said the officers may not stop and question the occupants of cars headed away from the Mexican border without a warrant unless they have a reasonable suspicion that there are illegal immigrants inside. And it said the fact that the occupants of the car look like Mexicans is not enough.

The decision specifically reserved judgment on whether a general warrant, based on conditions in the area as a whole and not on evidence about a particular car, would justify a stop.

The court finished its current term Monday, but one of the petitions for review which will confront the justices when they return Oct. 6 after their recess raises that very point.

The government has asked the court to hear its appeal from a decision of the U.S. Circuit Court in San Francisco striking down a warrant which authorized routine checks of northbound traffic at a San Clemente, Calif., checkpoint.

The government has told the court that the appeals court decision forced it to stop routine traffic checking operations at its checkpoints in California and Arizona. It said more than 8,500 deportable aliens had been apprehended at the San Clemente checkpoint alone in less than a year through the use of such warrants.

In another unanimous decision Monday, the court extended to fixed checkpoints its previous rule that restricts moving patrols in searching automobiles suspected of containing illegal aliens.

The rule is that officers wishing to search as well as stop must have probable cause — something more than a reasonable suspicion — to believe there are unlawful immigrants present.

The court also handed down a pair of 8-3 decisions on the right to legal representation in criminal trials. One held that persons charged with a crime are entitled to reject court-appointed attorneys and represent themselves. That right already exists in most states.

In the other ruling, the court struck down a New York law permitting a judge conducting a criminal trial without a jury to dispense with the closing argument of the defense.

Florida Fish Merchants Bounty From The Sea

The old adage "Build a better mousetrap and the world will beat a path to your door" is just as true today as when it was first coined many years ago. But the thoughtful merchant, even with a superior product to offer, will keep the convenience of his customers in mind, and will see that that path to his door is as short as possible. That is the reason that Mike Abrams and Captain Charlie Chase, owners of Florida Fish Merchants, Inc., have opened a second store at 1290 W. Oakridge Rd. in Orlando—just a block off Orange Blossom Trail for the convenience of their many Orlando customers who have been driving considerable distances to secure the superb seafood on sale at the original shop at 410 George Ave., Maitland, behind the Purple Porpoise restaurant. Mike and Captain Charlie have been in the wholesale seafood business for over 3 1/2 years, but opened up their store to the retail public less than a year ago. They supply some of the finest restaurants, country clubs, hotels and institutions in the Central Florida area. They have excellent suppliers who enable them to offer a great selection of fresh seafoods as well as a complete supply of frozen products.

Trucks are on the go all day from the Florida east and west coasts to ensure fresh fish and Florida Fish Merchants are now getting deliveries of fresh fish from North Florida to better serve their customers. They have installed new freezers so they can maintain a bigger selection of seafood delicacies. Florida Fish Merchants have such hard-to-get items as fresh muskies, fresh steamed crabs which are flown in from Boston, and a wide variety of fresh local fish. Florida Fish Merchants are famous for their fine shrimp and lobsters. They are a super proof of their quality which are from Louisiana and Mississippi, and

At So. DeBary Flea Market Scratch For Treasures

Interesting, unique and nostalgic, are all words describing the new So. DeBary Flea Market, located on Hwy. 17/92 in DeBary, four miles north of Sanford and 1 1/2 miles north of the new 500-ft. Grand Parkway. Mr. Gregory has owned the property since 1950 and has operated a private Flea Market for over 3 years. The location for the Flea Market is perfect. It sports a 700 ft. frontage on 17-92 with dozens of large beautiful trees. There's shaded parking, with room for cars and trucks and easy entrance and exit. Dealers from all over the area have come to display their goods. Over 50 tables have been set up and there's room for more. Each table has different items of every kind imaginable at discount prices. Tables are available to the public and dealers. Prices start from $2.00. For churches and non-profit organizations, tables are free. Just call and Greg, Ann or John will reserve your date and space. There are a few exclusive tables to be rented, so hurry! Now down. All renters having tables over the weekend will be given a week-day table free. The Flea Market is open Wednesday thru Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.

Ask The Man Who Wears One Florida Hearing Aid Center

IF YOU WANT TO KNOW ABOUT HEARING AIDS, ASK THE MAN WHO WEARS ONE! Pictured above is Gen. Hearn of Fla. Hearing Aid Center wearing the all new "All In The Ear" hearing aid.

There are a number of shops in Seminole County offering hearing aids and service, but the many satisfied customers of Florida Hearing Aid Center believe that it is one of a kind, the best kind. There are a number of reasons for their belief. First is location: Florida Hearing Aid Center is located in an easy-to-find, easy-to-get-to spot in Suite 106, Cass Bldg., Casselberry. Second is convenience: all the operations at the Center are programmed with the convenience of the client in mind. Third is quality: only the best in products is offered. Next is service: expert service backed by 15 years in Central Florida and experience in fitting thousands of persons with hearing deficiencies. The most important reason for the esteem in which Florida Hearing Aid Center is held however, is George C. Hearn, at age 75, an active, energetic businessman—an audiologist. George has been in the hearing aid business for 30 years, and says he is the only hearing aid specialist in Seminole County who wears a hearing aid; hence his motto, "Ask the man who wears one." He has been hard of hearing since birth, but didn't find that he had a hearing deficiency until he was 19 years old. His hearing trouble caused him years of being handicapped in the classroom and in outside activities, and was all unnecessary, says George. From this personal experience in the handicaps of hearing problems George urges all young persons to have examinations to ensure that they do not have a hearing deficiency. Deafness is a disability that is increasing all the time, according to Hearn, with occupational noise, loud rock music and childhood diseases all contributing causes. Failure to have hearing checked leads to many children being considered mentally retarded.

Jobless Get Benefit Hike After Today

By JERE MOORE JR. Associated Press Writer
TALLAHASSEE (AP) — If you get laid off and apply for unemployment compensation after Tuesday, you'll get $8 a week more than you would have last week.

If you have an auto accident today you must try to move your car out of the road. And while trucks weighing 8,000 pounds more can bear down on you on the highway, you can feel more secure when you drive across a bridge although your auto insurance may be going up.

These are some of the effects of more than 50 laws which became effective today.

The law with the widest impact requires that motorists now carrying the minimum auto liability insurance of $10,000 per person, $20,000 per accident and $5,000 property damage will have to increase it to $15,000-$30,000-$5,000.

This will mean an average increase in premium payments of 12 per cent for an estimated 1.5 million drivers, Insurance Department officials say.

The law was passed in 1974 and an attempt in the last session to repeal it failed.

With Florida's unemployment soaring above 12 per cent, the 1975 legislature passed a bill to increase the maximum jobless compensation from $74 to $82 a week, and Gov. Reubin Askew, who sought a boost to $90, signed it.

However, the law grants the increase only to persons who apply today or later and does not affect the 375,000 previously idled workers in the state.

Three major governmental reorganization bills take effect today: consolidating environmental agencies into the new Department of Environmental Regulation and Natural Resources; decentralizing the massive Health and Rehabilitative Services Department; and removing prisons from HRS to create a new Department of Offender Rehabilitation.

However, few Floridians will see any immediate effect from these changes.

Autos and their tags drew a lot of attention in the new laws. One requires that a driver make a reasonable effort to move his wrecked auto out of traffic lanes. Another forbids motor vehicles on bicycle and foot paths.

Two bills affect tags. One sets up a completely new alphanumeric system with tags having ABC-123 instead of 12-345. Other changes include letting the three year tags renewed or the owner's birthday with a sticker indicating renewal the last two years, and having the county designated by a printed strip across the bottom. The other law extends the life of the present tags from three to five years.

Other highway-related laws increase maximum weight for trucks from 72,000 to 80,000 pounds and require counties and cities to inspect bridges in their jurisdiction.

The Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles Department is given authority in another law to hold hearings and award temporary driving permits — for use back and forth to work — for persons who lost their regular licenses on a first conviction for driving under the influence.

The 250 state chartered credit unions are forced by another law to meet the same requirements as the federal credit unions, including serving a group of 200 persons.

The age required for school attendance drops from 16 to 14 years old, but it contains a catch that youngsters under 16 must pass a high school equivalency test to drop out.

Two of the laws were recommended by the Governor's Economy and Efficiency Study Commission. One increases from $1 to $10 the charge to register a livestock brand and the other requires state agencies to purge their mailing lists annually.

Another new law aimed at saving taxpayers' money clamps added restrictions on state agencies leasing private office space including a requirement that bids be taken on space over 5,000 square feet. Owners of four per cent or more of the property will have to be disclosed and a state employee or official who owns any part will have to be reported.

The law is a result of criticism of HRS leasing of space at the Winewood office complex in Tallahassee.

State agencies are required and cities and counties given authority to charge a $5 fee on a check that bounces.

State banks also are permitted to set up computer operations in shopping centers because a new law will consider computer data as good as a written check or deposit slip.

However, Walter Law, executive director of the Independent Bankers of Florida, said consumers will not see any change for at least two years because the equipment has not been developed and bankers don't know what will be developed.

While the laws contain no tax relief for most inflation-pinched citizens, the prospering phosphate industry receives an assist with a measure returning $25 to $50 at courts of appeal and $25 to $75 at the Supreme Court.

The money will be used to pay expenses of 10 new circuit judgeships created Tuesday: three each in Dade and Pinellas counties and one each in Palm Beach, Monroe, Collier and DeSoto-Manatee-Sarasota counties.

Other new laws going into effect today:

- Require hospitals and nursing homes to give patients itemized bills and allow patients to demand a detailed breakdown of charges.
- Shift to traffic courts the handling of charges against juveniles for driving without licenses.
- Give the Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles Department supervision of manufacturers and dealers in recreational vehicles as it has on mobile homes.
- Forbid signs closer than 600 feet to highway rights of way.
- Allow courts to keep lists of adults approved for supervising juvenile delinquents instead of waiting until the juveniles are arrested to obtain clearance.
- Allow publication of county tax increase notices in weekly newspapers if no dailies are in the county.
- Allow milk to have only three per cent butterfat instead of the three and a half per cent required that the butterfat still be 3.25 per cent if the milk is sold for drinking.
- Move the Fire Fighters Standards and Training Council from the Community Affairs Department to the fire marshal's office.
- Allow tax collectors to invest idle funds.
- Example: certain schools from jurisdiction of the Independent Post-secondary Education, Technical Trade and Business Schools Board.
- Remove school boards and community college trustees from a law allowing hiring of independent auditors.
- Provide funds and programs to fight lethal yellowing in palm trees.
- Forbid sale of fish caught illegally outside Florida waters.
- Allow substitution of independent school courses for education requirements for real estate examination.
- Require that judgments in felony cases be in writing and that the defendants' fingerprints be put on guilty findings.
- Allow sales tax returns postmarked by the 20th of the month to be regarded as sent on time, rather than requiring that it be received by the Revenue Department by the 20th.
- Allow persons who have taken part of their medical education outside the United States to take the medical examination after only a year's internship.
- Allow suspended state employees reinstate their retirement rights after they return to work.
- Require the Department of Retirement Administration to open new areas in city populations for revenue sharing immediately after annexation.

No Ultimatum Given To Israel, Ford Spokesman Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says the United States has not given Israel an ultimatum to accept Egyptian terms for a Middle East settlement.

"No ultimatum was delivered at the meeting with Ambassador Dinitz," White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Monday. Israeli news reports say Ford told Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz last Friday that unless Israel accepted certain Egyptian proposals, the United States and Israel might have to go their separate ways at a Geneva peace conference on the Middle East.

In an interview with The Washington Post, Ford personally disavowed that he was trying to pressure Israel to accept Egypt's demand for full withdrawal from the Golan Heights and the Sinai.

But Ford told The Post he had no choice but to suggest a reconvening of the Geneva peace conference unless there is "a meeting of the minds" on an interim agreement. Israeli officials have expressed fears about being outnumbered and dominated at the Geneva conference by the Arab states and the Soviet Union.

Asked how Israeli reports that the United States would refuse to support Israel at a reconvened Geneva session, Ford said, "Definitely not. We would not go to Geneva supporting anything other than a comprehensive settlement we felt would be fair to all the parties."

Meanwhile, Ford signed a bill that guarantees unemployment compensation for up to 65 weeks to jobless workers under certain conditions. Without the extension, the program would have expired today and workers would have been eligible to collect benefits for only 52 weeks.

About 250,000 persons would have lost the benefits without the extension.

Ford also witnessed the swearing-in of Daniel P. Moynihan as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and said his administration will resist any attempts to exploit the U.N. for "narrow, political interests."

He pledged "determined support" for the U.N. and said the United States will seek "a dialogue of candor, directness, understanding and respect" in the world organization.

In another White House development, Nessen said the United States still maintains its long-held policy of not using nuclear weapons in a first strike capability.

Nessen has pressed Nessen to clarify the U.S. policy ever since Ford said at a news conference last Wednesday that the United States will maintain maximum flexibility in the use of strategic and tactical nuclear weapons in the event of war.

Food Prices Resumed Rise In June, Survey Shows

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

Consumers who had been enjoying spring's respite from grocery store increases found prices on the rise during June, with most of the boost due to higher costs for meat and eggs.

The marketbasket bill at the checkist store went up in five cities, rising an average of 2.5 per cent; declined in seven cities, down an average of 2 per cent; and was unchanged in one. This compared with decreases in 10 cities during May and in 13 cities during April.

—Meat and eggs led the list of more costly items. The increases were generally due to higher prices paid to farmers and reflected smaller supplies coming to market. Industry experts predict supplies of beef in particular will increase later this year, but they are unable to say exactly when or how much.

The price of a pound of chopped chuck went up at the checkist store in five cities. Following increases in eight cities in May, pork chops were more expensive at the end of June at the check store in nine cities, as were all-beef frankfurters.

Eggs, which had been decreasing steadily for almost a year, went up during June in check stores in eight cities. Increases ranged up to 44 per cent in Dallas, where the price of a dozen Grade-A, medium white eggs went from 39 to 56 cents at the store checked.

—Sugar prices continued their slide, down at the checkist store in every city except Boston, where the specified size and type of sugar was unavailable at the outlet surveyed. The price of a five-pound sack of granulated sugar generally averaged about $1.30 at the end of June, contrasting with levels of about $1 at the end of last year.

On the brighter side, there were signs that things aren't as bad as they were in 1973 and 1974 when grocery prices soared as much as 20 per cent in a year, prompting some consumer boycotts.

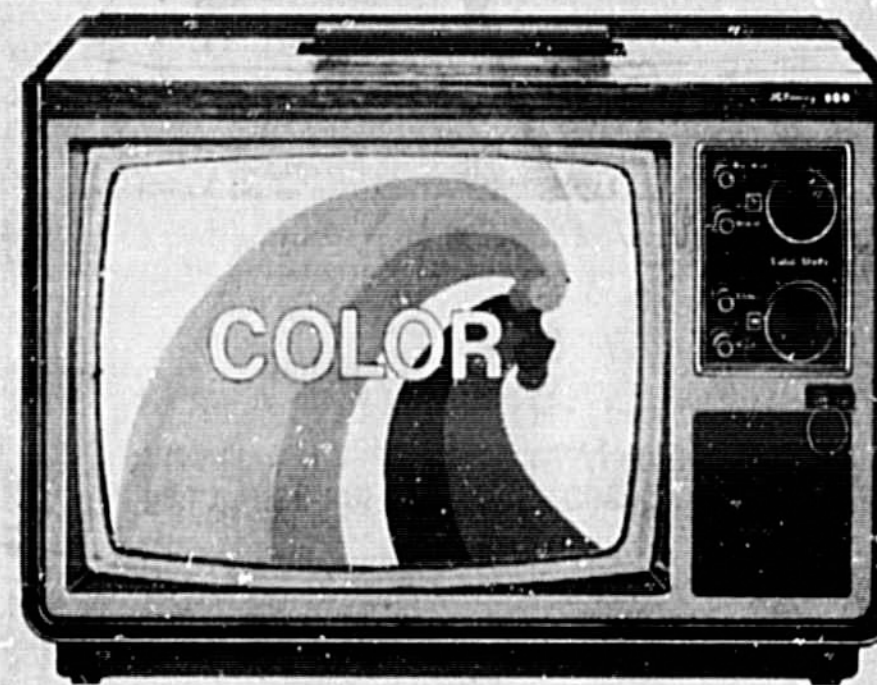

The AP survey showed the marketbasket bill for the checkist store in 13 cities covered was an average of 10 per cent higher at the end of June than it was a year earlier. And, in every city except Boston, the bill at the end of June was lower than it was at the start of the year. The average decrease was 8.7 per cent.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, milk, all-beef frankfurters and granulated sugar.

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M.; Atlanta, Ga.; Boston; Chicago; Dallas; Detroit; Los Angeles; Miami; New York; Philadelphia; Providence, R.I.; Salt Lake City, and Seattle.

Iron Deficiency May Be Cause

DEAR DR. LAMB — I need some help for an iron deficiency or iron poor blood. Some doctors call it a low blood count when they sample blood from me.

I'm 35, female, 5 feet 4 inches, and weigh 140 pounds. To the best of my knowledge I am in excellent health except for iron poor blood. I have had this condition for the last 16 years.

I have very little energy, stay tired and feel much of the time. I have nothing like a woman my age. I have to push myself to do my housework. Iron capsules help greatly, but they cause me to have an enormous appetite. If I were to continue taking them regularly I would gain several pounds which I do not want or need. I do not eat very many red meats, so-called blood builders. I do not eat cereals that long. Sometimes I eat red meats and take iron capsules just long enough to get to feeling well, but it occurs in about three weeks until it is time for my menstrual period, then it starts all over again.

What would cause me to have iron poor blood? Is there an organ in my body that does not function properly? What should I do to build my blood and restore the necessary iron?

DEAR READER — There are many causes for that old tired feeling and iron deficiency is only one. Before expecting too much from taking iron, you should let your doctor decide whether that is really your problem.

Iron deficiency anemia is common throughout the world, but it occurs in modern industrialized nations in women of the childbearing age, and is recurrently loss of blood from menstruation, so you are in the right age group.

Persistent blood loss from any location can induce iron deficiency because of loss of iron in the red blood cells. A person bleeding from a persistent tract or persistent loss of blood from hemorrhoids may become iron deficient.

You need iron for all the cells of the body. It is necessary to form hemoglobin in the red blood cells to carry oxygen. You need the oxygen to break down your food in the cells and release food energy. Failure to do this leads to fatigue. Iron deficiency is an important part of enzymes in the cell used to accomplish the breakdown. Without adequate iron, the bone marrow slows down and quits forming enough red blood cells. Those that are formed may be lacking in adequate amounts of iron.

For more information on iron deficiency anemia and how it affects you, write to me in care of this newspaper, Radio City Station, P.O. Box 1551, New York, N.Y. 10019, and ask for The Health Letter number 4-4 on Iron and Anemia. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope $9 cents for mailing and costs.

Women between the ages of 11 through the menopause need about 18 milligrams of iron in the diet each day. Even if it does stimulate your appetite, feeling better often leads to eating better.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Right age group today with social contacts, but you could generate sparks with a business associate or on the home front.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Ideas others try to impose upon you today aren't necessarily in your best interests. Do things the way you feel they should be done.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Continue to treat your parent you today. Stay with your respect today. Stay with your respect today. Stay with your respect today.

CANCER (June 21-July 20) You'll fare better in commercial dealings today if you bar those who have no business being there. Deal only with those who are involved.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 22) Though your motives will be honorable today, one who likes to make problems will try to distort your intent.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 21) You want others to share, you'll first have to put on the love some of what you're holding back.

LIBRA (Sept. 22-Oct. 23) You'll be involved in a venture with two friends. Each will pull in a different direction. You may end up with a giraffe, instead of a horse.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) Usually you can count on Lady Luck to bail you out of tight spots. Today, she isn't all that reliable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't neglect important home projects. If you sweep them under the rug, they may appear later at an embarrassing moment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be sure you're able to back any oral claims today. Someone is waiting to challenge you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll still have to resist temptation to spend frivolously. Pick up your new dress later, at a big bargain.

Gas Price Goes Up Again; Further Hikes Expected

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer

Motorists still are wheeling their gas hogs onto service station lots for a fillup, despite a hike in the cost of gasoline in Seminole County which has some dealers reporting a three-cent per gallon increase in the price at the pumps.

Water Line Break Repaired

City workers were busy today repairing a service line adjacent to a water main on First Street. The line broke early this morning and the repair job required some digging up of the street, shown above.

"The oil situation opened the door for major companies to price oil anyplace they want it. The whole problem is with the oil companies."

Dealers "expect increases the first of each month." His philosophy about increased prices: "Too much."

Mel Dekle of Dekle's Gulf Service on French Avenue said at a Mobil Station on Orlando Drive, prices went up last week by two cents. Prices at Howard's Mobil Service are now 60 cents for high test, 55 for regular.

Another dealer, H.B. Owens of Owens Phillips 66 says he expects an increase "any day," but hasn't been notified as of yet.

He also reported a "steady stream" of customers since prices went up. Some stations are now 60 cents for high test, 55 for regular.

Tucker says dealers who haven't been hit with an increase in the price at the pumps can expect prices to jump by the July 4 weekend, if not sooner.

Instead, station owners interviewed in Seminole say gasoline supplies will wear thin in some areas, with brief shortages in isolated instances.

Pay Freeze Won't Affect County Teachers: Layer

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer

A pay freeze called for by Florida Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington should not affect Seminole County educators, School Supt. Bud Layer said today.

In the state's "Monday Report," Turlington says there will be no merit increases for Department of Education (DOE) employees because of prohibitions placed on state workers in the 1975-76 appropriations bill.

"Salary increases can be granted only with promotions," Turlington announced.

But Layer says Turlington's directive affects "DGE and those who fall under the merit system."

In Seminole County, Layer said, the School Board adopts a salary schedule that runs the entire year.

School employees receive salary increments based on experience and number of years in the system.

The Board will be asked to grant a $312 pay hike for each of the county's 18 assistant elementary school principals because a study says assistant here are paid less than their counterparts in other Florida school systems.

At a meeting last week, the budget review committee voted in favor of the

Birthday Girl Born To Couple

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer

The Kenneth Glasgwys of Longwood are happy today.

Mrs. Glasgwy gave birth yesterday to their third child, a girl named Shannon, and her arrival fell on a very special day — the birthday of both her father and his mother.

Glasgwy said the odds of three generations of the same family being born on the same day are 130,000 to 1, according to The World Almanac, and that there is no record of such an event in the Guinness Book of Records.

His wife, Linda, and baby daughter Shannon are doing well at Florida Hospital North.

New Director Given Welcome

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Industrial Development Authority (SCIDA) today greeted its new director in a brief ceremony at the SCIDA meeting.

Director Jim Dunlap, at right shakes hands with board member Edward White while board member Gene Mooney wishes him chance to greet the new director.

Democratic Chairman Ann Cramer said Cable's June 13 election was illegal because written notice of intent wasn't mailed out to party members.

Greg Farmer, Cramer's assistant, said today that the party "wasn't unhappy with the results of the election. The only problem is that there was not sufficient notice. To be fair, people need 10 days written notice."

Linda Lohr, acting party chairman, says, "I hope to think of it as a group. I hope it just might be a personality conflict."

An Cable, contacted at his home, said he's looking forward to the election. He said the Cramer ruling was a "rule we weren't aware of."

Last month, Cable's name was placed in nomination from the floor and a majority of the committee members elected him with only a few dissenting votes.

"When they (the group) have a majority vote, there's not much you can do about it," Sinclair noted. He said the Cramer ruling was a "rule we weren't aware of."

Freeman Heard In Fire Probe

His remark came as he left the second-floor jury room during the recess.

Freeman returned to the grand jury room at 11:05 a.m. Freeman was without any file folders or visible records when he first appeared and when he returned after the recess.

Freeman, who would not discuss his appearance before the grand jurors, joked and laughed with newsmen as well as Asst. State Atty. William

Freeman told reporters, "Apparently I'm not finished yet."

Sinclair: Demo Group Seeks Power

By GLENN McCASLAND Herald Staff Writer

Former Seminole County Democratic Party chair Larry Sinclair said today a letter citing illegality in the temporary order of party Chairman Rod Cable is "a move to try and block a group" that is attempting to gain control of the party.

Meanwhile, party regulars say Cable is the "only person on the ticket" for a scheduled July 10 election, called after the state executive committee ruled Cable's June election was illegal.

Sinclair, in his resignation statement last month, cited a mysterious "group" as the main reason for stepping down. "Everything I tried to do" was blocked by the leader of the "group," Sinclair said today.

He declined to reveal the "group" or its leader.

"Evidently, the 'group' pushed the election. There wasn't enough notice given members," Sinclair noted.

County Holds Off Approving Park Bills

By MICHAEL LOCHRIDGE Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole Board of County Commissioners (BOC) has put a hold on approving the payment of approximately $100,000 in bills for services rendered in development of the park lands adjoining the new Central Florida Zoo.

Roger Neiswander, director of county development, reported to the BOC yesterday that the additional bills had been received by Neiswander's office for approval.

Neiswander said that he and the Commission chairman must approve the payments and then the bills are returned to the Central Florida Zoological Society.

The society then submits the bills to the society's escrow agent which pays the bills out of the escrow account.

However, the $100,000 bills arrive at a time when county and society officials are at a standoff on the development of the $100,000 worth of bills. The Herald was unable to contact Neiswander.
