HOOVER GETS BANKRUPT BILL FROM HOUSE

Drastic Emergency Measure Receives Final Congressional Sanction Today

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—The drastic emergency bankruptcy revision bill today received final congressional action and was sent to the White House for the President's signature.

The Senate adopted the Black resolution directing the postmaster general to postpone the awarding of an ocean mail contract to the Philadelphia Mail Steamship Company pending investigation.

Congressional conferees on $40,000,000 treasury—postoffice appropriation bill reached a complete agreement eliminating the Senate provision for a blanket five percent slash in expenditures but accepting the amendment giving the incoming President broad powers to reorganize government departments.

Evidence was given the Senate committee that a cash loan of $10,000 went from the National City Company to John Ramsey, manager of the port of New York, during the company's participation in handling a $6,000,000 dollar—port authority bond issue in 1931.

Samuel Ansell, recent counsel for the Senate committee inquiry into the election of Senator Overton, Louisiana, has been ordered to pay $500,000 damages on a slander charge.

With but three full working days of the session left, the Senate yesterday speeded up its work on appropriation bills and leaders agreed that night sessions probably will be started today.

It passed without debate the $308,000,000 navy supply bill and returned it to the House for action on some minor amendments. It adopted the conference report on the $104,000,000 agriculture department measure, after the House gave in an unimportant change and sent it to the White House.

It adopted a partial conference agreement on the army bill carrying $370,000,000, but the House today met in disagreement. These include the Senate amendments providing $23,000,000 for placing jobless youths in citizens' military training camps for one year and $21,000 for purchasing uniforms for officers.

It rejected the conference report on the billion dollar independent offices bill, insisting on the higher Senate fund for the trade commission to permit conclusion of its power utilities, economic and anti-trust inquiries.

Father Clasby Is Wounded By Shots In Hand And Legs

Rev. Father Michael Clasby, 36, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church at St. Petersburg and for five years pastor of All Souls Catholic Church here, is in a St. Petersburg hospital today suffering from gunshot wounds in his hand and legs, inflicted, he reported to police, by an assailant who came to his house and asked him to call on a sick woman parishioner.

Father Clasby told police investigators the case that he was fired on as he was answering a knock at his door, but that he did not see his assailant.

Shortly after, Dr. W. W. Hardin, further city physician, was summoned on charges of assault with intent to kill, but he later was released on his own recognizance. Dr. Hardin denied any participation in the shooting, and members of his family supported his denial by declaring that he was at home at the time.

From reports from St. Petersburg did not indicate the seriousness of the bullet wounds.

Father Clasby resided in Sanford from about 1928 until early 1930 when he was called to St. Petersburg and his place here taken by Rev. J. J. McInerney who has since been called to Jacksonville.

Japs' Advance Into Jehol Uninterrupted

CHINCHOW, Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—The Japanese military command announced that its army entered Chihing, commercial and transportation center of Jehol province, today. No Chinese resistance was offered. Two other towns on China's inner defense line were reported captured also. Victories were reported for the three main Japanese offensives which are swinging over the province with the capital as the common objective.

ROOSEVELT FILLS ENTIRE CABINET, WOMAN IS NAMED

Precedent Is Broken With a Appointment Of Frances Perkins

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—President-elect Roosevelt broke precedent last night when he selected for the first time a woman for the cabinet; he named Miss Frances Perkins, New York commissioner of labor, his secretary of labor.

The next President made his cabinet complete with the announcement also of Daniel C. Roper, of South Carolina, as secretary of commerce.

Earlier in the day he gave out the name of the veteran Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, as his attorney general.

Both Senator Walsh and Roper were leading figures in the unsuccessful campaign of William G. McAdoo for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1924. McAdoo's announcement of the switch of California's vote at the Chicago convention, assured Roosevelt's nomination. Walsh was active for Roosevelt's nomination.

Miss Perkins has served in public office in New York under both Governors Smith and Roosevelt. She was formerly a member of the state industrial commission. Her advice has been sought frequently on labor problems by congressional committees at Washington.

Roosevelt offered no comment on his choices, simply informing newspapermen in his study at the residence here that Miss Perkins and "Dan" Roper would complete his cabinet. He treated the woman member on exactly the same terms as the men.

Apparently well-founded reports that Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, would be the next ambassador to Italy brought neither affirmation or denial from Roosevelt. He replied to queries that "nothing has been done at all about that—nothing has been taken up about the embassy."

He expects to announce the choice diplomatic assignment next week after consultation with Senator Hull, of Tennessee, his secretary of state. The name of Jesse I. Straus, New York merchant, continues to be mentioned for Paris or Havana. Robert W. Bingham, Louisville publisher is expected to get the premier London assignment.

Driving Rain Puts Damper On Mardi Gras Celebration In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—Thousands of maskers, garbed in all the bizarre costumes suggested by legend or history or individual imagination, yesterday danced and laughed through streets awash with a driving rain as New Orleans celebrated Mardi Gras under the handicap of the worst weather ever to visit the city at carnival time.

Zulu jester saved the annual big show.

Rain ruined the parades of Rex, Proteus, and other potentates of revelry, but Zulu—black and nonchalant—strutted right on down the street while the wet crowds cheered his enthusiasm.

"Le, er rain," said Zulu—and it did.

The negro funmaker is a regular part of every Mardi Gras. He arrived yesterday on an oyster barge, packed in a canal and dragged to an undertaking establishment where his quest greeted him.

GERMANY NOW THROTTLED BY FEDERAL GAGS

Hitler's Opposition Factions Silenced By Strict Measures On Eve Of Election

BERLIN, Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—Leftist and Centrist parties of Germany entered the last stages of their struggle for existence today with their newspapers silenced and all their assemblies and communications shut off by the strict measures of repression since the war.

While the Hitler government insists that next Sunday's election of new national and Prussian state parliaments be held as scheduled, the chief of the government's information bureau indicated the balancing bill is meaningless.

President Von Hindenburg issued a decree "against treason to the German people and highly treasonable machinations" sharply increasing penalties for espionage, treason, and subversive acts.

The death penalty was provided for attempting to secure or disclosing important military secrets.

The decree was approved at a cabinet meeting at which Wilhelm Goering, minister without portfolio and commissioner for the Prussian ministry of interior, reported to his colleagues on the incendiary fire which damaged the Reichstag Monday night and the recent raid on Kai Liebknecht house, the communist headquarters in Berlin.

The emergency measures taken by the government to cope with the situation fell short of martial law only because of the desire to keep the army out of politics.

Party headquarters throughout the country were raided, and subversive literature and weapons were seized.

Tennessee And Kentucky Begin Bank Holidays

By The Associated Press.

There was a hitch in the plans for bank reorganization in Detroit and the efforts of Senator Cuzens due today are expected to speed the end of the bank holiday which has been operative in Michigan since Feb. 14.

The bank holiday in Maryland was extended another day and a bill to permit calling bank holidays was passed by the West Virginia legislature. A similar measure was before the Nevada assembly.

Banks in several Indiana cities placed restrictions on withdrawals and Ohio withdrawals of deposits have been curbed by more than 200 banks.

Some Pennsylvania banks have taken advantage of new legislation permitting the limitation of withdrawals and Governor Pinchot expressed the belief that the legislation will obviate the possibility of a statewide holiday.

Mother And Five Of Children Die In Fire

TULSA, Okla., Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—In a vain attempt to rescue Mrs. Ernest Kepner, 34, wife of a cotton mill worker and five of her children, burned to death in their home at Sand Springs today. A wood stove, left burning in the bedroom in which all the children were sleeping, was blamed by officials.

Capital Scene Of Activity As G.O.P.'s Plan To Leave And Democrats To Move In WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—The national capital was a study in contrasts last night as preparations were made for Saturday's combination of inaugural ceremonies, a Democratic victory jubilee and "moving day" for Republican officeholders.

Survivors of the Republican regime, ranging from letters of state to ornamental elephants were being packed away in boxes in all the major executive offices from the White House to the humbler working quarters of secretaries to the assistant secretaries of cabinet offices.

By Saturday noon, when Franklin D. Roosevelt takes the oath of office as the nation's thirty-second president on the old Roosevelt family Bible, many will have carried away the bulk of personal effects of the outgoing administration. Their quarters will be ready for another "moving day" Monday when new cabinet officers will be sworn in and immediately enter on their new duties.

ORLANDO TAKES STEPS TAKEN TO STOCK IN MOVE AID VOCATIONAL TO RID LETHARGY WORK IN COUNTY

Business Men Seek To Effect Way Out Of Present Doldrums

Resolution Is Adopted To Continue State, Federal Assistance

ORLANDO, Mar. 1.—Orlando raked itself over the coals for three hours last night and decided to wake up.

Fifteen or 20 speakers admitted there is nothing wrong with the town but they doubted if there were not lethargy in its leadership.

There was considerable talk about a 60-day civic club holiday. That is, many present thought Orlando was in a constant state from too much civic club activity.

They thought a unified club with all the force and enthusiasm of all the clubs, may take the city out of the doldrums. A civic club operating every day in the week, and sometimes two, had a tendency to spit out leadership, some thought.

So today DeWitt Miller, acting as temporary chairman of that meeting held in the chamber of commerce last night, will name seven citizens to draft a program of action. Such a scheme will be reported to another meeting and then, if accepted, some plan whereby civic clubs' national standing will not be affected, will be worked out through which a newer and more vigorous organization will be born of Orlando's unanimous desire to get forward.

As a matter of fact, that word will be the keynote and the name of the new deal for Orlando. Forward Orlando Club. Kenny Guernsey worked it out along toward the tail end of the three-hour session after almost every person present had been on his feet and expressed himself. Guernsey's play on the words "F. O. C." says all the essentials of the spirit such an organization, which he described as "F for faith" and "O for organization" and "C for courage." As he said, "no outfit such as this is worth a tinker's whatnot if it has not the courage — or the guts. If you please — to go ahead and do things."

Somebody had to get that meeting under way last night and DeWitt Miller who has served as chairman of the "Believers in Florida" trip to Miami, was on his feet explaining the purpose of the session. And then they elected him temporary chairman. H. C. Habcock was named temporary secretary.

"Men who went to Miami were inspired by what they saw," said Miller, "and so inspired were they that they have returned to inspire others."

"It is possible to do big things in Orlando. We have five golf courses in a radius of a few miles. Miami has not so many. We have the finest fishing in the world. We could have a wonderful place for swimming. We could equal the pool at Coral Gables. We once had boat races, casting contests. Something happened to them. They are not held any more."

Many Alleged Law Violators Appear Before Judge R. W. Ware For Trial

As was the case when he first appeared on the bench as Judge of the Municipal Court, R. W. Ware Monday afternoon was presented with a long docket of alleged law-violations, most of which were disposed of before he stepped down from the bench for the last time.

Judge Ware ordered that charges of doing business without a license that are lodged against W. T. Simmons and E. H. McLean, while truck drivers for out-of-town bread concerns be continued until Friday afternoon.

At the request of arresting officers, Judge Ware dismissed a charge of reckless driving that has been lodged against Harold White, white, for several days.

Frank R. MacNeill, insurance agent, was fined $15 for reckless driving.

J. R. Studstill, charged with being drunk and disorderly, while P. L. Schru was fined $2.50 on a similar charge.

J. I. Vaughn, charged with being drunk, was fined $5.

The following negro persons were dismissed of charges: Lucious Washington for transporting liquor; Willie Morgan, for reckless driving; Oetha Edwards for disorderly conduct; Willie James and Susanna McNeill, for possession of liquor; Wallace Morgan, Rosa Lee Parrish, Janie Reed, and Armeta Harris, for disorderly conduct; Frank Fossett, for reckless driving; Chris Lou Owen, for being the keeper of a disorderly house; and Luke Sanders, Sam Williams, and Margaret Williams, for being inmates of a disorderly house.

H. H. Emanuel, white, charged with reckless driving, is to be tried next Monday, as are Walter Baker and Zeb Townsend, charged with disorderly conduct.

Will Smith was fined $5 for being drunk and loitering.

Lucinda Bryan was fined $15 for being drunk and disorderly.

Jacob Dalton was fined $5 for being drunk.

Ernestine Rouch was fined $5 for being drunk and disorderly, while P. L. Schru was fined $2.50 on a similar charge.

Henry Neely, charged with reckless driving, was fined $50, which was suspended provided he paid for all damages to an automobile owned by Frank Fossett.

FARMERS WILL CONTINUE TO DESTROY CROP

Vote Unanimously On Action To Keep Up Plowing Under In Order To Aid Price

Declaring by resolution that a discontinuance of the policy of plowing under one-third of the present maturing crop, "in the face of expected heavier shipments of heavy crop the next several weeks will surely result in a weaker market with possible serious consequences to this community," members of the Seminole Agriculture Club meeting at the Court House last night unanimously resolved to maintain their present policy "for the benefit of the community—in which we live."

The meeting was adjourned from a meeting held on Monday night when growers met to hear a report on the action of state relay growers who, in Lakeland last Friday night, decided to extend the plow-under period for another week both on Monday and last night, the question of discontinuance was raised, only to be thoroughly discussed, and finally voted down.

In a comment on the situation this morning, F. F. Dorner, president of the Club, said, "Discontinuance at this time would ruin us. We must make our growers and shippers realize that conditions are such that we must control our shipments more than ever. It might be true that the market can at this time stand a slight increase in shipments, but I, and scores of growers here, are thoroughly convinced that if we let the market take its course, it will be flooded and what little demand now exists will be broken down completely. It seems to me that our growers should be urged to keep their crops in the North as far from normal. The financial condition especially is grievously strained just at this time and that fact must be taken into consideration. Finally every grower or shipper ought to be able to see that we must hold the confidence of buyers in the North who must be convinced that we are going to curtail through the entire season. I appeal to every grower who values his home, his properties and his financial condition to stay with us—in our fight."

"Whereas, on the 26th day of January 1933, in a meeting assembled in the City of Lakeland, relay growers representative of all the important relay growing districts of the State of Florida, after a careful survey of market conditions and the then prices obtaining, unanimously decided that the movement of relay from this (Continued On Page Four)

Cermak To Recover Unless Unforeseen Happens, Is Advice

EVANS IS BUYER OF 1ST NATIONAL BANK PROPERTY

Faith In Florida Is Seen Back Of Cash Real Estate Deal

For the sum of $43,500 in cash, the six-story First National Bank building and all its fixtures has been purchased from A. H. Moses, Sanford commission merchant, by Frank Evans, wealthy Boston and Lake Mary manufacturer and pioneer resident of this community.

Negotiations for the sale of the property have been under way for several weeks, but the sale became a matter of court record only yesterday in the filing of a warranty deed conveying the property from Mr. Moses to Mr. Evans.

Late yesterday afternoon Mr. Evans, who has just returned from a business trip to the North, called at the City Hall, and as the new owner of the property, not only paid $3000 representing the 1932 taxes on the building and its contents, but also assumed for $3231.50 a tax certificate covering 1931 taxes on the building. This certificate is held by the DeFuria corporation which is controlled by the bondholders' Protective Committee.

Mr. Evans also called at the Clerk's office in the Court House and paid state and county taxes, interest and costs on the property for 1931 and 1932, totaling $5530.24.

Interviewed late yesterday in connection with his purchase of the largest building in Sanford, Mr. Evans said that "My great faith in Florida and this section led me to invest this sum of money at this time because I believe that in a few months we shall be on our way to a new era of prosperity and happiness. It is my opinion that Florida shall lead the way during our country's recovery and that we shall be the first to make the 'come-back'. I am satisfied that an investment in Florida of this time will bring a far greater return than any investment that can be made in any section of America, and with that in mind, I have invested in Sanford property."

The First National Bank was built in 1923 on the site of the T. J. Miller and Son furniture store. Including elaborate banking fixtures and a modern steel vault, the construction cost totaled over $225,000. Mr. Moses came into possession of the building in April 1930 when he was the successful bidder at an auction sale held by the receiver of the First National Bank.

The investigation was started, the Times said, on underworld information that "somewhere in a closed bank in Chicago, there is a cancelled check drawn by an underworld character in favor of Zangara and indorsed with Zangara's signature."

The newspaper quoted an unnamed high police official as saying "Zangara was ground for belief that Zangara, despite his caution, wanted to kill Cermak, and not President-elect Roosevelt."

The article quoted a woman witness in Miami as having heard Zangara shout as Cermak fell: "I got him! I got him!" It also said Zangara was known in the army as an expert marksman, saying his aim probably would have been true.

Lieut. Edward Kelly, of the plainclothes detail was assigned to investigate the case.

Ruth Owen Gives Talk In Defense Of Congressmen

NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, of Florida speaking as guest of honor at a luncheon of the Advertising Club yesterday, said she deplored the prevalence of jokes directed at members of Congress.

"Congress has had more than its share of humor and criticism during the past two years," said Mrs. Owen. "In normal times it would not be important, but these are not normal times. A picture that tends to distort public officials, that tends unnecessarily to trouble the public mind about the integrity and industry of those elected to high office is a dangerous influence."

"If the people knew the work done by their representatives in Congress they would not only be proud of their representatives, but they would be proud to be citizens of a republic."

Mrs. Owen, whose topic was "The Business of Being a Congresswoman," described some of the details of committee work and of solving the human problems of her constituents, which, she said, was fully as important as the work done on the floor of the House.

Denver Police Claim To Know 2 Abductors

DENVER, Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—Two of the abductors of Charles Beutcher, 2nd, are known, Police Chief Albert Clark announced today as the 18th day of captivity of the young broker passed. Clark declined to name them. Beyond this the chief said there were no new developments in the case. Evolutionists demanded $50,000 when they took the young straggler away Feb. 12.

Physicians Say Their Patient Is Now Definitely On Upgrade; Nourishment Taken

MIAMI, Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—Barring unforeseen developments Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago will recover from Giuseppe Zangara's bullet wound and complications that followed it, his attending physician announced today.

"Mayor Cermak definitely is on the upgrade now," Dr. Frederick Tice said. "His lungs and heart are sound and good. Barring unforeseen circumstances we now can say he will recover."

Full chest examinations today showed a lessening of the pneumonic consolidation in the lower lobe of Cermak's right lung pierced by the bullet. The patient is now able to take by the mouth sufficient fluids to sustain him.

CHICAGO, Mar. 1.—(A.P.)—A theory that Giuseppe Zangara might have been hired by gangsters to kill Mayor Cermak, of Chicago, was being investigated by police here yesterday. It was said in a new, story published yesterday in the Chicago Daily Illustrated Times. A cancelled check endorsed by Zangara is mentioned in the story as a basis for the theory.

The investigation was started, the Times said, on underworld information that "somewhere in a closed bank in Chicago, there is a cancelled check drawn by an underworld character in favor of Zangara and indorsed with Zangara's signature."

The newspaper quoted an unnamed high police official as saying "Zangara was ground for belief that Zangara, despite his caution, wanted to kill Cermak, and not President-elect Roosevelt."

The article quoted a woman witness in Miami as having heard Zangara shout as Cermak fell: "I got him! I got him!" It also said Zangara was known in the army as an expert marksman, saying his aim probably would have been true.

CITY JOINS IN FIGHT TO GET LOWER RATES

The second plan is for the City to "Tell the power firm that its rates in Sanford and vicinity are unreasonable and to demand that within a month or so they set up a reasonable rate schedule based on present values and costs of operation."

Mr. Miller outlined his connection in the "fight for lower rates" by stating that in October 1930 he "started the machinery in motion." He said that the recommendations contained in a report made by a special City committee and presented to the Commission last April, "bore out every charge and contention that I made and I was so advised by Mayor Speer," but "there has been no action on the matter to this date."

After stating that "I think it is the prerogative of the City Commission that it should take a hand to protect the interests of the people," Mr. Miller stated that "We welcome the proper authority of the City taking such action as will bring a reasonable rate in keeping with present prices and production costs. I see nothing wrong with the City's demanding that the Florida Power and Light Co. revise their schedule downward. They might see the error of their ways and give the City new rates. At least, they are entitled to every consideration. I don't want notoriety. I don't want to see them. I want to be as fair to them as they ought to be to the people of this city. Someone ought to begin action, however, and again I invite the City to join us by intervention."

The Commissioners shortly after instructed their attorney to prepare a resolution demanding that the power firm revise the rate schedule downward. The resolution will be ratified at a special call meeting on a date that was not announced last, but was indicated might be held next Monday. For the second time in a month, the Commissioners turned down an offer made them by W. L. Cooper, local bond broker, who representing a mortgage firm which is taking over a large portion of City property wished to pay other than 1929 or prior delinquent taxes in bonds, together with cash for the 1932 taxes.

The Commission, by a majority vote, reaffirmed its pledge to the taxpayers in that no City bonds will be accepted for delinquent taxes for the years 1930, 1931, and 1932. Edmund Meisch, local farmer, appeared to explain several conversations he has had with Col. J. C. Woodward, head of Georgia Military College, at College Park, Ga. He said that Col. Woodward is anxious to locate his winter quarters in Florida, and wished to know whether the City is willing to donate the Mayfair Hotel for the use of approximately 300 boys now enrolled in the school. City Clerk F. S. Lamson was instructed to write Col. Woodward and secure a more concrete plan of what the School had to offer in exchange for the privilege of using the Hotel.

The Commissioners approved the payment of a hospital bill for $47 brought about by the illness of a City charity patient, but temporarily held up payment of a second bill for $86, covering hospitalization of a negro woman whose leg was amputated. Clerk Lamson was instructed to notify all owners of business houses or professional offices that unless they pay their 1932 occupational licenses within 10 days, they will be arrested and brought to trial in Police Court. Chief of Police C. H. Shaffer also was told to confiscate all slot machines upon which licenses are not paid in five days.

The Commissioners passed a resolution, which, if approved by the Boardholders' Protective Committee, will provide them with some $4000 for use to operate the City instead of in the purchase of bonds at market price as was agreed by the Committee and the Commissioners last Fall. The money is now in the City treasury, and it represents money collected on delinquent taxes during the past several weeks.

The meeting came to an unusual ending. Following the passage of the resolution, it was moved and seconded that adjournment follow at once. Some of the Commissioners left the table. However, attention was called to an application made by the St. Johns River Line Co., which wishes to use the Municipal Pier as an emergency wharf, and which is willing to post $1000 bond against damage and pay 20 cents per ton wharfage charge.

Commissioner Dumas objected to the application by stating that "I see it as a piece of state ownership," Bill Lefler and "old O'Connell," and although I hate every board in the "O'Connell's" sides, I don't think we should be a party to it."

Before the discussion had continued much further, Commissioner Lefler moved that the rules be invoked and that the meeting be adjourned, and, without a word, the Commissioners started out of the room.

Henry Ford Is Now Banker For First Time In His Career

(Continued from Page One) figure largely. "How does it feel to be a banker now?" he said. "Why, I feel a good deal the same as I did yesterday and the day before. The details are being worked out now and will be submitted to me later. We'll have to feel our way along. Our major principles, of course, will be safety and the aiding of productive activity."

Concerning himself and Senator Couzens, the manufacturer said: "Senator Couzens and I am in closer agreement on many things than seems to be understood. Our relations have been the subject of many misstatements during the last two weeks and I think the time has come to check them up. We were in business together and we got along fine. Couzens had a taste for public life and I had a preference for manufacturing, so our ways parted. I want to say that he has made an excellent record in public life. "Senator Couzens never proposed to me any plan of action regarding the Detroit situation. I have spoken to him twice by long distance telephone during the last two weeks, once to repudiate some statements, concerning him which were indirectly ascribed to me, and again on Sunday to tell him I thought the banking situation here was nearly settled."

Seemingly tired and worn, the motor manufacturer made a terse answer when asked if his banks would make real estate loans. "Not for speculative purposes," he said. Previously Ford had declared, in criticism of banking, that he believed financial institutions should have two deposit classes—one for safekeeping which they would not

A new feeling for men past fifty

If you've let yourself grow systematically old, here is a way to stimulate yourself without the slightest harm, and, in fact, with effects beneficial to the entire body. This method of stimulating a sluggish system to new life is a doctor's discovery, so no one need hesitate to try it or believe in it. It is a sane, sensible way to keep keenly alive. The only medicine you take is a most likeable and remarkable syrup made with fresh herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. The benefits are many, and far-reaching. Its immediate effect on the lower bowel gets rid of lingering poisons better than a powerful laxative. In fact, you will need no other laxative if you take an occasional spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

If you regard yourself in fairly good health now, you might still find after a week or two of this gentle stimulation that you were only in a state of half-health before. It makes an amazing difference in the way one feels, especially at an age when one inclines toward auto-intoxication. (Daily headaches, falling appetite and ailing too easily are apt to be symptoms of a toxic condition.) Women, too, get decided benefit from a few weeks' regulation with this simple prescription that can be had at all times at any drugstore. Mothers give this same syrup to children, and raise their families without a day's worry over chronic constipation, or even the sluggishness so common in childhood. The bowels move like clockwork. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is perfectly safe for anyone of any age.

Road Hints

Rural Schools Are Worse Affected, Is Educator's Belief

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The little red school house at the cross roads is taking a battering from the economic storm, William McKinley Robinson, Michigan educator said yesterday.

"The rural schools are being hit by reduced budgets and should take a look into the rural areas," said Robinson, who is head of the rural training department of Western State Teachers College, Kalamazoo.

Some country schools have closed, others are running four months per year. Teachers are getting as little as $25 a month

Historic Reichstag Building In Berlin Almost Destroyed

BERLIN, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The historic Reichstag Building, built at a cost of more than $6,000,000 was partly destroyed by fire last night by fire that police described as being of incendiary origin.

The blaze was checked after police and firemen had battled the flames for two hours.

A man who called himself a Dutch Communist was said by police to have confessed setting the fire which started simultaneously at three or four points and within a few minutes enveloped a large part of the structure in flames.

Every fire engine in Berlin was on the scene. Police field back tremendous throngs which packed the streets near the building.

No estimate of the damage was immediately available, although at 10:30 P. M., when the whole east wing was ablaze and it seemed apparent that only the west wing could be saved, it was said the damage had already amounted to several million marks.

The Plenary Hall by 10:30 P. M. had been completely swept by the flames which spread rapidly on the plush hangings and the

Seminole County's Emergency Relief Council Has Meet

Mrs. Helen T. Morse, Miss Mabel Wilson, and Alex R. Johnson last night were appointed as members of the Seminole County Emergency Relief Council who are to represent the council at a district agricultural program meeting to be held in Orlando on Thursday.

Appointment came during a regular meeting of the Council, presided over by Randall Chase, and attended by 10 members. Reports of current activities were read and approved, and a budget was set up and adopted for use during March.

During the meeting, Mrs. Morse reported that because of unemployment in other fields, only men and women are now on work relief in this county. During December, she said, 400 men and women secured work relief. Most of these persons now are employed in celery fields or at the canning factory, she added.

Those present at the meeting last night were: Randall Chase, Mrs. Helen T. Morse, Mrs. S. O. M. Haynes, and F. T. Williams.

City Bonded Debt Reduced $4,000—headline. Half an inch, half an inch, half an inch onward!

If Henry Ford turns out a bank that is as popular as his automobile, there will be a new era in banking.

Sound money, as we understand it, is the kind that gets squeezed so tight the eagles holler before any of it is turned loose.

What's in a name? The new secretary of the treasury is no indication that the government plans to finance itself with Wood's money.

It was only natural that a piece of cake should have been the grand evidence submitted to the grand jury investigating the death of Jean Harlow's husband. You cannot eat your cake, you know, and have it too.

It is interesting to compare some of the newspaper comments on Bob Baker now that he is dead with others which appeared about the time he was running for reelection as sheriff of Palm Beach county last year.

Sanford farmers are showing a remarkably high degree of co-operation in their battle against a sluggish market. Their sensible attack upon the problem, and their excellent unity of spirit, furnish a splendid example for the rest of the country.

A pretty good idea of "cannon fodder" is a group of comparatively unarmed Chinese trying to defend the province of Jehol from the armies of Japan. But wouldn't it be a good joke on the Japs if the Chinese should win a battle or two?

The hobby of the new secretary of the treasury is music, in fact he even composes the tunes for songs and things like that. That should prove a big help to him when he has to negotiate some of the federal notes. At least he should bring harmony into our fiscal policies.

As we got it, the Chinese are trying to stop the Japanese advance with their fists. It was an English king, as we recall it, who once cried out, "My kingdom for a horse," but would not let our shirt, there's more than one Chinese general these days who'd give more than a kingdom for a six-inch fiversheker.

The new director of the budget, a man named Douglas, who hails from Arizona, has some. Says he: "If we continue to borrow money to meet our current operating expenses the credit of the United States immediately becomes impaired. We hold that it is the function of the government to govern and not to become the instrument through which gratuities may be distributed to special groups of beneficiaries." We like that idea of government.

A new system of checking has been invented in England where, because of war and business conditions, are frequently in the vicinity of elaborate functions.

The Importance Of Confidence.

The institution of moratoria in debt ridden states of the East and Middle West is becoming a favorite indoor sport since foreign debtors showed the way and wheat farmers forced its adoption by insurance companies in order to prevent mortgage foreclosures. Now banks have taken it up in a big way, first in Louisiana, then in Michigan, later in Maryland, and now in various parts of New Jersey, Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Arkansas.

The declaration of a moratorium on banking throughout a state does not necessarily mean that the banks of that state have been mismanaged, or that they are insolvent. It may mean, and in this case, very likely does mean, that depositors, worried over continually falling commodity prices, fearful lest reprisals be taken against those who have money, aroused by Congressional inquiries, are demanding their money in cash.

Now it so happens that all the cash money in the United States amounts to only a little more than five and one-half billion dollars; while the total deposits of all the banks in the country aggregate nearly fifty billion dollars. In other words, roughly speaking, the banks owe their depositors nearly ten times as much as they have cash in their vaults. Obviously if everyone began to demand cash at the same time, the banks would be in a bad way.

But the ratio of cash to deposits is stronger now than it ever has been. At the beginning of 1929, when the country generally was doing the biggest business in its history, the cash position of the banks of the country was figured at approximately $4,700,000,000; while their deposits reached the enormous total of $62,500,000,000. Surely if $4,700,000,000 was a sufficient reserve for deposits of $62,500,000,000 in 1929, $5,600,000,000 should be sufficient for deposits of $47,500,000,000 in 1933.

The answer to this enigma lies in the word confidence. In 1929 the depositors had confidence, the bankers, the people, everyone had confidence. Today that confidence is being sorely pressed, and is in danger of being totally destroyed. Many people lack confidence in their government, in their business leaders, in their banks, and other fiduciary organizations. They lack confidence in each other and in themselves.

And confidence, incidentally, is the basis of our entire economic system. Our federal government has been able to sell twenty billion dollars worth of bonds, payable in gold, when there are only five billion dollars worth of gold in the whole country, and only eleven billion in the entire world. Investors had confidence that the government would somehow manage to keep its word. The day laborer buys flour and meat from the grocer on credit because the grocer has confidence that he will some time pay for it.

The complete destruction of confidence would be the most serious calamity which could befall this country. In the old days people worried about famines and plagues, like the locusts of Biblical times, and pestilence and floods. But the elimination of all confidence in this world today would be more far-reaching, more disastrous in its consequences than all the calamities of ancient times combined.

We might hoard our money, but money itself is worthless without confidence in our government, and without a government which deserves confidence. The value of that hundred dollars in the old sock under the bed depends as surely upon confidence as any bank deposit, insurance policy, bond, mortgage, agreement, or property right of any kind.

We must have faith, and we must have business and political leaders who deserve our faith. And financial and political institutions which command our confidence.

A Reporter's Friend

James A. Farley, newly appointed postmaster general has been chiefly known to the public as chairman of the New York State and National Democratic Committees and as the highly successful manager of the Roosevelt campaign for election to the presidency of the United States.

What is not so generally known in this part of the country is that he has for some time been an outstanding figure in the New York athletic world, until his recent resignation being chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, where he had much to do with the affairs of the boxing business.

Called "Big Jim" by the ring fraternity, Mr. Farley received his appointment as chairman of the athletic commission in 1925 and soon thereafter jumped into prominence by his opposition to the heavyweight title match between Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey. It appears that the commission had gone on record as accepting the challenge of Harry Wills, and informed Dempsey that he must fight the negro first. The upshot of Farley's opposition was that the fight was taken to Philadelphia, and Mr. Farley was made the butt of no inconsiderable criticism.

Whether or not the criticism was justified is a matter of opinion, but what is more important to us today in obtaining a slant on Mr. Farley's personality is that he never became angry with his critics and never harbored a grudge against them, a trait which undoubtedly has stood him in excellent stead during his trying experiences in the recent campaign and his activities lately in directing the patronage activities of his party.

Mr. Farley seems to have the very happy faculty of getting along with people, of maintaining cordial relations with representatives of the press, and of getting what he wants done by making the least number of people "sore." As head of the postoffice and as chief director of patronage, he will have many opportunities to employ these characteristics to advantage.

One thing is certain that he will always be a friend of the reporters about whom he had kind words to say on leaving his post on the boxing commission. It is easy to guess that Mr. Farley must have taken some pretty harsh criticism during his time from the boxing writers, but in saying goodbye he thanked them for their "temperate criticisms even when I was wrong." Every reporter can appreciate a man like that.

Boosting Our Revenue

CREDITORS, BUT FELLOW CITIZENS

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

A TOP-HEAVY condition exists in economic society arising out of size of debts in proportion to national incomes. Till it is rectified, it will exercise a stranglehold on economic recuperation.

The problem is caused by the 35 percent fall in prices since 1929. This has brought down national incomes. But it has left debts untouched, and the interest on them is therefore payable today as if the countries still earned their old incomes. The result is that, taking the United States as an example, payments on debts of all kinds consume on paper nearly half the national income. This is what the economists mean when they write about the redistribution of wealth; debtors are earning less money nowadays, and are using it, not to buy goods, but to pay their creditors. Farm and factory unemployment is one consequence of this state of things.

Demagogues handle the problem in the manner of the caricaturist. They make personalities out of social problems. Creditors are shown as bloated plutocrats sipping on mammoth money banks or on puny debtors. Is it a just picture? To give an answer, one must first inquire whether creditors are responsible for their undue levy on the national income. Not at all. Circumstances are responsible.

Creditors benefited in a wholly fortuitous manner. It is next interesting to know who these creditors are. For the most part they are banks and insurance companies and other fiduciary institutions. They lent to governments, municipalities, industries and farmers money belonging to insurance policy holders and bank depositors. In other words, they lent the public's money. Moreover, creditors are also represented by citizens who have put their surplus from years of toil into mortgages, citizens such as retired farmers.

All these creditors stand accused in certain eyes of procrastination in making adjustments of their disproportionate drain on the national income. But who encouraged the delay? Who but those leaders who for two years past have acclaimed every emergency move by Washington as holding within it the power to raise prices. If 1929 prices were just around the corner, as was so often said, why should creditors make adjustments?

Capital Is Scene Of Activity On Eve Of Inauguration

The inaugural parade committee relaxed during the day. The result is that instead of 10,000 marchers, the column which will wind down Pennsylvania Avenue Saturday afternoon will include at least 18,000 persons.

The committee disposed of another problem during the day. It decided that the Army band, the first musical unit to pass the Presidential reviewing stand, will have the honor of playing the "Franklin Delano Roosevelt March," composed by William H. Woodin, the new secretary of the treasury. The Navy band will present its old favorite, "Anchors Aweigh" and the Marine band will salute the new President with "Halls of Montezuma."

With the recent assassination attempt at Miami in mind, arrangements for the protection of Mr. Roosevelt proceeded through the day with more than ordinary zeal. Chief William H. Moran, of the secret service, made a thorough pre-inaugural inspection tour of the capital. He said secret service operatives will be stationed "everywhere" during the ceremonies to circumvent any attempt on the lives of President Hoover, Mr. Roosevelt and members of their official party.

A hundred of New York's "finest," young uniformed police averaging more than six feet in height, will supplement local police and a detachment of Marines as guardians of order at the capital and White House.

The first contingent of more than 75 picked plain clothesmen from Eastern and Mid-Western cities will arrive today. These men, selected for their knowledge of underworld characters, will keep close to the new Chief Executive during the ceremonies.

Next "First Lady" Completes Buying Tour In New York. NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—(AP)—With the purchase of a pair of dark blue kid pumps—and they had to be comfortable, for she expects to be on her feet most of the time from 10 A. M. until midnight Saturday—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt completed yesterday her shopping for the inauguration.

The pumps are size 7-A and they have straps across the instep. Mrs. Roosevelt directed that the heels be lowered and widened a little.

"They may not look quite so smart," she said, "but I've got to do a lot of standing in them."

Much of the standing will be done in the White House, where she is to entertain 500 guests at lunch, more than 1000 at tea, and 75 for a buffet supper on inauguration day.

The pumps she selected are of a color that will blend in with her coat, hat, and purse of "Anna blue" a shade a trifle lighter than navy and named after Anna Roosevelt Dall. Her inaugural gown is of "Eleanor blue," a soft, grayish blue, a little lighter than periwinkle.

Mrs. Roosevelt has had her last fitting of her inaugural costume. She tried on yesterday some of her other new gowns. All are to be delivered Thursday morning. With

FUTURE FARMERS MAKING PROFIT BY CURING MEAT

Plant Completing 1st Successful Year; All Expenses Paid

Highly pleased with the success of their enterprise, a modern meat-curing plant through which have passed over 7000 pounds of Seminole County grown pork and other meats since Nov. 1, members of Seminole Chapter, Future Farmers of Florida today entered upon the last month of actual plant operation by preparing another small supply of meat that had been brought to the plant by a local farmer, who said that "From now on I'm going to raise my own meat."

Although the meat curing plant located on the school farm at the rear of Seminole High School, has been in operation for nearly two years, it is now completing its first successful year. All original expense has been paid, and operating costs are at such a low figure that a small profit is being made on every piece of meat prepared.

The plant opens every year on Nov. 1 and closes on Apr. 1, after which only that meat which is brought to the plant for curing by Mar. 31 is prepared and stored away to be smoked and cured. Since Nov. 1, 1932, 4000 pounds of meat were cured, smoked, and carried away to be used by more than 50 local farmers and other persons interested in the grow-at-home movement. At the present time nearly 4000 pounds of meat are stored in the plant, some of it ready for use, most of it to be ready in about six weeks.

Since the boys of Seminole Chapter first conceived the idea of taking the lead in fostering the grow-at-home movement especially as it related to cattle and hogs, they have learned many things about their industry. Today meat that is turned over to the owner-consumer is so well prepared and wrapped in cellophane that it is difficult to distinguish it from that purchased in markets and bearing labels of recognized packing firms.

Naturally the boys who have been in active charge of the curing operations say their products are far better flavored than those purchased from other sources, and the visitor to the plant is ready to believe this statement when he inspects the plant and senses the delicious aroma of cured meat.

The plant, owned by the Future Farmers, is operated by a manager and board of directors elected by the membership. John Senkirk this year is in charge of the plant, with Creston Phillips, Donald Landress, and Steve Peters as members of the board. A businesslike system of book-keeping and accounting is kept daily so that at any time it is possible to tell the financial and operating condition of the plant.

Visitors are always invited to visit the place, Alex R. Johnson, vocational agriculture teacher who is Chapter advisor, said yesterday afternoon as he was host to a Herald reporter. "We want to make one reminder," he added, "and that is that all persons having meat they wish cured or smoked, must bring it to us before

METROPOLITAN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

Annual Report to the Holders of 42,672,418 Life Insurance Policies

DURING the past year this Company has maintained its strong position in the life insurance field.

Metropolitan's life insurance issued, revived and increased in 1932 amounted to more than Three and a Quarter Billion Dollars.

The income for 1932, the largest in the Company's history, showed an increase over the previous year of $14,859,229.33 and amounted to $921,953,100.70.

- The Metropolitan in 1932
- paid to policyholders $582,804,650.79
 - added to policy reserves $109,755,306.00
 - set aside for dividends to policyholders in 1933, $101,685,956.00
 - increased its contingency reserve by $26,550,000.00
 - increased its surplus by $13,541,501.95.

The assets of the Company at the end of 1932 were $3,769,372,425.28, an increase of $179,256,771.56 during 1932. New investments made in 1932 amounted to more than $300,000,000 and cash on hand was increased to $64,025,923.35.

After making provision for policy reserves and other liabilities, and after the apportionment of $101,685,956 for dividends, the Company held, on December 31st, 1932, a contingency reserve of $43,000,000, and a surplus of $240,511,739.47—a total of $283,511,739.47.

The strength of a life insurance company lies in the spread of its obligations over a long period of years and in a sound policy of diversification of investment pursued through the years under expert guidance and in accordance with conservative investment limitations prescribed by law.

Metropolitan assets consist of

Cash	1.70%
Bonds—Federal, State and Municipal	7.70%
Bonds—Railroad	18.00%
Bonds—Public Utility	9.03%
Bonds—Miscellaneous	3.26%
Stocks—(Preferred 2.028%; Common 0.002%)	2.03%
Mortgages on Real Estate
City 34.42%; Farm 4.38%	38.80%
Real Estate (including foreclosed properties)	2.78%
Loans to Policyholders	12.63%
Premiums, deferred and in course of collection	2.01%
Interest due and accrued, Rents, etc.	2.04%

The favorable mortality experience of the Company in 1932 has followed its careful selection of business and the continuation of its health and welfare activities.

During the year 1932 many leading corporations of the country paid millions of dollars to the Company for contracts covering their employees for Group Life, Health and Accident protection and for future Retirement incomes under some of which continuing payments on the part of the Metropolitan will extend into the next century.

Life insurance is the most effective way of providing for the future of one's self and one's dependents. Through the Metropolitan approximately one-fifth of the people of the United States and Canada are making such provision.
