MUST GET LICENSE TO USE EXPLOSIVES

Government Putting Screws To Careless and Vicious Handlers of Powders of all Kinds All persons who desire to purchase or sell or give away or otherwise dispose of gunpowder, dynamite, nitro glycerine or other high explosives for any purpose whatever are obliged by the U. S. Government after Nov. 15, 1917, to procure a license from regularly authorized licensing agents, Circuit Clerk Douglass being agent for Seminole county. The purpose of this stringent law is to prevent, if possible the disastrous explosives that have wrecked so much property in our nation through the careless handling or mischievous use of high explosives. Hereafter, no person, no matter who he is, and no firm or corporation may dispose of or purchase explosives for any purpose without appearing in person before Circuit Clerk Douglass and making formal application, under oath for a government license, the cost of which is only 25 cents and lasts indefinitely unless revoked for cause. The only explosives that may be bought or sold without such license are pistol and gun cartridges. Loose gunpowder in any quantity shall be bought and sold only on license, and the government will hold every one handling explosives to a strict accountability, to the end that these dangerous and destructive agencies shall above all things not fall into the possession of traitors, of alien enemies or of citizens of countries that are at war with our allies. On Thursday Mr. Clarence E. Woods of Eustis, who is Federal inspector of explosives for the state of Florida visited Sanford and acquainted Clerk Douglass more specifically with the details of his position as licensor. Mr. Woods found Mr. Douglass thoroughly in accord and sympathy with the motive and purpose of the Explosives Act of Congress, and he at once had officials of the Fernald Hardware Co. and the Hill Hardware Co., of Sanford, to take out vendor's licenses for the sale of explosives; he also instructed these firms to keep an accurate record of every sale of explosives, when, to whom, amount, etc., and number of each person's license. A vendor may refuse to sell explosives to anybody with a license whom he suspects of being a questionable character, etc. Red Cross Notes A benefit dance and card party will be given by Seminole County Chapter at Hotel Carnes on Thursday, Feb. 7th at 8:30 p. m. Admission $1.00 a couple. Coffee and sandwiches will be served. Mrs. T. A. Neal, chairman on arrangements, Mrs. Alex. Vaughn, chairman refreshments, Mrs. A. E. Hill chairman music, Mrs. A. P. Connelly, chairman of card tables. Reception Committee: Mrs. Deane Turner, vice chairman Chapter; Mrs. T. A. Neal, chairman on arrangements; Mrs. R. J. Holly, chairman on entertainment for Chapter; Mrs. A. P. Connelly, chairman of card tables. Every effort is being put forth to make this affair a success. Tickets are being sold throughout the county and we hope that a large attendance, a fine time and especially a splendid financial result will be the outcome of this undertaking. Membership buttons have arrived and can be obtained at the work room in Pico block. Dr. Mina C. Baldwin, who is to give an organ recital at the Congregational church next Monday night has played in all the great European cities. Major J. B. Pond says of him: "I consider him the greatest master of the organ now in the profession."

THE FIRST AUXILIARY AT OVIEDO

BOARD OF TRADE ADJUNCT TO BE FORMED FRIDAY NIGHT

F. P. Forster, chairman of the organization and membership committee of the Board of Trade wishes to announce that his committee will go to Oviedo next Friday night to organize the first of the auxiliaries of the Board of Trade. This will be a big occasion for the Board of Trade and while the people of Oviedo are not expected to act as hosts to the crowd at this meeting it will be a big occasion from the fact that this is the starting of one of the most important points in the history of the Board of Trade. It was a happy thought of Hon. O. P. Swope when he conceived the idea of having an auxiliary to the Sanford Board of Trade in every other town in the county and have their individual board with a chairman and secretary, the same to be affiliated with the Sanford Board of Trade and the entire organization working for the upbuilding and development of the entire county. At the next regular meeting of the Sanford Board of Trade to be held in Oviedo the entire organization will be in attendance and many matters for the benefit of the county will be brought before the organization. Next Friday night the auxiliary for Oviedo will be organized and all the officers and as many of the members as possible are invited to go to Oviedo and see that the work is accomplished. The cars will leave the Carnes Hotel about seven o'clock and the business men of Sanford are especially invited to go as they will learn something to their advantage at the meeting. The Sanford Board of Trade has entered into a most prosperous era and the people of the county are heartily in favor of swelling the membership to five hundred and the way to get acquainted and show your interest in the county is to attend the meetings, for at the present time the county people are showing more interest than the Sanford people. Geneva Red Cross Notes The Geneva Red Cross with a membership of 126 is comfortably housed in the bungalow belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Carol Culpepper, the use of which has been donated to the Red Cross. The workers are neatly garbed in white caps and aprons and work enthusiastically with an exceptionally good representation each week. The rooms are open each Wednesday from 9:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. and are comfortably heated with fireplaces and furnished with long oil cloth covered tables, one of which was built and donated by L. A. Sheldon and two built by Crawford and Lee McLain, the lumber furnished and the oil cloth was donated by Geo. Duchardt. One room is set aside for the use of the knitters who have also done creditable work. The Thanksgiving box contained 1164 pieces and the Christmas box 1209 pieces. A box of hospital linens containing six sheets, six table napkins, six towels, one bed spread and one muffler knit in Norway was the gift of Mrs. H. A. Anonsen. DeCottes Returns Hon. George A. DeCottes who left last week to take his examinations for the aviation department of the U. S. Army has returned home. He passed perfectly physically but on account of not having a technical knowledge of aeroplanes they would not accept him for the officers training corps. Sometimes it seems that the government does not need men as badly as they seem to in the advertisements. Church Organ Recital Sanford is to have a great privilege next Monday night in hearing a nation-wide known master of the church organ give a recital at the Congregational church. Dr. Minor C. Baldwin of Steinway Hall, New York, in the south for the winter has been secured. Admission will be free but a silver offering will be taken.

BOLSHEVIKI IN MINORITY GOES WILD

TURKISH CRUISERS SUNK BY BRITISH FORCES

London, Jan. 20.—In a naval action between Russia and Turkish forces at the entrance to the Dardanelles, the Turkish cruiser Middullu, formerly the German cruiser Breslau was sunk and the Sultan Yawuz Selim, formerly the German cruiser Goeben was beached. This announcement was made by the Admiralty to-night. The official announcement says: "The Goeben and Breslau, Turkish names Sultan Selim and Middullu with destroyers were in action with the British forces at the entrance to the Dardanelles this Sunday morning. The Breslau was sunk. The Goeben escaped but has been beached, evidently badly damaged, at Niagara Point in the narrows of the straits. "The Goeben is being attacked by naval aircraft. "Our losses reported are the monitor Reglan and a small monitor, the M-28." The Russian constituent assembly was short lived. Convening Friday in the Tauride palace in Petrograd during street fighting, it was dissolved early Saturday morning by the Bolsheviki after a vote had shown conclusively that the government headed by Lenin and Trotzky was greatly in the minority. Thus, for the moment at least has passed away at its inception the legislative body through which it had been hoped order would be brought out of the anomalous situation that has existed in Russia since the revolution. Likewise the delegates to the peace conference at Brest-Litovsk again are at sixes and sevens and the pourparlers have ended. As on the other occasions when they ceased, the stumbling block is the German demands and their refusal to withdraw their troops from the occupied portions of Russia. After an adventurous career of nearly three and a half years in fighting and raiding operations in the Black Sea, the famous former German cruisers Goeben and Breslau have met their fate at the hands of British warships in a fight at the entrance to the Dardanelles. Evidently the German censors are keeping strict watch over the German newspapers in their expressions of opinion on the serious internal political situation, for even the most meager reports concerning the doings of the militaristic and anti-militaristic parties were missing Sunday. On the western front in France and Belgium the military operations apparently are increasing all along the line, as compared with those of the past few weeks, when little or no fighting except artillery duels and minor raids was carried out. Entente allied warships have bombarded Germany's submarine base at Ostend on the northern Belgium coast, while around Ypres, between Lens and St. Quentin, on the Chemin des Dames, on the St. Mihiel sector and north of the Rhine-Marne canal, there has been a notable increase in the operations by the infantry. An indication of the probable early commencement of heavy fighting is the resumption of aerial activity on a large scale, especially on the French front. Saturday the French airmen had a good day operating against the Teutons, sending down eight enemy machines. On the Italian front the fighting again has turned to the artillery wings of the opposing sides, the infantry keeping to their trenches except for small patrol engagements. All along the northern front the artillery duels are of a violent character. RED CROSS BALL Will Be Given For Seminole Chapter At Carnes Thursday, Feb. 7th One of the big events of the season will be the Red Cross ball and card party to be given at the Carnes Hotel this city on the night of

SEMINOLE IS SLATED FOR TWO EXHIBITIONS IN THE FAIR LINE

Thursday, Jan. 7th. It will be given for the benefit of the Seminole Chapter of the Red Cross and that there will be a crowd present is all ready assured. Those who dance will be charged the low rate of $1.00 per couple and those who want to play cards will pay fifty cents and everything will be done to make all those who attend comfortable at the Carnes. The refreshments will be in charge of Mrs. A. Vaughn and the ladies are requested to make at least one dozen sandwiches and to let Mrs. Vaughn know just who will do this and what kind they will make, in time for her to check them off. The card tables will be in charge of Mrs. A. P. Connelly and the arrangements for the dance will be in charge of Mrs. McLaughlin and J. E. V. Jervey. All arrangements for the music will be left to Mrs. A. E. Hill who can be depended upon to get the best and those who purchase tickets can be assured of a real dance and real music. On the reception committee will be Mrs. Neal, Mrs. Connelly, Mrs. Holly and Mrs. Turner. The affair will be well advertised and there will be many in attendance from all the neighboring cities. Heading the List No wonder Lee county "Heads the List," which is just as true in the matter of profitable trucking as it is that this county has been the least affected by cold of any of the eighteen counties visited by District Demonstration Agent H. S. McLendon of Gainesville, from whose statement the heading "Lee County, Heads the List" was taken. But in this particular instance the "Heading the List" caption over this article refers to those excellent Lee county peppers, a car of which 445 crates has just been sold by the Fort Myers Truckers' Association, a branch of the Citrus Exchange for the neat sum of $3050 or nearly $7 per crate, some bringing as high as $7 and $9 per crate. Peppers, then, may for the present at least be crowned king, while it has been customary heretofore to say "Lee County Leads," when referring to citrus fruits, these golden globes must now look to their laurels for King Pepper "Heads the List." Ft. Myers Press. Army Has Horses and Mules Washington, Jan. 21.—Since the United States entered the war on April 6, the strength of the army in animals has increased from 166,145 to more than 344,000. The Army, Remount Service and the Veterinary Corps have expanded in proportion. On April 6 there were sixty four officers in the Veterinary Corps. It now has 1,000 officers and is building up a personnel of 12,000 enlisted men. From one officer and four clerks, five remount depots where horses were received and a personnel in proportion, the Remount Service now has 300 officers and 11,000 enlisted men. Instead of five remount depots, there now are thirty four, which include buildings for shelter, hospitals, storage and unloading and loading facilities. Against War Council Washington, Jan. 21.—President Wilson today served notice on the democrat leaders to use all their influence to defeat the bill to create a War Council. It is understood that President Wilson is strongly opposed to the measure and will fight the bill to a finish. This is the information brought to the Capitol today. The bill which provides for the establishment of a war council which is to be composed of "three distinguished citizens of demonstrated executive ability" was introduced by Chairman Chamberlain of the senate military committee. The introduction of the war cabinet measure was with the approval of practically the entire Democratic committee, who showed no disposition to recede. Members of congress saw in the situation the making of a historical contest between the executive and congress.

COUNTY SHOULD GET READY FOR THE BIG FAIR

Now that Seminole has decided definitely to have a display at the Sub Tropical Fair at Orlando and at the State Fair at Jacksonville the county should fall into line and start the ball rolling by getting up the exhibits now. Getting up the exhibits does not mean talking about the fair but means getting your ready vegetable and farm products and jams and jellies and fine stock and fancy work and everything else that goes to make up the many varied exhibits of a county or state fair. Seminole has carried off the first prize at Orlando for many years and there is no reason why this county should not carry it off this year if every one will work toward that end. It takes work and plenty of it from every man, woman and child in the county to make the grand ensemble that will merge into the great Seminole county exhibit. Just saying that Seminole county will have an exhibit at the fair at Orlando and Jacksonville does not mean that Seminole will have anything worth mentioning. It takes team work to have an exhibit and the farmers especially are urged to get in the game and see to it that Seminole county has something worth while at both of these fairs. The Sub Tropical Fair at Orlando comes first and this county has taken the regular space allotted as formerly. Now it behooves us to get the stuff into that space that will take the prize. We have the vegetables, the farm products, the jams and jellies and all that go to make a real exhibit, but having them at home and taking them to the fair are two distinct and separate propositions. All those who have something for the fair should let it be known and every one should cooperate in making a real exhibit and one that will place Seminole in the front ranks. Get busy on the fair proposition and keep busy on it. Old Settlers' Reunion The Old Settlers who attended the annual reunion of Longwood or Jan. 19th will have another picture to hang on "Memories Wall." There was one face missing, Col. E. L. Dann who was called to the Great Beyond on April 23, 1917. The ladies served a basket dinner that would reach the heart of any man, and after dinner the president, Miss Alice Tetherly called the meeting to order and the secretary, Mrs. J. S. Dinkel read the minutes of the last meeting, also several letters received from absent friends who sent their best wishes, also regrets at not being able to be present with the old friends. Miss Tetherly was re-elected president and Mrs. Dinkel secretary. A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Bicknell who so kindly furnished and made the coffee, also a vote of thanks to the ladies of the Civic League who gave the use of the Library building and who made it so "cozy and homey" to receive the Old Settlers. Those attending were Mrs. Helen Greenwood, Miss Tetherly, Mrs. C. L. Morton and Miss Morton of Orlando, Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar, Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Hardy, Farmington, Me., Mr. and Mrs. Roebuck, New York City, Miss Hall, London, England, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Searcy, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Dinkel and Miss Olive Dinkel, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bristline, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Neimyer, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Healey, J. B. Clouser, all of Longwood and last but not least "Aunt Patsy" who was on hand to help "her white folks." The Florida sunshine that had been playing kiddy and seek for many days came out with her merry sunshine, and every one voted a pleasant day and a wish to meet again in January, 1919. It is said that the government intends to establish at least two hydro-airplane training stations in the south, and Punta Gorda is making a strenuous effort to be chosen for one of the sites.

Ford
 THE UNIVERSAL CAR

It's no longer necessary to go into the details of describing the practical merits of the Ford car—everybody knows all about "The Universal Car." How it goes and comes day after day and year after year at an operating expense so small that it's wonderful. This advertisement is to urge prospective buyers to place orders without delay as the war has produced conditions which may interfere with normal production. Buy a Ford car when you can get one. We'll take good care of your order—get your Ford to you soon as possible—and give the best in "after-service" when required.

¶ The world war, by taking the young men into the armies and navies is making places in the business world for the old men and the women. It is finding jobs for those who, in some instances perhaps were beginning to consider themselves mere lumberjacks of the earth.

The world's work must be done. "Business as usual" is the slogan. There is a shortage of the ordinary workers which must be recruited from somewhere. The women and the older men afford the only reserve from which the needed help is to be assembled. And they are responding to the call with an alacrity characteristic of loyal Americanism.

Speaking of this new avenue of usefulness which has been opened up to the old man, the Memphis Commercial Appeal says:

"The man who has no especial ability and who has neglected to provide himself when he should; the man who permitted to slip though his fingers the days when opportunity provided for him the way for making himself a valued member of the community; the man who lived only in the today, looking lightly upon his yesterdays, and thought but little of the seriousness of his tomorrows, this man, in his maturing years has found it difficult to obtain suitable work.

"War has given him another chance. Merchants and men of industry are willing to cooperate with war and help him along. Avenues once closed are again open to the old man. He can drive a laundry wagon just as good as a boy can, he can perform other minor labors with just as much efficiency, and he is being recognized after years of neglect."

"Old men for counsel, young men for war," is an ancient adage. Old men for an emergency reserve while young men are fighting is a suggestion of kindred import. So the old man is back on the job. This refers, of course, to men who serve in the capacity of employees, since old business and professional men do not so readily surrender their places to the young. The older man may not be quite so speedy as the young, but he will probably be more careful, and will probably not kick if he is asked to work a few minutes over time.

We are all too ready to brusque older folks aside, because they don't want to travel at our gait. The tendency is not a good one. They can do much to advise and aid us if only we are willing to consult them. Perhaps, now that we have been forced to call upon them, we shall learn a new respect for the men of years. The lesson on mutual dependence which is being brought home to us should bring with it a lesson of mutual consideration. Those who have borne the heat and burden of the day should be treated with deference in life's afternoons. There is still room for the old folks.

¶ Sunday looked good to me, and the sun shone with its old time brightness and best of all Judge Dickinson came down town without his overcoat. But yesterday morning the clouds were back on the job and my heart sank as I noted the Judge with his overcoat over his arm. I don't need the barometer that used to be at the postoffice when I can see Judge's overcoat for as a weather prophet he has all the rest of them beat a mile.

¶ Those boys down at Orlando can't get over that "camouflage" business and Branch has the following in his Sidelights in the Orlando Sentinel, which shows that I was right on the pronunciation:

"After reading the 'Camouflage' poems of Bob Holly and the Town Slouch, Prof. Wade said there were only two words in the English language that would rhyme with 'camouflage,' and those two words were 'Madge and badge.' And now comes Louis Bass, the handsome and polite little Frenchman in the Lucerne Pharmacy, who says neither of Prof. Wade's words rhyme with the correct pronunciation of 'camouflage.' Louis says the 'a' sound is much broader than the 'a' in either of the above words and that 'garage' and 'mirage' are nearer to the same sound but both of these are usually pronounced too broad to rhyme exactly with the now much used word. As Mr. Bass pronounces it, there is no word in our common English to rhyme with it."

The next time I come to Orlando I will Wade right down the Branch and Slouch into the Sentinel office and show them that Louie is Boss.

¶ Mayor Davison says that unless the wood question eases up some and people can get it when they want it that the city of Sanford will establish a municipal wood yard next season and let the prisoners cut up a lot of the waste wood that is around the edges of the city and the wood will be sold at cost. This would certainly help the situation a lot and the mayor is to be commended upon his foresight. This plan has been tried in other states and has proved a great success. In this land where wood is plentiful it does seem that some plan could be arranged whereby people could get wood when they wanted it.

"How d'you happen to go? You aren't draft age?"

The above question was put up to a khaki clad youth on a railroad train the other day.

"No," he replied; "I'm not draft age, and I can't say I want to go. I am not much on this killing business. But the more I thought about it, the more I felt that I didn't want to spend the rest of my life explaining why I wasn't there."

That fellow came very near expressing the attitude of millions. It is the point of view of most of the drafted men, who wouldn't be particularly glad even if they were released on the ground of physical defects. It has sunk into their hearts that this is the job of American people, and up to the young men in particular. Those that don't go may have excellent excuses; but always they will feel a bit on the defensive.

There is a great satisfaction to any active young man in being in the things that his crowd, and the community generally are doing. A boy who went to see some war pictures the other day said the mere sight of them made him want to be there. He hated to be digging away in a school with all this thrill and excitement going on. No live boy likes to have been home and abed on the night that a bad fire broke loose in the town. Next morning he looks pretty sheepish when all the other kids exchange observations.

So the men who run to this great-est of all fires will have subjects for conversation and mutual interest for a life time. They will be a class by themselves--a kind of American aristocracy based not on money or birth, but service. Those who were relieved of the duty, or dodged it, will feel like the boy who slept over the fire.--Gainesville Sun.

MOVING FOR A DRY CHICAGO.

Chicago is in a wet and dry campaign. Its citizens, men and women, will vote upon the question next April. "It is the largest city in the world that ever organized to put its saloons out of business," says Rev. Philip Yarrow, superintendent of the Dry Chicago federation, who is firm in his belief that the dries will win, provided all voters opposed to the saloon will register and vote. The federation has a special committee which will look after persons who are thrown out of employment by the prohibitory law. Where one man loses his job by the closing of saloons, it is stated ten will be opened for him.

KEEP YOUR TEMPER IN GAME

Football is Not Dangerous Game to Young Man Who is in Shape to Withstand Knocks.

"Above all, tempers should be kept under control," says Walter Camp, the famous football trainer and critic, in an article in American Boy. "Football is a clean sport for clean players. If bad temper results in a foul, the entire team suffers. Hold your temper and play the game."

Mr. Camp declares that football is not a dangerous game to the boy or young man who is in proper shape to withstand its hard knocks. "Of course there is some element of risk," he says, "but that holds true of every vigorous sport. Players are hurt at baseball and basketball as well as at football. The boy who has been sitting around all summer taking things easy and getting soft is in no shape to play the game. Under no circumstances should he be allowed to take part in scrimmages until he has been hardened. When injuries do occur, the soft, untrained player is usually the victim. Well-conditioned boys, all things considered, have little to fear."

A CONVERTED MAYOR.

Rev. W. J. Johnson, secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Missions for the middle West, to Mayor J. C. Dahlman of Omaha, who during the Nebraska wet and dry campaign was a pro-liquor advocate: "Mr. Mayor, I have come out here from Chicago to see the harm that prohibition has done to your city."

Mr. Mayor: "Well, sir, you've come to the wrong place. You'll find a city vastly improved, both from a moral and a business standpoint. Prohibition has done wonders for Omaha, and I am thoroughly converted to the dry cause."

A Card of Character

A Card is much like a man, after all. The more character, the more power he has. The more character in your card, the more power it has.

The Peerless Patent Book Form Card has more character than any card you have ever heard of before! It can be beautifully engraved, or it can be neatly printed, as the user desires. It is necessarily always clean, because of the binding in book form with tissue paper between each card, and the book form also keeps it from becoming wrinkled or crumpled. Besides it is always "right there" when you need it.

Can you think of more character for a card? Write and get a sample tab of the cards, detach them, noting as you do so, the clean smooth edge at place of detachment, and the protection from dust and dirt. They have character to convince you, if you will but see them.

Farmers and Fruit Growers

Items of Interest for the Man Behind the Plow

Grow a Legume This Year

Next to corn, the legume crop is probably the most important for the general farmer in Florida. It is the one crop that not only conserves the fertility of the soil but is capable of adding materially to it, says the University of Florida extension division. Grasses, forage and other crops of that kind may prevent waste of soil fertility but they can not convert atmospheric nitrogen into plant food and add it to the soil. Velvet beans, cowpeas and peanuts are valuable legumes.

Let the Farm Boys Work

In the face of the present labor shortage it may be unnecessary to tell a farmer to let his boy work; he may be taking the boy out of school too soon for that very purpose. But that would be a mistake. There is a class of work that the boy can do without neglecting his opportunities for schooling—club work as supervised by the University of Florida extension division.

The county agents are seeking to enlist boys in corn and pig clubs, and several thousand will be enrolled if the enrollment increases this year as it has in the past. Some of the best records made last year were by boys who did not take an hour out of school to attend to their tasks on the farm.

Get in touch with the county agent if he has overlooked your boy. He would be glad to start him off on the high road to success in farming. There is this point to be remembered: If father has been raising sorry hogs in half yields of corn, his son, under the instruction of the county agent will show better returns. If father cannot bear to have one acre of his farm produce more than another, he will discourage the boy at the outset; but few Florida farmers will adopt that program.

The benefit to the boy will be remarkable, and in addition he will have a chance to win prize for faithful work.

Watch the Cabbage Crop

Florida's winter cabbage crop is not yet out of danger. The cold weather made a drive for it, without serious results. The real enemies to guard against are the looper and the plutea caterpillars that are fond of cabbage and are active throughout the winter. The looper resembles the cutworm in shape and may grow to an inch in length. The plutea is less than a half inch long and is hairy. Both of these caterpillars work on the leaf surfaces, where they may be found and poisoned.

A spray, recommended by the University of Florida experiment station, for controlling these caterpillars is made of two pounds of lead arsenate to fifty gallons of water. This liquid does not usually adhere readily to cabbage leaves on account of their waxy coating. This difficulty may be overcome by adding soap when the mixture is made, at the rate of five or six pounds for fifty gallons of water. Hard water will require the maximum quantity of soap; soft water the minimum. Any alkaline laundry soap will do. Flour paste may be used instead of the soap. Boil two pounds of flour in two gallons of water and add it to fifty gallons of the arsenical solution.

An arsenical poison may be used dry if applied when the cabbage is wet with rain or dew. It is well to use a filler of cheap flour or air-blaked lime, mixing about equal parts of filler and the dry poison.

There is no danger to the consumer from eating cabbages that have been treated against caterpillars. He would not eat enough heads, even if they were not washed, to cause any ill effects from the poison. If the presence of the arsenical is likely to reduce the price offered for the cabbages they should not be sprayed within ten days of the time of harvesting.

Much of the prejudice against "poisoned-cabbage" comes from ignorance of how the cabbage head grows. The head is not formed by the leaves curling inward, but from internal growth. The cabbage head is a big bud formed like other buds, and the poisoned leaves, remain on the outside of the head to be stripped off before cooking.

Choose Cows Carefully

Because of the high prices good dairy cattle are bringing, and the desire of the buyer to get a cow for less money, he may buy an inferior animal with the idea that he is getting a bargain. The chances are that the cheap cow will prove expensive. Good cows can be bought only at good prices, and they are worth it. Unless the performance of the animal is known, care must be used in making the purchase, for all cows are not good milkers.

The University of Florida experiment station likens a cow to a machine, and the dairy to a factory. Feeds of various kinds are utilized by the factory and the output is milk. If there is too much overhead expense, if the machines are not working economically, there will be little profit. Care, then, should be exercised in buying the machinery.

Start out with a few dairy type animals and buy them on the advice of the Babcock test and the milk sheet record. Which means, know what the cows produce and the quality of that production. It will not pay to milk cows of the beef type—get acquainted with the dairy breeds. Buy cows with those characteristics.

The dairy cow should have angularity, and the typical form is that of a triple wedge. Viewed from the side she should show greater depth of body behind than in front. A straight line drawn along her back should intersect a straight line drawn from her udder touching the floor of her chest, if both lines are continued for a short distance in front of the cow. Viewed from the rear and top she should widen from the chest to the hips in triangular form. Viewed from the front and top she should widen from the withers backward and downward, again in triangular form.

Do not expect dairy cows to be fat. A naturally fleshy cow is worth just so much less as a milk cow. There should be no fleshiness in the places likely first to show fat among animals possessing such a tendency.

Temperament is another consideration. A cow with her nervous organization strong and well developed is desired in the dairy. She will be sensitive and active, will not be inclined to fatten, will possess the greatest vitality, and will have the greatest producing powers.

Yet a strict conformity to type will not guarantee a strong milk flow. Unless the buyer wants to take a chance he will demand evidence of her producing ability by being permitted to examine her performance records. Otherwise, the purchase will be quite similar to that of buying a pig in a poke.

Negroes Doing Their Bit

Farm and Home Makers' clubs for the training of negro farm youths in Florida, operating under the direction of the University of Florida extension division, and supervised by A. A. Turner, manager club agent with headquarters at the A. & M. College, Tallahassee, show good results in food production and conservation for the past year. Six male assistants were employed and the work carried on in seven counties.

Boys reporting in the farm makers' clubs averaged a net profit of $32.50 from their acre plots of corn, peanuts and potatoes. By this combination of three crops on one acre they were taught crop rotation and diversification, a beneficial program for general farming in Florida. The crops raised were valued at $8,768.

Girls reporting in the home makers' clubs averaged a net profit of $16.75 on their tenth acre plots planted to tomatoes and other vegetables. They filled 36,116 cans with vegetables, which are valued at $5,116. Many practical points on food conservation were taught.

Negroes over the state are encouraged to remain on the farm and practice economy. The various county organizations formed among the adults and the interest manifested in the negro departments of the county fairs are signs of the progress that is being made by this movement to better their rural life.

Twenty-three negro men and women assistants have been appointed to work in sixteen counties covering the black belt sections for this year. In selecting these agents to carry on demonstration work among the members of their race, care has been exercised to secure men and women of tact as well as of integrity and training, as the various problems to be worked out require leaders of that character. The extension division is pleased with the results that have been obtained through the clubs.

Chronic Grouch

The subject under discussion was lucky signs, omens and the like. "I must confess to being a firm believer in number seven," remarked a successful tradesman. "For instance, there are just seven letters in the word success." "Yes, and in failure, too," growled the inevitable pessimist.—Exchange.

MAKE REAL CITIZENS

Americanizing America Feature of D. A. R. War Work.

Calls on Women to Make All-American City or Town of Place Where They Live.

A new opportunity for women to help in the war is offered by the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, through their war relief committee, of which Mrs. Matthew T. Scott is chairman. It is sending out a call to the women of the country to make an all-American city or town of the place in which they live. It asks enlistment for this special service which works directly with the unassimilated immigrant, ignorant or indifferent to America's history, customs and laws, unpledged to support our flag, rearing a family with un-American views of life and reading only foreign language papers.

They hope to bring about the day when the alien, becoming naturalized, shall take the oath of allegiance to the flag itself, not to the man administering the oath in a court room; when a ballot is put into his hand accompanied by an American flag, with full responsibility and honor of ownership; when it is obligatory that he learn the English language; when he shall be compelled to send his children to public school; and when certain days of the year shall be called Americanization days, on which resident aliens shall take the oath of allegiance.

Many of the "Daughters" are working seriously on this project, giving illustrated lectures in settlements and schools.

Auguste Rodin.

A keener interest in more and more aspects of humanity, a readiness to find more and more kinds of men, and women worthy of plastic representation, a preference for expressiveness to traditional beauty, a love of life because it is life—by these tokens we may know Rodin for a modern of the moderns in his day, who made the spirit of his time incarnate in marble and bronze. Like every artist who begins by outraging our love of the familiar, he ended by forcing some of us to revise our definition of beauty, says the New Republic. Even those who most passionately deny that his beauty is beauty can never see quite as they would have seen if Rodin had not lived. He makes them less at ease in presence of the conventionally noble, even when excellent in its kind; reveals a humanity which cannot reach us through the conventionally noble without an effort. Those wrappings of nobleness hid something from us. Was it truth?

The question of shoes for the Home Guards is being generally discussed and the majority of those expressing an opinion in the matter seem to think that some way should be found to provide the men with shoes. The members of the Home Guard are giving their time and in some instances sacrificing personal interests in order to drill and make themselves efficient soldiers and they should not be expected in addition to go down into their own pockets to buy shoes that will, in most instances, never be worn except in the line of military duty. Shoes of all the proper kind are considered by the Federal Government to be the most important item in the uniform equipment of a soldier. The Home Guards should be properly shod.—Lakeland Advertiser.

The Seminole Guards bought their own shoes and are wearing them out two night a week in the service of the county.

BEDECKED WITH HOLLY
 Sanford's Board of Trade is all decked out with a brand new holly wreath, having elected Bob Holly president. Truth of the matter is that Bob has been president of the Sanford Board half a dozen times but this is the first time the title went to him along with the work. It doesn't take much to tickle a newspaper editor, especially one with round, openface, lace fringed upstair front veranda like Holly's. He was so pleased he passed around the best made-in-Sanford cigars he could get for the price Thursday to the executive committee of the State Press Association. Another funny thing about it was that he burned up a perfectly good Ford belonging to Walter Haynes while he was running for office and finally woke up on election night to discover that he had no opposition and was elected unanimously.—Leesburg Commercial.

Through his Herald he has made the nation believe that Sanford and Seminole county constitutes the greater portion of Florida, that is to say; he has made the Board go some to keep the publicity germ from making the members work over time. The obvious thing to do, therefore was to draft Bob into more strenuous service. He was handed the gavel and no pleas for exemption were considered. With Bob Holly as president and D. C. Marlowe as secretary of the Sanford Board of Trade we would advise other cities and counties of the state to look well to their laurels. We have often wondered just what that famous phrase, "Lucky Sanford" meant. The truth is beginning to dawn. Sanford is lucky to have a Holly to Herald her fame abroad in the land.—Melbourne Times.

THE WORD WITH THE BARK ON IT!

Says—the editor of the Florida Grower: "A German subscriber is very much pained because I carve my very strong leanings with no painless touch in this column. He says that it should be free from partisan comments in regard to the war; I should leave this to the daly papers. There were a good many German citizens in the town I was born and brought up in and they were very good citizens indeed and I had the highest respect for them, and for most of the Germans I have ever met and I can picture this old man who writes me, and he is old, because he says so, and I can picture his type and on any other occasion I would like to have him for a next door neighbor, but I do say that any man who can stand for what Germany has done in this war and that would like to see Germany victorious at this time I have no use for and do not believe he is a worthy citizen of this or any other country than Germany. I don't want such people on my subscription list and any German sympathizers who do not like my comments on the war or upon German cruelties and who think that he has subscribed under a misapprehension can get his money back. My parents were born across the water but I am nothing but an American and I can say damn the man who lives in this country who isn't; he should be run out and I further say that if we would put a few of the traitors against the wall with a firing squad in front of them there would be less interference with our free working for our ultimate end—less incendiary fires, less sabotage, less spying and less anti-war propaganda. We are in this war to win and only by winning can this country remain free and we have no use here for a man who does not value the freedom of this country above all other things, even his own life. We owe the boys who have gone to the front everything that we have and shall we discourage their effort by an apparent disregard of the dangers from within through spies and pro-German workers? A thousand times no! Let us conclude that those who are not heart and soul with us are against us and work to the end of that bastid.

"THE PEOPLE'S TURN NEXT"
 Governor Capper of Kansas, in a signed editorial on the front page of Capper's Weekly, declares that it is "the people's turn next," to be given a little guarantee of protection against exorbitant prices and unfair living conditions.
 In taking over the railways the government guarantees them not only the customary and ample profits on their investment, but to maintain and improve their property at public expense. No wonder railroad stocks bounded upward when these generous terms were announced. The coal operators have been allowed admittedly high profits by the government to stimulate production. They may lawfully and patriotically charge more for coal than the profiteer prices of a year ago. The packers are guaranteed ample returns. The millers are smiling. The steel and copper trusts are happy. War burdens are now resting lightly everywhere except on the American home. The sorely pressed people are paying not a legitimate high price, but profiteer rates for every necessity. They are feeling the pressure more and more. They have been voted the office of burden carrier unanimously to big business, little business and intermediate business, to shoulder their war taxes, with something more added, piled on to and transmitted to the burden bearing consumer in terms of higher prices. Every day it is becoming more pressing important that the government earnestly direct its full power toward giving the American home and the American consumer a square deal. It is not good business, nor good strategy, to make the struggle for existence more momentous to the American people than war.

Vigorous prosecution of eastern profiteers who grafted on army contracts is promised. But that is not enough. The least the public demands and hopes for is vigorous, prompt and fitting punishment, carried out not promises. No doubt many other grafters are watching to see what shall be done with these men. When the officers of the print paper combine held up publishers in the United States for millions of dollars, and were found guilty, these exploiters were fined $2,500 apiece! And many a publisher, in a country town paid them the price of this fine in excess profits. To be compelled to give up something less than a microscopical one half of one ten thousandth per cent of his ill gotten wealth for a million or two of dollars can only make the exploiter a hog for such punishment. For such a license to steal he would willingly divide "fifty-fifty" with the government, or even twenty-five seventy-five. It should be a capital crime to exploit the people at any time, punishment to be commuted to a long term of imprisonment but grafting in war time should merit the drum head court martial and the fate the army meets out to traitors.

BOARD OF TRADE NOTES

Showing Good Work That is Being Accomplished

The new committee on organization headed by Mr. F. P. Forster meets at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the First National Bank. Characteristic of Mr. Forster he believes in beginning now and doing things and it is the intent of this committee to put in whatever work and time is necessary in order to make this Board of Trade the largest and most productive body in Florida. Mr. Forster's plan is to carry the work direct to the many Seminole county towns. This afternoon plans will be perfected for a busy session for the next few months. This committee composed of F. P. Forster, chairman, L. P. Hagan, L. A. Brumley, B. E. Squires, E. T. Woodruff, J. G. Ball, O. L. Taylor, O. P. Swope, Scheide Mainings, F. E. Dutton, B. F. Whitmer and Ed. Putnam want your support. There are many reasons why they should have it and they believe every Seminole county citizen will cooperate.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Pierson of Table Rock, Neb., who were among our tourists friends last season arrived in Sanford yesterday and are to be with us for a couple of months. Mr. Pierson expects others from his section later in the season.

We are bound to put the St. Johns river route in the proper light before the government engineers who are to make a decision as to routes within a short time. An intercoastal waterway is assured between Boston, Mass., and Key West, Fla., and with the exception of the Florida route, all others have been settled and the hinge now rests between either the St. Johns river or an East Coast canal. The former now has only seven feet of water from Jacksonville to Sanford, the latter will only carry about four feet and be available only to small draft boats. In order to add strength to our arguments, Mr. E. T. Woodruff, chairman of the waterway's committee of the Board of Trade was sent to Palatka, Orlando, Kissimmee and Lakeland last week securing their endorsement to the St. Johns route. Characteristic of these progressive places, none hesitated and their cooperative acts means much weight in securing recognition for the natural waterway route.

Beginning last Saturday, Field Agent Wiggins of the Bureau of Markets issued the first weekly summary of crops and markets. This coming out over the name of Mr. Chas. S. Brand, chief of the Bureau, Mr. Wiggins will issue these regularly in future and all those on the regular mailing list will be supplied. This data is valuable and means much to the man who is raising truck. It is pleasing to know from many sources the appreciation being given this bureau and to hear many say that they are thoroughly satisfied with results of the Board of Trade.

The Board of Trade membership cards seen in the various stores and places of business means that the holder is progressive and believes in his city and Seminole county and is doing his part toward furthering the general interest. You will find the card holders up to the minute and ready always to play fair.

There's a letter going to every business man today from the Board of Trade. It is not about your joining or belonging to this organization, neither is it a letter asking you for a thing, but it refers to business that you want and ought to have and it's business that this organization wants to help you get and will help you if you will help yourself. We want you to read and study this letter when you get it: Its purpose is broad and means more for you.

MEN OF NAVIES LIKE BIG FAMILY
 American and British Sailors Best of Friends, Says Writer.

JACKIE LIKED IN ENGLAND
 Fight Among Themselves and All That Sort of Thing, Says Charles Dawbarn, But No Happier, Crowds Could Be Imagined.

London.—Writing in the Daily Chronicle on "The United States Fleet in Being" and discussing America's invaluable services, Charles Dawbarn says:
 "It is not the American way to fear publicity. Uncle Sam likes to act in the broad eye of day and to have his deeds emblazoned for his own encouragement. But the English are secretive—perhaps this is one of the revelations of the war. In any case, a veil of silence has been dropped over American naval action in the service of the allies—in conformity with British traditions. Being in Rome, the good Americans do as Rome does. In this particular Rome holds its tongue and looks wise. Not the least of American services to England is her readiness to become dumb and anonymous, because that is the immemorial way with the British navy."
 "And yet it would not do to suppose that our cousins have not contributed very sensibly to the reduction of the peril which awaits us on the water round the coast. Sir Eric Geddes paid handsome tribute to them in his maiden speech as first lord in the commons. The United States 'Jackie' is a fine fellow, and one of his finest attributes is his speedy adaptation to the new conditions of service in European waters. He has become our own Jack Tar's firm friend.

The Family Feeling.
 "Gratifying examples of co-operation between the two services are furnished every day. Officers and crews of the two fleets like each other so well that they 'get mad' at each other, as the Americans say—just as if they were members of the same family."
 "In courts of inquiry both services participate when both are involved. Perhaps the senior officer will be British and the two Juniors, American, or the senior will be American and the others British. The unity is such that British and American destroyers swing at the same buoy and follow each other in their sea practices. At sea they exchange signals; on shore they use the same clubs and huts. At one base a converted cinema hall is now a rendezvous for the bluejackets of the two nations. There they fraternize in the most cordial manner. Between scenery painted by sailors and in front of an orchestra of destroyer musicians, English and American artists sing their songs and deliver their monologues to their brothers of the sea.

"The incessant work of the destroyers and patrol boats in conveying troopships or merchant ships, or in chasing the submarine, has not blunted the edge of the sailor's keenness. If you speak to him about his present 'metter' and compare it with his peacetime labors, he will declare that the latter were heavier to bear. There was the eternal maneuver for the action which never came, and, after it, officers had to analyze the theoretical results. Navigating and engineer staffs lived in an atmosphere of paper problems. Nowadays they are swept away. There is no time for them. And the spice of danger has given zest to the daily round. To understand that, one must understand the psychology of the sailor."
Danger is Real.
 "His danger is real enough. Hydroplanes and other appliances have not proved a sufficient solution. The only real solution is man and ship power; the policeman on the spot to catch the thief."
 "A hit, a palpable hit, perhaps, and yet the result is uncertain. This is the common experience of submarine chasing. You are never certain of your bag. But whatever German apologetics may assert, the number of 'fin fish' disposed of by our ally steadily grows greater, and the system of convoys—a number of ships in a bunch, surrounded by destroyers—has at least this advantage, that it brings the enemy to the defense force and thus obviates a search for him. And in 'taking care' of the traffic, British and neutral, in the sea lanes leading to these Isles, the United States navy is performing a duty essential to our existence and reaffirming the old maxim—consecrated once before at sea—that blood is thicker than water."

DANCING CURES HER NERVES
 Woman Testifies in Alimony Suit That Physicians Pronounce Her Improved.

Atlanta, Ga.—"I have undergone several operations and become very nervous, so I was induced to take dancing lessons. In the hope that my condition would be improved," said Mrs. Hattie Green, a dancer, on the stand in her own behalf in an alimony suit. "Physicians have informed me that my nerves have been greatly improved through my dancing. Counsel for the husband was closely questioning Mrs. Green as to her dancing."

 Approximately 33,000 Tons of War Relief Material Sent Out in Three Months.

Washington.—Ocean carriers, plying between American and European ports, transported in a period a little over three months approximately 33,000 tons of war relief material, shipped by the American Red Cross through its national clearing house.
 More hospital supplies, anaesthetics, surgical dressings and foodstuffs are being sent than at any other time since America's entrance in the war.
 "The widening scope of Red Cross work in Europe and the fact that cold weather is bringing with it pressing needs were responsible for the increased shipments. The Red Cross is supplying not only war hospitals but also infirmaries, recuperating stations, canteens, dispensaries, homes for nurses and the many other things which it established in France to help save American lives and the lives of allied soldiers and civilian sufferers as well.

HAVE SNAKE FOR A MASCOT
 Washington Company Will Take It to France, If They Are Permitted.

Portland, Ore.—Company G, Second Washington state infantry of Aberdeen, if allowed to do so will take a mascot to France that will raise the hair on the heads of the allied troops as well as those of the Teutons. The mascot is a bullsnake.

 The snake has been a pet with the company outposts in the Cascade mountains. One soldier discovered the snake in deadly battle with a large rattler. It killed the rattler, and a few minutes later, when attacked, killed a second rattler. The soldiers thought its fighting ability should be recognized and captured it.

BUGLER IN BRIG FOR "TAPS"
 Sounded "Good Night" as Transport Leaves United States for Europe.

Washington.—An American transport carrying United States marines to Europe was leaving port, somewhere, some time, the marine bugler aboard sounded "Taps," which is the military way of saying "Good night."
 Now the commanding officer of the transport didn't think it was "Good night" for his packet and saw no humor in the marine bugler's premature surrender to the "tin lizzies of the sea." Nor could the young sea soldier see the point when he was given "three days bread and water" to ponder over his wheeze.

TEMPERANCE NOTES
 (By the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union)

BREWERS WASTING GRAIN.
 Barley mixed in the bread makes a bread which has as fine a texture as wheat. . . . And would enable us to release just exactly that quantity of wheat. . . . There is a certain deduction from the barley—the total barley used in brewing—to account for the malt which is given back to the feed, but even then there is a large margin of saving if the brewing could be cut out. . . . The difference between the feeding value and the fodder and the intake of the breweries in grains means just that much more foodstuffs to our allies. . . . We could save from 50,000,000 to 60,000,000 bushels of grain on the brewing ship after having allowed for the fodder proposition, and that grain is of utmost value to our allies.—Herbert C. Hoover, pages 380, 417, Hearing before Senate Committee on Agriculture.

Murrell Boys Home

It seems good to see Kenneth Murrell in the army khaki and Oliver in the blue sailor's uniform, both of them being sons of Capt. and Mrs. K. R. Murrell of this city. The Murrells gave three sons to the service, Kenneth is Sergeant in the Quartermaster's Corps stationed at Camp Gordon, Oliver is pharmacist mate in the Hospital service of the navy and will be stationed at Philadelphia and John is in the Medical Officers' Training Camp with headquarters at Ft. Oglethorpe. Oliver and Kenneth are home this week on a furlough and their many friends are glad to see them.

Fire Sunday Morning

The fire department was called out about three o'clock Sunday morning to Goldsboro where several negro houses were ablaze and as two of them were too far gone to save after arriving on the scene their efforts were confined to keeping down the blaze from other buildings. The department had two calls Sunday morning to the ball park where the grass was on fire.

Woman's Club Notes
The members of the board are putting on a sale of underwear, bags and aprons at the Club House on Wednesday, Feb. 6th, from 4 to 6 o'clock. There will be a nice collection of pretty, useful articles at reasonable prices and we hope all club members and their friends will patronize this sale.

As before stated, this is one of a very few projects for money making to be introduced into club life this year, owing to urgent needs for money in other worthy causes and it is hoped that this sale will be a success financially and otherwise.

Plans for the General Club reception to be held at the Club House on Jan. 30th have not yet been completed. Announcement of program and committees, etc., will be made in next issue of this paper.

Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 15th the Music Department held their regular meeting. "American Women Composers" proved to be a most interesting subject and the following program was much enjoyed:

- Chorus: The Long Day
- Closes: Sullivan West; There's One That I Love
- Clearly: Kucken;

- Quet: Consolation
- : Carrie Jacobs Bond;
- Miss Martha Fox, Mrs. W. E. Scoggin
- Miss Fox, Mrs. W. E. Scoggin
- Solo: Still Unexpressed
- : Carrie Jacobs Bond;
- Mrs. Albert Phillips
- Paper: Mrs. Beach, the Greatest Woman Composer of America
- Mrs. Geo. Fox
- Solo: A Thanksgiving
- Fable: Mrs. Beach;
- Mrs. Albert Phillips
- Piano Solo: Petite Valse Que Ballet: Fay Foster;
- Mrs. Schelle Maines
- Chorus: I'll Sing Three Songs, of Araby
- :Clay;
- Club Chorus

During the business meeting Mrs. Schelle Maines was nominated chairman for the coming year and Mrs. Norris was appointed to serve on the elections committee.

The program committee chairman announced that Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 22nd, the Music Department of the Woman's Club of Sanford would be represented at DeLand by Mrs. Julius Takach, Mrs. Robert Herndon, Miss Fannie Reba Munson and Mrs. Schelle Maines, who will give an Artists' Exchange program to the Woman's Club. The DeLand Club will give us an Artists' Exchange program in our club house Feb. 19th.

A motion to make our artists' Exchange day, Feb. 19th, a public day for the benefit of the Red Cross was carried.

A vote of thanks was given to the Library and Mrs. Key for allowing us a shelf in the Library until our cabinet was provided.

Exactly half of the year's work as planned in the year book has passed very successfully and the chairman of the Music Department urges each member to make a personal effort to attend and make the remaining work just as successful and the meetings as enjoyable.

A. R. Haile of Jacksonville is registered at Hotel Carnes.

Mr. Lake is up from Tampa for a few days.

False Collectors

Marcus C. Fagg, Luperin tendent the Children's Home Society of Florida calls attention to the fact that there are several parties in different parts of Florida who are collecting funds, using the name of the society, such people being taking a securing money under false pretenses as the society has no solicitors going about securing money.

Along the East Coast, within the past few weeks several parties were thus engaged, but the news was received too late for the society to take action.

The warning is therefore given all people in the state that any one soliciting funds for the society is unauthorized to do so in going about in the manner these people are doing and it will be appreciated by the society if such persons are spotted and made to discontinue this practice.

Hospital in Florida

Washington, Jan. 20.—From what was learned here today on best authority Lake City is to be chosen by the war department for the site of a large convalescent hospital in Florida.

Dr. Montague and others who have been here for several days past working on the matter were in conference with officials of the surgeon general's department today, and it is understood that it has been practically settled in favor of Lake City.

It is stated that the authorities here have been very much pleased with the idea of using the buildings of Columbia College at Lake City for the hospital.

Women in War Work

Washington, Jan. 20.—An estimate based on surveys in fifteen states for the National League of Women's Service shows that there are 1,260,651 women in the United States engaged in essential war industrial work. In munition factories 100,000 are employed, as against 3,000 women in 1910.

General Strike in Austria

London, Jan. 20.—A general strike is in progress throughout Austria, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Paris today, which reports 100,000 men quitting work in Vienna and Neustadt, closing down all the war factories. The strikers are described as openly anti German and the movement is both political and economic and especially aimed at securing peace.

Public demonstrations, it is added have been held in many places at which hostility was voiced toward Berlin for trying to force the Austrians to continue the war.

Cost of First Draft in Florida

Tallahassee, Jan. 20.—Figures just compiled on the cost of the first army draft in the state of Florida show that the total expenses amounted to $42,941. Itemized the cost was as follows: Board members, $23,955; employes, $14,279; travel, $1,676; rent, $430; supplies $2,344; total, $42,694.

Seventy German Internes

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 02 More than seventy enemy allies arrived here tonight for internment for period of the war at Fort Oglethorpe. Among the prisoners was Walter Spoermann, arrested recently near Norfolk in an alleged attempt to blow up a naval station magazine; Hugo Schmidt, said to be a personal friend of Johann von Bernstorff, dismissed German ambassador, and Baron von Zeebeck.

CHAMPION WRESTLER DENIES HE IS DYING

FRANK GOTCH, WHO INSISTS HE IS NOT DEAD.

The reporter who daily calls up the hospitals and morgues the other day phoned the German hospital to learn if Frank Gotch, the champion wrestler, was still to be counted in the census. He had been reported as seriously ill. "I'd like to inquire about Mr. Gotch's health," he confided to the operator at the hospital.

"Just a minute, please," she answered, as she connected the scribe with the alleged dying man's room. "Is Mr. Gotch's condition very serious?" asked the reporter.

"Hats, no," answered a man with a husky voice. "And, furthermore, if they don't let me out of here soon, I'm going to pull a Douglas Fairbanks and escape."

"Who is this talking?"

"Gotch himself, Frank Gotch; I'm not sick at all."

"Well, they report you as dying with kidney trouble."

"Zatso? Well, I have got a kink in my back from loading logs back in Iowa. That's all. And I'm not letting a few bantamweight logs down me."

ly forthcoming he would inform the king's judicial officers of what he had seen.

This, like the rest of Lim's messages, not producing any effect, he informed the king's chief prosecutor of the mysterious burial and awaited the result. He was soon summoned to court, where he told the whole story, including the elephant fortune, which had been confirmed by Buddha in his dream.

The king was very wrath when he heard of the elephants, for his majesty has a cinch on the elephants in Siam, and it is hands off by all others. He sent an order for Thee Wan to appear before him and answer to the charge that had been made against him and his wife. Thee appeared at the court, and begged that the king send his chamberlain to his house; the grave should be opened, and the contents of the box exposed.

The same day the chamberlain, Thee Wan, and his wife, and Lim, with attendants from the court, stood beside the spot where the burial had taken place. The grave was opened, the lid removed, and there lay the remains of a little monkey.

Thee explained that it had been a pet of his wife's, that there was no nephew, no elephant fortune; indeed, that Lim had coined the story out of his brain.

Lim was taken by the chamberlain to the king and the results of the investigation were given to his majesty. Lim begged to be excused for making a mistake which was a very natural one, and the king might have excused him on the ground that his theory had been confirmed by Buddha himself; but his majesty was greatly disappointed at not being able to confiscate a herd of elephants to attach to his own herd, and consequently not disposed to leniency. He ordered Lim to be beheaded, and the poor man, instead of having a house over his head, however imperfect, was consigned to a home under ground.

FRED ANDERSON'S RISE

Only Ex-Fed Hurlec to Share in World's Series Coin.

Was Ushered into Citizenship Twenty-Five Years Ago at Statesville, N. C.—Valuable Player to Call On in Pinch.

Fred Anderson, who came to the Giants from the Buffalo Feds, is the only ex-Federal league pitcher who shared in the cutting of the world's series melon this fall.

Incidentally, Anderson's rise to major league class has been a rapid one, for prior to joining the Giants, in 1910, he had only a glimpse of big league company, and he probably has the Federal league to thank for the fact that he came into notice as a pitcher who possessed big league class.

Like Rube Benton, one of his pitching mates, Anderson is a native of North Carolina. He was ushered into citizenship at Statesville, N. C., some twenty-five odd years ago, and, like Benton, he started pitching independent ball before he was eighteen years old.

Several years ago the Boston Americans got wind that a young hurler named Anderson was going great guns in professional ranks—"somewhere below the Mason-Dixon line—and a scout was sent South to give him the up and down. As a result Anderson got a tryout with Boston, but was turned over to a minor league club in New England for more seasoning.

About that time the Buffalo Feds were scouring the minors for pitching material, and as Anderson was dissatisfied they had no trouble getting his name to a contract. Then, when the Feds busted up, McGraw picked him from among a host of Federal league pitchers and he has succeeded in making good.

Anderson is a right-hander, and although not the most sensational of McGraw's pitchers, is a hard worker.

Fred Anderson.

He uses a good assortment of twisters and is capable of taking his regular turn in the box, but because McGraw's three southpaws have been going great guns this year the ex-Fed wiggler has not been called upon to do a great amount of work.

When the Giants went South last spring many of the scribes who accompanied the team thought that Anderson would be forced to step aside for Jimmy Middleton, the right-hander secured by McGraw from the Louisville club, but when the wedding-out process came it was Anderson who stuck, and he's still there. Anderson is a valuable man to call into the box as a pinch pitcher, for he has good control and is steady under fire.

RECORD OF CENTRAL LEAGUE

Did Not Sell a Player to Major League Club—Several Went Up Again Under Recalls.

The Central league made the record of not selling a player to major league clubs, according to a Grand Rapids correspondent. The Brooklyn club was supposed to have bought Pitcher Wachtel from Muskegon, but that deal is reported off. Catcher Harry Smith of Fort Wayne is to get a trial with Cincinnati, but that sale is only conditional and the sale announced by Peoria of Catcher Bob O'Farrell is not an actual purchase. Several players go up again under recalls, but the actual sales are nil.

TWO BOXERS ARE PATRIOTIC

Kid McCoy and Terry McGovern Helping to Boost Recruiting—Urge Fans to Enlist.

Kid McCoy and Terry McGovern are spending the greater part of their time these days in helping to boost recruiting in the army and navy. Both of these old-timers appear at New York boxing clubs and make speeches urging the boxing fans to enlist, and though neither one is an eloquent speaker, the plain, forceful talks they make have been getting better results than all the flowery language in the dictionary could possibly do.

RUBBER IN GOLF BALL

Did you ever study a golf ball?

Almost one mile of thread rubber is necessary in the making of the globe. The rubber which reaches the factory in the crude state is cooked, then rolled into sheets and finally cut into threads. The thread then is placed on a huge bobbin and automatic machines wind 1,338 yards of it onto the little core which forms the golf ball.

The next process in the making of the object which causes so much worry is the applying of the gutta percha cover. This reaches the factory in raw state. It is treated so that the resin is completely extracted. Then it is masticated and washed. Next it is put into a roller which squeezes out the moisture. A machine then cuts the sheets into sizes for the covers and an automatic device clamps the covers on the rubber core.

A brambling machine is the next to receive the golf ball. This creates those funny little holes or bumps.

To Induce Sleep.

When trying to induce sleep it is well, observes an authority, to put away all serious thoughts and try to get the mind into a pleasant, elevated state. Some people make a habit of reading before retiring, but too often one reads on until eyes and head ache. As a result the following morning the eyes are bloodshot and bulging from the overstrain and the individual has lost the necessary amount of rest because of this enforced strain. It is most important that the ventilation of the sleeping apartment be attended to; that there is clear, fresh air circulating. Windows should be raised from the bottom and lowered from the top also, so that the air may circulate freely. The question of whether it is healthy to sleep with a pillow or without one has been debated many times, but a happy medium is recommended as the most comfortable one.

Bad Performance.

E. Berry Wall, the New York clubman, arrived one afternoon rather late at an opera matinee that was evidently not good.

The doors were closed till the end of the first act, and as Mr. Wall stood in the lobby with the false strains of the opera floating round him, a lady tried to enter the auditorium, but the doorkeeper shook his head.

"No, no, madam," said Mr. Wall. "The doorkeeper dare not open the door during the singing. Half the audience would rush out."

OUTFIELDER IN TRICK PLAY

Amos Strunk of Philadelphia Athletics Makes Putout at First—Two Other Instances.

Something out of the ordinary is for an outfielder to make the putout on a player who is caught off first by a pitcher. Amos Strunk, Athletic center fielder, was the hero of a stunt of this kind in a game played in Washington on June 20. The victim was Charley Jamieson, whom Griff tried to remake into a pitcher this season and who now has gone back to outfielding.

"Rube" Schauer detected Jamieson taking too long a lead off first in the eighth inning and his throw to McIntish started a run-down play that was completed when Strunk, who helped ed in it, tagged Jamieson on the line and the back.

A trick American league outfielders apparently have forgotten is to sneak in from center and help trap a man off second. Two guardians of the middle mesa have accomplished such a feat—Tris Speaker, when he was playing with the Red Sox against the Indians, and Jesse Clyde Milan of the Nationals, against the Red Sox. They received throws from the backstops and plastered said throws on the ribs of "Doc" Johnston and Larry Gardner.

Speaker tricked Johnston on June 7, 1913; Milan hoodwinked Gardner on July 7, 1913.

A Mysterious Burial in Siam

By WARREN MILLER

(Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.)

In Siam on the banks of the Kwang canal, not far from the city of Bangkok, lived Lim That. In a thatched house elevated on posts and looking more like an antiquated barn than anything else. One night Lim That came home from a gambling house in Bangkok—the Siamese beat the Mexicans in gambling—having lost what little money he had, and settled himself to chewing the betel nut before turning in on his straw bed.

While thus engaged, the juice of the betel nut dripping through the openings in the floor, Lim looking through the crevices. In the back of the house, uttered an exclamation of surprise and cunning satisfaction. His abode, though a primitive one, stood in the vicinity of the residence of Thee Wan, a rich ivory merchant. Lim had very good eyes and could distinguish distant objects with remarkable clearness.

He saw Thee Wan and his wife carrying from the rear of their house a box just large enough to contain a little child. Thee carried the box while his wife held a light. They took the box to a spot about a hundred yards from their house; Thee dug a hole in the ground; the box was placed in it, covered with earth; then the man and his wife knelt beside the spot, and they said their prayers. This being finished, Thee led his wife away, she weeping as though her heart would break.

Lim That was overjoyed. He had often gazed upon the palatial residence of Thee Wan and cursed his fate in having to live in such a humble abode as his own while Thee Wan resided in such splendor. Lim did not consider that while the merchant had worked hard for his comforts, he (Lim) had spent his time gambling. Lim had a lively imagination, and evolved many explanations of the secret burial he had witnessed. This was his favorite theory: Thee Wan's wife had an orphan nephew, a minor, who would inherit a large fortune in elephants. The child had been under the care of his aunt. To get possession of the elephants, the couple had murdered the heir and buried him in the rear of their grounds in the dead of night.

While Lim was asleep that night he dreamed that Buddha had appeared to him and told him that his theory was correct, and directed him to send a message to Thee telling him that he knew his secret and unless he would send him a hundred tekins (about $90) he would inform the king's officers that he had seen him and his wife bury their nephew at midnight.

Now, while Lim had every confidence in his dream and in Buddha, he would rather have examined the grave himself and confirmed the theory. Unfortunately, the grounds of Thee were enclosed and guarded by dogs. Lim would have poisoned the dogs, but the dog is a sacred animal in Siam, and Lim dared not commit such an unholy act. So he proceeded more discreetly, obeying Buddha's instructions, and sent an anonymous letter to Thee demanding blackmail.

Lim waited a week, and receiving no reply, he sent another message to Thee, this time demanding a thousand tekins for keeping the secret. Since this produced no effect he kept on sending demands, till tiring of threats, he sent one more message declaring that it was the last, and that if the money was not immediate-

AUTHORITATIVE TESTIMONY.

In a telegram to President Wilson, the mayor of Savannah, Ga., thus testified to the value of prohibition as an economic measure:

"Prohibition in Savannah has produced astonishing economic benefits. Following are the percentages of reduction of arrests for crime: Assault with intent to murder, 64; burglary, 47; drunk and disorderly, 72; larceny, 50; larceny after trust, 76; murder, 66 2/3; lunacy, 51; number of convicts reduced, 50 per cent. Approximately 3,000 less calls for patrol wagon and 10,000 less articles pledged with pawnbrokers than in previous years of open saloons. Farmers and other employers of labor agree efficiency and reliability of labor increased 50 per cent. Enormous quantity of grain required for production of alcoholic drinks is urgently needed for food. It will be a crime to allow continued waste in this manner. National prohibition during war is of vital importance."

BOY OR BEER-BARREL.

For Which Will You Vote?

Have you a boy to spare? The saloon must have boys or it must shut up its shop. It is a great factory, and unless it can have 2,000,000 from each generation for raw material, some of these factories must close up; the operatives be thrown out upon the cold world, and the public revenue dwindle! One family out of every five must contribute a boy in order to keep up the supply! Will you help? Which of your boys shall it be?

COBB PULLS "BONER"

One of the Sox, listening to Faber's alibi for his famous steal of third base, recalled an instance at Boston last year when Ty Cobb swiped third base with Crawford already on said sack.

Cobb made a magnificent slide, started to brush off the dirt and suddenly noted Crawford. "Hey! Get away from here!" yelled Ty Cobb. "You haven't any business here!"

On another occasion Veach of the Tigers got in some such a situation. At the end of the rundown he explained it by saying there were too many men on the bases, anyway, and there seemed no place where he could go.

Now Comes the Bride

No one can tell when the bride of today will introduce the mode of today in some detail of her wedding gown, be it over so conventional in style...

But brides are apparently of one mind as to the treatment of the bodice. Nearly all of them choose the conventional long sleeve and the unconventional V-shaped neck...

As to skirts, they may be short and wide, in thin materials, and untraced. A girlish French model of lace and chiffon was made even a little shorter than ankle length...

The veil worn with this gown was of lace-bordered net, ample as to fullness and long enough to flo a few inches on the floor.

Nothing could be much simpler in design than the splendid wedding gown of one of New York's spring brides. It was made of white and silver brocade with white satin court train, and cut to the empire style.

Julia Bottomley describes the phases of the new petticoat, including materials like silk, batiste, crepe de chine, and various trims like ribbon and lace.

New Petticoats.

The phases of the new petticoat are many. We have princess slips of silk, batiste, crepe de chine, held over the shoulders with straps of ribbon and elaborately trimmed about the hem with wide flounces of lace, platted organdie, chiffon or net...

To Lend Beauty to Summer Fetes

Hats that are frivolous, along with hats that are dignified and picturesque, make place for themselves among hats that are merely sensible...

Here are two that belong to the dignified and picturesque coterie, shown with examples of flowers that are liked on millinery of this kind.

The wearer of either of these hats will be entitled to feel complacent as to her headwear no matter how much elegance may vix with her own.

The lovely black hat of malines and lace braid is made on similar lines except that its brim is curving.

The wreath of white satin -oats is brightened by a single rose that deepens to pink at its center and is mounted on the crown at the left side.

SWEDE RISBERG AIDS WHITE SOX

Manager Rowland Has Much Confidence in Youngster.

NEW INFIELDER IS FIGHTER

Started as Weak Hitter, but Has Improved His Average Materially—Is Fast and Accurate in Throwing to First Base—Never Admits Defeat Until Last Man Is Retired.

Manager Rowland of the White Sox has as much confidence in shortstop 'Swede' Risberg as in any of his seasoned veterans, for the young infielder is a fighter who doesn't admit defeat until the last man is out.

In discussing his infield recently, Rowland said regarding his shortstop: 'Risberg has fielded extremely well all season. He started as a weak hitter, but he has improved his average materially...

'His presence on the infield, despite the fact that he is serving his first full season in the major leagues, has instilled a lot of confidence into the other players, for he is pepper personified. Hann Patterson, for whom he worked last season, was present at one of our recent games and he predicted at the time that in another year Risberg will be hitting as well as any shortstop in the American league.

'Risberg has made good as a fielder, and I am confident that he will make good as a hitter as well. He never stops trying and he isn't easily discouraged, which is a big point in his favor.'

'No youngster making a fight for fame as a major league player could receive a bigger boost from a manager than Rowland has handed out to Risberg. It shows that the White Sox leader has a world of confidence in his shortgrass guard, and Risberg's playing during the past few weeks has been all that could be asked for.

Risberg came to the White Sox for keeps last fall. He played with the Vernon club in the Pacific Coast league last season, but second base was his station then, so when he was

ONE OF THREE

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS.

Walgrove turned from the box office. Disappointment was written on his face.

'There's not a seat to be had, Sis. I'm awfully sorry. But I expected it. There hasn't been a show like 'Back There' on Broadway for some time.'

His sister, Peggy, reflected his disappointment. However, she smiled. 'It can't be helped, Vance,' she said cheerfully, 'but I should love to have seen it before going back home.'

'They were leaving the foyer reluctantly when two girls approached them. 'We have one seat extra in the fifth row,' the elder of the two girls said, addressing herself to Peggy: 'if you care to take it—it will help us out.'

'We wanted two,' Walgrove returned quickly, being quite accustomed to this manner of purchasing seats; 'my sister is only in town until tomorrow, and I wanted especially to take her tonight.' He lingered a moment while the two girls conferred in undertones.

The elder again spoke, this time addressing Walgrove: 'Miss Gale says she will let you have her seat since it is the only night your sister can come. Perhaps she and Miss Weeks will get seats another time.'

'Oh!' Peggy exclaimed swiftly, and, turning to the girl: 'This is too good of you. I wouldn't think of using your seat.' She saw with swift comprehension that the girls had no doubt bought the seats many weeks in advance by way of a rare treat. They apparently told for their theater tickets a few extra nights a week.

Gladys Gale answered, a slight blush making her even more charming to look upon. 'I am only happy to let a soldier have my seat,' she said. 'Nan, Weeks and I will come another time.'

'It is awfully good of your friend,' Peggy continued speaking when, after Walgrove had exchanged four dollars for the two seats, they all went into the theater. 'You see, my brother may be called out at any moment, and I wanted to see as much of him as possible.'

The latter, much inclined to conversation, told Peggy about the small flat she had with the two other girls. 'I just kind of keep an eye on Gladys and Nan,' she said. 'I'm a good deal older and feel motherly toward them. We all work during the day and now Nan has taken up her Cross work. That's the reason she had to give up her seat tonight. She's been waiting for a vacancy in the home-care class and didn't expect it to come so soon.'

The rising of the curtain prevented further chatter, but Vance was conscious that his sister welcomed feminine companionship as well as his own. During the intermission Miss Greene again spoke of the small flat. Peggy voiced her thoughts. Her eyes remained wistful. 'You see, I don't know many girls in the city, and those whom I have met only care for restaurants and dancing. I quite envy you your little homey flat and late supper. I suppose you have little studio aprons and a cozy kitchenette and pink platted plants in the windows.'

Miss Greene laughed quickly. 'You could not have described us better had you been in our flat.' She paused a moment in thought while she cast a swift, searching look at Vance Walgrove. 'It seems human,' was her inward comment. She turned again to Peggy. 'If you and your brother will come I will be so glad to telephone the girls to prepare enough supper for five instead of three tonight.'

'Oh! I should just love it!' Peggy's real delight shone in her eyes. 'I will persuade Vance while you are telephoning.'

She had little difficulty with her brother. Miss Greene, telephoned, and when the play was over a taxi whizzed them swiftly down to the little flat.

After introductions Walgrove naturally drifted toward Nan Weeks. She was slim and pale and seemed quite unable to stand the strain of typing all day long and studying nursing in the evening.

'But I would far rather die in a nurse's uniform than in ordinary office clothes,' she argued softly to Walgrove. 'You are doing your part,' she ended, with a glance at his khaki, 'so let me do mine.'

The evening was altogether charming and they were all sorry when it was over.

Walgrove wanted to take Nan and Gladys to 'Back There,' since they had missed it, but neither was willing that he should sit through it twice.

'Then I'll get two more chaps and make a party of six,' he announced. 'I'm sorry you won't be here, Peg,' he added.

During the drive back to the hotel Peggy talked much of the evening. 'Nan Weeks is far too beautiful and sweet to nurse soldiers,' she said firmly. 'They will one and all fall desperately in love with her and their fevers will soar sky high whenever she tends them.'

'Peggy—you're a brick! I know you were seeing Nan Weeks as my wife, almost before I did.' He squeezed her hands affectionately. 'I will have to make quick work of it, for we may be called any day to France.'

POWER OF JOY RULES WORLD

Pain, Declares Woman Lecturer, Should Never Be Resorted to in Correcting unruly Children.

A woman is lecturing in the East on 'The Influence of Joy.' It is also an attack on the influence of pain, which parents so much resort to in the management of children. She declares, according to the Ohio State Journal, that pain should never be resorted to to make children good, and hence, she advises that all spankings and whippings should be eliminated.

There is nothing in pain to reconstruct a child. Joy is the only medium that should be used. Make a child happy, instead of sad, is the gospel of child training.

The power that lived, moved and ruled the world, she said, was the power of joy; and this was the influence the parent should use in training the child. This is not the way of parents. The rule is to whip the child to make him good.

It can't result that way. A kind word and a gentle association are far more powerful than a rod or any other method for producing sorrow or pain.

The other day we heard a mother shout to a little boy: 'I'll skin you alive!' That is enough to make a worse boy out of a bad one.

The 'mild power wins' is an old adage and every parent should take it to heart.

CAUSE OF TIRED FEELING

Complaint, Common With Many People Every Morning, Due to Pressure of Too Much Purin.

The familiar condition in which one awakes up in the morning, after a good night's rest, with a dry mouth, spirits depressed, feeling tired, achey all over, was explained by Dr. Nathan Rosenwarter of Cleveland in the course of a discussion at a recent meeting of the American Medical Association.

He said such a person will go ahead and do a hard day's work and feel better as the hours pass, until in the evening all signs of trouble have gone. Such a person often had severe pains in the abdomen, the muscles of which were extremely sensitive; but the more they were pressed the less sensitive they became.

This condition is not, as often believed, due to intestinal toxemia, or poisoning of the blood by the products of imperfectly digested food, but to the pressure of too much purin in the system.

When the foods that are rich in purins are given up the sufferers rapidly improve. They were never really fatigued, their symptoms being merely a simulation of fatigue.

CRACK ATHLETES IN FRANCE

Ball Players, Football Stars, Boxers, Tennis Players and Others on Flying Line.

By the time January 1 rolls around and the new year is born many of the leading stars in all branches of sports will be with Uncle Samuel's armies somewhere in France.

Boxers, tennis and golf players, football stars and the leading lights of track and field will all be represented on the flying line.

And with so many stars of the sport world abroad the public will take new interest in them, for, instead of battling on track and field, the diamond, the tennis court or the golf links, the stalwart sons of the U. S. A. will be battling on foreign fields in the great game of the age—the game of war.

Swede Risberg.

Injected into the White Sox lineup at shortstop he had a lot of new tricks to learn.

The Sox grabbed Risberg chiefly for his fielding ability, as he was not a fence buster, even in the Coast league, where he hit .293 last season. Prior to last season Risberg played in several of the smaller minor leagues, but his total experience in professional ball has been crammed into the past five years.

He is a valuable man to the Sox for the reason that, like Buck Weaver, he can be played at second or third base. He is a finished fielder, who can go to the right or left equally well for a batted ball, and his fast, accurate throwing from the short field has cut off many a hit this season.

Japanese Tennis Balls.

Japanese tennis players on their native courts use a softer ball than players in this country. The Japanese ball does not include the felt cover which changes their game somewhat, but they adapt themselves readily to the standard American ball. Kashio, Yoshida and Kumakae are three of the best of the Japanese players.

Dixie Walker's Record.

Dixie Walker, the pitcher the Cubs got from New Orleans, won 10 out of 28 games and limited his opponents to an average of 1.98 runs per nine innings, according to the latest Southern league figures.
