Taylor remains at large

SANFORD — Police are seeking Darrick Gerald Taylor, 21, for questioning in the stabbing death Tuesday of his ex-girlfriend.

Taylor is the prime suspect in the death of Kimberly Walker Grace, 28, at her Seminole Gardens apartment.

On June 2, Seminole Circuit Court Judge Alan Dickey placed Taylor on four years probation after Taylor plead no contest in April to aggravated stalking, criminal mischief, and burglary to a dwelling involving Grace. A plea agreement was negotiated between the state attorney and public defender.

Jack Scalera, chief of operations in the state attorney's office said Grace attended Taylor's sentencing and requested he not be given jail time.

"She was concerned with getting restitution," Scalera said. "All the parties were aware of the sentencing agreement, including the victim."

As conditions of his probation, Taylor was to have no contact with Grace or her family, undergo mental health counseling, drug testing and carry no firearms. He was also order to pay Grace $3,000 restitution according to a payment schedule along with attorney's fees.

Taylor is black, 6 feet tall, 185 pounds with black hair and brown eyes and a scar on his left cheek. Information of his whereabouts may be reported to the Sanford Police Department 323-3030.

School bombing: Not guilty plea

Forgy

Two youths charged in an explosion at Lyman High School have entered written not guilty pleas and their cases set for review in August.

Assistant state attorney Michelle Heller said the cases against Eric Bryan Forgy, 17, 936 Red Fox Road, Altamonte Springs and Gabriel Stephen Lovasz, 16, 1482 Grace Lake Circle, Longwood, are set for the Aug. 31 docket sounding.

The boys have private attorneys who entered written pleas in the case. The boys did not appear at their arraignments Tuesday. The teens are charged with possession of an explosive device. Originally charged as juveniles, their cases were transferred to adult court earlier this month.

April 2, an explosion caused $1,000 damage.

Cops bust 15 in special sting

The Sanford Police Department special investigations unit conducted an undercover operation in the Georgetown and Goldsboro areas of the city Tuesday night. Targeting street level crack cocaine dealers, police arrested 15 people, including two juveniles. Three more suspects are being sought in the drug investigation.

Transient arrested in 1 death, claims knowledge of 2 others

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — A 61-year-old Fern Park area transient has been arrested in the death of a 52-year-old fellow transient and has confessed to knowledge in at least one other Seminole County homicide and participation in an Orange County homicide.

Maj. Steve Harriett said Johnny Atkins was arrested on a manslaughter charge after he "spontaneously confessed" Monday to beating John William "Bigfoot" Frederick to death in June. Harriett said Atkins told an Orlando policeman he had beaten and kicked Frederick to death for making a sexual advance.

Harriett said Atkins repeated the statement for sheriff's investigators and was arrested. The results of an autopsy are pending.

Harriett said Atkins reported finding Frederick's body June 20 in a wooded area near Oxford Road and Fernwood Boulevard. Investigators found Frederick's badly-decomposed body, apparently dead for six to 10 days. Frederick was known as "Bigfoot" due to his size 13 shoe size, said Harriett.

At the time, Atkins told investigators he thought the person was Frederick based on his clothing, but he didn't have any knowledge of his

County plan: Higher taxes

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Many Seminole County residents should see no change in their property taxes next year, but they may have to dig deeper in their pockets to pay for gasoline, utilities and garbage disposal.

County Manager Ron Rabun is calling for a $275.9 million spending plan for the county's fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, an 18 percent increase over his initial recommendation in 1992. The amount does not include spending for incomplete projects appropriated since Oct. 1, 1992.

Some homeowners will see property values rise: Are you one of them?

SANFORD — About a third of Seminole County's homeowners will see property value increases this year, but Property Appraiser Bill Suber said the change should be slight.

held in September to adopt the spending plan.

"It's a growth budget, but I think a responsible growth budget," said Rabun. "I recommend we respond to some of the pressures we are facing. It's like a boiler under pressure. If you let a little steam out, you move ahead."

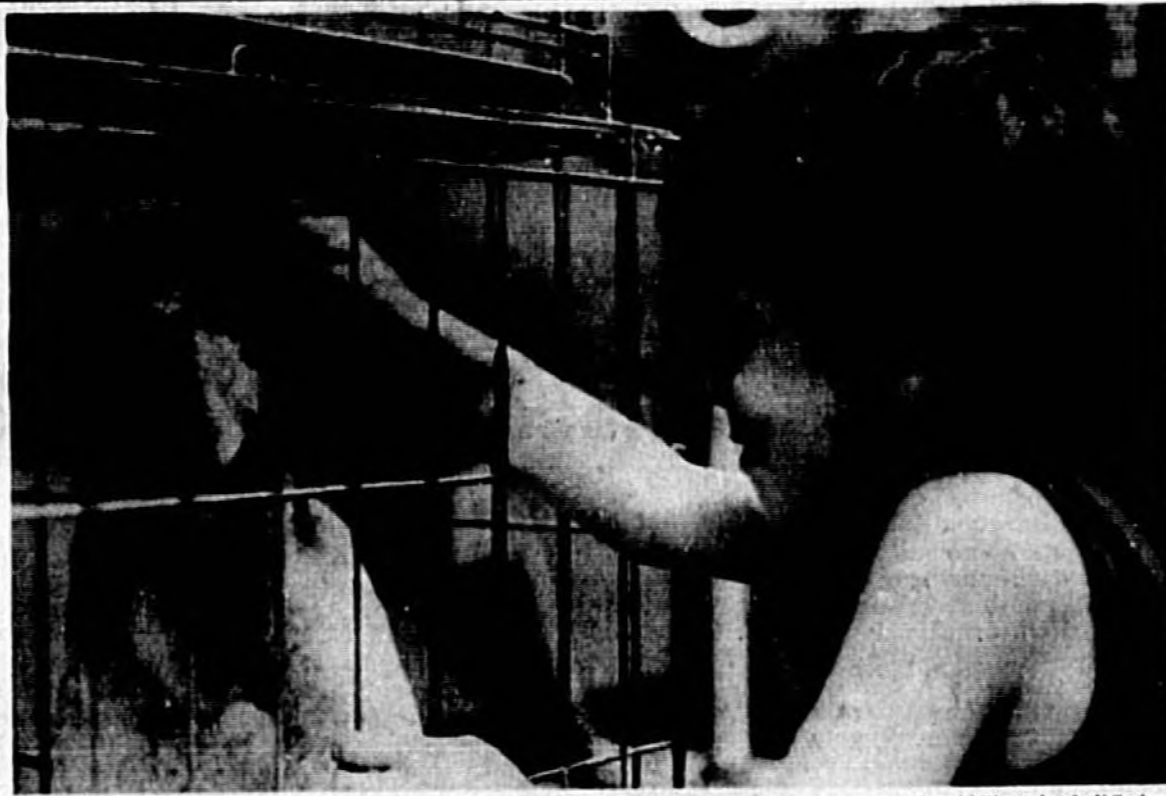

Under the proposal, countywide property owners, including unincorporated residents, will see no change in their tax rate. Rabun proposed the same rate of $5.42 per $1,000 of taxable property for all landowners and $2.86 for unincorporated residents.

Under the taxing plan, owners of Residents will fight rezoning

By NICK PFREIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Residents angered by a rezoning plan that would mean a higher density of homes in their neighborhood are fighting the request. The matter was tabled during Monday night's Sanford City Commission meeting.

A. David Feinberg has requested a rezoning of 4.9 acres of land on the east side of Upsala Road, one half mile north of C.R. 46-A. He indicated he wishes to build 28 residential dwellings on the land, with a minimum of 4,000 square feet each.

The request was turned down by the Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission earlier this month. According to a P&Z report, it was denied by a vote of five to three, "based on the impact the proposed density of 5.54 units per acre would have on the existing neighborhood."

Monday night, the matter was brought before the City Commission, requesting that the P&Z ruling be overturned. Neither Feinberg nor a

Money for schools scrutinized

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board continued to work on its operating budget this week. A priority list of fund distribution for the next school year is being closely scrutinized.

Resources Director Diane Kramer explained, "The way the budget is being worked on this year is a major improvement over the past years. Everything is out in the open, and department heads and staff members are being informed and involved."

"It's a far cry from the way our budget was handled in the past," she added, "and as a result, we are going to have a much better budget than before because everyone will have been involved in the preparation."

Chiles names corrections task force

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles named Attorney General Bob Butterworth, state university system Chancellor Charlie Reed and three former state Supreme Court justices to serve on a panel studying Florida's prison system.

Lawmakers created the 11-member panel in the May special session to make studies at two prisons of the potential for turning correctional institutions over to private enterprise.

The group is also assigned to investigate prison siting, possible prison alternatives, effectiveness of rehabilitation programs, sentencing policy and prison construction methods. The legislature called for an interim report by Jan. 15, and a final report by Jan. 15, 1995.

Members named by Chiles include Butterworth and Reed, both of Tallahassee; former state Supreme Court justices Raymond Ehrlich of Jacksonville, Frederick Karl of Tampa and Thomas Barkdull of Miami; state Parole Commissioner Judith Wolson of Tallahassee; 1st District Court of Appeals Judge Charles Miner of Tallahassee; circuit judges Robert Gross of West Palm Beach and Kenneth Williams of Pensacola; State Attorney Kathy Fernandez Rundle of Miami, and Public Defender Nancy Daniels of Tallahassee.

Priest expelled for sacrificing animals

MIAMI — A Santeria priest who publicly sacrificed 19 animals last week has been expelled from the religion.

Rigoberto Zamora slit the throats of rams, goats, chickens and birds at an apartment on Saturday to celebrate a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision allowing ritual sacrifice of animals.

He said he wanted to demonstrate that the animals were killed humanely in the Afro-Caribbean religion, which has about 800,000 followers in the United States.

But the public sacrifice violated church rules set down at a December meeting of church leaders. Fernando Pichardo of the Church of the Lukumi Babalu Aye said Tuesday.

Pichardo's congregation, one of the largest, brought the successful Supreme Court challenge.

"By unanimous decision (the) church moves to expel Rigoberto Zamora from the religious community nationwide," Pichardo said.

Three vie for U.S. Attorney position

ORLANDO — A Clearwater attorney and two lawyers with ties to Orlando are finalists for the job of U.S. Attorney in Florida's Middle District, which covers 35 counties from Fort Myers to Jacksonville.

A 14-member screening committee that interviewed applicants in Orlando last weekend chose Larry Colleton, Walter Postula and Raymond Gross. They will be interviewed by U.S. Sen. Bob Graham, D-Fla., who will recommend a choice to President Clinton.

Colleton is an assistant U.S. attorney in Orlando. Postula formerly headed the U.S. Attorney's office here. Gross is in private practice in Clearwater.

Aunt drives off with niece

DELRAY BEACH — Police are looking for a 14-year-old girl who drove off with her toddler niece after asking for the car keys so she could change the child's diaper.

"She wanted a baby for herself," said Tara Smith, 18, the toddler's mother and the girl's sister. Smith has spent the past two days crying and waiting by the phone for news.

The child, the 16-month-old Jaky Woods, was with her great aunt Monday afternoon in Delray Beach, when Kizzy Patrick said the child needed to be changed and went to the car.

She never returned, and police issued a statewide bulletin Tuesday.

Smith, her aunt and uncle searched Monday afternoon from Boynton Beach to Pahokee for the missing girl and baby.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Jobless benefits overpaid in '92

By Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — State records show $85.2 million in overpayments were made in 1992 to people who got unemployment benefits, hardly good news to state legislators.

Many lawmakers are still dismayed that Florida made $291 million in welfare and food stamp overpayments last year.

"It kind of makes you wonder who's watching the store," Rep. John Thrasher, R-Orange Park, told The Florida Times-Union in a story published Tuesday. "The credibility of the whole state is suffering."

The Department of Labor and Employment Security cited Hurricane Andrew and the economic recession as the main reasons for the higher jobless benefit error rate, which compares to a national average of 7.5 percent in 1991 — the most recent year

"I think with the new system and the new processes that we're putting in place now, that will be corrected. We're trying to change the whole culture of the way we're doing business."

—State Labor Secretary Shirley Gooding

such statistics were available.

Officials hope a new computer will help ease the problem in future years.

In addition to the overpayments, the labor department made $12.6 million in underpayments, an error rate of 1.5 percent.

State Labor Secretary Shirley Gooding said the $1.4 million computer upgrade, called Benefit Overpayment Screening System or BOSS, should help the agency recover benefits by finding those who have been overpaid.

"I think with the new system and the new processes that we're putting in place now, that will be corrected," Gooding said. "We're trying to change the whole culture of the way we're doing business."

Gooding said the system could save as much as $19 million this year.

Overpayments often happen when recipients voluntarily leave jobs but file for compensation anyway or fail to look for work while collecting compensation, both of which make them ineligible for the benefits. Sometimes recipients even continue to collect benefits after finding work.

Psychologists complaints lead to investigation

By Associated Press

SANFORD — Some psychologists for Seminole County schools complain a new program curtails testing of students to determine their problems and possible need for special education.

The psychologists' complaints have led to an investigation of the new procedures by examiners for the state Department of Education.

The complainants, about half of the 13 psychologists employed by the school district, claim some disabled students have been excluded from special classes and supervisors have threatened the psychologists who objected.

"Supposedly, this is the new futuristic way of delivering services. It has been a nightmare," said one psychologist.

School Superintendent Paul Hagerty on Monday denied any wrongdoing and said the disgruntled employees are misrepresenting the new procedures, which "try to match the resources and the services with the students who need them."

The Florida Association of School Psychologists requested the inquiry in May after receiving more than 200 pages of complaints and documentation.

The new program calls for psychologists to test students less and counsel them more. Their reports are standardized and their recommendations are only a piece of the final solution.

Hagerty believes the state supports the new program.

But if the examiners find reason to investigate further, the district could be ordered to retest students and put eligible pupils in special classes, said Department of Education administrator Lee Clark.

School administrators deny the accusations but agree fewer students get into special education classes.

Mary Ann Kaesberg, the district's support services administrator, said money for special education is tight, but a desire to save money did not bring the changes.

The new trend is to help students within regular classes before deciding they may need special education, she said. Before the changes were made, some students may have been sent to special education classes unnecessarily, creating a backlog in the program, Ms. Kaesberg said.

Administrators are following a national trend to "mainstream" students when possible, and special education is a last resort, she added.

Fund For Animals objects to revised panther protection guidelines

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — A proposed state-federal plan to protect habitat for the endangered Florida panther has drawn objections from a national pro-animal group, which called it tilted toward big business and major landowners.

The New York-based Fund for Animals Inc. said in letters Tuesday to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission that the revised plan is "blatantly biased towards preserving the interests of big business and hunters." The organization said the federal government, not the state commission, should take the lead in implementing the plan, which is intended to preserve thousands of acres of South Florida land for the panthers to roam. A final version should be prepared by July 31.

The commission, the letter said, is too easily influenced by powerful landowners and is historically a pro-hunting agency. "It would be nothing short of signing a death warrant for the panther to allow (the game commission) to assume principal responsibility for the implementation of a habitat preservation plan," wrote two Fund for Animals attorneys, Eric Glitzenstein and Sidney Maddock of Washington, D.C.

The Fund for Animals letter threatens to ask a court or administrative judge to declare panther land in Florida as an area of federal critical habitat designation, which would not impose any more regulations but would heighten scrutiny of any developments.

Fish and Wildlife Service officials in Atlanta declined comment on the letters. However, Tom Logan, head of wildlife research at the game commission, said the Fund for Animals was taking an extreme position by stressing government acquisition of land for the panthers.

"The plan isn't being weakened, it's being strengthened," Logan said. "We're talking about big landowners who aren't interested in selling their land."

A February draft of the plan called for government to buy and preserve the land, but that met stiff opposition from politically-connected landowners, Logan said. The latest version is aimed at working with landowners on the conservation efforts, but not everyone is satisfied with that.

Review set over cop's firing

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A hearing is scheduled Friday to review the firing of a suspended Sanford Police officer who was dismissed from the force June 17.

Guy Brewster, 37, who was fired by police chief Ralph Russell, had been suspended with pay since October 1991.

Sanford personnel director Tim McCauley said the hearing Friday will review the due process procedures in Brewster's firing. If the firing is upheld, Brewster may appeal his dismissal to the city civil service board.

An investigator when he was suspended from the department, Brewster faces several counts of sexual activity with a child. Russell fired Brewster after the Florida Department of Law Enforcement division of standards and training found probable cause to remove his police certification. If the FDLE de-certifies Brewster, he would not be able to be a police officer in Florida.

Brewster is facing four counts of lewd and lascivious assault and eight counts of engaging in sexual activity with a child between 1987 to 1989. The boy, who was 15 when the activity began, met Brewster while he was assigned to Lakeview Middle School as a school resource officer.

The case against Brewster has been scheduled for trial numerous times. A hearing is set July 1 for pending motions in the case.

Russell said he would rather not comment on Brewster's firing except he was dismissed for violating department policies, city rules and regulations and the probable cause found by FDLE for removing the officer's certification.

Brewster joined the Sanford Police Department in 1980. His annual salary was $30,421.67. During his 21-month suspension, Brewster was paid $53,236. Brewster was suspended with pay under former police chief Steve Harriett.

Howell's condition improving

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford City Commissioner Lon Howell said this morning, "I'm OK, but I sure was frightened." Howell was injured in a fall from a house near Richmond, Va. during this past weekend.

"I fell about eight feet," he said, "and landed on my back, which really scared me. I also have a lot of scratches," he continued, "because I hit a scaffold on my way down."

He said one of his big concerns was a numbness in his fingers since the accident.

"I must admit," he said, "it was my fault. I was trying out on a staircase landing and tried to reach for something I had no business doing. That's why I fell. Nothing actually collapsed to cause me to fall."

Howell is working on the renovation of two historical homes near Richmond. "I hoped to be back in Sanford by this week," he said, "but until I feel better, I'm going to stay here and recover."

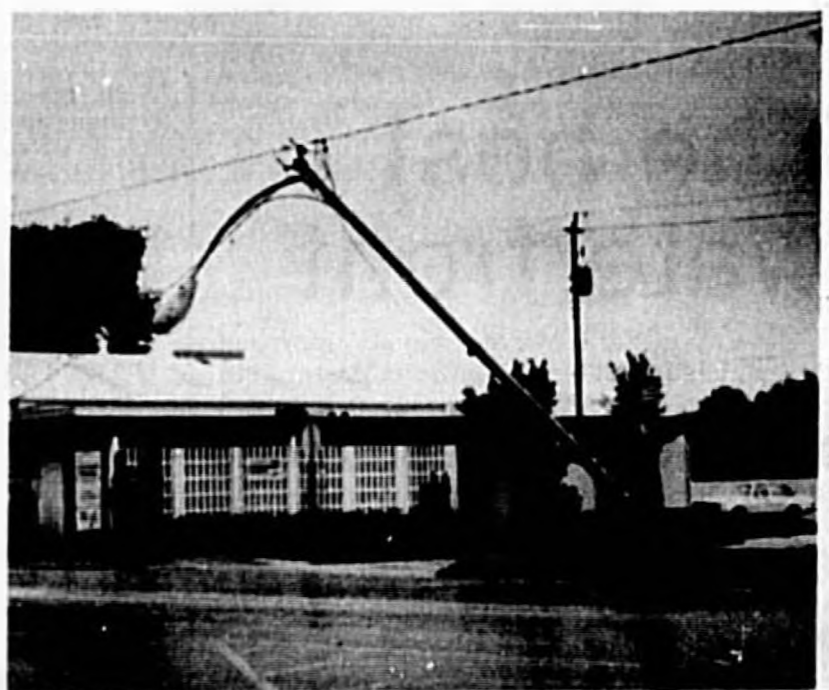

Howell has been treated on an out-patient basis at a nearby hospital.

First word of Howell's injuries were revealed Monday night by City Manager Bill Simmons, during a workshop session of the Sanford City Commission.

Industry OKs warnings on violent TV programs

By DIANE DUSTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Bending to congressional and public pressure, the major TV networks have agreed to begin warning viewers when violent programs are about to be shown.

An announcement would precede shows containing violence and the networks would provide a coding for newspaper and magazine listings to notify parents that particular programs depict brutality, officials said Tuesday.

The system could be in place for the fall season.

More details were being presented today at a Capitol Hill news conference by top executives of ABC, NBC, CBS and Fox and by lawmakers who have led congressional efforts to reduce TV mayhem.

It's the biggest step so far by the entertainment industry since Congress began exerting pressure earlier this year for action under the Television Violence Act.

The law, which expires in December, gives the TV networks an antitrust waiver to talk among themselves about jointly reducing televised violence.

Until today, the only tangible result of the anti-TV violence law was the scheduling of an industry wide meeting in Los Angeles on Aug. 2.

Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., who sponsored the law, and Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass., chairman of the House Energy and Commerce telecommunications subcommittee, have taken the entertainment industry to task recently in a series of hearings on TV violence.

Other lawmakers also have demanded more and are primed to take tougher action if not satisfied with the industry's self-regulation.

Lawmakers say less violence on television may mean less violence on the streets.

The public also is pressing for action. Tens of thousands of people have signed petitions calling for Federal Communications Commission hearings on a TV rating system based on violence, said the office of Sen. Kent Conrad, D-N.D., who is helping to gather signatures for the newly formed Citizens Task Force on TV Violence.

Cops say alleged serial killer's story is checking out so far

By DANA KENNEDY

EAST FARMINGDALE, N.Y. — Investigators have linked the slayings of at least six women so far to an unemployed gardener who says he strangled or smothered 17 prostitutes he picked up in New York City.

Joel Rifkin, 34, led police to two buried bodies on Tuesday, a day after he was pulled over with a decaying corpse in the back of his pickup. One source said documents apparently identifying other victims were found in his home.

Investigators said they also linked him to the deaths of three women whose bodies were found earlier in the Bronx and in Westchester and Suffolk counties.

Detectives fear Rifkin — described as a loner and a high school "geek" and "loser" who still lives with his mother — picked up prostitutes and dumped their corpses all over the metropolitan area for at least two years.

"He doesn't give us a reason for killing," State Police Superintendent Thomas Constantine said. "It isn't AIDS. It isn't revenge. Nothing like that. He just kills them. He says it matter-of-factly."

If he is telling the truth — and so far, investigators said, his story checks out — he is one of the worst serial killers in U.S. history.

Investigators mobilized serial-killer experts, consulted detectives in dozens of police departments in Connecticut, New Jersey and New York, and activated state and federal crime computers. Police departments planned to use bloodhounds and helicopters to search remote areas described by Rifkin.

"This will be a long and extensive investigation," Constantine said. "It will not be done overnight."

Constantine said that during 10 hours of interrogation, Rifkin gave details of murders that were "very close" to several under investigation. And a state trooper, speaking on condition of anonymity, said documents apparently identifying many victims were taken from Rifkin's house in Long Island's East Meadow.

Rifkin was arrested Monday after troopers saw his pickup, with no license plates, run a stop sign. He refused to stop, driving at a leisurely speed for nearly four miles before crashing into a light pole, authorities said.

Troopers found the body under a tarpaulin after noticing a foul odor from Rifkin's truck. Police said Rifkin had planned to dump the victim, who appeared to have been strangled and had been dead for three or four days.

His truck bore a bumper sticker that read, "Sticks and Stones May Break My Bones, But Whips and Chains Excite Me."

Rifkin pleaded innocent to murder in that slaying Tuesday and was held without bail.

The best waterfront

The City of Sanford has formally approved the establishment of a Waterfront Master Plan Committee. The measure has been heralded by some city commissioners as one of the best moves toward lakefront improvement in many years.

The committee contains representatives of almost every aspect of the population concerned with improving the shore of Lake Monroe. If success is to be made, the selection of the membership could not be better.

The committee however, is faced with an extremely difficult task. It must create development plans which will improve the lakefront area, but at the same time, be affordable.

This is not the first time lakefront improvements have been approached. The development of the area has been considered for many decades. One of the first improvements was the building of the seawall at the shore of Lake Monroe early in this century.

The largest change in the past 30 years came about when the bandshell was removed from what is now Memorial Park, and the Monroe Harbour Marina was built.

There is no doubt, improvements can be made, judging from the quality of people on this committee.

Those who expect immediate changes however, are due for a disappointment. In addition to financing, any project worth doing will also require time.

We hope the Waterfront Master Plan committee will not be coerced into taking immediate action. With a lack of financing, it could cause the membership to lose faith and possibly wipe out the entire development.

We urge the committee to take its time, and thoroughly investigate all aspects: parks and recreation areas, as well as commercial property development which could improve the tax base for the city.

Above all, whatever suggestions are eventually made, they must prove to be beneficial for the entire city. We cannot accept less.

On attempt to remove cop's certification

Ref. Sandra Elliott's article "Removal of certification sought against Sanford cop."

I can understand the emotional issues that this type of case can generate. Yet, for the life of me I can't understand Chief Russell's headlong dash to have Officer Brewster's certification revoked at this late date. If this kind of action was warranted it should have been initiated under the tenure of the previous chief of police. My question is after all this time, why now? A few more months isn't going to make much difference now.

This sounds like a political move on the part of Chief Russell which I hope is not the case. For Chief Russell assured me several months ago that he was not going to play politics in his position as chief of police.

The issue of probable cause is just that, probable cause, which is enough to get you arrested but doesn't prove guilt. Supposedly under our constitutional guarantees, a person is innocent until "proven" guilty, not guilty until proven innocent. This is and should be left up to the judge and a jury of his peers to decide.

By rushing headlong into this matter the police department and the city as well as the state are opening themselves up to the possibility of a large civil suit, not to mention a great deal of embarrassment.

Please don't get me wrong. I dislike child molesters as much as the next person. When a member of my family was molested I wanted this man at least arrested, but he wasn't. This is because the Sheriff's Office didn't do its job, and the state attorney at that time didn't do his. It was only after the fact when another state attorney called me to tell me how appalled she was about the deal that the state attorney's office cut without me ever being notified, that I found out what had happened. I was so livid that if I had've met the state attorney on the street, I'd have probably been in jail for beating him to a pulp.

So it's not that I'm defending Officer Brewster nor condemning him, I'm trying to stay impartial until the verdict is in. I would suggest that everyone else do the same. Personally, I hope Officer Brewster is found innocent for no other reason than that if he is found guilty it will make every other officer look bad. Guilt by association so to speak. The Sanford Police Department has many fine dedicated people working for us, the citizens, and we should all strive to give them the benefit of the doubt, until proven otherwise.

I think that if Chief Russell would stop and think about what I've said here today, he would agree with me. After all, would he want any less consideration for himself than I'm proposing for Officer Brewster?

How militarily prepared must U.S. be?

WASHINGTON — In the year 2005, how many major regional wars should the United States be prepared to fight and win simultaneously? That multibillion-dollar question is central to deciding the size and the makeup of U.S. armed forces as we enter the new century. It is proving a controversial and difficult question to answer.

After the breakup of the Soviet Union, and based on the Desert Storm experience in Kuwait, civilian and military planners in the Pentagon and the Bush White House asked this question: What potential threats to the United States continue to exist, and exactly what contingencies do we want our military to be able to handle 10 to 15 years down the road?

The consensus was that an all-out world war was highly unlikely, and therefore we no longer had to spend tens of billion annually in anticipation of World War III. However, the world was still full of hot spots where significant regional conflicts could break out at any time. The planners believed the United States must be ready to handle these.

Desert Storm was taken as the model. After considerable soul-searching, it was decided that the United States needed to be ready to simultaneously fight and win two Desert Storms in far-distant locations. This was called the "win-win" scenario, and work was begun on designing a force-structure plan to support the concept of fighting, and winning, two Desert Storm-type conflicts at the same time.

Desert Storm took approximately half our armed forces to fight. Thus, fighting and winning two such conflicts at the same time means our fighting strength must be maintained at approximately its current level. However, planned future growth could be eliminated, while war-fighting strategies would have to change.

The Navy is a good example. As part of the Reagan defense buildup, the United States had been planning creating a 600-ship Navy built around 14 aircraft-carrier battle groups and 100 attack and tactical nuclear submarines. Under the win-win strategy, growth plans were scaled back to a 420-450 ship Navy, built around 12 carrier battle groups and a still-classified number of submarines, estimated at about 75-80.

What potential threats to the United States continue to exist?

The new strategy also necessitated a shift in the makeup of the various uniformed services. Rapid deployment, quick response and mobility became the watchwords. So, as the nation went to the polls last November, the Pentagon initiated a ground-up re-examination of each service, geared to developing a new "roles and mission" statement for each. This re-examination is, in the words of Joint Chiefs Chairman Gen. Colin Powell, "a balancing act of some complexity."

Powell says the service chiefs are involved in "creating an integrated plan, which is an aggressive effort to cut our overhead while preserving our force structure."

Their initial efforts made it clear that while the new military could envision a very different mix of forces, it would not come up with the kinds of budget reduction that had been predicted. The new military might be changed, but it would be almost as costly as the old.

So when the Clinton administration came into power, it decided to go back to square one and to re-examine the basic win-win concept.

During Defense Secretary Les Aspin's time as chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, he had been on the periphery of the Pentagon's reassessment. He believed then that military planners were not cutting enough.

Corruption in Mexico is still pervasive

WASHINGTON — As Congress prepares to debate the ratification of the North American Free Trade Agreement, a dirty little secret is in danger of being overlooked. Despite encouraging economic reforms, corruption in Mexico is still pervasive, extending into the highest levels of authority.

It's a subject the United States would rather not talk about in public, though our officials know it exists. The Mexican government, led by President Carlos Salinas de Gortari, is trying actively to dispel the old notion of Mexico as a bandit nation.

But the recent murder of Cardinal Juan Posadas at the international airport in Guadalajara merely serves to exacerbate the fears that Mexican society is still lawless in many respects. The most shocking part of the Posadas murder was not that it happened in the first place, but that the assailants were not prevented from boarding a plane for Tijuana, and that they were not detained upon their arrival.

For more than a decade, we have reported periodically on the massive corruption that pervades all levels of Mexican society — from the lowest levels of commerce to the highest levels of government. Our investigations and those of others indicate that doing business in Mexico, which often involves dealing with one of the many quasi-governmental monopolies, usually involves paying bribes or kickbacks. On many occasions, not even the news media is a safe haven from corruption.

In 1986, for example, we reported several times on the courageous efforts of the Mexico City news magazine Proceso to escape the tentacles of official corruption. In an atmosphere of intimidation and bribery, Proceso has managed to survive despite telling the truth about the corruption and blunders among Mexico's ruling elite. In a country where the government owned a monopoly on newsprint and often supplied more than half the advertising revenue for newspapers and magazines, compliant journalists were sometimes paid monthly stipends by the government. In the meantime, rebellious journalists sometimes paid for their disloyalties with threats, beatings and sometimes even murder. Proceso was one of the first to openly back this system.

Seven years ago, we helped Proceso uncover the strange tale of Manuel Bartlett Diaz, then Mexico's minister of the interior, who used the power of his high office to arrange the illegal kidnapping of his niece and nephew from a religious commune in Venezuela in 1983. Bartlett Diaz then bullied Proceso into killing the story by sending police to threaten the editors. Proceso's editors decided at the time to kill the story — though accounts of it appeared in the Venezuelan press — because they knew the kind of trouble such reports could bring. But later, the details of the abduction, including the threats and an attempted bribe of Proceso by one of Bartlett Diaz's deputies, were revealed in a book by Proceso's publisher, Julio Sherr.

In the business world, foreign companies have long known that bribery can be a common cost of doing business south of the border. For those who object to this system, the repercussions can be devastating.

Despite encouraging economic reforms, corruption in Mexico is still pervasive.

Pat Nixon: We never knew her

BOSTON — We never knew her. Not really. Not the people who once voted her the Most Admired Woman in America. And not the people who once named her Plastic Pat.

She came to the White House after Jackie and Lady Bird. She came before Betty, Rosalynn, Nancy, Barbara and Hillary. But there is no cause, no recovery center, no career named after Pat Nixon. No court would ever have ruled — as one did of the current First Lady — that she was a "de facto government official."

The woman who died Tuesday was, rather, described by the obituary writers as "the quiet consort," "the loyal wife," "a private person." She will be remembered, said one television anchor, for her devotion to her husband. Others used words to describe her life — endurance, sacrifice, selflessness, faithfulness — that fall awkwardly on our sensitive modern ears.

Thelma Pat Ryan was born 81 years ago, at a time when self-denial was a virtue and self-fulfillment was a vice called selfishness. She met Richard Milhous Nixon when the two young people were trying out for parts in a community play. But the part she would play the longest in her life was wife, the woman beside her man. The woman off to the side of her man.

More than anyone else, more than any of her recent predecessors or successors in the White House, this public Pat Nixon formed our classic image of the political wife. She was the woman who campaigned once with three broken ribs and another time with a swollen ankle. And never mentioned it. She was the woman who said she was never tired and never bored by her husband's speeches.

She was the woman who never publicly disagreed with her husband and once said, "If I have a headache, no one knows it." She was the woman who wore a good Republican cloth coat.

In the beginning, in 1946, when her husband first ran for Congress there appeared to be a new model of postwar political togetherness. In 1957 when the Homemakers Forum voted Pat Nixon the "ideal wife" it was for being a "helpmate who doesn't compete with her husband yet stands beside him when needed." In 1960 when the Republicans promoted a Pat Week and distributed a Pat Nixon For First Lady button, it was a first.

But by the 1970s, Pat Nixon was also a lesson about the costs of being perfect political wife. She taught us what it meant to ride the roller coaster ride of her husband's career without letting a hair get out of place. What it meant when a woman used all her strength to endure rather than change her life: "I do or die.

I never cancel out."

When she was First Lady, a White House reporter said to her, "You've had a good life." She paused and answered, "I just don't tell all."

What she didn't tell was how she had come to hate politics. What she didn't tell was what it felt like when she and her husband left a public platform, dropped arms and moved away from each other. What she didn't tell until much, much later was what it was like to leave the White House. On the night before, a photographer came by to take a final family picture. "Our hearts were breaking and there we were smiling."

There were no Pat Nixon tapes. There was no Pat Nixon cover-up. She was a kind woman with private pleasures and the love of her daughters. And she went into exile with her husband. If there is an edge of guilt in our farewells to this woman, maybe it has to do with our ambivalence about such devotion.

In the years after Watergate, I am told that this husband and ailing wife grew closer in isolation. I hope so. But her daughter Julie once wrote, "My mother gives meaning to the words in the 13th chapter of I Corinthians. 'Love bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things.' Some of us can read that with goose bumps, while others get chills."

The world has changed a great deal in 20 years. It is easier to be a woman in politics. It's still hard to be a wife in politics. We define marital partnerships differently than in the days when Richard Nixon told Pat he wanted to run for office and she said, "What could I do?"

"She is a woman of dignity who does not seek pity from others or feed on pity herself," wrote her daughter Julie. "But she has grieved, she has wept. She is a woman of tremendous self-control because all her life self-control has been necessary simply to survive."

Pat Nixon was not, of course, perfect. She was not plastic either. Maybe the very last word is one that we rarely use anymore: until the end, the First Lady was steadfast.

She came to the White House after Jackie and Lady Bird. She came before Betty, Rosalynn, Nancy, Barbara and Hillary.

Accident probe involving Sanford cop will continue

An investigation is continuing into an accident involving a Sanford Police officer Tuesday night.

Sanford Police spokesman Lt. Mike Rotundo said the two-car accident about 8 p.m. Tuesday night at Eighth and Pecan Streets involved a vehicle driven by Officer John Evans and another vehicle with two occupants. Rotundo said the names of the two people, who sustained minor injuries, would be available after the accident investigation report is filed by the Florida Highway Patrol. Rotundo said the report had not been filed as of mid-morning.

Evans was responding to a code 3 call, according to Rotundo. He said the code means get to the location as soon as possible but safely. An investigation of the accident will determine if he had his emergency lights and siren operating, the spokesman said.

Earlier this month, another police vehicle was damaged in an accident at French and Fulton Avenues. Both accidents will be reviewed by the city accident review board. Rotundo said he did not know when the board meets.

$75,000 city homes with a $25,000 homestead exemption will pay the same $271 in county taxes they paid last year if their property value had not changed. The owners of $75,000 unincorporated homes, with homestead exemptions, will pay the same $414 amount as last year if their home values didn't change.

Property Appraiser Bill Suber said about a third of the 100,000 residential properties in the county will see some value increase, which he described as "slight to moderate" on average. Even if county commissioners don't change the tax rate, a value increase could serve to increase a homeowner's county tax bite.

Although he isn't suggesting a property tax increase, Rabun nonetheless does propose new taxes in his budget. He proposed a one-cent increase to county gasoline taxes which total 5.8 cents per gallon to 6.8 cents, bringing the total federal, state and county gas taxes to 34.9 cents per gallon.

Rabun recommends using the $736,250 that will be raised from the first year of the tax to pay for mass transit services, freeing property taxes for other uses.

Rabun also proposed an increase to the 4 percent utility tax charged on unincorporated telephone, power, gas, water and fuel oil to provide more than $2 million for drainage improvements required by federal, state and regional requirements. Rabun would increase the telephone tax to 7 percent and the other taxes to 7.5 percent.

Rabun said he considered a "stormwater fee" charged by Sanford and other communities, but said the billing system would cost $600,000 to establish.

"With this, if they get a bill, they'll get charged," said Rabun.

Rabun also recommended a 16 percent increase in the amount garbage haulers must pay to dump their loads at the county dump or transfer station.

Haulers now pay $31 per ton. That rate would increase to $36 under Rabun's proposal. Rabun said the increase is needed to pay nearly $1.5 million in expenses to meet dump environmental protection requirements.

The increase would be in addition to any hauler rate changes. Because all city and unincorporated garbage haulers unload at county facilities, the rate increase, if approved, would affect all residents in the county.

Rabun suggests hiring 81 new employees, including 30 for the Sheriff's Office and 36 Rabun says are needed to meet state and federal requirements. The first-year cost of the new hires will be $1.7 million.

"If there's a sticker shock with the budget, that's it," said Rabun. "We're in a service-oriented business. It's always more expensive to provide services than manufacture something."

Rabun also proposed upping the annual bonus paid to long-term employees from a maximum of 2 percent of their annual salary to a maximum of 3 percent for average work and up to 5 percent for exceptional work.

The bonuses are paid in lieu of "longevity pay" formerly given to employees who have reached their pay grade cap. Rabun also proposed paying up to 7 percent pay hikes based on performance for employees who have not reached their cap.

Rabun included more than $12 million for new building projects, including $10.4 million for a new Public Safety Complex at Five Points named the top office space priority by commissioners earlier this year. The structure will house administrative offices of the Public Safety Department and Sheriff's Office and will consolidate emergency radio services.

In other proposals, Rabun would spend:

- $33 million for road improvements;
- $4 million to purchase 96 vehicles, including $2.6 million to replace 72 older existing equipment;
- $1.6 million for an expansion of the Consumer's Water Treatment Plant in Fern Park. $450,000 for street repairs;
- $264,000 for economic development efforts, a $100,000 increase beyond the current spending plan; and
- $82,000 for further development of a county computerized land information system.

representative was on hand for the meeting.

One of the residents of the nearby area, Pat Lee, addressed the commission on the request. "We have a petition signed by 13 of the residents who live in this area," she said, "and we are completely opposed to rezoning this property."

She continued, "We are basing our objection on three points: we believe the density of the development will be much greater than anywhere else in the area, the traffic generated by 28 more homes will be much more than our roadways are capable of handling, and with the low level of the property, the drainage run-off onto our properties will be unmanageable."

Lee also objected to problems voiced by residents regarding the receipt of notices sent by the city of the P&Z hearing on the matter. "The letters apparently were sent to us without postage," she said, "and when the post office returned them to the city, someone initialed them as having been returned, and the city thought we had responded." She added, "but hardly any of us knew about it coming up before the board."

Commissioner Whitey Eckstein was the first to respond. "This is a double problem," he said. "We must consider what can be done to please the surrounding neighborhood, but we must also look at what is in the best interests of the city."

Eckstein suggested an approach be taken similar to one used in previous rezoning problems. "I would like to propose having Mr. Feinberg meet with the residents of the community, and ask that they work together on this to straighten out the problems," he said.

Eckstein added, "Actually, I had an immediate reaction that I would be opposed to this rezoning, but when I considered that the expressway would eventually be built right near the property, I had to give it some second thoughts."

Prior to Monday's meeting, Feinberg had requested that the matter be continued on a postponement. City Manager Bill discovering the body. Harriett said. Atkins said he had known Frederick casually and both apparently lived in the Fern Park area.

Monday, Atkins approached the policeman in Orlando and confessed to beating Frederick to death, said Harriett. Under questioning, Harriett said Atkins told investigators Frederick had made a sexual advance to him but he fended off the alleged approach. Atkins told investigators he then gave Frederick enough alcohol to cause him to fall into a drunken sleep.

Harriett said Atkins then confessed to beating and kicking Frederick until he was too tired to continue.

During the confession, Harriett said Atkins alluded to having participated in an Orange County homicide and having knowledge of a Seminole County homicide. No details were available.

"Right now, we don't have any evidence to confirm his statements," said Harriett. "But he has confessed and we can't just ignore that."

Harriett said an investigation is continuing.

county. Suber said between 30,000 to 35,000 of them were increased in value this year. Most of the homes increasing in value had pools, said Suber. In all, 22,000 properties with pools, both residential and commercial, will see increases averaging $4,500, he said. Of the residential increases, about 10,000 are lakefront properties.

Suber said few few property owners will see dramatic increases in property values. Only those with new buildings or remodeling will see a significant change in their property values, he said.

Overall, the county's total property value increased 3.11 percent between January 1992 and January 1993, according to Suber's reports. According to Suber, the value of all the taxable property in Seminole County is now worth $10.3 billion. Of the increase, 1.1 percent was for reappraisal and 2.01 percent was for new construction.

Suber said the figure demonstrates county development is recovering, though still sluggish.

"It's better than it was in recent past," he said. "Sales are still strong and from what I've seen, building permits are increasing. We'll see a lot of that next year."

comment on the budget preparations currently underway.

"At this point," she said, "we know what our estimated revenue will be, we know the previously budgeted expenses will be, and we know what will be required for additional expenses as a result of the negotiated raises last year."

She continued, "Right now, it appears as though there will be about $1.2 million which will still have to be allocated. These will be for new programs, consideration of some raises, and the distribution of a certain amount of money to each individual school for special project use."

Kramer said judging from the work sessions she has attended and the way work has been smoothly progressing, she does not expect any problems in setting up the 1993-94 school year operating budget.

Kramer said the board is also working on the five year capital improvement programs in great depth.

Junior Golf Clinic

ORLANDO — A large crowd of aspiring John Daly's and Nancy Lopez's are expected to be on hand for a free Junior Golf Clinic at EastWood Course on Thursday, July 1.

The clinic for boys and girls four to 17 years old will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. and will cover all aspects of the game including basic fundamentals, rules and etiquette, driving sand play and putting, says Bill Shiles, assistant golf pro at EastWood and executive director of the Junior Golf Association of Central Florida.

EastWood is one of several stops on this summer's Junior Golf Schedule. A total of 23 instructional clinics and tournaments have been scheduled for various Central Florida golf courses. EastWood recently held a Junior Golf Tournament for boys and girls five to 13.

The Eastwood clinic is free to any junior golfer. For additional information about the clinic, call EastWood Golf Course at 281-4653. For tournament information, contact the Junior Golf Association at 689-0589.

EastWood is located on South Alafaya Trail, approximately two miles south of the East West Expressway in southeast Orlando.

AROUND THE STATE

Mets edge Marlins in marathon

MIAMI — Rookie Jeremy Burnitz doubled in the 12th inning and scored on Tim Bogar's sacrifice fly, and the New York Mets outlasted the Florida Marlins 10-9 Tuesday night.

The game took 4 hours, 20 minutes, not including an 88-minute rain delay.

Burnitz led off the 12th by doubling off the center field wall and took third when Henry Cotto made a bad throw to the cutoff man Bogar then brought Burnitz home with a fly.

Florida's Bryan Harvey and New York's John Franco, both blew save opportunities.

The Marlins' Greg Briley tied the game against Franco in the bottom of the ninth with a two-out single to score Benito Santiago.

Jeff Kent hit a two-run homer off Harvey in the eighth to put the Mets ahead 9-8.

Todd Hundley and Eddie Murray also homered for the Mets.

Florida fell behind 6-1 before tying a franchise record with a seven-run seventh. A pair of three-run homers by Rich Bentzen and Jeff Conine helped give the Marlins an 8-6 lead.

Barberie on shelf

MIAMI — Florida Marlins second baseman Bret Barberie is expected to be out two weeks with a partially torn ligament in his left knee.

Barberie was placed on the 15-day disabled list for the second time this season. To replace him, the Marlins purchased the contract of infielder Gus Polidor from Edmonton.

USF wants football

TAMPA — The University of South Florida moved a step closer to starting a football program with the formation of a committee that will try to raise $10 million in two years.

The committee, chaired by business leaders Frank Morsani and Payton Adams, has a goal of raising $5 million by the end of the year. USF already has $3 million in pledges.

Once the committee reaches the $5 million threshold, the school plans to seek Florida Board of Regents approval of a plan to start a NCAA Division I-AA program.

McPherson handed football reins at Seminole

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — Perseverence and hard work pays off.

Longtime assistant coach Ernie McPherson has been rewarded for his loyalty to the school by being named by Seminole High School to serve as interim head varsity football coach for the 1993 football season.

The announcement was made Tuesday morning by Jerry Posey, athletic director of the local high school.

McPherson will be taking over the position from Emory Blake, who compiled a 32-20 record and three district titles in his five years as head coach.

Blake gave up his coaching duties and requested a transfer to another county school following a five day suspension earlier this month. He was suspended following a reported confrontation with a student in a gym class.

McPherson has been an assistant coach and teacher at Seminole High School the past 10 years after leaving the former Crooms High School, now Crooms School of Choice. He was also a coach while at Crooms.

During those 10 years he has held several different coaching positions, mostly on the junior varsity level in football and baseball. He had been the head junior varsity baseball coach for nine years, but this season moved up to the varsity as an assistant for head coach Mike Powers.

McPherson has also bounced back and forth between the junior varsity and varsity football teams as an assistant. The past five years he has been the head junior varsity football coach and his last two teams have gone undefeated, winning 14 straight games.

"I'm very excited," said McPherson. "I think it's going to be a pretty good transition. Coach Blake has been very helpful, he has been working with me 100 percent."

McPherson, a personable 46 year old, is well known in local circles, having served as an umpire on several different levels of youth baseball for the Sanford Recreation Department over the past 20 years. He is also a big basketball fan. He can be seen at the Florida High School State Championships, year in and year out, whether a Seminole County squad is playing or not.

Chase races close

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Looks can be deceiving.

Over the past couple of weeks it had begun to look like the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Tuesday Night Spring Slowpitch Softball League at Chase Park was beginning to sort itself out. Wrong.

With three weeks left in the regular season four teams are still within one game of the league lead and have a shot at the league title.

Florida Manor continues to be the hottest team in the league at the moment, as it beat Class Act 12-5 Tuesday night for its fourth straight victory and its sixth win in seven starts.

The other two games were barn burners, with the outcome of both games being decided in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Ken Rummel Chevrolet kept its championship hopes alive by pulling off the biggest win of the night, withstanding a nine run bottom of the seventh inning to edge league-leading ABB Power Distribution, 13-12.

And Bamboo Cafe II used a three run bottom of the seventh inning to nip Wheelchel & Howard 17-16 to record its second win of the season.

ABB Power continues to lead the league with a 7-3 record, but Monroe Harbour Marina (6-3), Florida Manor (6-4) and Ken Rummel (5-3) are nipping at their heels. Class Act (3-5), Wheelchel & Howard (3-6) and Bamboo Cafe II (2-8) complete the standings.

Next week, Wheelchel & Howard takes on Ken Rummel at 6:30 p.m., Class Act battles ABB Power at 7:30 p.m., and Monroe Harbour Marina plays Bamboo Cafe II at 8:30 p.m. Florida Manor has the week off.

Women's a three team race

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — A trio has formed in the Sanford Recreation Department Women's Spring Slowpitch Softball League.

With two-thirds of the season completed Hopkins Meat Packing, Papa Joe's and Myer's Tree Service have pulled away from the other four teams and have turned the race into their own little play ground.

Tuesday night at the Ft. Mellon Park Softball Field Hopkins remained undefeated by the narrowest of margins, 10-9, and in the process all but eliminated Beer 30 from title contention. Hopkins had scored four runs in the top of the seventh inning to break a 6-6 tie, then had to withstand a three run seventh by Beer 30.

Beer 30 just missed a tie, as the tying run was thrown out at third base on a bases loaded single by Lannie Mouthollen.

In the other games, Myer's Tree Service had little trouble keeping pace, scoring seven runs in the top of the first inning and cruising to an 8-2 victory over Vicky's Permit Service. Papa Joe's also had an easy time of it, taking a 9-0 lead in besting Maynard 8-2.

All-Stars get "homered"

ORMOND BEACH — We got homered

Usually when you here that statement in a baseball game it refers to either a bad call or a poorly officiated game by the umpires!

But Tuesday night in the opening round of the Florida Little Major League District IV Baseball Tournament at Ormond Beach, the Ormond Beach American All-Stars gave new meaning to the term, as the hosts clouted a phenomenal nine home runs in blanking the Sanford All-Stars 27-0.

Sanford not only lost the game, they also lost their best hitter and number two pitcher in a freak accident. Barry Porter was hit in the eye while chasing a pop-up late in the game and had to be removed on a stretcher after being cut in that eye. His status was unknown at press time.

Sanford will now play the Port Orange Nationals, which lost an 11-9 decision to Leesburg Tuesday night. The game will be played tonight at 6 p.m. at the Ormond Beach Baseball Complex on North Nova Road. At 8 p.m., the Ormond Beach Americans will host Leesburg.

The winner of tonight's 6 p.m. contest and the loser of tonight's 8 p.m. game will play at 6 p.m. on Thursday in the loser's bracket final. The winner of the

Thursday night game will play the undefeated team at 6 p.m. Friday and the if necessary game will be at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Ormond Beach, which has five players who were on the Baseball World team that won the A A U National Championship last year, had a remarkable 23 hits in only 36 at bats (a .639 average) and hit at least one home run in every inning, the game was stopped in the top of the fifth, and four different players (Hall, Clear, Jackson, Poore) had two home runs each.

Hall went three for four, including a grand slam, and drove in seven runs. Clear was four for five and drove in four and Jackson was three for five with three RBI. Poore was only two for two, but both hits were long home runs that plated three scores.

Blake Bodenmiller limited Sanford to only two hits (by Terrance Daniels and Randy Casey) and one walk (Justin Erickson), while striking out 10.

Questions remain heading into tonight's NBA draft

By MIKE NADEL
AP Sports Writer

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — Chris Webber refused to get upright in the hours preceding tonight's NBA draft.

In fact, as he waited Tuesday to learn if he'd be the first, second or third choice, the 6-foot-9 forward was able to poke fun at the most famous faux pas of his young life.

"It's not more nerve-wracking than games," Webber said. "In games, sometimes you don't have timeouts left."

While Webber was kidding around, his future and those of 53 other players were being pondered by NBA braintrusts. Several questions remained unanswered.

Would Orlando take him first overall? Would the Magic pass over him in favor of 7-6 Shawn Bradley, leaving him to Philadelphia? Or would Orlando pull a shocker by drafting Kentucky's Jamal Mashburn, leaving Bradley to Philadelphia and Webber to Golden State?

Or would a blockbuster trade reshuffle the top of the drafting order?

"I'm not going to be on an emotional roller coaster," said Webber, who left Michigan after his sophomore season — and two appearances in the NCAA championship game. "I'm supposed to enjoy this. I can't control it, so why worry about it?"

Webber was reminded that the Magic had promised to phone him just before the draft if they were going to take him.

"I won't answer the phone if it rings," he said. "I don't want to know."

All Webber knew was that he'd be wearing some team's hat by night's end.

"I've been practicing putting my hat on and smiling," he said. "I'm just going to see what happens, put my hat on, give my parents a hug and be through with it."

After much grilling, Webber finally admitted that he wanted to be drafted by Orlando so he could be the first pick and could pair with center Shaquille O'Neal, last year's No. 1 choice.

Ronnie Burkett leads all the way at Orlando

By PAUL MARSEGLIA
Special to the Herald

ORLANDO — Sorrento's Ronnie Burkett paced the field from start to finish as he dominated the 50-lap Late Model feature event Friday night (June 25) at Orlando SpeedWorld.

Burkett took the checkers about 10 car lengths ahead of Wayne Anderson.

"I didn't have to worry about the car tonight," said Burkett, the defending FASCAR Late Model champion. "I just had to keep myself calm and make sure I didn't drive an erratic race. I kept my line and tried to save the car. It all paid off."

Burkett, who set the evening's second fastest qualifying time, started the race from the outside pole position. At the drop of starter Johnny Bass' green flag, Burkett outduelled fellow pole sitter Scott Bramlett for the point.

Once in command, Burkett raced unchallenged until a caution at the half-way point bunched the field for a restart.

Burkett and Bramlett restarted on the pole with Wayne Anderson and James Powell Jr. side-by-side in the second row.

As the new green flag was waved, Burkett charged to the front as Anderson slipped to the inside of Bramlett.

Burkett had clear sailing until he got trapped behind a lapped car, Anderson, taking the high groove, pulled alongside of Burkett. After a half a lap of side-by-side racing, Burkett outpowered Anderson to assume the lead.

Burkett cruised to victory lane, trailed by Anderson, Powell, Bramlett and Duke Southard.

"Tonight was a good shake-down race for us," said Burkett. "We're going to race in the Florida Pro Series next weekend and we just needed to see what the car would do. The car is almost perfect, we'll do our usual maintenance during the week and fine tune it race night and we should be ok."

Burkett's last appearance at the Orlando speed plant was last month in the Dick Joslin Memorial Race where he placed second to Dick Anderson. Burkett is currently ranked in fifth place in the Florida Pro Series, only 28 points out of first place.

Holding off a late race challenge by Gary Schlichter,

Michael Williams led every circuit to win the Limited Late Model main event.

Following Williams and Schlichter to the checkers were Jacob Warren, Tommy Peters and George Murphy.

Jon Campagnone Jr. survived several fender-benders to win his fifth Modified feature event of the season.

Rounding out the top five, respectively, were Donald Shedd, Bruce Thompson, Sanford's John Ripley and Dwayne Ascy.

Osteen's Bobby Sears claimed his 11th victory of the season by winning the 15-lap Mini-Stock feature event.

David Lecklitter was second, Rick Maguire third, Keith French fourth and W.G. Hixson fifth.

Jessie Pennington's misfortune was John Smith's good fortune. Pennington, the apparent race winner in the Bomber Division, was disqualified in a post race inspection for having illegal cylinders.

Smith, who finished second, inherited the trophy with Mike Hughes, Don Lake, Glen Cordell and Rick Schlimmer rounding out the top five.

Rick Johns won the Sportsman feature with Gary McRoberts, Jimmy Johns, Jim Robinson and Ronnie Chaney in tow.

Top honors in the Run-About Class went to Paul Hudson, Rob Monteneri, Ronnie Talley, Jim Cook and Eugene Wilks.

The Mini-Bomber finishing order was Sniper Napier, Bill Lucas, Tim Wishon, Sara Downsend and Gary Tyler.

Russell passes field to win

By PAUL MARSEGLIA
Special to the Herald

SAMSULA — Apopka's David Russell won the 50-lap End-of-the-Month Late Model championship Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway, a race that could have been billed the race of champions.

Russell, who started the race dead last in his Horsin' Around Farms Chevrolet Camaro, worked his way through the 22 car field and was in third place by lap 24.

Orlando's David Rogers and Wayne Anderson, while racing for the number one slot, tangled going into turn three, collecting Russell's racer.

Russell, surviving the melee, took the point and raced to the flag stand as the yellow flag flew.

Fighting an ill-handling race car, Russell edged Rogers to score his fourth consecutive win of the season.

"We had a big field and I was at the tail end. I knew I had to keep my tires cool to get to the front," said Russell, a three-time FASCAR (Florida Association of Stock Car Auto Racing) Late Model champion.

"David (Rogers) and Wayne (Anderson) were rubbing fenders and I knew they would get together, so I was watching my step. But when they tangled I got involved and it bent my tie-rod about three inches. The handling went away on the car, so the last half of the race was tough."

Joe Middleton led the first two laps of the race, Anderson, who set the evening's fastest qualifying time, took command on lap three.

RESULTS

Late Model (End of Month Championship), 50-laps: 1. David Russell, Apopka; 2. David Rogers, Orlando; 3. Ronnie Burkett, Sorrento; 4. Bruce Lawrence; 5. Bryan Campbell.
Sportsman Division: 1. Chris Lawrence, DeLand; 2. David Lebeau; 3. Scott Laughlin; 4. Dale Howard; 5. Jerry Smith.
Bomber Division: 1. Johnny Mitchell; 2. Tim Cordell; 3. Gary Frosh; 4. Billy Morrison; 5. Billy Bellflower.
Limited Late Model: 1. Jacob Warren; 2. Keith Baiga; 3. Tony Newsome; 4. Jason Burnett, Longwood; 5. Rusty Ebersole.
Modified Division: 1. Dave Savicki; 2. March Kinley, Osteen; 3. Jeff Anderson; 4. John Ripley, Sanford; 5. Tim Trice.
Mini-Stock Division: 1. Conrad Grenier; 2. Ted Vulpius; 3. Gary Kehm; 4. Jerry Symons; 5. J.D. Duncan.
Action Performance Run-About Division: 1. Lee Wagner; 2. Lyle Messinger; 3. Paul Hudson; 4. Brad Cogwell; 5. Tim Simmon.

On lap 16, Rogers mounted a charge on race leader Anderson, and, after several laps of swapping paint, they tangled in turn three. Anderson was eliminated from competition with a broken tie-rod.

"If he (Anderson) wants to race, he should race. If he wants to play demo derby he's in the wrong class," said Rogers, a former NASCAR Late Model National Champion and a many time FASCAR Late Model champion. "First he hits me in the left rear quarter panel, I pass him on the outside and then he cheap shot's me."

When asked about the incident, Anderson replied, "I did tap him. Several laps before, he almost spun me into the infield. I don't like racing like that, but I don't want him or anyone else abusing me."

On a last lap pass, coming out of turn four, Rogers got by Sorrento's Ronnie Burkett, Friday night's Late Model feature winner at Orlando SpeedWorld, for the runner-up spot. Trailing the Burkett were Bruce Lawrence in fourth and Bryan Campbell in fifth.

"The car was great until halfway," said Burkett. "Then we got a bad push. I had a good second place car and I was hoping there wouldn't be any cautions. But with one lap to go we got a caution and there was no way I could keep David (Rogers) behind me. If you want a caution you don't get it, when you don't want one is when the yellow flag seems to fly."

The star studded field included Russell, a three-time FASCAR Late Model champion, Rogers, the winningest Late Model driver at the half-mile, high-banked oval, Ronnie Burkett, the current FASCAR Late Model champion, Middleton, the 1991 FASCAR Late Model champion, Lawrence, an Orange Blossom 100 winner, Jeff Burkett, a regular in the NASCAR Dash Series, and Anderson, the current FASCAR Late Model point leader.

DeLand's Chris Lawrence outduelled David Lebeau and Scott Laughlin to take top honors in the Sportsman Division.

Rounding out the top five were Dale Howard and Jerry Smith in fourth and fifth, respectively.

Johnny Mitchell went green flag to checkers to win his seventh Bomber feature of the year. Chasing Mitchell to the checkers were Tim Cordell, Gary Frosh, Billy Morrison and Billy Bellflower.

The Limited Late Model feature went to Jacob Warren, Keith Baiga was second, followed by Tony Newsome, Jason Burkett and Rusty Ebersole.

Draft

"He and I are good friends. I would love to play with him and I think we would work well together," Webber said. "Of course, everybody wants to be the No. 1 pick, but Orlando can't do wrong."

UNLV's J.R. Rider figures to be drafted behind Webber, Bradley, Mashburn and Memphis State's Anfernee Hardaway — and he didn't like that one bit.

After Orlando, Philadelphia, Golden State and Dallas would make their selections. Minnesota was expected to take Rider, a 6-5 guard who was the nation's second-leading scorer last season.

"If people would have looked at this year, I would be picked higher. I think I had the best year in college. In games, I dominated," he said. "But I know it goes deeper than that." Rider averaged 29.1 points and 8.9 rebounds while shooting 51.5 percent from the floor and 82.6 percent from the line.

However, his attitude, ballhandling and defensive intensity have been questioned.

Mashburn didn't come right out and say that teams passing over him would be making a mistake.

"I'll address that when we play them," the 6-8 forward said, "and beat them."

Mashburn thought Webber, his good friend, would be taken ahead of him, "but we both know we're going to be rich." Nevertheless, Mashburn was nervous as the draft neared.

"Wouldn't you be? I mean, I don't know where I'm going," he said. "I could go from one coast to the other coast. It's like having an open plane ticket."

Calbert Chaney, the 6-7 forward from Indiana who was expected to go in the top eight picks, also was restless.

"As the draft gets closer, I'm getting more and more nervous," he said. "I have to try to stay as relaxed as I can, but I know I'll be a nervous wreck."

Moody reveals his secret recipe for pound cake, happiness

By RENEE KEITH
Herald Correspondent

It's not everyday or in every home that one would find the man as the responsible person where meal preparation is concerned. However, in the home of Jerry Moody, you'll find this to be an enjoyable exception.

Jerry was born and has lived most of his life in Sanford except for a brief period of time when he was in Georgia. He worked as a construction manager for many years until an automobile accident rendered him disabled.

As Jerry explains the many difficulties he has experienced since his accident, he is also quick to acknowledge the fact that it is not just his disability, but that of his family also.

"We've all had to re-adjust our lives," says Jerry. However, in his situation, a workable solution has been found.

Jerry's wife, Cindy, is employed with Seminole County in its animal control division. She has held this position for a little better than two years. This is a perfect type job, as Cindy and Jerry together, share a love for animals. They have, as Cindy says, "the spoiled and loved pets that will fill your life with happiness on a daily basis."

With that role reversal in the Moody home, Cindy feels very fortunate that Jerry not only has a wonderful cooking skill, but he "just loves to do the cooking," said Cindy. "I work odd hours at times so his help in the kitchen is truly appreciated." Cindy also loves to tend to her garden. She says, "The kitchen is Jerry's and the garden is mine."

Jerry and Cindy's son, Clarence (Zip), will be attending Seminole High School. He is also very involved with the Sanford Police Explorers which is something that Zip enjoys to its fullest.

Ho Bo Hamburgers are quick and easy to prepare, Jerry says. "You can substitute other vegetables that you like or that are in season." Also, these hamburgers can be cooked on your grill and turn out just great," he said. All-in-all, the nicest part of making this dish is there is virtually no clean-up.

If you don't like the rich taste that is often times associated with cake frostings, then Jerry's recipe for Whipped Cream Pound Cake is right up your alley. According to Cindy, "This is the most fantastic cake you'll ever taste in your life."

Jerry does have someone who lovingly thinks that he must supervise his culinary skills, and that is, canine friend, Sam. "Somehow, Sam just thinks he is a complete authority when I'm cooking," said Jerry. "But, I really don't mind."

One recipe that Jerry uses often is his recipe for "Happiness." "It's really so simple, and it can't fail," he says.

Summer Dog Days can be fatal to pets

DEAR ABBY: Now that summer is here, I can see more and more people leaving their animals in parked cars I am from Texas, and the temperature here can reach well over 100 degrees. It hurts me to see a helpless dog left in a car while its owner spends an hour (or more) in a shopping mall.

A while back you printed some figures on how fast a car heats up on a hot summer day, and included an address where people could write to get cards that have a printed warning about this. Would you please reprint that address? I know many people who feel strongly about this and would take action to save an animal's life.

ANA SABRINA GONZALEZ, PLANO, TEXAS

DEAR ANA SABRINA: Thank you for writing. Your letter may give some pet owners a good deal of grief and remorse.

The Animal Protection Institute, P.O. Box 22505, Sacramento, Calif. 95822, sells cards that can be placed under the windshield wipers of thoughtless pet owners. They sell for only 83 per 100 cards.

The printed message reads: "Your dog may be dying! We understand you meant to be kind by taking your dog with you today, but you could be risking your pet's life."

On a hot summer day, the inside of a car heats very quickly. On an average 85-degree day, for example, the temperature inside your car — with the window slightly opened — will reach 102 degrees in 10 minutes. In 30 minutes it will go up to 120 degrees. On warmer days, it will go even higher.

A dog's normal body temperature is 101.5 to 102.2 degrees Fahrenheit. A dog can withstand a body temperature of 107 to 108 degrees Fahrenheit for only a very short time before suffering irreparable brain damage — or even death. The closed car interferes with the dog's normal cooling process, that is, evaporation through panting.

ADVICE

"If your dog is overcome by heat exhaustion, you can give immediate first aid by immersing him or her in cold water until body temperature is lowered."

DEAR ABBY: Six years ago, I did something stupid. My husband and I had two children and our marriage was rather shaky, so I let myself get talked into having my tubes tied. Four years later, we divorced.

Seven months ago, I remarried. Guess what? We want children. I was told that my surgery can be reversed — for $12,000! Paid in full — upfront! This type of surgery is not covered by our insurance company, Abby. I barely earn that in a year.

Alright, I made a mistake, but why should my new husband be punished? Do you know how long it will take us to save $12,000? I am 35 years old and my biological clock is running out.

I know you can't help me, but maybe this letter will help someone else. Women, please do not have your tubes tied if there is even the slightest chance that you will regret it later.

ALL TIED UP
DEAR TIED: It's sad you didn't think things through before having your tubes surgically tied. Thank you for writing to warn other women.

'Chill out' with these quick, easy desserts

Cool desserts are what's in for summer, so "chill out" as the younger set says and prepare these make-ahead, luscious, refreshing desserts. You might want to stock your freezer with some of these just to have desserts on hand when needed.

This is a great make-ahead to have ready in the freezer.

ALMOND JOY PIE

- 2 Tbsp. margarine or butter
- 1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
- 1 cup graham cracker crumbs
- 1/2 cup whole raw almonds
- 1 tsp. margarine or butter
- 6 cups vanilla ice cream (1 1/2 quarts)
- 1 cup flaked coconut
- 1 tsp. almond extract
- Microwave on 100 percent power 2 Tbsp. margarine and chocolate pieces in uncovered dish 1-1 1/2 minutes or until softened. Blend until smooth. Stir in cracker crumbs. Press into bottom and up sides of 9-inch pie plate. Freeze until set. Meanwhile, combine almonds and 1 tsp. margarine in 4-cup glass measure.

Microwave (100 percent) uncovered, 1-2 1/2 minutes or until lightly toasted, stirring twice. Cool. Stir together ice cream, coconut and almond extract until blended. Spoon into chocolate crust. Sprinkle with toasted almonds. Cover and freeze until firm, 3-4 hours.

Garnish with grated semi-sweet or milk chocolate curls.

One of my fondest memories of the 4th of July when I was a child was the making of fresh peach ice cream. Now we can use the microwave to quickly cook the custard for this old-fashioned favorite.

FRESH PEACH ICE CREAM

- 1 cup milk
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 tsp. almond extract
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1 cup (1/2 pt.) whipping cream
- 2 cups chopped fresh peaches
- Beat together milk, egg and sugar in 4-cup glass measure until blended.

Microwave on 100 percent power, uncovered, 3 1/2-4 1/2 minutes or until mixture starts to thicken slightly, stirring once or twice. Cool completely. Blend in almond extract, vanilla, whipping cream and peaches. Pour into ice cream freezer. Freeze following manufacturer's instructions.

Makes 1 quart.

Blueberries are in season now. They add a refreshing taste to cheesecake. Serve chilled with iced tea or coffee.

BLUEBERRY-YOGURT CHEESECAKE

- 1 1/2 cups blueberries
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 Tbsp. cornstarch

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 3 squares (3 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- Approximately 14 vanilla wafers

Measure water in 4-cup glass measure; add sugar and gelatin and mix well. Let stand a few minutes for gelatin to soften.

Microwave on 100 percent power, uncovered 1 1/2-2 minutes or until steaming hot and gelatin is dissolved. Add chocolate.

Microwave on 50 percent power, uncovered 2-2 1/2 minutes or until mixture is steaming hot, stirring twice. Refrigerate until thickened, stirring occasionally.

Beat cream and vanilla until thickened. Fold in chocolate mixture until blended. Arrange about 14 paper or foil cupcake liners on tray. Place a vanilla wafer in each. Fill cup with chocolate mixture. Refrigerate until set, about 4 hours.

To freeze: Place cup in freezer until firm. Transfer to covered plastic freezer container.

ST. JOHNS RIVER WATER MANAGEMENT DISTRICT NOTICE OF INTENT TO AMEND/ADOPT RULES The St. Johns River Water Management District (District) gives notice of the intent to amend or adopt rules addressing the following:

CONSUMPTIVE USES OF WATER PERMITTING EXEMPTIONS Currently, withdrawals or diversions of surface water or water from the surficial aquifer which exceed the volumetric thresholds contained in the District's consumptive use permitting rule require an individual consumptive use permit from the District. The only exemption is for withdrawals conducted by certain governmental entities for the sole purpose of flood control, which is subject to certain conditions. The proposed rule creates a new general consumptive use permit by rule for withdrawals or diversions of surface water or water from the surficial aquifer when: (1) the withdrawal or diversion happens as a result of gravity flow; (2) the flow is into or out of a stormwater or surface water management system which has been permitted by the District or qualifies for an exemption from the District's surface water permitting rule; and (3) the withdrawal or diversion is conducted by a municipality, county, multi-county special district or an agency of the executive branch of the state or federal government. This general permit allows for the use of water control structures other than pumps to be used to vary the rate of flow when the water is used for the purpose of flood control, pollution control or wetland enhancement or creation. The proposed rule also amends one of the existing exemptions from consumptive use permitting to include within the exemption withdrawals or diversions of surface water or water from the surficial aquifer when: (1) the withdrawal or diversion happens as a result of gravity flow; (2) the withdrawal or diversion is into or out of a stormwater or surface water management system which has been permitted by the District or qualifies for an exemption from the District's surface water permitting rule; No pumps or water control structures may be used in order to qualify for this permit exemption.

Specific rule sections amended or adopted are 90C-9.062, 90C-9.061, 90C-9.101, F.A.C., and Applicant's Handbook Sections 2.2 and 3.4, Consumptive Uses of Water. The above listed rule will be adopted (filed with the Department of State) no sooner than 18 days following publication of this notice and will be effective 30 days after filing. This notice is only a summary of the foregoing rule; a copy of the complete text of the rule may be obtained by writing: Norma Messer, Rules Coordinator, St. Johns River Water Management District, P.O.
