

Airline Union Rejects Settlement Pact

NEW YORK (AP) — The vote by union machinists not to accept the proposed settlement of their strike against five airlines has heaped frustration upon frustration for scores of thousands of persons who had hoped to be airborne soon.

After being grounded for more than three weeks, travelers had expected to take off — many of them as early as today. Hopes were high after President Johnson's announcement Friday night that the airlines and the leadership of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists had reached a tentative settlement.

Airlines accepted many thousands of reservations. The bubble burst Sunday when the machinists rejected the settlement. Mass cancellations of reservations resulted.

Disappointment also was keen for the airlines, which are suffering heavy losses, and for many thousands of furloughed airline employees.

Report areas — whose patrons are carried mostly by planes — went back into their gloom.

Frank Henry, president of the Greater Miami Hotel Association, said: "This is heaping insult over injury."

Law Price, director of the Miami Metro News Bureau, said city and county officials planned to place ads in Eastern, Midwestern and Southern newspapers in an attempt to lure more tourists.

Many people had to make another change in their vacation or business trip plans — or cancel them outright — because of the strike against Trans World, United, Eastern, National and Northwest airlines which is 25 days old.

TWA said in New York that it was uncertain what to do about 121,000 reservations the airline had accepted since Saturday, when it appeared that the strike would end by today.

"It is particularly unfortunate," TWA said, "that we will be unable to accommodate the bookings of approximately 16,000 Americans stranded in Europe due to the strike."

"We sincerely regret the continued inconvenience to our passengers which will result."

A spokesman for Eastern Air Lines in New York said it had alerted thousands of employees not to report for work Sunday night after it learned of the strike settlement rejection. The spokesman said Eastern had been "geared to starting operations at 100 per cent" today.

'Leopard Girl' In 1/2 Bikini Snarls Traffic

TUNBRIDGE WELLS, England (UPI) — Traffic was flowing smoothly when a girl wearing a topless bikini stepped out of the roadside hedges and onto the highway.

Two cars collided and another veered off into a field as the semi-nude woman with flowing long blonde hair dashed back into the bushes.

Baffled motorists and police discovered that model Julie Shaw, 21, of London, had been posing for advertising photographs of a "leopard girl."

She had leaped into the sky, shouting a leopard-skin towel to hide her nakedness, to portray wildness for the photographs.

The towel snagged on a bush and Julie was flipped onto the roadway.

Embarrassment was her only injury.

Stork Captures Hospital Race

MIAMI (AP) — Bernard Pedreira, 67, had seven daughters but now he also has a son — whom he delivered.

Pedreira and his wife, Junilia, were hurrying toward a hospital Sunday when Mrs. Pedreira announced she wasn't going to make it. Pedreira delivered the baby in the front seat of the family car, hastily parked in front of a bank.

The 7½-pound boy and his mother were reported in good health.

Two Men Held In Rape, Assault

WEBSTER (AP) — Two men were held today in the alleged rape of a Sumner County woman and beating of her husband.

Jimmie Lee Hunter, 22, was charged with rape and assault with intent to murder. William Lee Hunter, 25, was arrested as an accessory.

The sheriff's office said a farmer and his wife were attacked while sleeping at their home Friday night. The injured man was hospitalized in fair condition with a skull fracture.

Worth Knowing

We heard this little story: A professor had a small daughter who always introduced herself to company as "professor Jones' daughter." Her mother felt this sounded a bit too ambitious, so she told her to refer to herself as "Mrs. Jones," not as the professor's daughter.

The next time she was in adult company a lady inquired, "Aren't you professor Jones' daughter?" She replied, "I used to think so, but mother says NO."

Here's another a friend says he got from the Journal of Education: A young student of child behavior frequently delivered a lecture called "The Commandments for Parents." He married and became a father. The title of the lecture was altered to "Ten Hints for Parents." Another child arrived. The lecture was born. The lecturer... so the story goes... stopped lecturing. Well, evidence is the best teacher, and your experience will prove we have found values and service. MASON'S DEEP SALES, INC., 500 E. Second St., 322-5822.

A Higuard said Whitehurst, a former resident of Avondale Estates, Ga., was struck as he stepped from the water. His widow, Beverly, 28, witnessed his death, police said.

U. S. Bombers Plaster VC Base

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — High-flying U.S. B-52 bombers plastered a Viet Cong base camp near Saigon today and ground troops sweeping in after the raid uncovered a big cache of arms and ammunition.

The eight-engine giants dropped their bombs 25 miles northwest of Saigon shortly after dawn. The thunderous explosions could be heard in the capital.

Two hours later, helicopters poured infantrymen of the 25th Division into the area. They found 90,000 rounds of ammunition, mines, booby traps and submachine guns but no enemy bodies. Two U.S. helicopters were hit by ground fire after landing the troops but were repaired and flown out without casualties.

A U.S. Air Force F104 Starfighter was shot down 40 miles north of Hanoi by ground fire this afternoon, a U.S. Air Force spokesman announced.

The Starfighter was on an escort mission, the spokesman said. The pilot is reported missing.

Helicopters brought reinforcements into the area, 28 miles southwest of Pleiku city. The ground troops, supported by air strikes and artillery, reported killing 26 North Vietnamese soldiers while taking light casualties.

In the intensified air war over North Viet Nam, U.S. planes flew 97 missions Sunday, hitting at nine oil storage areas including a fuel dump 13 miles southwest of Hanoi.

Pilots claimed destruction or damage to 12 bridges, 72 cargo barges, 41 trucks and five aircraft. They also touched off numerous secondary explosions and fires, a spokesman said.

Two U.S. planes were lost in the raids. An Air Force F4U Woodoo reconnaissance plane disappeared on a mission north of Hanoi. The pilot is missing.

An Air Force A1E Skyraider was shot down by ground fire. The pilot was rescued.

The U.S. command did not disclose whether any scored hits.

U.S. pilots flew 47 sorties Sunday in the area. The U.S. command claimed destruction of 561 enemy fortifications, structures and sampans.

The U.S. command acknowledged that casualties to American Marines and Vietnamese troops in Operation Hastings were moderate. This previous action near the demilitarized zone had been termed light.

"There has been no heavy contact with the North Vietnamese in Operation Hastings for nearly a week. In two weeks of heavy fighting before that the combined Marine-Vietnamese force reported killing 827 North Vietnamese troops from the 28th Division.

PHILADELPHIA (Sp) — Net income for Food Fair Stores, Inc., for the 52-week fiscal year ended April 30, 1966, rose to $12,554,014, or $1.22 per share. This is an increase of 35.4 per cent over the $9,238,381, or $1.26 per share, for the previous 52-week fiscal year, based on the number of shares outstanding at year-end.

In the annual report to shareholders, Samuel Friedland, chairman, and Louis Stein, president, reported that sales reached a record high of $1,004,519,800 compared with $1,119,640,282 the previous year. This makes Food Fair to fourth place, from fifth, in the national rankings of the major retail food chains.

During the fiscal year, Food Fair opened 47 retail food and department store units, while remodeling 24 older markets to enhance their profitability. At the end of the fiscal year, Food Fair operated 615 units, including 554 supermarket, 54 J. M. Fields department stores, and seven drug stores.

The firm's expansion program calls for the addition of 50 food units and six J. M. Fields stores during the current fiscal year, according to Friedland and Stein.

'Garbage Can' Murder Trial

MIAMI (AP) — Frank Traina, a haberdasher, goes on trial today in Circuit Court in the so-called garbage can murder of pretty, red-haired Mrs. Theresa Rix.

Traina, 28, a bachelor, is accused of strangling his longtime neighbor after an argument at his apartment, and cementing her body into a 20-gallon garbage can which later was thrown into the Miami Canal.

Police contend Traina kept the filled container in his Miami Springs men's clothing store 12 days and then got two high school boys to help him dispose of it.

The can was discovered Feb. 24 by two canal workmen who spotted a human foot protruding from it.

Tax $$ For Schools

In response to inquiries on the subject, The Sanford Herald will attempt to interpret to taxpayers what the increased millage requested in the new budget for Seminole County schools for fiscal 1966-67 will mean in "cold cash."

To explain why the millage is being increased, it is necessary to delve back in "history" a few months.

Last November, voters were asked to approve a six-mill tax for the school district, which was a 2.25 mill increase from the former millage of 3.75. The voters said "yes."

This amount of millage will bring in an estimated $478,000.

Later the school board granted a requested pay raise for teachers to bring them up to the level of salaries paid in surrounding counties. The board also gave small raises to all other school personnel, such as secretaries, librarians, bus drivers, maintenance personnel, supervisors and other. (Lunchroom workers are paid out of lunch room receipts.)

Total of this increase in salaries amounted to close to $1 million, with $878,000 of that in the teachers' salary increase.

In view of that, the money raised by the increase in district millage would not cover the pay increase, so it is necessary to authorize an increase in the county millage, from 4.55 mills to 6.75 mills or an increase of 2.40 mills or about $600,000 more.

The school board can do this because it is authorized by law to assess up to 10 mills. There is 1.22 mills set aside already for debt service to pay off the bond issue of $3.2 million floated in 1957 to build new schools.

This makes a total, with the six-mill district tax, the requested 6.75 mill county tax and the 1.22 debt service, of 18.97 mills for the support of county schools.

Last year's total millage was 9.32 mills. The increase totals 4.65 mills or about $228,000.

To the taxpayer who is footing the bill, this will mean about a $50 a year increase in property taxes, if he owns a $15,000 house — to take an average figure.

If his house or property is worth less, the tax would be less and if his house is worth more, the tax, of course, would be proportionately more.

In other words, property owners will be paying $4.65 per $1,000 more on whatever property they own. $10,000 worth of property would have $46.50 more in taxes added to the present taxes.

One of the primary reasons for the necessity of raising county millage is the failure of the state legislature, meeting this past spring, to appropriate requested funds for the state's schools. This was in accord with the incumbent governor's "hold-the-line" policy, which met with much criticism, particularly from educators.

When educators met with the governor on the request for increased school funds, he told them, in a much-quoted address to "go back to your counties and get the money from them."

So this is what has been done. The result is that Seminole County ad valorem (property) taxes will be increased by 4.65 mills in order to try to keep Seminole County's schools on a reasonable par with those in surrounding counties in the Central Florida area and throughout the state.

Gubernatorial candidates now in the running have made ardent campaign promises of more state aid for schools.

If the next elected governor lives up to his promises and the legislature goes along with it, much more money may be forthcoming next year from the state, which will relieve the straining burden on the county.

An increase in sales tax, which would affect everyone, not just those who own property, as the millage tax does, seems to be one of the most fair and equitable means of raising the money necessary for schools in the fast growing state of Florida.

Therefore do not be anxious about tomorrow, for tomorrow will be anxious for itself. Let the day's own trouble be sufficient for the day."

A fresh mind keeps the body fresh. Take in the ideas of the day, drain off those of yesterday. As to the morrow, time enough to consider it when it becomes today. — Sir Henry Bulwer, author.

Lyle C. Wilson Says:

Split Personality

The split-level mayor of New York City is putting up a great fight to prevent a public referendum on discipline in the city's police department. The referendum is sought on the question whether there shall be a civilian — controlled review board to deal with complaints of police brutality.

The mayor is John V. Lindsay, who took office last January as the successful nominee

Foreign News Commentary

Nations Of Heroes Needed

By Phil Newsum
In the jungled hills of southern and central Luzon I found during World War II Filipino guerrillas battled the Japanese.

The name was coined word-fitted to the times. It meant "People's Army To Fight The Japanese."

In the chaos which followed World War II, the "Huk" refused to drop their weapons and they were joined by thousands of disillusioned veterans and poverty-stricken farmers.

But, as has been the fate of other movements based on legitimate grievances, the Huk became anti-police of the Communist.

The backbone of their strength was broken in 1946 by the most energetic of Philippine presidents to date, the late Ramon Magway.

Magway did it through a combination of toughness and persuasion, which also included land reforms, aid to veterans and the dismissal of corrupt officials.

Eventually Huk members were reduced to about 200, which is about their number today, deriving most of their income from the shakedown of bar girls and saloon keepers, businessmen, farmers, taxi cab drivers and peddlers.

Their long-term threat consisted of the fact that they represented an organizing base should the long-suffering peasantry finally decide to revolt.

Thus the more than usual attention being paid to their latest challenge by President Ferdinand Marcos who shows early signs of energetic action in the manner of Magway.

When Marcos took office early this year he found the treasury empty and national credit exhausted.

He also found an ever-widening economic gap between the millionaires with Cadillac and mistresses and the farmer who might go for years without seeing cash.

In 1964, inflation increased at a rate four times that of wages.

Among generally literate Filipinos unrest was rising sharply.

Marcos has fired some officials, initiated a drive against the smuggling which threatens the national economy, and launched upon a crash program to gain the confidence of the peasants against terrorism.

Army engineers have been assigned to road-building, swamp drainage, well-digging and general improvements.

But whether Marcos can do it alone is another question. What he says he needs is a nation of heroes he isn't kidding.

Dr. Crane's

Worry Clinic

Tom's case is doubly tragic. For when a couple have lived together happily for many years, it is not wise to get a divorce merely because the husband had a brief lapse. For such wives as Tom's unwittingly drive their mates into these affairs by their indifference in the erotic realm.

"But, Dr. Crane," he spoke miserably, "my wife has left me and insists on a divorce."

"We had been happily married for over 25 years."

"But a year ago I admitted I got involved with a divorcee for a few months."

"My wife will not forgive or forget, so she has gone to live with a daughter by her former marriage, although we also have a grown daughter of our own."

"This step-daughter is divorced, too, and urging my wife to do the same."

Divorce is a public admission of marital bankruptcy.

So what do you wives expect to gain by such a messy affair in the courts?

Tom's wife is 33 and not interested in another husband. Even if she gets alimony, her income will not equal that which she would have back in her own home, while at Tom's wife.

At social events she also will not have an escort.

"But, Dr. Crane," she might protest, "I have been humiliated by my husband's affair with that divorcee."

However, the humiliation is not half what it will be if she gets a divorce!

For she still held her husband against all the wives exerted by the public saw that she was the winner!

A divorce will simply leave the field wide open for the divorcee to come upon the scene and finally win Tom.

So you wives who want to rush into divorce because you feel you have been wronged, better wake up to grim reality!

Resist, you are generally 50 per cent blame for a straying mate, anyway, for a sexual-satisfied husband is not likely to develop an affair with an outside paramour.

Oh, you wives may indignantly claim that you were 100 per cent innocent of any wrongdoing.

But it isn't such overt sins of commission that cause most divorces.

Yes, as is your wife's sins of omission!

Divorce starts in the bedroom. And often by the apparently innocent, virtuous wife.

For a man is designed by God Almighty to need a harem in the erotic realm.

You wives know that fact, without reading your Bible and seeing how Patriarchal Jacob had 4 wives.

But you seem begin to grow sexually diffident. You rebel or stall off your husband's ardent advances.

You try to ration him to your own frigid appetite, though he has possibly 4 times the hunger that you feel.

So Tom's wife is as much to blame as Tom for his clandestine affair with the divorcee. Secretly, she knows that, too, but refuses to admit it, so she craves a divorce to add legal confirmation by a court to stifle the twinges of her own conscience.

So send for my booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c and get help to your wifely duties!

Bring Lawsuit

FROME, England (UPI) — Former telephone engineer John Pearson, 50, says he will sue the General Post Office, which is also in charge of telephone lines in Great Britain.

Pearson says he plans to sue the GPO for "acoustic shock" because his phone call was interrupted "three or four times with a loud series of clicks, bangs and buzzes" which made his head ache and ears ring.

Survivors Eligible For Support

By Ray Crowley
WASHINGTON (NEA) - Most widows and minor children and some parents of men who died from a disease or injury incurred or aggravated "in line of duty" are entitled to monthly benefits.
This compensation is payable whether the disease or injury occurred or was aggravated while the serviceman was on active duty in peace or wartime.
