Morrison Says Action Would End Great-est Price Debacle Ever Seen In Nation

LONDON, June 10.—(A.P.)—Opinion that there is not the slightest belief in the United States that the dollar will be returned to its gold parity was expressed today by Ralph Morrison, member of the American delegation to the world economic conference. "If the dollar is returned to its old basis there will be the greatest debacle in prices ever seen," Morrison said. "The people who are running from money to securities and properties would run back to money and the fall in prices would be terrific."

The premier avoided even mention of the debt although the time for action is fast disappearing. He will go to the world economic conference Sunday assured of Parliament's backing for his policy of international collaboration.

He will succeed Riger Peckinpah whose regime was reported frequently to be satisfactory to the Indians' management. The team has been losing more than half of its starts of late and has dropped from first to fifth place in the American League race. Selection of Johnson came as complete surprise to sports, all of whom have been picking various baseball figures for Peck's job.

REDUCED WHEAT CROP IN U. S. WILL NOT SUPPLY NEED

Severe Damage From Bad Weather Tolerated In Short Crop

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(A.P.)—Government crop reports, charting the severe damage produced by bad weather conditions to wheat, yesterday indicated that American production of the grain will fall short of domestic needs for the first time this century.

On the basis of its reports, total production of 603,000,000 bushels is estimated, while the nation's use from 620,000,000 bushels upwards each year without considering exports or shipments to territories and insular possessions, long an important factor.

The board also forecast yesterday a below normal production of rice and peaches and a slightly increased crop of pears. It estimated rice production on the basis of June 1 condition at 30,000,000 bushels compared with average production from 1926 to 1930 of 40,600,000 bushels.

It forecast a peach crop of 46,100,000 bushels compared with the 1926-1930 average of 55,600,000 bushels and a crop last year of 42,400,000. It estimated production of pears at 23,300,000 bushels, compared with 22,900,000 bushels, the average from 1926 to 1930 and production last year of 19,100,000 bushels.

The board reported that corn planting has been extremely light in the Mississippi and Ohio valleys largely because of excessive rainfall last month. It said that only about one-third of the Illinois corn acreage was planted by June 1 when it is usually nearly complete while in Indiana planting was about 60 percent complete on the same date and in Ohio about 60 percent.

Judge Smith ordered the case continued for the term, and the girl remains in the County Jail. A first trial ended in a mistrial.

A jury composed of G. L. Bledsoe, C. F. Prevatt, L. E. Stevens, C. C. Cox, W. M. Brown, and R. M. Carraway, after hearing a civil suit brought by Beck and Gray Hardware Co. against the Smith Jordan Co., the $1500 damages returned a verdict of $671.00 and costs in favor of the plaintiff.

HOUSE OKEYS WILCOX BILL TO AID CITIES

Measure Goes To Senate Where Its Fate Remains Uncertain; Passage Doubtful

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(A.P.)—The municipal bankruptcy bill was passed late yesterday by the House and sent to the Senate to take an uncertain place on a crowded calendar.

The measure, permitting cities and other taxing subdivisions to work out debt adjustments with the approval of a federal court and two-thirds of the bondholders, met many delays in the House and there was no certain indication that it would appear through the Senate in the last minute jam.

Sen. A. H. Hays, (D., Ariz.), had hoped to get before the Senate today an identical bill he introduced and which was referred to a Judiciary subcommittee.

A last minute attempt to kill the bill by sending it back to committee was rejected in the House 173-102.

Message was by voice vote, which went unquestioned by the opposition.

Similar refinancing leeway was extended last session to railroads and individuals and the House has passed another bill to permit corporate reorganizations.

In the debate, Wilcox, (D., Fla.), told the House that "unless some means can be found for readjustment of their basis to pay, local governments will collapse and the people will find themselves without the protection of their normal municipal and other local government protection and accommodation."

He estimated more than 4,000 such governmental units were in default, and named Akron and Lorain, Ohio, Miami, St. Petersburg and West Palm Beach, Fla., Asheville, Raleigh and other cities throughout the country as in need of the refinancing relief.

CROP PROVISION LOANS ALL SET TO AID GROWERS

Requirements In Order To Get Assistance Are Revealed

ORLANDO, June 10.—(A.P.)—Crop provision loans to help Florida citrus growers over the bad spots of finance are assured and federal funds are now available for experienced growers who can furnish adequate security.

This information, which comes as welcome news to thousands of Superior Florida growers, was received yesterday from the Regional Agricultural Credit Corp. of Raleigh, N. C., and its branch affiliate in Marion, Ga.

Agricultural and livestock production loans have now been authorized and loans or advances to experienced farmers of Florida will be made on an interest rate of 7 to 12 percent for the period of the loan.

Appraisal and inspection fees have been eliminated but the borrower must pay the cost of securing a title check certificate and for the recording of the mortgage and drawing up the papers.

Loans will be made to individuals, partners or corporations, with the exception of co-operatives. The person or persons engaged in the production of fruit must depend upon it for their livelihood.

Purpose of the loans is primarily for producing the crop but where the crop prospect is sufficient warrant a loan of larger amount. The increased amount may be used to pay delinquent taxes on the property and for certain indebtedness.

As explained in a news bulletin from the corporation the amount of the loan should not exceed the amount which can from past operations, reasonably be expected to repay out of the proceeds of the coming crop.

Following is the complete procedure to follow in order to obtain a crop production loan:

The Marion branch of the Regional Agricultural Corporation of Raleigh, N. C., which handles Georgia and Florida, is authorized to make agricultural and livestock loans or advances to experienced farmers who can provide adequate security. The present rate of interest on such loans is 7 to 12 percent per annum, for (Continued On Page Six)

SENATOR ADVISES MAYO REGARDING LOANS ON GROVES

Citrus Raisers Will Be Able To Borrow Up To $250 An Acre

TALLAHASSEE, June 10.—(A.P.)—Florida citrus growers will be able to borrow from $200 to $250 an acre on groves in good condition from the Federal Land Bank of Columbia, S. C., Senator Fletcher advised Nathan Mayo, State Commissioner of Agriculture yesterday.

Fletcher's telegram to Mayo said Henry Morgenthau, governor of the Farm Credit Administration, has announced the following decision regarding the policy to be followed by the Federal Land Bank of Columbia, S. C., in making loans on citrus groves in Florida:

"Loans may be made in favorable areas on a basis of approximately one-quarter of the commercial value or one-third of the appraised value given (on condition that the grove is being well maintained, is in good condition, is on soil adapted to the growing of trees and that the owner is a good moral and credit risk."

"That on a good standard of conditions as above described loans of $200 per acre running up to possibly $250 in exceptional cases, represent about the maximum possibilities for Land Bank loans, under the terms of approximately 12 years."

Mayo issued another statement warning citrus growers the recent Legislature did not repeal state laws prohibiting the use of arsenic on bearing citrus fruit trees and saying his department will enforce the law strictly.

His statement: "Those growers and shippers who have already arsenated their groves anticipating the law will be changed are now trying to persuade other growers to use arsenic (Continued on Page Three)

Police Believe Explosion Was Result Of "Bitter Fight" Between Rival Firms

NORTH ARLINGTON, N. J., June 10.—(A.P.)—With the toll of disaster temporarily fixed at eight dead, five missing, and at least 75 injured, a preliminary investigation into a celluloid plant explosion today developed evidence pointing to industrial warfare as the cause of the holocaust, police said.

County Detective John G. Gault told of being informed of threats of reprisal made against the operator of the Atlantic Flyrobin Waste Company plant by business rivals.

Alex Scheinert, operator of the business, is being held on charges of technical manslaughter. Gault said he had learned that Scheinert was warned recently by celluloid rivals that "bitter fight" was in the offing to determine which would stay in business.

Publics Asked For Advice On Plans To Observe Labor Day

What shall we do in Sanford on Labor Day? That is a question which the Celebrations Committee of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce is anxious to have the public answer by offering suggestions that can be embodied in a program that has economy as a keynote.

The committee was ordered into action Wednesday after members of the board of directors had decided that it is time that Sanford staged a celebration on Labor Day. The celebration will be so planned as to attract the attention of the entire state, it also was decided.

The public is asked to send in suggestions as to what features should be included in the day's program. These suggestions may be sent to the trade office by letter, telephone or personal call, or they may be handed to C. E. Adams, S. D. Higleyman or George W. McRory, members of the committees in charge.

Persons are reminded that suggestions should be those not involving large expenditures of money. The committee has decided against a free barbecue, fish fry, or similar expensive undertaking. Attention is called to the fact that the regatta which will be held next Thursday is an example of the type of celebration planned for Labor Day. All prizes for the regatta will be donated, as will gasoline and oil and no merchandise has been appraised to for cash. Only a small expenditure of funds will be required to attract well over 2000 persons.

Jimmie Mattern Pushes Onward In Round-World Hop

MOSCOW, June 10.—(A.P.)—The last stretches of a 100,000 mile hop, Jimmie Mattern hoped to reach Khabarovsk from where he will hop off for the North American continent.

Although he was unreported after passing Irkutsk he should have met fair weather conditions over the entire route. His hop for a new record around the world record has apparently been shattered but he continued confident he will establish an outstanding mark for the first solo flight around the globe.

SEVILLE, June 10.—(A.P.)—Spanish aviators, Captain Hernandez and Lieutenant Calles, hopped off today for Havana on a projected flight to Mexico City. Fair weather was promised along the route.

Cal Dennis Hurls Well To Lose To Islanders 4 To 2 In 10 Inning Contest Here

Burly Cal Dennis, called from obscurity as a Central Florida Baseball League hurler and making his first start in the league since early in 1932, earned the right to be a regular starter by muling surprisingly good baseball against the Daytona Beach Islanders who beat him, 4 to 2, after 10 innings of exciting play.

Dennis' wild pitch in the 10th sent home the winning run, while an infield hit made the victory twice as sure. The veteran was touched for 12 hits, all singles. They were well scattered, however, and although the Islanders put men on the sack in all but three innings, Dennis, with fine support, lacked of him, hurled his way out of the difficulty without a bit of trouble.

Lefty Lane turned in an other of his sparkling performances in winding his fourth straight game. He was in trouble early, and often, but his lenders had most of the Feds to lead, such as C. I. Culbreth, Harrison, and Newcomb being unable to solve his delivery. He struck out five men, as did Dennis, and bared down just at the right time to cause the Feds to roll weakly to the infield.

While Dennis, sent to the hill to the surprise of every fan in the park, was successful in keeping the Islanders away from second base for the first three innings, the Feds had two great chances to score only to fail. Bonner, first man up in the first inning, doubled to center field. He went to third on Newcomb's infield out but he short there when Barnes was out. He struck out first and Abbott struck out. Maxwell, first up in the second, did to left. He went to third

With men on first and third and two out, Barnes ended the game by rolling out to O'Brien at first. Announcement was made after the game that the Feds will go Daytona next Tuesday afternoon to play off a game that was raised out early this season. Manager Al Baker stated that Lane will pitch this game, one of the most important the Islanders will have this half. They now are one and, and with the Feds and Islanders playing here Sunday and the Islanders are playing Orlando, there is a chance that they can move up to within half a game of the lead.

The Islanders combined their hits in the fourth for the first scores. Shannon walked but was forced at second by Red Burned, so ner single to right as Burned to k second. O'Brien hit a short angle into center as Burned scored and Joiner went to second. Pert struck out but Holt n singled sharply to right, scoring Joiner. On the throw to the plate, Chapman threw to B inner to get Holton for the third at.

Neither pitcher was in trouble until the seventh when with two out, B. I. Sch angled through short and went to third on Harris' lucky hit over second. Shannon flied out, however.

The Feds got one of the runs back in their half of the seventh. Abbott doubled to left, went to third on Maxwell's infield out, and scored in Culbreth's fly to left field.

The next six men to face Dennis were easy outs, and since the Feds had tied the score in their half of the eighth on Chapman's double as first man up, Lane's wild pitch, and Bonner's sacrifice hit, the contest entered the last of the ninth with fans yelling for a score.

It nearly came, too. Barnes leat out a bunt toward second. He went to second when Lane threw wide to kck him off first, and went to third on Abbott's bunt. Maxwell walked, but Culbreth, attempting a sacrifice to score Barnes, hit directly to Lane who caught Barnes at the plate while Maxwell went to second. Harrison was an infield out.

Baker yielded the pitching burden to Wall at the beginning of the fourth after he had held the Crackers to one hit and no runs while his mates were piling up 10 runs at the expense of Goodrich.

Wall was touched for a pair of hits and no runs in the next three innings. He was relieved by Harry Porcher, who issued eight walks in the next 2 and 2-3 innings to set a new league record for free passes issued by one pitcher.

Sanford Florists Present Flowers To Local Shut-ins

Overseas Road Bill Sent To President

The recent session of the Legislature enacted two laws which, it seems to us, should prove to be of most concern to local residents and about which there is at present some confusion. One of them is known as the Futch bill and has to do with the settlement of delinquent taxes. The other is purely a local bill and is designed to defeat the collection of taxes in the City of Sanford. Both of these measures, for copies of which we are indebted to Bob Holly, were enacted in the name of tax relief.

With far more to commend it than the local bill, the Futch bill at least offers some encouragement for the payment of current taxes while providing an extension for delinquent taxes. The local bill simply makes it impossible to enforce collection of any current taxes by the city for a period of five years. The Futch bill includes the additional feature that bonds, which may be purchased at market prices, will be accepted at par by the State in settlement of tax certificates.

Specifically the Futch bill says, eliminating the legal verbiage, that "All tax certificates . . . held by the State of Florida . . . for the year of 1931 and all previous years . . . shall be held by the State . . . without sale or enforcement . . . until July, 1933, and during such period no such tax certificate or lien for delinquent taxes held or owned by the State of Florida shall be sold or transferred to any person or persons whosoever than the actual bona fide owner of the fee title to such real estate."

The bill provides that the interest rate on such tax certificates shall be reduced to five percent annually. It also provides that during this five year period when delinquent taxes need not be paid, the bona fide owner-owners of any such land shall be permitted to pay the taxes on such land for any current year beginning with the year 1932. It does not say that the current taxes MUST be paid in order to secure the benefits on delinquent taxes, it says that owners "shall be PERMITTED to pay" them.

But as some inducement to property owners to pay their current taxes, the bill further provides that "The provisions of this act (with regard to delinquent taxes) shall on July 1, 1932, be extended for an additional period of fifteen years, as to all land upon which the taxes assessed for the years of 1932, 1933, 1934, 1935 and 1936 shall have been paid in full to said July 1, 1937." In other words, in order to secure a five year extension on delinquent taxes, current taxes need not be paid. But in order to secure the additional fifteen year extension, the current taxes must be paid.

However, under another section of the bill, it is provided that all taxes subsequent to 1932 which are not paid in accordance with the existing laws of Florida may be sold under those laws. It is not necessary to pay the current taxes in order to keep the delinquent taxes from being sold, but it is necessary to pay the current taxes in order to keep them from being sold. Every inducement possible is made to encourage the payment of current taxes.

The bill further provides that during the five year period, or the additional fifteen year period, in which the State is restrained from selling delinquent taxes, "bonds or matured interest coupons of all counties or other taxing districts shall be receivable at par and in lieu of money in redemption of tax sales certificates on other evidences of tax liens held in the name of the State, covering lands sold for non-payment of State and County or other taxing District taxes to the amount of the delinquent taxes."

Now the local bill is quite a different proposition. Its provisions are made applicable not only to delinquent taxes but also to current taxes. Under the terms of this bill, "the governing authority of the City of Sanford, Florida, be and it is hereby required for a period of five years from the time that this Act becomes a law to withhold sale of and foreclosure proceedings on all tax certificates and other liens for delinquent taxes which are now held by said City, or which may hereafter be held by it during the next five years."

It is evident from this that it is no longer necessary in the City of Sanford to pay city taxes. The City can neither sell tax certificates nor can it foreclose them. Apparently the City can not prevent foreclosure proceedings on tax certificates already held by private individuals or corporations, but it can not itself foreclose any certificate which it still holds on property where the taxes have become delinquent, nor can it in the future for a period of five years sell tax certificates on any property where the taxes may yet become delinquent.

We can see no point in anyone's paying City taxes under the circumstances. The City can neither foreclose your property nor in any other way make you pay. They cannot sell your tax certificates to anyone else who might foreclose them. That plainly is the intent of this law. That it is unconstitutional goes almost without saying. We are no lawyer, and we have consulted no expert in the matter, but we do not believe the answer to any question is as easy as that.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the eighth installment of a complete explanation of the provisions of the Futch bill. It will tell you in first reader language how the bill affects YOU personally, the value of your Liberty Bonds, and how you can get the most out of the money you are now paying on your taxes.

In thinking of this war debt and international transfer subject, we must always keep in mind that a government ultimately obtains its funds only by taxation of some kind laid on its taxation of some taxes are paid in the domestic currency. The ability of the taxing government to raise large amounts of its own money by taxation does not mean that it has at its disposal the means of exchanging this money into foreign currencies. The feasibility of the latter transaction depends entirely on whether the business men and bankers of the country have accumulated balances abroad in foreign currencies which they will sell to their government for domestic money.

The one hope of all the Allies for financial reconstruction was Germany. Germany, under the Treaty of Versailles, had agreed to pay reparations, the amount of which was to be fixed by an Allied Commission. Germany was to pay for the war. What a welcome bit of news to the heavily taxed people of the Allied countries and the United States.

A few economists and a very few statesmen rose to inquire just how it would be possible for Germany—impoverished from four years of war financed almost entirely from her own internal resources, and never a very rich nation in foreign investments—to find the money to pay the fantastic sums that were being mentioned. Even if it could find these sums internally, what was Germany going to "sell" to the Allies to obtain francs and pounds and the other foreign currencies with which to make these foreign payments? The answer was emotional rather than realistic. Germany had started the war—so said the Treaty of Versailles—and must pay full reparations. If she refused, she would be forced to pay at the point of a bayonet.

Some slight recognition was given to the very real fact that Germany could not physically procure adequate amounts of foreign currencies in the first years after the war, and it was provided that she could make "payments in kind"—shipments of electrical materials, building materials, coal, etc., to the Allies—for the value of which she was given credit on reparations account by the receiving country. But, by and large, Germany could make no cash payments abroad and did not do so—much to the chagrin of the Allies, particularly France.

The British and the French attitudes towards reparations were fundamentally different. Great Britain is primarily a trading country—the financial center and formerly the industrial and trading center of the world. She lives on foreign trade and the services that accompany it. Hence a prosperous world meant far more to Great Britain than did the satisfaction of any feelings of revenge towards Germany. Germany had been a good customer for British goods before the war, and her return to prosperity would mean good trade again.

France, on the other hand, was a manufacturing country. Her policy did not interest the British, and the British saw, probably more clearly than those of any other country, that the reparations payments and inter-governmental war debts, arising as they did out of transactions whose assets had disappeared by destruction long since, would place a strain on the trade of the world that would tend to hold it in check and prevent its resuming its normal development and growth.

It should be borne clearly in mind that Great Britain emerged from the war with large war debts due her. She had, prior to the entry of the United States into the war, loaned heavily to her Allies—France, Italy, and Russia. She was owed just under eight billions of dollars. A large part of her loans, however, had been made to Russia, and were of only academic value after the war. Nevertheless, Great Britain was a creditor. The principal the four-day trial had caused a nervous collapse. Maxwell first became violent early yesterday in the jury room, where it was reported the jury stood 11 to 1 for a second degree murder conviction. He was quieted but broke down again later in the courtroom and Judge Frank Smith, of Orlando declared a mistrial. The juror cried repeatedly that his stomach had been cut and believed himself to be suffering the agonies he had heard described at the trial as those of the victim. Grimes was slain by a knife wound in the abdomen.

Brown did not deny killing Grimes but said he acted in self-defense. George Brown, brother of Charles and father-in-law of Grimes, was indicted Thursday in the same case by a directed verdict.

amount of her debt to the United States was slightly more than $10 billion dollars. Thus she was not creditor on war debt account by almost the amount of her debt to the United States, regardless of possible reparations receipts.

Therefore the position taken by her in the famous Balfour note of 1922 is understandable, viz., that she would not attempt to collect more from her Allies and from Germany than she in turn might be compelled to pay to the United States on account of her war debts. This policy was in effect a subtle plea for cancellation of all inter-governmental indebtedness—indebtedness which would, as a practical matter of arithmetic, have cost Great Britain nothing—assuming that Russian debts and reparations were approximately worth nothing—and would have at one stroke enhanced the value of all private debts throughout the world and reopened the avenues of trade without the artificial restrictions which were bound to be placed upon them by the necessity for transferring huge unproductive sums across international boundaries, whether or not trade balances justified their payment.

In the Balfour note, Great Britain was making a virtue of a necessity. She appeared to be willing to give up some eight billion dollars of debts owed to her by her Allies, plus whatever reparations Germany might be able to pay her—while at the same time suggesting that the United States give up and cancel over ten billions of dollars of war debts owing by the Allies to the Treasury.

The United States government immediately perceived the joker in this proposal. This was, according to the comments of our officials, that Great Britain, whose credit was good, and whose sense of commercial honesty was so high that she would never willingly default on her just debts, was attempting to be relieved of her valuable obligations to the United States in return for apparently renouncing a more or less equal net amount of worthless debts from Russia and other insolvent countries. Our own officials replied that Great Britain's policy did not interest the United States. We would not recognize the pertinency of the British suggestion and would require our debtors to pay us what they owed. If Great Britain chose to adopt some other policy with her debtors, that was her affair. We also took occasion to point out that we were not asking for any part of the German reparations payments, nor had we received any of the former German colonies when they were divided up among the victors under mandates pursuant to the Treaty of Versailles. The implication was that we saw no reason why Great Britain and the Allies could not and should not pay. Indeed, that has been our official policy throughout the period since the war. Our only concession to the exigencies of the situation has been the adoption of a principle which based the debt-funding agreements with each country on "capacity to pay"—another way of rather solemnly saying that in practice we took only as much as we could persuade each individual debtor nation to agree to pay.

The Aviation Committee of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce has been called into service to make arrangements which will result in the establishment of a St. Johns Valley Airways intermediate landing field within the race track at Seminole Driving Park near Longwood.

Major A. B. McAllen, of Tampa, state director of Aviation, with Lieut. E. C. Nilsson, of Orlando, was here Wednesday inspecting possible sites for intermediate fields in this county. He recommended that the infield of the race track be made available as soon as possible.

He pointed out that the infield is slightly east of the regular lane traveled by Eastern Air Transport planes, and slightly west of the lane traveled by private planes. The site would be an ideal one, he added.

The Seminole Driving Park is owned by W. N. Reynolds, Winston-Salem millionaire, and Ben F. White, Louisville, whose horses train at the Park during the season.

SOLONS PASSING BUCK TO SHOLTZ REGARDING BILLS

Legislators Declare He Is Blame If Results Don't Come

OKECHOBEE, June 10.—If relief measures passed by the Legislature fail to give the results expected, the fault will lie entirely with Governor Sholtz, members of the Legislature, addressing a mass meeting here, said last night. Approximately 1000 persons heard speeches by Chairman MacWilliams of the House rules committee; Speaker Tomasello, Representative Kanner, of Martin; Senator Beacham, of West Palm Beach; Representative Butler, of Charlotte; Representative Dennison, St. Leo; Representative Boyd, DeSoto, and Senator Raulerson, St. Lucie.

Most of the speakers assailed the bonded debt funding bill, which failed to pass the Legislature by one vote in the House. The crowd applauded the attacks on the bill.

Representative MacWilliams said:

"The House rules committee committing itself to place before the House for consideration only administration measures, which were recommended by the Governor. This was done and if the measures enacted fail to give the relief the people expect, the responsibility rests entirely upon the Governor, for the House considered his measures which were given right of way over all others."

MacWilliams attacked the bonded debt bill, which would have given the state board of administration wide power over the fiscal affairs of taxing districts defaulting in bond payments. He termed the bill "most undemocratic."

Kanner expressed gratitude "that the principle of Democracy permitting the people to manage their local governments' affairs was retained by the defeat of this bill."

"The measure disregarded a cardinal virtue of the constitution of our state and federal governments," Beacham said. "This state has never needed a dictator. The House action in defeating the act, he said, 'preserved Democracy in Florida.'

"The field laboratory at Winter Haven will be opened at once, to analyze samples of foliage and fruit taken by inspectors, as well as for testing samples of spray and spray materials."

"A survey shows considerable quantities of arsenic have been sold by insecticide houses. There is also evidence that a good many growers are being influenced to use arsenic spray, but it is not being found in any such quantities as is being proclaimed by sponsors of arsenic."

"I can't too strongly emphasize this warning to citrus growers; that the arsenic law will be enforced to the fullest extent of my ability and just as long as our resources will permit."

Trinity Sunday differs from all others in the Christian year for it does not celebrate an event, but a doctrine. Though the word itself does not occur in the Bible, the doctrine is very clearly revealed; indeed, our Lord sent His Apostles to baptize in the Name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost.

Notable Cast In Film To Open Here Sunday

Robert Montgomery, Madge Evans, Jimmy Bruns, Eugene Pallette and Robert Young head an outstanding cast in "Hell Below" sensational drama of submarine warfare which opens Sunday at the Milano Theater as a novelization of the widely read novel, "Pigeons," by Commander Edward Ellsberg. With thrills of submarine adventure, action under the surface of the ocean, top-pling destroyers, the destruction of an Italian fortress, and hair-raising escapes from depth bombs and mine layers, the story depicts the romance between a naval lieutenant and the daughter of his commander. The picture was filmed with the co-operation of the United States Navy, much of its action having been photographed on location at the naval base in Honolulu. Jack Conway directed.

"Laymen's Day" Will Be Observed Sunday

"Laymen's Day" will be observed in all the Methodist Churches in the Florida Conference on Sunday, June 11, and special services will be conducted at the First Methodist Church of this city, with the leading laymen of the church in charge. An interesting program has been arranged for both morning and evening services.

Roland Shannon, leading layman of the Orlando District, and Superintendent of the Florida Methodist Orphanage at Benson Springs, will speak at the evening service at which time a quartette of girls from the Orphanage will sing.

William N. Ellis, of Orlando, spent yesterday here on business.

Arthur Dooley Bridges left today for Raleigh, N. C. to spend a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bridges. From there he will go to Commencement exercises at Duke University, Durham, N. C., and then to a camp near Washington, D. C., for the remaining part of the summer.

FIGHT IS BEGUN ON RACKETEERS BY 'CRUSADERS'

Group Founded To Aid Dry Law Repeat In Working New Field

NEW YORK, June 10—Placing the blame for the prevalence of racketeering in the United States originally on a repeal organization, directly upon the shoulders of unscrupulous politicians, a nationwide campaign against the racketeer was launched at a mass meeting in Carnegie Hall here under the sponsorship of the Crusaders, recently.

The suggestion that youths under 20 could do a better job than some of the officials now in office because simple, forthright, intellectual honesty is what we most need in the conduct of our city government, was made by Maj. Gen. John F. O'Bryan.

"I venture to say that if some than is likely to be otherwise accomplished."

Full co-operation in running down the racketeer wherever in the United States he might try to ply his trade was promised by Homer S. Cummings, Attorney General of the United States, in a telegraph message to the meeting.

"Racketeering," he said, "must not be permitted to thrive in our land of ordered liberty. It must be put down as a national menace, the existence of which negates the existence of the United States."

Fred G. Clark, commander-in-chief of the Crusaders, asserted that "the racketeers could be eliminated immediately if the political pirates who make it possible for them to exist were removed and replaced by honest public officials."

Robert Appleton, president of the New York County Grand Jurors Association, sent a communication in which he urged upon the governors of New York and other states to call special grand juries, with special counsel to adequately fight the racketeer and added that "these grand juries could sit indefinitely until the condition has been relieved and the criminal driven to cover."

COOL KID LININGS

Like the slip which goes under the frock and accounts so greatly for the well fitting or ill fitting appearance of the gown, the lining of the shoe is a thing rarely seen by persons other than the wearer—but how much it means to her! So many women discovered last year that they were not entirely comfortable in the unlined sports shoes, that this year the shops are making much of the excellent linings in their shoes, and it's a sign of one's sophistication to look into the linings when buying new shoes. Stores are talking about their thin kid shoes lined with even thinner kid—to emphasize the point of coolness.

Do you know why she wasn't welcome? She, herself, didn't. Halitosis (bad breath), the special fault no one forgives, was the reason. Yet no one need have halitosis. Gargling with Listerine instantly destroys mouth odors and checks infection. Use it daily. Recent tests show that Listerine promptly overcomes odors ordinary antiseptics can't hide in 4 days.
