

Hughes Planning Research Center

MIAMI (UPI) — Multi-millionaire Howard Hughes is financing a major research center under construction here which will open early next year staffed with an international team of scientists.

The research center, directed by Yale University, will be dedicated primarily to cancer research.

The center will attempt to find a cancer vaccine.

Dr. Nelson, who has worked on Hughes-financed projects for the past six years, said preparations for the new project have been under way at Yale. "The work will be expanded considerably in Miami," he said.

"We'll be working at first on 12 specific projects, all of which are in the field of immunology.

Two of the projects involve cancer, and another in which we hope to find ways of improving diagnosis," Dr. Nelson said.

Reds Attempted To Spy On Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet officials insisted on redecorating the Moscow residence of Vice President Richard M. Nixon prior to his visit last July in an apparent effort to plant eavesdropping devices.

The Russian tactics were disclosed today after Russell Langlell, ousted U. S. security officer in Moscow, told a news conference that the Soviets tried to spy on Nixon. Langlell said Monday he thwarted the Red espionage effort.

Worry Clinic

Notice what Philip says about the fascinating sermon technique of Rev. Garrison at Bloomington, Indiana. Christ releases suffering clergymen employ scientific psychological strategy, for Jesus was the World's Greatest Applied Psychologist. And young folks are attracted to religion when it is "packaged" properly.

BY — GEORGE W. CRANE, U.S. M. D.

CASE C — 478: Philip, aged almost 29, is a graduate student in history at Indiana University.

On Sunday he attends church where Rev. R. B. Garrison occupies the pulpit.

"Dad, you ought to hear Rev. R. B. Garrison," Philip remarked recently when he was home for a couple of days.

"He is the kind of preacher you recommend. For he uses the narrative style and employs cases to illustrate his sermon."

"He holds the attention of teenagers, too, instead of slanting his remarks solely to the old folks."

"And when he finishes with his sermon, he does another thing I have never seen any other clergyman perform."

"He gives a brief preview of his next week's sermon. And he includes enough to capture the interest of the congregation."

"In fact, I have been so fascinated at times by his terse preview of the following Sunday's sermon that I resolved not to miss for I wanted to find out how he would develop the interesting topic."

PSYCHOLOGY GOES TO CHURCH

In the new edition of my college textbook, "Psychology Applied", I included a chapter called "Psychology Goes to Church".

College students have voted it by far the most vital chapter in the entire textbook, which shows that 18-year-olds are still very much concerned with idealism and religion, despite lurid stories of ten-age delinquency which we often find on Page One of our newspapers.

So I was doubly interested in Philip's comments. Philip recognizes topnotch oratory when he hears it, for he has heard many

Society Protests New Toy Rocket

LONDON (UPI) — The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has protested against the sale of a toy rocket with a plastic dog riding in the nose cone.

It wrote nine members of Parliament to complain that the toy rockets "could give youngsters horrid thoughts and a cruel streak."

Boy Floats Loan

NEW YORK (UPI) — An 11-year-old who wanted a football jersey but didn't have the money to buy it decided Tuesday to try a bank.

William Sicari went to the Manufacturers Trust Co., pledged his bicycle and his electric train as security and floated a $5 loan. He will pay $1.02 each month for five months.

Old French Province Described By Writer

(Editor's Note: This is the eighth of a series of articles by A. M. and E. M. Haskell who are now in Europe.)

Perigord. . . The Perigord is that section of France which lies south of the Gironde Valley, west of Bordeaux, north of the Pyrenees, and east of Vichy. Laced with rivers, it is a country of low hills, verdant valleys, and deep gorges cut by the rivers, where fruit, tobacco, truffles, and grapes for the stringent local wine are grown.

It has been inhabited since prehistoric times. In 1940, four young men wandering through some woods on the banks of the Dordogne, lost their small dog down a hole. In trying to rescue him, they themselves slid down into a vast subterranean hall, painted with amazing animal frescoes. Scientists, after a great deal of careful study, have decided that these miraculously preserved drawings belong to the Paleolithic age which make them some 150,000 years old.

Scientific consensus is that these caves were used for religious rites, not dwellings. The paintings were a type of hunting magic to bring luck to people who depended on killing wild beasts for food. These drawings, in their eerie underground setting, were not done by one man or one group, but by generations of people, as manifested by the different techniques and the fact that some of the drawings are superimposed on others.

Executed in black, ochre, and red, the bulls, cows, ponies and bison, some running, some pierced with arrows, others about to be caught in traps, have remarkable verve and freshness. Historically they are of great interest, but they have esthetic appeal, also. These primitive artists were careful observers and good technicians. They used the contours of the cave wall to advantage in depicting the animals and drew them as they saw them. They are much more exciting artistically than many of the non-objective daubs exhibited in the

This is the completed artist's conception of the design for Circusland. It has been approved by C. V. Wood, head of Marco Engineering Co., as the final general design for the 200-acre attraction, Maurice Marshall, head of the Circusland organization, said. At left is the main entrance which leads into the scaled-down county seat town of the 1920s. The adjacent area is the amusement and rides section, which also contains the circus arena. At right is Magoo Island and in the center background is a cattle and citrus area including a small concentrate plant. Marshall said the engineering firm thinks it will be able to start building on the target date around the end of January or in February.

Collins, Smathers Disagree On Dixie Demo Nominee

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. LeRoy Collins disagreed today with Sen. George Smathers that a Southerner doesn't stand a chance of getting the Democratic presidential nomination. Smathers said Wednesday he didn't think a Southerner could get the nomination and made it clear he considers Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas in this category. Bu Collins told his weekly news conference he thought Smathers was "a little too fast" in writing off a Southern candidate. Collins said Smathers might feel the influence of pressure groups in Washington more than the governor does here, and he deplored regionalism in the national political picture. The governor said he knew there were groups that would try to prevent a man from getting the nomination because of where he lives. Collins said Southerners shouldn't be so quick to withdraw into a "shell of regional isolationism."

When we don't, he said, prejudice against us will quickly disappear. The governor said when he recently talked to a group of New England weekly newspapermen he found they didn't "back up" the idea a man can not be nominated because he is from the South. Smathers indicated he feels Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri has the inside track for the party's nomination.

The Chamber of Commerce Coffee Club's special guests this morning were representatives of Chase & Co. and Sanford's newspaper and radio station staff members. Chase & Co. Vice Pres. Richard Dess introduced W. A. LeStrake, William Ray and Donald Jones of the firm's staff of officials. Joe Orstein, head of the firm which has acquired Station WIOD and Bud Corrigan, Garry Fox and Frank Jones were introduced as were Myron Reck and Nick Pfeiffert of Station WTRR. Marion Harman, Sanford bureau chief for the Orlando papers, and Publisher Walter Giesow, Advertising Manager Evelyn Cushing, and Circulation Manager Frank Cololone of The Herald also were introduced. Carl Galloway Jr. of the Winter Park Telephone Co. and Bill Hemphill, who has opened Bill Hemphill Motors, also were welcomed to the club. Chester Bearick of DeBarry, urged support of the musical programs sponsored by the Sanford-DeBarry Entertainment Assn.

Van Doren Given Questions, Answers On Quiz Show "21", Reports Claim

NEW YORK (UPI) — Charles Van Doren was given questions and answers to run up his winnings to $129,000 on the quiz show "Twenty-One" an authoritative source said today. The source said Van Doren, who earlier denied he had received any help in answering questions on the NBC program, was fed questions and answers to help him over rough spots on the show. The New York Times said it had learned from an authoritative source in the Criminal Courts Building that both Van Doren and Hank Bloomgarden, another "Twenty-One" winner, had admitted to Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan that they had received both questions and answers on the show. Big prize winners of the program — with few exceptions — received pre-broadcast aid, a source who has been questioned by authorities about rigged TV

Miami Reverses Integration Order

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami City Commission Wednesday unanimously reversed City Manager Ira F. Willard's order integrating the city's parks and pools. Willard's order lowering the color bar at all city recreational facilities was in effect for only about 24 hours. The commission overruled him and restored segregation at a special 15-minute meeting. City leaders on both sides of the issue watched while the action was decided with a minimum of discussion. Willard had given his order Tuesday after a conference with the local head of the NAACP. City Atty. William Pollot had advised him that public recreational facilities were the same as other public-owned facilities ordered integrated by the U.S. Supreme Court.

DeGaulle Proposes Dec. 19 Meeting

LONDON (UPI) — French President Charles DeGaulle has sent letters to the Allies proposing Dec. 19 as the date for a Western summit meeting in Paris, informed sources reported today. The word from Paris came shortly after British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd told Parliament here that a Western summit meeting probably would be held in mid-December.

Steel Shortages May Force Close Of GM Plants

DETROIT (UPI) — A spokesman for the giant General Motors auto-building empire said today most of the corporation may be shut down by next week because of steel shortages. Approximately 140,000 auto workers will be laid off by this weekend, most of them in GM. The world's largest corporation employs about 300,000 hourly workers. GM's Pontiac division halted production of 1960 model cars Wednesday and only four of Chevrolet's 13 assembly plants were still operating today. S. E. Knutson, Pontiac boss, said new-car production stopped at midnight because of materials shortages. He said 5,000 workers were furloughed at that time. Others had been sent home earlier. Chrysler has already laid off about 2,300 workers, but expects to continue limited production until the end of this month.

Women's Club To Conduct Volunteer Cancer Survey

Members of the Sanford Women's Club, under the auspices of the local cancer chapter, have undertaken the job of conducting the Cancer Prevention survey in Seminole County. This massive statistical research program, to be run in 27 states, seeks out the cancer-causing factors in environment, occupations, social classes, religious sects, and dietary habits. Almost everything known about the causes of cancer in human beings has come from studies of groups of people with particular exposure or particular habits. For example, by such studies it has been found that cancer of the skin can be caused by many years of heavy exposure to X-rays, arsenic or certain types of tars, oils and chemicals. There is a suspicion that there are many other factors in our environment which can cause cancer among people who are sufficiently exposed for a number of years. The plan of this study is to learn as much as possible about the exposures and habits of a very large number of people. These people will be followed for six years to determine when of them develop cancer. It is the hope that this will yield important clues as to a number of possible causes of cancer. The final goal is to prevent cancer insofar as possible by reducing exposure to the responsible factors. In addition to this, it will be possible to learn more about the earliest signs and symptoms of cancer. The chances of cure are very much greater when cancer is treated before it has become large

Guard Receives Additional Funds

John Keeling of the Sanford National Guard unit told the Jaycees today that additional funds have been allocated to bring the local unit up to full strength. Keeling said, in a talk at the Jaycee luncheon that the local unit now has funds for 133 men. Jaycee President Marvin Swanton read a citation award to be presented to architect John Burton for his work on the Jaycees new building. Wade Tye, accepted the presentation on behalf of Burton, who was out of town.

Government Takes Over Cuban Plant After Blackout

HAVANA (UPI) — The Fidel Castro government announced today it would oversee the electric power supply in Havana where the second mysterious power failure in six weeks blacked out the city most of the night. The blackout in Havana and the neighboring towns of Marianao, Regla and Guanabacoa came at 1:30 a. m. during a meeting of the cabinet with President Oswaldo Dorticos. Many of the ministers traveled with Dorticos to the Tallapiedra power plant to investigate. It was later reported that the breakage of a cable caused the trouble.

Mental Case Care In Hospitals Urged

Seminole Memorial Hospital Administrator Harry Weir today said he would like to see machinery set in motion for the county to authorize that all mentally ill persons be sent to specially designed hospitals in the area.

Weir listed the only two hospitals in the area designed to take care of the mentally ill as Halifax Hospital in Daytona Beach and Holiday House in Orlando.

Jail Rickety, But Clean, Hobby Says

Sheriff J. L. Hobby today denied that the Seminole County Jail is "a pig pen" and said prison inspectors have never criticized the cleanliness of the jail, only its overcrowded conditions and poor facilities.

Sheriff Hobby, referring to a comment made by County Judge Wilson Alexander yesterday that he refused to detain a mentally ill person in the jail, said "the place for the mentally sick is not a jail anyway, but a hospital."

Hobby also said he hopes the day will come soon when no juveniles will be detained at the jail. He spoke of the juvenile problem at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club yesterday, where he said most of the youngsters who come to the jail are from broken homes or from parents who refuse to accept their responsibility.

Hobby said that a youngster's home life is the thing that shapes his mind into a responsible adult. "If a parent fails to do his job in guiding a child, you can bet he has a good chance of ending up in jail, whether it be only for a minor violation or a felony," Hobby said. "If the parent would only shoulder the responsibility of the child and show him the right way, many of our jails would be empty. The place to start a child off on the right road is in the home; if the parents fail to do that, the child is in trouble," Hobby said.

U. S. Flying Saucer Test Slated Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America is about to test fly its first flying saucer. But the hush-hush project is about four months behind schedule according to a timetable made available to United Press International earlier this year. Even so, this country is hoping to beat the Russians to the punch in developing the radical new aircraft, which the Soviets also are assumed to be working on. The latest word on the saucer came from Toronto Wednesday after a free lance photographer flew over his hangar and took a picture of the shining craft parked outside. The incident caused red faces but prompted Sir Roy Holtson, board chairman of Avco Aircraft Co., which is developing the saucer for the United States, to disclose that the first outside test flight will be made soon. Reliable sources said the saucer will provide the U. S. Army with a modern airborne cavalry. "The likes of which have never been seen in warfare."

Reds Attack Reuther

MOSCOW (UPI) — The newspaper Trud published a full page article today attacking Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union. The attack was the latest in a series on Reuther by the Russian press and radio since he and other American labor leaders debated with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev during the Premier's recent visit to San Francisco. Trud is the official organ of the Russian trade unions.

No TV Here

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — South Africa will not have television because of its possible "destructive effects on children and the less developed races" Minister of Posts A. A. Hertzog was quoted as saying. In an interview with the Afrikaans language newspaper Die Vaderland, which had asked about reports South Africa next year would be the only country in the world without television, Hertzog flatly said the government did not intend to introduce TV.

The newly-elected queen will be crowned during halftime festivities at the Lyman homecoming football game Friday.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy, a front-runner among Democratic presidential aspirants intends to make it clear that he is unavailable for second place on his party's ticket. When he makes a formal announcement of his presidential candidacy, probably in January, he can expect to couple it with a statement that he won't run as a vice presidential nominee. This word came today from the Kennedy camp where such a statement was viewed as essential to clear the pre-convention atmosphere for 1960. It would be intended as a firm and early answer to admirers of Adlai E. Stevenson who dream of nominating Stevenson for a third try for the White House with Kennedy as his running mate. Kennedy, an early Stevenson supporter in 1956, tried but failed to win the vice presidential nomination in 1958 largely because the farm belt preferred Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.). Now the Massachusetts senator has his eye only on the top spot.

Troops Mass Near Jordan Border

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—Jordan and the United Arab Republic have massed their armies along the border with Iraq in preparation for a Communist attempt to seize total power in Baghdad, diplomatic sources reported today.

The reports created new tension in Iraq. Premier Abdel Karim Qasbiem evacuated Jordan's King Hussein and warned that Iraq was strong enough to crush any aggressor and that it has the most powerful army in the mid-east.

One minor border incident already has been reported here—the seizure of an Israeli jeep which crossed the border into Jordan while chasing fleeing Iraqis. The jeep and its four occupants were held by Jordanian authorities.

The spilling throughout the Middle East was that "something" was about to happen in Iraq where Premier Kassem was moved down last month by machinegun bullets from an attempted killer. He was still recovering in a Baghdad hospital.

The most cautious appraisal of the situation came from Jerusalem, Israel, where Arab affairs analysts said they were skeptical of rumors of an impending Jordanian invasion of Iraq.

Jerusalem observers said if troops really were massing on the Iraqi, Syrian and Jordan borders they were more likely to be used to frighten Israel than to fight each other.

Collins To Invite NAACP Inspection

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Gov. LeRoy Collins today said he would invite NAACP President A. Leon Lowry of Tampa to go to the state mental hospital to make a personal check of conditions there.

Lowry has charged that Negroes are treated like slaves and are beaten or otherwise abused at the sprawling mental institution at Chattahoochee.

Lowry wrote a letter to Collins listing complaints of two persons who charged mistreatment of patients. He had earlier made a similar complaint.

The NAACP president asked Collins to investigate conditions at the hospital.

Nikita Steals The Show In First Color Film

MOSCOW (UPI)—Moscow has a smash movie hit on its hands today and the man who steals the show is none other than Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev.

There are prominent Americans in the movie—Frank Sinatra, Marilyn Monroe and President Eisenhower—but they are just upstaged bit players.

Khrushchev's first full length color film opened in two dozen theaters in Moscow and getting tickets is as difficult as it was the first year "My Fair Lady" burst upon the New York scene.

The supercolossal production "N. S. Khrushchev in America" has everything from humor to a luscious closeup of Miss Monroe.

The plot is fairly simple: Boy loves girl (the ordinary American people); boy tries to win girl but the pair is kept apart by the villains (American police); girl loves boy, so boy wins girl.

We first see the local fellow leaving home to fly overseas to the big city. Americans in Washington and New York reach out hands, smile, snap photos, cheer and applaud.

But those police: Stern-faced, arguing with each other, pushing people behind barricades.

Tragedy stalks our hero in Los Angeles.

The mayor refused to tell the people where Khrushchev can be seen. Palm-lined streets are almost empty except for a few sun-browned characters in shorts.

All the hero gets to do is meet Sinatra and Shirley MacLaine in low cut dress. The can-can dance which the Russians saw and thought vulgar landed on the cutting room floor.

But hope returns in San Francisco. Cheering crowds wave signs proclaiming peace and friendship. Our hero puts his thumb up indicating he likes the place. So does the commentator who obviously fell in love with the bridges and cable cars, and says with pleasure:

"San Francisco has pigeons as we have in Moscow." (Shot of citizens feeding pigeons).

2 Feared Lost In Private Cave

CADIZ, Ky. (UPI)—Two college students were feared lost today in a four-mile-long private cave which they entered to search for biological specimens.

Friends reported that Cy Allen and Lanny Calhoun, both 19, students at Bethel College at Hopkinsville, Ky., 20 miles east of here, failed to return to the college Wednesday night.

Their car was found parked about 300 feet from the entrance of the cave, just off U. S. 68.

Golf Association May Hold Tourney

The Sanford Women's Golf Association met at a luncheon yesterday at the Mayfair Country Club with Miss Ellen Best, presiding. A business meeting preceded the luncheon. Discussed at the meeting was the possibility of having nine hole tournaments for those members so desiring.

Names can be put on a list in the lounge indicating interest in such a tournament.

Mrs. Gene Witsel, handicap chairman, announced that no changes will be made in handicaps until all 18 holes are playable. Numbers 8, 15, and 18 are unplayable due to high water. Number five can be played from a temporary tee set up on number 4 hole.

Future tournaments will be played on the 18 hole basis until further notified.

Mrs. W. K. McRobert asked that those members wishing to play in the Nov. 12th inter-city meeting at the Orlando Country Club sign the reservation list in the lounge. A team of four players will be chosen to compete in the team play. Others will play in a regular scheduled tournament.

A western party is being planned for Saturday, Nov. 14th. More plans will be announced later.

Both the men's and women's associations will be the hosts.

Mrs. Robert Carrol and Mrs. Herman Mason were introduced as guests and Mrs. Marge O'Hearn greeted as a new member.

U. S. Launches Giant Balloon

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. (UPI)—American scientists late Wednesday rocketed a 100-foot aluminum-coated balloon to an altitude of 240 miles over the Atlantic Ocean.

The launching touched off flying saucer reports from Boston to Florida.

The balloon was launched by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) in a series of experiments the government hopes will lead to placing a similar balloon in orbit around the earth.

The space agency said the experiment achieved its aim of testing the vehicle's ejection and inflation machinery. Data on its performance was radioed back to earth. The balloon was not meant to go into orbit.

The two-stage launching rocket, producing 130,000 pounds of thrust, produced a bright vapor trail in the evening sky which contributed to the wide visibility.

Let's Watch Those Little Tax Reductions

By FRANK BLERKE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Our top man, Dana Latham, keeps reminding us we have the greatest voluntary income tax system in the world. That's why he wanted 100 extra revenue agents this year. It seems we volunteer best when somebody is watching.

Congress thought this was reasonable, and told him to go hire the agents. So I got to wondering how this has worked out.

Well, there was the case of the baldheaded salesman. His tax of $100 seemed shy to the agent. They wondered especially about a big deduction for cost and upkeep of a hairpiece.

Just a necessary and normal cost of his business, the salesman explained. What he sold was vitamins, to help hang onto youth. Latham's agent regretfully knocked the claim in the head.

About 80 million of us volunteered something, on or before last April 15, as the voluntary tax law requires. But the expanded staff of revenue agents every day now turns up fresh indications we weren't always enthusiastic enough in our filings.

Take the question of casualty loss. That's what you suffer when a tree falls on the roof or a hurricane smashes the windows. These are acts of God and you can claim deduction for 'em when you figure your taxes.

Recently, it develops, a few beleaguered ladies have been claiming deductions for the loss of their husbands. Latham's helpers are sympathetic of course. But the fact a man has been killed on the highway doesn't make him a casualty loss in the eyes of the tax man.

But keep trying, ladies. Times change.

Consider the matter of termite damage. Home owners for years have been claiming termite damage as a casualty loss. Internal Revenue agents just as regularly have been bouncing the claims back, disallowed.

Now comes the U.S. Tax Court with a ruling which blows the tax man at least half out of the water. In the case of a Winter Park, Fla., fellow it said recently that under some circumstances termite damage can, too, qualify as a casualty loss.

These circumstances may not be too clear in every case, I'm afraid. The question of "suddenness" seems to be crucial. And when the termite claims start winging in next April 15 Latham's extra tax men may wish they could crawl right into the woodwork.

Even this year I guess they've been busy.

A lady taxpayer, unfortunately not otherwise described in reports to the revenue boss, thought her three great dams might qualify as dependents. She said they were necessary to her health and safety. She explained they kept away wolves.

A male volunteer sought to deduct from his income for his several purchases of bourbon. He termed these outlays civic contributions. He said local authorities during a drought had asked residents to go easy on water.

In addition to our other fallings, Latham suspects that many of us volunteers were forgetful this year about some of our income.

He has reason to think we overlooked maybe 3 billion dollars in interest, for instance, and another

1 million dollars in dividend checks.

He is pushing now a subtle scheme to help us remember by easing the pain. He suggests we work out our withholding from wages so that at the end of the year he owes us money instead of vice versa. To do this, just have your boss figure one less dependent for you than you actually have.

But when claiming your refund, don't send off any carbon.

Latham's men turned up a fellow in Chicago who filed not one return but 56, claiming refunds totalling $21,070.00. He got back 50 checks, totalling $17,857.50, before somebody noticed.

For the next 10 years, anyway, this fellow's trouble with taxes are solved, unless the Parole Board lets him out early.

Showers Spread Over Western U. S.

United Press International

A low pressure belt hovered over the Rockies today, spreading rain and cooler weather over much of the West.

The showers spread over Arizona and New Mexico into the Pacific Northwest, and were mixed with snow over western Montana, eastern Idaho, Wyoming and northern Colorado.

An inch of snow fell in southwest Montana and northeast Idaho, and Cedar City, Utah, reported a temperature drop of 26 degrees in 24 hours.

But temperatures were on the rise ahead of the wintry western conditions. The warming trend extended from the plains through the Great Lakes into southern New England, with readings up to 20 degrees higher than the night before.

The Gulf Coast was hit Wednesday night by widespread storms which dropped an inch of rain on Pensacola, Fla., in six hours and gave Burrwood, La., a 24-hour total of 3.84 inches. The weatherman foresaw more showers from Florida to the Carolinas.

Police Still Hunt For Missing Judge

CHICAGO (UPI)—Police were without a solid lead today as they tried to find some trace of Judge W. Lynn Parkinson of the U. S. Court of Appeals, missing more than two days.

A door-to-door search of the near North Side neighborhood in which the judge was last seen Monday turned up nothing to indicate the whereabouts of the distinguished jurist.

Detectives questioned dozens of persons, stopping at gift stores, barber shops, restaurants and cocktail lounges where Parkinson might have stopped.

The Lake Michigan shoreline nearby was also searched but no clue was found.

Thirty-six members of the Starlighters of Sanford, a local square dancing club, chartered a bus and traveled to St. Petersburg, Saturday evening for the purpose of becoming "Knotheads."

By attending the dance at the Ox Box in St. Petersburg and having called, Jim Pearson, certify to their attendance these members were duly initiated as Florida Knotheads.

In order to become a member of the Florida Knotheads, it is necessary that not less than four couples travel 200 miles (round trip) to attend a square dance and have their attendance certified by the caller. The trip was thoroughly enjoyed and members spent most of the trip singing old songs.

Starlight Promenaders making the trip were, Hank and Joan Johnson, Louise and Ed Drobert, Fay and Dick Haxton, Ann and Bill Myer, Recc and Lee Wake-man, Dottie and Ray de Yarmen, Tom and Ursula West, Ruby Stenstrom, Ed Alderman, Bob and Neva Donaldson, Viv and Fred Pariani.

Miss Wilson Conducts Training Meeting

Miss Myrtle Wilson, county home demonstration agent, held a county wide leader's course, Tuesday at the Home Demonstration club on 25th Street. It was a training meeting for the county home improvement chairmen who will give their clubs the demonstrations on "Gadgets—selection of kitchen utensils" at the November meetings.

These courses are part of the University of Florida's extension work. Miss Wilson narrated a film entitled, "Pots and Pans for your Kitchen." Following the film she talked on all phases of the subject and gave demonstration with dozens of articles on display.

Other speakers included, Mrs. John Senkarik, county home improvement chairman, who spoke on "Glass Turned Ceramic Cook-ware" and Mrs. Joseph Kratzmar who explained "Aluminum and its use in the Kitchen."

Leaders who brought several of their favorite kitchen gadgets along to the meeting gave impromptu explanations of the articles. Those participating were Mrs. Carl Moss and Mrs. John Kabir of the Lake Mary club; Mrs. K. Sussman, Seminole Evening club; Mrs. L. Hammond and Mrs. George Otto Sr., Longwood; Mrs. J. H. Bailey and Mrs. M. Gray, Elder Springs and Mrs. Senkarik and Mrs. Kratzmar of the Sanford Club.

Following this amusing part of the program, Miss Wilson conducted a round table discussion on a progressive ten year program in Seminole County on home improvement. The program is a most commendable one and with the home demonstration clubs' cooperation could affect many phases in our lives, such as, street improvement, taxes, schools and spurious advertising. It should also teach us to judge these things on their merits for better home improvement.

The Lake County Home Demonstration members have extended an invitation to Seminole county members to attend their open house Nov. 3 in Tavares and see a fine display of Christmas decorations.

Halloween Events To Be Useful

There are at least two, probably several more, Halloween events around Sanford this weekend that are using the traditional goblin holiday to serve a useful purpose as well as entertain the youngsters whose holiday it is.

The Southside School is sponsoring a carnival on the school playground and the First Methodist Church will supervise a "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" project.

The school has arranged real carnival type entertainment for the young people, with pony rides, games and refreshments and Halloween costumes will be the order of the day.

The church is sponsoring the collection of coins (they won't refuse dollars either) to go into the UNICEF funds which help out needy people in underdeveloped countries. These youngsters will be collecting funds instead of the usual trick or treat candies, etc.

These two groups will be indulging in some Halloween fun, but also will be providing supervision for large numbers of kids who probably will have more fun than if just "Trick or Treating" around the neighborhoods.

Sanford has gained wide notice for its organized recreation and officials say that it is showing up in the good behavior of the city's youth. And Halloween is a good time for the goblins to be good.

Check Water Supply

Dr. Robert Smith, the acting county health officer, has warned residents using their own water and sewage systems to boil drinking water until the flood waters in their areas subside.

This health hazard came as a big surprise as an added menace from the high water levels and continuing rains. It possibly could lead to the necessity for mass inoculation of these groups.

There is danger from typhoid and dysentery, Dr. Smith warned, if drinking water becomes contaminated.

The doctor's advice should be followed until the water levels are back somewhere near normal and the possibility of drinking water becoming polluted lessens.

Film Lovely Is Shrewd Businesswoman Also

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Lana Turner, a sassy film star's shrewdest businesswoman, will make more than one million dollars from her latest movie, "Imitation of Life."

Mrs. Turner, who looks like a million at $9, owns 50 per cent of the film, which is expected to gross between 10 and 15 million dollars.

"For the first time," the actress said in her Benedict Canyon home, "I have a feeling of security for myself and my family."

"I understand my share will be over a million dollars. The picture is still playing, and we'll probably bring it out again in a few years."

Mrs. Turner, who had to be talked into doing the picture because she didn't like the script at first, said:

"Fortunately, the money is in the form of an annuity, and it's spread over 10 or 15 years. It was a fabulous deal."

The joke around Universal-International studios, which made the movie, is that U-I was held to Mrs. Turner's Corporation of America for 11 million dollars—less than the one film will probably gross.

Mrs. Turner was not really well-heeled until she made "Imitation of Life." Asked what happened to the money she made during more than 20 years of stardom, she laughed:

"I spent it, boy. No, seriously, I've always worked on salary. I never owned a piece of anything. But this time I have something going for me instead of just a salary."

"When I started making big money later were big. In 1937, I started at $50 a week, and that was big money then."

One of the reasons Mrs. Turner is in demand these days is that she is one of the few actresses in town who isn't sensitive about playing the part of a mother.

She won an Oscar nomination by playing a mother in her "comeback" film, "Peyton Place."

Assignment Washington

By ED KOTERBA

WASHINGTON — For 10 days now we've had the world's greatest spoofer tooling around town in a chauffeured $13,000 black open-top automobile.

He's been posing as a diplomat of a nation that doesn't exist. And, in fact, the flag of his "country" waves — right along with the U. S. flag — from a pole in front of the hotel where he has set up his embassy.

His uniforms are splendid, and people actually bow when he passes by — usually at functions at which presidents and diplomats appear.

The bearded impostor calls himself the Ambassador of the Duchy of Grand Fenwick. He's worked his spoof down to such a fine point that he's even fooled the great Metropolitan Police of Washington.

What I mean is that for the past 10 days, that "diplomat" has been operating his plush car illegally. The big oval-shaped license tag, bearing the designation GF-2, is as make-believe as the Duchy of Grand Fenwick.

Yet, even though he's passed at least 100 cops a day on the streets of Washington he's never been stopped!

The spoofer is Jim Moran, the fellow who once sold a refrigerator to the Eskimos near the North Pole. He's been working this lavish gag to promote the movie, "The Mouse That Roared," a comedy which pokes fun at diplomats.

To bring notice to the title of the picture, Moran has put a mouse on everything he can lay his hands on. A gold one replaces the ornament on the improperly-tagged Mercedes Benz. A mouse appears on the duchy's coat of arms — and even on the hat of Moran's fake uniform.

Jim Moran, who's become a sort of legend among publicity men, has flirted with trouble before to try to get a point across. But perhaps the silliest gag of this 62-year-old professional spoofer was once when he sat for days on an ostrich egg to try to hatch it and then test the paternal laws. I forget what he was promoting that time.

This ambassador bit, though, is cached in cold dignity. He won't even admit to his old pals around town that he's really Jim Moran. But he'll let me for a spin in that flashy buggy. He sat stiffly in the back seat and his chauffeur looked grim. Every time we'd pass a cop I'd feel uneasy. Several times a policeman would do a double-take, but only to admire the car.

I asked Moran what he'd do if a policeman asked to see his registration card. He replied haughtily: "In this town, police don't question diplomats."

Anyway, he said, he had a registration card. I noticed it was signed the "High Commissioner" — His Excellency James Sterling Moran.

But what, I persisted, would he do if a policeman did stop him? "I'd plead diplomatic immunity," he said casually.

Which shows that the bigger the front you put on in Washington, the more you can get away with. I wish I had Jim Moran's nerve.

Washington Calling

BY MARQUE CHLES

WASHINGTON — The two blocking tactics in the Western bloc, Konrad Adenauer and Charles DeGaulle, seem to have achieved one of their objectives. That is to make it imperative that a Western heads-of-government meeting be held to try to coordinate the Western position prior to any summit session with Premier Khrushchev.

But what troubled policy-makers here are beginning to question is whether such a meeting can possibly reconcile the apparently irreconcilable views of Germany and France on the one hand and Great Britain and the United States on the other. Adenauer's latest pronouncement on policy, proposing that a summit with Khrushchev and German reunification, has left a sense of frustration and bafflement.

The proposal that "Hamlet" be played without Hamlet has the look of deliberate obstructionism. Adenauer's concentration on disarmament is of long standing, but this is hardly an exercise that can be conducted in a vacuum divorced from all political considerations. In fact, the belief has grown here that progress on disarmament can be made only as trust and confidence develop with the gradual negotiation of outstanding political issues such as Berlin.

As policy-makers are wryly recalling, it was scarcely more than two months ago that President Eisenhower visited Bonn and was received with a great ceremonial flourish of welcome. He held two fairly extended private talks with Adenauer and the communiqué at the end stressed their agreement on all outstanding issues. It was secured as another victory for Eisenhower's powers of personal persuasion.

In the light of certain long-range policy considerations being mulled over at the top level of this government, the same Adenauer is playing in a dangerous one. Under the pressure of the adverse balance of payments and the outflow of gold, some basic questions are being raised about the cost of foreign aid. One of them is how long this country should go on paying the cost of American troops stationed in Europe.

To put it another way: How long should the United States subsidize the defense of a Western Europe that is enjoying booming prosperity and alleged to be taking away more and more American business? The bulk of these troops are stationed in Germany.

Corollary to this question is the related one of why America should carry the full burden of economic aid to underdeveloped countries when a revived Europe has large capabilities that could be put to this end. West Germany has a favorable balance of payments of more than $5 billion, yet Bonn has made only the most tentative gestures in the direction of participation in the WPA's program of economic development. Great industrial firms, such as Krupp, are doing big business in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

As to France, NATO military leaders are baffled by DeGaulle's insistence that only French troops can defend French soil. This makes the coordinated defense of Western Europe by NATO all but impossible. With a force of more than 400,000 troops still in Algeria the French contribution to NATO is a minimum of two skeleton divisions made up of new recruits.

Europe, having come to prosper in the past decade on a tide of massive American aid, finds it hard to understand the new attitudes coming into being here. After all, this is still the richest country in the world, and why should we not continue to carry the burden in the underdeveloped countries?

But American policy-makers looking into the future see a political threat to all foreign aid if present trends are not corrected. The raw material of a dangerous kind of neo-isolationism is at hand for political opportunists who want to use it. They can exploit the allegation that markets in certain industries are being lost to European competition subsidized by American dollars.

The "Buy American" policy adopted by the Development Loan Fund is hardly the way to meet this threat. But that it must be met is undeniable.

Marshall Threat To Quit Revealed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A news magazine has revealed the late Gen. George C. Marshall threatened to quit as Army chief of staff during World War II because of an argument with President Roosevelt.

U. S. News & World Report, publishing 1954 and 1955 interviews with Marshall obtained with the understanding they would not be released until after his death, said Marshall won the argument.

"There was an article in one of the magazines that criticized the President," Marshall said. "I remember that it made him very angry and he decided to ban the magazine from all our overseas bases for the remainder of the war. In fact he was going to go through with it until I stopped him."

"I felt that he was going too far, and I told him so. It finally got to the point where I told him that if he did this thing I would resign and tell the nation why I resigned."

"The President didn't think I was serious. But he soon found out that I was, and his order was never carried out."

U. S. News & World Report did not identify the magazine in question but it said Marshall also had another fight with the White House over the way decoded Japanese messages were being passed around.

Bridges Challenges U.S. Law Again

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Harry Renton Bridges, whose record of Communist front performances is as long as your arm, is in the news again with a challenge to U. S. law.

Bridges is the fellow — traveler boss of the West Coast longshoremen. He has just "respectfully declined to comply" with a federal request for a list of Communists and ex-convicts in his union. The request was made under authority of Section 504 of the new labor reform law.

The federal government already is a two-time loser to Bridges in matters of law. In June, 1953, the Supreme Court relieved bridges of a prison sentence and restored his citizenship. This decision was based largely on technicalities. A lower court had convicted Bridges of perjury and fraud in obtaining citizenship by naturalization. The offense charged was that he had concealed membership in the Communist Party.

The Supreme Court in 1953 held that the statute of limitations had outlawed the perjury charge of which Bridges had been found guilty. The Communist Party, thereby, triumphed in a contest which began midway in Franklin D. Roosevelt's second term.

On March 2, 1954, the Labor Department ordered Bridges' arrest and deportation to Australia on charges that he was an alien Communist. The Communist Party supported Bridges in legal maneuvers until that order was carried to the Supreme Court and canceled. Bridges then obtained naturalization.

Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle officially (argued Bridges a Communist on May 2, 1942, in support of the 1952 deportation order which then was boxed in long hearings. In 1948, the CIO removed Bridges as regional director for northern California because he insisted on supporting Henry A. Wallace's Communist — sparked presidential campaign.

Over the years the House Committee on Un-American Activities and Biddle cited Bridges as a Communist, as an advocate of class warfare and of the overthrow of the U. S. government by force. The committee named the Communist Party as director and Bridges as sponsor of the 1954 San Francisco general strike.

After that strike, Jack Stachel, Communist trade union specialist, wrote: "What will happen if the workers elect not only one Bridges in section and district leadership? There will be big struggles. The workers will become revolutionized."

The committee reported that from the moment of the 1952 deportation order, the Communist Party sponsored Bridges' defense, assessing members and otherwise raising funds and making propaganda.

When Nikita S. Khrushchev visited the United States, the lone labor leader he sought out with whom to exchange kind and comradely greetings was this same Bridges.

Punter's Battle Looms In Florida, Auburn Tilt

United Press International
Auburn reserve quarterback Joe Dolan, whose booming punts were credited by many with causing Georgia Tech's first loss of the season, meets his match Saturday in Florida's Bobby Joe Green.

Both Dolan and Green can punt 50 and 60 yards when they want to it seems. Dolan kept Tech held up most of the game and Green kept LSU from looking at the goal line any more than they did last Saturday.

Will the big toe make the big difference at the Plains? It could, Auburn and Florida played a 6-3 game last year with Auburn on the long end. Florida, which acquitted itself well against LSU, would like nothing better than to beat Auburn.

Coach Bob Woodruff announced his starting squad against LSU would meet the Tigers in Auburn. This includes a backfield of full-back Jon MacBeth, halfbacks Doug Partin and Jack Westbrook, all moved up from the second team, and alternating quarterbacks Wayne Williamson and Dick Allen.

Auburn concentrated on defense Wednesday in a long 2½-hour workout. Coach Ralph Jordan called it "a good day's drill."

Alabama turned loose a rough third team Wednesday and the seldom seen scrubs scored eight touchdowns for Coach Bear Bryant. This was enough to make his offense-hungry mouth water. But that wasn't the whole story in practice.

"We thought our first unit and the third unit did well, our second unit didn't do a thing. They'd better pick up or there'll be some changes made," Bryant said.

Mississippi State, Bama's homecoming opponent, paid special attention to its kicking game Wednesday. Fullback Billy Schoenrock got off several punts which traveled more than 60 yards.

Both Mississippi and LSU planned tapering off drills today after workout in which rough work was skipped to cut out the chance of injuries. Mississippi brushed up on kicking and LSU worked out in the rain.

Georgia Tech Coach Bobby Dodd called Wednesday's workout "one of the best practice sessions we've had all fall." All his halfbacks were running well against Duke defenses.

Tulane, readying for Texas Tech, reviewed its running game. Tennessee got the good news that tailback, Bill Majors, was "much improved" after being slowed by a bruised knee. Majors will probably see action against North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Georgia worked on its pass defense, expecting an aerial display from Florida State. Kentucky worked hard and seemed eager for its game with Miami Friday night.

NCAA Gets Blast

BOSTON (UPI)—The NCAA today was on the receiving end of criticism for its three-day session here during which the football player recruiting practices of four colleges came in for official censure.

President G. D. Humphrey of the University of Wyoming, which was barred from post-season bowl games this year and placed on probation for 12 months, called the NCAA action unfair.

He said the NCAA acted "retroactively" in that it punished the school for something that happened in 1937 but not declared illegal until 1938.

Unbeaten University of Mississippi, Montana State College, at Bozeman, and Arizona State University at Tempe also were reprimanded by the powerful NCAA council during its session here.

Wyoming, the NCAA found, offered aid to a prospective student-athlete, identified as Notre Dame tackle Angelo Mosca, in 1937 before his eligibility was established.

Mosca, according to Wyoming Athletic Director Glenn Jacoby, enrolled at Wyoming in September, 1937, but was ineligible for play prior to his dismissal for "disciplinary" reasons in January, 1938.

Jacoby said Mosca's visit was provided for in NCAA rules permitting one campus visitation by a prospective student-athlete.

"We could not know that later the NCAA would reach the definite decision (published after a January 1939 meeting) that a campus visitation is illegal if it is for . . . enrollment."

Mississippi's chances for a post-season bowl game were not affected in its one-year probation imposed because an alumnus sought to entice University of Arkansas quarterback Albert (Sonny) Holmes to Ole Miss with offers of financial aid.

The NCAA noted that Mississippi appeared to make a "serious effort to educate its alumni" to conform to intercollegiate athletic rules.

Arizona officials expressed shock at the stringency of its two-year probation penalty, the first year of which will bar the school from taking part in any NCAA-sponsored events.

"The irony is that the original charges against us were dropped and Arizona State University was stuck on information which we volunteered," said President Grady Gammage.

The NCAA charged Arizona with providing prospective football players with free plane trips, free housing in a dormitory and an overnight junk to the Grand Canyon.

Gammage stood by his athletic director Clyde Smith who admitted to the NCAA that he made an honest mistake in interpretation of the rules.

Montana, which received a two-year probation period involving all athletic teams, was reprimanded because the NCAA charged the school's head football coach gave a scholarship to a Brooklyn, N. Y. athlete. The grant was later cancelled when the player turned out to be too small.

Filmstars Backing New LA Franchise

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A group of well-liked southern California actors including actors Jack Webb and Dean Martin, today is seeking a franchise in the new third major league for their baseball club, the Los Angeles Stars.

The new outfit, intent on getting a share of the entertainment dollars spent in this sport-minded area of almost six million population, has a bank roll of five million dollars "to get started," according to Mark Scott, former baseball broadcaster and executive vice-president of the Stars.

Wins PGA Golf

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (UPI)—Charlie Bassler of Baltimore birdied the last two holes Wednesday to win the Middle Atlantic PGA golf championship with a three-over par 145. Dick Mullen of Hagerstown, Md., led Bassler by a stroke approaching the 17th hole, but bogied the last two to finish second with a 147 for the 36-hole tournament.

Change Draft Meet

NEW YORK (UPI)—The annual major league player draft has been pushed back to Nov. 30 to coincide with the minor league meetings in St. Petersburg, Fla. The draft originally had been scheduled to be held in New York on Nov. 20.

Leahy Optimistic About Pro Game

NEW YORK (UPI)—Frank Leahy, so pessimistic as a college football coach that he once said his Notre Dame team might not make a first down, now is so optimistic about the pro game that he figures it might cure juvenile delinquency.

Leahy is the general manager of the Los Angeles Chargers of the new American Football League. When he was introduced to reporters Wednesday night by former founder Lamar Hunt, Leahy turned on the kind of oration that helped spark the Fighting Irish to four national championships.

"I feel wonderful about this pro football. I feel there's no doubt we'll make that first down this time," Leahy said, flashing his Irish grin.

Covington Covers Sports

By JERRY COVINGTON
If a man hasn't learned in his lifetime to develop an endeared feeling for our national pastime he really has missed a great deal. Show me a man that dearly loves the game of baseball and I will show you a man that has that certain sparkle in his eye.

W. K. McRoberts is just that kind of man. For several years there had been feeble attempts to return baseball to Sanford but to no avail. This year Mc got wind of the situation that existed and he immediately went to work. Well, as everyone knows the gates weren't anything to brag about but this didn't discourage him. Of course he wanted a winner but because of his great love for the game he stuck it out to the bitter end and now is ready to go again next year.

It is a man like Mac that keeps baseball alive because without class D players in the farm system of the Major League clubs where would the future Ruths, Mantles, and Mays come from.

Next year we are going to have a winner and we are going to fill the park! Mac believes that anything can be done and if anyone can do it he will! With his kind of determination how can you miss at anything.

You who didn't come to the park last year just think about all the good times that were had and plan to take part next year. There is nothing like going to the park on a hot summer night, sitting with your friends, indulging in a soft drink and a moon pie, and seeing a jam-up ball game. Beats the channel changing by a long shot!

I think the biggest kick I get each day is watching Dick Silvers and Bud Leyer go through their antics behind Seminole High School. Both are dead serious about their job of coaching the junior varsity but they throw enough humor in to make it like a side show. They make those kids so mean I don't see how their parents stand them when they get home from practice. Actually they are just capable of teaching the youngsters that in order to play ball you have to hit harder than the other fellow and the lads are only carrying out their wishes on the field.

They are really a well behaved group on and off the field but they like to bang into the line.

Plan to come out to the next JV game and watch that Leyer when somebody scores against his defense. Better yet, stay outside the park and hear him.

Rickey Hurls Baseball Commissioner's Words Back At Him In Angry Retort

NEW YORK (UPI)—Branch Rickey hurred Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick's words back at him today with an angry retort that implied the major leagues are trying to scuttle the Continental League.

It was the closest Rickey has yet come to a direct charge of bad faith regarding cooperation with the formation of the third league. Earlier, the 47-year-old first president of the Continental League called upon Frick and other baseball officials to honor their "unqualified assurance" that they support major league expansion through the formation of a third league.

Rickey's new blast was touched off by Frick's explanation that the majors "have not committed ourselves to a third league as the only possible method of expansion."

"It is the only way possible," roared Rickey. "They knew it when they first agreed to support us and they know it now. Baseball can't expand in any other way."

Asked if he was saying the majors are going back on a promise

"to avoid interference," Rickey roared in anger.

"Interference, that's the word—they said no interference."

Rickey stopped—then added in normal tones: "I'm shouting. I must compose myself. I simply refer to my earlier statement. I stand on that."

Rickey had contended in a 600-word statement issued Wednesday that Frick and the leagues endorsed the Continental League on both May 21 and August 18. Exhibit A was an August 18 statement by Frick which said: "The members of the committee will support a third league movement and will attempt to avoid interference."

After making that point, Rickey concluded his formal statement with a thinly-veiled accusation: "I entered the professional game of baseball in 1903 at the age of 21. During the ensuing 35 years I came to know all the persons connected with the ownership of major league clubs.

Sanders Holds Golf Play Lead

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Doug Sanders, a slender Florida golfer frequently in the money in the past two years, held a slim one stroke lead today as wind-blown Sahara pro-amateur golf tournament entered its final round.

Sanders, of Miami Beach, went one over par Wednesday with a 73 for a 36-hole score of 120, thanks largely to his 64 on Wednesday. But Doug's score was one of the better efforts of the day, as only Eric Monti, Los Angeles, managed to equal par in a constant battle with winds of 40 miles an hour.

One stroke behind when today's play opened was young Don Whitt, Borego Springs, Calif., who also had a 72 after a first round of 67. Trailing these two were Monti and the veteran Ed (Pocky) Oliver, Denver, Colo., with scores of 111.

Pryor's Gains Lead In Loop

PRYOR STATE FARM INSURANCE leave took over the lead in the Sandspur Bowling League, this week, by winning all three games from Roumillat & Anderson Drugs. Robsons Sporting Goods was helped out of first place by Wilson-Maier, as that team took all three from the sportsmen. The standings now are Pryors 17-10, Robsons 15-12, Wilson-Maier 14-13, Foodmart 11-13, The Pig 9-12, and Roumillat 8-19.

Wilson-Maier took more than the three games from Robsons, they also relieved them of their high scratch series honors. Until this week, Robson, with a 1,991 scratch series had the money sewed up, but the furniture team piled up a 2,022 scratch series to lead the league. With a 1,703 scratch game they also took over scratch game honors, previously held by The Pig with a 704. Credit for this week's win goes to Faye Griffin and Virginia Lang, who turned in big series for the furniture people. Pat Foster led Robsons in their losing battle.

Pryors Insurance, with first place in sight, poured it in to take all three from Roumillats, after winning the first game by a mere seven pins. Sue Jackson, rolling for the drugstore, led her team with a 184 scratch game, giving her highest series for the evening. She also sewed up some money prizes, as she ended with a 227-547 handicap total. Lillian Ogden rolled high for the underwriters, picking up the 3-10 split, while doing so. Team-mate Lu Hopspan, who also rolled far above her average, topped the difficult 4-7-10 split.

Foodmart took the first two games, but The Pig out rolled them to take the last game by a large margin. Camille Moreland spared the restaurant team, and Eve Rogers was high for the grocers. Eve also made the 4-10 split, and Gerry Ralston turned in the 4-7-8.

Next week's action will center on lanes one and two, as Foodmart tries to make it into first with Pryors. Wilson-Maier hopes to do the same, if they can win from The Pig on lanes three and four. Robson will be trying for a comeback as they go against Roumillats on five and six.

Soccer Loop

NEW YORK (UPI)—William D. Cox, former president of the Philadelphia (Phillies) Baseball Club, announced Wednesday the formation of a new professional soccer league. Cox, president of the New York entry in the International Soccer League, said the circuit would be made up of teams from 10 nations. All games will be played in New York.

Ryder Replacement

ATLANTA, Ga. (UPI)—Great Britain will fly another Ryder Cup golfer to the United States to replace Peter Mills. Mills resigned from the squad Wednesday because of a back injury suffered during a practice round at Washington recently.

'Angry' Boxers Slated To Tangle Tonight

By OSCAR FRALEY
NEW YORK (UPI)—A zapoteo Indian from Mexico and the only modern Cuban without a beard were getting so mad at each other today that they will knock off each other's hairline mustache.

They'll get their chance at Madison Square Garden in Friday night. And the television audience may be treated to more than the usual quota of pseudo mayhem.

These guys frankly don't like each other.

Gaspar Ortega, the party of the first part, admits that "deese fellow make me mad" when they fought on Sept. 11, it seems that Florentino Fernandez, the opposi- tion who is known as "Ducey," the ox knocked Gaspar on his you know what on that date and in the process also injured the Ortega pride.

Indians, Gaspar wants it known, are like elephants. They're not only long on memory but, despite what you see on your favorite teevee Western, they're hard to knock down, too.

"He's make me look too bad," said the man from Mexicali, running a hand through his bristling black hair. "Only once, long time ago, I been knocked down. The other time she's no count. It's the low blow. Now I gets even for Ancilio, Irada, Cachito and Rene."

The aforementioned, in order, are his father, his wife and his children. Gaspar did not mention by name his 10 brothers and sisters. But if he has his way, he'll probably buff the ox a few times for them, also.

Florentino the ox, not to be confused with Ferdinand the bull, shrugged his sloping shoulders, their full ax-handle width at this evidence of premeditated hostility. The only Cuban fighter extant who is not nicknamed either "Kid" or "Chico," the ox growled:

"This time he not get up."

Fernandez is not much given to talking, particularly English of which he knows less than enough to graduate from sixth grade. But his interpreter's eyelids lie information officer at the U.S. Military Academy.

need translating as to combative content.

"He says," the interpreter allowed after a considerable time spent mentally scrubbing up the conversation, "that he knock him out."

'We Wus Robbed,' Akins Shouts

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former welterweight champion Virgil Akins yelled today, "We wus robbed of a technical knockout!" and he demanded a return bout with southpaw Kenny Lane, who won the decision Wednesday night, despite a badly cut right brow.

In the third round of their TV fight at the New Capitol Arena, Akins of St. Louis had climbed down from the ring and was sitting on the dressing room when Referee Ray Barner called him back and told him the bout would continue.

The recall came after a two-minute halt in the third round, during which the referee and Dr. Dave Gordon discussed the advisability of stopping the scheduled 10-rounder because of a bloody, one-and-one-half-inch gash on Lane's right brow. They decided to let the fight go on.

Border Restrictions In Spain Easing Off

(Editor's Note: This is the ninth of a series of articles by A. M. and R. H. Haskell who are now in Europe.) San Sebastian, Spain. One of the big changes in European travel in the last few years is the easing of border restrictions. Friends who had traveled in Spain several years ago led us to believe our bags would be thoroughly searched and that the formalities would take a long time. That was not the case. The border officials wanted to see our passports and the documents for the car. A customs inspector wanted to see the trunk and looked in the back seat. It was all over in less than five minutes. This was, however, the most formal entry into a country we have made so far. When we landed in England we were asked if we had anything to declare, and our passports were stamped. No bags were opened there nor had they been on the Belgian, French or Spanish frontiers. As a matter of fact, when we re-entered France from Belgium we couldn't even interest the French in stamping our passports. We spent last night in Royan, France, a resort city on the north bank of the Gironde river, above Bordeaux. The center of this town was bombed out of existence during the war. It has been built back as a modern city to the extent that it looks more like a plan for a proposed city than it does like an existing one. Unfortunately, some of the buildings are shabby. We also learned that the Germans are not the only literal-minded people in the world. Years ago in Cologne I was having a bout with the Tourist Disense. We arrived at the room after what seemed to be a very long time. I could hardly wait for the porter to leave so I could check the plumbing. I opened the door and there was just what I had ordered—a bath, no toilet. It was half a block down the hall. Last night we ordered a room with a bath. The results were just that. Fortunately there was no emergency. Across from the hotel was a large book store. Since many British tourists go to the resort, we thought we might replenish our supply of reading material. The English books they had were: 101 Favorite Hymns, Bus Stop, The Year the Yankees Lost the Pennant, The Fight Game—A Four Square Book. All of which seems to be a rather strange collection. It is probably a tribute to the GI's of the last war that there are vending machines on the streets of Royan with this inscription "Chewing Gum Service—10 Francs". Incidentally, the first sign to greet one inside the Spanish frontier is for Coca-Cola. The night before last we went walking rather late in the evening at Perigueux to do some window shopping. Most of the furniture which is on display in provincial French towns would be hard to give away in the United States. The most interesting window was a display of electric refrigerators. Instead of having milk on the door shelves, the display was to show how many bottles of wine could be cooled at once. On the subject of wine, we are told by all those who know about such things that 1959 will be one of the all-time great years for French wines.

Western Military Experts Worried Over Red Nuclear Weapon Advances

LONDON (UPI) — The Western powers are beginning to have second thoughts on the present optimism on nuclear test explosions because of reported startling advances in Russian nuclear weapons, Western military experts said today.

The experts told United Press International the Western delegates at the Geneva nuclear talks are caught between the devil of public opinion which opposes further nuclear explosions and the dog bite of advanced Soviet nuclear techniques.

For nearly a year the world has watched the negotiations in Geneva, hoping that the specter of a deadly nuclear arms race can be avoided. The talks resumed in Geneva this week after a two-month hiatus.

At the moment the "nuclear club" of Russia, the United States and Britain have a verbal understanding that no nuclear tests will be made before next year.

The military experts in London said Western leaders recognize the strong public demand for a ban on tests. But, they said, evidence so far of the danger to health by radioactive fallout is not conclusive.

Western statesmen and military leaders have the responsibility for deciding whether the military risk to the West of a prolonged ban on tests outweighs the improved danger to health, they said.

The experts recalled evidence given by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission early this year in a closed session of a Senate subcommittee. AEC scientists said that fallout, trapped and analyzed after a particularly dirty Russian nuclear test last year, indicated that Russia had developed a "super atom bomb."

Analysis of this fallout led the U. S. scientists to the conclusion the Russians had enormously greater supplies of uranium than the West suspected. It also indicated they had solved the problem, which still baffled Western scientists, of bringing large quantities of uranium—235 together in the casing of their superbomb without producing an automatic nuclear reaction.

The military experts here said Russia's Spoutnik and Lunika have shown she has missiles capable of delivering her super atomic bomb. No country yet has a missile powerful enough to carry a hydrogen bomb, they said.

One of the main problems in the method of detonating the hydrogen bomb. The start of a fusion reaction requires such vast heat and energy that Western scientists have so far been able to produce it only by using an atomic bomb to detonate the hydrogen bomb.

The Russians also appear to be ahead of the West in finding an alternative to this, according to the London experts.

A Soviet explosives expert, Gen. Georgi Iosifovich Pokrovskiy, said recently all Russia's latest hydrogen bombs are detonated by what he called an "electrical explosion" instead of by atomic bombs.

Western military experts said the value of the hydrogen bomb, even in massive retaliation, was seriously limited by its weight and that at present it can be delivered only by manned bombers.

Experts Say Pressure Off Home Loan Interest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Experts say the pressure is off home loan interest rates.

They may not be going down in foreseeable future but are not likely to go up either.

Money is still going to be comparatively tight, with lenders checking potential borrower qualifications and financial resources pretty carefully.

According to the National Association of Real Estate Boards, NAREB, conventional loans commanded 6 per cent in three out of five areas in 25 areas of the country surveyed in September. In June the 6 per cent rate prevailed in 22 per cent of the areas and in March in 24 per cent.

One reason for the trend toward easier borrowing, NAREB President James M. Udall of Los Angeles said, is that lenders are forgetting the impact of high rates on the housing industry.

"The growing practice of making mortgage decisions primarily on the basis of yield with minimum apparent regard to the future is a serious source of trouble to the housing industry," Udall said.

He leveled sharp criticism at lenders who did not reduce discounts enough on FHA loans when the maximum FHA interest rate was increased on Sept. 24 from 5 1/2 to 6 per cent.

Instead of trimming discounts by an expected four points, Udall said, the interest boost led to discounts reductions of about two points. "The current price level of FHA-insured mortgages appears more a matter of assessing the burden that the public and the housing industry will bear and less a matter of judicious decision in terms of the long-run residential market," Udall said.

He noted that the 6 per cent rate on conventional loans—those that are not backed by the government—is "bumping against the usury laws" in about a dozen states. As a result discounts—common on conventional loans—are coming into use.

Loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration for former servicemen "are practically unavailable in many areas because of the 6 1/2 per cent ceiling on the interest rate," Udall said. The VA reported a further decline in appraisal requests in September.

Worry Clinic

Timmy's case should be discussed tomorrow in churches. And by all means memorize that famous "Pause & Praise" technique for it can stimulate such quelling. It also produces faster sales of ideas, as well as merchandise. Few delinquents come from Sunday Schools, Boy Scouts or former newspaper boys.

BY — GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M. D.

CASE C — 472: Timmy R., aged 7, is a lonely youngster.

"Dr. Crane," a local clergyman began, "Timmy needs to be in Sunday School."

"His mother approves of my idea but his father is dead set against it. The father claims to be an atheist and says churches just ruin people."

"Besides, he argues it is unfair to prejudice a child's mind, so he says we should wait till Timmy is 21 and then let him decide for himself."

"I know you have taught a Sunday School class for 40 years, so how would you answer Timmy's father?"

PAUSE & PRAISE

When I taught my psychology classes at Northwestern University on "Advertising and Selling," I always urged the students to "Pause & Praise" when a prospect raised an objection.

This is the best single bit of strategy any salesman can ever acquire. It helps parents and school teachers, too, when children shoot questions back at us.

First of all, it gives us a chance to collect our feeble wits, if we have been wool gathering.

Second, it inflates the ego of the questioner. Instead of being met with a sharp retort or angry reply, he now receives a compliment. That puts him into an agreeable and often agreeing frame of mind.

Each of us at birth is branded across the chest with this lifelong, though invisible tattoo:

"I WANT TO FEEL IMPORTANT."

Crippled Freighter Reaches Key West

KEY WEST (UPI) — Pumps worked through the night to keep a British freighter afloat here, but the ship got into port.

The 445-ton Crystal, with a hole ripped in its hull, limped into port shortly after midnight with a Coast Guard escort.

The 225-foot vessel had reported it was sinking with 20 persons aboard Wednesday afternoon. The crew realized that its single pump could not keep ahead of the water pouring through the hole.

Just what caused the tear in the hull was not known.

The Coast Guard sent airplanes which dropped two extra pumps to the Crystal. Using these, the crew was able to get underway and made it to Key West with a cutter as escort.

The Crystal, a two-masted converted yacht, was bound for Tampa when it sent the S.O.S.

Famed Picture Valued Over A Million

NEW YORK (UPI) — The "other" Mona Lisa, a disputed version of the Da Vinci masterpiece valued at $1,500,000, may get a home in a Texas museum.

The Vernon family, owners of the painting, and the prospective purchasers in Houston, Tex., confirmed today that negotiations are going on and have been for some little time.

But neither party would say how near to a sale the negotiations have gotten.

Purchase of the painting would rank as one of the biggest art transactions in American history. A reliable report indicates the Vernon family already has turned down an offer of $800,000 for the work, but this could not be confirmed.

"The price under discussion is $1,500,000," said Christian W. Slagle, a Vernon lawyer and family spokesman. "This painting is the hottest thing in the art world even though it is an eighth of an acre away from complete authentication. But one must remember that the Louvre Mona Lisa has a mystery of its own."

non Mona Lisa is believed by many experts to have been painted by Leonardo da Vinci in 1502, five years before he painted the nearly identical but more famous canvas which hangs in Paris' Louvre. The Vernons keep it in a bank vault in Summit, N. J.

Slagle said negotiations are being handled in Houston by Mary Frances Pettig, an agent retained by the Vernons. The Houston group negotiating for the Mona Lisa is headed by Dr. Edwin C. Connor, a wealthy retired physician, and includes several bankers, doctors, an insurance firm president and a prominent attorney.

William Henry Vernon of Newport, R. I., an ancestor of Vernon was entrusted with the painting by Marie Antoinette of France at the time of her arrest during the French Revolution. The queen told her young American friend that he could keep "the portrait of the nun by Leonardo" if she were executed.

The owners of the painting are Slagle's wife, Mrs. Agnes Vernon Slagle of 289 Fairmont Chatham, N. J.; her sister, Mrs. Dorothy Vernon Landis of Pound Ridge, N. Y., and their mother, Mrs. Alice C. E. Vernon.

They never have been able to enjoy it in their homes because they fear fire and theft. Even the Louvre Mona Lisa was slashed from its frame and stolen, but later was returned to the museum.

Bars Can Operate On Election Day

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Bars and cocktail lounges in the state won't have to close Nov. 3 when the people vote on the reapportionment amendment.

In an opinion Wednesday for Beverage Director L. Grant Peoples, Atty. Gen. Richard Erwin ruled that a 1953 act changed the closing law so that bars could be kept open during special elections.

The election on the 44-senator, 100-member House apportionment will be a special election to decide only that one issue.

'The Bells Of St. Mary's' TV Show Not Too 'Warm'

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI) — Having watched "The Bells of St. Mary's" Tuesday night, the coxies of my heart should be warm enough to cut into winter fuel bills.

But it didn't work out that way. The 90-minute CBS-TV production put together some engaging personalities to tell the story of St. Mary's parochial school, its troubles with a neighboring millionaire and its faith in itself and prayer. The troubles were many.

The millionaire, played by Charles Ruggles, was a hypochondriac who wanted the school rated for a parking lot; Sister Benedict, played by Claudette Colbert, developed tuberculosis; Patsy had family troubles; Eddie couldn't fight; the school was falling apart and, in the idiom of the day, one student took a dive on a quiz. Enough troubles here to last through a full 36-episode series, I'd say.

Because a play of this sort sugar-coats life, the troubles, though many, were really superficial. Even the tuberculosis was a very mild case. Prognosis: excellent. And the millionaire really had a heart of gold. Since his new office building was noticeably lacking in traffic, it was no surprise when he donated it to the parish for a new school.

The most genuine performance of the night was turned in by Marc Connelly, as Dr. McKay. He had an honest, natural approach while the masterful brow-wrinkler, Hubert Preston and Miss Colbert were fine in a scene to outdo each other. However, Miss Colbert was fine in a scene that had her boxing and, later when she learned of her illness. Otherwise, she was well — Claudette Colbert, complete with superfluous hand-waving. Preston's role called for complete, believable warm-hand ingenuity. He came over with excessive stiffness.

The labored mechanics of this story have been rendered obsolete by time and I thought the fundamental message — dealing with faith rewarded — could have been twice as effective if half of the underdeveloped sub-plots were discarded.

I saw only the last half of Art Linkletter's NBC-TV "Starting special Tuesday night — the one in which Linkletter the TV personality plugged a new book by Linkletter the author, which was published by a firm that Linkletter the businessman is a partner in. So far as is known, Linkletter doesn't own the automobile firm that sponsored him. The interviews with children appeared to have a carefully rehearsed air of unrehearsed behavior about them. The interview with Mrs. Hannah Nixon and her son, Vice President Richard Nixon, didn't belong on this show.

The Channel 5 unit: Ralph Edwards brings his NBC-TV Wednesday night show, "This Is Your Life, back to New York for two programs in November, undaunted by his encounter with Lowell Thomas during the last visit.

Carl Reiner has been added to the guest list of Dinah Shore's "Parlour" review on NBC-TV this Sunday because of a postponed appearance by Les Harootian, a puppet act. Metropolitan Opera star Cesare Siepi appears on the Nov. 5 CBS-TV "Big Party," show the late Errol Flynn had been booked into. Backstage, Abe Burrows has assumed his duties as executive producer of "Farty," now that some Broadway directorial commitments are ended.

Allied Artists, a film company that has produced "The Al Capone Story" and "Friendly Persuasion" will produce two as yet unspecified TV film series for ABC films starting in January. Ethel Shtuta, the popular band singer of the 1930, stars in "Special Delivery," a forthcoming CBS-TV Alfred Hitchcock thriller.
