Always changing, always shifting its values, the modern city presents a perplexing problem to the real estate investor.

New conditions—new industries—new avenues of traffic—all have their bearing on the future of a city. New values spring up, some permanent, others transitory. Whole acres become unsuitable to their previous purpose. Districts of small consequence suddenly open up vast possibilities.

In the face of these changing conditions the counsel of a realtor supplies the necessary guidance for real estate investment. By his constant study and observation he is able to anticipate the trend of local expansion, and advise his clients concerning values. If you would profitably invest in Real Estate, residential, commercial, industrial or farm, consult a realtor; in him you will find the specialized service that is the result of honorable devotion to his chosen profession.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Raymond C. Shannon of the National Museum staff, here in Washington, is on his way to the Argentine to hunt big game.

Mosquitoes. If anybody doesn't consider them big game, the place's unacquainted with the Argentine mosquito, that's all.

Argentine is an insectivorous land as there is on earth. One might suppose Brazil would be worse, because Brazil lies right on the equator, naturally is hot, in the main, and bugs thrive in a tropical climate. Whereas Argentina is mostly south of the Tropic of Capricorn.

Well, it's true Brazil has lots of insect pests, but certainly not more than Argentina. Besides, Brazil's while massive, aren't so active—tropical latitude, you know. Argentina's have all the pep and energy of the southern temperate zone.

Then, too, there's a difference between the Brazilian and Argentine peoples.

The Brazilians, like their bugs, have the dreamy indifference of the tropics. "Let 'em bite," is their attitude. The Argentines, a snappier race, object to being chewed up.

It seems President Alvar spent a night in Santa Fe province, away from his mosquito net in Buenos Aires, recently, and just escaped being eaten alive. It's summer that side of the line now. So as soon as he got back to the capital he told the ministry of agriculture that something just had to be done.

The ministry of agriculture appealed to the Rockefeller Foundation, the mosquito's arch-foe, on the ground that he spreads yellow fever and malaria—at least some varieties of him do.

The foundation recommended Shannon, as perhaps the world's foremost mosquito expert, to direct a campaign against the nuisance.

Shannon had an odd career. He started in a Washington orphan asylum. At the age of 10 he got a job in the Bureau of Entomology, at the Department of Agriculture.

Here he literally lived in an atmosphere of bugs, day in and day out. He learned their ways by a process of absorption, as it were. He was bright too. The scientists about him grew interested in his progress and showed and told him things.

Shannon expects just the task of classification in Argentina to take him two or three years, an estimate which speaks for itself as to the ungodly swarms there must be there.

He has fought mosquitos in many parts of the world.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Dear me" cried the Truffle Hunter. "That is because I ate eggs for breakfast."

"So you are after the Blue Cherry Tree that grows on Cherry Bounce Hill?" said the Truffle Hunter when the visitors were seated and Waldo, his servant, had gone out to bring in some lemonade. "I never knew there was a blue cherry tree there."

"There isn't exactly," said Juke. "All the cherries are red except one. And that one is not only blue, but it had a blue gem in it instead of a stone. Besides all that, it is magic."

"And he told all about poor Twinkle Pen drinking the ink and how the only way to cure him was to find the blue cherry as soon as possible."

"I shall be delighted to help you," said the Truffle Hunter. "I often look for truffles under the trees on Cherry Bounce Hill. And with my long nose I may be able to smell the tree that has the blue cherry on it. Waldo, hurry with the lemonade—we're all going out."

Waldo waddled in with some lemonade in glasses and passed it around. Juke took a glass and Nick took a glass, and Nancy took a glass, and Mister Truffle Hunter took a glass, and Waldo was just going to take the last glass for himself, when suddenly Paddyfoot, the mouse, popped his head up out of Juke's pocket and squeaked, "Don't I eat any?"

"At this Waldo was so startled that he dropped his lemonade and dived out of the window. But he came in almost as quickly as he went out, crying, "Master, master, the bill's gone again! There's nothing there but a meadow. There's no hill at all!"

"Dear me," cried the Truffle Hunter. "That is because I ate eggs for breakfast!"

"Eggs for breakfast?" cried Juke and the Twins. "What has that to do with it?"

"That's what I should like to know," said the Truffle Hunter. "But it seems that every single time I eat eggs for breakfast something happens. Has that ever happened to you?"

"Yes," answered Paddyfoot impatiently. "If it doesn't take too long."

"It won't," answered the Truffle Hunter. "Besides, what if it does? The hill isn't there any way. It has homed away and probably won't be back until it hits the Rocky Mountains and bounces back again. Cherry Bounce Hill is as bouncy as if it grew rubber trees instead of cherry trees. They say that rubber trees used to grow on it and that the roots are still there. But to go on with my story."

"Once upon a time when I was a little boy, I had a little hen called Ambrose. She was a nice little hen and used to crow to show how much she loved me."

"Hens don't crow," laughed Nick. "Besides Ambrose is a funny name for a hen. Don't you mean she was a rooster?"

"The hen?" said the Truffle Hunter crossly. "There you go, too, just like everybody else! I named her when she was just out of the egg. She was sort of amber and sort of rose colored, so I called her Ambrose. And when she got older and learned how to crow, I couldn't help that either, could I?"

"Here Waldo began to cry. "She was an awful cute chicken," he sniffled. "I never held it against her that she tried to swallow my tail one time, thinking it was a worm."

"But what has that got to do with your bad luck?" asked Juke. "Why can't you eat eggs without something happening?"

"Why don't you see one day we had chicken pot pie, and I never knew until I had had three helpings that it was Ambrose! Not Ambrose, but Ambrose," said the Truffle Hunter sadly. "I said then that I would never eat another bite of chicken or an egg as long as I lived. Sometimes I forget and eat an egg and when I do I always have bad luck."

"Suddenly there was a bang. "That's the Truffle Hunter," said "Cherry Bounce Hill is back again. Let's go!"

Severe Cold Prevents President's Wife From Filling Engagement

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP)—A severe cold prevented Mrs. Coolidge from attending a dinner last night and sent White House attaches searching for precedents to guide Mr. Coolidge's attendance with another partner.

The dinner was given at the Willard Hotel by Attorney General and Mrs. Sargent and was one of the weekly affairs by Cabinet members and their wives in honor of the President and Mrs. Coolidge. At the last moment Mrs. Coolidge felt she should remain at the White House and the President, wishing to attend the affair, sought another partner.

A search of several precedents disclosed that President-elect Coolidge had been accompanied by Mrs. McKinley, and the source was advised. Harvard and suffragettes revealed that Mrs. William M. Jardine, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture had no engagements last evening and she accepted the invitation.

BASEBALL WORLD MOURNS DEATH OF EDDIE PLANK

Famous Athletic Moundsman Of Yesteryear Is Stricken With Paralysis 3 Days Ago And Succumbs Wednesday

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The baseball world today was mourning for Eddie Plank, one of the greatest left-handed pitchers of his time, who died yesterday.

He was stricken with paralysis three days ago. Death came four months after Christy Mathewson, his right-handed rival in several World's Series battles, had succumbed to tuberculosis.

Plank was 51 years old. His physician said that 16 years of strenuous work with the Philadelphia Athletics and one season with the St. Louis Federal League club had left his heart in a weakened condition.

Many telegrams of condolence came to Mrs. Plank and her 10-year-old son.

At the Athletic's training camp in Fort Myers, Fla., Connie Mack said: "I feel like a father must feel when he has lost a son. The world has lost a fine, clean sportsman. Eddie was one of the smartest left-hand pitchers in baseball. He was a member of the cross-country team and that was one of his top assets."

Thomas S. Shibe, president of the Athletics, said: "A great ball player in his day and a level-headed character, one of the great athletes of the game. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today at the First Baptist church. The body will be in state from 1 until 3 o'clock."

Getting Up Nights

Tells you there is danger. A healthy bladder does not act at night. J. H. Dorton, W. Graham, Va., says: "I had to get up seven or eight times at night for 40 years. I thought it was my age. After taking Lithiated Buchu a short time, I am alright." Lithiated Buchu cleanses the bladder, thereby relieving irritation, driving out foreign matter and neutralizing excessive acids. These are the causes of unnatural action of the bladder at night. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) is not a cheap medicine. The tablets cost 2 cents each. Sold at all leading drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Sold by Roumillat & Anderson.

Finest Buick Transportation at Lower Cost. More Buicks are now being sold than ever before in Buick history. And an important reason is the fact that, though an expensive build, a Buick may be inexpensively purchased. Buick could spend less money building its chassis, and still keep the quality up to the average in Buick's price class. The famous Buick Valve-in-Head engine is a more expensive type to build. Buick could use a steering gear less expensive than the 5-control-surface steering mechanism which adds so much to Buick's driving ease. The Torque-Tube Drive also adds expense to Buick manufacture, as do the "Sealed Chassis," the "Triple Sealed" engine, full pressure engine lubrication, the Buick multiple-disc, dry-plate clutch, and Buick mechanical 4-wheel brakes. Buick closed bodies are built by Fisher to the most exacting standards laid down by any manufacturer today. Quality, regardless of its cost, rules Buick design. But thanks to the sustained popularity of this quality, purchasers actually pay less for it. Vast volume gives Buick owners finer transportation at lower cost. On the other hand, it was contended that prospective steady exports of autumn wheat would indicate large increases hereafter in the United States visible supply, that July delivery in this country is on a good export relationship, even aside from chances of crop scares and exhausted reserves.

DIXIE MANIFESTS MUCH INTEREST IN RAIL MERGER

Absorption Of The Atlanta, Birmingham And Atlantic Railroad By Coast Line Is Practically Completed Now

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 25—(A)—Great interest was manifested today in the practical absorption of the Atlanta, Birmingham, and Atlantic Coast Line Railroad by the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, which was announced yesterday by Col. B. L. Burg, receiver of the A. B. and A. The latter railroad has been in the hands of a receiver since 1921.

This gives the A. C. L. control of three railroad systems in the southeast, the third one between the Louisville and Nashville which was acquired several years ago but has been operating it as a separate company.

Under the agreement effected between the A. C. L. and the A. B. and A. the former assumes all the obligations of the present receivership, and a reorganization of the finance of the A. B. and A. is fully provided for. It adds 640 miles of trackage to the A. C. L. system which already extends through Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and Alabama.

The A. B. and A. extends from Brunswick and Atlanta through the heart of Georgia to Brunswick, on the Atlantic coast, junction with the A. B. and A. being effected at Offman, Ga. In an attempt to get him to come here for the position.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

SALVATION FROM GOD—"I have waited for thy salvation, O Lord." Gen. 49: 18.

PRAYER—"Therefore, O Lord, we also would wait on Thee, to be of good courage, and receive heart strength from Thee."

THE DOCTORS

I like to talk with business men with bankers and with clerks. And I can spend a pleasant hour with any man who works.

The doctors have so much to tell I want to know about. I like to hear the surgeons talk of what they've taken out.

When comes my doctor in to me to sit beside my bed. Although I've called him to work, I hope he'll talk instead.

Now bankers talk of money, and your artists talk of art. And there's a sort of wisdom in the knowledge that life and death, the cause and cure of pain.

"What do we think of Mussolini, asks the Kansas City Star? Well we really don't use that kind of language."

Mr. William Harrison Dempsey, last in war, first in peace, and last in the hearts of his countrymen.

Women don't use profanity much, but they think a whole lot when they burn the biscuits.

There are a few people who have money to burn, but as we understand it they don't do it because the smoke is so unattractive.

Today's best laugh. Anyway, Adam was never called upon to hook up Eve's dresses.—Fort Pierce News Tribune.

We have been told that money isn't everything, but did you ever think how convenient it is to have it when the house rent is due?

This Charleston dance is such a shake-up affair, we are inclined to believe that Henry Ford had something to do with introducing it.

"Garter watchers are much in evidence here at this time, says a society squire in the Miami Tribune. 'Garter Watchers' are also in evidence everywhere.—O. O. McIntyre, Ft. Myers squire, you aren't talking about Sanford.

Speaking of a funny feeling, how would you like for one of your office forces to announce that the undertaker was waiting to see you? That happened to us the other day, and for a minute we thought maybe we were dead, and didn't know it.

"Yesterday the writer was one of the marked guests of the mayor's court, instead of one of the publicity attaches.—Harry Neal in Kissimmee Gazette. 'Smatter Harry, did you try to take all of the street, or commit mayhem on the some dramatic grocer?'

Adverse Advertising

One of the most regrettable departures from established newspaper ethics ever recorded in the state of Florida, or in any other state, appeared last night when eight pages of pure, unadulterated real estate "bull" of the most inflated type were sold and distributed on the streets under the misleading caption of "Midnight Extra of the Tampa Tribune."

The action of a newspaper in apparently "selling out" to a realty firm in this manner should draw the condemnation of every right thinking Florida citizen. The Herald is profoundly interested in seeing all sections of Florida advertised in all parts of this great nation.

If future effects of the "extra" issued last night were confined to Tampa and Winter Haven the rest of the state would have no complaint, but the loss of confidence and the general lowering of prestige that are sure to result from the issue's circulation will damage all sections of the state.

In the "extra" the realty activity of the comparatively small city of Winter Haven is termed "the awakening of a nation." The city is described as "the most naturally scenic spot in North America."

Such publicity appearing in booklet form would perhaps get by, but the incorporation of such rot in a so-called extra bearing the name of the Tampa Tribune is too gross a pill to swallow without more than one hiccup.

It is comforting to know that the cheap auction style of publicity carried in the Tribune's disreputable issue is not typical of the majority of Florida's advertising.

No More Left Turns

The police department took steps yesterday to remedy a very unsatisfactory condition that has existed in traffic circles for sometime. Several months ago the City Commission adopted an ordinance prohibiting left turns at Magnolia Avenue and First Street, and at First Street and Park Avenue.

The police department yesterday launched a campaign against traffic at these corners, and conspicuous arrests were reported around the silent policemen and other indications against left turning which have been placed in evidence leave no room for the culprit's plea of ignorance of the law.

Like every other traffic measure, the successful enforcement of the ordinance depends largely upon the cooperation exhibited by the motoring public. The law was enacted for the motorist's benefit. It is designed to reduce accidents to a minimum, and its wisdom will become apparent on every occasion when Sanford's streets are jammed with automobiles.

Sanford people should learn to appreciate the fact that traffic laws are enforced for and not against them. The development of a spirit of active cooperation between the police department and the motorist, and a greater realization of the mutual benefits that will result from a closer observance of traffic rules will go far toward steering Sanford around the many traffic problems that arise in all rapidly growing communities.

REGARDING MY recent visit to Florida, I returned with an altogether favorable attitude toward conditions existing there. While, at first blush, present values appear somewhat inflated, one must not pass, without serious consideration, the fact that Florida has something to sell which does not exist in any other part of the United States (with possibly one exception)—namely, a wonderful climate and continued sunshine, both of which Florida is capitalizing for all they are worth.

Sanford people should learn to appreciate the fact that traffic laws are enforced for and not against them. The development of a spirit of active cooperation between the police department and the motorist, and a greater realization of the mutual benefits that will result from a closer observance of traffic rules will go far toward steering Sanford around the many traffic problems that arise in all rapidly growing communities.

"MY SON, observe the postage stamp! Its usefulness depends upon its ability to stick to one thing until it gets there.—John Billings.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

IN THE NATURE OF A SHOCK

Ring Lardner agrees with me that Riley Wilson is one of the best story tellers who ever came out of the South. Not long ago Wilson told this one to Lardner and me.

He likes to go to horse races when he is not playing politics in his own state of West Virginia. Indeed he owns a string of race horses.

At the Latonia track one during a meet Riley ran to a rural friend of his from Tennessee and in the goodness of his heart gave him a tip on a horse which he had entered for one of the events.

"Speaking of a funny feeling, how would you like for one of your office forces to announce that the undertaker was waiting to see you? That happened to us the other day, and for a minute we thought maybe we were dead, and didn't know it.

Heroes, Human And Sub-Human

Miami Tribune

The Weems "Life of Washington" is now little more than a tradition. Yet its dreadful influence rolls on. It was the Rev. Mr. Weems who first put into circulation that famous hatchet story.

"When George was about six years old, he was made the wealthy master of a hatchet, of which, like most little boys, he was immoderately fond; and was constantly going about chopping everything that came in his way.

One day, in the garden, where he often amused himself hacking his mother's pea-sticks, he unluckily tried the edge of his hatchet on the body of a beautiful young English cherry tree, which he barked so terribly, that I don't believe the tree ever got the better of it.

"This was a tough question; and George staggered under it for a moment; but quickly recovered himself; and looking at his father with the sweet face of youth brightened with the inexpressible charm of all-conquering truth, he bravely cried out: 'I cannot tell a lie. I did cut it with my hatchet.'

"It is very evident to those who have even a slight acquaintance with Florida that many of those who have come into the state to write about it found what they left behind to find—and wrote about that. These could have written as well, and probably more truthfully, had they never left home at all.

There are seven reasons why Florida will be built like some of the thickly populated northern states, and they are: its climate, its famous winter resorts, the fertility of the soil, the timber, its fisheries, its numerous mines, and manufacturing.

With all these assets, Florida is bound to be one of the foremost states in the Union. The climate in Florida is excellent, with its warm, balmy breezes and soothing ocean atmosphere.

"DON'T TALK TO THE BARBER" FORT MYERS TROPICAL NEWS

We noticed a sign in a barber shop in this city the other day. It read: "Please do not talk to the barber." We could hardly believe our eyes.

Barbering is becoming as cold and business-like an occupation as tailoring or butchering. The funny tales for which the barber shop was notorious in the early days have long been relegated to the pages of certain pornographic publications which are found at most of the larger newsstands.

Attractive Visitors Are Entertained at Milane Theater Party

Among the many social courtesies with which Misses Marion and Margaret Spicer of Richmond, Va., the guests of Mrs. R. R. Eldridge, are being honored, one of the most delightful was that of Wednesday afternoon when Miss Margaret Roberts and Mrs. Ernest Cornely entertained at a maine party at the Milane Theater.

Following the show, the guests returned to the home of the hostesses for refreshments.

The spacious living room was converted into a veritable bower with masses of dainty plum blossoms and many hued sweet peas. Refreshments of a tempting salad course with coffee were served at a late hour. The favors were miniature baskets and nosegays of sweet peas.

The guests were Misses Margaret and Marion Spicer, Mrs. Morris Spencer, Mrs. R. R. Eldridge, Mrs. Cobb, Mrs. Brodie Williams, Mrs. Osborne Williams, Mrs. Holt and Mrs. Burke Steel.

Mrs. Maud Clark Wins Gaylord Library Prize

In a library contest held by Gaylord Brothers of Syracuse, N. Y., Mrs. Maud Clark was awarded the prize for submitting one of the best rules to be printed on library book pockets. Mrs. Clark turned the check received over to the library for some special gift to be selected. The rules are to be published later, and the library was greatly pleased to have one of its staff receive this honor.

Goldenrod

Mrs. E. F. Wheeler delightfully entertained the members of the W. F. M. S. of Oviedo and Goldenrod, Tuesday afternoon at her home in Oviedo.

A very interesting business session was held, in which the president proposed the plan of dividing the society into three groups to be known as the North, South and Lake Charn groups.

The plan was unanimously adopted and the following group leaders chosen: Mrs. T. L. Lingo, north; Mrs. Burnett, south; and Mrs. Charles, west, Lake Charn group.

The group meetings are to be held on the first Tuesday afternoon of each month and the joint meeting of all the societies of the group is to be held in the homes and the joint meetings at the church.

Following the business meeting a show program of music was given and refreshments of brick tea, cream and food cake, hot tea and coffee were served by the hostess.

The house was beautifully decorated with cherry blossoms. Miniature hatches, suggestive of Washington's birthday, were given as favors.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Crews and family, Mr. N. J. Farmer of Oviedo, and Mr. Jas. and Miss Willie E. Plunke were guests Sunday at Mrs. S. Wood and family.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Collicutt, Miss Rade Brown and Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Brown attended the meeting of the O. E. S. in Winter Park, Thursday evening.

Heliotrope perfume, someone tells me, is now made mainly from pepper. Flowers are being replaced in perfume manufacture by chemistry.

But the knowledge that ambergris, the base of most expensive perfumes, was only an offering from a distressed whale's stomach, never seemed to bother women any more than the fact that pearls were made from the oyster's attempt to get rid of grit or sand inside his shell, so there is little hope that perfume cyclones will cease to assail our olfactory nerves.

Commission Asked To Build City Pool

In a communication to the City Commission read at the meeting of that body held yesterday afternoon, the City Planning Board suggested that a swimming pool be constructed on a site to be selected, and operated as a municipal project.

Tia Juana Prepares For Big Boom

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a series of articles by Russell J. Birdwell, special writer for NEA Service and The Herald, telling of conditions at Tia Juana, Mexican border town, where two American girls were outraged so that they and their parents committed suicide for shame.

BY RUSSELL J. BIRDWELL,
NEA Service Writer

TIA JUANA, Mexico, Feb. 25.—What effect will the contemplated investigation by the United States government into this dumping ground for wasted humanity have on its future?

Dive bosses are not worrying about interference from the American or any other government with their trafficking in vice.

"All of this notoriety will blow over in a short time and then business will be better than it has been in years," one dive boss said.

Without exception, Santatown denizens are planning for the biggest year they have ever had. Distillers are working overtime in order to produce a sufficient abundance of "old whiskies" within the next few weeks.

Building Hotels. Americans financially interested in the resorts of sin, are making plans to erect modern hotels to keep the "sucker" business on this side of the line because of the American government's action in closing the border at 6 p. m.

Loper Lane's lowest dives still beckon for business with the wan smiles of women who have called beyond the port of hope. It is the melting pot for all that is worst in many races. A Chinese bartender serves the scorching hot, spicy, a negro bouncer arranges dates for "suckers" with the American and Mexican girls; an American jazz band furnishes music for the catch-as-catch-can dancing.

And out of this "legalized evil" and more like it, the Mexican government annually receives enormous sums of money as its share in the political raffle.

"Tia Juana will always be wide open as long as 'suckers' continue to be born," one American, who has made a fortune here, told me. Just when detectives and newspaper men from all parts of the United States were ferreting out the sore condition of this border place in the hope of bringing justice to the Mexicans who outraged Clyde and Audrey DeLoach, dive bosses were being instrumental in exonerating Tia Juana of all blame—at the expense of leading upon the graves of the violated girls.

Assaulted Girls. Even an American woman, San Yalidro, nee the border, from here, through its Chamber of Commerce, sent a resolution to Washington completely whitewashing this tainted town and placing the blame upon the two American girls, who preferred death to life after being attacked in this Mexican town.

A clause in this startling resolution, besmitches the character of the girls whose lips are sealed and can make no answer. It reads:

"The conduct of the girls in Tia Juana might readily have warranted the belief that immoral approaches would be acceptable." When the resolution was handed J. P. Conway, president of the Chamber of Commerce, refused to sign it and resigned his post.

"Thank God, I haven't forgotten I am an American," he said.

Miss Dorothy Turner, debutante of Mobile, Ala., was a confirmed queen of the Mardi Gras in that city. The carnival is celebrated by one of the oldest mystic societies in the United States.

Hoff Again Breaks Pole Vault Record

NEW YORK, Feb. 24 (AP).—Charley Hoff, sporting sensation

Blasphemy Charge Faces Bimba As He Is Placed On Trial

BROCKTON, Mass., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Anthony Bimba, Lithuanian editor and lecturer of Brooklyn, whose denial of the existence of God has stirred a controversy on the right of "free speech" that has swept New England, had his day in court today. He is charged with blasphemy and sedition.

His case was the third on the Plymouth District Court. Only 60 spectators could have been accommodated, but many more were on hand to clamor for admission.

Many were sympathizers who regarded Bimba's trial as a test of the 229-year-old Massachusetts blue law statute under which he is being tried and which has been invoked but once before.

Bimba, whose arrest followed an address at a Lithuanian hall here last January, in which he is alleged to have declared:

"There are still fools who believe in God". Last night he reiterated his unbelief at another meeting here.

"Science and experience have proved to me that there is no God," he shouted. "It was not God that made man but man that made God."

Last night's meeting was the first his supporters have succeeded in holding. Attempts in other cities have met with police action or warnings that sufficed to call off arrangements.

Many residents here regard the case as simply a dispute between two factions of Lithuanians.

Charles Ponzi Faces Third Charge In Connection With His Florida Land Project

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Charles Ponzi, Boston financial wizard, awoke today facing the third concurrent charge in connection with his latest venture—the promotion and sale of his Rose Marie land sub-division in Columbia county.

The third charge on the form of a federal warrant issued late yesterday accusing him of using the United States mails for fraudulent purposes. The Federal officers said they did not concern themselves with his sale of lots, but rather with his offering for sale, through the mails his units of investments.

They said they had complaints from individuals in the following cities as a basis for the warrant: St. Louis, Boston, Medford, Mass., Readville, Mass., Miami, St. Petersburg, Toledo, Lyons, O., Pittsburgh, Felton, Del., Moose River, Me., Minneapolis, Lansing, Niagara Falls, Fairfield, Ala., and Cartersville, Ga.

The investigation, which led to the issuance of the warrant, was conducted largely by the Better Business Bureau, which organization also caused his recent arrest and indictment in connection with the same enterprise by Florida authorities.

Ponzi now is at liberty under bond of $5000 on the Florida charge and also is under bond on Massachusetts charges in connection with his old coupon scheme. Since he launched his latest business here, Ponzi has again been indicted in the Bay state, charged with violation of the Massachusetts blue sky laws.

His Boston manager, Calcedonia Alviti, was indicted with him in Massachusetts and also in Florida. No mention was made of Alviti in the Federal charges.

The "Wizard" could not be located last night and his attorney was requested to produce him today. Failure to do this would result in an intensive search for him, federal officers said.

Rattlesnake Oil Is Being Harvested In Texas at High Price

CISCO, Tex., Feb. 25.—Rattlesnake oil at $100 a gallon has brought a new industry to this section of Texas. Cisco long has been known as an oil center but this is an entirely new phase of the business. The oil is used in medicine.

This is the time for harvesting the rattlesnake crop, because the rattlers are dormant. A keen eye and a quantity of dynamite are required. Search is made among the hills for a den of rattlers. The den is dynamited and the snakes are brought out. They are then rendered into oil.

One snake produces only a small quantity but sometimes several hundred snakes are found in one den.

Consolidation Suggested By Coast Officials, Is Belief

Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, Georgia Railroad, Atlanta and West Point, Western Railway of Alabama, Columbia, Newberry and Laurens, Winston-Salem Southbound, Charleston and Western Carolina.

No Name Change

There has been no intimation as to whether the merged system would bear the name of the Atlantic Coast Line. When the Southern Railway System changed the name of its subsidiaries several years ago and gave them its own system was divided into two units for operating purposes named Lines East and Lines West.

The Coast Line it is believed will place its name on all of its properties in a subordinate position.

The Atlantic Coast Line and its subsidiaries, with the addition of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic, Mississippi Central, the Winston-Salem branch of the Norfolk and Western, and the Florida East Coast, to have formed Group 11 in the consolidation plan under the Transportation Act contemplated the creation of nineteen great systems of all the railroads in the country.

KANSAS CHORUS OF 500 TO SING OLD "MESSIAH"

Custom Established 45 Years To Be Observed With Great Assembly And Festivities; Original Chorus Was Of 40

LINDSBORG, Kan., Feb. 25.—(AP)—For the forty-fifth consecutive year Kansas prairie will ring with Lindsborg's rendition of Handel's "Messiah" next month.

It will be a gathering of musical artists—Claire Dux, soprano with the Chicago Opera Company; Desolina Giannini, another American soprano who next fall is to appear as guest prima donna with Berlin and Hamburg opera companies; Carleton Cummings, Chicago tenor and others.

But the "Messiah's" swelling recitatives, as always, will be sung by natives of this little community who have sung it for years.

It was back in 1881 that an industrious and far-seeing young man, by dint of hard work and enthusiasm organized the first "Messiah" chorus of forty voices. Today that chorus numbers 500 members. Mrs. Swenson, organizer and first director of the chorus, still sings in the soprano section. Doctor Swenson died in 1901.

Soloists Chosen

Soloists already have been chosen for the one hundred and thirty-third rendition, March 28 and April 2 and 4. Eighteen recitals and concerts have been planned and are the first time in its history the festival will sponsor a music and art contest.

The soloists for the Messiah include Mrs. Agnes Clark-Gladster, Denver, soprano; Mrs. Raymond Havens, Kansas City, contralto; Carleton Cummings, Chicago, tenor and Sigurd Nilssen, New York, bass. In addition, each of the soloists will give a recital. Bethany Symphony Orchestra will assist.

The Flonzaley Quartet, organized twenty-two years ago, will open the festival Palm Sunday afternoon.

The scene of Lindsborg's festivities—the child of Bethany College—is the college auditorium, a huge, octagonal-shaped building which houses a beautifully-toned pipe organ. The auditorium, seating 2,000, was built in 1895 with lumber donated by C. A. Smith of Minneapolis, a Swedish lumberman. Two dozen Lindsborg citizens gave shape to the wood.

IN NEW YORK

GILBERT SWAN
NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Of all the peculiar jobs to be found in this hodge-podge of humanity, about as odd an occupation as I have encountered is that of the porter at the Pennsylvania railroad station who goes about with a scraper removing the weeds of gum tossed to the tiled floor by thousands of thoughtless people.

Following his trail for a few moments I was astounded at the recklessness with which young women abandon their gum in a great public place.

The porter explained to me that he was indeed a hard lot, for if he did not pounce upon freshly tossed weeds they would soon be spread hard and fast upon the tiling by the feet of rushing commuters.

To demonstrate his point he led me to the concrete lane through which pass the subway crowds who leave and enter the depot. There he pointed to millions of oval and oblong spots, dotting the floor like some strange mosaic.

"Gum!" he said dramatically, and went back to his toil.

And I thought of Sisyphus, of the Greek legend, who was sentenced by the gods to roll a great rock which never could reach the top of the hill, for as fast as he moved it a few feet back it would slide.

There is nothing particularly important about announcing the opening of a new Broadway theater. New structures seem to rise as fast as builders can put them together. Some have unique features, such as the Guild Theater where the lobby and the balcony-the-acts rooms might be the pride of the most elaborate hotel.

The other evening the Mansfield Theater opened. Mrs. Richard Mansfield, widow of the great artist, was there and made her most modest bow and there were the customary gestures of celebration. But the point of the story is that standing in the balcony, was a young man by name of Irwin Chanin.

Eight years ago Chanin left college after completing an engineering course. He began with building houses and wound up with skyscrapers in Brooklyn. Then, feeling sorry for the dwellers in New York, he hopped over the bridge and went in for modern lofts.

In college, however, he had gone in heavily for dramatics, and one day he found the stage bug biting too industriously and appeared upon Broadway to show how to build a show house. He is 33 years old at the present writing and already has three theaters to his credit, which include the Biltmore and the Plymouth. His brother Henry is in with him now and there is every reason to believe they will be responsible for a new Broadway skyline.

All this within eight years. It's just another romance of Manhattan where gold is at the end of a hard day's work and not at the end of the rainbow.

SURVEY REVEALS POSSIBILITIES OF SOUTHWEST SOIL

States Taking Action To Get Better Irrigation For All Territory In Dry Farm Area And For Better Stock

DENVER, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The farming belt of the United States, moving westward again, is expanding to include in the area of great productivity the region embracing Western Kansas, parts of Oklahoma, the Panhandle of Texas and Eastern New Mexico, says A. Lincoln Fellows, irrigation engineer of the department of agriculture with headquarters here.

Mr. Fellows has just completed a survey and reached the conclusion that the transformation of this area into profitable agricultural land will be accomplished largely through the supplementing of dry farming with irrigation. Irrigation will make great strides here, he predicts, with the largest number of irrigation projects located in the Texas Panhandle.

Older methods of dry farming must give way to more advanced and intensified methods under pressure of economic conditions, in his judgment.

"Where the farmer who first settled the dry farming belt was contented with a bare living and very few of the comforts of life, the present-day farmer must have his modern conveniences, automobile and radio included, and must make better profits to pay for these things," he said.

A few dollars per acre expended in irrigating dry farming land, where small quantities of water are available, will produce an extra bale of cotton per acre, or an additional amount of grain to pay for the improvement several times over.

"From that portion of the land of the Southwest which will never be good for anything but stock grazing, because of its formation and other natural conditions, greater profit can be developed by a system of feeding centers for the livestock at water holes with capacity gauged by the available supply of water."

READING COURSE BOOKS SUGGEST OFFERED AS AID TO ADULT MINDS

Library Association Is To Experiment With Books For Purpose Of Assisting In Education Of Grownups

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—An experiment in adult education through a series of booklets by prominent educators and artists suggesting reading courses on pertinent topics of the day, is being conducted by the American Library Association.

The two latest books, "Psychology and Its Use" and "Our Children," are to be followed by "Sculpture" by Lorado Taft, and "Mental Hygiene," "Recent English and American Poetry" and "Contemporary European History."

The adviser on psychology is Everett Dean Martin, director of the People's Institute of New York.

Prof. O'Shea says there is "no doubt that we are reaching the turning point in regard to interest in child nature, child welfare and child training," and continues: "If you are a father how much study do you make of the business of fatherhood? If you are a mother x x x how many books have you read with a view to securing expert counsel in the rearing of your children?"

"Anyone who is undertaking a course of reading relating to child life should appreciate at the outset that the child is the most complex object in the universe."

In his suggested course, Mr. Martin says that the division of psychology into three schools of introspectionism, behaviorism and psycho-analysis, is unfortunate and that by the coming psychology will draw freely upon the findings of all these schools.

Half Freud Study "One should not attempt a study of Freud's psycho-analysis until he has first some general knowledge of the principles of psychology. Psycho-analysis has met with hostile criticism because of its reputed over-emphasis on sex. But it should be said that sex does play a more determining part in human life than is conventionally admitted; also that Freud's use of the term differs from the popular meaning of the word. By the 'psycho-sexual life' he means practically the entire instinctive and emotional nature. Much of the criticism of psycho-analysis reduces itself to a quarrel over the terms which are used. Some of this criticism is just."

A few of the many recent biographies of Jesus of Nazareth, and of the modern translations of the New Testament are listed by Prof. Rufus M. Jones of Haverford College, in the series of monographs which the Association has designed for reading courses in this subject.

Although scores of biographies have been written, none is a complete and satisfactory life of Christ, said Prof. Jones. "The student should begin by reading the gospels," Prof. Jones declared, "but to get a vivid picture, the result will be more effective if one of the new translations is used."

He recommended James Moffatt's New Testament, which he said followed closely the original Greek. Others would prefer Dr. Goodspeed's rendering because of the American flavor and its easy natural flow, Prof. Jones added.

P. A. sure makes a grand cigarette! AND that's no bedtime story. It's great tobacco, for one thing. You'll say so! Prince Albert is crimp-cut and stays put. Doesn't flutter to the floor or take wings with the first wind. Easier to roll and a better smoke. Ask any roll-your-own. Cool and sweet and soothing, P. A.'s wonderful smoke sifts into your system and paints the dull, drab world a bright, cheerful red. Fragrant. Friendly. P. A. can't bite your tongue or parch your throat. The Prince Albert process voted "thumbs down" on that at the start. Get yourself a tidy red tin or a toppy red bag of P. A. today. Take out your papers, like a new citizen, and get busy with your finger exercise. Light up! Then you're ready to tell the ben-turpin world that no home-made cigarette ever came within a mile of that! When you learn what wonderful tobacco P. A. is, try it in a jimmy-pipe. Thousands of men who wanted to smoke a pipe, but "didn't dare," have become jimmy-pipe regulars since they discovered Prince Albert. There's a friendly shop nearby. Go get yourself some P. A. now! PRINCE ALBERT —no other tobacco is like it!

Champions For Be Crowned This Annual Tournaments

Winners of the first and second brackets will meet in the semi-finals, as will victors in the third and fourth brackets.

Entries for the S. I. A. A. tournament had not been completed today. Two states had not selected the state champions. Alabama will pick her representative tonight and Louisiana is expected to do likewise before the end of the week.

Kentucky Wesleyan was selected last night to represent that state, it being announced her defeat at the hands of Berea College, would have no bearing on Kentucky's representation, since Berea is not a member of the S. I. A. A.

Staten College will represent Florida, Mississippi College has been selected from that state, University of Chattanooga, will play for Tennessee, and Georgia will have Mercer University.

The six quintets from South Carolina are: Newberry, Furman, Citadel, Presbyterian and Charleston College.

South Carolina will have a heavier representation in the tournament, because the association decided it was unwise to defray expenses for more than one college in each state. Five South Carolina institutions entered on their own initiative and expense, it was understood.

Haymakers That Made History

BY JOE WILLIAMS

THE most memorable episode in the pugilistic career of Johnny Dundee is one of which he remembers nothing.

On the night of Jan. 15, 1917, he stepped into the ring in Philadelphia against Willie Jackson, a product of the local cauliflower circles, and a performer of limited skill.

Dundee had heard of him in a vague way, in much the same sort of way that the Baltimoreans of the stage hear incidental and off-hand reports of stock actors out in the hinterlands.

"All he can do is hit," Dundee was advised.

Subsequently Dundee had cause to reflect that all a male can do is kick, but HOW!

Jackson, whose real name was Oscar Tobler, had shown up from the newsboy ranks; he had fought his way through the "moses" and come out on top in the hundred and one "fights" that crowded the vigorous, every-day routine of the little, moribund, of metropolitan streets, and had finally established himself as a good, early local "good."

Everybody agreed he would never get anywhere. Working out as a starting partner with George Knockout Choney, the Baltimore terror, he had been punched goofy. On top of that Johnny Kilbane had knocked him out. It seemed entirely reasonable to expect the fast, stepping, curvy, chisive Dundee to win as he pleased.

But he didn't. Instead he was knocked out for the first and only time in his career, and he was knocked out in less than one round. And added curiosity is that the knockout came after Dundee had landed the HARDEST BLOW he had ever hit a man with in the ring.

Jackson was in the center of the ring, and after sending in two straight lefts to the body, he took a right to the head and terrificed him. The way Dundee that sent him flying backward and into the ropes. Dundee later said he was looking for a knock-out blow he never struck in the arena.

Dundee kept coming in his head down, but instead of rushing into him, Jackson ran into the ropes, blindfolded, and, as he bounded back, hit out like a water spout.

Jackson, coming in the moon, caught Dundee with a right hand, opened and closed spasmatically as if he were trying to grasp something that he had lost. He rose and fell back breathing heavily at "10."

It was, of course, a lucky punch, but it was a water spout, either as a consequence of carelessness or the whim of a mocking fate.

Dundee and Jackson fought eight or ten times later, a total of nearly 100 rounds, and not once was Dundee on the floor again.

Yet in the very first fight they had he was down and out in exactly two minutes and 35 seconds.

That Baseball Veterans Records In Southern Loop

pitching records of the Southern, who do we find listed in the 10 most effective pitchers? They are led by Van Griggs, 40-year-old exponent of left-handing; he is followed by "Rube" Robinson, who is even older, and then comes Hugh Bediett, who was a season star when Boston played in a world's series in 1912, or some 14 years ago.

And, in the first 10 best pitchers, occurs the name of Jim Bagby and that of Guy Morton, and Jim Scott, who was a competent pitcher so far back in the game that it must have been about the time the American League was declaring its majority.

But the vets do not carry off all the honors. Several young stars, who are set major league trials, are prominently among them.

Among them is Tolson, the Nashville first baseman, nearest who is back in the big league for a second trial; Bagby, M. A. who hopes to take Peckinpaugh's job with Washington and Leroy Jones, who also will give a trial with the Senators.

All in all, however, the promising players in Southern League the last season were men whose names have been familiar to the fan for going on 10 or 20 years.

Muddy Ruel Of Senators Is Only Rival Of Ray Schalk For Endurance, Ability

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Clark Griffith probably was misquoted, or misunderstood, when he made the following statement about Muddy Ruel, who would bench Muddy Ruel the coming season, along with Roger Peckinpaugh.

What the head of the Washington club meant, doubtless, was that Ruel wouldn't be called on to wear himself out catching practically every game the champions play.

For Ruel is far from the effete type of age that beset men like Peckinpaugh, and others, on the Washington team. Albeit he is rather delicate of mold for such steady catching as has been imposed upon him.

However, he has borne up as a lighter built backstop often to confound the dope, wherein he is notable an exception as is Ray Schalk of the Chicago White Sox.

Ruel hardly will reach the record made by Schalk for durability and effective work, but he will come about as near it as any catcher in modern-day baseball.

He was a glutton for work before he got into the major leagues, and he never has spared himself since. As a youngster from the St. Louis lots he went to Memphis in 1916 and caught 105 games in that climate; the next year he caught 133, which were about all Memphis played.

He went into service in the war period of 1918, and then in 1919 he became a Yankee. He caught 81 games that year as a recruit, caught 82 the next year and then started a durability record.

In 1921, having been traded to Boston, he caught 133 games for

BILLY EVANS Says

DANFORTH PASSES

IS the power of psychology almost as great an asset for success in sport as natural ability? The passing of Southpaw Dave Danforth from the St. Louis Browns to the minors brings up that question.

For years Dave Danforth has been the stormy petrel of the American League. Rival clubs insisted Dave doctored the ball, while Danforth said it was all imagination on their part.

Concentration in sport is most essential. The good batsman must have a keen eye, the ability to follow the ball. Incidentally he must have his mind on the making of base hits.

Whenever Dave Danforth was announced as the pitcher, the opposition instead of playing its usual role turned detective. Instead of trying to hit the ball that Danforth was pitching, they attempted to discover what Danforth was doing to the ball.

As a result when Danforth pitched the opposition lacked much of the poise that was usually a part of its baseball repertoire.

TRICK DELIVERIES

"If a ball club thinks you are doctoring the ball, make them feel sure of it by resorting to unusual magnetisms that savor of trickery," was a remark Danforth once made to me.

"You can't make base hits arguing that the pitcher is cheating, the batter must swing at the ball. The belief on the part of the op-

Arctic Mapping And Ice Studies Are To Feature Hobbs, Polar Expedition

ANN ARBOR, Feb. 25 (AP)—Establishment of weather stations in the refrigerator of Greenland is the principal purpose of an expedition which the University of Michigan will send out in June or July.

It is in the Greenland area where the boreal blasts that sweep down upon the northern hemisphere, said William Herbert Hobbs, professor of geology, who will head the expedition. From the proposed weather stations it would be possible to wireless storm warnings to Europe, in his opinion.

To travel from the margin of Greenland to Europe, these storms require from three to five days, Prof. Hobbs explained. "Even while they are crossing the eastern Atlantic there will be time to send warning from Greenland by wireless."

A secondary purpose of the expedition will be an attempt by experiment experts who will accompany Prof. Hobbs to shatter with explosives the huge icebergs compelling them to melt or sink before they have drifted far enough south to menace Atlantic shippers.

Airplanes To Go
The adventure also will have several scientific by-products. Four planes will map the region of the Umanak fjords, in latitude seventy-one degrees. Movements of ice mountains will be recorded. There will be observations of gravity, magnetism and tides. The fish life of the Greenland waters will be studied.

The expedition also will attempt to sound the thickness of the ice which heretofore has been guessed. An American oil company has provided for this purpose one of its experts skilled in the "seismo" method, which depends upon the reflection of waves from the rock bottom.

Prof. Hobbs believes the most difficult work of the expedition will fall upon Peter Freuchen, former Danish governor of the Thule Eskimo settlement in northern Greenland and the second in command on both long expeditions of Knud Rasmussen. Freuchen has volunteered to remain throughout the year in a tiny, snow-buried hut 100 miles eastward from the coast of the great ice sheet, in order to record weather conditions.

Freuchen's hut will be in a desert waste of snow and ice, 7,000 feet above sea level. He will have as a companion Fred W. Bartlett, a graduate of the Michigan geological department.

Besides the extreme cold Freuchen and Bartlett must combat the effect on the nerves of the long, dark winter night. Temperatures of thirty degrees below zero prevail in midsummer and kerosene becomes like lard in the extreme cold.

"A small, wind-proof hut of heat insulating material will be half sunk in the snow," Prof. Hobbs said. "It will be provided with self-registering meteorological instruments mounted at the top but with the clockworks attachments within the hut. The greatest difficulty in operating such instruments in such places is the extremely low temperatures."

Harvard Instructor Along
In the party of twenty will be Vibert Douglas, an instructor at Harvard University and a member of the last Shackleton Antarctic Expedition; Prof. Howard T. Barnes of McGill University, Montreal, authority on icebergs, anchor and river ice; W. P. Ferguson of the United States Weather Bureau, an expert in the use of meteorological instruments; Dr. Walter N. Kuelz, zoologist of the United States Bureau of Fisheries, and several specialists in geology and botany from the University of Michigan faculty.

At least six of the party will remain until the summer of 1927 studying conditions. The main party will return in September. The cost of financing the expedition will be $100,000, most of which already has been provided. The biggest item of expense will be the two amphibian planes of special construction that can take off and land on water and on snow during the same flight. The planes will be used for mapping and to take supplies to the inland weather stations.

The expedition will cooperate with a Danish government expedition which will leave Copenhagen about the same time, led by Dr. Lange Koch of the University of Copenhagen.

Dr. Koch will make his base on Scoresby Sound on the east coast of Greenland. The base of the Michigan party will be in the Holstenborg district, on the west coast, although the iceberg problem will be tackled farther north, in the waters off Umanak.

ADMITS SAFE BLOWING

Too Tired to Go Out Nights? Beware of Chronic Fatigue

Thousands of men and women blame hard work for that "all-in" feeling every evening—when in most cases the real cause is chronic fatigue.

Chronic fatigue is an unnatural tiredness—usually due to lack of sufficient organic iron in the blood. Nuxated Iron, which contains true organic iron like that in the blood, quickly restores this iron and banishes chronic fatigue. It gives new strength in 2 weeks or money back. Will not injure teeth or disturb the stomach. At all good druggists.

The monkey was small of stature, but loud in defense of the machine, as was evidenced when anyone approached the radiator cap, to which it had been chained.
