Cabinet appointees confirmed

WASHINGTON — Bringing President Bush's Cabinet near completion, the Senate overwhelmingly confirmed Louis Sullivan as health secretary and James Watkins as energy secretary.

In back-to-back ballots Wednesday, senators voted 98-1 for Sullivan, a physician who is the only black chosen for the Cabinet, and 99-0 for Watkins, a retired admiral who led President Ronald Reagan's AIDS commission.

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., cast the lone vote against Sullivan, charging that the leader of Atlanta's Morehouse College medical school had ducked questions about "important" issues such as fetal research and AIDS confidentiality. The absent senator was Barbara Mikulski, D-Md.

Quake hits Dominican Republic

WASHINGTON — A moderate earthquake measuring 5.5 on the Richter scale jolted the Dominican Republic early Thursday, causing power outages in the capital of Santo Domingo, the U.S. Geological Survey reported.

Pat Jorgenson, a spokeswoman for the USGS in Golden, Colo., said the tremor struck at 3:14 a.m. local time (2:14 a.m. EST) and was centered near the southeastern coast of the Dominican Republic about 80 miles east of Santo Domingo and 170 miles west of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Tower's chances growing slim

WASHINGTON — Republican senators launched a last-ditch effort Thursday to rescue John Tower's nomination in what promised to be quite a brawl.

One month after Tower's confirmation hearings, President Bush appeared no closer to victory Wednesday in his first big battle with the Democratic-controlled Senate.

And Vice President Dan Quayle said Tower's supporters still had not picked up the minimum five Democratic votes needed to put Tower in charge of the Pentagon.

Lake Mary sweeps 'Noles

They almost got all the matches in before the rains came on Wednesday, but those they did get in were enough to give the Lake Mary High School boys' and girls' tennis teams a sweep of Seminole.

Lake Mary's only loss in the Seminole Athletic Conference competition came in the boys' No. 1 singles, where Scott Farmer lost to Seminole's Josh Lewis 8-2. It was the first loss of the season for Farmer, who moved here from Illinois this year.

Ironically, Farmer and Lewis work out together at the Bayhead Racquet Club.

Farmer's efforts to continue his winning ways will be severely challenged today when Lake Brantley, led by No. 1 player Mark Palus (ranked No. 3 in the state in his age group) visits Lake Mary at 3 p.m.

P&Z OKs Wekiva project

SANFORD — Following nearly two hours of testimony, Seminole County Planning and Zoning members voted 5-2 Wednesday night to recommend county commissioners allow AMCOR Investments Corp. to build up to 420 homes along the banks of the Wekiva River south of Markham Road.

Commissioners will consider on March 28 the AMCOR request to change the land uses and zoning for the site they have named Plantation.

County planners recommended that planning board members approve changing the land-use for the site from suburban estates to planned development and the zoning from agriculture to planned-unit development. Because 83 percent of the site has poorly-drained soil, AMCOR offered and the staff recommended Plantation be served by county water and sewer from the Yankee Lake plant.

Although zoning board members John Tracy and Frank Shelton admitted AMCOR's proposal for Plantation was much better than one the Austin, Texas, developers sought three years ago, they said it still falls short of county's goal to maintain a rural character in the areas bordering the Wekiva River.

Several residents of the Markham Woods area agreed with the two board members, saying they moved to the area of the county to be away from city development and crowded neighborhoods.

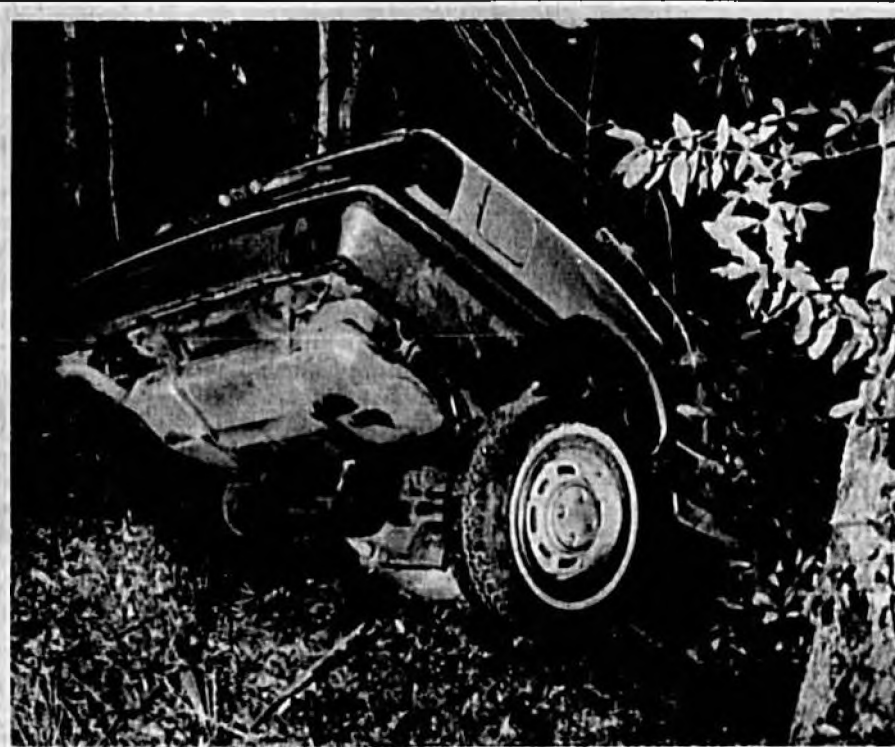

"Why can't we adhere to our (land-use) plan?"

asked Gene Ezzell, president of the Markham Woods Homeowner's Association. "I'm a believer in make your plan, then work your plan."

It was the second attempt by AMCOR to build the Plantation development on the 573-acre site. Their first effort was halted in 1986 when the county turned down the proposal to build 1,240 homes and 71 acres of commercial businesses on the site.

County officials said then that the high number of homes and the commercial development was too dense for the Wekiva River area, which shouldn't have more than one home per acre. AMCOR appealed the county's decision to the state, but in January 1988, Gov. Bob Martinez and the Cabinet upheld the county's decision.

At left, a rain-slickened highway may have caused Mary Caponi of Longwood to lose control of her car and crash into a wooded area off Markham Road in rural Longwood, at about 5 p.m. Wednesday. Seminole County sheriff's deputy Thomas Johnson said Caponi, who suffered head injuries, was apparently east-bound when her 1988 Mustang ran off the road on the right side and crossed back to spin around and strike a tree. Caponi was transported to Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford. Charges are pending in the single-car crash. Local law enforcement personnel reported a number of minor automobile accidents during a period of thunderstorms that rolled through the county Wednesday afternoon.

SANFORD — The University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Center on Celery Avenue recorded 1.76 inches of rainfall during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. this morning.

The rain ended a long dry spell that lasted through the first two months of the year. The forecast calls for an 80 percent chance of showers or thunderstorms throughout the day. More clouds and scattered rain showers are expected.

The Sanford area received 1.5 inches more rain than was recorded by the National Weather Service at the Orlando International Airport observation station.

Hail was also reported in some areas. "Anytime you have a thunderstorm, you can expect some hail," said Weather Service Meteorological Technician Rob Osborne. Dense ground fog also made driving conditions difficult.

The wet weather apparently contributed to a number of minor traffic accidents in the area.

Sanford Fire Chief Tom Hickson said the fire department responded to a malfunctioning fire alarm at Central Florida Regional Hospital which may have been weather-related.

According to an official at the hospital, the air conditioning system which may have overheated set off the fire alarm on the second floor.

Elsewhere in the state, heavy rains triggered a construction mudslide over part of Interstate 95 in Fort Lauderdale, but the downpour skipped a 17,000-acre sawgrass fire where forestry officials hoped the clouds would bring relief early Wednesday.

The fire, in the Everglades northwest of Fort Lauderdale, was deliberately set Sunday and finally was extinguished Wednesday at 4:45 p.m. It charred 17,000 acres of the Everglades, but missed buildings and caused no injuries.

Phil DeAngelis, of the Division of Forestry, said firefighters were relieved the fire was out but feared future blazes.

"In an arson, if they do it once they can do it again. We have to stay on our toes all the time," he said.

NAACP criticizes SHA probe

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN

SANFORD — The state attorney's investigation of the Sanford Housing Authority was "very general, vague and inconclusive," a spokesman for the Seminole County chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People charged Wednesday.

Turner Clayton, Seminole NAACP president, said in a letter to State Attorney Norman Wolfinger:

"... We were disappointed with the outcome but not surprised.

"In reviewing the report, we found it to be very general in nature, vague and inconclusive. There were no attempts in the report to show cause of Sunshine Law violation or theft charges...

"It is clear that from the report submitted to this office, that the focus of the investigation was to reveal no evidence."

The state attorneys report, which was released last week, cleared housing authority commissioners of conspiracy and theft charges. Commissioners Teri Burall, Bob Ball Sr. and Alberta Detryville said in sworn testimonies that they did not meet in violation of the Florida

Harassment accusations unfounded

SANFORD — The chairman of the housing authority has complained to the authority director that employees may have been harassed for their part in a grievance hearing for the former executive director.

Acting executive director Linda Williams found no evidence of harassment after meeting with housing authority employees last week. Authority Finance Officer Judy Weekley said.

"In fact, the employees were wondering where (the complaint) was coming from," Weekley said.

A grievance hearing for former executive director Elliott Smith was held by the authority commission Feb. 20.

The commission will meet tonight to vote whether to reaffirm its Sept. 8 termination of Smith.

Authority Chairman Alexander Wynn said he wrote a letter to Williams after a few employees who had taken depositions confidentially complained to him of harassment. He would not state the number of complaints he received.

Seminole board unanimously endorses Lake Mary gateway

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County Planning and Zoning Board members unanimously endorsed the Lake Mary Boulevard gateway plan Wednesday night, suggesting the design standards could be used for roads throughout the county.

The zoning area, which would border Lake Mary Boulevard by 250 feet on either side of the road, restricts sign heights to 15 feet, lights to 25 feet and prevents buildings closer than 60 feet from the road.

The building standards also require more landscaping to enhance the appearance of the boulevard. Many of the requirements are stricter than current building requirements along the road.

Board members heard from several members of a county-city task force that proposed the gateway concept speaking in favor of it. They also heard from three businessmen opposed to the concept saying it needs more study.

County commissioners will consider the proposal March 14. Commissioners will also consider a proposal to ask voters whether to impose a penny gas tax to help pay for the cost of landscaping the roadside of Lake Mary Boulevard and other roads.

Police Chief Dennis Peterson said he fired Carson for allegedly lying on his Oviedo police job application about the circumstances of his earlier firing by the Orlando police department.

Miami robber shot by FBI agent

MIAMI — A bank robber was shot during a hold-up attempt Wednesday by an FBI agent who was in the AmeriFirst bank investigating a previous robbery.

The unidentified suspect was shot three times, in both forearms and in the right shoulder. He was in good condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital, under guard in the prison ward, a hospital spokeswoman said.

The suspect entered the AmeriFirst branch on Northeast Biscayne Boulevard shortly after 10 a.m. Wednesday and demanded money, said Metro-Dade Police Detective Marie Chaney.

"At the same time this was going on there was an FBI agent in the bank in an official capacity. He was doing an investigation of a previous robbery," that occurred two weeks ago, Chaney said.

What occurred next remains unclear, but Chaney said the FBI agent and the suspect "encountered each other" and the agent shot the suspect. The agent was unharmed.

There were reports that the robber had obtained "a bundle of money" during the robbery attempt but the money apparently was recovered.

Martinez plans anti-drug trip

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez plans a trip to South and Central America later this month as part of his effort to stop drug trafficking. Officials say the governor plans to travel to Panama, Bolivia and Colombia from March 12 to March 15. He will be meeting with top government officials to find out more about efforts to battle the drug trade and how Florida can work with foreign governments. Complete details of the trip are still being put together and will be announced as the trip gets closer.

Mother being tried for child-killing

MILTON — The long jury selection process continued Wednesday in the murder trial of a woman accused of starving her 4-year-old daughter to exorcise demons.

Darlene Jackson, 33, of Pace is charged with first-degree murder and aggravated child abuse in the February 1988 death of her daughter Kimberly McZinc.

The jury selection process started Monday, but has been time consuming because potential jurors are being questioned one-by-one. Many have heard about the case, while others had already made up their minds.

Investigators claim Jackson thought God was telling her how to discipline her daughter through a friend. The child, who weighed 28 pounds when she died instead of the normal 45 pounds, was allegedly denied proper nutrition for six months to improve her behavior and rid her of demons.

Consumer advocate charged with theft

ST. PETERSBURG — Consumer advocate Paul T. Sullivan was arrested Tuesday and charged with grand theft of at least $20,000 from an estate for which he had been appointed guardian.

Sullivan, 60, became involved in the estate of Pinellas Park game room owner Harold Levin after Levin's wife became a fugitive from justice and Levin died.

Vivian Levin disappeared in 1988 shortly before she was to appear in court to face a charge of dealing in stolen property and several weeks after she disappeared. Levin was found dead in his home from apparent natural causes. He was involved in divorce proceedings at the time.

Detective Steve Shirah said Sullivan, who worked in the same building as Mrs. Levin's criminal and divorce attorney, was appointed curator of Levin's will and then sued Mrs. Levin to become her guardian in her absence.

Sullivan founded a consumers' advocate group called Florida Consumers for Responsible Utilities, and also had a consulting business, Consultants International.

"He calls himself a consumer advocate and he also calls himself a consultant," Shirah said. "He has clients having nothing to do with this estate."

Pipeline through forest studied

LAKE CITY — The U.S. Forest Service is taking additional time to study a plan to build a natural gas pipeline through a section of north Florida's Osceola National Forest, extending the period for public comment. The public comment period was to have ended Wednesday, but more statements will be taken by the Forest Service office in Tallahassee. The plan is to build an 86-mile natural gas pipeline from Suwannee County to the Jacksonville area with about 22 miles of the pipeline going through the Osceola National Forest. A series of environmental groups oppose the project, saying it sets a bad precedent and could lead to other misuse of the protected property. South Georgia Natural Gas Company says the pipeline would not pose a threat to the environment. Critics of the pipeline say a 50-foot right-of-way that would be cut for the pipeline would destroy valuable habitat for rare animals and birds.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Five-year road budget slashed

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Transportation Secretary Kaye Henderson was ridiculed Wednesday by Attorney General Bob Butterworth, as his cash-strapped agency slashed more than $728 million from its five-year road plan.

Butterworth said he has written to Henderson asking that officials planning a new toll road between Jacksonville and Tampa take care to preserve environmentally sensitive lakes and wetlands.

In response to a reporter's questions, he added that he thought Henderson passed the buck to underlings after a state auditor reported the agency's budget problems were the result of mismanagement and turf warfare.

"I don't know what these guys were doing. They weren't telling me anything. Wow! I was surprised to find it out. Fire my number two guy," said Butterworth, mocking Henderson's explanation for the problems.

"The buck stops at the top," Butterworth added. "It's as simple as that."

Late Wednesday afternoon, the Department of Transportation sent a revised five-year plan to the Legislature, delaying projects throughout the state to accommodate the budget crunch.

DOT had planned on building roads and bridges worth $3.35 billion between the 1988-89 and 1992-93 budget years, but now will only have $2.9 billion available, officials said.

The impact will be mitigated after the state floats $540 million in road bonds in May.

Butterworth, a Democrat who has denied any interest in running for governor in 1990, acknowledged the DOT is a large agency and difficult to manage. But he said of Henderson, "I find it very strange — his style of management."

Rat-infested hotel plans to re-open

United Press International

DAYTONA BEACH — A beachfront hotel health officials closed down for having an infestation of rats hopes to reopen by next week to cash in on Bike Week, when thousands of motorcyclists arrive for races and parties.

The Quality Inn Surfside, a 110-room hotel on Daytona's main drag, was a known rat haven for months before finally being shut down after a guest was bitten in his sleep.

"They were all through the walls. They were out of control," Chet Cole, environmental health director with the state Division of Hotels and Restaurants, said of the rodents.

Rat droppings were found in the hotel kitchen back in June. Cole said the hotel was warned and then warned again when more droppings showed up during an October inspection.

Peter Thornton, environmental health director with the Volusia County Health Department, was called by a doctor who treated a man for a rat bite on his finger. The man, who officials declined to identify, was sleeping in a second-floor room when he felt a pain and awoke.

"He got up and turned on the light and saw a rat run across the floor," Cole said.

After the doctor's call Thornton and Cole revisited the Surfside last week and found rat droppings in both of the hotel's restaurants and in all eight rooms they inspected.

Thornton said most of the rodents appear to be Norway rats, which weigh about a pound when fully grown and measure about 18 inches from snout to tail.

Exterminators have been working around the clock, laying down several types of poison. Because many of the rats will die inside the walls, another chemical is being applied to mask the bouquet of rat decay.

"The odor shouldn't take too long to dissipate," Thornton said.

Inspectors plan to check out the hotel again at the end of this week. Surfside manager Mario Amado was unavailable, but clerk Dee Stevens said plans are to open again Friday.

New law suggested to reduce drop-outs

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Bills to raise the age of compulsory school attendance to 18 and to withhold driver licenses from public school dropouts have been filed for the legislative session that begins next month.

Sen. Curtis Peterson, D-Eaton Park, the sponsor of the bills, said more than a dozen senators have agreed to co-sponsor the legislation and at least one state House member is working on similar legislation.

"The bills are of the highest priority in the Senate," Peterson said Tuesday. "Dropping out of school to take a minimum wage job is an economic trap."

State law currently permits students to leave school at 16. Florida has one of the highest drop out rates in the nation.

Peterson would make exceptions from the driver license provisions for vocational or alternative education programs and for those who have special economic hardships.

Rep. William Mims, D-Lake Land, said he is working on a driver license bill that would provide an exemption for students who want to work while pursuing graduation equivalency certificates.

Sen. Helen Gordon Davis, D-Tampa, an Education Committee member who originally supported Peterson's proposal, has announced she is withdrawing her support.

She said she now thinks the bill was designed merely to raise the driving age to 18.

"Some people's economic needs are greater than their needs for an education," Davis said. "There are a lot of people who need to work at 16, and they need a car if they're going to work."

The Senate Transportation Committee was scheduled to take up the driver license bill next Wednesday. The Finance and Tax Committee must also consider the bill.

Martinez plans TV show

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez has agreed to monthly television appearances on a program that will feature questions from a panel of reporters, officials announced Wednesday.

The program, "The Governor Meets the Press," will be broadcast by the Sunshine Network beginning the evening of March 7.

Martinez will field questions from two reporters during each 30-minute broadcast. Florida Cable Television Association President Steve Wilkerson will moderate the program.

Martinez has been making monthly appearances on a radio call-in program on the Sun Country Network, fielding calls from the public about state issues.

Another delay for shuttle

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — Replacement of a "crushed" engine valve part aboard the shuttle Discovery has thrown launch processing two more days behind schedule, pushing blastoff to no earlier than March 11, NASA said Wednesday.

A formal launch date for Discovery will be announced Friday after a two-day flight readiness review at the Kennedy Space Center. A launch March 11 would occur at 8:10 a.m. while a March 12 blastoff would take place two minutes earlier.

The latest problem for Discovery, already running a little more than two weeks behind schedule, developed Tuesday night when the computer controller on main engine No. 1 shut down during a test of the shuttle's engine valves and hydraulic system.

Workers first thought the controller was faulty, but "after troubleshooting through the night, technicians discovered that the (electrical) solenoid on (the valve) was crushed," NASA spokeswoman Lisa Malone said.

Discovery originally was scheduled for blastoff Feb. 23 but NASA managers ordered all three of the ship's high-pressure liquid oxygen turbopumps replaced after a tiny crack was found in a pump used by the shuttle Atlantis in December.

The valve damage discovered Tuesday apparently happened while the pump was being replaced.

"We suspect that it probably was damaged during the installation process for the new pumps by some support equipment," Malone said. "It wasn't like that when we rolled out of the orbiter processing facility. Based on this, we're no earlier than March 11 (for launch)."

A launch March 11 would cap a busy week of activity.

Two classified military flights are known to be close at hand — the first submarine launch of a Trident 2 missile and the launch of a Delta rocket to carry a "Star Wars" payload into orbit.

Launch dates and times for such military missions are classified but sources have said the Delta is scheduled for blastoff around the end of next week in the third such Strategic Defense Initiative space test.

In any case, NASA managers gathered at the Florida spaceport for the flight readiness review Thursday and Friday met Wednesday to assess progress readying the shuttles Columbia and Atlantis for upcoming missions.

Atlantis is scheduled to blast off April 28 to ferry a high-priority Venus probe into orbit. Orbiter processing has gone relatively smoothly but engineers are assessing a potential problem with one of its landing gear tires.

Records show a valve stem on the Goodrich-built tire was tightened too much, raising concern it could fail on touchdown. There was no immediate word on whether the tire will have to be replaced.

The problem for NASA is that no replacement tires are available and waiting for a new tire to go through "buildup" and routine testing would delay Atlantis's launch, possibly as much as two weeks.

POLICE BRIEFS

Man shot while leaving Frog Alley

MIDWAY — One of two men who were confronted by an armed robber as they were leaving Frog Alley in Midway at about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday was shot in the shoulder as the victims drove away.

William Henry Mullins, of Carriage Cove, Sanford, was treated at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, and released.

The driver of the pickup truck in which Mullins was riding, Joseph Allen Wilson, of 209 Sunland Drive, Sanford, told Seminole County sheriff's deputies he was driving away after a visit with a friend on Frog Alley when a pedestrian stopped his truck and approached the passenger's side, where Mullins was riding.

The assailant brandished a handgun and demanded cash. Mullins tried to grab the gun and Wilson drove away. The assailant held the weapon and fired several shots as Wilson drove onto State Road 46 to flee, a sheriff's report said. The rear window of the truck was shot out and Mullins was wounded. The case is under investigation.

Deputy stops attack outside store

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A Seminole County sheriff's deputy who stopped a man who was kicking and punching a woman outside the Disco Food Store, Magnolia Street, rural Altamonte Springs, arrested the accused assailant.

The deputy said Willie B. Miller, of 115 Ford Ave., Altamonte Springs, allegedly still tried to get to Tammy Ann Legerfo, 22, of 1287 Laura St., Casselberry, after the deputy pulled Miller away from her.

Miller is charged with battery. He was arrested at about 5 p.m. Wednesday. Bond is $500.

Man has forgedy charges added

SANFORD — A Seminole County jail inmate had charges of forgery, dealing in stolen property, and petty theft added against him Wednesday in connection with the cashing of three checks stolen in a Feb. 1 burglary in Casselberry.

Douglas Walter Zozak, 27, of 211 Pinesong Drive, Casselberry, is charged in the case. The three checks with a combined value of about $240 were cashed in February at Sun Bank in Casselberry. Zozak was arrested by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy.

Warrant arrest brings cocaine find

MIDWAY — After Seminole County sheriff's deputies arrested a man on an Orange County warrant, they searched him and reported finding a container of crack cocaine valued at $800.

That brought a Seminole County charge of possession of cocaine against Kurt Parker, 21, of 201 Scott Drive, Sanford, who was arrested at 1:49 p.m. Wednesday in Midway.

Man asks for lift, winds up in jail

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A man whose car was out of gas asked a Seminole County sheriff's deputy for a lift, but when the deputy looked inside the man's car, he said he saw cocaine on the floor and jailed the man.

Larry E. Meeks, 31, of 525 S. State Road 436, 701, Fern Park, was charged with possession of cocaine on Brentwood Avenue at Magnolia Street, rural Altamonte Springs at about 2:38 p.m. Wednesday. Bond is $2,000.

Sunshine Law to conspire against former executive director Elliott Smith. The three commissioners voted to fire Smith Sept. 8.

The report cleared Ball of charges of taking travel expenses for meetings he did not attend. "Based on the evidence shown, the State can not show Bob Ball intended to steal travel money from SHA," Wolfinger said in the report.

Clayton said in the letter, "As for theft, to deprive the Housing Authority of funds for over six months with no intentions of repayment until this organization's involvement is, by (statute), considered to be theft."

Clayton asked Mayor Bettye

Smith (no relation to Elliott Smith) to call for an investigation of the housing authority in September after the executive director's termination. A Sept. 12 letter from Clayton asked the city commission to investigate criminal charges, as well as claims of discrimination, incompetence of commissioners, and inappropriate means of commissioner selection.

The state attorney investigation was limited to criminal charges.

Clayton said yesterday the NAACP would continue its investigation of the housing authority. If the commissioners do not vote to reinstate Smith tonight, he said, the group will file a discrimination suit against the housing authority.

Storms

In the 24 hours ended at 7 a.m. Wednesday and there were isolated reports of up to 7 inches of rainfall in the coastal part of Broward County.

The storm washed inches of sand and muck onto I-95 south of Fort Lauderdale's New River Bridge late Tuesday. The sludge closed several lanes and backed up evening rush hour traffic for four hours.

The road was cleared and all the lanes were open Wednesday, but traffic officials feared additional rainfall could cause a repeat because construction crews were still working on a project to widen the interstate.

Although rains Tuesday raised the fire zone to the west, downpours Wednesday helped extinguish it.

Firefighters set backfires, using exploding "ping pong balls" to burn out tinder in the flames' path. The backfires and a wind shift helped route the fire away from populated areas and away from a row of major power lines.

Florida Power and Light Co. took three 500-kilovolt lines out of service for 4 1/2 hours Tuesday so firefighters could light backfires under the lines. Power was re-routed from other lines, and no customers were without service, said FPL spokesman Tom Veenstra.

"It was an opportune time to do it. The power demand was pretty low due to mild weather and cloudy skies," Veenstra said.

Firefighters had used a helicopter with a "bambi bucket" to scoop up 240 gallons of canal water and dump it on the flames. But the helicopter was diverted to Florida's southwest coast Wednesday to help fight a new fire east of Naples, fire officials said.

That fire covered 4,100 acres but did not threaten any buildings, said state forestry spokesman Jim Whitson. It was under control Wednesday night, and its cause was being investigated, forestry officials said.

At least six small camping houses for hunters were destroyed, said forestry spokesman Roberta Smith.

Since Sunday morning, 120 wildfires have burned thousands of acres statewide, he said.

"Today, it's looking better, but if we don't get substantial rains, it's not going to improve," Whitson said Wednesday.

The forecast called for a cool front to move over the state Wednesday and Thursday, with scattered rain throughout the state and widespread rainfall over the Panhandle and the southern peninsula.

This report also contains information from United Press International.

but for different reasons, appealed their firings to a police panel. That panel said Peterson's punishment was too severe, and recommended that both men be allowed to resign, so their state certification as policemen wouldn't be challenged.

Peterson agreed that the two could resign, Baker resigned, but Carson made a second appeal in a two-hour hearing Wednesday before the Oviedo city manager, city planner and fire chief. That panel upheld Peterson's firing of Carson, who now could make a third and final appeal to be re-instated through a civil court suit.

Wekiva

The Plantation site currently is vacant, although the Pinnie Grove Cemetery is located at its northern edge on Markham Road in the proposed path of the Western Beltway.

Plantation is located entirely in the Wekiva Protection Area, created by the Legislature last year to protect the river. Environmentalists say it is among the last pristine rivers in the state.

Because it is in the protection area, the development must be approved by the state Department of Community Affairs.

About half the property is in the St. Johns River Water Management District protection zone. Both the state and district protection areas restrict development to those compatible to the surrounding rural residential areas. The district buffer restricts, but does not prohibit, development within 550-feet of the river's edge and within 50 feet of wetlands bordering the river.

Jim Thomas, president of the Friends of the Wekiva River, Inc., said the project design has improved, but recommended board members have wetlands and other sensitive lands dedicated to the state for protection. He also recommended areas bordering wetlands be protected by the county. Board members agreed with both requests.

In its latest attempt, AMCOR tried to satisfy both the county and the state, offering an either-or proposal: either allow them to build 420 homes, including 125 homes on one-acre lots and 295 homes clustered together, each on one-third-acre lots, or develop 410 homes on long one-acre lots, each 400- by 110-feet in size.

To the state, AMCOR offered to build nothing within 750 to 2,200 feet of the river under the clustering plan or 750 to 1,200 feet in the long-lot plan. They also offered to preserve wetlands and natural habitat on the site. AMCOR also offered to have 122 acres of open space under the cluster plan and 233 acres of open areas under the long-lot plan.

Duke: Bad blood

When Republican National Chairman Lee Atwater spoke of attracting new blood to the Republican Party several months ago, he hardly reckoned on David Duke, who was elected recently to the Louisiana legislature under the GOP banner. Mr. Duke's narrow upset victory (224-vote margin) is all the more galling because President Bush, former President Ronald Reagan and other prominent Republicans vigorously endorsed John Treen, Mr. Duke's opponent.

How did this former grand wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, founder of the National Association for the Advancement of White People and neo-Nazi win this special election? He did it the old-fashioned way, by outcampaigning his feckless challenger.

Mr. Treen, brother of former Gov. David Treen, should have been a shoo-in for the legislative seat. He clearly outspend his opponent and received the endorsement of the influential New Orleans Times-Picayune, which both documented and blasted Mr. Duke's racist record. Yet, the former Klansman ran a skillful campaign by capitalizing on voters' opposition to higher property taxes, even repeating the "read-my-lips" mantra that worked so well for Mr. Bush last November. He also benefited from the widely held perception that "outsiders" were trying to tell voters what to do.

Some Louisiana legislators are threatening to invalidate Mr. Duke's election because he purportedly did not live in the district for the requisite 12 months before Election Day. But that seems unlikely inasmuch as the allotted time for a legal challenge has long since expired.

Pity. Despite Mr. Duke's assurances that he is a changed man, his twisted views are no less dangerous now than when he last donned a hood and a sheet. Mr. Atwater has correctly castigated him as "a pretender, a charlatan and a political opportunist who is looking for any organization he can use to legitimate his views of racial and religious bigotry and intolerance."

The Republican National Committee also should censure Mr. Duke, thereby denying him official standing and financial aid from the party. Above all, the Republican Party must demonstrate its unflinching intolerance of Mr. Duke and his poisonous policies.

In the final analysis, it appears the voters of Louisiana's Jefferson Parish will have to return David Duke to political oblivion. That day cannot come too soon.

CHUCK STONE

Leave David Duke alone, says Booker

With the tragic controversy over "The Satanic Verses" still raging like an out-of-control forest fire, two cherished freedoms that Americans take for granted have been accorded a renewed devotion — the right to speak freely and the right to worship without being terrorized.

It seemed appropriate to get a reaction from my theological Harlem friend, Booker Lerol Jackson. Had he written another prayer? He had. But Booker is disgustingly unpredictable.

Yo, Lord — I apologize for not havin' talked with you in a while. But you ain't been sendin' me many signals, either.

I thought about you when I read that David Duke done went and got hisself elected in Louisiana to be a state representative. Something about, love your enemies, bless them that curse you and do good to them that hate you.

But askin' colored people to love David Duke be really testin' our love, Lord. Folks wearin' them white sheets ain't exactly invitin' us to get in bed with them. And David Duke wore the mostest sheets of all. He was Mr. Ku Klux Klan, hisself.

Now, he be sayin' he a born-again Republican, that he done changed, that he don't be hatin' nobody, that he done gave his white sheets away and only be usin' pastel colors, that he love Jesus and Jes' want to protect white folks from colored folks gettin' all the affirmative action and set-asides goodies, like the Supreme Court and Ronald Reagan say be wrong anyway.

That's why David Duke won. Folks in his district think just like he do.

Oh, he was a bad lil' ol' dude when he be playin' Halloween in his white sheets and gettin' arrested. But Sen. Robert Byrd did his Ku Klux Klan thing, too, and ain't nobody got upset about his white sheets.

That's the nice thing 'bout America, Lord. You can be an ex-Ku Klux Klanner or an ex-actor late at night, and folks will respect you in the morning. You jes' can't be no ex-Nazi.

Democrats liked Sen. Byrd's white sheets so much they put him in charge of the Senate. And that's why David Duke became a Republican. He felt ex-Ku Klux Klanners needed some equal opportunity.

But, Lord, I don't understand why folks be criticizin' David Duke. He ain't to blame if the majority of folks in that district elected him. They only be votin' what Ronald Reagan been tryin' to tell them for eight years and what Lee Atwater, who now be in charge of the Republicans, told them in the campaign for president.

Now, mind you, Lord, I don't be puttin' Ronald Reagan down.

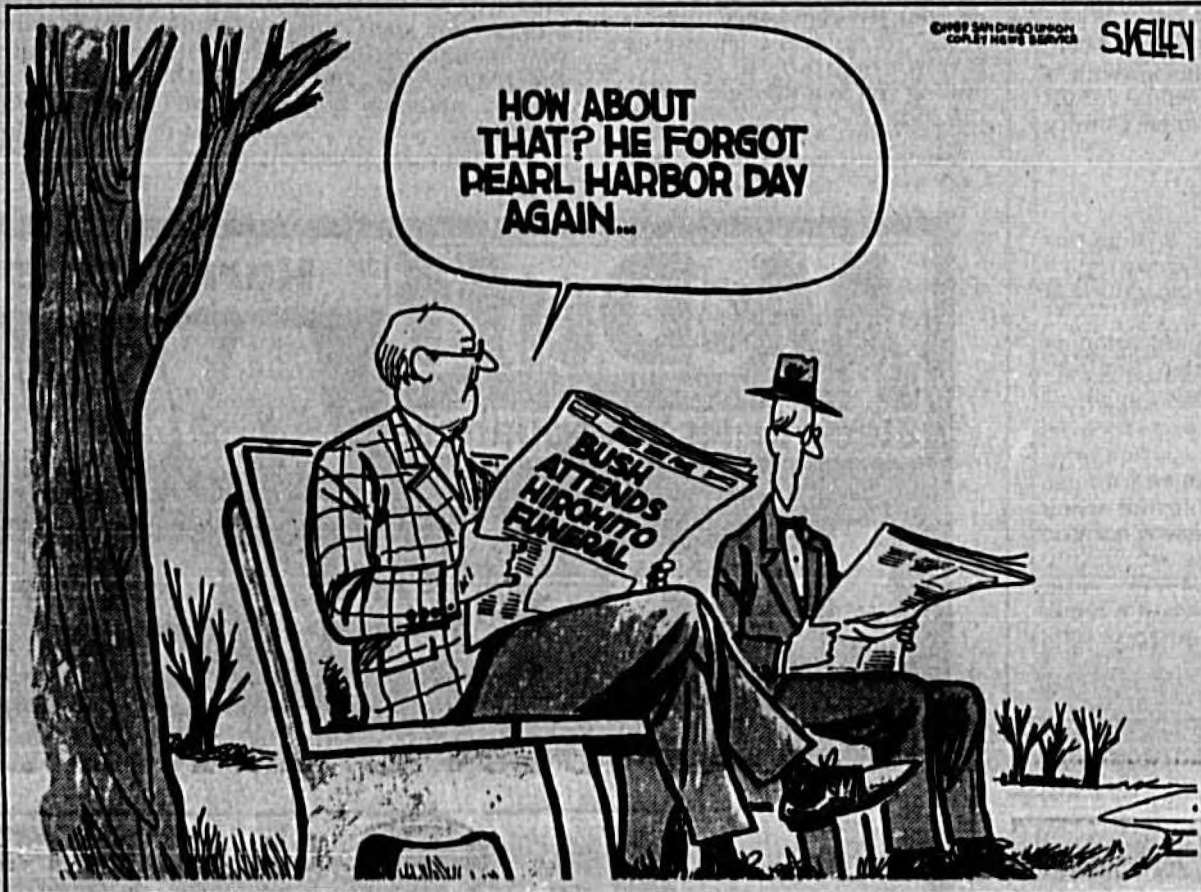

And I be tryin' to love him and do good to him, like you say I should, even though he be spendin' eight years cursin' black folks and hatin' 'em.

He insulted Martin Luther King Jr. and spoke out against all the civil rights laws that be passed. But he never speak out against whites and blacks fightin' each other.

Lee Atwater got the message. That's when he come along and run all of them ads on television.

He was Mr. Ku Klux Klan, hisself.

DAVID S. BRODER

Worrying about the other Brown

SAN FRANCISCO — The same week that Ron Brown took over as chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Edmund G. (Jerry) Brown, Jr., won the chairmanship of the California Democratic Party. National headlines went to the installation of the first black party chairman in history.

But there are many Californians who think the return of the other Brown, the former two-term governor, will have larger long-term consequences for the party's future.

By 1992, California's population growth may give it as many as 54 electoral votes, seven more than it has now and one-fifth the number needed for a White House victory. With the Republican tide still rising in the South, reestablishing a competitive Democratic presence in California — a state Republicans have won in six straight presidential elections since 1964 — is vital for the Democrats.

In the eyes of many elected Democrats in Sacramento and Washington, D.C., Jerry Brown is the worst thing that could have happened to their party. His quixotic policies and appointments, they say, allowed the Republicans to recapture the governorship and take over the state supreme court. They worry what further damage he can do in his new job.

Brown's critics tried to change the rules to keep the old chairman in office and, when that failed, tried to recruit a prominent opponent. But he outflanked their opposition, as he had done when he won the gubernatorial nomination as a 36-year-old ascetic ex-seminarian in 1974, trading on the good name of his father, the governor from 1958 to 1966.

The younger Brown also served two terms in Sacramento, notable for a variety of social-policy experiments and non-traditional appointments and for two stunningly unsuccessful presidential campaigns. He lost a bid for the senate seat in 1982, the same year that his legacy crippled Los Angeles mayor Tom Bradley's bid for the governorship. In time, the Republicans mobilized enough support against Rose Bird and Brown's other appointees to the state supreme court that they were able to oust them and take over the citadel of power as well.

While all this was going on, Brown went on a journey of self-discovery, which took him to a Zen master in Japan and Mother Teresa in Calcutta. But it surprised no one when he came back to politics, a field in which he still thinks he has some points to prove.

At 50, he looks barely older than the day he took over in Sacramento from Ronald Reagan. Patrons of a San Francisco coffee shop seek his autograph as if he were still governor. But Brown wants you to know that he has changed.

He is punctual, business-like and serious now. Much of the midnight bull-session, light-hearted quality has been drained from his conversation. He's dropped the affectation of the beat-up blue Chevy he insisted on using as governor because, he says, he now realizes "it made people uncomfortable."

He's also changed ideas. "I talked about 'the era of limits,'" he said, "but in the last decade, California has just exploded in both population and wealth. Of course we have to take responsibility for the consequences of our actions, but I think Democrats have found talk about the decline of American power too congenial. Samuel Gompers' motto was 'More!' and I think we can aspire to more. The Democratic Party needs a more expansive idea of what America is and can become."

Brown's new guru is not "think small" economist E.F. Schumacher, but political scientist Walter Dean Burnham. Burnham, now at the University of Texas, has argued for years that the decline of political parties has given a conservative tilt to our politics, because low-income, less-educated voters simply don't get to the polls unless they are mobilized and "voted" as the old city machines used to do.

Brown appears an unlikely prospect to be Burnham's disciple. His own career was a perfect embodiment of California media politics. While in office, he had no time for party organization or party people.

But Brown is not operating in a vacuum. With the financial encouragement of Sen. Alan Cranston (D-Calif.), a group of Saul Alinsky disciples, veterans of the farm worker and community organizing battles, have been training Democratic precinct workers at a Monterey academy for two years. They claim some successes in local campaigns and, in some areas, helped Michael Dukakis stay close to Bush in California.

They helped organize Brown's victory as state chairman and now count on his personality and crowd appeal as a catalyst for expanded registration and organization efforts in the 58 counties.

Brown knows his history, but he insists he is trying to strengthen the party — not cause trouble for its incumbents or dictate its dogma.

Jerry Brown is the worst thing that could have happened to their party.

Plastics group stalls solution to pollution

WASHINGTON — In these days of nomadic trash barges and overflowing landfills, only the plastics industry is standing in the way of one solution to the growing specter of garbage.

The Society of the Plastics Industry has bolstered its Washington lobbying force to convince Congress that a bill to mandate degradable or recyclable products is premature.

Premature? Maybe the plastics industry missed a recent Government Accounting Office report that said there are 48,000 pieces of plastic garbage floating in every square mile of ocean. Maybe they didn't know that hundreds of thousands of seabirds and marine mammals strangle to death every year on plastic garbage. Maybe they forgot that plastic garbage can lie around for up to 400 years before it disintegrates. Or maybe the proposed law will force the industry to pick up its snail's pace and find environmentally sound alternatives.

Rep. George Hochbrueckner, D-N.Y., is pushing the popular bill to make recycling more than a movement. It makes recycling the law.

The bill would create a federal recycling office and demand that many products be recyclable or degradable by 1994. Manufacturers that violate the law would face civil or criminal penalties.

The bill garnered immediate bipartisan support when it debuted at the end of the last congressional session. It also sent a panic through the plastics industry.

After the legislation was introduced the Plastics Society formed a new arm, called the Council for Solid Waste Solutions.

Congressional sources tell us not to be fooled by the council's agreeable title. The council is lobbying subtly, but aggressively, to foil Hochbrueckner's bill.

A council spokeswoman told our associate Jim Lynch that the legislation was premature because the jury is not yet in on the solution for solid waste. She characterized the council as an information center designed to keep the industry abreast of government studies and proposals. She said the council did not endorse Hochbrueckner's bill, but was not actively lobbying against it.

But recent lobbyist registrations reveal that the council is paying top dollar to make its pitch heard on Capitol Hill. It is paying the powerful Washington consulting firm of Dutko and Associates $20,000 a month to lobby on "legislation concerning environmental issues regarding the disposal of plastic products."

In other words, the plastics people are getting paranoid. Plastic was once heralded as the wave of the future. Now it makes up about 80 percent of the debris floating on the waves of our oceans.

The plastics industry has tried to encourage recycling and has experimented with degradable plastics. But a recent General Accounting Office investigation concluded that neither the industry nor the federal government is doing much to hasten the development of degradable plastics. A handful of agricultural research companies are experimenting with making plastics out of cornstarch and wood.

Sixteen states have laws requiring the use of degradable plastics in six-pack yokes, but there is no uniform definition of degradable. Suffolk County, New York, where Hochbrueckner's district is located, has banned non-degradable food packaging and plastic utensils beginning in July.

Hochbrueckner and some 70 co-sponsors think federal legislation is long overdue, not premature.

There are 48,000 pieces of garbage floating in every square mile of ocean.

Stocks open higher

United Press International

NEW YORK — Prices opened higher Thursday in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues as investors attempted once again to push the market higher after ultimately failing to do so in the previous session.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 15.35 Wednesday, was up 1.42 to 2244.46 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 423-338 among the 1,219 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Early turnover amounted to about 9,458,000 shares.

Stock prices closed lower Wednesday in moderately active trading after weakness in bonds and renewed worries over the outlook for inflation and interest rates caused the market to surrender its earlier gains.

"The bond market led stocks all the way," added Edward Shopkorn, partner in charge of institutional equities at Mabon, Nugent & Co.

Dollar, gold both down

United Press International

The dollar was mostly lower Thursday in light trading on major foreign currency markets. Gold was slightly lower.

In Tokyo, the dollar climbed past the 128-yen level, closing at 128.07 yen, up 0.39 from 127.68 yen on Wednesday.

Currency dealers said the dollar's rise was in line with Wednesday's advance on overseas markets, where the U.S. currency was purchased on speculation that the West German central bank was not likely to raise its key interest rates.

They said the dollar's advance in Tokyo was attributable to speculative buying and did not reflect the fundamental strength of the U.S. currency.

At its regular meeting Thursday, the West German Bundesbank's policy-setting council decided to leave the discount rate unchanged at 4 percent and the Lombard rate at 8 percent.

"Whether real or perceived, these feelings are serious and warrant your immediate attention," Wynn said in the letter.

The question of harassment was laid to rest by the meetings with employees last week, Wynn said. "That was the end of it as far as I'm concerned."

In a letter delivered to Wynn yesterday, Commissioner Bob Ball Sr. said, "I invite you to bring all employees who could shed light on this situation to the meeting...for the Commissioners to be better informed to make a vote on whether to reinstate Mr. Smith."

Fifteen housing authority employees took depositions authorized by Smith's attorney.

First United disaster lawsuit filed

HONOLULU — A flight attendant nearly sucked out of a hole ripped in the fuselage of a United Airlines flight last week, killing nine passengers, filed the first lawsuit stemming from the disaster, her lawyer said Wednesday.

Flight attendant May Sapolu filed suit against Boeing Co., headquartered in Seattle, the manufacturer of the United 747 that lost a cargo door and part of the fuselage early Friday.

Possible Tower backups listed

WASHINGTON — Should the Senate fail to confirm John Tower, three names are frequently mentioned in Washington speculation about who President Bush would choose next as defense secretary.

Most frequently mentioned in the speculation are Donald Rumsfeld and James Schlesinger, both former defense secretaries, and Norman Augustine, chairman and chief executive officer of the Martin Marietta Corp.

From United Press International reports

Bush lists nations not doing enough in drug war

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Warning that America is losing the war on drugs, President Bush sent a report to Congress that named Burma and Laos for the first time as countries that are failing to fight the narcotics trade.

"The international war on narcotics is clearly not being won. In fact, in some areas we appear to be slipping backwards," said a letter from Bush and Secretary of State James Baker. The letter accompanied the report to Congress on Wednesday.

The administration's roster of countries failing to meet acceptable standards in fighting drugs included Afghanistan, Iran, Panama and Syria. It also included Burma and Laos for the first time.

Lebanon would have been on the same list of countries, but it was given a waiver because the key area of drug production, the Bekaa Valley, is under the effective control of Syria. Because Lebanon does not control its own territory, it does not face sanctions under U.S. law.

Under law, countries identified as failing to cooperate in the war on drugs are ineligible for any form of U.S. financial assistance. The United States is required to oppose any loans or grants to those countries by any international financial institution, such as the World Bank or regional development banks.

The sanctions, triggered by the administration's report, can only be avoided on a majority vote of both houses of Congress, acting within 45 days.

During the last year, Burma has gone through political turmoil that diverted the military government's attention from the drug trade. In Laos, there is still evidence of extensive involvement by government officials in opium production, the report said, essentially de facto government policy.

The most controversial part of the annual report involved Mexico, which was listed among countries cooperating with the United States in fighting drugs.

A staff report of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, reported in The Washington Times, said the State Department gave excessive weight to diplomatic considerations and overlooked widespread police corruption.

Ann Wroblecki, assistant secretary of state for international narcotics matters, said Mexican seizures of illegal drugs and arrests of drug traffickers increased during the past year. She also said President Carlos Salinas had sent a strong public signal by strong anti-drug statements.

Battle lines set in Tower fight

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Republican senators launched a last-ditch effort Thursday to rescue John Tower's nomination in what promised to be quite a brawl over confirming the defense secretary-designate besieged by allegations about his personal life.

One month after Tower's confirmation hearings, President Bush appeared no closer to victory Wednesday in his first big battle with the Democratic-controlled Senate.

And Vice President Dan

Quayle said Tower's supporters still had not picked up the minimum five Democratic votes needed to put Tower in charge of the Pentagon.

Senate leaders scheduled debate to begin Thursday afternoon, and Senate Republican leader Robert Dole predicted the vote would not come until next week.

Dole said Bush will do whatever he can to save the nomination, adding, "This is a matter of historic importance to the president. It would be the first time in history a nominee was rejected at this point in a president's first term."

Meanwhile, Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell of Maine joined with Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., head of the Armed Services Committee, which recommended Tower's rejection.

Tower's failure to win confirmation would mark the first time a Cabinet officer has been rejected in 30 years and only the ninth time a nominee has been turned down.

A survey of members indicated 22 undecided or keeping quiet on their decision, and 14 more leaning for or against Tower chiefly on party lines.

Sen. Howell Heflin, D-Ala., following a meeting with Bush at the White House, said he remained undecided and predicted a "very close" Senate vote. "I think it's going to be a two-vote difference. It could go 49-51 either way."

Tower defended himself Wednesday in a question-and-answer session following a National Press Club speech on defense matters.

Senators have said a lengthy FBI background report on Tower satisfied their concerns over allegations of womanizing.

Sasser: Thrift plan may be more costly to taxpayers

United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Bush's plan to rescue the thrift industry may cost taxpayers in 10 years nearly twice as much as estimated — $76.8 billion instead of $40 billion — Senate Budget Committee Chairman Jim Sasser said.

Sasser, D-Tenn., released a preliminary committee analysis Wednesday that he said used the Bush administration's economic assumptions but developed far different conclusions about the tax-funded portion of the savings and loan bailout.

In a memo to fellow Democrats on the committee, Sasser wrote that the draft analysis showed the "administration's own numbers suggest a direct taxpayer contribution of $76.8 billion rather than the publicly announced level of $40 billion."

The Bush 10-year plan does not include direct contributions from depositors, an idea rejected by many in Congress, but it relies on some federal tax money to cover expenses in reviving the industry wracked by fraud and insolvency.

Sasser released the figures at the start of a hearing with Treasury Secretary Nicholas

Brady and, though questioning the cost of the Bush plan, he praised the new administration for responding quickly to the economic dilemma.

Brady restated and defended the administration's estimates, contending the net impact of the plan would be "$39.9 billion over the next 10 years."

But Sasser questioned several other areas of the plan as well, arguing that the administration's interest rate projections and its estimate for future deposit growth in savings and loan institutions may be too optimistic.

Brady defended both figures, arguing that if Congress and the administration can develop promptly a credible plan to cut the budget deficit, interest rates will decline. After "30 years in the business of watching interest rates, they can change pretty fast," the former Wall Street executive said.

Concerning depositor growth, Sasser questioned how Brady could assume deposits in savings and loans would grow at a rate similar to those in commercial banks.

"Our conviction is that outflow is due to all the (negative) publicity" about the thrift industry problem, Brady replied.

Knicks away from the Garden

The New York Knicks, winners of 21 straight at Madison Square Garden, are having problems when they take their show on the road.

Terry Cummings scored a season-high 38 points and Larry Krystkowiak added 20 Wednesday night to lead the Milwaukee Bucks to their third straight victory, a 121-111 decision over the Knicks.

New York, which is 24-1 at home but only 13-18 on the road, was led by Gerald Wilkins with 20 points and Patrick Ewing with 19.

Milwaukee had gone 19-5 before the All-Star break, but dropped three of four after the break.

Elsewhere, Washington beat New Jersey 120-115, Detroit dumped Utah 96-85, Boston bounced Atlanta 104-90, the LA Lakers topped Golden State 142-121 and Philadelphia nipped Sacramento 114-111.

COLLEGE HOOPS

Gators, 'Noles both cage wins

BATON ROUGE, La. — Clifford Lett hit eight straight free throws in the final seconds Wednesday night to lift Florida to a 104-95 Southeastern Conference victory over Louisiana State, clinching at least a share of the SEC title for the Gators.

Schintzius had 24 points and Livingston Chatman had 26 for the Gators, who won their 11th straight SEC game and improved to 13-4 in league play and 19-10 overall. Florida leads Vanderbilt by one game going into its regular season finale Saturday at Alabama.

At Tallahassee, Tony Dawson scored 30 points to help Co-No. 16 Florida State overcome a sluggish start Wednesday night to post a 117-97 Metro Conference triumph over Virginia Tech.

Florida State, tied with Nevada-Las Vegas at No. 16 in the rankings, boosted its overall record to 20-6, while moving to 8-3 in the conference.

BASEBALL

Clemens airs gripes, inks pact

WINTER HAVEN — Boston Red Sox right-hander Roger Clemens signed a three-year, $7.5 million contract Wednesday following an hour-long meeting with management over his complaints concerning some club policies.

Clemens and Red Sox player representative, catcher Rich Gedman, met with minority owner Haywood Sullivan, general manager Lou Gorman and manager Joe Morgan at the team's spring training headquarters.

During the offseason, Clemens aired displeasure with various team policies, identified Wednesday as family security at Fenway Park, tickets, travel, parking and telephone usage.

Clemens had said he would not sign the contract until he had the opportunity to speak with team management.

HOCKEY

Penalty killers doing their job

They have gotten used to being left out of the headlines. And on this night featuring close games, milestones, records and some stellar goaltending, the NHL's penalty killers may even get left out of some stories altogether.

But here's a salute to the penalty killers who gave up a combined nine goals — and scored four short-handed — in 79 chances Wednesday night. In seven games from Edmonton to New York, only Detroit's power play shone — albeit against the league's last-place New York Islanders.

Only diehards could list which Blackhawks held the North Stars scoreless on 10 power plays, or which Penguins blanked the Devils on nine man advantages. But to those who kill penalties all season, know that on Wednesday your counterparts throughout the league came through.

Lake Mary places four on All State squads

By MARK BLYTHE
 Herald sports writer

Seminole County was well represented this past season with one state champion in soccer and another team reaching the state semifinals. Equally as impressive was that the county placed nine players on state recognized teams.

Lake Mary's girls and boys teams both went to the state tourney and both had a member on the all-state first team. The Rams boys team made their third consecutive trip to the state playoffs before being downed by Tampa Galther, 2-1. In the semifinals as the girls claimed a 1-0 victory over Seminole in the girls game.

Oviedo High School's boys squad made it to the regionals, where it dropped a heart-breaking 2-1 loss to New Port Richey Gulf in sudden death overtime.

For the boys, it was Lake Mary's Eric Ravndal, a senior defender, taking first team all-state class 4A honors with John Mora, a senior forward from Lake Mary, making the second team. Lyman goalkeeper Kelly Walden also made the class 4A second team. Bernard Harden, a senior midfielder for Lyman, was honored on the state's third team.

Oviedo's Derek Bates, a senior midfielder, was the only class 3A player to make any of the state's teams as he was placed on the second team.

Lake Mary had two players on the all-state team for the girls with Lake Brantley also placing two on the top list. Donna Rohr, a senior midfielder for Lake Mary and Tammy Scott, a junior keeper, were honored by the first team with Beth Schaefer and Karen Kopp taking top honors for Lake Brantley.

Bishop Moore girls squad, which also brought home a state championship, placed four players on the first team with sophomore Amy Geltz, who set the state single season scoring record with 53 goals, making the top list as did keeper Suzy Strazzula, sophomore forward Stephanie Gringer and freshman defender Jill Hennigan.

Patriots get past Hawks

By JIM RICKENBACKER
 Herald Correspondent

CASSELBERRY — Pro scouts watching Wednesday's high-school baseball game between Lake Brantley and Lake Howell got an eyeful of Brantley prospects' Jason Varitek, Jimbo Morse and Jerry Thurston.

Yes, Thurston snapped out of his hitting slump. Varitek turned back-to-back brilliant plays at third base in the sixth and seventh innings. And Morse got the Patriots' offense off and running with a first-inning single.

Yet, scouts left Lake Howell's brand-new field with a brand-new discovery — pitcher Mark Gabrovic.

The junior right-hander hurled a two-hitter at the Silver Hawks, striking out eight in Brantley's 2-0 shutout in this Seminole Athletic Conference encounter.

"I'm telling you, we needed that pitching performance," said Lake Brantley coach Mike Smith, shortly after Gabrovic ran his record to 2-0 and shortly before rains pounded the field. "But this wasn't the typical Lake Brantley-Lake Howell game."

That it wasn't. Usually these teams total mass quantities of

When you play the No. 8-ranked team in the state, you can use all the breaks that you can get. On Wednesday, Lake Howell hosted Lake Brantley, ranked No. 8 in the most recent FSWA 4A state poll. In a tight game, the Patriots tried to squeeze home Chris Knutson (right), but Lake Howell's Dwayne Clark (No. 5, left), had other ideas. To see how the play came out, see Page 2B.

runs between them. Scores of 15-14 or 10-9 are the norm. Not Wednesday. Not with No. 36 on the mound. Not with Varitek and Morse (first baseman) manning the corners. Not with Thurston running down even those hard-to-get foul balls and going 2-for-4. Lake Brantley (4-4), ranked No. 8 in the latest FSWA Class 4A state poll, produced all the offense needed in the first inning. Eddie Zarembo smashed a two-out triple off Dwayne Clark to score Morse and leave Lake Howell trailing, 1-0.

Howell beats Boone with offense, defense

By JIM RICKENBACKER
 Herald Correspondent

CASSELBERRY — Beating Boone is a blessing. Blowing the Braves away is another story, but to the surprise of Lake Howell softball Coach Jo Luciano that's exactly what her Silver Hawks did Wednesday afternoon in high-school softball action.

Playing before an enthusiastic throng on its home field, Lake Howell (4-3) thrashed Boone (1-1) behind the six-hit pitching of junior pitcher Lee-Anne Trimble, a four-run sixth inning and defense that consistently thwarted any Boone threats.

"I'm very pleased to beat Boone," said an exuberant Luciano, whose team plays host to Evans today at 4:15 p.m. "This is the worst we've ever beaten them (Boone)." Lake Howell handed Evans an 11-0 setback in the Hawks' season opener.

To beat the Braves for a second consecutive season, the Silver Hawks followed exactly the script Luciano had hoped they would.

Not only did Trimble kick the offense in gear with a second-inning double but got plenty of defensive support from junior shortstop Missy Martinez and freshman second baseman Kristy York.

Martinez and York also contributed offensively. York singled home Trimble to make the score 1-0 in the second, and Martinez launched Lake Howell's offensive fireworks with a sixth-inning single.

In that decisive inning, freshman pitch hitter Dianne Lowe doubled preceding Leslie Barton being intentionally walked. Leslie's twin sister, Julie, unloaded a bases-loaded triple to inflate the Hawks' cushion to 4-0. Trimble was credited with an RBI later in the inning.

Lake Howell's defense set the tone early in its win over Boone on Wednesday. With two out, Lake Howell center fielder Ginger York made a perfect throw to catcher Leslie Barton (left) to nab the Boone base runner trying to score and end the inning.

Lake Mary sweeps Seminoles

From staff reports

They almost got all the matches in before the rains came on Wednesday, but those they did get in were enough to give the Lake Mary High School boys' and girls' tennis teams a sweep of Seminole.

Lake Mary's only loss in the Seminole Athletic Conference competition came in the boys' No. 1 singles, where Scott Farmer lost to Seminole's Josh Lewis 8-2. It was the first loss of the season for Farmer, who moved here from Illinois this year.

Ironically, Farmer and Lewis work out together at the Bayhead Racquet Club.

Farmer's efforts to continue his winning ways will be severely challenged today when Lake Brantley, led by No. 1 player Mark Palus (ranked No. 3 in the state in his age group) visits Lake Mary at 3 p.m.

In other matches Wednesday, Lake Mary's boys swept the four

Just when Oviedo High School got the lights on its baseball field operational, Mother Nature threw the Lions another curve: rain. The Lions had hoped to play their first home night game on Wednesday, but will have to wait until Friday night when the Lake Mary

Write about Easter; win prize, publication

Easter is an appropriate launch date for the spring season to many. It carries with it thoughts of new life and freshness.

To some, it harkens back to childhood, when colored eggs were hunted and new clothes worn to church.

To others, it is a yearly reunion of family members for dinner, good times and reflection.

Regardless of religious affiliation, Easter means something special to most everyone, whether it be memories of current traditions.

What makes Easter special to you?

The Sanford Herald invites readers, young or old, to mail us or bring us their thoughts on the subject.

The winning entry will earn its writer $25 and publication in our Easter Sunday edition.

Selected excerpts from other entries also may warrant publication in the March 26 edition.

Entries must be received at the Herald by 1 p.m. on Thursday, March 16.

Address your responses to "Easter To Me," Sanford Herald, 300 N. French Ave., Sanford, FL 32771. Include your name, city, age and daytime phone number.

Responses should be typed or written legibly. There is no length limit.

Shuffleboard Club exercises minds

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — Shuffleboard brings to mind little old ladies at Miami Beach.

But a legitimate sport? With international tournaments and amateur and professional rankings?

You betcha. And there are some people in Sanford who are very serious about the game. And serious about having a good time as well.

The 85 members of the Sanford Shuffleboard and Tourist Club have a lot of fun while getting in some serious exercise on the 16 courts of their East First Street club.

The club has been at its present location for 39 years. It was founded in 1927, but none of the present members seem to recall where it was previously.

"Our membership numbers remain pretty steady, but because of their age, we tend to lose a few a year," noted Ann Harpfer, club secretary. "This year we've had a good number of new joiners."

The members come from all parts of the country and all walks of life. About half the members are local residents who utilize the facilities year-round. The other 50 percent are, as Harpfer put it, "from up North." Some are winter residents from as far away as New York, Michigan and even parts of Canada. That's probably why the word "tourist" crept into the club name, Harpfer said.

All of the club's advertising has been done by word of mouth.

"I'd say that most of our members were brought in by a friend," Harpfer said.

Earl Gregory and his wife, Bertha, who have been members for a year, were invited to join by some Michigan friends who wintered in Sanford. At first they were unsure if they wanted any part of a club of "old people," but once they played they were hooked.

"Shuffleboard is good for you. It's a cardio-vascular workout. It gets you walking and it gets you out in the air," Harpfer said.

Lest you be discouraged because you aren't athletic, be assured that you needn't play to be a member.

"There is a big social part of this that we all enjoy," Gregory said. "We have this big club house where people can play cards or we have bingo."

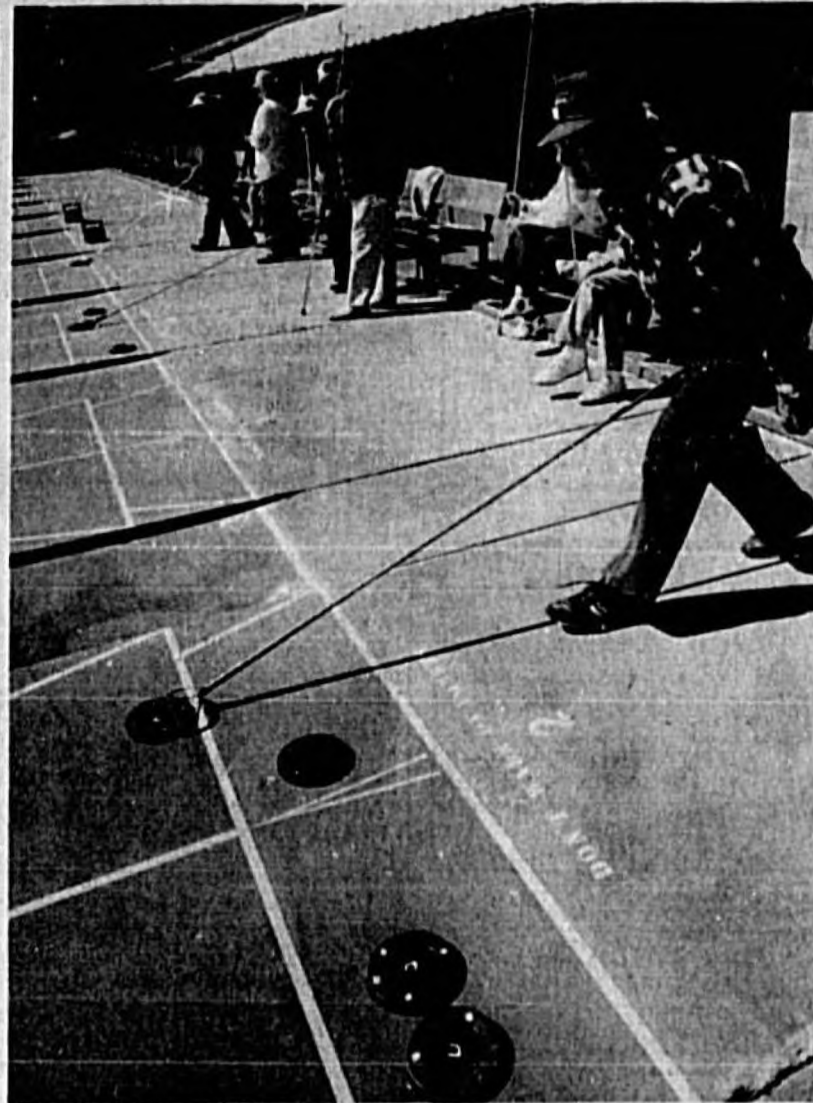

Additionally, the group has potluck suppers on the first and third Tuesday of every month and a birthday party (with cake and ice cream) for all the members who've completed another year during the month.

"Most of our members are between 55 and 85," Harpfer said.

Court manager Tom "Hopple" Hopkins said that the club's by-laws require a member to be at least 18 years old, but that he has not seen anyone that young in his nine years with the club.

"A lot of the young people say, 'I don't want to play...I'm not that old yet,'" Hopkins said. "Well, to play this game competitively, you've got to have a lot of stamina and it's really a fitness game."

On the competitive level, shuffleboard is not just a physical endeavor. There is a great deal of strategizing, and it requires a great mental effort. One wins by scooting discs across a Christmas-tree-shaped outline to rack up points and knock opponents' discs out.

"It can be very tiring," Hopkins said. "We once had this 34-year-old fellow from here in Sanford play in one of these tournaments. At the end of the day he told me that he hadn't gotten as tired when he played five straight softball games. There's a lot of mental work here."

"Perhaps you're not inclined to participate in the club's sport. There's still plenty to keep you busy."

"We have good clean fun here," Harpfer said.

Hopkins agreed and added, "It's a nice place to come and meet people your own age."

Gregory, who is in the running to become the club's next vice president, advised that while it's a good place to meet people, it's not "a singles' club." Plenty of couples are members. Gregory and his wife, Bertha, play shuffleboard as a team.

"The ratio of women to men runs about 60-40," Harpfer said.

In addition to their thrice-monthly dinner meetings, members find an excuse for another party every month. They had a catered meal to celebrate Christmas. They rang in the New Year together. Valentine's Day was romanced by the group, and in March they plan to elect new officers and fete the victors.

"During the day, some of the men use the clubhouse as a place to play cards," Harpfer said. "There's always a game going."

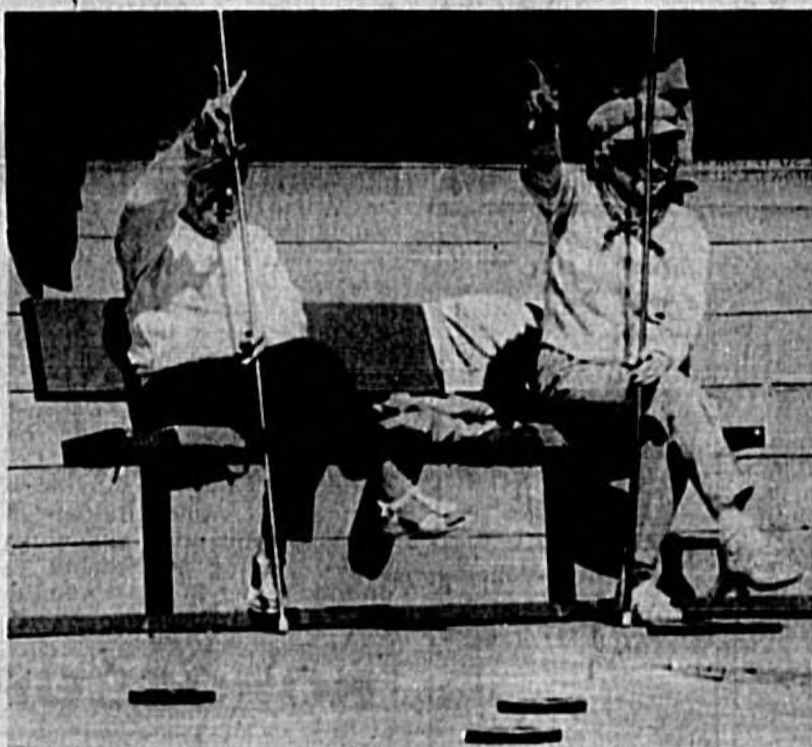

Hopkins pointed out that the clubhouse is smoke- and alcohol-free, so it is a healthy environment in which to spend one's days.

Until the club elections are held on March 14, the officers are: Karl Berg, president; Vergie Moxley, vice president; Ann Harpfer, secretary; Tom "Hopple" Hopkins, court manager; Maurice Munger, assistant court manager; and Mary Boyer, secretary.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the Sanford Shuffleboard and Tourist Club may call Ann Harpfer at 323-0949. Or, one can stop by the facility, at the corner of First Street and Seminole Boulevard, during the regular games on Tuesdays and Saturdays beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Membership dues are $10 annually, but Hopkins said prospective members can play up to three games for free "before they make their final decision."

"We're not just for shuffleboarders," Harpfer emphasized. "We're a social club too. This is the greatest thing to have happened to senior citizens since Medicare."

Gannie Pillow (right) and Ann Harpfer agree on two points. But for whom?

Bearded man feels discrimination

DEAR ABBY: I have a beard, which I keep nicely trimmed and well-groomed. When I recently applied for a job as a salesperson in a large retail store, I was told that if I wanted to work there, I would have to shave off my beard. (I didn't like the idea, but I agreed to shave off my beard if they decided to hire me.)

Abby, this company is saying that bearded salesmen are not acceptable, but if bearded men want to shop there, they will be glad to take their money. I think companies that practice this kind of discrimination should be boycotted.

What is your opinion?

IRKED

DEAR IRKED: I think nicely trimmed, well-groomed beards are attractive, but I am not setting policy for employees in a place of business.

To refuse to hire a man because he has a beard is a form of discrimination, but it is the employer's right to hire

Son may still need his seizure medicine

DEAR DR. GOTT: Our son used to take Dilantin. When he got married he quit taking it. When we talk with him on the phone, we can tell he's not thinking right. He's in the armed services, and we're not sure what to do.

sending you a copy of my Health Report "Epilepsy - The Falling Sickness." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

(C)1989 NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

DEAR READER: Dilantin is customarily given to people who have seizures. The medicine acts as an anti-convulsant for epileptic patients. If your son was taking the drug for this reason, he should not have discontinued it without being under the supervision of a neurologist.

Patients who require Dilantin may have seizures if they stop the medicine, so your son may be at real risk when operating a motor vehicle, swimming or engaging in dangerous activity. Also, some forms of epilepsy can affect thought processes.

Not all patients who are given Dilantin for convulsions will have to continue treatment indefinitely. If a person has been seizure-free for a year or more, a neurologist might elect to discontinue the drug or reduce its dose to see if the patient will have difficulty without it. However, this drug-free period requires close monitoring, hardly the kind of follow-up a serviceman is likely to receive.

If your son refuses your advice, I think that his civilian doctor should write the physician assigned to your son's military unit and explain the medical history. In this way, both your son and his fellow soldiers will be protected.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

"Have you ever seen such luck?" South exclaimed to his partner, having just gone set in four spades. "First the king of hearts is with East; then the ace of diamonds is over the king; and finally the queen of diamonds is with West. All three cards had to be wrong for the contract to fail." From these remarks, you astute readers should be able to figure out the scenario in the play of four spades. With the lead of the heart four, declarer had finessed dummy's queen. East won the king and returned a club. Declarer won the ace of clubs, drew trumps and cashed the ace of hearts and the other high clubs before leading a diamond to dummy's king. But East won the ace and returned the suit, enabling the defenders to take three diamond tricks and set the contract.

Despite the bad luck dogging the declarer, he could have guaranteed his contract with a simple play. Suppose he rises with dummy's ace of hearts at trick one. Next he draws trump and plays out his high clubs. Then he can exit with a heart. Since the defenders now have to play the diamond suit for him (or offer a sluff and ruff), he has at most two diamond losers and makes the contract.

Just because a finesse is staring you in the face, do not neglect the availability of an elimination play and throw-in for a sure-fire way to make your contract.

Ethiopia train wreck kills 57

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia — A freight train loaded with stowaways collided with three locomotives, killing 57 people and injuring 54 others, the official Ethiopia News Agency reported Thursday.

The agency said the freight train was pulling into Mieso station, about 230 miles east of Addis Ababa on the main line to Dire Dawa, when it smashed into the locomotives at about 10 p.m. Wednesday.

Railway official Firie-Hiwot Asrat said the freight train was supposed to have had only five people on board when it set out Tuesday on the 320-mile trip to Dire Dawa, the largest city in eastern Ethiopia.

The large number of dead and injured were apparently people who boarded the train illegally without the knowledge of the railway, he said.

The agency reported that citizens and officials in Mieso recovered the bodies of 57 victims and brought another 54 people to a hospital for treatment. Among the injured were the driver and assistant driver of the freight train.

It was the worst rail accident in Ethiopia since a passenger train derailed and plunged into a gorge in January 1986, killing 450 people. That train was traveling from Dire Dawa to Addis Ababa.

Malaysian elect a new king

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia — Nine hereditary rulers Thursday elected Azlan Shah, a 60-year-old former Supreme Court judge, as Malaysia's monarch for the next five years.

After two days of deliberations at the national palace, the sultans in a secret ballot selected Azlan, the present deputy king, to ascend to the throne in the only election of its kind in the world.

Deputy Prime Minister Ghafar Baba announced Azlan's electoral victory making him Malaysia's ninth monarch. Attending the Rulers Conference were the nine sultans, governors and chief ministers of the 13 Malaysian states.

The constitution requires the election "not later than four weeks before the expiry" of the present king's term.

Diplomatic sources said the sultans decided to stick with the tradition of choosing the most senior ruler from their ranks and picked the one from Perak, the only state which has not sent a king to the capital.

Elected Azlan's deputy was Tuanku Jaafar Abdul Rahman, ruler of Negri Sembilan state, who had initially sought the kingship.

Azlan, who will take over April 26 from the present king, Tuanku Mahmood Iskandar, will be the first monarch to have previously made a distinguished career for himself in public service, including 10 years in the foreign service.

Talks bog down over military exercises

PANUNJOM, Korea — South and North Korean officials met for nearly three hours Thursday but failed to make any progress toward setting up a meeting between their prime ministers because of bitter differences over a joint U.S.-South Korean military exercise.

They agreed, however, to get together again on April 12 at the truce village of Panmunjom, 35 miles north of Seoul, for more discussions.

The Thursday session, the second of its kind, started at 10 a.m. at Unification House in the northern sector of the truce site. Five delegates from each side attended.

As soon as the meeting got under way, chief northern delegate Paek Nam-jun took issue with the U.S.-South Korean Team Spirit military exercises. The exercises have been held annually since 1976.

Paek said the Team Spirit exercises should be main topic of discussion at the current talks, which were initially charged with organizing talks between the prime ministers of the two Koreas.

Paek demanded that the Team Spirit exercises be stopped.

Mao's widow refuses cancer surgery

BEIJING — Mao Tse-tung's widow, Jiang Qing, reported to have been periodically released from prison for treatment of throat cancer, has refused surgery that would result in losing her voice, a Chinese press report said.

The report, by the newspaper Information Daily published in southern China's Jiangxi Province, was received in Beijing Thursday. It was the latest in a series of similar recent reports about the jailed leader of the "Gang of Four."

China's Justice Ministry has steadfastly denied reports Jiang, 74, suffers from throat cancer or has been freed. Officials said in January she is suffering only from ailments related to old age.

A one-time actress who was Mao's fourth wife, Jiang rose to wield vast power during the chaotic 1966-1976 Cultural Revolution as leader of the radical Communist Party functionaries known as the "Gang of Four."

The Information Daily said Jiang, who lives in a prison outside Beijing, has been released periodically to see doctors at a Beijing tumor hospital. It said cancer experts had advised her to undergo surgery on her throat that would cause her to lose her voice.

But Jiang has refused the operation, saying she wants to remain able to speak, the newspaper said. Doctors are currently "taking other measures to control the patient's condition," it said.

Walesa, government review progress

WARSAW, Poland — Solidarity founder Lech Walesa and Interior Minister Gen. Czeslaw Kiszczak met Thursday to assess the first three weeks of talks between the outlawed union and the government, sources said.

It was the sixth meeting between Walesa and Kiszczak since a wave of strikes last August that prompted authorities to open talks with the banned union and representatives of other sectors of society, including the Roman Catholic Church, on how to overhaul the communist system.

A source who requested anonymity said the meeting began Thursday morning in a government villa outside Warsaw.

Walesa, addressing a student rally of up to 3,000 at Warsaw University Wednesday, said he was generally satisfied with the talks, which are scheduled to run for another three weeks.

Venezuelan riots reflect frustrations

CARACAS, Venezuela — President Carlos Andres Perez, a popular figure when he was inaugurated a month ago, was elected on promises of building a better life for Venezuelans and taking a tougher line toward international creditors.

Now, rioting, death and destruction in 12 Venezuelan cities reflect widespread disillusionment with his quick reversal of policy.

Instead of railing against bankers, Perez says Venezuela needs credit to achieve economic growth. He has accepted the warning of foreign bankers that without an agreement with the International Monetary Fund and its seal of approval, there will be no future credits from other banking institutions.

That line is nothing new to Venezuelans. Because of the decline in the price of petroleum, Venezuela's chief export, three previous presidential administrations have had to cut spending, cut subsidies and cut consumption to try to stabilize the economy and curb the drain on foreign exchange.

By taking the same position so quickly after his inauguration, Perez unleashed frustrations that have been building for years.

Venezuelans try to quell unrest

United Press International

CARACAS, Venezuela — The government announced a 30 percent wage hike for civil servants and set up an anti-poverty agency in a bid to quell three days of bloody rioting sparked by an economic austerity program.

Interior Minister Alejandro Izaguirre also announced Wednesday that public employees will work only in the morning until a nationwide curfew imposed Tuesday is lifted.

The minister urged private business to adopt the same reduced work schedule until the end of civil strife, which began Monday and has led to scores of deaths and widespread looting.

Izaguirre said the 30 percent wage hike took effect Wednesday. A typical non-skilled public employee in Venezuela earns less than $100 a month.

The Federation of Chambers of Commerce and Production also said its members would raise salaries in the private sector.

The minister also announced the creation of a National Anti-Poverty Council to help the poor. He said the administration was reorganizing the Institute of Social Insurance to make it more effective.

The measures were aimed at ending three days of rioting sparked by 30 percent price hikes for public transportation and an 83 percent hike in gasoline prices under President

Carlos Andres Perez's austerity plan.

Banks, schools and public transportation were closed Wednesday because of the unrest, and thousands of troops patrolled the streets.

Witnesses reported hooded snipers were firing at army patrols near the Miraflores presidential palace.

The government did not provide a full casualty report, but the newspaper El Nacional said 80 people died, 800 were wounded and 1,000 were arrested in three days of unrest.

Sporadic gunfire was heard Wednesday in Caracas, but not in the same intensity as Monday and Tuesday, when troops and police regularly fired gunshots over the heads of looters and police fired pellets and tear gas into crowds.

Tanks and armored cars filled with troops carrying automatic weapons patrolled the capital Wednesday, enforcing a 6 p.m.-to-6 a.m. nationwide curfew.

People formed long lines outside food stores that remained open.

Roads leading into the January 23 neighborhood, where United Press International employee Carlos Torao reported hooded snipers firing at soldiers, were sealed off by troops. No casualties were reported.

The government said more than 300 businesses were sacked in the rioting.

Salvadoran rebels reject army cease-fire

United Press International

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — Salvadoran rebels dismissed the military's unilateral cease-fire as a propaganda ploy and declared they would keep fighting until the government agrees to a date for peace talks.

"At the moment when we reach an accord on a date to hold the meeting in the capital, we will announce a cease-fire on all fronts where the army has withdrawn its forces and terminated its operations," said a statement Wednesday by the leftist Farabundo Martí National Liberation Front.

The Salvadoran armed forces declared a cease-fire Tuesday in the 9-year-old civil war, saying it would stop offensive actions from midnight Tuesday until President Jose Napoleon Duarte's five-year term expires

June 1.

The declaration coincided with the rebels welcoming an offer by Duarte over the weekend to hold peace talks, possibly in Guatemala City, and to postpone March 19 national elections until April 30.

In Washington, the State Department praised the Salvadoran leadership for the decision to observe a cease-fire as "extremely positive."

But the rebels ignored the overture and attacked an important military base late Tuesday.

Rebel Radio Venceremos reported the attack on the Santa Rosa de Lima military base, 80 miles east of San Salvador, began at 9 p.m. Tuesday.

It said at least 67 people were killed and 25 others wounded; but did not say if there were any rebel casualties.

Next test of cruise missile set

United Press International

OTTAWA — A U.S. B-52 bomber headed Thursday toward remote northern Canada for the first test of an advanced "stealth" cruise missile outside the United States, Canadian military officials said.

A spokeswoman for Canadian Forces in Cold Lake, Alberta, said the B-52 with a stealth cruise missile strapped to it left Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., late Wednesday, and the four-hour test was expected to begin between 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. EST.

Earlier, spokeswoman Maj. Jan Martinsen said defense officials would meet late Wednesday to consider if weather conditions were appropriate for the test.

A test scheduled for Wednesday morning was cancelled because of a severe blizzard that was causing icing, turbulence and heavy snow in the northern parts of the route.

Throughout its four-hour journey, the missile will remain attached to the B-52.

The bomber will fly over the Beaufort Sea, follow the McKenzie River valley, then turn eastward near the junction of the borders of the Northwest Territories, Alberta and British Columbia. The plane will then continue southward to the Primrose Lake air weapons range in northern Alberta before returning to the United States.

Defense experts in Canada and the United States said in interviews that successful tests over northern Canada were essential to the cruise missile's eventual production. The U.S. Air Force has said it wants to build 1,500 of the missiles.

David Cox, a defense analyst with Queen's University in Kingston, Ontario, said "the tests are obviously crucial to the willingness of the U.S. Congress to fund the project."

The Senate Armed Services Committee has ordered the Air Force to conduct six successful cruise missile flights before it will advance funds for the missile's production. But defense experts said there have been problems with the weapon's design, reports of computer software problems in its guidance system and problems with quality control.

The United States is expected to hold several tests of the advanced cruise missile this winter over northern Canada, including some free flight tests in which the missile will be launched from the bomber and flown under its own guidance system along the 1,500-mile route.

Canada began testing cruise missile weapons in February 1985 under an agreement allowing six flights each winter.

The advanced cruise missile, a top-secret U.S. defense project, incorporates so-called "stealth" technology that makes it difficult to detect by Soviet radar.
