Money for Christmas sought

SANFORD — Sanford businessman Sylvester Chang is heading a drive to raise $2,000 to buy gifts and put on a Christmas party for the children who live in Sanford public housing projects.

Only $85 has been raised by the Housing Authority for the annual Christmas party, which involves a gift-giving visit from Santa.

"If Sanford citizens are seriously concerned about crime and keeping kids in school they have to show these kids we care about them," Chang said. "If every person in the community contributed 10 cents we'd have $3,000."

Chang said he plans to contact political leaders and Sanford businessmen to solicit money, or new toys. Anyone who wishes to contribute to the fund should call Chang at 322-4924.

Impact fee collections

You may owe county hundreds and not even know about it

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — That new home you've bought in Sanford, Casselberry or Winter Springs during the last two years may cost you another $445 or more if county road impact fees have not been paid for it.

Seminole County officials say numerous homes have been sold and resold in the three cities without the fees being paid. The fees weren't paid while a two-year lawsuit was pending to decide if the county had the right to collect the fees. Nearly $1 million in unpaid debts has accumulated from the three cities, said county capital programs analyst Pam Hastings.

The fee has been imposed since July 1, 1987 on new homes and other construction throughout the county to help pay for road improvements needed by new residents. South county cities pay $529 per home and north county residents, including Sanford, pay $445 per home. New commercial buildings and other structures require larger fees.

To help collect the fees, Seminole County commissioners Tuesday ordered that the unpaid bills be recorded in official land records at the Seminole LONGWOOD — Reporting crime in your neighborhood could be profitable under a new neighborhood crime watch sponsored by local realtors.

Watson Realty kicked off its "It's Alright to be a Nosy Neighbor" program Dec. 4. Through the program, the Jacksonville-based company will pay rewards to local residents who report crime in their neighborhoods.

The company is providing details for participants to place in their windows. When a report to the police by a participant leads to the arrest and conviction of a felon, Watson awards that person $500.

Watson has begun the program in several markets across the state. The company has 50 offices across Florida, including seven in Seminole and Orange counties.

"The reason we are doing this is because we feel that safe neighborhoods are easier to develop," Watson administrative director Kathleen Caldwell said.

Watson associates are presenting the program to local churches, community groups and homeowner associations.

City officials from across Seminole County met with Watson representatives Monday to discuss implementing the program.

For more information about the program, contact Watson's regional corporate office at 1712 Lee Road, Winter Park.

485-home Wekiva subdivision OK'd

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners have approved unanimously the 485-home Alaquia Lakes subdivision next to the Little Wekiva River.

The project was derided by Markham Woods Road-area residents and environmentalists as damaging to both the rural character of the area and the wetlands near the Little Wekiva River. However, commissioners approved the project this week because Alaquia Lakes developer Sid Roche offered to donate nearly 500 acres of wetlands to the county.

Only one person spoke against the project Tuesday night, however, saying it would impact residents living in the area now through increased traffic, said county planner Tony Matthews.

Roche has offered to preserve 481 acres on 2 1/2 miles of river frontage in return for permission to destroy 61 acres of wetlands on the 1,228 Alaquia Lakes site, located due west of the end of Lake Mary Boulevard. Roche argued the wetlands had been altered by draining and were no longer in natural condition.

The project faces state opposition from several agencies, including the Departments of Community Affairs and Natural Resources. County officials received a letter from the agencies Friday saying they were opposed to it because it violates protection of the rural character of the Wekiva River area as required by the Wekiva River Protection Act.

The two agencies also wrote destruction of the wetlands also violated the act passed in 1988.

Problems at launch pad 39A force delay of shuttle launch

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — The launch of the shuttle Columbia next week on a 10-day Christmas flight will be delayed at least two days, to Dec. 20, because of slow progress completing launch pad modifications, NASA officials said.

Columbia and its three-man, two-woman crew are scheduled for takeoff at 6:26 p.m. EST next Wednesday to launch one satellite and return another to Earth. It will be the year's sixth shuttle flight and the second night launch in a row.

Launch had been scheduled for 7:29 p.m. EST Monday, but work to complete a variety of modifications on launch pad 39A, last used in 1986, has taken longer than expected. After a teleconference Wednesday, NASA managers decided that launch would have to be delayed to next Wednesday at the earliest.

"Extra time is needed to validate systems at launch pad 39A and to ready shuttle Columbia to support launch," the space agency said in a statement.

Calling a launch on Dec. 20 "success oriented," NASA said that "if steps involving first use of launch pad 39A continue to run slightly behind schedule, a slip to the 21st is likely."

Columbia's crew — commander Daniel Brandenstein, 46, copilot James Wetherbee, 37, Bonnie Dunbar, 40, Marsha Lyns, 38, and G. David Low, 33 — plans to fly to the Kennedy Space Center this weekend for the start of the countdown.

The new launch date will limit the number of days NASA has to get the shuttle into orbit. Agency officials have said Columbia will not be launched on Christmas eve or Christmas day, so if the shuttle is delayed past Dec. 23, the flight would be postponed to after the holiday.

But William Lemon, NASA's associate administrator for space flight, said "we feel confident about readiness for a pre-Christmas lift-off."

The goal of the 10-day mission is the launch of a Navy Syncom communications satellite and the retrieval and return to Earth of the Long Duration Exposure Facility — LDEF — a 21,000-pound satellite dropped off in orbit in 1984 to find out how high-tech materials are affected by long-term exposure to the space environment.

Another major goal of the mission

MISSION FACTS

- Shuttle: Columbia
- Launch date: Wednesday, Dec. 20
- Launch time: 6:26 p.m. (tentative)
- Crew: Five persons (3 men, 2 women)
- Flight duration: 10 days
- Mission: To launch Navy Syncom communications satellite and retrieve LDEF satellite placed in orbit in 1984 to study the effects of long-term space environment exposure to high-tech equipment.

NOTE: This is the sixth shuttle flight of 1989 and the third manned U.S. space mission in the last three months.

is to test Columbia's systems over an extended mission as part of a program to eventually certify shuttles for flights lasting 16 days or more.

It will be the sixth shuttle flight of 1989, the eighth since the Challenger disaster, and the third U.S. manned space mission in three months, a record many observers believed would be difficult or impossible to meet in the conservative post-Challenger environment.

Port's largest tenant details its expansion

By BRAD CHURCH
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The Port of Sanford's largest and oldest tenant has announced the signing of a 10-year renewal of its lease, and expansion of its Sanford facilities.

Port Everglades Steel Corp. (PESCO) of Fort Lauderdale, was the port's first tenant, and occupies a 50,500-square-foot warehouse and steel distribution business.

Michael S. Levin, president of Titan Industrial Corporation of New York, parent company of PESCO, said besides signing the long-term lease with the Port of Sanford, the company will triple its office space at the site, double its truck fleet and increase its weekly trips to customers from two to five times a week.

Levin said the decision to renew and expand PESCO's Central Florida operations is a factor in the bright economic forecast for the area.

PESCO President Brian Gordon cited a recent University of Florida economic forecast which called the Orlando area "a vibrant, tourist-based industry that ranks second in the state in population growth." The study also predicted that manufacturing jobs would increase from a current 56,800 to 75,900 in the next 10 years.

Gordon said the optimistic economic forecast is borne out by the recent study showing the Orlando area leading the nation in hotel rooms. "That study showed that 11,000 new hotel rooms are planned or under construction, and are scheduled

14-year-old rapist gets life sentence

PENSACOLA — An Escambia circuit judge who said a 14-year-old convicted rapist is "beyond help" has sentenced him to life in prison for sexually assaulting an elderly woman at knife-point.

"I'm going to try to send him away for as long as I can," said Escambia County Circuit Judge Nick Gecker before imposing the sentence Tuesday afternoon on defendant Joe Harris Sullivan of Pensacola.

Gecker said Sullivan "is beyond help. ... The juvenile system has been utterly incapable of doing anything with Mr. Sullivan."

Authorities said Sullivan was 13 when he broke into a west Pensacola home May 4 and stole jewelry and cash. Nobody was home at the time. But Sullivan returned later and, armed with a knife, raped an elderly woman twice.

Sullivan was tried last month as an adult. A jury deliberated for little more than a half-hour before deciding he was guilty of burglary, theft and sexual battery.

Stolen coins used to buy lottery tickets

PANAMA CITY — A man who allegedly stole $250,000 worth of rare coins, stamps and jewelry from a Bay County home was arrested after he used some of the coins to buy lottery tickets, authorities said Wednesday.

Larry Alvin White, 30, of Panama City Beach, was charged with burglary and grand theft in connection with the break-in. At his initial court appearance Wednesday his bond was set at $4,500.

The Bay County Sheriff's Department said the burglary occurred last week between Thursday and Sunday from a safe at a home in the community of Parker, about five miles east of Panama City.

White was arrested after convenience store employees reported an unusually large number of silver coins being used to purchase lottery tickets. Police said White was wearing an earring stolen from the home when he was arrested.

DUI conviction brings nine-year sentence

MIAMI — A Miami man who pleaded no contest to a charge of driving under the influence and manslaughter in the death of a 15-year-old Coral Gables High School student will serve nine years in prison.

Circuit Judge Norman Gerstein choked back tears Wednesday as he sentenced Gilberto Ruiz, 59, to nine years in prison and 10 years probation for the death of Eileen McCaughan.

As part of the plea, Ruiz gave up his driver's license permanently and agreed to speak at public schools. Ruiz received the nine year sentence for the DUI-manslaughter charge, and the 10 years probation for two counts of causing serious injury while driving drunk.

"Since speaking to the family, I have searched for the right words which could adequately express the loss and devastation which your actions have caused," said Gerstein. "Truthfully, there just aren't any. This case has caused as much pain, anger, bitterness and depression as any case this court has ever seen."

Ruiz's car collided with a car carrying McCaughan and two other girls.

Woman drowns 3-year-old in septic tank

CRAWFORDVILLE — A Wakulla County woman has been sentenced to life in prison for drowning her 3 year old son, Jonathan, in a septic tank.

Circuit Judge Charles McClure called the drowning the "saddest and most despicable and heinous crime I've heard of in my lifetime," but followed the jury's recommendation Tuesday and spared 24-year-old Julie Noe's life.

It will be 25 years before Noe will be eligible for parole on the first-degree murder conviction. McClure sentenced her to another 15 years for aggravated child abuse.

McClure blasted Noe's husband, Jeff Noe of Panama, for abusing her and her son.

"As far as I'm concerned, he should banish himself to another part of the world, or dedicate his body to science so they can study his brain and soul to see if either exist in his body," he said.

Charity turns down historic hotel gift

PENSACOLA — The owner of a vacant historic hotel in downtown Pensacola would like to donate it to a local charity, but a charity official says the organization can't afford the gift.

"Even if he gave it to us free and clear, we couldn't pay for the renovations or the utilities," said the Rev. Ed Gray of Pensacola's Waterfront Mission. "Only a government-funded program with megabucks could handle it."

Steven Silverberg has been trying to find a buyer for the seven-story, 79-year-old San Carlos Hotel since a deal in September with a Denver-based financier for a $5 million to $8 million purchase of the hotel fell through.

Now Silverberg wants to donate the hotel to charity.

If Silverberg gives the building to a charity he would be able to count the property's worth as a charitable gift for tax purposes.

Police believe suspect could have broken into 1,000 homes

United Press International

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Authorities have captured a man who is believed to have used a screwdriver to burglarize at least 1,000 homes nationwide since 1982.

Larry Brent Thaggard, 46, was captured late last month by Alachua County sheriff's deputies while trying to pawn more than $10,000 worth of stolen jewelry. It wasn't until this week that they began to learn details of his broad criminal history.

Thaggard, who had escaped last March from the Florida State Prison and was supporting himself through burglaries, has spent the last week potting out area homes that he remembers burglarizing. One investigator's conservative estimate is that Thaggard hit 200 homes in Alachua County and another 800 nationwide.

"This man, by the truest sense, was a career criminal," sheriff's spokesman Lt. Spencer Mann said Tuesday. "This was his way to make a living."

The technique was the same in almost all of the burglaries, said Mann. He would use a knife or screwdriver to pry open a window or roof vent and enter the home. He would take cash, jewelry and collections of coins and stamps.

"A lot of times, people were at home when he went through," he said. Thaggard, who had a reputation in prison as a track star, would always outrun his pursuit.

That's what he tried to do Nov. 29 when deputies were called to a Gainesville pawnshop, where Thaggard was trying to pawn some jewelry. He managed to escape, but a deputy spotted him a short while later.

Thaggard hit the deputy in the head with a motorcycle helmet and again escaped but he was finally captured as he attempted to hide in a nearby house.

Mann said he is not sure why Thaggard has decided to cooperate with investigators.

Bomb squads visit Sanford; exchange info

By SUSAN LORREN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Bomb squads from six Central Florida law enforcement agencies met with the Seminole County sheriff's bomb squad Wednesday to share their expertise.

Sheriff's Lt. Marty LaBrusciano said the technicians came to learn about different types of specialized gear each agency has and how it is used. They also learned from each other's past experience.

The squads may be called to work in one another's territory or may borrow equipment from each other, LaBrusciano said.

A major purpose of the day-long meeting was to establish ground-rules for working together in various jurisdictions. "We're particularly interested in what a technician will not do," LaBrusciano said.

"We've had an understanding over the years. If you have a bomb you call the nearest available bomb squad. But, with changes in equipment and litigation, we want to make sure all have a complete understanding," LaBrusciano said.

The Seminole County sheriff's department bought two new protective bomb suits this year, and Altamonte Springs bought one.

Governor wants scholarship program for poor

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez called Wednesday for extending Florida's prepaid college tuition program to poor children through a scholarship program funded partly through private donations.

Martinez said he will ask the 1990 Legislature to channel $1.1 million in Florida Lottery profits into education annuities for deserving poor children through the Florida Prepaid College Program.

Private corporations will donate another $1.1 million to fund 670 full prepaid college tuition scholarships every year, Martinez said in a news conference.

"Florida's colleges and universities must offer the best possible education, but it has to be available to all Floridians, regardless of their economic circumstances," Martinez said.

Rep. Rich Crotty, R-Orlando, said the scholarship program would silence critics who called the prepaid tuition program a "yuppie bill."

The scholarships would be overseen by a direct support organization being formed by the prepaid college program, in cooperation with local school officials.

The prepaid college program is similar to an annuity and permits parents to save for the future education of their children in a Florida public university at today's tuition rates.

The Colgate-Palmolive Company and U.S. Trust Company, which manages the Prepaid College Trust Fund, made the first private contributions Wednesday to the scholarship program with donations of $10,000 and $25,000 respectively.

A Colgate-Palmolive representative also presented annuity certificates to seven children who won a company sweepstakes.

Martinez' Drug Policy Task Force had recommended the scholarship program to target young students beginning in grade 7 with academic potential who are deemed by local officials to be at high risk of becoming dropouts.

Injured golfer sues partner; wins $6,000

UPI report

WEST PALM BEACH — A golfer was awarded $6,000 in damages Wednesday because her former partner ran over her with a golf cart during a championship match at their local country club.

about an hour before returning the award in favor of Florence Adelson, 62. Adelson said she was left permanently injured when Minette Leichman hit her as she walked from the 11th hole at Fountains Country Club in Lake Worth.

"I was walking briskly and, from no place, the car came from behind me," Adelson said in testimony during the three-day trial. "I lay on the ground and the whole championship had to go around me."

Adelson had asked for unspecified damages for the March 27, 1987 incident in her suit.

Leichman and her attorney, Richard Tullie, could not be reached for comment.

Leichman, Adelson and a third woman had been teamed up for a Ladies League championship play at the Fountains, where they all live.

Adelson teed off first, waited for the others, exchanged her driver for a putter and then started down the fairway toward the ball when she was run over.

Elderly woman reports robbery

MIDWAY — A man who carried groceries home for 96-year-old Alberta Willis, 3480 Church St., Midway, stole $20 from her.

Willis reported the theft to Seminole County sheriff's deputies Tuesday. She said she was robbed by the man she knows only by a nickname after he carried her groceries from the Family Grocery, State Road 46, Midway, at about 1:35 p.m. Dec. 2. When they got to her house, Willis said the man asked her for $2. But he didn't wait for her to go into her house to get the money. Instead, she says he grabbed two $10 bills from her dress pocket and fled.

Police say woman wouldn't calm down

LONGWOOD — A city policeman who made a traffic stop on Longwood Hills Road at about 10:30 a.m. Tuesday said a passenger in that car got out and advanced on him, demanding to know why the car was stopped.

Police say the woman refused to get back in the car and backup police were called. They said they tried but failed to calm the woman. That led to charges of disorderly conduct and obstruction of justice against Carol Sue Brightwell, 28. Police said Brightwell also beat her head against a glass panel when transported to the police station.

Burglary charged to Orlando man

SANFORD — Jerome Doyle Anhut, 30, of Orlando, was arrested Tuesday at the Seminole County jail in connection with a Nov. 28 burglary to a house at 5106 Lazy Oaks Drive, Winter Park. He is accused of stealing $200 and a vase from that house. The arrest was made by Seminole County sheriff's deputies.

County crews to begin restoring ruined wetlands

From staff reports

SANFORD — Seminole County Public Works crews are set to begin restoration of a wetland area near Willow Run tomorrow.

County utility maintenance crews destroyed the wetlands before Thanksgiving in an effort to clear what they thought was a drainage ditch. The ditch turned out to be a small stream and disturbance of the five-acre wetlands required state permits. Several large trees, including old bay trees, were removed so a road could be built into the area.

Larry Sellers, public works director, said the county will replant trees and other vegetation in the wetland area north of the Willow Run subdivision. Sellers said the county will also redirect the man-made portions of the stream to the route Willow Run developers had agreed to direct it in 1984, but never did.

Tim Clabaugh, county natural resources officer, said the road built through the wetlands will be removed after the stream is re-directed. Trees will then be placed in the area.

In a report to Florida Department of Environmental Regulation officials this week, Clabaugh wrote "I regret this situation occurred and I assure you that bamboo splints will be inserted under the appropriate fingernails."

Clabaugh said DER officials have said they are willing to forego penalties against the county if the wetlands are restored.

State's Attorney won't file perjury charges against Bullington, Dennis

By LORRA L. SULLIVAN
 Herald staff writer

SANFORD — No new charges of state Sunshine Law violations will be filed against former or current Longwood city commissioners unless new evidence surfaces, Assistant State's Attorney Bob Fisher said this week.

The Sunshine Law requires government officials to conduct business during public meetings, where minutes of the proceedings are recorded for public review.

Fisher said Seminole-Brevard State's Attorney Norm Wollinger has decided not to press perjury charges against former city commissioners Rick Bullington and Lynette Dennis for their testimonies during circuit court proceedings in October. Bullington, 34, and Dennis, 48, were both charged with the misdemeanor violations in July, then convicted in October.

Gov. Bob Martinez removed Bullington from office after his conviction. In November, Bullington lost a bid for reelection to Adrienne Perry.

Fisher would not name the city commissioners who had been investigated. Other commissioners are not being investigated at this time, he said, and will not be unless new evidence is presented, he said.

Greenpeace keeps distance from Trident 2 launch

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — Greenpeace activists avoided another clash with the Navy and stood by in protest Wednesday as the crew of a submerged nuclear submarine launched an unarmed Trident 2 missile on a test flight.

Vice Adm. Roger Bacon, commander of the Atlantic submarine fleet, called the test "another great day for the Navy," adding, "We were very pleased with the results."

Greenpeace vowed to continue protesting the missile's planned operational deployment in March but said they would avoid run-ins with the Navy like one last week that left one of the environmentalists' ships with a 3-foot gash in its hull.

The three-stage, solid-fuel Trident 2, the most powerful weapon in the Navy's inventory, was launched at 9:15 a.m. from the USS Tennessee, cruising submerged about 40 miles northeast of Cape Canaveral.

It was the fifth in a series of underwater launches, pushing the weapon's sea-launch record to three successes and two failures.

Greenpeace activists aboard the Mondivittano, a 60-foot ketch, shadowed the Tennessee and its support ships in protest of sea-based nuclear weapons, but Navy officials said the vessel stayed clear of the Ohio-class nuclear submarine.

"There was one unit out there and they obeyed the range safety warnings and stayed outside the 5,000-yard safety zone," said Lt. Cmdr. Bill Sontag. "The launch ... was on schedule."

Environmentalists aboard the MV Greenpeace, a 190-foot ocean-going vessel, tried to disrupt a Trident 2 test firing Dec. 4 by moving into the launch danger zone around the Tennessee.

Such tactics caught the Navy off guard in July and a planned test firing was delayed, but last week Navy ships "shouldered" the MV Greenpeace out of the way, punching a 3-foot hole in its hull in the process, and small "Zodiac" rafts were disabled by Navy commandos.

The crew of the Tennessee then launched an unarmed Trident 2.

Even though the MV Greenpeace was in Jacksonville, Fla., Wednesday for repairs, six Coast Guard cutters were on hand to keep the Mondivittano well away from the Tennessee.

"The Greenpeace organization stated right after the last launch that they would come out and attempt to disrupt this launch and we took their words at face value," Bacon said.

Greenpeace spokeswoman Shannon Fagen said the group wanted to avoid another run-in with the Navy.

"We're trying to demonstrate our resolve on this issue to go back into the zone, not only to prove our right to peaceful protest in international waters but to underline our commitment to canceling the Trident 2," Fagen said.

Insult to injury

In this age of instant computing, it is ludicrous that the Social Security Administration says it will take six months to change its computer programs. The bureaucratic delay means that 35 million Medicare recipients will continue to pay a flat monthly premium for catastrophic coverage until late next summer — even though the program was repealed by Congress in November.

Social Security Commissioner Gwendolyn S. King claims it is impossible to reprogram the administration's computers before June. As a result, $5.50 monthly deductions from Social Security checks for nonexistent catastrophic care will continue until the middle of next year. The Social Security Administration, struggling on its own red tape, will not refund the overpayments until even later than that.

To add insult to this outrage, Mrs. King vows the government will not pay interest on the money withheld purely because of its own ineptitude. It is bad enough that about $1.2 billion will be taken unfairly from the nation's senior citizens because of the Social Security's inefficiency; refusing to pay interest is an insult that Congress should not allow.

By law, the administration must invest the funds in Treasury bills, now earning 7.35 percent annually. That interest should be returned with individual refund checks as a matter of principle, not collected by the government as a reward for its incompetence. Millions of older Americans depend entirely on their Social Security checks and even $5.50 a month will be missed by the most needy.

Mrs. King blames her problems on Congress, assuring she was not given sufficient advance warning of the legislators' intentions to repeal the catastrophic program. This business could not be run anybody. Prudent management required that the agency have a contingency plan in place early last year when it was clear the catastrophic plan was about to be modified or scrapped.

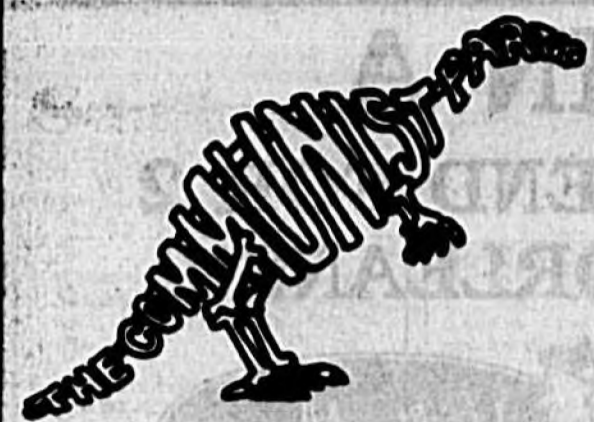

Social Security's blunder adds to the furor over Congress's decision to refund the surtax of up to $800 per person paid in 1989 by wealthier taxpayers, but not the $4-a-month flat premium paid in 1989 by all beneficiaries. Congress made the surtax repeal retroactive to Jan. 1, 1989. This is because the surtax was intended to provide a surplus against future expenditures, which will not now be made. But the flat premium was repealed effective only next Jan. 1. Angry critics justifiably maintain Congress responded to the political clout of the more affluent and ignored the plight of the needy.

Despite Mrs. King's protests, it may still be possible to prod the recalcitrant agency into quicker action regarding the unwarranted 1990 deduction. If the hidebound Social Security Administration can't solve its problems, Congress should step in and, at the very least, require by law that every beneficiary be paid interest for the money withheld improperly by the government.

Bush fears troop withdrawal from Europe

WASHINGTON — President Bush is reluctant to say the Cold War is over despite the new era that has emerged in superpower relations as a result of the Malta summit talks with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. And he has a candid reason.

On the eve of Thanksgiving, Bush delivered an address to the nation and called on Gorbachev to "end the Cold War once and for all."

But at a news conference in Brussels, asked if the Cold War had ended, he replied that "we're footing around with semantics here. He said the term was a code word and he feared it would send different signals to different people."

The Cold War got its name when Winston Churchill proclaimed at Missouri's Fulton College in 1946 that an "iron curtain" had descended in Europe.

Bush displayed his candor with reporters when he said that "things have moved dramatically" in Eastern Europe with the overthrow of totalitarian regimes. "But if I signal to you there's no Cold War, then it's 'what are you doing with troops in Europe?'"

So why shouldn't Americans think that after all these years the 306,000 troops in Europe could be reduced drastically, particularly in view of the reduction in East-West tensions, the weakening of the Warsaw Pact, and the increasing prosperity of Western European nations permitting them to contribute more to their own defense.

But Bush won't hear it. Before the change in Eastern Europe he proposed that the United States and Soviet troops in Europe be reduced to 275,000 each. The president assured NATO allies on his stopover in Brussels after the summit that the troops would remain as long as they are needed and in significant numbers.

So the president makes it clear that he does not want Americans thinking that once the Soviet threat has truly lessened there will be a "peace dividend" with funds returning to the Treasury for "worthy causes," including pressing social programs and the urgent need to bring the nation's bridges, highways and other public facilities up to safety standards.

So the new euphoria that the United States and the Soviet Union can be friends, working together, is not designed to spill over so that suddenly there will be more money for the needy. Bush said if there is any money around it will go to reduce the deficit.

"Why will there always have to be a NATO if there is no potentiality for a third world war," Bush was asked.

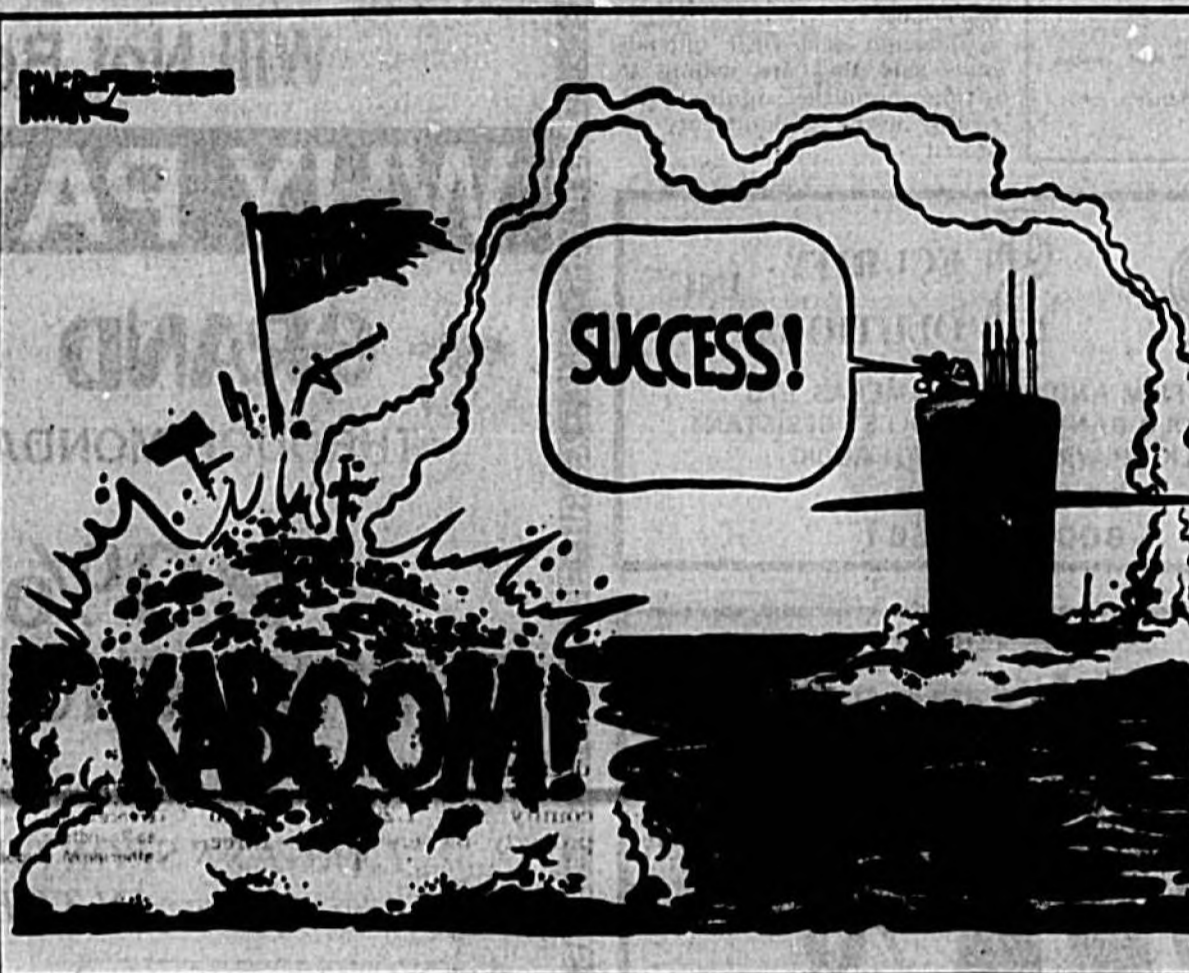

"Well, if you want to project out 100 years or take some years off of that, you can look to a Utopian day when there might not be. But ... that day hasn't arrived, and they (NATO allies) agree with me. And so the United States must stay involved."

"What we don't want to do is send the signal of decoupling ... from Nato, particularly at this highly sensitive time," he said.

It appears that even when wars and conflicts are resolved, some of the money that has been poured into military programs cannot be shifted to programs to improve the quality of life of Americans, particularly those living below the poverty level. It is noteworthy that Bush thinks that the United States should keep a top heavy military budget when war clouds have dissipated. That is not realistic nor will it prevail.

But Bush won't hear it.

DAVID S. BRODER

The source of all good things

WASHINGTON — Congress is the gift that keeps on giving. Long gone from Washington, it still continues to drop fresh volumes of the Congressional Record on my desk. Like a snake with its head severed, the body just keeps twitching.

The other day, Parts III and IV of Congressional Record No. 185 arrived, both of nice bulk. We keep them around the house because they are just the right size and flexibility for filling those awkward spaces between the Christmas tree trunk and the sides of the bucket in which it stands.

The reason the Records are so late arriving is that the volume of words Congress produces at the end of the session overwhelms even the massive capacity of the Government Printing Office. On their final day of business, Nov. 21, the House and Senate processed enough legislation to fill four full, telephone-book-thick volumes of the Record. They keep arriving, like fruit from Harry and David.

A big chunk of Part III — 263 pages of aquinty-size italic and roman type — is taken up with a description of the Reconciliation bill. Explaining Reconciliation is beyond my meager talents. I will simply tell you that it has nothing to do with ending the Cold War or restoring domestic bliss to the homes of legislators who had perhaps, been working too late for their spouses' satisfaction.

Reconciliation is what Congress does at the end of the year in the effort to make everything else it has done fit within the budget. Reconciliation includes an amazing variety of things. After looking over those 263 pages, I want to withdraw everything said previously about this being a do-nothing Congress.

You can dip in almost anywhere and find your Congress solving problems you didn't even know you had. This bill is so big it takes them two full pages just to list the legislators who participated in the conference committees where this masterpiece was sculpted. And the Record is precise about who did what.

It specified, for example, that the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee craftsmen on "subtitle F of title IV and title VI of the House bill and section 4101 of the Senate amendment" included Rep. Pat Williams (D-Mont.), "except for subtitles B and C of title VI of the House bill."

On those two subtitles, the part of Mr. Williams was performed by Rep. Phil Sharp (D-Ind.). The reason for the casting change was not made clear, but I would like to think that perhaps Mr. Sharp's family, or a group of Hoosier constituents, came to that day's performance.

I went looking in the Record for subtitles B and C of title VI, but never got there because there was so much other intriguing stuff in the way. When Congress sets about fixing the budget, it wanders into some really strange detours.

Would you have guessed, for instance, that congress would have taken time to rename the intermediate-care facilities for the mentally retarded? It did. These are now "habilitation facilities," and I trust you will take care to use the approved phrase in all future correspondence.

It also changed the provisions of "COBRA 1985," not to be confused with "OBRA 87," gave new assignments to PropAC, which is not a political-action committee but the "Prospective Payment Assessment Commission," and — still attending to the budget, mind you — voted to allow dentists to be hospital directors. This bow to the hidden administrative talents of my late father's profession would have amazed and delighted him. A lone practitioner, he was of the view that modern dentists need their hovering assistants because they can't remember which instruments to pick up when. Now they're going to be running hospitals.

Reconciliation also raised the fees for services from the Federal Communications Commission. It now costs you $25 minimum to walk in the door and ask for anything. If you have in mind applying in 1990 to launch and operate a space station, Congress has decided it's going to cost you $70,000.

By far the most intriguing thing in the whole bill is the table of "overvalued procedures." That's what it's called, and when I saw it, I realized that it had something to do with the effort to save money on Medicare by reducing the payments to physicians for services for which Congress thinks they charge too much — and therefore perform with suspicious frequency.

But meantime, a toast to Reconciliation and to Congress, the source of all good things.

It has nothing to do with ending the Cold War or restoring domestic bliss.

More fallout from the Reagan Administration

WASHINGTON — Watching Food and Drug Administration Commissioner Frank Young get beaten out of office was like watching a wreny hamer finally hit the canvas.

The knockout punch came from the FDA's generic drug scandal last summer. Young had underestimated the extent of it, and in each round of the investigation, he was caught with his guard down. By November, the White House had seen enough and stopped the fight. Young was asked to resign.

The word came from a political gaffer in the Health and Human Services Department that if Young didn't resign gracefully and take an advisory job in the department, he would be fired. Young told his friends that Health and Human Services Secretary Louis Sullivan wouldn't even return his phone calls. He accepted the make-work post. Young has learned that it takes longer to build a solid Washington reputation than it does to destroy one.

He was a good soldier for the Reagan regime, serving as head of the FDA for six years. But a good soldier in the Reagan army had to be an advocate of deregulation and hands-off government, even in the agency that is supposed to protect consumers from dangerous food and drugs. The hands-off approach didn't work for the FDA much better than it worked for the savings and loan industry, the Defense Department or the Housing and Urban Development Department. Now, with Reagan enjoying retirement, people like Frank Young are paying for what they did to please the big guy.

In soul searching discussions with his close confidants, Young is still trying to sort out what happened. He feels he was "sandbagged" by his own staff. He says his advisers repeatedly swore that the generic drug scandal wouldn't get any worse, that the corruption didn't run any deeper. But it would and it did.

The scandal cast a pall on the credibility of the generic drug industry and on the FDA itself, where three chemists admitted they had pocketed thousands of dollars in cash or gifts to rig the drug approval process.

FDA insiders told our associate Jim Lynch that Young relied blindly on his staff. He was a consensus man to a fault. As a result, he was ill-prepared for the public battles.

When Young faced the grilling of the House Energy and Commerce Committee, he often found that the chairman, John Dingell, D-Mich., knew more about the scandal than Young did.

The White House sized up the situation and decided Young was incapable of handling scandals in an agency that appears ripe for more.

Many consumer advocates think Young turned the FDA into a symbol of the Reagan years — a place where business interests override public safety. He was also panned privately by FDA investigators who claim he was an impotent enforcer and that he helped the administration strip the investigators of their clout. But those closer to Young claim he was just doing his job as a Reagan team player.

The decision to yank him from the FDA was protested by two of the chief FDA watchdogs on Capitol Hill — Dingell and Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah. Both had seen his weaknesses, but they apparently wanted him around. The affable Young might have been a bungler, but he was a bungler they could trust.

With Reagan enjoying retirement, people like Frank Young are paying for what they did to please the big guy.

Comaneci denies romance with married man

United Press International

HALLANDALE — Romanian Olympic medalist Nadia Comaneci angrily denied reports of a whirlwind romance with the man who helped her defect and said the South Florida ruler is her manager, a published report said Wednesday.

"He's not my loverboy, he's my manager," the Olympic gold medalist said in the Fort Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel.

In a telephone conversation Tuesday from their Pompano Beach hotel room, Comaneci and Constantin Panait, 36, told the newspaper they were not romantically involved. Panait said he was just trying to help Comaneci get established in her new country.

"I am just her manager, only that," he said. "I am trying to help her make movies and commercials, and maybe get a book of her life."

In a report in The New York Times he said, "...until we get married — if we get married — there will be no sex between us. That was Nadia's idea. We have one room, but we stay as friends. I can hold her hand, I can kiss her on the cheek. But that does not mean a serious relationship."

The denial followed reports that Panait had jilted his wife, Marie, 25, and four children for Comaneci. Mrs. Panait said she was left penniless and was forced to go on the talk show circuit to raise Christmas money.

She said she was proud of her husband for helping Comaneci at first and had even prepared for the gymnast to live in their home. But she has not seen him since he and Comaneci arrived in the United States.

Panait said Tuesday that he had explained his arrangement with the gymnast by telephone.

Mrs. Panait said that was good news. "But, I will believe this about him being her manager when I hear it from him face-to-face when he comes home."

Constantin Panait, a Romanian-born U.S. citizen, arrived in New York Dec. 1 with Comaneci, who crossed the Romanian border into Hungary Nov. 28 accompanied by Panait and seven others.

Comaneci has said she would like to make a movie about her story. But some industry officials feel her story would not sell. They say she has little name recognition among young viewers and she is a foreign heroine, and her image as a home wrecker won't help her bid for stardom.

Klan leader convicted on weapons charge

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — A Ku Klux Klan leader has been convicted of carrying a concealed weapon when he appeared at a rally packing a pistol in his pickup truck.

It took the jury only 15 minutes to return a guilty verdict Wednesday against Herbert Boren, 36, of Altamonte Springs.

Boren is the Grand Titan of the Florida Invisible Empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. He was arrested Aug. 26, as he and Grand Dragon John Baumgardner were preparing to leave a rally at which they and three skinheads handed out pamphlets along the roadside south of Tallahassee.

A Leon County Sheriff's deputy spotted the semi-automatic weapon sticking out from under a seat cushion.

The white supremacists were outnumbered by about 100 counterdemonstrators, most of them blacks, as law officers kept a close watch.

The jury was never told about Boren's Klan activity because Circuit Judge Kevin Davey ruled the knowledge would prejudice the jury against him.

"I couldn't even say this happened at a rally," said Assistant State Attorney Dawn Pompey. "It kind of made it look like the deputies were waiting about and just bumped into him."

Defense lawyers Chuck McMurphy argued the gun could not be considered to have been concealed because the deputy saw it.

"The gun does not have to be absolutely invisible to be a concealed weapon," Pompey told the jury. It was illegal because it was "readily accessible," not locked in the glove box or snugged in a holster, and Boren lacked a concealed weapon permit, she said.

Boren, who faces sentencing Jan. 18, refused comment on the verdict, merely making the motion of zipping his lips and throwing away the key. As Baumgardner said, "Because anything you say can be used against you — and will."

County Courthouse as any title search would reveal the debt if the property is sold. In January, commissioners will decide how to collect the fees from either the original owner or the current owner.

Sanford, Casselberry and Winter Springs refused to collect the fees beginning in 1987, saying the county had no right to require them to collect the fees from homes built within their boundaries.

The county sued the three cities to force them to collect the fees. In March, the Fifth District Court of Appeals decided the county had the right to collect the fees. In August, Sanford agreed to settle the case with county and on Sept. 13, Seminole Circuit Judge Kenneth E. Leffer reversed his earlier position that led to the appeal and county impact fee coordinators.

Hastings said the county has received "numerous" inquiries from property owners in the three cities who were not aware an impact fee was owed on their home or office. Petitions have been sent from homeowners requesting commissioners bill the developers, not themselves, for the fees because they were not informed the fees were due.

Under the county's settlement agreement with Sanford, the county will not bill the current owner of a Sanford home with an unpaid fee if they were not notified of the debt by the previous owner. The previous owner can avoid the debt by proving to county officials the buyer was informed of the fee obligation.

In the four remaining cities and unincorporated areas, builders or developers are required to pay the fee when the construction is complete, Hastings said.

Hastings said the county might consider a Sanford-type collection method in Casselberry and Winter Springs.

County-wide, $6.1 million has been collected on $6.5 million in assessments, Hastings said. She said fees for new construction in the three cities have been paid without delays since the court rulings.

Key hands

Key Club members from Lake Howell High School decorate Christmas tree for recent open house at Seminole County Historical Society.

Dorothy Heizer, left, 12th grade and club treasurer, and Meg Heizer, 10th grade.

Seminole Scenes

When on assignment, the pictures made by Herald photographers vary in angle, pose and content, and not all of them are published immediately. From time to time, the newspaper takes a second look at those news and features scenes from around Seminole County.

Super salesmen

When a film crew from the Superboy television program returned recently to Sanford, Superboy's fictional hometown Smithville, Larry Barnes set up a softdrink stand outside his store on the corner of 3rd and Sanford Avenue; with him is Wilfred Thomas, also of Sanford.

Sanford luminaries

Key Bartholomew, left, who was in charge of the St. Lucia organizing committee, and Mayor Bettye Smith, whose Future of Sanford committee conceived the festival idea, kicked off the "Light Up Sanford" portion of the holiday festivities.

Allies hear Baker's vision of new Europe

BRUSSELS, Belgium — Secretary of State James Baker took his blueprint for a new Europe to NATO at a meeting today of the Western alliance's foreign ministers.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization still has a vital role despite the changes in central Europe that have reduced the military threat faced by the alliance, Baker said as the annual meeting of foreign ministers began.

"NATO is far from obsolete," he said at the organization's headquarters.

Bush to visit Colombia for drug summit

WASHINGTON — President Bush will travel to violence-plagued Colombia Feb. 15 for a regional drug summit in the coastal city of Cartagena to show support for President Virgilio Barco, the White House announced.

Refusing to be daunted by the wave of terrorism that has swept the country in recent weeks, Bush will spend one day in the city, where he will meet with President Alan Garcia of Peru and President Jaime Paz Zamora of Bolivia, White House spokesman Martin Flitwater said Wednesday.

More drug treatment aid needed

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The government should spend $1 billion over the next 10 years to fund medicines that could treat or cure America's 4 million drug addicts, a congressional report said Wednesday.

Sen. Joseph Biden Jr., D-Del., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, released a committee report that said the government is not doing enough to encourage development of medicines to combat addiction to cocaine, heroin and other illegal drugs.

"The medical discussion of this epidemic remains, by and large, overlooked. Drug addiction is, among other things, a medical ailment — a disease that requires medical treatment," Biden said.

The report called for a 10-year, $1 billion federal effort to develop addiction treatments.

Bush signs catastrophic health repeal

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., said today Congress will take up the issue of health care for the nation's elderly next year in an effort to replace the catastrophic health care measure repealed this year.

President Bush, bowing to pressure from the elderly, signed legislation Wednesday repealing the law enacted last year to protect senior citizens from the costs of a catastrophic illness.

With no comment, Bush revealed the Medicare provisions of the law, effective Jan. 1, 1990, and overturned the legislation that was signed with fanfare and overwhelming bipartisan support only a year ago.

The law was the largest expansion of Medicare benefits in the program's 24-year history, including coverage for 365 days of hospitalization and 150 days of skilled nursing home care, starting this year; a $1,370 limit on doctors fees, beginning in 1990; and coverage for prescription drugs, starting in 1991.

Medicare previously paid only for more limited hospitalization and skilled nursing home care.

Kennedy, speaking on the ABC "Good Morning America" program from Sparta, Ga., said, "The concern that I heard from the millions of American seniors is that the catastrophic really didn't deal with their No. 1 concern, which was long-term care. That's the No. 1 concern and that's the thing they're most interested in."

Congress repealed the law that extended benefits to 1.3 million senior citizens in 1989 but sparked fears when new benefits were to be financed by a surtax of up to $800 paid by the wealthiest 40 percent of the elderly and a flat monthly fee of $4 paid by all of them.

Both the surtax and the flat premium would have increased in later years of the program. The flat premium was collected this year, but repeal means senior citizens will not pay any surtax.

Pesticide residues said down

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Food and Drug Administration reported it is finding slightly fewer pesticides in food, but environmentalists questioned if the FDA's inspection efforts are adequate to gauge food safety.

The FDA said Wednesday that 61 percent of the 18,114 food samples tested in 1988 showed no signs of pesticide residue, compared with 57 percent of samples checked in 1987.

Of samples found to contain pesticide residue, less than 1 percent of domestic and imported food samples exceeded safety levels set by the Environmental Protection Agency, the FDA said.

But critics said even with that increase, government testing efforts fall woefully short. "The fraction of the food supply they are able to monitor is very, very small. It is so small that it is hard to make an estimate of what an average American's exposure actually is," said Ellen Sübergeld, a toxicologist with the Environmental Defense Fund.

Brantley withdrawal could crimp GOP plans

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Lt. Gov. Bobby Brantley, citing family duties as the reason, pulled out Wednesday from the 1990 race for state commissioner of agriculture, a move expected to dampen the GOP's hopes for winning a Cabinet majority.

... Today I am withdrawing as a candidate for commissioner of agriculture," Brantley said at a news conference, confirming rumors that began circulating in state government circles Tuesday.

Brantley said he has decided

I'm not dying of cancer, I don't have AIDS, I'm not being indicted. It is a personal decision.

-Lt. Gov. Bobby Brantley to leave elective office once his term as lieutenant governor ends in 1991, but would serve out his appointive term as chairman of the Spaceport Florida Authority through 1993.

He said that although his campaign for the Cabinet post was running well on schedule, it was never his ambition to vacated by the retirement of veteran Commissioner of Agriculture Doyle Conner.

The race is considered a crucial one by both parties. If Martinez wins re-election and a Republican can win the agriculture post, the Republicans would capture control of the seven-member Florida Cabinet for the first time in the state's history.

But Martinez said it would be tough for another Republican to duplicate Brantley's momentum or campaign war chest, which amounted to more than $470,000.

County high schools apply for state grants

By VERA BISHOP
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The six Seminole County high schools each have each applied for $25,000 state grants. Although this is the first year the county schools have applied for the grants, they feel they have a good chance of winning.

The grants are given by the department of education as a reward for schools able to make improvements in drop-out prevention, graduation rates, grade-level promotion rates, completion rates in upper level science and math courses, and improvement in post-secondary feedback reports provided by colleges. There is more than $10 million in this grant money available statewide.

The $25,000 grant category is only one of three available. To receive $25,000, the school must completely satisfy four of the six indicators. To receive $50,000, schools must complete five of the requirements. They must complete all six for $75,000.

The Seminole County schools chose to go for the lesser amount in their first year. "We felt there were some indicators that were beyond our control," said Jack Heisler, director of high school education. "We didn't want to risk it all on something that wasn't our fault."

Heisler was most uncomfortable with the goal of improving postsecondary reports. "Those come from the colleges where our graduates go," Heisler said. "That is, they're supposed to come. Sometimes the colleges send them and sometimes they don't. It's not something we can control."

Heisler also felt uncomfortable with the criteria set by the state for measuring improvement in grade-level promotions. The state requires a student to complete a year in school before being promoted to the next level. Seminole County requires students to complete a certain number of credits in each grade before being promoted to the next one. The state wants schools to have a 95 percent promotion rate by 1992.

"Our standards are much tougher than those set by the state and used in most other counties," Heisler said. "We felt we would be at a disadvantage if we competed against the other counties this year. Maybe next year."

The state places no restrictions on the use of the money. "We'll probably use ours to improve drop out prevention programs in the schools," Heisler said. "But I don't know yet."

Heisler said he has no idea what the chances were for any of all the Seminole county schools to win the grant money. "This is our first year," he said. "That's why we're starting off slowly at the bottom level. We'll see how it goes. Maybe we'll move up to the $50,000 grant next year."

IN BRIEF

BASKETBALL

Lakers deal with Heat

MIAMI — James Worthy scored 21 points and Magic Johnson had 18. 12 of them in the decisive third quarter. Wednesday to lead the Los Angeles Lakers to a 102-75 victory over the Miami Heat.

The Lakers (10-5) have now split the first four games of an eight-game road trip. The Heat was coming off a victory over the Orlando Magic but never threatened after the second quarter.

Worthy and Johnson were assisted by A.C. Green with 13 and Byron Scott and Vlade Divac with 12 each.

Miami was led by Billy Thompson with 17 points and Rony Selby with 15.

Elsewhere in the NBA on Wednesday, Boston clipped Seattle 209; Philadelphia defeated Atlanta 112-103; Cleveland stopped Milwaukee 98-83; Dallas trimmed Minnesota 90-87; Utah beat Phoenix 102-86; the Los Angeles Clippers held down Detroit 83-79; and Golden State outshooting Denver 134-114.

COLLEGE HOOPS

Hoyas clobber St. Leo

LANDOVER, Md. — Dikembe Mutombo grabbed 17 rebounds, scored 15 points and blocked 8 shots and teamed with Alonzo Mourning to form an unstoppable inside attack Wednesday night, helping No. 3 Georgetown to its 23rd consecutive home victory, 92-51 over NCAA Division II St. Leo.

Mourning, a 6-10 sophomore, scored 13 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to complement Mutombo, the 7-foot-2 junior from Zaire. Mutombo's rebound total represented a career high.

Georgetown, 6-0, has won all 11 meetings with St. Leo, 4-3, and never trailed in the game. Three of the Hoyas' victories have come against non-Division I opponents and Georgetown hosts another Division II team, the University of the District of Columbia, Saturday. Georgetown has not lost at home since the 1987-88 season.

Mark Tillman and Milton Bell added 13 points apiece for the Hoyas.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Bo's resignation a surprise

Michigan State Coach George Perles Wednesday placed retiring University of Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler among college football's most revered coaches.

Schembechler, 60, announced Wednesday he will resign as the Wolverines' coach following the 1990 Rose Bowl with Southern Cal. He will be succeeded by assistant head coach Gary Moeller.

"The Big Ten is losing one of the all-time great football coaches," said Perles, one of Schembechler's Big Ten rivals. "When you think of college football, you think of Bo Schembechler. College football and Bo are one in the same."

"History will remember Bo in the same breath as Bear Bryant, Woody Hayes, Amos Alonzo Stagg and Eddie Robinson. He is a living legend and that's very, very rare."

Indiana basketball coach Bob Knight, a close friend of the Wolverine mentor, kidded that he knew Schembechler's decision was coming after the success Michigan enjoyed in the NCAA basketball tournament last year.

HOCKEY

Nicholls cranks up shot

HARTFORD, Conn. — He has a shot that strikes fear into opposing goaltenders and that's why coach Tom Webster wants Bernie Nicholls to shoot more frequently.

Nicholls heeded Webster's advice and scored his 23rd and 24th goals Wednesday night to power the Los Angeles Kings to a 5-2 victory over the Hartford Whalers.

"Bernie's got such a great shot that I've got to encourage him to shoot more," said Webster.

Nicholls, who scored 70 times last season, said he wanted to pass more this season.

"The coach sometimes gets ticked off at me when I don't shoot enough, but we've got great goal-scoring like Luc Robitaille on this team and I like to help set him up," said Nicholls.

Lyman pins Lake Howell

Club competition benefits young Greyhound wrestlers

By TONY BOGGS
Herald Sports Editor

LONGWOOD — There are different kinds of experience. There's the on-the-job kind, so valued by employers. And there's life experience, the kind gained from other activities and events that allow you to move ahead.

On Wednesday night, the Lyman High School wrestling team showed just how important that kind of life experience can be, pinning a 60-23 loss on Lake Howell in a dual meet at the Lyman gym.

"Most of our guys wrestle in the offseason with our wrestling club," said Lyman coach Jeff Heas. "They wrestle in tournaments all year. We don't have anybody with more than two years of varsity experience. But they have experience wrestling in tournaments."

That added experience turns a relatively young team into a competitive one. Against a team like Lake Howell, which has its share of quality athletes but not the experience, the lessons learned in club tournament competition are invaluable.

Danny Giammo is a perfect example. Described by Heas as a first-year wrestler, Giammo is the captain of the Lyman squad. "He's been to 21 tournaments with the wrestling club," said Heas. "He only wrestled half a varsity season last year because of an injury."

On Wednesday night, Giammo scored the match-clinching points for Lyman when pinned Bill Ennis in 3:26 of the 160-pound match. Giammo's pin was one of nine registered by the Greyhounds. Tom Caligiuri also scored a technical fall over Rob Stanton at 189 pounds.

To Lake Howell's credit, of the nine pins they suffered, only two came in the first period. At 152 pounds, Rafael Rivera caught Eddie Smith in 1:29 while heavyweight Steve Perry needed just 12 seconds to put Leonard Albercht on his back.

The quickest pin of the night was scored by John Roberts, Lake Howell's 103-pounder. He opened the match by sticking John Altier in just six seconds, but after that, Lyman assumed control.

"Our lack of experience really

CASSELBERRY — Temperatures dipped into the 30's Wednesday night at Silver Hawk Stadium, where the Oviedo Lions took on the Lake Howell Silver Hawks in a Seminole Athletic Conference girls' soccer showdown.

Despite the frigid conditions, the Lake Howell offense caught fire, ripping 34 shots at Lion keeper Kris Ammetta. Igniting the fire was sophomore Michele Harris, who capitalized on a rare opportunity at forward to pop in four goals in the Hawks 6-1 pounding of Oviedo.

Meanwhile, the Oviedo offense went into a deep freeze, managing only seven shots on goal.

The win gave Lake Howell (11-3) a 4-2 record in the first half of its conference schedule while the loss dropped Oviedo (5-3) to 2-3 in SAC play.

"She's done a good job at defense," commented Hawk head coach Gerhart Tauscher about Harris. "We had to generate some offense and she did a good job for us against."

He also complimented his team's performance, saying, "We played real well. We played a good Oviedo team."

Harris got the scoring barrage underway 1:01 into the contest when she sprinted past Nancy Wood and knocked a shot by Ammetta. She got her second goal 6:07 later after fielding a throw-in from Joelle Fries. Harris completed the hat trick 15:03 into the match on a rebound off a corner kick.

Maureen Kelleher cut the lead to 3-1 with 12:13 left to play in the first half when she slid a shot into an open net after Ashley Williamson's shot got by Lake

From staff reports

LONGWOOD — Exploding for five first-half goals, the Lyman Greyhounds cruised to a 6-0 win over the DeLand Bulldogs in a Seminole Athletic Conference girls' soccer match on Wednesday night at Lyman High School.

Jill Mott scored the eventual game-winning goal, finishing a nice set-up by Amy Eubanks and Jennifer McAvoy. A few minutes later, McAvoy assisted on another Lyman goal, serving a corner kick that Kerry Musante knocked home for a 2-0 Greyhound lead.

"Once they scored the first goal, they really started playing soccer really nicely," said Lyman coach Laura Roundtree of her team. "They moved the ball around and really created some nice opportunities for themselves."

Those opportunities translated into 41 shots on goal and 14 corner kicks for the Greyhounds. The DeLand goalkeeper made 17 saves while Lyman goalie Becky Carr did not have to make a save (the Bulldogs didn't get off a shot) to earn the shutout.

Eubanks put Lyman up 3-0 when she scored an unassisted goal. Musante scored her second goal on an assist by Mott before Tracy Sher capped the first half with a goal on assists from Mott and Stephanie Callaway.

The only goal in the second half was scored for Lyman by Anne Brewer on an assist from Eubanks.

Raiders drop out of state basketball poll

By DEAN SMITH
Herald correspondent

BRADENTON — Defending state champion Polk Community College of Winter Haven sits atop the second top 10 men's Junior College State Basketball poll that was announced Wednesday.

Polk, ranked No. 2 last week, handed previously undefeated Miami-Dade North Community College its first loss of the season to move past undefeated Lake City Community College for the top spot in the poll of state JUCO coaches.

The only change in the poll was No. 6 Seminole Community College falling out after suffering three losses last week. SCC's place in the poll was taken by undefeated St. Petersburg Junior College at the No. 8 spot. The Raiders will take on St. Petersburg in the Polk Tournament Friday.

The player of the week this week is Mike Gottle from Edison Community College. Center Mike Green from Polk received honorable mention.

Lake Howell rallies way past Gateway

From staff reports

KISSIMMEE — Lake Howell got on a roll that started late in the second quarter and carried through the third quarter to an 80-52 Silver Hawk win over Kissimmee-Gateway on Wednesday in boys' basketball action.

Trailing 15-14 after one quarter, Lake Howell started to assert itself in the second quarter. The Silver Hawks got over the hump when Cortez Graves tipped in a pair of rebounds just before halftime to help Lake Howell to a 36-29 lead at the intermission.

Lake Howell came out firing in the third quarter, outscoring Gateway 21-6 in the period. The Hawks also forged a 23-17 fourth quarter margin as they slowly but steadily pulled away.

"There were three key things," said Lake Howell coach Steve Kohn. "The first was two tip-ins by Graves just before halftime. Then, in the third quarter, we hit three straight three-pointers, two by Josh (Kohn) and one by Joe Scutero."

"The third thing was that Thomas Demps had six blocked shots, four of them in the third quarter when they only scored six points."

Josh Kohn led all scorers with 19 points on 7-for-7 shooting from the floor and 2-for-2 from the free throw line. Demps added 10 points to with his blocked shots and nine rebounds.

Jeff Scott was the leading scorer for Gateway with 16 points as Moses

Hialeah Park goes to abbreviated schedule

MIAMI — The state Racing Commission declined to act Wednesday on Hialeah Park's request to be allowed to close in the face of mounting losses, prompting track President John Brunetti to agree to an abbreviated racing schedule.

The commission decided not to act because a ruling in October by state Attorney General Bob Butterworth said it did not have that authority.

The 65-year-old track, considered one of the most beautiful in the country, has lost an estimated $68,000 a day in the 23 racing days since it began a scheduled 158-day meeting Nov. 18 in direct competition with Calder Race Course, located about 12 miles away.

Brunetti met with horsemen to discuss the track's plight in the wake of the commission's decision and both sides agreed to shorten its traditional six-day schedule.

Races will be held Saturday, Sunday and Monday. To boost attendance, Hialeah has agreed to institute a free admission policy on the three-day weekend starting Saturday, Dec. 16. The track will also allow quiniella wagering on the first, second, third and seventh races for new fans.

Brunetti has said if he closes, he hopes to reopen Hialeah late next year or in 1991. If he can persuade the Legislature to order the state to resume control of the newly deregulated racing industry.

It was not clear whether the Racing Commission's failure to act Wednesday left Brunetti the option to close or change the dates without losing his racing permit, and the issue could wind up in the courts.

Brunetti said he was not certain, but he thought the decision not to act would allow him to decide.

"I had hoped the commission would sanction any move that we make," Brunetti said. "Their decision not to oppose anything is second best."

Commission Chairman Joe Priede-Rodriguez said, "It means he has to obey the law" and remain open.

Bruce Green, an attorney for the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association, said he believed the ruling would force Brunetti to continue the meeting.

Many of the horsemen who moved to Florida from the north this fall to race at Hialeah would be left without a way to make a living if the track closes because their stables don't have enough quality to run regularly at Calder or Gulfstream.

 Howell keeper Heather Brann.

Williamson had a chance to pull the Lions to within one of the lead three minutes later with a one-on-one opportunity against Brann. However, Brann came up with the save and the Hawks entered halftime with a 3-1 advantage.

Harris ended any thoughts of a Lion comeback with her fourth of the night 8-40 into the second half when she knocked in a corner kick by Jessica fielder Beth Schaefer gave the Patriots an added boost: "Her outside speed is an enormous part of our game."

Sanders gave the Patriots a 2-0 halftime lead with two goals in the last three minutes of the first half. Marc Stark assisted Sanders on the first goal with 3:46 remaining while Nicole DeLeon gave Sanders 1:50 later for the second goal.

The Rams cut the deficit to 2-1 after Amy Panchal scored off a corner kick by Leanne Beale 6:24 into the second half.

Sanders got her hat trick.

laking advantage of the Rams pressing forward in an attempt to try and tie the score. She scored with 13:16 left to play on a pass from Schaefer. Stark added the final goal, also on pass from Schaefer, 11:03 later.

"We really didn't play our best soccer," commented Kisele. "Lake Brantley is a really good squad and we've got some thing to work on."

Lake Brantley returns to action Friday night when they host Seminole while the Rams travel to Casselberry to take on the Lake Howell Silver Hawks.

Cardwell.

Shelly Brown scored the Hawks fifth goal of the night on a feed from Michelle Cook, while Leslie King added the final goal, also on a pass from Cook.

"Our team is very un-motivated," stated Orydo head coach Gene Loccallette. "We need to concentrate more on our passing."

Lake Howell will return to action at home against Lake Mary on Friday night. Orydo will also play on Friday, hosting Deland.

Women

 Tonight, the Hawks travel to Ft. Myers to take on Indian Community College at 8:00 p.m. On Friday, they travel to Miami to take on Miami-Dade South Community College at 7 p.m. and on Saturday, they travel across town to play Miami-Dade North Community College at 6 p.m.

The weekend series will be the last action for SCC until after the holidays, when they return to the court for a pair of home games. On Thursday, Jan. 4, SCC plays Broward College of Florida in a 7 p.m. contest and on Saturday, Jan.

6, they tackle Manatee Community College at 5 p.m.

SCC's under Coach Isaac Gallagher, are 3-5 on the season and have, in the words of Gallagher, "been playing like a bunch of elementary kids." This week in practice, they have been working hard to eliminate the mistakes that have led to the three straight losses.

The main players for SCC have been guards Sheri Stegman and Dana Carr, forwards A.J. Jackson, Tina Lester and Debbie Olivas and centers Carolyn Kuhl and Kim Johnson.

Paget's disease eats away at the skeleton

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been diagnosed with Paget's disease. How could I have picked it up, and just what is it? I'm currently taking Difenol twice daily and Xanax before going to bed for pain. My doctor tells me not to expect relief from the pain for at least six weeks.

damaged. This is called viral cardiomyopathy.

I do not know your prognosis. With medication (such as calcium-channel blockers) to reduce cardiac work, the heart is allowed to rest and may recover.

(C)1989 NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

DEAR READER: Paget's disease of bone, a common disorder of unknown cause, affects older adults. It is characterized by areas of rapid bone destruction and production, leading to softened, enlarged bones that may be painful and break easily. The disease usually affects spotty portions of the skull, spinal column and legs.

Paget's disease is not communicable; you cannot "catch" it from someone else, nor do you get it by doing (or not doing) something. It is a metabolic disorder and can exist for many years without causing symptoms.

Treatment consists of drugs to retard the rate of bone turnover and to force additional calcium into weakened bones. Difenol is such a drug, as is calcitonin, a newer treatment that shows promise. Several weeks must pass before the medicine begins to alleviate symptoms. You seem to be receiving appropriate therapy for your condition.

Xanax, an anti-anxiety medicine, is not a common treatment for Paget's disease. It is useful for people with extreme nervousness.

DEAR DR. GOTT: For the last 3 1/2 years, I've been suffering from viral cardiomyopathy. I have no strength or energy and can do no work. What's my prognosis?

DEAR READER: Many types of virus affect the heart. Although most forms of viral heart inflammation heal themselves, some progress to a chronic state in which the heart muscle becomes flabby and irreparably

Here is a deal from a recent sectional tournament in Bismarck, North Dakota. Declarer made one no-trump with careful card-reading plus one slight error from East. West led the jack of spades. Declarer played small from dummy and East won the king. East cashed the king of clubs and led the five of hearts, a top-of-nothing play. West won the ace and played back a club, and the defenders took three more club tricks. East discarding a diamond. On the fourth club declarer threw a heart from dummy and a low diamond from his hand. West now got off lead with the 10 of hearts. South played a spade to the ace in dummy and a spade back to his queen. East now went wrong by throwing his last heart. At this point, when dummy was left with a small spade and K-J-4 of diamonds, South led his last high heart. West followed, the spade was discarded from dummy, and East discarded a diamond. It was now clear that West had started with four spades, four hearts and four clubs, and could have only one diamond. So declarer played a low diamond to dummy's king. West following with the lone 10, and then finessed against East's queen to make one no-trump. The unusual lesson of this deal is that it is best defense for East to hold on to all his small hearts. By doing so, he prevents declarer from getting a complete count on the hand. That should cause declarer to go wrong at the finish and lose a trick to the queen of diamonds.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Dec. 18, 1989

Several outstanding friendships are likely to be established in the year ahead. None of them, however, are apt to be with people in your present field of endeavor.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today you might experience one of those awkward moments when you'll wish you could vanish after blurting out some wrong things to the wrong person. Think before you speak. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may not be as shrewd a shopper as you think you are today and a sharp salesperson who'll recognize this may unload some shoddy merchandise on you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

Don't treat companions in a condescending fashion today, because it could produce uncomfortable results. Deal with others as equals and forego all forms of one-upmanship.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Sweeping responsibilities under the rug today won't present a problem. The trouble will come later when you try to catch up and find them to be more difficult than they originally were.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you don't honestly think well of another, it's best not to say anything today. Insincerity will be quickly detected and could result in your being labeled a shallow person.

TAUROS (April 20-May 20) Thinking big or verbalizing your intentions won't assure you of success today. Victories will have to be earned the hard way through effort and application.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Instead of assessing matters in a realistic fashion, you might color the facts today to suit your desires. Judge life for what it is and not for what you wish it to be.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Someone with whom you're closely associated may think the world owes a free ride today. You may be expected to buy the ticket.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) Someone who has let you down previously might make some rather lavish promises to you again today. It's best you don't hold your breath until they happen.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Usually you're a person who tries to be industrious and productive, but today you may do only what you think you have to do in order to get by.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Pretending to be something other than what you really are will not make a favorable impression on others today. Just be your own sweet self, nothing more, nothing less.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) People can't always be exactly what we'd like them to be. There's a chance you could be disappointed today when someone you greatly admire doesn't fulfill your expectations.
