Fire Guts Altamonte Building

A well-known two-story building near Altamonte Springs was gutted early today by fire.

Destroyed was the Altamonte Springs Mens Club, in the 100 block of North Street. No injuries were reported among firefighters in the 3:26 a.m. blaze.

Seminole County Battalion Chief Chris Johnson said county fire units arrived at the scene at 3:29 a.m. to discover the first and second floors of the old wooden building engulfed in Backup units were called and in total 14 fire fighters from the county and three cities doused the blaze for two hours before bringing it under control.

Firefighters and units from Altamonte Springs. Longwood and Casselberry also responded to the blaze.

County building officials were at the scene early today to determine if the building's remains should be torn down, Johnson said. Johnson said he thought the building was vacant or unused. He said because it appeared to be unused and was in an area where many arrests are made, firefighters anticipated it would burn down. That section of North Street has been the site of numerous drug and gambling arrest.

Cause of the blaze had not been determined early today. Johnson said the firefighting was strictly defensive with firefighters trying to save nearby buildings more than save the -Deane Jordan

15 Bank Robberies Later-Man Gets 50-Years Lail was sentenced to 30 years for his 1968

A missed sederal judge slapped a 50-year sentence on a man who was on parole for 4 bank robberies, committed while he was on parole for 9 bank robberies, when he robbed an Altamonte Springs bank and another bank in 1985.

U.S. District Judge G. Kendall Sharp also criticized the U.S. Parole Commission as he gave bank robber Ernest Gall Lail. 49, two consecutive 25-year stints Tuesday. He could be out on parole in 10 years.

Lail was on parole for four bank robbertes in North Carolina when he robbed the Liberty

National Bank in Altamonte Springs and the First Federal Savings and Loan of Winter Haven in November 1985. The four North Carolina bank robberies occurred when Lall was on parole for nine bank robberies in 1968, records show.

Sharp told reporters he was angry with the parole commission for releasing Lail twice only to have him pop up in the criminal system a third time for identical crimes. He said he was frustrated that once a judge sentences a criminal the judge no longer has any control over the criminal or his sentence.

County Trust Fund Falls Short In Paying Hospital Care For Poor

By Kathy Tyrity Herald Staff Writer

County taxpayers will fund a shortfall in trust fund income designed to pay for the hospital care of those county residents unable to pay.

The trust fund, operated by the county, fell victim to low interest rates last year, with withdrawals draining the principal. About $400,000 is earned annually in interest off the $4.5 million account, said Ken Hooper, county administrator. But he said the county pays about $870,000 a year for the hospital care of those who cannot pay. About half is paid to the state as the county's share of

For a few years, the interest covered indigent care costs paid by the county. But in 1986, there was a shortfall due to low interest earnings. Hooper said, and the county dipped into the principal. The principal was also tapped in 1985 to build the $1.7 million new health department

Official Kills Self At News Conference

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) -State Treasurer R. Budd Dwyer, facing life behind bars for a bribery conviction he bitterly protested was unjust, coolly and methodically staged his public suicide in hopes his bizarre death would be "the story of the decade."

In front of aides, reporters and television cameras at a news conference in his office Thursday, Dwyer pulled a .357 magnum revolver. His right index finger on the trigger, Dwyer put the gun in his mouth pointing up at his brain.

Then he squeezed the trigger.

a circuit judge to review a Seminole County Commission decision to allow a 64-year-old woman to live in a mobile home in apparent violation of county ordinance.

Jay and Dia Lock of 890 Chapman Road have asked for review of the county's decision of Dec. 16 regarding Wilma Hope Ketchum. Box 844. Oviedo. The case has been assigned to Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler, but no hearing date has been set.

According to the civil suit. the Locks purchased a five-acre tract from Mrs. Ketchum's son in 1984. The deed carried a life estate provision, granting Mrs. Ketchum and her nowdeceased husband, Donald, the right to live on two of the five acres for as long as they live. On the death of both of them. the right to the land was to go to the Locks, the property owners.

The Locks live in a conventional house on the property and Mrs. Ketchum in a mobile trailer, according to the suit. She has been living in the trailer since 1980 on a temporary basis that is reviewed every six months by the county. Usually, trailers are not allowed in the same area as homes by zoning restrictions.

Temporary permission, however, has been granted on the basis that Mrs. Ketchum's relatives lived in the house on the property and the trailer was

Mrs. Ketchum, according to court records, states she does have a hardship — as evidenced by a bad back and permanent disability payments - and that she should not be forced to move from the property, her home for about 15 years, the last six in the trailer.

Seventeen residents of Chapman Road signed a petition asking that the county commission not overrule its Board of Adjustment and to deny Mrs. Ketchum an extension.

The board was overruled. however, by the commission on Dec. 16 on motion by Barbara Christensen and a 4 to 1 vote. The commission gave her a 12 month extension.

Right-Of-Way Use Request Longwood Commission Tables

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

A public hearing on requests by developer Georges St. Laurent for the city to vacate and abandon a portion of two unused city right-of-ways has been tabled by Longwood City Commission to further study possible use for the property by the city.

St. Laurent wants the streets in question, Wildmere Avenue, west of Sarah Avenue, and Charles Avenue north of Marvin Avenue, vacated in order to build a large office and warehouse complex. Aspin's A Born Again Democrat

Anyone eager to divine the future during the final two years of the Reagan era will find one clue particularly tantalizing: The fate of Les Aspin. The one-time head of the House Armed Services Committee was abruptly ousted by his Democratic colleagues. He has now succeeded in his fight to regain his chairmanship against long odds. The House Democrats' quandary over who would run the panel has implications for the broader relationship between Congress and the lame-duck occupant of the White House.

The great uncertainty in Washington today is whether Ronald Reagan will be able to govern effectively now that Democrats control both the Senate and House: or whether the Democrats' ascendancy, coupled with the president's diminished stature due to the Iranian-arms scandal will lead to a stalemate on a grand scale. Mr. Aspin's future is relevant to this question because, in the past, he has straddled the gap between the Reagan administration and the House Democrats.

In the eyes of his liberal Democratic colleagues, Mr. Aspin's unpardonable sin was his collusion with the Reagan administration on military matters. Regarded as a highly intelligent, middle-of-the-road Democrat, Mr. Aspin angered former Speaker Tip O'Neill and other Democrats by supporting the MX missile and American aid to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua. Liberal Democrats wanted to replace Rep. Aspin with a Democrat less willing to cooperate with the administration. Conservative Democrats wanted to replace Mr. Aspin with a Democrat willing to cooperate with the administration to an even greater extent. The Democratic Caucus spent all day Thursday resolving the chairmanship of this important committee. Mr. Aspin had reversed his position on both issues which led to his earlier defeat: The MX missile and Contra aid. Now, he states that he will oppose both. He was elected, but only after downing three foes, one at a time — the liberal, the conservative and the member with seniority.

This outcome contrasts vividly with the strong presidential role exhibited by Ronald Reagan during his first six years, but would not be out of the ordinary for other recent chief executives. For example, Congress often stymied White House initiatives of Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford. At the same time, however, efforts by lawmakers to set the national agenda were checked by the executive branch. Politcally weakened by his unpopular pardon of Richard Nixon, President Ford cast more than 50 vetoes to stave off domination by an overwhelmingly Democratic Congress during his brief two years in power, which were marked by virtual deadlock in Washington.

A return to such stagnation may be the most damaging consequence of Mr. Reagan's political decline over the Iranian-arms debacle at the same moment Democrats regained control of both chambers on Capitol Hill. For the first time since he entered the White House, the president appears to have lost control of the legislative agenda. The veto, which Mr. Reagan has wielded only sparingly until now, may be the only arrow left in the presidential quiver. Thus, the strongest American president since Franklin Delano Roosevelt may spend his last two years fighting a desperate rear-guard action to limit erosion of the gains made during his first six.

Which brings us back to Rep. Aspin and the Democrats. Before he was dumped by his colleagues, Mr. Aspin was trying to ease the perception that Democrats are soft on defense and shrink from America's global commitments. He sought to do this by forging the diverse liberal and conservative factions within the party into a more pragmatic approach that recognizes the Soviet threat and the importance of U.S. military strength. This necessarily entailed moving the Democratic Party closer to President Reagan's views on defense.

Reagan's Budget Is 'Twisted' In Its Goals

President Ronald Reagan has submitted his that much will be cut from arms spending this annual budget for fiscal year 1988.

The first presidential budget in American history to exceed a trillion dollars. Reagan's proposal follows the same priorities he has sought for the past six years — increased spending for the military and foreign aid. decreased spending for domestic programs such as education and agriculture, and no tax

The domestic spending cuts are aimed especially at the poor and low-income citizens. I find the Reagan budget unfair, unwise and poorly conceived at every point that matters.

At a time when the nation is not at war and no one is threatening us, the president wants to spend $312 billion on the military — an increase over the current year of 3 percent above the inflation rate.

Congress cut $30 billion from Reagan's military spending requests last year. With the Democrats now in control of both the House and the Senate, it is probably a safe bet that at least

Of the $18.7 billion in proposed cuts for domestic programs, one-third of the reductions would come at the expense of the poorest

School lunches, medical care for the aged, Medicaid, aid to low-income college students. low-income housing, energy assistance for the poor, nutritional assistance to low-income pregnant women. Infants and children - all of these and other similar programs would be cut under the Reagan budget.

Again, it is my view that the Congress will resist most of these cuts in programs for the poor, the aged and the handicapped and instead will stay within the Reagan spending ceiling by cuts in arms outlays.

An analysis of the Reagan budget by The Center on Budget and Policy Priorities in Washington. D.C., headed by Robert Greenstein. projects a 33 percent increase in military spending over the next five years: a 27 percent increase in the Energy Department, which includes the nuclear weapons programs; a 19 percent increase in the State Department, which includes military foreign aid: and a 40 percent increase in spending on the space program.

In the same period the budget of the Department of Agriculture would fall 32 per-cent. the Department of Education budget would drop 26 percent and the Department of the Interior, which includes the Park Service, would lose 17 percent.

The president's budget offers no solution to the huge annual deficits that have marked the Reagan years. It is now clear that Mr. Reagan is going to hold out for more arms spending and no tax increases and let the Congress or the next administration worry about the federal deficit.

The new budget is plainly wrong. It not only ignores the deficit. It ignores a crisis in agriculture, a serious need for new educational investment, and millions of poor and homeless Americans. It leaves intact Reagan's two fondest goals: more arms and less taxes.

With these twisted goals, a day of reckoning lies ahead.

Political Brain Death

Did the Reagan administration run out of gas even before the Iranian matter bemused it?

The answer seems to be yes. Even before Iranscam was heard of, the White House ran the 1986 election campaign as it if were selling Marlboro cigarettes instead of political substance. America was standing tall and the Statue of Liberty had been refurbished. But what in the world had become of substance? It's all right to have a Statue of Liberty, but were concrete issues of liberty no longer on the political

It is ironic that in the midst of all this image gimmickry the central Reagan Image was seriously un-

All of the current polls show that it was dealing with the Ayatollah's crew that has hurt Reagan most. Democrats and attorneys may focus on the diversion of funds to the Nicaraguan resistance fighters, but the public is not interested in that. The public faults Reagan for playing footsie with Iran, with terrorists, the people who killed Klinghoffer.

The public saw Reagan as Rambo after Jimmy Carter's Little Orphan Annie act. Reagan fired the air controllers, and his popularity soared. He was shot, almost mortally, and he joked about it on the operating table.

He invaded and overran Grenada. Hardly anyone credited the rationale that we were rescuing a bunch of medical students. Reagan didn't even have to wink at the audience. What everyone knew was that we were slugging a bunch of communist gangsters in Grenada and giving Castro a black eye.

Of course the administration was "lying" about the rationale for Grenada, and everyone knew it. But Grenada was liberated and Reagan's popularity reached stratospheric

But someone should have known that the American public prefers almost anyone. Gorbachev, Castro and maybe Hitler, to the Ayatollah. There may indeed have been deep and subtle reasons for reaching out to Iran, but no one seems to have calculated the potential loss in political capital - which refracts in all directions and on all other issues.

Perhaps it would not be so bad if more political substance remained in the Reagan administration. A sense of political brain death is in the air. Ronald Reagan has made spectacular recoveries in the past. It will be fascinating to see whether he can come out of this one.

WILLIAM RUSHER

Pressure To Sell Out

With pressure on him to recapture the psychological initiative by some bold action, yet any hope of congressional cooperation approaching absolute zero, many conservatives fear that President Reagan may be tempted to seek some early, dramatic agreement on arms control with Soviet boss Mikhail Gorbachev.

The indications certainly are that Gorbachev himself is thinking along some such lines. He has recently taken a number of striking steps to soften the Soviet image: allowing the noted dissident Andrei Sakharov to return to Moscow from exile in Gorky, withdrawing provocative Soviet military dispositions along the Chinese border of Siberia and declaring a unilateral six-month cease-fire in Afghanistan. More recently still, he replaced the Soviet arms-control negotiator in Geneva with a much higher-ranking diplomat, who pretty clearly is coming to the bargaining table with new and presumably more fetching proposals.

Whether Gorbachev calculates that Reagan would be a particularly easy mark right now, in view of his presumed desire to take the play away from Congress's heavy concentration on the Iran controversy. is not known. If so, however, he may well be mistaken, for Reagan discovered after Reykjavik last October that a firm refusal to abandon a principled position specifically, the concept of a space shield in return for sweeping Soviet promises to reduce their nuclear arsenal — is good for a swift rise in the popularity polls. (That interesting piece of information may turn out to be the most disastrous setback the sellout brigade has suffered since Reagan's original election.)

But Gorbachev isn't the only adversary Reagan has to contend with, or even necessarily the most persistent or effective. As Rep. Jack Kemp warned recently in an open letter to the president, the U.S. State Department has its own agenda that bears precious little resemblance to

"I am concerned," Kemp told the president, "by threats from within our own government and our own Congress to the goals we share.... If lest unchecked, the State Department detentists and others would substitute false diplomacy for the victory we all want for freedom and democratic capitalism throughout the world."

Specifically, Kemp told Reagan he was deeply worried that State Department officials will push for "an unwise arms control agreement with the Soviets." He also expressed concern that Secretary of State George Shultz's recent meeting with African National Congress boss Oliver Tambo will be interpreted as "a message that the United States has abandoned those who are working for peaceful and democratic change in South Africa." (The State Department itself recently admitted that "roughly half the 30 members" of the governing council of the ANC "are known or suspected" members of the South African Communist Party.)

Kemp's letter also expressed fear that the State Department would endorse premature and unfavorable agreements between freedom fighters and the Marxist governments of Nicaragua and Afghanistan.

The typical State Department official is an intelligent, highly competent and utterly bloodless paragon, dedicated to bringing about a world in which nobody makes waves. They seek "agreements" the way a bee seeks nectar, and they are a major part of the reason why postwar U.S. foreign policy is so largely a chronicle of Soviet betrayals and Soviet triumphs. Reducing Women's Fractures

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Many health authorities agree exercise can help reduce the effects of osteoporosis, but the jury is still out on how much is necessary to build stronger bones that resist thinning and resultant fractures.

One clue was turned up by

The study shows strenuous athletic activity in late teen years and early 20s appears to have no bearing one way or the other on rate of fractures in the years around menopause.

Some 15 million to 20 million women are afflicted with osteoporosis, the condition in which bones become less dense and more brittle. It is directly related to reduced estrogen production and is responsible for 5 million fractures in women annually.

participate in vigorous, regular athletic training at an early age tend to be lean and as a result, have lower levels of a crucial form of estrogen.

Because of lower estrogen levels. they may fail to begin menstruating or suffer menstrual irregularities during high school or college.

The study indicated the important risk factors for fractures over the age of 40 appeared to be diet low in milk and higher in fat, and never having been pregnant, the researchers reported.

The combination of factors never-pregnant, low-milk diet and not low-fat diet - is associated with a four-fold increase in risk of first fracture at age 40 or over, among women age 60 or over," the researchers wrote in a study published in the January issue of the Journal Obstetrics and Gynecology.

"A low-fat diet was protective." they wrote.

One finding that may add a note of confusion, however, is that a majority of the women were exercising regularly at the time of the study, but they had no apparent fracture advantage over the women leading a more sedentary life.

Bolts Could Threaten Nuclear Plants

By Jack Anderson And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON - Low grade bolts, counterfelted in Asia and made to look like high-quality industrial fasteners, are flooding the country. Some have turned up in the nuclear industry, yet some nuclear power plants fail to make sure their dangerous equipment is held together by bolts of the required strength.

Nuclear Regulatory Commission inspectors have reported qualitycontrol problems with bolts at 11 power plants since 1983. In an emergency, one or two substandard bolts in the wrong place could mean the difference between a shutdown

A big part of the problem is the widespread use of unmarked or improperly marked steel fasteners. even though the commission's regulations specifically require bolts in sensitive areas to be marked according to industry grading standards. In some cases, the federal inspectors have had to cut chunks out of unmarked bolts to test them chemically and make sure they meet specifications.

As we have reported, counterfeit bolts have been detected at one nuclear power plant and by a Connecticut company that makes valves for the industry. NRC documents reviewed by our associate Stewart Harris give details of the difficulties some nuclear plants have encountered trying to keep track of their essential nuts and bolts. Here's what the NRC's inspectors found and had to correct:

- At the South Texas plant near Bay City, Texas, unmarked, lowstrength bolts intended for electrical raceway supports may have been used in more sensitive equipment. The bolts were distributed throughout the plant in "bulk quantities," according to a 1986 NRC report.

"This condition may have resulted in the indiscriminate use of the unmarked fasteners in other types of equipment installations because the bolting is readily available and presumed to be adequate." the NRC's construction appraisal team reported.

On another visit to the same plant, inspectors noted that lowstrength bolts had, in fact, been substituted for high-strength bolts on some mechanical equipment.

- Quality-control officials at Washington Nuclear plant No. 2 near Richland, Wash., lost track of the kinds of nuts installed at various locations. Many were unmarked, but just by looking at them NRC inspectors determined they were not the kind specified, according to a 1983 report. The inspectors also found nuts and bolts of different grades mixed together in storage bins instead of being stored separately as required.

- Anchor bolts of high and low strength were mixed together at the Shearon Harris nuclear plant near Raleigh, N.C. The mixup caused some equipment to be held in place by low-strength bolts where stronger ones should have been used. In this case, NRC officials decided there was no safety problem, however, and allowed the weaker bolts to stay put.

- The use of unmarked and incorrect bolts on pumps, motors and other equipment "indicates a generic lack of attention to fastener details" by the Commonwealth Edison Co. and firms supplying equipment for the Byron Station Unit 2 plant near Rockford, Ill., according to a 1985 report. "This matter requires management attention," the NRC inspectors wrote.

- Other plants where NRC inspectors found problems with bolts since 1983 include River Bend Unit I near Baton Rouge, La.: Byron Station Unit 2 near Rockford, Ill.: Millstone Unit 2 at Waterford. Conn.: Seabrook Station at Seabrook, N.H.: Nine Mile Point Unit 2 near Oswego, N.Y.: and Perry Units 1 and 2 near Painesville. Ohio.

Shultz Admits Arms-Hostages Talks Continued Into December

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Members of Congress say it is "no longer credible" for President Reagan to deny his arms sales to Iran became bids to buy hostages in light of testimony from his own secretary of state.

With a new poll showing deep public doubts about Reagan's credibility in his worst political crisis, private revelations to Congress by Secretary of State George Shultz have provoked unusually blunt criticism from Capitol Hill.

Shultz planned to return to the Capitol today to speak on the broader subject of foreign aid, but the clear focus among lawmakers remained his startling report on continued U.S. Iranian contacts after the policy was exposed in November and Reagan pledged publicly that Iran would get no more U.S. weapons.

In his report. Shultz acknowledged approving a meeting with Iranian contacts Dec. 6 but said he moved to cut all ties when he learned the Iranians made more demands for U.S. arms in exchange for American hostages.

One infant, dubbed Baby A, died during the 7 1/2-hour operation Thursday at Children's Hospital and his brother, Baby B, died about four hours later - 2 1/2 hours after emerging from surgery.

The boys were joined at the chest from the breastbone to the stomach and shared a heart, liver and intestines. Doctors said the two were essentially living off each other and that both would die unless separated.

The operation was completed at 4:09 p.m. EST — about 90 minutes after Baby A was declared dead - and doctors said Baby B's chances were not good. He died at about 6:30 p.m. of apparent heart failure.

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) - A medical student and triathlete who shattered the world record for the longest human-powered flight says pedaling the experimental Eagle more than 37 miles was the most challenging thing he has ever done.

Glenn Tremmi. 26, a University of Connecticut medical student from Milford, Conn., flew the Eagle 37.2 miles in 2 hours, 13 minutes over a descrt course on Thursday. breaking the 22.5-mile mark set by Bryan Allen, who pedaled across the English Channel in the Gossamer Albatross in 1979 in 2 hours, 49 minutes.

Two Foreigners Kidnapped

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) - Gunmen seized two people believed to be foreigners today in the Hamra commercial district of Moslem west Beirut, a Moslem militiaman and witnesses said. Police said they were checking the report.

"Yes, two people who looked like foreigners were taken away by several gunmen at this corner at 8:30 a.m. this morning." a Shiite Moslem Amal militiaman told United Press International.

"At 8.30 this morning I heard the sound made by pulling the trigger of rifles. I looked out to see what is happening." said Mohammad Said, a shopkeeper in the Pavillon street area where he said the abduction occurred.

"I saw five gunmen carrying Kalashnikovs forcing two foreigners, who looked like Germans, into a blue BMW car and then they drove off," he said.

A police spokesman told UPI they had heard the report but had no further information. "We are checking these reports," he said.

Waite Continues Hostage Talks

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) - Hostage negotiator Terry Waite, who has not been spotted in Beirut for nearly three days, was safe today and continuing talks with the Moslem extremist kidnappers of some foreigners held in Lebanon, a militia official said.

Waite, who came to Moslem west Beirut 11 days ago for the first time since the U.S. hostages-for-arms deal with Iran surfaced in November, left his hotel at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday without his guards and has not be seen since.

His latest disappearance - the longest since the special envoy of the archbishop of Canterbury embarked on his mission - triggered rumors in Beirut that Waite might have been taken hostage.

Seminole Conquers Mainland

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor The scenario appeared to be

After playing Daytona Beach Mainland on even terms for three quarters, Seminole missed its first five field-goal attempts of the fourth quarter as the Bucs built a seven-point lead.

Seminole coach Bill Klein signalled a time out with five minutes to conquer.

"We have been in this position before," Klein told his 'Noles. "Now, let's do something about

Craig Walker was all cars. The 6-8 junior, dominated by Mainland all-stater Mike Polite the past two years, revived the Seminoles with one electrifying move. Taking a fast-break fed at the foul line, Walker dribbled once and went airborne. He came down two-handed through the rim, carrying a Mainland player with him.

The crowd and Walker's teammates went berserk.

The celebration was not premature. The 'Noles eventually tied the game to force an overtime where they finally conquered Mainland, 54-53, before 531 delirious fans at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

"It's over, it's finally over," Senior Roderick Henderson said. "We've finally beaten them for the first time in three years."

It was Henderson who curled around the last rebound with three seconds to play after Brian Morris' shot — his only field-goal attempt of the night — bounced off the rim.

"We were patient on offense tonight, that was the difference." Henderson said. "The home crowd really kept us in the game. And Craig's dunk, that gave us the extra boost to get over the hump.'

Walker blocked two of Polite's shots and frustrated him on several other occasions. Walker finished with eight points, 11 rebounds and seven blocks. He played the last 7:44 with four fouls.

"Walker came out tonight," Toth said. "I thought that was an imposter in his uniform. I've never seen him play like that."

"Our defensive intensity won us this game," Klein said. "We just got all over them the last quarter and overtime."

Walker blocked three shots in intimidating fashion during the first quarter as the teams battled to a 13.13 tie. Henderson had eight points.

Parker took over for the 'Noles in the second stanza, scoring the first six points as Seminole took a 19-17 lead. Michael "Spud" Edwards chipped in four points in a row and Henderson's baseline drive put the Tribe up, 28-27, at halftime.

Daytona 500 Officials Announce Record Purse

A record purse of $1,501,025 for the 29th running of the Daytona 500 NASCAR Winston Cup stock car race on Feb. 15 has been announced by officials at Daytona International The purse is by far the largest dollar amount offered on the multi-million dollar Wiston Cup Series. Daytona is the only stock car facility that offers a million dollar purse. When the green flag waves at 12:15 p.m. for the start of this year's Speed Weeks tradition, most of the field of up to 42 Winston Cup drivers will be chasing the richest purse awards in their careers. More and more top-level corporations are getting involved in racing and as this happens the payback to competitors will continue to rise. The 1987 purse is more than $32,000 over last year when posted awards totaled $1,468,715. After he won his first superspeedway Winston Cup race in last year's Daytona 500, Geoff Bodine won a record $192,715, a mark which quite possibly will be surpassed this Frb. 15. Practice for the Daytona 500 begins on Friday, Feb. 6. Busch pole qualifying will be on Saturday, Feb. 7. After the Feb. 8 Busch Clash, for 1986's pole winners, three days of practice and qualifying will set the stage for the 7-Eleven Twin 125-mile qualifying races for the 500 on Thurs-

Peters, Maiolini See 6 As Magic Number For Conference Finals

By Chris Fieter Herald Sports Writer

Doug Peters feels getting six or seven wrestlers to the finals will put Lake Mary's Rams in good position to repeat as Seminole Athletic Conference champions. By the same token. Seminole High coach Glenn Maiolini feels the Tribe can compete for the crown if it puts six men in the finals.

The second SAC wrestling tourney will be held Saturday at Lake Mary High. Weigh-ins for the wrestlers start at 8 a.m. with a seeding meeting from 9-10. The first round of wrestling starts at 10 a.m. and runs until 12:30. Seminfinals are from 1-3 p.m., wrestlebacks from 3 to 5, consolation finals at 6:30 and championships finals at 8. Admission charge is $3 for adults and students.

Lake Mary goes into the tournament with a 4-0 record in dual meets and Peters said the Rams have been wrestling particularly well the last few weeks.

"If we wrestle the way we have the past couple meets I'll be very happy," Peters said. "I'm counting on six or seven guys to make the finals and that should be enought to win it. But I still think it will be a little closer and more interesting than people might Maiolini is hoping Seminole High can be the team that makes it more interesting. The 'Noles have a 7-2 record in dual meets.

"Last year we were last in the conference and we keep saying that we want to do the opposite this year," Maiolini said. "I think we have an outside chance to do it. We have to put about six kids in the finals and everybody has to place and get

Jackson is the overwhelming favor-ite at the unlimited class where he was a state finalist last season. Bill Richards will wrestle at the 149 class while Rob Richards takes an unbeaten record to the mat at 135 pounds. Carbia will be in the 129 slot opposite Seminole's Mays.

Peters is also looking for some solid efforts from the lighter weights including Robert Doniero at 101. Jeff Johnson (108), Scott Flores (115) and Wayne Clatyon (122). Also on the roster are Shane Stanley (142). Lance Stewart (155), Tad Roman (170). Brad Goeb (188), Todd Wright (223) and Dustin Simms (heavyweight).

"Sanford probably has a good shot and Lake Howell also has some kids who can score some points." Peters said. "And Lake Brantley has got some kids that could keep things interesting."

Lake Howell, 9-121 If dual meets. is led by Dave Figler at 185 Chris Cina at 148. Nate Hosking at 188. Henry Heim at 188 and Al Valle at 223. Heim was a finalist in the Lyman Christmas Tournament while Valle was a consolation round champion.

Lake Brantley gave Lake Mary a scare in a dual meet two weeks ago and is looking to do the same Saturday. The Patriots are led by 101-pounder Dan Roth, Jason Bray at 1:41. Grant Carpenter at 170 and Gene Devaney at heavyweight.

Oviedo and Lyman don't figure to compete for the team title but both have some standout individuals. Shawn Dezego (108) and Jene Hartman (158) figure to score high for the Lions while Greg Hunziker (135). Mike Whitaker (223) and Jimbo Smith (heavyweight) are the top grapplers for the Hounds.

most Devils had not. So everybody waited. And waited. They finally started play at 9:22 - with 334 fans on hand in an arena that seats 19,040 for hockey.

"fi's what you call hoping and coping." New Jersey Coach Doug Carpenter said after Doug Sulliman scored three goals and assisted on a fourth to give the Devils a 7-5 victory and their first-ever home triumph over the Flames.

"You have to cope with nature. And you hope that the boys are able to arrive safely. You're waiting to see who comes through the door next.

Elsewhere, Boston beat Montreal 7-3.

O'Meara's 63 Leads Phoenix

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) - Golfers are finding the new Tournament Players Club as difficult as the Phoenix Country Club course the Phoenix Open left this year.

Nearly half the golfers bettered par in Thursday's first round of the $600,000 tournament. Leading the charge was Mark O'Meara, who fired an 8-under 63 to hold a one-shot lead over Brad Faxon.

Bobby Clampett, Ed Flori and Corey Pavin were next at 6-under 65, with Rocco Mediate next at 66.

Play was delayed 90 minutes at the 6,992-yard, par-71 course because of frost on the greens. That left 45 golfers still on the course when play was suspended late Thursday.

Of those 45, Ernie Gonzales, who was 3-under-par at the turn, had the best chance at catching the leaders. Roger Maltbie. Phil Blackmar and Danny Edwards all made the turn at 2-under.

Septien 'Devastated' By Charges

DENTON, Texas (UPI) - Dallas Cowboys kicker Rafael Septien is "shocked" and "devastated" by charges he raped a 10-year-old girl who was playing with his roommate's daughter, his attorney sald.

Septien, 33, surrendered to Denton County officials at about 5 p.m. Thursday and was booked on a charge of aggravated sexual assault. He was released less than an hour later after attorneys posted a $10,000 bond, said sheriff's Capt. Jlm Neal.

Johnson's Triple-Double Lifts LA

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)- Magic Johnson's third tripledouble of the season Thursday night helped the Los Angeles Lakers to their fifth straight victory, a 118-108 decision over the Indiana Pacers.

Johnson scored 29 points and added 11 assists and 10 rebounds. He was backed by 22 points from James Worthy and 20 from Kareem Abdul-Jabbar as the Lakers Improved their NBA-best record to 32-8.

Mayfair Open Tries Again

The 27th annual Mayfair Open will consist of one round today after rain postponed Thursday's first round, Mayfair Country Club owner Jack Daniels said Thursday.

Daniels said all tee teams remain the same for today's 18-hole final. Approximately 184 pros are entered in the tournament which began at 7:15 this morning.

Tribe Frosh Destroy Lyman Dreams With 2-Minute Blitz

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

LONGWOOD - It took only two minutes for the Seminole High freshman to destroy what Lyman's Greyhounds spent the entire game building.

Seminole, trailing most of the second half, used its full-court pressure defense to go on a 15-1 blitz in the last two minutes as the Tribe pulled out a 55-42 victory before 101 fans at Lyman

The Seminole frosh ran their record to 9-0 and return to action Monday at home against Lake Mary. Lyman now stands at 9.2 with both losses to

"Lyman outplayed us until the last two minutes," Seminole coach Bill Ziess said. "The kids have to realize that they can't just walk out on the court and win.'

Lyman had a 41-40 lead and the ball with 2:20 remaining when Seminole took charge. Bobby Cofield made a steal off the press and fed Brandon Cash for a layup and a 42-41 Seminole lead. Cash then grabbed a rebound off his own missed free throw and hit a baseline jumper to make it 44-41. After a Lyman turnover, Bernard Eady hit a free Technical - Eady, Moore (hanging on rim).

Trims Illinois

United Press International Kip Jones sank a go-ahead free throw with less than one second left in overtime, threw his arms in the air to celebrate, then watched his teammates almost ruin the fun.

Jones hit the second of two foul shots Thursday night to rally No. 5 Purdue to an 87-86 Big Ten victory over No. 10 Illinois. The overtime triumph was preserved when the Illini's Doug Altenberger missed a technical free throw awarded when the Bollermakers bench emptied to congratulate Jones.

"It felt just like I was in practice," said Jones, a 6-foot-8 sophomore who scored only 2 points off the bench. "I knew I was going to make the second one. After the first one, which I thought I should have had, I was much more confident. Jones' teammates and a few fans ran onto the court, denying Illinois a chance to inbound the ball and causing a technical foul. After Altenberger missed the shot. Illinois inbounded but did not get off a shot.

Troy Lewis scored a gamehigh 31 points to help Purdue improve to 15-2 and 6-1 in the Big Ten. Ken Norman led Illinois with 19 and Glynn Blackwell added 18. The Illini fell to 13-4 overall and 5-2 in the confer-

In other games involving ranked teams, No. 1 North Carolina crushed Wake Forest 79-53, No. 2 Iowa defeated No. 4 Indiana 101-88, No. 3 UNLV pummeled Long Beach State 104-74, No. 11 Alabama edged No. 15 Auburn 88-82 and No. 20 Kansas beat Nebraska 86-65.

At Greensboro, N.C., Joe Wolf scored 19 points to lead the Tar Heels over Wake Forest in an Atlantic Coast Conference game. Jeff Lebo scored 14 points and J.R. Reid added 13 for North Carolina, 16-1 and winner of 14 straight. Freshman Sam Ivy led Wake Forest with 22 points.

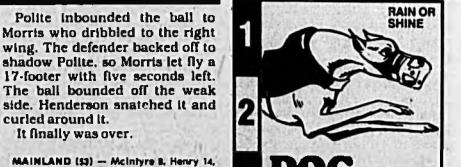

At Iowa City, Iowa, B.J. Armstrong scored 16 points, all in the second half, to lead six lowa players in double figures in the Big Ten game and extend the nation's longest winning streak to 18 games. The 18 straight also is an Iowa school record. Darryl Thomas led Indiana with 22 points. At Las Vegas, Nev., Armon Gilliam scored 25 points to power Nevada-Las Vegas In a Pacific Coast Athletic Association game. The Runnin' Rebels improved to 17-1. At Tuscaloosa, Ala., Jim Farmer scored 20 points and Derrick McKey added 19 to lead five Alabama starters in double figures and lift the Crimson Tide over Auburn in a Southeastern Conference game. Terry Coner scored 11 points to reach the 1,000 mark for his career. Coner is Alabama's first 1,000-point and 500-assist player.

At Lawrence, Kan., Danny Manning scored 23 points to help Kansas defeat Nebraska in a Big Eight game and extend its home-court winning streak to 43 games. Nebraska's Derrick Vick scored the game's first basket, but Kansas ran off the next 13 points and coasted. Henryk Buchanan scored 12 points for Nebraska.

Choose Landscape Plants With Soil In Mind

Just how well your landscape plants are growing depends a lot on which plants you selected and the spot in which you planted them. Considerations, such as the amount of sun or shade, exposure, water drainage, and soil type, can make the difference between successful and not-so-successful plantings. All of them should be well thought out before you buy the first plant. We all make some mistakes, but we can certainly imit them with proper planning.

The light characteristics of a planting site can be full sun, half-day full sun, indirect light, proken shade, full shade or any light level in between. Ornamental plants can be selected which will grow in almost any sun or shade level round the home. The amount of light a plant receives affects the rate of food production, plant water loss, degree of sun scald, and ability to olerate dry soils and winds. Most plants growing n shade require less irrigation than plants grown from these plants. Shade during the early morning slows the rate of thaw and can reduce the amount of cold damage.

Plants protected by trees are less subject to cold njury than those in exposed locations because the tree canopy reduces the radiant heat loss

Poor soil drainage may cause roots of some plants to rot while other plants are adapted to wet areas. However, plants recommended for wet areas, which are produced in a well-drained nursery soil may not be able to withstand the rapid transition. The best solution is to correct the drainage problem by altering surface or subsurface drainage with tiles, or land form.

A soil test is a must before your landscape plants are selected. In most instances, you want to choose plants which are adapted to the existing soil type rather than amending or changing soil conditions to suit a particular type of plant.

Good landscape design requires that plants be used to serve a definite function. Plants should improve the appearance or usefulness of the home grounds. Some folks often select plants with unusual characteristics. A limited number of plants with unusual colors or growth habits can be used effectively in the landscape, but their location must be skillfully planned.

Some plants in retail outlets are tagged according to grades and standards as established by the Florida Division of Plant Industry. A plant graded as "Florida Fancy" is a healthy and vigorous plant which is very well shaped, heavily branched, and densely foliated. A "Florida No. 1" grade is a healthy, vigorous plant that is well shaped, well branched, and well foliated. The "Florida No. 2" is healthy, vigorous, fairly well shaped, and with fair branching, and fair foliage. Any plant not meeting the above standards is a "Florida No. 3." The lower the grade when a plant is purchased, the less chance the plant has of being a good one at maturity.

Often plants are not tagged as to grade, thus they should be inspected carefully. Do not purchase plants with an unhealthy appearance or with weak, poorly formed, scarred, cracked or peeling trunks or branches. Poorly distributed branches usually lead to "leggy" plants and should be avoided. Leaves of abnormal size or excessive yellowing are an indication of a plant health problem. All plants should be examined for insects, diseases, and mechanical damage.

The root system of a container-grown plant should be well established, however the plant should not be root bound. Roots should be distributed throughout the soil and not protruding outside the container or penetrating into the

Remember, when shopping for your landscape plants, be choosey. High-quality plants suited to your particular size will be easier to maintain and will provide beauty and enjoyment for years to

DEAR DR. GOTT - I has two is too tight. In these cases, discs removed 20 years ago. circumcision is advisable. It is Since then, my back was always an uncomfortable procedure that a little bit sore, but I could do my housework. Two years ago, an orthopedic doctor put me in traction. I'm now in constant pain, wear a brace and can't stoop or bend. What do you think is wrong?

DEAR READER - Discs are the "washers" of gristle that separate the doughnut-shaped bones of the spine. The tendency for discs to degenerate or rupture is inherited. Since you've had two discs repaired, you are a prime candidate for further disc disease — or you may have developed a pinched nerve at the site of your old surgery. Ask for a referral to a neurosurgeon. This specialist can examine your back and perform tests, such as what the problem is.

DEAR DR. GOTT - Our old family physician retired, and I saw the doctor who replaced him for a routine physical exam. When he saw that I was uncircumcised, he started quite a tirade about how every male should be circumcised, and he wanted me to enter the hospital right away. He got quite indignant when I said that neither of my sons nor I had ever had any trouble keeping clean, and I'd have to think about the operation. This is the first time anyone has made such a fuss or even noticed. Could you discuss this type of operation. particularly on an adult?

DEAR READER - For the average healthy male, circumcision is not necessary for health reasons. Some uncircumcised men develop an infection under the foreskin, or the flap of skin can cause physical problems if it can be carried out by a competent surgeon or urologist. The operation is performed under anesthesia and involves cutting

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

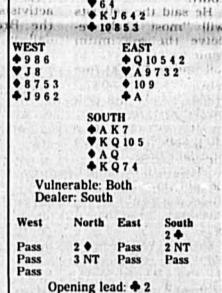

Creating entries to a hand can require unusual plays. In today's deal, declarer had to waste one of his high clubs at the first trick. But it was worthwhile to do so, based upon the normal distribution of the key diamond suit. Remember, when the opponents have six cards in a suit. the most probably division is 4-2. Let's see how this knowledge led declarer to the right decision.

Against three no-trump, the opening lead was the two of clubs. Given the bidding, West would surely not be leading from a three-card suit, so declarer knew that West had started with four clubs to the jack. If either defender also had four cards in find a sure-fire way to get to dummy after playing the A-Q of diamonds. The answer was easy enough, but South had to be alert to make the right play at the first trick. When East won the club ace, declarer unblocked the queen. East now returned a heart. South took the king, cashed both high diamonds, and then played the club king and a club. West won the club jack and played the jack of hearts, but declarer was in control and wound up taking 10 tricks.

If declarer fails to unblock the club honors at trick one, he may still succeed in his contract, but there will be some uncertainties involved. For example, suppose the king of hearts is won by the ace and declarer later plays to the heart of 10. If the 10 loses to diamonds, declarer needed to the jack, the contract will fall.

It is one of the most difficult questions of ethics a broadcast journalist can face. Moving pictures are the lifeblood of TV news. and it is only in the most extraordinary cases that hot film is left in the can.

Whether to air Thursday's shooting was more than just a question of taste. All news organizations have aired their share of footage from wars, airplane crashes and shootings. But there is evidence that giving publicity to suicides results in more people taking their lives. "It's not simply a question of taste," said against airing the Tom Bettag, executive producer of CBS Evening News. "It is the question of (the suicide victim's) grandstanding."

Professor James Mass, chairman of the Cornell University psychology depart-ment. said ther is "clear-cut evidence" that suicides reported in newspapers or on TV stimulate other suicides.

"Reading about suicides tends to increase the suicide rate," Maas said. "I think it's irresponsible for the media to emphasize that kind of act."

With that sentiment about publicizing suicides, news broadcasters must tread carefully.

It is a question that hasn't stopped some entertainment programmers, however. Two weeks ago. NBC's "L.A. Law" ran a segment in which a lawyer committed suicide in the court-room. And Wednesday night, CBS's "The Equalizer" featured a crooked judge who committed suicide at the end of the episode. It was not known whether Dwyer watched either show.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which climbed a record 51.60 points Thursday, was up 9.28 to 2154,95 shortly after the market opened. Gainers led losers 474-236 among the 1,075 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange

Early turnover amounted to about 10,513,300

The stock market Thursday rebounded from a one-day interruption of its 1987 rally as unleashed demand for equities sent the Dow Jones

The Dow rocketed 51.60 points to close at 2145.67. Since the start of 1987, the blue chip index has advanced in 13 of 14 sessions and climbed nearly 250 points. The previous record gain occurred Jan. 5, when strong institutional buying sent the Dow up 44.01 points.

Neither rain nor the biggest East Coast snowstorm this year seemed to stay buyers from their appointed rounds. As snow fell and airports closed, trading remained heavy during a session that opened to news of a West German discount rate cut and was boosted at midday by an influential analyst's favorable market forecast.

building in Sanford. Hooper said that for the first time since its inception the trust fund needed $650,000 from the general tax fund in 1986, and so this transfer was made. Property taxes were raised for fiscal 1986-87 about 10 percent over the previous year in part to pay

Hooper said he expects the same amount will be needed each year in the future to keep the fund afloat. And he said he wants to fund to be beefed up to $7.5 million ultimately.

"It really is a problem to pay for indigent health care," said Jim Tesar, Central Florida Regional Hospital administrator. He said he was hoping that the legislature will come up with a funding mechanism such as sales tax increases that could be spread throughout the populamore per day" to take care of indigent patients.

Under hospitals' licensing agreements, Tesar said, they cannot turn away "medical emergency" cases, regardless of the patient's ability to pay. Seminole County's Health Trust Fund has about $4.5 million in its principal. Hooper said, and the county pays about almost $950,000 a year for the care of those who cannot pay. The interest the trust fund has been earning only amounts to about $400,000 a year, he said. "The difference was coming out of the principal," he said.

Tesar said the hospital's indigent costs have risen from $2 million per year to $3 million per year in 1986.

The county's other two hospitals, the Seveth-Day Adventist-run Florida Hospital/Altamonte and HCA's South Seminole Community Hospital in Longwood, receive no county subsidies for indigent care but report having a total of nearly $2 million ($1.5 million for Seminole Community Hospital and $400,000 at Florida Hospital Altamonte).

Central Florida Regional receives subsidies because it has a contract with the county to provide hospital care for indigents, mostly for obstetrics, a service not offered at the other two hospitals.

Overall, Hooper said Seminole County is in better shape than most Fiorida counties because elsewhere 100 percent of the cost is often footed by taxpayers.

'We're in better shape than other places because of the trust fund." he said. "But we're still looking to the legislature to help us out on this."

Hospital and doctor associations contend that private hospitals could be forced out of business if they must accept patients who cannot pay their

Even those who have no memory of gaspline prices at less than 20 cents a gallon can get not algic for not only those good of days' prices but for the good of machines from which that fuel was pumped as well as other colorful and quaint items that were common place at the old time country store service stations.

And some who remember those prices and the good of days like to keep that memory alive by collecting vintage trapplings at the automobile industry.

Many who track such linds arrive on that collector's road through their interest in antique automobiles.

Venetic terms of antiques fairs pursuing his inferest in the automobile Jernican began tendice the other old retared frems, which reminded him of the country store atmosphere of his native North Carolina.

These are things he said younger people don't relate to, but which he believes they should have a chance to see and appreciate.

When Jernigan found his red and white Texaco pump about four years ago off a back road in north Florida he restored it and rigged it and the second of the second o

His gesoline pump, which like other vintage pumps was topped with a glass globe bearing the Texaco star logo, has been altered to protect that original globe from vandals. Jernigan said he has replaced that antique globe with a reproduction that reads "Studebaker." because the oringinal globe.

Thirty-eight-pair-old Welt Kostraews, who in his automotive paint and body shop also restore old gasoline pumps, sold that many collectors just want the old glass globes from atop the old pumps. "Some of the original globes go for up to $1,000 — $1,200," he said:

Reproductions of the globes abound and the old time pumps too are being reproduced in the $1,000 to $2,000 price range.

Collectors go for the novelty of the old-style pumps and be they reproductions or restored originals, Kostrzewa said, they are prized as show pleces for pool side, playrooms, or yards.

The reproduction pumps function sometimes as coolers and beverage dispensers, Kostrzewa sald. And there are also tiny reproduction pumps with the same function.

Kostrzewa said original old gasoline pumps are very expensive. He currently has a restored Sinclair version from the 1950s. "The original ones are pretty scarce. They're aren't a whole lot of them around," he said. But he sometimes comes across one advertised or through tips from friends, he said.

For him, with his paint shop, its a simple job to spiff up an old gasoline pump. Some collectors use their pumps as aquariums or planters, or do as Jerngan and light them up, Kostrzewa sald. Another vintage automobile item that has taken on aquarium and planter duties is glass housings for batteries.

Emptied of their electrolite and two electrodes that these glass cases oringinally held, but still bearing a logo of "Delco" or perhaps
"Exide," Kostrzewa said these old battery cases often go unrecognized by novice collectors.

He has always been "car oriented," Kostrzewa said. And about four years ago became such a dedicated collector of gas pumps, porcelain gas station signs, oil bottles and other items, that he decide he had to recover some of his investment, so he began selling off some of his collection that he could bear to part with.

Even so, he is surrounded by gasoline pumps, logo decals that he also reproduces, photographs of old service stations, oil dispensers and glass oil jars with funnel tops.

Kostrzewa sald, oil was delivered to the stations in bulk form and then put into a dispencer pump or stored in five-gallon cans to then be bottled in the funnel-top jars, which were the forerunner of today's less intriguing quart oil can.

Ed Fagan of Longwood, who has three antique Ford vehicles, said he collects other car related items that catch his eye. He has some of the old oil bottles that Kostrzewa mentioned and Fagan said that he can remember in the 1940s, '50s and '60 filling such bottles with oil draw from a barrell equipped with a pump. This was in service stations in Ohio and Michigan as well as Casselberry, so those days are not so long ago.

Kostrzewa sald collectors are drawn to items that represent specific brands of gasoline, maybe from companies they worked for, or perhaps the collector has the same last name as the gas company and they collect items by that name. Others may be drawn to the colors of a particular company.

Fagan said he collects things that just catch his eye and that are in good condition.

But Kostrzewa said there's not much of anything from today's gasoline market that is of interest to the collector, because just like in other fields, they just don't make things like they use to.

Ever Wonder Why Nobody Really Kisses On TV?

By Jan Ziegler

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Why doesn't anybody kiss on TV anymore?

That is, people chew at each other, gulp at each other, gum each other, open and close their mouths on each other, but few just kiss.

By Nancy M. Reichardt

ALL MY CHILDREN

Brooke arranged to do an interview with entrepreneur Travis Montgomery. Erica decided Travis, who bought her New York City penthouse, is the perfect man to invest in her idea to market designer riothes. Angle is convinced that Jesse got Yvonne pregnant. Itiliary returned to Pine Valley a changed woman after her Purisian experience. Yvonne was hospitallized after she had stomach pains. Robin played a mean game of poker with Ford, a customer at Matt's club. Palmer mysteriously went out of town after Natalle admitted to him that Adam forced her to break into the Cortlandi Laboratories. Erica fumed that Matt and his eigar-puffing pals played poker in her push home. Charlie freaked out when he blew an exam. Ellen gave Mark a shoulder to cry on. Matt listened with interest when Det. Borelli said that the video tape didn't reveal the identity of the person who witnessed Earl's death.

ANOTHER WORLD

Mary frettest over Reginald, who had a severe heart attack. After being rejected by Reginald. Peter took it upon himself to take over Reginald's business interests. Mitch agreed to stay clear of Rachel, but told her that he'll always love her. M.J. realized that Chad is running the prostitute ring that she and her fellow police officers are trying to shut down. Adam warned Tony, who's a reporter, not to butt into the investigation of the murdered prostitutes. Someone tailed Linda, a prostitute who works for Chad. Cheryl and Scott argued when Scott accused Vince of causing Reginald's heart attack. Chad told M.J. that he's the only man who ever cared about her. An ailing Vince collapsed in Mary's arms after she accused him of causing Reginald's heart sitack. Peter launched his own search for the mysterious photo that Donna was shown before her breakdown, Michael and Nicole also looked for the photo.

AS THE WORLD TURNS

Peter Marsden was murdered. Joslyn panicked to learn that Peter had ossession of some journals kept by Mona. Howard opened the door when Joslyn arrived at Peter's pad. Someone set fire to Thomas's cottage while Duncan was searching the attic, where he found a strongbox. Both Barbara and Shannon rushed to Duncan's hospital bedside after he survived the fire. Beatrice is sure that she met Emily in Scotland. Rick eavesdropped on Emily's session with her shrink, Dr. Michaels, and learned that Emily is having an affair with James. James offered to buy Tonio's atock in Walsh Enterprises. Lucinda learned that someone tried to buy Barbara's Walsh stock. Emma refused to speak to John. Margo hid the fact that she's upset that Tom accepted the Washington job offer. John flipped to learn that Karen won't return to town to testify against James. James lied to Lucinda that he has no Interest in Corinne.

CAPITOL

Mike split his time between his family and spending the Jewish holidays with Robin. Kayla offered Adrienne a clinic job.

GENERAL HOSPITAL

Camellia, who is Angus' daughter and Duke's half-sister, was horrifled when Frisco said Angus had once ordered a hit on Duke's life. Lucy was arrested for the murders of Ted and Sheriff Broder after a handwriting expert testified against her. Camellia had a flashbuck about killing a man who had raped her. Camella and Duke are keeping their past "relationship" a secret from Angus. Terry frenked out to find blood-stained effigies of herself and Patrick in the the apartment that she had shared with Kevin. Scan and Tillany romped in the sack. Jonathan, a rival organized-crime member, intentionally violated his parole to get thrown into prison alongside Duke. Tony suspects that Camellia has known Duke for a long time. Samantha helped Frisco investigate the threats to Terry's and Pat's lives. Patrick suspects that Lucy is guilty of trying to terrorize Tillany.

GUIDING LIGHT

Alan ended his affair with Christine. Rick's family gave him a send-off party before he left for Chicago. To get in tight with Cat, Rusty pretended that he doesn't like H.B. Johnny flew Reva to a French villa where she'll be looked after by Josh's lady friend, Dr. Geneva Baker, Reva was surprised when her moin, Sarah, arrived at the villa. Mindy made a date with country-clubber. Chad, after Rusty rejected her kisses. Gerhart fumed to learn that Reva fled to France. Ed convinced Maureen to reconsider her decision to quit her job. Really Now, How Old Is Andy Rooney?

Dear Dick: How old is Andy Rooney? - Mrs. P. L.M., Ann Arbor, Mich.

Dear Mrs. R.L.M.: He's 68 if he's a day (and he's a day). The popular commentator on CBS-TV's "60 Minutes" was born on Jan. 14, 1919.

Dear Dick: On the series, "Tales of the Gold Monkey," there was an actress who played a princess. What is her name? Is she the same one who played C.J. on "Matt Houston" and Princess Ardala on "Buck Rogers"? - 5.5..

Dear S.S.: No. Marta DuBois was the luscious lady on "Gold Monkey." Pamela Hensley (equally luscious, but taller) was the actress on both "Matt Houston" and "Buck Rogers."

Dear Dick: My brother and I have a bet on

who the original Tarzan was. He says it was Buster Crabbe, but I am almost certain it was Johnny Weismuller, who originated the role as Tarsan the Ape Man in 1932. So I win! -Unsigned, Houston.

Dear Unsigned: No! You lose! And your brother loses, too! I win! It was neither Crabbe nor Weismuller. The first Tarzan was Elmo Lincoln who played him in 1918. Weismulier didn't come along until (as you say) 1932, and Crabbe a year later.

Dear Dich: What can you dig up about Larry (Harry?) Brown, who played the male lead opposite Cybill Shepherd in Peter Bogdanovich's "Daisy Miller"? Has he appeared in anything recently? - K.L., Oznard, Calif.

Dear K.L.: I can tell you very little. But I can tell you it wasn't Larry and it wasn't Harry. His name was Barry Brown, and there are no listed credits for him for the past three years. And I have nothing about the man in my files. He seems to have done that one film and vanished.
