Body To Be Exhumed To See If It's Really Oswald

DALLAS (UPI)—The body believed to be that of Lee Harvey Oswald, assassin of President John F. Kennedy, will be exhumed to determine its identity, UPI has learned.

Marina Oswald, the Russian-born wife of Oswald who has since remarried, told UPI: "It's true."

Mrs. Oswald has the authority to approve the exhumation under Texas law and a confidential source told UPI she had signed the necessary document which would clear the way for a special autopsy of the body buried Nov. 25, 1963. The grave is in Rose Hill Burial Park at Fort Worth, Texas.

The legal document also ordered a subsequent private autopsy to determine the identity of the body — if the grave contained one.

The extraordinary turn of events was prompted by the investigative work of British author and attorney Michael Eddowes, who has probed the Kennedy assassination for 16 years. Eddowes contends that there is a body beneath the red granite marker. It is that of a Soviet secret agent known as a "sleeper" in intelligence circles who became an Oswald imposter after Oswald arrived in the Soviet Union on Oct. 15, 1963.

Eddowes contends the Soviet agent assumed Oswald's identity and returned to the United States in 1962. The real Oswald "disappeared" in Russia, said Eddowes.

Dallas attorney Jerry M. Pittman, who has represented Eddowes in a long legal battle to obtain a court order mandating disinterment of the Oswald grave, said he could make no comment on exhumation and autopsy plans.

Priscilla Bradford's 14-year-old daughter, Eden, demonstrates how her mother swung a bottle capper at John Bradford, killing him. She testified Wednesday at the trial of Joyce Cummings, accused of helping Mrs. Bradford commit the murder.

Jury Deliberating 'Frying Pan Murder'

By DAVID M. HAZLER
Herald Staff Writer

The first degree murder case against Joyce Cummings, 18, went to a 12-member Seminole County Circuit Court jury today following closing arguments.

Cummings, of Palm Bay, one of three persons charged with beating Melbourne optometrist John Bradford to death with kitchen implements March 28, sat showing no emotion as her attorney Joan Bickerstaff told the jury the state had failed to prove its case against her client.

"It is true she helped cover up the murder," Bickerstaff said, explaining no evidence showed her client either seriously helped plan the murder or swung any object at Bradford.

Cummings was working for Bradford at his optical lab along with Janice Bradford's wife, Priscilla, has already pleaded guilty to murder. Her daughter, Eden, also a participant in the murder was granted immunity in return for her testimony.

Much of Bickerstaff's closing arguments dealt with the state's witnesses, specifically the 14-year-old daughter who Wednesday testified she had helped her mother and the other two women kill Bradford.

She said she did not believe Eden was candid and truthful with the jurors asking the jury to consider her demeanor on the stand.

But Assistant State Attorney Dean Mosley told the court he believed the measure of truthfulness of a witness was a willingness to testify to things not in the witness' interest.

He pointed out Eden had admitted committing a crime, something which even though would not lead to her prosecution, demonstrated her candor.

The defense rested Wednesday afternoon without calling a single witness, minutes after Circuit Judge J. William Woodson denied a motion to dismiss charges on the grounds the state had not proven its case.

Major Firm To Promote Golden Age Olympics

By JANE CASSELLBERY
Herald Staff Writer

A major national corporation has agreed to furnish nationwide publicity for Sanford's Golden Age Olympics, Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Executive Manager Jack Horner revealed today.

Horner said part of the agreement was not to name the company until the firm's announcement is made in the middle of next week out of New York.

The company, which manufactures a variety of food products, is scheduled to promote the annual senior citizen athletic event on its labels, packages, brochures and stationery as well as in its national advertising on television and in various publications.

Horner said that the firm has retained Buster Crabbe, former Olympic swimmer who served as the Golden Age Olympics' first honorary chairman, to serve as the national spokesman. He said

Crabbe will be making guest appearances on television talks shows to promote the Golden Age Olympics, which will be held in Sanford the first week in November.

This year's honorary chairman may be a much more recent U.S. Olympic swimmer, John Nabor, gold medalist in the Montreal Olympic Games four years ago, Horner said. "Gene Kulture" asked to him the other day in Colorado Springs and he is anxious to come if he has schedule permits," he added.

"I am delighted," said Horner about this latest sponsorship. "It solves the problem of promotion and publicity nationally. A lot of the money from our special money-raising projects has had to go into postage for our national mailouts."

In conjunction with the mystery company's promotional campaign for the Golden Age event, it will extend to Senior Citizen groups its offer of free athletic

Demos Uniting Around President

NEW YORK (UPI)—President Carter, armed with the cherished endorsement of organized labor and unquashed cries of "Edward Kennedy accepts the Democratic Party's presidential nomination tonight."

As Texas clinched nomination for Carter, his wife Rosalynn bested the newspaper headline: "It's Carter Again" the thousands of cheering supporters in Madison Square Garden, Kennedy's party hardly softened the president's burst of glory with the words: "It is imperative that we defeat Ronald Reagan in 1980. I urge all Democrats to vote in this effort."

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill read Kennedy's statement to the convention and added, with a broad smile, "until we stand." The crowd went wild — and soon after, Kennedy's home state Massachusetts delegation led the move to make Carter's nomination by acclamation.

The only question that remained was whether Kennedy will see Carter and Vice President Walter Mondale on the podium tonight to signify unity and when the divided Democrats end their 210 quadrennial convention.

"I don't know," said a Kennedy aide when asked about the possibility, but another said "he has to, after this statement."

Even before Kennedy's endorsement, Lane Kirkland, president of the 18-million-member AFL-CIO, pledged its support for Carter as the strength of his pledge to pursue implementation of the platform's economic plans.

"I don't know what more we could have asked for in these negotiations," Kirkland said in a statement. "This gives labor the necessary push to get the depressed areas and will the Carter-Mondale ticket."

The long-sought Kennedy endorsement, Democrats, both liberal and conservative, that Carter must have in the climb to catch Republican Ronald Reagan and independent John Anderson ended a day of intense political maneuvering.

Despite the inevitability of Carter's nomination, the real vote was not unanimous. Kennedy had tried his telephone, but some time ago departed his despite the push for party unity.

DAY 285...

The long struggle of the American hostages in Iran is depicted in this faded flag at the home of Arthur and Thelma Boyd, 288 Lake Mary Blvd., Lake Mary. The Boyds put up a new flag during a national show of unity in January. Mrs. Boyd said she has considered putting up another new flag, but decided the symbolism wouldn't be the same. Today is the 285th day of captivity for the hostages in Iran. The Boyds intend to fly this flag until the final hostage is released.

Burning Challenge: Avoiding Holocaust

The Hiroshima bomb, exploded 35 years ago, was not the first man-made nuclear explosion but it was the first that intentionally took human lives.

And it did not take as many lives as were taken by conventional weapons in the firebombing of Dresden earlier in 1945.

At first, not even the people of Hiroshima knew that an atomic bomb had been used against them. They knew only that the explosion had been extremely powerful and that the fireball had been extremely hot.

President Truman announced the next day that the force from which the sun draws its power had been loosed. Only then did Americans learn of the nature of the new weapon.

And, in Hiroshima, a strange sickness began to be noticed among the bomb victims. It was not recognized as radiation sickness. But the Japanese people realized that they had been hit with no ordinary explosive.

The Hiroshima bomb, "Little Boy," as the scientists called it, was as primitive as David's slingshot, compared to the mighty thermonuclear warheads of today.

The horror and fascination that greeted the A-bomb's first appearance on the world scene were fully justified by later developments. Its potential for world destruction has been rapidly exploited by the design and manufacture of huge missiles to carry H-bomb warheads halfway around the world in half an hour.

Once launched, the missiles cannot be called back, diverted or intercepted. After such a barrage, a radioactive cloud would carry deadly fallout, circling the earth.

We live in troubled times. But there is no human problem equal in importance to the problem symbolized by the mushroom cloud that rose over Hiroshima on Aug. 6, 1945.

The atomic bombing of Japan saved more lives, both Japanese and Americans, than the lives it cost. We bear no guilt for it, nor for the development of the A-bomb, made inevitable by the inexorable advance of scientific knowledge.

The strategy of Republican senators — smelling victory in November of blocking President Carter's federal appointments until after the presidential election is not only a disservice to the country, it is shortsighted.

This is a senatorial game that has been played before by both parties. Its object is to hold up appointments of an outgoing president — and the Republican senators think Mr. Carter is in this category — until his successor can withdraw them and make new ones.

A Democratic Senate blocked appointments by President Eisenhower in the closing months of his second term, and they did it again to President Ford.

But, however sweet the taste of revenge to Republicans, the practice now deprives the country of the services of a number of badly needed judges, among them Earl Gilliam of San Diego, whose appointment was delayed further recently.

If the 22 judicial appointments now in the Senate are all held up, the offices may not be filled for many months while cases pile up in the overloaded courts.

Besides, the Democratic majority in the Senate will likely be around next year — and the year after — able to obstruct appointments by a Republican president. Beyond being unfair to the country and politically short-sighted, the practice of holding up appointments violates the accepted principle that an administration has a right to fill the vacancies that occur during its tenure.

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 8207 will sponsor a barbecued chicken dinner on Aug. 31 to benefit the Longwood Fire Department. The dinner will begin at 1 p.m. at the post home on County Road 427 and Ted's Hangers will provide the music. The proceeds will go to purchase furniture for the fire department living quarters.

The Longwood Police Department will be expanding into its new addition Friday, according to Police Chief Greg Manning. By doubling the space in the cramped police facility from 1,650 square feet to 3,200 square feet, the police can now get rid of the old trailer it was using for the overflow. It will now be used at the city barn, according to City Administrator Dave Chacey.

Bob Davest of Longwood, who speaks out at city commission meetings, has been resorting to a T-shirt to get his message across since he has been banned from city meetings by Mayor Steven Uskert. The feud between the two men is turning into a civil libertarian cause celebre and it looks as if the city will be back in court again defending itself against a suit by Davest.

"Historic Longwood, Fla." auto tags will be on sale at city hall in the near future for $2 each. The $50 profit anticipated from the sale is slated to go into the general fund.

The burning question on everyone's mind these days is not will Reagan defeat Jimmy Carter, but "Who shot J. R.?"

J. R., of course, is J. R. Ewing, the sinister central character on the nighttime soap opera "Dallas." Since March 21, the night an unidentified assailant shot the despicable, powerful, yet attractive J. R., the identity of the attacker has prompted lively debate. By design, the show's producers are keeping the identity secret until well into the new television season.

Everyone, it seems, had a motive. Among them are J. R.'s wife, his mistress and even his mother. London booking houses have been taking bets on whom the script writers will finger, and Jimmy the Greek has been giving odds — putting Dusty, J.R.'s wife's secret lover, who supposedly was killed in a plane crash — as a 200 to 1 long shot.

The mystery has merited front-page feature treatment, editorial writers and cartoonists have had a field day and some columnists have gone so far as to say it is more intriguing than the current United States presidential race. In fact, the bumper sticker movement across the country advocating "J.R. for President" has even reached Sanford.

Hagman was been enjoying the speculation about J. R.'s assailant as much as anyone, and he even kept alive the presidential movement. Playing the role of "the nastiest man in the West," Hagman told an Oklahoma City radio station, "If chosen, I will run. If elected, I will serve." Of course, he added in the J. R. persona, the presidential salary would have to be increased to $5 million a year.

ROBERT WALTERS

A Dem Looks West

NEW YORK (NEA) — The position of parliamentarianism is considered a springboard for advancement in most organizations — but the man holding that post at the Democratic National Convention could be an exception to that rule.

He is Rep. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., whose quiet, self-effacing manner belies his standing as one of the most respected and influential members of the House of Representatives.

Foley has no designs on the presidency, but at least one astute Washington lawyer-lobbyist has prepared a confidential memo suggesting that the convention offers an ideal opportunity for the 61-year-old congressman to begin positioning himself for the 1984 presidential campaign.

That veteran Washington insider has requested anonymity, but he presents a compelling argument to support a theory that the Democrats must turn to Foley or an equally attractive political moderate from the West as their next presidential candidate.

In five of the six presidential elections held during the past two decades, the Republican nominee has been a westerner — an Arizona in 1964 and a Californian in 1968, 1972 and 1980.

During the same period, the Democrats never have gone farther west for their nominee than Minnesota, South Dakota or Texas — and the price for ignoring one of the country's fastest growing regions may be a loss of support in the West.

In the 1978 presidential election, Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter failed to carry a single state in the Rockies and the West — even though the Republican candidate, Gerald R. Ford, was the only non-westerner endorsed by the GOP in the past 20 years.

"Only a moderate, articulate western Democrat can reclaim this territory, which is the key to the survival of the Democratic party," says the unsolicited memo prepared for Foley.

His congressional district encompasses the eastern third of the state of Washington, with approximately 80 percent of its voters residing in Spokane and its suburbs. In recent years, Foley has twice faced — and overcome — strong Republican challenges in order to win reelection.

Foley's attributes are hardly limited to his home region. A veteran of eight terms in the House, he has rapidly ascended the leadership ladder and currently is chairman of both its Agriculture Committee and its Democratic Caucus.

The tall (6-foot-3), soft-spoken Foley was hand-picked as the convention's parliamentarian by Rep. Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill, D-Mass., Speaker of the House and permanent chairman of the convention.

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — For months, I have been investigating the strange financial links between the Carter crowd and the Arabs. All the while, the guardians of President Carter's assets, Charles Kirbo and Robert Lipshutz, have been sitting like stuffed owls on the Carter ledgers.

Kirbo has simply refused to take repeated telephone calls from my reporter, Peter Peckarsky. Lipshutz answered the telephone at first but gave evasive answers. Once he slammed down the phone.

Now out of Atlanta has come a lively letter from the pair, professing indignation over my reports and offering a page of obfuscation in response. The letter has the whiff of whitewash common to political documents that are intended more to conceal than to clarify.

I reported that the president had accepted favorable loan treatment from a bank controlled by a Saudi Arabian businessman, Ghaidh Pharaon, whose father advises the Saudi king how to deal with Washington.

Kirbo and Lipshutz now respond by asserting what no one disputes, least of all myself. Their letter professes, as if I had reported something different, what I had been careful to point out: That Carter became indebted to the National Bank of Georgia before he became president and before the Saudi Arabian acquired his stock in the bank.

Good Inflation Hedge

BY LeROY POPE
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — A developer has set a price of $15,000 each for two-acre lots in exclusive Saddle River, N.J., and expects to sell 90 of them to persons who will build homes costing $400,000 to $500,000.

Many buy these plots in Burning Hollow will be interested primarily in hedging against inflation, says builder Joseph Murphy, who has been selling expensive homes throughout the current inflationary era.

But there will be other motives for these prospective homeowners. "Some will want beauty, tranquility, gracious and spacious living and can afford to pay for it," Murphy said.

Conversations with buyers and prospective buyers showed all considered the area to be one of the best investment and hedge available.

Wealthy foreigners are particularly eager buyers of American luxury homes, Murphy says. Many buy each one against inflation but against political instability in their home countries. Some buy for commercial prestige, to enhance the American image of themselves and their businesses.

Claude Pope, president of American Mortgage Insurance Co., of Raleigh, N.C., takes somewhat similar view for the country as a whole. He says prices of homes will keep on going up and that mortgages outstanding may reach $2 trillion by 1985, almost double the present amount.

Many young families are reaching the stage where they need more space at the same time that inflationary conditions leave no room for a resurgence of the building of residential property. People will have to buy despite high

DON GRAFF

Marriage Loses A Round Here

Angela and Peter Boyter had a great thing going there for a while, but now they've been presented with the bill: $133.34.

The Boyters are a Maryland couple with an on-and-on marriage who have been in and out of the news of late. Their problem is not the usual irreconcilable differences but federal tax law that nicks two-income married taxpayers more painfully than singles with the identical incomes but filing separately.

The law also considers taxpayers unmarried for the entire year if that is their status at the close of the tax year. Their reading of the fine print gave the Boyters the idea that divorce in December and remarriage in January would satisfy the letter of the law and entitle them to file separate returns.

To nobody's surprise, including the Boyters', it was an idea that did not appeal to the IRS, which took them to tax court. The court, again to no surprise, has now decided in favor of the IRS, holding the Boyters' 1975 and 1976 separations invalid for tax purposes because they "never intended to and never did physically separate from each other prior to or subsequent to either of the divorces."

The bottom line: Peter has been ordered to cough up $1,801.38 and Angela $1,233.98 in delinquent taxes.

This is, however, only one more development in the Boyters' challenge to the "marriage tax." Far from its conclusion, they are appealing. And since the decision deals only with their first two divorces, that still leaves open their tax status following the last separation, in December 1977, after which they did not remarry although they have continued to cohabitate.

"What this is doing," says Angela Boyter, "is pointing out to Congress the current tax law gives people no option but to live together without getting married."

And that, considering the prominence that family and morality are assuming in the current campaign, is a point many congressmen may well find politically uncomfortable.

The Boyter decision, whatever the final outcome of the couple's personal legal tussle with the IRS, is likely to speed congressional action on revision of the existing provisions affecting returns of working married taxpayers. These, in turn, originated in 1960 tax returns designed to correct then-existing inequities in the treatment of single taxpayers.

The Boyters and an estimated 19 million other two-income households — six out of every 10 marriages — can take some hope that they are soon to be delivered from the marriage tax. And it may even come to pass that this is accomplished without shifting the inequity to yet another taxpayer category.

On the other hand, in the light of experience to date with tax reforms designed to reform returns —

Both Kirbo and Lipshutz, meanwhile, had refused to provide the information that they now volunteer on the status of the loan. I subsequently learned, and immediately reported, that the loan had been transferred to the Trust Company Bank of Atlanta.

But this raises more questions than it answers. The document transferring the loan was originally dated Feb. 29, although this date is lined out and the signature is dated March 3, so apparently the transfer had been originally set for Feb. 29.

This was the day before the United States voted in the United Nations to condemn Israeli settlements on the West Bank. The vote raised such a storm in the Jewish community that Carter repudiated it.

But the limiting suggests that the president's trustees were trying to move the loan out of the bank before the vote was cast. Why the hasty transfer? Perhaps it was precipitated by questions in January from my reporter, Peter Peckarsky, who inquired about the president's indebtedness to a Saudi-owned bank at the same time he was taking foreign policy cues from the Saudis. You see, the Saudis had pressed the United States to join in condemning the Israeli settlements.

The president repudiated the vote, and at about the same time, Charles Kirbo took off for Saudi Arabia on a mysterious mission that hasn't been explained.

My first report on the Carter-Saudi financial ties, it's true, noted that the county records showed the loan still outstanding but quoted the bank president as saying it had been paid off.

These were the circumstances when the Saudi-controlled bank reduced the principal repayment in 1976 from $168,000 to $80,000. After taking into account the extra interest, this amounts to a break of $80,000. To be as fair as possible, I used an even lower figure in my earlier report.

Finally, the president's trustees wind up their letter with a paragraph of nitpicking. They write: "The public records of Sumner County, Ga., have shown — for anyone who questions, but I have a possible explanation. The Saudis have made no secret of their belief that the real source of Jewish influence in Washington is a financial hold on the politicians who wield the power. It follows that the Saudis, old hands at the politics of bribery and manipulation, would seek to use their petrodollars to gain a similar hold on the purse strings of the powerful."

The Kirbo-Lipshutz letter also disputes my

Longwood Leans Toward Restoring 1958 Building Law

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

The Longwood City Commission has authorized the city attorney to draw up an ordinance restoring 1958 requirements to build on lots which do not meet present requirements but were on record prior to that year.

The ordinance, if passed, should clear up confusion caused by subsequent ordinances increasing size requirements, but failing to list single and separate ownership and contiguous lots as being necessary for obtaining an exception to build.

The controversial issue came to a head in April when Thomas Lunsford of Dowling and Lunsford, Inc., general contractors, complained to the commission that he had been illegally denied building permits on nine lots which conformed to one city ordinance while apparently in conflict with another.

Asked by the commission to give his legal interpretation of the ordinance, City Attorney Marvin Rooks on April 28 that separate ownership and non-contiguous lots for an exception on non-conforming lots and that Lunsford could be issued a building permit. This opinion was in conflict with one given previously by former city attorney Neal Julian Jr.

In order to eliminate any further confusion, the commission at that time voted to draw up a new ordinance which would not have required lots to have single ownership and be non-contiguous to qualify for an exception.

Lunsford was issued a building permit on one 80-by-300-foot lot, but before he could obtain one on the lot next to it, strong opposition from the residents of the Lake Wildmere area forced the commission to set a moratorium on construction on all non-conforming lots while they reconsidered the proposed ordinance. The commission later voted down the ordinance.

This leaves the contractor with a partially completed house, which he has already sold, on one lot and the future of his other lots in doubt. "I may sell the property and never build in Longwood again," Lunsford said bitterly.

The commission voted 4-1 Monday night to revert to the 1958 amendment with Commissioner J. R. Grant casting the no vote, and agreed to continue the moratorium until the proposed ordinance can be passed.

Commissioner June Lorman, in voting for the motion, said she would like to take a chance on a third option which would have varied non-conforming requirements according to the various categories of residential zoning. The city attorney had warned that this would cause a constitutional problem, but she said, "I'm not afraid of a lawsuit."

Lake Mary Councilman To Undergo Heart Therapy

Lake Mary Councilman Francis Mark will be absent from city council meetings for the next 30 days. He was to drive to Wildwood, Ga., today, where he will be admitted to a cardiac rehabilitation center.

Mark will remain at the center for treatment for the next 30 days.

Mark said Wednesday he had open heart surgery in Houston, Texas in 1972—a triple bypass. In 1975 he had an angiogram and everything appeared to be all right.

In April of this year, however, tests showed he had "lost the two arteries on the right side of my heart. The original artery had disappeared and one from the bypass had filled up with clots."

"Since there is no additional surgery that can be done, at the cardiac rehabilitation center, I will be taught diet therapy and x-rays will be taken. This treatment hopefully will help keep the other arteries open, will train me so that I can help keep them open," Mark said before leaving Lake Mary for the hospital.

While at the center, Mark will have no telephone, no television and no newspapers. "It will be all rest and therapy," he said, adding this type of treatment for heart disease is something new in the United States. "It's been used in Europe for years."

Brantley To Open Headquarters

Campaign headquarters for State Rep. Bobby Brantley R-Longwood, will open at 10 a.m. Saturday. The headquarters is located in the San Sebastian Square office building, Suite D, 801 E. State Road 436, one-quarter mile east of the 434-436 intersection in Altamonte Springs.

Friends and supporters of the state representative are encouraged to attend. Brantley is completing his first two-year term in the Legislature.

Lyman Schedules Orientation

Lyman High School freshman orientation for ninth graders and all students new to the school will be held Thursday, Aug. 21 at 1:30 p.m. in the auditorium.

Lyman students may pick up schedules from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on the Aug. 20, 21 and 22 at the guidance office in M Corridor.

Fibrosis Foundation Chooses Chairmen

The Florida Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation recently announced the selection of its campaign chairmen for Seminole County.

This fall, several cities in Seminole County will conduct a bike-a-thon to benefit children who suffer from cystic fibrosis, the most serious lung disease of children.

Selected as chairman for this year are Kenneth Gaines for Casselberry; Ms. Janet Shugren for Chuluota; Mrs. Ann Peterson for Fern Park; Mr. Harold Peck for Geneva; Mrs. Joewee Stephens for Midway; Mrs. Regina Dougherty for Orieo and Mr. Don Reynolds for Sanford.

The honorary chairwoman for this statewide program is Mrs. Carl Evert Lloyd, one of the top women tennis players in the world.

Schools Offer Help Via Teen-Age 'Soap Operas'

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
UPI Education Editor

Meet Dave, Cindy and Rob, stars in one episode of a $887,000 video series set to debut in classrooms across the nation when school opens.

Roles they play in this instructional soap opera for adolescents — "On the Level" — are those in your typical love triangle. The emotional pain is there, as in any triangle. But as anyone who ever been there knows, in adolescence the pain's especially acute.

In this episode — one of 12 in the Agency for Instructional Television Series — here's what happens:

—After only a month of going out with her, Dave thinks he's in love with Cindy. When he throws a birthday party for her, her former boyfriend, Rob, crashes it. Cindy and Rob gravitate toward each other throughout the evening. Finally, Dave reacts by deliberately dropping Cindy's cake at her feet.

—Cindy gets the message. She apologizes for what she's put Dave through. As the two begin to clean up the mess, Rob heads out the door. The episode titled "Getting Together" is all about love.

It's in the series for this reason: Understanding the nature of love and learning to express love in a variety of ways are part of the experience in adolescence. All the episodes in the series aim at the "total growing teenager" — body, mind, feelings, relationships.

The mock problem situations, presented via 15-minute color video episode, aim to stimulate classroom discussion of possible alternatives to behavior shown.

Other episodes in "On the Level" include these:

- David falls in love with his drama teacher and is both reluctant and confused about expressing his feelings to his girl. Beset by guilt, confusion and insomnia, David tells the drama coach how he feels. The scene is painful but marks a breakthrough for him.
- Tyrone dreams of becoming a professional musician. He's a good deal less confident in real life than in his fantasies. His inability to understand or accept himself results in conflicts with his parents, bad decision-making at school and problems at work.
- For years Sam has been groomed to take over the family bakery, but he has never told Dad he doesn't want it.
- Alice will do almost anything, even give up her weekend, to finish Gail's work on the yearbook. Because Alice couldn't say no to Gail's request, she failed a test, had a fight with her boyfriend, and suffered the emotional and physical effects of suppressed anger. As the episode ends, the two girls meet face to face to deal with their conflict.
- Kelly's Mom says she can't afford the beach for a weekend only if she tells her friends she has epilepsy. Otherwise, if she had a seizure no one would know what to do. Kelly is afraid her friends will drop her if they know. In the end Kelly has to decide whether she should take the risk and tell the truth.

The series was developed by a consortium of 32 state and provincial educational agencies under the management of the Agency for Instructional Television. That is a nonprofit American-Canadian organization based in Bloomington, Ind.

Producers include Educational Film Center, Springfield, Va.; the Ontario Educational Communications Authority, Toronto.

The AIT consortium was developed in the late 1960s when it became apparent no single agency — national, state, regional or local — could develop the resources to produce on a regular basis the amount and kind of classroom television needed to strengthen education in the United States and Canada.

Under the plan, agencies pool their financial and intellectual resources to create high quality series that serve both local and national needs. Fifty-seven of the 80 states and provinces in the United States and Canada have participated in one or more of the 10 cooperative award-winning projects to date.

The Fischer Family Works Together

A good family speaks more clearly of a man's commitment than any series of pronouncements. Dick Fischer is involved with his family, church, and community. He believes these are the first responsibilities of good citizenship. The campaign for congress for the Fischer family is a family affair. Wanda teaches school, but has time to help in the evenings and on weekends to travel with Dick and the boys. Richard is and Scott is the district. Wanda says she is "leaving the issues to Dick" and spends her time telling the voters about the person, his hand, father, businessman, and community leader she married. A quick visit with her tells you she is very happy, and proud of Dick's accomplishments.

At home, the family enjoys daily caring and feeding their horses, cats and dogs. They are kept on the 12 acres behind their home in Galda. The environment and the opportunity to commune with nature are high priorities with the Fischer family. They're good people, with a strong faith, belief in our country and a four generation heritage in Florida. They are the kind of people we need to represent us in Washington.

Beth Shoemaker, John Corso Jr. Exchange Vows

Elizabeth Kay Shoemaker and John Charles Corso Jr. were married Aug. 2, at 4 p.m. at All Souls Catholic Church, Sanford. Rev. Leo King, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, Sanford, and Father Bernard Gallagher from London, England, were the officiating clergymen.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.K. Shoemaker Jr., Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. John C. Corso of Sanford, and the late Mr. Corso.

The bride is the maternal granddaughter of the late Mrs. Francis McDougal of Sanford. Her paternal grandparents are Mrs. A.K. Shoemaker Sr. of Sanford and the late Mr. Shoemaker.

The bridegroom is the paternal grandson of Mrs. William Corso Sr. of Long Island, N.Y., and the late Mr. Corso. David and Merrle Shoemaker, cousins of the bride from Gainesville, were vocalists. John Charles Alken was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a white formal gown of crystal illusion over satin peau, fashioned along the empire silhouette. Reembroidered Alencon lace adorned the modified Queen Anne neckline, long sleeves and flowing chapel train. Highlighting the front of the skirt was a panel of accordin pleats, redingote effect, accented with wide lace inserts.

A lace crown secured her lace trimmed mantilla of illusion. She carried a formal cascade of white silk roses and stephanotis with green silk leaves.

The bride's wedding band was fashioned from the platinum and diamond wedding ring of her maternal grandmother. The new designed featured a band of gold on either side of the original setting.

Tammy Lynn Shoemaker attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Tina Persons, Diane Peacock and Patty Corso, sister of the bridegroom. They wore sheer blue gowns, empire styled, and matching picture hats. They carried bouquets of mixed spring flowers.

William Corso served his brother as best man. Usher groomsmen were Halch Dickey, Tim Cooper and Dean Shoemaker, brother of the bride, with Joe Corso serving. The reception was held at the Sanford Civic Center. The bridal couple led the dancing while the orchestra played their favorite melody from "Love Story." A buffet was served to about 450 guests.

Mrs. James Leonard registered the guests in the bride's book. Floating hostesses were Jackie Greene and Mrs. Richard Scott.

Following a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe, the newlyweds are making their home in Sanford. The bride is a teacher at Seminole High School. The bridegroom is employed by Lake Potter Dodge, Winter Park.

Kid Has Pushed Stepdad Out Of Rightful Place

DEAR ABBY: I'm 34 and this is my first marriage. I have been married for three weeks to a wonderful woman (29) with a 7-year-old son by a previous marriage.

The boy and I get along very well and he is a fine youngster, but from the night his mother and I returned from our honeymoon (which we shared with him, by the way) he has been coming into our bed to spend the night.

At first we let him stay, thinking he was frightened and lonely, and perhaps after a few nights of comforting and reassurance, he would stay in his own bed. No way. He has been sleeping with us every night!

The last four nights I have been going into the boy's room to sleep. I suddenly realized that this kid has pushed me out of my rightful place.

Abby, I love my wife and realize that she has to consider her son's feelings, but what about mine? Any suggestions will be considered and appreciated.

NEWLYWED AND SLEEPING ALONE
DEAR ABBY: The "kid" has problems sharing his mother and accepting the fact that she now has another love. He needs therapy. Explain this to your wife. And if she disagrees with you, she several times, and the more we dated the more involved we became with each other.

We are engaged to be married, but I'm not sure I can go through with it even though I'd like to. We love each other, Abby, but he is four years younger than I. (I am 22 and he is 18).

His parents like me very much and I get along with his whole family. My parents didn't say anything directly to me, but I can tell they don't really approve of the relationship because I am four years older.

I don't understand how life works. If he were four years older than I, there would be no problem. However, since I am the female, it seems almost a crime to marry a younger guy.

I am truly confused. Do you think love should be based on age? Is it wrong to marry a younger guy?

TIRE D IN TOPEKA
DEAR TIRE D: Tell your husband to quit listening to the guys at work and listen to his doctor. A vasectomy in no way reduces a man's manhood.

DEAR ABBY: Last winter I met a very nice guy in a club, and we became very fond of each other. He asked me out

Custom Tailoring Offered

Beginning Sept. 3, Seminole Community College will offer a custom tailoring program under the direction of Saul Freeman. He has years of experience in making custom clothing in his native England and is now imparting that knowledge to his students. Fully equipped labs facilitate the process of learning. The newest types of equipment are available for the use of students, and actual garment construction begins with the first lesson. Classes are offered on a continuing basis, prospective students may join any time. There are both day and evening classes on Monday and Wednesday. Cost of the class is $10.

For information call Seminole Community College, 325-150, Extension 227, or 843-7001 from Orlando.

Polyp Sometimes Can Be Removed

DEAR DR. LAMB - Recently at a clinic I found two small polyps. I looked polyp up in the dictionary and it said a tumor. The doctor wants to see me again in two months.

I detect colon X-rays as I was sure for a week afterward, not to mention all the procedures during and after the X-rays. Is a polyp likely to become cancer?

Without being able to see the polyp directly or being able to take it out and look at sections under the microscope, it's sometimes very difficult to know exactly what the nature of that polyp is. There is considerable professional disagreement about polyps. But, in general, some are benign and do not become malignant while other types have a much greater likelihood of becoming cancer.

Now I don't wish to alarm you. There are many people who have a polyp in the colon or rectum and the polyp never becomes malignant. I hope that will be true in your case. But at the same time, you don't want to overlook the opportunity to take early action if needed, because that can save your life and help you avoid a lot of uncomfortable situations.

HOROSCOPE For Friday, August 15, 1980

YOUR BIRTHDAY August 15, 1980 Changes you may not be expecting which involve a turn of the better concealing your social affairs are in store this coming year. Be prepared for a busier-than-usual cycle.

LIBRA (Sept. Oct. 23) - You'll be able to come up with a way today to bypass a stumbling block that has hampered you. Aggressive action may be called for. Be ready to move on it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) - It's important to keep things confined to those involved if you hope to get good results. Interlopers can muddy the waters.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) - Through a friend you may learn of a completely new way of doing something which is far better than your own method. Listen attentively.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) - Cooperation you aren't expecting to receive, yet which is essential to your cause, will be forthcoming today. It will make what you hope to accomplish much easier.

Arthur Benditen and Helen Groat exchange insurance information after Benditen's boat landed on the roof of the Chulacha woman's car in Sanford Thursday afternoon. Moments before the accident, the boat, on its trailer, was attached to a car driven west on 25th Street by the Winter Park man. As he drove across the railroad tracks near Palmistria Avenue, the trailer broke loose and pulled about 200 feet before colliding head on with Groat's 1971 Maverick, throwing the boat on its roof. No one was injured in the collision, which occurred around 2:30 p.m.

Food Costs Rise Most In 6 Years

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Soaring food costs—due largely to drought and heat—pushed wholesale prices up in July by the largest amount in nearly six years, the government said today, an indication of higher supermarket prices ahead.

The Labor Department said its index of producer prices for finished goods, those ready for retailers, rose 1.7 percent from June to July—a compound annual rate of 2.3 percent.

The index stood at 266.6 percent, meaning goods costing $100 at wholesale in 1967 now cost $266.60.

The July increase was the biggest since a 2.2 percent monthly jump in November 1974 during the last recession.

Most of the latest increase was caused by a 3.8 percent rise in prices of finished consumer foods at the wholesale level, the department said.

That in turn was in large part because of the effects of unusually hot, dry weather over much of the country this summer. Poultry prices jumped 21.5 percent during the month as millions of chickens were killed by the heat.

Wholesale beef and veal prices rose 7.4 percent, compared to 3.9 percent in June. Pork rose 11.7 percent, compared to 0.8 percent in June.

In a separate report, the Federal Reserve Board said the nation's industrial production fell 1.6 percent in July, a somewhat slower decline than the last three months. Production fell 2.3 percent in April, 2.6 percent in May and 2.3 percent in June, according to revised figures.

The figures indicated a possible tapering off of the recession.

Woman Found Guilty In 'Fry Pan' Killing

A woman charged with conspiring and helping commit the murder of a Melbourne optometrist was found guilty on both counts by a Seminole County Circuit Court jury Thursday.

The seven-month, two-man jury deliberated for more than three hours before returning the guilty verdicts shortly before 11 a.m. against Joyce Cummings, 38, of Palm Bay.

Cummings is the second woman found guilty of helping bludgeen John Bradford to death at his home on March 28.

Bradford's wife Priscilla pleaded guilty to the crime last month and was sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder. 20 years for conspiring with Cummings and others to kill her husband and 30 years for conspiring to murder state witness Tracy Smith, Janice Gould, 26, a third woman charged with the murder, has not yet stood trial on the charge.

After the verdict was read, Assistant State Attorney Dean Moxley announced he would not seek the death penalty against Cummings. She faces a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

While no testimony placed a weapon in Cummings' hand during the murder, testimony from state witnesses said she had helped plan the crime and stood by as Mrs. Bradford, her 14-year-old daughter Eden, and Janice Gould beat the optical lab owner to death with a cast iron frying pan, bottle copper and apothecary jars.

The force of the beating broke the bottom of the skillet into seven pieces, testimony showed.

During the first half of final arguments by defense lawyer Joan Bickerstaff, Cummings sat at the defense table without showing emotion.

But when Moxley was making his closing statement to the jury, the defendant broke into tears for the second time during the four-day trial.

During her second summation, Bickerstaff urged the jury to look at her client as someone "caught in a nightmare" with murderers, not someone who participated in the crime.

Commissioner's Plan Upsets Judge

JUDGE DOMINICK SALFI
...intolerable traffic

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Bob French has urged his colleagues on the county commission to speed up renovation plans at the seven-year-old courthouse to provide more office and conference room space for the county governing body.

In the process, however, he has raised the ire of Circuit Judge Dominick Salfi, whose judicial offices will be moved if French's plan is approved.

"There are three secretaries in the office manager's office and five secretaries in another. When there are 15 or 16 persons attending work sessions in the conference room, it is overcrowded. It's been the plan for a long time to move Salfi's operations, but he doesn't like it," French said.

"It's the responsibility of the commission, whether we like it or not, to make decisions about space and to acquire the money to provide space," French said, adding he wants to make a positive move now to implement plans for the expansion as soon as possible.

Although a work session had been set between the commissioners and the circuit judges to discuss the space problems on Sept. 8, French said he will be talking to the judges in the next few days and will be making a recommendation to his colleagues for action on Aug. 28.

"If these talks are not productive to satisfy me, I will recommend the plan be implemented now," he said.

Judge Salfi said the judges have been trying to maintain a cooperative attitude but, "if the commission takes the position it is not going to talk, we will obviously have to go somewhere else," Salfi said. That "somewhere else" may be the courts with a lawsuit, he said.

"We are not there yet. I hope we keep talking to the point where we will not get there," he said.

The county commission plan, according to French, is to move Judge Salfi's offices to the second floor. The county would then knock out walls between the county commission office and Salfi's current office to expand its conference room and to provide County Administrator Roger Sussman with a new office. Inside the current office, space for the secretaries would be expanded.

Judge Salfi said his office already has inadequate space and a move to the second floor would not help matters at all. He said the location on the second floor would open into a large hallway where person traffic business with the clerk's office.

Salfi said as many as 15 to 20 persons at a time are involved in various matters at his office. In the new suite would also be Judge Joe Davis' operation, he pointed out. In addition, there is already activity in the hallway on the second floor by persons paying child-support payments, paying traffic tickets and filing various documents at the clerk's office.

"This opening up of the clerk's office into the hallway was never formally discussed to the judiciary until the renovation began. As recently as last week promises were made to some of the commissioners that only a small portion of the hallway would be opened. This would have made the hallway was opened up," Salfi said.

"The traffic would be intolerable. I am hoping we can sit down and develop from available resources something that the judiciary can live with," Salfi said.

"I am convinced that the county will have very nice quarters when they expand and that I realize it should stand good for them for years to come. I see French's move as a positive one. We can come closer to controlling the time and come to a solution," he said.

French said he is tired of hearing discussions on courthouse renovations. "I want to make a positive move to do something," he said. "I can get enough support, something will be done. If we are going to be positive or pessimistic, I am not going to take part," French said. He refused to elaborate on who might be using the commission as a political pawns.

French said 18 months ago the county appropriated nearly $1 million to renovate the courthouse in order to provide additional space for several offices. He added that within five years the courthouse will be used exclusively by the judiciary, clerk of the Circuit Court and county property appraiser and collector. "All the administrative function of the county commission will then be housed elsewhere. The sooner we can get rid of the expense of moving around all these people, the responsibility for the courthouse can be assumed by the judiciary," he said.

The renovations French is trying to get moving are:

—Continuation of the first segment of space improvements by renovating Room 628 as soon as the new courtroom near Judge Alan Dickley's office is completed. It's half-way finished now. Once this is done, the juvenile court can be moved into there and the rest of the juvenile functions can be moved off the second floor into 628.

—Next, renovate the second floor with sufficient space so that Salfi's operations can be moved from the third floor to the second near the clerk's operations.

—Third, in January or February, renovate Judge Salfi's space into the large conference room for the county commission and into a new office for the county administrator, while the secretaries' offices will be expanded internally.

Judge Salfi said the situation is a unique one when a governmental agency (the courthouse) on one side of a street is crowded for space while 400 feet away, across the street, is another governmental agency (the Sanford city hall) with 22,000 square feet of space it is not using.

"I don't say that (the county renting space from the city) is the solution. I'm saying that in the kind of thinking the county expects government to work on," Salfi said.

Carter Calls Kennedy 'Gracious'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Despite a resounding defeat in the primary, Edward Kennedy at the noisy windup of the Democratic National Convention, President Carter said today the senator was "very gracious" in Carter's moment of triumph.

Seminole's Candidates: Plain Folks And Millionaires

By DAVID M. RAZLEY
Herald Staff Writer

Likely assets ranging from $600 to more than $1 million, 12 candidates for Seminole County offices have filed statements declaring their net worth with the county Supervisor of Elections' office.

Under rules requiring candidate disclosure, the 22 listed all assets ranging from businesses to old cars.

ART BECKWITH — incumbent Clerk of the 10th Circuit Court in Seminole County, Democrat, listed a total net worth of $21.8.

He valued his Sanford home at $20,000, a 1980 Dodge at $2,200, a 1977 Buick at $2,500 and listed a bond of $1,000 and another at $13,407.

He also reported owning two New System Beach condominiums valued at a total of $60,750. Beckwith and a primary fight for Clerk of the Court, claimed a net worth of $26,250.

He reported owning a $35,000 residence, $25,000 furniture, $25,000 household goods, three cars and a boat worth a total of $140,000.

He also reported $2,300 in insurance and $2,000 cash.

Duffy reported two outstanding loans, $23,000 and $2,000.

CAMELLA BRUCE — incumbent Supervisor of Elections, Democrat, listed a $65,000 home, 1978 Oldsmobile worth $4,000 and $1,000 in savings on her assets, a mortgage of $1,341 and loan of $200 on her only debts.

Mrs. Bruce receives a $27,700 salary from the county for her job, but only reported sources of income.

SAMUEL GROSS — a Republican challenging Mrs. Bruce for the Elections Supervisor's post, claimed a net worth of $22,200 for his home, two cars, furnishings, life insurance and savings.

He listed a debt of $11,000 due on a home mortgage.

Gross reported earning $19,515.82 from TRW Corp. and $1,840 for unspecified work with Orange County's government.

BOWMAN STEVEN — Democratic candidate for Property Assessor listed assets of $24,200 and debts of $21,000.84.

The present Assistant Property Assessor said he owns a $20,000 home, two cars worth $5,000, $25,000 worth of personal possessions, a $2,000 boat and $20,000 in savings.

He also said he has a $1,000.00 retirement program. Two loans made up Sabot's debt. He currently receives a $24,200 salary for his county job.

SHERIFF JOHN FOLK — running unopposed for reelection, claimed $72,200.50 in assets, $7,200 in liabilities.
