For the Name of a Product which is Best Suited for Manufacture in Florida

THE FLORIDA INDUSTRIAL CONTEST--

Herald of an Incoming Tide of Industry and Manufacture

SOMEWHERE there is someone who knows, or can find, what product is best suited for manufacture in the state of Florida!

Ten thousand dollars in cash will be paid that person for his ideal!

Ten thousand dollars more are to be distributed to the public for other good suggestions as to what products should be manufactured in the southernmost state!

The Florida Society of America, sponsors of the Florida Industrial Contest, wants to know what these projects are. The Society, through its founder and president, Joseph W. Young, has set aside the grand sum of $20,000 as cash rewards for those who will help to find the solution to this problem.

The Florida Industrial Contest has been inaugurated by the Florida Society as a guiding beacon to the assured industrial progress of the state.

Florida, it is agreed, is destined to become one of the most important centers of industrial activities, manufacturing, and commerce in the world. Its progress in this direction has been retarded for the reason that Florida has been known chiefly as a winter resort state . . . . But the awakening has come. Florida is not for the new alone—it is for the multitudes! It is now making room for Industry and Industry's partner—the Working Man . . . .

The Florida Society of America believes that the assured industrial growth of the state should be carefully fostered and not permitted to grow up in haphazard manner; that every new manufacturing industry should be chosen with an especial eye to the advantages which may accrue from the manufacture of that particular commodity.

What, then, above all other things, should be manufactured in Florida?

You may know the answer—or a little effort may give you the information necessary to find it.

Everybody, everywhere, is eligible to compete in the Florida Industrial competition.

Your opportunity to name the prize winning product and inherit a cash fortune is equal to that of any other person.

You often have thought: "How I would like to find a fortune!"

You may find it here . . . It's worth your try.

To better consider the problem from all angles you will need complete information about Florida and its possibilities.

This information, together with detailed explanation of the Florida Industrial Contest, the rules and the list of prizes, will be mailed you FREE and WITHOUT OBLIGATION upon receipt of the attached coupon, properly filled out.

CHURCH COUNCIL REPORT SHOWS 16 LYNCHING IN 1924

Thirty-Eight States Placed On Honor Roll During Year; Smallest Number Lynched In Years Record Has Been

WASHINGTON, Mar. 17.—"Let the churches cry aloud for a lawless land in 1924," says the statement of the Federal Council of Churches, announcing its third annual non-lynching roll of honor. Thirty-eight states earned places on the roll of honor by being free from lynchings last year, according to a statement issued by the Council's Commission on Race Relations Tuesday. The definition of lynching is taken up in the statement.

Ten states—one more than last year—"bore the black shame of lynchings." Though one more than that had lynchings than in 1923, the number of mob murders was cut in half. Leaders point out, however, that four lynchings have been recorded so far in 1925, and that there must be increased efforts on the part of the churches and governmental authorities against this type of lawlessness.

Three new states appear on the honor roll this year: Arkansas, Oklahoma and Virginia. The names of four states have been removed because of one lynching in each during the year. They are Illinois and Kentucky, which had been free from lynchings for two years, and South Carolina and Tennessee which had a clear record in 1923.

This shows, according to officials of the commission, that the abolition of lynching can be achieved. The number of victims of lynching in 1924 was 16, the lowest number since records of the evil have been kept, according to a statement in a pamphlet by Prof. Monroe M. Work, of Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Alabama, soon to be published by the Commission on Race Relations.

"The next lowest numbers," says the statement, "were in 1917, when the total number of victims was 33 and in 1923 when the total number was 32. The highest number was 255 in 1892. In 1924, however, there were lynchings in 10 states as compared with such atrocities in 9 states in 1923.

"The third annual honor roll of states free from a lynching in 1924 is as follows:

States that have never had a record of a lynching: Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont.

Additional states that have no record of a lynching since 1899: Connecticut, Maine, New Jersey and Utah.

Additional states which have no record of a lynching during the past 10 years: Delaware, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Maryland, Michigan, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Additional states which have no record of a lynching in the past five years: Arizona, Colorado, Montana, Nebraska, New York, Washington and Wyoming.

Additional states which have no record of a lynching in the past two years: Alabama, California, Kansas, Minnesota, North Carolina, Ohio and West Virginia.

Additional states which have no record of a lynching during 1924: Arkansas, Oklahoma and Virginia.

Total states free from a lynching in 1924: 38. Total states still having lynchings: 10; Total states free from lynching in 1923: 39.

U. S. Fondness For Chocolate Candies Brings Much Prosperity To Ecuador

NEW YORK, Mar. 17.—Ecuador is making a complete commercial come-back, the Foreign Trade Council reports, wholly because of the popularity in the United States of chocolate-covered ice cream confections.

The sudden vogue here for ice cream served in a chocolate jacket, the council says, placed chocolate overnight at a new premium the world over. This re-established the demand for Ecuador's staple agricultural product, cacao, from which the highest grade bitter chocolate comes, and lifted that country out of financial depression.

The chocolate boom, the council says, proved lucky for the United States as well as Ecuador, for it restored to the former one of its good customers of five years ago. Commerce between countries being a simple matter of give and take, Ecuador is now spending its chocolate money freely here again, notably for our player pianos.

That Ecuador "plays" when, as and if, the United States "eats" does not constitute a comparison of tastes in the two countries, the council adds, so much as it reveals anew that foreign trade, after all, is pretty human.

Confectioners in the United States prefer the Ecuador grade of bitter chocolate both for its flavor and because it takes a lot of sugar, and thus enables them to market their sugar at the higher price of candy, according to the council.

Ecuador's principal competitor is the Congo, but the African cacao is called milder and is said to run second with the candy trade. When the World War shut off deep sea transportation the Congo's output was blockaded, to the advantage of Ecuador, but it meanwhile piled up in such volume that when ocean communication was opened again after the war it came in a flood and broke the market. Ecuador found its own cacao selling at a loss or not at all, and trade there was brought to a temporary standstill.

In 1920, before the break came, figures show that Ecuador was selling its products in the United States at an annual rate of $12,244,000, which gave it the money to buy American products at a rate of $14,480,000. The mutual effect of the slump there was shown in figures for 1921, when Ecuador's exports to the United States fell almost 75 per cent to only $3,541,000, and its imports dropped more than 67 per cent, to $5,280,000.

Huge Tract Is Sold To Syndicate For Sum Near $500,000

At a consideration declared to be around $500,000, 1,880 acres of land, some of which lies around the Municipal Golf Links and another part of which lies on Geneva Avenue near the cemetery while the remainder extends as far as Paola and from Twin Lake along the county line to Lake Ada, was sold recently to an East Coast syndicate. The deal was negotiated through a Palatka real estate firm. The property was owned by a Minnesotan whose name was not divulged.

On the land are situated a number of lakes while the nature of the soil makes suitable for both citrus fruits and truck farming. A portion is declared to be suitable for subdividing where the tract adjoins Sanford and some of the smaller towns of the county. The purchasers declined to make any statement as to their plans for development of the tract.

A Hint for Beginners

The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded step to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded step below.

Breaks of Noted Disasters

UNAWAY houses, pursued and recaptured by swift motor boats; children afloat on a mattress blown big into a tree; a square-headed man jammed head first into a water pitcher; herds of cattle across a wide bay; a field of corn completely mowed by flying debris.

These are some of the authentic breaks of disasters. They will seem incredible to those who have not seen through the unforgettable scenes of a tornado, hurricane or cyclone. Some of the strangest phenomena on record have resulted from tornadoes, those gigantic derisives of the sky whose force throws buildings about as if they were pebbles.

The administration of the relief following all major disasters in recent years, workers of the American Red Cross have witnessed the strangest of happenings as a result of the unleashing of nature's mighty forces. Often these are the first outside aid workers to arrive and are the first to witness the events that seem rightfully to belong in the realm of fiction.

One of the strange happenings recounted in this narrative has been directly witnessed by Red Cross Relief Workers on the banks of the Mississippi river. A large herd of cattle, 22 steers were blown across Coral Bay and into a pasture on the opposite side. They were found lying dead in a row some distance inland from the water. In a demolished village on the shores of the bay, a Red Cross field representative tells of a native family with eleven children whose home had been completely destroyed. When it became light enough to count the children two were found to be missing and were later found, still asleep, on their mattress, which had been blown high into a tree.

"Anything can happen during a cyclone or tornado," is the expressed belief of Red Cross Disaster Relief workers. Their years of experience in the field corroborate later make them think nothing possible. During a series of cyclonic storms that ravaged several Southern states in the Fall of 1923 one family in a small town in South Carolina saw the ominous funnel-shaped cloud coming. Locking arms, they threw themselves face downward on the bed in their small cabin. The tornado struck with a fearful roar. A few moments later the covering figures felt a heavy jar, followed by silence. Gathering courage they stood up and looked about them. The roof and sides of the house were gone. Nothing was left but the floor upon which they stood. Investigating further, they found that they were nearly a quarter of a mile away from the site of their home. The tornado had carried away the floor supporting them and the bed, and dropped the whole business in an apple orchard.

In the National Museum in Washington is the trunk of a tree that had been completely severed by rifle bullets fired during one of the great battles of the Civil War. People are frequently amazed by the peculiar way in which tornadoes destroy trees, which are not uprooted, as one would imagine, but twisted off a few feet above the ground. This undoubtedly is due to the rotary motion of the funnel-shaped cloud, which, revolving at terrific speed, grinds up everything in its path and then discharges. Authentic instances are on record of the chamber of Commerce at Hups, Ark., has as a relic the trunk of a large tree nearly severed by a piece of flying tin as large as a telephone book.

Outside of a small town in Texas a stand of corn, covering nearly 30 acres, was mowed down, not by the tornado itself, but by sheets of whirling iron hurled out of a wrecked hardware store nearly half a mile away.

At Texarkana, Texas, a cyclone drove a piece of four inch water pipe through the neck of a horse making a clean cut hole through which a person could look through to the other side. Despite the injury the horse lived for three days. Sometimes, though it must be admitted, not often, a disaster is not an unmitigated tragedy. Occasionally, it replaces in kind what it has taken away. Witness a flood at Burlington, Kansas, which picked up a fine new garage and carried it far down stream, only to bring another one from up the river and lay it in the back yard almost on the very site of its lost companion. A similar occurrence took place during the Lorain tornado, which picked up and threw into Lake Erie a touring car parked by its owner in an adjoining lot, and by way of compensation presented him with a nearly new sedan. During a Kansas flood a dry goods dealer had practically his entire stock ruined by flood waters 14 feet deep. In an ironic gesture of reparation the swirling waters washed a popcorn stand through the plate glass win-entire upper part of the house fell in on them. Rescuers were astonished to hear their cries emerging from the hopeless ruins of their home. But what was the amazement of a Red Cross volunteer to find that father, mother and son were practically unscathed! When the storm first struck, the three had taken refuge under the baby grand piano, but this capsize, in falling, however, it was checked by the piano stool, the whole making a pyramid which successfully turned aside the falling wreckage. Except for being nearly suffocated by dust from broken plaster, the family was practically unhurt.

The "psychological moment" figured in saving from a terrible death a woman in the same tornado-swept town. When her house began to rock under the force of the twister, she said to her husband: "I must get Johnny to a safe place." Stooping over to pick up the child, who was playing on the floor with a toy, she stepped a section of brick chim-

PALESTRINA BE HONORED IN CITIZENS ROOM

Sacred Music Concerts to Honor Memory of Father of Musical Nomenclature

ROME, Mar. 17.—The fourth anniversary of the birth in 1755 of Giovanni Pierluigi da Palestrina, the father of modern musical nomenclature and composer of the most magnificent amount of the most magnificent sacred music of the Roman Catholic church, is being celebrated this year in Rome and is being made the occasion for the rendition for the first time of many little known non-religious works of the great master.

Although Palestrina's sacred music is universally known, almost nothing has been known of his profane music, of which he left about 200 madrigals and canzoni. Since the "vocal orchestra" record to exist as no copies of "Instrumentation" his profane music has existed. Of the entire body of his work, Richard Wagner published a first edition in Germany, but, after such Italian musicians as Alberto Cametti, Monsignor Casimiri, Giovanni Tebaldiri and Domenico Taleona had pointed out that the German edition was very faulty the work of compiling a complete edition was undertaken in Italy. This, it is stated, will be ready some time during the current year.

The first of a series of commemorative concerts took place recently at the Royal Academy of Santa Cecilia under the direction of Domenico Taleona, who had copied from the original manuscripts the works included in the program. The magnitude of the task successfully accomplished by Taleona is easily seen when it is remembered that the original works were written with uniform notes without any indications of movement, color or expression. The program included a canzone to the words of Petrarch's "chiara fresche dolci acque," and a madrigal written on the occasion of the battle of Lepanto in 1571 when the united Christian armies defeated the Turks.

M STAR SUES PARTNER FOR $103,000

Glum Seeks to Make Her Last Deal, Pay Note on Venture Goes on Rocks

YORK, Mar. 17.—The venture of Miss Glum, motion picture producer, into the production of the motion picture business, led to the filing of a suit in supreme court Monday, by J. Parker Read Jr., who she claims she was in several instances in which she started in the direction, Miss Glum to recover $103,000 from who is now in France.

Several motion picture production agencies handling of Read's films, to tie up all which may be due him or her.

A summary note is being brought to compel the return of a promissory note Read in Miss Glum's favor on $100,000 in Los Angeles, according to the note was accepted by Glum as security to cover and a share in the profits of the pictures, in accordance with partnership agreement between her and the producer.

Read now lives in Paris. The producer has expressed intention of making his permanent home in France. Miss Glum's attorney said Read went to Paris in October, 1922, when she was seeking to sell her share in the Hotel des Arts, which she had seen in letters written by Read to her in London, an author's agent, in which he said he intended to leave France. Gerald Duffly was engaged in producing a motion picture in France. Read a short time ago, and told him he was never coming to the United States.

The photographs produced by Read, starring Miss Glum, was taken at Rose Bonheur Villa, Spay, N. Y.

Bull Production In Seminole County Discussed At Meet

Any good fertilizer well adapted to potatoes should be good for bulbs of this kind he declared and the soil best suited appears to be low, moist, fertile, sandy loam. Plenty of fertilizer was declared necessary, but it is of more value when free from rawness.

When questioned in regard to tulips Dr. Griffiths stated he did not consider them easy to grow here and as to Hyacinths at all advised against plantings. Attempt to grow only one kind at a time was also advised by the speaker, especially if there be any similarity of the kinds.

Satisfied Industry Many Years

Dr. Griffiths is a horticulturist connected with the office of horticultural investigations, Bureau of Plant Industry of the government at Washington. He declared to be one of the best informed men in his field to which he has devoted many years of study.

From Sanford Dr. Griffiths goes to Deland where he will address a meeting of those of that section who are also interested in bulb growing.

Prior to the meeting at the court house last night the Sanford Chamber of Commerce had dinner served at the Country Club for the visitors from Deland, who came over to hear Dr. Griffiths' talk on bulb growing. Among those present were: Dr. David Griffiths of Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Nutting, Foster Barnes, A. N. Hull, W. J. Turrell, Ferdinand Rheinbold, V. T. Lofting, Charles Benton, Chas. L. Nasson, R. E. Leavelle, T. A. Brown, all of Deland, and B. F. Whitner Jr., of Sanford.

CAUTION

- Who are the cowards? No, not those who test the bridge before they cross.
- Who ask the traveler who knows, Consult the skies when billows toss.
- And watch the path they have to tread For dangers that may lie ahead.
- Who are the cowards? Fools who fear.
- The idle words of other fools— Who warning signals will not hear, Nor look for signs, nor seek for rules,
- For fear some other fool may call Precaution weakness after all.
- Who are the cowards? They who race To cross the railroad, when to pause May bring a sneer to someone's face.
- A face inclined to sneer at laws And judgment and the common sense Of wisdom and experience.
- Who are the cowards? Fools rush in, You know, where angels fear to tread—
- Yes, fearing censure, deeply sin And leave their monuments of dead.
- To prove what cowards men may be Who think themselves all bravery.
- These are the cowards. But the brave Are those who fear not folly's sneer.
- They are the ones who lives will save And live their own with conscient clear.
- Oh, this we need in every trade: Men brave enough to be afraid.
- By Douglas Malloch.
- A man isn't necessarily wild catting just because he's still.
- Warren should know now when enough's enough.
- Coolidge may ride a hobby horse but he is not late as often as Dawes is in his taxicab.
- Traffic regulations for the air are being discussed. Now all we need is hot air regulations.
- It doesn't make much difference whether you are a Democrat or a Republican; one can make about as dull a speech as the other.
- Well, they are even now. The Administration read certain senators out of the Republican party and certain senators read one of the Administration out of the cabinet.
- The trouble with a lot of people is they spend most of their lives making "U" turns.
- A man who plunges in real estate deserves a great deal of credit. In fact it is quite essential.
- General Mitchell is apparently trying for another altitude record.
- Sanford Herald. He had the army and navy departments up in the air with him for a while, anyhow.
- Ocala Star.
- In some places the folks spend so much time talking real estate that nobody has an opportunity to do any actual upbuilding for the city. Let's don't let Sanford get that way.
- The racing season is over in Miami and is declared an unequalled success. Now there is some talk of building race tracks at Tampa and Jacksonville. In the meantime what is the state of Florida going to do about it?

What Books, And Why?

What are the favorite books and magazines at your house? Or do you know?
When your son or daughter goes to the news-stand or the library for reading matter, what are the types of literature they seek? Or do you know?
If there were boxes of poison nicely camouflaged by decorations and labels so that they closely resembled breakfast foods and pancake flour, you would take some trouble to avoid having mixed with the supplies on your pantry shelves. You would be horrified at the idea of having a supply of typhoid fever germs placed in the refrigerator with the milk bottles. You understand poison and disease of that kind. But what of the poison and malignant germs in the books your folks are reading?

The Herald has a strong antipathy to namby-pamby, goody-goody books. Some of the most "moral" books ever written are so abominably untrue to life and so mawkishly put together, they are utterly unfit.
But a book must be clean. It must leave the reader in some degree better for having read it. It must not sow seeds that are to make crooked ideals and unworthiness.
In every community there should be people interested enough in sanitation to make a fight against the corruption found in magazines and books and dirty photoplays. Such people need not be censors. Censors are not wanted, nor needed, by free Americans. But they can be workers for decency who can deal directly with the distributors of unclean literature, and directly with the homes in which unfit literature is found.
And while these people are coming into use, take a look into the sort of literature enjoyed by your family. Just what do your folks read, and why?

Speed Motorists On Their Way

Florida motor clubs and good road committees of all Florida civic organizations should be especially active as the tourist season draws to a close. Thousands of Florida's guests are preparing to start home in their automobiles, and they should be accorded every aid possible in obtaining dependable information concerning the roads they are to encounter.
Especially should this information be unbiased by sectional pride or hostility. If there is a best way out of Florida, that best way should be advocated even by the people who live on the highways of the worst way out. The kindly thing, and the politic one, is to see to it that the visitors are speeded on their way with memories of a Florida that they want to see again.
In this effort to assist motorists to make their return trips with the maximum of comfort and safety, Florida newspapers should be supplied with brief statements concerning the condition of the several routes out of the state, and such information as is available relative to the condition of roads through Georgia.
Garages and filling stations and highway hotels should be provided with this information, and as reports come in regarding changing road conditions the reports should be corrected up to date.
Going out of Florida just now, which is the best route? How is the Jacksonville-Brunswick-Savannah route? What is the condition of the Jacksonville-Waycross road? What of the road between Lake City and Valdosta? Is the road from Lake City by way of Madison to Valhalla better than the road by way of White Springs and Jasper?
And the roads in Georgia? What reports are received from that state?
It can be readily seen that a vast amount of good service could be done for people who are leaving Florida for their homes, if some systematic way of obtaining and distributing information regarding road conditions were devised and put into use.
Travelers depending upon guide books published from data compiled months ago, or depending upon statements made by real estate promoters and home-town boosters who are working their section rather than for the comfort of the traveler, often have unpleasant experiences that could have been entirely avoided if accurate information had been available.
Tell the visitors the truth and get this truth in some dependable, businesslike way.

THE ISLE OF PINES TREATY
NEW YORK WORLD

If the Senate at any time within the last twenty years had been able to bring itself to vote on the Isle of Pines treaty it would probably have been ratified. In all that period there never was a day when the Administration, Republican or Democratic, or the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations had stood on record anywhere as favoring the rejection of the treaty. It had been entirely a question of dilatory methods or plain indifference rather than active hostility.
It was hardly to be expected when the Senate met last week after Mr. Coolidge's inauguration that it would find opportunity to resume discussion of the Isle of Pines treaty or to dispose of it for good. The habit of procrastination had grown upon it and the objections of a handful of members were given undue weight. But the moment the issue was presented to the Senate in precise form—to vote on the ratification of the treaty on a fixed day and to limit debate—it was quickly settled. And when the treaty was put to the final test of a vote only fourteen votes were recorded against it.
After twenty years' dilly-dallying in the Senate, the result must be more than satisfactory to the American people. They have watched the contest, or the game of obstruction played in certain quarters, more with disgust than patience. Any other decision than the Senate made would have been both grossly unjust to Cuba and dishonorable beyond repair to the United States. It has been a grave reproach that an act of good faith should be so slow of performance. It would have been an eternal disgrace if in the outcome the Senate had been false to the solemn pledges of the United States in entering the war with Spain in 1898.

WHITE HOUSE HUMOR
ASHEVILLE CITIZEN

Mr. Coolidge has expressed his well-considered opinion without cracking a smile. The Senate and House followers of La Follette, he solemnly avers, have been neither "disciplined" nor "punished". On the contrary, they are the happy and presumably gratified beneficiaries of absolutely fair play. They have not been relegated by swift and skilful appliances of the iron boot to the bottom of their committees, nor are they smarting and crying out under the sizzling touch of the molten steel of Republican leaders' scorn and contempt. Instead of barking dimly in the black night of denunciation, they are pamboling playfully on the green sward of that blooming spot, the obscurity where they belong.
Such, according to one of the President's spokesmen, is the White House opinion of the treatment awarded Mr. La Follette and his henchmen for having tried to beat regular Republicanism in the last elections. A Senator, Mr. Coolidge holds, is not "disciplined" or "punished" when he receives treatment that is the result of his "choosing not to affiliate with a certain party." And, he says, when a party is intrusted by the country with the business of putting certain principles into effect,

As Brisbane Sees It

Movies Today and in 1904. We Move Rapidly Here. Would Japan Fly? Why, No. Goodbye, Dear Old League.
BY ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright, 1925)

THIS is written in the early morning, at Los Angeles, where the moving pictures are made in the sunshine on the edge of the Pacific.
William Fox comes in to breakfast and to moralize about the rapid growth of anything that Americans take up in earnest.
In 1904 he entered the moving picture world in a small way—the only way—for it was then a very small world.

Twenty-one years ago the biggest moving picture ever made contained about 325 feet of film. It took three complete stories to eat up 1,000 feet of film. The "show" lasted thirteen or fourteen minutes. A little earlier, New York's Eden Musee, where works of famous murderers, Presidents, etc., delighted the crowd, the management amazed the public with a moving picture film 50 feet long. It showed a tree with the leaves actually blowing in the wind.
The public decided, however, that it was a "fake" like "Aesop the Chess Automaton" and that they rattled the screen to make the leaves move. Next came a magnificent, astounding film 100 feet long, showing ocean waves rolling in on the beach. The public was overwhelmed with amazement.

IN THOSE days the regular price paid the author of a moving picture story was $50. The producers felt that was enough the industry could not stand more. Now you couldn't buy a picture like "Ben Hur" for a million dollars, and to pay one hundred and fifty or two hundred thousand dollars for the right story is considered nothing.

Twenty-one years ago about 250,000 people went once a week to the moving pictures. The price of admission was usually five cents. Now between seventeen and twenty-two millions go to see the moving pictures regularly, and the prices run up to three dollars a seat. Enterprises grow rapidly in the United States when people become really interested.

HAVE YOU noticed the persistent propaganda about Japan's aircraft situation? One gentleman, a foreigner, assures you that Japan is really not interested in flying machines. She hasn't seventeen factories building them, only five factories.
Another individual, also foreign announces that Japan is not good at flying. In fact, for every airplane she builds, another airplane "crashes," destroying its crew.

THAT SEEMS just like Japan, quite in keeping with her traditional inefficiency to build machines and break them as fast as built.
A third individual inspired and "well informed," tells you that while Japan immediately after the war hired the best French and English fliers to teach young Japan to fly, that was all theoretical work. The Japanese really don't mean to take up flying in any big, practical way.

NOBODY accuses Japan of planning an attack on this or any other particular country. An attack on the United States in its present defenseless condition might gratify the attackers for a little while. Many American individuals and cities could easily be wiped out by a small flying fleet. But in the long run such an attack wouldn't pay.
IF THIS country were attacked through the air, and found as defenseless as it is now, even that desperate situation could be remedied. Those responsible for the country's defenseless condition would be dealt with at first, not too gently it is to be feared. And then ways would be found to fight back effectively.
The interesting question is who and what is behind this propaganda concerning Japan's indifference to aircraft building? Who wants the United States to remain asleep?

NOTHING could exceed the folly of this nation, neglecting air defense, upon which all other civilized nations are now concentrating with intense earnestness.
But Providence takes care of fools, national and individual.
And the aircraft work that the nation has not had brains to do for itself will be done by the two Fords, Henry and Edsel, and luckily for this country those men know how to build.

ENGLAND has rejected the League of Nations peace protocol, and that memorable league becomes now a memory and a hollow shell.
Austen Chamberlain, summing up the whole policy of the British Empire in two words, "British security," seems to have settled the suggestion that one nation should agree to conscript its men and money at the demand of another nation.

WITH THE peace protocol disappears also the rather flimsy League of Nations scheme plan of general disarmament.
Such a scheme was preposterous, for while sweet theorists were talking at Geneva, the nations were building fighting machinery and financing the fighting plans of smaller nations around them to the tune of billions.

EUROPE'S nations now decide against compulsory arbitration, as the labor unions of this country did long ago.
It is fortunate that Woodrow Wilson, returning from Europe with the conviction that he was destined to solve the world's problems and use the United States

NEWSPAPER ETHICS
DAYTONA JOURNAL

Into every newspaper office there drifts rumors of affairs that would mean big news—rumors of business deals in course of consummation, rumors of big development or building programs being outlined. The reputable newspaper investigates these rumors and interviews the interested parties. They are often advised that the story is not ready for publication—that publication at an inopportune time might hamper negotiations, might embarrass the parties directly interested.
Reluctantly the reputable newspaper respects the requests of the people to whom the story belongs—whose right it is to give it out. Often they are beaten on the story by reason of their newspaper ethics. But they have not brought discretion upon the profession.

The safest way in the world to keep a story out of print is to go to the reputable newspaper, tell the story and then request that it not be published until released, giving the reasons for withholding it from publication. No newspaper has a right to embarrass any one by premature publication of a news item that should properly come from interested parties.
The Morning Journal never violates a confidence, never publishes a story until the interested parties release it. It never will, because it is a dishonorable and unethical thing to do.

WHY ADVERTISE
WAYCROSS JOURNAL HERALD

The Southern Bell Telephone Company answers this question by saying:
"To reach you quick and economically with our message, in the interest of efficient and continuous public service to preserve cordial relations with you."
This is a compact answer including these reasons:
Rapidity of communication.
Economy of communication.
Securing of cooperation.
Cordial relations.
All four of these reasons for advertising deserve careful attention. In a big city the afternoon paper comes off at one o'clock. By seven o'clock the various afternoon editions are in the hands of thousands of readers—the circulation frequently running from thirty to sixty thousand.
By what other method could an advertiser place his message in so many homes so rapidly?

There is no question whatever about the economy of this method of communication. No advertiser has been able with "direct" advertising to duplicate the prices charged by the newspapers for display ads. The third reason applies particularly to public services corporations such as telephones and railroads.
The last reason is doubtless the most important of all cordial relations. All of us prefer to trade with some one we like and with some one whose methods of business we like. The policy reflected repeatedly in the advertisement of a store build up a sympathy and a support that results in increased trade.
As the Southern Bell Telephone company says: "Success depends upon the measure of the good will of the community one can get an hold."

in doing it, was not able to carry out pledges that he had made, without the consent of the United States Congress or people, and therefore without legal authority.
Fortunately for this country, it entered into no agreement to send men and money at the demand of foreign nations to help them out of troubles that they bring upon themselves.
And fortunately the United States kept out of the League of Nations. Let us hope that this country will also keep out of any

World Court, in which it would be outvoted 10 to 1, and in which the principal question, in the subconscious mind of all the other judges would be, "How can we get money out of the United States?"
THE BRITISH Empire decides that it is powerful enough to manage its own affairs, and run its own business, without the help or direction from the League of Nations.
Why can't the United States do the same?

Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Bodwell graciously entertained with din- ner at the Country Club Monday evening honoring Mrs. Eva Herndon, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Frank Miller.

Violets and ferns were attrac- tively used to form the center piece for the table. Following the de- licious dinner, dancing was enjoy- ed.

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Bodwell, Mrs. Eva Herndon, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Shaw- cross, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Gonzal- ez, Harry A. Reed, Raymond Hen- thorne and George T. Bridgett.

Ireland Reports Good Health and Increasing Population in 1924

DUBLIN, Mar. 17.—According to the official figures of the regis- trar general of the Irish Free State, the year 1923 was the healthiest ever known in Ireland. The marriage and birth rates in- creased and the death rate de- creased. The death rate was 13.34 a thousand as compared with 15.89 for the ten years average 1913-1922. The births numbered 61,690, of which 31,808 were boys and 29,882 girls. The estimated popu- lation—there has been no regular census since 1911—is 3,160,000.

BREWERS PLAY ATLANTA CLUB IN WINTER PARK

First Nine Inning Yannigan Game Is Played Monday on Local Field; Oscar Melillo Looks Out First Homer

Meet Indians In Sanford Wednesday

Last of Team Has Reported for Duty; Players Rapidly Rounding Into Condition

By M. S. PAGE

Though aided by first string pitching, the yannigan contingent of Otto Borchert's Milwaukee Brewers proved unable to stand against Monday 3-0. The game, the onslaught of the regulars and was unique in several respects, but more so, probably, than any other in the fact that it continued for nine innings, the first practice game to go the full route.

The game was further distinguished by the slick work of one Oscar Melillo, Otto's veteran second baseman. Oscar, feeling the beautiful spring weather and the wide open spaces of the outfield, believed that he was called upon to do something great. He was at the bat at the time the cosmic urge struck him and he swung with all his might.

The astonished sphere voiced its misery in a sharp creak and fled in consternation to the depths of left field. The urge still being on him, Oscar set out hades bent for election for first base. When he arrived the ball was still going and Oscar did likewise. Evidently the ball thought that Oscar was pursuing for it continued its flight.

When it checked up at the fence Oscar was turning the corner at third base and when it arrived on the diamond Oscar was fanning himself and looking for a new chew of tobacco. It was the first homerun of the season.

With the arrival of Ivy Griffin, first baseman from Mobile, the Brewer "spring picnic" became complete in the matter of personnel. Griffin has been working out with the Mobile Bears and is already in fair shape. He had done as much work as have had the remainder of the team.

The arrival of Ivy was almost simultaneous with the departure of Bob Melillo, huge-Kentuckian who was trying out for a berth as a pitcher. Bob, it is understood, came in contact with a familiar fluid and as a result was sent home to repent. He will be given another chance, it is declared.

The yannigans will get their spot in the sun on Mar. 26 while the regulars are in Port Myers playing the Philadelphia Americans. They will journey to Umatilla for a game with a local talent aggregation there. They will be guests of honor for a half holiday and will be given all the fish they are able to consume.

The regulars left Sanford this morning for Winter Park for a tilt with the Atlanta club in the Southern League. Atlanta has a smart club this year and Harry Clark is expecting a stiff struggle. The Brewers will return to Sanford for the third tilt of the season with the Cleveland Indians and Wednesday afternoon.

Music of Old Masters On Rare Instrument Will Feature Festival

HASLEMERE, Eng., Mar. 17.—A festival of the chamber music of the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries is being arranged for August at Haslemere, where instruments will be used representing those of olden times. The festival is to be staged by Arnold Dolmetsch, who with other members of his family and pupils will play numerous rare instruments virtually unknown to the average music lover of today.

The lute, the recorder, the viol, the virginal, the viola d'amore, the harpsichord, the clavichord, referred to by Rossetti as the "seven sweet symphonies," will be used in rendering the music of the old masters. English music of "the golden period"

Eddie Big Question Mark

Without a doubt Eddie Collins, manager of the Chicago White Sox, is the biggest question mark in the American League this season. Rated one of the greatest players in baseball annals his efforts as a pilot will be watched with unusual interest. Many critics are predicting that he will be as great a success in his new role as he has been as an active performer, which is praise aplenty.

Africans Prefer To Invest Money In Bicycles Rather Than Buy Clothing

LONDON, March 17.—Some of the natives in Uganda, East Africa, have become so prosperous selling cotton lately that they have forgotten nearly all about clothing and invest their incomes on bicycles, bright-colored beads, and numerous other novelties from abroad. William G. A. Ormsby-Gore, under secretary for the colonies, told the African Society in London at a recent dinner.

Mr. Ormsby-Gore was a member of a parliamentary delegation which visited East Africa last year and was describing some of the experiences of the London party. Incidentally, he considers Uganda

Winter Season In Rome Is Marked By Mild Weather

ROME, Mar. 16.—While some parts of the United States have been experiencing a severe winter, Holy Year pilgrims from America have been enjoying one of the mildest winters Rome has had in recent years. Nevertheless, some Americans here have observed that they found it easier to keep warm amid American snow than in Italian sunlight.

"The farther south I go, the harder I find the job of keeping warm," one tourist observed recently. "At home in Chicago the winters aren't exactly warm, but we dress for them and heat our houses well. In fact, in traveling through Europe, I found similar conditions in all of the northern countries and my family and myself had nothing to complain of. But as soon as we arrived in southern Europe, we discovered that we could not get any heated quarters outside of hotels.

"In principle southern Europe is warm, and so it is in the sunlight. But in the houses we have to shiver along as best we can."

STATES DEMPSEY WILLING TO MEET ANYONE IN WORLD

"Under Acceptable Conditions" Is Qualification Made By Astute Business Manager In Letter To Commission

NEW YORK, Mar. 17.—Jack Kearns, manager of the heavy-weight boxing champion, Jack Dempsey, arrived here yesterday, bearing a letter which will be in the hands of the New York State Athletic Commission today. Kearns explained that the champion will meet any man in the world under acceptable conditions.

The letter is in answer to a telegram sent to Dempsey more than a week ago carrying the news that Harry Wills and Tommy Gibbons had challenged him and requesting him to accept or decline within 24 hours. Later the commission advised that under the law Dempsey had 15 days in which to make his decision.

Kearns' letter, made public by him last night, says that three years ago Chairman Muldoon of the commission ordered Dempsey to defend his title against Harry Wills, who had filed a challenge and posted a forfeit of $2,500.

"The champion might reasonably have questioned the authority of the New York commission at that time," Kearns wrote, "but instead it is a matter of record that he accepted the challenge and signed articles. In other words, the match was definitely made. He did this in all good faith and at an expenditure of both time and money. Then Mr. Muldoon specifically forbade the meeting between Dempsey and Wills in New York state and informed me personally that it would not be permitted."

After questioning the merits of Wills and Gibbons as contenders for the title from their showing against opponents whom Dempsey had conquered easily, the latter contended:

"None the less Dempsey stands ready to meet either or both of these men, or any other man in the world at any place in the world under conditions in which he has the recognized rights and prerogatives of a champion.

"He declines, however, to concede to the New York State Athletic Commission any authority in dictating his matches, or any authority beyond that of any other boxing government."

FLORIDA TO MEET JAX 'Y' IN ANNUAL BOXING CONTESTS

JACKSONVILLE, Mar. 17.—The annual triangular athletic meet between the volleyball, boxing and wrestling teams of the University of Florida and the Young Men's Christian Association will be held at the local association gymnasium Friday night, beginning at 7 o'clock. This announcement was made today by L. C. Moyer, director of physical education at the "Y."

The Y. M. C. A. athletes will go to Gainesville for a return meet with Florida teams Saturday, Mar. 20.

Exclusive Program. Friday night's program will consist of a three out of five series of volleyball games, four boxing matches and a like number of wrestling matches. Only a small admission will be charged and it is believed many sport followers of this city will turn out to see the Orange and Blue representatives arrive for local honors.

Florida is said to have an especially strong volleyball team this season and is determined to come here to make the local aggregation, Southern champs, feel the sting of defeat. The "Y" volleyball team will be selected by Dr. Stewart G. Thompson out for practice next month to participate in the championship play.

O'Donoghue's Charges. Eddie O'Donoghue, boxing instructor at the "Y" has developed another strong ring squad to pit against Florida's best glove slinger. The most prominent members of the team are Bill Adams, Dave Washington and George Salber.

The boxing program will consist of matches in the featherweight, lightweight, welterweight and middleweight divisions.

Al Berkovitz is training the "Y" wrestling team and as usual is turning out a formidable bunch of clever matmen, chief of whom are Palmer Williams, Joe Pomeroy, Sam Williams, Boone Lipscomb and Eldridge. Matches in the same four divisions as in boxing will be on the wrestling program.
