Computer Access Sounds Like Familiar Old Tune

TALLHASSEE (AP) — If Secretary of State Bruce Smathers' plan to provide computer access to state corporation records sound familiar, that's because it is.

"We were dedicating a video to the press," East said. "There were some days the press didn't even use it. As far behind as we were in corporations, I just decided we could make better use of it someplace else."

Monday when Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin said in an opinion that providing computer access to corporate records did not violate the search-fee law.

"The TV cameras are up on the third floor," Friedman said. "You can go up and tell them your welcome..."

Liberated From Cargo Vessel Between Key West-Cuba

Crewman Rescued After Two Days Adrift On Ghost Ship

KEY WEST (AP) — "I'm not what you would call a superstitious person, but it was kind of eerie," a sailor says of his two-day ordeal aboard a rusted, unpowered ghost ship still adrift in the Caribbean.

Charles Halla, 47, a New York tugboat crewman, was rescued Thursday after being stranded aboard a doomed World War II cargo ship in heavy seas.

forth on the deck, and the noises in the hold echoed like a cavern."

Halla's ordeal began Tuesday when the "Biddle Ford" broke loose from its moorings here and drifted out to sea. Halla and four other crew members of the tug "Wallo," which had been towing the freighter from Norfolk, Va., to Brownsville, Tex., chased it through 10-foot seas for four hours.

The tug finally caught up with the freighter between Key West and Cuba. Halla jumped aboard to secure a tow line.

"The seas got so heavy and the winds increased," he said. "We got the line on, and then it broke."

As rains pounded the deck and the sky grew darker, the tug circled the freighter unable to get Halla off. The current slowly carried the ship toward Cuba.

Halla had a small flashlight with him and took a look around.

Lake Mills Park Opens In Chuluota On Sunday

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer

The county's first park to grow out of 1969 voter approval of a $1.6-billion bond issue opens Sunday in Chuluota.

County officials have dubbed Sunday "Fun Day" at Lake Mills Park and the public is urged to attend 2 p.m. festivities, which will include free soft drinks and other goodies.

Families or individuals are urged to pack lunches and come early in the day if they wish.

However, dedication ceremonies and unveiling of plaques are scheduled for two o'clock.

Neiswender, without a doubt, is proud of the facility.

"It's a great deal for the citizens. We've been working for three years to get the park open so the people can enjoy it," he said.

The park contains a special "Children's Play Island."

Schick Grabs Derby Lead

By BOB ORRELL Herald Correspondent

Elgin Myers, Sanford, jumped into the lead in Sanford's First Annual Shad Derby Tuesday as he weighed in a four pound eight ounce entry to displace Clint Spillan by one ounce.

His lead lasted only two days however, being knocked out by a monster of five pounds eight ounces landed by Steven P. Schick also a Sanford resident.

Five year old Jimmy Caudon Jr., Sanford, weighed in two fish Thursday exactly the same weight — three pounds 13 ounces — both caught within an hour. This puts Jimmy out in front for the weekly prize of a complete spinning outfit.

Many good catches have been reported this week at all weigh-in stations from Lake Monroe to Puzze Lake. The dedicated shad fishermen could be observed outfitted in raincoats and hats to protect against the light drizzle, all with one purpose in mind, booking a big one to enter in the contest.

The Derby, sponsored by the Evening Herald and the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, is drawing visitors from all parts of the nation. Fishing camps report all available boats and motors rented on weekends and tackle stores in the area are experiencing a run on shad rigs used in trolling for the hard fighting fish.

Public boat ramps in the Sanford area are full to capacity by mid morning every day and often cars are lined up waiting to reload boats in the evening hours.

Prior to the start of the Derby, camp operators predicted that the winning fish would have to be from five and a half to six pounds. The five and a half has already been entered but this mark could easily fall; hugh shad can be seen feeding in the shallows just at dark. Most shad are caught during the middle of the day with catches this week running about 12 per boat, the big roe shad numbering one third of the total landed.

Bankers Urge Support For Downtown City Hall

By JANE CASSELBERRY Herald Staff Writer

The Bankers Committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce voted Thursday to recommend to the full board of the Chamber that the board come out in support of keeping the city hall at the present location.

The committee plans to send a representative to the next meeting of the Sanford City Commission expressing this view.

Hodges, president of Atlantic Bank of Sanford, said he had polled members of his board individually and all favored keeping the city hall at the present location.

Hodges said, "I feel very strongly if the proposed city hall is built in the Central Business District, it would encourage lakefront development to come into realization."

Gilbert Edmonds, executive vice president of First Federal of Seminole, agreed, saying, "My board feels very strongly the city hall should be at the present site with the contingency additional land would be necessary. I don't think Florida State (Flagship Bank of Sanford — owner of the adjacent property) would be unreasonable."

Jack Horner, executive manager of the Chamber, said he would favor the present site if criteria set up by City Manager Warren E. Knowles could be met regarding sufficient parking and having everything under one roof.

Edmonds said he has reservations on the proposed 14-acre plot on French Avenue and Seminole Boulevard site because of problems with subsurface muck which required sinking piling when First Federal built its new building on First Street.

He added, "I have reservations when I hear them talking about the cost of the city being able to build on that site for less as I feel they are going to run into something down the line that is going to cost more."

Garnett White said it was not just the idea of the money, as he would rather have the city hall in the Downtown area even if it cost more money to build.

Postal Service May Cut Delivery To 3 Days A Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service says it is considering cutting mail delivery to three days a week. J. T. Ellington, a senior assistant postmaster general, said in an interview Thursday that three-day-per-week delivery is "one of the options" the financially troubled agency is considering in its campaign to cut costs.

Although more drastic cutbacks have been discussed, Ellington said, "Our most immediate option is reduction by one day in delivery service." Postal officials had said previously they are considering eliminating delivery on Saturday or one other day of the week.

Postal service officials have said the savings from elimination of delivery on Saturday would be about $20 million per year and savings would be somewhat higher if delivery is dropped on a business day.

Mail Covers May Be Curbed

WASHINGTON (AP) — While President Ford wants to expand the government's authority to open mail, legislation is being drafted in Congress to limit use of a companion tool, the surveillance of the outside of an envelope.

Rep. Charles H. Wilson, D-Calif., chairman of the House postal facilities subcommittee, has ordered the panel's staff to draw up a bill tightening legal restrictions on such surveillance, known as a mail cover. Such a restriction involves noting information on the outside of an envelope without opening it.

Mail covers now can be undertaken by the Postal Service in written request of a law enforcement agency. This procedure also allows opening of second, third and fourth class mail.

Old Murder Case Revived

MONTGOMERY (AP) — Willie Edwards Jr., picked up by a bunch of Ku Klux Klansmen in a case of mistaken identity, sobbed as he pleaded for his life. But the Klansmen only laughed as they forced the 25-year-old black man to jump to his death in the Alabama River.

That's the story now being told about what happened 19 years ago, in the days of forced integration of Montgomery buses.

Montgomery County Judge Sam Taylor ordered the case to a grand jury Thursday after a preliminary hearing, during which a state investigator testified that one of three men charged in the case told him he was present when the victim was forced to leap "crying, sobbing" off a bridge into the river.

'Survivable' Satellites Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States plans to test secret new devices for safeguarding U.S. satellites against possible Soviet efforts to disable them in space.

Dr. Malcolm Currie, the Pentagon's research chief, mentioned on Thursday that tests of "survivable satellites" are expected this spring.

Currie gave no details, but other sources said 2,000-pound experimental communication satellites will be launched by the Air Force from Cape Canaveral.

The satellites will test new types of power generators and devices designed to keep space vehicles in proper position, sources said. These devices, it is believed, would be less vulnerable to being put out of action.

U.S., Soviets Bargaining To Reduce Embassy Jamming

WASHINGTON (AP) — American and Soviet officials are working on an agreement to reduce the microwave emissions that have caused a health scare at the U.S. embassy in Moscow, according to informed sources.

The Soviets contend they are beaming microwaves at the embassy to jam U.S. intelligence equipment on the roof, sources acknowledge.

U.S. officials will not say if there are intelligence-gathering devices in the embassy. However, they do not quarrel with accounts that there are devices there to eavesdrop on Moscow telephones and radios.

While the microwave negotiations remain secret, it is known that the State Department hopes details can be completed within the next two or three weeks.

Power Transfer Planned

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The military officers who have tried to rule Portugal since they overthrew the Salazar-Caetano dictatorship nearly two years ago have agreed to begin handing over most of their power to the civilians after elections April 25.

President Francisco de Costa Gomes, representing the military's Revolutionary Council, signed a formal pact Thursday with the five major political parties. The agreement calls for a civilian government drawn from an elected parliament and a strong presidency with an elected president.

Public Workers Walk Out

MONTREAL (AP) — Public service workers— including teachers and hospital employees—staged a half-day walkout Thursday in Quebec Province.

A spokesman for the Confederation of National Trade Unions estimated 100,000 of the 180,000-member common front of public sector employes participated in the protest which is the latest round of a contract dispute with the Quebec government.

Judge Hall dismissed one of the three Sunshine Law violation counts against Hatway and Kwiatkowski because the information filed by Herring's office alleges a meeting was held at the CNA Building in Orlando on Dec. 31, 1974 to determine the nomination, election and appointment of Freeman as County Attorney.

The court ruled that it has no jurisdiction to hear charges on something alleged to have occurred in Orange County.

Conceding that Sunshine Law violations are prosecutable in the county where the defendants are officials, not the county "where they went to meet" but defense lawyers said there's been no prosecution of the alleged act continuing in Seminole County.

The misdemeanor charges were filed by Herring's office in the form of direct information after grand jury indictments on the same charges were thrown out by the court.

The Sunshine Law violation allegations included the CNA Building meeting, which defense attorneys said was a New Year's Eve party hosted by Freeman, plus a "Super Bowl Sunday" gathering at the then Longwood home of Binford, and an alleged meeting on Oct. 14, 1975 that prosecutors contend was to set up the abortion of a county $517,000 clay pit land purchase.

The conspiracy counts alleged conspiracies resulting in Freeman's appointment as County Attorney and the abortion of the clay pit purchase.

FDA Concerned About Deaths, Addiction

WASHINGTON (AP) — New restrictions may be slapped on the nation's most popular prescription pain killer because of a sharp increase in fatal overdoses and concern about addiction.

This spring, the Food and Drug Administration will take a new look at the safety of propoxyphene, which is best known under the brand name Darvon, FDA sources say.

As the FDA inquiry is started, another federal agency will review its plan for restrictions on the drug. The Drug Enforcement Administration plans to

County Officials Found Guilty, She Vanishes

MIAMI (AP) — As a prosecutor predicted, a middle-aged woman convicted of killing a boy she caught in her apartment house swimming pool vanished after being released on pre-sentence bond, court officers say.

"I forecast that this would happen the day she was convicted," prosecutor Terry McWilliams said Thursday after Maria Otero, a 56-year-old divorcee, failed to show up for sentencing.

"Obviously he was right and I was wrong," said Circuit Judge Ira Dubinsky. He had released Mrs. Otero on $25,000 bond after she was convicted Jan. 8 on second-degree murder charges.

Mrs. Otero, convicted of shooting 13-year-old Johnnie Perez in the head last April, faced a maximum sentence of life in prison.

She testified in her jury trial that she caught Perez and two other boys in the pool in an apartment house she owned, yelled for them to leave and fired what was only meant as a warning shot as they ran.

She later sold the apartment building and two others that she owned for an estimated $500,000. McWilliams said the property liquidation "what prompted his warning that Mrs. Otero would skip the county if convicted."

Her lawyer, Donald Bierman, told Dubinsky that he did not know where Mrs. Otero, a native of Cuba, might be. "I would imagine, and it's only a supposition, that she's in a Spanish-language country," he said.

McWilliams said the FBI would be asked to help track her down.

Honesty is Not The Easiest Path

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — In September, his mother again received a check for $35.80 to pay for housekeeping services.

"I called them again, and a live person answers," Cowart said. She puts me on hold for 25 minutes. Then a recording cuts in, saying the office is closed and all the people have gone home.

Four checks came, and he returned each one. Then, he said, the usual $35.80 check arrived along with an additional check for $143.20.

Three Arrested In Area Gun Thefts

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

Casselberry Police Chief George Karcher said today that an adult and two juvenile boys have been arrested for burglary and grand larceny of firearms in a joint city-county probe of recent burglaries in the Casselberry area.

City detective Bobby G. Bennett and sheriff's detective C.H. Brown arrested James Wayne Frye, 18, of 607 Jupiter Way, Casselberry, and two 17-year-old juvenile boys Thursday night. Bond for Frye was set at $20,000 at county jail and the juveniles were turned over to state Division of Youth Services officials.

Karcher said the charges made in the arrests are in connection with a Feb. 15 residential burglary at 360 Rogers, 616 Park Ave.

Meanwhile, three men arrested earlier this week in the slaying of Dr. Richard Cloud were indicted for first-degree murder Thursday by a Hillsborough County grand jury.

Two of the men, Benjamin Guilford, 49, a fugitive from the Bradenton area, and Elias Marlow Haskef, 37, of Miami, were being held under heavy guard at an undisclosed location, but police refused to explain the extra security.

Article Feud Continues TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert Sherin has called for an explanation by Secretary of State Bruce Smathers of a publisher's statement that a Smathers' aide delivered materials for an article Sherin considered anti-Semitic.

Sherin's statement late Thursday was the latest round in a feud between the two Cabinet officers over an education group's newsletter reference to the attorney general, who is Jewish, as a "non-Aryan."

Smathers said the statement of publisher Robert B. Norris that he wrote the article cleared Asst. Secretary of State David MacNamara of the "malicious innuendoes" that he was the author.

Doctor Walkout May End CHILPEY (AP) — Both sides in a dispute that has closed Washington County's only hospital say they hope the matter can be resolved now that the hospital administrator has resigned.

The county's five doctors, who staged a walkout over the weekend, are willing to resume work at the hospital "within an hour" after county commissioners accept their plan on governing the facility, the doctors' attorney says.

The doctors resigned from the hospital staff, charging the commissioners with trying to insert politics into operation of Washington County Hospital.

Agency Transfers Considered TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Transfers are being considered for some 1,700 employees of the Parole and Probation Commission after the Supreme Court overturned a ruling that had blocked the transfers for eight months.

But no one was sure just how soon the employees would be transferred to the Department of Offender Rehabilitation.

The high court Thursday, in a 7-0 opinion, overturned a ruling by Leon Circuit Judge Hugh Taylor that had barred the transfer as approved by the 1975 legislature.

'Little FTC' Act Upheld TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The state's major consumer protection law, the so-called "Little FTC" Act, has been upheld by the Florida Supreme Court.

In a decision handed by Atty. Gen. Robert Sherin as a victory for consumers, the high court unanimously overturned a circuit court ruling that the act was unconstitutional.

Leon County Circuit Judge Ben Willis had ruled last May that the law was unconstitutionally vague and was an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power.

Steve Slegin, attorney for the 10 faculty members, said they would attempt to prove none of the other commissioners had been contacted by Mack about the issues raised.

The group has argued in its suits against Mack that he should have been disqualified from his position because he is a University of Florida Law School professor on leave of absence.

Mack's service as PERC chairman while he is a state employ on leave of absence is a conflict of interest, the group said.

Presidential Primary Here March 9 Close Florida Race Would Satisfy Reagan

By PAT LEISNER Associated Press Writer

Florida campaign manager L.E. "Tommy" Thomas, who once predicted that Reagan would capture Florida 240-1, said after the rally that 55 per cent would be a landslide. Less than 50 per cent would be damaging, he said, and under 40 per cent disastrous.

"I came away greatly satisfied with what happened there," he said.

Reagan was scheduled to visit Sun City, a retirement community about 20 miles south of Tampa, today. He then plans a luncheon speech in Tampa and an address to Tampa civic and business leaders tonight.

"There were those in the New Hampshire campaign who suggested that I had such a very narrow base that I would only be able to appeal to a limited number of people," he told the rally. "I think this question was answered."

Profile Of A Candidate

Reagan Began Career In '64

Does he or doesn't he? Everywhere Ronald Reagan stops on his vigorous campaign for the presidency, the ladies note that the 65-year-old former actor's hair is as suspiciously thick and dark as it was when he was a B-picture heartthrob in the 1940's.

The son of a shoe salesman, who ironically was a New Deal Democrat, Reagan graduated in 1932 from the Disciples of Christ college where he had made up his mind for show biz. He worked as a radio sports announcer until 1937 when Warner Bros. signed him to a $200 a week contract. Over the next 19 years he made 50 movies.

His active interest in politics began when his motion picture career was on the decline. As president of the Screen Actors Guild for six terms, he blocked attempts by alleged Communists to gain organizational power in the film industry. His entry into national politics came in 1954 when, as a Barry Goldwater campaigner, he made conservative speeches that so impressed California Republicans that they asked him to run for governor. He did in 1966, winning by 57 per cent of the vote. He was reelected in 1970. In 1968 he made an abbreviated try for the presidency, but sat out the 1972 sweepstakes.

Reagan associates claim that as governor he held state hiring to less than one-seventh of that of the prior administration. They give him credit for cutting welfare rolls by more than 200,000 and welfare costs by $1 billion. Critics say that the Reagan forces failed to hold the line on spending (the budget doubled in his eight years, per capita taxes increased from $25 to $78), yet a fair analysis suggests that he left California in better financial condition than he found it.

His campaign is rooted to the concepts of thrift and individualism. He says he can reduce federal spending by about $90 billion by a series of maneuvers which includes shifting many social responsibilities back to the states. As for his hair, his wife insists that it is untinted.

Family Awarded $1 Million

MIAMI (AP) — A Vero Beach milkman and his seven children have been awarded $1 million in damages for the death of his wife and one child in a car-truck collision in February.

Otto Stout's wife, Kay, and their oldest son, Virgil, 16, were killed when their vehicle and a truck owned by Commercial Carriers of Automobiles collided near Vero Beach.

Stout's lawyers showed that the truck ran an intersection at high speed. The trucker, Bryan Hewitt, said he didn't see the stop sign because it was down, but admitted he had known it was supposed to be there.

The $1 million award was worked out between the attorneys before the case went to the jury. But Deltona Circuit Judge Milton Friedman declined to allow that out-of-court settlement, which he said would create problems for the family in settling the estate of the wife and child.

Friedman directed the jury to render the settlement as a verdict, dividing the money between Stout and the children.

Otto Stout's wife, Kay, and their oldest son, Virgil, 16, were killed when their vehicle and a truck owned by Commercial Carriers of Automobiles collided near Vero Beach.

Stout's lawyers showed that the truck ran an intersection at high speed. The trucker, Bryan Hewitt, said he didn't see the stop sign because it was down, but admitted he had known it was supposed to be there.

The $1 million award was worked out between the attorneys before the case went to the jury. But Deltona Circuit Judge Milton Friedman declined to allow that out-of-court settlement, which he said would create problems for the family in settling the estate of the wife and child.

Friedman directed the jury to render the settlement as a verdict, dividing the money between Stout and the children.

Glow Of The Cities Is Not So Bright

The Census Bureau says it was startled by its own figures showing that since 1970 small towns in America have been growing faster than the cities. This seems to reverse a trend that has long been taken for granted — that our cities would keep getting bigger and smaller towns smaller.

If the Census officials were surprised to see that this isn't necessarily so, it should also shake up city officials in major metropolitan areas. Obviously many Americans are passing judgment on the quality of life in their cities, and turning thumbs down. Or to put it another way, they've seen Paree and are deciding to stay down on the farm.

After the trauma which has shaken the city of New York, maybe we shouldn't be surprised. The city with the glorious skyline which once epitomized all that is glamorous and exciting in urban life now epitomizes all that can go wrong with it. The social problems, crime, congestion, environmental pollution, high prices, insufferable tax burdens and municipal bureaucracy which afflict New York are examples on a grand scale of a fate overtaking other cities to a lesser degree.

What went wrong? For one thing, many cities were slow to discover the fallacy in the once-honored presumption that bigness is better. The conveniences of a big city can finally be outweighed by the costs exacted to enjoy them. Further, the appeal of large cities as the best place to find work has lost its force, too. As more people move back to smaller towns, or decide not to leave them in the first place, the job opportunities in those towns increase.

If this trend continues, there are implications for all levels of government. Congress may discover political pitfalls in shortchanging small towns for the sake of concentrating federal programs in urban areas. City governments may find their tax and budget project for the future thrown away when their population does not grow at the rate their planners assumed or, like some cities, they begin to lose population. This could spell trouble in managing to pay for municipal services and meeting long-range debt obligations.

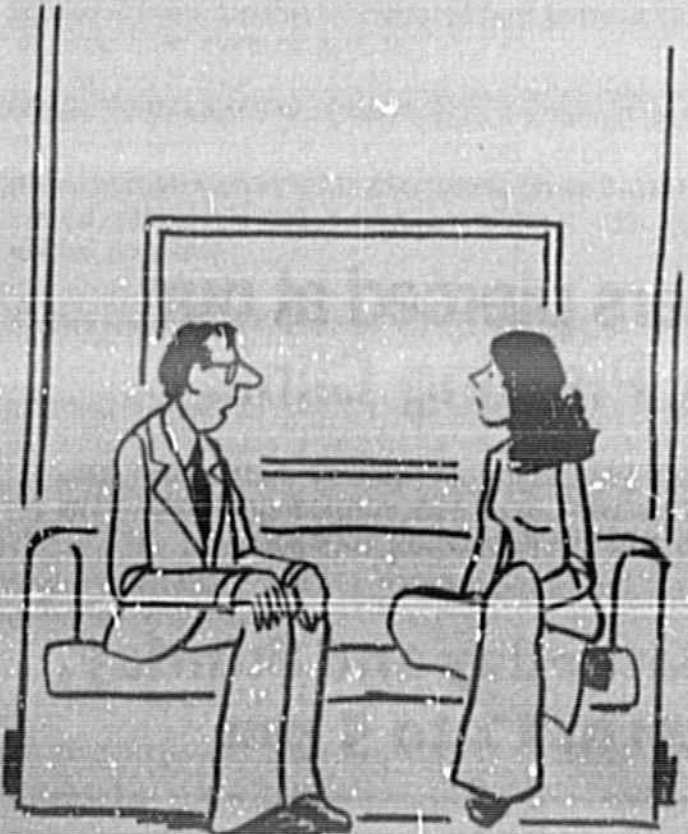

For the last decade in American politics there has been a constant theme that great sums of money would be necessary to "save the cities." This stands on the premise that the cities are worth saving. We think they are, but they will not continue to be if increasing numbers of Americans avoid them as a place to live. As it is, 155 million Americans now live in metropolitan areas and only 56.4 in small communities. The new census figures seem to be telling us that disenchantment with the urban life-style is setting in among the three out of four Americans who live in the cities. Elected officials responsible for city government have cause to worry that they are receiving a vote of no confidence from that part of the populace that votes by calling up the movers.

Trouble Brewing?

The Oklahoma Legislature might have known it was heading for trouble when it passed a law saying girls can buy beer when they're 18 but boys have to wait until they're 21. Sure enough, a thirsty male student at Oklahoma State University has managed to get the U.S. Supreme Court to consider his complaint that he's a victim of sex discrimination.

If the Supreme Court can find something in the Constitution to settle this case, fine, but what intrigues us is the rationale advanced by the Oklahoma lawmakers who opened this can of beer. It seems that more males than females in the 18-20 age group figure in alcohol-related auto accidents. Instead of concluding that females are better drinkers, couldn't they have concluded just as well that females are better drivers? That would have attacked the old male chauvinist myth about woman drivers, of course, but it is the Oklahomans may be advancing a new form of female chauvinism at the corner tavern.

The nation's number one drug problem — alcoholism — will be the main topic during a three-day seminar being presented at Orlando's Naval Training Center, March 1-3.

The program, to be jointly sponsored by the Navy, Florida Tech University (FTU) and the National Committee for the Prevention of Alcoholism and Drug Dependency, will feature nationally-renowned speakers in medicine, social work, law enforcement and education.

The seminar is the only one of its kind to be conducted in Florida this year.

Among the range of subjects planned in general sessions is an overview of the Navy alcohol programs in general, and Navy Orlando's "Drydock," a concept for the treatment of alcoholism that has proven results. Study groups during the three days will cover education and teaching aids, counseling and rehabilitation, and legislation and control.

Dr. Charles M. Unkovic, FTU chairman of sociology and seminar coordinator, noted that in addition to national speakers, there will be representatives from such Central Florida activities as Thee Floor, The Green House and We Care, Inc., all involved in aiding persons undergoing personal crises.

Persons who are interested in attending the seminar may register at the door at 8 a.m. Monday, March 1. All sessions will be conducted at the conference facility on the Orlando Naval Training Center.

Acclaimed as America's foremost investigative reporter Jack Anderson, whose column appears daily on The Herald editorial page, will be presented March 2 as speaker on the final program of the Jewish Community Council's Cultural Series. His lecture, entitled "The News Behind the Headlines," will be presented at 8 p.m. at Temple Israel, 4911 E. St., Orlando.

Heard in Salt Lake City, Anderson was a Mormon missionary, a cadet officer in the Merchant Marines and served on Stars and Stripes Shanghai edition during WWII. He joined Drew Pearson's staff in 1947, taking over the UPI-syndicated "Washington Merry-go-round" column in 1969 when Pearson died.

Through his provocative and controversial columns, the syndication has built up over 965 daily and weekly newspapers. He rigorously follows up leads from within every branch of government with the aid of three full-time assistants, gaining him the reputation as a Washington gadfly. Tickets are available at the door or from the Council office at 851 N. Maitland Ave., Maitland.

The Comptroller Bill, to be voted on in a referendum on March 3, will be the topic of discussion at a Town Hall forum meeting at Lyman High School auditorium tonight at 7 p.m.

Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski, a proponent for passage of the bill will speak in favor of it while Elder Harold Jones, and Robin R. Higgins played the clarinet.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Hicks, 815 East 7th Street, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hampton, 111 Northside Dr., Lake Wales.

Given in marriage by her brother George Duncan, the bride wore a formal length aqua blue knit with long sleeves. The yoke and sleeves were trimmed in blue and silver. 'Limits Of Government'

Today's topic: "The Limits of Government" is argued by former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, who is again seeking the presidency, and conservative columnist James J. Kilpatrick. This article is adapted from the National Town Meeting which is held each week at the Kennedy Center in Washington. It also includes public figures debate and answer questions on current issues.

SEN. EUGENE MCCARTHY
What are the limits of government?

The range within which we make a judgment as to whether the government has gone too far has to be within the broader consideration of what self-government is all about. Our Declaration of Independence is the Constitution, not a document of any nation that has any reference to the pursuit of happiness. The word happiness, as it was used then, had a rather specific social and public significance. John Adams defined it as a "willingness on the part of the people to take upon themselves civic responsibility . . . to take upon common problems." As society changes, the "self-government" in establishing conditions in which people can pursue happiness has to be redefined. The simple question of the operation of the Food and Drug Administration is an example. The kinds of chemicals, the kinds of drugs, that we deal with now are quite different from the rather simple remedies of 1789. This is a more complicated and more rapidly moving society which calls for some extension of government, not beyond the Constitution, but beyond the way it is (traditionally) defined.

JAMES J. KILPATRICK
What are the limits of government?

Under the Constitution, sharp limitations were placed upon the federal government. We used to know them as the Doctrine of Enumerated Powers. The federal government would have certain designated powers and all powers not delegated by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it, are reserved to the states or to the people. Limitation is explicit in the powers that have been delegated by the Constitution. We (also) have inherited a great tradition of personal responsibility, self-reliance. We have inherited the concept that government ought not to hold our hand or tie our shoe laces or wash our faces. Unhappily, I think we have slipped away from that tradition in recent years with the proliferation of new governmental agencies undertaking to look after our consumer affairs, the safety of our factories, the vitamins that we eat, a thousand and one concerns that agencies of the federal government have made their own. My thought is that government, in recent years, has exceeded the wide limits of its power, both those spelled out in the Constitution and those that we've inherited by tradition.

I never have comprehended the constitutional basis for the Social Security program. I believe that Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Goldwater and others are basically right when they urge us toward a voluntary system of family security and retirement. Young people coming into the labor market ought not to be given an option whether they will stay with the government Social Security program and pay the taxes or whether they will undertake their own family retirement programs and every year, when they file their federal income tax return, simply certify that they have obtained a retirement program. Are we headed for socialism?

I like the economic danger perhaps more seriously than Sen. McCarthy does. I long ago abandoned the myth that ours is an exclusively private enterprise society but my concern is that we are now at a kind of threshold at which this slow drift toward socialism is likely to escalate very rapidly. In the area of transportation, with Amtrak, I already have a degree of socialism unknown to us before. We have seen the Congress decree the wage rates to be paid by private railroads — a fatal step that has never been sufficiently appreciated. There are bills pending in congress that would take us into national ownership of petroleum companies. The most ominous bill — under very impressive sponsorship, Sen. Hubert Humphrey — would, in effect, create a federal agency with such planning powers as to virtually control product design, allocation of resources, and allocation of credit.

Are we headed for socialism?

This is a continuing argument we've had ever since the New Deal and it (socialism) hasn't happened in 40 years. I don't think we've reached the danger point in the economic area. There is more danger of over-inflation, non personalization, non socialism. Some of the people who worry about the socialization of economic life are the great defenders of the extension of power by the FBI and this sort of intrusion in the personal and private lives of people. I'm (also) concerned about the almost unanimous acceptance of the federal estate tax which is the most dangerous theoretical proposition in that it gives the government itself control over the political process, and (yet) we have accepted government interference in the political process without any very significant challenge.

DON OAKLEY Packaged Self-Reliance

Anyone who thinks that the pioneer spirit of self-reliance is long vanished from the American scene ought to skim through the pages of a book published late last year.

The book has no ideology to sell or cause to wish, but in showing "how anyone can make anything by ordering do-it-yourself kits through the mail," it is a refreshing antidote to the currently prevalent and gloomy notion that the post-war American consumer is entirely the captive of the big corporations.

"The Catalog of Kits," by Jeffrey Feinman, is what its title says it is. But while it covers the usual things — needlework and other crafts, model railroads, etc. — that have always been available, it is also an impressive compendium of projects one would not ordinarily place in the do-it-yourself category. Some examples:

A 35-inch solid-state color television set said to be more advanced than anything yet available on the commercial market.

A fully aerobic, high-speed, single-place airplane (which also has a jet-powered version).

Or Volkswagen-powered airplanes or gyrocopters, sailplanes and balloons.

For boating enthusiasts, everything from simple paddleboards to full-blown but complete houses, including a variety of life cabins ranging from the modest to the magnificent and in cost from a few thousand dollars to more than $50,000.

—Musical instruments, from replicas of 17th-century harpsichords to the most modern

The American Humane Association is championing a bill that has been introduced in the California legislature which would make it a crime to kill or abuse an animal in the making of an entertainment motion picture.

The Socialists could require producers, before releasing a film, to file an affidavit with a state commission affirming that no animal had been deliberately killed or abused. The commission would be empowered to stop the distribution of any film in which it was found that this had occurred.

Many people may be under the impression that the U.S. was already doing an effective job of overseeing the welfare of animals used in filmmaking. Sadly, the facts are otherwise.

IRS May Declare Howard Hughes Dead

WASHINGTON — Howard H. Hughes, the phantom billionaire, has been out of public sight for so long that the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) may decide to declare him legally dead.

Several federal agents, who have followed Hughes' movements, believe he is dead. As far back as Feb. 18, 1972, one agent declared in a speculative memo:

"It is my belief that Howard Hughes died in Las Vegas in 1970 and that key officials in charge of running his empire concealed this fact at the time in order to prevent a catastrophic dissolution of his holdings."

The memo suggests that a "double" could easily have been substituted for the real Howard Hughes, since almost no one outside the reclusive inner circle has seen him in years. "The double no doubt has been schooled in Hughes' speech, mannerisms and eccentricities," the memo conjectures.

A pattern of "complete isolation" was established, with "only a few trusted servants" having direct access to Hughes, notes the memo. The next step, it suggests, was to move the "double" to a friendly foreign country. "This would be necessary to avoid an agent's opinion, 'to obviate the possibility of a government intrusion by search warrant.'"

The danger of exposing the masquerade would have lessened, adds the memo, "with the passage of time and the double's isolation from any outsiders who knew the real Hughes."

This scenario has not been dismissed in Washington as complete fantasy. Other government investigators also suspect that the eccentric billionaire may be dead, although they lack conclusive proof that he is either dead or alive.

Speakers of the $2 billion Hughes financial empire call the speculation preposterous. They contend that the elusive Hughes is quite alive, and in both body and mind. He is now residing, they say, at the Princess Hotel in Acapulco.

The government has a deep interest in Hughes' welfare. If he has departed this world unannounced, someone owns the Treasury tens of millions of dollars in estate taxes. The opportunities for the heirs would also be subject to prosecution.

For them, too, the stakes would be high. As the memo points out: "The power and financial resources of a man who has controlled a $2 billion empire are manifest. The opportunities for the siphoning off of hundreds of millions of dollars are also obvious."

Alarmed over this possibility, House Minority Affairs Chairman Ben Rayburn, D-N.Y., has privately urged the IRS "to determine whether Howard Hughes still exists."

The IRS is reluctant to compel a showdown with Hughes without "reasonable" evidence of fraud. But if the billionaire refused to meet personally with IRS agents to prove he is alive, a case could be made to declare him legally dead.

Our associate Bob Fantasy, who has spent several weeks, meanwhile, tracing Hughes' movements during the past six years. Here are the key findings:

Sheriff Ralph Lamb investigated Hughes' sudden disappearance from Las Vegas on Thanksgiving eve 1970. The investigation led to Dr. Harold L. Felkes, who had been summoned to Hughes' posthouse the previous month to give him blood transfusions. The doctor warned that an intensive care unit, his life could be in danger, the sheriff told us. Felkes refused to comment.

— At the time Hughes left Las Vegas, he had seen one outside party, high personal circle, and wearing a neatly trimmed Van Dyke type beard.

The last known visitors to call on Hughes were Nevada's Gov. Mike O'Callaghan and Gaining Board Chairman Phil Harazin. They also described him as tall, thin and graybearded and found him to be fully alert. The meeting took place in London in March 1972. No outsiders have visited him since that date, so far as we have been able to learn.

Hughes has been able to travel from country to country without a valid passport. He reportedly lost his passport during the 1972 earthquake in Managua. His aides tried to obtain a replacement without submitting an up-to-date photo of Hughes. But this arrangement was refused by Passport Director Frances Knight.

— In September 1972, Hughes met with New York stockbroker Julie Sedlmayr and attorney J. Courtney Ivey about a stock deal. Significantly, the Securities and Exchange Commission denied proof that Hughes was really alive. The two men filed affidavits about the meeting, and a Treasury handwriting expert authenticated Hughes' signature on the stock documents. Sedlmayr and Ivey told us Hughes was mentally alert.

— Despite his fabulous wealth, Hughes has managed to get off without paying federal income taxes year after year. Sources with access to his tax returns tell us, however, that once in 1965 he was stuck with a $7 million tax liability. We have established that in some years he has paid taxes.

There is more to the Howard Hughes story, which we'll report in future columns.

Chronic Lovebirds Embarrass Family

DEAR ABBY: My sister and her husband come to our town three times a year on business and always expect to be put up in our home.

Their behavior is surreal, and I'm considering putting them up in a motel on their next visit.

I don't object to couples holding hands and showing signs of affection in public, but you should see these two! They're like a couple of dogs on heat. He has his hands all over her and even under her blouse embarrassing to repeat. He brags in front of our teenage children that he and his wife bathe together!

I can't ask my children to spend the whole time in their rooms when this moron and my sister visit us.

My husband is a softy. He says we should look the other way when they're here. Have you ever tried to carry on a conversation with someone without looking at them?

Am I being a prude? Please advise me.

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: I'm for putting up the lovebirds in a motel, tree, kennel or some other appropriate place. And don't make up any excuse. Tell them why.

DEAR ABBY: As a steady reader of your column, I have noticed that you often say, "Mother Nature decides at what age a woman should stop bearing children."

That undoubtedly gives comfort to women who for one reason or another bear children in their later years. But I think you should point out that the older a woman, the older her eggs are, and as an egg ages, it deteriorates, increasing the chances of having a defective child — as with mongolism.

"Mother Nature" may not be aware of this rather unhappy fact of life.

DEAR HUMANITARIAN: You make an error in mentioning that I and I thank you for doing so.

Fern Has Returned To Many American Homes

By JANET TARA

1975 has seen the return of the fern to the American home. But unfortunately many times plants that were full, green and healthy when purchased often lost color and thickness and turn brown and crinkly in a short time. They don't always die, but they do become unhealthy looking.

While an air conditioned room may sound like a good solution, never place any plant directly in front of an air conditioner. And remember: air conditioners take moisture out of the air while ferns love high humidity. Frequent sprays, showers (once a week) and a bed of pebbles filled with water placed under the plant will help correct the situation.

Curtains or blinds are necessary if a fern is in front of a window. If you can't get a fern from a sunlit window would be best placement.

Peanut Butter Is American Way Of Life

By NANCY BOOTH Herald Correspondent

We Americans consume well over 23,000 tons of peanut butter each year. You would think with that much consumed, we would use peanut butter as more than just a spread for a peanut butter and jelly sandwich or occasionally in baking cookies.

For some reason we don't seem to experiment with peanut butter as we do other foods. It can become a way of life for imaginative cooks.

Peanuts were originally grown in Brazil and spread to other parts of the world through 16th century explorers. It came to this country by way of slaves ships whose owners used peanuts as a food for their unfortunate passengers. The slaves planted the vines as a source of food, but others, realizing it's taste and value being to plant crops for commercial use. Today most of the peanut crop grown in this country is from the Southeastern States. A common name for the peanut is the "goober pea".

Other countries seemed to have realized the versatility of the peanut long before we did. In Africa and the Near and Far East, peanut butter is an important part of cooking. It is used in sauces, stews, breads, and in main dishes. The Indians in South America mix peanut butter with honey or cocoa to make a different and delicious sandwich. Latin Americans, while rating peanut butter as one of the most nutritious foods known to man. The United States Department of Agriculture rates peanut butter near the top in six nutritional categories: energy, protein, fat, phosphorus, niacin, and thiamine. And, as an added bonus, it is economical.

You can use peanut butter in every course you serve from appetizers to desserts.

TM Lecture Scheduled WOMEN

The Sanford Chapter of the International Meditation Society is sponsoring an introductory lecture on the Transcendental Meditation program on March 2, at the Flagship Bank of Sanford on 200 West First Street at 7:30 p.m.

Speaking on the widely researched and highly popular technique will be Nils Tiley, chairman of the Greater Orlando I.M.S. Before becoming a full-time teacher of the Transcendental Meditation technique, Tiley worked on the administrative staff of Disney World as a purchaser.

"Transcendental Meditation, as taught by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, is an effortless technique anyone can learn that allows deep rest to the body and that expands the conscious capacity of the mind. It is most emotionally and physically relaxing of life; it is more a tool that a person uses in the context of his or her own life," comments Tiley.

University of Texas physiologists discovered that TM practitioners have faster reaction time, a finding that has led many professional athletes like Larry Bowe, the Phillies shortstop, and Joe Namath, to endorse TM. Other experiments have been conducted on TM's impact on depression and anxiety, prisoner rehabilitation, high blood pressure, job performance, and learning ability.

"There are about 75 members of the Sanford I.M.S. now," observes Tiley, "and the number is growing rapidly. With two books on TM on the bestseller lists, and many television and radio programs being produced, people are finding out about it more than just deep rest. A very fast."

"In our society, we all operate under a tremendous amount of pressure," notes Tiley, "and we do not have an effective way to counteract that

Q. Our daughter has been a rebel since she was 14. She refuses to obey rules and flouts convention. She has been living with a young man for the past year.

A. You are quite right. The Bible does tell us to forgive, but I am afraid you didn't read far enough. We are told by Luke, "If your brother sins, rebuke him, and if he repents, forgive him."

Q. You do not have to abandon her, but as parents, you have the duty to make it plain that while you will always love her, she is, at 21, an adult; and it's time she take charge of her life without further financial aid from you.

Q. On Saturday, a roast beef dinner will be served from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. and on Sunday, Solitary steak dinners will be served from 1-4 p.m.

NEW YORK (AP)—A fateful choice, seen variously as offering either "untold good" or "incalculable evil" for humanity, currently is being argued among American religious and scientific thinkers.

It would require a "technological paradise" for humankind to be able to harness and use nuclear energy, currently is being argued among American religious and scientific thinkers.

At stake is whether an energy-short world should turn to an immense, reproducible source of nuclear power, the byproduct plutonium that can be multiplied even as it is used, to boost continuing economic growth and a richer society.

It could mean a "Faustian bargain," says bioethics professor Margaret Maxey of the University of Detroit, referring to the storied Faust who made a deal with the devil for temporary delights eventually in doom.

On the other hand, she adds, it could provide an unprecedented spur to a "new level of cultural evolution," bringing acceptance of "the imposition of a global commitment to a permanent, stable, more just social order."

The question was debated recently at a hearing by the National Council of Churches on a proposed statement by the World Council of Churches urging U.S. moratorium — to allow Lie Detector Test Would Be Needed Is Patty Hearst Telling Truth?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A psychiatrist who concluded that Patricia Hearst's account of four in the terrorist underground was a truth one says he can't definitely rule out specific instances of lying without lie detector tests.

Dr. Martin Orne, a University of Pennsylvania expert in detecting fabricated stories, said Thursday "it would take a polygraph examination" to uncover falsehoods Miss Hearst may want kept hidden within her story.

Orne was the second of three psychiatrists called by defense attorney F. Lee Bailey, who managed to get the comment about the polygraph on the record despite vigorous protests by the prosecution.

The other two, Robert J. Lifton of Yale University, was scheduled to resume his testimony under questioning by Bailey today. He said Thursday that he examined Miss Hearst for a total of 17 hours in January and last week, but court was recessed for the day before he began discussing his report.

Meanwhile, the chief prosecutor, U.S. Atty. Gen. J. Edgar Hoover Jr., hinted outside the courtroom that the government has a surprise witness. "Something is in the wind," Browning said, "and we are about to get it."

Browning said the government had an important witness. "Something is in the wind," Browning said, "and we are about to get it."

Baseball Turmoil From Within?

The baseball owners were under attack from outside and inside as they planned to place some modifications on the bargaining table today in their 22nd negotiating session with the players association.

The external opposition came from the players association, which has been making progress in the continuing negotiations on a new labor contract with the owners. A spokesman for the owners' Player Relations Council said the owners today were going to revise some specifications in their "eight-and-one" plan, a free agency could be done.

8 Wrestlers Seek Mat Titles

WINTER PARK—Eight Seminole County high school wrestlers seek state championships this weekend in the state tournament at Winter Park High School.

Wrestlers qualified for the state in district and regional tournaments the last two weekends.

Lyman and Lake Howell each placed two in the field, with Lake Brantley and Oviedo each landing one in the elite field.

Bellevue, setting president and administrator of the Minnesota Fighting Saints, apparently plans to release all the players from their contracts today at that the franchise is not rescheduled for the last minute.

That seems unlikely. Jack Irvine, one of the few remaining financial backers of the struggling World Hockey Association franchise, plans to sell the rights to a group from Miami Irvine has been keeping off the sale in hopes of holding on to the St. Paul.

Meanwhile, the players are packing and not in preparation for a scheduled game at Cincinnati Saturday. Already high-scoring Mike Walton, goalie John Garrett and stringer Paul Holmgren have departed.

The Saints have missed two payrolls and another is due Monday. On Wednesday, the office staff went back at midday.

Marti, plagued by injuries, illness, family illness and assorted other problems in the past couple of weeks, could be ready to compete. Last time he'd had a putting round like that and couldn't even begin to remember the last time he'd been in a locker-room statement.

And he wasn't even sure he was leading this round. Play, once delayed by rain, was halted by darkness and 33 players — including Jack Nicklaus — were stranded on the wet and soggy, 712-yard Inverary Country Club course. Nicklaus was five under par — just one stroke off a 54-hole shoulder — with two holes to go.

He and the others marked their positions on the course and were to complete their first-round play Friday morning beginning at 7:30 a.m. EST. "It's gonna make for an early start," Nicklaus shrugged. "I've been in tournaments before where this happened, but

NOW THAT THE BICENTENNIAL YEAR IS HERE, WE THINK IT APPROPRIATE TO PRINT UP THAT ONE OF THE DISTINGUISHED SIGNERS (AND SIGNATURES) OF THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE WAS RICHARD STOCKTON OF NEW JERSEY.

Gator Tracksters, Vols Seek SEC Title

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Florida sets out to defend its Southeastern Conference indoor track championship today with seven SEC records in jeopardy.

Once again, the two-day meet looms as a duel between Florida's Gators and Tennessee — which dominated SEC track so long it almost hardened into a tradition.

The Gators upset Tennessee last season, ending a string of Volunteer victories. In the past 12 years, the Vols took 10 titles. Alabama managed to edge them in 1974, 65-67.

But Tennessee was on the wrong end of the luck last year, bobbing handoffs in both relay events, losing points when Louisiana State and Mississippi escaped surprisingly strong showings.

The event is one of the year's two "designated tournaments" in which leading players are recruited to compete. As a result, it's the strongest field of the year.

St. Paul, Minn. (AP)—Wayne Belisle is running out of time and his players are running out of money.

Belisle, setting president and administrator of the Minnesota Fighting Saints, apparently plans to release all the players from their contracts today at that the franchise is not rescheduled for the last minute.

That seems unlikely. Jack Irvine, one of the few remaining financial backers of the struggling World Hockey Association franchise, plans to sell the rights to a group from Miami Irvine has been keeping off the sale in hopes of holding on to the St. Paul.

Reagan Facing Battle. TAMPA (AP)—Republican challenger Ronald Reagan said Friday that he doesn't expect to match the incumbent political power of President Ford and called his campaign against Ford in the Florida primary "an uphill fight."

Presidential Hopefuls Eye Florida Race

MIAMI (AP)—President Ford headed into Florida Saturday for a second swing through the state to beef up his presidential campaign less than two weeks before his March 9 show-up against Ronald Reagan.

Reagan's campaign managers had claimed he will swamp Ford in Florida, but have backed off from saying the former California governor will win 2 to 1.

On the Democratic side, Alabama Gov. George Wallace, considered the front runner among 12 candidates on the primary ballot, was to go to the Swamp Cabbage Festival in LaBelle and then a Speckled Perch Festival in nearby Okechoke.

His chief opponent, former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, had appearances set in Miami and Hollywood while Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp stumped Friday in Palm Beach.
