STATE HAPPENINGS BOILED DOWN FOR THE BUSY

A Brief Resume of Florida Happenings That Will Interest The Hurried Reader

The contract has been let for the erection of a new opera house in Plant City, which will be completed not later than the 15th of October.

Melbourne, in Brevard county, is agitating for a road from Kissimmee to that place. The project has been mooted for some years, but now there seems to be a determined plan by the people of that pretty little east coast town that promises fulfillment of the ambition.

It is understood that a new company has been organized for the purpose of giving to Miami a real genuine Coney Island on the beach opposite that city. A large pavillion, consisting of bath rooms and a ball room, a large restaurant, and real Coney Island attractions will be installed there. The plans for the pavillion are almost completed and the work of erecting the pavillion will commence at once.

The contractors for the Atlantic Coast Line Railway have begun work on a road to be built between Morriston and Archer, as the contract to run over the Seaboard Air Line tracks is about up.

Hernando citizens were aroused from their slumbers on Sunday night last at the hour of midnight, by the report of several pistol shots in rapid succession, and upon investigation it was found that City Marshal J. M. Colley had surprised a burglar in the store of Edwards and Turner, and, as he attempted to escape, shot him. Ralph Seckinger, who had been out late, was putting his horse in the stable, which is in the rear of Edwards & Turner's store, and saw a man enter the back window of the store. He immediately awakened Marshal Colley, who reached the scene just as the man, scared by the sound of footsteps, was getting out of the window, and fired upon him, striking him in the leg, near the thigh, with one bullet, and in the left hand with another. The man fell to the ground and was captured and taken to the office of Dr. Putugough, where his wounds were dressed, after which he was taken by Marshal Colley to Inverness and placed in jail.

Owing to carelessness in leaving a switch open a few days ago, a freight car ran off the track on the east side of Chaires. The wrecking crew has been at work clearing away the debris.

Antony Rousseite of Tampa attempted to commit suicide Sunday by cutting his throat. Antony was assisting in the search for pirate treasures on Coral Reef, Boca Grande, where some believe old Gasparilla hid treasures amounting to $11,000,000, and the idea of getting a part of this great sum was too much for Tony's mind.

Bumper Orange Crop

Indications are from reports of the different sections of Florida that this year's citrus crop will be one of the largest that Florida has ever produced. Through the central and western parts of the state a fine setting of fruit is reported, and while in the southern section but little more fruit is set on the old groves than last year the large number of new groves that are just coming into bearing bid fair to raise the total shipment above any which the lower country has ever rolled out.

On the average it is stated that the fruit is fully three or four weeks further advanced than it was last year. This means a good deal for the crop, as better prices will be obtained. Moreover, the fruit is better colored and will run to larger sizes than it did last year. Sufficient moisture all over the state during the filling season has aided materially, in rounding out the fruit and making it juicy.

Notice of Registration

The registration books for election district No. 3 will be open at the residence of T. S. Davis, over Caldwell's store, Monday, Sept. 2 and will be open each Monday of every week, closing Saturday, Oct. 12th. For district No. 25 books will be open at Mr. Frank's store same dates.

ROBBED THE STORE

Young Negro Thieves Raided Kanner's Cash Drawer Yesterday

Yesterday afternoon at Kanner's store while the clerks were drraming of the time when the store would close on Thursday afternoons three young negroes were led into the belief that the store was closed and sneaking in at the back door filched $26 in monegy from the cash drawer. The attention of Mr. Kanner was drawn to the noise and he was able to describe them to the police, who had them in custody so quick that they had no time to get rid of all the money and most of it was recovered. Two of those young sneak thieves have been up for the same offense before, but were turned loose in the county court on account of their years, but it is to be hoped that they will be put away this time for keeps as this petty larceny business is getting rather monotonous in Sanford.

The Orange County Fair

The Orange County Fair Association, with Messrs. W. R. O'Neal, Seth Woodruff, H. L. Besman and H. H. Dickson as executive committee, are now bestirring things, getting things in a great exhibit.

In conversation with President H. H. Dickson this morning, he spoke as follows:

"Our fair will be held February 11th to 15th inclusive. The grounds are now being cleaned up and put in order. Palms vines and such things as can be planted now are being put out, and later we expect to see a large number of trees set out, in fact we are doing everything we can to beautify the grounds.

A separate building will be erected for the negroes, where they will compete among themselves in domestic exhibits including farm, school and art such things as are suitable to their building, which in dimensions will be about 40 by 80 feet. By this arrangement there will be absolutely no competition between white and black exhibitors. After this year it is the purpose of the association to provide a separate arrangement for stock exhibits also. Separate premium lists have also been provided for the negroes.

"The prospect for a fine stock exhibit is exceptionally good and an especial effort is being made along this line. This is one of the features that we are anxious to see pushed forward; and which heretofore has not been up to our expectations.

"While premiums are only offered the county exhibitors, we are pleased to receive the exhibits from other counties, and will provide space for same where they are sent in."—Reporter-Star.

Will Open Bicycle Shop

L. J. Bryan will shortly open a bicycle shop in the storeroom formerly occupied by the Lewis Vegetable Exchange on Palmetto avenue.

The name of the new firm will be The Sanford Cycle Co. and will handle all kinds of bicycle accessories, as well as new wheels. In addition Mr. Bryan will do all kinds of repair work in this line. He expects to open for business about Sept. 10th.

Union Services

Union services of the Sanford churches will be held Sunday evening at the Star Theatre. Mr. O. T. Uslenah will be the principal speaker of the evening. Mr. Uslenah is the field secretary of the Florida Anti-Saloon League and comes highly recommended as an interesting and powerful speaker.

T. A. Carrol, representing the American Agricultural Chemical Co., was in the city several days of this week looking up business for his firm. He expects to have an agent here to represent his firm in the near future.

MYSTERIOUS HOLD UP

Graham Home On Heights Scene Of Robbery

YOUNG MAN BOUND TO CHAIR

While The Bold, Bad Men Search The House For A Revolver

Are "Gyp the Blood" and "Lefty Louie" working in Sanford.

It would seem so from the earmarks of a very romantic hold-up worked on Sanford Heights one night this week.

In the early morning hours, when only the ice man and the milkman are supposed to be out, Robert Lord and Erskine Pope were delivering ice on the Heights, when upon reaching the home of Frank Graham they heard some one moaning as if in pain, and upon entering the house found a young man, named Frank Williams, tied hand and foot to a chair, bucked and gagged in true highwayman style. They immediately cut him loose and notified the police department of the circumstances.

Upon the arrival of the police and plain clothes men from the Central office the man named Williams was put through a grilling, and as the whole affair seemed fishy to the officers he was taken into custody by the police and kept in the station for twenty-four hours. Here he was put through a course of the third degree, and there not being sufficient evidence to hold him he was freed.

The Graham home has been left in the custody of Frank Williams in the absence of Mrs. Graham, who is visiting relatives in Missouri, and Mr. Graham is on the road most of the time, leaving the young man in charge of the house in his absence, and he has been faithful to his charge.

Mr. Graham arrived home meantime and making a search of the house found everything in place, except a pistol, and as he vouched for the honesty of the young man there was nothing for the officials to do but give him his liberty.

The story of the hold-up from the young man is that two men, one tall and one short and heavily set, sprang upon him near the house and stalling his cross took him to the house and tied him to the chair, forcing a napkin into his mouth, and then ransacking the house. The one feature that aroused the officers suspicion was the absence of any signs of a scuffle near the house, or footprints near the windows and the rather rambling version of the affair, as told by Williams. The young man is subject to epilepsy and this may account in part for his lapse of memory.

Like everything else, the story is subject to rumors and dozens of theories are advanced on the affair and there are several Sherlock Holmes' who have solved the mystery, but that it will remain a mystery seems now to be the general opinion of the public.

Maybe "Gyp the Blood" has come south to escape the clutches of New York justice.

Another Bad Check

W. C. Turner, a traveling man, was arrested in Jacksonville the first of the week on the charge of passing a worthless check on the First National Bank of DeLand on November 24, 1911. The check was for $25.00 and was issued on the Peoples Bank of Sanford. Preliminary hearing was held before Judge McCrory, and bond set at $500.00, which Turner was unable to furnish and was locked up in jail to await trial by the Criminal Court of Record. Turner is a white man. DeLand News.

INLAND WATERWAY

Orlando Wants Canal To St. Johns River For Deep Water

A company has been formed, which yesterday applied to the Secretary of State for a charter, to build and operate a canal between Orlando and Lake Jesup, the plan being to connect this city with the navigation of the St. Johns river.

It is the further plan of the company to build and operate an electric railroad between the canal terminus and a terminus on the Kissimmee river.

Small steamers now ply the Kissimmee river from Kissimmee and via Lake Okesehobee to Fort Myers. Thus a transportation line will be established diagonally through the state.

The company is incorporated as the Orlando Railroad and Navigation Company, composing the following: James L. Giles, president, H. L. Besman, vice president, J. N. Bradshaw, secretary, and City Engineer Ramsey, treasurer.

This organization is in a way tentative and only five thousand dollars has been paid in. This sum is to cover the preliminary work of surveying and so forth, to determine the feasibility of the plan. A map of the proposed route has already been made by Mr. Ramsey and he in common with every one connected with the venture considers it in every way a practical plan. But the organizers thought it best to subscribe money for a preliminary investigation. After the consulting engineers, who will be employed, have passed upon the plan, the company will be enlarged and the capital raised to perhaps half a million or a million dollars.

If the plan is successful Orlando will be put into direct water communication with Jacksonville and a freight rate will be established which would materially lower the existing railroad rate.

The application for the charter for company was drawn up by City Attorney Giles, and mailed to the Secretary of State last night. In this application the following proposed route is specified: From Lake Mann, west of town, near Dr. Phillips' grave, to Spring Lake, through lakes Alvar, Concord, Ivanhoe, Formosa, and the Water Park, chain including Rowena, Sue, Virginia, Oscoda, thus into Lake Matland and Lake Howell. From Lake Howell the descent into Lake Jesup will be made through Howell Creek.

It is estimated that the construction of a canal over this route will cost $180,000.

While the canal will actually begin at Lake Mann, the actual terminus of the steamboat line will likely be in Lake Ivanhoe, the waters from the chain to the westward being used merely as a feeder. It was discovered in making the survey, that Lake Mann is eight feet higher than Spring Lake, which is an ideal feeder lake, especially considering its volume. And it is proposed to increase the volume of outflow by damming up the drain into Shingle Creek, which finds its way into the Kissimmee river, thus diverting the entire flow from this lake into Spring Lake.

From the steamboat terminus, it is proposed to construct an electric railway to a point on the Kissimmee river near Kissimmee. The boats now plying the Kissimmee river to Ft. Myers, on the Gulf Coast, are small owing to the shallowness of the waterways. But an appropriation has been asked from Congress to deepen the Kissimmee river, and when this work is accomplished, large freight and passenger carrying boats will operate entirely through the state with the exception of the break between Orlando and Kissimmee, and it is considered to be only a question of time before this line in the cross state canal will be dug.—Reporter-Star.

Banks Close

Monday being Labor Day, the banks of Sanford will be closed all day.

Mrs. Lillian Rosenthal, widow of the murdered gambler, is preparing to bring suit against Lieut. Charles Becker for $100,000 damages for the death of her husband. Her lawyer bases his hopes of success in this suit on a technicality which he believes will make it possible for him to win even if Becker escapes conviction. The point is the requirement in a criminal case that the testimony of accomplices must be corroborated. It is this point which Lieut. Becker hopes may enable him to win freedom despite the confessions of Rose, Webber and Vallon. In a civil suit, however, only a preponderance of evidence is necessary to win a verdict and the fact that the testimony of accomplices would not invalidate it.

A commission form of government, including the initiative and referendum was adopted at the special election in New Orleans Wednesday by a vote of more than ten to one. The official returns were 23,900 for and 2,919 against. Both regulars and reformers voted for the new system of government. At the general election in November a constitutional amendment will be voted upon, the carrying of which will mean the right of recall also will be made a feature of the commission form of government just adopted.

A cloudburst is reported to have wiped out the village of Lebanon, Ohio, the county seat of Warren county Wednesday night. Houses that remain standing are flooded to the upper stories and thousands of dollars damage is reported to have been done to growing crops. No loss of life so far has been reported. Lebanon has a population of 2,698 according to the last census.

With a vote of 138-114 recorded and a score of precincts yet to hear from, South Carolina has cast the heaviest vote in its primary history. Cole L. Beane, the incumbent, leads for governor by a majority of 2,296 votes for his two opponents. This elects him on the face of the returns. The size of the vote has led to action in two large counties, Spartanburg and Anderson. In the former a protest will be filed when the executive committee meets. In the latter, the committee has practically decided to order a recount, it is learned from a member of the committee.

Colonel C. C. Wilson, former president of the United Wireless Company died Sunday night at the United States penitentiary in Atlanta, Ga., where he was serving a three years term for "using the mails in an attempt to defraud." Uræmic poisoning was given as the cause for his death.

A new 2-cent stamp in commemoration of the Panama Exposition in San Francisco in 1915 was approved yesterday by Postmaster General Hitchcock. It bears an engraving in commemoration of the Gatun locks of the Panama Canal showing a steamship emerging from the northern lock. The first issues will be on sale in a few weeks.

Death of Mrs. Venable

Mrs. Geo. W. Venable died in Jacksonville on Tuesday evening after a lingering illness of several months. The physicians gave her up six months ago, but Mr. Venable in the vain hope of prolonging her life sent her to her old home on the East Coast and afterward she went to a hospital in Jacksonville; but the dreaded disease could not be successfully combated, and in the presence of husband and family her soul took flight and the sufferer found relief.

Mrs. Venable lived in Sanford several years and leaves many friends here and in her childhood home to mourn her loss. Her devoted husband and two little daughters will miss the wifely devotion and the mother's care.

The remains were brought here on Thursday and the funeral services held at the Methodist church, Rev. C. H. Summers officiating. Interment made in Lakeview Cemetery.

POSTOFFICE WILL CLOSE

New Ruling Will Affect the Sanford Sunday Mail

Editor Herald: I am in receipt of the following instructions from the Department which I would be glad if you would publish for one or two issues.

"The postoffice appropriation act for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913, provides:

"That hereafter postoffices of the first and second classes shall not open on Sundays for the purpose of delivering mail to the general public, but this provision shall not prevent the prompt delivery of special delivery mail."

"Under this law you will close the general delivery, carriers' windows, and lock boxes and discontinue all deliveries by carriers on Sunday. You will note, however, that special delivery mail is excepted, and you will therefore arrange to have on duty a sufficient force to handle this mail matter promptly."

Outgoing mail will be dispatched to all trains as heretofore.

Respectfully, CHAS. F. HASKINS, P. H. By H. C. HASKINS, Asst. P. M.

On the Other Side

Editor Sanford Herald: I have read with interest your short article on "Road Hogs," and write to beg you to give us one more on the other side of the question.

No doubt, the autost has much to annoy him, but I think most teamsters err from ignorance, rather than from malice or carelessness. Very few, surely, are foolish enough to willfully get in the way of a machine, and most of us are only too glad to give the "devil wagons" a wide berth.

On the other hand many drivers of machines seem only to consider their own convenience and not the fact that they had no right to be on the road at all.

A recent experience of mine will give you an idea of what we teamsters have to contend with. I drove a very strong team to work, loaded for home, intending to get there and develop any thing but a headache.

On the other hand many drivers of machines seem only to consider their own convenience and not the fact that they had no right to be on the road at all. A recent experience of mine will give you an idea of what we teamsters have to contend with. I drove a very strong team to work, loaded for home, intending to get there and develop any thing but a headache.

Fact I think, coming over the first street road near the railroad crossing at Rand's Mill, I saw a machine coming. I thought from the way it was coming I was to have a close shave. Across the two tracks and put down into the road below.

the way I was approaching the tracks are filled in only wide enough for two teams to meet and pass, and the railroad ditches are wide and deep. I crossed both tracks safely, but the coming car, instead of slowing up a little to give me time to get out of the way, it proceeded into the road, crossed the tracks at extra speed, and drove over my team, grazing my stock and killing my team.

Had he jumped and I had known him to do under similar circumstances, he would have landed himself and the whole outfit in the bottom of the railroad ditch. The driver of the car was a total stranger to me, or I would give his name without hesitation. No doubt he was sure of his machine and his ability to manage it, but he could not be sure of my horse or my ability. He could see that I was alone, that the way was narrow, and that I had no chance whatever to get out of his way; yet, rather than put himself to any inconvenience he would risk the risk of a human life.

Such carelessness and indifference are no uncommon thing I meet many gentlemen, who show every kindness and consideration, and to them I give my hearty gratitude.

It is the other kind I don't know what to call them, unless I borrow your expression, that I ask you to get after, if not with a "sharp stick," that better thing, a sharp pen. You are always fair minded and ready to "fight for right," please use your influence on the teamsters' side too.

Yours very sincerely, FRANCES W. TABOR.

Nell of the Mountains

By LOUISE MERRIFIELD

(Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.)

"Where's Nell?" Burt Sims reined up shortly at the wide mill opening. Old Farley waited till the saw had cut through the heart of the great cedar before he came forward.

"Been up for the house?" "She ain't there. You'd seen her go by, Tinkum?"

Tinkum lay flat down in the sawdust, making roadways. "Mebbe she's after laurel," he vouchsafed. "She goes down to the gap after some every night after supper."

Burt pressed his knees against the sorrel mare's sides and she sprang forward over the rough wooden bridge and down the road to the gap. On the rock embankment above the railroad he found her, sweet and dainty as the mountain laurel that grew in great shrubs of pink bloom in the gray rock crags and crannies.

And he told her why he had come, point blank, roughly, without hesitancy or doubt as to the outcome, while Nell dropped her head and smiled. Lately she had become somewhat of a connoisseur in love-making.

"So I thought I'd better tell you," finished up Burt. "I've got this call down to Rocking Stone, and I won't be back soon, and your father thinks we'd better marry before I go."

"Well, I reckon I won't marry you, Burt, not yet awhile," Nell laughed before he could ask why, there had come the long call of the engine whistle down the gap and she lifted her head as if to meet it.

Burt watched her, saw her color rise and her eyes shine as the express thundered into view, and he saw the engine pass by the gap window, and toss something at her feet.

It was a small box, well wrapped and weighted with a lump of lead.

You might as well open it up, Nell," he said roughly. "You've found out."

"I don't care," Burt said. "I won't be afraid of you," she broke the cord and opened up the box, inside lay a dark leather case and under its cover, Nell saw a ring of almost frightened delight when she saw the ring imbedded in the white-velvet. It was not a diamond, but three pearls large as early peas they seemed to Nell, and beautiful as the dawn that she loved to watch melt the mist wreaths up and down the long valley.

"How'd you get to know him, Nell?"

Nell's chin went up defiantly. "I carried medicine for mother down to old Mis' Haynes. An' it was late An' I took the railroad bridge way coming home. An' the train came along, an' I'd been killed if he hadn't seen me, and slowed up in time."

"Then what?" "Then, then I always watched for him."

"Watched for him, an' you don't even know his name?"

"I do so, Burt Sims. It's Ned Rowan. He's a Nashville fellow."

"How do you know so much?" "He told me—I mean wrote it to me."

"I always told your pa it'd bring mischief letting you go down the valley to school. Give me the letters."

"I won't. You and all the men up here are just the same. A woman ain't no more to you than your bound, not as much as your horse. An' I seen my mother slave and grow old with out a decent word from month end to month end? Ain't I seen her licked sometimes, too, before I was old enough to fight dad? Suppose I'm fit to say beto in these mountains and be the wife of one of you? Her young laugh rang out triumphantly. She slipped the ring on her third finger, and held it to her lips. "I'm going to marry Ned Rowan, and mighty soon, too."

The tall lean young mountaineer watched her with half closed eyelids, and closed lips.

"Are you?" You'll have to be quick about it, Nell." He turned the mare's head. "Cause he ain't going to run that train over the gap again, not alive!"

"Burt, wait!"

He did not turn his head at her call. She watched him ride away toward home. It was just sunset. The whole range of mountains seemed built of mingled precious stones and ramparts of gold in the strange, vivid radiance. The girl stood gazing out at it all, not the dark line of the mountains, but the sky and its glory. She loved the sunset hour that had brought her for weeks the only romance and joy that had ever come into her life.

She had been born and bred in the old lumber mill, child of warlike, taciturn mountain folk. Only little Tinkum had cheered her. Perhaps her mother had caught a gleam of some different world in the glory of the sunsets and had bequeathed a hidden heart longing to her daughter. Nell never knew. Her mother still worked on at the mill house, a slender stoop-shouldered, close-fisted woman, with only her eyes to betray her, great, lustrous, hazel eyes like Nell's, dark hazel like the mountain brooks in shadow.

That night Nell told her mother, showed her Ned's letters—manly, tender letters—showed her the ring and asked what she should do. Mrs. Farley cried silently, and held her girl close to her breast.

"Don't, dearie, I don't know," she said. "I only want you to be happy. Burt Sims is a good fellow, but I don't like you to marry him. You've got to get out of the mill, and you've got to get out of the valley. You better go, and I'll help you."

"And what about the ring?"

"I'll wear it for you, and I'll be sure to keep it safe for you. I'll wear it for you, and I'll be sure to keep it safe for you. I'll wear it for you, and I'll be sure to keep it safe for you."

And when the express whistle sounded around the mountain curve, she stood in the center of the track, waving the old ring above her head to give Nell's love and gratitude from the best place she could get in the train.

And he saw the smoke from the engine, and he had kept his word. He had set fire to the tracks, and it would be the last time Nell would see the gap.

Nell sped down the rough road to the tracks, then on to the bridge, and she saw the train coming.

Gave Up Hope

"I suffered five years, with awful pains, due to womanly troubles," writes Mrs. M. D. McPherson, from Chadburn, N. C. "They grew worse, till I would often faint. I could not walk at all, and I had an awful hurting in my side, also a headache and a backache.

I gave up and thought I would die, but my husband urged me to try Cardui, so, I began, and the first bottle helped me. By the time the third bottle was used, I could do all my work. All the people around here said I would die, but Cardui relieved me."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

For more than 50 years, Cardui has been relieving woman's sufferings, and making weak women strong and well. During this time, thousands of women have written, like Mrs. McPherson, to tell of the really surprising results they obtained by the use of this purely vegetable, tonic remedy for women.

Cardui strengthens, builds, restores, and relieves or prevents unnecessary pain and suffering from womanly troubles. If you are a woman, begin taking Cardui, today.

NERVOUSNESS WRECKS WOMEN'S LIVES

Scientific Discovery That Is The Only Known Cure For The Disease

Nervousness in women is almost invariably the result of some female trouble. For this reason it is useless to take an ordinary nerve tonic or nerve remedy and expect to be cured.

The only way for women to cure their nervousness and get well is by the use of Reno's New Health, the remedy which cures all weaknesses and female troubles, stopping the drain and giving perfect health and natural action to the whole system.

When there is a drain upon the nervous system, due to female weakness, you are irritable, unmanageable and feel as though you wanted to scream or fly. The slamming of a door almost throws you into hysterics, your nerves are shattered and people speak of you as a nervous wreck.

MOORE'S STATION

We are told positively that the car will begin running this week Saturday.

County Surveyor Freas of Orlando and a force of men were surveying Beardall and Geneva avenues Friday, preparatory to getting ready for the new brick roads.

Mrs. J. F. McClelland entertained the Ladies' Aid Society at the last meeting and served ice cream and cake. Nineteen in attendance.

The church was pretty well filled at the farmers' club meeting last Friday evening. Besides the business meeting there was a pleasing program. There will be a debate on Friday evening to decide which is the most desirable dwelling place, the city or the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hickson have gone to housekeeping in one of Mr. Barnes' houses on Sipes avenue.

Mrs. G. C. Chamberlain is spending the week at Coronado. Mr. Chamberlain will go over Thursday for the remainder of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Perry have moved from the Kinahan place back to Sanford Heights.

J. F. McClelland is building an addition to his residence, and will paint it and the store building also.

CAMERON CITY CLIPPINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Duckworth have both been ill, but are much better.

F. F. Dutton and family are spending a week at Sea Breeze.

Geo. Chamberlain and wife are enjoying the ocean at Daytona Beach.

Jimmie McMillan is clearing the hyacinths out of Golden Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson went to Sanford on Wednesday after a visit to Cameron City, and will leave for their home in Jacksonville on next Thursday's boat. Mrs. Stevenson had the misfortune to severely sprain an ankle while at Woodland Park last week and has been unable to get about to visit her many friends.

C. G. Perry's family is moving from the Kinahan farm to Sanford.

R. E. Gormly, C. C. Worthington, H. H. Stevenson and W. W. Dressor spent Monday at Geneva Ferry fishing.

Parties of Boston men were looking at the farms in this vicinity Saturday and Sunday.

CHULUOTA SNAPSHOTS

Weather warm and plenty of rain recently.

Some of the gardeners are planting seeds and putting out some of the earlier fall vegetables.

Mrs. G. G. Jacobs and little daughter, Evelyn, are visiting the former's sister, Mrs. Thomas Hodges at Cocoa this week.

Sammy Long and Miss May Long spent Saturday and Sunday at Geneva visiting Mrs. Prevatt and family.

Mrs. A. A. Dooley and daughter, Miss Lucile Riviere, left Wednesday for Miami to make preparations for the latter to begin her studies at Columbia College at Chicago for the coming year.

After seeing her daughter duly installed in the college work, Mrs. Dooley will return to The Palm for the winter.

Misses Rosa Jacobs and Angie Story are visiting relatives in Orlando and Conway this week.

Mesdames Adin, Deane and Hesse of Oviedo spent last Monday with Mrs. M. E. Jacobs.

M. W. McRae of Miami arrived Wednesday to assist Mr. Dooley in the surveying and planning the new town.

Eaten Lightfoot, after having spent his vacation here visiting friends returned to his home at Tampa Friday.

Miss Hazel Boucillon, after spending several months in this vicinity, left for her home in Savannah Monday.

Guests at the Palm during the past week were Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Dooley, M. W. McRae, Jas. Osteen, M. T. Van Wagoner, Robert Paxton, W. P. Carpenter, Miss Lucile Riviere, Misses Blanche and Maud Chapman, Jas. A. Kirkwood, Mr. Lawton and Mr. Tenney.

Pugh Will Raise Spuds

B. H. Pugh, who was in Sanford last winter and farmed about fifty acres on the O. E. Walker place, will return this winter and go into the potato business on a larger scale than last year. Mr. Pugh is an experienced potato farmer and owns and operates one of the best farms of this nature in the Kaw Valley near Topeka, Kans. He was very successful here last winter, although this was his first season as a Florida farmer.

He says "I expect to be in Sanford this winter again. Mrs. Pugh will be with me, but my son Paul will enter Culver Military Academy in Indiana. I shall be glad to enter business again at Sanford, and will put out a larger crop of potatoes than ever if I can get some good land at a reasonable rent."

Just now I am in the midst of my shipping season, loading out three to five cars potatoes daily will be through in ten days. I enjoy The Herald very much. Was sorry to hear of Mr. Holden's death. He was the first man to take me over the Sanford district.

Yours very truly,
B. H. Pugh.

MONROE NEWS

The new union church at this place is completed and will have services in it next Sunday.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Imboden who died this week was buried at Silver Lake. Rev. Summers conducted the funeral services.

Ferryman Osteen is on the sick list this week.

J. W. Bell and A. S. Hawkins are tending the ferry this week.

The automobile travel is very heavy just now to and from the coast.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Powell have returned from the mountains of East Tennessee and are now getting ready for fall crops on their farm.

The stork visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keefes this week. It's a fine girl. The Monroe choir had a recital at Mr. Iserman's Wednesday night.

The Sunday school is progressing finely at this place. The truckers are getting very busy just now and it looks as though there is going to be a very large acreage of lettuce set out at this place.

Hints on Advertising

One of the many millionaires who made his money largely through advertising is John Wanamaker. In talking of the secret of his success he said recently, according to Newspaperdom: "If there is one business on earth that a quitter should leave severely alone, it is advertising. To make a success of advertising one must be prepared to stick to it like a barnacle on a boat's bottom. He should know before he begins it that he must spend money considerable of it. Somebody should tell him that he cannot hope to reap results commensurate with his expenditure early in the game. Advertising doesn't jerk, it pulls. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It increases day by day and year by year, until it exerts an irresistible power. It is likened to a team pulling a heavy load. A thousand spasmodic jerks will not budge the load; while one-half the power exerted in steady effort will start and keep it moving. There are three ways to make advertising pay, and these are the only ways. There are no others. First, is to keep at it; second, is to keep at it; third, is to keep at it."

In connection with the above, ten added "Don'ts" are appropriate:

Don't expect big results from a small ad. A pony can't pull a double truck load.

Don't leave your copy writing to incompetency; write into it your own observations and experience.

Don't be satisfied with one line of copy; keep at it until you get "a puller," then stick along that line.

Don't put too much matter into your ad; consider your space, and display; then tell your story in a short, concise manner.

Don't exaggerate the virtues of your product or service. Give a little bit better than your ad calls for; then all your clients will be walking advertisements for you.

Don't stop advertising when business is slack. The constant advertiser knows no slack season.

Don't damn a medium if you have never kept account account of your results. "Results count," so count your results.

Don't treat an advertising solicitor like a highway robber. Some big businesses owe their greatness to ideas which ad solicitors had to get out of their systems.

Don't knock your competitor in your ads, but beat him to it.

While the weather is hot buy your dried chipped beef at W. W. Long's grocery. Sliced on an American slicing machine. 94-tf

THE UNORGANIZED FARMER

That the American farmers pay an interest tax of $210,000,000 they should not pay, and that they do this because farming is an unorganized industry is clearly set forth in the first of a series of articles on the high cost of living by B. F. Yoakum, chairman of the board of directors of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad, published in the World's Work for September. As taxes, like other charges on trade and industry, are paid in the end by the "ultimate consumer," this subject is one which does not interest alone the farming community, but everybody, and especially the man who lives on a salary or a fixed income.

The American manufacturer in most sections can borrow money at a gross rate of from 5 to 6 1/2 per cent. The American farmer, who manufactures food and the raw material for textile goods, cannot borrow money to conduct his operations at a less gross rate than 8 1/2 per cent. Sometimes he must pay a rate many times that. Yet his is the most certain security that can be offered. The gross rate we speak of includes not only the actual rate of interest but the legal costs connected with the transfer of the money.

The foreign farmer can borrow money on far longer time, even to ten, or in France to seventy-five years at a gross rate of 4 to 5 per cent. If he wants money, for instance to buy a pig or a cow, he can borrow even that small amount and need not repay the loan until the natural increase has returned many times the principal so invested. Thus the American farmer suffers under many handicaps of which the German, or French or Italian, or Swedish farmer has no experience.

That a brighter day is dawning for the American farmer all are aware who have read what has been published from time to time in the Times-Union. But, whatever may be the outcome of the investigations to be conducted abroad by the committee of two from each state which will sail in May, or of the investigations our government is conducting through the consular service in Europe, ultimately none can help the American farmer but the farmer himself. The national and state governments can do no more than remove all obstacles in the way of the free organization of the farmer for economic ends, modify the laws for the promotion and protection of the farmers' cooperative associations.

The farmers must do the initiative work and conduct the necessary preparations. If some modification be adopted of the cooperative institutions which have, in Germany at least, a successful history of 140 years behind them, the farmer may take advantage of it, but he must work out his own salvation. Agricultural cooperation has performed wonders in adding to the comfort and independence of the foreign farmer. It can do as much in America. But there is no reason why American farmers should wait before joining in cooperative effort. If they cannot, under our present laws, form cooperative credit banks, they can at least foster the spirit of cooperation by joining in associations for many other purposes.

Cooperation is the spirit of the age. Individualism has had its day and will be swept away before the advancing tide of civilization.—Times-Union.

SPEED BUGS AGAIN

In this issue of The Herald is an article from a lady who has not only been annoyed by the crazy auto drivers but has been in serious danger time and again because the drivers of autos forget that her horse is nervous and may either back the wagon into the auto or into the ditch. As The Herald stated in a previous article there are road hogs on both sides of the question and by using ordinary judgment, common sense and respect for the rights of both parties all the danger and loss of temper can be avoided. Especially in the case of a lady driving either a car or a vehicle should the men be careful in passing and the righteous kick registered in this issue is not the only one being heard from the west side. It seems to be the pleasure of the speed bugs of this city to get on the main road between here and the turn to Monroe and see how far they can open her up, paying no attention to anyone else on the road. There are several drivers in Sanford who have done this repeatedly and many people living out there have become so incensed that they threaten to take the law into their own hands and give some of the speed fiends a good thrashing. There is a speed limit in the city and in the county and every driver should observe it. There are few urgent cases where the auto driver needs to obtain more than fifteen miles an hour, and at all times they should give the other travelers right of way, and in the case of ladies, if they have no chivalry or manhood about them perhaps a little could be thrashed into them. Remember that there are rights on the road to be respected, and every driver should try their best to remember the Golden Rule.

MORE WATERWAYS IN ORANGE

Several Orlando boosters have conceived the idea of investing some money in a preliminary survey of the chain of lakes extending from Orlando to Maitland, with a view of digging a channel to Lake Jessup and thence into the St. Johns river and have the Clyde Line tie up to the San Juan hotel every morning for breakfast. The Herald is glad to see the scheme tested. The waterways of our state have too long been neglected and now that the Panama canal will soon be finished there is no reason why the government could not bring the machinery to Florida and spend some time dredging out more canals and utilizing our chains of lakes for more water transportation.

Our Orlando friends are wide awake as usual and never overlook a bet. If the project proves feasible the city of Orlando and the city of Sanford will both be winners and all of Orange county will feel the impetus of new business. If the preliminary survey proves that the project is not feasible Orlando has gained something in advertising and again demonstrated that the enterprising citizens of that city are willing to spend money for the best interests of the place in which they reside. The Herald loves a bunch of live ones no matter where they live and the very fact that Orlando, though an inland city, has always been a live wire is a strong endorsement for the progressive spirit of her citizens.

The Herald sincerely hopes that the survey will be made and that figures will prove the canal theory is a good one. Meantime we invite our Orlando friends to come down some day and watch the boats as they sweep up to the Sanford wharf. The sight will inspire them to greater effort in the waterway line and meantime some inventive genius may invent a ship that will float in the subterranean streams that abound beneath the city of Orlando.

There appears to be an epidemic of bad check giving in Florida this year. Reports of infractions of the law in this respect come from nearly every county in the state. As the doctors inoculate for smallpox and typhoid, etc., it may become necessary for the young man, when he first leaves college, to be inoculated against bad checks before he will be able to secure a position of responsibility and trust. Laying all jokes aside, however, this bad check business is becoming a serious nuisance and danger. The banks should see that the law is strictly enforced and the offenders seriously punished. Checks are accepted by business men as cash, entered on their books and treated as cash; anything that impairs their value will injure the banks and ultimately force people into using the long green instead of the little slips of paper with a man's personal guarantee on the bottom.—Deland News.

Today the last games of the ball series will be played and now we can settle down to business again. On the whole the ball season has proved a recreation, and the games have been enjoyed. We will miss the sport and the young gentlemen who represented Sanford.

We don't care if Sanford doesn't get the county seat, if she can secure the state capital when it is moved to the centre of the state.—Winter Garden Times.

Thank you, brother. We may ask your aid for the capital sooner than you think.

According to the Orlando Citizen old man Live Oak is dead and was given a decent funeral oration in the last issue of that paper. Never mind, Brother Howard. You certainly planted a weeping willow in the place of the defunct Live Oak.

LARGE PARTY VISIT SANFORD

About 18 Autos Full of DeLand People Attend Ball Game

About 18 autos full of DeLand people went on Thursday afternoon to Sanford, where the last of the base ball games between the Sanford and Orlando teams was to be played. All went by the new route, making the trip from DeLand to Sanford, crossing the river at Beck's ferry. The trip each way was made in about two hours.

The game was a very good one, the Sanford team, however, outclassing the Orlando aggregation. The score was 3 to 0 in favor of Sanford.

The DeLand party returned home without mishap just after nightfall.—DeLand News.

Sanford at Coronado Beach

Mrs. Overman enjoyed the salt water more than any one over there and was a regular mermaid until a nasty crab bit her on the toe and after that she was shy of the ocean.

Verne Arnett joined the crowd at Camp Starvation last Tuesday and when he beheld the ocean for the first time he calmly turned to Jack Davison and remarked that it looked just like Lake Erie to him. Since that time he has learned the difference.

W. H. Williams was a little late getting started at the fishing game, but when he did put on his fishing clothes he went some and at last accounts had caught three fine bass that would weigh over ten pounds a piece. He is using Overman's fishing tackle, which may account for it.

There are signs of progress on every hand at New Smyrna and Coronado Beach and a company has been formed to build another bridge and hotel, ocean pier and casino and with a good road to New Smyrna the people can enjoy themselves to the fullest extent at one of the finest beaches in the world.

Quite a Sanford colony congregated at Coronado Beach last week and enjoyed the fishing and bathing and sand flies. J. H. Overman captured the prize as the champion fisherman not only in the Sanford bunch but all along the beach. He would take a hike down the beach and return in a short time dragging a ten or twelve pound bass.

Jack Davison caught a saw fish or a sail fish as they are called, and as it weighed over 150 pounds Jack called for help to land him and with the aid of several men and harpoons the monster was finally landed on the shore. He was a wicked looking monster and Jack expects to have a postal card printed with the fish and the fisherman depicted therein.

Coming home from a fishing trip to the Inlet last Saturday night the editor of The Herald and his wife and Hon. J. H. Sears and wife and Mrs. Bullock of Kissimmee were caught in the quick sand and obliged to leave the car and hoof it home about three miles to the hotel. The party were in their bathing suits and if a photo of the staid Superintendent of Instruction of Osceola county could have been reproduced, showing him trotting down the beach on the home stretch, the pictures would certainly sell. Mr. Sears was one of the jolliest men at the beach and always ready to take a party out in his car and see that the fishing parties were transported. All of us will vote for the Hon. Joe if we get the opportunity.

Part of the colony were entertained at Dr. Forster's Sanatorium at Hawk Park on Wednesday. It is called The Shelter, and is one of the prettiest places on the east coast. The building was originally intended for a hotel, but was never occupied, and was purchased by Dr. Forster for a sanatorium. Is a three story building, with all the modern conveniences, and has ample grounds and buildings. The Doctor is improving the place constantly and has patients from many states now, although this is supposed to be the dull season. The Shelter faces the river and is situated in one of the prettiest spots imaginable and when the new bridge is built to the beach easy access will be gained to the ocean, giving the patients and guests the benefit of the salt water baths. Dr. Forster makes weekly pilgrimages to the beach with his patients and nurses and seems to be enjoying life to the fullest. He is bound to make a success with his sanatorium and his many Sanford friends are glad to know that he is prospering.

C. J. Fronk, manager of this district of the McCrory chain of stores, was in the city today. He was only running on one cylinder, having sprained his ankle in Orlando looking for a street car.

Will Have Special Music

At the meeting of the Men and Religion Movement in the Star Theatre next Sunday night Mr. Chas. Polk will have a special male quartette to furnish the music, and those attending can be assured of a rare treat in the musical line.

Auction Bridge Club

The Auction Bridge Club was charmingly entertained by Mrs. B. W. Herndon Monday afternoon. Two tables of bridge were played. Mrs. C. O. McLaughlin made the highest score, and won the prize, a half dozen cut glass ice tea glasses.

After the games of cards were concluded, delicious fried chicken, green pea timbales, biscuit, iced tea and brandied peaches were served. Mrs. Herndon's guests were Mesdames W. R. Anjo, C. O. McLaughlin, O. W. King, O. W. Brady, Samuel Puleston, Robert Newman and F. L. Miller.

Wanted Police to Explain

Charleston, S. C., Aug. 30. The South Carolina Democratic committee adopted a resolution today requiring the explanation of the action of the police in ejecting a committeeman from one of the polling places in Tuesday's primaries. It was this action of the police and other alleged unwarranted acts on their part which led to the mobilizing of the militia of the city in order to afford protection to the committee in counting the votes.

The militia were held for hours at their armories, but their services were not needed as the trouble which had been feared did not materialize. The soldiers were assembled at the instance of supporters of Sheriff J. Elmore Martin, who stood successfully for re-election and who was bitterly opposed by the city administration.

The executive committee has not yet officially declared the result of the vote of Tuesday's primary, but the unofficial figures give Judge Ira B. Jones a majority of 801 over his two opponents.

GRAPHIC DESCRIPTION OF EARLY DAYS OF OUR CITY AND COUNTY

"The sugar cane and its products, as exhibited by Mr. G. W. Crawford, of this own growth and manufacture, were of a superior quality, and develops a very interesting and important department of industry. Mr. Crawford, who lives a few miles south of Orlando, is one of the most enterprising and successful farmers in Orange county, and besides the preceding he exhibited green peas, turnips, tropical yams, sweet potatoes, corn, cabbage, etc., all of mammoth growth. This tropical yam produces enormous tubers of a black color, and equal to the Irish potato in every respect, but of finer flavor. It grows rapidly from any small section of the root, and continues to grow as long as it is in the ground.

"There were turnips measuring three feet in circumference; cabbages weighing from twelve to fifteen pounds, and radishes as much as nine pounds, solid and brittle. The Rosa luxurians, or Te-o-sin-te-grass of the gods—exhibited by Dr. Kenworthy, is eight or nine feet long, and resembles corn fodder, and is said to be very prolific, yielding from fifty to one hundred tons per acre. Heads of lettuce that would cover a dinner plate looked fresh and crisp; while onions, leeks, kale, parsnips, etc., lay around in rich profusion. Potatoes planted on Christmas Day were of fine size for table use. Altogether it would be difficult to imagine a more splendid and attractive show of garden vegetables maturing in the open garden while all the other states lay congealed in the icy chains of winter. The cauliflowers raised near Sanford, for size and beauty, were objects of surprise; some of the bloom measured fifteen inches in diameter, being compact and solid. The pineapples were in every stage of development, while the matured ones were large and attractive. The cassava, with its products of beautiful starch and nutritious tapioca manufactured in the county, demand especial notice as articles of utility and profitable manufacture. The display of arrowroot from fifteen inches to two feet long was sufficient evidence that this part of Florida will produce it in as fine perfection as Bermuda. The root is tapering at each end—beautifully white and jointed like a bamboo.

"Tomatoes hanging on vines recently dug up intruded their plump and rosy cheeks upon your attention. There were also pepper plants with mature fruit upon them grown without protection, and the tender banana with its purple and peculiar bloom. All the members of the citrus family were present, with their aprons full of the yellow and golden fruits just gathered from the grove. The Japan plum and fine varieties of strawberries were well represented. These facts are only stated in justice to show that the inclemency of the past winter—for it is past here—has not materially interrupted the delicate fruit and vegetable crop of Orange county. Cotton and tobacco were also on exhibition, both of which can be raised on some lands profitably.

"There was quite a varied and handsome display in the floral and botanical departments, embracing diverse specimens of the coleus, ferns, Brazilian plants, pampas grass, jaunty jasmines, etc."

Beginning at Sanford and bringing to it the products of the best portion of Orange county, the South Florida Railroad runs southwest twenty-two miles to Orlando, the county seat. The first spadeful of earth in the grading of the line was turned by General Grant, on the tenth of January, 1880; and the road has the further distinction of being the only "newspaper railroad" in the world—it was built and is owned by the proprietors of the "Boston Herald," who conceived the plan and carried it out with journalistic promptitude and vigor. It is a narrow gauge road (three feet between the rails), is thoroughly well constructed and equipped, and is the pioneer in what is destined to be a great railway system when present plans are perfected.

The first station after leaving Sanford (three miles out) is Belair, the site of General Sanford's famous grove, already described. Two miles beyond is Bent's, a place where a number of young orange groves are about to come into bearing; and two and a half miles beyond Bent's is Soldier's Creek. Longwood station is nine and a half miles from Sanford; Snow's is three miles further; and three miles still further is Maitland, the most important point on this portion of the line. Maitland is a scattered little hamlet, comprising four or five business houses, and enjoys the distinction of possessing the finest public hall in the state (Packwood Hall). Here also is a large hotel, which is open during the winter season. The adjacent region consists of what is called high pine land, interspersed with occasional tracts of rich hammock, and is dotted with numerous small lakes, some of which are perfect gems of landscape beauty, while all abound in fish. In the neighborhood are many improved homes and large orange groves. Among the latter is one owned by Bishop H. B. Whipple, of the Diocese of Minnesota; and a very fine one, seen on the left from the cars, is the property of Mr. B. R. Swoope, superintendent and general manager of the railroad. One of the pleasantest places in the vicinity is that of Mr. George H. Packwood, crowning a crest which slopes up gently from the shore of the lovely Lake Sybella. He has a large orange grove and one of the most extensive grape arbors in the state, together with pineapples and other semi-tropical fruits.

The next station south of Maitland (two miles distant) is Osceola. This also is a pretty region of high pine lands, comprising many fine orange groves, and settled for the most part by northern people. Up to this point the country traversed is level or but slightly undulating with far stretched pine woods, and a light sandy soil. Near Orlando the character of the country changes, the surface becomes more rolling and hilly, the soil is darker and richer, the lakes are surrounded by what in this section are called "bluffs," and the scenery is more picturesque and pleasing. Here is the high table land of Central Florida, the natural watershed—for an examination of the map will show the streams flowing east, west, north, and south from this high plateau.

Two miles this side of Orlando (twenty miles from Sanford) is Interlaken, formerly Wilcox, a place which is growing with great rapidity, and which seems destined to become the home of an unusually estimable class of residents, many of them of the cultivated and thrifty New England type. Among the settlers here are such men as ex-Governor Pillsbury of Maine, and the Hon. John G. Sinclair of New Hampshire, the latter of whom has thrown himself with ardor into the development of the new place, and now has, besides a growing orange grove, a cassava starch factory, a saw mill and a cotton gin. Here also is the home ("Waverly Hall") of Major M. R. Marks, one of the most famous characters of this region, and in fact one of the best known men in the entire state—for every one who does not know him personally knows some of the innumerable anecdotes about him. Originally from Georgia, he has lived in Florida for nearly twenty years, has contributed greatly to the development of Orange county, is considered perfect authority on land values, and is always loaded with "a big bargain." Nearly all the real estate transactions of the entire region are consummated through him, or through Mr. Sinclair, who also does an extensive business as a land agent. Some of the prettiest lakes in the state surround Interlaken on nearly all sides, and there is one connected chain upon which a boat ride of at least twenty miles can be enjoyed. The scenery of these lakes is exquisite, and one is constantly tempted to exclaim, "What a lovely place that is, on that knoll, for a home!" A good hotel here would be sure to attract many visitors, and there is a probability that such an one will be erected soon.

Orlando, the county seat, is an old place; a genuine native community of the kind that the traveler finds in all sections of the state, almost always located in a beautiful, bountiful region, where Nature has done everything to aid and please, and where man seems indisposed to do anything. The "boom" that has enlivened every other spot in Orange county seems to have left Orlando comparatively untouched; yet there is no other locality that offers greater attractions, for the soil is exceptionally fertile and productive; plenty of timber is convenient, and the surrounding country, studded with lakes, is remarkably pleasing. A court house and a jail are among the most conspicuous features of the place, but neither these nor the residences are kept in that trim and neat condition that in Florida, as elsewhere, marks the presence of the northern settler. The hotel is charmingly located in the midst of an orange grove; and the entire region on account of its elevation, perhaps, enjoys a remarkable exemption from mosquitoes, sand flies and the other insect pests. The "Orange County Reporter," is published here by an energetic western man and is one of the best local papers in the state.

For the present, the South Florida Railroad ends at Orlando, but this is only temporary, and preparations are being made for its extension southwest. Its ultimate destination is Charlotte Harbor, on the Gulf Coast. Several branch lines are also projected, and the one to Lake Tohopekaliga will probably be completed by the time this book appears, opening up a very rich and attractive section.

WHEN WE GO PICNICING.

There are those who ever think of the discomforts and inconveniences of the picnic that they overbalance the pleasure and make them undesirable companions on a picnic. Pick your picnic lovers so your joy may be unalloyed.

In arranging for a day's outing, careful planning must be done for bulk and weight must be eliminated as far as is possible with comfort.

The fewer the dishes of a washable variety the better; plates and cups of paper may be obtained at small cost, weigh little and may be burned when the meal is over, so that the dishwashing and repacking is done away with. The food may be wrapped in paper and paper napkins used, so that cutlery is about all the weight, except the food.

Stuffed eggs wrapped in six-inch squares of tissue paper that has been fringed around the edges, are both attractive and useful coverings.

Ferns and wild flowers make the most delightful of centerpieces.

The salad may be carried in fruit cans or the dressing and the salad may be put together after arriving at the place of the picnic.

When a fire is to be built and coffee made, a piece of sheet iron which may be placed on a stone support, is a great help, for all sorts of cooking may be going on while the coffee is being cooked.

Sweet corn left unhusked and buried in the ashes and coals roasts well and never tastes better.

All kinds of escalloped dishes are good for a picnic and may be reheated if so desired.

Lemonade all ready to add the water may be carried in a mason jar.

Thermos bottles are good to carry iced or hot drinks if one is fortunate enough to possess one.

Sandwiches, of course, must be provided, wrapped in a damp cloth they will keep fresh for hours.

A delicious dessert which is not hard to provide is sponge cake and whipped cream. The cakes may be cut open and the prepared cream filled in just before serving.

WANTED TO BE GOOD LOSER

Defeated Candidate Wanted It Understood He Was Not Complaining, but, All the Same—

John H. Lucas, general solicitor for the Metropolitan street railway, recently was accosted by a young lawyer, who warmly grasped his hand and exclaimed:

"Perhaps you do not remember me, but I once appeared as one of the opposing counsel in a case in which you were retained by the winning side, and I have often wished to express my admiration for the manner in which you handled that case."

"I suppose," said the veteran lawyer deprecatingly, "that was one of the rare occasions upon which I was not getting the worst of it."

"I'd be willing to swap records with you," laughed the young man, "but tell me, does a lawyer ever get used to losing cases?"

"I can't say, sir," responded Mr. Lucas, "I really can't say, but as for myself, I am very much in the same fix as the man from Osceola who had been defeated for office. He was telling me about it, and in order to acquit himself of the charge of being a bad loser, kept interjecting the remark that he was not complaining. 'It doesn't pay to complain,' I said, agreeing with him.

"No, sir, it doesn't," he exclaimed, "and I won't complain, but at the same time I want you to understand, sir, that it makes me darned sick."—Kansas City Journal.

Smuggled Tobacco Popular.
Smuggling is still a fine art at Deal, England. Most of the smugglers are fishermen. The smuggling is mainly in tobacco and spirits. Smuggled tobacco is in strong request throughout the agricultural district of eastern Kent. It is hard, black, powerful and seems to suit the local palate. To the unaccustomed stranger it is not a pleasant smoke, but many a man of Kent waits longingly for the arrival of the smugglers' carrier with his fresh supply.

Good One Way.

For many years a man named Dutton was a popular conductor between Duluth and Two Harbors. A woman from Duluth purchased a ticket, a return ticket to Two Harbors, and then concluded to return by boat. Some months later she wished again to visit Two Harbors and presented the remaining half of her former ticket. Mr. Dutton looked at it a full minute, then said: "I think this ticket is good for one transportation, madam, but you will have to ride backward."

Ant Fireworks.

There has been observed a curious phenomenon connected with the nests of the Brazilian white ants or termites. These when seen on the bankwaters of the Rio Verde seem to be covered with tiny stars, which give the nests the aspect of a miniature tower brilliantly illuminated. When the nest is struck with a stick the lights go out, only to reappear again little by little.—Harper's Weekly.

Sanford's Wilson Fund Reached Good Figures

Mr. C. H. Leffler, who is making a campaign in the interests of the Wilson Campaign Fund in Sanford is meeting with very good success. The following letter from Mr. John G. Crawford, National Committeeman, is self explanatory.

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 26, 1912
Mr. C. H. Leffler, Sanford, Fla.

My Dear Mr. Leffler:
I acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 24th inst., enclosing check for $28.00 for the Wilson Campaign Fund. The amount will go forward to Mr. Wells today.

It is especially gratifying to learn that the contributions come in part from life-long Republicans, and I am pleased to inform you that the National Committee is receiving in all parts of the country similar assurances of the friendliness of Republicans.

On behalf of the committee I extend thanks to you and through you to each individual contributor.

With best wishes,
Cordially yours,

JOHN T. G. CRAWFORD,
National Committeeman.

The March of the Hook Worm

One would naturally expect that a parasite which carries its living and breeds its unsuspecting host by hooking itself on to the lining of his intestine just below the stomach by a ring of grappling hooks around its mouth—which gives it its significant name—would certainly be carried into the body through the mouth upon infested food, drink or fingers, writes Dr. Hutchinson in Good Housekeeping for September. In deed this method of infection was taken for granted at first, and the food of hook worm subjects was rigorously examined for traces of eggs or larvae of the worm, until it was shown that not only no contamination of food could be proven, but also, incredible as it may sound, eggs could be and were swallowed by volunteer physicians and medical students without the slightest infection by hook worm occurring. The eggs, in fact, were either digested in the stomach or passed through the body unchanged without developing either into larvae or fully grown worms.

It was quickly found that the only place where the eggs of the worm, which pass in thousands from the body of a victim, would develop into the next, or larval stage, was in moist, warm soil, particularly if this latter contained a supply of fertilizer. Then it was found that if a little mud containing these larvae was smeared upon the skin of the hand, for instance, the infant wormlets would instantly proceed to burrow into the skin, producing an intolerable itching in the process. Thereafter the progress of the parasite was traced on a series of animals and put together link by link, until the entire astounding march of the hook worm was laid bare.

He bores his way through the skin and keeps on boring until he breaks into a capillary or small vein. Along this he is swept by the blood current to the heart and from there pumped through the circulation to the lungs. In the spongy swamp of tiny blood vessels in the lung he wakes up from his trance and proceeds to bore his way out of the blood vessel again through the wall, just as he entered it, until he strikes air this time instead of water, emerging into one of the small bronchial tubes. Up this he slowly crawls, relentless as fate.

He has now attained his full growth, being about three-quarters of an inch long. Next he reaches first the wind pipe, then the top of the larynx in the throat, from which he tumbles triumphantly into the gullet, is swallowed into the stomach, passed on into the intestine and there anchors himself for life to suck blood into one end of him and pours blood into the intestine from the other, until death doth him part.

But where does he get a chance to penetrate the skin of the body under the cover of a sheltering coat of mud? Naturally, most promptly and readily on the feet, and here the last link in the chain was forged and a puzzling question solved at the same time, namely: What was the origin and causation of an exceedingly common and troublesome itching inflammation of the skin of the feet and ankles, well known all over the southern states and wherever hook worm is found under the names of "ground itch," "toe itch," "dew itch," or simply ivy poisoning of the feet? Every one of these torturing rashes, which keep the luckless small boy awake and scratching all the night long, indeed often howling with the intensity of his discomfort, was found to be nothing more than the bonfire and display of fireworks lit up by the hook worm to celebrate his triumphant entrance into the body of another victim. The whole vicious circle and round dance of death from intestines to soil, from soil through the webs of the toes, from toes to heart, from heart to lungs, from lungs up the windpipe into the gullet, and from gullet to intestines, sounds as grotesque and incredible as a tale from the Arabian Nights. But it is a most painfully sober and scientific fact, and a thirty-second of an inch of shoe leather breaks the circle and stops the danger of death at once and forever.

Discovered a Burglar

The other night when W. W. Thurston and his family were returning from a moving picture show they discovered that the house had been entered in their absence, and while on an investigating tour opened the door of a closet, when a man flourishing a revolver sprang out and before the family could recover their surprise he had made good his escape. He was a white man, dressed in overalls and jumper and was a stranger to Mr. Thurston. By the time the police could be notified all trace of him was lost, as the description was too meagre for the officers to get on his trail.

Cat's Diet of Chicken to Go On, and Owner Would Settle at the Market Price.

When summer cat and chicken time come neighbors fall out who at other seasons live together in sweet accord in a nearby suburb a handsome white cat was the pride of a well kept establishment, where he was the only kind of live stock permitted to exist.

Next door they kept chickens, which seemed to the family who had nothing of the sort a little low. Of course these remarks were not made in a tone that would carry over the well-trimmed hedge, and relations were quite friendly until fluffy little chickens began to crawl through the hedge to eat the nice bugs in the neighbor's flourishing flower garden.

They never returned to tell how luscious was this food, for the large white cat, seeing these tempting morsels, claimed them for his own.

Angry passions were let loose, and it seemed as if peace would never be restored between the respective owners of cat and chickens, when the cat owner had a happy thought.

"How much are those chickens worth?" he demanded.

"They are worth at least twenty-five cents."

"Well, twenty-five cent chickens are none too good for my cat. He shall live on chicken if he chooses and I will pay the bill."

"What's the matter, Younghubby?" asked Oldboy. "You look pale around the gills."

"I guess it's lack of nourishment," replied Younghubby. "My wife knows 100 ways to use a chaffing dish, but she can't boil an egg."

Umpire McNulty of the New York State league staff has resigned because of a return of the paralysis he suffered last winter and President Farrell has named Arlie Latham, the former coach of the New York Giants, who was reported to have signed with the United States league, to succeed him.

DOULTRY NOTES

Overcrowding ducklings will induce feather pulling.

Kerosene is sure death to lice, if applied as a spray.

Hens suffer from overeating as much as from starving.

It is provoking to have hens steal their nests this time of the year.

The feeding of onions to laying hens has produced an onion flavor in eggs.

A hen egg bound will be seen to visit the nest repeatedly without result.

Fodder corn makes fine green food for poultry of all ages. Try it fed green.

Many will realize this fall and winter that the early hatched chick is the winter layer.

It is not advisable to allow ducklings bathing water before the weather is warm and pleasant.

Lettuce a Paying Crop

The "off season" for truckers is rapidly drawing to a close, and the one who produces the good things for the table must now busy himself getting ready for fall gardening. In thinking over the different kinds of vegetables raised, and the ones adapted to this immediate section, the vision of a nice crisp lettuce head came to view, but in imagination alone, for it has been several months since the home grown article appeared on the market.

Although Florida has its "off season," just the same as any other state, it is a well established fact that this luscious table adjunct is at home, so to speak, in the soil in this as well as other sections of the state.

Some eight years or more ago truckers in this section of Orange county began raising lettuce on a large scale for the northern market, and found it a most profitable industry.

Something of the size of lettuce raising may be had, when it is stated on the best of authority that Mr. Matthews of Pommosa last year among his crop had one head that measured two feet across, and weighed two pounds and seven ounces.

F. B. Dale of the Bartlett Gardens, near Orlando, was a large grower of lettuce. One car shipped to New York, brought him the net amount of seventeen hundred and forty dollars.

About twenty-five carloads of lettuce were shipped from near Orlando alone.

The foregoing information was gleaned from the man who knows, one who is in the business, knows when and how to plant, and considers it one of the profitable crops.

Now is the time to sow your lettuce seed in flats, and later, when the plants have reached sufficient size, plant them out in the open garden, as by that time the season will be far enough advanced to keep the sun from injuring the plants. Following out this plan, you will have lettuce for the market in two months from this time, or about Oct. 25th, so says the trucker.

From this information it would seem that lettuce could be raised in this section at great profit.

Slat gardens are becoming quite popular, and perhaps by even another season, Orlandoites can have an abundance of this choice edible for their tables even during the "off season." Reporter Star

Funeral of Gen. Booth

London, Aug. 28. The funeral services of the late General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, which has extended its work and influence throughout the entire world, will be held tonight in Olympic Hall. Tonight's service is for the Salvation Army, for the public funeral will be held tomorrow, after which interment will take place.

Olympic Hall is famous as the scene of many international horse shows and interesting pageants and exhibitions, and has been chosen for its spaciousness. The Salvation Army in all branches throughout the world will be represented and letters of condolence and resolutions of sympathy from kings down to the humblest recipient of assistance from the work established by General Booth, will be read. In spite of the simplicity which marked the life of General Booth, it will be an imposing ceremony. The floral tributes are numerous and costly, many of them coming from the crowned heads of Europe, from princes, dukes and other titled persons, whose sympathies extend to the non-sectarian work of the lamented general.

Bramwell Booth, the successor of his father as head of the Salvation Army, Mrs. Bramwell Booth, Mrs. Booth-Helberd and their immediate relatives and assistants will be the chief mourners at the funeral tonight. Eulogies will be delivered by several of the Salvation Army Commissioners and some of the principal officers of the international headquarters on Queen Victoria street. The children in America will be represented by officers selected by them by cablegram.

HUGH S. FULLERTON

By JIMMIE ARCHER.

Premier Catcher Chicago Cubs, Who is Regarded as One of the Greatest Catchers the Game Ever Has Developed.

You know the funniest thing about the mistake I have in mind was that I didn't make it. I was saved by an accident from making the blunder. I won't say it was the worst mistake I ever made in my life, because you know these fans have long memories and they may recall one twice as bad that I've forgotten. Anyhow, they never would have forgotten that one if I had succeeded in making it as I planned to do.

It was in one of the world's series games between Detroit and the Cubs, when I was a member of the Detroit team. If you remember those games you will recall that everyone said the catchers were way off in their work. There always was an argument as to who was to blame, but I guess it doesn't make any difference now, and probably we all were more or less in the wrong. Schmidt was doing the bulk of the catching for us, and the crowd was sore on him, blaming him for mistakes, no matter who made them. I was on the bench, wild to get into some of the games, but of course not saying a word until called upon.

Jimmy Archer.

I would have given a leg to get in. You know the fellow on the bench, like the fellow in the grandstand, always can make any play better than the man on the field can. I felt that way. Finally my chance came. I guess I was anxious to pull off about nine plays an inning and get good. I had been watching the Cubs closely, and I knew they didn't know much about me, which would give me a better chance to pull off some play. I don't remember what inning it was, but the score was very close and both teams were fighting for the lead, realizing that a lead of even one run would give a tremendous advantage. Evers reached second base with one man out, and as I looked down I saw he was going way up on every pitch and threatening to steal third if I gave him half an opening or if the pitcher failed to watch him closely. I decided that on the next ball I would take a snap throw to second and try to grab him off the base before he could get back. I signalled for a fast ball, high and out, so as to make the throw quickly. I saw that Evers got a little better lead than usual. The ball came perfectly true, just where I wanted it. I probably was hurrying too much, for the ball struck in my mitt—and fell to the ground! I grabbed it and saw Evers flying toward third, and I shot down there, catching him easily. Evers had figured that I would try to catch him off second, so was going to third on the throw. If the ball had stuck in my hands instead of dropping out I would have thrown without looking at all, and Evers would have been sitting on third before the ball got to second. The muff of the ball had kept me from pulling one of the worst bone-headed plays possible. Even now I can't see that it would have been as bad as it would have looked, but the crowd never would have given Evers the credit he deserved, and would have blamed me.

STATE HAPPENINGS BOILED DOWN FOR THE BUSY

A Brief Resume of Florida Happenings That Will Interest The Hurried Reader

Plant City is coming to the front in the matter of providing for civic betterment. Seventy thousand dollars is the proposed amount of bonds to be issued.

The city council of Ft. Lauderdale has bought 5,000 mango seeds which are being planted in nursery. Later the trees will be set out to ornament the streets of that town. When these trees are in bearing they will no doubt attract the attention of many northern tourists, besides presenting a beautiful sight for the home people to gaze upon.

Seventh Day Adventists in this state are planning to attend the annual camp meeting and business session of the Florida Conference of Seventh Day Adventists which will be held in Ocala on Oct. 3 to 14. The camp grounds will be about three blocks from the court house, and will resemble a city of tents, as the campers will live in tents during their stay there and the daily meetings will be held in large canvas pavilions.

A huge sea monster was found last week, washed ashore on St. George's Island, eight miles from Apalachicola. The body of the fish is about thirty feet long and is very lumber. Persons to whom credit is given for knowing say it is a whale. The fish appears to have been dead some week or ten days and probably longer. All day long motor boats have been busy going and coming carrying interested persons from Apalachicola to view this most unheard of sight thrown up by the waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

A Mysterious Luncheon

On last Thursday at 12:30, at her beautiful home on Buck Lake, Geneva, Mrs. John Adams entertained a few of her friends at a most delightful luncheon. The dining room was tastefully decorated with ferns and lilies. A very interesting feature of the luncheon was the original way in which the menu cards were gotten up. When the guests were seated at the table the menu cards were passed and each person tried to guess what the mysterious luncheon was composed of. The following menu was then served:

- Mysterious Luncheon
 Age of a Baby Select I. L. L.
 Cause of Neighborhood Contentions,
 With Vegetable Bullets
 Chopped Commentators
 Staff of Life Puffs
 Skippers' Harbor Solid Juice
 The Coolie's Miscellaneous Compound
 Fruit of Woods
 Italian's Mdsse Vine Fruit
 Boston's Overthrow Spring's Offering
 Settles All
 Ivory Manipulators.

After the luncheon the young people amused themselves with singing, fortune telling and in various other ways.

Those who enjoyed Mrs. Adams' hospitality were: Mrs. Endor Curlett, Misses Mayme McLain, Blanche Pattishall, Irene Peters, Mabel Daniels, Belle Eichner, Georgia Pattishall, Ramona McLain, Mattie Mae Willford, Marie Daniels and Messrs. Evan Pattishall, John Huddleston, Herman Daniels and Bertie Pattishall. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Pattishall, Mrs. George Peters and Miss Addie Gresham.

At a late hour in the afternoon every one departed, declaring Mrs. Adams a most charming hostess.

Cigar Factory Moves Quarters

J. J. Mauser is busy today moving his cigar factory from the Wilson building on Park avenue to the rooms over the drug store of L. R. Phillips & Co. The new quarters will give Mr. Mauser more room, as his constantly increasing orders necessitated a change of this kind and the new building will also give him more north light for the making and packing of cigars.

Mr. Mauser in a short time has achieved wonderful success with the Lucky Sanford and Tampa John cigars, and you can find these famous smokes in every part of the state where the people really know and appreciate a good thing.

BRICK ROADS PROGRESSING

Representatives are on the Ground Investigating Conditions

The brick roads for the Sanford section are assuming shape and the preliminary steps will soon be finished.

Among the visitors to the city this week attracted by the brick roads building were A. L. Glass of Jacksonville and J. D. Harvey of Chattanooga.

Mr. Glass is no stranger to Sanford, having been a railroad man in this state and many other states and at the time of severing his connection with the A. C. L. was superintendent of the Gainesville division. Mr. Glass is now vice president of the Bankers' Trust Co. of Jacksonville, and naturally was attracted to Sanford by the bonds that will soon be marketed and which Mr. Glass would like very much to secure. Speaking about the Sanford of ten years ago and the hustling city of today Mr. Glass stated to a Herald representative that he was literally carried off his feet at the remarkable signs of a growth and prosperity.

"Why," said he, "a man told me to day that he had received over one thousand dollars for one acre of Sanford land and when I smiled, he proved it to me."

When informed that this was the regular price for improved Sanford lands Mr. Glass remarked that it was no surprise to him to see the hustling city and the prosperous farmers and the idea of one section of Florida building over twenty-five miles of brick roads. Mr. Glass owns a beautiful home in Gainesville and has made up his mind to reside there the rest of his life. But if he did not it is ten to one bet that he would move to Sanford.

J. D. Harvey is the sales manager of the Southern Clay Manufacturing Co. of Chattanooga and his firm manufactures the flat, vitrified brick that has been used in later years in Orlando and several other cities with such good effect, the flat laying brick covering more surface and proving to be one of the best and most economical paving bricks on the market.

Mr. Harvey stated that his firm has plenty of brick and are ready and anxious to supply the Sanford special road district with the Chattanooga brick. Both of these gentlemen will return to Sanford at an early date and expect to be in at the finish and both of them will probably carry off a plum for their respective companies.

Bright Fall Prospects

J. R. Murphy returned today from his old home in Huntington, Mass., where he spent the summer. Mr. Murphy has been trucking on the West Side and expects to put in another crop at once. He reports the northern cities in good shape and that times are much better up there now than the same time last season and that with a better distribution of Sanford products this year the growers should receive good prices for all of their stuff. Although Mr. Murphy did not make a fortune last season he is not complaining of results and is very sanguine about the prosperity of this section in the future. He looked up market conditions while away and is of the opinion that many good cities in the north have never seen a stalk of Sanford celery.

No More Thursday Closing

The vacation days are over and the half holidays on Thursdays that have been so enjoyable for the clerks and so inconvenient for the public will be over at last. The Thursday closing this year was curtailed one month on account of starting one month earlier and last Thursday was the last closing day. The stores open all the time will make the city put on a more lively air and what the employees lose will be the city's gain. And then, the ball games are over, and who wants Thursday afternoons with no ball games?

BUSINESS MEN'S CLUB

Organization to Be Perfected This Week

WILL BOOST SANFORD STRONG

Expects to Start With One Hundred Active Members and Will Get Busy at Once

Sanford is to have a Business Man's League.

In a few days the organization will be completed and already the business men are being approached on the subject and have expressed their willingness to join and take an active part in all the proceedings.

There is nothing that will do so much for the business interests of this city as this organization of merchants who will be banded together for the prime object of helping themselves and the city of Sanford. At no time in the history of the city has such an organization worked in Sanford, and it is safe to assert that in no time in the history of the city has such an organization been so badly needed. The new organization will not take up any matters of personal interest or private schemes, but will work along the lines of civic reform, a better city, a better feeling of brotherhood among all the merchants and an enactment and an enforcement of laws that bear directly upon the business interests of this city and county. There are questions of vital interest to the city at the present time that can be taken up at these meetings and carried out and each member and the whole social fabric will be greatly improved because of this organization in our midst.

At the present time there is no place or no manner in which to call together a few business men to discuss issues that come up from time to time. A good room well fitted up and made a general rendezvous for the merchants to meet at least once each week and discuss matters of business will be one of the features and every member will be asked to become an active force for good. There will be no honorary members on the list and every member will be forced to attend all the meetings or give a reasonable excuse, thus insuring a full membership at each and every meeting and a lively interest created in the organization that would be felt in the community.

Let every business man in Sanford join this league. You will not be called upon to contribute anything except the actual expense of a meeting place for the time being. You will not be called upon for anything except your goodwill and the spirit to boost the best little city upon the map and you are going to join a real live organization that will have for its slogan, "Ten thousand people for Sanford in 1914."

Come in and do your share, for in union there is strength.

Moved to Mulberry

Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Morrow expect to leave today for Mulberry where they will make their future home. Mr. Morrow has accepted a position as cashier in one of the banks of that place. Mr. and Mrs. Morrow have been residents of Sanford for the past year and made a large circle of friends who are loth to lose them, but Mr. Morrow has business interests in Mulberry and formerly resided there and could not resist the call to come back home. While here Mr. Morrow was secretary and treasurer of the Sanford Garage & Machine Co., and several weeks ago disposed of his interests in the concern to take the position at Mulberry. The Herald wishes them long life and prosperity in their new home.

'Prof' Wildman

The above gentleman wishes the double error concerning him, that occurred in the last issue of The Herald, to be corrected. The notice referred to that "Prof." Wildman, the principal of the Sanford High School had returned, etc. He wishes to plead "Not guilty" to both the charge of being principal of the High School and of being a "Prof." being unwilling to lay claim to any title other than that of an assistant in the High School.

GET READY FOR THE FAIR

Now is the Time to Prepare Preserves and Other Articles

The time to prepare exhibits of canned fruits and jellies and preserves for the county fair is now while the canning is good. It is not a bit too early to think of getting this class of exhibits ready. Along this same line is the thought of corn and cow peas and hay and other staple crops. Pick out the best that your crop contains and have it placed aside ready for the "greatest fair on earth," which starts at Orlando this year about the middle of February. Sanford made a most creditable exhibit last year, but a much better one could have been made had the good housewives and the farmers given the matter some thought at this time last year. Even the poultrymen and other exhibitors would not be rushing the season any if they took extra pains with the young stock coming on now and give it extra care and attention from now until the date of the Orange County Fair.

Around Sanford there is such a diversity and such a wealth of good things for an exhibit that the time is never too early to start making up your mind what you intend to exhibit and then work along those lines up to the very time of the fair.

In a few weeks the directors hope to issue the regular yearly premium list and in this every prospective exhibitor will find all the valuable information relative to the mode of exhibiting and the rules governing the same.

There will be a number of them left at The Herald office and in case any of the people here fail to receive one you can call at this office and be supplied. It is rather too early to predict the kind of exhibit that Sanford will give in the collective booth, but the people can rest assured that we will have a good one and as usual Sanford will expect to carry off first honors in every department. We have the goods and we will be there to show some of them.

New Bridge Across Wekiwa

Sanford now stands a good chance to secure a bridge across the Wekiwa river at Rutland ferry. The Zachary Lumber Company, which operates a large mill at Markham, a station on the Atlantic Coast Line railway, ten miles west of Sanford, is the owner of large tracts of pine timber in both Orange and Lake counties. In order to assemble this timber at the mill this company proposes to construct at its own expense a bridge modern in all its details to be used by both rail and wagon travel, and at such time as the company has finished clearing up its timber lands, it will then turn over to Lake and Orange counties the bridge without cost or expense. The travel from Eustis, Leesburg, Tavares, Mt. Dora, and in fact, from all points west of Sanford will be greatly increased by the erection of this bridge, as it will do away with the ferry at Rutland, and will be the direct cause of the road being improved from the end of the brick road at Sylvan Lake direct to Tavares, and probably Leesburg. This will open up another popular route to the East Coast resorts.—Times-Union Cor.

Launch Party

A pleasant party of young people enjoyed a delightful launch ride and moonlight lunch at Ft. Florida recently complimentary to Miss Lillian Page of Deland. After landing the lunch was partaken of on the wharf before the party started on the homeward trip. Those enjoying the delightful evening were: Mesdames J. J. Purdon and T. S. Davis, Misses Lillian Page, Essie Purdon, Mary Chappell, Margaret Davis, Luella Chappell, Charlotte Hand, Renie Murrell, Messrs. Henry Purdon, Karl Roumillat, George McLaughlin, McDowell Butt, Harold Long, Seth Woodruff, Osborne Herndon.

Colonel Roosevelt made public last night his letter to Senator Clapp, chairman of the Senate Committee, investigating campaign contributions, in reply to the recent testimony of John D. Archbold and Senator Penrose regarding an alleged contribution of $100,000 by Mr. Archbold to the Republican campaign of 1904. This letter is a document of approximately 18,000 words, covering forty-four type written pages. About one-third of the letter is devoted to copies of correspondence by Colonel Roosevelt, while president, with James S. Sherman, now vice president, Senator Bourne and others, and to the reply of President Roosevelt to the charge made by Alton B. Parker in 1904, that the Republican campaign was financed, in a large measure, by the contributions of large corporations.

The new constitution of Ohio upon the question of the adoption of which the people of that state will soon vote, contains the recall in the proper shape, by removal of the legislature after conviction upon full hearing on charges duly preferred, in other words, after conviction upon impeachment, as now provided in many states.

King Nicholas of Montenegro, who declines to jolt back on his throne and let the Turks build fortifications within his frontiers, is ruler of a little country which can whip its weight in Turks any day in the week. The world will watch the course of events with interest and with sympathy for the bantam rooster of southeast Europe.

The attitude of Governor Wilson in respect to the enforcement of state laws is the same as that of Governor Brown. A delegation of Newark citizens called on him with evidence of flagrant law breaking and indifferent officials, but he told them he was powerless to help them, as the enforcement of local laws depended entirely on the local authorities.

Fifteen persons are known to have been drowned and many others were lost, it is feared, in a series of storms that swept over Western Pennsylvania and the Panhandle of West Virginia early today. The Baltimore and Ohio and the Panhandle were badly washed, and it is stated that traffic will be delayed several days. Through trains were marooned during the night in the flooded district. Many manufacturing plants are under water and the property damage will be heavy.

Woodrow Wilson analyzed the third party platform in its relation to the laboring man. The occasion of his speech was a Labor Day celebration under the auspices of the United Trades and Labor Council of Buffalo. It was the first expression of the Democratic candidate on the merits of the Progressive platform. The Governor said that while on the one hand was to be found there "warm sympathy with practically every project of social betterment," that part was merely "a proclamation of sympathy," while the real program lay elsewhere "where the tariff and the trusts are spoken of."

District Attorney Whitman believes he has sufficient evidence to warrant indictments against heads of the so-called "vice trust" who sought, it is alleged, to discredit by false affidavits several of the prosecutors' assistants investigating the graft phase of the Rosenthal case. Words of the plot disclosed that several of the conspirators already have fled the city. Having failed in this attempt, it is now said that the leaders of the under world will confine their attention to hampering Mr. Whitman at the trial of the alleged Rosenthal murderers, and, if necessary, will attempt to spirit "squealers" out of the city.

Mrs. J. D. Davison, Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. Goodhle and Mrs. Tyler motored over to Coronado Beach last Sunday in D. G. Monroe's Overland and spent Labor Day bathing and fishing.
