Update on fatal crash

LAKE MARY — The two young men killed in an early morning accident on I-4 Friday near Lake Mary were cadets at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, New York. A third cadet lost his arm in the accident. The other five cadets were treated for cuts and bruises at area hospitals.

The accident occurred about 4 a.m. when the group's designated driver, David A. Waldron, 20, fell asleep at the wheel of the rented mini van as the group on Spring Break returned to Kissimmee from Daytona Beach.

The van flipped several times and three of the passengers were thrown out of the vehicle, killing the two men and severely injuring the third.

The two men killed in the accident were: Matthew B. Friary, 19, Taunton, Mass. and Sean Knott, 20, Kings Park, N.Y. William Foster, 20, Fort Drum, N.Y. lost his left arm from the elbow down.

The five survivors were: Waldron; Brian Mello, 19, Swansea, Mass.; James Phillips, 21, Valparaiso, Ind.; John Francis Hall, 20, El Paso, Texas and Paul Stanton, 19, Burke, Va.

Expressway Authority sued

SANFORD — An attorney for Discount Auto Parts, Inc. filed suit against the Seminole County Expressway Authority Wednesday seeking compensation for property which has been reserved for future expressway construction. Discount Auto Parts is seeking compensation in excess of $15,000.

In the suit, the auto parts company claims since December 9, 1986, it has owned property at 2923 S. Orlando Avenue in Sanford. On August 30, 1988, the suit states the expressway authority adopted a map of reservation which restricted the use of the designated property. That action, according to the suit for two years, "has resulted in a permanent and substantial interference with the plaintiff's use and enjoyment of its property to the taking of the plaintiff's property without full compensation" in violation of a section of the Florida Constitution.

Bubble benefit to be held

GENAVA — The Second Annual Save Our Bubble barbecue benefit will be held Saturday, March 27 from noon to 4 p.m. The fundraising event will take place in the Seminole Woods subdivision, located off State Road 426 south of State Road 46.

A live band will be on hand and a color television will be raffled. Proceeds raised from the event will be used to fight development proposals considered harmful to the Geneva Bubble, the community's sole drinking-water source. Tickets are $6 for adults, $3.50 for children.

Soccer site woes grow

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — Seminole County officials are seeking permission from the U.S. Soccer Federation to allow the public to use the $2.5 million soccer training facility being built for them at Sylvan Lake Park.

The agreement may be needed to avoid a federal requirement to replace a 10-acre portion of the 120-acre park used for the facility. Unless the National Park Service is convinced a portion of the public park has not been "converted" to private use by USSF, the county could be required to purchase land elsewhere and develop it into a park to replace it.

Commissioners will consider the amendment Tuesday. Alan J. Rothenberg, USSF president, has signed a facsimile copy of the agreement, according to county documents.

"It would be very unfair of us to demand exclusive use," said Bill Nuttall, USSF general manager. "Really, our agreement never guaranteed them a minimum or maximum." See Soccer, Page 2A

Nude dancer defines life in the business

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Most weekdays, C.A. Canfield gets up and races off to the gym for a one- to two-hour workout with her personal trainer.

From there, she goes to her job until 5 p.m., then she's off to night school. When classes let out, she returns home by 11 o'clock to her husband Scott in their spacious house in the Markham Woods area. A night's rest follows before the start of a similar day.

Perhaps not such an unusual schedule for many folks, but Canfield's job is somewhat out of the ordinary. And it is a job that is the focus of a lot of controversy right now.

Canfield is "Sonny," a stripper at the House of Babes in Fern Park. This pretty 38-year-old married mother with a college degree belies the lurid image many opponents of adult entertainment establishments paint of their performers.

Canfield attended the March 9 hearing of the Seminole County commission to consider changes to the adult entertainment ordinance.

It's safer to work in these clubs than to work in a high school.

-C.A. Canfield

Despite restrictions that would further limit the number of new adult businesses that could open in the unincorporated areas, many people attending the hearing called for tighter restrictions.

A final hearing will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Seminole County Services Building.

Canfield says many people have mistaken impressions about adult cabarets and their performers. Many of those impressions are formed from ignorance of the clubs, she says.

Canfield says she doesn't have an arrest record, prostitute, perform lap dances or other lewd acts, take drugs or regularly drink hard.

Shots heard, but no crime in Lake Mary

By NICK PFEIFAU

LAKE MARY — Police Chief Richard Beary was called out of the Lake Mary City Commission meeting Thursday night, when six shots were reportedly heard at the shopping center across Country Club Road from the City Hall.

Beary immediately leaped into his car, and before crossing the road, radioed for backup.

Within moments, a second patrol car arrived and pulled into the parking lot area.

"We checked out the whole shopping center," Beary said, "but we couldn't find anything that looked suspicious."

Beary has since determined that the shots came from a power activated nail gun being used in the remodeling at the 7-Eleven store at the intersection of Country Club Road and Lake Mary Blvd. The nail gun is powered by 22 caliber shells and is used to drive nails into concrete or wood.

"When the second unit arrived," Beary commented, "there weren't any sirens or lights

Immigrants now proud new citizens

SANFORD — Clutching an American flag and the certificate showing she was a United States citizen, Fern Park resident Sila Lagos said Friday she was very happy to be a citizen "of the greatest country in the world."

Adding to the emotional impact of the day was the fact the Lagos' 84-year old father, Manuel Sierra-Jomarron of Altamonte Springs also became a citizen at the naturalization ceremony held for about 200 people at the Sanford Civic Center.

Lagos, 54, came to the U.S. nearly 26 years ago from Cuba with her husband.

"We came for freedom," she said. It took the couple eight years after the 1958 revolution of Fidel Castro to leave the island nation. "It took us a long time to leave," she said.

Add one to the list of coaches

Good morning! Thanks to the good Lord we've made it through another week. So let's go for some history in the days of yesteryear.

Remember the column I did about the Stetson University Hatters whipping the Florida Gators in a season opener for both schools one year? Do you recall I gave you a long list of former Florida coaches? With the help of some Gator grads I thought I had 'em all. But, by golly, liquor. She says she does exercise regularly, take care of her mother and invests her money wisely.

In short, Canfield is not unlike many middle-class Seminole County residents. Not unlike them, except of course for the fact she takes off her clothes and dances nude for a living.

Canfield says it was the money, not the avocation, that enticed her to overcome her reservations and give the nude dance profession a try 10 years ago.

She and her mother had moved to Winter Park from her native Canton, Ohio about two years before. She says she had graduated from Kent State University with a four-year degree in design and a minor in theater and dance. Her father had died and they wanted to be close to other family here, so they came to central Florida.

After about two years in central Florida, Canfield says she found she was struggling to meet the household expenses and care for her mother. She says she worked seven days a week at up to five part-time jobs and was still barely keeping up.

While looking for a job that would pay enough to reduce her workweek, Canfield says she decided to answer a classified advertisement for waitresses at The Booby Trap cabaret in Winter Park. When she got there, she found all the needed waitresses had been hired. But the manager liked her.

"And the offer was made about...possibly dancing, I had never thought about it before," she added with a quick laugh. "I mean, I wasn't bothered by the human body because I was an art student so we were doing models and I had done some modeling in my early days."

"I just toyed with the idea for a few days," Canfield continued. "The gentleman said that he liked my attitude and my appearance and he wanted to find some place for me there in his business. So, he said try it a week and then he'd try to find something else for me to do there."

"And then when I tried it... (I found) waitresses were making money, but not as much as the dancers. The hours were shorter. "Being that I was in the theatre, it didn't bother me to get on stage at all. What I had to get over, was uh, nude. But I used the same process that I used when I went out on stage in the theatre; get out there and do it. There was only one three-minute song, so I thought I could get through it. Three minutes. But I got used to it. It was fun, good exercise and I love to dance."

Canfield says her weekly income quickly quadrupled. She says the dancing income enabled her to care for her mother, meet the household expenses, buy a car and still put half of the earnings in savings. After she married Scott, they used the additional income to buy property and build investment homes. Scott says they have never earned less than $27,000 from the deals.

Canfield says most people have exaggerated impressions of topless clubs, probably because many of the critics have never ventured in them. She says even her own impressions about them changed after she entered the profession.

"What was interesting, my attitude changed," she says. "Other women, girlfriends or neighbors, would talk about those places. They would get attitudes about them because maybe their husbands or their boyfriends went to those places or they hear insane stories about them."

"But when I went in there to work, actually in the places, they were fine, no different than a regular lounge, other than there were some naked people in there. But you hear horror stories and all."

Canfield says most of her fellow performers are similar to her. Many have nursing or some other professional degrees that didn't pay well. Many are single mothers. Several, like her, are married.

Canfield admits "a minority" of the dancers offer themselves for prostitution. A few are into drugs. Regular locker checks by management and hasy responses to wrong-doing assure "nothing goes on" she says. Canfield adds many competitive dancers tattle on each other to management in an effort to have rivals fired and better their own chances for tips.

Canfield says she prefers the non-alcohol House of Babes where she now works because the clientele are of a better standard. She works daytime shifts so she says encounters little rowdiness. Mostly, the clients are doctors and lawyers, the luncheon buffet businessman crowd, she says.

Canfield says she understands the concerns of the Fern Park residents who have opposed more adult entertainment businesses in the South U.S. Highway 17-92, particularly opposition to two lingerie modeling shops. The Seminole County Sheriff's Office has gone to court in an effort to close down the shops because investigators say there were lewd acts performed in them.

"That's a little bit too far," she says.

But Canfield says she is concerned about the county and local residents labeling the adult clubs the sources of crime and child corruption. Crime can occur anywhere, she says, and no children are allowed in the clubs. The dancers are not permitted to fraternize with anyone outside and are escorted to their cars by bouncers or management.

"The management doesn't want any problems, especially with all this going on now," she says.

Canfield says she may remain in her chosen profession for "a few more years." She is considering obtaining a physical therapy degree and switching her profession some day.

If given the alternative to work in some other profession for the same income during a 30-hour week, Canfield readily admits she'd take it.

But, she adds, "it's safer to work in these clubs than to work in a high school."

Soccer

Rabun also contends the soccer facility will not be closed to the public.

Kelley said the county's 10-year use agreement with USSF appears to grant the amateur soccer club exclusive use of the facility.

Wording in the Sept. 24, 1992 agreement grants USSF "conditional exclusive license" to use the facility. The agreement allows USSF "exclusive license" to use the facility as long as the county is notified in advance of the soccer organization's use schedule. If the notification is not made, the county retains use of the facility.

County tourism director Jack Wert said last week the proposed amendment represented a clarification that public access to the facility was always understood between USSF and the county.

"It's an addendum clarifying certain things in the agreement," said Wert. "public use, ticket sales, hours. The public use was always understood."

The park usage was begun in February when the Friends of Sylvan Lake Homeowner's Association filed an administrative complaint against the county, saying the soccer facility failed to comply with the Wekiva River Protection Act and county zoning regulations. Commissioners refused to reconsider their plans and Friday, the Friends filed suit against the county, USSF and World Cup Soccer.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Completed in 1882 and destroyed by fire in 1923, the Episcopal church building (left) was replaced by a new structure (right) in 1925, which still stands at Park Avenue and Fourth Street in Sanford. It is the site of today's 100th anniversary celebration.

Parishioners celebrate 100 years

By KELLEY MITCHELL
 Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Parishioners of Holy Cross Episcopal Church have kept the faith through hurricanes, the destruction of fire and the tragedy of illness to minister to the community.

Today at the church, located on Park Avenue at Fourth Street, a Festival Eucharist will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Episcopal Church in Central and South Florida. Holy Cross was the scene of the church's first convocation in what was then frontier territory.

The presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in America, the Most Rev. Edmond L. Browning, will be in Sanford to preach at the service. The retired bishop of Central Florida, the Rev. William H. Folwell, will be celebrant of the Eucharist, along with the present bishop of Central Florida, the Rt. Rev. John W. Howe, as co-celebrant.

Invitations to participate in the service have been extended to the bishops of the Episcopal dioceses of Florida, Southwest and Southeast Florida and to the Bishop of Northern Indiana, the great-grandson of the bishop who presided at the meeting at Holy Cross 100 years ago.

The public is invited to the service today. Church doors will be opened at 3:15 p.m. for early seating. The service will begin at 4 p.m. and will be followed by a reception.

The Episcopal Church came to Sanford through the work of the Rev. F. R. Holeman, who came to what was then Melonville, in 1871. By 1873, the church was consecrated with the Rev. Holeman as rector. Holy Cross Episcopal is the second oldest church in the Central Florida Diocese. The church building was destroyed by a hurricane in 1880. A new church was completed in 1882 with a high spire that became a landmark for those traveling the St. Johns River.

Another disaster struck in 1923, when a fire destroyed the entire block, razing the church, parish house, rectory and a neighbor's house. All records were lost, but today a prie-dieu, the font and the bishop's chair, which were salvaged from the destruction, still grace the altar.

The Spanish Mission-style building now in use was completed for Easter in 1925. It was in the second structure that the first convocation of the missionary diocese was held 100 years ago.

 I didn't.

My phone rang the other night. On the line was former Sanford mayor, businessman and now an accountant for Sanford Middle School, Sonny Rabun.

"I got a fellow here who wants to talk with you. He's an old Sanford boy whose dad not only coached the Gators but he also played college football for the same school."

"Oh, oh," I thought "who could that be?" I asked myself.

"It's Billy Wilkinson," Rabun continued, "and he wants to correct the record."

Billy is the son of former Sanford attorney and municipal court judge, the late S.A.B.

beat Harvard. Now if this doesn't ring your memory bell — that is, among you old timers, this will.

He went on to become Army General James Van Fleet.

Since I had Judge Wilkinson's son on the line I told myself this is the time to resolve a question that has lurked in the back of my brain for years: Why did the judge have three initials instead of the usual two? I've always known that his first name was Samuel but could never figure out the initials "A" and "B."

"Dad's full name," Billy explained, "was Samuel Aaron Burr Wilkinson."

I changed the subject and asked Billy where he'd been all these years. Well, first of all, he made the Navy a career and retired. His wife is from DeLand. They have a son, Robert, who graduated from some little old South Carolina school, "called Clemson." They have another son, David, currently attending Clemson. Billy and his wife have been living in Beaufort, S.C. His better half will soon retire from her present position.

A bit of disagreement has arisen, Billy wants to settle down in Sanford. His wife wants to settle down in DeLand. So far neither has convinced the other.

Oh, yes, I know you old timers remember Judge and Mrs. Wilkinson had a daughter, Helen. She married a "Yankee" from Wisconsin. Unfortunately, she passed away 12 years ago.

Just in case some of you folks wonder how Billy Wilkinson knew about the list of Florida coaches, let me explain. Some people not only here but around the world keep up with the news of our town by subscribing to the Herald. And, I've told you from time to time readers clip local news items as well as these "Way Back When" columns and mail them to friends. Frequently, the clippings make more than one stop. For example, Braxton Perkins, now a retired haberdasher but still an active Rotarian, sends clippings to his sister in Miami who in turn sends them to Madalyn Truluck Scott who resides in San Diego.

So, allow me a moment for a commercial. If you're interested only in getting the Sunday edition of the Herald the subscription rate is just $2 a month if you reside out of state. If you live in Florida it's $2.14.

Now, if you want to keep up with all the news of this area you'll have to subscribe to all editions of the Herald just like Tom Beat and his wife, Sybil. Every Herald goes to them at P.O. Box 338, Denton, N.C.

I "labor" each week to write these epistles while my notes are fresh. However, I've got so many columns already done here in mid-January you won't read this until the middle of March. I enjoy doing them 'cause you folks tell me you like them. And, that's all it takes to keep me "slaving" over a "hot" typewriter. We'll be here next week. I trust you will, too. And, I hope Billy Wilkinson and his wife will settle here in Sanford.

Smoker nabbed

Sanford police arrested Cortrell Bernard Knight, 26, listed as homeless, at 1506 W. 13th Street early Friday. Police said they found him standing in front of a grocery store. During a search, officers said they uncovered a pipe in his pocket. The police report indicates that Knight told the officer, "I use it to smoke marijuana, not cocaine." Knight was arrested on a charge of possession of drug paraphernalia.

Disorderly conduct

Sanford police arrested Anthony Wayne Haddock, 27, of 1209 W. 20th Street, at a business at 13th Street and French Avenue. Officers said Haddock refused to calm down when they asked him to leave the business after they issued a trespass warning. Haddock was charged with disorderly conduct.

Beer but no money.

Edwin Scott, 37, with no local address, was arrested by Sanford police Thursday. Officers said he went into an establishment in the 1500 block of S. French Avenue, and ordered beer. They said when his bill came to $12.31, they found he was unable to pay. Scott was charged with fraud to an innkeeper.

Metal tube found

Sheriff's deputies arrested Donavon Martin Owen, 24, of Casselberry, following a speed check on Highway 17-92 early Friday morning. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol. During a search, deputies report finding a metal tube containing residue, and a plastic bag containing what was proven to be cannabis. He was given additional charges of possession of drug paraphernalia, and possession of cannabis, less than 20 grams.

Warrant arrests made

● John Walter Carroll, 44, #115 441 Sun Lake Circle, Lake Mary, was arrested at his residence Thursday. He was wanted on two warrants issued in Brevard County, both charging him with violation of parole on attempted lewd and lascivious assault on a child.

● Max Eugene Dallabrida, 27, of Holiday Florida, was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility Thursday from Pasco County. He was wanted on a Seminole County warrant for violation of parole on a conviction of burglary to a structure.

● Booker T. Smith, 48, 1010 Holly Avenue, Sanford, was arrested by sheriff's deputies at 11th Street and Holly Avenue Thursday. He was wanted for violation of parole following a conviction of sale of a controlled substance, cocaine.

● Felix Rivera, 46, of 107 Sunland Drive, Sanford, was arrested at his residence by sheriff's deputies Thursday. He was wanted on an Orange County warrant charging him with burglary and grand theft.

● David Kimbrough, 29, #26 Cowan Moughton Terrace, was arrested at his residence Thursday by sheriff's deputies. He was wanted on a Leon County warrant charging him with violation of parole on a conviction of resisting arrest with violence.

● Furman Barrett, 19, 2010 Rut Street, Sanford, turned himself in at the jail Thursday. He was wanted on a warrant charging him with burglary to a conveyance.

● Tammy Peterson, 27, 1212 W. 13th Street, Sanford, was arrested by sheriff's deputies at #9 William Clark Court Thursday. She was wanted on a warrant charging her with theft.

Correction

Barbara Jean Young, listed in Police Briefs Thursday, March 18, was arrested by Casselberry police Monday on a charge of possession of a suspended driver's license, not driving with a suspended license as had been reported.

Plan is to keep 'predator rapists' in prison

By The Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Florida lawmakers are working on a controversial plan to keep "predator rapists" in prison beyond their sentences and keep closer tabs on the ones who are released.

Serial rapists can't be rehabilitated and can't be stopped from repeating their crimes if released from prison, experts say.

Sponsors of the legislation say extended imprisonment would be an important tool to control those whose behavior indicates they will become sexual predators.

But civil libertarians charge people's rights would be violated by holding them for potential rather than actual crimes.

In Washington state, about a dozen men since 1990 have been placed on an indefinite hold in

‘We're punishing people not for what they have done, but what they might do.’

—John LaFond, law professor prison under a similar attempt to prevent violent sexual attacks.

"We're punishing people not for what they have done, but what they might do," said John LaFond, a University of Puget Sound law professor who is fighting on behalf of the Washington inmates. "The best studies show we cannot predict dangerous behavior accurately."

He said sexual predator laws are based on public outrage but send a message that only few people are responsible for such crimes, LaFond said. Once they are locked up, "society is absolved."

"The sexual predator law makes the promise of protection from some future crime," he said. "The problem is you never know if you were right."

The Florida proposal stems from a Brevard County murder case in which a man convicted of a sex crime and released early from his prison sentence stalked, kidnapped, raped and murdered 11-year-old Junny Rios-Martinez.

"Really, we are talking about some of the worst people," said Sen. Patricia Grogan, a Merritt Island Democrat who is sponsoring one of three sexual predator bills. "If there was anyone we wanted to spend money on to keep in prison, it's them."

Repeat and violent offenders could be declared sexual predators after a conviction. A prosecutor would submit evidence to support the claim for a judge to decide.

Those who would be subject to the law range from people convicted of selling children obscene material to those convicted of brutal rapes.

But the proposals would be expensive.

The state Department of Corrections estimates it will cost about $275 million over the next 10 years for prison space, rehabilitation and review needed to operate the program.

Lake Mary leaders value education

Lake Mary leaders know the value of higher education. Mayor Lowry Rockett has a master's degree in Environmental Engineering and a bachelor of science degree.

City Commissioner David Mealor has both a bachelor and a Ph.D degree.

The two are spearheading a drive to obtain improved educational opportunities for the people of Lake Mary, especially employees working at the various corporations along the I-4 corridor.

Rockett has proposed a cooperative effort between the University of Central Florida and Seminole Community College, whereby SCC would be able to house some of the advanced courses, particularly for business students. His aim is to have the courses offered at SCC, located in Lake Mary, thus eliminating the need for the long drive to UCF.

He has commented that maintaining a full work day in Lake Mary makes the long drive to UCF an extra load for those seeking to improve themselves through higher education.

David Mealor has been asked to look into the possibility. Mealor is a professor at UCF, and has close ties with SCC.

Mealor enthusiastically accepted the task. Getting four-year college courses moved to a two-year college, even on a limited basis, is not going to be a simple matter. Cooperation will be needed from the leadership of both colleges as well as the state education system.

When the expressway is completed, travel to UCF from these areas will be easier. Perhaps the SCC classes would no longer be needed.

Until that time however, Rockett and Mealor should be commended for their attempt to bring higher education closer to the Lake Mary industrial area.

We urge as much support and cooperation as possible from SCC and UCF as well as all others who may be involved in this effort.

Support for Griffith

John Brown is probably hated by some even today. His plight was to end slavery in the country and he gave his life (was hanged) for unlawful activities. It was lawful to keep people in chains and so he died breaking the law to free others.

Even though Mr. Griffith killed the abortionist, I believe in so doing he was following the same conscience as John Brown. He broke the law of the land to save the lives of babies. Good luck to him and his family.

Denouncing violence

I write because I am outraged at the lack of sympathy shown about the loss of the doctor's life near the clinic where he was employed.

It seems as if the "pro-life" movement has escalated to no more than a vigilante lynch mob. On the evening news, a pro-life advocate made a statement that six or seven children (fetuses) are probably alive because the doctor was killed.

Let us not forget that this man was a human being. I sit in amazement at how so many people claim that God was the reason that they kill or do horrible things. The God I know and worship says, "Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin." James 4:17.

The God I know and worship says that vengeance is his.

The God I know and worship says, "For whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all." James 2:10.

I find the cold, unconcerned tone of the pro-lifers to be utterly repulsive. It is sad that so many people are doing so many strange and violent things and blaming it on God. I suspect these people are having an extra terrestrial experience and calling it God.

I ask and pray that we as human beings ask ourselves what is going to happen in our deteriorating society when every Joe Blow starts to blow away as in "murder" their opposition. The pro-lifers say that abortionists are morally corrupt and are sinners.

I submit that we should let God deal with sinners and that the hired, elected officials deal with the mishandling of these abortion protesters.

Heaven help Blacks, Jews, Hispanics, Muslims, gays, liquor stores, hospitals, television stations, newspaper offices, police and any source of opposition to mainstream religions or Americans.

As a Christian and former (pro-lifer), I am deeply saddened by the extreme terrorist tactics of the abortion issues in the name of God. Our society has deteriorated to this type of madness. How do we call ourselves Christians and judge the rest of the world — when God clearly states that God will do the judging.

My condolences to the family and friends of this very special deceased doctor. May the creator of this earth hurry back and seize the time.

SHS propels students into workplace

This is the hour for American educational institutions and American businesses to cooperatively join forces to insure that the work force of the future is relevant to the needs of business. America cannot afford poor utilization of its human and material resources by repeating the traditional pattern of educating youth and having business retrain them before they are capable of functioning in the workplace.

With this in mind, Gretchen Schapker, principal of Seminole High School, and her staff have embarked on a new journey with their students to facilitate their preparation for their future.

Warren Jennison is the teacher in charge of their new state-of-the-art Computer-Assisted Drafting (CAD) program. An articulation agreement has been affirmed with Seminole Community College that assures further training in computer-assisted drafting. The only requirement is that students complete the course, produce a competent portfolio and demonstrate a level of competence.

Approximately 50 students are enrolled in the Turnkey Computer Automobile Mechanics Laboratories. Three new cars have been donated by Oldsmobile and Ford for the students to use. These laboratories are housed in a section that was renovated last summer.

Students at Seminole have access to 40 new computer stations. Computer application and programming is available to all disciplines. Teachers and Director of the Computer Laboratory, Pam Sawyer, coordinate the software and scheduling. The school received a FACTS Foundation grant to purchase software for biology, mathematics, journalism, and foreign language.

Competing statewide for funds, Seminole has been promised funding for Academy of Health careers. This academy is scheduled to be operational August 1993. Utilizing the magnet school concept students throughout the county will be able to participate in a three-tier curriculum that will lead students to a baccalaureate post-secondary training or directly to the world of work. Students will be enabled to begin their training as a physician, physical therapist or physicians' assistant.

New construction funding for the Academy of Health Careers has been earmarked. Also on the drawing board is a new mobile computer laboratory as well as interactive video on the agenda for Seminole High School students.

The community has rallied and provided a new softball field for girls and a new baseball field that was recently dedicated.

The teacher-as-an-advisor program has been fully implemented. Concerned Teachers in Action (CONTACT) was originally funded by the state 10 years ago. The program was introduced to meet the needs of students in high school to have a "significant other on campus." Essentially borrowing from the old "homeroom concept" but redesigned to address issues such as: conflict resolution, goal setting, employability skills etc. Students attend CONTACT classes 30 minutes once per week. Verna Jackson is the coordinator for this program. Freshmen (ninth grade students) entering Seminole High School will have the same CONTACT teacher during their four years at Seminole.

Seminole High has a new direction that should propel its students into the workplaces of the 1990s and the 21st century.

ELLEN GOODMAN

Possibilities of human renewal

BOSTON — Somewhere in the middle of "Groundhog Day," Bill Murray turns to the man sitting beside him at a bar and says in a voice of utter despair, "What would you do if you were stuck in one place and every day was the same and nothing mattered?"

This is the philosophy of life that the rather obnoxious and egocentric weatherman has brought to this delicious time-warp fantasy. Murray has gotten stuck, truly stuck, in Punxsutawney, Pa., where he went to cover the February 2nd festivities.

For this weatherman, there is literally no tomorrow. Or, to be more precise, tomorrow is another today. He wakes up the next morning to the same morning, and he's the only one who knows it. Moreover, he is doomed to relive the day until he gets it right.

To the jaded moviegoer, "Groundhog Day" may well be to February 2nd what "It's a Wonderful Life" is to December 25th. It presents the possibility of human renewal — only this time with a sense of humor.

To the jaded female, it also presents the possibility that even a self-centered cad can eventually get it. Given time enough, Andie MacDowell, and a dozen slaps across the face, any man is educable. After endless reruns of the skirmish of the sexes, this one becomes, uh, sensitive.

But sitting in my popcorn perch, I'm willing to bet that the appeal of this hit movie comes less from the fantasy it evokes than from its echoes of real life. Especially real life at midlife.

What would you do if you woke up in the same place and every day was the same?

For most people, middle age is a little bit like that. It's long past the time of life when most of us were building our careers, beginning our families, and nesting. It's the maintenance stage when an extraordinary amount of energy is going to upkeep — keeping up the commitments you have. One morning inevitably looks a lot like the one before it.

Of course, the time-warp stories that make it to the silver screen are usually about some young person yearning to get back to the future. Or about mad scientists trying to jump into an entirely different dimension.

The daydreams of youth that Hollywood usually respects are about breaking away. The daydreams of middle age that get screenplays are most often centered on starting over.

Books also tend to divide the adult life cycle into dramatic passages. We are regaled with theories that show us facing a dead end, following an exit sign out of the old rut and choosing a new beginning. The words midlife and crisis are joined at the (expanding) hip.

But in real life, those of us who do not want to start over in the middle face a very different test of renewal. Daily renewal. Getting up in the same place, doing the same things — only making it matter.

Most of us don't want to throw everything over and go to live in Tahiti with the tennis pro. We don't want to have a post-menopausal baby or a second career in brain surgery. So we have to figure out how to make the best of what we have.

Making the best of what we have, I might add, is not second best. It's not the siren call of a midlife depression inviting us to settle. It is, rather, a demand for active engagement in caring for what and whom we value.

That is what's touching about "Groundhog Day." Our trapped weatherman has to learn this the hard way. His life is reduced to one inescapable day. It's the entire deck he's been dealt, the allotment of flowers he can arrange, the whole cast of characters in his life.

He goes through stages of feeling trapped, depressed, and living as if there's no tomorrow. He finally comes to the not-so-profound-but-still-pretty-rare realization that he can change his world by himself. That there's a lot of learning that goes into perfecting one day.

If this movie were a Zen lesson, it would be about living in the now. If this were a 12-step program, the moral would be one day at a time. If it were an environmental poster it would read: Think global. Act local.

But as a prescription for midlife when the outlines of our lives are pretty clear, it's about making the best of what you have...over and over. Making small repairs and improvements so that the commitments of midlife — the work you do and people you love — don't become a trap. They become and remain the town in which you choose to live even when you have options.

If that sounds hopelessly sappy, well, blame it on the movies. But after watching Murray, I will never tell you to have a nice day. How about making a few, nicer, days.

Making the best of what we have, I might add, is not second best.

Excise tax worries tobacco lobby

WASHINGTON — As Congress and the White House weighed an increase in the federal excise tax on tobacco, Phillip Morris mobilized — calling in chits and showering elected officials with campaign contributions, honoraria and junkets. The tobacco giant's distress was reflected in a flurry of internal correspondence:

● "We should activate every tool at our disposal immediately. I have a feeling this is not a test, this is the real thing."

● "If we are ever to flex any muscle we must do it over the next 72 hours."

● "The plan is to give early and large campaign contributions... thereby jumping on the bandwagon early and at the very least buying... silence (of opponents)."

That was in 1990 — the last time tobacco's interests were targeted. Back then, cigarette taxes were ultimately raised 8 cents a pack to 24 cents, an increase so nominal that even tobacco champion Sen. Wendell Ford, D-Ky., supported it in a compromise. But President Clinton has joined the battle again by suggesting that he might be readying a sin tax on cigarettes of $2 a pack to help defray the cost of health-care reform. This time, Ford will not yield any ground.

Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., in an oblique warning to the White House to have the "strength of its convictions," says that "if we end up with a 24-cent tax, then the administration's action will not have matched their rhetoric." Bradley has proposed legislation to raise the current 24-cent federal cigarette excise tax to $1 a pack as a way to bankroll health care, but told us he would withdraw if Clinton proposes a $2 tax.

An implacable foe of tobacco, Bradley is beating the war drums. He cites findings showing 435,000 Americans die each year and $24 billion is spent on health care treating tobacco-related illnesses.

"This is definitely the biggest (battle) with the biggest impact, with the biggest chance of making a real difference in the health of millions of Americans since I've been here for 14 years," Bradley told us.

Anti-smoking advocates believe that while an 800 percent excise-tax increase contemplated by Clinton would significantly curb smoking in this country over the long term, big tobacco companies would not see their revenue shrink significantly. Nearly half of all tobacco sales are now in exports. And the biggest impact of a tax would be to deter the lucrative youth market from starting the habit.

Regarding the coming battle, Bradley observes: "I think big tobacco believes that the ultimate game is the inside game. They know it's harder to get things done than it is to stop things. So I think that all of their resources are aimed at skillfully stopping things."

Stopping things was made simpler during 12 years of Republican rule, when toadying up to tobacco helped deliver the South to the GOP in presidential campaigns, and was part of the party's long-term strategy. It's a concern Clinton doesn't have for the time being. To be sure, tobacco interests knew they could play this card to great effect with the White House.

Internal Phillip Morris documents we have reviewed from 1990 provide a snapshot of tobacco in its continuing war to stave off tax increases. For example, a May 9, 1990, memo summarizes the political intelligence collected from key Republicans, who clearly allowed electoral considerations to color budgetary policy concerning tobacco.

I have a feeling this is not a test, this is the real thing.

Suit

The Friends of the Sylvan Lake Homeowner's Association filed an administrative complaint against the county earlier this year, contending the county failed to comply with the Wekiva River Protection Act and their own county zoning regulations. On Feb. 9, commissioners unanimously refused to reconsider their decision to build the 10-acre training facility at Sylvan

Lake Park west of Interstate 4. Friday, the Friends filed suit against the county, which is building the $2.5 million facility, the U.S. Soccer Federation and World Cup USA. The USSF has a 10-year agreement to use the facility rent-free. The U.S. World Cup team will also use the facility when they play against other national teams next year. When contacted by a reporter Friday afternoon, County Manager Ron Rabun said he was disappointed the homeowners pursued the complaint. "It's not a surprise," said Rabun. "It's just unfortunate for a project that has so many merits to be so contentious. It's unfortunate, but that's the price sometimes of doing business." In their complaint, the Friends had charged that the 20,000-square-foot building violated the terms of the Wekiva River act by failing to maintain the "rural character" of the lands bordering the river. They also asserted the county failed to follow their own zoning guidelines by placing what they say is a commercial use in an agriculturally-zoned area. Assistant county attorney Lonnie Groot has said the county complied with the state and county regulations. Friends vice president Ross Bieging could not be reached for comment.

Pancakes

beans, lettuce, oranges, strawberries and corn were selling - well - like hotcakes. Debbie Lenzen attended her first pancake day with her children, Brent and Allie. "I work with several Kiwanis members and they told me about this. It's great," she said. Lenzen works at the rehabilitation facility at Central Florida Regional Hospital.

Trays full of pancakes and sausage disappeared as a steady stream of customers walked through the two serving lines. Although the size of the crowd was not available, Kiwanis Club member Jim Carroll, who was manning the bake sale booth, said before a late morning drizzle began, "we were really hustlin' to keep up with the crowd."

Baked goods donated by area restaurants and catering services had been sold raising $300 for the club in the first three hours, Carroll said. Carroll demonstrated some super salesmanship abilities himself in moving product. A customer said he wanted two of the remaining three packages of Rice Krispy treats for 25-cents each and handed Carroll one dollar. "Why don't you just take the last one too?" With that the customer said, "Okay. Keep the change." "Pretty good!" Carroll said, "I sold them all and got a tip to boot!" The extra quarter went into the bake sale receipts. Sanford residents Minnie Kane and Sadie Wetsma said they have been coming to the Pancake Day for many years. "We've been almost every year," Wetsma said, "although not always together."

This year, Kane said, the sausage was too spicy for her taste. "They never had the hot stuff before," she said. "I think they should tell you because a lot of senior citizens can't stand it." Despite the seasoned sausage, both women opted for a small portion of second helpings. "If I have any problem, I'll take a Tums," Kane said. A stranger who was leaving, offered the women about a dozen tickets with numbers for the hourly door prize drawing. "It won't do any good," Wetsma said, "I've never had any luck. It could be 600 tickets and I wouldn't win." After eating, some of the customers browsed around tables offering items for sale ranging from children's toys to sweaters, clothes to books. Proceeds from the fundraiser are used to support programs for underprivileged children.

Citizens

Although her husband became a citizen years ago, Lagos was going through a difficult pregnancy at the time and did not go through citizenship procedures. "This is a very happy day for me," Lagos said, "but it is also kind of sad too because I lost my husband last September. He would be very proud today." Although she had filled out the paperwork before, she hesitated about going through the naturalization process. "I waited and waited," she said, "then I got him (her father) to go with me. I'm very glad I waited." In order to share the moment with her father as they both became citizens, "I'm really proud to be an American citizen." Her father came from Cuba 24 years ago. Another surprise was planned for the pair by Lagos' co-workers from the Sears accounting office. Along with providing a corsage and boutonniere in patriotic colors, her friends were treating them to lunch. "I didn't even know they were going to come here today to watch the ceremony," Lagos said, with a wide smile. "They are my very, very dear friends, like an extended family." As he registered to vote Sierra-Jomarron's granddaughter, Karen, helped translate the directions. Karen is Lagos' daughter. The spry octogenarian retired at age 71 after working seven years at Walt Disney World. Although his English is limited, Sierra-Jomarron accepted the congratulations of a voter registration clerk on his new citizenship with a hardy, "Thank you very much," and a mile-wide smile. Lagos also registered to vote.

Education

IN BRIEF

No school Friday

SANFORD — There will be no school on Friday, March 19 for students who attend school on the regular calendar. Those on the year round calendar will get their days off on the schedule according to their attendance track. While it is a day off for students, the teachers will still be working. It is a teacher work day and a staff development day. The school district offices will be open for business during regular hours on Friday. Students will return to school on Monday, March 22.

Parents night at Idyllwild

SANFORD — The art department at Idyllwild Elementary School in Sanford is sponsoring its 10th annual Parent/Student night at the Art Fair on Tuesday night, March 23. The fair will be in the school's media center from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Student art work by youngsters from kindergarten through fifth grade will be on display. Money will be collected in the "Art Kitty." Money collected last year was used to purchase additional art supplies. In addition to the art on display, there will be various art processes demonstrated in learning centers. Also at Idyllwild this week, class pictures will be taken on Monday, March 22. For more information on either program, call the school at 322-8823.

LMHS students win in art contests

LAKE MARY — The following students were winners in the Young American Patriotic Art Awards sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the VFW. Bettina Bailey took first place in the competition. She will be an entrant in the national contest which will take place in June. Second place honors went to Michael Farella and Jody Cline. The art department also had students enter the PTSA national fine arts contest. The contest, called Reflections, draws entries from across the country. Jody Cline and Brian Milner were named as state finalists in the competition. Justin Taraska, John Luxton and Michael Farella were given the Judges' Merit Award. Emily Depto was given an honorable mention.

Open house at Greenwood Lakes

LAKE MARY — The Greenwood Lakes PTA will be having a general meeting on Tuesday, March 30. The meeting will take place at 7 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Officers for the 1993-94 school year will be elected. In addition, student work and projects will be on display. Refreshments will be served. For more information contact Eva Wells at 321-7560.

Rams students excel in contests

LAKE MARY — Juniors Carrie Johannesmeyer and Kathy Shih were chosen to go to the American Legion Auxiliary Girls state oratorical competition.

The competition will be at Florida State University in Tallahassee in June.

The event will take place from June 11 to June 18. During the event, the girls will each be assigned a political party and a city which they are to represent in a mock legislative session.

Each participant will have the opportunity to take a political post or to run for office as representative for the city they have been selected to represent.

The Advanced Placement (AP) Spanish students attended a county-wide language competition at Lyman High School on Saturday.

All of the Lake Mary High School students who participated in the drama, the declamation and the impromptu sections of the competition received ratings of "Superior," which is the highest available mark.

The school's team received a total of 18 "Superiors." Four students earned "Superiors" in the Spanish III competition.

One student earned a "Excellent" rating in the declamation category and another earned an "Excellent" in the impromptu category.

Students in the Spanish II category earned 14 "Superiors," nine "Excellents" and two "Goods." They were entered in the declamation and the impromptu sections.

The Spanish I students came home with a "Superior" rating and two "Excellents."

Five students in the Mu Alpha Theta math honors society earned a score of 100 or better on the American High School Math Exam.

Those students are now qualified for the AIME math test which will be given on Thursday, April 1.

Interesting week for Seminoles

SANFORD — This weekend has been an interesting weekend for Seminole High School students as well as for the entire country.

The storm effected all of us in some way. Personally, my family lost a few tree limbs and a little power. Others lost all their power. Some lost property. Still others lost their lives.

Thursday and Friday, literally and symbolically, were the quiet before the storm.

A talent show was held at Seminole High on Thursday night. It was a chance for students to perform on stage and to "strut their stuff."

Some students sang songs such as Whitney Houston's "I Will Always Love You" and the movie Aladdin's "A Whole New World."

There was a magic act where a student attempted a Houdini-like escape from a bag and was successful.

Some members of the Dance Team also performed. There was a rap group and several students modeled the latest prom fashions and there were many more acts.

Even the audience was an fascinating mix. There was an entourage from Japan who came to view the show. There were parents and students and teachers as well.

The talent show was held to raise money for the 1993 Prom, which will be held on Saturday, May 15 at the new Hyatt hotel at the Orlando International Airport.

Thursday night was also the meeting informing parents about the new Health Academy which will begin operating next fall.

To the delight of the seniors at SHS it was also Senior Skip Day. Some used the day to catch up on school work. Some used it to catch up on sleep. And some students used the day to go to Disney, to the beach or to a cookout.

Early Friday morning, ten Seminole High School students, along with students at other high schools, set out for Florida A&M University (FAMU). The college was giving seminars on college life and the FAMU curriculum.

Also, there was to be a track meet.

The storm, however, brought some snow to the Tallahassee area, which presented an interesting situation for the students.

Sears gives mechanics tools and case to SCC

SANFORD — Seminole Community College recently received a 117-piece mechanics tool set with case from Sears in recognition of the college's support of the "Race for the Future" scholarship program.

The scholarship program which recognizes hard working vocational students for their diligence in the classroom and in the work place.

According to George Halligan, the manager of the Sears store at the Altamonte Mall in Altamonte Springs, the program is sponsored by Sears Craftsman Tools and Sears Motorsports.

Halligan said that the tools and the case would be given to the college, while a scholarship would be awarded to an SCC vocational student.

Halligan said that only 250 students nationwide would share in the $200,000 in scholarship money provided by Sears, Roebuck and Company. Luis G. Guzman of Winter Park is the "Race for the Future" scholarship winner who attends Seminole Community College.

The local winner is among the 250 scholarship winners nationally to be awarded money to help finance their education.

The scholarships are being awarded to top vocational-technical students who are using the training to help them excel as top mechanics.

In all, 150 scholarships for $1,000 and 100 scholarships for $500 were awarded.

The scholarships are designed to recognize and reward qualified students on a nationwide level in the technical fields of automotive mechanics, engineering, design and related courses of study.

Selection was based on past academic performance, future potential, school and community participation, work experience, career and education aspiration and goals, unusual personal or family circumstances and an outside appraisal.

Tear gas closes Vero school

VERO BEACH — A student's discharge of a can of tear gas in a high school hallway Tuesday sent 23 people to the hospital and closed the school for the day.

Forty others, including teachers, sought treatment at Vero Beach High School's campus clinic. None of the 63, who complained of sore throats and dizziness, required hospitalization.

Seminole County has never had such an incident which would cause the closing of a school, officials said.

"I felt dizzy, and my nose started burning," said Tameka Reese, an 11th-grader who received treatment. "My stomach's still a little uneasy."

A student apparently sprayed the can, which contained a chemical similar to Mace, shortly after 10 a.m. EST Tuesday, Principal Doug King said. He closed the school around noon when students began flocking to the campus clinic.

One school employee and 22 students were sent to Indian River Memorial Hospital, said Jim Judge, the chief of Indian River County's emergency medical services.

Officials aren't sure exactly who sprayed the canister but that person could face felony charges as well as punishment from school officials.

"He could be charged with aggravated battery," Indian River County Sheriff's Deputy Mark Smith told the Vero Beach Press-Journal. "These people were hurt and taken to the hospital."

This marked the second incident of this type at Vero Beach High in the past two weeks. Some Mace was sprayed in a classroom two weeks ago, but nobody was hurt, King said.

School board has meetings planned

SANFORD — The Seminole County school board will meet for the following sessions during the next month:

- Monday, March 22 1:30 p.m. Contracts and expulsions
- Tuesday, March 23 3:30 p.m. Work session: Lake Mary Elementary
- Tuesday, March 23 4 p.m. Work sessions: communications plan

- Tuesday, March 23 7 p.m. Board meeting
- Monday, April 12 1:30 p.m. Contracts and expulsions
- Tuesday, April 13 2 p.m. Work session: Crooms School of Choice-Scope of Work
- Monday, April 26 1:30 p.m. Contracts and expulsions
- Tuesday, April 27 7 p.m. Board meeting

Facial rejuvenation with chemical peel

A knowledge of the depth of peel and subsequent results anticipated is essential. —Richard L. Beck, M.D.

Rejuvenation, by definition, means to make young or youthful again; bring back to youthful appearance. While no technique available today does, in reality, restore youth, the removal of varying layers of skin by chemical peel can even out the complexion, creating a healthy glow, and depending on the type of peel, alter the skin collagen, thus creating the impression of a more youthful tone.

For better understanding of chemical peeling, a knowledge of the depth of peel and subsequent results anticipated is essential. For simplicity, peels may be considered light, medium, or deep. The same chemical can create varying degrees of penetration depending on the pre-peel preparation and the actual concentration of chemical agent used.

Simply stated, a chemical peel is a non-surgical approach to removal of skin blemishes, superficial pigmentation, fine lines or wrinkles, shallow acne scars and precancerous growths. Peels can even narrow large pores, and depending on the type of chemical and depth of penetration, make deep furrows and creases less noticeable. However, before considering any of these techniques as bottled Fountains of Youth, the perspective candidate must be aware of the possible pitfalls and complications as well as the benefits.

It is important to note that the peeling process will not lift fallen or saggy skin; correct unsightly fat accumulation or smooth stretched muscle. In essence a chemical facial peel is not a face lift in a bottle nor should it be considered a non-surgical facelift. A chemical peel in the hands of a trained physician can work wonders, but, if improperly applied, can cause serious side effects. Some chemicals, such as phenol can have adverse effects on the heart, liver and kidneys.

More specifically, lighter peels such as Retin A, alpha hydroxy acids and low concentration trichloroacetic acid, remove the very top layers of skin and can create evenness in tone, remove very fine lines, and freshen and smooth the complexion, but cause little visible peeling. Medium depth peels tend to create more tightening and lightening of the skin with a nice freshening appearance and a more youthful glow. Fine lines, sun spots, superficial acne scarring and sallow complexions all benefit from a medium depth peel. Neither light or medium depth peels will remove pigment and can be used on areas other than the face, such as the neck, chest, and hands. The deep peel most commonly employs phenol and sometimes trichloroacetic acid in over 50 percent concentrations. The main advantage to the deep peel lies in its ability to create a greater smoothing effect to the skin and in many instances remove deep furrows or creases. It is best suited for light complected individuals, since phenol will cause a permanent lightening or alteration of skin pigment. Although results can be outstanding in the proper candidates, the deep peel can create scarring and may be toxic to the liver, heart or kidneys, if not carefully monitored during application.

A program of skin care before and after the peel is essential to maintaining its effect and longevity. While no technique can truly restore youth, the chemical peel, properly applied, can remove the blemishes and improve a complexion etched by sun and ravished by aging.

Richard L. Beck, M.D., is a plastic surgeon with an office at 311 N. Mallard Ave., Altamonte Springs.

The health column is provided as a community service by the Seminole County Medical Society. Inquiries may be directed to the medical society.

Diabetes Association, hospitals join forces for public awareness

By KELLEY MITCHELL
Herald Staff Writer

On March 23, thousands of people throughout Central Florida will take a test to determine if they are at risk for the fourth leading cause of death by disease in America — diabetes.

The test is the focus of the American Diabetes Association's American Diabetes Alert, a one-day nationwide outreach to identify the millions of Americans at risk for the disease.

Approximately half of the 80,000 people in Central Florida with diabetes are unaware they have this serious disease.

"Because many people do not know the symptoms of diabetes, they may go undiagnosed for years," according to Dave Zupan, president of the Central Florida chapter. "This lack of awareness is tragic because people often discover their diabetes only after they are treated for one of the disease's terrible complications.

The American Diabetes Alert is a one-day call to action to all people, especially the undiagnosed, to get tested and know for sure.

The alert educates people about the symptoms, danger and risks of the disease, and motivate them to take the brief, written "Take the Test. Know the Score." test. Individuals are asked about family history for the disease, if they are in a high-risk group (Black American, American Indian or Hispanic), and if they have experienced diabetes symptoms, including excessive thirst, extreme fatigue, blurry vision, unexplained weight loss and frequent urination.

Diabetes complications include heart disease, stroke, kidney disease, blindness and lower limb amputation.

The test, available by calling 800-741-5898, can make a crucial difference in early detection, a key to successful diabetes treatment.

Also, joining forces in the fight against diabetes, Winter Park Memorial Hospital, MetPath Laboratory and the Diabetes Association will present "Spring Into Health: Discovering Diabetes Through Education and Testing," on Saturday in the hospital's medical library auditorium, 200 N. Lakemont Ave., Winter Park.

The health fair and screening, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., will feature a new test that can determine whether an adult is at risk of diabetes. In addition to the screening, a variety of healthcare professionals will be on hand to answer questions and provide information relating to the successful treatment of diabetes including the importance of good nutrition and exercise.

The cost of the screening is free, but will be performed by reservations only.

For more information, please call 646-7865.

HCA Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, offers a diabetes education course entitled "Diabetes: Take Control" beginning Thursday from 3-4 p.m. in the hospital's classroom.

"Our program educates diabetics and their families about the disease," according to Marsha Moxley, RN. "Also, the contact with other diabetics lets the person know that they're not the only one with the disease. So, in addition to the information that we provide, they also receive helpful hints in managing their diabetes from each other."

The six-week course covers topics ranging from self blood glucose monitoring to diet and medications. Cost for the program is $60, which includes an appointment with a registered dietitian. In addition, a consultation with the registered nurse to discuss other aspects of diabetes management is available for $30.

For information or to register for the course, call the hospital at 321-4500, ext. 5607.

Winter Park walk to benefit MS Society

Multiple sclerosis is a debilitating, neurological disease that strikes adults between the ages of 20 and 40. There is no known cause or cure.

MS can steal a person's ability to walk normally, speak properly or see clearly. It can even paralyze.

The community can help over 8,000 people who are affected by MS in Central Florida by participating in "The MS Walk for Multiple Sclerosis" on Saturday in Winter Park. Thousands of Americans will walk in this national event to benefit over 140 MS chapter and branches so that services can be provided to people with the disease and fund worldwide research.

Locally, "The MS Walk" is in its fourth year and is expected to attract nearly 1,000 participants. Nationally, this year's event is being dedicated to Annette Funicello who was recently diagnosed with multiple sclerosis.

The 15K (9.3 mile) walk will begin at Fleet Peoples Park on Lake Baldwin in Winter Park. The route will take walkers on a scenic stroll through some of Winter Park's most charming sites and neighborhoods. Rest stops will be set up at regular intervals along the route to provide walkers with refreshments and snacks.

A shuttle service will also be available for walkers who are concerned with completing the route. Once back at the park, participants will be treated to an Italian Festival, with plenty of food and entertainment, sponsored by Don Luigi's Ristorante, Lombardi's Ristorante and Domino's Pizza.

Prizes will be awarded to walkers depending on the amount of pledges they collect. The highest money raiser will win the grand prize, an eight day/seven night vacation package for four at the Indian River Plantation Resort and Marina in Hutchinson Island. Package includes an oceanfront suite, a sunset cruise, unlimited golf, with cart, tennis and sales tax.

The registration fee is $5 and brochures can be picked up at 2,500 retail and business sites in Central Florida or by calling our local MS Chapter at 898-3873. Check-in begins at 7 a.m. and the event will start promptly at 8 a.m.

Search for court nominee begins

By JOHN KING
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON — President Clinton begins his first search for a Supreme Court nominee looking to reverse the court's Reagan-era conservative shift and facing immediate pressure to keep his promise of a diverse judiciary that recognizes abortion rights.

Justice Byron R. White had barely announced plans to retire when speculation and political jockeying engulfed Washington on Friday. The pressure ranged from women's groups demanding Clinton select a woman to Republicans cautioning against picking a liberal judicial activist.

Clinton, given an early chance to put his mark on the court for years to come, summoned top deputies to the White House today to begin his search.

"I think that there are few decisions a president makes which are more weighty, more significant and have greater impact on more Americans than an appointment to the Supreme Court," the president told reporters Friday.

"And I'm going to try to pick a person that has a fine mind, good judgment, wide experience in the law and in the problems of real people and someone with a big heart."

Clinton aides said Chief of Staff Mack McLarty, Attorney General Janet Reno and White House counsel Bernard Nussbaum would lead the search. Because of the advance notice provided by White, who will step down this summer, the president need not rush.

The flurry of reaction illustrated how Clinton's election had changed things in Washington. Liberals and abortion rights groups were pushing for a nominee from their ranks, not fighting a Reagan or Bush appointee, while conservatives readied themselves to oppose the eventual choice.

Senate Republicans sounded much like Senate Democrats during the Reagan-Bush years: They urged that abortion not be a litmus test.

"If the president nominates a 'litmus test liberal' all bets will be off," said Senate GOP leader Bob Dole.

Only once during the campaign did Clinton attach a name to Supreme Court discussions, calling New York Gov. Mario Cuomo "qualified beyond question."

Others mentioned as potential nominees include federal Judges Richard S. Arnold of Little Rock, Ark., a longtime Clinton friend, and Analya Lyle Kearsse of New York. She was on Clinton's early list of attorney general candidates, as was Judith Kaye, recently confirmed as New York state's top judge.

Also in the speculation are Stephen G. Breyer, chief judge of the 1st Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston; Jose A. Cabranes, chief judge of the U.S. District Court in New Haven, Conn.; Stephanie Seymour, a federal judge in Oklahoma; and Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell of Maine, a former federal judge.

Further possibilities: Marion Wright Edelman, founder of the Children's Defense Fund and a longtime friend of Hillary Rodham Clinton; Sen. Joseph Lieberman, D-Conn., a Clinton political ally and former state attorney general; and Laurence Tribe, a Harvard professor and well-known liberal legal scholar.

As a candidate, Clinton said ideology would take a back seat to excellence in his court picks, but also acknowledged Supreme Court nominees would have to share his support of abortion rights. He also promised to appoint more minorities to the federal bench than any past president.

Clinton once said his abortion rights test "makes me feel uncomfortable." But he said it was necessary because of the court's erosion of abortion rights during the Reagan and Bush administrations.

The Supreme Court vacancy comes as the new administration searches to fill some 100 vacancies on lower federal courts, offering Clinton the opportunity to make his mark at every level of the judiciary.

Kate Michelman, president of the National Abortion Rights Action League, said the retirement of White, an abortion opponent, "will allow the long process of restoring balance to our highest court to begin."

With the speculation came instant pressure from interest groups.

"President Clinton must appoint a woman," said Eleanor Smeal of the Fund for a Feminist Majority.

Senate Republicans urged Clinton to steer clear of jurists with a personal agenda.

"What matters is that we have judges who will neutrally and objectively interpret and apply the laws, not judges who will impose their own policy preferences," said GOP Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah, a Judiciary Committee member and abortion foe.

Rams win own Classic

LAKE MARY — On their 12th try, the Lake Mary girls' track team won the Lake Mary Classic Saturday, outscoring Haines City 118 1/2-95 1/2 at Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

It was the first time the Lake Mary girls have ever won the team title in the Classic.

Among the boys, Lake Howell bested Lake Mary 112-92 for the crown.

Lake Mary's Shawn Barkley and Tony Davis were named the Most Valuable Performers of the meet.

Barkley won the girls' 220-yard dash (27.2 seconds) and 440-yard dash (1:01.2) as well as ran a leg of the Rams' victorious two-mile relay. Davis won the 220-yard dash (23.1 seconds), was second in the 100-meter dash (11.2 seconds) and ran on the winning mile relay.

Complete results will appear in Monday's Sanford Herald.

Hornets rally by Silver Hawks

ORLANDO — Brian Ehrlich doubled home Kevin De Laroza in the bottom of the seventh inning to give the Bishop Moore Hornets a 4-3 come-from-behind win over the visiting Lake Howell Silver Hawks in high school baseball action Saturday afternoon.

Trailing 3-2 in the seventh, Danny Antonelli singled for Bishop Moore and Charlie Niemiec came on to pinch run. After De Laroza reached on an error, Niemiec scored on the front end of a double steal. Ehrlich then doubled in De Laroza.

The rally made a winner of relief pitcher Larry Richart (3-3), who came in for starter Brian Krot in the fifth inning. Andy Fox (1-2) took the loss for Lake Howell.

For Lake Howell (7-7), Monty Mathias was 2-for-4 with an RBI and a run scored. Mike Knorst doubled and singled. Rob Stanton had a double and an RBI. Chris Tolliver singled and scored a run. Rich DiTore also scored a run.

Ehrlich led Bishop Moore by going 2-for-3 with a double, a run scored, and an RBI. Alex Boofa added a double. Krot scored a run in the third inning when he stole home to give Bishop Moore a short-lived 2-1 lead.

The win, Bishop Moore's third in a row, boosts the Hornets to 4-8. Lake Howell, now 7-6, hosts Kissimmee-Osceola on March 29.

FSU shoots down Tulane

ORLANDO — Sam Cassell hit all seven of his 3-point attempts and scored 31 points Saturday to lead Florida State to a 94-63 rout of Tulane in the second round of the NCAA Southeast Regional.

Doug Edwards had 22 points and 12 rebounds for the third-seeded Seminoles, who shot 67 percent from the field after halftime, including 7-for-7 shooting by Cassell.

Florida State (24-9) reached the Sweet 16 for the second straight year. The Seminoles lost to Indiana in that round last year.

Matt Greene led Tulane, which shot 35 percent, with 16 points. Pointer Williams had 14 points and Anthony Reed finished with 11 for the Green Wave.

AROUND THE STATE

Barberie leads Marlins

COCOA — Bret Barberie had two doubles and a single against his former teammates, as the Florida Marlins beat a Montreal Expos split squad 8-3 Saturday.

Barberie, whom the Marlins selected from the Expos with their third pick in the first round of the expansion draft, singled off loser Sergio Valdez and scored in a four run sixth inning.

He also drove in a run with a double in a three-run seventh.

AROUND THE REGION

Shepherd wins Motorcraft 500

HAMPTON — Morgan Shepherd and the Wood Brothers team took a chance and came up winners, stretching a tank of gas over the final 103 miles Saturday to take the weather-delayed Motorcraft Quality Parts 500.

It was the fourth NASCAR Winston Cup victory for Shepherd and the third win on Atlanta Motor Speedway's 1.522-mile oval for the 51-year-old from Conover, N.C.

Ernie Ivan, who stopped three laps later than Shepherd, wound up second, his Chevrolet Lumina trailing Shepherd's Ford Thunderbird across the finish line by 23.5 seconds. Pole sitter Rusty Wallace's Pontiac Grand Prix wound up third, with 21-year-old rookie Jeff Gordon's Chevy a lap down in fourth.

All-State hoop honors

Washington, Green, Morris among state's best

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — Sometimes you have to be seen to get noticed.

Three Seminole County high school basketball players — Seminole's Niki Washington, Oviedo's Devon Green, and Lake Mary's Karen Morris — earned All-State honors this weekend, capping seasons where they lead their respective teams far into the state playoffs.

While all three of the players have had extensive state and national exposure, Washington and Morris as AAU players and Green as a member of Oviedo's 1992 Class 4A state championship team, their causes were helped by their contributions to their respective team's success during the playoffs.

It may sound exclusionary, but that's one of the few times any of the three had an opportunity to play before voting members of the Florida Sports Writers' Association, which selects the All-State teams.

This was the second year that Washington, who led Seminole to the 3A-Section II championship game, has received All-State honors. This year, she was a first-team selection.

Green, who helped the Oviedo boys all the way back to the Class 4A state semifinals, was a first-team selection.

Where Washington and Green both have experience in the state playoffs, this was the first year for Morris and her Lake Mary teammates, who got all the way to the Class 4A state championship game.

Morris made the most of the opportunity, earning All-State Tournament honors and gaining rave reviews that helped her earn her second-team Class 4A All-State berth.

Washington and Green had an opportunity to display their talents again Friday night as they helped lead the North to a sweep of the Florida Athletic Coaches Association North-South high school all-star game at the University of Central Florida Arena.

Washington scored 10 points and grabbed 11 rebounds, including two in the final 38 seconds to preserve a 67-65 victory for her team, while Green scored eight points as the boys won 117-106.

Washington capped her excellent career by averaging 20.3 points, 13.5 rebounds, 6.2 assists, 5.6 blocked shots and 5.9 steals per game this season. She has committed to attend the University of Houston in the fall.

OPENING DAY

Play ball

Former Detroit Tiger outfielder Chet Lemon (right), now a resident of Seminole County, was on hand to throw out the first pitch Saturday as the Sanford Recreation Department conducted Opening Day ceremonies for its Little Major and Pee Wee baseball leagues. Each league has boasts a roster of 150 players divided among 10 teams. After all the players, coaches, and sponsors were introduced, the two leagues were scheduled to begin play with five games each.

Wright, Leesburg top Tribe

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — Justin Wright is becoming a thorn in the Seminole High School baseball team's side.

On a rainy and drizzly Saturday afternoon, the sophomore righthander held the Tribe to five hits and no runs over five innings as the Leesburg Yellow Jackets bested Seminole 4-2, spoiling the dedication of the Tribe's new press box and concession stand.

"He's (Wright) stuck it to us twice now," said Seminole head coach Mike Powers. "Last year in the district finals, he held us scoreless for three innings and then today. He just goes out there and throws strikes and we can't hit him."

Squandered in the loss was a strong pitching performance by junior Deon Daniels. The hard-throwing righthander allowed only two hits while striking out six and walking four in his first varsity start since coming out from basketball last week.

"Deon pitched very good," said Powers. "But give Leesburg credit. They did a fine job and played good defense except for the error that cost them the two runs."

"We can't take people lightly, especially Leesburg. They always play us tough. They beat us 12-10 last year and were within one pitch of 10-running us. If we're going to win districts, we're going to have to beat them."

Stanton's slam leads Hawks past 'Hounds

By RYAN ANDRESON

WINTER PARK — The Lake Howell Silver Hawks overcame a light drizzle and the Lyman Greyhounds Friday afternoon with a 9-4 victory in a Seminole Athletic Conference baseball contest at Lake Howell High School.

The win keeps the Silver Hawks two games behind the first place Seminole Fighting Seminoles in the SAC standings.

"I think we did a lot of things a little bit better today," Lake Howell coach Birto Benjamin said. "We played decent defense, we put the bat on the ball, and our pitcher threw strikes."

"Even though we struggled from time to time, I think we played a pretty well-rounded game overall."

The Silver Hawks' offense knocked three Lyman pitchers around for 10 hits, while John Cromwell, Mike Johnson, and the Lake Howell defense held Lyman to only three hits.

The offensive assault of the Silver Hawks began with the first batter in the bottom of the first inning and continued for the remainder of the game.

Chris Tolliver led off in the bottom of the first for the Silver Hawks with a walk on five pitches. Paul Giambalvo advanced Tolliver to third base with a double down the third base line. An out later, Monty Mathias walked on four pitches, loading the bases.

They weren't loaded for long as Rob Stanton hit a line drive shot over the right center field wall, giving the Silver Hawks a 4-0 lead.

The Greyhounds got on the score board in the top of the third when Chad Siemer hit a single with the bases loaded, scoring Tommy Dixon who led off the inning with a walk. Following a strike out, Lyman scored two more runs when Kiley Calapa's hit was misplayed by the Silver Hawks.

Siemer drove in Mark Thiesen in the top of the fourth inning for the Greyhounds' final run.

Stanton finished the game with two hits, five RBI, and a run scored. Rich DiTore hit two triples and a double, with two RBI, and two runs scored.

Paul Giambalvo singled, doubled and scored a run. Mark Desabrias hit two singles, and Monty Mathias had a RBI single.

Spencer, Blind Darts II enjoy big week

Special to the Herald

Bill Spencer topped this week's Playtime Dart League Hot Shot List, compiling six wins and a turkey to help Blind Darts II from the Lake Mary Pub hang on to first place in the Men's A League.

Also chipping in for Blind Darts II was T.J. May, who collected four wins, three bulls, and a bed.

From Nicks Nuts, the Uncle Nick's entry in the Men's A League, Jeff Conant had five wins, a turkey, and a nine-throw dart out.

Bob Crowe paced Bamboo Cafe No. 2 in the Men's A League this week with a four wins, two bulls, one bed, and a nine-throw dart out.

In the Mixed A League, Mike Pavelchak led Black Magic out of the Bamboo Cafe with four wins, one bull, and a eight-throw dart out.

Debbie Howard of M.T. Muggs' Mugg Shots posted four wins.

Blind Darts II from Lake Mary Pub continues to pull away in the Mixed A League having a 14-win lead over the second-place Bamboo Bulls from the Bamboo Cafe, 59-45. M.T. Muggs' Bad Team, with 44 wins, dropped from second last week to third this week.

Rounding out the eight-team circuit are Uncle Nick's Ron's Kids (38 wins); Hell of a Group from the Lake Mary Pub (36 wins); Who Cares Part II of the Bamboo Cafe (32 wins) and a make up; Nice & Easy No. 2 (32 wins); and the Touchdown Pub's A Bombers (13 wins and a make up).

In the Mixed B League, Bamboo Cafe's Black Magic went 12-1 last week to pull out to a seven-win lead (52 wins). Tied for second at 45 wins are the two entries from the Lake Mary Pub, Family Feud and Cathy & Kids.

Last week's second-place team, Mom's Muggers from M.T. Muggs, dropped to fourth with 44 wins. Too Sexy! from Nice & Easy is fifth with 32 wins ahead of Lite's Brewski's, also from Nice & Easy, (31 wins), and Crazy Wing's Crazy Wingers (26 wins and a bye).

The Mugg Shots out of M.T. Muggs added to its lead in the Ladies League, using an 11-2 outing to boost their win total to 59 wins, 10 better than the second place team.

This week, the second-place team is one of the Lake Mary Pub's representatives, Robbie's Girls, who went jumped from fourth to second with 49 wins. Two wins back at 47 is Good Answer, also from the Lake Mary Pub.

Trailing the three leaders are Watch Your Back from the Bamboo Cafe (44 wins); Rick's Wolves, also from the Bamboo Cafe (29 wins); the Lake Mary Pub's Real Bitches (27 wins and a make-up); and B.Y.B. from the Bone Yard (27 wins and a make-up).

As mentioned earlier, Lake Mary Pub's Blind Darts II continues to lead the Men's A League, holding a 53-49 advantage over the Bamboo Cafe's Eliminators, who moved up from third place the week before. Last week's second-place team, Bad Company from the Bamboo Cafe, drops to a tie for third with the No. 3 team from Bamboo Cafe at 44 wins.

The Bulls Eyes out of Uncle Nick's drop from fourth to fifth this week with 38 wins. A win back in sixth place is M.T. Muggs' Honyauks, with 37 wins. Nick's Nuts from Uncle Nick's, who have 34 wins, jumped from ninth a week ago to seventh this week.

Tied for eighth with 32 wins apiece are the Dead Red Eyes and Weezer's Boys, both representing the Lake Mary Pub. The Big Sharks from Sharky's are 10th with 26 wins.

After last week's play, the closest race is now in the Men's B League, where just two wins separate the top two teams with the third place squad only four wins off the pace.

The Big Men out of the Lake Mary Pub continue to hang on to first place, using a 12-1 effort last week to improve to 57 wins. But just two games back are the Hit Men from the Bamboo Cafe, who also went 12-1 to run their win total to 55 wins. Bamboo Cafe's Shoots lost two games on the leaders, going 10-3 to climb to 53 wins.

Holding down fourth are the Under Dogs from M.T. Muggs, who now have 43 wins. The Brew Crew representing the Bamboo Cafe are fifth with 41 wins. In sixth with 33 wins are Buss's Roosters from Nice & Easy. The No. 6 team, which represents the Bone Yard, are seventh with 14 wins.

Education will augment boating safety

As spring approaches and the weather becomes milder, more and more people are heading to Florida's rivers, lakes and shores to swim, fish, sail and ski.

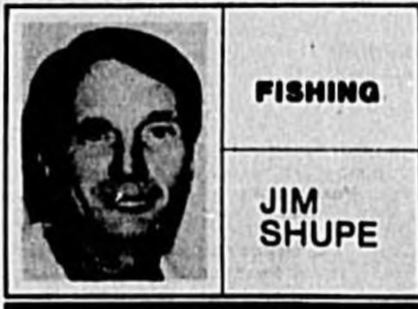

Although this may be a good time of year for these water sports, it's also one of the most dangerous. The increase in water-related activities often means an increase in boating accidents.

Florida recorded over 1,000 boating accidents in 1992, nearly 80 of which involved fatalities. The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission and Florida Marine Patrol say 80 percent of all boating fatality victims drowned because they were not wearing life jackets.

"We can't over-emphasize the importance of personal flotation devices," said Capt. Bob Poole, Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission boating safety coordinator, in an FGFWFC press release. "If you wear them, you are much less likely to drown."

According to Maj. Kent Thompson, Florida Marine Patrol Boating Safety Coordinator, one of the leading causes of boating accidents is failure to maintain a proper lookout.

"There's also a growing problem with personal watercrafts (motorcycle-like water vehicles).

FISHING
JIM SHUPE

Persons who rent them generally are given safety instructions, but what happens is other people borrow them and, without proper instructions, accidents may occur," Thompson said.

The Commission and Marine Patrol believe safety inspections and education are keys to preventing boating accidents.

"We want boaters to be aware of the dangers of operating an unsafe vessel, the necessity for courteous and defensive driving, and the hazards of drinking alcoholic beverages while boating," Poole said.

Alcohol consumption can reduce peripheral vision and hearing. Most boaters who have been drinking don't realize their reaction time has been impaired until they run over a swimmer, collide with another boat or crash into a dock, Poole said.

The Commission and Marine Patrol encourage boaters and other water-sports enthusiasts to take advantage of their free boating inspection program and new free safety education course which are offered throughout the state.

"Until we have an educated boating public, the number of accidents will stay high. Every boater needs to know what his responsibilities on the water are, and the best way to learn is to take a boating safety class," Thompson said.

SHUPE'S SCOOP

Boats and propellers can maim and injure people seriously. As boat operators, we owe each other respect and consideration when on the waterways.

FISHING FORECAST

Specks are rated as good in Lake Jessup and fair in Lake Monroe. Bass fishing is great in local lakes and in the river.

Plastic worms and shiners are the most effective baits. Also, fish prefer slower offerings with cooler water temperatures.

Shiners are best fished near floating cover in 3 to 5 feet of water.

Sebastian Inlet has been slow except for bluefish. Redfish season is closed, and snook are still sluggish in cool waters. Some nice flounder are hitting finger mullet bounced across the rocky bottom.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral has little to report in the way of offshore action due to high seas. The water has been dirty to 180 feet, so anglers have been traveling in excess of 25 miles in search of fish.

Inside the Port, flounder, bluefish, and sheepshead are biting on a regular basis. Guide Troy Perez reads reds as good and trout as fair in the Banana and Indian rivers.

Big sheepshead are biting live shrimp and fiddler crabs at Ponce Inlet, but check the marine forecast and carefully study wave conditions before venturing out into this rough inlet. Trout and redfish are consistent in Mosquito Lagoon.

The game was scoreless until the Yellow Jackets exploded for four runs in the sixth inning.

Michael Guyled off the inning with a single and was safe at second when Daniels threw wildly to second on Beau Young's tapper back to the mound. The runners moved up on Clint Patterson's sacrifice bunt and Lee Simmons was walked intentionally, loading the bases and chasing Daniels.

Ryan Weirich greeted reliever Matt Diemer with a seeing-eye single to center, scoring Guy and Young. Billy Tonetti walked on a full-count to reload the bases and Ty Lawrence nubbed a hit to right off the end of the bat to score Michael Ponds (running for Simmons) and Weirich.

The Tribe finally got to Wright in the bottom of the sixth. Todd Braden led off and lifted a fly to center field that was dropped for a two-base error. Scott Ferguson walked and Leesburg coach Randy Wilson brought in Patterson to pitch.

The runners moved up on a wild pitch and Braden scored on a single by David Eckstein, sending Ferguson to third. Diemer then singled to center to score Ferguson and Tonetti was called in to pitch.

Matt Freeman bunted the tying runs into scoring position and Jeremy Chunat was intentionally walked to load the bases. But the rally died there as the next two batters went quietly, on a pop up to third and a tap back to the mound.

Guy led the Yellow Jackets (7-2) with two singles, while Young, Patterson, Weirich and Lawrence had one hit each. Eckstein and Diemer had two hits each for Seminole, while Ferguson, Chunat, Cory Gochee and John Lugerling had one single each.

The Tribe, which fell to 11-2, will now take off a few days for nine-weeks exams before traveling to New Smyrna Beach for game at noon on Friday, March 26th. The next home game will be next Saturday when Seminole hosts Spruce Creek starting at 3 p.m. The game was scheduled for 1 p.m., but had to be moved to a later time because of Scholastic Aptitude Test being given in the morning.

Lake Howell

Cromwell (2-1) worked five innings for Lake Howell, striking out five and walking six. Johnson came in relief of Cromwell in the top of the sixth inning, striking out three Lyman batters to earn the save.

Todd Herbach started on the mound for Lyman and worked two innings striking out two, walking three, and giving up seven runs on five hits. Mike Powson came in to relieve Herbach in the third and struck out one and walked three in one inning of work. Frisch came in to pitch in the fourth striking out one and walking none, while giving up four hits. The Silver Hawks (7-5, 3-2 SAC) will not play any games this week due to nine week exams. Lake Howell will return to action on Monday, March 29, hosting Kissimmee-Osceola. The Silver Hawks' next conference game will be Friday, April 2, when they host the Lake Mary Rams in an afternoon game.

The Greyhounds (5-8, 0-4 SAC) were to play the Oviedo Lions Saturday night in a make-up game of their rainout this past Wednesday. Lyman will host Deltona this coming Friday and visit Daytona Beach-Seabreeze on March 28.

Siemens 'school' off and running

By NICK PFEIFFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Three days a week, 20 students go through a school with no traditional desks, books or blackboards, where they are being prepared for highly skilled technical jobs.

The "school" is a Siemens Stromberg-Carlson facility, and their instructor is a "meister," a German expert who is teaching them skills they need to become telecommunications technicians.

The Electronics Technical Apprenticeship Program, ETAP, was started last fall, in conjunction with Seminole Community College, where the apprentices spend the other half of their school week. The ETAP was recently expanded to include 20 high school students from Oviedo and Lyman High Schools 11th and 12th grades. They are considered as pre-apprentices (trainees) who train at the facility two afternoons a week.

Siemens Stromberg-Carlson, together with Congressman John Mica (R) and Dr. Keith Samuels, vice president for instruction at SCC, dedicated the facility customized specifically for the program earlier this month.

The company also announced a $249,900 grant from the U.S. Department of Labor to support both the hands-on training at its site, and the theoretical training at the high schools.

The program was one of 10 nationally, and the only corporate program in Florida to be awarded the grant. In announcing the award, former Secretary of Labor Lynn Martin said, "These projects are the latest step toward building a national youth apprenticeship system. Youth apprenticeship is important because it provides young people with the opportunity to participate in employer-paid, structured learning at an actual work site."

The program at the Lake Mary facility is one of two pilot apprenticeship programs offered in the nation by Siemens Stromberg-Carlson.

"This apprenticeship program is the best way we know to help ensure a skilled work force for the future and to ensure our ability to continue to provide products of the highest quality to our customers," said Anton Hasbholzer, president and chief executive officer of Siemens Stromberg-Carlson.

"By joining with Seminole Community College and the Seminole County Board of Education," he added, "we are confident we can help the students, our company, and the Central Florida community."

He said he would welcome other Central Florida companies to sponsor students in the next session, which will begin in August.

Siemens Stromberg-Carlson employs approximately 2,000 persons at its Lake Mary facilities, and over 3,500 nationwide.

Labor law changes would eject ships, sacrifice taxes

By CATHERINE WILSON
AP Business Writer

MIAMI BEACH — Congress would eject cruise ships from U.S. ports and sacrifice billions in taxes by extending the country's labor laws to the shipping industry, a maritime lawyer said.

Labor law changes proposed by U.S. Rep. William Clay, D-Mo., would extend minimum wage, overtime and collective bargaining laws to ships calling at U.S. ports, but cruise industry officials consider the idea misguided.

The labor law, a bill attacking foreign shipbuilding subsidies and new taxes sought by the Clinton administration would "sound the death knell for the cruise industry in the United States," lawyer Alberto Gonzalez-Pita predicted.

Cruises lines would simply move their ships to friendlier ports, and the United States would risk losing $6.5 billion in annual taxes generated by the cruise industry.

Bob Evans restaurant ready to open soon

By NICK PFEIFFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The new Bob Evans restaurant, 3860 Flag Lane, Lake Mary, is ready to open for business on Monday, April 5. Jobs applications are now being accepted.

The new restaurant is located at the intersection of Interstate 4 and Lake Mary Boulevard, just north of the recently opened Builders Square complex.

According to Victor Argobright, group vice president of restaurant operations, "Our full-service, family restaurant offers a complete menu of breakfast, lunch and dinner entrees cooked to order. In addition to its family breakfast menu, dinner specialties include char-broiled catfish, turkey and dressing and chicken monterey.

The Lake Mary facility will be managed by Rick Stock.

One of Stock's assistant managers, Jeff Burrell explained the decor of the new Lake Mary restaurant. "Warm colors, antiques and colonial style lamps give the oak interior of our new 149 seat facility over 6,000 square feet of restaurant area, set in an atmosphere of an early American home."

Employment applications are now being taken at the restaurant. Burrell said they will be accepted, in person only, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday. About 70 jobs will be available.

Bob Evans Farms owns and operates 282 Bob Evans and Owens Family Restaurants in 18 states, plus two Cantina del Rios, a Mexican restaurant.

HUD boosts its mortgage limits

By NICK PFEIFFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, HUD, has increased the maximum limits for FHA mortgages on single family residences in Seminole County to $102,100. The change also affects Orange, Osceola and Lake Counties.

The maximum mortgage rates were also raised for larger homes: 2-family units to $114,950; 3-family units to $139,700; and 4-family units to $161,200.

The higher loan limits became effective when they were published in the Federal Register on March 15, 1993.

HUD has also approved higher maximum FHA mortgage limits for Volusia County: $75,500 for 1-family units; $85,000 for 2-family units; $103,300 for 3-family units and $119,200 for 4-family units.

FHA single family mortgage insurance programs for these counties are administered by the Orlando HUD office.

The maximum mortgage amounts in the other counties in the Orlando HUD office jurisdiction, Brevard, Indian River, St. Lucie, and Okeechobee, will remain unchanged.

Arby's, RC Cola parent company posts loss

By The Associated Press

MIAMI — DWG Corp., controlled until recently by takeover artist Victor Posner, reported a $942,000 third-quarter loss Wednesday, bringing the year's losses to $3.3 million.

DWG, which controls the Arby's restaurant chain and RC Cola, lost 4 cents a share in the quarter compared to a loss of $1.4 million, or 5 cents a share, in the same quarter last year. Revenues were down 2 percent from $339 million to $332 million.

For the first nine months of the year, DWG has lost 13 cents a share compared to a loss of $9.2 million, or 35 cents a share, last year. Revenues were up 1.5 percent from $945 million to $958 million.

The company said it has provided a $4.2 million charge for the quarter and $6.2 million for the year so far as a result of a continuing examination by the Internal Revenue Service and other taxes.

Posner was forced out as chairman and chief executive late last year amid shareholder suits charging he plundered the publicly held company while controlling 46 percent of its stock.

Dance director turns calendar back 20 years for show

By ED KORGAN
Herald Correspondent

A high school dance director is reliving her beginnings in dance.

Maureen Maguire, Seminole High School Dazzler director for the past 10 years, has dug her pink satin pointe shoes out of the closet to dazzle audiences in Ballet Guild's 25th Anniversary performance.

The show, titled "Young at Heart," will feature many of the guild's outstanding dancers from the past 25 years who have returned to the Ballet Guild home studio in Sanford to rehearse and nurse their aching feet.

Maguire related, "The first time I was in there I felt like I was 12 years old again. A feeling came over me of deja vu. I was sitting there listening to Miriam (Doktor) and Valerie (Weid) talk and doing some of those numbers and I felt like I had been transported back 20 years and I was back to where I was so long ago.

"It was like a weird feeling, like a dream almost. But then we started to work on the numbers and it became a really real quick. My toes hurt as much now as they did way back when.

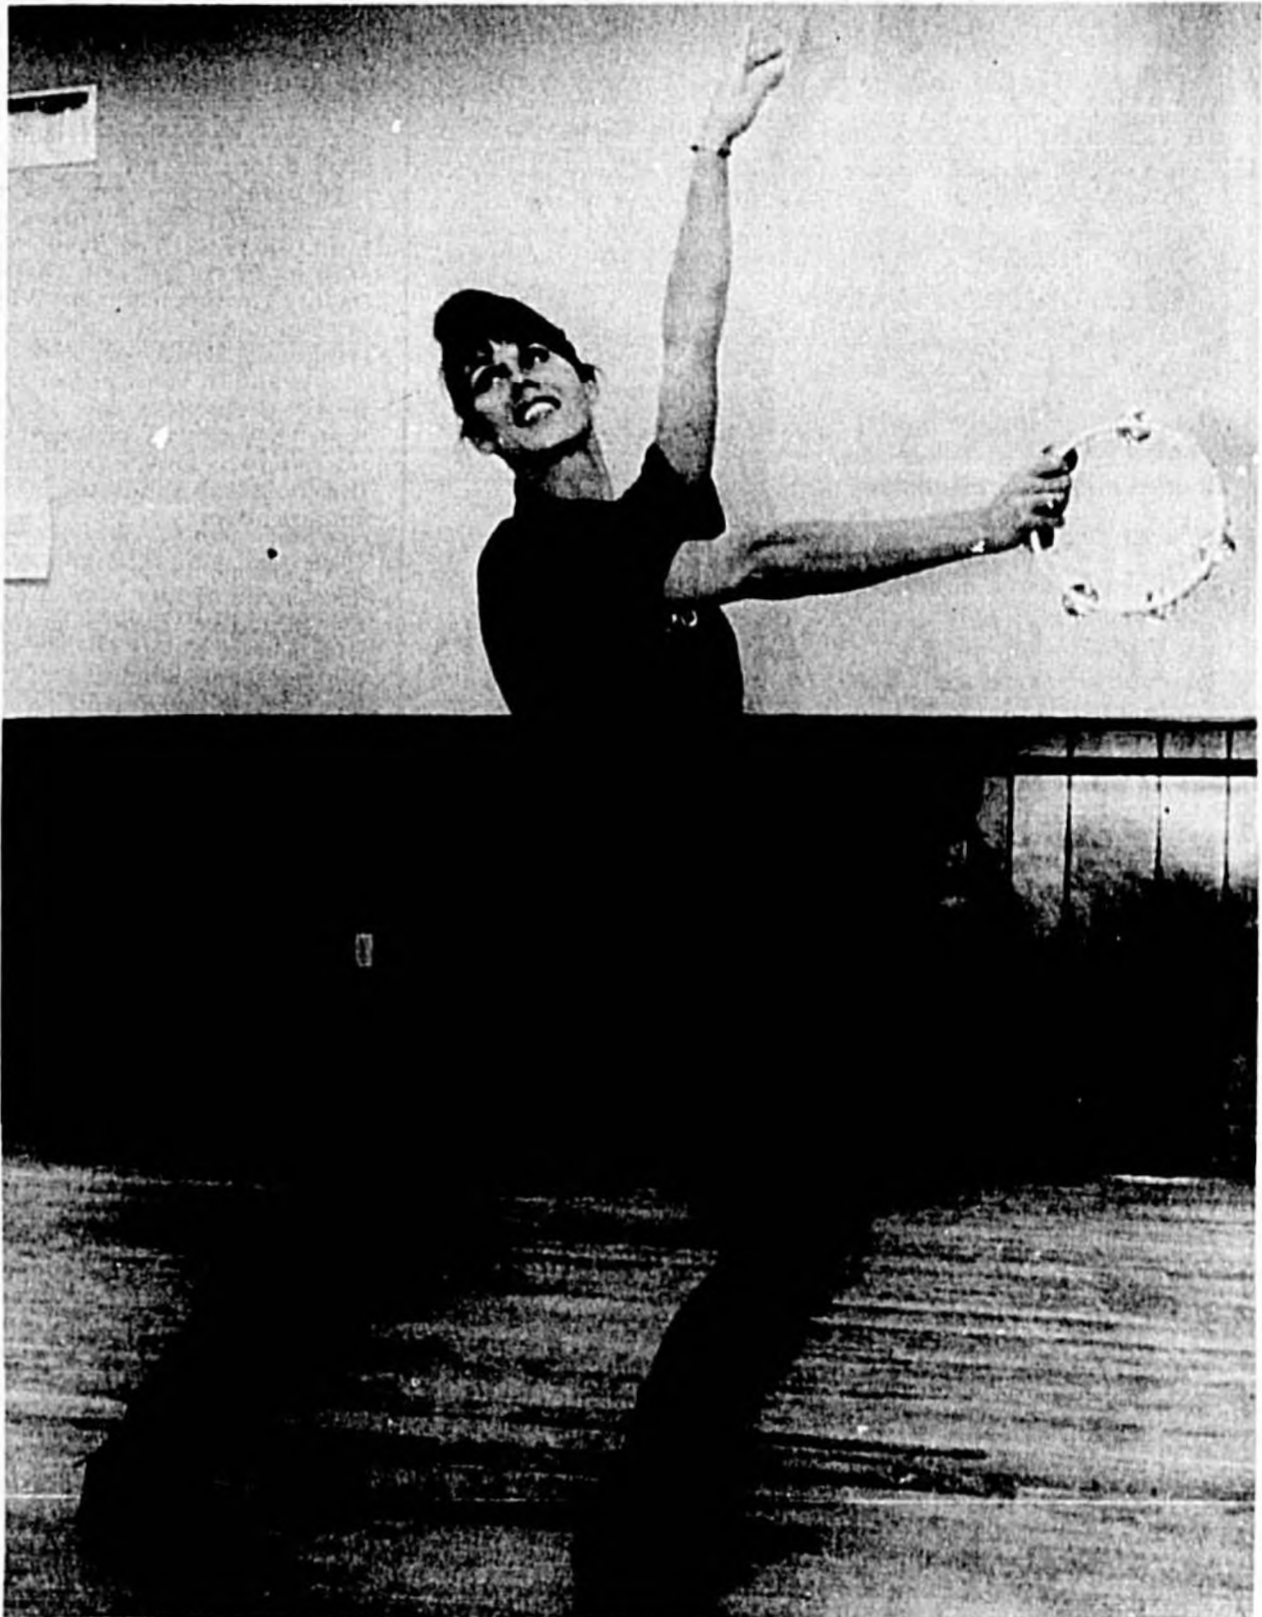

Maguire began directing the Dazzlers part-time while she was attending University of Central Florida. Her husband Robert Maguire, the band director, would teach the classes during the week and Maguire would return to the school twice a week to provide further instruction.

She said, "He wasn't really teaching them how to dance. They would just sort of practice whatever it was. I told them to practice on Tuesdays and Thursdays. You can imagine that's why we were never very good. Back then he would watch them dance but he is not a dancer. It is kind of hard to fix things when you don't know what is going on. But he did a lot as far as keeping them together, keeping their morale up and keeping them focused. That kind of work, he was real good at."

When she graduated she began teaching four classes of mathematics at Sanford Middle School and then headed over to Seminole High School to work with the Dazzlers. This schedule continued for the next four years until Maguire moved over to Seminole to teach mathematics. That year she picked up five math classes and had to teach the Dazzlers during her planning period. There was a class for the Dazzlers but it was held in the cafeteria because there weren't other rooms available.

When the multi-purpose room was built at Seminole the Dazzlers then had a place they could practice. That year she picked up a dance technique class to go along with the dance team class. Maguire continued to teach four math classes while the dance program at Seminole

'My Girl' lured talented photographer to Sanford

By ED KORGAN
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Shoin Fukui, who was born in Japan, moved to Sanford in November after viewing the Hollywood film "My Girl" which was made on location in the downtown section of Sanford and surrounding areas. After watching the film at least four times he was convinced that the old town flavor was what he was looking for so he decided he would set up a photography studio and if business warranted, Sanford would be the last major move he would make.

Fukui has many international business connections both in photography and writing for which he is noted. His future plans are to promote Sanford and the surrounding areas through his business relationships he has built up over the many years.

He explained that Japan is a very educational-minded country. Over the past three years he has worked with a company that produces monthly educational books for the Japanese-speaking people. The books are on a junior and senior grade level and are being used extensively in educational television. It is actually a book to teach English, but is put out once a month to the general public.

The book carries many different stories in its attempt to promote the English language to the Japanese people. Fukui is one of the major contributors to this book. His writing covered many subjects and the pictures covered many panoramic scenes from Mt. Whitney, Calif. to Sanford and the surrounding areas. In one of the books he had met an actress who was an understudy in "Sleeping With the Enemy" and used the pictures taken to explain a little bit of Hollywood to the readers. In many of the stories he has taken pictures of local families to enhance his writing.

He has continued to come up with many unique ideas. He recalls one in his accented English dialogue, "This is my idea and it happened while I was

Ixora show packs 'em in; Japanese students dine in style

The Sanford Civic Center was bulging at the beams with activity on March 12 when the Ixora Garden Club staged its annual Home and Garden Show. A steady crowd browsed through the civic center which was alive with arts, crafts and plants.

"It was a wonderful show," Judy Wimbish said.

Under the command of Sally Rosemond, 350 tickets were up for grabs for the luncheon and all 350 were sold. Sally prepared the lunch which was served on a plastic tray with a cover. Patrons were served London Broil on a croissant, a cup of salad, mint brownies and a beverage.

One interesting feature was "Grandma's Garden," where members brought clippings from favorite plants that had been handed down to them. The Horticulture section also drew a large crowd of patrons when beautiful plants were sold at bargain prices.

Nancy Rape was chairman of Ixora's Kitchen where pies, cakes, brownies, breads and jellies were sold.

Laura Parker was in charge of bringing the artisans and craftsmen to the event. Richard Forbes came all the way from California with his collection of silver jewelry. Other crafts featured dried floral arrangements, baskets, wood work, quilts, and quilted jackets among others.

Ixora's cookbook

Speaking of Ixora Garden Club, the members are always busy, and this time it's a cookbook. The club has compiled a perfectly delightful cookbook, "Ixora Garden Club Entertains," featuring elegant and appetizing specialties of the club members who are renowned for their gracious hospitality and culinary expertise.

Talented Molly Bush Pflueger has illustrated the colorful book with her artistic creations and it is unusual. The spiral cookbook is priced at $10 each and may be purchased from any Ixora Garden Club member or by calling Rose Long, club president.

Proceeds from the sale will revert back to the community, just as all of Ixora's benefits have in the past.

Japanese students visit

Thirteen Japanese exchange

students are currently in Sanford where they are sponsored by the First United Methodist Church under Barbara Spragg. The students study at the church in the mornings and then take field trips in the afternoon to such enchanting places as Disney World, etc.

The charming visitors are all from Japanese universities and are staying in Sanford homes where they are being introduced to American culture. They love it!

They were recently entertained at an authentic Japanese meal to offset some of the homesickness they might incur. The superbly delicious meal was prepared by Mari Briggs of Sanford, a charming Japanese lady who married an American GI, Robert Briggs.

Mari prepared a wide variety of Japanese foods including Chirashi, Soy Bean Soup With Turnips, Buta Maza (vegetables and pork), Spring Roll (different vegetables with meat, spices and spicy mustard), Takuwan (Japanese pickles), Sunomoro, Steamed Rice, Pork Bowl, Whole Fish Teriyaki, fruit platter, Green Tea, cola and American Boston Cream Strawberry Cake for dessert.

About 18, including the minister, Cliff Melvin, wholeheartedly savored the exotic Japanese cuisine.

WEDDING

Dr. and Mrs. Kevin Huaman

Shannon Mate, Dr. K.A. Huaman exchange vows

SAFETY HARBOR — Shannon Marie Mate and Dr. Kevin Antonio Huaman are announcing their marriage today. They were married Nov. 20, 1992, 7 p.m., at Espirito Santo Catholic Church, Safety Harbor. Father Eric Peters performed the traditional Catholic ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Robert S. Mate of Palm Harbor. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Gonzalo Huaman of Sanford.

The bride chose for her vows a formal white satin gown with a Victorian neckline, fitted bodice and a cathedral-length train accented with pearls and sequins. She wore a pearl crown with tulle veiling and she carried a bouquet of white lilies, roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Mudy Mejido of Gainesville, served as maid of honor and Barbara Vermoast of Gainesville was matron of honor. They wore black dresses with white bows trimmed with rhinestones.

They carried bouquets of white roses and carnations with gold accents.

Bridesmaids were Susana Huaman of Sanford, sister of the groom; Alicia Huaman, New York City, sister of the groom; and Jeanne Marie Pinto, King of Prussia, Pa., cousin of the bride.

Dr. Gonzalo Huaman, father of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Groomsmen were Mark Huaman, Sanford, brother of the groom; Sydney Speer, Sanford; Dr. Claude Hearn, Winter Park; and Irving Watson, Winter Park.

Colin Pinto of Harleyville, Pa. served as ring bearer. Following the ceremony, a dinner reception was held at Safety Harbor Resort, Safety Harbor.

After a wedding trip to Maui, Hawaii, the newlyweds are making their home in Gainesville. The bride is a student at the University of Florida, College of Dentistry. The groom is a general dentist in private practice.

Elks observe 69th anniversary

The celebration of the 69th anniversary of Evergreen Temple No. 321 Improved Benevolent Protective Order of Elks of the World, and the 16th observance of Elks Awareness Day, a celebration and community awareness day recently took place.

The Trinity United Methodist Church was filled on last Sunday, March 14, at 11 a.m. with worshipers who helped with the celebration when love and concern greeted the parishioners at the door.

The morning's worship service was presided over by Daughter Lura Thomas. The responsive reading was led by District Deputy Gwinda Thomas. Words of welcome were given by Daughter Beverly S. Mitchell. The beautiful voice of Daughter Betty Clements, the Florida State Association songbird, rendered two spiritual selections that touched the souls of the congregation.

A special memorial to the deceased daughter was directed by Daughter Elaine Crumity with soloist Kaylla Givens singing the lovely rendition of "His Eye is on the Sparrow."

The speaker of the hour was introduced by Samuel Sims of Ocala, a friend and former member of the Rev. Eddie J. Rivers, Jr., pastor of Trinity United Methodist Church. His message was the theme "The Gospel According to the Little Red Hen." He urged the congregation "to work while it is day, for no man can work while it is night."

Highlighting the celebration was the award to the daughter who was chosen Daughter Elk of 1993 by Daughter Ruler Carletha Merckerson. The winner announced was Daughter Katie R. Burke, a dedicated member, who has been active for over 25 years. The award to the Brother Elk of 1993 was presented to Brother Bruce Scott for his outstanding service to the lodge by Brother Bernard Mitchell, exalted ruler of Celery City Lodge No. 542. State president of the Florida State Temple Daughter Daisy Brunson and all visiting members from other temples and lodges were introduced.

District Deputy Gwinda Thomas, Brother Bruce Scott, Daughter Katie Burke, District Deputy Ruben Larkin and State President Daisy Brunson.

The dismissal blessing was given by Dr. Eddie J. Rivers. Ushers for the celebration were members of Sweet Harmony Chapter No. 388 Order of Eastern Star. Eartha McIton is worthy matron.

Jazz concert

The Central Florida Jazz Society presents Rick Fay and The Windy City Seven. Fay, a marvelous tenor and soprano sax player, will present the Windy City Seven in a concert of Chicago-style jazz. Featured will be guest artist Tom Pletcher, a Michigan-based trumpet player with a style reminiscent of Bix Beiderbeck.

The concert will honor President Bill Clinton with an honorary lifetime membership in the CFJS as the First Citizen of Jazz.

began to take shape. Over the past four years her dance technique program has expanded to three dance classes including the dance team, while still teaching two math classes.

Maguire explained, "A lot of kids can't afford dance classes and as many don't know what abilities they have in dancing so they can start out in an atmosphere that they test their abilities. I try to teach, not just the dancing, things like posture and believing in yourself. When they first walk in they usually don't know anything about dancing unless they have been through a studio class."

"I try to teach them a little bit better physical awareness. You know you got to take care of your muscles. A lot of kids just don't exercise like they should. Later on in life I think it does them a disservice because they are out of shape and they don't know how to fix it. So I try to make them aware of how to warm up their muscles, flexibility, how to walk into a room with a little bit of an air and posture," she said.

The dance team has become almost like a 24-hour job. With all the organization, choreography, costuming, and looking for contributions to help the team in many of its exhibitions it has become a true commitment for both the director and the girls on the team.

Maguire added, "It is not so much I look for good dancers. I can train them to be good dancers. I am looking for spirit and dedication. You know you don't give up after the first try. When you first start to dance everything is new and I don't know of anyone that is good when they first start to dance. You just don't know enough to be good. If they can get through the critical period when I have to tell them, no, this is wrong and that is wrong, work harder on this, you have to become more flexible because of high kicks and splits. If they can work through all that they find that they can do almost anything they set their mind to do. Those girls who get through all that usually become the core of the dance team."

The Ballet Guild anniversary

show will feature many of the past dancers from the guild's 25-year history. The directors of the Seminole High School Dazzlers and the Lake Mary High School Marionettes will both be dancing in the silver anniversary extravaganza for the first time since they left the guild almost 20 years ago.

This year has been a true learning year for Maguire. After 10 years of dancing she realized she had given a lot out but was never being resupplied back. No one was telling her what she was doing wrong or she wasn't hearing from anyone the proper way of doing things. She was experiencing a form of burnout.

Since the beginning of the year and as busy as she has been teaching at school and then heading to the studio in the evenings for dance classes, she has been tired as tired can be. The classes and the guild performance have given her a rejuvenation that she has thoroughly enjoyed.

The anniversary show will be held at the Lake Mary High School auditorium April 24 and 25.

ENGAGEMENT

Jodi Norton engaged to marry Shane Wynn

SANFORD — David and Kathy Norton, of Sanford, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jodi Renee, to Shane Allen Wynn, son of Robert and Sue Wynn of Lake Helen.

Born in Jacksonville, the bride-elect is the maternal granddaughter of Jesse and Gladys Griffin of Jacksonville and the paternal granddaughter of Lester and Margaret Norton, Jacksonville.

Miss Norton is a 1990 graduate of Deltona Christian School, Deltona, where she was class valedictorian. She was a member of the varsity volleyball team. She attended Tabernacle Baptist Bible College, Greenville, S.C., and is presently employed as secretary for the Allen Financial Group, Orange City. Her fiance, born in DeLand, is the maternal grandson of Mrs. Ora B. Hollingsworth and the paternal grandson of Mrs. Ruth Wynn, both of Bartow.

Wynn is a 1990 graduate of Deltona Christian School where he was class salutatorian and participated in varsity basketball. He attended Tabernacle Baptist Bible College, Greenville, S.C. and is presently attending Landmark Baptist Bible College, Haines City. Wynn is currently employed by Swaggerty Surveying.

The wedding will be an event of Aug. 7, 1993, 2 p.m., Countryside Baptist Church, Lake Mary.

Fashionscape set

Guests at Friday's (March 26) "Fashionscape," the unique fashion show using historic downtown Sanford as a stage, will be greeted by a strolling musician while the models will be escorted by a policeman in turn-of-the-century garb that matches the background.

Set for 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., the spring event will be held in Magnolia Square where guests will partake of a gourmet box lunch in an outdoor cafe setting. The caterer, Soup to Nuts on the Square, will provide salads, beverages and dessert in a festive presentation.

"Round the Clock" fashions will be, literally, shown around Sanford's historic clock by Lois' Place, Forever Fashions, Bigger and Better, Knights Shoe Store and Vincent Jewelers. Shoin, the photographer, will be on hand to catch the ladies in their spring outfits.

To give additional color, there will be stalls of antiques for sale from Delightful Finds, Antique Station, Remember, and Granny Annies complete with attendants in Victorian costumes. Also, there will be booths of flowers, plants and produce.

Committee members include Dec Terranova, Lois Dycus, Barbara Watson, Sharon Konig, Kathy and Sammie Smart, Debbie Keefe, Kay Bartholomew, Kit Thompson and Tim Donahoe.

Tickets are $9.50 which includes numerous prizes and the lunch.

Sponsored by the St. Lucia Festival organization and the Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association (SHDWA), proceeds will help purchase period costumes for Sanford's Historic Walking Tour.

For information and tickets call First Street Gallery, 323-9178, or contact Sanford's downtown merchants.

and Cliff Gustavson were given the green carpet treatment on March 17 at the Sanora clubhouse when the Gustavsons entertained at a traditional St. Patrick's Day party.

About 80 friends gathered to break bread - the Irish way — with gobs of corned beef and cabbage plus chocolate cream tart topped with creme de menthe, prepared by the hostess.

Tim Donahoe decked the halls in true Irish fashion. A large piece of driftwood enhanced with Savoy cabbage and Queen Anne's Lace and Bells of Ireland graced the main serving table. Each table was centered with Savoy cabbage and the same flowers. An arrangement of Irish potatoes was featured at the entrance and four white pedestals in one corner held cascading arrangements.

It was a night for the wearing of the green. A band member showed up wearing green hair and Boo and Fred Ganas wore matching green derbys.

Some even dared to try dancing an Irish jig to the music of Bill Arnold and everybody joined in singing those nostalgic old Irish tunes.

"Oh, we had a good time," Charlotte said.

In the meantime, auld acquaintances are still raving over the evening.

Assisting the hosts were: Kit Thompson, Betsy Harkness, Janie Myers and Diane Magner.

ACS fashion show

The Sanford-Lake Mary Board of the American Cancer Society will present a luncheon and fashion show on Wednesday, March 31, at the Alaqua Country Club. A reception begins at 11 a.m., followed by luncheon and a fashion show by Jacobson's at noon.

A former Sanfordite and model, Martha Lyle, will return to model in the show.

Reservations, at $30 each, are limited. Please contact Judy Wimbleah.

Hospital reunion

Calling all former 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. (graveyard shift) employees of the old Seminole Memorial Hospital.

You will be honored at a picnic on May 1, at 11 a.m., at the Lee P. Moore Park in Sanford.

Mom mourns over son's DUI death

DEAR ABBY: On March 18, 1990, the Tri-City Herald in Pasco-Kennebec-Richland in Washington state ran your column in which "Please God, I'm Only 17" appeared. On the other side of the page was my son's obituary. He was 16. His name was Zachary Hiner. He was a popular high-school sophomore, outstanding in sports, with plans for college.

Zak made the decision to drink and drive that night, and consequently, I faced every parent's nightmare — a call at midnight from a hospital, advising me that my son had been in an accident. I rushed to the hospital to see that beautiful athletic body — broken neck, his head awash in towels to hide the massive head injuries. I touched his hand. It was cold and gray.

Abby, this letter has sat in my computer for nearly three years. Just writing it has helped me a lot.

for the bus. I remember how I wheeled the car out of Mom. "Special favor," I pleaded. "All the kids drive."

When the 2:50 bell rang, I threw all my books in the locker. I was free until 8:40 tomorrow morning! I ran to the parking lot, excited at the thought of driving a car and being my own boss. Free!

It doesn't matter how the accident happened. I was goofing off — going too fast. Taking crazy chances. But I was enjoying my freedom and having fun. The last thing I remember was passing an old lady who seemed to be going awfully slow. I heard the deafening crash and felt a terrible jolt. Glass and steel flew everywhere. My whole body seemed to be turning inside out. I heard myself scream.

Suddenly I awakened. It was very quiet. A police officer was standing over me. Then I saw a doctor. My body was mangled. I was saturated with blood. Pieces of jagged glass were sticking out all over. Strange that I couldn't feel anything.

Hey, don't pull that sheet over my head! I can't be dead. I'm only 17. I've got a date tonight. I'm supposed to grow up and have a wonderful life. I haven't lived yet. I can't be dead.

Later I was placed in a drawer. My folks had to identify me. Why did they have to look at Mom's eyes when she faced the most terrible ordeal of her life? Dad suddenly looked like an old man. He told the man in charge, "Yes, he is my son."

The funeral was a weird experience. I saw all my relatives and friends walk toward the casket. They passed by, one by one, and looked at me with the saddest eyes I've ever seen. Some of my buddies were crying. A few of the girls touched my hand and sobbed as they walked away.

Please — somebody — wake me up! Get me out of here! I can't bear to see my mom and dad so broken up. My grandparents are so racked with grief they can hardly walk. My brothers and sisters are like zombies. They move like robots. In a day, everybody. No one can believe this. And I can't believe it, either.

Please don't bury me! I'm not dead! I have a lot of living to do! I want to laugh and run again. I want to sing and dance. Please don't put me in the ground. I promise if you give me one more chance, God, I'll be the most careful driver in the whole world. All I want is one more chance!

Please God, I'm only 17!

Civic League to host annual 'Old Timers' get-together

The Longwood Civic League Women's Club will have its annual "Old Timers" get-together on Sunday, Mar. 28, between 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. All area residents are invited to attend the function which will be held at the club building located at 150 W. their community. The girls made a commitment to clean up and beautify Candyland Park in Longwood. The project included weeding the grounds and doing new plantings on February 21, 1993. This project required a true spirit of civic pride and concern for their city. The girls deserve praise and gratitude from local residents.

Story published

Blondine L. Reddick of Longwood will have a short story published in "Top Ten Short Stories of 1993." Her story was one of approximately 500 entries in the short story contest sponsored by the American Literary Press. The anthology containing her story is scheduled for release early this spring.

Scouts clean up park

The Dream Finders, the 300-member unit of the Citrus Council of Girl Scouts, have made a positive contribution to working in Canada. I go to this company to do this kind of picture book he was explaining his idea as he was showing a book he had published. They didn't listen for about three or four years. They forgot. Suddenly some television show came on, "Green Gables." The show dealt with many aspects of nature. The producer of the show remembered my book that I had put together and he called me up. "Shoin, you got to go to Canada because of television show going to be there." Then I went over there, to Canada. I photographed everything. I developed this idea, how to make this photo book."

The picture book of the beautiful flowers and foliage of Canada was finished out in Japanese and has been a very popular seller.

Fukul has recently presented a photo documentary at the Crede School of Art in Winter Park. The program explored the technical and aesthetic considerations of one of his dynamic projects.

Darwin, Calif., a small desert town, which many years ago was considered to be a boomtown, but now is very desolate with just a very few residents, was featured. Fukul first visited the town about 10 years ago and took many pictures of the town, its residents and many of the leftover buildings built during the Depression years. He has visited the town several times in the past 10 years, going back to talk with the residents and take pictures. He has obtained the history of many of the residents and everytime he returns he looks them up to continue the documentation.

Darwin, at one time in the 1880s, was a thriving metropolis of 5,000 residents and approximately 20 saloons. His pictures were the subject of two exhibitions. One at First Street Gallery in Sanford and one in Japan.

Fukul is also doing volunteer work in the community. He has been spending time teaching a photography class, once a week, at the West Side Boys and Girls Club. He seems to get a big thrill out of working with the youngsters in what he considers to be a very interesting career of the future.

Fukul received his degree in film from Columbia College, Los Angeles. He has worked as a reporter and photographer for several Japanese magazines and on assignment for NHK (Japan Broadcasting Corporation). He has done many assignments in the fashion world including many Hollywood stars and starlets. The most noted is the assignment he did with Cheryl Ladd.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your greatest asset today is your ability to make people with whom you're involved feel important. This will automatically evoke a response from them, and in turn, you will feel appreciated.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Situations where you are motivated by self-gain should work out quite well for you today. Even though you'll be looking out for No. 1, you'll do so in an unobjectionable way.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Action and determination are essential to your success today. Instead of wasting time worrying about whether your ideas will work, put them to the test.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You've been waiting for something that has been delayed through an intermediary. This person has had a change of heart and will begin working with you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) People who tend to drag their feet could make you feel very uncomfortable today. Seek associations with individuals who are as energetic as yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your determination to succeed is your strongest asset today. Once this force is aroused, objectives you establish become attainable.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Teaching inexperienced bridge players is a haphazard occupation. It is good to see their progress, but they are extraordinary at finding strange twists in deals that look so straightforward to the more experienced eye.

I received an unexpected surprise from today's deal. As you can see from the auction, I teach what I preach: limit raises. They are more logical than forcing raises; they are much easier to comprehend.

West leads the diamond king. The first point is that East should play the jack. Unless this is from shortage, it guarantees the 10. True, there is some chance of East's having a singleton or doubleton diamond, but it's not likely.

Declarer, wishing to avoid a heart lead from East, should duck his ace. South wins the diamond continuation, enters dummy with a club and takes a spade finesse, which loses. In a moment, he draws the last trump, discards a heart loser on dummy's fourth club and makes his game.

If South wins trick one with the diamond ace, he should go down. When West gets in with the spade king, he underleads his diamond queen to East's 10. Now the heart queen through declarer generates four tricks for the defense.

Both these possibilities occurred in my class. However, at one table South introduced a variation I hadn't considered. After winning trick one with the diamond ace, she led a low spade from hand.

West, thinking his partner must have the spade ace, played low. Suddenly no spade loser, suddenly an overtrick! Out of the hands...
