Bush hosts world Soviet aid

WASHINGTON - President Bush will hold an international conference here cariv next month to coordinate humanitarian assistance for the people in the collapsing Soviet Union, Secretary of State James A. Baker III said today.

In a prepared speech, Baker said the country was undergoing a "promising democratic revohitton" that already has ended any fear of a nuclear war with the United States.

"Yet, the dangers are equal in scale to the opportunities," he said.

Baker the dangers include protracted anarchy and chaos. He said the problems were too grave for the United States or any other nation to alleviate by itself.

In Moscow today, amid grave uncertainty over the future shape of the Soviet Union, the Russian legislature overwhelmingly approved Boris Yeltsin's plan for a commonwealth of independent states.

Mikhail Gorbachev warned it would lead to "chaos" and said he might resign.

Yeltsin — who called the plan the last chance to stop the nation's "uncontrolled anarchic disintegration" - said support by non-Slavic republies for the commonwealth was growing.

The latest developments came as the central government was staggering from one crists to the next. A critical fuel shortage forced more than half of all Soviet airports to close today and led to the cancellation of most domestic flights of the state Aeroflot airline. Tass reported.

With winter closing in, millions of Soviets are worried about whether they will have enough to

Mayor Randy Morris brought up an addition to the choice. "I think the city would do best to try this for a limited time and see how it works. Then, we could bring it back later and make a final decision, or even extend it for another test period."

Mealor moved to add a 6-month test period to the motion, which was unanimously agreed upon by his fellow Commissioners.

TALLAHASSEE — Florida prosecutes and punishes more of its young black men than South Africa does, the head of a study group told the state Supreme Court.

A third of the entire black male population of Florida between the ages of 18 and 34 will be in jail, on probation or under community control by 1994, according to Frank Scruggs, chairman of the Racial and Ethnic Bias Study Commission.

Conferees will work on details of $622 million in budget cuts

TALLAHASSEE - The Florida House spared conservation funds and the Senate kept hands debated spending cuts to eliminate a $622 million state budget deficit.

The two chambers passed budget bills Wednesday and named a conference committee to work out final differences in spending reductions.

"I hope we can get that done this week," said House Speaker T.K. Wetherell, D-Daytona Beach. "That's our goal."

House Appropriations Committee Chairman Ron Saunders said joint subcommittees on education, health and rehabilitative services. general government, criminal justice and transportation would start work at 10 a.m.

"The budget should be finished by Friday." the Key West Democrat said.

The House and Senate also passed versions of some state personnel and organizational changes urged by Gov. Lawton Chiles, but left major overhauls for the regular legislative session opening Jan. 14.

Cutting the $29 billion state budget is the one thing that must be accomplished in the special session called for Dec. 10-17. This is not a special session of our making." Chiles pointed out as he met in his office with Wetherell and Senate President Gwen Margolis, D-North Miami Beach.

The acsaion was called after a lawsuit was filed challenging spending cuts by the governor and Cabinet, and the state Supreme Court ruled they didn't have constitutional authority to cut the budget between legislative sessions. The House voted 107-2 in favor of its budget reduction plan. Major cuts included $288 million in health and rehabilitative services - including $246.9 million in Medicaid programs — $264.8 million in education, and $45 million in the Depart.

ment of Corrections. The Senate voted 38-0 for its version after Democrats turned back a Republican attempt to eliminate 3 percent employee pay raises.

slash agency travel and expense budgets 20 percent, and reduce department operating expenses 33 percent. Senate Minority Leader Ander Crenshaw. R-Jacksonville, said the changes would save $97 million to pump into public achools and open 2,212 beds in two just-completed prisons. "It's not good business and it's not good politics not to open these prison beds," said Sen. Dick Langley, R-Clermont. "The whole state of Florida is more at risk when you put

2.200 more convicted felons on the street." But Margolis said the amendments would seriously disrupt state government and threatened to send the bill back to committee if any of them were approved.

"I'm not going to stand here as presiding officer and allow this kind of across-the-board cut," she said.

Sen. Arnett Girardeau, D-Jacksonville, accused the Republicans of playing political games by bringing up crime and prisons.

Ultrasound to aid cancer detection il promiate cancer can be diagnosed before it spreads beyond the gland Itself, the chances for cure are excellent. says Dr. Nancy S. Hardt, assistant professor of pathology at the University of Florida College of Medicine. "So we're very motivated to find ways to detect tumors while they're small." The prostate gland, which surrounds the urethra at the base of the bladder, produces a liquid medium for the sperm. Cancer of this organ, which most often begins to appear in men age 50 and over, is the most common cancer in non-smoking

Ms. Hardt's method combines techniques developed by Japanese researcher H. Watanabe in the late 1970s with newer criteria developed by Dr. Fred Lee of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital

Temporary hold put on drainage fee

SANFORD - Seminole County will proceed at a slower pace toward adopting a fee for unincorporated residents to pay for drainage improvements.

Tuesday afternoon, county commissioners authorized staff to pursue hiring a consultant to begin preparations for a stormwater utility program, but they hesitated at directing the consultant to prepare a billing system that would include a monthly fee for all property owners. Commissioners had allocated about $140,000 for the study earlier this year. Only Commissioner Bob Sturm was willing to proceed with fee preparations, but Fred Streetman had concerns about the fee, Larry Furlong outright opposed it and Pat Warren thought the county should review regional water and stormwater issues before proceeding. Tax relief?

As another election year approaches, both Democrats and Republicans on Capitol Hill are raising their voices in support of tax relief for middle-class voters. But a study just completed by the non-partisan Tax Foundation shows that both parties have been guilty of piling on taxpayers at all income levels.

The Washington-based group concludes that nearly all Americans are paying higher taxes today than at any time in the past. In fact, total federal, state and local taxes are consuming 35.1 percent of the nation's income. That is the largest tax bite in U.S.

Contrary to popular belief, top wage earners did not experience a windfall tax cut during the 1980s. Rather, the taxes paid by the top 10 percent of Americans increased from 48 percent of total receipts in 1981 to 56.9 percent in 1988. A year later, the figure leveled off at 54.5 percent. In reality, then, the tax burden has not shifted much during

But the beleagured middle class continues to be squeezed by the increase in the overall level of taxation.

Higher federal taxes, combined with inflation, mean that the average American family is $362 poorer in 1991 than it was last year. Although the typical two-earner family with two children will make $53,265 in 1991 — $1,254 more than last year — the gain will be more than wiped out by the increased tax burden.

The average family's $382 loss in real income comes after losing purchasing power in two of the last three years. Factor in higher state and local taxes, and government's cumulative cost is a hefty 37.9 percent of the average family's income.

Thus, after paying its tax bill, the average clothing shelter fiealth care, transportation and other necessities, and the average middle-class family is left with little money for discretionary spending and savings.

No wonder middle-class families are frustrated. They are running faster and faster and still falling behind economically. The treadmill prompts demagogic politicians to advocate tax policies that exploit class

The Tax Foundation, on the other hand, suggests cutting everyone's taxes and making up the difference by shrinking the size of government. That way, consumers would be able to spend more of their money as they please and government would have to get by with less. Now there's a politically radical

How expert are they?

Ever get the feeling that the stock market is Well, a recent series of stock-picking contests doesn't do much to dispel that sensation. Experts have been pitting their investment acumen against the toss of darts by amateurs. And the dart throwers have won their share of rounds. In fact, the professionals have had to hustle to stay alive in the series, sponsored by The Wall Street

In fairness, one must note that the experts outperformed the Dow Jones Industrial Average in 11 of 17 contests. But perhaps any crapshooter could have done just as well, the contests suggest.

So should investors replace the investment counselors with dartboards? Perhaps not. However, investors should realize that, to win at the stock market, luck may play as important a role as professional advice.

But this 200-year-old great lady has never needed songs or encomia to flower. Her lifeline was watered by the exchange of ideas and nurtured in the marketplace of dissent. She has suffered fools gladly. But the fools have grown in strength and numbers. Their temerity now tests her resiliency by trying to burn two of her most vital parts — the First Amendment and the Sixth Amendment - at the stake.

A full-page ignominious advertisement in college newspapers suggesting that the Holocaust is a hoax has enraged many members of the Jewish community who contend that the ad should not have been published.

A white youth in St. Paul, Minn., who burned a cross on the lawn of a black family was prosecuted under a state law that outlaws words and acts that cause "anger, alarm or resentment in others on the basis of race, color, religion or gender." He has had his appeal heard by the Supreme Court, which may decide that law impinges on the youth's right to freedom of speech.

Five women employees at Stroh's Breweryin Milwaukee are suing the company for its television ad that shows the fivemember, blond-tressed "Swedish Bikini Team parachuting into a camp of beer-

At the City University of New York, a Jewish professor has used psychometric data to "prove" that blacks are intellectually inferior, thereby, he argues, rendering affirmative action useless. Almost simultaneously, a black CUNY professor has publicly contended that Jews were part of a conspiracy with Italians that took over finite and pine that Jews had belowd to

The freedome involved in these controversies

The freedoms involved in these controversies - freedom of speech, freedom of the press and the right to a fair trial - are easily cherished when contentiousness is absent. But when those those freedoms are used as protective battle armor against horribly offensive ideas and actions, they draw heavy artillery fire. In the marketplace of ideas, "every idea is an incitement," Justice Holmes wrote in one of constitutional law's most famous dissents.

Happy 200th birthday, Bill of Rights.

Public should pay for races

As the Bush-Quayle '92 u n d · R a l s e r & Spirit-Raiser was rolling merrily along on Halloween night in Houston, Vice President Dan Quayle gushed that Texan Phil Gramm is "one of the best United States senators in the entire country!"

And the audience cheered. Then, in the next breath. Quayle urged that Gramm be summarily booted out of the Senate - thwarting the will of the people who made the ever-ready conservative the most popular Republican vote-getter in Texas history.

And yet, the audience cheered again. They cheered not because they'd suddenly turned against Phil Gramm, who is indeed one of the smartest and ablest of senators, but because they didn't grasp the impact of Quayle's plea. Then again, neither did Quayle. He wasn't thinking about the future of Phil Gramm, his aides say; he was merely pleading his pet notion of how Republicans can defeat Democrats: term limits for Congress.

What the vice president and his fellow Republicans haven't yet figured out is that there is a far better plan to accomplish their real goal - ending the apparent invincibility of Democratic incumbents in Congress — without scrapping all that is good about our democratic system of government of, and by, the people.

It is a plan that will end the overwhelming advantage that incumbents have over challengers - senators and representatives lure big money from the special interests and spend it to assure their re-election.

It is a plan that will end the corrupting influence of the special interests and their PACs - the Charles Keatings and the lobbyists of big labor and big business won't be able to buy or rent the services of representatives and senators, or even access to them. And senators and representatives won't have to beg them for money.

It is a plan that will give voters equal access to the ideas, promises and claims of incumbents and challengers - to level the playing field for all candidates.

It is a plan for the people to finally recapture their own electoral system from the special interests by financing the primary and general election campaigns of Senate and House candidates. The plan will cost, according to the Center for Responsible Politics and the Working Group on Electoral Democracy, about $500 million a year.

The idea is far from revolutionary. It is a plan to extend to Senate and House candidates the public funding system we now provide for presidential candidates. You'd think this would be precisely what Republicans would be demanding as they seek to break the lock that Democrats seem to have on the House, where more than nine out of every 10 incumbents win re-election. But Republicans seem to be unable to break the old philosophic lock that keeps them repeating cliches of opposition to all government financing.

How quickly the elephant forgets: Ronald Reagan is the No. 1 recipient of public money for campaigns; he got a combined total of $92 million for three presidential campaigns (as calculated by Common Cause).

President Bush received a combined total of $60 million in public funds for his 1980 and 1988 presidential campaigns. Republican prestdential candidates together have accepted $212 million in tax funds. The Republican National Committee has gotten $24 million in tax money for its presidential conventions.

House and Senate Republican campaign committees have accepted millions in tax funds for political mailings. This year, the House and Senate passed campaign finance reforms - now Bush threatens a veto if the House version prevails, because it would limit spending and match small individual contributions with public revolutionary.

The idea is far

In their zeal to do what's best for Republicans. Bush and Quayle have gotten it backward. Public financing is their best probably their only - hope for ending the domination by Democratic incumbents in Congress. And it is our best hope for driving the PACs into extinction.

Dan Quayle thinks the loss of a few super conservatives like Phil Gramm is a price worth paying to force all incumbents from power. The rest of us can argue that it is better to guarantee that the will of the people can be freely expressed — for a small price.

U.S. probes S&L kingpin's PACs

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department has turned its sights on Florida savings and loan kingpin David Paul to determine whether he strong-armed his employees into contributing to political campaigns so he could buy influence in Congress.

Paul's CenTrust savings and loan had two political action committees that doled out $328,000 to politicians from 1986 through 1989 when Paul was buying time to keep federal regulators from shutting down CenTrust.

When the thrift finally collapsed, it went under with $1.7 billion in debts that the taxpayers will have to cover. The government wants Paul to pay $30 million in restitution.

He has been under investigation by several federal agencies for the way he ran CenTrust. Now the Office of Public Integrity recently opened a probe that takes a closer look at how Paul ran his PACs.

The results of the investigation could affect the ongoing debate on whether PACs should be outlawed because they allow special-interest money to control Congress. Two Democratic presidential candidates — Jerry Brown and Paul Tsongas - have al-Paul's role in the S&L drama has been overshadowed by the more famous bandit. Charles Keating. But Paul's modus operandi mimicked Keating in many ways. He shared Keating's passion for bathing himself in luxury. He also shared Keating's talent for investing in powerful senators. They both blamed overzealous federal regulators for their problems.

And, our sources indicate, they both leaned on their employees to contribute to political causes when their own contributions had reached the maximum allowed under the Federal election rules say that the heads of corporate PACs cannot pressure their employees to give money to those PACs. Our associate Jim Lynch has seen some of Paul's internal documents which reveal that, at the very least, he kept close tabs on which employees supported his political agenda.

A March 31, 1987, memo to Paul from his political secretary listed the names of CenTrust officers who had not contributed to the PACs. The secretary wrote, "Although I understand that these contributions are voluntary. I do feel that it is something which should be brought to your attention periodi-

Another memo on Oct. 11, 1988, gave Paul a list of executives who "didn't make significant contributions" to a CenTrust PAC. A November 1988 memo to all CenTrust officers reminded them to make their "voluntary" contributions to the PAC.

The Justice Department is sifting through allegations that Paul dished out bonuses to his employees with the implicit instruction that the money should be passed on to the PACs. One of CenTrust's former vice presidents told bank regulators that the CenTrust PAC was "tied to and deducted from yearly bonuses." The executive called it an "unwrit-ten law" that all executives would contribute to both of Paul's PACs. Regulators were also told that Paul pressured his employees to make independent donations to candidates in addition to putting money in the PACs for him to pass along.

Our sources say that Keating used similar strategies to maximize the money he channeled to politicians. He offered enormous salaries to mid-level workers and then made private pitches to them about passing on some of the bounty to political candidates.

Davis, 46, said he resigned earlier this month because his job as a title insurance attorney has required him to spend more time in Miami. Except for a year off the board in the late 1980s. Davis has served continously since 1979, according to county records. He currently lives in Longwood, but may move to south Florida, he said.

"I think it's fair to say I have been amenable to growth," Davis said. "People should be allowed to use their property but it shouln't be willy nilly, either."

Hagle, 76, resigned from the P&Z last year after seven years on the board. Hagle, who lives in The Springs community west of Longwood, is a retired heating and air conditioning business

Although Hagle has often supported development pro-possis opposed by colleagues Shelton and Tracy, he urged the county to investigate the need for affordable housing which subsequently resulted in ordinance changes to encourage lower-cost housing.

"Sturm is a rather convincing guy," Hagle said. "He told me he needed someone of my experience on the board.

Duryea was referring to a letter received by City Manager John Litton from Seminole County Engineer Jerry Mc-Collum. The letter indicated the expense already incurred was at "point of no return." Me-Collum had projected that with the equipment and lines already installed or at the site, the expense could have reached the level of $400,000, which would be waisted if the City were to drop out of the burial agreement. Although McCollum's letter Indicated Florida Power Corporation would, "probably not accept the return of the materials," Litton projected they might buy them back at possibly 25 cents on the dollar.

chairmer David Mealor took a different look at the situation. "If it's going to cost us 25 cents on the dollar, that's a lot, and I don't think we should bring that on." Addressing Duryes he said, "George, you and I fought this battle against the power line burist, but we lost and the city prevailed. Now it's time to let them go on with it." Members of the public also were given the opportunity to express their feelings. Shells Sawyer complained. "If you continue to let this project go through, it will cost each citizen in the city $1,350."

On an opposing side, Frank Shelton, who was a former member of the Seminole County Planning and Zoning Board, but is a resident of Longwood. expressed his support for the undergrounding. "This is a most outstanding project," he said. "I hope this undergrounding and beautification will serve as an example for the whole county. I hope you will stick with it, not because of the money involved, but because it will belp make Lake Mary an outstanding area."

Lake Mary citizen Ethel Carlson was next at the podium. "It's easy for anyone who doesn't live here to support the power line burial," she said. they don't have to help pay for

New Lake Mary resident Don Danmiller also spoke on the matter. "I'm all for this," he said. "Being a newcomer, the one big problem I see is that Lake Mary is covered with power lines. Sure, it will cost money, but anything worth doing costs money.

A number of other citizens also expressed their opinions, mostly against the power line burial.

Following almost a full hour of pro and con discussion, a vote was called for, "To instruct the City Manager to investinge costs of the undergrounding with Mahoney Construction Company and Florida Power Corporation." Commissioners Jore and Duryen voted in favor of the move, while Commissioners Tremel and Mealor, and Mayor Randy Morris voted against further checking into costs of the project. The 3 to 2 vote defeated Jore's proposal, and the under-grounding of power lines along Lake Mary Boulevard will continue with no changes.

Commission as the most economical move at the present time, there was some concern over expenses involved with the plan. Mealor asked how the $1 received for each bag's purchase would be destributed.

"We'll have to give the entire one dollar per bag to Western Waste", City Manager John Lit-ton explained. "As for the cost for printing and distribution of the bags or tags, the city will just have to eat that amount." Litton could not immediately explain the cost, but expected it to be

With a small increase also approved by the City for Western Waste pickups, regular citizens monthly rate for garbage and recycling pickups will go from $10.40 to $10.94 per month. The City will have twice a week garbage pickup, and once a week recycling pickup. For those purchasing the special bags or tags for the per-use yard trash pickup, there will also be one pickup per week.

Seminole County is enacting a similar move to handle yard trash, with the bags to be purchased through Rite-Way, at $1 each. The bags will be offered in groups of 10 for $10.

Depending on citizens' loca-tions in the County, the monthly bill will range between $11.59 and $12.80 per month beginning January 1.

A bright spot? No inflation

WASHINGTON — While many analysts believe the U.S. economy is inching dangerously close to a renewed recession. they say one encouraging development is an almost total absence of inflationary pressures.

These analysts said the good news on inflation will give the Federal Reserve, which already has cut interest rates 14 times since the recession began in July 1990, room to reduce rates further if economic reports continue to show widespread

Meanwhile, President Bush's top economic advisers prepared to face more questioning from Congress on what types of proposals Bush was considering putting in his State of the Union message to bolster the sluggish economy.

Economists both in and out of government awaited a new batch of information on the economy's health today.

Rushdie makes public appearance

NEW YORK — In a surprise speech, British author-in-hiding Salman Rushdie renounced his attempts to placate Muslims offended by "The Satanic Verses" and pledged to publish a paperback edition of the book.

In his first public appearance outside England since Iran called for his death for the 1988 novel, Rushdie pronounced his conciliatory overtures toward Islam "stillborn.

The novel, which prompted fran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini in 1969 to call for Rushdie's death, "must be freely available and easily affordable, if only because if is not read and studied, then all these years (in hiding) will have no meaning." he said in a speech at Columbia University Wednesday night.

Earlier this year, Rushdie said he regretted writing "The Satanic Verses," and would stifle the paperback release and all future translations.

Breast cancer persists

WASHINGTON - Decades of breast cancer research have improved detection and treatment options for women but have made no progress in preventing the disease, according to a congressional report.

More women are being diagnosed with breast cancer today currently one in nine will get it in her lifetime - but death rates from the disease have remained virtually level since the early 1970s.

"We must conclude that there has been no progress in preventing the disease," Richard L. Linster of the General Accounting Office, which wrote the report, told a congressional subcommittee Wednesday.

The "critical obstacles" in the fight against breast cancer are the gaps in fundamental knowledge about the disease principally, what causes it, he said, "Research in this area is a crucial priority."

Pace talks deadlocked again

WASHINGTON - Israeli and Syrian negotiators remain deadlocked on the issue of exchanging land for peace, while Palestinians attending the Mideast talks still are demanding to meet separately with a delegation from the Jewish state.

The Syrians and Israelis said they would try again on the lands for peace problem today, while the heads of the Israeli and Jordanian-Palestinian delegations said they would continue meeting on a couch in a State Department corridor.

The Palestinians are seeking talks separate from the Jordanians as part of a campaign to assert independence.

2 Koreas reach historic accord

Associated Press

SEOUL, South Korea — North and South Korea, bitter enemies since the Korean peninsula's 1945 division, agreed today to a historic accord on nonaggression and reconciliation, a South Korean spokesman said.

The accord, reached at prime ministers' talks, is the first major agreement between the Communist north and capitalist south. The two countries opened a dialogue in 1972.

Still technically at war from the 1950-53 Korean conflict, the north and south share the world's most heavily-guarded border.

The agreement would provide for measures to prevent accidental hostilities through prior notification, observation of military exercise and on-the-spot verification of troops movements and military bases.

WEST PALM BEACH - There had sex at the Kennedy estate the house. last Easter weekend. The only question was consent.

Did the woman say yes or no? Perhaps no one will ever know.

During an often lurid 10-day trial, the jury that acquitted Smith of rape was offered two stories so confusing that reasonable doubt was the only sure thing.

Witnesses offered different timetables for events, with weekend guests coming and going from the Kennedy family's seaside estate in Palm Beach.

Some depicted the mansion as a haven for insomniacs including Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-

The 30-year-old woman who charged rape, her face covered on TV screens to shield her identity, was a tearful, heartrending witness whose anguish was palpable in the courtroom. She said over and over that she was raped.

Her face reddened and she choked on sobs when she had to describe sexual functions. But her memory had serious gaps that were made more evident because of the number of times she was required to tell her story in pretrial interviews. recorded interviews gave the defense ample evidence with

"If I had to tell the same story five times I would probably have was no question that William threatening to call police on a few things different each time Kennedy Smith and his accuser cousin Willie in another part of too," said her rape counselor,

Try as she might, the woman couldn't remember when or why she removed her pantyhose in the early morning hours of March 30. The defense seized on that point and made it a cornerstone of Smith's case.

She also couldn't explain why she called Smith "Michael" when she knew his name. That mystery was never resolved, and the defense argued that it showed she was unbalanced.

One juror said she found it significant that the dress Smith's accuser wore that night wasn't torn or stained.

Pats best Rams in Peters' return match

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Just mark up Wednesday night's wrestling match as another example of the "spirited competition" between Lake Brantley and Lake Mary high schools.

As much as fans on both sides of the competition would like to attach importance to the dual meet, won by the host Patriots 44-30, it was the wreatling equivalent of drawing a line in the dirt between two adversaries: now we know where we stand.

"This is always a fun meet," said Lake Brantley coach Kevin Carpenger. "There's a good rivalry between the two schools and the kids know each other. But we're a long way from the ultimate goal of the state tournament. Lots of things can happen between now and then."

Doug Peters, back at the helm of the Lake Mary wrestling program after a one-year hiatus, is counting on it.

"I really didn't know what to expect," said Peters, who's had only 13 days to concentrate on the Ram wrestling team after guiding the Lake Mary football team to a win in the Rotary Bowl on Thanksgiving morning. "We'll be a good team in about a month. I see some potential. I think we'll be all right.'

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY - While the scores may have been similar, the games

Mary Rams romped to a 5-0 win over the visiting Seminole Fighting Seminoles in a Seminole Athletic Conference girls' soccer match played at Lake Mary's Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

Just 24 hours earlier, the Lake Mary boys had handed their Seminole counterparts a 6-0 setback. But where the boys' game was over by halftime, the girls' game was only 1-0 after the first 40 minutes, the Rams not putting the game away until a four-goal outburst during an eight-minute span.

The first 10 to 12 minutes, we played well," said Lake Mary coach Bill Elssele. "We knocked the ball around and kept control of the match. But after we scored the first goal, we kind of played kick ball with them. But give Seminole credit, they played well defensively.

"At halftime, we talked about going back to our game plan. That resulted in better shooting opportunities and we finished them off in the second half compared to in the first half."

Three minutes later, Leanne Bazile scored on an assist from Adriane Hemmerly. Dana Mills made it 4-0 with an unassisted goal in the 58th minute. Neri completed the scoring when she scored on an assist from Jen Evans three minutes later.

"Our defense was superb in the first half," said Seminole coach Suzy Reno. "We even had an attack on their goal. But in the second half, we made four big mistakes and they resulted in four goals. The frustating part was that other than that stretch. the girls played well in the "Lake Mary's experience got the best of us. We had to play catch-up soccer."

The Rams ended up out-shooting Lake Mary 23-6 and had a 6-3 edge in corner kicks. Seminole goalie Christy Oliver made 17 saves while the Lake Mary goalkeeping duo of Jen Preston and Megan Coduto combined for five saves in posting the shutout.

Now 6-2 overall and 2-2 in the SAC, Lake Mary will be at home against Lake Brantley on Friday before traveling to Pinellas County on Saturday to play the Seminole Warhawks. Seminole. now 3-6 overall and 0-5 in the conference, plays a pair of games in Jacksonville this weekend.

Greyhounds hood Hawks LONGWOOD — Stability, so essential for success, usually stems from a strong center.

Adriane Kane, the center midfielder of the defending state champion Lyman High School girls' soccer team, helped the Greyhounds pull out a 3-1 victory over the visiting Lake Howell Silver Hawks. In the first of Wednesday night's Seminole Athletic Conference match, Lake Howell threw a scare into Lyman. ranked No. 1 in the Florida Athletic Coaches Association's Class 4A state poll, causing the undefeated Greyhounds to momentarily lose their composure. But with the score tied 1-1 after the half. Kane helped restore order for the Greyhounds.

"Lake Howell came out playing hard." said Lyman head coach Gary Barnett. "They took a lot out of us. But Adriane solidified the midfield and helped settle things down. That allowed us to get back to our game plan. We only had three shots on goal in the first half, but we had 11 in the second half."

Kane had opened the scoring with a goal at 26:39 of the first half. Lake Howell's Michelle Harris tied the score on a direct free kick just 1:21 later.

It took the Greyhounds less than two minutes of the second half to take the lead. Heather Rogers scoring the go-ahead goal on an assist from freshman Danya Harris just 1:14 into the second half. Harris, on an assist from Amy Smith, iced the game when she scored a goal with 1:05 left to play.

Goalkeeper Melondie Hillsman shut out Lake Howell in the second half, finishing the game with three saves. Lyman's team defense helped Hillsman, holding the Silver Hawks to six shots on goal and no cornerkicks for the game. 'The turning point was when we came out and played hard to start the second half." said Bennett. "The game went back and forth for a long time in the first half. Hillsman made some key saves before the third goal by Harris. It was a rough game."

Even though Lyman remains undefeated at 8-0 and 5-0 in the Seminole Athletic Conference. the close game illustrates the how tight the competition is within the conference. "A lot of teams can beat us."

sald Bennett. "Last year, we finished third in the conference and won the state. That speaks well for our conference and district. We know exactly what it takes to be winners. In each game, the winner is the best team on that day." Lyman's junior varsity team also remained undefcated at 7-0-1, beating Lake Howell 2-1. Both Lyman and Lake Howell will play at home on Friday

come up on the 1992 offering of the Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole, "The Life and Times of Lilly Chantilly," it will mark the third straight year of col-laboration between Artistic Directors Valerie Rye Weld and Miriam Rye Doktor and the writing team of Elsa Caskey and Linda Herod. ..."Lilly Chantilly" follows in the dance steps of "Doo Waah Diddy" and last year's "Who Shot Diddy?"

Caskey and Herod are proonal musicians and writers who live in Deltons, and for them "Lilly" is truly a labor of love. This year again, as they have in the past two, they take time from their songwriting and recording at their studio, th C.D. Bernie Studio in Volusia County, to bring a beliet to life. to bring a ballet to life.

Caskey has known Ballet Artistic Directors Weld and Doktor for 15 years, and Herod joined the group about eight years ago. The "Diddy Trilogy", as it has come to be known, was born three years ago out of Miriam and Valerie's desire to create an original rock and roll ballet. Caskey and Herod noted that they spend about four to five hours each week on the ballet, typically concentrating that time into one marathon session. The planning, writing, and arranging begin the day after the previous year's ballet closes. Herod noted, "When we read the program for 'Who Shot Diddy?', that's when we found out there would be a third one. so we started planning the next

Their goal is to have the sound track complete and in place six weeks before the show, but they confess to tinkering right up to the last minute.

Writing for a ballet, they noted, was and is a change of pace and a unique challenge. since dance is a more visual medium than they usually deal with in their professional lives. writing is the fun part, but that the technical aspect, that of recording the master tape from which the ballet will be performed, is tension filled and nerve wracking. Also, they noted that they are not passive observers on performance nights. since they run the cound system and coordinate the light cues.

"All of us, including Valerie and Miriam, wear many hats on show nights." said Herod.

"The Life and Times of Lilly Chantilly" is the third part of a trilogy. When Caskey and Herod were asked how this third part connected to the first two. Caskey replied cryptically, "only in the "Diddiest sense." As experienced creative artists. these two of the four member creative team behind "Lilly" know enough not to give away

Bride's mother fed up with tag-alongs

DEAR ABBY: I can certainly rympathise with "Pressured in Pennsylvania", who wanted a "no-child" wedding. All of the invitations to my daughter's wedding last month were worded in the correct way and addressed to "Mr. and Mrs." We assumed that by not including "and family," we would have no trouble. Wrong! Friends whom we had not seen in a number of years, and would have welcomed with open arms, announced that they were coming 500 miles to the wedding and bringing their married daughter (who was invited) and her three small children (who were definitely not invited!). It fell to me to telephone longdistance and tell them that the children were not included in the invitation. They said they had never heard of such a thing, and if the children weren't welcome. they wouldn't be coming either. I stood my ground and said I was sorry, but that's the way it was.

They never came. Also, my daughter and I spent an entire weekend calling people who had failed to RSVP. A number of them told us they thought that if they were not planning to attend, they did not need to respond. (What did they think the stamp on the return envelope was for?) Several accepted but never showed up.

Abby. I think it's time to change the rules. Tacky or not, if I ever have to do this again, I will state on the invitations:

"Sorry, adults only.
"Please respond with a yes or no. A stamped envelope is included for your convenience."

tacky: "No-shows will be billed for the amount charged per person, by the caterer." (In our case, it was $30 per head, and we were out several hundred dollars and a lot of food went to waste because of those thoughtless people.)

Thank you for listening because I really needed to get this off my chest! If you print this, please do not use my name.
OUTRAGED IN OREGON

DEAR OUTRAGED: My mail over the years indicates that many people do not understand what RSVP means. Perhaps the following would be preferable: "Please respond with a 'YES, we will be there' or, 'NO, we will not attend.' A stamped envelope is enclosed for your convenience:"

P.S. Many people have written to say. "We thought it wasn't necessary to respond because we cannot attend." Others in equal numbers wrote to say. "We didn't respond because we will be there.'

Finding help for a sleep disorder

BAR DR. GOTT: I've suffered from a severe sleep dis-order for the past 15 years. I've seen doctors in Europe and the United States, have had numerous blood tests and many examinations. Sleeping pills don't work. What's the answer?

DEAR READER: I assume from your question that you suffer from incomnia, a common complaint. This may be primary or secondary.

Primary incomnia is caused by Primary incomnia is caused by a disruption in the normal sleep cycle, so that patients either have difficulty falling asleep or awaken during the night and cannot fall back to sleep. The reasons for this are not clearly understood, although depression and anxiety probably play a role. This form of insomnia is the most difficult to treat. Patients with it should, in my opinion, be with it should, in my opinion, be evaluated in a special sleep laboratory; such facilities are available in many teaching hospitale

Secondary insomnia is wakefulness caused by an iden-tifiable condition, such as arthritic pain, congestive heart failure, prostatic obstruction, asthma or nocturnal leg cramps, to mention a few. Treatment addresses the cause — for example, with pain medicine, diuretics, prostate surgery, bronchodilator drugs, and medicine to aid circulation. Obvious causes, including loss of a job or marital strife, should be dealt with through appropriate re-sources, such as counseling.

Because your sleep disorder seems to be a diagnostic challenge, I urge you to request a referral to a sleep lab. There you will be questioned extensively and examined. Then your sleep will be monitored for a night or two. Once the type of sleep disorder has been identified, the specialists will offer advice about treatment, which could include anti-depressant medicine, hypnosis, relaxation techniques, counseling and a host of other therapeutic Eric Rodwell, a member of the USA-1 team, found a good play in the nail-biting quarterfinal NEC Bermuda Bowl match against Brazil, which Brazil won by 188 to 180.

North's opening one-spade bid was wafer-thin, but it had a safety valve in that it was limited to a maximum of 15 high-card points. South's two-diamond response was natural but nonforcing: the so-called negative free bid. His three-diamond rebid on a potential misfit was dangerous, and West was happy to double.

It seemed as though the defense would follow this path: a When you wish to malead an club to the ace, club ruff, heart opponent, it is important to ruff, club overruff, spade trick make your play in tempo. A and trump trick - a 500-point hesitation, suggesting that you had an option, will usually give first trick with the club ace, the game away.

Penalty. But when East won the first trick with the club ace, Rodwell smoothly dropped the queen. Not knowing who held the club two and not wanting to give South a quick discard if his queen were a singleton. East switched to his trump, covered by the queen and king. West returned the heart jack, but East no longer had a trump left.

At this point, Rodwell saw how to get home. He won with the heart king, cashed the heart queen, led a heart to the ace and continued with dummy's fourth heart, discarding his spade. Now East couldn't gain the lead to give his partner a club ruff. Rodwell lost just one heart, two diamonds and a club: plus 670.
