Another Tariff Proviso Draws Coalition's Fire

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3. After three repudiating President Hoover on the flexible tariff, the Senate today resumed its fight with a battle over fixing the valuation basis for assessment of American duties against foreign imports. The plan was approved by the Senate Finance Committee but both Democrats and Insurgent leaders assailed it as unbusinesslike and an unwarranted interference with the American valuation plan.

The first sale of hogs this season was held last Thursday, and was very successful, too. A total of 151 hogs was brought in by the farmers in this immediate vicinity, and the price received was very satisfactory. No. 1's brought 10 1/2; No. 2's, 9 1/2; No. 3's, 8 1/2; and practically all the hogs sold graded No. 1. Another hog sale will be held some time the latter part of this month, and County Agent Gus York, under whose supervision this sale was held, says he hopes to get even better prices than those paid last Thursday. Two Mothers

A few days ago Mrs. Hattie Stone of Havre de Grace, Maryland, was sentenced to life imprisonment for killing her son. She had been found guilty of poisoning him to obtain insurance money. Witnesses in the trial had testified that the woman had neglected the boy and had treated him cruelly. She accepted her fate with a smile, overjoyed, perhaps, with the knowledge that she had narrowly escaped the death penalty.

It is difficult to understand by what process of reasoning a woman could gain the consent of her conscience to mistreat her child. Harder still in it to comprehend why she would go so far as to take his life. The very thought of the deed makes one shudder with repugnance, and arouses within us a spirit of righteous condemnation of a mother, who would sink so low into degradation that she would kill one of her own flesh and blood.

Turn from this picture of horribleness to one of beauty, to one rich in the depiction of a true mother's devotion. Consider the simple but touching tribute of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge to the memory of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., whose untimely death five years ago cast a shadow over the White House and brought untold sorrow to the grief-stricken mother. Writing on the anniversary of his passing away, Mrs. Coolidge penned these words:

"You, my son, Have shown me God, Your kiss upon my cheek Has made me feel the gentle touch Of Him who leads us on. The memory of your smile, when young Reveals His face, As mellowing years come on apace, And when you went before, You left the gates of Heaven ajar That I may glimpse, Approaching from afar, The glories of His grace. Hold, son, my hand, Guide me along the path, That, coming, I may stumble not Nor roam, Nor fail to show the way Which leads us—Home."

All of the tenderness of a mother's love is expressed here. Rich in its warmth of affection, tender in its tone of sadness, the simple eulogy strikes a sympathetic chord in our hearts for the mother who had to give up her child but who comforts herself with a cherished memory.

For The Sake Of A Thrill

In an interesting study of the subject, Robert Quillen, syndicate editorial writer, blames the present disregard for law upon Americans' demand for a thrill. One group of society, he declares, plays outlaw while the other is content with the thrills that are to be obtained from stories on crime. But the same motive prompts both, he adds. "They are eager to escape the hum-drum of civilization and the monotony of this machine age." The writer continues in this vein: "Men have an inbred capacity for adventure—a inborn taste for dangerous living—and their nature resents the tameness of a routine civilization such as steam—resents confinement when the safety valve is closed.

"When two peace-loving friends are snowbound in a mountain cabin, and cannot strike back at the natural forces that suppress them, they relieve their feelings by quarreling with one another.

"Men always react that way when their nature is violent. Suppress them in one place and they will break through with greater violence in another.

"There were no 'crime waves' in pioneer days, for life itself was a high adventure. There were Indians and wild beasts to afford thrill enough for the most adventurous.

"In the primitive West of a later generation there were outlaws in plenty, for all of that bold company of pioneers were gamblers and staked their lives as lightly as they would their fortunes; but custom made law enough for the time and place, and custom was observed by a majority content with the thrill afforded by routine existence."

COURT ROOM DRAMATICS

FORT MYERS, NEWS

Being in the newspaper business is not so simple as it might appear to be. News photographs may be barred from scenes such as that enacted in the Peacor trial and they should be barred. Restrictions may be placed on the number of spectators and their conduct strictly regulated. In most courts this is done, but should reporters be excluded in the notable that the damage would be greater, than any which might be done by such reports as would be printed. Whatever the outcome of a murder trial behind closed doors there would be a suspicion that the defendant was railroaded to freedom or to jail as the case may be.

What is needed is a public sentiment which will demonstrate an abhorrence of gruesome and sensational murder case details. There is no evidence of such a sentiment, if there is any dependence on newspaper circulation departments are prepared to give. To stay in this business it is necessary first of all to give the people what they want and then slip over on them as much of what they ought to have as they will stand for.

Sugar cane twelve feet and nine inches from the ground to the top of its tipmost fronds. That's the kind George W. Oliver, president of the Rotary club and who confesses that he would rather farm than practice law, has been raising at his much loved place west of the city on the Hatter road. Mr. Oliver and Walter Parker own some five muck land along the Seaboard track, near the plant of the Compa Humus Company and they have experimented with several crops there with uniform success. The muck is four or five feet deep, and will raise anything. The samples at case that Mr. Oliver brought to the Highlander office had not stopped growing.—Lake Wales Highlander

PLEGGED TO INFORM

DAYTONA BEACH NEWS-JOURNAL

"Why," asked the lady, "must newspapers publish unpleasant things; details of the storm warnings, for example? Hasn't Florida had enough trouble?"

The newspaper profession has no formal pledge to correspond to the Hippocratic oath, by which physicians bind themselves to serve those in distress, regardless of circumstance. But it has a tradition just as potent, which makes it a profession. That tradition is to print the news as quickly and as accurately as possible. The New York Times has made famous the slogan which proclaims its intent to publish "all the news that is fit to print." But that newspaper has no exclusive claim on the principle.

The News-Journal has worked day and night assembling for its readers, every bit of available information about impending storms because its readers wanted those details. It was its duty to provide them. It did its job, giving the people of the city the latest available news.

Amateurs in publicly frequent make the mistake of assuming that by the efforts of a few individuals or a few newspapers unpleasant truths can be concealed from the world. The fallacy of this position is shown by the absurd efforts of California, especially southern California, to conceal from the world that outbreaks of the pest are prevalent there.

For years, southern California denied these outbreaks, but the world knew of them. People began to picture them worse than they actually are—in reality, they seldom do more than chatter a few windows, and cause a few momentary alarm. And the world began to wonder what other unpleasant things happened in California that nobody heard about!

It is absurd to believe that by suppressing or underemphasizing news of storms, bank failures, and the like within our own state, that we conceal them from the outside world. The Associated Press and the other news services carry all this information instantaneously over the nation. The storm warnings published in every newspaper in the country were furnished by the government. Any attempt at a conspiracy of silence here would be as useless as it would be about tonight.

Every Eden has a snake or two. Florida has an occasional hurricane, almost always confined to the month of September. Only a few of these storms have ever done any material damage. They should do little harm if people are properly warned of them in advance. Florida newspapers, readers, know a right to know all the news of threatened as well as actual present hurricanes. Because something is unpleasant it does not make it any the less news.

A definite move is under way in the Panama and Albatross sections which are in Commission's

District No. 4, to have the three miles of graded road between Medard and Panama, hard surfaced. The project is being talked generally, and so far as this writer has been able to learn, there is no opposition. District 4 is a large district, commencing at the Lost creek bridge near Crawfordville and taking in Medard, Panama, Surf, and extending far west as Buckhorn creek. Estimates of the cost by various citizens run from $20,000 to $40,000.—Crawfordville News

Women Are Free! AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED Legally, politically and socially woman has been emancipated from those chains which bound her. AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE has exploded the ridiculous theory that forced the stigma of inferiority upon a sex. "toasting did it" — Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes — Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos. YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted." "TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way. Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful, corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women. "It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobacco—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture. 'Charming Sinners' Makes Hit Here At Showing Last Night

Seldom has any audience had such a good time watching a motion picture as the Miami theatre audience had last night while watching the musical adventure of Ruth Chatterton and Clive Brook in Paramount's all-talking comedy drama, written by W. Somerset Maugham, "Charming Sinners." The delightful, comical drama will play again today.

A sparkling, intimate story of married life, beautifully acted by a group of outstanding cinema stars, made of "Charming Sinners" a particularly lively and entertaining show. Smart dialogue, clever repartee, soothing dramatic situations kept audience on the "qui vive" throughout the play. It is a new revelation in talking screen entertainment.

Ruth Chatterton, as the wise wife, tired of her husband's philandering, decides to "punish" him and for all she shows the dignified method of repaying him in his own coin by pretending to give her affection to an old admirer, William Powell. She fools her husband in clever fashion, re-weakens some of the romance which appeared dead to her forever and brings about a readjustment in her home which no amount of scandal or ranting could accomplish. Clive Brook, as the husband, reveals new talents in a splendid characterization. Mrs. Nolan as the "other" woman, is delightful.

Face and neck are now in fashion. The newest hats from Paris are cut away to reveal the forehead, and coats are cut away with collars which are set away from the face and yet may be pulled up closely when the winter winds are blowing. This coat is on graceful wrapover lines which make it suitable for many daytime occasions. Two of the fashion notes from the Parisian couturiers proclaim the smartness of furs dyed to match the coat fabric exactly or of dark furs on light coats. Among the coat fabrics, those woven with velvet surfaces are outstanding.

AMERICA'S SUGAR BOWL

Sugar Cane Syrup

Florida produced enough sugar cane syrup last year to supply almost the entire population of the State with a dollar's worth each. The value of Florida cane syrup in 1928 was estimated at $1,224,000 by the Department of Agriculture.

This important Florida product ranks seventh among the State's agricultural staples and its possibilities indicate an even greater source of future wealth.

FLORIDA, the potential sugar bowl of America, endowed by nature with fertile soil and favorable climate and guided by energetic men of great vision, holds within its grasp a tremendous agricultural destiny—the leadership in the world's sugar industry!

Years of cane-breeding activities, painstaking experiments and heart-breaking failures... yet always a consistent, confident progress... and RESULTS that speak for themselves. The Florida sugar industry is still in its infancy; FACTS, definitely established, assure its rapid growth and successful future.

The Department of Agriculture cites the case of one large grower near Lake Okeechobee who found that 500 acres of sugar cane yielded 50 tons to the acre, with 12.5 per cent of sugar obtainable—a larger tonnage and a larger percentage than is shown in Cuba, Hawaii, Java and other countries with the exception of Peru and Argentina. By the end of 1929, it is expected that the grinding capacity of this region will be advanced to 7,500 tons a day.

Ernest A. Burguières, president of the Domestic Sugar Producers' Association, predicts that Southern Florida and Southern Louisiana together will produce 1,000,000 tons of raw sugar yearly within the next ten years. He says: "We should produce at least 90 per cent, if not all of the sugar we require in this country."

Utilization of the two million acres of Everglades land, now undrained but ideally suited for sugar cane production, would mean that Florida could supply all the sugar used by the people of the United States each year.

Optimistic... perhaps ambitious... this growing Florida industry. But such is the metal of Florida's men... molders of destiny, builders of prosperity!

MODERN BATHROOM HAS QUILTED MATS

Since color came into its own, the bathroom has become the most attractive room in the house in thousands of homes. A useful accessory that can be made at little or no expense is the quilted bath mat, shown here, which is very much in vogue and at the same time extremely practical. Every bathroom should have a supply of at least three of them.

It is made from two flour bags, a piece of flannel or woolen goods for interlining and some bits of colored gingham which every scrap basket ought to be able to produce.

The mats may be round or oval. If round, they are about 21 inches across; if oval, they should measure about 24x30 inches. Place the interlining between the two pieces of flour bag material and stitch around by machine or hand two or three rows, half an inch apart. Bind the outer edges together with a bias strip of the gingham.

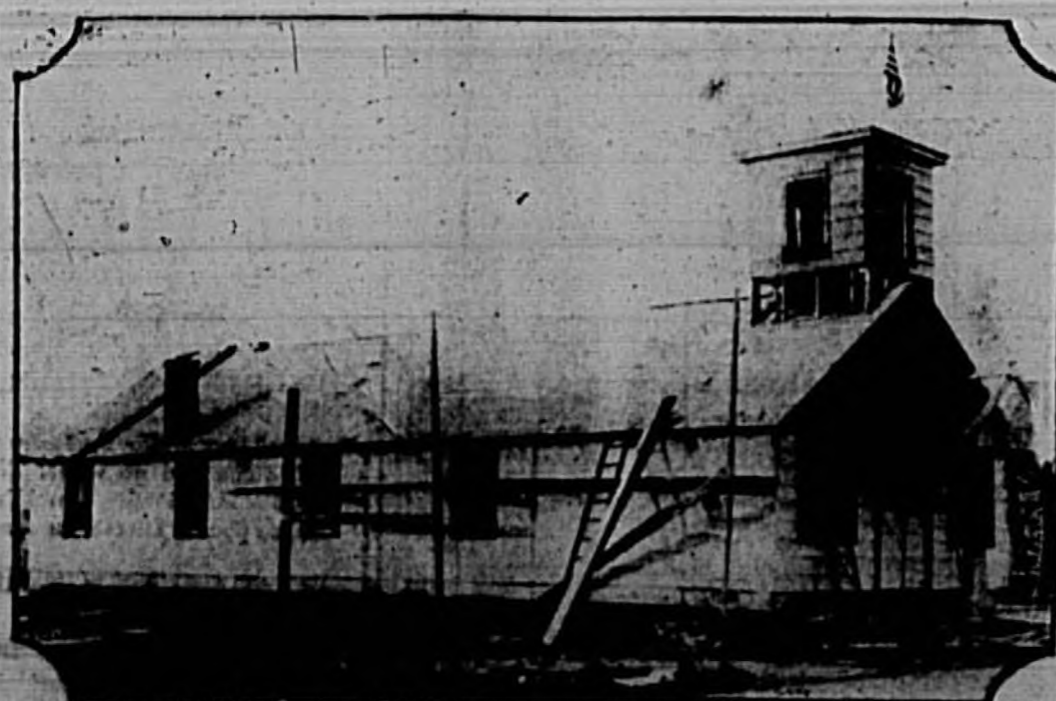

These mats would be ideal for selling at a church bazaar and the returns would be virtually all profit. If you have not a supply of flour bags on hand, they can usually be bought from a nearby baker for a few cents each. Remove the stamping by soaking it in kerosene overnight and then washing with warm water and soap.

RICH HORSEMEN PLAN BIG TRACK FOR TEXAS CITY

Oil Magnates To Put Large Sum Into Project At Arlington

ARLINGTON, Texas, Oct. 3.—Backed by almost unlimited wealth which flows from Texas oil wells, and by the association of an already successful horse breeder and racer, Arlington Downs, located here, is planned by W. T. Waggoner, owner of the famed Three D's stable, as the future center of American horsemanship.

Waggoner and his sons, Guy and Paul, have for months developed all their time and energy toward the development of what will be one of the grandest and finest racing plants in the United States. It is located on 1,000 acres of rich land midway between Dallas and Fort Worth.

Successful Breeder

One of the most successful breeders of racing stock in the country, Waggoner's annual production of yearlings averages 150. His largest single yearling sale was a yearling named "The Duke" which he sold for $20,000 last year.

The grand opening of Arlington Downs, from November 6 to 16, is expected to see leading horse men from all parts of the country in attendance. Waggoner has announced the initial purse will be at least $100,000 and probably as high as $150,000.

The multi-millionaire oil man's race track will be a private venture, into which he is bringing no resources other than his own. His only hope, he avers, is to bring other famed stables to his own particular part of the country and to prove Texas is an ideal place for winter racing.

Modern Facilities

A mile track and a mile and a half track, a grandstand with a seating capacity of 10,000 spectators, a secretariat building, paddock and the most elaborate racing fence in existence, have been completed. Plans call for the building of more grandstands. A new accurate timing system will be well represented at least 50 visiting horses are newly finished.

Waggoner, long a racing enthusiast, has bred all his own racing stock on the Three D's farm, the seat of which is the $100,000 imported English Phalaris. His active breeding ponies are known
