As for the Evening Gown

The winter color card provides a series of beautiful pastel tints for evening gowns, among the sedate but rich dark colors that are advanced for the heavier materials and day-time wear. These dark colors include "African brown"—which is a very deep shade—"bottle green," "crow blue" (darker than navy)—dark taupe, and "field mouse" which is a warm shade in mouse color. A dark blue with a purple cam is called "black berry" and a dark purple like that of the grape is called "Concord."

is brought through a slash in the chiffon overdress and tied in a loop with long hanging end. This is finished with a bead tassel. Satin slippers and silk hose to match the gown in color, complete a simple and refined costume. This silk might be used for the underdress, and any of the pretty light colors or pastel tints chosen with good effect in this dress if selected with discretion. Stripes were better managed during the past season than ever before—at least within the memory of women—and this is the probable cause for their continuation in favor. In the lovely light colors and tints one can picture them in the evening gowns of the coming season. Luxuriant variety is possible in designs when we consider them made up with lace or nets or plain surfaces in one of the colors of the striped fabrics.

grenades and mines, and has come out, generally speaking, second best. Trench mortars have not developed the requisite accuracy nor the requisite destructive power. High explosive shells in sufficient quantities have accomplished the best offensive work, and the infantry is depending more and more on a short, heavy knife, which is the best for work underground or in the dark. To sum up: Killing the defenders of a position is accomplished by shells fired at least two miles away on the average; and, secondly, by what the French call body-to-body fighting, for which a knife is the best weapon. The training of infantry on the continent will in the future, undoubtedly include, the technique of hand-to-hand struggles—for which physical agility and strength must be developed."—New Republic.

Scientific Station in Spitzbergen. The German scientific station in Spitzbergen, which was founded in 1911 by Professor Hergesell, and has been constantly in operation, summer and winter, since that time, ceased its valuable activities at the outbreak of the European war. A party of scientific men which had sailed for Spitzbergen to relieve the staff was recalled, and the party at the station also succeeded in getting back to Germany safely with all their instruments and other equipment. This institution has carried on extensive investigations of the upper air with balloons, and was, in fact, founded primarily to study the conditions likely to be encountered by the expedition which Count Zeppelin proposed to take to the North Pole in an airship.

Sailor's Brave Deed. For saving his dog, Betty, a Pomoranian, when his ship, the Caucasian, was sunk by a German submarine, the captain is to receive a silver medal from the National Canine Defense League. The facts show that when the crew had taken to the boats the dog fell into the water and started to swim towards the submarine. Captain Robinson swam after it and rescued it just as it reached the submarine. The commander of the submarine said: "I made up my mind to blow up your boats, but now you save the little dog." Thus 38 lives were saved by the rescue of the dog. The captain swam back with the little animal sitting on his shoulder.

GLOOMY AT MICHIGAN

Yost Has Meager and Unsatisfactory Knowledge of Material.

Hughitt, Game Little Quarterback, and Five Prospective Stars Lost by Faculty Rulings—Maulbetsch Is Praised.

Coach Fielding H. Yost has a list of some fifty big strapping youngsters in line for his 1915 University of Michigan football team—but whether there are 11 football players in the bunch is a serious question.

Probably never in the history of the famous coach's activities at Ann Arbor has he had any more meager and unsatisfactory knowledge of the material at hand than he has for his 1915 machine.

Fire Hoop from Coach Yost to allow the whit to bowl at this early stage of the game, but facts are facts. In addition to losing such stars as Hughitt, the game little quarterback of the 1914 team, by graduation, "Hurry-Up" has been deprived of five of his prospective 1915 stars by faculty rulings.

The faculty has passed out the word that because of scholastic de-iciencies, Lyons and Traphagen, "M" men, and Ewert, Johnny Dunn and Brown of the freshmen eleven, will not be eligible for the varsity. "It's a pretty tough blow to learn that five men you counted heavily upon are not eligible," said Coach Yost. "I have a long list of men who will be given invitations to try for the 1916 team. I know that there are plenty of big, powerful men among them but whether there are any football players in the making I can't say. You can't tell until you see a man in the big game whether he has football sense or not. If they can't think football under fire, they won't be stars. And you can never tell what a man will do in a pinch until he is actually under great stress. There are very few men coming back to me who have been given the acid test. The material as a whole is about the greenest I have ever had."

Yost expects Johnny Maulbetsch, the brightest star of the Michigan outfit last season, to be greater than ever this season, in spite of the fact that he had appendicitis during the winter.

"Johnny told me he was feeling fine," said Yost, "when I saw him in Ann Arbor recently, although he doesn't weigh as much as he used to. I look for him to even excel his work of last season. His work on the defensive will undoubtedly be improved particularly in blocking and tackling."

Each one of the five men who have been declared ineligible will leave a hole that will be hard to fill. Lyons played a good end and backfield game and Traphagen was a powerful lineman. Ewert was without doubt the best lineman on the freshman team, playing at guard most of the time. Dunn, a former Ann Arbor high school star, was captain and quarterback of the first year team. Brown, former Detroit Central high school fullback, has been declared by former Coach Stocking to be one of the best backfield men he ever turned out—and Stock has turned out some corking good varsity material.

Coach Yost expects four tough battles this fall with the Michigan Agricultural college, Syracuse, Cornell and Pennsylvania.

Wagner Against Double-Headers. Hugs Wagner refers to double-headers as head-on collisions. "One in a week is bad enough," says Hugs, "but three of them telescoped into four days keep any club or manager guessing. The best club in the business finds it hard to win two games in one afternoon. Double-headers isn't the right name, and I prefer to call them head-on collisions. Three in a row are too much like a smashup."

Official Trial Horse. Gumbel Smith has replaced Jim Ryan as the official trial horse of the 1915 varsity who can't find Smith's successor to the junk pile, where he belongs.

WAYS OF TACTFUL NURSE

Man. Things That Should Be Observed by Those Who Would Minister to the Sick.

The best training in the world cannot turn a woman who has not the gift for nursing into a tactful nurse. Efficient and dependable she may be, but tact and sympathy must come by insight. However, there are certain rules and certain things that anyone trained in nursing should know and should remember when she is in the sick room.

Remember that you have no authority in the sick room, such as clearing your throat, talking, rocking, drumming with your fingers or making any unnecessary noise that might be irritating to the nerves. As most people who have such tricks are quite unconscious of them themselves, it is quite unnecessary to stop and think occasionally to be sure that you are guilty of such a thing.

Another fault that annoys patients is that many nurses have of talking to other people, the doctor or the nurse in an undertone or whisper with the ear of the patient. This is an unnecessary and discourteous to the patient, as it is to a well person. In many patients it is alarming to hear of such things. If you have anything to say that cannot be said in the hearing of the patient, go out of the room to say it.

A still more necessary point to remember is that the most exquisite neatness must be the order of the sick room. The slightest disorder is often intolerable to a nervous patient. Remember that all the patient would wish to have done in her room you must do for her, otherwise she will worry about it. If she is an habitual person and accustomed to have her furniture and personal belongings just so, it will fret and worry her to have them misplaced. Do not leave medicine bottles, bandages or any paraphernalia of the sick room in sight. They are depressing as well as ugly.

Do not insist upon straightening the bedclothes if your patient wishes to be let alone. Do not insist on anything that is unnecessary in the way of attention or regulations. Above all, hold always in your mind that you must study and consider your patient's personality and subdue your own. Do not thoughtlessly impose your will and habits upon a helpless, nervous invalid.

Knife the Best Weapon. Today the knife stands pat on earthworks, with our machine guns. The knife has a long, long, long history. It has been used in bayonets, siege artillery, field artillery,
