Sanford could be disaster relief center

By NICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The State Farmers Market at 1300 S. French Avenue in Sanford could be a distribution center for goods and services if a major disaster hits. It would only be activated however, if other facilities weren't operational.

If the Sanford location would not be needed, the nearest relief center for Seminole County would be in Tampa. Sanford's State Farmers Market could be one of six sites across the state for the secondary-need Regional Relief Center in the event that a natural or technological disaster prevented other centers from being used.

The six centers were named this week by Florida Agriculture Commissioner Bob Crawford.

The other potential centers would be located at farmers markets in Bonifay, White Springs, Wauchula, Fort Pierce and Fort Myers. The centers will serve as alternate sites to five Regional Relief Centers planned by the Florida Department of Community Affairs Division of Emergency Management, to ecordinate the spontaneous donations of goods and services following a major disaster.

"The Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services has always responded promptly to provide assistance following hurricanes, floods and other disasters," Crawford said. "The state markets are ideally situated to serve as potential emergency relief centers, providing efficient utilization of existing facilities in relief efforts."

Under the plan being developed, primary Regional Relief Centers will be located in Pensacola, Tallahassee, Jacksonville, Tampa, and West Palm Beach.

These centers will be utilized to coordinate and expedite an efficient flow of donated goods and volunteer services into an area when a major

Treat mom, help Miss Sanford

By VICKI DeSORMIER Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Mother's Day will be here before you know it.

If your mom has nixed choclates (too fattening) and banned flowers (her aflergies, y'know) and threatened you with permanent time out if you buy her one more bottle of generic perfame (which does NOT smell anything like Chanel No. 5), the merchants of downtown Sanford have the solution to your gift-giving woes.

An afternoon of hearty down-home cooking, delightful fashions and fantastic entertainment are the order of the day at Cafe Jake's on Saturday afternoon, May 6.

The Sanford Historie Downtown Waterfront Association (SHDWA) members wanted to do something for mothers and they hope to help Miss Sanford. Meredith Miller, raise the money she needs to move on to the Miss Florida competition in June and, hopefully, the Miss America competition in September.

SHDWA is the organization that is sponsoring Miller in her quest to become Miss America.

The cost of competing in the contest is high. A specially designed wardrobe and contest fees can be quite costly.

Cubans rescued at sea

MIAMI - Two groups of Cubans were picked up at sea and were being transported to the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba by the Coast Guard.

A patrol boat rescued 16 Cubans - seven men, three women and six children - Tuesday 12 miles east of Jupiter.

Later in the day, five Cuban men were rescued from a raft about 25 miles west of Cuba, the Coast Guard said Wednesday. "There were no health concerns," Lt. Michael Wilson said from the Coast Guard station in Miami.

He said it was unclear from where the groups had come. While many Cubans attempt to reach the United States from the Bahamas, he said the location of the second group made that virtually impossible.

Agriculture stations closing draws fire

MIAMI - Responding to President Clinton's proposal to close 12 agriculture research stations, Rep. Joe Skeen said he would not "sit still while they mouth off about saving money and end up destroying our roots."

The New Mexico Republican visited the Chapman Field research station in south Dade County where scientists work with varieties of tropical and subtropical fruits and vegetables from around the world. The station is one of the 12 that would be closed under Clinton's 1996 budget proposal.

Skeen, the chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee on agriculture, said budget cutters focus on agriculture because only 2 percent of Americans are involved with farming.

Skeen toured the laboratories and research facilities Wednesday and got a glimpse of what scientists are doing to try to come up with crops that are more productive and more pest resistant.

Government sues contractor

FORT LAUDERDALE - The Justice Department has sued a military contractor for allegedly conspiring to defraud the government of $10 million in military aid.

Pratt & Whitney's West Palm Beach branch, falsified purchase orders and invoices in a scheme to illegally divert the money, the Justice Department said in the suit filed Wednesday in U.S. District Court.

The contractor allegedly conspired with former Israeli Air Force Brigadier General Rami Dotan to collect the money between 1986 and 1992, in connection with a $160 million contract to build turbojet engines for Israeli LAVI fighter planes.

Dotan already is serving a 13-year prison term in larael for working with General Electric to steal millions of dollars in U.S. aid. Dotan was convicted in 1991, and General Electric admitted its guilt in 1992.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE Legislature actions Blacks, women say their issues are stalled

By BILL KACZOR Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - Minority lawmakers say issues important to them are being stalled in the Legislature. Black legislators voiced indignation at a news conference while female lawmakers met with legislative leaders Wednesday to voice their concerns.

"We will not be handled this way in the Legislature, not by the Republicancontrolled Senate and not by the Democratic-controlled House," said Sen. Betty Holzendorf, D-Jacksonville, chairwoman of the Florida Conference of Black Legislators.

The black lawmakers cited Senate inaction on the confirmation of Doug Jamerson as labor secretary, difficulty getting bills they are sponsoring heard on the floor, increased prison spending at the expense of education and a failure to act on a proposed public health school at Florida A&M University.

Conference members declined to say exactly what they planned to do, but vice chairman Rep. Lesley Miller, D-Tampa, said they would use "any means necessary" to get action on their issues.

Women are seeking passage of bills to get tough on domestic violence and provide compensation for victims, welfare and health care reform and children's issues.

Members of the Florida Women's Legislative Caucus were conciliatory during a meeting with House Speaker Peter Rudy Wallace, D-St. Petersburg, and Senate President Jim Scott, R-Fort Lauderdale.

But they handed Scott a chart showing domestic violence bills that had passed the House were stalled in the Senate. Caucus co-chairwoman Rep. Shirley Brown, D-Sarasota, accused the Senate of "dragging its feet on these critical public safety issues in a news release.

We intend to make every effort to address domestic violence." Scott said afterwards. "I don't know of any particular objections to these bills."

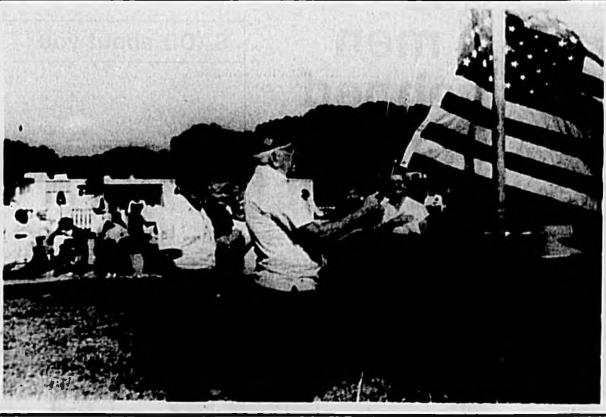

Scott also met briefly with black lawmakers about Jamerson, one of the highest ranking blacks in state government. Senate committees have refused to act on the appointments of Jamerson and Health and Rehabilitative Services Secretary James Towey, who is white, leaving them in limbo. "I told them that I was looking at the problem and would have a solution to move the nomination along soon," Scott said.

He said he plans to discuss both ap-pointments with Sen. Charlie Crist, R-St. Petersburg, who chairs the Ethics and Elections Committee, which reviews ap-pointments. Both are appointees of Demo-cratic Oov. Lawton Chiles.

"if there is something that's amiss then put it on the table," said Rep. Alzo Reddick, D-Orlando, at the news conference. "Don't leave it twisting in the wind." Reddick said his words also applied to Towey's appointment: "In black and white and living color, the same thing."

Murder probe launched in boy's death

NEW SMYRNA BEACH- Police have launched a murder investigation into the death of an 8-year-old boy found locked in the truck of his family car.

Police Chief Denver Fleming said investigators believe Dimitric Moore was murdered, even though his body bore no visible signs of trauma.

"At this point in the investigation, I believe that we are proceeding correctly (in treating at) as a homicide," Fleming said.

Fleming said police were interviewing family members and youths in the area. There are no suspects, he said.

Authorities executed a search warrant on the Moore house and garage after the boy's body was found in the car trunk Monday. He had been reported missing Sunday. Fleming said officers also are pursuing information that Dimitric may have had some trouble with other children in the neighborhood.

FORT LAUDERDALE -Dosens of seriously ill youngsters were improperly enrolled in Florida Medicaid HMOs, then didn't get costly medical care they needed, a state review indicates.

State health workers documented the cases as part of an informal survey of health maintenance organizations begun in February, the Sun-Sentinel of Fort Lauderdale reported for today's editions.

The workers - several of them nurses assigned to the HRS children's medical services program - suggested some frail children suffered after their HMOs either delayed or denied specialized medical services they required.

In a case cited by the HRS office in Jacksonville, a child suffering from a head injury after an auto accident was unable to transfer to a rehabilitation hospital because the HMO refused to pay the bill.

In another case, an asthmatic child under treatment at Shands Hospital in Gainesville was signed up in an HMO after the parents were told the child could continue at Shands. When the family arrived for their appointment, they waited five hours, then were told the HMO would not pay.

The workers cited 139 complaints statewide alleging abusive or fraudulent HMO enroliments of children receiving Medicaid benefits.

In 57 cases, severely ill children didn't get complex or costly medical services from HMOs their parents had joined. the report said. Many times the parents did not understand what they were signing up for, the workers reported.

Teen moms face OOU

By DANIEL Q. MANEY AP Science Writer

BOSTON - All pregnant teen-agers face an exceptionally high risk of giving birth pre-maturely, even if they are white, middle-class and married, according to a study published today.

The research casts doubt on the widely held belief that teen-age pregnancies are prone to end early solely because these girls are often minority, poor and ill-educated. The new work found that even

WASHINGTON - Violence against very young children is a public health crisis similar to the "destruction of teen-agers by street gunfire," says a federal panel that found five youngsters a day die at the hands of their parents.

"Abuse and neglect has become one of the biggest threats to the lives of infants and small children in America," the U.S. Advisory Board on Child Abuse and Neglect reported Wedneeday.

Deaths,from abuse and neglect of children age 4 and younger outnumber those from falls, choking on food, sufficiation, drownings, residential fires or car accidents.

Motor vehicle accidents kill about 1,000 preschoolers, in-fants and toddlers a year. Twice as many children, the vast majority age 4 and younger, die every year of abuse and neglect. An additional 18,000 children are permanently disabled and 142,000 are seriously injured by abusive parents or other caretakers, the panel said. Most physical abuse fatalities are caused by men who are enraged or under extreme stress

The report, "A Nation's Shame: Fatal Child Abuse and Neglect in the United States," lists the horrible ways children die.

An unidentified newborn in New York was buried alive. Three-wock-old Lindsay Cresson of Colorado was smothered to stop her crying. Cimantha Shepeard, 10 days old, was dropped two stories to her death in Illinois. Latoya Harris, S, was found entombed in cement in California. In Michigan, Felicia Brown, 1%, was beaten to death with a shoe heel. Two-year-old Eric Bunphy was besten and stuffed into a Christmas orna-ment box in Rhode Island.

"Since we began our study in 1992, some 5,000 children have died at the hands of the very adults they depended upon for safety and love," said Deanne Tilton Durfee, who heads the advisory board. "This is an unacceptable and preventable national crisis. It requires an immediate response within every community." Her panel also found that deaths due to child abuse and neglect are often wrongly identified as accidents or the result of natural causes because police, doctors and coroners are largely untrained in identifying evi-dence of inflicted trauma and severe neglect in children. Some states, the report said, lack laws for felony child abuse prosecutions, and charges of homicide are routinely reduced to lesser crimes.

The panel made 26 recommendations, including more ef-fective prosecutions of parents who kill children and increasing training of legal and medical profession sis.

Its report comes as the Senate takes up welfare reform legislation, passed by the House, that would repeal many federal pro-grame for abused and neglected children and replace them with a block grant to the states.

Spending on these programs would rise at a fixed rate but would no longer grow to automatically reflect increases in the number of children in foster care. The Clinton administration said the plan would cut spending by $3.5 billion over five years.

Save the Ritz Theater

A regal grand dame will soon get the face lift she so richly deserves.

The Ritz Theater, idle for many years, had fallen into grave disrepair when some local visionaries decided to do the almost impossible. With a roof full of holes and paint peeling like blistered skin, the historic landmark had certainly seen better days. But members of Friends of the Ritz have held successful fund-raisers and are applying for suitable grants to renovate the building. And it looks like a new roof may go on as early as this weekend. What a wonderful project this is!

Many Sanford baby boomers remember as kids hours spent in the cool darkness, delighting in Diancy classics or excited by Sean Connery's suave portrayal of James Bond. "Gone With the Wind" played there.

Beckoned by the neon marquee and neon-lighted glass block facade, kids on summer Wednesday mornings paid admission of six RC Cola bottle caps to see Mickey Mouse Club members blaze across the screen. Now the building official for the city. Gary Winn remembers those days 31 years ago. He even wore his mouse cars, right along with Annette and Bobby singing to him from the screen. For 11 cents, Winn could buy popcorn and a soda from the lobby concession stand. "For a long time, going to the movies is all we kids had to do," he reminisced. Winn was an usher for the Ritz while in high school. His dad was the projectionist, and before that a vaudevillian, an adagio dancer.

Before the movies, the Ritz was synonymous with vaudeville.

problems on its plate, here comes another one -one, what's more, that's getting worse and bigger every day.

For forcibly calling our attention to it, we have Peter Brimelow to thank. Brimelow wrote a long and thoughtful article on the subject for National Review a couple of years ago, and has now followed that up with a whole volume: "Allen Nation," published by Random House. It is a book not to be missed.

It is a piquant but irrelevant fact that Brimelow himself was born in Britain, and became an American citizen only recently. But Alexander Hamilton was born in the British West Indies, spent his first 18 years there, and didn't set foot in Britain's North American colonies until just four years before the Declaration of Independence; yet he turned out to be quite an American patriot.

Brimelow's concern reaches far beyond illegal immigration, the costs of which -- in welfare, education, Medicare, etc. -- triggered last November's Proposition 187 in California. Under 187, which is now being contested in the courts, illegal aliens would no longer qualify for all sorts of benefits that the government of the United States insists must be sprayed benignly over alike. (It is said that two-thirds of all the bables born in the hospitals of Los Angeles are born to illegal alien mothers at the expense of California taxpayers -- with the babies, of course, becoming U.S. citizens at birth.) But Brimelow warns that legal immigration is a major part of the problem too.

What are the figures? About 2 or 3 million people (nobody knows for sure how many) enter the United States IIlegally every year. And while some large number of these leave again, the Immigration and Natu ralization Service estimates that net illegal immigration runs from 300,000 to 500,000

Is a million and a half immigrants per year a lot? Well, it's bigger than the number that entered in either 1907 or 1914, which were the two peak years in what is called "The First Great Wave" of immigration. from 1848 to 1920.

But that isn't even half the story. The First Great Wave was followed by a Great Lull, from 1920 to about 1970, during which America "digested" the previous high influx of immigrants.

It was the 1965 Immigration Act (sponsored, wouldn't you know, by Sen. Ted Kennedy) that, kicking in about 1970, sent immigration statistics soaring again. What's more, whereas the carlier immigrant flood had been largely European, the 1965 Act favored immigrants from Asia and Latin America -- and immigrants from these areas have incomparably higher birth rates than that of the basic American population. Unless something is done to halt the tide, the U.S. population by 2050, according to one estimate, will be 391 million -- and 139 million. or 36 percent, will be post-1970 immigrants and their descendants.

Federal judges fear climate of violence

WASHINGTON - Last week's deadly blast in Oklahoma City prompted a team of federal judges to privately hand down a blistering indictment of the security at their own courthouses.

On the morning after the bombing, 92 chief judges from across the country met in Washington for a routine training session. But sources inside the room tell us the conversation guickly turned to courthouse security, as one judge after another bemoaned the "siege mentality" they feel each day.

"There but for the grace of God go we." one top federal court official said about the mood of the meeting. bere constant migration in the 1960s and 70s, left the declining Ritz a battered and dirty relic finally, by the mid 1980s.

But downtown Sanford's residential and commercial district are basking in a true renaissance. In a world too fast-paced and often cluttered with too much change, there is peaceful reassurance in the past. Like the proud Victorian homes that grace our oaklined streets. Like thundering applause for the movies, for the Ritz.

Winn was delighted to reminisce about those innocent, happy days. "I was born and raised at the Ritz. I'd like to see it come back.'

So would we. Because it's more than a building. It's a symbol of the way we package our memories, the good ones, the ones we want to keep.

Hate market

As we reflect on the bombing in Oklahoma City. we can't help but wonder what causes this kind of terrorism. Hatred in this country is on the rise. In fact, hatred has become America's national pastime.

In the movie "Star Wars" one of the messages was "Beware the Power of the Dark Side." The Darksiders are now in control. We have hate radio shows like Rush Limbaugh, who has made big bucks by turning the art of demonizing people into a form of entertainment. We have politicians whose election strategy is based on getting you to hate the other guy and the kind of people he represents. You can't watch TV without seeing the slaughter of people in the most hideous ways you can imagine.

There is a price to cashing in on the hate market. And that price is being paid in Oklahoma City. Marc Perkel hung for trafficking in drugs. Maybe if we here In the USofA applied the same penalty for the same crime(s) we'd have damnsight fewer drug crimes. I personally see nothing cruel or unusual about that penalty. How about you? A federal district judge blocked enforcement of a community notification law, known as "Megan's Law," when a convicted rapist was released back into society. Said it would do irreparable harm to the released convict. Can't help but wonder how much "irreparable harm" will come to how many more children when - not "if" - he rapes again ... as he surely will.

A young teen-ager, 17, convicted of robbery and murder of two men was given a sentence of two life terms. Should have been one execution by hanging ... and within one year of date of conviction.

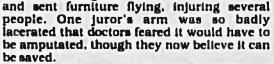

Let's now stop with the "actuals" and delve a bit into the "generals" of this cruel and unusual bit. It would appear that the only time(s) that cruel and unusual comes into the picture - legally - is when society seeks to impose a punishment on the convicted or admitted felon.

Let's look at it from the victim's standpoint - thru his or her eyes. Was it cruel and unusual punishment when that same felon broke his victim's arms and/or legs? How about when he stabbed his victim repeatedly. Did it become cruel and unusual punishment at the fourth thrust of the knife? How about the tenth thrust? When did it cease to be "fun and games" and become cruci and unusual punishment - against the victim?

More and more good people like you are starting to feel that any and all punishment meted out by the criminal to his victim(s) should be considered perfectly acceptable to be imposed by society back on the criminal upon conviction.

There is an old - a very old - saying abut that. It goes something like this: "An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth." Let's start giving to the criminal what the criminal gives to his victims ... and in like manner and amount. What do you think?

For every near-miss, however, judges can point to a tragedy. One of the most recent took place in February in Seattle. There, a man with a semiautomatic weapon opened fire in a county courthouse, killing his pregnant wife and one of her friends as they waited to testify against him in a marriage annulment hearing. Judiciary officials say the increase in cases involving domestic disputes, drugs, gangrelated activity and terrorism have caused violence to spill into the once hallowed halls of justice. These officials worry about the chilling effect this violence is having on judges, jurors and witnesses who might not be willing to participate in controversial cases in the future.

'Courts are scenes of conflict and they're perfect places for people to act out their hatred," one senior courthouse official told us. "We have judges under threat all the time. It's widespread and gets more serious the more you get cases like the one involving the World Trade Center bombing in New York City." According to a recent study by the General Accounting Office, 86 percent of judges perceived themselves as being exposed to more job-related danger than other citizens.

Security officers uncovered 384,335 concealed guns and knives that people tried to bring into federal courthouses in 1993, a 10 percent increase over the previous year. Funding for federal courthouse security has soared from $18 million in 1985 to $97 million this year, and judiciary officials want to increase the budget by another $17 million for next year.

Only 42 percent of the judges who responded to the GAO survey said they felt secure when they go home for the evening. Since 1979, three federal judges have been assassinated at their homes, including one in New York who was mowing his lawn.

Judge Perez Jimenez of Puerto Rico and his family had to endure 24-hour protection by the U.S. Marshals Service for several years because of threats on his life from a terrorist group. Jimenez, a former chairman of the Judicial Conference Committee on Security, describes today's criminals as being "more daring, more violent and more prone to strike at the judicial system when they don't get what they want."

"Being a judge is not a popularity contest," Jimenez told our reporter Kim Rubey. "In every case, someone always loses, and judges are prime and easy targets for disgruntled loscrs.

Let punishment fit the crime

Perhaps I have been somewhat remiss in not discussing in greater length the highly volatile subject called ... cruel and unusual punishment ... as applied/not applied currently in our society.

COLV - SHARE - NEW - NEW

First, a short review of the source of that very, very heavily used - yes - even grossly misused phrase by the practitioners of law our legal profession.

Amendment VIII to the Constitution of the United States. Yes, I know! We already covered that in a total review over the last few weeks. I also know that many of you out there in Never-never-land have very short memories ... worse than mine ... and mine is horrible. Listen up, it's real short. "Excessive bail shall not be required nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishment inflicted."

That's verbatim, taken word for word from my copy of the Constitution of the United States. And, now that your memory has properly jogged, let's delve much deeper into the cruel and unusual punishment bit ... as talked about by the legal profession and as applied by the admitted or the convicted felon.

Try to remember now, folks, when this "bill of rights" was created by the founders of our country, public flogging and the wooden stocks were a very common form of punishment for wrongdoers. Public hanging was also in use for capital offense convictions. All three should be reconsidered as a current form of "real" punishment in our society today.

In almost every major felony trial conviction we seem to hear strange but usual noises coming from the mouths of the defense attorney, with almost total disregard of the penalty assessed against the crime committed: "Cruel and unusual punishment ... we're going to appeal."

The punishments that may be applied to a whole passel of crimes - from minor to ultra major are currently on the books so they should in no way be considered as cruel or unusual by those same vocal lawyers ... who supposedly "know the law." Let's take a gander at some of the "happenings" that have been reported in our local news media recently and see just how "cruel and unusual" the actions and conduct of the convicted felons - the ones who did the deeds - actually were.

Beems as though one Jason Robb. age 27, who was already in prison for murder, was again convicted of leading a prison riot for some 11 days in which additional murders and kidnappings occurred. How many additional deaths were attributed to Mr. Robb's actions? 10! Nine prisoners and one guard. Would a death sentence - carried out this time - seem cruci and unusual?

WASHINGTON - Only onethird of high school students are proficient readers, a drop from two years ago, according to a national survey released today. But educators refused to shoulder all the blame, saying too many students prefer the fuzzy glow of the TV to the crisp pages of a novel.

'Our children need more books," said William T. Randall, chairman of the National Assessment Governing Board, "not more textbooks but more library books and more books of their own at home so they can develop a lifelong reading habit." Education Secretary Richard W. Riley said the results indicate students are spending "too much time watching mindnumbing television."

He called for renewed emphasis on reading skills "both in the classroom and at home."

The test, given in carly 1994 to fourth, eighth and 12th-graders, was designed to show how well students understand and analyze what they read. Students were judged to be at the advanced, proficient or basic reading levels, or below.

the lowest level. The younger math." But he also said the students were even less likely to be rated basic or proficient readers for their grades.

But while the seniors' scores have dropped since 1992 - the first time the updated version of the test was given - the fourth-and eighth-graders scored about the same as their 1992 Deers.

"Far too few students are reaching the proficient level of reading achievement in any grade," said James E. Ellingson, a fourth-grade teacher on the test governing board. "Average achievement is either stuck or going down."

That contrasts with scores on the math version of the National Assessment of Educational Process, which have been rising over the past decade, he said. Ellingson noted that "out-of-schools have "a crucial responsibility" to improve reading.

In all three grades, the majority scored at the basic level, which was defined as "partial mastery" of the reading skills they should have. Seventy percent of the seniors reached at least the basic level, down from 75 percent in 1992.

Most students didn't make the next level - proficient reader which called for "solid academic performance" and "competency over challenging subject matter.'

Only 34 percent of the 12thgraders qualified as proficient readers, down from 37 percent in 1992. Only 4 percent were rated as advanced readers.

According to McDonough, the packages contained six coolers filled with the marijuana.

"I think it must be to keep it (the marijuana) fresh." McDonough said.

The marijuana, which McDonough described as "good quality," was valued at about $200,000. He said that marijana is valued at about $1,000 per pound on the streets.

McDonough said there is a large drug ring operating in Volusia County which has strong ties to Mexico. He believes that Wednesday's bust may have put a hole in that operation, but they don't believe that it has been shut down.

Germany's Bergen-Belsen A concentration camp so cursed, 'the very air was poisoned' April.

By FRANK BAJAK Associated Press Writer

BELSEN, Germany - The local German army commander was so anxious to be done with Bergen-Belsen that he surrendered the overcrowded, typhus-infested concentration camp while it was still behind his lines.

Two days before a British antitank unit liberated the camp, and with combat raging all around, Capt. R.W. 'Dick' Williams and five other British officers went into Bergen-Belsen under a white flag.

No one could have imagined such a hell.

"There were just literally corpses everywhere," said Williams, a 74-year-old Londoner back for the first time 50 years later. "Just bundles of clothing which held the remains of these poor people."

The 40,000 emaciated, liceinfested survivors were hardly distinguishable from about 10,000 corpacs which lay where last breaths were gasped - many inside barracks framed by barbed wire and rank with filth and discase.

"Some had crawled outside. Some had crawled between the huts and the wire. Some were hanging on the wire," Williams recalled in an interview Wednesday. The living had not eaten for at least five days.

The camp's main corridor was "brown, bare carth, not a blade of grass anywhere," he said. An acrid haze of smoke hung above. Inmates had already begun burning their urine-soaked straw mattreases.

"Then of course the quietness. It was so gulet. Unbelievably quiet." Williams remembered.

Germany's Jewish leaders chose to hold their main commemoration of the Holocaust today at the camp. in a heath 35 miles north of Hanover.

The camp's actual liberation date was April 15, 1945. Today is Holocaust Remembrance Day.

Two SS guards gave Williams his first shock, matter-of-factly shooting two sunken-eyed inmates for approaching when they saw the British uniform.

The camp had five cookhouses, Williams recalled, "all of which were completely empty except in one I found about 50 pounds of rotting turnips." There was no water or electricity.

He said naked corpoes were piled outside the hospital area, "seven and eight high in stacks maybe 50 feet long.

It was British sapper Frank Chapman's job to buildoze the dead - some 30,000, he figured - into mass graves. Seeing the camp's 80 SS guards suffer as they helped bury the corpses made it easier to cope with the horrid stench and the heaps of violated humanity, he recalled.

There will never be a smell like this," said Chapman.

Nobody knows how many prisoners in all died in the camp, and its records were destroyed. Estimates put the total at about 100,000.

Today, Bergen-Belsen is bare but for the mass burtal mounds, a few memorials, birch trees and an impressive museum and archives completed in 1990 by Lower Saxony state.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Checking McVeigh's movements

OKLAHOMA CITY - Investigators piecing together Timothy McVeigh's movements in the days surrounding the bombing of the federal building are checking along an interstate for a possible dropoff point for the second suspect.

Authorities are canvassing restaurants, shops and other businesses along interstate 35, which leads toward the Kansas town were the truck believed to have carried the 4,800-pound bomb was rented, a law enforcement source in Washington said Wednesday.

McVeigh is the only person charged with the April 19 bombing of the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building. The second suspect is identified only in a police sketch as "John Doe 2," but a newspaper reported that he had been identified as a former soldier who served with McVeigh. Firefighters put the death toll at 99 today as the search for bodies continued.

Anti-terrorism plan wins support

WASHINGTON - President Clinton's anti-terrorism plan is winning bipartisan support, but language that's missing - a limitation on death row appeals — may be a contentious issue as the proposal gets a quick Senate hearing.

Declaring the nation cannot "be subjected to the horror the people of Oklahoma City have endured," Clinton sent his $1.5 enforcement tools to today's hearing kage of new of the Senate Judiciary Committee. There, Chairman Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, will try to engineer a three-part deal. It would include support for Clinton's proposals; the addition of long-sought GOP curbs on appeals by condemned prisoners; and a Republican pledge not to offer amendments to repeal an assault weapons ban. 'We want to accommodate the president," Hatch said in an interview Wednesday, "but it's time to stop the frivolous appeals and certainly in the case of terrorists."

34 million Americans past 65

By CASSANDRA BURRELL Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Americans 65 or older play 32 percent of all rounds of golf, take 72 percent of all recreational vehicle trips and make up 60 percent of all vacation cruise passengers, a private research group says.

And nearly 34 million Americans - one in eight - have reached or passed their 65th birthday, according to a report released today by the Population Reference Bureau Inc.

The number of elderly Americans quadrupled during the first half of the 20th century, the research organization said.

By the middle of the 21st century, roughly one in five, or 80 million people, will be 65 or older, the report said.

"The pace of growth is slower now as the relatively small number of people born during the 1930s Great Depression moves into old age," it said. "But the process will accelerate again in about 15 years when the large baby-boom generation starts reaching the 65-year mark." Seventy-eight percent of the elderly said they were registered to vote for the 1992 presidential election, the highest rate of any age group. One in five voters in that election was 65 or older.

Medicare eyed for savings

WASHINGTON - House Republicans are tentatively eyeing Medicare for $305 billion in savings in their seven-year plan to balance the budget, congressional sources say.

The savings might include incentives to enroll in less costly, managed-care plans and higher fees for upper income recipients.

The sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the proposals are under discussion this week at closed-door sessions attended by Republican members of the House Budget Committee. The meetings are a prelude to a broader review the GOP caucus will make late next week.

Chris Uliman, a spokesman for the panel, when asked about the $305 billion target for savings, said, "We can't confirm or deny that, and the number may change tomorrow."

Unabomber shows sadistic side in letter

SAN FRANCISCO - The Unabomber revealed his andistic side in a taunting letter to one of his badly injured victims.

On Wednesday, the FBI released the text of one of four letters the clusive bomber mailed April 20 along with a package bomb that killed a timber industry jobbyist in Sacramento.

"People with advanced degrees aren't as smart as they think they are," reads the letter to David Gelernter, a Yale University computer scientist who suffered extensive wounds to his abdomen, chest, face and hands after a mail bomb exploded in his office in June 1993.

"If you'd had any brains you would have realized that there are a lot of people out there who resent bitterly the way techno-nerds like you are changing the world and you wouldn't have been dumb enough to open an unexpected package from an unknown source," said the letter, which used the FBI's headquarters in Washington as its return address.

Three people have been killed and 23 injured in the Unabomber's 16 bombings since 1978.

The Unabomber also attacks Gelernter's 1991 book "Mirror Worlds" for saying the advance of computerization is "inevitable" and that any college person can operate a computer.

Suburb advertises for white residents

MATTESON. III. - Wanted: Affluent white home buyers to slow the pace of racial change in an integrated, middle-class bedroom suburb.

That's the bottom line of an advertising and marketing campaign launched by this Chicago suburb to stem white flight and preserve property values.

Urban experts say the plan could cause more pain than gain, and critics call the idea offensive to the town's growing black population.

'Let's be realistic, there's some racism behind this," said a black resident. Ernest Wooten Jr. "They say they want to keep it mixed, but my feelings are if you don't want to live here, I don't want you here."

But village administrator Ralph Coglianese says the only difference between his town's $37,000 campaign and efforts by other communities to maintain diversity is that Matteson chose to be more explicit.

'Most of the people would just rather not do anything; it's the casy way out." Coglianese said. "We've seen no history of people being able to maintain racial diversity without working at it."

"In one way or another every institution in American acciety has had to accommodate to older people's needs, court their favor or mobilize their resources and contributions," said Judith Treas, the report's author and professor of sociology at the University of California, Irvine.

The report said Florida has the highest percentage of elderly, with 16.4 percent; followed by Pennsylvania, 15.9 percent; Rhode Island, 15.5 percent; and lowa and West Virginia. each with 15.4 percent.

Alaska had the smallest share, with 4.6 percent of its population 65 or older.

The number of Americans age 100 or older more than tripled to 52,000 from 1980 and 1995, the report said. That number may reach 1 million by the middle of the 21st century.

Most older people report having at least one chronic health problem. Heart disease, for example, is reported by nearly one-third. Almost half are troubled by arthritis.

One of every eight elderly Americans is poor, the report said.

"Although poverty is no longer endemic among older Americans - as it was 40 years ago - it is a reality for 12 percent of all elderly, 28 percent of older African Americans and 21 per-cent of elderly Hispanics. It said.

Social Security remains the biggest single source of income for the elderly, accounting for two of every five dollars older Americans receive, the report said.

Dixon, 'Hounds take out Hawks

From Staff Reports

LONGWOOD - Tommy Dixon has made the Seminole Athletic Conference baseball pennant race a two-team event.

On Wednesday night, Dixon tossed a seven-hit shutout as the Lyman Greyhounds rolled to a 10-0 win over the Lake Howell Silver Hawks.

The result eliminates Lake Howell (18-8 overall, 5-4 SAC) from the race and keeps Lyman (22-3, 7-2 SAC) tied for first with Lake Brantley (which beat Seminole 9-3 Wednesday).

Conference play wraps up Friday, Lyman visiting Lake Mary while Lake Brantley plays at Lake Howell. Seminole plays again this after-noon, hosting Oviedo in a 4 p.m. game.

Kiley Calapa was 3-for-3 with a double and two RBI to lead Lyman's offensive effort Wednesday.

Also chipping in were Freddie Young (two singles, two runs); Mike Paulus (two singles, two RBI); Ted Koller (double, three runs, RBI); Mike Henach (single, run, three RBI); Joe Sustaita (run, two RBI); and Jason Shipley and Jason Gronert (one run each).

Opponents are likely to continue the Hack-A-Shaq strategy that sent O'Neal to the line to shoot a league-high 854 free throws during the regular season. He converted just 53 percent of those attempts and is rarely a factor offensively in the final minute of close games because Orlando tries to avoid putting the ball in his hands.

Talk about how many free throws O'Neal misses all you want, though. There's another reason the Magic, which was 39-2 at home, lost 16 of their last 20 road games, including seven straight in April.

"Defense is what causes us problems," the third-year pro said, looking ahead to the firstround playoff series that begins Friday against Boston. "If we don't come down and stop some people, we're in for some long nights."

The numbers for April support his contention. The league's top-scoring team (110.9) gave up 115.7 per game on the road, while yielding 100.25 at home during the month.

O'Neal missed nine of 11 free throws in Orlando's 119-114 loss at Boston on April 13, but an even bigger factor was the Magic's inability to control Dino Radja (29 points), Sherman Douglas (25) and Derek Strong

What prompted psychic's call to friend?

The following is an excerpt received from some correspondence after I had made contact with an old friend of mine whom I had not seen in 15 years. Apparently something prompted me to call him ... decide for yourself

"Dear Jerry: Too bad we didn't make contact before Feb. 6, 1995. The early morning of the 7th, a female friend and I landed at Jacksonville. We then went to an old pharmacy buddy of mine's house in St. Augustine. stayed in the Orlando Holiday Inn close to Disney World. Just think we were probably only a few miles apart after many years and did not even know it; however, as we discussed, our relative physical proximity may veil have set off your super-tune 'radar' as such that your call became necessary? My life has been reasonably successful and full of experiences. We will need much time to discuss each of our respective interim endeavors. Thank you for your fax and hope to hear from you soon. Later. David B. Stevens, doctor of jurisprudence and registered pharmacist, Scattle, Wash."

please try to remember that I only contributed, perhaps, with some alternatives for you to COR ider. While I appreciate your confidence in me, it was after all. you who made the final selection.

DEAR MR. STEWART: I would like to become psychic just like you. Where can I find a school to go to or take special classes in parapsychology? I can't wait to have some of the same experiences that you have had; I've always believed in this stuff and had dreams about it but nothing ever happens. Can you pick lottery numbers when you're psychic? If you're holding classes I would like to take them. I'm just so excited about reading your-column and I know that I for word (as sometimes we have to edit). I did this for two reasons. One, that I wanted you to see what it looked like and, two, I wanted others to see it as well and for obvious reasons. First of all, there are classes in 'parapsychology," but nothing that is going to make you psychic as that is an innate ability within each of us already. As for me teaching you about this "stuff," I think you're under the spell of some false impression as to what this whole ing is all

Death claims people of all ages

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 years old and I have been dating my boyfriend for seven months. (He just turned 18.) My problem is, he drinks and drives - and I'm frightened.

In January, he had an accident because he drove while he was drunk. He said he wouldn't do it again, but I know he still drinks and drives - a lot - on dangerous mountain roads. Four people have already been killed on those roads because they were drinking and driving.

I have tried explaining how dangerous it is and have begged him to quit drinking, but it goes in one car and out the other. Every weekend, I am haunted by the fear that the police will come and tell me he was killed in an accident.

How do I cope with this constant fear?

MARY A. IN OREGON DEARMARTA.: Unfortunately, many young people share the delusion of immortality: that nothing they do can seriously harm them. How wrong they are! Death claims people of all ages.

Look for Ala-Teen in your telephone directory and start attending meetings. It will help you cope with your fears, and teach you what (if anything) you can do to help your boyfriend recognize the potential conse-quences of his irresponsible behavior. Armed with that information, yu can then decide whether or not to continue dating him.

Whatever you do, do not ride with him when he's been drinking

DEAR ABBY: I have been married a year and four months to a wonderful and loving man. He moved in with me, bringing boxes of belongings - some of which have never been unpacked.

I decided to unpack them to clear the extra bedroom for our new child. As I got to the bottom of the last one, I found photographs of my husband and a woman. The pictures were very personal, if you know what I mean.

I confronted him when he got home. He laughed and said it was all in the past, and he didn't even know they were there. Then he burned them. I know he hasn't seen them since we married because the box has not been touched since he moved in. But the point is: He brought them with him.

He finally realized how hurt I was and apologized. I feel like I have been stabbed in the heart. This happened Sunday and it's now Wednesday, and I haven't caten anything because my stomach is so nervous. I don' want him to touch me, and I feel like leaving him and trying to clear my mind, but I don't know if it's the right thing to do. Before this, we were very happily married. Now, no matter what he says to comfort me. I still think about those pictures. Help me, picase, Abby. STRICKEN IN PHILLY

DEAR STRICKEN: For you to withdraw from a wonderful and loving husband and jeopardize your marriage over forgotten photos would be foolish. Forgive your husband for having toused them into a box instead of the wastebasket in his haste to begin his life with you. And once you have forgiven him, forget it!

DEAR ABSI': I am a receptionist for a foot doctor, and we plan to get married as soon as he gets his divorce. He is still living with his wife (for appearance's sake), but he says it is a marriage "in name only." The doctor is 43.

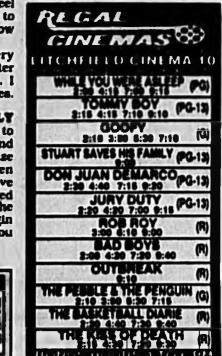

I am 19 and very friendly with his daughter. That's how we met. She doesn't know how serious it is between us.

When do you think it would be appropriate to announce our engagement?

IN LOVE DEAR IN LOVE: Your "foot doctor" needs a "head doctor."

You say he is married "in name only" - which is enough to prevent him from marrying you. Don't announce your engagement until after he an-

28-year-old female who has been rapid stretching of the skin, as taking laxatives for nine years. occurs during pregnancy and Yes, I'm dependent on them. I've sudden weight gain. In simple gotten to the point that it gives ten is, the skin doesn't have pills. I'd like to know what I can do to become regular again. DEAR READER: Laxative abuse is surprisingly common among young adult females. In conjunction with binge eating. followed by self-induced vomiting and cyclic dieting, this abuse is called bulimia, an eating disorder.

If you have the full-blown syndrome of bulimia, you'll need specialized therapy: counseling and treatment of medical complications that include mineral imbalance and malnutrition.

On the other hand, if you are merely abusing laxatives, without the other behavior I mentioned, you may be able to wean yourself off the pills.

Start slowly and go easy. Each week reduce your laxative dos-age by one pill (or one teaspoon). At the same time increase your use of bran and other fiber, such as fresh fruits and salads. Drink eight ounces of hot prune juice at night if you haven't had a bowel movement in two or more days. Should my suggestions be ineffective, check with your family physician for more specific advice.

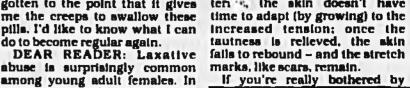

Laxative abuse is harmful because it depletes the body of necessary nutrients, primarily vitamins. Also, as the intestine adapts to the laxative, a person may need to take more just to maintain regularity.

In bridge, timing is important too. Cashing -- or holding up -- a winner at the right moment may be the difference between making or breaking a contract and failing to do so. How would you plan the play in today's fourheart contract against the spade-king lead?

South won the first trick with the spade ace, played a diamond to dummy's queen, drew two rounds of trumps, played a diamond to dummy's ace, rufied a diamond and exited with a spade. However, West wisely played low, permitting East to Assuming West has the diamond king, the game makes if either the heart queen drops in two rounds or the long diamond WEST can be established. The key play AKQJS is to duck the first trick, which 413 acts up communication with the OK 6 dummy. Then, after a spade to 4X 9 7 5 the ace, a diamond to the queen. two top trumps, a diamond to the ace and a diamond ruff. South can ruff his last spade to get into the dummy. There follows a diamond ruff, a club to dummy's ace and the fifth diamond, on which South discards a club loser. The defense is held to three tricks: one spade, 1 NT one heart and one club.
