Once, Jones Was 'Policeman Of Year'; Now He's Fired

By MARK VOGLER
Herald Staff Writer

Walter Jones was building a reputation most police officers would envy.

He was named Sanford's Policeman of the Year, an honor that had been recommended by his chief.

There were several glowing letters of commendation in his personnel file, including one from U.S. Sen. Lawton Chiles.

And he had even been recommended by one of his superiors for a promotion to the rank of sergeant.

But all that happened in 1975, when Jones had been considered by some fellow officers to be a rising star in the Sanford Police Department.

Now, seven years later, the 13-year veteran has been fired. He has a dim future, if any, in law enforcement.

Jones was indicted by a Seminole County grand jury earlier this month on charges of solicitation to commit arson of a structure and filing false and fraudulent insurance claims.

And besides being linked to the Dec. 30, 1980, arson of his home at 1839 Jerry St. in the Goldsboro section of Sanford, the 46-year-old Jones is facing the possibility of more criminal charges. The Sanford Police Department is currently investigating allegations of misconduct that are not related to the arson.

Jones has had some problems in the past, but nothing like the allegations of misconduct and criminal wrongdoing that have surfaced in recent months.

"Up until several months ago, he had a reasonably unblemished record," said Assistant City Manager Steve Harriett.

An inspection of his personnel file confirms Harriett's assessment.

There are several impressive entries which reflect the mark of an excellent police officer.

"Detective Jones has worked on several murder cases as well as a national publicized kidnapping case. He has cleared up armed robberies, assaults, larcenies and numerous burglaries. Detective Jones assumes all assignments in a cheerful willing manner with never a complaint or any sign of resentment," said Chief Ben Butler in recommending Jones as Officer of the Year in 1975.

"He works long hours and never asks for compensation for overtime, nor does he seek personal recognition of his many successes in solving crimes. His appearance is always that of a well groomed man and he has been a credit to the police department and the city of Sanford," Butler said.

William Lykens Jr., then detective lieutenant, also praised Jones in recommending that the officer be promoted to sergeant in July 1975: "The appearance of Detective Jones is such that it sets an example for other men in the department and is a credit to the Police Department and the law enforcement profession."

Even as early in his career as May 1971, Jones had established himself as a topnotch detective.

"May I take this opportunity to commend you for a job well done in the apprehension of the four males involved in an armed robbery Monday, April 5, 1971," wrote Seminole County Sheriff John E. Polk in a letter of commendation.

On June 13, 1974, Chief Butler wrote a letter commending Jones for helping to solve several firebombing incidents.

And there was another unimpressive commendation dated April 18, 1977, by Charles B. Fagen Jr., captain of Sanford police detectives, citing Jones' role in the handling of a homicide investigation.

But there are some blots on Jones' record, particularly over the last two years. His personnel file reveals that three times in September of last year he received reprimands for failure to respond to communications calls after allegedly leaving his post without permission to conduct personal business.

Police officials say his termination last week was due in part to his failure to patrol his zone as assigned.

Several times during 1980 Jones was cited for being late to work, in several cases as much as two hours.

"I believe there were times in his 13-year career when he was outstanding. Chief Butler doesn't commend people very easily. So when Jones got it (praise), he certainly deserved it," said Herb Shea, assistant to the chief.

"He (Jones) was not a bad police officer. His arrest record was high," said Shea. "But there are obviously things his record will show that leave something to be desired."

Sanford Revenues Could Be Hurt By Water Conserving

If the majority of Sanford residents participate in a water conservation effort by installing water-saving gadgets in their homes the city government could lose as much as $9,000 monthly in utility revenues.

City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles will reveal this and other facts in a report to be delivered at a 7 p.m. City Commission meeting today.

Knowles was instructed by the commission two weeks ago to research cost savings by residents and the resulting revenue losses to the city if it participates in a water conservation program recommended by the New Resources Group (NRG) of Millford, N.H., and Boston.

The devices the non-profit corporation is recommending for installation in private homes come in a kit and include a asserting 70 percent of the water used by residential customers is used in the bathroom.

While Mayor Lee P. Moore said he personally favors the devices, costing about $18 per kit, he said the city must also consider the impact that decreased revenues resulting from lower utility bills would have on the city's obligation to pay its bonded indebtedness for the water and sewer utility system.

Knowles estimated the per-home cost saving through use of the NRG devices could be as much as $120 annually.

He said the city could use several methods to either require installation of the gadgets or promote their use voluntarily.

He said the city could:

- Require the installation of the devices in new homes while under construction.

- Provide the conservation kits to existing households free of charge.

- Provide the kits to existing households with the costs included on water bills over a period of time.

- Make the kits available for direct purchase by customers.

In his study, Knowles found that if 90 percent of the customers were using the devices, some 3.78 million to 11.5 million gallons of water monthly would be saved and that the city would lose $4,500 to $9,000 monthly in revenues.

If 60 percent of the customers were using the devices, 3.0 million to 7.6 million gallons of water would be saved monthly, with a revenue loss to the city of $3,000 to $6,000 monthly.

If 40 percent of the customers were using the devices, 2.5 million to 5.4 million gallons of water monthly could be saved, with a loss in revenue of $2,000 to $4,000 monthly.

The loss in revenue would include not only water fees but also sewer fees based on the water used.

Knowles pointed out earlier, however, that a reduction in water use and a related reduction in sewer use would have the hidden benefit to the city of reducing the need to construct, for some period of time, additional wells or to expand the city's sewer plant.

Lake Mary City Manager Phil Kulbes examines dumped garbage and water draining into a ditch adjacent to the Humphrey Road property where 13 inhabited trailers are parked on a two-to-three-acre tract. Kulbes said raw sewage is running on the ground from at least 10 of the 13 trailers.

Inspection Due Today At Lake Mary Site

House Trailers Dumping Sewage

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Officials of Seminole County's Environmental Health Division will inspect a site today where it is reported that at least 10 of 13 families living in house trailers off Humphrey Road in Lake Mary are dumping raw sewage on the ground.

"Our primary concern will be stopping the dumping of raw sewage," said Russ Miller, director of environmental health today. "Secondly, we will notify the owners of the property that they are creating a health hazard and tell them to stop the practice."

Lake Mary City Manager Phil Kulbes, who inspected the two-to-three-acre site Friday, said today that he found 13 families living in trailers on the property.

"At least 10 of the families were living in trailers that had no septic tanks and were dumping raw sewage on the ground," Kulbes said.

He said he also found that a one-half-inch water hose is connected to a well to provide three to four of the trailers with water. Kulbes said four different extension cords are connected to an electric meter and laid on the ground to the various trailers.

"Someone is going to get killed out there," he said, noting that the extension cords represent a potentially lethal hazard.

Kulbes said he inspected the scene, accompanied by Building Inspector Vince Butler and a city police officer.

"We found a bulldozer burying garbage. A lot of fresh dirt had been placed over garbage. One woman said she had a septic tank and pointed to a wood covering on the ground. When I removed the wood covering, all there was beneath it was a hole," he said.

Kulbes said he also found a hose connected to a trailer and running to nearby railroad tracks to dump raw sewage.

"I don't think the City Council knew what was going on out there," he said.

The City Council last Thursday night on a split 2-2 vote, with Mayor Walter Sorenson casting the tie-breaker, gave its approval for Barbara Hoyle Harper to connect power to a larger trailer on the property.

Mrs. Harper said she replaced a trailer at the site with a larger one. She said her original trailer was set up before the city incorporated. She said she did not know that municipal law does not permit replacement of a trailer on a site less than 10 acres in size.

Acting City Attorney Harvey Alper said that "technically" it was improper to grant Mrs. Harper the waiver, saying the city law makes no provision for granting a waiver. He said the action might come back to haunt the council.

Councilman Gene McDonald, who voted with Councilman Ray Fox and Sorenson to grant the waiver, said today that Alper's comments were

"prophetic."

Mrs. Harper indicated Thursday night that the trailer was to be used by an elderly woman whom she permits to live on the property. She said the woman does not pay rent.

Kulbes said that during his Friday inspection he found all age groups living on the property, from preschool children to young women in their twenties to middle-aged people.

And, he added, he seriously doubts that the Harper property, before the city was incorporated, was authorized to have that many trailers at the site. Mrs. Harper insisted at the meeting that her original trailer was on the site with county approval.

Kulbes said the property is zoned agricultural.

Councilman Vic Olivera, who with Councilman Ken King opposed granting the permit, had urged his colleagues to delay action last week until they could personally view the site.

Man Killed By Stud Gun

Firm Cited In Worker's Death

Several industrial-safety violations committed by a Tampa-area sprinkler installation firm contributed to a worker's death last month at the site of the new Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford, according to a federal agency investigating the accident.

Donald Bittenbender, a field team supervisor at the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) office in Tampa said today that the Wildcat Supply & Sprinkler System Co., of Seffner, has been cited for negligence in connection with the accident that killed Estell Brown Naylor, 56, of Ormond Beach.

Naylor, an Otis Elevator Corp. employee, died of a massive hemorrhage of the heart after he was struck by a three-inch steel stud accidentally discharged by a .22 magnum-powered stud gun, according to Seminole County Medical Examiner Dr. G.V. Garay.

At the time of the Jan. 4 accident, Naylor was standing in a room on the first floor of the hospital reading blueprints. Two construction workers in an adjacent room were trying to release the safety device on the jammed stud gun prior to the mishap, police said.

"We have cited the company for negligence in the application of three safety items," said Bittenbender.

"The workers who were using the stud gun were not properly trained to operate the tool. We learned in our investigation that the device had not been properly tested. And the tool didn't meet the safety specifications of the American National Standards Institute, regulations which have been adopted by OSHA," said the official.

Bittenbender declined to elaborate on the possible penalties that Wildcat Supply faces. But he did say that each infraction could carry a fine ranging from $60 to $1,000 against the company.

Wildcat officials declined comment on the OSHA citation today. The firm has until March 2 to appeal.

Meanwhile, Fanny Naylor, the victim's widow, said she hasn't contemplated any legal action against Wildcat yet.

"It's (OSHA citation) news to me. The first I've heard about it. I hadn't planned anything. I can't say what I'm going to do at this time," she said.

Naylor, who had worked for Otis Elevator for about a year, was on his first day of work at the hospital construction site, according to his wife.

Two Wildcat workers had been using a stud gun to drive studs into steel beams for bracketing steam pipes to the beams. When the gun apparently jammed, the workers pressed it up to a plaster wall, figuring that a .22 magnum blank cartridge was in the gun.

But the gun discharged, and a three-inch stud penetrated the hollow wall and two sheets of plaster wallboard in the room where Naylor was standing.

Naylor was struck by a stud in the lower left back. As it tore into his body, the steel projectile lacerated his spleen, liver, left lung and heart, according to the medical examiner.

Altamonte Girl, 16, Killed In Car Crash

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A 16-year-old Altamonte Springs girl is dead and an Orlando man has been jailed following a head-on collision Saturday night in Orange County.

Jennifer Ann Little, 817 Iris St., was killed when her 1979 Datsun, traveling eastbound on Clarcona-Ocoee Road, collided head-on with a 1975 Chevrolet driven by Gerald Roy Gaugh, 39, at about 11:10 p.m. Saturday the Florida Highway Patrol said. Gaugh was being held today on $2,500 bond in the Orange County jail on charges of manslaughter by driving while intoxicated and failure to drive in a single lane, jail officials said.

Troopers said Gaugh's westbound vehicle crossed the center line of the road and collided with Ms. Little's vehicle. Gaugh received minor cuts on his arms and forehead as a result of the crash. There were no other passengers, troopers said.

Troopers added the two vehicles were destroyed as a result of the fatal accident. The Datsun was valued at about $5,300 and the Chevrolet at about $3,000, troopers said.

IN BRIEF

Governors Lukewarm To New Federalism

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's governors generally favor the concept of President Reagan's proposed New Federalism, but staunchly oppose his plans to cut state aid by another $10 billion next year. They say the states must be financially strong in order for them, as proposed under New Federalism, to take over responsibility of 40 social programs now run by the federal government.

A Taxing Suicide

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A man who said his neighbor had turned him in to the Internal Revenue Service for not paying his income taxes shot and seriously wounded the neighbor and his wife before killing himself. Police said Frank Saltzman, 51, armed himself with a 12-gauge shotgun he had purchased the day before and smashed a dining-room window of his next door neighbor's house about 3 a.m. Sunday. The neighbor, Marvin Chotimer, 30, was shot in the arm as he came down the stairs.

Commuter Plane Crashes

SCITUATE, R.I. (UPI) — The passengers and pilots aboard a commuter plane spewing fire and smoke like "Dante's inferno" tried desperately to put out a cockpit blaze, but the aircraft crash-landed on a frozen reservoir. One woman burned to death in the flames that engulfed the twin-engine plane shortly after it landed Sunday. Nine other passengers of the Pilgrim Airlines De Havilland Otter escaped with relatively minor injuries, but the pilot and co-pilot were critically burned.

Congress Returns To Work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress turns its attention this week to the budget, school busing and U.S. involvement in the violence in El Salvador. During a 10-day recess, House and Senate members have had the opportunity to talk with the voters about President Reagan's proposed budget and situation in Central America. This week begins the process of grappling with both problems.

Clerics Rap Salvadoran Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than 350 local and national religious leaders, accusing President Reagan of compromising "moral" responsibilities, are urging Congress to halt military aid to war-torn El Salvador. In one of the largest cooperative protests by religious leaders since the Vietnam War, they sent an open letter to Congress Sunday that blasted Reagan and the U.S.-backed military junta in the Central American nation.

4 Seminole Men Jailed In Pot Bust

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Four south Seminole County men have been jailed following their drug-related arrests over the weekend. James Patrick McLaughlin III, 23, of 503 Roy Blvd., Maitland; Salvatore Joseph Guardino, 19, of 102 Star Drive, Longwood; and Jeffrey Eugene Bannick, 18, of 209 Canterclub Trail, Longwood, were arrested at 12:17 p.m. Sunday in the Handy Way food store parking lot at Wymore Road in Altamonte Springs, deputies said.

Charges against McLaughlin include possession, sale and delivery of marijuana. Charges against Guardino are possession of and conspiracy to sell marijuana. Bannick was charged with possession, sale and delivery of marijuana, jail officials said.

Darryl Dean Sticksels, 20, of 2890 Brantley Hills Ct., Longwood, was released from the county jail on $4,000 bond following his arrest at about 11:09 p.m. Saturday in Jimbo's Pizza parking lot, Douglas Road, Altamonte Springs, deputies said. Sticksels was charged with possession, sale and delivery of marijuana, deputies said. The four arrests were the result of an investigation by undercover agents in the sheriff's department. Special Investigations Unit, according to sheriff spokesman John Spolski.

The four men are accused of selling about one pound of marijuana to sheriff's agents.

SANFORD HOME ROBBED

Thieves broke into a Sanford man's home at about 9:15 a.m. Friday and stole an undetermined amount of property, Sanford police said.

The thieves entered the home of Sirri Abraham, 56, 1403 Locust Ave., by removing the screen from a rear bedroom window and opening the window, police added.

COSTLY RIDE

A Sanford woman was robbed of about $225 by a man and a woman who gave her a ride, Sanford police said. Christella Morris, 71, of 105 Academy Ave., told police she accepted a ride Friday from a couple at First Street and Magnolia Avenue, Sanford. The couple drove her to Second Street and Sanford Avenue and let her out of their green, 4-door vehicle, police said.

However, Ms. Morris said after the two let her out of the car, she realized about $125 cash and a $100 money order had been stolen from her purse, police said. The thieves had also replaced the stolen items with torn newspaper, police added.

TELEPHONE CUT-UPS

Vandals cut through several telephone cables in Sanford at about midnight Sunday, causing service to be interrupted to about 800 local customers. According to Southern Bell Telephone Co. officials, the vandalism occurred to cables at First Street and Persimmon Avenue.

Service was expected to be restored by 5 p.m. today, telephone officials said.

THEY TAKE THE CAKE

Cigarette Smoking: 'The Most Important Public Health Issue'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nearly 130,000 Americans will die this year of cancer caused by smoking, the U.S. Surgeon General C. Everett Koop said today. But he cited encouraging news on the success rate of smokers who try to quit.

"Cigarette smoking, as this report again makes clear, is the chief, single, avoidable cause of death in our society and the most important public health issue of our time," said Koop. The report, "The Health Consequences of Smoking," said male smokers have double the cancer death rate of non-smoking males and female smokers have a 30 percent higher cancer rate than nonsmoking females.

It also said lung cancer, 85 percent of which is blamed on smoking, probably will surpass breast cancer this year as a cause of death among women.

Overall, the report said, 30 percent of cancer deaths are attributable to smoking. Based on 430,000 expected cancer deaths, that means about 129,000 Americans will die this year of smoking-related cancer.

Although the report carried several statistics of doom and gloom, it also had some encouraging news for the nation's 50 million estimated adult smokers — particularly those interested in quitting.

It said recent research shows up to 50 percent of those who quit smoking on their own will stay off cigarettes. Much depends on the smoker's personality and motivation, and encouragement from friends and relatives, the report said.

Koop's report, issued 18 years after the surgeon general's office first linked smoking and cancer, broke no dramatic new ground. Unlike some recent reports, Koop did not blame cigarette smoke in the air for lung cancer among non-smokers.

A Japanese study reported last year women whose husbands smoked had a higher lung cancer rate than those married to non-smokers, with a death rate of 15.5 per 100,000 vs. 8.7 per 100,000. For smokers, the mortality rate is 32.8 per 100,000. A Greek study reported similar findings.

But Koop said the foreign studies may not be applicable to Americans, and he said a recent U.S. study based on American Cancer Society data showed no link between so-called "involuntary smoking" and cancer.

Last week, the industry-funded Tobacco Institute released a report that disputed the link between smoking and cancer. It said scientists have not yet figured out what makes a cell cancerous and therefore what causes cancer.

Spring Fever A Vestige Of Human Hibernation?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Spring fever is caused by a hormonal spurt that may be a vestige of a past age when humans hibernated like bears, a prominent science writer says.

Lowell Ponte, whose report on how weather affects health in the March issue of Reader's Digest, said spring fever is very real.

"When spring comes, many men find their beards and scalps growing hair twice as fast as it did during the winter," he told UPI.

Ponte, a former Pentagon think-tank futurist, said most children have a spurt of growth in the spring.

"Springtime sends high levels of sex and growth hormones, as well as cholesterol and sugar surging through the bloodstream and this, indeed, can turn a young man's fancy to thoughts of love," he said.

The phenomena occurs because our ancestors may once have hibernated during the winter like bears and other animals do, Ponte said. Bears prepare for the long winter sleep by putting on fat, and so do many people.

"But when spring returns," he said, "the brain commands the body to burn off the stores of fat unused during the winter, and the rapid burning of fat produces a burst of energy and vitality we associate with spring fever."

Ponte has written extensively on weather warfare and his book, "The Cooling," deals with the possibility of a coming ice age.

He said evidence of the yearly switch in human metabolism was first developed by the late Dr. Frederick Sargent II, who taught at the University of Houston until his death in 1960.

Sargent was a pioneer in biometeorology, the study of how weather affects health, and in a study published by the American Meteorological Society said the change may be a "vestigial physiology" inherited from cave-dwelling ancestors who probably hibernated during the long winter months.

If they didn't hibernate, they at least greatly reduced their activities and lived off the fat they had stored during the summer, he said.

Ponte said Sargent's studies may indicate overweight people should watch their diets even more closely in the springtime. Living in electrically heated and lighted environments, the body becomes confused and stores fat all year long.

"You should think about the season before you decide what to eat today," Ponte said.

Strawberry Festival Opens In Plant City

PLANT CITY (UPI) — The gem of east Hillsborough agriculture kicks off its 10-day tribute to Plant City's most delectable resource Friday with the opening of the annual Strawberry Festival and Hillsborough County Fair.

For the last 46 years, the Winter Strawberry Capital has turned on the country charm and showcased talent, creativity and family recreation at the city's festival grounds.

And officials predict more than 300,000 visitors will converge on this tiny town for the 47th annual Strawberry Festival, which will run from Friday through March 6.

Gates open Friday at 11 a.m. and admission is $3.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Floods and mudslides plagued parts of the Pacific Northwest and the Northeast got a dose of freezing rain and 4-inch snows, but a wave of premature warm weather set record temperatures as far north as Montana. Nearly a dozen cities had record-breaking warm weather Sunday. Sunny skies stretched from the Gulf Coast states through the Plains to California. In southeastern Montana, Broadus warmed to 73 degrees, the warmest ever recorded there in February. Readings in the 70s were common in South Dakota. Los Angeles broke a record for the second straight day when the mercury reached 86, but even the first sunny skies in a week caused problems with melting snow, and a return to colder temperatures was forecast for the north-central states today. Winter clung to the Northeast, dumping freezing rain and up to 4 inches of snow from Ohio to Maine. Winds gusting up to 70 mph tore briefly through the upper Yellowstone Valley. The runoff from snowstorms and week-long rains caused rivers to overflow and mudslides closed two California state highways. Flood warnings were posted Sunday night for numerous rivers in Washington, Oregon and Idaho. A makeshift 10-foot-wide canal, formed by 10,000 sandbags stacked into a 7-block, 3-foot-high levee, virtually surrounded the governor's mansion in Boise, Idaho, because of overflow from a creek. Melting snow and ice jams also prompted flood warnings in southern Iowa and eastern Nebraska, where fast-rising water on the lower Elkhorn River in the Omaha area forced about a dozen people to evacuate their homes.

'Get The Cars Off Daytona Beach,' MADD Group Says

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — Steve Knight says a famous person will have to be hit by a drunken driver before city fathers abolish or curb the practice of driving on "the world's most famous beach."

"All it's going to take is for the right person to get hit," said Knight, an emergency room doctor at Daytona Beach's Halifax Medical Center.

"If it was Amy Carter who got run over while down here on spring break, some heads would roll."

Knight is fed up with being the bearer of bad news to families who lost loved ones to a drunk joy riding on the beach. And he plans to call city officials every time a new victim of drunken drivers is rolled into the emergency room.

A few years ago, Knight and a fellow physician tried to get somebody interested in abolishing driving on the beach. But nothing happened and Knight and his friend gave up.

The two men are again spearheading an anti-beach driving campaign, this time using the name of an established group of mothers.

Knight said the movement began after 20-year-old Julie Baker was hit by a drunken driver while strolling on the beach at night last Oct. 23.

Miss Baker fell into a coma and has barely moved for nearly four months. She went home to Seattle last week with her parents, Bill and Diane Jane, who played a leading role in reviving the attack on beach driving.

"It's very nice to be able to drive on the beach, but it's unrealistic," said Mrs. Jane. "You wouldn't put a horse and buggy on I-95."

Mrs. Jane attempted to form a group under the name "Victims of the Beach," but decided the best course would be a Daytona Beach chapter of MADD, Mothers Against Drunk Driving.

However, this MADD group will emphasize Daytona Beach's problem — intoxicated drivers killing or maiming people relaxing on the beach.

Kay Matherly, supervisor at Florida Health Care Dental Center, said the group will issue warnings about the dangers of the beach and will pressure city governments to adopt safety measures.

"I've lived here 30 years and I don't go on this beach," she said. "I've got an 11-year-old kid who I won't take to this beach. I drive clear up to St. Augustine to put my kid's feet on sand."

Beach driving became a volatile issue in 1980 when a 14-year-old Ocala girl was killed and her mother injured after a teenage boy ran them down while trying to make a getaway in a stolen car.

Statistics compiled for the city Beach Advisory Board show 48 of the 164 beachside accidents in Daytona in 1980 involved pedestrians. Forty percent occurred after dark and 10 percent of the motorists were charged with drunken driving.

Mayor Larry Kelly said the driving issue is touchy because the city has no place to put the cars if they are taken off the beach.

Daytona Beach grew on the reputation of cars on the beach and never developed parking off the shore.

Joe Burke, chairman of the Beach Advisory Board, said a ban on night driving has been included as a suggestion in a beach study. The same recommendation has been made in a yearlong report made by a committee of the Daytona Beach Area Chamber of Commerce.

Defense Calls Williams' Mother

ATLANTA (UPI) — Accused killer Wayne Williams' elderly mother backed up the defense's key testimony on her carpet today, insisting it was purchased in 1968.

Faye Williams, 64, frail but perky in a red dress and black boots, told the jury that Wayne was her "miracle child," born when she was 41, a "fun-loving, normal 100 per cent American boy."

But her key testimony backed up her husband's story, which appeared in deep trouble, that the carpet which figures so strongly in the state's case could not be what prosecution witnesses said it was.

There were fresh reports that Williams, a 23-year-old black would-be talent scout, would follow his mother on the witness stand. Earlier, attorneys were reported having second thoughts about allowing him to testify.

He is in the 32nd day of testimony in his trial for the murders of Nathaniel Cater, 27, and Jimmy Ray Payne, 21, two of the 28 young blacks abducted and slain in Atlanta. Testimony has linked him to 10 other victims, most of them children.

Fibers matching those from the wall-to-wall carpet in the Williams' home were found on all 12 bodies, prosecution witnesses have said, and fiber experts and manufacturers' executives have testified it came from a rug that was manufactured for only a year — in 1971 — and would likely be found only in one of every 750,000 houses in Atlanta.

But Homer Williams, 64, testified Friday that he bought the rug in 1968 — three years before he could have purchased it according to state witnesses.

Reports over the weekend indicated the prosecution had loan documents showing the rug was purchased in December of 1971, not 1968, as the defense claimed.

But Mrs. Williams fished around in her huge yellow purse and produced what she said was a document showing the rug loan was paid off to North American Acceptance Corp. — now defunct — in July, 1972. The last payment was $56.88.

The 1971 loan, she said, was for an air conditioning system that cost $1,700. The loan documents in the prosecution's possession apparently show the 1971 loan was issued by Southern Prudential Home Improvement — which sponsored the ad for the Williams' rug — and later was transferred to North American Acceptance. It carries the name of a carpet installer as a witness.

"In the fall of 1971 did you and Mr. Williams buy a $1,700 air conditioner and $1,700 worth of carpet call at the same time?" asked defense counsel Al Binder.

"No way possible," said Mrs. Williams.

Binder began her testimony by showing her baby pictures of Wayne, who she said "wasn't planned — he was our miracle child." The prosecution swiftly put a stop to that, and took her through Wayne's history, already covered last week by his father.

She insisted harmony was unbroken in the Williams household.

"There were three people in the house, we got along beautifully, and anything else is hearsay," she said.

"Did you ever witness your son commit any type violent act whatsoever?" Binder asked.

"Never," she said.

She spoke with pride of the low-powered radio station Wayne erected in her utility room when he was still in high school.

Reapportionment Holds Up Most Controversial Issues

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The House takes up a calendar of mostly routine bills today, and the Senate remains in recess as most controversial issues are being held in the wings until reapportionment is finished.

House Speaker Ralph Aben said last week the House would not budge from its latest offer of a compromise, an offer Senate leaders have rejected. But Aben added that both he and Senate Reapportionment Chairman Dempsey Barron are anxious to finish the redistricting job.

Anti-Castro Violence

MIAMI (UPI) — Anonymous telephone callers who said they represent an anti-Castro organization and police both warn that five weekend incidents involving bombs and firearms may be the start of a rash of violence.

Two bombs made from recoilless rifle shells, a Molotov cocktail and two bursts of machinegun fire Saturday and Sunday morning caused no damage or injury. An anonymous caller told UPI by telephone both mornings that Omega 7 was responsible.

Son Shot, Father Charged

MIAMI (UPI) — A man known as "Busch" around the Watson Island docks for the amount of beer residents say he drinks is in jail for shooting and wounding his son and then holding off police for more than three hours.

Police arrested Charles Vermillion, 53, after he surrendered aboard his aging yacht Christmas Tree and charged him with attempted murder.

New Polish Unions Will Be Controlled By Communists

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Poland's military regime plans to have the Communist Party keep a tight rein on future unions by banning some 4,000 leaders of the suspended Solidarity union and allowing strikes only as a last resort.

Release of the guidelines, which will block all political action by unions, followed a call by two underground Solidarity leaders for an intensified struggle to restore freedom to their labor movement.

Guerrillas Troops Clash

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas have staged lightning attacks in eastern El Salvador to divert forces from a 1,000-man government offensive backed by artillery and U.S.-supplied helicopter gunships, according to army commanders.

Guerrillas Sunday killed at least four soldiers on an island off the coast of Usulután province in a surprise attack, to counter a 1,000-man military sweep 20 miles to the west, army officers in the port of La Victoria said.

AREA DEATHS

MARK A. BROWNELL

Mark Andrew Brownell, 12, of 288 Abbott Ave., Lake Mary, died Sunday at his home after a long illness. Born May 7, 1969, in Jamestown, N.Y., he moved to Lake Mary in 1975. He was a student at Lakeview Middle School and a member of Ravenna Park Baptist Church.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Allen Brownell; three sisters, Dawn, Valerie and Jennifer, and two brothers, Richard A. Jr. and Shawn, all of Lake Mary; and his grandmother, Mrs. Edna Marie Lake, Jamestown. Grandmother Funeral Home, Sanford, is in charge of arrangements.

Shawn, all of Lake Mary; and his grandmother, Mrs. Edna Marie Lake, Jamestown. Grandmother Funeral Home, Sanford, is in charge of arrangements.

Funeral Notices

BROWNELL, MARK ANDREW — Funeral services for Mark Andrew Brownell, 12, of 288 Abbott Ave., Lake Mary, who died Sunday, will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Grambow Funeral Home chapel, with the Rev. Gary deBusk officiating. Grambow Funeral Home in charge.

SALVATION ARMY LEADERS

New officers of the advisory board of the Salvation Army of Seminole County were installed at the annual meeting held recently at Jerry's Airport Restaurant. From left, Bruce Berger, vice chairman; Clyde Long, outgoing chairman; Capt. Carl Phillips, local commander; Bob Daehn, chairman; Wayne Doyle, treasurer; and Bob Gregory, secretary.

Central Florida Fair Opens Tomorrow

The 70th annual Central Florida Fair will open Tuesday at 3 p.m. at the fairgrounds on West Colonial Drive at Fairville Road in Orlando. The theme will be "C'mon Back To Country Fun Times" and it will continue through March 6.

Among the all-star entertainers to be featured are Chubby Checker, who will perform March 4 and 5, and country star Grandpa Jones from TV's "Hee Haw", who will perform on March 3.

The musical lineup also includes John Anderson, Hex Allen Jr., the Thrasher Brothers and Nelson Young and the Sandy Valley Boys.

There will be a 4-H Exhibition Horse Show from 1-6 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 27 and 28, featuring English, and Western style riding and games. Seminole County 4-H horse clubs will demonstrate the English riding events.

Six steers will be entered by Seminole County 4-H'ers in the Youth Beef Show competing for ribbons and prizes Tuesday and Wednesday at 7:45 p.m. Thursday at 7:30 p.m. the steers will be marketed at auction open to all buyers.

This is the first time in two decades Seminole County has had 4-H beef clubs exhibiting. From The Misfits 4-H Club of Geneva, steers will be entered by Amy Davis, 14, of Oviedo High School; Ali Thompson, 11, of Jackson Heights Middle School; and Jennifer Thompson, 13, of Jackson Heights Middle School. From the Mixed Breeds 4-H Club of Winter Springs, members entering include Heather MacLeod, 16, Lynn High School, and sister, Christy, 12, a Jackson Heights student; and Robert Vaughn, 11, a Jackson Heights sixth-grader.

All of the Seminole County youths except for the MacLeods will be showing for the first time this year. Heather has shown for three years and Christy for two, but under the Orange County 4-H.

Four members of the Misfits and Mixed Breeds clubs will also be participating in the Rabbit Show to be judged on Saturday.

Both Seminole County 4-H and Future Farmers of America will have exhibits. County 4-H'ers will also present demonstrations and enter other events.

There will be logrolling, canoe-jousting, clogging, an Old Time Village Crafts Exhibit, the IQ Zoo, and Children's Barnyard Animals entertaining the crowds throughout the two weeks. All area school children will be admitted free from 3-6 p.m. this Friday. March 2 will be Senior Citizen Day.

Congressional Panel To Examine Proposed Medicare, Medicaid Cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chief target of federal budget cutters is the so-called entitlements — basic benefit programs such as Medicare, Medicaid and food stamps — that account for about half of current federal spending.

Alice Rivlin, director of the Congressional Budget Office, was to testify before a House committee today on just what can be done to control the spiraling costs of these programs.

President Reagan's fiscal 1983 budget proposes to save $11.7 billion in entitlements, mainly by limiting medical costs, tightening eligibility for food stamps, and capping cost-of-living adjustments on government pensions.

The budget does not touch Social Security, by far the largest entitlement program. Overall, Reagan is proposing a budget of $757 billion that calls for an increase in defense spending, more cuts in social programs and a deficit of more than $90 billion.

White House chief of staff James Baker reiterated Sunday, Reagan will not retreat from his military spending plan and will not accept any substantial change in his tax cut program.

Baker said, however, within these ground rules Reagan is willing to consider "comprehensive" alternatives from members of Congress.

Although some Republicans are distraught at the prospect of a big deficit and many Democrats are incensed by $56 billion in proposed spending cuts, Baker predicted when they bite the budget bullet a majority will "coalesce" behind the president's blueprint.

Questioned on CBS' "Face the Nation" about the prospects for compromise on the budget, Baker said, "The president is willing to consider alternatives provided they are comprehensive in nature ... and further provided they do not constitute a fundamental retreat on taxes and defense."

Today's hearing was being held by the House Budget Committee Task Force on Entitlement, Uncontrollable and Indexing.

Task Force Chairman Rep. Paul Simon, D-Ill., noted in a statement that because entitlements account for about half of current federal spending, their costs have been key factors in the budget debate for several years.

Entitlements are "automatic" expenditures of the federal government obligated by various authorizing statutes, and they function largely outside the annual congressional appropriations process that governs most other federal programs.

The costs for the programs automatically rise as more people become eligible for them, such as for unemployment compensation during a recession, and some entitlements, such as government pensions, are indexed to the inflation rate so the benefits increase faster than most workers' salaries.

The administration's entitlement reform program proposes to cut the growth rate of entitlements from an average of 15.2 percent a year during 1970-81 to 6.4 percent a year between 1983-87 — a projected savings of some $49 billion.

Also testifying before the task force will be representatives of state and local governments, volunteer relief agencies, federal and state administrators of entitlement programs and U.S. industry.

Reagan's entire budget proposal will come under scrutiny Tuesday by the Senate Budget Committee.

Graham Fighting Refugee Aid Cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Saying south Florida has been "beaten black and blue" by federal immigration policies, Gov. Bob Graham wants the Reagan administration to abandon plans to cut in half federal financial support of refugees.

Graham said Florida's crime rate would rise sharply if federal aid to Haitian and Cuban refugees is cut. He also complained that public health costs in Miami would rise sharply — at the expense of Dade County taxpayers.

Attending the National Governors' Association mid-winter meeting, Graham said Sunday "it was national policy that allowed these people to enter this country. The states and local communities had no control over that, yet we're being asked to carry the full impact."

Graham said the administration was shirking its responsibilities by proposing to cut the refugee budget. Instead of 36 months of federal support for newcomers, the Reagan program would end financial assistance after 18 months.

"If they cut it off... we're going to see an increasing level of crime, because these people cut off from their benefits are more likely to be in the streets of Florida, committing criminal acts," Graham said.

"We're going to see an increasing financial load put on Jackson Memorial Hospital, where people who are now receiving federally reimbursed health care are going to become a burden on our community," the Florida Democrat said.

"We're going to see increasing strains on our economic system — jobs — and it will be another impact on a community which has already been beaten black and blue with blows from federal refugee policy."

Graham, chairman of the NGA task force on immigration and refugee problems, said the Reagan administration has delayed implementation of the refugee budget cut from March 1 to April 1. He said that saved Florida about $10 million.

"We're going to continue to press to get it moved back as far as possible, to the point of elimination, because the policy is fundamentally unfair," said Graham. "It avoids a national responsibility, dumps it back on the states and local communities and the only explanation for that is because the federal government is in a tight financial position."

"Well," he added, "we're in a tight financial position, too."

Unknown Beckons Us

In view of horrendous new budget deficits, when the nation's poor are being squeezed by recessionary pressures and cuts in federal assistance, why should President Reagan propose spending more than $6 billion on space?

Why, for example, spend $3.4 billion on the space shuttle program? Or, why earmark $92.6 million for continued development of a satellite to orbit Jupiter? And what can we expect from $21 million to keep alive U.S. participation in a sun-probe involving several European nations?

The reasons for doing so are as sound, we believe, as they are complex. Right off, there are compelling economic motivations: The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has invested about $15 billion in the space shuttle, which could become a colossal white elephant unless turnaround time between flights can be drastically reduced. Already, 48 shuttle flights scheduled by NASA through 1985 have been cut to 34 missions, with even more cancellations pending. In other words, our enormous investment in the space shuttle could be lost or seriously jeopardized unless this program is carried through.

The outcry of earlier years about wasting so much money on sending men to the moon to the neglect of the poor is being heard again with respect to the space shuttle and space explorations. In gauging the feasibility of future space investment on purely economic grounds, it is instructive, and necessary, to look back on past returns.

The space payoff has been truly astonishing. Space research and development have provided the cutting edge of U.S. technological superiority for 20 years. Still denounced as an esoteric waste of money, space spinoffs have, indeed, constituted the electronic-scientific revolution that now crowns the waning 20th century. The world is being educated by communications satellites; we prospect for oil with land resource satellites; our damaged hearts are run by pacemakers; our ailments as well as our civilization is diagnosed and addressed by computers. A single satellite circuit that cost $25,000 in 1965 has been reduced to $710, and a semiconductor costing $50 each during the 1960s now costs $2.33. The ever-expanding list of space payoffs are also endless.

Suffice it to note that a Chase Econometrics study showed NASA research during the 1970s providing a 43 percent return on investment. Even more astounding, the Louis Pasteur University analysis of the French-based European Space Agency program in 1978 found a 270 percent rate of return on investment during an 11-year period.

Even so, the administration's budget trimmers have cut the space program to barest survival, snatching future space exploration back from extinction. During the last 18 months NASA has sustained three major budget retrenchments amounting to more than $1 billion. One write-off, for example, was the 1-in-76-year chance to probe Halley's comet — man's first opportunity ever to unravel secrets of the most feared and fascinating space phenomenon known to history. Thus, we are abdicating Halley to Japan, France, and the Soviet Union.

But, as much has been taken, much remains. President Reagan's decision to rescue the space exploration program from the Office of Management and Budget calls to mind the similarly tentative beginning of the first great age of exploration. This drama is captured on a haunting painting in the Capitol building in Washington. A messenger on the open road from Queen Isabella and King Ferdinand of Spain, has overtaken Christopher Columbus, who had been turned down at court, and informed him that there had been a change of heart; he would be given his ships to seek a new route to India after all.

As astronomer Carl Sagan has dramatically reminded us, we are today on the threshold of great voyages of discovery just as were the Europeans in the 15th and 16th centuries. Despite our fits and starts, we are summoned by the unknown to risk much and to venture forward into outer space.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Have you heard the good news? They want to start making nerve gas again!"

By MARK VOGLER

Sanford police officer Chuck Coyne must feel at ease when he talks to reporters.

Or he expects a heck of a lot out of them.

He probably should, though, seeing he's rubbed shoulders with the likes of Peter Jennings, the London bureau chief for the ABC News network.

Back in the days when Jennings wasn't such a popular television news anchor, Coyne said he frequently indulged in a friendly conversation over drinks in some of Boston's finer taverns.

"I knew Peter back in Boston where I had worked as a security guard. I think it was back in the middle 60s then," Chuck recalled the other day.

"I think he started out on a rag up there — the Herald American. I ran into him one day, and I had many conversations with him after that time. Now he's with ABC. Boy, he's really moved up. Son of a gun," the officer said.

Coyne, 41, has been working from the desk of the Sanford Police Department since he left a security post at Disney World about five weeks ago.

"Heck, in my line of work, I've known and met a lot of interesting folks. When I was out at Disney, I was involved in setting up security for Sophia Loren, Bob Hope, Perry Como and some other celebrities. It was just part of the job," said the friendly, outgoing officer.

"In my days in Boston, I used to wear a t-shirt which said: 'A stranger is a friend whom I haven't met yet.' I like meeting new people," he says.

Chuck hails from my home state of Massachusetts. So it wasn't any surprise that we hit off our conversation so quickly when I was introduced to him this week. We share the same Bay State accent.

But even if I had been raised in a different state, I still think the conversation would have been much the same.

Chuck is one of those good guy cops who likes to talk. And he doesn't mind talking to reporters. He must be a pleasant addition to the Sanford Police Department, especially for those citizens who come in the office looking for a friendly face.

He worked for five years at the Marblehead Police Department in Massachusetts, just a short distance from his hometown of Salem.

"In Marblehead today, you probably can't buy a home for under $250,000. When I worked there, I lived in the 'witch town' because I couldn't afford those kind of prices," he says.

"I moved to sunny Florida with my family because I got sick and tired of sliding to work. I joined the Sanford PD because I wanted to get back into law enforcement," the officer says.

Chuck, his wife, Mary, and his two children live in Winter Park.

It sure is a small world. After talking with Chuck for about 15 minutes, I learned that one of my close friends, Marshal Jim Manna of Montverde, worked for several years with him at Disney World. And Chuck seems pretty informed about all the big police cases my future father-in-law worked on in South Lake County.

You never learn these types of things unless you know how to talk to strangers.

And that's one of the basic similarities in the jobs of cops and reporters.

Why He's Defending The Budget

WASHINGTON (S'EA) — To fully comprehend President Reagan's fiscal priorities — and the political philosophy they reflect — take a look at the "International Affairs" section of his proposed federal budget for the 1983 fiscal year.

Although that portion of the budget has received little attention in recent days, it is especially revealing because it, unlike much of the domestic budget, provides an uncluttered perspective on the president's strategy of using fiscal policy to promote ideological goals.

The White House has not called for the elimination or reduction of any international programs in the name of "getting the government off the backs of the American people."

None of those programs is alleged by the president to have fostered "fraud, waste and abuse."

None of the programs is being emasculated through repackaging in block grant form, then shipped off to the states (with wholly inadequate funding) as part of a "New Federalism" initiative.

Without those distractions to provide a smokescreen for a mean-spirited approach to governance, the international programs presumably represent Reagan's commitments, concerns and intentions in a relatively pure, unalloyed form.

In virtually every instance, the changes in budget authority between the 1981 fiscal year, which ended last autumn and the president's projections for the 1983 fiscal year reflect the abandonment of a humane approach in favor of a cynical, perverse attitude toward foreign policy.

The Peace Corps, not long ago the vehicle for encouraging idealistic, highly motivated young people to display this country's best intentions to the rest of the world, will have its budget cut from $106 million to $98 million.

The Public Law 480 food aid program, better known as the Food for Peace program, which for years has utilized surplus commodities to feed starving and malnourished people all across the globe, will have its budget slashed from $1.23 billion to $988 million.

The refugee assistance program, which has provided desperately needed financial aid to refugees in Africa, Asia, Eastern Europe and Latin America, will have its budget drastically reduced from $474 million to $380 million.

Although there are numerous losers, there also is one big winner — foreign military sales credits, the government device used to provide direct credits and loan repayment guarantees to other nations so they can purchase weaponry and military training from the United States and its defense contractors.

Marie Was Victim Of Smear Campaign

WASHINGTON—Somewhere in the Justice Department there must be someone with the conscience and compassion to cry "Enough!" The department's star ABSCAM witness, Mel Weinberg, is running amok.

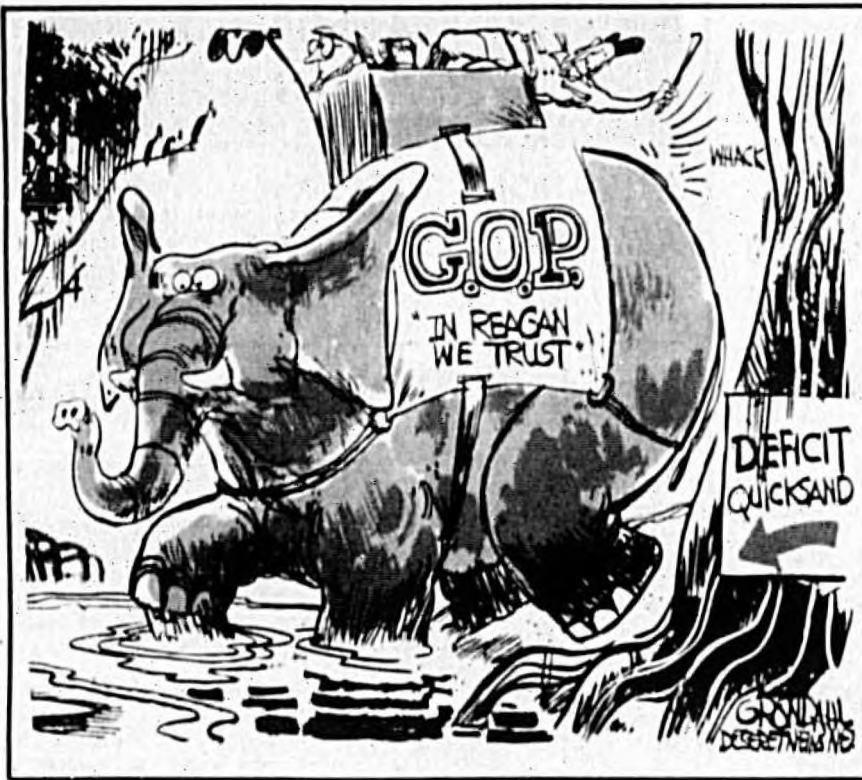

He is now spinning a spiderweb of lies around his late wife—a simple, sensitive, frail woman who loved him and believed he loved her. "To my darling wife Marie..." he had written, "I do love you very much."

Then she began to tell her story of ABSCAM, which disputed his own sworn version. "I'm not a liar," she explained simply. "I can't lie." To discredit her, he began clawing at her good character.

It was more than she could take. Late last month, she hanged herself. Beside the body was a note in her authenticated handwriting.

"My sin was wanting to love and be loved, nothing more," she had written, "but the campaign is being made by Mel to discredit me. I haven't the strength to fight him anymore."

Now that she cannot defend herself, his campaign of vilification has become all the more vicious. Won't the prosecutors, in the name of decency, please tell their Frankenstein's creation to leave poor Marie in peace?

A Movie Screen Fraud

Here we go again. The Greek director Costa-Gavras, who operates out of Paris, has brought us a fraudulent movie about Chile.

It's called "Missing," and it stars Jack Lemmon and Sissy Spacek. (I note, sadly, that Jack Lemmon—a wonderful performer—seems to be drawn by some mysterious attraction to these frauds and semi-frauds. His last was "The China Syndrome," a nuclear power propaganda film.)

At the start of the movie the audience is hit with the following message: "This film is based on a true story. The incidents and facts are documented. Some of the names have been changed to protect the innocent and also to protect the film."

All that is hogwash, outright falsehood. The central "fact" in the film is its theory that the American Embassy in Santiago conspired with the Pinochet government to murder a young American free-lance writer named Charles Horman, and then covered up its knowledge of the crime.

The supposed motive for the murder and cover-up? That Horman knew too much about American involvement in the 1973 coup.

No proof whatever exists that any of this is true.

When taxed with the lack of evidence supporting what amount to criminal charges in the film, Costa-Gavras takes refuge in the claim that he is an "artist" that he can say what he wishes to produce an effective movie.

What rubbish. The picture sells itself as a documentary, not as some sort of James Bond adventure. After its opening claim to documentary status—"some of the names have been changed to protect the innocent"—the audience in the theater has every right to believe that what it is watching in dramatic form has been established as true.

But it hasn't.

What we do know as fact is the Charles Horman disappeared in Chile during the 1973 coup that overthrew Allende. His father Edmund, a New York industrial designer, went to Chile to search for him. Mr. Horman became convinced that the U.S. Embassy was concealing evidence of its own complicity in the murder of his son, and sued 11 U.S. officials for $4 million. The case was dismissed for lack of evidence.

In 1979, a lawyer named Thomas Hauser published a book called "The Execution of Charles Horman. An American Sacrifice." This reflected the theories and suspicions of Edmund Horman, but added nothing to confirm them.

So far as we know, there was no American involvement in the 1973 Pinochet coup — at least according to the Church Committee and other investigations.

In 1970, the Nixon administration had toyed with the idea of a coup but discarded it. Washington did provide financial support for opposition newspapers and unions.

Seymour Hersh of the N.Y. Times, who published a great deal of investigative reporting on the coup and surrounding circumstances, finds no evidence of U.S. complicity in the coup.

Costa-Gavras simply invented or intuited the whole thing and is now passing his fancies off as facts.

Again, Hersh found no evidence of U.S. involvement in Horman's fate. Indeed, the Times recently ran an excellent analysis of the Costa-Gavras film, raising all the obvious ethical questions. (Suppose, for example, Costa-Gavras "thought" Lyndon Johnson was behind the JFK murder. Would it be tolerable for him to make a movie, in the absence of any real evidence, depicting Johnson plotting the murder?)

And, of course, we have also had "The Case of Alger Hiss," which declared Hiss innocent.

Apparently the Left likes to indulge its fantasies on film after, in the real world, the facts have proved difficult.

Are We Getting Business?

"You are just arms salesman, and we pay cash."

That businesslike observation appeared the other day in a New York Times report on Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger's visit to a Mideast nation that knows all about cash and is beginning to learn much more about arms.

Saudi Arabia. It was a Saudi official's way of expressing his government's coolness toward Washington's efforts to tighten U.S.-Saudi ties into something close to an alliance.

Otherwise unidentified, the Saudi could have been speaking entirely for himself. But more likely not. The sentiments too aptly fit current Saudi attitudes to be either atypical or apocryphal.

The Saudis, let it be remembered, were considerably more reticent than their Washington friends during last year's great AWACS debate as to the political implications of their acquisition of the radar planes. When they spoke about the deal at all, it was not to promise anything but to demand full measure as a sovereign and solvent nation.

They wanted their $8.5 billion worth of planes fully equipped and without strings as to what use might be made of them, period. Otherwise, no deal.

Their attitude did not make the efforts of their friends to sell that deal to an already skeptical Congress any easier, but it was fully in character.

The Saudis, well aware of their strengths, can afford to be hard-nosed in their dealings these days. Their oil, even in a soft market, is essential to the West and their conservatism works in the American interest in Mideast politics where they are a restraining influence on the region's more volatile regimes and a counterweight to its wild men, Libya's Khadafi and Iran's Khomeini.

But in exercising that influence, they are pursuing their own interests first and always. Whatever benefits may thereby accrue to the United States or other outside parties are strictly peripheral.

This is nowhere so apparent as in their reactions to the central issue in the Mideast for the last 35 years.

They have kept a shrewd distance from the Arab fanatics — the "confrontation" states. But they have never given any indication of readiness to consider a genuine accommodation with Israel. They dashed the Carter administration's hopes of a Camp David role for them and have been deaf to the Reagan administration's fanciful notion of an Israeli-Arab moderate front to oppose Soviet influence in the Mideast.

The reason is, of course, that they continue — or prefer — to see Israel as their major opponent and the main threat in the Mideast, not the Soviets.

About the same time, Mel's son by his first marriage, Richard Weinberg, telephoned Philadelphia Inquirer Bill Marrinow and badmouthed Marie, calling her crazy. Richard offered to put the reporter together with his father to get the story of Marie's past. Marrinow wasn't interested. But other newspapers printed Mel's smear.

Four days after this ugly publicity, Marie Weinberg took her own life. Philadelphia news reporter Greg Walter attended the memorial service. He wrote:

"JR, who is a high school honor student and wants to be an FBI agent, wept bitterly as he sat alone in an anteroom off a small chapel.

"His father stood outside the funeral home in the warm Florida night air smoking a large cigar. He chatted—and often laughed loudly—with an old friend, FBI ABSCAM agent Anthony Amoroso...

Weinberg has shown little remorse. "She was a cuckoo," he told a reporter. "Something wrong up here," he said, tapping his head.

Like Amoroso, the FBI's other ABSCAM agents also had a lot of laughs with the ingratiating Mel Weinberg. They inscribed his book with such sentiments as "Don't forget all the good times" and "It's been a pleasure working with you" and "Thanks for the experience."

Agent Bruce Brady was apparently amused at Mel's ability to maintain a wife and a mistress in separate, identical condos. "D. Mel," wrote the G-man, "You taught me quite a bit. Some things I'll never forget. You have a great family. I've enjoyed them too."

Then in parentheses, he mischievously listed Mel's "family," including both Marie, the wife, and Eve, the mistress. It was a great joke on Marie which backfired. She saw Brady's inscription and began checking into Eve's identity.

The ABSCAM prosecutors were also seduced by the fast-talking Weinberg. "Mel, you're the greatest," wrote one of them, John Jacobs.

But the most remarkable testament came from ABSCAM Judge George C. Pratt, who, in a ruling from the bench, praised Weinberg for devoting "nearly three years of his life to this investigation" and lamented that he would not be able to return to his life of crime. "His career as a con man has ended because he is so well known," declared the judge sympathetically.

ABSCAM should go down as the greatest scam in criminal history. Mel Weinberg, scammed the FBI agents, the prosecutors and the judge, not to mention a number of newsmen.

Piper High's Gus Pittaluga psyches himself up while waiting for his unlimited match at Saturday's Region 4A-3 Tournament at Lyman. The massive 345-pounder whipped Ed Grimes of Palm Beach Gardens, 7-4.

Lake Brantley's Richard Farmer claimed the 136-pound weight class with a decisive victory and five other Seminole County wrestlers joined him in qualifying for the state meet Saturday night in Region 4A-3 wrestling at Lyman High School.

Farmer, a veteran senior, jumped to a 7-0 lead against Piper's Doug Allen and coasted to a 10-3 victory. He scored first with a takedown and quickly added three points for a near fall.

The second period was pretty much a stalemate until Farmer reversed Allen midway through the two-minute span. Allen finally scored with an escape with 39 seconds to go.

In the final period, Allen picked up his final points for a stall and an escape before Farmer put things out of reach with a takedown and a stalling call against Allen for a 10-3 victory.

"Farmer was great," boasted Patriot coach Kevin Carpenger after the victory which gave the Brantley crew a fifth place tie with Palm Beach Gardens. Both had 71 points.

Deerfield Beach, as expected, was a runaway winner with 134 points. Plantation was a distant second with 95.5.

Prop Wrestling

John I. Leonard (72) and Boca Raton (71.5) were next. Lyman (46.5), Lake Howell (16) and Seminole (13) were down the list.

Farmer, nevertheless, had a tougher time of it with his Saturday morning semifinal match against Stephen Stanislawski. He bolted to a 10-1 bulge, but ended up winning, 14-12.

"He was way up, but then he got cocky," pointed out Carpenger about his veteran. "Richard said after the match, 'I learned something. I definitely think it helped him in his championship match.'"

Qualifying for the state finals at Tampa this Friday were Lyman's Pat Bell (102), Lake Brantley's Bob Kalich (171), Jack Likens (102) and Jeff Horn (123) along with Lake Howell's Paul Knoblauch (149).

Bell, whose runnerup spot was the highest ever for a Lyman frosh, placed second as did Kalich. Horn and sophomore Likens won consolation titles and finished third. Kalich was a surprising second to Coral Springs' unbeaten 171-pounder David Clayton by a slim 4-1 count.

"We never quite know what to expect from Kalich," said Carpenger about his senior wrestler. "He did a great job and if he would have gotten that takedown in the second period, it might have been a different match."

Kalich joined Bell as the county's only second-place finishers. Bell fell behind early to Palm Beach Gardens' Steve Karmelin, but came back strong in the late going to give Karmelin a tussle. He eventually lost, 12-6.

Likens and Horn both won decisively in the consolations. Likens took care of Steve Collins, who was once-beaten going into the tournament and Horn repulsed John I. Leonard's Carl Nikkinen, 8-3. Knoblauch, Howell's aggressive 149 pounder, lost an 8-4 decision to Forest Hill's Glen Porcher.

Tornado Strikes Soccer League

Tornado warnings were out in the Central Florida Youth Soccer League this past fall with good reason.

Coach Bill Kroll's F.C. United Soccer Club of Casselberry wiped out all competition in the area. The F.C. Tornados, an "A" team that has played together four years, dominated the age 10 and under division.

The Tornados completed an undefeated regular season by outscoring their opponents, 33-4, in 10 games including five shutouts. They took part in the Second Annual Holly Hill Soccer Tournament and came away with a second place finish, losing 1-0, despite outshooting their Jacksonville opposition, 11-2.

During the past month, the Tornados competed in the Florida State Youth

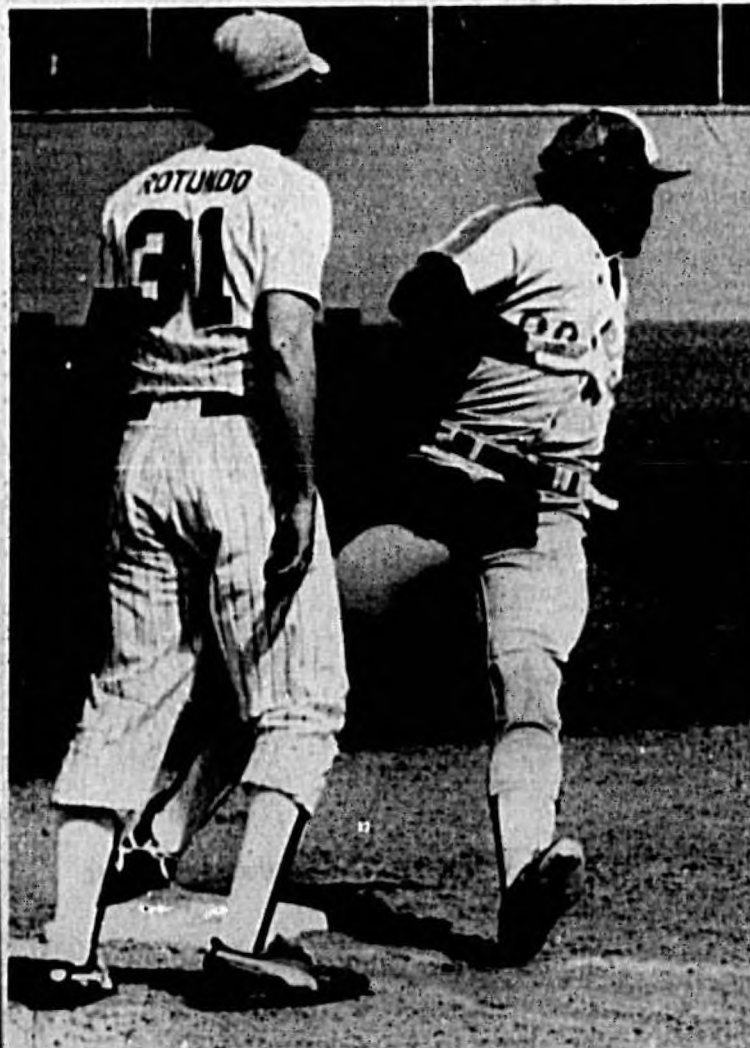

Soccer Association Regional Cup Competition. The team played 10 games, compiling a 9-0-1 record. Included were six shutouts.

Sean Cagan's three goals lifted the Tornados past the Ormond Beach Colts, 3-1, in the championship game.

Other members of the championship squad include: Brian Stinner, Ty

Sochacki, Scott Hirsch, Mark Bines, Jeff Cohen, Riad Saidi, Lee Knudsen, Brian Greenspoon, Jon Mendelsohn, Ross Betti, Sammy Florito, Marc Cohen, Tommy Kroll and Bobby Brantley.

"We have a very sound defensive team," said Kroll about his group. "Everybody covers for each other."

Seminole JVs Win District

Seminole High's junior varsity placed five girls in double figures Saturday night as they trounced Lake Brantley, 69-52, for the JV championship at Daytona Beach.

In the District 4A-9 varsity title game, Mainland rallied in the fourth quarter to knock off DeLand, 43-37, as Lori Lewis dropped in 16 points.

Sophomore Arlene Jones tossed in 18 points to lead the Tribe JV past Ray Dallonso's Brantley quintet. The Patriots had just beaten Seminole two weeks ago, but the Tribe victory gave the 'Noles a 2-1 edge for the year.

"Brantley couldn't handle our press or fastbreak," said Seminole JV coach Beth Corso. The victory gave the Tribe a 14-6 overall mark and a sparkling 14-1 Five Star Conference record.

Sharon Jenkins (15), Genene Stallworth (12), Angie DeLancy (10) and Teri Hardy (10) all joined Jones in double figures. Stallworth snared 15 rebounds. Michelle Campbell led the Patriots with 18 points, while Kim Lubenow had 11 and Michelle Brown totaled 10.

Bucs Don't Stop Here

The Bucs will not stop here. Seminole High athletic director Jerry Posey said Monday morning that the advance sales have not been good enough to guarantee Tuesday's Tampa Bay Buccaneer-Seminole High faculty basketball game, so the event has been canceled.

The Buccaneers request a fee of $1000, but only $300 had been raised according to Posey.

MIGHTY HEAVE

Seminole High's Sharon Lawrence lets go with a mighty heave in Saturday's Two Lake Invitational at Lake Brantley High School. Lake Howell was supposed to host the meet, but because of some work being done on its track the site was changed to Lake Brantley. Oak Ridge, bolstered by its sprinters, won the meet.

UMATILLA — Lake Mary basketball coach Bill Moore can have his cake and eat it too.

On the way to Saturday's District 2A-10 championship game at Umatilla, Moore's basketball girls presented the 39-year-old veteran with a birthday cake with a promise that the real present was going to come later that evening.

The freshmen and sophomore Rams didn't let him down. Especially Kim Averill. The multi-talented frosh dropped in a free throw with 15 seconds to play as the Rams grabbed the first Lake Mary championship by nudging Umatilla, 44-42, Saturday night for the District 2A-10 title.

The Lake Mary Rams, who dropped an earlier 49-40 contest to Umatilla, boasts the Region 2A-5 championship clash against Clermont on Tuesday.

"It was quite a day," confirmed Moore Monday morning about the championship. "Kim didn't have a great game offensively, but she made the big one when she had to."

After the Averill free throw, sophomore Michelle Swartz harassed the Umatilla unit into a turnover with nine seconds to go. Umatilla, however, got the ball back and Cheryl McAdams' 4-footer at the buzzer hit the front of the rim.

"That's one of the few she missed all night," said Moore about the McAdams' effort. "Michelle (Swartz) forcing them to throw the ball away was a key point."

Just 42 seconds earlier, Swartz hit two free throws which gave the Rams a 43-39 lead, but the irrepressible McAdams converted a free throw and then hit a basket to draw the Umatilla squad within the 43-42 before Averill connected on her big free throw.

"Kim also did a great job defensively on (Karen) Donaldson," noted Moore. "We held her to five points and every time I've seen her play she's scored 20 points."

Lisa Gregory had a "super game" according to Moore and led the Rams with 19 points. The talented sophomore hit eight of the Rams first 11 points.

Swartz added 11 for the Lake Mary cause, while McAdams paced Umatilla with 18 points.

UMATILLA (42): Shiver 2, Barton 0, Snavely 1, Peterson 8, Donaldson 5, McAdams 18, Lawley 4. Totals 12 18 35 42.

LAKE MARY (44): Averill 2, Gregory 19, Swartz 11, Hall J. P. Glass 3, Peterson 8, L. Glass 2. Totals 12 20 37 44.

Halftime: Lake Mary 25, Umatilla 20. Fouls: Umatilla 24, Lake Mary 24. Fouled out: Shiver, Barton, Donaldson; Hall, L. Glass. Technical: None.

Marcis, Rain Win Richmond 400

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Dave Marcis said he wasn't praying for rain, but he was not particularly disheartened when the skies opened up over Fairgrounds Raceway.

Marcis, buried under a six-year losing streak on the Grand National circuit, ended that drought as he led NASCAR's Richmond 400 Sunday when the rains came and was declared the winner of the $180,000 event.

Marcis had held the lead just four laps when the race was stopped on the 250th lap by a heavy downpour. Race officials waited more than an hour before calling the race, making Marcis a winner for the first time since the Dixie 500 in 1976. He took home $19,495 for his efforts.

"I didn't pray for the rain to keep up," Marcis said with a smile, "but I told the good Marcis' Chevrolet ended up about 200 feet ahead of Richard Petty's Pontiac. Benny Parsons was third, Dale Earnhardt fourth and Terry Labonte fifth.

Ill-advised pit stops during a caution period proved the undoing of Petty, Parsons and Earnhardt.

That trio pitted their cars after leader Joe Ruttman blew a tire and spun out on the 244th lap. Marcis, who was a lap down when the yellow caution flag came out after Ruttman's accident, decided against taking a pit stop and assumed the lead on the 246th lap.

Baseball Buckles Up For Year

This is the time of year when most people in baseball are saying hello again, buckling on their uniforms once more and finding out how much weight they put on after lying around all winter getting fat.

Two boyhood buddies, Jimmy Frey and Don Zimmer, ran into each other at the New York Mets' complex the other day in St. Petersburg, Fla., and instead of saying hello, they said goodbye, because their clubs train on opposite sides of the state, they do not meet all spring, and the two still close friends might not see each other for another year.

Frey, about to begin his first season as one of the Mets' coaches after having been fired as Kansas City Royals' manager last summer, and Zimmer, starting his second season as skipper of the Texas Rangers, go back more than 30 years together. They were friends as kids growing up in Cincinnati and high-school teammates at Western Hills. When they meet after not having done so for a long time, they throw their arms around each other. That's the kind of warm, wonderful relationship they have, each wishing the other the best.

"You know, Don lives here in St. Petersburg," said Frey, already set to start work for the Mets in today's camp opening, "and he purposely came out to say goodbye. He has taken off 25 pounds and looks wonderful. I was happy to see that. We were both talking about our clubs and Don said if some of his young pitchers come through, the Rangers would have a good chance."

One year ago, Frey had his own club, the Royals, and most of the experts had them favorites to finish first in the American League's Western Division again. They had won the pennant the year before and then lost to the Phillies in the World Series. But the Royals got off to a bad start in 1981 and after they finished fifth, 12 games out, in the first half before the strike, Frey was replaced by Dick Howser in August and now the Royals' problems are Howser's problems. Frey, who spent 16 years in the Baltimore Orioles' organization and undoubtedly will be considered if Earl Weaver goes through with his announced intention of resigning as their manager at the end of this year, now finds himself back with a man whom he already has worked with 10 years.

That's George Bamberger, the Mets' new manager who was pitching coach for the Orioles 10 years before leaving them to manage Milwaukee. Frey talked about him and Weaver.

"In some ways, they are alike," he said. "Both are pretty much perfectionists in how they like things to go. They have different personalities, though. Earl always is charged up and goes hard on the field. Off the field, he's pretty much the same way and you get that by the fired-up way he speaks.

"George is much more laidback. His personality and way of talking are much different than Earl's. I think inside he's probably just as demanding of himself as Earl is and he can be very demanding of others, too, once he sets his mind to it."

Pankhurst Slates Spring Retreat

By MERIAMANOR
Special To The Herald

Ellen Spivey, MSW, Administrator for Lake Catherine Inn, a supportive living facility for the elderly, spoke on Creative Awareness at the Pankhurst February meeting at Seminole College.

"Change always requires action," Mrs. Spivey said, "and it is especially important to women, today, to become more aware of ourselves and our needs and thus make creative changes in our lives."

The speaker led the group in a fantasy trip which sharpened their awareness of their real selves and helped to reveal real but possibly suppressed feelings.

Jenna Baisey, a senior at Lake Brantley High School, was honored as Pankhurst February Youth. Miss Baisey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Baisey of Altamonte Springs.

She has maintained a 2.76 GPA in school and has been a member of Tri-Hi-Y, Varsity Goalkeepers, Student Council and General Assembly. She has held numerous offices in school, and outside of school held offices at the YMCA Youth Legislature and worked on the Gross Green Bird newspaper.

Jenna has been accepted at the University of Florida and plans to major in communications.

The Leadership Conference for High School girls will be held at Lake Brantley High School on Feb. 27. The conference is open to girls from the 10th through the 12th grades and must be recommended from their High School or call Caroline Graham, 322-1252.

April 1 is the deadline for mailing a check for a reservation to the Pankhurst Spring Retreat for the weekend of April 16 at the United Methodist Youth Camp at Leesburg.

The retreat is an opportunity for women to develop better and more effective relationships with other women professionally and personally.

Among the speakers on the program will be Adele Dalbo, Ray Kavanaugh, Irene Brown, Bill Kirchhoff, Ann Sullivan and Linda Vandegrift.

The next meeting will be March 11 at SCC. For reservations call Marge Williams 699-0238.

In And Around Winter Springs

Workshop For Parents, Teachers

Seminole Community College is sponsoring a workshop at Red Bug Elementary for parents and teachers on March 1 through 4, from 7-9 p.m. The subject is "Education For the Prevention of Chemical Dependence."

There will be a $4.00 registration fee for the complete workshop.

On March 1, the subject will be "Chemical Dependence - A Family, School and Community Problem - Some Facts and Figures." The leaders will be C. Tom Roll, drug counselor, Seminole County Schools, and Jack McIntyre, Program Specialist from The House Next Door, in DeLand.

The subject on March 2, will be "The Drugs of Abuse - Facts About Drugs, Detection, Referral and Treatment." The leader will be Dr. Charles Fritch, Executive Director of The Grove.

"Motivational Factors, Social Problems, Drugs and Health, Effect on Family Life," will be the topic on March 3. Dr. George Lindenfeld, Executive Director of the Seminole County Mental Health Center, will be the leader.

The final session will be presented by Dr. Fritch, speaking on "The Law, Identification, Prevention Measures, and Alternatives." A film entitled "Soft is the Heart of a Child" will be shown.

Anyone with any questions can either call Red Bug Elementary or Dr. Marvin Jones, Director of Community Services, at SCC.

Every Friday has been designated as T-shirt day at Red Bug. T-shirts are still available at the school office.

March 1-8 has been proclaimed as "Music in our Schools Week" at Red Bug. During the regular music class time of the above week, any student who would like to perform for the class may do so, vocal, instrumental, etc. The theme will be: "What Music Means to Me."

Fine Arts Day will be held at SCC on Friday for all fifth grade gifted students in Seminole County.

Tuskawilla Middle School's Team Two will be taking a field trip to Sea World Thursday.

Team Nine will take their field trip to the Kennedy Space Center Friday.

The eighth graders will be having Lake Howell Orientation Week are this week to acquaint them with their schedules for next year.

A Ballet company performed for the student body of Winter Springs Elementary on Feb. 18.

Brownie Troop 569 will represent Scotland at International Night in March. Brownie Kelly Boring had relatives who recently visited Scotland and brought her back some items to share with her fellow Brownies.

Among the items shared were a Scottish flag, history of Scotland, a photo of the Lochness Lake and castle, and the Scottish National flower, Thistle, which is called Heather in the USA.

At their last meeting Brownie Troop 907 worked on a surprise craft for the upcoming mother-daughter campout. The girls read a story about Chinese children and the fact that they attend school six days a week.

Boy Scout Troop 196 is still recruiting boys ages

10 1/2 to 17 years old. Most of the boys are working on their second Class badge, with a few beginning on their first class badge. The boys are planning a camp out in the near future.

Troop 196 meets on Thursday evening from 7-8:30 p.m. at the Community Church on Wade Street. For information call Jim Mosley, 339-2715.

The Seminole Council for Exceptional Children presented a puppet show, "The Kids on the Block," at Winter Springs Elementary on Feb. 17.

The puppets are three feet tall and represent different kinds of handicaps we see and deal with in our everyday lives. The Middle School Gifted Students of Seminole County acted for the puppets. The puppets depicted how to establish positive relationships with special education students.

Seventeen parents and professionals attended the Seminole County ACD meeting when Dr. Brent Weinman spoke on visual problems relating to learning disabilities. Dr. Weinman showed slides and held a question and answer session.

Parents and all other interested parties are being asked to write their congressman to ask him to work toward keeping the handicapped programs out of the block grants.

The Sugar Tree Station Homeowners Association met Feb. 15 at the home of Diane and Wayne Brown, 604 Pearl Road. It was decided that Marsh Bracht, president of the association, would represent the association at the next P&Z Board meeting on the hearing of the annexation of the property behind Pearl Road to be changed from agriculture to single family-multi-family dwellings.

The Seminole County Bookmobile will be stopping at the Fairway Market every other Wednesday from 1-4 p.m. The next stop will be this Wednesday

Widow Should Check Out Handyman, Dandyman

DEAR ABBY: I have a dear friend I'll call her Emily living in Illinois. I live in California. Emily and I have been like sisters for over 60 years. Her husband died two years ago and left her a lot of money and property. She's 81 and never had children.

About three months ago she called and told me she had rented a basement apartment to a 63-year-old man she hired as a handyman for that apartment building. (She owns several.) Then she called a few weeks later to tell me this man had been "courting" her. Now he is pressuring her to get married. She said at first she told him, he was crazy, but he refused to take no for an answer. They were going to get married in June, but now he wants to move it up to April.

Emily acts like a schoolgirl in love for the first time! She called and said, "Don't worry, I haven't lost my virtue." I told her it was her money — not her virtue — I was worried about.

Last year when I was visiting her I checked out another man who wanted to marry her and found he was a liar and a phony. Emily is a sweet and generous person. I want her to be happy, but I'm so afraid some fast-talking slicker will win her heart and clean her out.

Abby, dear, am I wrong to interfere? What should I do?

CONCERNED OUT WEST

DEAR CONCERNED: Wrong? No way! You have good reason to be concerned about your sweet and generous friend. Write or call and tell her to discuss her plans with her attorney. Her handyman may be a dandyman, but he, too, should be checked out.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a nice-looking guy, 62, 190 pounds, athletic build and have no trouble getting dates. My problem is every girl I take out wants to get serious. I'm 30, like my independence and have no intention of giving it up for a long time.

I don't want to lie or lead a girl on, but if I'm too truthful about how I feel — that's the end of the romance.

So what does a guy do when all he wants is a few laughs and no commitments?

HARVEY

Dear
Abby

DEAR HARVEY: Take a hyena to lunch. DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Prefers a Preview" prompts this letter. I also fell in love with a man who respected me too much to go beyond a kiss until we were married. "Prefers" learned too late that her husband was gay. My story has a different ending.

When I married, I was a 23-year-old virgin. Nothing happened on our wedding night — or on any other night for a year after that. My husband finally admitted that he was unable to consummate our marriage because he had no sexual feelings whatsoever. He said he knew this when he married me but he didn't want to lose me. I cared for him, so I accepted this terrible disappointment.

Then Pearl Harbor came and changed my life. My husband, a college graduate, went into the service and overseas. Before he left, he said, "When I come home, I want to find you the way I left you — a virgin."

Well, he didn't. I went to work in a defense plant and met a man I couldn't resist. The inevitable happened and we fell madly in love.

(He couldn't believe he had actually met a 25-year-old married virgin!) Within six months I was pregnant, so I wrote my husband a "Dear John" letter, telling him the whole truth. He divorced me on the grounds of adultery and I married my lover, who by that time was the father of our baby girl. We had four other children after that, and they're all grown with children of their own.

I'm 64 now and my husband is 73. We've had our ups and downs, but I have no regrets. My life probably reads like a soap opera, so if you print this, sign me ...

LIONS GIVE SIGHT TO BLIND

Henry Witte, left, a Lion Club member for 38 years, and Hugh Duncan, a Lion for 30 years (both are past District Governors) examine eyeglasses Lions have collected over a 6-month period in the Sanford area. Approximately 2,300 pairs of eyeglasses will be forwarded to the Rambo Committee for the Blind to be distributed in the Calcutta area of India.

That much misused word "chauvinist" was derived from the name of a soldier under Napoleon, Nicolas Chauvin. His shameless sycophancy led to his name becoming a word meaning blind attachment to a group.

ORDINANCE NO. 431 AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF CASSELBERRY, FLORIDA, ANNEXING TO AND INCLUDING WITHIN THE CORPORATE LIMITS OF THE CITY OF CASSELBERRY, FLORIDA AN AREA OF LAND SITUATE AND BEING IN SEMINOLE COUNTY, FLORIDA, AND MORE PARTICULARLY DESCRIBED IN SECTION I OF THIS ORDINANCE DECLARING AVAILABILITY OF MUNICIPAL SERVICES, DEFINING CONDITIONS OF ANNEXATION, PROVIDING ZONING CLASSIFICATION, REDEFINING THE CORPORATE LIMITS OF CASSELBERRY, FLORIDA TO INCLUDE SAID PARCEL OF LAND IN THE MUNICIPAL LIMITS OF SAID CITY, AUTHORIZING AMENDMENT OF CITY MAP TO INCLUDE THE ANNEXATION HEREIN, PROVIDING FOR THE RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES FOR CITIZENSHIP IN THE CITY, SEVERABILITY AND EFFECTIVE DATE.

WHEREAS, there has been filed with the City Clerk of the City of Casselberry, Florida, a petition for annexation signed by the landowner of the area sought to be annexed consenting to and requesting the annexation and zoning of that parcel specifically described herein; and WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Casselberry, Florida, thereupon at regular meeting of the City Council has approved the petition signed by the landowner of the area sought to be annexed, consenting to and requesting the annexation of said parcel and has considered thoroughly the feasibility of such annexation and zoning to the City of Casselberry, Florida, in accordance with Chapter 171.044, Laws of Florida, 1978; and

WHEREAS, objections to such annexation and zoning have been considered and hearings held, and it appearing in the best interest of the City of Casselberry, Florida, to annex and zone said property, subject to specific conditions and restrictions; and WHEREAS, the City Council has concluded from investigation that all municipal services will be available to the area to be annexed on the effective date of this ordinance.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT ENACTED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CASSELBERRY, FLORIDA SECTION I - ANNEXATION AND ZONING - That the City of Casselberry, Florida, does hereby annex and zone and designate zoning of a certain tract of land lying in Seminole County, Florida, and more particularly described as follows, to wit: The West One-Half of the Southern 91 Street of the Northern 150 feet of Lot 18 Central Park, according to the plat thereof as recorded in Plat Book 6, Page 99 of the Public Records of Seminole County, Florida, and also the Southern 30 feet of abandoned street on the north side of Lot 18, Less the Right of Way for State Road 15 and 400 (U.S. 192), subject to easement for ingress and egress in favor of Roy Chester Sample, Jr., and Eloise Sample, his wife, sever and across the Northern 15 feet of the Southern 30 feet of said abandoned street.

SECTION II - ZONING DESIGNATION - That the property described in Section I of this ordinance shall have the following zoning classification: C-2 (Wholesale Commercial), as that classification is defined in Ordinance Number 188, as amended and supplemented, of the City of Casselberry, Florida. SECTION III - CONDITIONS OF ANNEXATION - None. SECTION IV - REDEFINING LIMITS BY DECLARATION - That the corporate limits of the City of Casselberry, Florida, be and its heretofore defined so as to include the area of land herein described. The description hereof contained shall include all streets, roads, highways, alleys, and avenues located within or between the existing municipal limits and areas annexed herein in Section I hereof.

SECTION V - AMENDMENT OF OFFICIAL CITY MAP - That the City Clerk be and he is hereby authorized to amend, after, and supplement the official City Map of the City of Casselberry, Florida, to include the annexation contained in Section I hereof. SECTION VI - SEVERABILITY - If any section or portion of a section of this ordinance proves to be invalid, unlawful, or unconstitutional, it shall not be held to invalidate or impair the validity, force, or effect of any other section or part of this ordinance.

SECTION VII - ANNEXED AREA RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES - That upon this ordinance becoming effective, the property owners in the above described area shall be entitled to all of the rights and privileges and immunities as are from time to time determined by the governing authority of the City of Casselberry, Florida, and the provisions of the Charter of the City of Casselberry, Florida, in accordance with Chapter 171.044, Laws of Florida, 1978. SECTION VIII - EFFECTIVE DATE - This ordinance shall become effective 30 days after its final passage and adoption.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOI

For Tuesday, February 23, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY
February 23, 1982
This coming year you may become involved in several intriguing new ventures. Your chances for success are good — provided you don't make erratic changes once projects are on-course.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be sure objectives you set for yourself at this time are truly worthy and that they are what you really want. False targets are time-wasters. Predictions of what's in store for you in each season following your birth date and where your luck and opportunities lie are in your Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful about impulsively assuming new responsibilities at this time. Leap before you look and you could get yourself into something you'll wish you hadn't.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Examine in depth those proposals brought to you now by acquaintances you recently met. Making assumptions on face value could turn out to be a costly mistake.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Alliances made for the sake of convenience might not work out too well today. Unless your counterpart is in harmony with your objectives, each will pull in different directions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Just because a project you're involved in is bogged down is no reason to experiment with untested methods and scrap workable procedures.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Keep your guard up in business and investment matters today. Don't take gambles where you're unsure of the facts. Long shots could fizzle.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Major decisions affecting your household should not be made today, unless your mate is in complete accord. Errors might result from acting on your own.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be extra-careful today if working with unfamiliar tools or materials. Read all the directions thoroughly. Don't pull switches till you know what you're doing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you are contemplating buying something today that you will have to live with for a long time, do ample comparison shopping before purchasing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In dealing with the family today, be cognizant of their needs and schedules or you might throw everyone into disarray trying to satisfy your priorities.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Usually you're pretty good at keeping secrets, but today you could talk about things you shouldn't to persons who may later use what you say against you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A recent acquaintance may try to borrow something from you today. It might be wise to hold off until you know this person better.

Heart Disease Relatively New

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — When I was a little girl I lived on the farm. Now I am not so little and I'm 66 years old so I have seen a lot of life. Something puzzles me. People didn't go to the doctor very often unless they had an accident or a serious illness. They worked long hours and didn't have a lot but they seemed to be healthier. You didn't see so many people with heart trouble. I realize that you need a checkup to be sure you don't have cancer. I have my checkup every year and I'm just fine. But why didn't you see more heart disease then and how did these people get by without regular examinations? Is it really a good idea to have an examination every year? What good does it do?

DEAR READER — You are a keen observer. If you look back at the latter '20s and early '30s there certainly weren't as many heart attacks. In fact they were a rather new thing. The first case of a heart attack in a living person was not described until 1908.

It was not because doctors didn't recognize heart disease. It was more rare. As you have observed, people worked hard, and you meant physically. There was far less cigarette smoking and people didn't get overweight so early in life. They also ate differently. Many probably didn't even have a refrigerator.

Times have changed and advances in medicine have been developed to keep up with the times. Today people need an annual examination, at least after age 40, to help prevent illnesses. About half of the deaths are from heart attacks and strokes, most of which are caused from fatty-cholesterol deposits in arteries. Early detection of changes that lead to deposits help delay or prevent such events. You know about the early detection of cancer — which still provides the best chance of a cure.

Beyond that the quality of life can be improved. A good example here is early detection of glaucoma, enabling early treatment to save a person's eyesight. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 10-2, Your Valuable Medical Examination, which explains why and what to expect from an adequate examination. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1351, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — A few months ago I had surgery for a femoral bypass graft involving replacing arteries from my aorta down to my knees.

Now I ejaculate in reverse, presumably into my bladder. I was wondering how this compares with the traditional vasectomy. I wouldn't be concerned except that I've read about studies that say such procedures may cause heart trouble and strokes because of antibodies that form in the blood.

DEAR READER — I wouldn't worry about that. Retrograde ejaculation is to be expected after prostate surgery and you must have had some damage to nerves that control the process if you have it, too. You won't absorb any of the ejaculate or sperm cells. They will simply be emptied out with the urine.

A man with a vasectomy must absorb the degenerating sperm cells. But recent studies cast doubt on this being too important or having any relation to heart attacks. In any case, the important determinants of heart attacks are your cholesterol level and blood pressure and whether you smoke or not.

Alan won the world's championship last year. Alan's final round opponents were a team from Pakistan. After 48 boards the Pakistanis — Nisbat Ahrabi, Zia Mahmood, Masood Salim, Jan Farh, Munir At-Ullah, Nisar Ahmed and non-playing captain Sattar Gornawalla — led by two IMPs.

Oswald: The Pakistanis started with a rush. On board one Munir and Fazli reached six clubs on the bidding shown in the box. The clubs broke 3-2 and Munir romped home.

Alan: Munir's four no-trump was a no-trump raise, not Blackwood and Fazli made the very imaginative bid of six clubs.

Oswald: Arnold and Solodar almost got to six no-trump which would have given them a two IMP gain. Their bidding was the same as at the other table though four no-trump. Then North bid five diamonds. South five hearts and North five no-trump which South elected to pass. Any slam depended on the 62 percent chance of a 3-2 club break, but as such the slam is a good one to bid.
