Funds Would Pay For Emergency Services

Polk Vows To Fight Traffic Fine Surcharge

Seminole County's medical emergency service may need more money, but Sheriff John Polk doesn't like a proposal to get that money from increased fines for traffic violations.

Barbara Smith, the county's emergency medical services director, asked the county commission to support statewide legislation calling for a special $5 surcharge on traffic violators to help finance medical services programs.

But, after hearing objections from Polk in a workshop session, the commissioners delayed action until a recommendation is received from the state Association of County Commissioners.

Polk said he will not only personally fight the proposed new surcharge if it goes before the Florida Legislature during its 1985 session, but he will urge the Florida Sheriff's Association to join the fray.

He said few of those who receive traffic citations are involved in traffic accidents. Besides, he added, Seminole's county judges aren't collecting the $5 surcharge from traffic violators already mandated by state law. The resulting revenues from that surcharge are supposed to go for police training.

Prior to the 1984 session of the Florida Legislature, Polk said the levy of the surcharge was permissive, but the 1984 Legislature passed new law making the surcharge mandatory, he said.

The proposed legislation, sponsored by the Florida Association of County

Emergency Medical Services Inc., has been introduced in the Florida Legislature several times over the past few years and failed to win enough support for approval.

Polk warned commissioners their early support of the proposal would be a mistake. He said legislative proposals

The Sanford hospital was chosen as backdrop for a scene in the film because it could accommodate the 60 actors and crew and was what they were looking for, said publicist Bobby Stein. Several of the hospital's doctors and nurses were in the scene and there were no real emergencies to be treated during the shooting. The World Film Services production will be distributed through Paramount in early summer.

2 Schools Added To Breakfast Program

By Britt Smith
Herald Staff Writer

Breakfasts will be served at Pine Crest elementary beginning in March and at Hamilton elementary starting with the 1985-86 school year, the Seminole School Board decided Wednesday night.

The breakfast program, in which students receive meals either free or on a sliding scale based on their family's ability to pay, is already in operation at Midway, Lawton, and Goldsboro elementary schools.

At Pine Crest and Hamilton they will be a pilot program "to determine if there are sufficient numbers of participants to justify" a permanent program, said Carey Ferrell, assistant superintendent for business and finance.

The school board is considering expanding the breakfast program at other elementaries as well.

Because of parental requests for the breakfasts, the board in November requested a study of the possibility of extending the service to Idylwild as well.

In a memo to the board, Ferrell suggested the program not be implemented at Idylwild "because of the limited serving facilities and need for children to utilize classroom areas for eating."

Principal Paul Murphy also objected to the idea, pointing out that "the majority of the students who would participate in the program are transported by school bus and would not arrive in time to be served breakfast unless they missed prime instructional time at the beginning of each school day."

At Pine Crest, Ferrell suggested a March pilot program.

"Because of the problems inherent in opening a new school (Hamilton Elementary), no program should be instituted this year," Ferrell's memo said. "However, because of the number of requests, a program should be initiated in the 1985-86 year to determine actual participation and, if numbers are sufficient, be continued on a permanent basis."

In other action Wednesday, the school board instructed the staff to begin negotiating with architectural firms for design of the new $1 million consolidated services center.

The top firm, of five ranked by a staff committee, is Daimwood, Derryberry, Pavelchak Architects, Casselberry.

The school system's transportation, food service, warehousing, and maintenance departments are scattered over several locations around the county. The board wants to bring all those departments together in one location.

Just before Christmas, the board closed on a site for the center, a 41.2-acre tract north of state Road 434 in Winter Springs. Cost of the land was $824,000.

Benny Arnold, assistant superintendent for facilities and transportation, said he hopes to have an architectural contract to the board for approval by the end of the month.

Plans call for building the transportation section first and relocating that department from its Longwood location by August. Construction of the entire complex is not expected to be completed until next year, Arnold said.

The school board also agreed Wednesday to seek suggestions from the public for naming the new $7.5 million middle school being built in Lake Mary which, because of a lack of an official name, has heretofore been referred to as Middle School X.

Arnold said he hopes to submit a list of possible names to the board in February with a name selected by the end of the month.

In conjunction with construction of Middle School X, the board voted unanimously to hire a Clerk-of-the-Works at an annual salary of $26,236 to $35,719 to oversee daily construction matters at the site.

In a memo to the board, Arnold said, "...due to the size of this facility and the duration of the project I feel the services of a Clerk-of-the-Works is necessary to protect our investment."

The lifespan of the job will coincide with construction of the facility "unless we have another project going on and we may keep him on," Arnold said.

According to a general job description for the post, the clerk's overall duties would be to see "that all construction work is in accordance with the Uniform Building Code."

Code Crackdown Leaves Building Dept. Short

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford City Commission has ordered city staff to "proceed with diligence" in enforcing the city's building, health and safety codes in view of the many dilapidated structures in the community. But, Building Official Gary Winn estimates it would cost $114,000 to beef up his department sufficiently to do the job over the next three years. The commission showed no interest in adding staff or spending more money. And City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles said the project "can and will be done."

The building and zoning department now has six employees including Winn, a secretary, a clerk-typist, two regular building inspectors, and a minimum housing code inspector.

Knowles says there are 8,300 residential structures and 1,000 commercial structures in the city which would have to be inspected for building code violations. And, he said, each inspection is not a 5 to 10 minute walk through.

Commissioner John Mercer has pushed for forcing compliance with the city code. "Move ahead with due haste so that the standard housing code is upheld," he said, adding the building department should designate one area of the city at a time to find all structures which are not in compliance.

Commissioner David Farr, senior member of the commission with six years service, asked his colleagues earlier this week, "Do we feel committed enough to expand the staff? What we are asking for is inspection of all buildings in the city." Farr received no reply.

Mayor Bettye Smith repeated the question and when no one responded, she told the staff to proceed with diligence.

Commissioner Bob Thomas said, however, the city should not move too fast. "We must allow suitable time for individuals to bring their homes up to code."

City law requires inspections "at reasonable times" of structures which do not comply with city health, safety and building codes. After inspections, the city notifies the owners of repairs which must be made or after public hearing and a condemnation determination by the commission, the structures must be demolished by the owners or the city at the owners' expense.

The average condemnation, Knowles says, takes six to nine months from the time the commission officially condemns a structure until demolition or repair is accomplished.

However, the city commission in the past has extended deadlines for repairs when the city inspector reported repairs were moving forward, when the owner was ill or unable to complete repairs speedily.

Winn estimates the cost of adding an inspector and a clerk typist to complete an intensive search for health, safety and building code violations would take a period of nearly three years at a cost of $114,000 if only one new inspector and one new clerk-typist were hired.

Hero Alive, Relatives Say

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Raoul Wallenberg, who disappeared 40 years ago today after saving tens of thousands of Hungarian Jews from Nazi death camps, is still alive in the Soviet Union, according to his relatives.

Sweden and several other Western nations, including the United States, will hold ceremonies today marking the grim anniversary of the World War II hero's capture by Soviet troops.

Wallenberg, a Swedish diplomat, was sent to Hungary by the Swedish and U.S.

governments in 1944 to distribute Swedish passports to tens of thousands of Hungarian Jews. He was arrested Jan. 17, 1945, in Budapest by a Soviet Red Army patrol on suspicion of being a Western spy. He was never heard from again. If alive, he would be 72.

In London, Wallenberg's half-brother, Guy Von Dardel, said Wednesday he remains convinced Wallenberg is still alive.

Wallenberg was made an honorary U.S. citizen in 1981, the second in this century, along with Winston Churchill.

Longwood Moves To Expand Sewage Treatment Plants

Longwood City Commissioners, meeting in a work session Wednesday night, agreed all steps should be taken to have additional percolation ponds in place at the city's Skylark and Columbus Harbour sewage treatment plants as soon as possible to relieve existing problems, said City Clerk Don Terry.

They also declined a proposal to hire Jeff Etchberger, former assistant Seminole County administrator and Altamonte Springs City Manager, as a consultant on the city budget and decided to do nothing on evaluating the budget until the audit is complete. A work session will be held with the city bookkeeper and auditor to review the budget after the audit of the city's books is completed by Hartsock & Hartsock of Sanford.

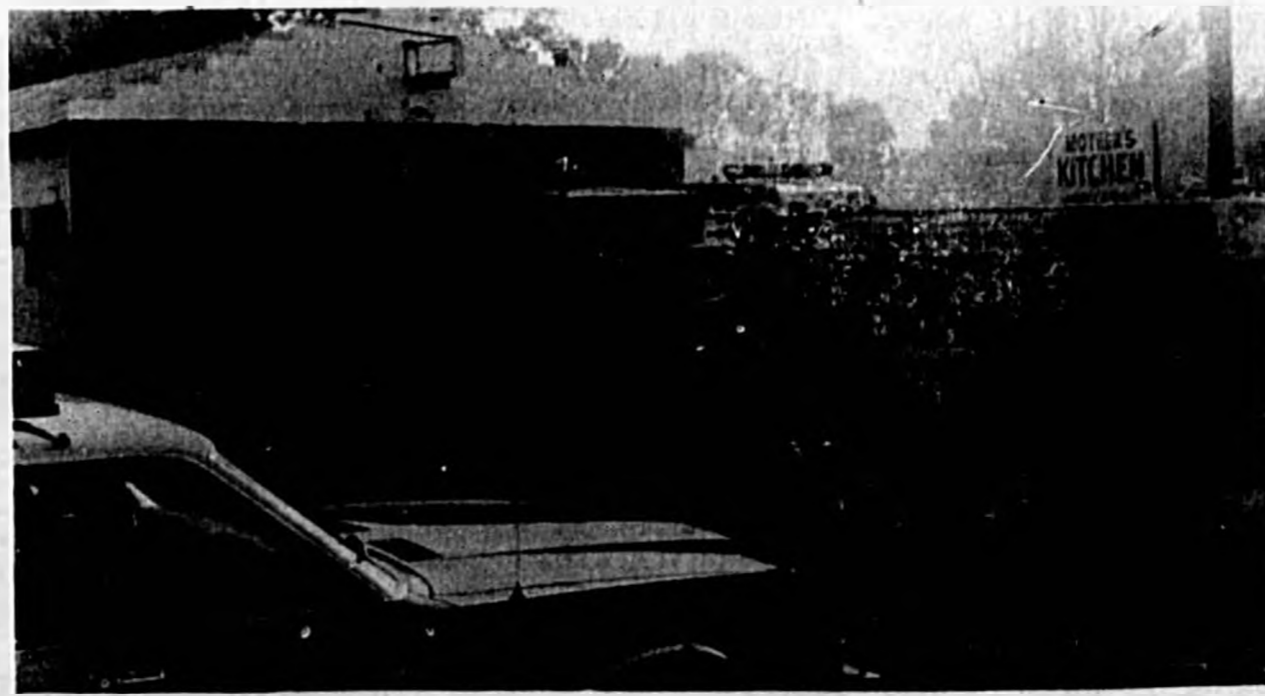

On the Skylark permit, commissioners asked attorney Sylvia Alderman, from the Tallahassee office of the city's law firm of Swan and Haddock, to contact the Department of Environmental Regulation today to determine the exact status of the permit and find out what needs to be done to get permission to dig percolation ponds for Skylark and Columbus Harbour plants. Ms. Alderman was formerly deputy commissioner for DER for nine years.

No decision was made on whether to go ahead with expansion of the Skylark plant or not. Concern was expressed by developer Howard Lefkowitz of Florida Residential Communities that if the capacity for the Skylark plant was kept at 200,000 gallons a day whether contractual agreements already made with developers for hook-ups already purchased would be honored.

South Seminole Community Hospital Administrator Robert Blumentritt representing Hospital Corporation of America and Phillip Tatch, representing developer Georges St. Laurent, were present.

U.S. To Meet With Soviets For Middle East Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration appears to be aggressively pursuing a thaw in U.S.-Soviet relations by reviving discussions of arms control and trade and agreeing for the first time to hold talks on the volatile Middle East.

As President Reagan congratulated members of his national security team Wednesday on the resumption of arms negotiations with Moscow, White House officials disclosed that the superpowers also soon will discuss differences involving the Middle East.

White House spokesman Robert Sims said Washington and Moscow had "agreed in principle" to the talks and stressed "such an exchange would be part of our regular diplomatic dialogue with the Soviets."

National security adviser Robert McFarlane would characterize the talks on the Middle East only as an informal "exchange of views." In keeping with U.S. policy laid down during the Carter administration, he stressed, "This is not a matter of formal negotiations at all."

Cigarette Taxes To Cut Deficit?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress may not call it a tax hike, but the head of the Senate Finance Committee says lawmakers will try to raise money in some form this year, including extending a 16-cent-a-pack cigarette tax.

Although Senate Republican leader Robert Dole has ruled out any new tax increases as part of a deficit-reduction plan, Finance Committee Chairman Bob Packwood, R-Ore., predicted Wednesday that Congress would boost some federal fees and block a scheduled cut in the cigarette tax.

The tax, raised to 16 cents per pack in January 1983, is scheduled to go back to 8 cents in October. The Reagan administration estimates the 16-cent levy will produce $5.2 billion in fiscal year 1985.

Rockettes Refuse Disney Jobs

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Rockettes will keep picketing Radio City Music Hall, and keep fighting their ouster by Walt Disney Productions, despite Disney's offer to hire 18 dancers at Epcot Center this summer.

Protests began last Thursday when the Rockettes were informed they would not be needed for 10 weeks this summer while a Disney production used the massive hall.

The Rockettes said it would be the first summer in 54 years without them in the Music Hall.

Disney Productions Wednesday offered 18 Rockettes jobs at Florida's Epcot Center for the summer on condition the dancers quit picketing Radio City.

All 36 dancers refused to stop demonstrating, citing "freedom of speech." A Disney executive termed the Rockettes' decision "unfortunate but we do not want to slam the door. We have not withdrawn the offer."

Convicted Killer Says Cousin Helped Him Murder Two Girls

TAVARES (UPI) — The prosecution's star witness, convicted killer David Alan Gore, testified he and his cousin, Frederick Waterfield, kidnapped and killed two teenage runaways who were hitchhiking along Interstate 95 in May 1983.

Gore took the stand Wednesday on the first day of testimony in Waterfield's murder trial and was to return to the stand today.

Waterfield, 32, a Vero Beach mechanic, is charged in the murders of Barbara Ann Byers and Angelica LaVallee, both 14-year-old residents of Orlando, at the time of their deaths.

Gore, 31, already has pleaded guilty — in an agreement with prosecutors — to the murders of the girls. However, Gore testified Waterfield was his accomplice.

Aspin: MX Support Depends On Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The new chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, who was instrumental last year in the MX missile's survival in Congress, says his backing this year depends on the arms control situation.

Les Aspin, D-Wis., in his first meeting with reporters since becoming chairman of the panel, said Wednesday he has not made up his mind on the MX.

The former Pentagon economist said his position "depends on what's going on at the time and what progress is being made. The MX by itself, I never thought that made good sense. When it's part of a coherent strategy to reduce the vulnerability of land-based missiles, I've voted for it."

The controversial 10-warhead missile barely survived in Congress last year, thanks in large part to Aspin. The construction of another 21 missiles for fiscal 1985 hinges on two votes this spring in both the House and Senate.

The administration is arguing it needs the MX and its proposed so-called "star wars" missile defense research program left intact as it restarts arms talks with the Soviet Union.

Aspin indicated he believes the "star wars" program — known formally as the Strategic Defense Initiative — which might produce weapons able to down missiles, could supplant the MX as a bargaining chip at the arms table.

"It might be conceivable to use SDI as a bargaining chip rather than MX ... in order to get the Soviets to reduce throw-weight and warheads in order to make Midget Man (a small one-warhead missile now being researched) survivable.

"I would like to know what our negotiating package, what we're trying to do, before deciding (on the MX)," he said.

Earlier, in an address to the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, Aspin said the administration should explain what will be done with the MX now that it is not central to the arms negotiations.

Those talks include long-and intermediate-range missiles and defensive systems, including anti-satellite weapons and the "star wars" program.

Before it votes on the MX and the budget, he said, Congress also will want to know where the space defense program is headed, how the administration will deal with immediate arms control issues such as submarine missiles, what precisely are its positions on the strategic and intermediate missiles and the deterrence value of the "star wars" package.

In his address, Aspin lauded as an "impressive victory" the administration's arranging for renewed talks with the Soviets.

But he warned that if the administration wants congressional support it must keep Congress informed.

He also said Congress is unlikely to fund all Pentagon spending requests just because arms control talks are in progress. The deficit also must be taken into consideration.

Building Blocks

A group of Seminole County officials and representatives from Heathrow lay blocks on a partially constructed wall of county Fire Station 36. The station, located next to Heathrow on Lake Mary Boulevard and Markham Woods road, is scheduled to be completed in June. Left to right are: Ken Hooper, county administrator; Robert Sturm, county commissioner; Gary Kaiser, county public safety director; Bruce Anderson, Roger Soderstrom and Tom Stevenson, all of Heathrow.

City Girds For Growth

In an effort to keep pace with the city's rapid growth, the Lake Mary Police Department is beefing up its staff and equipment.

The city recently hired a policeman, bringing the total number of officers to 10, and at Thursday's city commission meeting bids are scheduled to be opened for a new police car.

The commission will meet at 7:30 p.m. in city hall at 158 N. Country Club Road.

The city has budgeted a maximum of $10,500 for the vehicle which Police Chief Harry Benson said should be delivered by June.

The new car will boost the department's fleet to four patrol cars. The existing three cruisers are in good running order, but they have very high mileage, Benson said.

In other action Thursday, the commission is expected to open bids on publication of a book written by longtime resident Margaret Wesley on Lake Mary's early history.

The book is an effort by the city to preserve its heritage, one that is fast changing as Lake Mary continues to grow at an increasing pace.

Screwdriver-Wielding Bandit Robs Fern Park Store

A bandit who started to fill out an employment application before threatening a Fern Park Shop & Go clerk with a screwdriver got away with about $170 in a holdup Wednesday.

Betty A. Snyder, 62, of Casselberry told sheriff's deputies the robber entered the store on Spartan Road at about 1:10 a.m. Wednesday. He asked for an employment application and began filling it out at the front counter. Ms. Snyder turned her back and the man jumped over the counter, put a screwdriver to her back and demanded cash, a sheriff's report said.

Ms. Snyder put money from the register in a paper bag and the man demanded more. She took additional cash from the top of a drop safe and handed it over the report said.

The bandit ordered Ms. Snyder into a back storage room, but on the way he stopped and took her wallet from her purse which was under a counter. The man ordered Ms. Snyder to stay in the storage room for 10 minutes or he would kill her. But when she heard him go out the door she came out and called the sheriff's department, the report said.

a telephone booth at the Shop & Go on Lake Drive, Casselberry, at about 6 p.m. Thursday. Leman spotted the man and took him into custody, he said.

Oviedo police investigator Louis Mars said today that the man disappeared after assaulting and holding his wife Hattie Murphy, 29, against her will in their home at 591 Alvin Ave., on Oct. 1 and 2.

Mars said the suspect's car was found abandoned at an Orange County convenience store at about 5 p.m. Thursday, shortly before his arrest at the Casselberry Shop & Go. Mars said he was apparently calling someone to pick him up.

Kerry Murphy, 25, of 591 Alvin Ave., was jailed at 6:18 p.m. Thursday. He was being held without bond in the Seminole County jail.

GUNMAN CAPTURED
Altamonte Springs police captured a man who reportedly waved a gun as he and four other men drove around an Altamonte Springs service station several times Wednesday.

The Daytona Beach man was charged with possession of a firearm by a convicted felon, possession of a concealed fire arm and grand theft. His companions were not charged, a police report said. Police reported they were alerted by a motorist that the gun was being brandished at the Tennesse on Douglas Road at state Road 436 at about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Police located and stopped the car at Ashby Square, state Road 436, Altamonte Springs. They reported finding a .38-caliber revolver hidden beneath the car seat where the suspect was sitting. The gun had been reported stolen in an auto burglary in Daytona Beach on Jan. 13, a police report said.

The suspect who was charged had been convicted on a 1977 charge of possession of a concealed weapon, police reported.

Calvin Stanley Grimes, 26, was arrested at 8:50 p.m. Wednesday. He was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

A police investigation led to the arrest of Alphonso Glover, 26, of 120 Bethune Circle. Glover was arrested at 10:05 a.m. Wednesday at Bahama Joe's. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

HAIR PULLING ABUSE
An Altamonte Springs man has been charged with spouse abuse after allegedly dragging his wife out of their apartment by the hair.

In addition to the hair pulling, Altamonte Springs police reported the man allegedly kicked Patricia L. Male and slammed a door on her head after trying earlier to smother her with a pillow.

Police questioned the victim and suspect and charged Robert David Male, 36, of 101 E. Altamonte Drive #1021, with spouse abuse at 3:01 p.m. Wednesday. He was being held in lieu of $500 bond.

Merchant Fleet Must Face Truth

Our merchant fleet is dying — and it is not a slow death. There are only 428 American-owned and operated oceangoing ships today, compared to a fleet of 1,479 vessels which plied the seas 15 years ago. In contrast, the Soviet Union has a fleet of 2,500 merchant ships. Thirty-five years ago our merchant marine was ranked in first place. Now it has slipped to 11th in the world pecking order. The number of crew members employed on U.S. vessels has dropped from 70,000 in 1954 to fewer than 18,000 today. More than $300 billion in cargo arrives and leaves the United States each year, but less than 5 percent is carried in American ships. The Soviets handle more U.S. cargo than we do.

U.S.-flag vessels are required by U.S. law to carry American crews, and those crews are entirely made up of members of powerful, monopolistic labor unions that have the clout to enforce their demands. That is the big reason for high operational costs. Wages paid to American seamen are about 2.5 times those paid to European crews and more than six times those paid to Third World crews.

In 1982, the master of a U.S. LASH ship (a barge-carrying vessel), admittedly one of the highest-paid billets, cost his company $302,000 in wages and benefits. In the same year the captain of a small U.S. commercial tanker received $171,000. These are not isolated cases. These wages compare to about $70,000 per year paid to the Navy captain of a U.S. aircraft carrier in salary, allowances and retirement benefits.

The disappearing U.S. merchant fleet is of deep concern to the government because these ships have always served in time of national emergency as a Navy auxiliary force to carry men, material and supplies.

Traditionally, the government has offered operating subsidies to keep the maritime industry at strength. Clearly, this is not working. Protectionism only cripples an industry, so it can never become competitive. The merchant marine needs increases in productivity — modern vessels that can be used with computerized efficiency, manned by fewer crew members who will work for less pay and with fewer perks. It may be necessary to repeal the law prohibiting foreign crews on U.S. vessels. Somehow, the maritime unions must be made to face competitive reality, just as airline labor organizations had to do.

An executive with National Steel and Shipbuilding Co. is convinced that America can never reduce ship operational costs and the number of crew members to the point that the United States can become competitive with other nations. He suggests a cargo preference law that would gradually require that more and more U.S. cargo be moved on American vessels. "All nations have some sort of cargo preference laws," he says. "They carry their own cargoes while we continue to support the merchant fleets of every other country by allowing them to handle U.S. exports and imports."

But cargo preferences would be a crutch. A deficit-ridden government and a shaky economy cannot afford to buy that crutch. It would mean continued protection through tax-supported subsidies or higher import prices and lower export prices. If America is ever to regain a strong independent merchant fleet, it will have to start by breaking the labor monopoly.

Dismantling Bureaucracy Near Impossible

WASHINGTON — Businesses often achieve certain economies by merging with other enterprises or by consolidating their various subsidiaries and getting rid of wasteful and costly overhead.

Such common sense decision-making occurs all the time in the marketplace, where cost-effective performance is the name of the game and accountability is scrupulously demanded.

Strong, well-run banks take over weak, poorly managed banks and thus broaden their potential markets. Oil companies buy out other oil enterprises to expand their reserves — far more cheaply than if they had to go out and search for new oil in a market of declining prices.

But in Washington, where there may be more administrative overlap, duplication and dead weight than anywhere else in the country, mergers and consolidations are rarely pursued, let alone achieved.

President Nixon once proposed creating a handful of "super-departments" by merging the related programs of several existing departments. Nixon suggested, for example, that the departments of Labor and Commerce, whose statistical functions often overlap each other, be merged into a single department. Nixon's proposals went nowhere. Powerful committee barons whose clout would have disappeared along with the departments slated for elimination opposed the idea.

President Carter was even more ambitious, pledging to consolidate the entire federal bureaucracy "down to no more than 200" major agencies. He never made good on his promise. President Reagan made similar promises to merge and eliminate redundant programs, and some minor gains have been made. The most recent example: elimination of the Civil Aeronautics Board. Deregulation of the airline industry made the CAB obsolete — though the phase-out was begun over five years ago in the Carter administration.

Unfortunately, a lot of so-called "abolished agencies" never disappear entirely. Originally, the administration wanted to scatter the CAB's remaining functions among several agencies, but in the end its leftover bureaucracy was shoved into the Department of Transportation.

With several exceptions, most of the president's consolidation proposals have gotten nowhere — thanks to a Congress that doesn't like eliminating any of its creations, no matter how wasteful.

House Watchers Unswayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democrats are taking some comfort from a survey that suggests the people who watch the House proceedings on cable television are not being unduly swayed by Republicans members who use the broadcasts to harass the Democrats.

The survey also indicates the House sessions, although sometimes confusing and boring, attract a surprisingly large audience.

Television coverage of the House began in 1977. Network news shows often include a few seconds of tape from major House debates, but C-SPAN (the Cable Satellite Public Affairs Network) runs live coverage of the House sessions, from beginning to end and without commentary.

The C-SPAN coverage continues even when the House has finished its work for the day and all that is left to watch are "special orders" — speeches, up to one hour long, by any member with an urge to talk. Over the past year, a group of conservative Republicans have used that time period to attack Democrats and advertise their own agenda.

The Democratic leadership has worried about the effect of the GOP's televised onslaught and recently the Democrats considered imposing a strict time limit on the speechmaking, but that plan came up short when even some Democrats objected.

According to the audience survey done for C-SPAN, the Democrats need not worry quite so much. Using the presidential election as a measure of viewer sentiment, the survey found that 55 percent of the C-SPAN audience voted for President Reagan, compared to 68 percent of other cable subscribers who do not watch C-SPAN and the 59 percent of the general population that voted Republican.

"C-SPAN people were approximately 4 points less likely to vote Republican than the rest of the country and 13 points less likely than the remaining cable subscribers," the report said.

Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., the Democrats' chief deputy whip, said the study indicates the Republicans are "shooting themselves in the foot" with their televised attacks.

The Democrats probably are taking an overly optimistic view of the survey findings. Even if the C-SPAN audience lagged behind the rest of the electorate in voting for Reagan they did give him 55 percent of their vote — a more than adequate majority.

The survey report may be on target, however, in warning both parties to be careful in relating to the C-SPAN audience, which the survey found to be a rather independent, up-scale group.

U.S. Dragged Heels On Ethiopian Aid

WASHINGTON — Why did it take two years for the Reagan administration to discover that the famine in Ethiopia was a disaster that transcended its political hostility toward the Marxist regime in Addis Ababa?

Like many bad decisions made in Washington, this one was produced by committee. Here's what happened:

In 1982, officials of the Agency for International Development became convinced, through reports from the field, that a dangerous situation was developing in Ethiopia and the Sudan. An inter-agency task force was set up to deal with the problem — with representatives from the State, Defense and Agriculture departments, together with AID, the CIA and the National Security Council.

By 1983, the committee was meeting at least once a month, and

Joy Of Politics?

It is possible that someone — Mayor Ed Koch of New York comes to mind — could write a book called The Joy of Politics. I myself could not. Sadness seems to shadow the political road. These reflections are provoked by the twin departures of Mike Deaver and Bill Clark from the Reagan administration.

It is no secret in Washington that the two men have become bitter enemies over the past 18 months. Deaver recently quipped that he did not see how the two of them could be feuding, since Clark "has not spoken to me for the past year." The quarrel has to do with the differences between "pragmatists" and "real conservatives" within the administration, and some of the issues involved are important.

Reagan himself believes that his own conservative credentials are secure enough, and is bemused by conservative criticism of his staff. Former Chief of Staff Jim Baker is an honest broker, respected by Reagan, but has no serious history of policy positions. Mike Deaver is intensely loyal to Reagan, and, as an image maker, felt that it was in Reagan's own interest to soften the edges of the presidential image. Bill Clark cares about policy, and, as the man who urged the Grenada invasion, may have done much more than Deaver for the Reagan image.

There were better days. I have known both Deaver and Clark since 1968, when I went to Sacramento for what turned out to be an unsuccessful attempt to wreathe the Republican nomination away from Nixon in favor of Reagan.

Bill Clark at the time was Reagan's chief of staff, and if it had not been for Clark it is very likely that Reagan would not be president today.

Reagan had won the election for governor over Pat Brown by a million votes, but as he assumed office there was a homosexual scandal at the highest levels of his administration — and resignations. Morale plummeted. Bill Clark came aboard as chief of staff and pulled the whole show together. He must be the calmest man in the world, slow talking, cowboy boots behind his mahogany desk in the governor's office. It is because of Clark that Reagan, in due course, could joke about the whole homosexual thing. When Truman Capote paid a visit to the governor's office and chatted with Reagan and then left, Reagan quipped: "Maybe we should troll him through the halls and see if there are any more around here."

Mike Deaver helped to shape a campaign imagery about which there will be debate for a long time to come. It did not prepare an agenda for the second term, and permitted Reagan's enemies to claim that the voters had merely voted for happiness and a four percent inflation rate.

Nancy Reagan is reported in the press to have remarked that Deaver, for the past year, has been publicizing himself at the expense of the president. She has been quoted as saying that Mike should remember that he is "the help."

Nancy Reagan is also said to hold a grudge against Bill Clark because he did not resign from the California Supreme Court in 1980 to join a Reagan primary campaign that was faltering against George Bush.

Clark and Deaver are devoted to Ronald Reagan, but they have difficult opinions about his best interest. The summer of 1968 seems a long time ago, and someone else will have to write that book called The Joy of Politics.

Baby Babbling Clues

BOSTON (UPI) — Listen closely the next time you hear a baby babble. The child could be offering clues to whether it will have a speech impairment when it begins to talk.

Although research on such things is still in its earliest phases, preliminary evidence suggests that abnormal babbling may offer clues to later speech difficulties.

Approximately three to five percent of all school-aged children have some sort of speech impairment. If problems could be detected before the child learns to speak, therapists might be able to minimize later difficulties.

"If we wait too long it makes effective diagnosis and treatment much more difficult," said John L. Locke, director of Massachusetts General Hospital's new neurolinguistics laboratory. "The disability often causes emotional problems or visa versa. After a while it's difficult to tell what's causing what."

At present, severe cases of speech impairment are usually detected before a child enters school, but most moderate and mild cases are not discovered until later. At that point the child may already have fallen far behind in its social and intellectual development.

"This is a very complex topic. Many times the child won't talk at all, or it uses one-word utterances where it should be using phrases," said Jeni Yamada, a linguist at the lab.

In severe cases a speech-impaired person may be able to say only verbs and nouns and not the interconnecting words, making speech almost unintelligible.

Moderate and mild cases may seem like the child is just a little slow at speech development, which makes distinguishing between slow starters and the truly speech impaired difficult.

One of the ways Locke is solving the secrets of babbling is by studying children made temporarily mute by a tracheotomy — a small incision in the throat necessary for them to breathe.

"During this period they are unable to make any noise with their mouth," Locke said. "As a result they lie in their crib surrounded by people who talk to them and to each other and they're incapable of responding in kind."

Locke wants to know whether these children babble and talk any differently than normal children when doctors close the hole a year to several years later. He hopes these experiments may illuminate the role of babbling in childhood development, and ultimately help in the early detection of speech impairments.

Pope's Sex Teachings: Not A Democratic Vote

By Paula Batturial
VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican has followed Pope John Paul II's five-month series of sex and birth control lectures with a pointed and preemptory attack on dissenters.
 The broadside left little room for further discussion of the Roman Catholic Church's total ban on birth control — at least for the reign of the conservative Polish-born pontiff.
 "Today ... it is no longer possible to have doubts about the authoritative doctrine of the church and about the unacceptability of dissent," said a front-page editorial in the Vatican City newspaper two weeks after the pope's lectures ended Nov. 28.
 "The editorial, written by Archbishop Edouard Gagnon, pro president of the Pontifical Commission for the Family, drew little of the public attack it might have gotten from liberal theologians during the heady days following the Second Vatican Council.
 Several moral theologians asked for comment on the subject flatly refused.

 The pope, who has studied the birth control issue in depth since 1980 — when some U.S. and British bishops urged relaxation of the ban — broke little new ground in his five months of weekly talks.
 He repeatedly restated the fundamental Catholic teaching that "every marital act must remain open to the transmission of life."
 In perhaps his strongest statement, John Paul said sexual intercourse, even between married couples, "ceases to be an act of love" if artificial birth control is used.
 In several lectures he stressed the importance of "conjugal chastity," counseling married Catholics to abstain from sex if they wish to limit the size of their families. He said the church understands the difficulty of adhering to its birth control ban but imposes it "for the true good of man."
 The pope said even natural methods like rhythm can be morally wrong if used for "unworthy reasons."

 Vatican officials do not expect the pope's tough line to stifle dissent or change the minds of millions of recalcitrant Catholics who ignore the artificial birth control ban.
 In the United States alone, bishops estimated in 1980 that nearly 80 percent of their adult congregations were using artificial birth control methods and that less than a third of U.S. priests believed such methods were intrinsically immoral.
 But John Paul's extraordinary personal campaign against artificial contraception is a clear sign that he and the Vatican hierarchy believe the season for liberal dissent is over.
 Gagnon's editorial charged "certain professors" with orchestrating opposition to Pope Paul VI's landmark encyclical "Humanae Vitae" (On Human Life) for their own purposes.
 That document, which disappointed millions of American and Western European Catholics when it was published in 1968, reaffirmed the church's traditional ban on artificial birth control.

 Gagnon accused the unnamed theologians of taking advantage of the liberalizing trends that swept through the church in the 1960s. They were "happy to find in a certain popular resistance to the encyclical a good opportunity to propagandize their own ideas on the autonomy of the individual conscience," he wrote.
 "Individual conscience" is hardly a rallying cry six years into the reign of the conservative John Paul.
 "Church doctrine has nothing to do with a democratic vote," said one Vatican source. "It's not a question of who wants to obey obeys. If something is the will of God we must obey."
 Gagnon's editorial said the pope's campaign sought to dissipate doctrinal confusion, show "the only way out" of society's crises and sustain "with a solid doctrine" the efforts of people fighting "in defense of life and the institution of matrimony."

Just Found and Released For Public Sale

GENUINE UNITED STATES GOV'T. SILVER DOLLARS

ALL COINS UP TO 100 YEARS OLD

26.4% Annual Interest Guaranteed Last 10 Years

UNITED STATES COIN RESERVE

U. S. Coin Reserve, a distributor of Government Currency is officially announcing the release of its famous collection of 3000 high grade U. S. Government Silver Dollars. Due to the market surge and tremendous demand from the American Public the Officers of the U. S. Coin Reserve have been forced to authorize the release of their last current stockpiles of silver dollars. Most of these 50 to 100 year old coins are Brilliant Uncirculated and include many from the Carson City Mint. Since this collection must be sold out completely in only one week we are offering these coins for $50.10 less than a major national advertiser! Only $34.90 each! Orders received later may not be honored due to volatile fluctuations in the precious metals market, and checks may be returned uncashed.

- ### REASONS TO BUY NOW
1. THE NEW YEARS INVESTMENT OF A LIFETIME.
 2. National and World Economists state that Historical Gov't Silver is one of the world's best investments.
 3. Based on the estimated 1% remaining coins only one family out of 125 can own any of these priceless U. S. Silver Dollars.
 4. Rare coin analysts state that these Gem Gov't Silver Dollars could be worth $1000 each in only 5 years.
 5. Gov't Silver coins, with permanent collector value are considered by many experts to be a much better investment than silver bullion with no collector value.
 6. Each coin is U. S. Mint fresh and in a special airtight cache.
 7. IN OUR OPINION, THESE COINS HAVE ONLY BEEN HANDLED BY BANKERS AND MINT PERSONNEL.
 8. A LIMIT OF TWO HUNDRED COINS PER ORDER WILL STRICTLY BE ADHERED TO! SO, AVOID DISAPPOINTMENT. ACT NOW!

NO LOSE INVESTMENT

American citizens from all walks of life including Bankers, Lawyers, Doctors, Stockbrokers, Collectors and Investors are searching frantically for what is considered by experts the world over to be a No Lose Investment. Once thought to be plentiful 50 years ago investors are now scrambling to get their hands on the nearly impossible to find Gem United States Government Silver Dollars. Well-known brokers such as Salomon Brothers have published reports stating that for the last 10 years, rare coins have outperformed all other investments, tangible as well as financial. Silver dollars alone have had an annual appreciation rate of 26.4% despite fluctuations in the price of silver! It is a proven fact that smart investors, for the last 10 years, have been secretly hoarding these coins. They are sitting on a silver mine which they will not sell and already have at least 1000% overall appreciation! This is just the "Tip of the iceberg" in terms of what is to come, for example the 1891-0 is now worth $85 and is projected by experts in only 10 years to be worth approximately $1000! Even more startling is the fact that only 10 years ago this coin could be bought for $7-$10! This is a proven fact and documented in records of American History.

CONGRESS MELTDOWNS CREATE SHORTAGE

These beautiful pieces of American History were created by the millions at the United States Mint over a century ago. Although when one studies U. S. History it becomes obvious why these treasured relics are so rare today. In 1918 during WWI, Congress authorized the melting down of 350,000,000 (350 million) silver dollars, after this regrettable event the value and scarcity of these coins increased dramatically. Also in 1980 when silver exploded to $50.00 per ounce, the private sector melted down millions more U. S. silver dollars leaving a decimated and widely scattered supply. Our staff of experts at the U. S. Coin Reserve has estimated that only 1% of the original mintage of uncirculated coins still exist. Most of these are not for sale but are being held by large investors until they are worth at least $1000 each. Remember that this treasured, historical silver represents some of this great nation's most illustrious periods in history, the frontier of The Wild West including the silver mines of Carson City, Nevada, Jesse James and rough stage coach travel, Henry Ford and the newfangled Model T and lastly the Roaring 20's and the beginning of American Jazz Music. This is a once in a lifetime opportunity to invest in a piece of this country's most valuable resource, the UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT HISTORICAL SILVER DOLLARS.

GREENBACKS OBSOLETE?

Also the U. S. Treasury in an effort to stop counterfeiting of paper money is considering changing the design & color of our present paper money. This factor along with the astronomical Government Federal Deficit create the perfect opportunity to invest in "Hard Silver Money". The offering of this famous Last Known Hoard may represent the final opportunity for anyone to invest in this priceless Government Silver. Following the normal economic formula for supply and demand the U. S. Coin Reserve (Verret Rare Coin Analysts) projects that these U. S. Silver Dollars will easily be worth $1000 each in just 5 years time. This is an appreciation rate of almost 100% yearly!

LAST KNOWN GOV'T SILVER RELEASED

Through our national coin networks the U. S. Coin Reserve, a division of Verret Enterprises, a private corporation, has taken a major audit of the silver dollar supply of the entire United States. The results indicate that this famous hoard of 3000 Gems is the last known public collection of its size and quality available. NO other comparable collection is for sale anywhere in the United States. Also consider the fact that investments such as oil, diamonds, gold or silver bullion, represent commodities of unlimited supply. Through modern mining techniques the supply of these commodities never really runs out, but the highly collectible Government Silver Dollars have a LIMITED, FINITE and ever DECREASING supply.

STRICT LIMIT

Since our price of $34.90 each is an incredible one half of our full market value, we expect an avalanche of orders to come pouring in. Therefore, we advise you to get your order in early before the strictly limited supply at this price is sold. We offer a 4 day examination period for each order; orders returned within that time will receive a full refund. A limit of one hundred and twenty coins per order will be strictly adhered to! So, avoid disappointment. Act now!

No 3-Minute Magic: Seminoles Fall To Astronaut

TITUSVILLE — For 29 minutes Tuesday night, Sanford's Fighting Seminoles and the Apopka Blue Darters turned in some pretty awful basketball. They ran up and down the court with no rhyme or reason. Scoreless spells were the rule and not the exception.

In the last three minutes, however, Rod Henderson, Kenny Gordon and James Rouse started to click and the Tribe pulled out a one-point thriller on Henderson's basket with 12 seconds to play.

Wednesday night, though, the Tribe wasn't so fortunate. This time, the helter-skelter play lasted for 32 minutes as coach Chris Marlette's rag-tag troops dropped a 64-54 encounter to Titusville Astronaut, a team which they had beaten handily earlier in the year.

"We played very lethargic. We were not inspired. We looked terrible, again," said Marlette. "I don't know what the matter is. We're not playing with any intensity."

The setback, a nonconference one, dropped the Tribe to 9-5. "We're going to have to play a lot better than that at Lake Brantley Friday," said Marlette.

Basketball

"Most of the teams around here are better than Astronaut. They were playing without their best player, too."

Astronaut broke to a 12-8 first-quarter lead and expanded the margin to 26-15 at halftime. The War Eagles continually beat the Seminoles on the offensive boards and limited them to just one shot on the defensive end. Astronaut held a 41-19 advantage on the boards.

Despite the lackadaisical effort,

Seminole, like Tuesday, had a chance for redemption with four minutes left. Henderson, Gordon and Rouse shoot the Tribe within four, 55-51, and Gordon came up with a steal near the sideline.

En route to the layup, however, he was called for stepping on the out of bounds line and turned the ball over.

Rouse led the 'Noles with 19 points and five rebounds. Henderson tossed in 13 and Gordon added 10.

In junior varsity action, sophomore James Dennard poured in a career-high 35 points as Seminole stormed past Astronaut, 66-45. It was coach Tom Smith's eighth win in 11 games.

Todd Knebbe and Joe Holden each chipped in eight points while Steve Hathaway had seven. Mike Edwards totaled four. Craig Dixon and Mike Franklin each tallied a bucket.

Baumhower: Super Isn't Worth $1,000

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bob Baumhower has seen plenty of big-time football since he played at the University of Alabama, has been voted to the Pro Bowl five times and will be taking part in his second Super Bowl on Sunday.

He is aware of the excitement that builds toward big games and he thinks that it is perfectly acceptable for football fans to make fools of themselves at this time of year.

But, he says, there should be a limit.

"The Super Bowl gets bigger every year," said Baumhower, who has played linebacker for the Miami Dolphins for eight years and who will be a key factor in his team's attempts to slow down the San Francisco 49ers in the NFL championship game.

"Everybody is saying this is the best matchup in the history of the Super Bowl. It's got the two best teams in the league, the two best quarterbacks in the league and two really good defenses. It is natural for this to be a big attraction.

"I'm not surprised at all how people are reacting to it."

But is it worth $1,000 to claim a seat in Stanford Stadium next Sunday for Super Bowl XIX? "No," said Baumhower. "I don't understand that."

In the fine art of Super Bowl ticket hunting, the prime seats are currently going for $1,000. Professional ticket agents, who do the bulk of the negotiating, admit they have never seen anything quite like it and say the ticket market is much like the stock market — volatile and very dangerous if one does not know what one is doing.

"If the weather turns bad, the bottom could fall out," said one ticket broker who said he knew of tickets between the 20-yard lines being purchased for at least $1,000. The face value of a Super Bowl ticket this year is $60.

The weather has been a constant source of concern to organizers of the NFL championship game and if the game had been played Wednesday it would have taken place in almost perfect conditions.

Continued mild weather was in the long-range forecast through Sunday with no mention of rain.

Both teams went through their obligatory round of interviews to the assembled media Wednesday, the next to last day the players were scheduled to be subjected to the bother, and there were signs that anxiousness was setting in.

"Playing in this game is the No. 1 goal of every football player," said Baumhower, who relishes in the thought of the upcoming competition even if he doesn't think anyone need pay $1,000 to see it.

"The Pro Bowl is nice to be in and I think a lot of players feel that is an important thing to achieve. But there is nothing like winning the Super Bowl.

"We came to realize that even more when we lost to Washington (two years ago). I don't know how bad San Francisco wants it. But I can't see how they want it more than we do."

Playing in the game and watching it at some extravagant cost, however, are two different things.

"I went once as a fan," said San Francisco running back Wendell Tyler, who had an outstanding day in a losing cause with the Los Angeles Rams in Super Bowl XIV. "But the bathroom line was so long I said I wouldn't go back again."

"Usually when the season is over," said 49ers Coach Bill Walsh. "I want to head toward the Sun Belt somewhere and not even think about football. I usually don't even watch it on television."

Hughes Knows Way Past Santa Fe

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Scott Hughes would look more at home hitting tennis balls over a net than throwing basketballs into one. The gangly 6-2 Seminole Community College guard is built more like Jimmy Connors than Julius Erving.

Frame, however, doesn't always run hand-in-hand with ability. And frailty aside, the 150-pound Apopka freshman put on one fine show Wednesday night at the SCC Health Center against Santa Fe before 150 enthused fans.

Popping off the bench midway through the first half, Hughes threw a defensive halo around guard Tony Lusis and beat the conference's best point guard to the basket on offense as the Raiders stormed back for an impressive 72-66 Mid-Florida Conference victory over the Saints.

"We know Scott can play," said SCC coach Bill Payne. "He penetrated, played good defense and shot the ball well."

Hughes' final stats weren't overwhelming. He finished with seven points and three assists. But it doesn't indicate the defensive gem he threw on Lusis or the orchestration of the SCC's four corners offense, which scored almost at will.

Lusis, who Payne bills as the best point guard in the MFC, had pretty much his on way in the early going, hitting every shot and scoring most of his 20 points. He zipped up and down the court like a waterbug as the Saints, 11-9 and 2-2, took a 22-12 lead.

Basketball

Payne had seen enough at the 9:22 mark and called a time out after Lusis had popped one in from the corner. He called for Hughes, whose playing time had increased as he worked his way back from a broken cartilage which required surgery at the beginning of the cage year.

Hughes said he couldn't compete with Lusis' quick feet, but he had other tricks. "I'm pretty slow, but I laid off him and tried to figure out where he was going," said the freshman guard. "Although I'm slow, I consider myself fairly bright. I used my height advantage (four inches), too."

Along with a charge into the offense, the Raiders started playing some intense defense, too. "We worked on cutting the ball off into the middle because that's what they would try to do," said 6-4 guard Kenny Edwards. "The weakside guards sagged and picked off the lob passes to the big guy (6-10 John Yonge)."

Yonge, a freshman from Orange Park, scored 20 points but on more than one occasion Edwards, Brent Baird, Greg "Skywalker" Bates and Lenny Grace tipped the ball into friendly hands who in turn started the fastbreak.

Bates, who led all scorers with 21 points, pulled SCC ahead, 29-26, for the first time in the second half with a three-point play. Greg "Slim" Johnson then stuck back an offensive rebound the next time down for a five-point lead.

SCC, 14-7 overall and 3-1 in the MFC, plays Santa Fe Saturday night at 7:30 in the home half of the traditional rivalry. The Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame will induct Larry Castle, Mary Rose and Leonard L. "Whitey" McClucas at halftime. There is no charge for admission.

SANTA FE (66) — Lusis 8-15 4-4 20, Hamblin 1-1 0-0 2, Baker 6-14 2-2 14, Battles 2-4 2-3 6, Bayliff 2-5 0-0 4, Yonge 10-20 0-0 20, Mell 0-1 0-0 0, Sullivan 0-1 0-0 0, Dunbar 0-1 0-0 0. Totals: 29-64 (45%) 9-18 (50%) 44.

Sanders Keys Rams — Mandy, Boyesen Lift Lyman

Andre Sanders fired in three goals and Lake Mary outshot Trinity Prep, 35-1, Wednesday as the Rams breezed to a 5-0 blanking of the Saints in prep soccer action at Trinity Prep.

Lake Mary, which improved to 13-5, has a key Five Star Conference match Friday when it travels to Lake Howell to take on the fourth-ranked (4A) Silver Hawks.

Most of Wednesday's match was played in front of Trinity's goalmouth and the Rams struck early with three goals in the first half. Sanders got the Rams on the board seven minutes into the game when he headed in a pass from Paul Holmes on a corner kick.

Sanders scored again 15 minutes in the match when he took a pass from Tony Fiorentino and rifled in a shot from 22 yards out. "It was in the back of the net so fast, everybody was looking around to see what was going on," Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle said of Sanders' goal.

Florentino gave the Rams a 3-0 lead with four minutes left in the first half when he ran down a pass from Mike O'Reilly and slipped it past the goalkeeper.

Lake Mary upped its lead to 4-0 seven minutes into the second half when Tom Misuraca scored on an assist from Holmes and Sanders completed his hat trick 15 minutes into the second half when he kicked in a loose ball from outside the penalty area.

The Ram junior varsity also blanked Trinity Prep's JV Wednesday by a 7-0 count. LADY GREYHOUNDS SNARE 11th Sheila Mandy and Dawn Boyesen both posted hat tricks Wednesday night as Lyman's Lady

Soccer

Greyhounds sailed to their 11th straight victory, 6-0, over Gainesville High in prep soccer action at Lyman High.

The Lady Greyhounds used Wednesday's match to tuneup for a pair of games this weekend at Vero Beach. Lyman takes on Vero Beach High Friday night at 8 and plays Vero Beach St. Edwards Saturday afternoon at 1.

"It (road trip) should give the kids some good game experience," Lyman coach Tom Barnes said.

The Lady Greyhounds dominated from start to finish Wednesday, amassing 47 shots on goal compared to just one for Gainesville.

"Gainesville as a good, young, aggressive team," Barnes said. "But they weren't able to mount any kind of a consistent attack."

Mandy gave Lyman a 1-0 lead 11 minutes into the match when she scored on an assist from Boyesen. Boyesen then scored three minutes later for a 2-0 lead and Mandy tacked on two more goals in the first half as the Greyhounds built a 4-0 halftime lead.

Boyesen came back to score two goals in the last 15 minutes of the second half to make the final 6-0.

Barnes said along with Mandy and Boyesen, center-midfielder Allison Wright and halfbacks Nancy VanVoorhis and Stacy Roy played outstanding Wednesday night.

Lake Mary Starts To Mesh

Merthie No Longer 1-Man Gang In Cagers' Attack

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

With three starters playing on the district championship football team, the offense for Lake Mary's basketball team in the early going of the season consisted of Darryl Merthie and four guys watching Darryl Merthie.

But, with Don Grayson, Jeff Reynolds and Ray Hartsfield coming on strong after football, and the development of juniors Chris Jackson and Andre Grey, the Rams are now much more than a one-man show.

Grayson led four players in double figures Wednesday with a game and season-high 23 points as the Rams disposed of Wymore Tech's Bobcats, 87-63, at Lake Mary High.

Lake Mary improved to 7-7 overall with the win and the Rams (4-4 in the Five Star Conference) battle one of the conference leaders Friday night when they journey to DeLand to take on the eighth-ranked (4A) Bulldogs.

Grayson also ripped down eight rebounds and collected eight steals to go along with his 23 points. Merthie had an excellent all around game with 19 points, eight rebounds, seven assists and six steals.

Jeff Reynolds turned in another strong performance inside with 17 points, seven boards and three steals and Grey had one of his best games of the year with 11 points and five rebounds. Hartsfield contributed six points and three assists.

Allen Johnson led the Bobcats with 19 points while David Manuel netted 11 and Horace Mobley tossed in eight.

The Rams used the strength of Grayson and Reynolds inside to build a 13-point lead, 40-27. Wymore stayed within 13, 66-53, after three quarters before Lake Mary pulled away in the fourth.

GAINES LEADS JV TO 10TH WIN

In Wednesday's junior varsity matchup, Roosevelt Gaines pumped in 23 points and Oscar Merthie muscled in 16 as the JV Rams cruised to a 80-48 victory over the JV Bobcats.

Lake Mary improved to 10-1 overall and the JV Rams put their 8-0 Five Star Conference mark on the line

Friday at DeLand. "DeLand should be a good test for us Friday," Lake Mary coach Charles Steele said. "We haven't played them yet but we're going to go after them."

Behind Gaines and Merthie for Lake Mary, James Stewart added 11 points and Matt Napoli contributed seven. Sean Timms' 15 points were high for Wymore. Larry Mackey added 13 and Allen Keyes tallied 10.

Lake Mary roared to a 39-23 halftime lead and put the Bobcats away in the third quarter. The Rams took a 58-35 lead into the final period.

Top 10 Teams Collide Tonight

Two of the top 10 girls basketball teams in the state (4A) will go at each other tonight and you don't even have to leave Seminole County to see it.

Sanford's Lady Seminoles, ranked sixth in the 4A State Poll, and eighth-ranked Lake Brantley battle in a key Five Star Conference matchup at Lake Brantley High (junior varsity 6:15, varsity 8).

Seminole goes in with a 13-4 record overall and 6-1 in the Five Star while Brantley stands at 15-3 overall and 7-1 in the conference after Tuesday's loss to Lake Mary.

In another key conference clash, Lake Mary's Lady Rams travel to DeLand to take on the fourth-ranked Lady Bulldogs (junior varsity 5:45, varsity 7:15).

Lake Mary stands at 9-6 overall and 5-2 in the Five Star while DeLand goes in with a 10-2 mark overall and tied with Seminole for second place in the conference at 6-1.

Lake Mary's junior varsity puts its unbeaten record on the line tonight. Coach Bob Wagner's squad stands at 9-0 and hasn't been seriously threatened yet this season.

In other Five Star Conference play tonight, Lyman's Lady Greyhounds (4-9 and 4-5) host Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks (3-12, 1-7). Junior varsity action starts at 6 followed by varsity at 7:45.

In an Orange Belt Conference game, Oviedo's Lady Lions host Osceola Kistimmee's Kowgirls (junior varsity 6:15, varsity 8). Oviedo stands at 4-12 overall and 2-2 in the conference.

In soccer action today, Lake Brantley's girls journey to Sanford to take on Suzy Reno's Lady Seminoles. Seminole lost a 3-0 encounter to the Lady Patriots and hope to get more offense production today at 4. Beth Nelson is coming off a three-goal game against Trinity Prep. Vicky "Spuffy" Pakovic has 15 goals for the season.

In boys' soccer action, coach Jim Rudy's Lake Brantley Patriots host West Orange.

While basketball and soccer take center stage today, wrestling will be in the limelight Friday as the Five Star Conference meet opens at Lyman High. First-round wrestling begins at 6 p.m. with the second round to follow immediately. Lake Mary and Lake Brantley are the favorites.

SPORTS

IN BRIEF

Local Crew Sails In Regatta; Skills Class Offered Feb. 18

The annual Citrus Bowl sailing regatta was recently held prior to the holidays on Lake Monroe in Sanford. Flotilla #41, Lake Mary, commanded by Carl Carlson and vice-commander Thomas Hormes, responded with three auxiliary vessels and a radio command post at the Seminole County Sheriff's Communication Center.

Manning the three boats assisting the regatta were V. Holmwood, Russ Megonegal, Ed and Mary Bartl, Chuck and Myrtle Burgess, Roger Haviland, Dick Wright, and Duant Dodington. Commander Carlson and Bob Galloway assisted at the radio command post.

Approximately 200 sailboats participated in the event. No serious accidents occurred on either day. Communication was maintained with the three volunteer vessels patrolling the regatta and the United States Coast Guard Ponce Inlet.

The Seminole County auxiliary is active in promoting boating safety, courtier marine examinations and public education programs. The all volunteer organization actively assists the United States Coast Guard in some areas. Those interested in becoming active members should contact Commander Carlson at 323-9416 or Public Education Officer Russell Megonegal at 322-5588.

A boating skills and seamanship class is being offered by the Lake Mary Auxiliary at Lake Mary High School on Monday and Thursday nights beginning Feb. 18-March 25. Additional information may be obtained by calling the above phone numbers.

Cold Hand McHale Lifts Celtics

By United Press International

With the game on the line, Boston Coach K.C. Jones went with the cold hand.

Kevin McHale had hit just three of his first 12 shots in Wednesday night's game at the Boston Garden, a rematch of last year's championship series between the Los Angeles Lakers and Boston Celtics, but with the heat on, he hit a 6-foot turnaround bankshot to lift the defending champs to a 104-102 victory.

"We have a saying on the Celtics," McHale said. "Sometimes you get the bear, sometimes the bear gets you."

Once again, it was the Lakers who wound up in the bear's jaws.

The victory was the Celtics' seventh straight, while the Lakers have dropped three in a row.

Los Angeles, which lost the 1984 championship game at the Garden, led 102-99 with 1:37 left before Robert Parish's 3-point play tied the game. After Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and James Worthy missed for the Lakers, Boston rebounded and called time.

Elsewhere, Philadelphia clobbered Atlanta 122-99. New Jersey downed Chicago 100-94. Denver dumped Golden State 115-107. Washington edged Utah 103-101. Phoenix beat Dallas 98-95 and the L.A. Clippers defeated Houston 98-88.

Cheaters Beware, Warns NCAA

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Cheaters beware! NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers predicts his group is going to crack down harder than ever on chronic rule violators.

"I think you can win under pressure without cheating and I believe a substantial majority of the coaches feel that way," Byers said Wednesday at the close of the NCAA Convention. "There are about 10-15 percent continual violators who give ground to keep pace."

"That means 85-90 percent would like to keep pace with their peers without cheating," said Byers. "They're tired of the cheating."

"Strong penalties and vigorous support of grant reductions are a means in that direction," said Byers. "The Coaching Association has taken the stance that we should punish constant violators, and if that doesn't work, get them out of your organization."

Henderson, Teague Lead Frogs

Idylwild Elementary ran its record to 2-0 this past weekend with a 17-14 victory over Casselberry Elementary in 4th and 5th Grade Seminole Youth Sports Association basketball at Lake Brantley High School.

Floyd Henderson tossed in 11 points and Matt Teague added six to account for the Frogs' scoring. Idylwild and coach Ed Teague look for their third straight Sunday against Woodlands Elementary at 4 p.m. at Brantley.

Henderson and Teague were also the big guns in the Frogs' opening season 28-13 win over Bear Lake Elementary. Teague chipped in 10 and Henderson added eight. James Sanders shovelled in six while David Ecstein and Josh Letchworth contributed two each.

Fink Rates Georgia War Of Stars As Great Thrill

By Christy Davis
Herald BMX Writer

Todd Fink has been participating in Bicycle Motocross since March 31 of last year.

"I liked BMX a lot better than other sports," said Todd.

Todd, who races in the 13-novice class, got interested in BMX, by his friends.

Fink's fondest memory of BMX is of the War of the Stars last year at Rome and Peachtree City, Georgia. "It was really a lot of fun, a lot different from any of the others I've been to," said Todd. "I met a lot of the professional racers."

Todd, of Altamonte Springs, attends Milwee Middle School, and races a Profile bicycle, which he received for Christmas.

Todd's fave pros are Richard Zagars and Tommy Brackens.

At the races Saturday afternoon, the Seminole County riders put forth an outstanding effort. Here's how their efforts were rewarded.

Seven-year-old Jay Staley brought home a first in the 7-expert class, and a third place in the 10-11-year old open. On Sunday Jay out did himself again at Lake Alfred. He again placed first in seven-expert, and a second in the 12-13 open. These are 12 and 13 novice/experts combined. Little Mr. Staley is only seven. I think we're lookin' at a future pro in the making.

Dusty Cummins proved to be indomitable in his eight-expert class. He again placed first. Dusty also raced in the 8-9 open, and won a first place trophy again.

Newly turned 10-expert Tim Fink was out there proving he was just as tough as the veteran experts. He placed third.

The 13-novice class had a main event to make. Danny Lombardi, of Lake Mary, not only qualified for the main, he won it. Scott Lucia placed fourth in the main, and Todd Fink placed fifth for the afternoon.

Thirteen-expert Ronnie Brewer placed third in his class. Ronnie also raced in the 12-13 open and placed second.

In other action Saturday, the Koch Family had a successful outing at Barnett Park as Mark, a 17-cruiser, and Susan, a 12-girl, each raced to a first-place finish.

David Sanborn, a 14-expert, picked up a third place while Jason Heffington, 14-novice, was fourth. Andy Doering, 13-novice, was fifth and J.P. Adams, 13-novice, finished eighth.

Sanford Middle Rolls To 2 More

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Explosive Sanford Middle rolled to two more victories over the weekend in Seminole Youth Sports Association (SYSA) 8th grade boys basketball action.

Sanford Middle ran its record to 4-0 in what is shaping up to be one of the closest races ever in SYSA play. Milwee and Lakeview are both one game behind Sanford Middle with 3-1 marks.

On Saturday, Tarrance Carr poured in 13 of his game-high 21 points in the fourth quarter in Sanford's 67-50 victory over Rock Lake. Reginald "Cheese" Bellamy tossed in 14 and Willie "Sugar Tex" McCloud added eight for Sanford Middle.

Craig Williams led the way for Rock Lake with 17 points while Kris Winningham contributed 14.

Rock Lake came back from a 31-12 halftime deficit and pulled within 10 early in the fourth quarter before Carr came on to seal the win for Sanford Middle.

On Sunday, four players scored in double figures as Sanford trounced Tuskawilla, 95-28. Bellamy paved the way with a game-high 25 points. Anthony Harris popped in 17. Carr tallied 12 and Harrison Hampton netted 10.

In 8th grade girls play, Leticia Strickland continued to sizzle the nets over the weekend as she funneled in 64 points in two victories for Sanford Middle.

Strickland poured in 27 points in a 53-17 rout of Rock Lake on Saturday and she came back to light up the nets for 37 on Sunday in a 72-17 thrashing of Tuskawilla. Adrian Hillman added 12 points in both games for Sanford Middle which improved to 3-1 with the victories.

In the 7th grade girls feature game, Stephanie DeHoop's fourth quarter basket lifted Teague to a 15-14 comeback win over Tuskawilla.

Tuskawilla built a 7-3 lead after one quarter and hung on to a 9-5 halftime lead before Teague roared back to take a 13-11 lead after three quarters. DeHoop's hoop in the fourth quarter turned out to be the winning basket.

SYSA Saturday games are at Lake Brantley High and Sunday games are at Lyman High.

Lyman's 9 Pins Stick Oak Ridge

Lyman's Greyhounds won all but three matches Wednesday en route to a 57-15 pounding of Oak Ridge's Pioneers in prep wrestling action at Lyman High.

Oak Ridge took to of the first four matches, but Lyman came back to win eight of the last nine. The Greyhounds also won the junior varsity match handily, 42-6, over the JV Pioneers.

Chad Dubin, the Greyhounds' tough 115-pounder, pinned Marengo Padilla at 3:50. It was one nine pins by Lyman which posted its most impressive dual decision of the year.

Jimbo Smith, Lyman's heavyweight, had the night's quickest stick at 29 seconds. Matt Hughes, a 129-pounder, and Pat Perkins, a 223-pounder, were next with pins in 1:02 and 1:09, respectively.

The Greyhounds used Wednesday's match to tuneup for the Five Star Conference Championships which Lyman is hosting Friday and Saturday.

Friday's first round gets underway at 6 p.m.

More Comebacks Than Dimples On A Golf Ball

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — There are more guys attempting a comeback on the PGA Tour this year than dimples on a golf ball, and most of them will be playing when the Phoenix Open begins play today.

Of course, the 144-man Phoenix field will include most of the Tour's best in 1984, players such as Masters champion Ben Crenshaw, U.S. Open king Lee Trevino, No. 2 money winner Mark O'Meara, Tom Kite and Hale Irwin.

Also on hand will be Lanny Wadkins, who finished behind O'Meara on last year's money list, and opened the 1985 campaign by winning the Bob Hope Desert Classic last week in a dramatic five extra-hole playoff with Craig Stadler.

On the other side, all strugglers last year, are Andy North, Bill Rogers, Jerry Pate, Raymond Floyd, David Graham, J.C. Snead and Johnny Miller.

North hasn't won a tournament since the 1978 U.S. Open and last year tumbled all the way to 149th on the money list. Rogers, who won three titles in 1981, fell to 134th last year after a steady drop for three seasons except for a victory in 1983 at the New Orleans Open. Pate, ninth in 1982 when he won almost $300,000 including the Tournament Players Championship, finished 118th in 1984.

Snead, whose career has been marked by a good season followed by a poor one, hasn't won a tournament since the 1981 Southern Open and finished 88th last year, his poorest season since 1970.

After a brilliant stretch in 1974-75 in which he won 12 tournament titles, Miller almost slipped out of sight until making a comeback in 1981. He dropped from 14th to 47th in 1984.

Now, all are hoping for comebacks, but during their money drought a new generation of golfers has moved into the vacuum, among them O'Meara, Denis Watson, Fred Couples, Greg Norman, Peter Jacobsen, Payne Stewart, Wayne Levi, Hal Sutton, Larry Mize, Corey Pavin and Chip Beck.

All except Watson, Norman, Jacobsen, Stewart and Sutton are in the Phoenix field, which will be shooting for a purse of $450,000.

UNC Avalanche Mauls Wolfpack

United Press International Maybe a word of warning at halftime would have helped: Caution - Falling Rocks Ahead.

"We were up by 15 points, then nothing," said North Carolina State Coach Jim Valvano. "It was like an avalanche."

The Wolfpack never did make it out of the debris, losing 86-76 to No. 7 North Carolina Wednesday night in an Atlantic Coast Conference game at Chapel Hill.

"You saw two games out there tonight," Tar Heel Coach Dean Smith said. "State dominated us for 25 minutes and then we had a sensational comeback to win." North Carolina trailed 51-36 with 16:58 left before the Tar Heels' defensive pressure buried the Wolfpack. A short hook by Steve Hale put North Carolina ahead 60-58 with 7:01 left.

The Tar Heels were characteristically strong at the line in the clutch, making 14 straight in the last four minutes.

Elsewhere, No. 1 Georgetown crushed Providence 85-44; No. 6 Syracuse beat Seton Hall 90-80; and No. 10 Oklahoma belted Missouri 92-65.

At Landover, Md., the Hoyas ran their record to 16-0 behind 21 points and 12 rebounds by Patrick Ewing in a Big East game. Georgetown's overpowering frontline did not allow Providence an inside basket in the first half.

"They created an awful lot of our problems," Providence Coach Joe Mullaney said. "But we magnified them with stupid errors."

Basketball

In other games, Texas Tech upset Arkansas 64-48 behind 20 points by Bubba Jennings and 16 by Quentin Anderson; Southern Mississippi jolted Louisville 72-63 with Michael Jett scoring 18 points; Bobby Lee Hurt's 15 points sent Alabama over Auburn 60-55; Horace McMillan hit for 16 points and Georgia dropped Florida 71-60; Kentucky edged Mississippi State 58-57 as Richard Madison and Roger Harden sank two free throws each with less than a minute left; Len Bias struck for 27 points and Jeff Adkins had 24 to power Maryland over Clemson 94-84; and Troy Lewis' baseline jumper with 11 seconds left allowed Purdue to escape 50-49 against Northwestern.

Rioting Subsides In Jamaica Leaving 4 Dead, 16 Injured

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI) — Security forces maintained air and land patrols today after two days of protests over fuel price increases left four people dead and 16 injured at the height of Jamaica's tourist season.

The worst unrest on the Caribbean island in four years, which forced tourists to stay in their hotels as police clashed with protesters who blocked roads with burning tires, was reported to have subsided by late Wednesday.

Sikh Leader Shot; Gunmen Hunted

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Security forces in Punjab hunted today for three Sikh militants suspected of shooting the religion's high priest in a bid to thwart Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi's hopes for peace in the troubled state.

Kirpal Singh, 66, spiritual leader of the world's 15 million Sikhs, was shot and wounded along with two of his aides Wednesday as they were leaving a car near Ludhiana.

Doctors at Christian Medical College Hospital in Ludhiana said today Singh, shot twice in the head, once in the chest and once on the arm, was "under a state of shock, but out of danger."

are often changed in Tallahassee and the county at this point can't know what the legislation entails until they receive it in writing.

While the proposal doesn't have any legislative sponsors, Mrs. Smith said if adopted the added revenue would not replace existing money allocated for emergency services, but would instead be used to provide enhanced service.

Under the proposal, 90 percent of the money would be returned to the counties in relation to the amount they collected in traffic fines.

The state would retain 10 percent of the funds, 5 percent for administrative costs and 5 percent for matching grants to counties, cities and non-profit medical organizations who would apply for the funds.

Polk not only objected to all traffic violators being required to support emergency medical services, he also objected to the state keeping any of the money from fines collected in Seminole County.

He suggested if a state agency got its hands on any of the funds, it would create all sorts of regulations and make it difficult for the money to be used for its intended purpose.

Pushing for the surcharge, Mrs. Smith said unless the surcharge were imposed on all traffic violators, sufficient revenues would not be received.

Students Get Nominations

Two students from Oviedo High School recently received notification of their nomination for appointments to military academies. Christine Boyd received a presidential and a congressional nomination for the U.S. Naval Academy. Janice Morton received a congressional and an alternate senatorial nomination for the Air Force Academy.

Christine Boyd will graduate from Oviedo High in June.

Janice Norton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Norton, is scheduled to graduate in the top five percent of her class in June.

Arnold said the school system already has a building code inspector but because of other school building projects and the size of Middle School X (155,000 square feet) he would not be able to devote the kind of time to the job that is considered necessary.

The school, designed to accommodate 1,350 students and necessitated by present and anticipated growth in the area, is being built on a 25-acre tract near Lake Mary High School and should be ready by July 1986.

Also Wednesday, the board agreed to:

• Pay the McKee Development

Co. of Sanford $85,361 for exterior construction of a media center to be located behind the school board office on Mellonville Avenue, Sanford.

The interior work will cost another $50,000, Arnold said. The building, which will provide space for offices and textbook storage, should be completed by summer.

• Rejected as too low bids on several acres of land considered surplus. On 67 lots across from Sanford Middle School, the board was offered a total of $240,100, $289,900 less than the appraised value of $530,000.

A bid of $40,100 was received for about 10 acres west of Crooms school. The appraised value is $135,000.

Barnett's Senior Partners Package Is So Attractive A Lot Of People 55 And Over Will Want To Move To Florida.

Let's say you're 55 or older and you live out of state. In a big white house in Washington, for example. Your economic advisors are probably telling you it's time to move to Florida.

You see, Floridians 55 or over can now take advantage of Barnett's Senior Partners package.

As a Senior Partner, you'll receive free checks, as well as personalized checks, traveler's checks, cashier's checks, financial newsletters, a financial planning guide, a $100,000 common carrier accidental death insurance policy and a lot more—all at no charge.

All you need to qualify is one of Barnett's many investment plans and a Barnett checking account. To top it all off, the money in your investment plan will earn market rates every day it's on deposit. And because it's a Barnett account, it's insured up to $100,000 by the FDIC. So you don't take chances.

Come see us this week. We'll show you exactly why Barnett is Florida's bank. But don't worry, we won't make a federal case out of it.

Barnett Is Florida's Bank.

Dr. Shapiro Guest Speaker At Funeral Society Meeting

The annual meeting of the Funeral Society of Mid-Florida will be held Saturday, Jan. 19, at 10:00 a.m. in the Dickinson Memorial Library in Orange City. The public is invited to this meeting and to membership in the Society.

Dr. Mitchell Shapiro of the Florida Eye Clinic in Altamonte Springs will address the group on "The Evolution of Eye Care." Dr. Shapiro is the senior partner of the clinic.

The Funeral Society, a non-profit organization, was founded in 1973, and now has members in nine counties. It is dedicated to simplicity and economy in funeral arrangements through advance planning.

The current officers are: Mrs. Charles MacNeil, president, DeBary; Mrs. Frank Losinlecki, vice president, Deltona; Mrs. P.G. Fechter, corresponding secretary, DeBary; Mrs. R.L. Lindberg, recording secretary, DeBary; and Henry Harde, treasurer, Deltona.

Free Teens, Parents Seminar

The Jewish Community Center of Central Florida, 851 N. Maitland Ave., Maitland, announces a four-part series of seminars for teens and their parents.

Topics covered will be "Teenagers and Suicide," given on Jan. 24; "Parent-Teen Communication," on Feb. 28; "Dating and Sexuality" on March 19; and "Drug and Alcohol Abuse" on May 16.

These presentations and discussions are geared toward helping teenagers and their parents understand certain issues that they face everyday at school, home and with friends and how to cope with these situations.

Facilitating the discussions will be Brenda Falber, M.S. licensed marriage and family therapist; Barbara Bernbaum, M.A., director of Seagrave Day Treatment Program in Orange County; and a representative of Thee Door, a community agency providing education, prevention and treatment programs to combat substance abuse and chemical dependency.

All of the seminars will be held at the J.C.C. from 7-10 p.m. and as a community service, will be presented free of charge.

Math Class Open At SCC

The Community Math Class is open at Seminole Community College for adults wishing to learn basic math, algebra and geometry. The studies are individualized and students may enroll at any time.

For details, call SCC at 323-1450, Ext. 444 and ask about the Community Math Class.

FSO Sets Free Concert For Seminole Seniors

Senior citizens and friends are invited to a free one-hour concert presented by 20 members of the Florida Symphony Orchestra at 2 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 24, at the Eastmonte Recreation Center in Altamonte Springs.

The concert is made possible in part by Martin Marietta Orlando Aerospace in a continuing effort to bring the music of the masters to the people of Central Florida.

The string chamber orchestra, under the direction of FSO Associate Conductor Alfred Savia, will perform Mozart's "Divertimento in B Flat," Handel's "Concerto Gross, Op. 6, No. 11 in A Major" (featuring FSO violinists Robert Horak and Lillian Teplitsky and FSO cellist Larry Glazier), Vivaldi's "Concert for Two Violin Cellos in G Minor," (featuring FSO cellists James Higgins and Larry Glazier) and Bach's "Brandenburg Concert No. 3 in F Major."

Admission is on a first-come, first-served basis. No tickets are necessary to get into the concert. The FSO does request, however, that everyone be seated by 2 p.m. so that the concert may begin promptly.

The Eastmonte Recreation Center is located in Altamonte Springs. Directions to the center are as follows: On 436, turn south on 427 by the Baldwin Fairchild Funeral Home. Turn right off 427 onto Magnolia (second street on right), to 837 Magnolia Drive.

For more information, please contact the Federation of Senior Citizen Clubs of Seminole County at 831-1631.

Florida Feminist To Address Pro-Life Rally

Feminist Rosemary Bottcher will address a pro-life rally at the Lake Eola Bandshell on Jan. 19 to commemorate the Roe vs. Wade Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion 12 years ago this month.

Bottcher, a chemist for the state of Florida, a former columnist for the Tallahassee Democrat, and a feminist of long standing, describes herself as a liberal who has been dumbfounded by the irony she sees in how liberal and conservative philosophies have lined up on the abortion issue. "Liberals traditionally have cared about others and human rights while conservatives have cared about themselves and property rights. Therefore, one would expect liberals to be defending the unborn and conservatives to be encouraging their destruction."

She sees liberals, who are really very "good people" and "often expend great effort in helping the disadvantaged, the helpless and the unwanted" involved in an elaborate system of self deception or "psychic numbness."

She grants that "their arguments would be perfectly reasonable if applied to contraception. Most pro-abortionists know nothing of fetology and have never seen an aborted baby. Yet there seems to be a definite reluctance to learn, a deliberate ignorance."

"The proof of this," she says, "is the ever increasing number of people who call me up on the phone saying they have just read something or seen something on TV and exclaim, 'I didn't know!' They are aghast and upset and almost always admit that they just hadn't thought about it."

The rally, whose theme is

"Twelve Years Later..." is intended to give honor to the lives of over 17 million unborn babies who have been aborted since the 1973 decision.

Regarding the extremely high number of abortions now reported, Rooks states that abortions actually outnumbered live births in 18 U.S. metropolitan cities in 1980, the most recent year for which full statistics are available. This was according to the Alan Guttmacher Institute, research agency for the Planned Parenthood Federation of America. Included among those 18 cities were Ft. Lauderdale, Sarasota, New York, San Francisco, Richmond, Va., and Columbia, S. C. "About 98% of these are abortions of convenience," according to Rooks. "In other words, they are not to save the life of the mother, not for rape or incest, and not because of a deformed baby."

The pro-life rally will take place at 2 p.m. at the Lake Eola Bandshell following a march at 1:45 from the Orange County Courthouse.

Zoo Offers Training To Volunteer Docents

The Central Florida Zoo, an institution dedicated to the preservation and captive management of wild animals, is also dedicated to the education of the zoo visitor.

According to Thomas Williams, CFZ's education curator, the zoo is a living classroom with many unique educational opportunities to be explored. Many institutions across the country, including the Central Florida Zoo, utilize the versatility and talents of a special group of people collectively known as docents.

Williams explains that a docent is a volunteer teacher. At the Central Florida Zoo docents assist the staff in educational endeavors, primarily by leading children on learning safari tours of the zoo. Williams says, "Docents are also visible in the community due to outreach programs such as school classroom and summer library presentations, or public relations missions for the zoo."

In anticipation of the busy months ahead, the Education Department of the Central Florida Zoo is holding another docent training class beginning Jan. 30. Training classes are open to anyone 16 years and older and will be held on seven consecutive Wednesdays, from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m., each day.

The classes are designed to orient the volunteer to the potential learning opportunities here at the zoo. Through class work and hands-on experience docents learn about the various Zoo residents, as well as the techniques for touring. There is no charge for this course.

Even though this is a challenging course, prospective docents need not be zoologists or educators to qualify. If the docent provides the enthusiasm, the zoo will provide the training, Williams says.

A Good Diet Is More Than A Calorie Count

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently I became concerned about my figure. I felt I was overweight, so I went from 136 pounds to 120. I'm 16 and 5 feet 4. Could you send me information about how much I should weigh for my height and age? I am fairly active physically and play on the varsity sports teams. How many calories should I consume each day? I have read from 1,100 to 2,500. I think 2,500 sounds like a lot of calories for one day.

DEAR READER — The average girl of your age and height weighs 120, but figures like these serve only as a guideline. It depends on how much fat is under the skin, rather than how many pounds register on the scales. A muscular, athletic girl may weigh more. Girls in your groups consume from 1,200 to 3,000 calories a day. How many calories you need depends on your lifestyle. Active girls will need more calories. The average recommended intake is 2,100 calories a day. If you don't get enough calories, you will not have your normal amount of energy. If you had excess body-fat stores, that might not occur, but in lean individuals, this makes a lot of difference in a person's energy level.

Try to learn what your diet should include, not just count calories. You can use a balanced diet and control your calories to the desired level.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband is 33 and in good health. We have two children and decided before our second was born that my husband would have a vasectomy. That was two years ago, and he hasn't had it done yet. He said he heard that having a vasectomy may cause some kind of prostate trouble in later years. Is this correct? If so, what kind of trouble and could anything be done to avoid it?

Since he has decided against having a vasectomy, I would like to have a tubal ligation. Does this have any side effects? I am 27 and definitely do not want any more children. My doctor said I could have this done on an outpatient basis.

DEAR READER — There have been a lot of questions about vasectomies in the last several years, but I think that most of them have been dispelled. There is no evidence that a vasectomy increases the risk of any disease. Tubal ligations are equally benign. However, many young women like yourself are absolutely certain they never want to have another child, but then their lives change, such as with a divorce and a new husband. Therefore, if you have a tubal ligation, consider a procedure that does not destroy too much of your tubes. If you ever wanted to reverse the procedure, you would then have a better chance.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Eight-card suits are a little like a full moon on an autumn night — they can be mind-boggling. Thus South pre-empted five clubs over the weak two-heart bid by East. West doubled cheerfully and led the king of diamonds. His cheerfulness quickly turned to gloom. Declarer was John Wignall of New Zealand, playing a match last November against Luxembourg in the World Team Olympiad. Wignall ruffed the opening lead and saw a glimmer of hope. He could ruff a heart with dummy's singleton club. Perhaps the weak two-heart bidder had originally held the A-K-Q of hearts and a void in clubs. He did need to keep West off lead, so he led the heart jack from his hand. Sure enough, East had to win the trick and, wonder of wonders, he had no club to lead. The contract was made, with more than a little bit of luck. In the qualifying rounds of the World Team Olympiad last fall, a total of 1,910 matches and 38,200 deals were played. Fortunately for the contestants' peace of mind, very few of those deals included eight-card suits.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY JANUARY 18, 1985
In the year ahead you are likely to become involved in two worthwhile projects. You'll operate from the wings, rather than seeking the limelight, yet you'll be duly credited for your contributions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll be the center of attention at any gathering today if you underplay your presence. Your charm is enhanced by a low-key approach. The Matchmaker wheel reveals your compatibility to all signs, as well as showing you what signs you are best suited to romantically. To get yours mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Conditions may be propitious today for advancing a secret ambition you've been harboring.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Challenging conditions will stimulate your finer qualities today. You'll know how to achieve your objectives without trampling over others.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You possess a remarkable faculty today for drawing good ideas from others and using them in ways that will be collectively beneficial.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be alert at this time because you may be able to spot a new way to add to your resources or earnings. It could come through a joint venture.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try to find time today to get together with one you'd like to build a more meaningful relationship with. Do all you can to strengthen bonds.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) An important matter can be worked out to your satisfaction today, provided you're tenacious enough to get past the obstacles that confront you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A social gathering today may provide you with the opportunity you've been looking for to get together with someone you've been anxious to converse with.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't rest on your laurels today if a moneymaking idea pops into your head. At the least, lay the groundwork for it so you can proceed at a future date.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today you'll be able to offer sage advice to others in a manner none will find offensive. Your suggestions will be respected and acted upon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your possibilities for ending up in the profit column look good today. Use both logic and intuition when assessing situations.

ANNIE by Leonard Starr

Dr. David Jones Explores Indian Culture For DAR

The January meeting of Sallie Harrison Chapter of NSDAR was held in the Florida Power and Light Sunshine room. Mrs. Paul Kelly, regent, opened the meeting at 2 p.m.

Chaplain Mrs. W.B. Little led in the opening ritual and Mrs. Paul Mickler gave some excerpts from Phyllis Schafley articles on National Defense.

Mrs. C.F. Greene, Liberty Love Day chairman, encouraged members to contribute to the restoration of the Statue of Liberty during February.

Mrs. T.K. Wiley, veterans' chairman, accepted knitted articles to be sent Veteran's Hospitals and Mrs. Zoe Stanley announced that over 30,000 soup labels had been collected for the DAR sponsored schools.

Insignia chairman Mrs. R.G. Fox brought a bit of historical interest in telling of the designer of the DAR Insignia, Dr. George Brown Good in 1891. Transportation and safety chairman Mrs. F.M. Walton gave further safety tips for driving.

Mrs. V.C. Messenger, American Indians chairman, introduced guest speaker Dr. David Jones, professor of Anthropology at the University of Central Florida. Dr. Jones has written many articles on the American Indian as well as two books. He is presently working on his third book.

Dr. Jones held the interest of his audience with his talk on the Seminole Indians, tracing progress of the tribes from the Creek Confederation into Florida. There is no Seminole tribe as such but they are remnants of Caloosa, Timucuan and Mikuskis.

Following the Seminole Indian was the Indians of Florida returned to the ways of their ancestors and moved deep into the Everglades. They retain the old cultures and are deeply independent. The medicine man or shaman is still an important figure in the tribe though the chief and his council rule. He concluded by saying that the Indian has contributed much to the American Culture.

Hostesses Mrs. V.C. Messenger, Mrs. R.C. Lewis and Mrs. L.C. McAlister served refreshments during the social hour.

All Ages Need To Have A Will

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you discussed the importance of leaving a will. May I add this:

Two years ago we lost a beautiful daughter and a handsome son-in-law in a house fire. They had no children and they left no will. According to Michigan law, if a couple has no will, the surviving spouse inherits everything the couple possessed.

Since it was established that our son-in-law died last, everything he and our daughter left went to our son-in-law's nearest of kin — a no-good bum who couldn't wait to sell everything he felt heir to.

We got nothing — not even the few personal items we had given our daughter. This hurt me so deeply I had to be hospitalized. All this could have been avoided if our daughter and her husband had left a will.

Abby, please tell your readers to make a will — regardless of how young they are, or how few possessions they have.

We are now urging our other children to have wills drawn up. Nobody should ever have to experience what we went through.

STILL MOURNING IN MICHIGAN

DEAR MOURNING: Please accept my heartfelt sympathy. I regret that you will never know how many strangers will read this, act on your valuable suggestion and avoid the nightmare you endured. Thank you, my generous friend, for caring enough to write.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young divorced mother, and my problem is that when I get asked out on a date, I end up paying the baby sitter.

I have had to turn down a lot of chances to go out because I couldn't afford a baby sitter. I'm on a tight budget, and things like food and clothes come first.

Dear Abby

Correct me if I'm wrong, but isn't the man supposed to pay for the sitter? I hate to ask in advance if he plans on paying, but maybe that's what I should do.

Please answer in your column. I'm sure other young mothers have come up against the same problem.

MOMMY

DEAR MOMMY: The man is not "supposed" to pay for the baby sitter. But if he offers, it's all right to accept. (Do not ask him in advance.)

Consider making a deal with other young mothers in your neighborhood — sit with their children, and in return they can sit with yours.

DEAR ABBY: Please settle something for me, once and for all! Everybody tells me I am wearing my rings wrong. I think I'm wearing them the way they should be worn, with my engagement ring on the inside. My reasoning:

When I became engaged, the engagement ring was placed on my finger. When I married, the wedding band was placed on my finger right next to it, and that's the way I have worn them.

So why do people tell me I'm wearing my rings "wrong?"

RING PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: Your wedding band should be worn on the "inside" — nearer to your heart.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter signed "Hurt in Los Angeles." The writer was a woman who was being honored at a dinner given for her in appreciation of her many years of volunteer service to an organization that meant a lot to her. She asked her son to attend, but he refused, saying, "Those affairs bore me." She said her son was over 50, married and had a nice family.

I am also over 50, married and have a nice family. Abby, if the affair has not already taken place, I would be happy to escort the lady.

Being an orphan myself, I would consider it an honor and a privilege.

Watercolor Exhibit Set For Southeast Artists

"Southeast Watercolorists III," The DeLand Museum's annual watercolor competition, is now accepting applications from artists. The exhibit focuses on prominent and promising artists whose works represent the many "talents, techniques, and twists" of the medium of watercolor.

Works in watercolor by artists, 18 years or older, residing or working in the states of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, or the District of Columbia will be considered. Works must be original and executed within the past two years.

Cash and purchase awards totaling over $2,000.00 will be made at the discretion of the juror and The DeLand Museum. Ray G. Ellis, the outstanding American watercolorist who has recently collaborated with Walter Cronkite on the book South by Southeast, will be the juror.

Artists are invited to enter up to three works, which will be juried by 25mm slides. Applications, with fee of $15.00, must be postmarked by March 15.

Applications are available at museums and college art departments in the Southeast, or from The DeLand Museum. The selected show will be an exhibit from June 14 - Aug. The DeLand Museum is located at 449 East New York Ave., DeLand, 32724, and may be reached at (904)734-4371.

Abortion On TV Draws Praise

Both Sides Hope Show Will Help Defuse Violence, Clarify Issue

TORRINGTON, Conn. (UPI) — A televised abortion drew praise from people on both sides of the issue and a prediction by sponsors that the trauma depicted could help defuse violence against abortion clinics.

The 28-minute film showing an ultrasound of a suction abortion on a 12-week-old fetus made its debut Tuesday night on a community access channel available to 18,500 viewers.

The film, introduced by the Rev. Pat Mahoney, showed an actual ultrasound of a suction abortion on the fetus and the agitated patient in emotional distress.

Dr. Bernard Nathanson, former head of the world's largest abortion clinic and now an ardent anti-abortionist, narrated the film. He called abortion "a million dollar business."

Mahoney said the switchboard was jammed during the show. "We were overwhelmed by the response. Of the 18 callers on the show, 17 expressed their support for showing the film."

"Three women said they would not have had abortions if they had known" and another viewer said, "I'm still trembling," he said.

"A father who said he was still pro-choice said the film should be shown in every high school," said Mahoney.

Station manager Edward Guinea said Planned Parenthood of Connecticut had asked that the film be delayed because of a spate of bombings at abortion clinics and because of the upcoming 12th anniversary of the Supreme Court decision allowing abortion.

Guinea said the group declined his offer of equal time.

"This is a very violent film, but the violence is within the clinics not outside, that's why they don't want it shown," said Mahoney.

Mahoney, pastor of an interdenominational, fundamental church based in Pompano Beach, Fla., and spokesman for Celebrate Life, an anti-abortion group, said the film could help reduce violence at abortion clinics.

"It's showing us a release of frustration for those strongly opposed to abortion, who see human life being destroyed every day."

"There are some who might be 'on the fringe' who see this film and say ah, finally the truth is being shown," said the minister.

"We are against the violence. It's deplorable. Violence is never an answer to anything."

Florida Money Tainted By Cocaine

MIAMI (UPI) — It has long been said that a lot of the money in south Florida is "tainted" by drugs, but now a pharmacologist says a large number of paper bills actually do have physical traces of cocaine on them.

Dr. William Lee Hearn testified in court that tests he performed on bundles of $1,000 and $1,500 in folding money from seven major banks revealed particles of cocaine on them.

Many cocaine users roll up bills and sniff cocaine through the tubes to better inhale the drug. That is how the drug usually gets on the paper, authorities said.

"At one time or another we will have tainted money in our pocket," Hearn said. "If you have over $1,000 in cash it is a virtual 100 percent probability there will be a trace of drugs on that money."

Hearn said his tests revealed amounts from one millionth to one thousandth of a gram per average bundle of $1,500.

He said the high humidity in Florida is part of the reason. The humidity moisturizes tiny particles of the acid in the drug when it comes into contact with it.

Hearn's testimony came in the money-laundering trial of Mariano Ospina, 31, a member of one of Colombia's most politically prominent families.

Testimony at the trial showed that drug-sniffing Customs dogs found drugs on part of $1.3 million seized in the case. Ospina's attorney, Jack Denaro, called Hearn to the stand to show that all money has traces of drugs on it.

Denaro said Hearn's tests will make it harder for authorities to link money and drugs in the future.

Ospina was convicted of the money laundering charges Monday despite Hearn's testimony.

Mr. T To Crash Child Rape Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mr. T, the tough talking hero of television's "The A-Team" plans to be in the courtroom to support children testifying about being molested at the McMartin Pre-School, a spokesman says.

The actor planned to meet with representatives of the District Attorney's Office to discuss his courtroom appearances as a spectator to provide moral support while the children testify.

"It's a psychological warfare," Brad Turell, a spokesman for the actor, said Tuesday.

"(Defendant) Raymond Buckley has frightened the children so much that they were afraid he would come after them," he said. "But they believe Mr. T will protect them and they feel more confident about telling the truth if he is present in the courtroom when they testify."

of rape, sodomy and other child abuse.

The children were expected to testify next week. Municipal Judge Aviva Bobb has ruled the children must testify in front of their alleged molesters — not by a proposed television hookup.

In court action Tuesday, a videotaped interview with a former McMartin student was played in open court by a defense attorney, the first time any of the 400 interviews with pupils involved in the case have been made public.

Attorney Daniel Davis played portions of the 1984 interview in an effort to show that therapists at a child counseling center persuaded the alleged victims to claim they were molested.

Therapists at the Children's Institute International in Los Angeles conducted the videotaped interviews with the students, many of whom claim they were sexually assaulted by the seven former teachers charged in the case.

The tapes, on which some of the children detail the alleged molestations, are key evidence for prosecutors.

Davis used the tape Tuesday as part of his cross-examination of pediatrician Astrid Heger, who conducted the interview with a little girl who is not one of the alleged victims.

The girl in the interview played Monday never says she had been molested, but defense attorneys attempted to show that Heger tried to entice the child into saying she was.

At one point, Heger tells the girl, "It's time to get down to business. No more joking. No more kidding around. It's time to come over here and get down to business."

The girl, however, continued to maintain she was not sexually assaulted.

Heger said she was not one of the regular therapists who conducted interviews, and only conducted the interview shown by Davis because other staff members were not available.

McMartin Pre-School is one of several nursery schools in suburban Manhattan Beach that have been closed in recent months amid allegations that students were molested.

Prosecutors plan to call 42 children as witnesses in a preliminary hearing for the school's owner, her daughter, two grandchildren and three other teachers. The seven are charged with 207 felony counts of rape, sodomy and other child abuse.

'Too Much Time, Not Enough Money'

CHICAGO (UPI) — Nick Bowling admits he's made a few dollars going to court as a stand-in for parking offenders, but says he's no criminal — just a senior citizen narrowing "the gap between too much time and not enough money."

The Cook County State's Attorney's office last month warned Bowling, 77, to stop breaking the law by impersonating the clients in court. Bowling promised to give up the practice, but not without a protest.

"They let me take care of the parking tickets that a lot of the drivers keep getting," he said.

Later, Bowling said, he got the idea of performing the service for people willing to pay him $10 to go to court to get a $25 parking ticket dismissed.

To drum up business, Bowling tacked flyers under parking tickets on car windshields. The notes ended: "P.S. I am a senior citizen attempting to narrow the gap between too much time and not enough money."

Toxic Gas Killed More Than People

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — The leaking toxic gas that killed at least 2,500 people in Bhopal last month also exterminated so many mosquitoes that the incidence of malaria has dropped sharply in the city, a health official said Wednesday.

Mosquito breeding grounds exposed to the cloud of poisonous fumes show a considerable decline in populations of the malaria parasite-carrying insects, said the director of health services for Madhya Pradesh state.

The official, quoted by the Press Trust of India news service, said a survey by the state health department indicated a marked reduction in the number of people afflicted by malaria.

The gas, known as methyl isocyanate, leaked from the Union Carbide pesticide plant in Bhopal Dec. 3, killing 2,500 people and injuring about 100,000 others in the worst chemical disaster in history.

The substance is used to manufacture agricultural pesticides.

Bhopal, capital of Madhya Pradesh state, is 360 miles south of New Delhi.

'Stone' Sequel

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Michael Douglas and Kathleen Turner, who co-starred in "Romancing the Stone," will reprise their roles in a sequel to last year's box-office hit titled "Jewel of the Nile."

"Jewel of the Nile" will resume the adventures of rogue Jack Colton and romance novelist Joan Wilder, picking up where "Romancing the Stone" left off, 20th Century Fox announced. The reunited couple will sail their new sloop to the shores of North Africa via the French Riviera.

Douglas will again serve as producer as well as star in the film. Lewis Teague will direct. "Jewel of the Nile" will be produced later this year and is set for Christmas 1985 release.

Liz labor
 HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Elizabeth Taylor makes yet another television appearance with a guest star performance in "North and South," a 10-hour miniseries from David L. Wolper Productions.

Miss Taylor has appeared more frequently in TV in the past year than she has in motion pictures. In 1984 the actress starred in "Best Friends" for Home Box Office and in "Hedda and Louella" for CBS-TV.

In "North and South" Miss Taylor will play Madam Conté, the flamboyant proprietress of a New Orleans bordello. The cast includes Robert Mitchum, Lesley-Anne Down and George Stanford Brown.

Heston play
 HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Charlton Heston has settled down in London to direct and star in a theatrical production of "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial."

Bringing Jazz To Life

(UPI)The audience need not worry about a bum show when David Chertok brings jazz concerts to cities across America and around the world.

"My musicians always show up on time, they are always sober, and their sound is right on," says jazz film collector Chertok, whose productions have come to be known as "the greatest concert that never was."

Where else, for a small admission fee, can an audience see and hear Louis Armstrong, Billie Holiday, Thelonious Monk, Nat Cole, John Coltrane, Charlie Parker and other late jazz greats in a two-hour music marathon salted with numbers by contemporary artists? Nowhere, Chertok says, and he is the only one who has turned his 16-millimeter cache into a full-time job.

When Chertok presents one of his film evenings, the impact can be riveting. The crowd applauds particularly moving solos as if it were a live concert.

"They're no longer a name on a record cover. Seeing them on the screen brings them to life," Chertok says of his celluloid superstars.

Chertok got into film collecting by accident in 1968 while in a commercial film library in New York City. A woman he knew was doing film research for a CBS television series on black history. When she finished with a 1957 film called "The Sound of Jazz," she gave it to Chertok.

"I took it home and put it on the projector. I looked at this magnificent hour. It turned out to be about the best jazz film ever made," Chertok said. "I looked at that film and got hooked on it immediately."
