ENVOY PROTESTS LACK OF POLICE GUARD IN CAPITAL

Declares His Life Is In Peril Due To Inadequate Protection

WASHINGTON, May 15.—(AP)—Renewed agitation for withdrawing immunity from the prohibition laws from foreign diplomats sprang up yesterday as an aftermath of the attack by liquor thieves on Dr. Don Carlos Leiva, charge d'affaires of the Salvadoran legation.

At the same time, Dr. Leiva, who was injured in a fight with the intruders, said he had reported to his government that his life was in danger here because of inadequate police protection.

Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, a prohibitionist, said he was willing to join a movement to force the presence of liquor in the prohibition and legation.

Representative Schaefer, a Wisconsin anti-prohibitionist, said he intended to ask a committee of the next congress to determine why law enforcement officers of the federal government are permitting foreign representatives to violate the Eighteenth Amendment.

Dr. Leiva, in his report to the Salvadoran government, said the legation had been visited by burglars four times during the last four months and that he was concerned over the safety of his wife and himself.

After an investigation, the U.S. department announced Thursday it would extradite diplomats and the property were being given adequate protection.

Dr. Leiva said he did not care whether the United States replaced 17 cases of liquor stolen from the legation by the marauders, one of whom severely wounded the diplomat during a hand-to-hand struggle.

Declaring that under existing conditions he would be unwilling to permit his wife to stay in the legation overnight, he added:

"This matter, as much as I regret it, has now become international in nature. I trust it will be satisfactorily adjusted between your government and this."

On two of the other occasions, he said he had called in the police after finding that the legation door had been forced. Another time, he added some silver and a case of liquor had been stolen.

On numerous occasions, he said, the telephone had rung repeatedly at night, but when he lifted the receiver the person calling would hang up. On the other, before the raid in which he was injured, he said the telephone rang but he did not reply.

"I guess that was a big mistake," he said. "Apparently the person calling concluded the legation was unoccupied and elected to burglarize it the following night. At any rate they were there when I got home."

FIRE IN PLANE IS MENACE TO 18 PASSENGERS

Flames Discovered In Wings And Fuselage Of Big Craft Which Is Forced To Land

ABERDEEN, Md., May 15.—(AP)—Eighteen passengers aboard a Richmond-New York air-mail plane of the Eastern Air Transport escaped injury late yesterday as the plane caught fire, and made a forced landing here.

For five miles one of the two pilots fought flames with a fire extinguisher. As the plane landed on the field of Edgewood arsenal the lower left wing caught fire. Soldiers helped the passengers out and extinguished the flames. Eight of the passengers and the air mail were taken to New York by another plane of the line. The other passengers planned to complete their journey by train.

Both pilots, A. C. Komiat and G. J. MacDonald, said they were puzzled about the origin of the fire. Neither of the two motors of the big ship, a Curtiss condor, was affected.

The ship left Richmond at 2 o'clock, after taking on passengers who had arrived by air from Atlanta and Florida. The smoke was first seen when the plane was about 4:35 o'clock.

MacDonald attempted to put out the flames with a fire extinguisher as Komiat headed the plane downward toward Edgewood arsenal.

The damage was confined to one wing of the fuselage and to the burned wing.

"Everybody aboard kept his head and there was little excitement," said Komiat. "We might have been gone on a little faster, but we were not in a hurry. We were just as well as landed when we did. The only time flames were visible was when we landed."

Of the passengers, only one was a woman, Miss Marion McKee of Atlanta.

The plane was flying at an altitude of 1500 feet when the flames appeared. Pilot Komiat nosed the craft to earth and at the same time directed his assistant to fight the fire.

The woman passenger and her father, Parkton McKee, boarded the plane at Baltimore, 30 minutes before the accident. Neither the pilot nor Lieut. R. C. Hoed, in charge of the army air detachment at the arsenal, could determine the cause of the fire.

CARLTON HOPES SPECIAL SESSION WILL BE AVOIDED

However, He Says Tax And Finance Raucous Must Be Ironed Out

TALLAHASSEE, May 15.—(AP)—Governor Carlton yesterday expressed the hope that an extra session of the state Legislature will not be necessary to solve the state's tax and finance problem but added that "it is difficult to tell this early whether the job to be done can be finished in the remaining time."

The current regular session of the legislature will end June 6, under provisions of the constitution. The governor may hold the law-makers in session for an added 20 days by calling for an extra, or special, session.

The legislature alone can determine whether there will be an extra session, the governor said. Disposition of the state's finances and taxation issues before adjournment of the regular session will be the determining element, he said.

Lobbyists were blamed by the chief executive for causing much "misinformation" as well as "misapprehension" among the "people back home."

The governor's statement in full:

"There appears to be much misinformation as well as misapprehension on the part of the people regarding the activities of the legislature. For example, there is a belief that the legislature is appropriating $400,000 for the purpose of increasing the salaries of the members of the legislature. True, all measures introduced, many of them covering the same subject matter, might aggregate that sum. No one, however, is looking to increase revenues save for the purpose of meeting necessary operating expenses of the state government and for proper regulation of our schools.

"Every new source of revenue meets immediate opposition from well-settled lobbies which do more to arouse the people back home than any other one thing. Some elements, of course, are working on constructive programs, but more are saying what they do not do.

"I believe the legislature is getting in a frame of mind where it will consider constructive suggestions only.

"I hope there will be no special session. However, the legislature alone can determine that matter. It depends on the legislature's ability to handle finance and taxation on measures within a given time. The members are working earnestly. It is difficult to tell this early whether the job to be done can be finished in the remaining time. I hope it can."

Protest Against Depredations Believed Contained In Nuncio From Vatican City

GRANADA, Spain, May 15.—(AP)—Four persons were killed and 10 injured last night in anti-church disorders in the town of Alarife, near here.

MADRID, May 15.—(AP)—Provisional President Acha Zamora mediated today upon a communication from Pajal Nuncio Frederico Tedeschini, which was generally believed to be a protest from the Vatican concerning the recent anti-Catholic depredations.

Although both declined to comment, it was believed the pope's representative had presented the alternative of an adequate apology or the severance of relations between the republic and Vatican City.

It was not believed that the protest would involve excommunication or the cessation of spiritual ministrations to the Spanish church, because the government has condemned the attacks in which scores of religious buildings were burned and their occupants routed.

Meanwhile, the panic of monks, nuns and priests seems to have subsided in some parts of the nation. Some schools and convents are re-opening.

Four persons were killed and 10 injured last night in anti-church disorders in the town of Alarife, near Granada, but Madrid is most of the province were in full observance of the laws of San Isidro, patron saint of the capital. Martial law still was in effect.

Another outbreak occurred in the town of Ronda, Capuchinos where a small party raved through the streets in an automobile firing pistols.

Meanwhile, authorities were searching available records to determine whether former King Alphonso XIII had been in the town.

May Claims Self Defense In Attack Upon Negro Caddy

L. U. May, Sanford man who was arrested by Sheriff J. F. McClelland on a charge of "assaulted assault" shortly after lunch today, is out under a $500 bond pending a hearing before Judge James C. Sharon in County Court next week. The charge was preferred by Sheriff McClelland after an investigation of the altercation at the Sanford Country Club last Wednesday afternoon when Willie Seawood, 16-year-old colored caddy was struck over the head with a golf club in the hands of Mr. May.

"I positively did not hit the negro until he made a dive for the club," Mr. May told a Herald reporter this afternoon. Mr. May visited the Herald office shortly after his release and stated that he was allowed to make a statement concerning the affair.

Declaring that he did "only what any other American citizen would do to an impudent negro who had made a remark of such character to him," Mr. May stated that his side of the affair was published in order that the "real condition of the unfortunate incident might be arrived at."

According to Mr. May, the Sanford Herald news story which stated that he heard the negro remark to another caddy "Here comes Uncle May" was correct. He then said that he went to the home and asked the caddy if he knew which of the two he did not know. Another caddy then answered that he did not know. Mr. May then stated that he was with the caddy when he was struck over the head with a golf club in the hands of Mr. May.

SUICIDE CULT IS BAPTISTS CHOOSE FLORIDA CITY FOR RECENT DEATHS

Charge Is Made That Soviets Are Invading 'Human Rights'

NEW YORK, May 15.—(AP)—Piles of Nassau county were told yesterday that two violent deaths in three days resulted from the operations of a "suicide cult."

The deaths were those of elderly men both ill for some time. One of them killed himself by hanging, the other died from two bullet wounds fired into the top of his head.

Information concerning the existence of the supposed cult was obtained by a sister of one of the men, Miss Louise Schwartz, 57, who lives in Nassau county. She was indicted yesterday by the Nassau county grand jury on a charge of second degree murder for the killing of her brother, Edward Schwartz, 65, who was shot to death.

Miss Schwartz said she and her brother were members of a group of middle-aged and ailing persons who met weekly and tried to relieve their pain by prayers. If prayers failed, according to her story, the members committed suicide. The group held its last meeting Monday she added, with an attendance of 20.

On the following day, George Hellenbach, 61, of Amityville, Long Island, was found hanging from a rafter in his home. Miss Schwartz said he was a member of the cult.

Her brother, who had attended the meeting, also failed to get relief, she added, and decided to kill himself. On Tuesday night she bathed and dressed him, then left the house to return early Wednesday. He was found dead in a chair in the living room, the gun in his slatched hand.

The indictment of Miss Schwartz was based on testimony that her brother could not have inflicted the wounds on himself.

REPAIRATION OF FURNITURE SAID THRILLING WORK

Way Of Renewing Old Beauty Is Described In Special Article

By BEATRICE HAMMOND

A thrilling experience for anyone is to restore some battered old piece of furniture to its original beauty. Perhaps it's only a chair which has been stored away in the attic. Or you may have picked up a quaint old bed for a ridiculous, little, at some country auction.

The sturdy, painstaking craftsmanship of the old days has made many pieces of fine design and good wood hold together in spite of terrific abuse. Such furniture is worth renovating. And the way to do it is described in a special article in this issue.

Scrapping of all the paint and varnish is the first step in refashioning the wood surface. This is done with a sharp knife and begins to scrape, having softened the old finish with a liquid varnish remover. If desired, it is important that the wood should not be scratched or nicked, any more than has already occurred. When scars and dents do come to light, they should be liberally applied and allowed to soak into the wood, as this treatment will aid in moving the stain. Rubbing the bare wood with flat sandpaper will smooth its surface. Varnish and wood seldom needs sandpaper.

To give the natural wood a glow, which was most often used on the original old pieces, coat the wood with liquid or paste wax, rubbing it on with a soft cloth after the furniture has been wiped clean. Several applications of wax—allowing drying time between—and considerable polishing are necessary if the wood is to regain its mellow beauty.

RUTH NICHOLS PREPARING FOR ATLANTIC HOP

Wasp motor has undergone an overhauling and is now supercharged up to 600-horsepower.

Miss Nichols will carry 570 gallons of gasoline—enough, she estimates, to keep her in the air 10 hours and carry her 3300 miles.

She is making very little provision for a forced descent into the ocean. She said she might carry a rubber boat—but probably would not. She will have no radio because she thinks a radio is not particularly efficient on such a flight unless there is another member of the crew to operate it.

Miss Nichols said she would take one small suitcase.

Colonel Chamberlin in a statement yesterday denied he ever had tried to dissuade her from making the flight. He said he believed her chance of success was 95 per cent.

Miss Nichols pointed out that any comparisons between her attempt and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's flight to Paris would be inaccurate and unfair because hers flight because she has a much more powerful and speedy ship.

"One of the principal purposes of this flight," she said, "is to demonstrate the progress in the design and construction of airplanes since Colonel Lindbergh and Colonel Chamberlin made their flights in 1927."

Miss Nichols is a graduate of the Masters School at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and of Wellesley College. She paid $10 for her first flight at Atlantic City in 1919, while she was still in the Masters School. She is a member of the Junior League and with other members of her family is listed in the New York Social Register. She made her first solo flight in 1923.
