We used to hear, not long ago, "over the top" or "has our quota gone over the top," or "one more day and it will go over the top" and so forth, but now we hear "over the fence boy," or "come on Stuffy, stick it over the fence," And every once and a while "Stuffy" does that very thing.

As the ball sails over the fence every man in the park jumps to his feet. If it wasn't such a critical moment, or if we were not at all fired up over that home run, we could not look around us and see that the men are not dressed just like they used to be when Sanford

A few however realizing that some steps must be taken by which the vast products of Sanford could be bette: handled, and better distributed decided that a properly managed organization was the only salvation, Hence it would be proper to say that since necessity is the mother of all invention, so was necessity the inspiration and the ambition that put the Sanford Truck Growers, Inc., in to exsistence. It is unnecessary to dwell on the results obtained by the organization in mere tion at the close af the season and later, and society of the contract of the representative of the Herald was yourself .- Geo. . o Fine. amazed to see just what has been accomplished.

The first thing noticable is the fact that the first dephsit made through the peoples Bank of Sanford was on May 28th, 1918, and the amount being $251.00. Since that time aggregate deposits of the Sanford Truck Growers, Inc., through this bank has been $610,000.00 the gross business amounting to $1,000,000.00. The organization has handled around one-thousand solid cars. It has one hundred and forty loyal members who ship their entire output through the organization. It charges a commission of only 5 per cent on F. O. B. sales and gets only 3 per cent out of consignments. Without a dollar and with minimum of ten percent of the stock subscribed the organization empty offler, a typewriter and a soap box, so to speak.

Due to the good offices of the bankers who foresaw the possibilities, and due to the successful management of the organization through the offices, directors and active management, financial aid was given the little bunch of orginators and the result is that the par value of the stock was orginally $10.00 per share has increased in value fully

The organization has bought and paid for within one year, two of the largest and most commodious warehouses in the county, orginally the property of F. F. Dutton, one being located in the heart of the west side section and the other on

Their offices are nicely equipped, they own two cars for inspection purposes, have all along paid eash for all crate material All material

During the season the organica tion distributed to the farmers something over 300,000 crates and hampers and was able to do this at a saving of from one to two and a half cent a crate to the me above acres and it is a fact that after deducting freight, commission, crate materia!, and in some cases fertilizer, a net earning of better than: $5.000 per man has been paid out to the

In addition the stock is paying 10 per cent dividends and the organization still has a nice surplus, its capital stock, and over $12,000.00 worth of property owned and paid for on which to begin its next season. Has an established credit and high rating and is financially backed to meet any and all requirements and competition.

SCHOOL GARDENS PAY WELL

Apart From Value of Food Produced, Young People Get Interested

double continue school-garden work in the Bultimore News. during the coming season, for the need of food is as great as it was do 1918, when the value of the products grown by American school pupils was nearly $18,000,000. The plan followed in New York city has the advantage of a year's trial under working conditions, and generally speaking may be taken as a model by school boards wherever sufficient land is available for gardens. The New York board of education ulloted to each pupil a space 25 by 50 feet, and placed 30 boys on each acre. A record of the crops was kept, each boy was required to work at least once a-week and to do whatever was necesrary on his plat; the board looked after the plowing and fertilization and furnished the seeds, and toachers gave instructions on gardening to the children while engaged in cultivating the soll. The crops, of course, were turned over to the young farmers. The value of the increased food supply thus obtained is great, but the experience gained by the pupils is worth more than the price of the vegetables.

Best Country Fence.
Nothing adds more to the attractiveless and artistic charms of a country which also is a protection to the lawn and garden. A low woven-wire fence, with Dorothy Perkins roses, bitter X sweet, French honeysuckle, or Japapart, will soon be a hedge of beauty. But better than these (for you do not need the wire fence) is a hedge of Japanese barberry. It is absolutely hardy, a fast grower, makes a dense hedge, can be sheared to any desired shape, and is attractive in any season while the others lose their beauty in which there is a federal quarantine, because it is understood to carry wheat rust. The Japanese burberry can be purchased of any nursery man very cheaply. Small plants set out two feet apart make a thrift fence serving two purposes, protection and ornamentation.-Thrift Magazine.

Street Trees.

The appearance of a city is its chief material asset. The caliber of a city's people, as a whole, is exactly expressed in the outward and visible ispect of their municipal home. Now, there is nothing that gives tone to this aspect like well-kept parks and welltreed streets. More and more this is coming to be noted, and increasingly Is attention being given to the adorning of city streets with trees. Also It is seen that to depend on private Initiative in this matter will not do. What is needed is to bring the planting, nurture, care and protection of street trees under municipal control, and such control concentrated in a single department specializing in the one thing, viz., street trees.

Plant Long-Lived Varieties. In planting trees select long-lived. hardwood varieties, such as the elin, ninple, walnut, oak, backberry, Haden, weamore, locust. One for every soldier and one for every saffor who has been in the service. These trees to be planted along, all of the highways and byways leading out of and into Chizago, and upon such residence streets s have no shade trees. There let the result of this vote speak for itself. The tree as a growing monument for the boys who served will win.
