Mildewing Of Books Stopped—For Now

By Micheal Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Though a mildew problem in Lake Mary High School's library has been brought under control, Seminole County School District personnel are working to ensure that it doesn't reoccur, according to Glenn McGraw, district maintenance supervisor.

School officials estimate that nearly a third of the school's 12,000-book collection was damaged by the mildew. The mildew has been cleaned up and though the books were not ruined they are left with a musty smell.

"The problem occurred during the summer," McGraw said. "When students are in school you don't have the problem. You've got to have a lot of warm bodies in the school building to create an atmosphere."

McGraw said body heat from the students eliminates most of the moisture in the air at the school.

McGraw said district maintenance personnel have been monitoring the air conditioning system at the school. They've taken readings of air as it leaves the conditioner and at various points in the building and have determined that the system is functioning as it was designed.

"We're drawing outside air from somewhere," McGraw said. As yet, the source of the air infiltration has not been determined. The $12 million school has an abundance of crawl space, he said.

In addition to looking for the air leak, McGraw said maintenance personnel will be looking to make minor adjustments to the air conditioner to reduce the amount of moisture in the air.

One air conditioning technician will be sent to a corporate training session in Minnesota in October. "With the training he'll get there we hope to be able to make adjustments."

But if the training is not sufficient, McGraw is prepared to seek school board approval to hire an outside consultant to correct the problem.

"We've got until next summer to correct things," he said.

'Packing' Them In

Mel Atkins, manager of Scotty's of Sanford, has a full house as he conducts tour for Cub Scouts from Pack 844, Sanford, Saturday morning. The tour gave the scouts an opportunity to peruse the paneling and hover over the hammers as part of the pack's "Mr. Fix-it" Month. Atkins showed the boys around, explaining the purpose of much of the stock. He then presented the pack with a Ray-o-Vac Sportsman lantern and each scout with a tape measure and screwdriver set.

Longwood Man Gets 5 Years For Massive Cocaine Deal

A Longwood man has been sentenced to five years in federal prison after pleading guilty to selling more than 13 pounds of cocaine to undercover agents.

U.S. District Judge Elizabeth Kovachevich also ordered Joseph Crawford, 37, to serve an additional three-year special parole term. Crawford's wife, Debra, 28, was sentenced to two years in prison and given a three-year special parole.

Agents from the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration said they purchased the cocaine at Crawford's home in Longwood in March.

The Crawfords and four other persons were arrested in April after agents seized 44 pounds of cocaine, valued at more than $13 million. In what DEA agents called the largest cocaine seizure by undercover agents in Central Florida.

Two of the defendants, DeLand attorney Gerald Anderson, 36, and Jerry Kilpatrick, 37, of St. Augustine, were arrested at the Holiday Inn at the Sanford Marina.

Anderson failed to show up for trial and has been declared a fugitive. Kilpatrick was acquitted of conspiracy charges in June.

Two other defendants, Robert Williams, 43, of Homerville, Ga., and Anderson's girlfriend, Diane Fisher, 34, of Lake Helen, had charges against them dropped.—Charles Cobb

Lawsuit

Sanford Blacks Believe Voting By District Would Give Them Ballot Power

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Five Sanford blacks want city commissioners elected from districts and exclusively by the voters of those districts. That's the major reason five residents have filed a lawsuit in federal court against the city of Sanford.

Alfred DeLattibeaudiere, one of the plaintiffs in the class action suit filed Thursday, said today as long as a change in the city charter outlining this requirement is placed on the ballot for voter ratification, it will never pass because of the "ratio of white voting strength to black."

And he insists the Sanford City Commission could make the change if it chose to.

"We want to elect commissioners within districts not at large," DeLattibeaudiere said.

Attorney David M. Lipman of Miami who filed the suit in the U.S. District Court (federal court) in Orlando, agrees with DeLattibeaudiere that the city commission could seek a change in the charter without going to a referendum. He said a precedent was set in a federal suit some years ago.

"The city could offer a settlement of this suit by changing the city charter and the federal court could order the change," Lipman said.

The suit filed by Lipman is scheduled to be heard by Judge Elizabeth Kovachevich. A clerk of the court said the city will have 20 days once they have been served with the suit to respond.

Lipman has estimates it will be 18 months to two years before it comes to trial. "We will be in court until the city settles," he added.

Lipman insists in the suit that Sanford election processes "exclude black representation and participation and minimize and cancel out black voting strength."

Mayor Lee P. Moore today challenged DeLattibeaudiere's assessment of voting strength in Sanford, saying there are enough registered voters in Goldsboro, one of Sanford's black communities alone, "to swing any election ever held in the city. But, they don't vote," he said.

DeLattibeaudiere, 53, of 807 1/2 Sanford Ave., a county building inspector and past unsuccessful city commission candidate, is joined in the suit by fellow-plaintiffs: E.N. Smith, owner of Champion Tailors on 13th Street; Samuel Wright Jr., 55, of 107 Sterling Court, formerly an instructor and an unsuccessful city commission candidate some years ago and now retired; R. Fletcher McGann, 65 of 810 Valencia Court; and Hannah Pinkney, 60, 39 William Clark Court.

"We want the city to abide by the Voting Rights Act," DeLattibeaudiere said.

DeLattibeaudiere is aware of civil rights law because of his own experience. He filed an action against Seminole County, charging race discrimination, for refusing to hire him in the county's building department and won. The county, in a settlement, did hire him.

DeLattibeaudiere ran for the city commission in 1974 and again in 1976, losing both times.

In the city election on Dec. 3, 1974, DeLattibeaudiere received 962 votes in a four-man contest. A.A. "Mac" McClanahan won with 978 votes, garnering more votes than his three opponents combined. In 1976 DeLattibeaudiere captured 276 votes to come in third in a four-man contest.

In a runoff election, Eddie Keith won the seat.

Wright ran for a city commission seat in 1967 and was defeated by Mayor Moore.

After a 15-month study by a citizens panel, the city of Sanford put a new charter up to a referendum of the people on the Dec. 7, 1982.

The voters were given a choice of a charter without districts with candidates running at large; a charter with districts

There are enough registered black voters in Goldsboro alone to swing any election ever held in the city. But they don't vote.
—Mayor Lee P. Moore

with candidates running at large and continuing the current charter.

The charter without districts received 261 votes; the charter with districts received 567 votes and retaining the current charter received 698 votes.

Since none received a majority of the vote, the issue went to a runoff election. On Dec. 21, a proposed new charter with districts failed, garnering 115 votes while 301 voted to retain the current charter.

The voting turnout on Dec. 7 was more than 20 percent, while the turnout on Dec. 21 was less than 10 percent.

City officials have not been served with the lawsuit as yet, but Lipman said via telephone interview from Miami today that they will be served by mail later this week.

City Attorney Bill Colbert said today that as far as he knows under Florida law the city charter can be amended only by a vote of the people.

Schools Set Workshop For Advisors

A workshop for members of school advisory groups will be held today from 6:30 to 9:45 p.m. at Lake Mary High School.

The gathering is open to all Seminole County school advisory council members, PTA officers and interested citizens.

Training in organizational skills, communications and other information to help officers of advisory groups conduct business will be offered. Twenty-one specialized workshops are scheduled to give more in-depth training in some areas.

In addition, district administrators will explain the impact of increased requirements for graduation from high school. In 1984-85 students will be required to have 24 credits for graduation, up from the current 22 credits.

About 400 people are expected to attend the workshop, according to Karen Coleman, the district's public information officer.

Getting Out The Vota-Legally

Sandy Goard, Seminole County's Supervisor of Elections, listens intently as Florida's Deputy Secretary of State for Elections, Dorothy Glisson, addresses county democrats at a campaign seminar Saturday at the National Guard Armory in Sanford. About 75 attended the seminar to hear discussions on election laws, political ethics and getting out the vote.

County To Award $137,972 Building Contract

By Micheal Beha
Herald Staff Writer

An Oviedo firm has been recommended by Seminole County staff officials to receive a $137,972 contract to construct a fleet maintenance services building at the county's Five Points complex.

Fleet Maintenance director Frank Kilgore and Purchasing Director Joann Blackmon have recommended the bid to Poll Brothers Inc. of Oviedo.

A lower bid, of $136,920 from H&R Builders Inc. of Orlando, was not recommended because the firm proposed to build some walls of 1/4-inch plywood (as opposed to the preferred drywall and metal) and did not include some electrical work or air conditioning as called for in the bid specifications. Mrs. Blackmon said in her recommendation which is scheduled to be formally presented at the commission's 9:30 a.m. Tuesday meeting at the courthouse in Sanford.

Seven firms submitted bids on the project, including five from Seminole County.

The 50-by-120-foot metal building is intended to provide office space for Kilgore and his staff and to create an indoor work area for the department. The Fleet Maintenance office was created last year to coordinate vehicle maintenance for all county departments.

Also Tuesday, County Administrator T. Duncan Rose is expected to ask commissioners to send a resolution to the state medical examiners' commission asking that Seminole County be separated from Orange and Osceola counties.

The three counties are currently in one district, with Dr. Thomas Hegert serving as medical examiner. Dr. G.A. Garay serves as associate medical examiner in Seminole County and is responsible for operations here.

The Seminole County office has worked under virtual autonomy for several years. And when Orange County officials recently learned that they are responsible for paying medical benefits for employees in the Seminole County office, they indicated support for the separation.

If a new district is not created, Orange County commissioners have threatened to end Garay's autonomy by closing the office at Sanford's Central Florida Regional Hospital and forcing Seminole County to transport bodies to Orlando for autopsy.

The resolution is expected to request the medical examiners' commission to create a new district for Seminole County.

IN BRIEF

Pamela Improving With Court-Ordered Therapy

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Doctors say court-ordered chemotherapy is helping cancer-stricken Pamela Hamilton but the 12-year-old's parents still want an appeals panel to stop the treatment.

Attorney James A.H. Bell, who represents the parents, said Sunday he will ask the state Supreme Court by Tuesday to stop the chemotherapy.

Pamela's parents say only God can heal her cancer.

"They're not accepting the treatments whatsoever," Bell said of the parents. "They're just dealing with the court order."

Pamela, who received her fifth dose of chemotherapy Sunday, was reported in serious but stable condition at the East Tennessee Children's Hospital.

The girl's condition has improved so much since chemotherapy began Thursday that doctors were considering upgrading her condition from serious to fair.

Union vs. Continental

HOUSTON (UPI) — Continental Airlines officials plan to put some employees back to work at reduced pay but union leaders vowed to go to court if necessary to maintain the wage scale and contract.

As a money saving measure, a Continental pilot told UPI Sunday that the airline planned to put some pilots back to work at a $37,000 pay cut and increase their work load.

Continental, the nation's eighth largest airline, filed for bankruptcy protection in federal court Saturday, suspending all domestic flights on less than one hour's notice.

Continental plans on Tuesday to resume using 42 planes of the company's 108-jet fleet to fly to 25 cities. But only 4,200 of the 12,000 furloughed Continental employees will be called back to work, officials said Sunday.

Tied Up In His Work

LONG BEACH, Wash. (UPI) — Witnesses said a 28,750-square-foot kite roared into the air, entangling a kite expert in its lines and carrying him 100 feet high before he fell to his death.

Steve Edelken, 30, of Venice, Calif., died of multiple injuries Sunday after his ankle got caught in the shroud lines of the 115-by-250-foot Jalbert parafoil kite.

The Emmys

Rivers' Comments Add Controversy To Awards Ceremony

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The police drama Hill Street Blues and epic mini-series The Thorn Birds won six Emmys each, but remarks by co-host Joan Rivers turned the show into history's most controversial TV awards ceremony.

NBC overwhelmed its competition with 33 Emmys awarded at the Sunday night telecast and a banquet last week, a record for the network. ABC had 14 and CBS trailed with 11, just one on the telecast. PBS won four awards and syndicated shows got two.

Hundreds of angry viewers called NBC stations nationwide to complain about Miss Rivers, who used profanity, called Interior Secretary James Watt an "idiot," insulted the late Joan Crawford, shot barbs at homosexuals and prostitutes and joked about herpes.

An NBC official called her statements "regrettable."

Miss Rivers said afterward that she was sorry she said "goddamned," calling the profanity a "nervous slip." It was deleted from the West Coast telecast as it was relayed.

Hill Street Blues, which won 14 awards in its first two seasons, added Emmys for best drama series, writing, Joan Rivers ...assails James Watt, Joan Crawford, homosexuals and prostitutes directing, film-sound mixing and film and sound editing.

The Thorn Birds, based on Colleen McCullough's novel on Australia, captured Emmys for best actress, supporting actress and actor, makeup, editing and art direction.

Barbara Stanwyck, who rules Richard Chamberlain's destiny in the Thorn Birds, won the best actress Emmy and Tommy Lee Jones won as best actor for The Executioner's Song.

Jean Simmons and Richard Kiley won the supporting honors for their roles as the matriarch of a sheep farming family and her husband.

The best comedy series with five Emmys, including writing, directing and graphic design, was Cheers. It has been extended seven more episodes.

Special Bulletin, a view of nuclear disaster, won four Emmys, for best drama special, writing, video tape editing and technical direction-electronic camerawork.

St. Elsewhere, the medical drama styled after NBC stablemate Hill Street Blues, won three acting Emmys, including Ed Flanders as best actor for his portrayal of the hospital administrator.

Doris Roberts and James Coco won the supporting trophies for their guest roles as a bag lady who chose to die rather than have her leg amputated and her down-and-out companion.

Judd Hirsch, cabbie Alex Rieger in Taxi, and Shelley Long, who plays waitress Diane Chambers in Cheers, were named best actress and actor in a comedy.

Chris Lloyd and Carol Kane of the top-canceled comedy Taxi, won supporting Emmys.

Nicholas Nickleby won as the year's outstanding limited series.

Leontyne Price received the Emmy for individual performance in a variety or music program for Live From Lincoln Center on PBS.

Rock star Michael Jackson was honored in the category of best variety, music or comedy program for his Motown 25: Yesterday, Today, Forever.

Three other canceled shows won Emmys. SCTV Network won for writing in a variety or music program; Tynne Daly of Cagney & Lacey won for best actress in a drama series; and Debbie Allen of Fame was cited for choreography.

Dwight Hemion won a directing award for Shelena Easton ... Act 1.

If It's September, Congress Must Be Rushing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, as Washington has come to expect in September, is rushing to complete work on appropriations needed to keep more than half the government working next week.

The new fiscal year begins on Oct. 1, the magical date when many federal programs become penniless unless Congress approves more money for them.

Several major and minor federal programs also must be reauthorized this week, including the law allowing President Reagan to impose trade sanctions.

Intertwined in the legislative business is a serious foreign policy confrontation with the White House as both the House and Senate take up resolutions that would allow Reagan to keep troops in Lebanon as peace-keepers for 18 months. The Senate is expected to take up the war powers dispute today.

Such hectic weeks, with numerous showdown votes and late-night sessions, have become commonplace in recent years, especially at the end of the fiscal year. Through procrastination or protracted argument, Congress often allows deadlines to creep up.

This year, many of the 13 basic appropriations bills needed to fund the government have not been passed.

Only four — housing, energy and water, transportation and legislative — have been signed by Reagan. Two others, military construction and the District of Columbia, may pass before the week is out. That leaves seven, including two that have not even passed the House, defense and foreign aid.

This means that most government functions, including defense and the mass of programs under the Department of Health and Human Services, must be funded through a stopgap money bill called a continuing resolution. Also included in this resolution, effective through Dec. 1, are programs under the departments of agriculture, labor, state, commerce, justice, treasury and interior.

The continuing resolution became a "Christmas tree" bill as it passed through the House Appropriations Committee — loaded with amendments — but one of the amendments caused such a stir the whole bill was delayed. That amendment would cut off money for U.S. Marines in Lebanon as of Dec. 1.

Angry Democratic House leaders moved quickly to squelch the amendment because it jeopardizes a tenuous compromise with the White House on another resolution to allow the Marines to remain in Lebanon for 18 months.

Congress also must reauthorize the Export Administration Act, which allows the president to impose a variety of trade sanctions to protect against unfair competition. It expires on Oct. 1.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Record low temperatures along the Atlantic Seaboard gave way to seasonable weather across the nation with rain scattered from Missouri to the upper Great Lakes. Thunderstorms scattered the Gulf Coast with up to 1 1/2 inches of rain but the Southwest got a break from heavy rains that smashed a dam in Arizona and cut water supplies to parts of Arizona's Yavapai County, including a hospital and jail. Asheville, N.C. shivered in 36 degrees Sunday, shattering a record for the fifth consecutive day. Huntington, W.Va. broke the record for the third time this month with a 35-degree reading. Other record lows recorded were 37 degrees at Greensboro, N.C., 44 at Greenville, S.C., and 35 at Roanoke, Va. While 1 1/2 inches of rain hit Brownsville, Texas, Arizona worked to repair damage caused by more than 10 inches of rain that fell Friday and Saturday. The flooded Santa Clara River washed out a 125-foot section of state Road 91 between St. George, Utah and Littlefield, Ariz. High water on Willow Creek washed out a dam upstream from Prescott, Ariz. and broke two water mains. Another dam had to be broken to relieve pressure. All but six of the 87 patients at Yavapai Community Hospital were discharged or moved to other hospitals because the hospital had enough water pressure for toilets, but not for its sprinkler system. Six patients in critical condition remained at the hospital today. The Yavapai County jail was without water Saturday, a problem "because you can't exactly tell a prisoner to go down the street when he wants to go to the bathroom," said a county spokesman.

Big Four Automakers Introduce New Models

DETROIT (UPI) — Each of the Big Four automakers have new models to offer for the 1984 model year, which officially begins today to the delight of dealers who were running out of 1983 cars.

The launch is the closest the industry has come in years to the good old days of big fall introductions.

The return to tradition comes amid relief that increasingly healthy sales are back. Sales are up 17 percent this year and dealers are complaining they are short of cars.

In recent years, boring "econoboxes" dominated the new car scene as companies scrambled to meet the challenge of the Japanese but things are different for the 1984 season.

GM's two-seater sports car, the fiberglass, mid-engine Pontiac Fiero, is regarded as the key to turning around the Pontiac division. The Fiero has a base price of $7,999 and the division hopes to sell 80,000 to 90,000 of them.

Cadillac is reviving the convertible with the Biarritz model, which will cost about $30,000. Cadillac has not offered a ragtop since 1976.

Joining Cadillac in the luxury field is Ford with the aerodynamic Mark VII. The auto has extensive electronic features and enough devices to keep any gadget fan happy.

Ford has added diesel engines to its lineup despite a drop in the engines' popularity due to stabilized gasoline prices. Ford's diesel Escort turns in highway mileage of 68 miles per gallon and a BMW-built diesel is available on the Mark VII.

Chrysler's twin entries in the sports car race are the Dodge Daytona and Chrysler Laser. The front-wheel drive autos are available with an optional turbo-charged, fuel-injected engine.

A second Chrysler entry, the front-wheel drive Dodge Caravan and Plymouth Voyager minivans, will be out in January.

AMC is launching the Renault Encore, a hatchback version of its popular Renault Alliance subcompact sedan, plus the first new Jeep in 20 years. The Jeep Wagoneer and Cherokee are smaller and more economical to operate than their predecessors.

Volkswagen of America is gambling by making diesel engines standard on its Jetta and Rabbit models.

On the import side, Toyota beat Chrysler to the punch by launching its minivan. The Toyota Van Wagon lists at $8,998, about $1,000 less than the Chrysler version is expected to cost.

New European entries are led by the Mercedes Benz 190. Nicknamed the "Baby Benz," the auto is the smallest and least luxurious of the German automaker's products. It will cost about $25,000 — far above its $10,000 European sticker price due to taxes, emissions and safety equipment and the company's marketing strategy.

Two Men Arrested In Gunplay At Deluxe Bar

Two men were arrested early today after witnesses told authorities one of the men fired two shots from a rifle at employees of a Sanford area night club.

No one was hurt in the shooting.

Seminole County sheriff's reports gave this account of the incident: The manager and two bouncers of the Deluxe Bar in the Goldsboro section said they were standing near the front door at 12:17 a.m. today when they saw two men in the parking lot.

One of the men took a rifle out of a 1973 Chevrolet Nova that was parked in the parking lot and gave the weapon to the other man.

The man with the rifle pointed it at the three employees and then fired two shots at them, reports said. The employees said they had to jump out of the way to avoid being shot.

One of the men got into the car and drove around the parking while the other man sat on the car's hood, pointed the rifle at customers who were in the parking lot and said, "Everybody clear the parking lot. If anyone is left, they will be shot," reports said.

Customers ran for cover and the two men drove off, witnesses said.

A short time later Sanford police officers located the two suspects in a car in a parking lot at the corner of French Avenue and 20th Street and arrested them, charging both with aggravated battery. Police also confiscated a rifle they found in the front seat of the car, reports said.

Booked into the Seminole County jail were Tony Lamont Smith, 30, of 622 W. Amelia St., Orlando, and Carl Camilla Southward of St. Petersburg. Smith posted $5,000 bond and was released. Southward remains in jail today in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Authorities gave no motive for the incident.

WINDOW SHATTERED

Someone apparently used a BB gun or a pellet gun to shoot out the left rear window of a Sanford woman's 1978 Dodge Aspen station wagon between 5 p.m. and 6:10 p.m. Thursday.

Angela Dyson, 30, of 1303 West 11th St., said her car was parked in front of her home. Damage was put at $250.

FHP To Get Tough With Drivers Of Unsafe Vehicles

If you drive your car with worn tires or faulty windshield wipers, the Florida Highway Patrol may give you a ticket instead of a warning to repair the unsafe equipment.

FHP director Col. Bobby R. Burkett says the patrol will launch a new get-tough policy effective Oct. 1 on motorists who operate their vehicles with faulty or unsafe equipment.

He said the crackdown was prompted by the failure of motorists to have their vehicles repaired after receiving correction notices from troopers.

"We are not going to be Mr. Nice Guy anymore to the drivers who obviously neglect to keep their vehicles in a safe operating condition," Burkett said.

"We are not going to overlook the vehicles with safety defects resulting from an accident which occurred a month ago, or the driver who fails to have his vehicle repaired after receiving a faulty equipment notice. These drivers will be ticketed," Burkett said.

Troopers will continue to issue the 48-hour correction notices for minor problems when the drivers are unaware of the condition.

Some of the more common defects found on motor vehicles are: defective lights, turn signals, exhaust systems and worn tires.

"All of these items can be detected by the driver who cares enough to check his vehicle," said Burkett.

"I strongly urge drivers to personally inspect their vehicles at least once a week. The small amount of time spent in checking a vehicle for these defects may well prevent you from being involved in an accident or paying a fine," Burkett said.

IN BRIEF

Stano Faces Trial For 1 Of 39 Murders

TITUSVILLE (UPI) — Convicted mass murderer Gerald Eugene Stano, who has confessed to killing 39 women, faces a jury today for the first time.

Stano, a former short-order cook in Ormond Beach, avoided trial on seven murder charges by pleading guilty. He apparently could not work out a plea bargain in the eighth murder with which he has been charged, that of 17-year-old Cathy Lee Scharf of Port Orange.

He pleaded innocent to the killing in March, although he had previously described for authorities how he stabbed Ms. Scharf repeatedly.

If convicted in all 39 murders, Stano would be the most prolific mass murderer in U.S. history.

Kidnap Victim Found Safe

MIAMI (UPI) — An anonymous tipster gave police the break they needed to rescue a man who was kidnapped 11 days ago after allegedly writing a bad check to a ring of drug dealers.

Alvaro Isaza, 46, was rescued unharmed Saturday by Metro-Dade County Organized Crime Bureau detectives who had almost given up hope of ever finding him alive, officials said Sunday. Isaza was found in a car in north Dade County, exactly where an unidentified caller told the FBI he would be.

Isaza was abducted Sept. 14 from a Dade County trailer park by an alleged ring of drug traffickers to whom he had reportedly written a bad $200,000 check, police said.

EDB Ban Stalled After White House Visit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — EPA action on the deadly pesticide EDB was stalled for more than a year by an agency chief who met repeatedly with White House and citrus industry officials and Florida politicians, his staff charges.

The officials said Sunday that because of the action by Dr. John Todhunter, who resigned under fire last spring as an assistant administrator at the Environmental Protection Agency, tens of thousands of workers have faced increased exposure to the chemical, which poses an extraordinary cancer risk.

One government risk assessment found that virtually every worker exposed to the legal limits of EDB throughout his career would die of cancer.

Todhunter will be called today to testify under oath before a House Government Operations subcommittee headed by Rep. Michael Synar, D-Okla., that is probing the delay of the EDB ban, as well as the general political and economic pressures on the agency's decision-making process.

Edwin Johnson, director of EPA's Office of Pesticide Programs, said in an interview Sunday that as long ago as the fall of 1981, Todhunter rejected as invalid the findings of agency scientists who concluded that workers exposed to the chemical for just a few weeks a year face a 1 in 128 cancer risk.

"We used the standard cancer-risk assessment model," said Johnson, who also is expected to testify before the subcommittee.

"The risks were high no matter how you looked at them."

Johnson said that in June 1982, after his staff had spent months computing a new risk assessment with updated data, Todhunter ordered them to recompute their findings to correct "unimportant" technical errors.

When Johnson formally proposed in December 1982 the agency move forward, he said, Todhunter pressed him to find an alternative to canceling most agricultural uses of EDB, ethylene dibromide, arguing it was critical to the citrus industry for combatting fruit flies.

Todhunter proposed turning the matter over to the agency's Science Advisory Board for more study, Johnson said. Johnson said he stuck by his position.

Meanwhile, he said, Todhunter had held numerous meetings with citrus industry representatives. White House officials and three members of Florida's congressional delegation, Sens. Paula Hawkins, R-Winter Park, and Lawton Chiles, D-Lakeland, and Rep. Andy Ireland, D-Winter Haven, who argued the industry's interests.

Johnson said that although Todhunter held the assistant EPA administrator's job only 14 months, his actions effectively stalled the EDB ban for 18 months to two years.

Todhunter could not be reached for comment.

Todhunter, accused of conflict of interest for pushing a contract for a former employer and of catering to industry interests in scientific reviews, did not approve the EDB cancellation before leaving the agency last March during the scandal that drove Administrator Anne Burford from office.

Next month, some six years after the government first announced findings that EDB is highly carcinogenic and said it would take action, the agency is expected to impose a phased ban on the chemical, probably giving the industry two years to halt its use.

EPA sources said the ban would be essentially the same as one proposed in June 1982, except it will impose stricter limits on ground spraying.

Some 50 Florida drinking wells have been poisoned by EDB used to fumigate soil in citrus fields.

Citrus industry officials say EDB not only destroys tiny worms, known as nematodes, that attack the roots of their crops, but it has been the only successful means of combatting insects such as the Mediterranean fruit fly, which threatened California grapefruit and orange crops in August 1981.

EDB also is used in flour mills and as a gasoline additive.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration also has ignored the risk assessments and refused to tighten safety standards for the chemical.

Boat Owners Sue Over Fines Levied During Cuban Sealift

KEY WEST (UPI) — Boat owners who ferried Cuban refugees across the Straights of Florida during the Mariel sealift three years ago are still fighting a $1,000-per-refugee fine levied by the U.S. government.

Their battle is scheduled to go before U.S. District Judge Sidney Aronovitz in Key West today.

At the crux of the fight is the now-famous statement by former President Jimmy Carter: "We'll continue to provide an open heart and open arms to refugees seeking freedom from Communist domination and from the economic deprivation brought about primarily by Fidel Castro and his government."

By the time the statement was made May 5, 1980, hundreds of American boats were bound for Mariel to pick up the 10,800 Cubans who sought political haven at the Peruvian embassy in Havana.

Nine days later, Carter ordered a blockade against outgoing boats and ordered those stranded in Mariel to return.

When the flotilla returned to the United States, many of the boats were seized and the boat owners fined.

The captains were allowed to bail their boats out of government custody in 1980, at a price of $35,000 for boats shorter than 65 feet, and $50,000 for longer ones. Many captains took out mortgages to do so. Some paid the fines, and some didn't.

The boat owners are asking Aronovitz to throw out both the fines and the liens on their boats on constitutional grounds. They maintain they broke no laws. They contend they were the victims of Carter's fluctuating immigration policy and that they were forced by the Cuban government to bring back 125,000 refugees.

"They pointed machine guns at us and wouldn't let us leave," said Ava Burnham Pierce, skipper of the 73-foot shrimp boat Miss Snuggles, which brought 30 Cubans to America during the sealift.

"So we loaded up. They've got a gun on each side. You don't get a chance to count them," said Ms. Pierce. "I don't feel like I should pay a dime of it."

"I would not have gone to Mariel to begin with had it been illegal," she said. "When I went, President Carter said, 'Open arms, open heart, we love those people.' So I went."

"I think they're trying to scare the little guys," said Key West fisherman

Thomas Polgreen, who filed the suit that Aronovitz will hear today.

The U.S. Justice Department claims the boat captains violated the law, pure and simple, by bringing undocumented aliens into the United States.

"They brought in Cuban nationals without a visa. Under the immigration law, that is a violation," said Robert Kendall Jr., a Justice Department immigration lawyer. "These plaintiffs, along with other private boat owners, took it upon themselves to disregard the law and the dangers."

The boat owners contend the whole thing is moot at this point.

"I imagine the only reason they make everybody pay a fine is so nobody goes again," said Ms. Pierce. "But nobody would ever go over there again."

Environmentalists Protest Gator Hunt

MICANOPY, Fla. (UPI) — Environmentalists have launched a campaign to end Florida's "experimental" alligator hunt, claiming the hunters could put the reptile back on the endangered species list.

The state is allowing 20 lottery winners to hunt alligators in three north central Florida lakes as part of an "experimental commercial harvest." The 18-day hunt, which ends Thursday, is designed to determine whether alligators are plentiful enough to be a commercially viable product once again.

But environmentalists claim the hunt will make the gators as rare as they were in the 1950s.

Only about 100,000 of the animals lived in about 10 Southern states at that time. Florida banned hunting of the cons-old species in 1962. The federal government followed suit five years later.

Federal officials revised the alligator's status from endangered to threatened in 1977. At the time, there were about 400,000 gators in the state.

Officials with the Florida Game and Freshwater Fish Commission are pushing to have the alligator taken off the federal threatened species list.

"The alligator is Florida's biggest success story," said Don Wood, the game commission's coordinator of the endangered species program. "They have definitely rebounded by leaps and bounds."

In the first eight nights of the hunt, 184 alligators were killed. Names of the 20 hunters participating were drawn from hundreds of slips of paper tossed into a hat.

Louisiana is in the middle of month-long, statewide hunt during which 17,000 alligators can be killed. Florida's quota is 500 animals. Texas officials hope to get permission for an experimental hunt next year.

Alligators are hunted at night as they feed on fish and turtles. A light fastened to the hunter's hat, similar to those worn by coal miners, shines in the alligator's eyes, momentarily dumbfounding the animal.

A harpoon, attached to a float fashioned from an empty plastic jug, is shot into the creature's skin.

"It's rather gory but it's effective," said game warden Jim Sullivan.

"What they're trying to do here is make gators a renewable resource," he said. "They see it as a product, a way to add to their incomes."

"I believe that the people who are protesting are in a better financial bracket than the hunters. Hunters are uneducated. They just don't understand the bunny huggers."

Grandma Beats Up Young Mugger

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — A young mugger made a hasty retreat when a 79-year-old great-grandmother heard the victim's cry for help and pummeled the attacker with her bare fists, police said.

The elderly hero, Maxine Barry, punched the mugger so hard that her arm ached after the incident, police said Sunday.

Mrs. Barry had just finished loading bags of food into her car in a grocery store parking lot late Friday when she heard Sylvia Feliciano scream for help, police said.

Ms. Feliciano had been knocked to the ground by a young man who was trying to steal her purse. Mrs. Barry sprang to action.

"All of a sudden, this old lady ran up and started hitting him in the back, saying 'Leave her alone, leave her alone,'" Ms. Feliciano said. "He ran away fast. If it wasn't for that lady, I might be dead now."

Back To Linkage

More than three weeks after the Soviets shot down the doomed Korean Airlines' Flight 007, Washington is still reverberating with some of the harshest anti-Soviet rhetoric heard in more than a quarter of a century. Yet, the White House, State Department and Congress seem inexplicably reluctant to actually punish the Soviets for murdering 269 innocent persons, including 61 Americans.

President Reagan delivered a thundering speech recently, but imposed no sanction worthy of the name. State Department officials, up to and including Secretary of State George Schultz, have blistered the Soviets, but insisted all the same that little could be done to extract a price even for an act of mass murder. As for Congress, the House and Senate passed a resolution denouncing the Soviets, but only after the Senate turned back a series of amendments that would have urged Mr. Reagan to impose actual diplomatic and economic sanctions.

The president has argued that he had few if any levers between mere words and unthinkable war to penalize Moscow. We disagree. His options run into the dozens, from paring Moscow's swollen diplomatic and espionage presence in the United States to canceling the joint U.S.-Soviet space research project being quietly kept on NASA's schedule for November.

The administration deserves credit for marshaling the evidence against the Soviets and then presenting it in the court of world opinion with skill and conviction. And the international airline boycott against the Soviets obviously benefited from official U.S. encouragement.

But the administration is kidding itself if it believes that a spate of harsh rhetoric and momentary aid boycott can seriously influence Soviet behavior, or make the world safer in the long run. The Soviets signaled as much recently when Deputy Foreign Minister Georgi Kornienko defiantly declared that the Kremlin would not apologize, would not pay compensation for the dead, and would accept no responsibility whatsoever for the fate of Flight 007.

The only effective way to cope with this belligerence and the international behavior it spawns is to demonstrate to the Soviets that they will reap as they sow. The diplomatic codeword for this is "linkage," a concept President Reagan first embraced but then discarded the reasons of momentary political advantage.

Linkage means making East-West trade arms control, technology transfers, scientific exchanges and all the other manifestations of good U.S.-Soviet relations dependent on acceptable Soviet behavior. Accordingly, when the Soviets violate every standard of international conduct by shooting down a civilian airliner and murdering 269 persons, they simply must be made to pay a tangible price, something beyond a propaganda black eye.

If trade, arms control, technology transfers and the like all go on just as before, then there is no ground for believing that the Soviets have been given any real incentives to think twice before committing the next outrage. The public seems to understand this, even if Congress, the State Department and the White House are slow to get the message.

A Newsweek poll shows the majority of Americans favoring the tougher action against the Soviets. White house officials acknowledge that telephone calls urging stronger action ran 2-1 against the president after his speech. Americans are boycotting Russian-made vodka. Longshoremen in Los Angeles refused to unload a Soviet merchant ship. Six universities have canceled scheduled games with the Soviet national basketball team. And the California Senate adopted a resolution calling for the Soviets to be barred from the 1984 Summer Olympics in Los Angeles.

Washington needs to see these demonstrations of grass-roots outrage for what they are — attempts to fill a vacuum created by official inaction. Then official Washington needs to understand that reinstalling linkage as the linchpin of Soviet-American relations is exactly what most Americans favor, and exactly what is most likely to discourage future mass murder.

BERRY'S WORLD

"We STILL can't figure out what all the fuss is about."

Where is the best surgical-veterinary hospital anywhere?

Sanford's personnel officer Francie Wynalda responds quickly and firmly to the question. The one run by the College of Veterinary Science at the University of Florida at Gainesville.

Francie, who breeds championship horses at her Longwood home, got to evaluate the hospital personally last weekend when the Arab mare she and a partnership own was ordered to the hospital for surgery for a twisted intestine.

She says the mare, named Madira, had only a 90-10 chance of survival without the surgery, according to her veterinarian. The 2½-year-old mare is valued at $10,000, and it is insured, but Francie and her partners intend to make a lot more than Madira's worth from her breeding in the next few years.

Ms. Wynalda says the horse should bear 10 or more foals in its lifetime and each of them will be valuable in its own right.

The trip to Gainesville took about three hours and Madira was taken to surgery after more intensive examinations. She was in surgery for about 45 minutes, Francie says, and was standing on her feet within five minutes of being placed in the "intensive care unit."

The horse is expected to be sufficiently recovered from the surgery Sunday to come home.

Francie said the admitting procedure for getting the horse into the hospital was similar to admitting a human with all the permission papers that have to be signed.

She said the hospital has three operating rooms for large animals such as horses, adding that the operating tables themselves are fascinating.

She said the horse was given anesthetic while standing. Then a strap-like arrangement attached to the operating table was put around its middle and the table tilted via a hydraulic arrangement. When the horse went under the anesthetic, the strap-like arrangement was lifted onto the tilted table and the table, which was creased in the middle, was set upright.

With the horse resting on its back in the creased area, the operation was completed and the horse was wheeled into intensive care.

The operation is costing $500 alone and Madira's week in the hospital is expected to cost another $1,000 to $1,500. But the university even offers a time payment plan for owners.

Francie said she and her partners have life insurance on the animal but declined to get surgical and hospital insurance because of the high expense involved. After this incident, she says she will give the item more consideration in the future.

Madira is supposed to be ready for breeding next February.

Maybe It Was The Stork

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Census Bureau recently released a report showing the biggest annual population increase in the history of the world, or wherever you go.

Meanwhile, former Sen. George McGovern added to the growing multitude of U.S. presidential candidates by announcing he is again seeking entry to the White House.

Supposedly, we live in an enlightened age. Once-taboo subjects, such as the War Powers Resolution, now are discussed frankly and openly in mass circulation media.

As yet, however, I have seen no record of any public forum dealing with the most fundamental question of them all: Where do presidential candidates come from?

Take a survey among tolerant and knowledgeable people and you will get an astonishing variety of answers. Indeed, the responses are likely to be as myriad and as diverse as the candidates themselves.

A disappointingly large number of voters apparently still believes the old myth that presidential candidates come from Tammany Hall and from smoke-filled rooms.

As a result of such fantasies, and a steadfast refusal to face facts, millions of American children have grown up not knowing for certain where presidential candidates come from. Or if they do, they are keeping it to themselves.

True, there have been grassroots movements to amend the Constitution to ensure that the number of presidential candidates never exceeds the number of voters. But none of these proposed limitations has been ratified by three-fourths of the states.

It largely was in hopes of encouraging individual restraint that the Planned Presidency organization came into being.

This group views with dismay, if not alarm, the steady increase in the presidential candidate population. Strictly as a policy decision, Planned Presidency has endorsed the presidential primary system of aborting certain candidates.

It is evident, however, that the primaries alone do not hold down the field to manageable proportions.

Efforts by some election officials to conserve ballot space with abbreviations like "etc., etc." and "et al" have created more confusion than extra room.

Nor has the single campaign concept caught on to any appreciable degree. Once politicians become enamored with running for president, they are likely, Harold Stassen-like, to toss their hats in the ring time after time.

As a result, there is severe overcrowding in many whitesteps, with all that that implies.

Yet, more drastic moves to curtail proliferation are likely to conflict with the tradition that all Americans, regardless of how humble their origins, can grow up to run for president.

Better political education appears to be the only answer. We need to make schoolchildren aware of the consequences of encouraging politicians to run for president.

Shrewd Assad Outwitting Reagan

WASHINGTON — CIA analysts have been watching Syrian President Hafez Assad, the Middle East's chief troublemaker, with glum admiration.

Though the Israelis blasted his planes out of the skies, stopped his tanks in their tracks and thoroughly humiliated him in Lebanon, he has now succeeded in turning back the Israelis and confounding the Americans. Suddenly he is about to force upon Lebanon a government that will take its directions from Damascus.

It's not that he blindsided Reagan & Co. The president and his policy makers were fully aware of Assad's treacheries. He simply outwitted and outmaneuvered them.

They knew that Assad was conspiring against the peace effort while giving lip service, that he was digging into new military positions in Lebanon while promising to withdraw, and that he was bolstering his armed forces while negotiating a settlement.

They were also aware that he had a

The Trouble In Chile

The Pinochet regime in Chile is in serious trouble because the country is in a deep economic recession with one-third of the work force unemployed, mounting discontent among the regime's former middle-class supporters, and turmoil in the streets of Santiago, Valparaiso and other cities.

Not surprisingly, the Pinochet regime has come under attack in the media, with charges of incompetence, brutality, fascism and the rest. We have had the propaganda movie Missing, which depicted the opposition to the late President Allende as fascist, and there has been an active campaign in the press here to paint Allende in glowing colors.

Actually, the current economic troubles in Chile have more to do with world economic conditions, and particularly the low price of copper, than with any supposed incompetence on the part of Pinochet's economic advisors. They, in fact, have worked to diversify the economy and make it less vulnerable to fluctuations in the world market.

And any attempt to glorify Allende is profoundly in error, if not disingenuous.

Once he gained power, Allende embarked upon a course of extra-legal expropriations, and attempted through left-wing unions and by extra-legal intimidation to silence his critics in the press and the electronic media.

He attempted to abolish the constitutional right to travel by requiring government permission and assessing a "fee" so high as to be prohibitive.

In what many consider a conscious plot to destroy the middle class, Allende debased the currency by printing paper money, and produced a ruinous inflation in excess of 300 percent per year.

In those editorials that refer to Allende as the "democratically elected president of Chile," it is seldom mentioned that in August of 1973, shortly before the coup that overthrew him, the Chamber of Deputies passed a resolution by a vote of 81 to 47 that "The present government, from the beginning, has attempted to seize total power, (and install) a totaltarian order absolutely opposed to the system of representative democracy prescribed by the constitution." The vote fell just short of the two-thirds necessary to impeach Allende.

Allende called himself a socialist, but he had always worked closely with the Chilean Communist Party and belonged to numerous satellite communist groups. When Fidel Castro took over in Cuba, Allende's Socialists regularly sent their young potential leaders to Havana for instruction.

As president, Allende turned Chile into an arm of the Castro hemispheric operation, welcoming hundreds of Cuban advisors, experts, and intelligence officers to Santiago. One of the intelligence officers married his daughter Beatriz and later rose to become the director of the Cuban DGI (Castro's version of the KGB).

Allende, though "democratically elected," had no intention of preserving a democratic system in Chile. By the time his six-year term was over, he promised: "You must understand...everything will have changed...there will be a change of regime and system." In an interview published by Regis Debray, a French admirer, Allende declared that his democratic campaign promises were merely a "tactical necessity."

To the American journalist Georgie Ann Geyer, who inquired whether he intended to set up a one-party state, he said: "Not right away. It will take a while."

Allende forgot to do one thing: seize control of the armed forces. Soviet theoreticians have published analyses accurately diagnosing that as the flaw in the once-glamorous "Chilean road to socialism," i.e., a communist Chile.

Chile has deep democratic traditions, the Pinochet regime had always been a transitional one, and those who wish this wonderful country well can only hope that it can maintain its steady, deliberate course under a new constitution to free elections. Democratic regimes do not often arise out of mobs in the streets.

About The Lack Of Savings

Is the savings ethic dead? That's a disturbing question that many Americans must be asking these days. And if one doesn't say yes, then at least one must say that it is in danger of passing away.

An economic observer who holds this view is Michael K. Evans, president of Evans Economics, Inc. in Washington. In a guest column written for Industry Week, Mr. Evans gives three reasons why saving is no longer fashionable:

1. The average consumer does not believe that inflation is linked;
2. The decline in living standards has been severe;
3. The availability of credit through bank credit cards has made a permanent difference in consumption patterns.

Mr. Evans supports his position with considerable evidence. He notes that someone who purchased a new car four years ago paid between 20 and 30 percent less. Therefore, the buyer believes that inflation is very much alive. He points out that the American standard of living rose steadily from 1947 to 1973, but has declined more often than it has advanced since then. Finally, he says that despite high interest rates, "our economy has become more credit-based than ever before." He adds that the consumer "also believes the general commentary he reads about the mammoth budget deficit and rapid growth in the money supply leading to higher inflation over the next several years."

Given these conditions and attitudes, the outlook isn't good. And Mr. Evans is explicit in stating what he believes the nation will be confronted with, namely, "a premature increase in interest rates and sluggish growth beginning in 1985."

This prediction doesn't make pleasant reading after the end of a grim recession and the signs of a substantial pickup in the economy. However, his gloomy prediction is supported by an impressive array of facts.

In addition, everyone knows that the economy has not improved to the point where unemployment is disappearing. During the recession, companies had to pare their work forces in order to survive. In countless factories and offices, managers found they could get the work done with fewer people. They aren't going to rush out now and rehire the people they had to let go.

The recession also was accompanied by the arrival of new machine processes which eliminate the need for human hands. The country is stuck with the problem of what to do with and for the displaced employees, both factory and office personnel and middle rank managerial people. How to find employment for these people, who are out of work through no fault of their own, is one of the most basic tasks facing the country. No one seems to have the answer at this point.

The expansion of new industries that offer employment is the best approach. Unfortunately, expansion requires capital, which, in turn, requires savings.

from their embattled positions in Beirut. But I reported on Nov. 10, 1982, that the PLO fighters who left by the front door were returning by the back door. It was Assad, of course, who helped them slip back. A secret CIA report also declares: "Almost all arms and equipment destined for the guerrillas in Lebanon, whatever their source, (come) through Syrian territory."

— Shultz and Habib told the president at first that the Soviet presence in Syria would be a restraining influence on Assad. But intelligence reports warned, on the contrary, that the Soviets would try to ignite a Syrian-Israeli clash. I publicized their warnings in columns on Feb. 25, April 3 and April 29. "So the American Marines," I wrote, "may find themselves in the middle of a conflict in which the Soviets have a huge stake. Even if a major explosion can be avoided in Lebanon, there are sure to be a spatter of little explosions."

To correct the mistakes of the past, President Reagan must first of all admit them.

depressing record:

— Secretary of State George Shultz and former special envoy Philip Habib assured President Reagan that in a matter of months the Lebanese army would be ready to take control of Lebanon. But top-secret intelligence reports warned that the Lebanese army was in far worse shape than anyone had imagined. I reported on Oct. 10, 1982, that the Marines, therefore, "may be in Lebanon for a lot longer than the American public has been led to believe."

— Shultz and Habib also persuaded the president that Assad would pull his forces out of Lebanon if the Israelis would withdraw. This was vigorously disputed by intelligence analysts. I reported on April 29 that "the Syrians will try to remain in Lebanon after Israeli troops and international peace-keeping forces agree to pull out."

— Reagan hailed Habib's statesmanship for arranging the withdrawal of the Palestine Liberation Organization

Leto Runs Away From Locals

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

The visiting Tampa Leto Falcons displayed the talent that makes them one of the state's top cross country programs Saturday as both the boys and girls teams rolled to the championship of the 10th Annual Lake Brantley Invitational at Seminole Community College.

Although Leto ran away with both titles, it was a productive day for most Seminole County teams and individuals. But, there were also some disappointments.

For the Seminole and Lake Mary boys teams, the Lake Brantley Invitational was perhaps their best showing of the season. The Rams finished second to Leto (the defending state champions), but they finished ahead of every other Central Florida team. The Seminoles finished fourth, but trailed only Lake Mary and West Orange among teams in its district.

The Lake Howell Silver Hawks and Lake Brantley Patriots girls teams continued to battle for the county's top spot. The Lady Hawks won the dual for the third straight time as they finished second to Tampa Leto while Lake Brantley came in third.

Lyman's boys team was plagued by injuries and illness and had no team score. The Greyhounds number two runner, Brian Hunter, is sidelined with a thigh bruise while number three man Marc Overbay dropped out of Saturday's race because of cramps and the number four runner, Wayne Straw, also dropped out Saturday as he recently had two toenails removed.

Although the Greyhounds had no team score, Doug McBroome was the individual winner in the boys three-mile with a time of 16:10.7. Lake Brantley's Mike Garriques turned in a strong performance as he came in third at 16:28. Lake Mary's Derek Tangeman was fourth at 16:41 while Seminole's Billy Penick was fifth at 16:42. The times were a little slower than usual because of a strong wind against the runners.

Lake Howell's Ken Cheeseman, who has been hampered by strep throat since the season began, had to drop out of Saturday's race. "He has been fighting illness since the school year began," Lake Howell coach Joe Corso said. "I told him to start the first mile and if he didn't feel well to drop out. I hope he'll be back and ready to go this week."

Hayward, who finished third in the girls two mile at 12:06.5, were named the county runners of the week by the Seminole Track Officials-Athletic Atletic committee.

While the wind slightly affected the individual times, Seminole coach Ted Tombros was pleased with the performance of his boys team.

"They really had a fine meet," Tombros said of the boys team. "If our fourth and fifth runners can move up a little, we'll be in good shape. Individually, I was very pleased with Penick. He was the only underclassman to finish in the top five."

Behind Penick, the Tribe's Kent Troutman finished 24th at 17:52 while Kelly Faint was 27th at 17:58. After the top three, there was a slight drop off. Number four runner Larry Cosby finished 41st at 18:35 and number five man Kelvin Abney was 43rd at 18:36. Tombros said he hopes Cosby and Abney can move up a few slots as the season progresses.

The Tribe's junior varsity was led by Ray Hardy who was 11th at 19:19. Other times included, David Siple (21:07), Eric Martin (21:48) and James Hersey (21:51).

Silver Hawk Paint Can't Deface Seminole Smiles

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

One couldn't blame Lake Howell football coach Mike Bisceglia if he spent his weekend in the Lake Howell school district looking for students with paint on their fingers.

Bisceglia had his Silver Hawks all geared up for the Five Star Conference race this past week when something beyond his control occurred. Several Lake Howell students, apparently under the guise of school spirit, made a clandestine appearance at the Seminole High Stadium Thursday night.

The result — vandalism. Too strong a term? I don't think so. The students painted a few encouraging words to their Silver Hawks on the stadium walls and on the goal posts. Then, they wrote a similar expression on the field, which if done in an oil base paint, will kill the grass.

And, of course, there was one phrase with an obscenity. Although Seminole Principal Wayne Epps and coach Jerry Posey were very disturbed with the vandalism, they did find a silver lining. "It may be the edge," exulted Epps before Friday's game. "It just may be the emotional lift which we need."

After the game, Epps looked like a man who could have his cake and eat it too. Seminole, spurred on by a spirited halftime talk, rallied from an 18-point deficit and pulled out a 29-27 victory over the favored Silver Hawks.

The "edge" was worth two points.

Of course, it would be hard to pinpoint how much the players resented the fact that their school had been tarnished. And as what factor it had on the outcome. But from the reactions of most of them, I'd say it was definitely a factor.

Did Posey make a point of referring to the vandalism? "I didn't have to," said the Tribe skipper after the game. "They saw what had been done to our stadium and field."

Posey decided to take a low-key approach. "We didn't ignore it, but we didn't blow it up either," he said. "We didn't want the boys to get too fired up and not play well."

What's really a sad issue in this crime is that none of the football players was guilty of the deed, yet they had to pay for it because some students misinterpreted the meaning of school spirit and may have cost their school a conference championship.

"We knew that none of the football players had done it," said Posey. "So, we told the players that the best way to get even was on the field. I was just glad to see our kids get fired up about something."

Once the teams finally got on the field, a lot of name-calling ensued. "Man, they were saying all kinds of things," said Seminole junior Bryan Debose. "They were cussing at us and talking about our mamas."

"At first, we yelled back. But then coach (Posey) said, 'no more,' so we closed the door (mouth)."

Several of the verbal shots drew penalty flags for unsportsmanlike conduct — on both sides. "They was a lot of talking out there by both teams," said one game official. "We discussed it at halftime, and decided to penalize them if it continued."

And the flags did fly more than a few times in the final half. To each team's credit, once the game ended everyone shook hands and the 48 minute verbal war was forgotten.

But it never would have happened if several students had used a little bit of restraint. And, of course, the Lake Howell players, coaching staff and the school had to bear the brunt of the embarrassment because of it.

The sting was still there after the game.

Mike Futrell: "It (the damage) was brought up and put in our face. I thought it was very childish of them."

Fred Brinson: "It wasn't very nice what they did, but they paid for it."

William Wynn: "I just told myself, 'We'll take care of them on the field.'"

Bryan Debose: "It showed they don't have any pride or respect, but we got their respect after the game."

Tracy Holloman: "We showed a lot of heart. They weren't showing any class messing with our field like that."

Although the Fighting Seminoles were upset about the vandalism, Bisceglia was beside himself after the game. His Hawks were the preseason pick to win the Five Star and he figured to add victory number two in that quest Friday night.

Lake Howell, which had outscored the opposition, 61-14, was probably a 10-14 point favorite going into the game. The Hawks played like it in the first half, building a 20-2 bulge.

Then came the pep talk.

"I couldn't believe it," said Bisceglia. "Some (expletive) comes over here and paints their field and stadium."

Pick your own word for the expletive, all of them apply.

The Tampa Bay Buc defense swarms on Cincinnati's Charles Alexander. Tampa shut off Alexander on this attempt, but the Bengals took advantage of three Jack Thompson interceptions to win, 23-17.

'Samoan Throwin' Interceptions — Bucs Falter Again

TAMPA (UPI) — The Cincinnati Bengals took a defensive page from past Tampa Bay playbooks Sunday and recorded their first victory of the NFL season.

The Bengals' defense bent, but did not break, and Cincinnati came away with a 23-17 victory over the Buccaneers.

Tampa has built a reputation in its eight years in the NFL as a tough defensive team, but this year the Bucs are having their troubles, both offensively and defensively.

The Bengals jumped into a quick lead Sunday when defensive back Ken Riley rambled 34 yards with a pass interception on the Bucs' first series.

The Bengals were to come up with two more interceptions of Jack "Throwin' Samoan" Thompson passes, both in the closing minutes of the game to preserve the victory and give Cincinnati a 1-3 record.

With Tampa trailing by six points and the ball on the Bengal 6-yard-line with just over 2 1/2 minutes to play, the Bucs went for broke on a 4th-and-4 play rather than settle for a field goal and hope to get the ball back.

Defensive back Ray Griffin tipped the ball at the goal line and Robert Jackson intercepted in the end zone, carrying it out to the 14.

When the Bengals could not move the ball, Tampa took possession on a punt and Thompson, who came to Tampa from Cincinnati in the off-season, took the Bucs to the Bengal 35, only to have Griffin intercept at the 25 and return it to the 48 where Ken Anderson ran out the clock.

Tampa won the statistical battle, but Cincinnati came up with the defense when it counted.

Thompson completed 30 of 40 passes for 316 yards, but had the three big interceptions as the Bucs fell to 0-1.

Anderson hit all 10 passes he threw in the first half and finished with 15 of 20 for 168 yards and was intercepted once.

Anderson connected with Stanley Wilson on a 4-yard touchdown in the first period, set up a 2-yard scoring run by Charles Alexander in the second, and put the Bengals in position for a 24-yard field goal by Jim Breech in the final period.

Thompson set up a 1-yard touchdown run by James Owens in the second period and a 20-yard field goal by Bill Capece in the third, and hit Kevin House with a 15-yard touchdown in the final period.

"It was a good one to win, no question about that, and I won't complain about how we got it," said Cincinnati Coach Forrest Gregg. "We got it by playing great defense at the end when we needed it."

"Thompson threw the ball pretty well and we protected pretty well most of the time," said Tampa Coach John McKay. "But in the end result, we just

North Alabama Bounces UCF, 47-20

ORLANDO — Clarence Johnson and Rusty Towery pretty much had their way Saturday night in the Tangerine Bowl against the University of Central Florida Knights.

Johnson, a speedy 5-8 and 145-pound scabbard, and Towery, a poised, dart-throwing quarterback, combined for 369 yards as the Division II North Alabama Lions bounced UCF, 47-20, before a sparse showing of 8,307 fans. The loss was the second straight for UCF after two opening wins. The Knights host Valdosta State Saturday at 7:30 p.m. for homecoming.

Johnson and Towery took turns shredding the UCF defense as North Alabama broke on top 10-7 in the first quarter. The visitors rolled up 515 yards in total offense and continually burned the young Knight defense with options, sweeps and pinpoint passing.

"We just got beat by a good team," said first-year coach Lou Saban. "Even our good players are not ready for a team which can execute as well as North Alabama."

And execute the Lions did. Johnson ran for 131 yards and three touchdowns while Towery hit 16 of 22 attempts for 238 yards and one TD. UCF's defense, after holding Elizabeth City (N.C.) State to seven points in the season opener has given up 136 points in its last three games.

Johnson had scoring jaunts of 2 yards in the first period, 10 and 3 yards in the third quarter.

North Alabama, now 3-0, led 20-7 at halftime on two James Knowles field goals of 32 and 27 yards. Towery's 22-yard scoring pass to Chuck McCurley, and Johnson's first touchdown.

The Knights managed 203 yards in offense. Quarterback Dana Thyhsen hit Jim Adams with a 10-yard touchdown throw in the first period and ran 8 yards in the final quarter to score Central Florida's second touchdown. Thyhsen, who had practically carried the UCF scoring load with eight TD passes coming into the game, had problems in the first half. He completed just 4 of 16 tosses for a meager 25 yards. # Caldwell Ends Drought; Lendl Whips McEnroe; Liberty Tries Again

ABILENE, Texas (UPI) — It took nine years, but Rex Caldwell finally beat the competition for the first time in his professional golfing career.

"I was starting to believe that maybe it would never happen," the Abilene native said Sunday after winning a $350,000 PGA tournament with a final-round 6-under-par 66 for a total of 6-under 282. "I've been around here nine years and I have had some good rounds but never one as good as today. I'm kind of speechless."

The 33-year-old Caldwell, who recently moved from Abilene to Tallahassee, surged ahead of third round leader Lee Trevino to win.

The event is known as the LaJel Coors Classic.

Coming after four second place finishes on the PGA Tour this year, Caldwell's win could not have happened at a better location.

"I played physically as good as I could play. It was a great day. I'm glad to have this tournament," said Caldwell. "It's just great, especially in Abilene, right here where I live."

Caldwell began Sunday's round at even-par, but he went on to shoot seven birdies on the first, sixth, ninth, 10th, 14th, 15th and 18th holes.

The most crucial birdie of all came on the 5-par 18th hole, which Caldwell two-putted to take the lead. Trevino bogged the 15th hole to go five under but never recovered with the birdie he needed to tie Caldwell and take the tournament to an extra round.

"Boys, it's nice to be in here on a Sunday afternoon, finally," Caldwell said to the media in the press room after his victory. "It's the thrill of a life." The $63,000 prize money boosted Caldwell's earnings to $279,851 for the year.

The veteran Trevino, who began the round in the lead at 6-under-par, shot a 1-over-par 73 for a 5-under-par 283 total and second place.

Roundup

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Ivan Lendl's having fun again.

The 23-year-old Czech shook off the psychological effects of his poor performance in the U.S. Open finals earlier this month to rally from behind and defeat top-seeded John McEnroe, 3-6, 7-6 (7-4), 6-4, Sunday to capture the title in a $265,000 men's tennis tournament.

The event is known as the TransAmerica Open.

McEnroe, in the wake of a highly-controversial performance on Saturday night, dominated the first set as he controlled the net and often passed Lendl.

The volatile 24-year-old from New York broke Lendl to take a 3-2 lead in the first set and served out the set with the help of a strong serve.

However, Lendl regained his composure and rediscovered his blistering service rhythm in the second set to battle McEnroe to draw at 6-6 — with the aid of a controversial call — to force a tiebreaker.

"I was in control of the match until the call," McEnroe said of his second set which was called wide resulting in a game-losing double fault. "When he broke my serve, I still hung in there but I couldn't make up the break."

JOLLA, Calif. (UPI) — Patty Sheehan has taught LPGA Tour rookie Judy Inkster many things about winning golf tournaments. Sunday, Inkster found out something for herself.

Sheehan carded a 2-under-par 71 Sunday to win a $175,000 by two shots over a weary Inkster, who admitted, "I felt tired out there all day."

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Liberty crewmembers agonized over weather forecasts and decided to stick with a slimmed-down yacht for the climactic America's Cup race, declaring the 25th defender perfect "the way she is."

The red-hulled yacht was towed back to her berth in Newport Harbor Sunday night after hours of deliberations over her weight, while the favored Australians practiced starting techniques for today's seventh, winner-take-all clash.

Four grueling months filled with races, sail testing, daily calisthenics at 6 a.m. and numbingly routine maintenance chores culminate when a shot from a gun sends Australia II and Liberty soaring over the starting line.

The day was expected to be sunny, with moderate 12-knot winds, calm seas and the visibility clear to the horizon for the most dramatic America's Cup race in history. The possibility of breezes dwindling to 5 knots could spark another postponement.

A dying breeze Saturday forced cancellation until today, but did not kill the controversy swirling over the America's Cup series.

While the Australians practiced starts and finalized plans to protest the changes in Liberty's ballast, Conner defended his right to trim 910 pounds from the hull.

Conner, in danger of losing the "Auld Mug" to Australia II and ending the longest winning streak in sports' history, said firmly, "The conditions of the cup speak for themselves."

The Australians, forcing a defender to a seventh race for the first time in the best-of-seven series, said they would be flying a red protest flag regardless of who won the right to keep the hallowed cup the United States has monopolized since the trophy was won from the British in 1851.

Dolphins Overcome 7 Turnovers, Chiefs

MIAMI (UPI) — Ever since last year's AFC championship season it's been common knowledge the Dolphins play top notch defense most of the time, but the offense is suspect to say the least.

That was never more apparent than in Sunday's 14-6 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs.

"We made about every mistake that you can make offensively. I can't remember a game with so much offensive failure," Dolphin Coach Don Shula said.

"Our defense kept bailing the offense out, but somehow we've got to get some offensive consistency. We haven't been able to do that. Somehow we've got to be able to figure how to make the big plays offensively."

The Dolphins (3-1) broke a 13-year-old record by fumbling the ball away five times. With two interceptions by quarterback David Woodley the Dolphins came up with a whopping 12 turnovers.

Fortunately for the Dolphins, the Chiefs turned it over five times, four on interceptions of Bill Kenney passes.

Chief Coach John Mackovic was as surprised as anybody that a team coached by Shula would cough up the ball that many times.

"You certainly wouldn't expect that from a team like the Dolphins," Mackovic said. "When you get seven turnovers that should be enough for you to win. We just didn't take advantage of the opportunities when we had them, especially in the first half."

Veteran cornerback Gary Green claimed some of the credit for his defensive teammates.

"I think we played real well on defense, especially in the first half. We were hitting hard and got all those turnovers to put the offense in good shape," he said.

Shula conceded that part of the reason for the Miami turnovers is that Kansas City (1-3) is good at forcing fumbles.

"They really did a good job at going for the ball. They're an aggressive defensive team, but we have to be able to hang on to it when they try to take it away from us," Shula said.

Quarterback David Woodley, who passed for one score to go with a 1-yard touchdown run by Andra Franklin, didn't have any answers.

"It's something you can't explain," Woodley said. "We knew they had a good defense and that's the last thing you want to do against a good defense."

After throwing every chance they got in a 27-12 loss to Washington last week, the Chiefs made more use of their running game Sunday. Mackovic indicated that was partly because the Los Angeles Raiders had so much success rushing in their Monday night victory over the Dolphins a week ago.

"This week I didn't think it was in our best interest to throw as much," Mackovic said. "I wanted to work on the run more. Miami has shown that you can run on them and we are going to have to learn how to run when we need to run."

Patriots 28, Steelers 23

The New England Patriots are discovering that winning and confidence form a sweet cycle in the NFL.

Just two weeks ago, Patriots coach Ron Meyer had little more than complaints about his team. But New England scored an upset victory over the Jets last week, followed up with a 28-23 win at Pittsburgh Sunday and are now sky high.

"Backed up with our win over the New York Jets, it's obviously a big stride forward for our confidence and positively reinforces what we believe in," Meyer said of the win over the Steelers.

"If we keep on playing well, we'll get more confidence," quarterback Steve Grogan added.

Winner's Smile

Hey, who's that smiling gentleman in the middle? None other than Seminole High football coach Jerry Posey, who's been able to wear a winner's smile for the past two weeks now. The Tribe stunned Lake Howell Friday, 29-27, for its second straight win after 12 consecutive losses. Joining the fun are (from left) coaches Roger Beathard, Emory Blake, Dave Mosure and Howard Hawkins. Seminole tries to make it three straight Friday at Daytona Beach Mainland.

Pro Football

Starting with 3:51 left in the game lifted the Patriots over the Steelers despite Franco Harris' milestone rushing performance.

Harris gained 106 yards, which gave him 11,309 career yards and moved him ahead of O.J. Simpson into second on the all-time list behind Jim Brown.

Harris' accomplishment didn't help Pittsburgh Sunday, however.

Browns 30, Chargers 24

Brian Sipe connected with Harry Holt on a 48-yard TD pass 1:33 into overtime to lift the Browns. Cleveland took the kickoff in overtime at its 37 and won the game when Holt caught the ball at the San Diego 5 and fell over the goal line.

Bills 30, Oilers 13

Joe Cribbs ran for a touchdown and gained 166 yards rushing while Joe Ferguson threw two touchdown passes to power the Bills. Buffalo snapped a 10-game losing streak against the Oilers dating to 1967 by overcoming running back Earl Campbell's 142 yards on 30 carries.

Raiders 22, Broncos 7

Jim Plunkett threw a pair of touchdown passes, Chris Bahr kicked field goals of 28 and 29 yards and the defense added a safety to pace the Raiders to a 4-0 record and a two-game lead in the AFC West.

Cowboys 21, Saints 20

Dallas linebacker Anthony Dickerson trapped New Orleans quarterback Ken Stabler in the end zone for a safety with 1:58 to play to pull out a win for the Cowboys. The safety came after the Saints had claimed six turnovers in the second half and had sacked Dallas quarterback Danny White seven times.

Vikings 20, Lions 14

Benny Ricardo kicked a 24-yard field goal with 7:22 left to back-quarterback Steve Dils' first start and a strong defensive effort by the Vikings. Dils, who started in place of the injured Tommy Kramer, completed 17-of-30 passes for 143 yards, including a 3-yard touchdown pass to tight end Bob Bruer.

Cardinals 14, Eagles 11

Jim Hart threw a 26-yard touchdown pass to Roy Green with 29 seconds left to lift St. Louis Cardinals to its first victory. The Cardinals got the ball at their 48 with 2:06 remaining and drove 52 yards in seven plays for the winning touchdown.

49ers 24, Falcons 20

Joe Montana threw three touchdown passes, including one of 1 yard to Earl Cooper midway through the final quarter, and the 49ers' defense came up with eight sacks to drop the Falcons. Steve Bartkowski threw for two touchdowns and scored on a 3-yard run for Atlanta.

Jets 27, Rams 24

Pat Leahy kicked a 26-yard field goal with 6:38 left in overtime to carry the Jets. Cornerback Jerry Holmes, who earlier scored on a 57-yard run with a blocked field goal, set up the winning drive when he intercepted Vince Ferragamo's pass at his 20 and returned it 30 yards to midfield.

Colts 22, Bears 19

Raul Allegre kicked three field goals, including a 33-yarder 4:51 into overtime, to pace the Colts. Baltimore took the overtime kickoff and drove 53 yards, including 21 on a pass from Mike Pagel to Matt Bouza and 13 yards on a run by fullback Randy McMillan.

Redskins 22, Seahawks 17

Joe Theismann fired three touchdown passes, including throws of 64 yards to Charlie Brown and 47 yards to Alvin Garrett in the second quarter, to win it for the Redskins.

Brinson Tosses 3 TDs As Rams Tip Cowboys

Dwight Brinson tossed three touchdown passes, two to Von Eric Small, to lead the Rams to a 18-0 blanking of the Cowboys in the opening week of Sanford Recreation Junior League Flag Football at Chase Park.

Brinson hooked up with Small on a 25-yard scoring strike with 12:35 remaining in the first half, then came back with 10 seconds remaining in the half to toss a 10-yard TD pass to Small to give the Rams a 12-0 lead.

The Rams made it 18-0 when Brinson found Bernard Mitchell in the end zone with 8:80 remaining in the game.

In other Junior League action, the Wildcats found numerous ways to score en route to a 14-0 victory over the Bulldogs. The Wildcats took a 2-0 lead when J.J. Wiggins punted quarterback Willie McCloud's flag out in the end zone for a safety.

The Wildcats took a 8-0 lead on the last play of the first half as Anthony Harris returned a punt 22 yards for a touchdown. The Wildcats' final score came in the second half as Kerry Wiggins passed to Erskine Howard who in turn lateraled to Demetrius Presley who then lateraled back to Wiggins who took it in for a touchdown.

In Midget League action, Arthur Polk tossed an eight-yard scoring pass to Ronald Adaryl Jones as the Steelers snapped a 13-13 tie and went on to a 19-13 victory over the Bucs.

The Bucs scored first as David Bolt returned a punt 35-yards for a TD. Jones then ran 40 yards with the ensuing kickoff to tie the game at 6-6.

The Bucs climbed on top, 13-6, as Demetry Grayson returned the next kickoff 40 yards for a TD and Bolt ran in the conversion. The Bucs kept their 13-6 lead at halftime.

The Steelers tied the game in the second half as Polk rambled 38 yards for a TD. The first point after attempt failed, but the Bucs were caught offside, giving the Steelers a second chance. Ronald McNare ran in the second conversion try to tie the score at 13-13 and set up the tiebreaking TD pass.

threw two passes that can't be thrown. We had two chances to win the game. Mistakes are killing the Bucs.

"We are not playing well enough either offensively or defensively to win," McKay said.

Both teams were hurt by injuries. Riley went out with a pulled hamstring suffered just as he reached the end zone on his touchdown run, and offensive tackle Anthony Munoz was sidelined with a severely bruised thigh that Gregg said was first believed to be a fracture. But X-rays showed no break.

Tampa lost guard Ray Snell with a twisted knee, and several players came up with lesser injuries.

"I threw enough interceptions to supply a team for a year," Thompson said. "I wanted to win bad."

"The wind was really treacherous," Gregg said. "The ball did funny things. That's the reason there were so many interceptions."

"Ray tipped it and I was there in the right spot for once," Jackson said of his key interception. "We needed to get some turnovers."

Williams Leads Gators; Miami Blanks Irish; Scott Excels In Loss

By United Press International

John L. Williams is back and the Mississippi State Bulldogs are sorry.

Williams rushed for 104 yards and two touchdowns Saturday in the Florida Gators' 35-12 victory over Mississippi State. The sophomore running back from Palatka had missed the opener against Miami with a stress fracture of his foot, played briefly at Southern California and then was held out of last week's Indiana State victory.

"I'm not fully recovered, but I'm okay to play," Williams said after his performance at Starkville, Miss.

"I just had good blocking in front of me everywhere I went," Williams said. "After my long touchdown run (70 yards), I think they just died down."

Quarterback Wayne Peace, who completed 21 of 34 passes, connected on a 34-yard toss to Dwayne Dixon with 35 seconds remaining in the second quarter for the Gators' first touchdown. The 213-pound senior quarterback struck again in the fourth quarter with a 5-yard scoring pass to receiver Bee Lang, capping an 80-yard drive in 14 plays.

Sophomore fullback Williams scored both of his touchdowns in the final period — racing 70 yards for one and 20 yards for another — to shatter any hopes for a comeback by the frustrated Bulldogs, who trailed only 14-12 after three quarters.

Florida's other touchdown came on a 22-yard run by sophomore tailback Neal Anderson with 10:05 remaining in the third period.

Mississippi State, 2-1, went 81 yards in 11 plays for its first touchdown, with senior quarterback John Bond sneaking in from 1 yard out. Tim Parenton missed the extra point, and the Bulldogs took a 6-0 lead with 6:40 remaining in the second quarter.

Bond also scored State's second touchdown on a 1-yard keeper in the third quarter, but an attempt by George Wonsley for two points failed. The touchdown followed the recovery of a Peace fumble at the Gators' 24.

Bond completed eight of 23 passes for 118 yards and rushed for 32 yards.

The Gators, 3-0-1, were unable to penetrate State's stubborn defense in the opening minutes, but got their attack rolling shortly before halftime and led 7-6 at intermission. Florida drove 70 yards in the third quarter with Anderson scoring to boost its margin to 14-6.

Florida's victory upped its record to 3-0-1 and Saturday will play at LSU. Miami defeated Notre Dame 20-0 and plays this week at Duke. Florida State (2-1) was idle, but now must travel to Auburn to take on the War Eagles.

Florida A&M fell to 1-2 with a 23-13 loss at home to Tennessee State and plays at Howard this week. Central Florida (2-2) was swamped 47-20 by undefeated North Alabama and is home to Valdosta State this week. Bethune-Cookman is 1-1 after a weekend off and next meets Delaware State on the road.

the confessed "eternal optimist" had to struggle to find something good to say.

In fact, Faust said he didn't say anything to his team in the somber locker room following the game Saturday night.

"Sometimes when you're upset, it's best not to say anything," Faust said.

Although the "Oust Faust" buttons haven't come out in South Bend yet, Faust wouldn't be surprised if they did.

"I'm sure I'll come under some personal criticism, but that's part of the territory that goes with being a coach," Faust said.

But then Faust's positive attitude began to peep through.

"You can call me the eternal optimist, but we're in good shape," he said. "If we ever get healthy and get things going, we'll be on our way. I feel we're going to have a good football team yet."

Notre Dame this week takes its 1-2 record to Colorado, while the surprising Miami Hurricanes travel to Duke to risk their 3-1 mark.

"I'm probably the most proud person in America right now," Miami Coach Howard Schnellenberger said Sunday. "We executed things all over the field except for a few little things, but I don't even feel like talking about those."

"In my wildest dreams, I didn't think we could play like this, but the assistants (coaches) and players dreamt it. They worked at it and then went out and did it."

Schnellenberger said. "Maybe I just didn't know how good we were."

The Hurricanes watched their second straight shutout and have 1-1-1 opponents scoreless now for 11 straight quarters.

"We knew that we would have difficulty beating them one-on-one. We had to have group tackling all over the field and we had it all night," Schnellenberger said.

Meanwhile, freshman quarterback Bernie Kosar continued to show what a quick learner he is. Not only do his statistics in the fourth game of his college career show it, he's already talking like a coach.

"We had some things we had to improve on from last week, and we did," said the 19-year-old who completed 22 of 33 passes for 215 yards and a touchdown. "It was an excellent game for the whole program. Now we just have to play them one game at a time."

Alabama 44 Vanderbilt 24

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Quarterback Walter Lewis scored two touchdowns Saturday night to lead fifth-ranked Alabama to a 44-24 victory over Southeastern Conference rival Vanderbilt.

The undefeated Crimson Tide spotted Vanderbilt 17 first-quarter points and then scored on the next six possessions over the second and third periods to smash the Commodores' hopes for an upset.

The triumph was the third in a row for Alabama coach Ray Perkins, who succeeded the late Bear Bryant last year. The Tide is 2-0 in SEC play while Vanderbilt dropped to 1-2 overall and 0-1 in league play.

Lewis ended the night by running 12 times for 90 yards and completing 11 of 26 passes for 184 yards.

Lewis scored on runs of 1 and 11 yards as the Tide exploded for 17 points in the second period to erase the Commodores' 17-0 lead. Kicker Van Tiffin added a 33-yard field goal.

Alabama scored on its first possession of the second half on a 2-yard run by halfback Linnie Patrick following a short punt by Vanderbilt that gave Alabama the ball at the Vanderbilt 30. The score came with 11:04 left in the third period and the Tide was never behind the rest of the way.

Alabama padded its lead in the third quarter, with Tiffin field goals of 28 and 39 yards and a 6-yard run by Joe Carter. The Tide added a 37-yard TD run by Ricky Moore in the fourth quarter.

Vanderbilt excited its capacity home crowd on its first play from scrimmage as quarterback Kurt Page hit tight end Chuck Scott on a 59-yard pass play. Scott, who played his prep ball at Lake Howell, had his third straight great week catching the ball. He pulled in six acrobats for 169 yards. Following an Alabama fumble, the Commodores picked up another touchdown on a 1-yard run by Carl Woods.

Ricky Anderson booted a 52-yard field goal at the end of the first quarter to give Vanderbilt its 17-0 lead.

The Commodores closed out their scoring with 5:08 in the third quarter with an 80-yard drive climaxed by a 9-yard touchdown run by Woods.

team did not have one of its better meets. The Lady Tribe finished eighth in the meet but was topped by three county teams.

"The girls had a bad day," Tombros said. "Only two girls, Debbie Coleman and Sharon Jenkins, did up to their expectations. Our three, four, five and six runners were too far back. They aren't running anywhere near what they are capable of."

Coleman, only a sophomore, paced the Lady Seminoles with a time of 13:32.5 which was good for 25th place and a Seminole High sophomore record. Jenkins was second for Seminole with a time of 14:38 which put her in 47th place. Sarah Ellmore was next at 15:02 (54th place) followed by Crystal Caldwell (15:21, 59th), Sheila Crawford (15:23, 60th) and Katrina Walker (15:34, 62nd).

Tombros' point about the third through sixth runners was backed up by a junior varsity runner by the name of Glenda Bass. Bass turned in a time of 15:02 which placed her 10th in the JV race. However, Bass' time matched that of the third best varsity time (Ellmore's 15:02). Bass' time was 52 seconds better than her previous best. Other JV times included, Jackie Johnson (16th at 15:27), Andrea McKay (34th at 17:43) and Tracey Brown (45th at 19:23).

Lyman's no team score in the boys meet enabled Lake Mary to take top honors among Seminole County teams. The Rams' top three runners all finished among the top 20.

Leading the way was senior Tangeman who finished fourth at 16:41.3. Senior Mark Blythe finished 12th at 17:17.8 and Junior John Amrhein was 20th at 17:38. Lake Mary was without freshman stand-out Dominic Rundle but still managed to finish second in the meet.

The Lady Rams turned in a fifth place finish behind Leto, Lake Howell, Lake Brantley and Daytona Beach Father Lopez. The top finisher for Lake Mary was freshman Sue Kingsbury, who was battling a cold, came in fifth at 12:33.7. Kingsbury was the only Lake Mary runner among the top 25 but five of the remaining six runners either tied or bettered their previous best times of '83.

Tracy Blakely finished 33rd in the meet and tied her personal best of 13:55. Fran Gordon was next for Lake Mary as she shaved over 30 seconds off her best time with a 14:07 which was good for 35th place. Liz Stone, Andrea Beardslee and Shannon Weger all turned in their best times of the '83 season as Stone was 39th at 14:13, Beardslee was 44th at 14:30 and Weger was 45th at 14:33. Nikki Hays was also under the weather Saturday and she came in 53rd at 15:01.

"Most of our runners turned in their best times and you can't ask for anything better than that," Lake Mary coach Mike Gibson said. "Our pack is really starting to come together and I think we might surprise some people down the road. We'll start jelling as soon as the top five girls are under 14 minutes."

In the intense battle between Lake Howell's "Whiz Kids" and Lake Brantley's girls team, the Lady Hawks' consistency prevailed again. Lake Brantley's top two runners, Kathryn and Joanne Hayward, both finished ahead of Lake Howell's top runner. However, Lake Howell placed all six of its runners in the top 25 while the Lady Patriots placed three in the top 25.

Lake Howell's top finisher was sophomore Angie Smith who was ninth at 12:51.7. The Hawks' trio of fabulous freshman, Lisa Samocki and Mary and Martha Fonseca had another impressive outing. Samocki finished 12th at 12:57.7 while Martha Fonseca was 15th at 13:03.6 and Mary Fonseca was 17th at 13:31.1. The veterans of the Lake Howell team, juniors Lyn Lucas and Nancy Nystrom, also finished among the top 25 as Lucas was 20th at 13:22.7 and Nystrom was 22nd at 13:24.4.

"We didn't pack as well as we wanted," Lake Howell coach Tom Hammontree said. "But 12 of 21 of our kids ran their best times."

For Lake Brantley, Joanne Hayward had her best meet of the season as she finished eighth at 12:50.2. Next in line for the Lady Patriots was Traci Rowland who was 21st at 13:23.8. Other times included, Kim Lubenow (13:34), Barbara Holmes (13:44) and Kim Pacetelli (14:08). Holmes, usually the Patriots' number two runner, was also under the weather, and she ran fifth for Brantley Saturday.

"The key for us is to get Barbara (Holmes) back down by Joanne Hayward's time," Lake Brantley coach Jim Marshall said.

The Lady Hawks junior varsity dominated their meet with four of the top five runners and six of the top 10. Amy Ertel led the way with a 13:50 which was good for second place followed by Kim McCollum (third place at 13:52), Debbie Van Orden (fourth at 14:08), Kim Hammontree (fifth at 14:35), Lara Ruddy (seventh at 14:57) and Christine Grainger (ninth at 15:00).

Lyman had a pair of girls in the top 25. Cindy Gaskell was seventh at 12:48.4 and Julie Greenburg was 24th at 13:32.3.

Other top finishers in the boys meet included Oviedo's Marty Phillips (11th at 17:15) and Lyman's Steve Grundorf (23rd at 17:46.7). With Cheeseman dropping out, Lake Howell's number one finisher was Brad Dykes who posted a time of 17:22.

Trinity Prep's cross country team was not in a meet Saturday, but sophomore standout Adrienne Pollitowicz kept busy as she finished second overall, and first in the 12-14 age group. In the Poppa Jay's Run For My House four-mile road race at DeLand, Pollitowicz was second overall with a time of 24:24. Cindy Kline of Jacksonville just edged out Pollitowicz with a time of 24:10.

Orioles Clinch Division; Rose Keeps Phils Rolling

United Press International

Showing more balance than a high-wire act, the Baltimore Orioles have wound up towering over everyone else in the American League East.

"Everyone on this club has been a contributor this year," manager Joe Altobelli said Sunday after the Orioles parlayed power and young pitching into a division-titling 5-1 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers. "This is a level-headed club that gives you a good day's work for a good day's pay."

Jim Dwyer belted a three-run homer, Joe Nolan added a two-run blast and Storm Davis and Tippy Martinez combined on a six-hitter to give the Orioles their seventh AL East title since the league went to two-divisional play in 1969 and their first since 1979. They also won AL East championships in 1969, '70, '71, '73 and '74.

"It's a great feeling," designated hitter Ken Singleton said. "Some people say there's Orioles' magic. But it's not magic. We just have an awful lot of talent and ability here."

Baltimore will face the AL West champion Chicago White Sox in the best-of-five AL championship series, beginning Oct. 5 in Baltimore. Chicago clinched its title Sept. 17 with a victory over the Seattle Mariners.

The Orioles took a 3-0 lead in the third inning. Rich Dauer and Al Bumbry singled off starter Chuck Porter, 6-9. Dwyer then followed with his eighth home run of the season.

Baltimore added two more runs in the fourth. With one out, Ken Singleton tripled and Nolan followed with his fifth home run.

Milwaukee scored a run in the sixth when Bill Schroeder led off with a single, went to second on a passed ball and scored on a single by Robin Yount.

Davis, 13-6, went six innings for the victory before giving way to Martinez, who held the Brewers to three hits over the final three innings. When Martinez got Jim Gantner on a fly to Gary Roenicke to end the game, the Orioles walked to the mound to congratulate Martinez, then nonchalantly returned to the dugout.

Milwaukee manager Harvey Kuenn and pitcher Don Sutton visited the clubhouse to congratulate the team that took the title the Brewers won last year.

"They've had a great year," Kuenn said. "They were calm right after the game but I think it's because they had already clinched a tie Saturday."

Tigers 3, Red Sox 2
At Detroit, Kirk Gibson's home run and Alan Trammell's sacrifice fly plus the combined efforts of two relief pitchers carried the Tigers. Gibson led off the second with his 15th homer of the season to give Detroit a 1-0 lead off loser Dennis Boyd, 4-7. Doug Bair, 7-3, was the winner.

All-American Football Rebels Open With 3 Victories

Pop Warner

The All-American Rebels Football Conference began its second season by taking 3 of 4 games in Eustis this past Saturday. After a successful first year, which produced a state champion in the Midget Division, the Rebels will again field one team each in the Jr. Pee Wee, Pee Wee, Jr. Midget and Midget divisions.

The Rebels, which is Seminole County's only Pop Warner football program, has 110 boys players and 85 cheerleaders. The Rebels play their home games at Lake Brantley High's stadium.

The Jr. Pee Wee's, sponsored by Ron McDougald and family, began the season on a winning note, with a 6-0 victory over the Eustis Pumas. Sean Jones ran around left end for five yards and the only touchdown of the game. The young Rebels were led on offense by Jones who had 58 yards rushing, Scott Sheddock with 24 yards and Charlie Wilkerson with 45. The defensive standout was Shawn Martin who intercepted a pass and returned it for 23 yards. Lester Wilson scored on a pair of short runs in the second half, as the Jr. Midget Rebels, sponsored by Olin-American Homes of Florida, recorded a 21-0 shut out over the Eustis Lynx. Walter Sheddock started the scoring in the first half with a 15-yard TD run. Wilson led all rushers with 102 yards and Sheddock added 45. The Rebels' defense held Eustis to less than 50 yards total offense. Two pass interceptions by Timmy Boman led to two Rebel touchdowns.

The Midget Rebels, sponsored by the Gene Letterio Co., began defense of their state crown with a convincing victory over Eustis, 26-0. The only Rebel team to feel the agony of defeat was the Pee Wees, sponsored by D.S.I., a Dirt Shirts Co. from Titusville. The Pee Wees fell victim to the powerful Eustis Lions, 36-21. Next week, the All American Rebels will travel to Westridge Jr. High Field on Oak Ridge Rd. in Orlando, as they will take on the Southside Steelers in all divisions.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Junta Leader: Nicaragua Seeking Combat Planes

United Press International
Nicaraguan junta leader Daniel Ortega, leaving for a one-day visit to Cuba, acknowledged his government is seeking combat planes and stronger anti-aircraft defense to ward off attacks by anti-Sandinista rebels.
Ortega, coordinator of the Marxist-led ruling junta in Managua, spoke at the Cesar Augusto Sandino Airport before flying to Cuba, where some 80 Soviet-built MIG warjets earmarked for his regime reportedly are stored.
Ortega is scheduled to address the U.N. General Assembly Tuesday.
"We are making, we have made and we will continue to make efforts to acquire combat planes and to fortify our anti-aircraft defense," said Ortega, adding that recent attacks by rebel aircraft have endangered the Nicaraguan economy.

U.S. Missiles Opposed

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — Chancellor Helmut Kohl's government suffered two serious blows in regional voting that seemed to embrace the opposition Social Democratic Party's stand against installing new U.S. missiles in West Germany.

The balloting Sunday in Bremen and Hesse states was viewed as Kohl's first popularity test since his coalition of Christian Democrats and Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher's Free Democratic Party won national elections March 6 and Kohl took over as chancellor.

"It is not the result we expected and to that extent it is a bitter disappointment but we still consider our national policies to be the right ones. They cannot succeed overnight," Kohl told a television interviewer.

British Police Jeered

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Hundreds of British troops and police poured into Roman Catholic neighborhoods today to search for 27 terrorists who escaped from the top-security Maze Prison in Britain's biggest jailbreak.

One prison officer was stabbed to death and six others injured, one with serious gunshot wounds to the head, in Sunday's breakout by 38 convicted felons from the prison's wing for Irish Republican Army and Irish National Liberation Army outlaws.

Cease-Fire

Lebanese Truce Overshadows Reagan's U.N. Speech

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Reagan was in New York today to address the United Nations about arms control, but the world body's attention was focused on Lebanon, where the United States mediated an agreement for a cease-fire.

Reagan Sunday called the cease-fire "a critical first step" and said U.S. forces will remain in Lebanon while Moslem and Christian factions undertake the "formidable task" of national reconciliation.

Reagan was the lead-off speaker at the opening of the 38th U.N. General Assembly meeting today where he will unveil his new nuclear arms reduction proposal and use the world forum to level another attack on the Soviets for shooting down a Korean jetliner.

On the eve of his speech, the president hosted a reception for visiting heads of government and foreign ministers, with the exception of the Soviets, and attempted to smooth over a flap last week when a U.S.

diplomat said the United States would not get in the way if the United Nations decided to move elsewhere.

Reagan's arrival coincided with the news that a U.S.-mediated cease-fire had been declared in Lebanon after several weeks of violence and bloodshed.

Secretary of State George Shultz told reporters the mission of the U.S. troops in Lebanon remains unchanged and the contingent of 1,200 Marines in the peace-keeping force in the Beirut area will stay in place.

"I think, however, that they'll be a little more comfortable in carrying out that mission since they won't be subject to the cross-fire," Shultz said.

He said the United Nations will also be asked to provide neutral observers to police compliance of the cease-fire.

Neither Reagan nor Shultz were willing to make predictions on whether the cease-fire would hold in that war-torn nation. Reagan said he was keeping his "fingers crossed."

"There is still a long road to go in settling many of the issues there," he said.
"It is hoped that the guns will finally be stilled," he told the U.N. delegates at the reception he gave at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel Sunday night. "No one can underestimate the challenges that still lie ahead. Lebanon has been wracked by so many conflicting forces for so long that the building of peace and national reconciliation will be a formidable task, but this is a critical first step."

The president also went out of his way to reassure the diplomats they were welcome and said, "The United States is proud to be the home of the United Nations."

His remarks came in the aftermath of comments last week by Charles Lichenstein, the U.S. delegate to the United Nations, who during an argument with the Soviet delegate, said the United States would not mind if the world organization moved out of New York.

Marcos Tries To Appease Critics

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — President Ferdinand Marcos, trying to calm his troubled nation, said today he is willing to appoint new members to the commission investigating the murder of opposition leader Benigno S. Aquino Jr. to assure impartiality.

But a Marcos critic immediately labeled the proposal as "still stacking the cards" in favor of the government and the political opposition prepared more protests for this week, including a rally at the U.S. Embassy.

The capital appeared calm today, although students at the University of the East near the presidential palace staged a 30-minute "noise barrage" demonstration on campus. They pounded on desks, walls and boards and screamed "Marcos Resign," but did not attempt to take the protest to the streets.

In his address, his second nationwide talk in as many days, Marcos called on opposition leaders to stop obstructing the official investigation of the Aug. 21 assassination of Aquino.

The leaders have filed a challenge in the Supreme Court questioning the legality of the presidential inquiry commission, whose five members

Ferdinand Marcos
...willing to appoint new members to panel probing assassination of opposition political leader Benigno Aquino suspended hearings after only two sessions.

Marcos said the Aquino killing has "cast a shadow of doubt upon the government and benefited the radicals and the communist party which I believe participated in concocting this conspiracy."

He said he is willing to appoint two national assembly members if there are further obstacles to the participation of commission chairman Enrique Fernando, the Supreme Court chief justice. Another member, Guillermo Santos, is ill.

However, opposition lawyer Rene Saguisag swiftly criticized the proposal and said the entire five-member commission must be "overhauled."

"It's still stacking the cards," he said. "It should be a new group altogether, start out with a new set of cards."

Marcos also offered to provide protection to 11 witnesses the opposition claims to have to back up their charges of government complicity in the killing. He said the military has found six witnesses and that an agent who first reported the kill-Aquino plot has agreed to testify.

Soviets Turn Over Debris From KAL Jet

WAKKANAI, Japan (UPI) — The Soviet Union today turned over to Japan a grim cargo of debris and victims' personal effects recovered from the wreckage of the South Korean airliner shot down over the northern Sea of Japan.

The Japanese patrol ship Tsugaru retrieved the first cache of material from Korean Air Lines Flight 007 in a rendezvous at the fishing port of Nevelsk on the southwest side of Soviet-held Sakhalin Island.

The material did not include the downed plane's flight recorder, which is the subject of an intense search by American and Soviet ships off the southwest Sakhalin coast.

The officials said the patrol ship radioed its position and a brief inventory of its cargo after leaving Soviet territorial waters off Nevelsk at 2:15 p.m. local time.

The Soviets turned over 76 objects in five crates, including small pieces of aircraft wreckage and personal effects from crash victims, including a pair of slacks, agency spokesman Isamu Imura said.

The ship was expected to arrive in Otaru, on the northwestern side of the Japanese island of Hokkaido, early Tuesday.

The Boeing 747 was shot down by Soviet fighter planes Sept. 1 with 269 people aboard after it strayed into Soviet airspace.

At the same time, a bulletin issued by the U.S. Forces in Japan said, "Seventh Fleet ships continued to search in international waters off the southwest coast of Sakhalin Island for the wreckage of the downed Korean airliner."

Arrest Of Boston 'Godfather' May Crack Mob

BOSTON (UPI) — The FBI is hoping the arrest of the reputed "godfather" of the Boston mob and his top lieutenants will crack a $250,000-a-week criminal empire run from a nondescript storefront office in the Italian North End.

For 20 years, police and the FBI have sought to penetrate what they say is the Boston branch of the La Cosa Nostra run by Genaro Angiulo, 67, reputed underling to the "boss of bosses" of New England, ailing Raymond Patriarca of Providence, R.I.

But they say they were thwarted by the ancient Mafia code of "omertà" — silence under the penalty of death for members thinking of turning informer. However, in January 1981 FBI agents took a new, electronic tack, planting a court-approved bug in Angiulo's Prince Street headquarters, authorities said.

The eavesdropping provided the basis for authorities last week to arrest Angiulo and five of his lieutenants, including three brothers, on 20 federal racketeering counts in connection with six gangland slayings, a conspiracy to execute two other potential informers and gaming and loansharking operations.

Angiulo, who until his latest arrest had spent only two 30-day terms behind bars, and the others were hauled to jail.

The reputed mob boss, who lives in a $200,000 beachfront mansion in nearby Nahant and has a Jeep with "Italian Stallion" inscribed on the license plate, was arrested in a favorite restaurant.

A seventh defendant — another Angiulo brother — was indicted but remained at large.

One of his brothers has since been released on $500,000 bond. Angiulo, who is being held without bail and steadfastly claims his innocence, says he is seeking to get famed defense attorney F. Lee Bailey to argue his case.

War Powers Fight Heads To New Round

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats, determined to make the president acknowledge Congress's right to order troops out of Lebanon, were scheduled to bring the tug of war between the White House and Capitol Hill over powers to the Senate floor today.

The Senate Democrats, who say they were cut out of a compromise negotiated between their counterparts in the House and administration officials, lost an important battle last week. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved, on a 9-7 party line vote, a compromise plan that would allow the 1,200 Marines on duty in Beirut to stay for 18 more months.

The Senate Democrats want no part of the compromise, insisting that Reagan comply with the 1973 War Powers Resolution.

The law requires U.S. troops be withdrawn from hostile areas within 60 days unless the president obtains Congress's permission to keep them there.

The Marines are in Lebanon as part of a multinational peace-keeping force, along with forces from Italy, France and England. Four Marines have been killed since late August in shelling by Syrian-backed Moslem factions.

A cease-fire agreement, worked out Sunday between the Syrian-backed troops and the Lebanese government, went into effect today. Secretary of State George Shultz told reporters in New York Sunday the mission of the peace-keeping troops remains unchanged and the Marines will stay in place.

"I think, however, that they'll be a little more comfortable in carrying out that mission since they won't be subject to the cross-fire," Shultz said.

Two Marines were wounded Sunday near their base at Beirut airport, and the battleship USS New Jersey — the latest addition to a growing American naval force in the area — took up station off the coast. Four other Marines were wounded Friday.

Many members of Congress, on both sides of the aisle, fear the casualties will steadily mount if the Marines stay in Lebanon. Most feel that if the troops stay, Congress must have a say in that decision.

The compromise is basically an agreement to disagree and leaves unresolved the constitutionality of the war powers act, adopted to keep the nation from being drawn into another Vietnam.

The resolution would give Congress's assent for the troops to remain in Lebanon for 18 months and declare the authorization is required under the act. For his part, Reagan has agreed to sign the resolution but will state his disagreement about the applicability of the war powers measure.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee approved the plan on a 30-6 vote last week and the full House will take it up after the Senate, probably Wednesday.

Some Senate Democrats, as a fall-back position from demanding strict compliance with the war powers act, say Reagan should only be given a six-month authorization for continuing the U.S. military presence in Lebanon.

Such an amendment failed in the committee Friday, but Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., will try again in the full Senate. "I would expect there will be a substantial number of votes for my amendment," he said.

Even if the Democrats are united on the issue they will need several Republican defections to overcome the GOP's 55-45 Senate majority.

MX Tax Tab To Be $400 for Average Family

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The new and controversial MX nuclear missile system will consume about $400 of the tax bill paid by the average American family, a new study says.

The study, released Sunday, said the burden of payment for the MX will be carried by about 90 percent of the congressional districts, while 10 percent will receive the financial benefits related to producing the 10-warhead weapon. The average congressional district, the report said, will contribute about $60 million in taxes for the $27.5 billion nuclear missile system.

The study, "The Political Economy of the MX Missile," was done by Employment Research Associates, a Lansing, Mich., consulting firm that specializes in the impact of defense spending on the economy.

"The $27.5 billion projected for the development and procurement costs alone of the MX missile will cost the average American family over $400," it said. "It will cost the nation as a whole a net loss of over 385,000 jobs."

According to Dr. James Anderson of Michigan State University, Texas will be the biggest loser in the MX procurement sweepstakes, with a net loss of $1.7 billion, followed by Illinois, $1.6 billion; New York, $1.5

billion; and Michigan, $1.1 billion.

It said of the $27.5 billion projected cost of the MX, more than $24 billion will be spent in just six states: California, a net winner of $9.5 billion; Colorado, $4.3 billion; Massachusetts, $2 billion; Utah, $1.5 billion; Washington, $1.1 billion; and Arizona, $166 million.

Anderson said 392 of the nation's 435 congressional districts will show a substantial net loss of tax dollars if the MX is built.

The study, using both government and non-government figures, compared the tax dollars taken out of each district to pay for the MX with the dollars that

Will Watt Last Out The Week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James Watt is insisting he has no plans to quit, but the demands for the interior secretary's resignation are mounting and there is increasing speculation that he won't last out the week.

Observers kept a careful watch on Watt's Interior Department office today where a routine meeting with his staff was sure to be dominated by discussion about his future, put into question by his description last week of an advisory board he said was made up of "a black... a woman, two Jews and a cripple."

Steve Goldstein, a spokesman for Rep. Manuel Lujan, R-N.M., one of Watt's strongest congressional supporters, said Sunday Lujan's office was told by "high-level department sources" that Watt would hold a meeting today with top aides to "assess the fallout over the weekend."

But Watt's spokesman, Douglas Baldwin, tried to downplay the importance of the session, saying that Watt "meets every Monday, Tuesday and Friday morning with his senior staff. That's not the purpose of the meeting."

Baldwin, in a telephone interview, was asked whether Watt would resign and replied, "No." Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes, questioned in New York where President Reagan was to address the United Nations today, would say only: "I know of no change in Watt's situation. The situation is stable."
