Miss Florida Will Seek National Title, Despite DUI Charge

The base of the mailbox which Miss Florida Deanna Pitman is accused of running over Friday night lies reduced to rubble in the foreground. The larger part of the box is shown by the garbage can.

Unless Deanna Pitman, Miss Florida, decides to voluntarily give up her title, no one will take it away from her because of her arrest on drunk driving charges.

That was the word today from officials of the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, as well as officials with the Miss Florida contest.

Albert Marks, Jr., chairman of the Miss America pageant, said the national organization has no intention of taking any action in the case. He said any action will be left to the discretion of state pageant officials.

"I talked to Bill Wolfe chairman of the Miss Florida pageant board and told him to use his own best judgment," Marks said. "We leave those things to the state boards. If the state board certifies her she will be eligible for the Miss America pageant" scheduled for September.

Marks said he sees nothing within the Miss America contract which would preclude Miss Pitman from serving if she wins the pageant, even if she is convicted on the DUI charge.

"The Miss America contract says you must be of good moral character," Marks said. "That leaves it open to interpretation. If being arrested for DUI means you are of bad moral character then a lot of people have a bad moral character."

Wolfe said Miss Pitman has the backing of the entire pageant committee.

"We're going to support her all the way. We're preparing to go to Atlantic City with Deanna."

Miss Pitman was arrested Friday at 11:30 p.m. following an accident at 900 Spring Valley Road near Altamonte Springs. She was alone in the car and uninjured except for a bloody nose. The accident destroyed a mailbox in front of the home of Ted and Pauline Sikes police said.

In addition to the DUI charge, police charged Miss Pitman with having an expired driver's license, an improperly displayed license plate and careless driving.

Miss Pitman is scheduled to appear in Circuit Court, Sanford, on July 29, a spokesman for the sheriff's department said today.

Trooper G.R. Caves of the Florida Highway Patrol said Miss Pitman was handcuffed and lodged in the Seminole County jail until she posted $500 bond at 2:30 a.m. Saturday.

Miss Pitman said the accident was a result of emotional exhaustion stemming from her duties as Miss Florida.

"Everything just came to a head. My boyfriend (who lives in the Spring Valley area) and I were both under a lot of stress because we hadn't seen each other for a couple of weeks," she said.

"The argument really upset me," she said. "I was crying and lost control of the car before it hit the mailbox."

"I was in shock from the accident and tremendously upset," Miss Pitman said.

Mrs. Sikes said she went outside after the crash and saw Miss Pitman "crying hysterically."

"She may be Miss Florida but she was just a young girl, emotionally distraught. The poor thing was crying like a baby," Mrs. Sikes said.

Miss Pitman returned to the Sikes home Saturday and apologized for the incident, Mrs. Sikes said.

Trooper Caves wrote in his report that Miss Pitman's car went out of control in a turn in the road and slid 37 feet, striking the mailbox. Caves said the skid marks indicated she must have been driving in excess of 40 miles per hour.

DEANNA PITMAN

Caves said the handcuffing of Miss Pitman was routine in all such incidents.

Miss Pitman refused to take a breathalyzer test, Caves said. According to state law, if the officer can prove she refused to take the test it will mean an automatic six-month suspension of her license.

Caves said he assessed the accident situation and then discussed the DUI charges with Miss Pitman "after smelling alcohol on her breath."

FHP officials said reports that Miss Pitman was charged with driving while intoxicated are erroneous. He said the new Florida statute is driving under the influence and includes alcohol and drugs, as well as other substances.

Kroll Seeking 2nd Term On School Board

Bill Kroll of Longwood has qualified to seek a second four-year term on the Seminole County School Board.

During his first term in office, Kroll has served one year as chairman of the board, elected to that position by his colleagues.

To date, the following candidates and incumbents have qualified: Sandra Glenn and Bob Sturm, county commission incumbents, both Republicans completing their first terms; former County Commissioner Bob French, a Democrat, running against Sturm; School Board members Kroll, Pat Telson and Allan Keeth. Mrs. Telson is completing her second term while Keeth is completing his fourth. Former two-term School Board member Jean Bryant is challenging Keeth for his seat. School Board elections are non-partisan.

Deadline for qualifying is noon Tuesday.

Sandy Goad, manager of the elections office, said today that both the courthouse office and the branch office in the Interstate Mall, Altamonte Springs, will be open on Saturdays to accept voter registrations until the books close Aug. 7.

Mrs. Goad said the courthouse office will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday while the branch is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Meanwhile, Seminole Circuit Judges Kenneth Leffler and C. Vernon Mize Jr. have filed qualifying papers with the state elections office in Tallahassee. Fern Park attorney Irving Gussow has qualified to oppose Leffler.

County Personnel Being Questioned Regarding Abuses

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Sheriff's Department is continuing its investigation today into possible misuse of county property and department purchase orders by employees in the County Parks and Recreation Department's maintenance division.

The investigation, prompted by undisclosed sources, could result in felony charges against three or four persons allegedly involved in using maintenance equipment on county time for personal or private gain. Investigators from the sheriff's department and the State Attorney's offices have also pulled purchase order agreements dating back two years from the maintenance department for review.

Sheriff's department investigator Don Eslinger spent most of this morning at the State Attorney's office, interrogating maintenance department personnel.

Capt. Jay Leman said he expects the investigation to continue through today.

Although the county is not directly involved in the probe, County Administrator Roger Neiswender said the county is cooperating with investigators making county personnel available to prosecutors for questioning.

Neiswender said he hoped the investigation could be completed soon because removal of personnel for interrogation was causing daily supervision problems within the department.

Neiswender said that when the criminal investigation is completed and information has been gathered, the county will conduct its own internal investigation to determine what action, if any, should be taken in regard to employment.

"We don't take any action specifically on criminal charges. We'll look into it and see if there is cause for dismissal or other action."

"Even if there is no criminal action there still might be dismissals or suspensions," Neiswender said.

Sheriff John Polk said Friday that so far, the investigation is based on nothing more than allegations. However, Polk added that if, after a thorough investigation, there appears to be some truth to the accusations, criminal charges would be filed against suspected wrong-doers.

Investigators are believed to have been informed of the violations by personnel within the maintenance department.

Sewage Dumping Charge Cleared

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The owner of a Sanford septic tank service, accused by a Lake Mary official of dumping raw sewage on property in the city, was cleared of the charge by the county today.

Russ Miller, head of the county's division of environmental health, said today a sanitarian in his department inspected the site of County Road 15 at the request of a neighbor.

The neighbor had complained David Gould, owner of Sun City Septic Service of Sanford, was dumping raw sewage in a trench on the property.

Miller said the sanitarian found that Gould dug the trench to channel drainage water dumped on the property from CR 15 off the land.

"There was no evidence that waste had been dumped there," Miller said.

Miller said he also has notified the county's environmental services division to check out the property. Gould denied the dumping allegation today.

"We are not dumping any septic tank sludge on that property whatsoever," Gould said. "It's a drainage ditch that I dug to channel the water from a culvert on CR 15 away from the property."

Lake Mary City Manager Phil Kulbes told the Lake Mary City Council last Thursday night he had complained to the county environmental health division about the ditch, adding that the trench is now "full of brown water." He said the ditch goes into Soldier's Creek.

Mayor Walter Sorenson said he drove by the property the other day and saw foaming brown water in the ditch.

When Kulbes said the environmental health division was ignoring his complaint, Councilman Ray Fox urged that he put the complaint in writing and send copies to the county commissioners.

Miller said today his office has received no complaint from Kulbes, according to the division's records.

Kulbes said he issued his first complaint to the county department about two weeks ago and that a representative of the county office inspected the site and took a sample of sludge from the rear of the property.

Kulbes also told the council he, with the assistance of the county's Environmental Services Division, is investigating a property at Humphrey Road and Wood Road that is being filled in with debris.

Kulbes said he found the owner of the land has filled in a three-foot culvert with debris, thus channelling water to a high velocity flow and washing away part of the road.

He said the water is flowing toward Soldier's Creek.

Kulbes said he is concerned the property owner might raise the culvert and create other flooding problems.

He said he also is concerned the reworking of the drainage will end up blocking off Wood Road.

Lake Mary Seeks Crossings Annexation

The city of Lake Mary is making an effort to encourage the "Crossings", a subdivision south of Lake Mary Boulevard and east of Interstate 4, to become part of the city.

Police Chief Harry Benson, Fire Chief Jim Orioles and other city officials will attend the August meeting of the Greenwood Lakes Homeowners Assoc. to present all the pros and cons of the Crossing residents annexing to the city.

And Ed Panerello, president of the homeowners group, said today it will be up to the residents to make a decision after hearing from city officials.

Councilman Vic Olvera reported to his colleagues Thursday night he was invited to and attended a board meeting of the association. The invitation came after Olvera voted against allowing Greenwood Lakes Utilities to build a sewer percolation pond in the city for the sewer plant that serves the Crossings and some city industries.

Olvera said the residents appeared unhappy with the developers of the property — Florida Land Co. — and displeased because they were not being made aware of actions taken by the utility.

He said they also were concerned about police and fire protection. Currently, residents receive those services from the Sheriff's Department and county fire department.

ID Of Bodies Awaited

The Orange County Sheriff's Department reported today it is awaiting positive identification by the medical examiner's office of two bodies found Friday in a north Orange County home.

Investigators believe the bodies are those of John N. Stinson and Edward R. Wise, owners of the Sanford Quick Print of 110 E. Commercial St.

Police investigated the home at 1231 Henry Balch Drive after a postman notified them that an odor he had noticed earlier in the week had become stronger.

Stinson and Wise reportedly had lived in the home for about three years.

Positive identification may take several more days due to the badly decomposed condition of the bodies. The medical examiner's office said, it estimates the men had been dead for at least a week.

Southern Bell District Manager Larry

Strickler confirmed a phone company representative had tried to contact the two men at the print shop address Thursday and Friday, but was unable to reach either Stinson or Wise. Strickler said an attempt to contact the owners regarded a problem with their bill, but Strickler noted the business had no previous bill problems.

The men had been Southern Bell customers at the print shop address since October 1979 when a commercial line was installed at the business.

The deaths are being treated as homicides, although the exact cause of death is pending an autopsy.

Vivian Wheeler, a legal secretary located next door to the print shop, said that for the past week customers had been asking about print jobs that were not completed.

The secretary said her office used the print shop copy machine on a daily basis but the last time anyone saw either of the two men was on July 2.

A Reasonable Registration Law

A 16-year-old girl comes home 15 minutes after her curfew.

Her protective father confronts her as she walks in the door, and sputters: "You're late! You're grounded! And if you're ever late again, you want be allowed out of the house again until...until you're 18!"

Does she believe him? No. She knows dad is just blowing off steam, that he's just trying to scare her.

What's worse, every time her father makes such an idle threat, she loses a little bit of respect for him.

The federal government's threat to throw young men who fail to register for the draft into jail for five years and to fine them $10,000 works—or fails to work—in much the same way.

"All that for not signing up at the post office?" young men are asking. "No way. I don't believe it." Just as the young lady can believe she won't be locked up in her bedroom for two years, today's young men believe that unless they publicly flaunt the fact that they are draft evaders, they'll never have to face the full consequences.

More than 500,000 young Americans have evaded draft registration since the program was initiated two years ago. The large majority didn't sign up because they believe the law can't be enforced. How can it declare that a half million otherwise law-abiding young men are felons and throw them into federal penitentiaries?

The government, after several months, has delivered its first indictment for defying draft registration to Benjamin Sasway of Vista, Calif., who intends to make his trial a test case. The government is trying to induce others into registering. But, unless those 500,000 young men believe mass prosecution is possible, they won't take the threat seriously.

There are other problems. The law gives evaders like Sasway what they want: publicity for their cause.

Moreover, the threatened punishment is so harsh that it puts the government in the adversarial role of the angry father. It places hundreds of thousands of young men in stubborn opposition to the government.

We need a more reasonable and enforceable law that would induce young men to comply but at the same time punish those who intentionally avoided registering in order to propagandize their opposition to the program.

An idea would be to fine each registration evader $10 for every day he is delinquent in fulfilling his registration responsibility.

When he registered and paid his fine, the matter would end. The law would have an effective deterrent. For those who refused to register, the government would withhold federal aid—no student loans, no welfare and no food stamps could be granted to those who refused to pay.

The punishment is rational. Holdouts would receive about as much public sympathy as those who refuse to pay traffic tickets. None would gain martyr status.

This plan was originally proposed by retired Marine Corps Gen. Victor Krulak. Krulak has since received favorable comments about the plan from President Reagan.

If the president likes the plan, he ought to actively recommend it. It would be a vast improvement over the registration law we now have.

The Democratic Express, the weekly newsletter of the state party, reports that Irwin Speizer and Jim Hohman, in their weekly political column in the Fort Lauderdale news are running a contest.

The winners of the contest will have their names mentioned in their column. Entries must be into the paper by the end of this week.

They want to know what you think the initials of GOP gubernatorial candidate U.S. Rep. L.A. "Skip" Bafalis stand for or should stand for. Well, for the record, Bafalis' initials stand for "Louis Arthur."

Those wishing to enter the contest should write to: Politics Column, Fort Lauderdale News, Box 14430, Fort Lauderdale 33305.

Gov. Bob Graham, who is off and running in his campaign for re-election, visited Melbourne's first television station, WMOD, Channel 43, during a recent four-day tour through the state.

Graham was greeted at the Melbourne Airport by members of the station staff, including the owner, Lou Frey, who said he was glad to see the governor.

Frey of Winter Park was formerly a congressman and was an unsuccessful candidate four years ago for the GOP nomination for governor.

There's nothing like the state and federal governments working together.

State Rep. Dick Batchelor, D-Orlando, was a major sponsor of legislation which went into effect July 1, against drunk drivers. The new law calls for severe penalties against those who insist on driving when they are under the influence.

Now, U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Altamonte Springs, is co-sponsoring a bill in the U.S. House to combat this "national epidemic" by rewarding states which crack down on drunk drivers, rather than by penalizing those who do not.

In announcing his co-sponsorship, McCollum noted that Florida has begun addressing the problem of drunk driving, by enacting the new law. However, McCollum adds, "There are some loopholes (in the law) which must be closed to make it truly effective, but it is nevertheless a major step in the right direction."

McCollum said his bill would earmark money from the Highway Trust Fund for a grant program providing seed money to states taking steps to establish comprehensive, ultimately self-sufficient programs to deter drunk driving and to ensure the swift arrest, conviction and rehabilitation of offenders.

Funding for the grant program would total $25 million in fiscal 1983 and increase to $50 million in 1984 and 1985.

Interestingly enough, Batchelor is challenging McCollum, a first term congressman, in the November elections.

States Feeling The Pinch

WASHINGTON (NEA)—A new survey has revealed that all of the 50 states are in worse financial condition now than they were a year ago.

And many of those states are finding themselves in a very precarious position as they enter the new fiscal year, which began for most of them on July 1.

Unlike the federal government, the states cannot measure their financial health by the size of their budget deficits.

Every state but Vermont has some kind of legal stricture against deficits in its operating budget, and many are even precluded from borrowing to meet prospective operating deficits. However, the states keep separate accounts for capital expenditures, and many borrow heavily to finance these accounts.

One important measure of a state's financial condition is its "balance," which loosely means its cash on hand.

Traditionally, most states have carried forward a surplus of funds from year to year. This balance has been used to make up for short-term deficits during years in which receipts do not match outlays.

The new survey by the National Governors' Association shows that the balances of most states are at historically low levels. In the aggregate, the 50 states' balances stand at $2.4 billion, $4.1 billion less than at the start of fiscal 1982.

More alarmingly, the balances are expected to drop again during fiscal 1983—to an aggregate $1.8 billion by year's end—despite frantic attempts by most states to cut spending and raise revenues.

The experts say that a state should have a balance equal to 5 percent of its annual spending in order to be considered financially sound. The balances, again in the aggregate, stood at 5.7 percent in fiscal 1977 and increased to a comfortable 9 percent by fiscal 1980.

But they have been falling ever since, and in the past year they have fallen rapidly. When the final figures are in for fiscal 1982, balances will approach a record low of 1.5 percent. By the end of fiscal 1983, they will have dropped to 1.1 percent.

The survey also reveals that 37 of the 50 states expect to spend more than they take in during fiscal 1983 despite various belt-tightening and revenue-raising measures.

Although total state spending for 1982 and 1983 combined is about 15 percent higher than for the previous two fiscal years, the states are actually spending less than before when the figures are adjusted for inflation.

California, for example, is suffering its worst financial plight since the 1930s. As recently as 1980, the state had a surplus of almost $5 billion.

But that surplus has been exhausted over the past three years. The state now faces a deficit of more than $1 billion in a $27 billion operating budget, which was arrived at only after severe cutbacks in many state services.

The recession and federal policy changes are largely responsible for the worsening financial condition of the states. (Some states must also cope with the effects of the large tax cuts that they enacted during the "tax revolt" of the late 1970s.)

Most states derive the bulk of their revenue from sales and income taxes. Revenue from both sources has fallen during the recession because of decreased consumer spending, high unemployment and little growth in wages.

Services Declare War On Each Other

WASHINGTON — In the protected corridors of the Pentagon, with its thousands of lookalike cubicles, a siege of backstabbing and undercutting has broken out.

The rival military services are engaged in a deadly struggle over the allocation of funds and missions. It has been precipitated by revolutionary changes in weapons technology, which are bursting upon the scene with unforeseeable impact on the future of warfare.

The uncertainty plagues military careerists who fight bitterly for weapons that are already stockpiled in another service's arsenal or for weapons that are completely outmoded but give prestige.

This not only wastes billions of dollars, but seriously weakens the nation's security. Indeed, the unseemly competition between the armed services costs the American people more than any other federal extravagance.

Gen. David C. Jones, the outgoing Joint Chiefs of Staff chairman, has lit a fuse to the scandal. In a scathing critique of the Joint Chiefs, he urges that the chairman be given the authority to make decisions without being subject to the veto power of the individual service chiefs.

Typically, Jones' reorganization plan is supported by the Army and Air Force, but opposed by the Navy and Marines. His successor, Army Gen. John W. Vessey Jr., will be questioned about the Pentagon civil war when he appears in a few days before the House Armed Services investigative subcommittee headed by Rep. Richard C. White, D-Texas.

Here are a few specific examples of foolish, wasteful and dangerous selfishness that the committee members will want to ask Vessey about:

— The B-52 bombers the Air Force is retiring could be armed with cruise missiles for use against enemy ships, just as the Soviets plan to employ their Backfire bomber against our fleet. But the admirals have refused even to consider the use of land-based bombers; it would weaken the Navy's case for more ships.

— The Air Force is jealously guarding the continental defense mission of its F-15 Eagle, though a secret Air Force study suggests that the Navy's F-14 Tomcat would do the job better, sources told my associate Peter Grant.

— The services are supposed to protect one another's forces in combat, but they habitually give these cooperative missions the lowest priority. The Army, for instance, has seriously neglected its responsibility to protect air bases. Last year, in fact, the Army terminated its Roland ground-to-air missile system, a move that leaves Air Force facilities on NATO's "front line" in West Germany more vulnerable than those in Britain.

— The Air Force seems determined to shirk any responsibility for close air support of Army ground troops. It keeps trying to shut down production of the A-10 fighter, the only Air Force plane designed for this intricate mission. In this case, the Army hasn't complained too loudly, because the lack of A-10s provides an excuse to buy billions of dollars' worth of AH-64 attack helicopters. But the choppers are more expensive, more vulnerable, less lethal and less maneuverable than the A-10s.

Static On Stock Trading Ink

By GARY KLOTT
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—The new electronic link between the seven stock exchanges and the over-the-counter market has generated some static among the linkees.

John J. Phelan Jr., president of the New York Stock Exchange, contends the experimental link is bringing together "apples and oranges." That, in itself, is not ostensibly Phelan's point of contention. Nor is it the added competition that such a link poses, he insists.

Rather, he said in an interview, it is that different rules govern the apples and oranges—stemming from the differences in trading practices between exchange markets where deals are made on organized auction floors and a market where deals are struck by telephone among a loosely woven network of OTC dealers.

The way the pilot linkage was implemented, Phelan warns, could keep a customer from getting the best price.

The two-month-old link ties the computerized OTC trading equipment of the National Association of Securities Dealers and the computer link between the seven exchanges, called the Intermarket Trading System. To start, the link allows trading in 30 stocks.

The experiment is the latest phase in development of a national market system mandated by Congress in 1975. Such a system would integrate the fragmented components of the securities market so that the buyer or seller of a stock would be able to get the best price available at any given moment—whether it be on one of the exchange floors or on a computer screen in some OTC dealer's office.

Phelan argues that a customer may not get the best price under the linkage, since a customer's order doesn't necessarily have to be routed to an exchange floor.

Unless a better price shows on one of the exchange floors, a customer's order can be filled "upstairs" in a broker's office. And Phelan contends the customer may lose because the linkage rules don't require his order to be "exposed" to the bidding process on the exchange floor where others might be willing to better that price.

Phelan said the arrangement leaves open the potential for what is called "internalization," the process by which an individual broker matches his own customers' buy and sell orders without first "exposing" them to exchanges and other market-makers for a possibly better price.

The stock exchange president insists a public "order exposure" rule is needed so that before a customer's order is executed it is exposed to other markets to "leave some time for others to react to it."

The Big Board, which unsuccessfully fought for such a rule before the linkage began, is now pressing its case again. The Securities and Exchange Commission has given until July 23 for public comment on the need for an exposure rule.

Off-board traders allege that the Big Board, in leading the fight for such a rule, is exaggerating the potential problem and only fears competition from off-board dealers to its virtual monopoly in listed stock trading. Phelan rebuffs the charge.

Down With Whimpery

Remember the Preppie Handbook that came out a couple of years ago?

It was no doubt intended as satire on preppiness, but it had a way of turning into the opposite and it stimulated a wave of prep styles and products—pinks and greens and all those alligators and top-siders.

The supposed satire touched a desire for preppiness out there in the general public.

The same reverse effect happened with Archie Bunker. No doubt intended as anti-redneck satire by Norman Lear and the other Beverly Hills liberals, "All in the Family's" Archie Bunker has instead become a kind of national hero. People agree with Bunker's "reactionary" sentiments much more often than agree with Meathead or the trendy Norman Lear.

George C. Scott's performance as "Patton" did the same thing. We were intended to cluck-cluck at Patton's militarism, but Scott's performance was so electric it made Patton a popular hero; and people go around quoting with approval the great lines spoken by the American officer in "Apocalypse Now": "I like the smell of napalm in the morning! It smells like victory!"

There now comes a marvelous little book called "Real Men Don't Eat Quiche" by Bruce Feirstein, perhaps intended as satire on the macho idea—but really, deep down, expressing I think a growing national impatience with the recent vogue of whimperiness, the sensitive, vulnerable, concerned, quiche-eating, white-wine drinking participants in meaningful dialogues and shared experiences. A lot of people are beginning to tire of Phil Donahue, Robert Redford and Alan Alda, and look back fondly on Gary Cooper, Humphrey Bogart and John Wayne. Here's the marvelous opening of "Real Men Don't Eat Quiche":

"'Real men don't eat quiche,'" said Flex Crush, ordering a breakfast of steak, prime rib, six eggs, and a loaf of toast.

"We were sitting in the professional drivers' section of an all-night truckers' pit stop somewhere west of Tulsa on I-44, discussing the plight of men in today's society. Flex, a 225-pound nuclear-waste driver who claims to be one of the last Real Men in existence, was pensive:

"'American men are all mixed up today,'" he began, idly cleaning the 12-gauge shotgun that was sitting across his knees. Off in the distance, the sun was just beginning to rise over the tractor trailers in the parking lot.

"'There was a time when this was a nation of Ernest Hemingways. REAL MEN. The kind of guys who could defoliate an entire forest to make a breakfast fire—and then go on to wipe out an endangered species hunting for lunch. But not anymore. We've become a nation of wimps. Pansies. Quiche eaters. Alan Alda types—who cook and clean and RELATE to their wives. Phil Donahue clones—who are warm and sensitive and vulnerable.'"

The book goes on with a hilarious smorgasbord of jokes, sociology, cartoons, lists and charts all revolving around the Real Man versus Wimp theme.

"Essentially the world today can be divided into two categories of men: those who eat quiche, and those who don't... Jimmy Carter, for example, ate quiche. George Bush doesn't. Elvis Presley was a Real Man, so are Mike Wallace, Morley Safer, Dan Rafter, Robert DeNiro, and Pete Rose. Carol Burnett is a Real Man for taking on the National Enquirer. Alan Alda, Dick Van Patten, and Phil Donahue are terminally sincere quiche eaters. No one is really sure about Burt Reynolds. Frank Sinatra—the Chairman of the Board—does not eat quiche..."

There's a chart of Great Moments in Real Man History, such as the 1948 invention of the chain saw, Sinatra coming out of retirement in 1971, and Lee Marvin beating the palimony suit in 1980. But there are also "Black Dates in the Real Man's Heritage," such as Dilliah cutting Samson's hair, Billie Jean beating Riggs, and (1978) "Nelson Rockefeller dies 'working late on an art book.'"

Amid the fun, something interesting may be going on here. It seems to me that the Liberated Woman, after doing her best to castrate the male gender, now gazes upon her work with dismay.

Bellamy Tries To Silence National Bats Tonight At 8

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

It's a matchup that needs no buildup. Tonight at 8, the Sanford Nationals, fresh from winning the Sub-District Tournament, battle the Sanford Nationals, winner of a coin toss which gave them a bye in the Sub-District. American manager Lawrence Hawkins will send Reginald "Cheese" Bellamy to the mound in an effort to hold down the Nationals' awesome slugging attack at Fort Mellon Park. In the Sub-District, manager Sylvester "Slick" Franklin Jr.'s team slapped out 100 hits including 21 home runs. The Nationals scored 106 runs in seven games. Heavy hitters Todd Revels and Leonard Lucas lead the Nationals attack. Revels batted .667 in the seven games with eight round-trippers and 132 runs batted in. Lucas, who picked up two pitching decisions, clubbed four homers and drove in 12 runs. Catcher Jeff Blake, who had an excellent tournament behind the plate defensively, batted .518 and ripped five doubles. His uncle, Ronald, stroked four doubles and had a .444 average. The rest of the Nationals potent offense includes Tarance Carr (second base), Willie Grayson (center field), Edward Gordon (third base), Tim Graham (left field) or Shawn Green (left field) and Willie "Sugar Tex" McCloud on the mound. McCloud, just an 11-year-old, pitched the Nationals past Groveland in a must-win game last Monday before Lucas hurled the Nationals to victory in the championship game, a 6-3 victory over the same Groveland club. The crux of the American lineup is made up of four players from Hawkins'

Adcock Roofing squad which lost only two games all year, both to Franklin's city championship Poppa Jay's team. Right-hander Bellamy led the league in hitting with a .600 average. He also clubbed eight home runs. He is joined by shortstop Sammy Edwards (.445 batting average), Bernard Mitchell (.508 and four homers) and Von Eric Small (.375). Mitchell is a third baseman and Small is a center fielder. Home run leader Jason Heffington from Krayola Kollege will open at first base. Heffington slugged 10 round-trippers and batted .413. Krayola catcher Travis Pickens will be behind the plate. Pickens batted .345 for the year. Seminole Petroleum's lone representative, Tommy Mitchell, will open at second base. Mitchell batted .500 with four homers. Filling out the outfield will be Ronald Hayes from Butch's Chevron and Johnny West from Jack Prosser Ford. Hayes batted .375 and West hit .333. Filling out the rest of the American roster are Johnny Wright (S&H Fabricating), John Lewis (S&H Fabricating), Anton Reid (S&H Fabricating), Harrison Hampton (Seminole Petroleum), John Shuler (Atlantic Bank), Julius Bennett (Atlantic Bank), Beto Moreno (Butch's Chevron) and Anthony Harris (Butch's Chevron). Shuler rapped six homers during the year while Wright (.440), Lewis (.320), Hampton (.367), Reid (.327), Bennett (.368), Moreno (.378) and Harris (.361) were all productive hitters. In tonight's 6 o'clock opening game Ocala Highlands takes on Ormond Beach. The two winners play at 8 p.m. Tuesday and the two losers go at it at 6 p.m. The tournament is a double-elimination format.

All-Stars Tote Heavy District Load

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

Manager Pete Courlas and his Sanford Junior League All-Star team are carrying a heavy load into tonight's opening round District game with Ormond Beach. The Juniors have the dubious task of needing to win the District in order to advance to the State Tournament, which Sanford is hosting.

Sanford's Junior All-Stars go up against Ormond Beach tonight at 8 in Ormond Beach. The loser will play Tuesday night at 8 against the loser of tonight's first game, Port Orange vs. New Smyrna Beach. The winner will play Tuesday night at 8 against Holly Hill, which drew a first round bye.

Dewaine Mitchell, who compiled a 6-1 record and led the Kiwanis to the Junior League title, will be on the mound tonight.

The probable starting defensive alignment is:
First Base — Donald Grayson, .474, four home runs for Elks.
Second Base — David Rape, .265 for KOC.
Shortstop — Eddie Korgan, .424 for Rotary.
Third Base — Bryan Debose, .297, 2 homers for Kiwanis.
Right Field — Ashcraft, .347 for KOC.
Center Field — Alvin Jones, .333, 2 homers for Kiwanis.

Dewaine Mitchell will be on the mound tonight when the Sanford Junior League All-Stars battle Ormond Beach.

Pitcher — Mitchell, .344 for Kiwanis.
Catcher — Mike Wright, .340 for Kiwanis.
Other team members are: From KOC, Horace Knight, .296, Theron Ligons, .384. From Elks, Jasper Collins, .464. From Moose, Vernon Ramassar, .375. From Rotary, Craig Dickson, .362. From Kiwanis, Dexter Franklin, .281.
The winner of the District Tournament will advance to the State Junior League Tournament which starts August 2 at Sanford's Chase Park.

Juniors Join Party, Squash Maitland, 9-2

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

WINTER GARDEN — Behind consistent pitching, clutch hitting and the managerial exploits of sage Gene Letterio the Altamonte Junior League All-Stars walked over Maitland Saturday night, 9-2, for their third straight victory in the District (14) Tournament.

Letterio, never known as a party pooper, and the Altamonte Juniors, join the Altamonte Majors and Seniors in the undefeated ranks of District Tournament play.

There are only four teams besides Altamonte left in the tournament. Letterio's squad remains the only unbeaten team in the District. The Juniors will play again Wednesday night at 7:30 in Winter Garden. Whoever Altamonte plays will have to beat "Gene's Machine" twice in a row to win the District.

Letterio will go with either Gary Nuss or Neal Harris on the mound Wednesday night and, if necessary, will go with Mike Schmit Thursday night.

Schmit hurled a five hitter Saturday night and struck out nine for his second straight complete-game victory of the tournament.

"Mike really looked good," Letterio said. "He's a 'money player.' When the game's on the line you want him in there. The kids feel he is the best and rally behind him.

Altamonte

"And part of Mike's success is reputation, the other team knows about him and may be a little intimidated."

Altamonte jumped on Maitland pitching for 13 hits but the game was still in question going in to the seventh inning when "the flood gates opened."

Shane Letterio, who led the Juniors at the plate with three hits, lashed a double down the left field line to drive in two runs, Brett Marshall tripled in a run, Ryan Lisle had an RBI double and Neal Harris singled home another in Altamonte's six run seventh frame. Harris, Marshall, Lisle and Steve Chasey each contributed two hits.

While the hickory was humming, Altamonte's gloves were keeping Maitland off the base paths. Two exceptional defensive plays played a pivotal part in the victory. In the fifth inning, Marshall, Altamonte's shortstop, fielded a grounder that was going up the middle, stepped on second and threw on to first for a double play.

In the sixth inning, the younger Letterio, at second base, went up the middle to take away another Maitland hit and rifled the runner out at first.

"Those were two key plays," Letterio said. "They occurred when the game was still very much in doubt."

Altamonte was clinging to a 3-2 lead going into the seventh inning. The Juniors' first two runs came in the second inning and erased a 1-0 Maitland advantage. Chasey singled and Dan Beaty walked, both advanced on wild pitches and Marshall delivered a single to plate both Chasey and Beaty. Altamonte scored again in the fourth, the eventual winning run, when Letterio singled to left to knock in Chasey. "It was a convincing victory," Letterio said. "I believe we did what a good team has to do to win. We went right out and tried to win it. We didn't wait for the other team to make mistakes."

Rookie Botelho Blanks Bosox Royals Snap Streak, 9-0

United Press International Right finally prevailed for Kansas City.

Derek Botelho, an unheralded 25-year-old making his major-league debut, gave the Royals their first victory by a right-handed starter in nearly two months Sunday, a 9-0 decision over the Boston Red Sox.

"I felt good warming up, but when the game started, I had nothing," Botelho said. "I told myself, 'Bo, you better get lucky.'"

Whether it was luck or not, Botelho prospered. He allowed just three singles in a seven-inning stint while U.L. Washington, Jerry Martin and George Brett hit home runs to help the Royals snap a seven-game losing streak.

"You don't expect something like this, not when you're in Fenway Park and you've lost seven in a row," said Brett. "When you make your first major-league start, you just hope it's not in Fenway Park."

Botelho, the first right-hander to even start for Kansas City since June 24, struck out three, walked one and allowed only one runner to second base before giving way to Mike Armstrong. Botelho threw 88 pitches, yielding singles to Dwight Evans in the fourth, Jerry Remy in the sixth and Wade Boggs in the seventh.

seventh. It was the first victory for a Kansas City right-handed starter since May 25.

Botelho was a promising pitcher in the Phillies organization until he developed shoulder trouble, later diagnosed as a frayed tendon. Surgery corrected the ailment, but he said he went 18 months without even throwing, so delicate was the rehabilitation.

"In spring training, I never thought I'd be here," he confessed. "When I was recovering, I couldn't even break a pane of glass. I began to have second thoughts but I knew I'd get a shot."

At New York, Rick Cerone drove in a pair of runs with a sacrifice fly and his first homer since April 13 and Ron Guidry, 9-4, earned his first victory in more than a month to help the Yankees complete a four-game sweep of the A's. Brian Kingman, 1-7, took the loss.

Twins 6, Tigers 1 At Minneapolis, Tom Brunansky, Gary Gaetti and Gary Ward all hit solo homers to support the three-hit pitching of Brad Havens and spark the Twins. Havens, who gave up only singles to Lance Parrish in the second and Alan Trammell in the fifth over the first eight innings, lost his shutout bid in the ninth.

Blue Jays 5, Rangers 4 At Toronto, Alfredo Griffin delivered a run-scoring single with two out in the 10th, giving the Blue Jays the victory.

The Rangers had tied the score in the ninth on singles by Mickey Rivers and Jim Sundberg, an infield out and a pinch double by Bill Stein.

Orioles 4, Mariners 3 At Baltimore, Ken Singleton blasted a three-run homer and Sammy Stewart pitched one-hit relief to help the Orioles lead the Mariners their sixth loss in the last seven games. Singleton, who drove in four runs Saturday, boosted his RBI total to 49.

Indians 5, Angels 4 At Cleveland, pinch hitter Bill Nahorodny doubled home two runs with two out in the ninth, lifting the Indians despite two homers by the Angels' Doug DeCinces. Reliever Ed Glynn, 3-0, picked up his second victory in two days while Doug Corbett fell to 1-9.

Brewers 9, White Sox 3 At Milwaukee, Cecil Cooper's RBI triple highlighted a six-run second that carried the Brewers to their eighth straight victory. The triumph put Milwaukee 1 1/2 games ahead of the Red Sox in the East.

Expos Travel Easy Road For Sweep Over Padres

United Press International Not even Bob Hope and Bing Crosby ever took to the road better than the Montreal Expos.

The Expos, embarking on a 10-game West Coast visit that many predicted would be the road to ruin for manager Jim Fanning, started their trip by completing a four-game sweep of the San Diego Padres. The Expos won Sunday's finale, 9-2, and moved to within three games of first place in the National League East.

"Winning four games is a thrill anytime, but particularly so on the road," Fanning said. "When we came in, we wanted to win as many as we could but we weren't thinking sweep. It just happened that we executed just right."

The Expos took advantage of a second-inning error by shortstop Garry Templeton to score six runs en route to the victory.

In the second, Tim Wallach and Warren Cromartie singled off loser Chris Welsh, 5-4, and Chris Speier was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Winning pitcher David Palmer then grounded to Templeton, who allowed the ball to skip between his legs for an error as Wallach and Cromartie scored and Speier took third.

Tim Lincecum followed with an RBI single and Mike Gates added a run-scoring double. Andre Dawson then looped an RBI single to left and Al Oliver's forceout scored Gates with the final run of the inning.

David Palmer, who pitched the first six innings, allowed only four hits and two runs to improve his record to 5-2. Ray Burris finished the game to record his second save.

Braves 4, Cubs 2 At Chicago, Biff Pocorec had two RBI singles and Rick Camp scattered six hits in leading the Braves to victory.

Camp, 7-3, walked two and struck out two in notching his first complete game in five starts. He was supported by four double plays.

Cardinals 6, Reds 5 At St. Louis, Keith Hernandez belted a three-run homer to lead the Cardinals to their third straight victory.

Jim Kaat, who relieved starter Dave LaPoint in the fifth, pitched 2 1/3 innings to raise his record to 4-1 with his 282nd career triumph. Paul Householder homered for Cincinnati.

Astros 4, Pirates 2 At Houston, Bob Knepper pitched a five-hitter and Dickie Thon and Ray Knight collected three hits apiece in lifting the Astros to victory.

Knepper, 4-10, survived a rough first inning and settled down to register his second complete game.

Giants 4, Phillies 3 At San Francisco, pinch hitter Duane Kuiper's double with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning capped a tworun rally that gave the Giants a victory.

Mike Schmidt homered for the Phillies and second baseman Manny Trillo of the Phillies set a major-league record for most consecutive errorless chances in a single season with 426.

Mets 8, Dodgers 3 At Los Angeles, Phil Mankowski singled home George Foster with the go-ahead run in the seventh inning to spark Mets to victory.

Clampett Falters With 77 Watson Bags British Open

TROON, Scotland (UPI) — Tom Watson looked almost apologetic and not at all like someone who had just become the fifth man in golfing history to win the U.S. and British Opens in the same year.

The 32-year-old American, carding a 2-under-par 70, was back in the clubhouse Sunday settling for second place with a 72-hole total of 284 when the 11th British Open was handed to him, gift-wrapped by pacesetter South African Nick Price.

Price seemed to have the $57,600 winner's check in his pocket with a three-stroke lead and only the last six holes to cover as the setting sun dipped over Royal Troon's 7,067-yard links course. But suddenly it all went sour for the 25-year-old South African. He dropped a shot at the 12th and then lost the Championship at the 15th with a double-bogey six after hooking his tee shot and bunkering a four-iron.

"It was a killer," Price said after posting a 1-over-par 73, leaving him at 285 alongside Britain's Peter Oosterhuis, one shot behind Watson.

"I'm disappointed I could not hold onto a three-shot lead with six holes to play," he added. "I am going to dream about it and have nightmares about it."

Price was not the only man to falter in the final round which provided Watson with his fourth title in eight years. Californian Bobby Clampett, who led through the first three days and had a three-stroke cushion over Watson going into Sunday's final round, had a disastrous 77 and dropped to 10th place with 288 alongside Jack Nicklaus.

Watson admitted that he was surprised to win the title.

"If I had shot a 68 today I could have expected to win the Championship, but not with a 70. Nicky Price lost the tournament, he gave the tournament to me," Watson said.

But if one hole cost Price the title then Watson also owed his success to one hole — an eagle three at the 11th where he hit a good drive and carried his three-iron 203 yards to within three feet of the flag. "I guess that was the turning point for me," Watson said. "I've never been in the position when a man has given me the Championship like that. I feel for Nick and also Bobby Clampett. I know how they feel. It has happened to me."

Porter Out-Races Heckle For Win

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Less than an hour after LeRoy Porter's crew finished putting a fresh engine together and dropped it in Lewis Green's No. 7 late-model, Porter drove in the New Smyrna Speedway infield minutes before the end of time trials.

Unloading quickly, he turned fast time, then won the fast heat and the main event.

As for Porter's arch rival Wayne Heckle, he electrified the crowd by running door handle to door handle with Porter during the early laps of the preliminary event, only to drop out later with mechanical woes. "I'll be back," Heckle said after missing the main event because his crew couldn't get the car fixed in time for him to take the green.

Minus the complete back-end portion of his race car, Bruce Lawrence survived the crash-filled 50-lap thunder car championship to notch another victory on the high banked, half-mile of pavement.

Street stocker Rick Clouser drove the Sarna Wickham Fina Oldsmobile to the first feature win of his racing career. Four cylinder feature winner was "Good Time" Charlie Tolson.

Auto Racing

Pat Bresnahan pulled up wheel to wheel with Porter in the early laps of the main event, but Porter soon pulled away for the win.

Half-a-lap back, an interesting battle was going on between second heat winner Phil Dorman's Mixon Auto Parts-Ed's Radiator machine, the Ford of Tom Wearing, Homer Williams, Jack Hackney and newcomer "Bearman" Townsend who all finished in that order.

On lap 15 of the 50-lap thunder car main, as the leaders were threading through heavy slower car traffic inches from each other, they tangled, bent their cars and plitted. Division's high point man Jerry Fitch inherited first place and stubbornly held on to it till lap 49 when his water pump pulley broke, causing him to slide in his own water and clobber the wall, taking runner-up Lawrence with him.

At the restart, Lawrence was the new leader and went on to win, beating Pete Starr, Don't Burkhalter Jr., John Cochran and Glenn Smith.

Top street stock finishers were Clouser, Michael Murray, Ron DiCandio, Orle Smith and Bill Kinley.

Csonka, Kiick Linked To Drug Organization

FORT LAUDERDALE, (UPI) — The 15-month-old accusation that former Miami Dolphins running backs Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick were linked to drug smugglers has surfaced again.

The Fort Lauderdale News and Sun-Sentinel said in a copyright story Sunday that federal agents in New Orleans still regard the Csonka-Kiick case open for investigation.

However, neither Csonka nor Kiick has been charged with any wrongdoing and the newspaper said federal authorities had no immediate plans to bring charges against them.

The names of the two former star running backs came to light during the massive federal undercover investigation of marijuana smuggling called "Operation Grouper." Media in New Orleans reported them under investigation in April 1981. Csonka was summoned and testified before a federal grand jury at New Orleans last year.

'Clean' Canada Impresses Pair

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Thomas recently combined business and pleasure when Bob won a company trip to Montreal, Canada.

Gail (Mrs. Thomas) says she is impressed with the cleanliness of the city, and found it quite beautiful.

On their first day there, they were served by waiters wearing white gloves. Gail said it was quite ceremonious.

After breakfast they took a bus tour to Old Montreal. Later that day Gail and Bob went back to view the different churches. They especially found Notre Dame Church beautiful. The wood in the church was linden wood, and it was all hand carved and very intricate.

Also, they visited Olympic Park where they watched bike races and viewed the many Olympic pools, now open for public use.

Their second day was spent in the Laurentians Mountains, which Gail said were beautiful and untouched. They ate lunch at a mountain resort and later took a boat ride around the lake.

Gail said their most unusual day was spent on the Island of St. Helen. They ate lunch at an old Fort which was once a dungeon with stone walls. They were served soup in a mug, which was fine, but when they were served chicken, vegetables, and pie, they were only given steak knives to eat with—no spoons or forks, Gail added. They did receive wet towels to wash up with.

In spite of the messy lunch, Gail said they had a great time.

Two of their daughters, Suzanne and Julie, are visiting with grandparents in New Jersey.

Our birthday wishes go to Shelly Moore, daughter of Donna and Chuck Moore, who turned 9 on July 11. One of Shelley's Aunts in Georgia made her a "tooth fairy" pillow, which is really neat. She received a locket from her grandparents, which had a picture of her toy poodle in it.

Randy DeFazio, son of Cheri and Richard DeFazio, turned 11 on July 10; Scott Stephens, son of Vincent and Dave Stephens, turned 17 on July 12; and Kenny Thomas will turn two on July 21.

Mary Virginia Hughes, daughter of Carolyn and Buzzy Hughes will be 20 years old on July 22. Mary Virginia has arrived home recently after taking a vacation to New York City when her college term ended in Tennessee.

May each of you have many, many more happy birthdays.

Parents Win In Battle Of The Mails

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Worried Mom in Yorba Linda, Calif.," asking how to get her son who's away in the service to write regularly, triggered some memories across two generations.

Early in 1942, my mother put me on the train at the old Union Station in St. Paul, Minn. She kissed me goodbye and handed me a stack of postcards—all addressed to her. "I'll expect to hear from you every day," she said. Of course, I formed the habit of writing a postcard every day, and just when I was about to run out, another batch would arrive.

Many years later when I put my oldest son on a Marine Corps transport for Vietnam, I handed him a bundle of postcards and gave him the speech my mother had given me. It worked for him, too.

Then my second son joined the Navy, and I tried the old postcard trick on him. Heaven knows what happened to them. We never received one postcard!

He's been gone for 10 years, and he never writes; he telephones every three months instead. He's called from the Philippines, Saudi Arabia, Japan, Australia, wherever the Pacific Fleet takes him.

Some folks just don't like to write. Right?

DEAR JOHN: Right! DEAR ABBY: Know how I got my son to write when he was away in the service? I sent an urgent telegram to his commanding officer saying we had not heard from our son for so long we wanted to know if he was dead or alive.

We heard from our son shortly after, begging us never to do that again! We didn't have to—he became a fairly regular correspondent after that.

MA AND PA IN BUFFALO DEAR ABBY: Tell "Worried Mom" that if she wants a letter from one of her kids to do what we did: Write a letter and add a P.S. "Enclosed is a check." (Then "forget" to enclose a check).

Invariably you will get a letter immediately telling you that there was no check in the envelope.

MOTHER OF SIX IN PORT ANGELES, WASH. DEAR ABBY: Here's one for "Worried Mom": When our son was in the Navy in the '60s, we, too, were worried sick because he never wrote.

4-H Horticulture Institute

There will be a 4-H Citrus Horticulture Institute in Lake Placid, from Aug. 16-20, 1982. The purpose is to provide participants with increased citrus and horticultural knowledge and skills to share with others.

Anyone interested between the ages of 12 and 18 who would like to join a 4-H club next year should call 323-2600, ext. 180 for more information.

The total cost including meals, lodging, and registration is $35.00 per person.

Any adults interested in helping with a 4-H club for one year in the area of horticulture and who would like to go to camp, please call the above number by July 30.

Dear Abby

Finally I devised a letter to him as follows:
I am sick ().
I am well ().
I have been hurt ().
I had some time off and went to ().
I have not been away from the base, but ().
Etc.

I wrote a whole page of multiple choice statements and all he had to do was fill in the blanks.

He got such a big kick out of it he called us—from Alaska, and he's been calling ever since. Expensive, but satisfying.

K.C. MOM DEAR ABBY: I am a retired soldier, and during my 25-year Army career I have received hundreds of letters from worried parents who never got any mail from their sons. All the letters contained the same message:

"Dear Sir: I have not heard from my son (daughter) in six months. Please use your command authority to make him (her) write to at least let us know if he (she) is all right."

I always used the same method in dealing with these delinquents. I would call them into my office and ask them to tell me something about their families. After hearing their words of praise and admiration, I would present the letter from the concerned parents and ask, "Don't you think they deserve better than this?"

The answers ranged from a young man's lame, "I don't have a pencil," to a young woman shedding tears all over the place and promising to write faithfully forever after.

My method must have worked because I can't remember ever having received more than one letter from the same parents.

The most memorable letter was received shortly before my retirement. My commander routinely handed me one of those "Please-tell-my-son-to-write" letters to take care of, and yes, it was from my mother!

CHRISTMAS IN JULY

Taking down last year's Christmas tree a little late? Never. It's just that Christmas is a little early this year for the 12 Seminole County Extension Homemakers Clubs. Dot Roberts, from left, Rae Artman and Olive Babbitt, are decorating the 6-foot tree with colorful ornaments made by the extension homemakers. A drawing for the tree will be held at the annual SCEH Holiday Showcase on Nov. 3, at the Sanford Civic Center. Proceeds will be used for the clubs' community-oriented projects.

$$ For Young Artists

The National Foundation for Advancement announces the 1982-83 program year of the Arts Recognition and Talent Search (ARTS), a national program to identify and encourage artistically gifted young people.

ARTS is designed to give national recognition to high school age artists who have demonstrated excellence in dance, music, theater, visual arts and writing. In the 1981-82 ARTS program, the Foundation distributed nearly $4000,000 in cash awards to 150 ARTS finalists and semifinalists from around the country. Individual awards ranged from $1,500 to $4,000, with the highest amount reserved for 21 young ARTS finalists who were named the 1982 Presidential Scholars in the Arts, the nation's highest distinction for exceptional youth.

Publicity Workshop Speakers Announced

The Council of Arts and Sciences announces the speakers for the Sixth Annual Publicity Workshop to be held Thursday, July 22, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Bush Science Auditorium at Rollins College.

This year's special guest speaker is Jeanie Linders, president of the Linders Group. The Linders Group was responsible for the promotion and publicity of the recent Kool Jazz Festival in Orlando. Ms. Linders' presentation, "Publicity and All That Jazz," will cover all areas of the publicity campaign.

Other featured speakers include Ober Tyus, director of Public Affairs at Rollins College and Nick Pfeiffauf, vice-president and director of Research and Marketing Services at WESH-TV.

Tyus will tell how to "Get Organized or Get Lost" as he discusses writing the news release.

Pfeiffauf will reveal "How to Get on Television" by preparing radio and T.V. spots. A panel of media representatives will speak on "Developing the Feature Story" and discuss what is newsworthy, feature possibilities in their particular medium, who to contact and when, and more.

Participating members will be Bruce Armstrong, public service director at WKIS; Lori C. Booker, promotions manager at WMFE-FM 90 plus-WMFE-TV; Dana Eagles, assistant features editor of "The Orlando Sentinel"; Larry Neely, editor of the Oviedo "Outlook"; Glenn Logan, publisher of "EPOCH" magazine; Nancy Long, features editor of "Orlando Magazine"; and Diane Silkey, public service director at WOFL-TV 35. Audience participation will be encouraged during the panel discussion.

A new addition to this year's event will be a workshop entitled "Publicity on a Shoestring Budget." The workshop will be conducted by Ms. Booker.

Registration for the workshop begins at 8 a.m. Advance registration is requested but not required. Call the Council at "THE-ARTS (843-2787) for registration and information.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Gradually Walk Extra Weight Off

DEAR DR. LAMB— Please help. I'm 16 years old and five to 10 pounds overweight. I know I'm lucky compared to most overweight people but it's getting to be a big problem. It is causing me to worry and I'm very depressed about it most of the time.

I diet and exercise and take vinegar pills. I would like to know if there are any vitamin pills I could take to lose weight? Please help me before I go into a deep depression.

DEAR READER— You are probably overreacting to your body weight. I am a little concerned that you may be one of those young girls who has a misconception of her body image and will eventually end up starving with anorexia nervosa.

However, I will accept your statement that you are actually overweight as you refer to yourself as "chubby." But five to 10 pounds is really not a big problem.

The best way to lose that small amount of weight is to develop a regular exercise program. If you will just walk four miles a day that will use the calories in nearly a half pound of body fat each week. In 10 weeks you will have lost the five pounds. Of course, you must not eat additional calories to compensate for the exercise.

Start a food diary and write down everything you eat and drink other than water. Learn about calories and how many calories are in the various food and beverage items you consume. That will be good training for the rest of your life.

Now review your list and see which ones you can eliminate that are high in calories, such as sweets and starches or particularly fats. Eliminate enough of those to equal about 250 calories a day less than you normally consume. In a week that will equal the calories in about a half pound of fat. Each pound of body fat contains about 3,500 calories. Incidentally, vinegar does not cause you to lose calories.

And there are no vitamins that will cause you to lose weight.

If you want to follow a diet you can use the plan in The Health Letter number 47, Weight Losing Diet, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB— As a heart patient I am concerned about the lack of correct pressurization of aircraft and cabin altitude. I wrote to the Federal Aviation Administration and was told that existing regulations permit aircraft to operate at cabin altitudes exceeding 8,000 feet.

This is a dangerous level for heart patients like myself. I had a problem and know several people who had full attacks while on airplanes I am not supposed to be over 5,000 feet. Pressure should be put on airlines to reduce to below 5,000 feet for the safety of all heart patients. We would like to be able to travel without fear of attacks.

DEAR READER— When the aircraft flies at 40,000 feet the cabin pressure may be 7,500 feet. Up to 5,000 feet is tolerable for most patients unless they have a severe problem. That is the same as the altitude of Denver. Mexico City is 7,000 feet.

Patients like yourself with medical problems should check with their doctor. Most airlines will provide supplemental oxygen for use during flights at aircraft altitudes of over 22,500 to avoid any problems. This should be requested 48 hours in advance of flight.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

JULY 20, 1982
This coming year you will make a number of important adjustments in your basic lifestyle. Each change will help enhance your security and happiness.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Even though you may be anxious to launch a new venture at this time, be sure your foundations are firm before proceeding. Timing is very important. Find out more of what lies ahead for you for each season following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Do nothing out of spite or vindictiveness today, because if you try to settle the score with someone you could end up hurting yourself more in the long run.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Screen carefully today any financial or business proposition suggested by friends. Their intentions may be good but their deals could be hummers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In new career situations today, tread cautiously until you get the drift of things. Impulsive actions could alienate you from persons whose help you'll need.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If someone requests your assistance today and you don't feel you're in a position to help, say "no" up front, rather than lead this person to believe you'll eventually do SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) When considering any type of investment today, think of how it will affect you over the long haul. Be careful that you don't jump into something which may inconvenience you later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Get to know one another better before becoming too heavily involved with new associates at this time. Hasty alliances may not stand the test of time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today you may spend more time looking for new excuses to tell the boss than you'd spend if you'd actually done what was requested.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Avoid groups or cliques today which may have a member with a somewhat unsavory reputation. This person could cause you unnecessary complications.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Instead of arguing over old issues with your mate, forget the past and begin anew. Doing something social together will revitalize the relationship.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Pointing the finger of blame never solves anything. Try sitting down with those involved and collectively decide who can do what to clean up the situation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) One way to help ease financial burdens is to look for fresh ways to supplement your income. Once you start to probe, you'll find all kinds of opportunities.

Alan "I played this hand in a tough rubber bridge game against Peter Weichsel, my regular duplicate partner. I scored game and rubber, but I had to come up with a rather unusual play to make my 10 tricks."

Oswald "You've already told me about it. Peter's play of the diamond nine at trick one was normal enough."

Alan "It was, but Peter had developed a plan to defeat me. I was supposed to lead a trump at trick two. Peter would win with the appropriate honor and lead his singleton spade. I would play another trump. He would win that, lead a low diamond to his partner's 10 and ruff a spade to beat me."

Oswald "It is the sort of play Peter would think of, but I see that you had the medicine to foil his mean plan."

Alan "It was the use of a variation of the normal avoidance play. At trick two I led back a diamond. It made no difference who won it. The defense got their two trumps and one diamond, but West could never give Peter that spade ruff." (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Oswald: "Here is a perfectly normal four-heart hand. In a duplicate game the chances are that almost every North-South pair would score 620 points for four hearts bid and made."
