HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Wednesday, June 13, 1979

YOUR BIRTHDAY
June 13, 1979
Past experience can guide you very successfully if you rely upon it. Therein lie the victories you have been seeking.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your judgment won't be as sharp as it should be today. It's because you have a tendency to base your conclusions on optimism, rather than on what you want to do. How to get along with other signs is one of the sections you'll enjoy in your new Astro-Graph Letter that starts with our Midday Mail for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Failing to appreciate the value another places on an object or situation could wind up costing you because of your carelessness.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't deal in deception today, even to spare someone's feelings. If your views are contrary to another's, it's the truth. You'll find a tactful way.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Make sure what you are working on today is really what you want. Your efforts will be rewarded, but you could find you have a white elephant on your hands.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In having a good time today, you could go to extremes and overindulge. Remember, too much candy at one time will make you sick.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Lady Luck is not sitting on your back fence today, so don't count on her to bail you out if you get caught exaggerating.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today you have a tendency to hear only what you want to hear. Later, when things don't work out, you'll wonder why you weren't given all the facts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's a pipedream to think you can spend funds you really don't have. Monies you earmarked for something else will have to pay the bill.

AQUARIUS (Jan. Feb. 19) Avoid any entanglements with others today, especially if they are legal ones. A full understanding of the ramifications is not possible at this time.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It'll hurt you worse than the other person if you renege on a promise today. Better yet, don't make any commitments.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) People could be lying false colors today, so before you choose sides with the guy who tells a good story check him out thoroughly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you can't back up your claims, don't try a bluff. People will call you on it and you could find yourself with a bright red face.

Extra Heart Beats Should Be Checked

DEAR DR. LAMB— I am a 73-year-old male who has experienced irregular heart beats (or extrasystoles) for 15 years. I've been having annual physical examinations and each time my doctor assures me that there is nothing that I should be concerned about. Nothing that I do, not even physical exertion, causes the skips. Recently my doctor prescribed a tablet of Inderal each day. I thought Inderal was used for high blood pressure. Mine's on the low side — usually about 110 over 80.

Is Inderal the kind of medicine that I should be taking? What is it supposed to do? Is there a better medicine? Or do I need any medicine at all?

DEAR READER— There are many different types of irregular heart beats. They can occur in individuals without any apparent disease at all. It is important to take continuous heart tracings on anybody, in the course of a day or two you would see some irregular heart beats, or skipped beats as people sometimes call them. I observed these in all the astronauts because we had records on them for hours and hours at a time while they were being studied in space chambers and in other conditions. I also saw them in many of the newly members of the Air Force flying population. They can be caused by heart disease as well. To use the other end of the spectrum, the onset of a heart attack may be associated with extra beats.

The only way you can determine the significance of extra beats in a specific individual is through a medical examination. If they occur sporadically in a young, healthy individual, they're not likely to be very important. But, if they're noticed for the first time in a person who is having chest pain and other difficulties, they are probably part of that process and can be quite important. To help you I'm sending you The Health Letter number 6-12, Heart Irregularities, Skipped Beats, Tachycardias to help you sort out this problem. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

A person with recurrent skipped beats should not smoke or use any coffee or beverages containing any caffeine. He should maintain a regular exercise program if his health permits and avoid any digestive disturbances. Indigestion seems to trigger such attacks. Inderal is used to calm the electrical activity of the heart muscle — really it neutralizes or decreases a person's sensitivity to adrenaline. Of course, excess adrenaline formation can be released as a result of emotional stress, even from getting excited while watching your favorite football game on television. It is also used to lower blood pressure. So it's correct to use it in either or both conditions.

There are a number of other medicines that can be used to control irregularities of the heart if they're needed. The choice of the proper medicine depends upon the kind of irregularity, what it shows on the electrocardiogram and whether it is really bothering you or causing symptoms. Correcting one's life style sometimes solves the whole problem.

Housing Shortage Hits Hard

By GEOFFREY POUNDS
Herald Staff Writer

A 40-year-old disabled veteran, unable to find a home for his wife and six children, says he has had to live in his car since April.

Containing there is nowhere else to turn, the man has pleaded to the Sanford City Commission for help. But with hundreds of similar cases, the city will be able to do little, officials say.

James Debose, his wife and their six children were left homeless in April when the house they were renting on the city's east side was foreclosed by a mortgage company. "They gave me three days to get out," said Debose, who has lived in Sanford for more than 20 years. "Everywhere I went I got the same story. They told me they don't rent or they don't accept children. I even tried lying about my kids, but I couldn't find anything."

Debose, who lost the full use of his right arm while serving in the army in 1960, said he can't afford rent of more than $175 per month. He has a disability pension and his wife works as an electronics factory worker. Yet their combined income is not enough to qualify for a loan to purchase a home. The combined income, he said, is under $800 a month.

Public housing would be the preferred choice of Debose, but there are no vacancies in the city's 400-units of subsidized apartments. Even if there were, Debose would meet with problems.

"There are 2,800 people on the waiting list ahead of him," said Sanford Housing Authority Director Tom Wilson. "I wish we could help, but even if a vacancy director, Stan Stone, is not unusual. Others like the Debose family, unable to find private housing and well down on the waiting list for public housing, have lived in vans, trailers or makeshift shacks, he said.

"They usually they stay with family or friends or sometimes move into dilapidated, condemned housing that has not yet been torn down. But there have been other reports of people living in cars," Stone said.

According to Stone, a person whose home is condemned is given priority on the housing authority waiting list so that there will be a spot available in public housing when the home is torn down. The emergency list is already at a critical stage, Stone said. If the authority grants emergency status to Debose and places him in an apartment or home, it will have to do so at the expense of another family already earmarked for that home, he said.

Since the home Debose rented was not condemned, but foreclosed, he didn't qualify for emergency status.

"We need more public housing, it's that simple. The problem is getting worse. It's bad all over Seminole County, in Sanford it's impossible," said Stone.

The problem, he said, is that there are about 10 homes being condemned each month, but there hasn't been any new public housing in the city since Lake Monroe Terrace was built in 1972. He said the authority's recent request to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for 40 additional housing units has been denied.

Stones co-worker, Linda Williams, said the scarcity of low-cost housing also is a result of the state of the economy. Where tenants used to stay in the public units for two or three years, they are no longer as mobile, she said.

"The concept of public housing is that it should be a stepping stone. They used to live here until their incomes advanced and then move into the private sector. But they can't do that anymore," Mrs. Williams said.

"It was possible to buy a home on a modest income 10 years ago, but today the homes built are strictly for the middle and upper income," she said.

As a result, more and more of the tenants in Sanford's public housing units are deciding not to leave. As the turnover rate slackens, the waiting lists lengthen.

Probe Continues Man, 30, Kills Self; Russian Roulette?

By SHARON CARRASCO
Herald Staff Writer

A 30-year-old Altamonte Springs man who may have played the game of Russian Roulette early this morning—lost.

Robert Lewis James, 30, of 108 Hwy 406, Altamonte Springs, was pronounced dead at 2:30 a.m. at the Florida Hospital in Whitten, 23, of the same address, were socializing with Leonard Runyon Jr. and his wife, both 25, of P.O. Box 31, W. Crystal Ave., Lake Mary, deputies said. Jessica Anne Whitten, Tracy's daughter, 3, was asleep in the bedroom.

Police said early reports indicate James and Runyon decided to engage in a game of Russian Roulette, "according to the report. James went to his master bedroom and returned with a .22-caliber, six-inch barrel "black hawk" Ruger, deputies say.

According to the report, James unloaded the weapon and then reloaded it with a live round. He then spun the cylinder of the gun around, "making himself and Runyon unaware of the live round's location in the weapon," the report states.

Runyon decided to withdraw from the Russian Roulette before either of the men began to play the game, deputies say. But James pointed the gun to his forehead and pulled the trigger, witnesses told deputies.

James was a self-employed painter. A spokesman for the sheriff's department said he was still being investigated.

Police later today said the Russian Roulette incident was "not established for certain" and that other potential causes were being investigated.

Seminole Delays Action On Utility Rate Increase

Vigorous objections from more than a dozen customers of the county's four water and sewer utility systems to a proposed rate increase stopped county commissioners from taking action, at least temporarily, Tuesday night.

Engineering consultants, Post, Buckley, Schuh and Jernigan had recommended a sewer rate increase for customers of the Lynnwood, County Club, Indian Hills and Consumer Utilities in the south and central part of the county from $9.46 to $11.82 monthly.

However, the dozen persons who testified — representing more than 75 persons in the packed commission chamber audience Tuesday night — urged commissioners to look at other alternatives.

When Commission Chairman Bob French asked for a show of hands of persons who opposed the increases, the 75 objectors responded.

The public hearing on the proposed increase was delayed until July 10 to give county staff sufficient time to evaluate whether reducing the amount of monthly increase can be accomplished while raising rates in other areas to gain additional revenues from the systems.

Objectors noted that their monthly sewer charges were increased three years ago by 44 percent when the county acquired the utility systems and will be increased again when the county connects to the proposed Orlando regional sewer system at Iron Bridge.

The consultants have said an increase in rates is necessary to generate $100,000 more in revenue annually to meet escalating operating costs, inflation and to pay a balloon payment on the bond issue floated to acquire the systems.

In a zoning matter, commissioners delayed until 10 a.m., June 26, a public hearing on the request of the Citrus Council Girl Scouts to vacate a 10-foot wide strip of land by six lots.

Assistant County Attorney Bob McMillan urged the delay to permit him time to research the record and determine whether the property is under the jurisdiction of the county. McMillan said it is unclear whether the property originally was dedicated to the state as right-of-way and then turned over to the county or if the state retains jurisdiction of the land. In addition McMillan said it is not clear from information he has received whether the county can give the property to the Girl Scouts or sell the land at public auction. — DONNA ESTES

Carter's Challenge

DETROIT (UPI) — President Carter says that if Sen. Edward M. Kennedy challenges him for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1980 he'll "whip his ass," the Detroit Free Press reported today.

The newspaper quoted Rep. William M. Brodhead, D-Mich., who was seated at the President's table during a White House dinner Monday night.

Brodhead said Carter told him dinner guests: "I'm not worried about 1980 ... If Kennedy runs, I'm going to whip his ass."

Brodhead said he asked Carter: "Excuse me, Mr. President, would you mind repeating that?"

The congressman said Carter then repeated his statement. "I think he wanted to get the message out," Brodhead said.

Warden's Advice: Check Out Letters To The Editor

Sanford and area residents who might have seen a letter to the editor in an area newspaper today written by an Arkansas prison inmate claiming to be on death row and urging people to write to him would do well to check with prison officials first.

That was the advice today from the warden of the prison in Grady, Ark., Ronald Dobbs.

The letter published this morning in the area newspaper is signed by Joe R. Bishop. The inmate says he has been on death row in Arkansas for five years, is from Orlando, has no living relatives and would like people to write to him.

"Hogwash," said Warden Dobbs. The Evening Herald in its Sunday, Aug. 13, 1978 edition published a page one story detailing how prison inmates from institutions in Ohio and Florida were writing letters to editors of various newspapers asking people to write to them. Having received similar letters, and noting the letters' contents were similar though from different inmates, Herald editors contacted the wardens at the various prisons and learned the letter-writing campaigns are a scam game.

When the letter to the editor appearing in the area newspaper this morning was spotted, the Arkansas prison friend or relative contact the letter-writer and in one fashion or another, solicit funds for the inmate. Generally, the wardens said, once the inmate is released from custody, the victim never sees or hears from him again.

Prison officials pointed out once people respond to the inmate's letter to the editor and contacts the prisoner the con game begins. Wardens said the inmates strike up a friendship with the person writing them, then have a

There May Be Better Way Out

Would a "Manhattan Project" solve the energy crisis? The question has been recurring for at least six years. Why can't the United States relieve its dangerous dependence on imported oil through an all-out, single-purpose effort like the mobilization of science and engineering that produced an atom bomb during World War II?

It's time the Carter administration began looking at America's experience in wartime for ideas to get the country off the barbed hook of OPEC oil. The pressure of demand is bidding up the world price of oil to disastrous levels. The Arab states are showing unmistakable signs of using their hold on supplies to gain political advantage. Our economic security, if not our independence, is coming under a threat which invites comparison with the emergency of war.

Maybe the Manhattan Project is not quite the right example of where a solution lies. Scientists and engineers were starting almost from primitive experiments with nuclear fission to the production of a bomb in three years. It is problematical whether any of the advanced energy technologies now in early stages of research and development could be forced-fee to produce an energy revolution as quickly.

A better example is the World War II program to produce synthetic rubber. The process for making synthetic rubber was well-known in 1941, but not until the war threatened our supplies of natural rubber from overseas was there a reason to produce it in large quantities. In one of those heroic industrial efforts that was called forth, it took exactly 287 days to design, build and begin operating the first plant. By the end of the war we had 15 plants capable of producing 800,000 tons of synthetic rubber a year — a figure exceeding the national consumption of natural rubber at the time the war started.

What we need now is synthetic fuel or a new source of oil. We know that the possibilities are there, ranging from alcohol derived from grain, to various synthetics derived from coal, to the extraction of oil from shale deposits. None of them needs a Los Alamos laboratory to solve any technological problems. They need a commitment to production.

We can suggest, however, that President Carter consider a novel and bold use for the bonanza of federal tax revenue to be derived from the decontrol of oil prices. The government stands to gain $13.3 billion in new revenue from oil company profits in the next seven years under current corporate income tax rates, or $29.7 billion if his proposed "windfall profits" tax is imposed.

The suggestion is that the longstanding partnership of government and industry in energy research be expanded into the area of joint financing of the production of one or more alternative fuels. The role of the government subsidy would be to lower the price-threshold that must be crossed before these fuels become competitive with oil and gas. The plan could call for the recovery of the government investment over the long term.

This would entail a change of course for Mr. Carter, and no little political risk. He has been following the easy, popular route of attacking the oil companies for their high profits. He would now have to invite their cooperation in a direct partnership with government in a dramatic form of "pilotback" of some of these profits.

In World War II the government provided only the trigger and coordination for the quick production of synthetic rubber. The management and technical expertise came from private industry. Mr. Carter's woebegone efforts to respond to the energy crisis may finally get somewhere when he sees the parallel today.

The administration is looking for a way to avert the crippling economic emergency that our heavy dependence on imported oil could create. A dramatic commitment to production of synthetic fuel might be the answer, and like it or not, the people now in the business of producing and distributing fuel — mainly the oil companies — are in the best position to bring it off.

Got A Postal Gripe?

By WILLIAM STEIF

Never reached her. You're sore at the post office, and you think millions of other Americans are grumbling about the decline of the Postal Service.

Thomas W. Chadwick hears that grumbling every day. It's his job. Tom is an amiable, 55-year-old South Carolinian whose title at the U.S. Postal Service is consumer advocate. If you've got a beef, get in touch with him.

The Postal Service is one of the nation's biggest businesses. It's been a semi-independent entity since mid-1971 and last year handled 96.9 billion pieces of mail, about half of the whole world's mail. It grosses $14.1 billion and employed 655,000 people, down 55,000 from five years ago.

Chadwick says, "We have 43,000 retail stores" — that's what he calls post offices. "We have 155,000 delivery routes and 98 million addresses of customers to serve."

His Office of Consumer Affairs was organized when the Postal Service was shaken loose from the clutches of politicians. It has 34 employees, which doesn't seem like many when compared with the volume of complaints. But Chadwick thinks it's adequate. He says, "The handling of complaints is a vital aspect of our business. We use complaint data as a tool in management."

Chadwick's office is "trying to make it simple and easy for people to get to us. We have authority to disregard bureaucratic lines. We're a direct link between the mailer and the Postal Service."

Over all, the Postal Service gets 21 million complaints yearly, or a little less than one for every 4,000 pieces of mail. Most complaints are resolved locally.

There are 160 different categories of complaints, but the largest are delayed mail (26.5 percent of the total) and non-receipt (18.5 percent).

To cope with its complaints, the Postal Service in 1975 began distributing an easy-to-use Consumer Service Card, which is supposed to be available at every post office. That's where your letter to Aunt Minnie fits in.

You go to your post office and fill out the card; a sheet of carbon paper permits you to make a duplicate. One copy goes to your local postmaster. The other to Chadwick's office in Washington.

"Within the next couple of days," says Chadwick, "you ought to hear from your postmaster. If you haven't heard by the third day, call the postmaster."

The card's information is key-punched into a computer. When the postmaster resolves a complaint, he writes Chadwick's office and the complaint is deleted from the computer. But if the postmaster hasn't resolved the complaint after 10 days, it pops up automatically in the consumer advocate's office and Chadwick tells the postmaster to get moving.

If you haven't heard promptly, the thing to do is write Thomas W. Chadwick, The Consumer Advocate, Postal Service Headquarters, Washington D.C. 20262.

RONALD REAGAN Hypocrisy Reigns In Panels

SCENE: Headquarters of the International Association of Hypocrites. The president is sitting behind his desk. The chief of field operations sits opposite him, a sheaf of papers in his hand. He speaks:

C.F.O.: Well, sir, it was a good week for hypocrites. We scored a major victory in the United Nations where our Third World friends refused to let the South Africans participate in the General Assembly debate over terms of independence for South-West Africa which is also called Namibia.

PRESIDENT: Yes, I read about it, but I must say I was disappointed in Mr. Andrew Young. He has been one of our outstanding members in recent years. In fact, I had been thinking of him as a likely candidate for our Hypocrite of the Year prize until now. But, the other day in the U.N. he lost much credibility in my eyes, for he actually criticized those who voted to kick out the South Africans by saying it would be "counter-productive" to keep them out of the debate.

C.F.O.: I agree that it was a disappointment, but don't hold it against Mr. Young. He has been simply marvelous in helping us keep things in a turmoil over Rhodesia. He has held out for those "all-party" talks with the terrorists Nkomo and Mugabe, and everyone knows that the last thing those two want is a free, democratic Zimbabwe Rhodesia. So, let's give credit where it's due.

PRESIDENT: You're right. Besides, several of the African nations which voted to keep South Africa out of the Namibia discussions did it with a fair that's a credit to the highest principles of the International Association of Hypocrites. They claimed that South Africa should not participate because its government is illegitimate inasmuch as it denies the vote of some of its people, in this case the black, rich, coming from a bunch that has president-for-life, self-proclaimed emperors, one-party rule, and in some cases, full-blown dictatorship? Talk about denying the vote! (He slaps his knee laughing.)

C.F.O.: I rather liked the performance of the U.N. hierarchy itself. They are treating SWAPO, the South-West African guerrillas, as if they were the legitimate government of Namibia when, in fact, they haven't been able to gain a nickel's worth of support from South-West Africa's people in more than a dozen years of trying. —terrorist attacks and all. When the head of SWAPO shows up at U.N., they treat him like a head of state. Now, you'll have to admit that's a first-rate hypocrisy, just the sort of thing our members love.

PRESIDENT: Yes, sir, but I may be matched by the New York Times and the Washington Post. Both have been pasting the Argentinians lately in editorials over human rights. The Post almost compared Argentina's government with Idi Amin's. It's delicious the way they pontificate. A lot of their stuff is based on the allegations of human rights, but the wonderful thing about those Times and Post writers is that they can use those allegations to work themselves up almost to the point of frothing at the mouth over "human rights" without once mentioning Cuba, Vietnam, Cambodia, or a half-dozen other places where don't exist.

To Clear It Up

A recent letter to the editor indicated a fairly common lack of understanding of the Savings and Loan business.

There are 122 Savings and Loan Associations in the state of Florida and of these, only six have a capital stock form of ownership. The rest of us have a mutual form of ownership. We are not a direct link between the mailer and the Postal Service.

Chutists' Reunion

In September of 1978 the 500th Parachute Infantry Regiment will hold a reunion in San Antonio, Texas. This unit was a part of the 82nd Airborne Division that took part in the Normandy Invasion and other European campaigns.

We are attempting to locate former members of this unit that served with it during World War II. Our last information indicates that several were from your area. We are seeking information concerning the present whereabouts of any former member of the regiment. We desire to contact those that served during 1942-1945 and are not now members of the 500th P.I.R. Association. The should contact me at P.O. Box 212, Santa Teresa, New Mexico 88063 concerning the 1979 reunion.

that the $2 billion system will be used by the military for research, development, testing and evaluation of ballistic missiles.

Because of financial, human and material restraints China's nuclear program is not expected to equal ours or the Soviet Union's. But intelligence reports predict that in the 1980s China will be producing medium-range and intercontinental ballistic missiles, as well as air-to-surface, defensive and naval missiles. The Chinese are also developing nuclear submarines with missile firing capability, and are expected to deploy them within the next decade.

CORPORATE WELFARE—Congress is considering a windfall for the coal industry that could cost the American taxpayers as much as $12 billion.

The bill under consideration would give American companies $2 billion in direct subsidies and another $10 billion in guarantees for development and construction of this country's first plants to convert coal into gasoline.

Proponents of the legislation, having failed in earlier attempts to get the bill through various energy subcommittees, have successfully repackaged the subsidy proposal as a "defense preparedness" measure. The federal contribution would guarantee the Defense Department the amount of gasoline that could be refined from 500,000 barrels of crude oil a day. Thus securely wrapped in the flag, the bill

Sanford Faces $5,000 Fine For Spraying

Sanford City Attorney Vernon Mize said Monday that the city has been cited by the Environmental Protection Agency for improper use of insecticides.

If a settlement is not reached during an administrative hearing, Mize said, the city could be faced with a fine of up to $5,000.

According to city manager Warren E. Knowles, the citation stems from an incident a year ago in which the city sprayed a weeded patch of ground near a drainage ditch on Scott Street north of Celery Avenue.

The EPA citation states that the use of the insecticide resulted in the death of a number of catfish. But Knowles said the dead fish were found upstream of where the actual spraying took place.

"If that's all the EPA has to do, they ought to disband the agency," Knowles said.

Mize said he would seek a settlement hearing with the agency prior to the imposition of any fine.

In other action, the commission: —approved the expenditure of $2,500 for initiation fee to the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council. The council acts as a quasi-official agency in reviewing major projects using federal grant funds.

Commissioner John Morris and Sanford businessman Tom Stevenson were named as city delegates to the council.

Commissioner David Farr and city engineer Mack Lazenby were named as delegates to the Project Review Committee of the council. Alternate delegates to that committee are assistant city manager Rich Quigley and commissioner Eddie Keith.

'BRAKES FAILED'

A 1963 Volkswagen station wagon with two persons inside overturned Tuesday as the driver attempted to turn west onto East Lake Brantley Road from Wekiva Springs Road. Driver of the car, Howard Kinnie Stewart, 22, of Lake Hamilton Fla. told a Florida Highway Patrol trooper his brakes failed causing the accident. The passenger, Robert Levor of St. Petersburg was failed at Florida Hospital-Altamonte for what appeared to be minor injuries. No charges were filed in the accident and the investigation is continuing.

A special Father's Day free program featuring big band music of the forties has been scheduled for 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday in the Sanford Civic Center as part of the Civic Salutes series.

The program, sponsored jointly by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce and the city of Sanford, will include the music of the Allamonte Springs Jazz Ensemble, according to Jack Horner, GSCC executive manager. The public is invited to attend.

A public hearing will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Oviedo on federal revenue sharing funds.

The hearing, which will be held in conjunction with the Oviedo City Council's regularly scheduled meeting, is an effort to get citizen views on dispersal of the funds for the coming fiscal year.

A spokesman said the city anticipates receiving $38,333 in revenue sharing funds for 1979-'80.

The power to save electricity is in your hands.

Regular and low sulfur oil are in short supply. And expensive. So right now it's more important than ever to practice conserving electricity. Governor Graham is encouraging a voluntary conservation program, because it's in everybody's best interest to preserve our energy resources. We agree. And here are some of FPL's suggestions on how you can lend a hand.

down to 120°, or 140° if you have a dishwasher. (But before making any adjustments, be sure the electricity is off.)

Don't do a handful of laundry or dishes. Wait until you have a full load. And use cold water whenever possible.

If you have a pool, lend a hand by reducing the hours of the pump's operation to the minimum required by the manufacturer. That will make your bill take a dip, too.

A flick of the finger will turn off any light or appliance you're not using. It's a small economy, but not when you multiply it by thousands of hours and millions of homes.

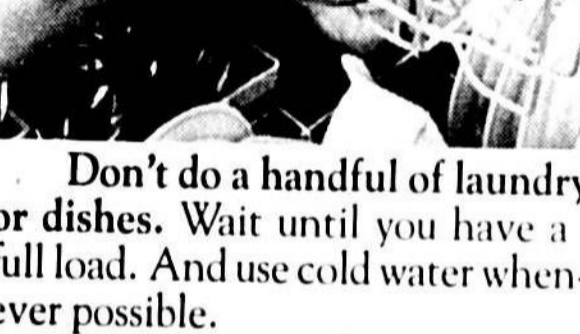

And, if you're planning to buy a new home, there's more than a handful of reasons to ask your builder about FPL's Watt-Wise Living Program; and the built-in energy-saving features that will help reduce your electricity costs.

A finger and thumb is all it takes to turn your air-conditioner thermostat up to 78°. A comfortable setting, that will result in significant savings.

Any handyman or plumber can turn your hot water thermostat

Use a twist of the wrist to replace high-watt bulbs with lower-wattage bulbs. Every little bit helps.

We can save a lot of electricity. If everyone lends a hand.

WORLD IN BRIEF

President, Senate Nears Showdown On Rhodesia

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate has defeated a compromise plan for lifting trade sanctions against Zimbabwe Rhodesia, triggering a possible veto showdown with President Carter over his policy on the breakaway British colony.

Despite an 11th-hour Capitol Hill appearance by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, senators voted 52-41 Tuesday to table a refusal to consider — a face-saving sanctions plan offered as an amendment to the 1980 military procurement authorization bill.

Vance was expected to be questioned on the issue at a State Department news conference today.

Cyclist Pedals Into History

FOLKESTONE, England (UPI)—Bryan Allen, the young California cyclist who pedaled his way into the history books with the first man-powered flight across the English Channel, went back again the easy way — by hovercraft.

The 40-minute journey back was the anticlimax to Tuesday's epic flight to France, when Allen huffed and puffed his way 22 miles across the English Channel in the Gossamer Albatross, a scratch-built plane kept airborne by nothing more than leg-power.

The thin, bespectacled biologist almost ditched about halfway across but found second strength to struggle a few crucial feet higher to escape the waves and the turbulent air currents at sea level.

Emergency Evacuation

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI)—The United States plans a second emergency evacuation of its citizens from a battle-torn Managua today and the Spanish Embassy also readied for a massive withdrawal of its nationals.

During the heavy fighting between Sandinista rebels and government troops in the capital, hunger-stricken refugees looted stores for food. Thousands fled the city in an exodus that recalled the panic after Managua's disastrous 1972 earthquake.

President Anastasio Somoza, 53, said he believes his national guard is regaining control of Managua, now in its fifth day of insurrection as part of the guerrillas' 18-day-old "final offensive" aimed at ending the 43 years of Somoza family rule in the Central American nation of 2.4 million.

Grounding Angers Europeans

STIAFBOURG, France (UPI) Disgruntled European and Asian civil aviation authorities want fast U.S. cooperation in drawing up tough new maintenance rules for the DC-10 aircraft so they can get their grounded fleets flying by next week.

There was much grumbling among members of the 21-nation European Civil Aviation Conference Tuesday about the Federal Aviation Administration's decision to ground the McDonnell Douglas wide-body plane.

"Irresponsible and frivolous," complained Air New Zealand's chief executive officer, Morrison Davis, who threatened to sue the FAA. Japan also spoke of going to court and France led 13 other nations in a call for immediate authorization to allow the planes to start flying again.

Iraq Blasts Khomeini

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—Iraq accused Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime of "following the shah's footsteps" and demanded Iran return to Arab sovereignty over three tiny islands controlling the world's most vital waterway.

Reflecting the deterioration of relations between the two countries Iran today protested the house arrest of Iraq's Shiite Moslem leader, who is close to Khomeini.

The state-run Iraqi newspaper Al-Thawra Tuesday said that "while the Arabs rejoiced when the Iranian revolution succeeded, there are increasing signs now that the new leaders are following the shah's footsteps and maintaining their policeman's role in the region."

Action Abounds In 11-Hour Session

In an 11-hour-long meeting Tuesday, Seminole County Commissioners acted on a variety of subjects ranging from a zoning request to permit operation of a school for children with learning disabilities to appointing persons to advisory boards.

And it gave its official approval to county staff to go forward with preparations to acquire new voting machines to switch the method of voting in the county to the new and modern punch card system.

In Tuesday's action commissioners:

- Appointed Larry Johnson, Scott Burns and Winter Springs Councilman Wilfred Arnold Jr. to the energy advisory committee. Creation of the committee to handle energy problems in an emergency situation with fuel shortages was urged by Gov. Bob Graham's office.
- Appointed to the committee earlier were County Purchasing Agent JoAnn Blackmon, Melvin Dekle, Charles Swanson, Sheriff John Polk, Jeff Ray and Robert Dinkins. Five more persons must be appointed to get the committee to full strength.
- Agreed officially to switch to the punch card method of voting in the county, with the first election using the new system to be the March presidential preferential primary. Commissioners waived bid procedures to acquire the machines, opting instead to accept proposals from firms manufacturing punch card systems up until July 26.
- Appointed to the private industry council an advisory board mandated by the federal government for the federally funded Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) W.W. Tyre, chairman of the prime sponsor advisory council; Amos Jones, executive director of Seminole Community Action; John Daniels, a home heating oil dealer; Jimmy Lee of the United Transportation Union; John Horvath and Tom Hunt, manager of Southern Bell. Appointed earlier were Jim Weinberg, Steve Peters, Bruce Johnson, Jerry Couch, Ken Hassler, Frank Huttsell, Herman Matthews and Jim Daniel.
- Approved payment of $317,250.00 to Standard Construction Co. for work on the Seminole County jail complex at Five Points during the month of May. Also approved was payment of $3,997.12 to Gutmann Dragash, architects, for construction administration and clerk of the works in May and to Gutmann Dragash $50.50 for concrete testing. The original construction contract with Standard Construction and Associates for the jail was $4.3 million. Total paid to the contractor or value of materials purchased and stored to date is $3.29 million.
- Approved a special exception to the zoning ordinance to permit the operation of a private school for children with learning disabilities at 3221 Sand Lake Road. The county's board of adjustment earlier denied a request for the exception. The matter was appealed to the county commission, which overturned the denial.
- Approved a request to vacate and abandon the west 50 feet of Horseshoe Drive and approved the rezoning of a one-acre parcel near 10th Street in Chuluota from commercial to residential as requested by Roy E. and Nickie L. Rich.
- Delayed until July 10 at the request of attorney Bill Hutchison the hearing on the appeal of John V. Tyndall of a board of adjustment decision. The board of adjustment had denied a request for a lot size variance from 43,560 to 28,500 square feet on Lot 3, Block 2, Chula Vista on Snow Hill Road.
- Approved a specific amendment to the comprehensive land use plan to permit a change in property use from residential to commercial and wholesale district. The property is located on the north 80 feet of the east 170 feet in McNeils Orange Villa. The request was from the Fruehauf Corp. The hearing for an accompanying change in zoning was delayed until July 24.

Recipe swapping has become a hobby for Emmitta Schmit. Born and raised in Puerto Rico, Emmitta and her husband, Jerry, spent 20 years in the Air Force, traveling extensively. "As most military wives will attest, recipe swapping is a hobby in the service," Emmitta said. "During many of the wives functions, each of us would bring a dish from our home country, or one of our favorite recipes, then exchange recipes," she added.

"Some of these recipes I have had for over 15 years, and they still are some of my families favorites," Emmitta commented.

Emmitta's 18-year-old daughter, Kathy, and her 14-year-old daughter, Karen, share part of the cooking load. "Kathy and Karen have both been cooking since they were 11. It was particularly nice when Kathy started cooking, because I was working fulltime," Emmitta said.

It may be a good thing there are so many cooks in the house because in addition to her husband, Emmitta has a 20-year-old son, David, and a 10-year-old son, Mike.

"With a brother and sister and their families living in this area, we have many get-togethers and get to cook our favorites, as well as our native Puerto Rican dishes. One of the most popular desserts in Puerto Rico is Flan de Queso," Emmitta said.

Blender or 2 knives until the mixture resembles fine crumbs. Transfer to a lightly greased 9x9x2 baking pan and press firmly against the bottom and sides. Arrange well-drained peach (apple) slices evenly over the bottom. Stir half cup of sugar and cinnamon together and sprinkle over the fruit. Bake in 400 degree oven for 15 minutes.

Beat egg yolks, blend in sour cream. Spoon over the partially baked Kuchen and continue several hours or overnight (preferably).

Getting Back With No. 1 Love Story, Sorry Story

DEAR ABBY: I'm only a 32-year-old kid, but I've been through a lot. My mother divorced my father when I was 8. I can't count the number of times she went back to him because she thought it would be better for us kids. It wasn't. I had two husbands in between marriages and I had three wives.

DEAR ABBY: A reader asks, "How do I get back with No. 1?" Here's how I did it. My wife and I had been divorced for three months.

I missed her like crazy, so I sent flowers with a note, "I miss you, Baby Love, Allen." She phoned to thank me, and asked if I wanted to stop by that evening. I went. We talked and cried and hugged and kissed. She asked if I could spend the night. She said, "Not tonight, I have a headache." We both had a good laugh because that was a private joke between us.

We admitted that we still loved each other, and decided to try again. It's been 14 years and we're still in love.

L.A. LOVE STORY
DEAR ABBY: I married the same woman three times! She had two husbands in between marriages and I had three wives.

Don't Get Steamed Because Of Acne

DEAR DR. LAMB— I have some acne on my face and shoulders. I go to a beauty spa where there's a steam room and sauna. Which one would be better for improving my acne and complexion or is it better to use both? How long should I stay in the sauna or steam room?

I also use a liquid cleanser with fine particles in it to wash my face. Is it better to use this kind of cleanser or would a clear soap be better?

DEAR READER— There's no known relationship between either a sauna or steam room and acne. Don't expect any improvement in your acne because of either. Ultraviolet light or simply sunbathing yourself in the natural sun sometimes helps improve acne.

Of course, you'd need to take the usual precautions to avoid damaging your skin as from sunburn.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 82. Acne Can Be Treated, to give you some general information and guidelines on what causes the problem and what can be done about it. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

As The Health Letter I'm sending you points out, the problem is caused by excessive oily secretions from your own skin. One goal in treatment is to decrease the oily secretions. It follows that you do not want to add any oily material to your skin. I don't know what kind of cleanser you're using, but if it contains oils in it, you don't want to use it.

Likewise, you wouldn't want to use soaps that are advertised as containing oils either. This includes some brands of bar soap. A good gentle soap with

DEAR DR. LAMB— My friend was told she has pancytopenia which occurred as a result of a new medicine she took for arthritis. She's also been running a temperature for a week, apparently with an infection caused by the injections of the new drug. She's been hospitalized for six weeks and her symptoms are so like leukemia, but the doctor says no. Can you shed some light on what pancytopenia is?

DEAR READER— Pancytopenia merely means a reduction in formation of all the different types of blood cells, both red cells and white cells. It's usually the result of some depression in bone marrow production. Such problems do occur as complications of some medicines.

In the absence of adequate amounts of white blood cells to protect against infections, it's easy for a person to develop an infection and the infections are harder to treat.

If this is simply a reaction to the medicine that your friend has received, the likelihood is that with the good medical supervision she's obtaining she will recover.

Serve hearty King Dad Steak.

Give Top Man A Top Round On His Day

"Dad is Top Man on Father's Day, so it's Top Round Steak that Dads prefer on their 'big' day."

Again, in 1979, the National Father's Day Committee chose beef, Father's favorite, to be served at the Annual Luncheons in New York, Chicago, Dallas, Los Angeles and Atlanta.

"King Dad Steak" is a sherry-marinated top round steak, broiled to perfection. The recipe was specially developed for the Awards Luncheons in the test kitchens of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, which estimates that more than 3 million pounds of beef will be served on Father's Day.

KING DAD STEAK
1 beef top round steak, cut 1 1/2 inches thick
1/2 cup sherry
1/2 cup soy sauce
1/2 cup salad oil
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 2 tablespoons brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon hot sauce

1 pound mushrooms, sliced
1/4 cup sliced green onions
Mix together sherry, soy sauce, oil, lemon juice, brown sugar, ginger, garlic and hot sauce in small saucepan. Cook slowly 10 minutes; cool.

Place steak in plastic bag, add marinade and tie securely. Refrigerate 24 hours.

Remove steak from marinade, reserve marinade, and place on grill over ash-covered coals, or on rack in broiling pan so surface of meat is 4 to 5 inches from heat.

Broil at moderate temperature to rare or medium (25 to 40 minutes, depending on doneness desired), brushing with marinade and turning occasionally.

Carve in thin slices, diagonally across the grain.

For sauce: stir remaining marinade into cornstarch in saucepan and cook slowly until thickened, 2 minutes.

Serve sauce over sliced steak. 10 servings.

Tomatoes Boost Barbecue Sauce

Use tasty tomatoes in outdoor cooking.

"How timely tomatoes can be! When most of us are in the midst of outdoor barbecuing, these red lovelies are at their tastiest."

This summer add a special treat to your backyard barbecue: chicken, spareribs or pork chops by basting with a homemade fresh-tomato barbecue sauce.

FRESH-TOMATO BARBECUE SAUCE
2 tablespoons corn-oil margarine
1 cup coarsely chopped onion
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 pounds tomatoes, peeled and coarsely chopped
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 cup dark corn syrup
2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
1/2 quart saucapan, melt margarine over medium heat. Add onion and garlic. Cook 5 minutes or until tender. Add tomatoes, Worcestershire sauce, salt, chili powder and mustard. Stirring occasionally, bring to boil. Boil gently 20 minutes.

Brush on chicken, spareribs or pork chops during last part of cooking. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 3 cups.

BARBECUED CHICKEN
Place chicken on grill over low coals. Grill 25 minutes, turning occasionally. During last 20 minutes of cooking, brush with sauce, basting and turning frequently.

BARBECUED SPARERIBS
Place ribs bone side down on grill over low coals. Grill about 20 minutes. Turn meaty side down and grill about 5 minutes or until nicely browned. Turn meaty side up and grill about 30 minutes longer. Brush with sauce.

Basting occasionally, grill without turning 20 to 30 minutes longer or until thoroughly cooked. Before serving, brush sauce on both sides of ribs and broil 2 to 3 minutes on each side.

BARBECUED PORK CHOPS
Place chops on grill over low coals. Grill 30 minutes, turning occasionally. During last 20 minutes of cooking, brush with sauce, basting and turning frequently.

Veteran Announcer Still Talks About Pound Cake

While not everyone may recognize the face at first glance, the voice is unmistakable. Veteran announcer Ed Herlihy, the "Voice of Kraft," has been giving cooking tips to homemakers since the "good ole days" of radio.

As an announcer on the Kraft Music Hall during the 1940s, Ed introduced some of the best-loved entertainers in show business. On Sunday, June 24, he will introduce many of these performers once again in "A Summer Radio Picnic with the Kraft Family," on NBC Radio. Hosted by Ed Herlihy and Eddy Arnold, this nostalgic hour-long Special will recall some of the most hilarious performances in radio history by such stars as Bing Crosby, Charles Boyer, Jimmy Durante, Al Jolson, Groucho Marx and Mary Martin, to name a few.

"Radio was great fun in those days," recalls Ed, "and sometimes the commercials were almost as funny as the comedy routines. Of course, entertainers in show business, then, but the beauty of radio was that the audience at home could never see what was going on, they could only imagine."

One of the most popular recipes Ed recalls from those live commercials was a Kraft classic recipe first developed in the 1930s.

Says Ed, "Today my wife Fredi and I still like to serve the 'Philly' pound cake to our guests." The cake makes a perfect base for strawberry shortcake or can be served with ice cream and/or a variety of dessert toppings. "Butterscotch is my favorite," adds Ed.

Both Ed and Fredi love to cook. "Fredi is the gourmet cook, while outdoor entertaining is more my style," explains Ed. "I think everything tastes better outdoors — even desserts."

"PHILLY" POUND CAKE
1 8-oz. pkg. Philadelphia Brand cream cheese
2 1/2 cup Parkay margarine
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
4 eggs
2 cups sifted cake flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder

A favorite since the 1930s "Philly" Pound Cake is a versatile dessert which is still in the best of taste today. Serve with fresh fruit, ice cream or with a variety of bottled dessert toppings.

Frozen Vegetables Ready When You Are

Delicious Main Dish Partners...

Chicken And Cauliflower

"Chicken every Sunday" was a must 30 years ago. "A chicken in every pot" was a campaign promise. Today, with the cost of meat skyrocketing, chicken is still the mainstay of most weekly menus. It is economical, easy to prepare and, most importantly, deliciously teamed with versatile frozen vegetables.

Hearty, satisfying casseroles can be created easily when the freezer holds a selection of nutritious frozen vegetables. These plain blanched vegetables are harvested at their peak and frozen within just a few hours. They retain maximum amounts of nutrients and when properly cooked, add delightful texture, color and flavor to many casseroles. Chicken Cauliflower Skillet is a good example. This eye-catching dish is a favorite of frozen vegetables in your freezer and a little imagination, you can create exciting new meals out of old standby recipes.

Keep frozen vegetables in mind when you prepare all of your favorite family meals. Forthcoming items are a nutritious addition to chill.

Chicken And Cauliflower Skillet
1 package (10 ounces) frozen cauliflower
one-third cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

2 level tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cups milk
2 chicken bouillon cubes, crumbled
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese
1 1/2 cups diced cooked chicken
2 slices buttered toast
Paprika
Cook cauliflower according to package directions. Drain well. Sauté onion and green pepper in butter until soft but not browned. Blend in flour. Gradually stir in milk. Cook, stirring, until sauce boils and thickens. Blend in bouillon cubes, mustard, salt and cheese. Stir over low heat until cheese melts. Add chicken and cauliflower. Heat slowly, just until piping hot. Cut slices cornerwise into quarters. Turn hot cooked mixture into serving dish and sprinkle lightly with paprika. Arrange toast points upright around edges of casserole. Makes 4 servings.

Portable Meal In Minutes...

Spinach Pasties

This new version of the traditional cornish pastie is a good economical solution to busy day meals. Make the pasties quickly and easily with frozen spinach and refrigerated crescent rolls. Colorful frozen spinach offers a delicious flavor and texture all its own while adding substantial amounts of Vitamin A, C, and iron.

To prepare, simply flatten the refrigerator rolls into squares. A little water on your fingertips will make shaping the dough easier. Spoon on the filling and fold the roll over to form a pastie ready for the oven. A meal this good couldn't be any easier.

SPINACH CORNISH PASTIES

8 ounces bulk sausage
1/2 cup finely chopped onion (1 medium onion)
1 can (4 ounces) mushrooms, stems and pieces, drained
1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach, thawed and drained thoroughly
1 cup shredded sharp Cheddar cheese

A Brunch Brightener...

Broccoli Quiche

For your next party, your guests will think you spent hours in the kitchen preparing and fussing over this elegant Broccoli Sausage Quiche. But, you don't have to. Prepare it days before and store it in your freezer. Before the guests arrive, pop one or several quiches in the oven to warm. It's that easy.

Broccoli Sausage Quiche is as easy to prepare as it is elegant. Most of the ingredients can be found right in your refrigerator. Eggs, milk, cheese and frozen chopped broccoli combine with pre-cooked sausage, frozen broccoli, onion powder, and economical convenience. Using frozen broccoli eliminates the drygravy of washing, trimming and chopping its raw counterpart.

Broccoli Sausage Quiche at your next party is making sure you'll have enough to go around. This elegant quiche will delight your guests, and they're sure to go back for a second or even a third helping.

Cool soup is welcome in summer.

Say 'Cheers' With Chilled Soup Raise A Toast To Dairy Month

Just as welcome as hot soup is in winter, so is cool soup in summer. Rather than using an all-meat or chicken broth base, use part chicken broth and part milk products to give a cream color and consistency to the mixture.

In Icy Orange-Carrot Soup, the fruit juice points up the flavor of the vegetable. Mild onion, sautéed in butter for the base, contributes a certain dimension to the carrots while nutmeg adds a gourmet touch to the soup. Use the blender for easy pureeing after the carrots are cooked in broth and juice. Half and half needs only be stirred into the vegetable mixture after blending. Five hours will chill the soup thoroughly so it is indeed ice cold for serving on a sweltering afternoon.

Green onion, basil and yogurt are compatible with watercress in another of the chilled soups so ideal for summertime eating. Here a thickened sauce is prepared for the base, after the watercress and onion are cooked in butter. The blender will reduce both of these vegetables to the desired smaller shades and give the soup a smooth consistency; then it's ready to have yogurt stirred in for a satisfying soup.

Take advantage of the chilling time needed for both of these soups either by making them the day before or at least in the cool of the morning. It will be an easy lunch or supper if you serve them in chilled bowls with crackers, then nibble on fruit or berries for dessert.

Thefts Wane Despite Gas Price Hikes

By GEOFFREY POUNDS
Herald Staff Writer

Area motorists angry over the rising price of gas have not yet turned to thievery, police say.

The incidence of persons pulling away from self-service gas pumps without paying has not shown a marked increase in the past few months despite price increases at some stations of up to 20 cents per gallon, according to Sgt. William Bernsky of the Sanford police.

"The rate of incidence has leveled off to about two or three times a week. That's about the same as it was when the gas prices were lower," he said.

The trend corresponds to other areas of the state, where officials report no dramatic increase in gas theft. In Dade County, Public Safety Department Detective John Masteller said he thinks the longer lines at gas stations may actually have made it harder to escape without paying.

Bob Nicholas, manager of Bob's Chevron Station at Highway 17-92 and Airport Boulevard, Sanford, thinks it is not a matter of the lines, it's just a matter of honesty.

"Surprisingly, we haven't had any problem at all. People are frustrated with the high price of gas, but they're not taking it out by stealing from me," he said. "I've only had one recent incident of a customer skipping without paying and he was a regular. He came back a little while later, embarrassed, and paid me."

However, Nicholas is quick to point out that his self-service pumps are close to the office, and he says, "we keep a pretty close eye on the customers."

But Ruth Burger, manager of the Sanford Sunoco Station near Interstate 4, said she has definitely noticed an increase in the number of skippers. The easy access to 4, she said, may be a factor. The greatest number of offenders, according to Mrs. Burger, are the younger drivers who come by in the late evening.

"We used to get about one a day," she said. "But now we have the self-service pump locked so an attendant has to open it before the customer can use it. That's cut the figure down to about zero. Still, if the attendant is busy, one will get away every now and then."

Other gas station owners say the problem is annoying, but not worth going to court over. One gas station owner offered an explanation for not going to court—it's too time consuming and costs more money than the theft.

"I had to go to court twice for $6 worth of gas and the county had to pay me $12 for going to court. It's just a waste," said Mark Reubin, co-owner of Kendall Drive Mobil in southwest Miami.

But Reubin said he thinks gas skipping is becoming more frequent even if it's not being reported. His station has been hit three or four times a week, up from once a month last year, he said.

Another service station operator, who asked to remain unidentified, said he has a "secret" to keep motorists from skipping out. He said he wears his "secret" on his hip.

Local Education Inferior? July 18 Hearing Is Set

By SHARON CARRASCO
Herald Staff Writer

A Longwood woman will voice her complaint that her two sons received an inferior education during the three years they attended Seminole County schools at a public hearing July 18.

Ned Julian, school board attorney, recommended Wednesday the hearing be held, since Mrs. Norma Tyree of 348 E. Palmto Ave., Longwood, did not seek any "specific relief."

The hearing will be at 7:30 p.m. July 18 at the Seminole County School board administrative office.

Mrs. Tyree said her son was tested for special learning disabilities while a student at Longwood Elementary School without her knowledge. Her son attended Longwood Elementary School from October, 1975 to June, 1978, she said.

Mrs. Tyree said her son was transferred into a special class for students with learning disabilities and then later to a regular classroom in the same school year.

Her six-year-old son, Douglas ran into a similar problem while he was in kindergarten. Douglas has a speech impediment, she said.

After the public hearing date was set, the same large group of parents and teachers gathered to give their pro and con views on the controversial levels tests.

Gene Grooms, executive director of the Seminole Education Association (SEA), spoke on behalf of his sons, Stever and Andy, in opposition of the levels tests.

He told the school board teacher discretion and regular classroom should be taken into consideration for pupil progression. Parents are so angered over the tests, they may sue the school board, he said.

"If you push any of these parents, they are going to bring some class action suit against you," Grooms warned.

Superintendent of Schools William Lyster said he preferred being sued for having the levels tests than for some other reason.

"Any class action suit for having an objective measurement of the performance of a student will not hold up in any court in the land," Lyster said.

The graduating seniors who are unable to read and write are the ones who are winning the lawsuits, he said.

Lyster was instructed by the board to come up with, by the next board meeting, some recommendations for revising the levels tests.

Graham Confers On Bill To Protect Policy Holders

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Gov. Bob Graham conferred today with his staff on whether to sign into law a bill preventing losses by holders of health and life insurance policies in the state.

Part of the impetus for the bill passed during the recent session of the legislature was the losses suffered by Seminole County school employees when Old Security Life Insurance Co. of Kansas City, Mo. went into receivership after the 1976-77 year.

County school employees have unpaid claims totaling more than $500,000 against the firm.

The bill calls for establishment of a guaranty fund by domestic insurance companies pooling resources to pick up the coverages and claims of individuals when an insurance company goes bankrupt.

State Rep. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, a member of the House of Representatives insurance committee, cited the problems of the Seminole School board employees as a "telling example" of the need for the legislation.

Despite heavy lobbying by the insurance industry, Hattaway said, the bill passed both houses of the legislature.

The legislation would place the life and health insurance firms under the control of Florida insurance commissioner Bill Gunter's office and would establish a fund to protect policy holders, insureds and beneficiaries from financial loss when insurers became insolvent.

Assessments to health and life insurance companies are to be offset against corporate income taxes, according to the legislation.

School Superintendent William P. Lyster and Gene Grooms, executive director of the Seminole Education Association "strongly endorse" the legislation.

Similar legislation was adopted by the Legislature in 1970 concerning property and casualty insurance.

"I'm strongly in favor of the legislation," Lyster said. "It would have saved school personnel, doctors, dentists and hospitals a lot of grief when Old Security went into receivership and stopped all payment on claims," he said.

The Seminole school system had a contract with Old Security Life Insurance Co. to provide hospitalization and life insurance for the system's 3,000 employees and families in 1976-77. Toward the end of the contract period the Kansas City, Mo. insurance firm stopped paying insurance claims and checks issued by the firm to Seminole County claims bureaus.

"The legislation would have been a great help if it had been in effect in Seminole when the problem with Old Security Life Insurance Company developed. Some 1,500 school board employees have outstanding claims against the company ranging from $50 to $50,000," Grooms said.

Lyster said toward the end of a one-year contract of all school employees and dependents for life and health insurance with Old Securities Life Insurance Company during the 1976-77 year, payment was stopped on claims and the firm went into receivership. It was the first year the school system had coverage with the firm.

STARS & STRIPES HAVE THEIR DAY

Court Alters Death Ruling

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI)—The Florida Supreme Court, with justices unable to agree on the death penalty, sentenced Death Row inmate George Thomas Vasil to life imprisonment today.

Vasil, 20, convicted in the death of a 12-year-old Fort Pierce girl who suffocated when he stuffed her underpants in her mouth after trying to rape her, will not be eligible for parole for at least 25 years.

The high court also returned two other death cases to the trial judges with orders to review them to see if they still think the death penalty is justified.

The court voted 4-2 to uphold the first degree murder conviction given Vasil.

Justices Alan Sundberg and Joseph Hatcher favored reversing the conviction and ordering a new trial on grounds the trial judge did not properly instruct the jury. Since they did not agree with the conviction, court rules precluded them from passing on the sentence.

The four members who voted to uphold the conviction split on the sentence. James Adkins Jr. and Ben Overton voted for death. Chief Justice Arthur England wanted the case returned to the trial court to take another look at the sentence, and Justice Joe Boyd wanted to immediately reduce the sentence to life.

Vasil was 15 on Sept. 19, 1974, when Pamela Vasser was murdered in Fort Pierce.
