Killer gets reprieve from chair

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Supreme Court granted an indefinite stay of execution Wednesday for Robert Preston, who was facing his third date with the electric chair for the 1978 murder of a Seminole County store clerk.

Preston, 31, had been scheduled to be electrocuted at the Florida State Prison at Starke next Thursday. He was on his third death warrant.

Preston was sentenced for the Jan. 9, 1978, murder of Earline Walker, the clerk at an Altamonte Springs convenience store.

According to court records, Preston robbed Walker at knifepoint of $601 and forced her to accompany him to an open field a little more than one mile away.

TALLAHASSEE — Florida could seize a major role in the global marketplace but first must be able to produce such basic elements as a skilled work force, said a study the Florida Chamber of Commerce released Wednesday.

"Florida is poised to move onto a new level of economic leadership, where it is competing not only in the region but with its other national competitors — California, New York, Massachusetts — and internationally," said consultant Doug Henton of SRI International, who prepared the report.

Lake Mary takes tennis title

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — It had been a tradition in Seminole County high school boys' tennis that whoever won the Seminole Athletic Conference team championship also won the district title.

Well, traditions are made to be broken. On Wednesday at Sanlando Park, the Lake Mary boys avenged their loss to Lake Brantley in the SAC tournament two weeks ago with a victory in the 4A-District 5 tournament. With the district title comes a berth in the state tournament next Monday and Tuesday at the University of Florida.

Committee favors gas tax to pay road project costs

The Lake Mary Boulevard extension that dissects U.S. Highway 17-92 south of Sanford and connects with Sanford Ave. is now open and traffic has been medium to heavy, according to officials.

SANFORD — Of several funding mechanisms considered for the Lake Mary Boulevard Corridor beautification plan, roadway committee members favored the penny gas tax.

The Lake Mary Boulevard Corridor Study Committee met for the final time last night at the county services building after having worked for one year on the boulevard plan. The 12 members met to discuss procedures for organizing future road committees, to review recommendations to fund the $3.7 million gateway project, and to talk about how to word the penny gas tax on the ballot.

Sanford Commissioner Whitey Eckstein recommended that an elected official act as chairman of a roadway committee such as Chairman Randall Morris did. Morris served as chairman of the committee while he served as Lake Mary commissioner last year.

Morris agreed, saying that an elected official as chairman carries "more of a statement of authority."

Board to discuss school options

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board will hear a plan to finance more than $425 million needed to build new schools at a work session at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Board members had been told they would need $425 million over the next two decades to build 20 new elementary schools, five middle schools and two high schools. Supt. Robert Hughes and his assistants have been formulating a plan to finance that growth.

"This work session will just lay out the situation that is facing us and present some options that are available to the board," said Karen Coleman, district coordinator for community relations.

While a board-commissioned study done by Randy Young of Henderson, Young and Company, which was designed to determine the appropriate amount of impact fees for the populace of Seminole County, recommends the imposition of the largest impact fees in Florida, it is not likely that the governmental agencies who could levy such fees would approve such a dramatic number.

Tuesday a judge in St. Johns County, calling impact fees an unfair tax, ruled against the imposition of school impact fees in that county. The Homebuilders Association of Florida has said that they will seek similar actions elsewhere in the state.

While the ruling only affects St. Johns County, it could create problems in Seminole County, which sees a need for impact fees in the future.

Coleman suggested that if, as the St. Johns County attorney has indicated, the case involving the impact fees becomes involved in a lengthy appeals process, the question of funding for future growth could be put in "limbo" for a very long time.

"We have, however, always had 'voluntary' impact fees," said Coleman who explained that builders often donate land on which schools may be built rather than paying such fees.

Wekiva, Keeth and Stenstrom elementary schools as well as Greenwood Lakes Middle School are built on land that was "donated" by developers.

Impact fees are only one option for financing that is available to the board.

Attorney's bills upset SHA boss

SANFORD — The acting director of the Sanford Housing Authority has asked its attorney to drop efforts to rid public housing projects of drug dealers — if he's going to bill the agency for it.

"Your interest in drug activity on Housing Authority property is certainly admirable," interim executive director Linda Williams said in a letter to attorney James Sweeting III last week. "However, it could have been more so had it not cost this agency money."

Sweeting said yesterday he had no problem with Williams' bill.

Barrel removal bill reduced to $25,000

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — The city will try to avoid a court battle by considering another bill reduction by Chemical Conservation Corporation, Orlando, the company which removed and tested 16 illegally buried barrels.

Their latest offer is $25,000 which was presented in writing to the city, according to Acting City Administrator Donald Terry. Terry said yesterday that he spoke with the company's attorney, Peter O'Rourke, who indicated that he would recommend that the bill be lowered even further to $23,000. City Attorney Richard S. Taylor Jr. said at Monday's commission meeting that he doubted whether the company would agree to accept the $13,333 offered by the city in February. Taylor recommended a counteroffer of $20,000, a midway point between the company and the city's offers.

"My recommendation is to give them our bottom offer of $20,000. We have to look at the economics of it," Taylor said.

He said that by making another offer, the city could avoid at least $5,000 in attorneys fees and another $2,000 in related costs to fight the case in court.

The city was surprised earlier this year by a $31,000 bill that commissioners said exceeded ten times the purchase order to do the excavation work.

Longwood officials delayed payment of the bill and asked for a revision in January. The company reduced the bill to $29,379.44 in February, but city officials were not satisfied. Commissioners offered to pay the company $13,333.28. However, the company thought the offer was too low and threatened to sue the city for payment of the bill. No company official was available for comment either yesterday or this morning.

Terry said the issue will be considered at the next commission meeting on May 1.

Sixteen barrels were removed from behind the public works department last December and laboratory tests confirmed that half of the barrels contained hazardous waste.

Local children's center in market for a new home

By SUSAN LOEEN
Herald staff writer

WINTER SPRINGS — The Missing Children's Center, Inc., the only non-profit organization in Central Florida that addresses the needs of missing children and their families, needs a new home.

Executive Director Joan Hopkins said the building that has housed the organization rent free for 4½ years at 898 W. State Road 434, Winter Springs, has been sold. The center must move out by June 1, and Hopkins said the group needs room for two or three offices.

The center operates on a budget of $50,000 a year, with two salaried employees and volunteers. They can't afford to pay rent and hope to have another location donated rent free, Hopkins said.

Since the Adam Walsh Center in Orlando closed this year because of a lack of money, Hopkins said, the Missing Children's Center, which works on a national as well as local level, is the only organization in the area that provides support for missing children.

The center, which supports the efforts of police and parents in finding missing and runaway children, was established in Casselberry in 1984. Lake Mary Police Sgt. Tom Taggart called the center a "lifeline" for families.

Crash landing

Student pilot Robert Chastain, who crash-landed this plane into a fence at State Road 434 and Brantley Road, rural Winter Springs, just after 5 p.m. Wednesday, said the engine on his craft just stopped. Investigators said the plane, en route from Sanford to Orlando, ran out of gas. The pilot, who was flying alone, wasn't injured and there was minor damage to the plane, investigators said.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Jury says Cruse should die

United Press International

BARTOW — Convicted shopping center sniper William Bryant Cruse should be sentenced to death for killing six people during a 1987 shooting rampage in Palm Bay, a circuit court jury recommended Wednesday.

The 61-year-old former librarian was convicted April 5 of six counts of first-degree murder, two counts of kidnapping and 24 counts of attempted murder, and the same jury of seven women and five men took less than three hours to recommend the death sentence.

Brevard County Circuit Judge John Antoon scheduled sentencing for 9 a.m. EDT July 28. Antoon is not bound by the jury's recommendation, and if he overrides the recommendation, Cruse would receive life in prison.

The jurors rejected defense arguments that Cruse was insane when he went on the shooting spree at two shopping centers at the Brevard County community south of Melbourne. The trial was moved to Bartow because of the publicity in Brevard County.

Prosecutors had contended the actions of Cruse were premeditated and presented testimony showing he had purchased the guns and ammunition well in advance.

Witnesses testified Cruse believed residents of the community considered him a homosexual and were talking behind his back.

During the sentencing phase of the trial, which began Monday, the jurors were told by Tampa psychiatrist Dr. Robert Berland, who was called by the defense, that Cruse had shot at people before, including his invalid wife who now is with friends in her native Turkey.

Cruse was charged with felony assault in that case, but it was reduced to a misdemeanor and he was placed on probation.

DEA agent, former cop indicted

MIAMI — A federal drug agent and a former police officer who was active in triggering one of Miami's worst race riots have been indicted for selling protection to a government informant's drug-smuggling ring for $300,000.

The indictment, recorded in Miami federal court Wednesday, was returned by a federal grand jury late Tuesday afternoon.

It charges Drug Enforcement Administration agent Jorge Villar, 44, and former Metro-Dade County officer Alex Marrero with conspiracy to distribute cocaine and conspiracy to commit bribery. If convicted, both men face a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

For the past two years Villar, a former Miami police officer and senior DEA agent with 11 years of service in the federal agency, has been a criminal investigator for the South Florida Joint Task Force against drugs.

Marrero, now a private investigator, was the key defendant in the 1979 beating death by Miami police of black insurance executive Arthur McDuffie. He and three other officers were acquitted of second-degree murder charges by an all-white jury in Tampa.

The verdict sparked rioting in Miami's black communities that left 18 people dead and caused $80 million in property damage.

Marrero also has been linked to the 11,000-acre brushfire that blanketed south Florida last week. Charred documents from Eastern Security and Investigations, a firm run by Marrero, were found where the fire started in west Dade County, investigators said.

The records were set on fire with gasoline and the blaze spread through the Everglades. The fire broke out only hours after Marrero and Villar were arrested, said Joe Subic, an investigator for the Florida Department of Agriculture.

Eleven alleged mob figures arrested

FORT LAUDERDALE — Eleven alleged members and associates of the Bonanno and Colombo organized crime families were arrested Wednesday in Florida and New York on charges of operating gambling houses and selling cocaine.

The 11 suspects were charged in a 17-count federal indictment with engaging in a racketeering enterprise and operating gambling establishments in the Fort Lauderdale area, as well as being involved with the sale of cocaine.

"Today we're holding a little going out of business ceremony," U.S. Attorney Dexter Lehtinen said.

The FBI said the arrests stemmed from a three-year investigation centered on those individuals reputedly connected with the Bonanno family. Charles Musillo, 63, of Staten Island, N.Y., a reputed captain in the family, allegedly was in charge of those individuals.

The operation was allegedly centered at the Camelot Thoroughbred Training Center, a horse training and stable facility located in Davie, southwest of Fort Lauderdale.

The owner is Richard Musumeci, 47, a reputed member of the Bonanno family who was among those arrested, along with Musillo, said William A. Gavin, who is in charge of the Miami FBI office. Among the charges against Musumeci was one accusing him of selling two pounds of cocaine to an FBI undercover agent in August 1987 and offering to sell him more.

The indictment charged Musillo, Musumeci, Harry Roth, 50, of Davie, an alleged associate of the Bonanno family, and Michael Mowery, 59, of Davie, vice president of the horse training center who worked for Musillo, with engaging in a racketeering enterprise.

Lawmakers press parental leave

TALLAHASSEE — Two state legislators urged their colleagues Wednesday to pass bills extending parental leave benefits to male employees and eliminating class discrimination in the state's parental leave policy.

Sen. Helen Gordon Davis, D-Tampa, was optimistic her bill affecting only the state's parental leave policy would be approved by the Senate. But Rep. Elaine Gordon, D-North Miami, said her bill to require private employers to grant unpaid leave faces an uphill battle in the House.

"We are hoping the conscience and consciousness of the legislators will have them react in a positive way," Gordon said in a news conference.

Davis added: "Florida lawmakers have professed to be pro-family. If so, we should put our money where our mouths are. We should put our voices where our slogans are and we should put our policies where our values are."

Current state law provides six months unpaid leave for new and expecting mothers. Male employees are permitted up to four months unpaid leave, but due to a quirk in the statutes, the benefit applies only if they are adopting.

The state does grant up to six months unpaid paternity leave for university administrators, legislative staff and senior or supervisory employees. "In fact, everyone in state government except career service employees," Davis said.

County sued over minority contract policy

United Press International

TAMPA — Four construction companies are challenging in federal court the constitutionality of Hillsborough County's minority contracting policy, claiming it discriminates against white businessmen.

The county commission refused earlier this month to suspend its policy that funnels construction dollars into minority firms, despite a warning from County Attorney Fred Karl the policy might not survive legal scrutiny.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled in a case involving Richmond, Va., that local governments must have detailed evidence of discrimination to justify setting aside some contracts for minority firms.

The Hillsborough County policy requires contractors bidding on government projects make an effort to hire a certain percentage of black, Hispanic and female contractors, generally about 25 percent.

Four companies filed suit in U.S. District Court Tuesday, asking that the policy be ruled unconstitutional because it has discriminated since its adoption in 1984 against white contractors in favor of minority-owned businesses.

The suit was filed by The Cone Corp., Cone Constructors Inc., J.W. Conner & Sons Inc. and Dallas 1 Construction & Development. All are major contractors involved in road building and other construction work and regularly compete for county business.

The suit contends county officials have not proven blacks, Hispanics and women had suffered in getting county business, making the Minority Business Enterprise Program "unconstitutional and unenforceable."

It alleges minority-owned firms got few county construction dollars not because of discrimination but because they lacked management expertise, capital to devote manpower and equipment to a job and a working knowledge of county bidding procedures.

The suit suggests that instead of requiring contractors to hire a certain percentage of minority subcontractors the county should use "non-race conscious remedies," such as providing advice on bidding procedures or guaranteeing or underwriting loans to minority firms.

Similar lawsuits by contractors are pending against minority set-aside programs in Jacksonville and in Dade County.

The Tampa City Council recently voted to suspend its minority preference pending the results of a study. The Lakeland City Commission voted last month to reinstate its minority preference program.

Paul Curtis, president of the Florida Black Contractors Alliance, said the legal challenge may help minority firms in the long run by getting concrete guidelines.

Gustafson: Taxes needed to meet Florida's needs

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — New revenue estimates indicate that without new taxes, the 1989-90 state budget will be even tighter than expected and will not meet the needs of the state, House leaders said Wednesday.

House Speaker Tom Gustafson said that unless Gov. Bob Martinez relaxes his hard-line stance against increasing taxes this year, lawmakers will have little choice but to pass an inadequate budget.

"It (the lowered projected revenues) makes it clear that, even more than before, we are not going to be able to meet the needs of Florida — because the money just isn't there," Gustafson said.

"Obviously there is going to be a lot of belt-tightening in order to meet the needs of Florida with inadequate revenues. Whether it be transportation, education, human services, arts, libraries, children — take your pick."

Lawmakers base their annual budget on projections made by state economists each April. Early evaluations had given legislators hope the final projection would give them an extra $100 million to work with.

But on Tuesday, a conference of state economists concluded that things had not worked out as well as expected. They said non-recurring revenues, which is one-time income that will not be repeated in future years, will actually be $85.9 million lower than had been expected.

Department of elderly affairs stalls in Senate committee

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — A Senate committee vote on legislation to create a new Department of Elderly Affairs was postponed Wednesday after its sponsor frankly admitted his bill would die if it came to a vote.

Sen. George Stuart, D-Orlando, asked the Senate Health and Rehabilitative Services to postpone the vote on his bill, which would transfer some elderly services away from the Health Services Department.

Stuart said he needed at least one more vote to get the bill out of the committee and send it to an even less-promising hearing in the Senate Governmental Operations Committee.

Stuart, a Democratic candidate for governor, said voters overwhelmingly approved the new department at the polls last November. A constitutional amendment mandating creation of a Department of Veterans Affairs — but only authorizing creating of the Elderly Affairs Department — was adopted by more than a 2-1 margin.

Sen. Curt Kiser, R-Dunedin, chairman of the Governmental Operations committee, took the "unusual step" of testifying against the new department in the HRS committee.

Study: Florida ready for international competition

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Florida could seize a major role in the global marketplace but first must be able to produce such basic elements as a skilled work force, said a study the Florida Chamber of Commerce released Wednesday.

"Florida is poised to move onto a new level of economic leadership, where it is competing not only in the region but with its other national competitors — California, New York, Massachusetts — and internationally," said consultant Doug Henton of SRI International, who prepared the report.

"It's a good-news story — Florida has done well in the past decade — and it's a challenge, because the new decade is going to have international competitive challenges."

But Florida must make some changes if it to grasp that opportunity, Henton said. Most importantly, the state must improve its ability to produce skilled workers, including workers trained in communications, aerospace and other high-technology industries.

Florida made great economic strides in the last decade, the report states, because of its favorable business climate. Florida currently has the fourth-lowest taxes, the 10th-highest level of state business incentives and the sixth-lowest labor costs.

But the next decade will demand resources Florida is not in good shape to provide, Henton said. The state currently ranks 32nd in available work force, 48th in education and 41st in transportation.

Florida can improve its production of trained workers by increased partnerships between business and government, Henton said. He cited the Chamber of Commerce's attempt to encourage math education in the public schools as a good example.

The report also strongly recommends Florida concentrate on producing "value-added" products, that is, products that have been processed into a more saleable, more costly form.

For example, Henton said, Florida could earn more from its agricultural products if industry also packaged food in attractive forms, such as microwavable dinners.

The report was endorsed by Lt. Gov. Bobby Brantley, who heads the state Department of Commerce.

Sheriffs unite to fight crack

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Florida's sheriffs are uniting in the fight against crack cocaine by developing regional networks to assist each other with narcotics enforcement.

The effort is sponsored by the Florida Sheriffs Association. Seminole County Sheriff John Polk said the plan is the outcome of a March meeting of the association, during which sheriffs agreed to supply manpower and money when and where needed to go into another area in their region to support enforcement efforts against crack cocaine. He said the statewide program is in the organizational stages.

Some counties, Polk said, are too small to have the money and manpower to develop strong drug task forces. He added that no county in the state is so small that it is untouched by the crack cocaine plague. Counties with strong drug task forces also sometimes need enforcement assistance.

Currently, Seminole County's City County Investigative Bureau, a multi-police agency vice task force, gives and receives support to and from other area law enforcement agencies. The new program will be an expansion of that type of aid. Seminole County is assigned to one of five state regions in the program, along with Flagler, Brevard, Volusia, Lake, Osceola, Orange and Indian River counties, Polk said.

CCIB Commander Lt. Donald Eslinger said the statewide crack task force would create a "roster of 50 people to get together and go take care of business. There's not a county in the state that doesn't have a crack problem. If they say they don't, I don't know if they are well informed enough to make that statement."

"This would not be a full time effort. It would be part time. We are doing it now on a weekly basis. Orange County, Sanford and Altamonte Springs police help us and we help them."

Eslinger said.

A school to train officers in anti-drug techniques will be established in Ft. Lauderdale as part of the program, Polk said.

Assistance would be on a short-term, case by case basis. The agency offering the aid would pay its own expenses, Polk said. Some funds for the fight against narcotics comes from the forfeiture of money, vehicles and properties of drug traffickers and users. Such funds are shared by all police agencies involved specific arrests where such property is confiscated.

It will be about six months before the statewide anti-crack cocaine task force is on the job, Polk said.

POLICE BRIEFS

Suspect accused of battering guards

SANFORD — A man accused of taking a taxi to buy $60 worth of crack cocaine in rural Altamonte Springs was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies after they stopped the speeding cab and found the cocaine in the passenger's possession at about 2:35 a.m. today on County Road 427, rural Altamonte Springs.

When Michael Alle Eck, 26, of Lakeland, was being booked into the Seminole County jail for possession of cocaine, he allegedly battered two jail guards. He had two counts of battery on a corrections officer added against him. Deputies reported Eck was very irate and pulled out large clumps of his own hair and bashed his own head against a metal divider at the jail. A jail nurse treated him for a minor head cut. Bond is $3,000.

Church and his wife suffered serious injury in the accident. He is accused of making a left turn into the path of a westbound car driven by an off-duty Orange County sheriff's deputy. The deputy was not injured. Sanford police investigated the accident. Church has been released on $500 bond.

The deputies said they confronted Rhoden at a phone booth at the Joy station on State Road 436 at Lake Howell Road, rural Altamonte Springs, at about 4:46 p.m. Wednesday. The manager of the station complained he was selling crack cocaine at that location. Bond is $3,000.

Warren, Duda ask for vote continuance

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — County Commissioner Pat Warren said a 500-acre office park proposed for the Oviedo area "needs more time than a fast track."

Warren and the developer, Duda Lands, Inc., have requested a continuance on Tuesday's county commission vote on a zoning request for the park, said Herb Hardin of the county land development office.

The office park is proposed for 497 acres northwest of the Red Bug Lake Road and County Road 428 intersection.

Warren said a zoning request for the park needs more consideration before the commission votes on the plans. Duda has requested a zoning change from agricultural to office showroom use.

Warren said the office showroom designation needs to be "pinned down" so that the structures won't be converted to warehouses later. Density, building heights, buffers and childcare for the area need further consideration and compromise, she said.

"This thing is going right up to the back doors of homeowners who have been there for years," Warren said. Residents of Oviedo and Winter Springs need to have input in the county's consideration of the plan.

A two-month delay will give the county and Duda "an opportunity to reach some positive compromise," she said.

"The concern I hear in the county is that it has gone so fast and without seeming opposition that people are suspicious and left not too pleased with government processes," Warren said.

Duda's zoning request was approved by the county planning and zoning commission April 5.

Spill threatens fishing port

United Press International

VALDEZ, Alaska — The giant slick from the nation's largest oil spill posed a new risk to Alaska's economy as it spread toward a major fishing port 250 miles from where the oil gushed from an Exxon tanker nearly four weeks ago.

Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan was scheduled to arrive in Valdez Thursday for an aerial tour of oil damage along the coast of Prince William Sound. Lujan also will visit the rich fishing ports of Homer and Kodiak and several Alaskan native villages affected by the spill.

"The Secretary wants a first-hand look before he forms any judgments," said Steve Goldstein, an Interior spokesman.

The trip was arranged by Rep. Don Young, R-Alaska. Young will accompany Lujan, as will Reps. Curt Weldon, R-Pa.; Elton Gallegly, R-Calif.; and Robert Lagomarsino, R-Calif.

A new threat to Alaska's commercial fishing industry developed Wednesday as westward winds pushed oil sludge into Chugach Pass separating Chugach Island from Kenai Peninsula, 250 miles southwest of the spill site. Homer is located just north of the pass.

The Coast Guard was rushing a custom-designed 84-inch-wide boom to protect Homer by containing the oily flow in the pass.

A 425-foot Soviet skimming vessel, larger than any Coast Guard ship, is in the Gulf of Alaska and will begin operations off the tip of the Kenai Peninsula where crude already threatens the Barren Islands and the rich fishing grounds of Kodiak.

"This is our first offensive weapon, an effort to head off the big plume," said Larry Dietrich, a commissioner with the Alaska Department of Economic Concessions.

The Soviet ship has the capacity to sweep up 5,000 barrels an hour and can store up to 50,000 barrels.

The "plume" or thick strand of weathered oil — estimated at about 10,000 barrels — has escaped the booms of Prince William Sound where 10.1 million gallons escaped from the tanker Exxon Valdez beginning March 24.

"The vessel can handle big water, rough water," said Dietrich. "It's a sea-going vessel and the (Coast Guard) has nothing comparable."

Normally the waters close to the southern terminus of the trans-Alaskan pipeline are forbidden to Soviet military craft. But the Vaydagursky was given a 30-day waiver to work within 3 miles of land from the Sound to the Kodiak Archipelago, 350 miles away. It also can make port calls. Visit of the giant skimmer

Grand Romance paddles its way toward Sanford

FREEPORT — The Riverboat Grand Romance was launched here late last month.

The $2.7 million riverboat will sail from the Panhandle city to Sanford, arriving for service July 1.

Nancy Yronis, Lou Briggs and Bill and Gertrude Sternberg, all of the local family who operates the Rivership Romance, attended the hull christening of the Grand Romance March 24 in Freeport.

The boat will replace the Rivership Romance, which sails from Monroe harbor daily for luncheon, evening and two-day cruises. The new ship will accommodate up to 600 passengers, with a dining capacity of 350 persons — double the capacity of the Rivership Romance.

The 135-foot boat will be a detailed replica of a St. Johns River sidewheeler.

American River Cruises, Inc. of Sanford will operate the four-tier ship.

Singleton to buy Pasadena Star-News from Knight-Ridder

United Press International

MIAMI — William Dean Singleton has agreed to buy the Pasadena Star-News and a group of smaller affiliated newspapers in California from Knight-Ridder Inc. for $55 million, the communications company said Wednesday.

Singleton, who has interests in 22 other dailies, including The Houston Post and The Denver Post, will form Pasadena Newspapers Inc. to purchase the properties, an assistant said.

The sale to Singleton, who is vice chairman and chief executive officer of MediaNews Group Inc. of Houston, includes four semiweekly newspapers in Southern California — the Arcadia Tribune, the Duartean, the Monrovia News-Post and the Temple City Times, Knight-Ridder said.

The four newspapers are part of Foothill Intercity Newspapers and have a combined circulation of 23,600, Knight-Ridder spokeswoman Lee Ann Schlatter said.

Knight-Ridder, publisher of The Miami Herald and 29 other daily newspapers, put the Star-News and Post-Tribune in Gary, Ind., up for sale in January. The company is still seeking to sell the Post-Tribune, Schlatter said.

Acting under orders is an unacceptable defense

Insofar as Oliver North's lawyers are basing their defense on the contention that North's Iran-Contra activities followed a course that he understood was approved by his superiors, including the president, they have already succeeded.

Even the prosecution's witnesses — from the ambiguously evasive former national security adviser, Robert McFarlane, to the ethically challenged former attorney general, Edwin Meese — must have left the jurors wondering whether North acted in any way that was not implicitly sanctioned by his bosses at the National Security Council and the White House. Here again, the late CIA director, William Casey, lurks as the eminence grise, the man who, according to a defense witness, had assured President Reagan's approval to let North act as what he called "the reference point" for aiding the Contras after Congress voted to prohibit such aid.

In the end, it's unlikely that the jurors, much less the majority of Americans, will successfully be able to unscramble responsibility from responsibility. What the president wanted, what his superiors did and his successor John Poindexter wanted, what North thought they wanted and what the overly zealous Marine colonel undertook on his own.

But is the omelet defense enough? The experience of the past half-century — whether one considers the unspeakable acts of the Nazis or the felonies of Watergate — makes it clear that acting under orders cannot be tolerated as a defense for a crime. If it were, then there would never be any sanction other than punishing the one person at the top.

The testimony regarding Reagan's personal approval of the delivery of military intelligence to the Contras and his approval of a plan to encourage Honduras to help the Contras, as well as the president's own fifty percent approval of the aid, makes it clear that the president was more involved in the illegal delivery of aid to the Contras than the Tower Commission or the congressional investigations of 1987 — not to mention Reagan himself — had publicly disclosed.

Reagan was said to believe that, as president, he was not subject to the ban on immunity that the Constitution now rests his defense on Reagan's ability to pass the immunity on to anyone on whom he bestowed his blessing. But in a government of laws neither can be allowed to be true. If the jury finds that North broke the law by lying to Congress or to the attorney general, or that he destroyed evidence, it doesn't matter who he thinks gave him authority to do it. He would be as guilty as the people who gave the blessings and issued the orders.

Second thoughts on animal rights

After my recent column on animal rights, I recalled Charles Dickens' famed opening line: "It was the best of times, it was the worst of times ... It was the epoch of belief, it was the epoch of incredulity."

It was my incredulity and the intensity and outpouring of reader response that stunned me. Yet, there was an overarching beauty to the outburst, even if it was aimed at me.

The people I heard from love animals so deeply that they are determined to prevent exploitative cruelty in the name of research or fashion. These ultimate humanitarians link their own breath of life with that of all living creatures and consider cruelty to an animal every bit as heinous as cruelty to a human being.

It is a position that I still cannot accept. But my consciousness has been raised (has it ever!), my conscience tested and my education broadened. So this is a column of contrition.

At the recent Women's Equality/Women's Lives march in Washington, D.C., which I covered as a journalist but marched in as a feminist, I saw the Pulitzer Prize-winning black writer Alice Walker, an old friend who has written in support of animal rights.

I told her I owed her an apology. I had suggested in my original column that blacks avoid the animal rights movement. Alice listened quietly, said nothing, but reached up, hugged me and moved on.

In that same column, I wrongfully questioned the commitment of Dr. George P. Cave, president of Trans-Species Unlimited and suggested that it was an elitist movement.

Cave, a gentle, soft-spoken scholar (Ph.D. in philosophy), goes beyond being a mere vegetarian. He is a vegan, a practitioner of a lifestyle that is closest to Albert Schweitzer's ideology of "reverence for life." Vegans do not wear or eat anything that comes from an animal. That includes leather and dairy products. They have a respect for all living animals that humbles you, even if you disagree with it.

Cave and I had a thoughtful telephone conversation. Speciesism, he said, inflicts needless and wanton pain on animals in the same way that racism and sexism arbitrarily abuse blacks and women. He quoted the great utilitarian philosopher, Jeremy Bentham: "Pain is pain no matter who suffers it."

I can't argue with that. But free animals can survive, and free humans are still homeless and starving. It is not coincidental that a black columnist, Bill Raspberry of The Washington Post, shared my objections to the animal rights movement in a 1981 column, "Saving Monkeys, Ignoring People."

But Cave insists that "those who liberate themselves from arbitrary prejudice against members of their own species are also more likely to evolve ethically toward the realization that other creatures who share this planet with us also have a right to live out their lives free from oppression and exploitation, and that we are not entitled to inflict pain, suffering and death upon them unnecessarily — particularly for something as selfish and frivolous as fur coats."

Agreed. But the ultimate logic of this position, of course, raises questions about animals as pets (they are, in a sense, slaves), animals in the zoo and animals who provide life-giving vitamins.

It is a position that I still cannot accept.

Fighting for our rights

WASHINGTON — Far, far back in the crowd that had turned the march into gridlock, one young woman climbed onto a friend's shoulder and offered instructions to her schoolmates. "Stand behind the banner when we march," she yelled, and then added, "And look for my mom!"

I never found out if the lost mom was recovered in the stream of humanity that shuffled down Constitution Avenue. But if anything typified the crowd, it was the pairs of mothers and daughters in every nucleus of demonstrators. Mothers who had grown up in an era of illegal abortion walking with daughters who had only known an era of legal abortion.

To many of the mothers — including this one — it was a bittersweet experience. It was good to be surrounded by a younger generation. But the older generation thought we'd won this one for them.

What inspired this unprecedented number of 300,000 supporters to march on Washington was the fear that the Supreme Court will use the Missouri case to overturn legal abortion. But in the end, this was less of an effort to lobby the Court than to regroup and make the case for choice to the people.

As long as Roe vs. Wade has protected abortion, pro-choice supporters have had the luxury of saying this decision is nobody else's business. In the words of one chant: "Not the church, not the state, women must decide their fate."

But if, as all but the most optimistic believe, this more conservative Court allows more restrictions, then access to abortion will hinge on public attitudes. It will be decided by Americans who are now ambivalent about the values that infuse this stalemated debate.

Today, about 10 to 20 percent of Americans are opposed to abortion under all circumstances. Some 30 to 40 percent wholeheartedly support the legal status quo. The pro-choice majority rests on what has been called the wobbly assent of the middle. Americans who support abortion for "good reasons." The three reasons, I have been told, are "rape, incest and me." The "me" includes our daughters, wives, neighbors, friends, those we know as responsible.

Americans are uncomfortable with "abortion on demand." They do not regard the termination of a pregnancy the way they regard an appendectomy. Americans are also profoundly uncomfortable with the idea that some outsider — government or judge — could force a woman to carry a child against her will, her husband's will, her family's will. So they wobble.

The pro-choice movement which has directed its message at the courts and at its own supporters now must turn to the wobbly middle. Those attempts could be read in the NARAL posters, "Who Decides? You or Them?" But it isn't enough.

Frances Kissling, president of Catholics for a Free Choice and a philosopher of the pro-choice movement, says: "We have to go to where the majority of people are." She says that the language of women's rights, so obvious and potent to these marchers (Mind Your Own Uterus), means something else to the middle Americans of the late '80s: selfishness. The talk about the "right" to abortion should turn to talk about the "need" for abortion.

Kissling also utters words that are taboo among some of her colleagues. "Some abortions are indeed immoral," she says. Abortion for gender selection is one clear example. Pro-choicers shouldn't be afraid to raise these moral issues. "I accept abortion on every level," says Kissling, "but I still firmly believe it would be better if women did not become pregnant when they were not prepared to create life."

Those who believe deeply in the need to keep abortion safe and legal must present their position as both caring and responsible. Caring means, among other things, that abortion clinics should provide a bridge between their teen-age patients and adults. Responsible means that pro-choice advocates "have to stop making excuses for women who won't use birth control."

It is difficult to admit ambiguity in the face of the militant certainty of the anti-abortionists. It is hard to expand a traditional and honorable vocabulary of "rights" into a wider discussion of "needs." But by expressing their own values and their understanding of ambiguity, those who support legal abortion may well increase their standing in the eyes of the ambivalent many.

Certainly this march provided a model. Two generations walked and talked in unison about the commitment to keep abortion legal. And about the hope that abortion would never be needed. This is a message to take to the wobbly middle.

The three reasons, I have been told, are 'rape, incest and me.'

Helicopter is the best when it works

WASHINGTON — The Army's prized AH64 Apache attack helicopter is billed as the best weapon in the sky since Superman. But take away the hype and the Army is left with a fleet of flying lemons — $13 million lemons.

The amazing twin-engine whirlybird "sees" at night and zaps enemy tanks with Hellfire missiles, but only when it works. After testing the gold-plated Apache in war games, a North Carolina Army brigade commander recently told his superiors that, all things considered, he'd rather go to war in something left over from Vietnam.

The Army has refused to publicly detail what's wrong with the Apache. But our associate Jim Lynch has obtained internal Army documents that reveal the secrets about the Apache. It is the Army's version of Murphy's Law. Almost anything that can go wrong with it does.

When the Apache was recently tested in mock battle in the desert, the guns failed half of the time and the air filters gagged on sand. In the Army's own words: "Within three days after arrival in the desert, 50 percent of the AH64 mission had to be aborted due to sand ingestion." That's no problem, as long as the United States never goes to war in any country with sand.

Top Army brass are exasperated. Three generals met with McDonnell Douglas, which builds the Apache, in late February to discuss the problems. The Army's report from that private meeting stressed that the Army could no longer afford to have a helicopter called "the best in the world" if everyone wants to add "when it works."

"The best" has cost the taxpayers $7.4 billion to date and there is no indication that the Army will abandon its high-tech turkey. The money has produced 453 Apaches. Another 520 are on order from McDonnell Douglas which can turn out 10 a month.

The Army has lost five Apaches in flight since the helicopters first rolled off the assembly line five years ago. Two more were burned on the ground. The entire fleet has been grounded three times. Army memos indicate the Apache spends too much time in the shop. It costs about $5,000 in maintenance for every hour an Apache helicopter flies.

The Apache's ailments start at the top with its 22-foot main rotor blade. Its major flaw is that it falls apart. Fort Rucker in Alabama replaced 166 blades in the past year at a cost of $63,257 each. That's $10.5 million wasted on faulty blades at Fort Rucker alone.

The Army grounded the whole fleet in 1986 when it found cracks in the blades of 13 new helicopters. McDonnell Douglas and the Army say the blade problems are not a threat to life. But a confidential Army report says, "Fort Rucker recently had a (main rotor blade) disintegration in flight that could easily have cost us two more lives."

Among the litany of Apache problems are wire and cable breaks, oil and water contamination, tail rotor failures, compressor failures and rotor strap breaks.

When the Apache does what it is supposed to do, the Army still thinks this 24-carat bird can be the best defense against Soviet tanks. A McDonnell Douglas spokesman told us the Apache is new technology and that snags are to be expected.

That excuse is no comfort when 453 of the helicopters are already in service.

That's no problem, as long as the United States never goes to war in any country with sand.

 The market slipped at the opening, depressed by profit taking following Tuesday's rally. But analysts said there was no follow-through in the selling, which suggests prices may continue to move higher over the short term.
 "Some profit taking is not surprising after a big move like Tuesday's," said Trude Latimer, market analyst with Josephthal & Co.

Table Supply eliminated

United Press International
MIAMI — Winn-Dixie Stores is eliminating five of its six Table Supply warehouse-style stores and turning them into Winn-Dixie supermarkets, company executives say.
 The Table Supply store in Macon, Ga., was converted into a Winn-Dixie a month ago, and two stores in Dade County and two in the Fort Lauderdale area will be changed in May, said Terry Walsh, advertising director for the supermarket chain's south Florida region.
 A store in Orlando will remain a Table Supply, because of the nature of its lease, spokesman Mickey Clerc said.
 Clerc said Winn-Dixie has been testing the stores in the six locations since 1985 and determined they were more costly to operate because they were larger and required additional marketing and labor costs. He would not elaborate.

 He said future Winn-Dixie stores would be 35,000 to 45,000 square feet instead of the 45,000-70,000 covered by Table Supply stores.
 Clerc said the merchandise in the converted stores would not change.
 "From a customer's standpoint, they will see very little difference," Clerc said. "From our standpoint, it will save us some money."

Novelist du Maurier dies

United Press International
LONDON — British author Daphne du Maurier, who wrote the short story that inspired Alfred Hitchcock's movie "The Birds" and the Gothic novel "Rebecca," died Tuesday at her home southwest of London, a family spokesman said. She was 81.
 Du Maurier, who in 1969 was made a dame, the title of a woman who has received an order of knighthood, died peacefully at her home in Par, 200 miles from London. No cause of death was given.
 At du Maurier's request, a private funeral will be held but no memorial service.
 Her contemporaries knew her as an author almost continually successful since the beginning of her career in 1931 with the novel "The Loving Spirit." Her 29 books, three of which were made into films, enhanced her popularity over the decades and made her comfortably wealthy and famous, though her tastes remained simple.
 Du Maurier preferred to categorize her books as suspense and adventure.
 "Frenchman's Creek is the only novel I've written that I would call romantic," she once said. "It's about a woman falling in love with a pirate."

 The critics demurred. She was, in their opinion, a romantic novelist of the highest quality.
 Critics have said in summary of her work she loved the melodramatic. Her plots often were similar — moralistic without being didactic, fast moving, and depicting the yearnings of the human heart. It was said she responded to the universal love of a story well told — a judgment with which she would have agreed.
 Her books sold in the millions around the world. Among her best known were "Rebecca" (1938), a novel set in Cornwall about a woman who marries a British nobleman but lives in the shadow of his former wife; "Frenchman's Creek" (1941); "My Cousin Rachel" (1951), a novel of murder and intrigue; "Jamaica Inn" (1936); "The King's General" (1946); and "The Breaking Point" (1959).
 "The Birds," which inspired Hitchcock's movie of a woman plagued by mass bird attacks, was included in a collection of short stories called "The Apple Tree," published in 1952.
 "My Cousin Rachel" was made into a film with Olivia de Havilland and Richard Burton. "Frenchman's Creek" and "Rebecca," directed by Hit-

U.S. accused of concealing facts

United Press International
MANAMA, Bahrain — The son of the late Pakistani President Mohammed Zia Ul-Haq says the United States knows who downed his father's plane but is concealing evidence in what he claims is a case of sabotage.
 Ijaz Ul-Haq said Wednesday his American lawyers were preparing a $1 billion lawsuit against U.S. aircraft manufacturer Lockheed to reveal its findings on why the Hercules C-130 transport plane crashed Aug. 17 shortly after takeoff, killing Zia, U.S. Ambassador to Pakistan Arnold Raphel, and 28 other people.
 "I am 100 percent convinced mechanical failure was not the cause," Ijaz Ul-Haq said in an interview with United Press International.

 No firm official determination for the cause of the crash has been made. Ijaz repeated his charge the plane was sabotaged but declined to say who was responsible or to offer evidence supporting his claim.
 "The U.S. State Department knows who is behind this, but is not revealing the facts. There is a conspiracy of silence. ... Even the families of the American victims have been told by someone to keep quiet."
 There were widespread allegations at the time of the crash that the plane was blown up by opponents to Zia's government. India, Pakistan's neighboring rival, and the Soviet

Boulevard

 Eckstein also suggested that a local chamber of commerce select some of the members for future committees. "You would take the politics out of it," Eckstein said.
 Committee Member and Seminole County Planning Director Tony VanDerworp said that a committee and staff member should be part of the committee because each could contribute their expertise to planning for future roadway beautification and improvement projects.
 "The role of the committee has to be well defined. There's going to be some roads when you won't be able to take all their billboards down," VanDerworp said.
 It was also suggested that a small property owner serve on such a committee.

The gateway boulevard concept is to insure that Lake Mary Boulevard is developed into a beautiful, lushly-landscaped roadway, free from obtrusive signs and utility lines while it is being widened by the county beginning this year. The corridor ordinance was adopted by the county and Lake Mary and recommended by the Sanford Planning and Zoning commission. The ordinance regulates such things as landscaping, building heights and setbacks and signage. It also calls for burial of utility lines and irrigation of the landscaping with effluent. The standards are expected to be the guideline for future roadways in the county. Roads targeted for improvement by 1995 include Red Bug, Howell Branch, County Road 427, Tuakawilla, Rinehart, County Road 425 and others. Projects through the year 2005 include 63 miles of roadway, projected for improvements on 25 roads.
 Committee members reviewed the alternative funding suggested by residents at a meeting last week. They considered an idea by Lynn Lawrence of the Eastbrook Homeowners Association for a two percent sales tax on food and beverages served in Seminole County restaurants. They also discussed an idea by boulevard property owner Larry Lucas to ask that homeowner's association members pledge $5 in order to raise money for road improvements.

"I don't think it would ever pass," Eckstein said.
 County Planner Dick Boyer told the committee that the county Office of Management didn't have the legal authority to levy a two-cent restaurant tax and members felt that the $5 pledge was not a good idea on an overall basis. There was also discussion about an in-kind contribution from the press for advertisement.
 The gas tax, coined "the green penny" tax, was the favored funding method. The committee said it is the most equitable and broad-based way of collecting funds for road improvements. Gas tax revenue can provide an estimated $1.2 million a year. Excess monies not used for landscaping will go towards construction of roads, according to Morris. The committee said it was the first priority, but will keep other alternatives in mind as possible funding methods.
 For the ballot, County Commissioner and Committee Member Robert Sturm said the language for the penny tax should be "simple and straightforward."
 Morris said the referendum should state the names of roads targeted for improvements, a brief explanation of beautification and safety standards, and that the plan is "deemed by the county as necessary to be done" and the money is to be earmarked for this purpose. The committee recommended the county spend "up to $50,000" to educate the public about the ballot as is done with other ballot referendums to be passed by the county.
 Morris thanked the committee for its dedication.
 "Sincerely, this was one of the best committees I ever worked with," he said.
 A white paper report of the committee's final recommendations will be forwarded to the county within one week for review by the commissioners, according to Morris.

Finances

 A financial analysis of the situation prepared by Carey Ferrell, assistant superintendent for business and finance, recommends the use of state funds, capital improvement taxes and the issuance of two bonds over the next years.
 Four years ago, the board approved a $105 million bond issue to finance the expansion and renovation of the county's 42 existing schools.
 Following the Friday morning work session, the board will lay the groundwork for the formation of the capital outlay and housing committee which will be comprised of parents and administrators from the district.

 "This process is just beginning," Coleman said. "There is a great deal of discussion and public input that must happen before we can make any final decisions."
 Supt. Hughes said he was concerned that if impact fees were not an option, an important part of future planning would be lost. "We need an answer," he said. "We need to know if we can use fees in planning for the future."

Barrels

 barrels contained hazardous materials, including ignitable, corrosive and high metal contents such as lead and chrome released from paints that were in them. The Florida Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) fined the city $25,000 for improper burial. The city approved hiring Tampa Attorney Segundo Fernandez for a fee of up to $5,000 to negotiate with DER to lower the cost of the fine. In addition, the city faces payment of up to $35,000 to close off the site where the drums were buried.

the constitutionality of back-ground checks on tenants for drug convictions. He said he was concerned about preserving privacy rights of tenants while trying to rid housing projects of drug dealers.

 request. "We are both moving in the same direction," he said. "It's just a matter of how we'll get there."
 Williams' letter was in response to a $1,732 legal bill for March. Sweeting billed the authority for 23.1 hours at $75 an hour.
 Judy Weekley, housing authority finance officer, said in a memorandum to Williams last week more than four hours billed to the authority were legal activities not authorized by the board. Weekley had cited 11 items on Sweeting's bill.

 Sweeting responded to Weekley's questions in an April 6 letter explaining the items. "I have reviewed the March Statement and found it to be in order...."
 In his letter, Sweeting explained that four of those questioned charges accounting for two hours were for conferences with Williams and state's attorneys on the drug issue.

Center

 center's work phenomenal in assisting police to locate missing children. Center volunteers can go into locations such as gamerooms to track down the youngsters in ways that are beyond the restrictions imposed on police, he said.
 "We locate them," Hopkins said. "We do the leg work, and police pick them up." The center assists all area police agencies, she said. In 1988 there were 890 children reported missing in the area, Hopkins said. "That shows there is a dire need for our organization."
 In 1988, Hopkins said, the center had 165 cases of missing children who did not return home quickly after they were reported missing. Of those, 163 children were recovered. Eighty percent of the children the center works with are runaways, she said. Others have been taken by non-custodial parents, or other abductors.

Several other alternatives considered were impact fees, property taxes, taxing districts, and donations.
 Member Larry Dale suggested raising the cost of registration tags by $10.
 Eckstein did not agree with Dale, saying it would be a burden on retirees and others to pay an additional $10 for tags.
 "What would they vote for, a gas tax or a $10 increase in tags."
 Hopkins, who founded the center and worked as a volunteer without pay for over three years, said the center is not affiliated with any other organization, although it gives and receives aid to and from other groups. The center has no links with the Bureau of Missing Children, a Florida group that is under fire for alleged fraud, Hopkins said.
 The Seminole County center, Hopkins said, is not geared to fundraising and depends on voluntary public donations and fund raising by civic groups for its funds. She said she hopes the center will be able to remain in Seminole County.

North case goes to jury

WASHINGTON — Prosecutor John Keizer used a line from Shakespeare's "Macbeth" to reject claims from Oliver North's lawyer that the government is persecuting the ex-White House aide on Iran-Contra charges.

"You know in your heart that (the defense argument) was all sound and fury, signifying nothing," the prosecutor told the jury Wednesday to conclude the nine-week presentation of witnesses, exhibits and arguments in North's trial.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell was scheduled to instruct the jury of nine women and three men on the law in the case this morning then excuse the five alternates who have sat through the case since it started Feb. 21.

The 12 jurors then will be sequestered to begin deliberating the fate of the former staff member of the National Security Council who has been at the heart of the worst political scandal of the Reagan administration.

Mall pours in for 'Lucy'

LOS ANGELES — Telegrams, telephone calls and even notes sent by facsimile machine poured into the hospital where Lucille Ball was recovering from emergency heart surgery.

But the 77-year-old comedian was able to see only her husband, greeting him with her "smiling eyes" after regaining consciousness Wednesday for the first time since her operation.

The outpouring by fans, Cedars-Sinai Medical Center officials said, was the largest they had ever witnessed even though other celebrities have stayed there.

"On a scale of 1 to 10, this is an absolute 10," Cedars spokesman Ron Wise said. "The mail hasn't caught up with us yet but before it's over we'll look like ... the post office."

Hope for survivors wanes

NEW YORK — A Coast Guard cutter, ending its search for two crewmen missing in the wreck of a cargo ship that sank in the Atlantic Ocean, steamed for Boston Thursday with 23 survivors.

The search was called off at sunset Wednesday after two days without any sign of the missing sailors, said a Coast Guard spokesman from Governors Island in New York Harbor, where the rescue was coordinated.

The USS Chilula, carrying the survivors, was expected to reach Boston Harbor Saturday morning, he said.

The 600-foot Star of Alexandria, with a 55,000-ton load of concrete, capsized and sank about 400 miles southeast of Cape Cod, Mass., early Monday while en route to New York from Athens, Greece.

S&L bailout passed by Senate

United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Bush's proposed bailout of the crisis-ridden savings and loans system has cleared the Senate with only minor changes, but it may face far more controversy in the House.

The Senate approved the 564-page bill 91-8 Wednesday after only three days of debate about the rescue operation of the thrift industry, which is losing between $500 million and $1 billion a month because of the uncertainty of its future.

To bail out the thrift industry and restore confidence in its integrity, the legislation envisions costs as high as $274 billion over 30 years and places new restrictions on the activities of the savings and loan institutions.

The bill also restructures the federal agencies responsible for regulating the thrifts and providing insurance for depositors up to $100,000.

In the House a bill has been approved only by a subcommittee that wrote a package which, in some areas, differs sharply from the administration's proposal.

Although the subcommittee bill follows the administration proposal on financing, the shakeup of government agencies and regulatory structure of the thrifts, the subcommittee bill differs on some key points.

One point the administration plans to fight when the House Banking Committee considers the bill, is the question of how much thrifts must hold as reserves to guard against losses. The administration considers the subcommittee standard too weak.

Passage of the bill, which provides money for the biggest liquidation in the history of the country, was assured as floor managers made it clear they would fight off any controversial amendments.

But they accepted a pair of amendments by Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, and promised later consideration on pro-consumer proposals such as free cashing of government checks, low-cost banking, an end to discrimination in lending, and loans to low and moderate-income persons.

Sen. Donald Riegle, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, said the latest estimates indicated the cost of the ambitious program to restore the integrity of savings and loan associations would be $83 billion over three years, $152 billion during the next 10 years and $274 billion over the next 30 years.

The bill would create an agency, Resolution Finance Corp., to sell $50 billion worth of bonds during three years to pay the costs of closing or selling hundreds of insolvent thrifts.

Another new agency, the Resolution Trust Corporation, would be charged with closing insolvent savings and loans and disposing of assets estimated at more than $400 billion.

The administration plan envisions spending more than $152 billion through 1999 for the closures, interest on the bonds and the $40 billion it cost to close 200 insolvent thrifts last year.

Navy investigates explosion cause

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Navy was attempting today to determine the cause of the explosion aboard the World War II battleship USS Iowa that left at least 47 sailors dead in one of the worst U.S. naval accidents in recent history.

Suspicion focused on the ammunition "handling room" of the gun turret where the explosion occurred and where gunpowder is handled.

The Iowa, modernized and recommissioned in 1984, was firing its huge 16-inch guns during routine gunnery practice about 330 miles northeast of Puerto Rico Wednesday when an explosion ripped through gun turret No. 2 on the front of the ship.

The Iowa was one of 29 U.S. Navy ships taking part in the Atlantic Fleet training exercise

"Fleets 3-89."

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Steve Burnett said 47 sailors were killed in the explosion and resulting fire. The number of injuries to the 1,575 sailors aboard the ship and the extent of damage were not immediately available.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. John Woodhouse of the 2nd Fleet said, "We don't have an exact number on the injuries (but) we don't anticipate that number will be high because of the nature of the accident and the explosion."

"It's unfortunate, but this particular type of incident tends to produce deaths rather than injuries," he said.

The 58,000-ton ship was able to maintain power and was never in danger of sinking. The cause of the accident was unknown.

The injured were evacuated by helicopter to the aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea.

Oil output drops after Exxon spill

United Press International

NEW YORK — U.S. oil output fell sharply in March to its lowest level in nearly 20 years, due in part to the Alaska spill, while imports jumped over levels a year ago, the American Petroleum Institute reported.

API's monthly statistical report, issued Wednesday, also said March deliveries of gasoline rose only 0.5 percent over March 1988, where an increase of 1 percent to 2 percent had been expected since Easter occurred that month this year.

Daily crude oil production declined 8.2 percent to 7.7 million barrels from last year's 8.3 million barrels, the API said.

The sharp drop was "partly a reflection of developments related to the tanker grounding near Valdez," it said.

"However, nearly 300,000 barrels a day of the year-to-year decrease ... was accounted for by the decline in lower 48 (states) production, continuing the down trend of the past three years," the oil industry trade group said.

As a result of the "unusually large decline," domestic production of crude in March was "at its lowest level since the 1980s," the group said.

Although the March 24 spill was the largest in U.S. history, it probably did not account for all of the remainder since Alaska output had been declining before March.

The United States is the world's second-largest oil producer.

WORLD BRIEFS

Salvadoran official assassinated

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — President-elect Alfredo Cristiani condemned the assassination of El Salvador's attorney general by suspected leftist rebels and accused the guerrillas of trying to provoke a violent government crackdown.

"This latest assassination is reprehensible, but we must continue the fight to give values to the laws of this land," Cristiani said Wednesday following the slaying of Attorney General Roberto Garcia Alvarado.

"We will not respond with vengeful action, as the FMLN hopes we would," Cristiani said. "They are trying to provoke a vengeful reaction that would isolate our new government internationally."

Cristiani blamed the leftist Farabundo Marti Liberation Front for the attack, but there was no immediate claim of responsibility.

Toxic gas use investigated

MOSCOW — Soviet authorities are investigating evidence that toxic gas was used by security forces last week against nationalist demonstrators in the republic of Georgia, where several people are suffering from chemical poisoning.

The daily newspaper Izvestia said Wednesday another of those injured during the April 9 clash had died, bringing the death toll to 20 in the worst nationalist violence since Mikhail Gorbachev came to power in 1985. Izvestia said 138 people hurt in the rioting remained hospitalized, and 135 had been discharged.

From United Press International reports

U.S. urges NATO to modernize

United Press International

BRUSSELS, Belgium — Defense Secretary Dick Cheney told his NATO counterparts that the Soviet Union is continuing to upgrade its short-range nuclear forces in Europe and the Western allies must keep pace.

Cheney, making his debut Wednesday at a NATO ministerial meeting, started the two-day session of defense ministers who are meeting in the Nuclear Planning Group, with a report on the status of nuclear forces in East and West, including Warsaw Pact nuclear modernization and force restructuring.

Officials said Cheney reported the Soviets are continuing to replace the older, inaccurate FROG artillery rocket by more up-to-date SS21 missiles, with improved range and accuracy.

The Soviets are also developing a modernized version for the 1980s-vintage SCUD missile. The new version would have a range of up to 279 miles.

The NPG session was to review the Western alliance's nuclear posture and its plans for future requirements.

In 1983 the defense ministers decided in principle on modernization of NATO short-range nuclear forces, including missiles, artillery and airplane bombs. Progress in the modernization plans is examined by the NPG at its bi-annual sessions.

In the missile field, NATO will have to replace the Lance, which has a range of only 68 miles and will become obsolete by the mid-1990s. Officials have said NATO commanders were looking for a missile with a range of up to 279 miles.

A decision on actual replacement of the Lance is not required until 1991-92, officials have said, but in the meantime the allies have to signal their will to go on with modernization so that the U.S. Congress may start the process of allocating further funds for development.

A difficulty arose about the Belgian government's position, announced last week, that calls for early negotiations with the East Bloc on intermediate-range nuclear missiles.

The government said it would accept keeping SNF up to date, but without a significant increase in range that would bypass the spirit of the 1987 U.S. Soviet treaty on elimination of all intermediate-range nuclear missiles.

The INF treaty covered missiles with a range from 310 to 3,417 miles.

"On the question of the range and our wish for negotiations, Belgium certainly does not stand alone," Belgian Defense Minister Guy Coeme told reporters.

Coeme emphasized Belgium "wanted to maintain NATO solidarity, while its position should be taken into account."

West Germany also has called for negotiations on SNF, but a conference official said. "The alliance agrees there should be no new zero option," like the one in the INF treaty.

The official said the question of negotiations was a political matter, to be dealt with by the council of foreign ministers. He added time would not allow for an agreement on a negotiating mandate before the NATO summit meeting late May, in which foreign ministers will also take part.

West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl was in Paris Wednesday for talks with French President Francois Mitterrand. Analysts said the two men probably focused on Bonn's doubts about the wisdom of modernizing European short-range nuclear missiles.

Both Britain and the United States are determined that West Germany should fall in line on renewing short-range missiles before the NATO summit in Brussels next month.

But Kohl, faced with a growing disarmament movement and the popularity of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in West Germany, is under heavy domestic pressure not to conform, political experts say.

Hussein support sought

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Bush administration, trying to win support for its low-profile Middle East negotiation strategy, failed to get King Hussein of Jordan's support for elections in the Israeli-occupied lands, but planned to try again today.

An administration official, speaking on the basis of no further identification, said, "Clearly the king has some concerns about the election idea. But he fully supports the administration on moving toward some form of negotiations."

The administration official translated Wednesday's meeting between Hussein and President Bush as meaning "he is not going out campaigning for our ideas, but he's not going to undercut them, either."

Hussein, scheduled to meet with Secretary of State James Baker today, said the time appears ripe for a Middle East breakthrough — a hope Bush has tried to encourage through his talks Wednesday and his earlier meetings with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak and Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir.

Hussein told Bush Wednesday night that Jordan "will support you in all your endeavors to achieve a just and lasting peace in the Middle East."

Hussein made the pledge in his return toast at a White House black tie dinner in his honor.

"Jordan will cooperate closely with the United States to achieve a just, durable and lasting peace in the Middle East," Hussein declared. "To end the tragedy of the Arab-Israeli conflict is the focus of our visit."

During a mix and mingle session after the dinner, Hussein told reporters: "I think there is a better chance for peace."

At their meeting Wednesday, Bush urged Hussein to support "mutually acceptable elections" in Israeli-occupied territories that would include Palestinians as a first step toward a Middle East peace accord.

For his part, Hussein would not endorse the election proposal and instead pushed the concept of a U.N.-sponsored international conference leading to direct negotiations.

The United States and Israel oppose any international conference that is not sufficiently prepared.

The president, in his own brand of personal contact that could be called "tourist diplomacy," took Hussein after their one-hour meeting on a helicopter flight to nearby Mount Vernon, Va., where they toured George Washington's home and boarded a 61-foot yacht for a 70-minute ride up the Potomac River.

It was equal time in light of Bush's trip with Mubarak to a baseball game in Baltimore and with Shamir to a movie at the National Air and Space Museum. The president and the king offered their public statements in the Rose Garden before departing on the excursion.

"The time has come to encourage fresh thinking," Bush said.

He has a wife, three children, owns his own home and is getting along in the world.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Yankees finally on right track?

New York Manager Dallas Green says the Yankees' series sweep in Toronto may turn his team around after a poor start.

"I think this series will prove we can win baseball games," Green said Wednesday after the Yankees defeated the Blue Jays 4-2. "As I said, good pitching will negate good hitting and we got good pitching."

Toronto was held to four runs in three games by Yankee pitching, which had given up 75 runs over the first 11 games.

After a dismal 1-7 start, the Yankees have won five of their last six.

Elsewhere in the league, Oakland topped Seattle 7-5, Boston outslugged Cleveland 8-4, Detroit clipped Minnesota 3-2, Baltimore shaded Kansas City 6-5, Texas defeated Milwaukee 5-1, and California downed Chicago 7-2.

Kerr generates win for Flyers

Philadelphia's Tim Kerr provided spark after the generator in Pittsburgh's Civic Center could not.

After the game was delayed for 80 minutes when the Civic Center generator went down before the opening faceoff, Kerr picked up his third career hat trick in the Stanley Cup playoffs to lead the Flyers to a 4-2 victory over the Penguins Wednesday night. The decision evened the Patrick Division final at one game apiece.

Kerr's first goal came on the power play at 8:50 on a rebound, tying the score 1-1. Kerr's seventh goal of the playoffs came at 12:09, when he tipped in a shot by Mark Howe to make it 2-1.

In the other Wales Conference semifinal, the Montreal Canadiens nipped the Boston Bruins 3-2 in overtime to take a 2-0 lead in their quarterfinal series.

Hanson powers Seminole Ford

Scott Hanson ripped two doubles and scored three runs to lead Seminole Ford to a 14-11 victory over Ken Rummel Chevrolet Wednesday afternoon in Sanford Little League baseball action at Ft. Mellon Park.

Mike Amthlem added a single and two runs scored with Joe Tuttle hitting two base hits and scoring two runs. Bubba Benevento added two runs scored as did Jeremy Richards. Neil Cichanski walked and scored a run with Carmen Costello adding two walks and two runs scored.

Joshua Watson led Ken Rummel with a double and two singles, driving in two runs and scoring for. Ivory Pearson had a walk and a run scored with David Hayes connecting on a double and a run scored. Terrance Jenkins doubled and scored a run with Terrell Jackson and Richard Badget each walking and scoring a run. Ron Jackson and Tommie Thompson each scored a single run to complete the Ken Rummel offensive attack.

Walk pitches, hits Pirates to win

Bob Walk accomplishes two things when he pitches well. He keeps his team in the game and he earns himself some extra at-bats.

Wednesday his pitching and his hitting kept the Pirates in the game and enabled Pittsburgh to post a 7-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals at Busch Stadium.

Walk, 1-1, scattered six hits and delivered an RBI triple in the second inning. He also singled in the fourth inning, advancing Rafael Belliard to third, from where he scored on a fielder's choice.

Walk, who was making his fourth start of the season, struck out six and walked four.

In other NL games, New York overtook Philadelphia 4-2, Montreal edged Chicago 3-2, Atlanta defeated Houston 4-3, San Diego shaded San Francisco 4-3 and Los Angeles blanked Cincinnati 3-0.

Lake Mary nets district title

By TONY DeBORMIER
 Herald sports editor

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — It had been a tradition in Seminole County high school boys' tennis that whoever won the Seminole Athletic Conference team championship also won the district title.

Well, traditions are made to be broken.

On Wednesday at Sanlando Park, the Lake Mary boys avenged their loss to Lake Brantley in the SAC tournament two weeks ago with a victory in the 4A-District 5 tournament. With the district title comes a berth in the state tournament next Monday and Tuesday at the University of Florida.

Also qualifying for the state tournament were Mark Palus and Steve Sigourney of Lake Brantley, which finished second in the team standings. Palus advances as the champion at No. 1 singles while he and Sigourney move on as the No. 1 doubles champions.

"The loss at conference really toughened us up," said Lake Mary coach Michael Morton. "Then, after the conference tournament, we took it on the chin from Winter Park."

losing 4-3. From that point on, they solidified as a team. That's why we won this tournament. The guys came together as a team."

At the heart of the Ram team victory were individual championships in four of the five singles competitions. Lake Mary was also represented in the finals of both doubles finals.

At No. 2 singles, Doug Barr won the title for Lake Mary with a 6-4, 3-6, 6-2 win over Sergio Ramos of Winter Park. Jason White followed suit at No. 3 singles, beating Ryan Denniston of Dr. Phillips 6-4, 6-4 in the finals.

Brett Thorpe was severely tested in the semifinals at No. 4 singles, working past Lake Brantley's Jonathan Davis 6-2, 2-6, 6-1. But he had an easier time in the finals, disposing of Winter Park's Derik Wood 6-3, 6-1. Finally, Ryan Rogers knocked off Brian Signer of Winter Park 6-2, 7-5 at No. 5 singles.

The only Ram not to advance to his singles final was Scott Farmer at No. 1. Farmer made it to the semifinals, where he was eliminated by Palus 6-0, 6-1. It was of some consolation that Farmer was the only opponent to take a game from Palus during the tournament.

In the doubles competition, Farmer and Barr got to the finals before being dispatched by Palus and [See Tennis, Page 2B]

Brett Thorpe claimed the No. 4 singles championship for Lake Mary at the 4A-District 5 tournament on Wednesday, then teamed up with Ryan Rogers to finish second at No. 2 doubles.

SAC title closer after Ram victory

By MARK BLYTHE
 Herald sports writer

LAKE MARY — Jason Sewell provided the clutch hit and Alex Birle pitched a stellar game for Lake Mary as the Rams battled from behind to take a hard fought 3-2 victory over Lake Brantley in nine innings before 401 fans at Lake Mary High School.

The Rams improved to 18-8 overall and 9-2 in the SAC with the victory and will return to action Friday at Lake Howell. The Patriots fell to 11-11 and 7-3 in the conference.

Lyman and Lake Mary are tied for the SAC lead at this point and each has one more game to play. Brantley is in third place in the conference due to the loss.

"Lake Brantley has all their 400 hitters they talk about," Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle said. "Our kids have something you can't measure, something that doesn't show up in stats and that thing is heart."

The Brantley bats were hot early, though, as they plated a single run in the top of the first, an inning where they should have scored more runs. Eddie Zarembo opened the frame with an infield single before Greg Thomas rocketed a shot to right center for a double leaving runners on second and third.

Jim Morse was then intentionally walked before Jason Varitek popped out. Terry Brown then bounced a grounder to third that Neil James bobbled before stepping on third for the force with Zarembo scoring. Another groundout ended the inning and Lake Mary prevented Brantley from getting the big inning.

Jason Sewell delivered the game-winning hit in the bottom of the ninth inning to give Lake Mary an important SAC win over Lake Brantley on Wednesday.

"Just getting one run in the first really hurt us," Patriot coach Mike Smith said. "We jumped on Birle early but he's a heck of a pitcher, he pitched a great game and sawed us off several times when we had runners in scoring position."

Peters' poke saves SCC

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald correspondent

SANFORD — Catcher Dan Peters launched a two-out home run in the bottom of the 9th to send the Raiders of Seminole Community College to a 3-2 victory over conference-leading Florida Community College-Jacksonville on Tuesday at Raider Field.

The Raiders, who won their fourth in a row, again got excellent pitching as Jimmy Waring scattered four hits to improve his personal record to 6-7 as SCC broke a 12-game losing streak against the FCCJ Stars. He struck out six and walked only two in his nine innings of work, the only Stars earned run of the game coming with one out in the ninth on a solo home run.

Seminole improved to 11-23 overall and 6-12 in the conference as the Stars fell to 38-8 and 16-5. Today, the Raiders travel to Palatka to take on the Vikings of St. John's River Community College. On Saturday, SCC hits the road again to take on Lake City Community College. Both games are Mid-Florida Conference games as the Raiders try to finish with a .500 conference record.

After Florida Community College took a 1-0 lead on the unearned run in the second, the Seminole offense woke up. Peters doubled with one out, stole third, and scored on a ground out by David Leungers to tie the score.

The Raiders took a 2-1 lead in the fifth when Kevin Monahan singled. Peters sacrificed him to second. Leungers bunted for a hit to advance Monahan to third and Ted Lamur hit a sacrifice fly that scored Monahan.

Lynn tied the game for Florida Community College with his home run in the ninth setting the stage for Peters' heroics. After the first two batters struck out, Peters, a [See SCC, Page 2B]

CASSELBERRY — As Julie and Leslie Barton closed out their high-school careers at Lake Howell Wednesday, Lake Howell softball coach Jo Luciano joined in applauding the power display demonstrated in Lake Howell's 18-4 drubbing of Seminole.

Impressive as it was, though, Luciano quickly put the Bartons' booming hits behind her after the final out.

For in less than a week the District 4A-9 Tournament starts and that's the ticket to the playoffs. One loss there and a stellar season is history.

Lake Howell (14-4) has every reason to believe it will meet top-seeded Lake Brantley in next Friday's district championship game at Lake Brantley. The Silver Hawks, who pushed across seven runs in both the second and sixth innings Wednesday, have shown superior skills the majority of the season.

"There's no doubt we can hit, run and catch and do all the things we need to win," said Luciano, who team travels to Lake Mary today for a 4:15 p.m. contest. "What I'm interested in right now is fine tuning the mental aspects of our game."

"Our 1-0 loss to Oviedo Tuesday reminds me that it's necessary to us to concentrate hard every game. If your concentration level drops off just a little, you can get burned."

Against Oviedo, Lake Howell failed to score for the first time this season. When the Silver Hawks hit the ball hard, it was right at an Oviedo fielder. And Oviedo pitcher Lisa Holton took care of the rest.

Lady 'Hounds, Patriots wear SAC golf crowns

Mackey, Carr lead Lyman

By JIM RICKENBACKER
 Herald Correspondent

CASSELBERRY — Lyman golf coach Jesse Harry remembers 1980, his first year as coach of the inaugural girls team in Central Florida. In those days, his players piled into a car and traveled to Daytona Beach for weekly tournaments.

High school golf on the girl's side has come a long way since the turn of the decade. Oviedo has given us the most notable player in Cheryl Morley, a three-time All-American at the University of Florida and winner of the recent Florida State Intercollegiate Tournament.

But Lyman junior Kim Mackey and sophomore teammate Becky Carr also are driving foci crazy these days.

Take Wednesday's Seminole Athletic Conference Tournament at Deer Run Golf Club, for example. Mackey, medalist in last season's conference tournament, teamed with Carr to make it two straight conference titles for Lyman.

Lyman, 10-2 during the regular season, finished nine shots ahead of Lake Brantley Wednesday and is poised to make a run at a second consecutive District 6 title next Friday at Ventura.

"We lost our first match this season to Daytona Beach Seabreeze on a penalty stroke and had to forfeit another match," said Harry, whose team was one of only two teams in Wednesday's six-team event to play with four instead of five players. "Kim and Becky have been our mainstays all season."

Lyman junior Melissa Reis posted a 99 at Deer Run, assuring her a spot on the all-conference team. Classmate Jenni Foster, in her first year of competition, shot 121.

Consistency key for Pats

By JIM RICKENBACKER
 Herald Correspondent

CASSELBERRY — Between scrambled eggs and bacon Tuesday morning, Lake Brantley golf coach Jim Estocin and his players discussed strategy for the upcoming Seminole Athletic Conference Tournament at Deer Run Golf Club.

Players weighed several possibilities. "Just go out and play your game," said Estocin, his final words before tee time.

The Patriots did just that, using the consistency that carried them to a 10-2 regular-season record to finish with a 320 total and upset favored Lyman by two shots.

"We stayed relatively close to 80.

No one was real high and no one real low," said Estocin, noting that his four top players have averaged between 38 and 42 most of the season. "I was concerned at the turn that only one of our players (junior Rob Koehn) was under 40."

Koehn, who finished the first nine holes with a three-over 39 over the windswept layout, wound up with a six-over-par 77 — a shot ahead freshman Brian Opal. Seniors Brian Buholtz and Brannon Rue posted 81 and 84, respectively, to round out the Patriots' top four finishers.

"One of the keys in high-school golf is to have five or six players who're steady," said Estocin. "Most of our players were looking ahead to the district tournament (next Thursday at Windermere) because it gets you to state."

"But I told our guys that if conference tournament was the most important tournament at the time."

Oviedo, Lyman post SAC wins

BY JIM PICKENBACHER
Herald Correspondent

CASSELBERRY — Oviedo coach Mike Ferrell says there's two things that are almost assured every time Jody Spelman takes the mound. One is that Spelman will pitch a shutout. And two is that the Lions won't score many runs.

Lake Howell found out Wednesday just how frustrating it can be to face Spelman, who surrendered but three hits in the Lions' 2-0 victory over the Silver Hawks at Lake Howell's field.

Spelman also contributed a pair of hits. Todd Toeco had an RBI single and scored on an error in the seventh to account for the game's only runs.

"I don't know how Jody does it," said Ferrell, noting that Spelman's fast ball carried him early before the curve baffled batters in the late innings. "The only time we gave him any support offensively was the last time we played Lake Howell (a 6-2 Oviedo victory). Most of the time, it's 2-0, 3-1 or something of that nature."

The only Silver Hawks to hit safely against Spelman were Bobby Liefelder, who had a single in the fifth and two-out single in the seventh, and Jerry Reymoe, who had a double in the third. "Our pitcher (Eric Melendez) did a good job, too, but we just didn't support him with any runs," said Lake Howell coach Birto Benjamin, after watching his team drop to 9-16 overall and 4-7 in the Seminole Athletic Conference.

Next up for the Lions is the District 3A-6 opener against Orlando Edgewater this coming Tuesday at the Osceola Astros Complex in Kissimmee. Oviedo, 12-13 overall and 5-8 in the conference, topped Edgewater, 3-1, the last time the teams met.

Lyman 10, DeLand 3

Jason Goodpastor, who was moved up to varsity during spring break, came on in relief and picked up his first career varsity win Wednesday night as Lyman came from behind to beat DeLand 10-3 in a Seminole Athletic Conference matchup at Lyman.

The Greyhounds improved to 15-5 overall and stayed tied with Lake Mary in the SAC with a 9-2 mark and will return to action tonight against Seminole at 7:30 in another SAC confrontation. DeLand fell to 2-18 and 0-11 in the conference.

The Bulldogs used four hits and a walk to score three runs in the top of the first inning and put a scare into Lyman.

The Greyhounds, though, woke up in the bottom of the third as they scored two runs, evening the game with a single run in the third before breaking the game open with a five-run eruption in the fifth inning.

Sigourney 6-0, 6-4. At No. 2 doubles, Thorpe and Rogers were defeated in the finals by Lyman's duo of Matt Albert and Mike Black.

Actually, it was only fair that Albert and Black take that title because, according to Morton, it was the Lyman pair who provided the turning point of the tournament.

"When they (Albert and Black) beat Lake Brantley, that allowed us to clinch the team championship yesterday (on Tuesday)," explained Morton. "If Lake Brantley wins there and picks up another point, that would have put the pressure on us. But when Lyman won, that took the pressure off."

Albert and Black also did Lake Mary a favor by eliminating the Winter Park duo in the first round. Including their win over Thorpe and Rogers, Albert and Black defeated the top three seeded No. 2 doubles teams in the competition.

Of course, Lake Mary did itself a favor, winning three of its four head-to-head matches with Lake Brantley in the singles semifinals on Tuesday.

Rams

Brantley increased its lead in the top of the second as starting pitcher Mitch Shatto led off with a walk and moved to second on a sacrifice by Sean Burke. Mark Gabrovic then sent a grounder to third that sent James ranging, after coming up with the ball James threw it past Derek Wolfe at first and Shatto rounded third and headed home, the throw home was high and went over Chad Dunbar allowing the run to score and Gabrovic to move to second.

Once again, though, the Rams and Birie settled down as the next batter struck out and, after a walk, a groundout ended the inning with Brantley leading 2-0.

"Alex (Birle) pitched a hell of a game," Tuttle said. "He made the pitches when he had to. The entire team played a great game, we had some mistakes but we tightened up and played ball when we had to."

The Rams put a run on the board in the bottom of the second as Derek Wolfe led the inning off with a single and moved to second on a sacrifice by Greg James. Neil James then sent a single down the thirdbase line to score Wolfe and cut the lead to 2-1.

Both teams then settled down a little and played good defense before Lake Mary came up with another run in the bottom of the fifth inning. Birle led off with a flyout before Scottie Conklin and Aaron Iatardia drew consecutive walks. Joe DiFrancisco then singled to load the bases and Matt Fair came in relief of Shatto for Brantley. Shane Stufflet then hit a hard grounder to second, scoring Conklin and advancing the other runners. Wolfe was then walked before Greg James struck out with the score even at 2-2.

Brantley loaded the bases in the sixth inning but could not put a run on the board as Birie came up with a big strikeout before Varitek ripped a long shot to centerfield for the third out.

The Rams had the bases loaded in the fifth, sixth and eighth and could only come up with the tying run before putting three consecutive base hits together in the ninth to win the game.

(1-10). The Noles, 20-0 losers to Lake Howell before spring break, did manage to score all their runs in the third inning. Lori Poe contributed a two-run single, and Amy Hawkins and Angela Orioles were credited with RBI singles.

Still, the Bartons gave the home fans one last taste of offense. Julie hit safely in all five trips to the plate, finishing with two doubles, three singles and five RBIs. Sister Lealie went three-for-five, cracked two doubles and accumulated three RBIs as did Christy Dees.

"I wouldn't want to have to pitch against her," commented Seminole coach Lance Abney, after one of Julie Barton's line shots nearly took off the head of a Lake Howell player standing on second base. "Six of our losses have come by one run and two by two runs."

"The only team that's beaten us badly has been Lake Howell."

Sparrows

Shannon Crawford caught a pop fly to end the game as Orange Lake Country Club squeaked past Sims Office Service 13-11. Anna Wasman, Crawford and Ronda Parsons all were 4-for-4 at the plate for Orange Lake. For Sims, Lindsay Manz and Michelle Allegra were each 3-for-5. On defense, Kelly Manning also caught a pop fly.

Beland also led the offense with two home runs, a single, triple and four runs scored. Amy Nelman's home run with none out in the sixth inning made a 17-16 winner of Lake Mary Centre over Air Pak Heating and Cooling. Molly Frances had given Lake Mary a lead in the fourth with a home run, but Jessica Dancey homered in the sixth to give Air Pak the advantage. Jennifer Dale was the winning pitcher over Amy Garmon.

Duplicate bridge is big deal to fans

By DAVINA BURCH
Herald correspondent

Members of the various Seminole County duplicate bridge clubs have a definite bias when it comes to favoring their type of card games.

Gloria Scott prefers duplicate bridge because it is "more exacting and more interesting than party bridge," she said.

As accredited club director of the duplicate bridge group that plays at the Caselberry Woman's Club, Scott teaches the game, though generally not to beginning players.

The duplicate rule book written by Richard L. Frey admits that duplicate is a "social but not sociable" game. The basic difference of duplicate bridge and other types of bridge games, according to Frey, is in the manner in which the hand is played; each hand is played "at least twice, but not by the same players, under conditions that exactly duplicate those of the other tables; same cards in each hand, same dealer, same vulnerability."

"I love the game and was very excited about the competition," said Shirley Simas, a Sanford Bridge Club member.

Simas, an avid bridge player since the '40s, became interested in duplicate nine years ago when a cousin from Peoria, Ill., introduced her to the game.

It is not just the style and rules of duplicate that differ from party bridge; it is the level of competitiveness. Simas recently returned from the Duplicate Bridge Nationals in Reno, Nev., where she and her daughter (a Californian) paired up to win first place in the open pairs competition.

CLUB POINTS

Although duplicate bridge is played for points towards the goal of Lifemaster (an achievement of advanced status), rules do allow that gambling may be permitted providing the "pot" does not exceed $25, Scott said.

The director of the Sanford Duplicate Bridge Club, Helen Ernest, along with her friend, the late Larry Berry, founded the organization in Sanford in September 1980. They began with three tables; the group is now up to six to ten tables.

Each Tuesday at noon, the club members, mostly senior citizens, gather at the Chamber of Commerce in downtown Sanford to play their game. Members pay $1.50 each time, and this fee covers refreshments and supplies. The day's winners do not have to pay the following Tuesday.

Men and women are welcome and, according to Ernest, there is no age limit. She said their youngest and newest member, Ken Daniels, is in his late twenties or early thirties.

The club has no officers, and Ernest's job as director entails gathering all supplies such as scoreboards, boards and recap sheets. Helen Westgate assists in setting up tables before the game, and members Toni Hobson and Ed Needham are usually available to help tally the scores at the end. Bob Kaufman brings dessert.

"I enjoy this group because we have good fellowship and nobody gets mad," Ernest said, "and I enjoy duplicate bridge more than party bridge because it keeps you alert. You can't think about what you are going to cook for dinner or where you are going tomorrow while you are playing."

Those interested in playing with the Sanford Duplicate Bridge Club need only bring a partner and come to the game; if one wants to participate but does not have a partner, contact Helen Ernest at 322-0592 prior to the meeting time and she can assist in finding a partner.

The Caselberry Senior Citizens Center hosts duplicate bridge groups on Thursdays and Fridays from 1-3 p.m. The 14 card tables are open to all Seminole County seniors. For more information, call 831-3551, ext. 239 or 264.

Employees of Stromberg-Carlson in Lake Mary are strong duplicate bridge aficionados. Their club plays four days out of the work week at noon in the company's recreation center. They also meet every third Monday of each month after work for bridge. Non-employees can join the games at the invitation of employees. For more information, contact Don Gill at 333-6000.

Her baby's father is mystery

DEAR ABBY: Well, here I go with my first letter to you. Something is bothering me, and I have to know the answer and I can't ask anyone else.

I have "A Positive" blood type, and my husband has "O Positive." Our child's blood type is "AB Positive."

The point is, I fooled around a little about the time I got pregnant. I need to know if this child could belong to my husband.

For obvious reasons I can't sign my name or have your reply come to our home, so please give me a fast "Confidential to Keeping My Fingers Crossed in Kentucky"; affirmative, if the child could be my husband's; negative, if it couldn't be. Thank you.

K.M.F.C.
IN KENTUCKY

DEAR K.M.F.C: It's not that simple. According to Dr. Ronald S. Ostrowski, my genetic consultant at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte: "In all probability, the answer is 'negative.' But there is a very small possibility that the husband has a 'masked' gene. (This is called the 'Bombay Phenomenon.') For an absolutely foolproof test, tissue typing will provide an accurate answer."

Now uncross your fingers, and cross your heart you will never fool around again.

DEAR ABBY: I'll be "Jane in Long Island," who is 38 years old and is having a hard time adopting a child, wouldn't be told that she is too old to adopt an older, non-white and/or handicapped child. And she certainly is not too old to be a foster parent.

Every week, a local TV station runs a spot called "Waiting Child," seeking homes for hard-to-place children. There are literally thousands of these children sitting in orphanages, feeling unloved and unwanted because there is something "wrong" with them.

Jane can moan about not being able to get pregnant, but it's really her shortsightedness that deprives her of the chance to open her heart and home to a truly needy child.

transfusion?
Thanks and best wishes. I enjoy your answers and learn from reading Dear Abby.

SCARED OF BLOOD TRANSFUSIONS

DEAR SCARED: According to a spokesperson for the American Red Cross, people who received blood transfusions between 1975 and 1985 should be tested for HIV, because before 1985, blood was not screened for the AIDS virus.

However, since 1985, the blood supply has been closely screened and, according to the Centers of Disease Control, the chance of becoming infected with AIDS from a transfusion is now about 1 in 100,000. In order to eliminate even this tiny risk, many physicians advise their patients who are contemplating surgery to bank their own blood for use at that time.

DEAR NO SYMPATHY: It takes a very special kind of person to open her heart and home to a "hard-to-place" child. God bless those who do.

DEAR ABBY: You stated that the AIDS virus may lie dormant in the body for several years before symptoms of the disease appear.

Does that mean that one who has had a blood transfusion several years ago may be at risk from donor blood? Is not the blood of donors screened for antibodies? How much at risk is a person who has had a

Snoring is problem for everyone involved

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Why is it that the sound of snoring, no matter how loud, does not awaken the sleeper?

DEAR READER: On the contrary, it can.

However, snoring usually occurs during the deepest sleep, at the time when snorers are least likely to be awakened by any method. Snoring comes with age and is more common in heavy sleepers, especially in people who use alcohol or sleeping pills.

As you may have discovered, snoring is most irritating to the sleeper's partner. When my wife violently shakes me in the middle of the night, I am convinced that my snoring bothers her because she is such a light sleeper. This is a rationalization. I'm awakened by my own snoring only when I rock the house.

I once saw a patient with sore ribs and I couldn't for the life of me figure out the cause of his symptoms — until his wife acknowledged that she had to poke him repeatedly night after night to stop his snoring. So being a snorer is not without its hazards. Sometimes nasal congestion causes snoring, so snorers may be helped by taking decongestants at bedtime.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been having stomach and side pain and had a barium enema. My doctor's nurse called with the test results. She told me my colon was unusually long and twisted. She advised me to take Advil for the pain. I'm upset my doctor didn't call, especially as he now wants me to have a bone scan. Am I being overly sensitive?

DEAR READER: You are not being overly sensitive. As a general rule, I notify patients about abnormal or unusual lab results. I believe this personal touch is important, particularly since I usually have to put the situation into perspective (if there is a health problem or not) and, especially, if I am contemplating follow-up tests.

A lengthened and twisted colon is a normal variation and is not harmful, although gas can become trapped in colonic pockets and cause various forms of abdominal discomfort. I assume the doctor wishes to obtain a bone scan to make sure that something in the bone is not causing your symptoms.

Nonetheless, I agree with you that the physician should discuss this with you in depth. Ask him for a conference to discuss the barium enema and the proposed scan. Because gallbladder pain can often cause symptoms such as yours, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Gallbladder Disease."

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Since North's jump raise to three hearts was a limit raise, South could have passed with a dead-minimum opening bid. With 14 high-card points, South was right to go on, although it turned out that his jack of diamonds was a worthless card.

The defenders led three rounds of diamonds, and declarer ruffed. Next came the A-K of hearts, and the bad news that hearts were not 2-2. South now fell from grace. Of course he knew enough not to just concede down one, but his actual attempt to make the contract was ludicrous. He cashed three top spades, throwing a club from dummy, and then played a third heart. Does it surprise anyone that West now led the 10 of clubs?

The play needed to make the contract calls for a little bit of luck, but not anything from the Twilight Zone. Declarer must arrange things so that when West wins the third heart, he will no longer have a safe exit card. Three rounds of spades are fine, but next the king and ace of clubs must be played. That takes away the 10 and nine from West. Now when West wins the third heart, he has nothing left to play but a diamond. That allows declarer to make the play that I hope you have all become more familiar with this week — he can ruff in dummy while discarding his club loser from his hand.

Asteroid comes close to earth

United Press International

WASHINGTON — A half-mile-wide asteroid, blazing through space at nearly 50,000 mph, skirted past Earth last month in a cosmic "close call" unrivaled in a half century, NASA said.

The asteroid, called 1989FC, passed within 500,000 miles of Earth — about twice the distance to the moon — on March 23, the space agency said.

"On the cosmic scale of things, that was a close call," said Henry Holt, an amateur astronomer from Flagstaff, Ariz., credited with discovering the asteroid while working on a project funded by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Bevan French, a scientist with NASA's solar system exploration division, said Wednesday if the asteroid had collided with Earth the impact would have been equivalent to the explosion of 20,000 hydrogen bombs, creating a crater 5-10 miles across — or large "enough to destroy a good-sized city."

If it had hit an ocean, it would have created killer tidal waves that would have swept over coastal regions, French said.

Hydrogen bomb inventor Edward Teller, at a recent symposium at George Washington University, proposed using an atomic weapon to destroy asteroids found to be on a collision course with Earth.

NASA noted it "is popularly believed" that a six-mile diameter asteroid hit Earth about 65 million years ago and "caused a global catastrophe that destroyed the dinosaurs."

Brian Marsden, director of the Minor Planets Center at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass., said 1989FC passed closer to Earth than any asteroid since Hermes in 1937.

The Cambridge observatory, the international clearing house for such discoveries, recorded the discovery of 1,800 asteroids in 1988, but only 30 asteroids have ever been known to cross Earth's path.

"There are a lot more things to worry about, like nuclear war or getting hit running across the street," said Daniel Green, another Cambridge astronomer.

NASA said Holt discovered the asteroid on a series of photographic plates taken March 31 using the 18-inch Schmidt telescope at the California Institute of Technology's observatory atop Mount Palomar.

He calculated it passed within 500,000 miles of Earth on March 23.

"The object estimated to be traveling 48,000 mph appeared as a trail of light in two photographs of the sky near the constellation Coma Berenices," NASA said.

NASA said that in the week following the discovery of the asteroid, Holt and other astronomers determined "1989FC takes about a year to go around the sun, but its orbit is highly elliptical and extends past the orbit of Mars and inward past the orbit of Venus."

"Asteroid 1989FC is now moving rapidly away from the Earth and sun," NASA said. "It will return crossing Earth's orbit again in early October 1989, this time at a greater distance from Earth."

Fossil may be fraud

United Press International

WASHINGTON — In what may prove to be a flagrant case of "fossil fraud," an Indian geologist was accused of passing off relics unearthed in Oklahoma and elsewhere as Himalayan fossils.

An expose in the British journal Nature charged Wednesday the "vast and intricate" schemes of Viava Jit Gupta tainted information about the geological and biological history of the Himalayan mountain range between India and Tibet.

"Through the activities of one Indian scientist, the paleontological literature on the Himalayas has become shot through with disinformation," wrote John Talent, a paleontologist at Macquarie University in Melbourne, Australia.

Gupta, a geology professor at the Indian University of Chandigarh, has published more than 300 articles in the last 25 years about geology and prehistoric life of the Himalayas.

That "avalanche" of literature contained "astounding additions" of plant and animal life "never previously encountered in India or the rest of Asia," which carried considerable implications for global rock and fossil patterns, Talent wrote.

Talent presented evidence that strongly suggests Gupta's "circus" of peculiar fossils did not come from the Himalayas but were dug up at sites in Oklahoma, New York and Morocco noted for such distinctive fossils.

Talent did not specify how he thinks Gupta got the fossils, most of which were of invertebrate animals. But he noted such items are common in university teaching collections and one type — mollusks uniquely fossilized by iron crystals — is available from "fossil dealers, rock shops and curio counters in flea markets."

Gupta angrily denied the allegations Wednesday and said Talent was motivated by "a malicious intent to take revenge (because) of a personal rivalry and professional jealousy."
